FERTILIZER BUSINESS MAY BE TAKEN OVER BY THE GOVERNMENT

Prices Could Be Regulated the Muscle Shoals Plant IS SIMPLE MATTER

FOR GOVERNMENT TO MAKE NITRATE AND CUT OUT EXPORT RATES.

Washington March 22.—Florida as much or perhaps more than any other state in the entire South, will follow closely efforts which have just begun here to have the fertilizer business of the United States taken over by the government and make the initial movement of government ownership at Muscle Shoals Ala.

While there is not at all anything like practical unanimity on the subject, the national board of farm organizations has come out in a strong statement, declaring without reservation, that the fertilizer trust can be regulated effectively only through the operation of the Muscle Shoals plant by the government.

The matter has already found its way into congress and will have as its chief spokesman Senator Norris of Nebraska, who makes the claim that it is time the people of the United States quit paying tribute to Chili in the form of an exorbitant export duty on nitrates.

The South American republic, Senator Norris said today, derives enough revenue each year from American interests to finance a small kingdom. The absurdity of paying an export duty on something which the country itself can produce in abundance, he said, should be apparent to even a superficial thinker. "We are paying Chili," Senator Norris said, "in export duty alone, about ten million dollars annually for nitrates she permits us to use. Not only that, the farmers of this nation have absolutely no voice in naming prices that are paid for the Chilean product. The price is fixed in London by a commission on which two representatives of the Chilean government have seats.

This commission absolutely fixes prices for practically all nitrates used in fertilizing the soil of the United States. The farmers are entirely at the mercy of this foreign body. They must either pay what the commission demands or dispense with the needed fertilizer. This is an unhappy condition of servitude. It, of course, affects the consumer as well as the producer, because it is to a considerable degree responsible for the high cost of living."

Experts who have gone throughly into the situation say that the farmers are paying much more for their fertilizers than would be necessary if the government were to operate Muscle Shoals. It is pointed out that ammonium sulphate, one of the most generally used nitrogen fertilizers is now costing the farmers $140 a ton. It can be produced in the United States, it is said, for very much less than this.

Continuing Senator Norris said: "There is another and most convincing reason why the government should own and operate a great nitrate plant. Two indispensable agents cooperated during the war, and with the breakdown of either the war would have been lost. I mean food and explosives. We had the food and we prepared to produce the other agency on a scale of magnitude hitherto undreamed of. The armistice, however, was signed just as the government had about completed plant No. 3 at Muscle Shoals. Some persons have said it was the knowledge by Germany of the pending completion of one of the greatest explosive producing plants in the world which caused here to hurriedly ask for an armistice. Be that as it may now that the plant can be utilized for the exclusive work producing food it would be a most foolish thing to abandon it or to surrender it to private agencies which would probably make anything but a good use of it."

It is hinted here that Chilean interests, combined with German influences and capital, are back of a movement to get control of Muscle Shoals, and that should they be able to perfect their plan America might, and probably would, for many years to come be absolutely dependent upon Chili for her fertilizer ingredients.

There will necessarily be much opposition in this country to any government ownership plan, even though the farmers might profit by it, thereby reducing the cost of crop production and the general high cost of living, but at the same time, if it shall appear that outside interests are likely to get hold of Muscle Shoals every influence would be brought to bear to prevent such action.

FLORIDA WOMEN CAN TRAIN

AT ST. LUKES HOSPITAL IN JACKSONVILLE IN THE STUDENT NURSE SCHOOL.

Jacksonville March 21.—In an effort to make the scope of its service state-wide rather than local, St. Luke's Hospital has thrown open its doors to the young women of Florida, who would adopt nursing as their chosen profession, by enlarging its student nurse school.

While the hospital always has accepted student nurses when there were vacancies in its nursing force it never has at any time been equipped to train as many now. In addition to the student nurses already in training in the hospital, the governing board of St. Luke's has arranged for the admission of thirty-five more young women.

Arrangements for a larger student group were made when it was found that many young women of Florida anxious to follow the profