Moderately and then fell to 59 percent in March, 1933, when President Roosevelt took office and violent financial disturbances.

The rise in the country's industrial production since then has outstripped the decline in unemployment, a factor which the N. R. A. has attempted to offset by reduction of working hours and spreading of employment. Unemployment is estimated by the American Federation of Labor fell from a peak of 12,689,000 in March, 1932, to 10,267,000 at the end of July, 1934. Meanwhile the continued severity of the depression has caused relief roles to mount. After the current summer dull

FILM FLICKERS

"Shoot The Works," Paramount's newest musical mirthquake, opens at the Milano on Sunday, July 22nd and Sanford radio fans will have an opportunity to see as well as hear Ben Bernie, "the old maestro" and all the "Lads." The plot of the picture concerns itself with actors and singers on the rise and it centers on the romance of a side-show singer, Jack Oakie, who loves a blues singer, Dorothy Dell, loses her to a big shot and wins her back again. This comedy is heartily recommended to people who want to laugh.

Joe E. Brown fans will go for "The Circus Clown" which shows at the Milano on Wednesday. With a genuine circus for its background, the story is of a circus man's son who does roustabout work until fate gives him a chance to prove his ability as an acrobat. The kids will love this.

The stage show for Wednesday is Colonel Jack George, famous black face comedian and the College Cut-Up Revue, something new and different in the line of music, dancing and comedy. It should be good entertainment.

Showing at the local theatre on Thursday and Friday is "The Personality Kid," the saga of a colorful, eccentric pugilist, Pat O'Brien, who falls to realize that his success is due to the management of his wife, Glenda Farrell. The revelation of her part in his work leads to separation, sorrow and a near-tragedy, but there is a rose-colored ending to satisfy the fans.

Billed with "The Personality King," Administration circles predicted today a continuance of the irregular upturn that has proceeded since President Roosevelt took office.

How long this movement will continue is not expected to be known until the results of the recovery program to date can be fully gauged. Whether the upturn is principally the result of huge federal government expenditures and likely to falter when the spending is stopped will not be known for some time, according to many observers.

It was pointed out that while business activity rose in only thirteen months of the Hoover Administration, relief and recovery expenditures were negligible until the last year of the term.

Sheriff Turns In Report For Past 6 Months

year his net earnings for the period were $2568.06.

The report is to be read at Monday's special meeting of the County Commission when that body meets both as a Commission and as an equalizing board.

All county fee officers are scheduled to file their reports for the first six months of the year during the next few days.

A comparison of the two reports rendered by Sheriff McClelland reveals that his revenues decreased in three of six departments. Less money was collected this year in fees and costs from civil cases, attendances at all courts and county commission meetings, and commissions on collections, than was collected last year.

Fees, and costs from criminal and insanity were almost at the same level, the 1934 collection in this account being $3049.91 as against $2978.08 for last year.

The sum of $1445.80 was received for feeding prisoners this year while only $1335.15 was received last year.

Principal increase in revenue is recorded in the account, "All other commissions and remunerations." This year $1464.34 in that account with $701.35 received last year.

The report reveals that if Sheriff McClelland had not paid his son $450 for the first six months of this year to act as jailer in the County Jail, the expenditures for the two years would be about the same amount.

Total expenses for this year are $4390.68, while last year they were $3985.62.

Comparison of the two reports:

Orlando's Ideals Tell Swope Not To Move Office; To Resign

Mr. Russell was asked for an opinion on the San Francisco general strike and said he thought it would be broken.

"It may be lost nominally," he said, "but no strike ever is entirely lost. General Johnson says labor never gains anything by striking, but I am inclined to think it never gains anything except by striking. They can shoot the strikers down but there now, but it won't always be thus."

Asked what he thought of the new Tammany administration, Mr. Russell laughed and said, "I've followed New York City politics for fifty-two years and I've seen more 'new Tammanies than I can remember. And none of them was very new."

fixing nonsense—an absolute impossibility under the competitive system."

Mr. Russell was not impressed by the plan which would transfer the control of N. R. A. from General Hugh S. Johnson to a board.

"That board of appeals looks like a bluff to me," he said. "They'll be appointed by Johnson and responsible to Johnson, and they'll just be so many more yemen to follow him around. It's the sublimation of stuff and nonsense. I think it was a mistake to choose a military man to head the N. R. A. He has no understanding of the mass of people and no consideration for the little fellow."

The N. R. A. was based on two economic fallacies, according to Mr. Russell. First, that business could be improved by forcing up commodity prices; second, that "fair competition" could be enforced.

"There is no such thing as 'fair competition,'" said Mr. Russell. "Why prolong a system under which 60 percent of the nation's wealth is held by 1 percent of the population? That situation is the real source of most of our economic trouble, and that is the situation N. R. A. seeks to extend. They talk of regimenting business, but business won't be regimented, particularly not by a drill sergeant whose only idea is to make

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

GREAT POWER FROM GOD: Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of an enemy; and nothing shall by any means hurt you.—Luke 10:19.

John Dillinger died like the wolf he was.

President Off Florida Coast Finds Rough Sea, says a Sanford Herald headline. Stepping into what he did March 4 a year ago, we'd say offhand that he was accustomed to rough seas by this time.—Clermont Press. A good sailor.

Supreme Court has ruled we can vote on the homestead exemption amendment. There is no question as to how the vote will go.—Florida Advocate. How will it go?

A fellow says we are all wet about their being only two political parties. The Democrats and the New Dealers. He says that the two principal political parties in this country are the Democrats and Senator Borah.

One thing the California strike did was to give the rich and well-to-do an opportunity to know what a bread line is like. Most grocery stores being closed, there was nothing to do but wait in line at the few which remained open.

Senator Borah says that air conditioning is a bad thing, that "sweating" is good for the body. The Senator is right as usual, but some of us like to pick our own time for sweating. We like, for instance, to be dressed for the occasion.

Last week the Home Owners Loan Corporation lent $56,110,511 to 18,223 home owners, bringing the total so far since the corporation was organized to 375,971 loans involving $1,134,455,542, and making the HOLC the world's biggest home loan company.

One of the first steps taken by the FERA in its rehabilitation program at Key West, which embraces the transformation of this former cigar factory town into a tourist resort, has been to issue orders banning all forms of gambling. But we thought tourists liked to gamble? And after all, isn't the FERA doing a little gambling on its own account?

Tampa officials are boasting of the recent price advance in the value of their municipal securities. Tampa bonds, it is said, have recently gone up from 50 to 82 and this is hailed as a sign of returning prosperity. At least, it shows that Tampa's credit, always good, is improving. And credit is the thing that makes the wheels go round.

Personal items in the Washington society columns indicate that among those New Dealers now touring the country are General Johnson, Donald Richberg, Garret Hopkins, William L. Myers, Robert Fehner, Homer A. Cummings, Rex Tugwell, James A. Farley, Daniel Roper, Harold Ickes, George Dern, and Henry Morgenthau.

There will be no consolidation of the county offices of law, assessor and tax collector, at least not as a result of the proposed constitutional amendment to have been voted upon in November. The Supreme Court has held that the resolution committing the amendment did not properly pass the Legislature. While someone probably saw to it that the resolution did not "properly" pass the Legislature, the consolidation of these two offices would not have greatly affected the tax burden of the average citizen. As we see it, tax collectors, especially, will be kept very busy during the next few years without any break after the duties of the assessor.

Distances Annihilated

A little item in a New York paper indicates development in the field of aviation, progress in the midst of depression. The New York Sabushan Airline has inaugurated a new line and a new schedule of planes between Oyster Bay and the metropolitan district so that business men living on the North Shore of Long Island can commute between their homes and their places of business.

On the first trip five New York executives were flown from their homes on the tip of Long Island to the dock at the foot of Wall Street, within five minutes walk of their offices, in nineteen and one-half minutes. The schedule includes four round trips daily, two in the morning and two in the afternoon, and the planes will fly ten passengers each.

This service makes it possible for men working in the heart of a big city like New York to enjoy at the same time all the freedom and relaxation of country life, without wasting half their days in traveling back and forth. Men have been known to commute such distances before, but they had to spend three or four hours a day on a train or in a car. Now they can live fifty miles away and spend no more time in commuting than they might have formerly living ten or fifteen miles away.

It is interesting to speculate on the possibilities of aviation. When men become more accustomed to the speed, and future inventions add to the safety of flying and increase even more the speed of airplanes, one wonders if men may not live in Kansas and work in New York. Or better still, may they not live in Florida, and work anywhere throughout the North? The trip may be easily cut down to a few hours daily.

How vastly changed has been this old world of ours since 1900! What strange parlance in those days would have been "state highways," "landing truss," "floating power," "radio control," "gear shift," "knee action," "amplifier," "What small boy cannot discuss glibly such things today? Another generation and what will the world be like? Thirty years ago it was an all day trip to Orlando. One did not go to Daytona Beach at all, without planning to spend an entire week-end, or better still a week. Now one goes to Daytona Beach in an hour, to Orlando in half that time. Who knows but thirty years from now, it may be but an hour's flight to New York?

Eye Examinations

Every child between the ages of seven and fifteen should have his eyes examined every year. This is the conclusion reached as the result of a survey conducted by Selwyn D. Collins, senior statistician of the United States Public Health Service. In this survey 8,758 white families, made up of 39,185 individuals, were interviewed.

It was found that the amount of attention which is paid to the eyes, as shown by the frequency of examinations, varies markedly according to age, occupation, sex, marital status, and income level. Four out of every 100 persons in the group studied were found to have had eye examinations over the course of a year. If the number of persons who received eye examinations or eye refractions as part of routine physical examinations is added to this group, approximately 10 percent of the population under observation had some sort of eye examination annually.

Children from 7 to 15 have a comparatively high rate of eye examinations. From seven examinations per 1000 at four years of age, the number increases to 44 at seven years. The peak for the school years is reached at 14-15 years when there are 54 examinations per 1,000. Persons from 50 to 54, when failing eye-sight due to the onset of old age first makes its appearance in serious proportions, have the highest annual rate of eye examinations—87 per 1,000.

Earlier studies of the Public Health Service show that about 60 to 70 percent of school children have normal vision in both eyes and up to about 40 years of age more than 60 percent of all persons have normal vision. After the age of 40 the situation changes rather rapidly. Only about 5 percent of the persons 65 or older have normal vision in both eyes and about 70 percent have markedly defective eyesight.

Shultz Will Seek Markets For State's Products On Tour

"This appears to give Florida an excellent market for this commodity in the countries to the south," the Governor stated, "inasmuch as the haul from Florida to the Caribbean countries is only a fraction of the distance of European ports.

"Rock phosphate is another product, extensively mined in Florida, that Latin American countries buy in other quantities," the governor pointed out. "They are potatoes from the vast producing area near Hastings, and a dozen or more other Florida products that might be inexpensively imported by the countries to the south."

To make such commercial arrangements mutually beneficial, the Governor pointed out, nations of Central and South America might profitably send various kinds of woods, such as mahogany, ebony, rosewood, sassafras, and other hard timbers to the United States as returns against for the products carrying Florida goods to them.

"Florida has ample port cities which might be utilized as trade links between the states and the southern nations," the Governor pointed out. "Tampa, Miami, Jacksonville, Pensacola, Panama City, Ft. Pierce, West Palm Beach, Ft. Lauderdale, and Key West have good port facilities."

Authorities of each of these ports are preparing for Governor Shultz data showing the amount of trade through from each of the Latin American nations; harbor facilities, including depth of harbor, and general port facility information. This data will be presented by the Governor to officials of each of the countries he visits.

Governor Shultz expects to confer with high government officials in Cuba, British Honduras, Honduras, Guatemala, Salvador, Costa Rica, Panama, Colombia, Venezuela, British Guiana and French Guiana and Mexico before returning to the United States.

TRAVEL NOTES BY RUSAN B. WIGHT

Boston, and heat which would make a Sanford thermometer burst with shame. Not even the fine hospitality of New England could make us tarry there more than a week, and we were off across the Catskills and the Alleghenies to the cool shade and the unfolding breezes of our beloved Chautauqua. There was one high spot—The Devil's Elbow—a few miles west of Oswego, New York, which we have fled away for future reference, for it is the most remarkable point of vantage that we have ever found east of the Rockies. It would be a marvelous perch for a summer stay, and there are little homes there with broad glass windows looking out and across the wide beautiful valley.

Chautauqua—green and cool, and with all pervasive clouds of peace and order worldliness. We are very up-to-date here. In the great amphitheater rested down into a natural bowl, we assemble from time to time throughout the day to listen to grand music, to be uplifted by fine speakers, to catch snatches of great world movements, to be modestly appointed, and beautiful hall we hear two operas and see two modern plays each week. We are most comfortably housed.

Two years ago when we were here, Dr. Bestor—Chautauqua's long time president—placed a tin box on the mere-mention of the depression. Today he takes cognizance of it in a most constructive way, and the very first lecture we heard this week was by himself on the educational work of the Civilian Conservation Camps. He is a member of the advisory committee to the U. S. Commission of Education, and after the first words of his address we were aware of his conviction that through the agencies of the C. C. C. vast advances are being made towards a new and better social condition. We heard something more along this line from Dean Marsh of Buffalo University, who is Educational Director of the C. C. C.

In our driving letter, we have seen many evidences of this C. C. C. work and the education of the children. "After this what not?"

FERA Again Ready To Assist College Students In School

GAINESVILLE, July 23.—College students, victims of the financial bugbear of the past few years, may get a long hoped for opportunity of re-entering university halls of learning, under plans of the FERA in co-operation with Dean of Students B. A. Tolbert of the University of Florida.

"Provision has been made for a number of student employment positions in the University this fall," Dean Tolbert announced today, "and I would like very much to see some of the students of the past several years, who were compelled to withdraw because of financial difficulty, come back and finish work toward their degree."

In order to be eligible for appointment to one of the student jobs, Dean Tolbert pointed out, an old student must have had an average at the time of withdrawal, and further, must have been in good standing in all other ways in the University.

Former students of the University of Florida who wish to receive consideration under this arrangement with the FERA are asked to communicate without delay to Dean Tolbert. Those assigned to an FERA job will earn about $15 per month for nine months, or $135 for the school year. Minimum expenses at the which necessitates raising an amount of $100 per school year. ## Roosevelt Appoints Board To Govern Rail Retirement Act

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Murray Latimer, named by President Roosevelt Saturday to head the new railroad retirement board, is said by associates in the railroad coordinator's office to be an expert on industrial pensions.

Dr. William Leiserson, member of the new national mediation board, now is chairman of the petroleum labor board. He submitted his resignation recently, effective Aug. 1, to return to Antioch College where he taught economics. For a time Leiserson was secretary of the national labor board.

Dr. Leiserson said the new appointment would not permit him to return to teaching.

James Carroll, from Montrose, Pa., in executive and legal assistant to Joseph Eastman, federal railroad coordinator, he was with the Interstate Commerce Commission for years and chief examiner there for some time.

John Kennedy, now chief engineer of F.R.R., has had long experience in labor problems. He was a mediator for the national labor board and when the blaminous coal code went into effect was appointed chairman of the Pittsburgh regional coal labor board.

NRA IS TOLD TO GAMBLE ON FUTURE

However, Henderson's conclusions are based on a multitude of other signs. Common stock prices have remained relatively stable, and there has been an increase in volume on the downside to indicate that a trend substantially lower was being developed. Moody also are holding well, and government bonds are higher.

The trend of prices in 1934 have stocks, as "calculated" by Moody's also was interpreted as upward, and the stability of this and other similar curves gave indication of no immediate violent fluctuations in the price cycle. Seventeen basic commodities, as calculated by Warren and Pearson showed similar trends.

Henderson contended that it was erroneous to compare the present situation with the same period last summer because artificial circumstances forced a too violent upward movement at that time. Such sharp breaks, he believes, are not to be expected now.

Money in circulation was down and apparently on a downward trend. This was held an encouraging sign because it shows money coming out of hoarding, and the increasing use of bank checks. Debt's outside of New York City showing the total dollar volume of bank checks, are higher now than at the same time last year.

Demand deposits in banks are higher, this being accounted for by greater gold imports, and the expenditure of government funds. Surplus reserves in member banks at record highs, representing a tremendous lending power in banks which may be utilized at any time, depending largely on recovery in the capital goods industries which officials hope will be revived by the government's new housing plans.

There are no completely accurate employment figures, but those available to the research staff indicate a less than seasonal fall off, and indications of a gain in this fall.

Similarly data to show the quantity of purchases in retail stores are none too complete. Henderson believes, however, that volume of purchases is definitely on the upward trend.

The prices of basic agricultural products have been maintained, and payments to farmers substantially increased as a result of benefit payments. The gain from the laws last year on prices was from an index of 50 to 61. With the addition of the benefit payments the index was 65.

Government statisticians hold that wages and salaries are up more than the cost of living. The increase of weekly earnings to individual manufacturing wage earners was reported as about 15 percent, while the cost of living for these earners was held to have gone up about 11 percent.

New York City Is Termed Center Of 'New Deal' Body

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—New York City was described recently by Senator Schall, Republican of Minnesota, as the geographic center of the New Deal personnel, with "more feet in the Treasury hog trough and the federal corn crib than all the omelets of the Mississippi and all the agricultural staples of the union."

Mr. Schall denied what he said was New York's claim that she was justified in controlling the government because she paid the bulk of income taxes. These incomes, said the Senator, are not earned in New York but from mines, railroads and mills whose securities are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Update New York, Senator Schall said, had been "slandered by the Deal of its own, as witness the $50,000,000 deficit produced by the state printing plant that is one of the items in the federal treasury, a $400,000,000 deficit with the aid of a $5,000,000,000 deficit of the close of the fiscal year just passed."

Camp Foster Notes

By E. H. CULLUM

For the second year in succession Company H of Lake City won the Fred H. Davis trophy in the machine gun contest, beating Company I of Sanford, 7 to 2. Company M of Tallahassee did not even show, using up its time on the approach. The boys were shooting at an invisible target at 1000 yards. First Sergeant Stafford, of Company H, states that his company has no claim to offer, that they were outclassed and Company H deserved to win. Company H is represented on gun No. 1 by Private Richard Van Veen and Corporal David Van Ness, gun No. 2 by Private Carl McKenney and Britt Raburn.

The Medical Detachment Daunted ball team went to the quarter finals in the tournament only to be defeated by Howitzers Company of Jacksonville, 11 to 8. Wideman who in the box for the Medical Detachment, and up the fourth inning had allowed only two hits, good for one run. However, in the fourth the entire team went to pieces and before the dust had cleared in the ninth eight runs had trickled across the plate. The pitcher, relieved William in the fifth and held Howitzers to two runs for the balance of the game but the damage had been done, and the Sanford outfit could not overcome the lead amassed in the fourth inning slaughter.

The officers of the Sanford Post entertained Peter Thurston, Harry Thurston, and J. O. Adams with a steak supper Thursday night. The following thoroughly enjoyed the feast: Peter Thurston, Harry Thurston, and J. O. Adams, as honor guests, and Capt. J. C. Hutchison, Major Ralph J. Stevens, Captain Arthur W. Knox, Captain Harold C. Washburn, Lieutenants W. F. Hodge, Karl Nordgren and R. I. Roberts, and Major Yull, U. S. A., was also an invited guest.

The entire unit of the Medical Detachment passed for a picture Thursday afternoon, and it appeared in Friday afternoon's Jacksonville Journal. Unfortunately, our handsome staff sergeant, Col. Schaal, was absent from the camp on business and he does not appear in the picture. This is regretted very much, but we could not induce the photographer to await his return.

Sergeant Gladis, U. S. A., of Orlando, who is well known in Sanford, showed the boys some remarkable shooting with an automatic rifle the other day while in a prone position. Shooting at a target 200 yards away in such consecutive balls eyes and feet out of a total of 40 shots, all in one minute and ten seconds. That's some shooting!

Some apprehension was felt Thursday afternoon over the prospect of an approaching storm. Robert F. Evans, however, may be said to have a letter in his pocket which says that the storm will be very much less than the forecast.
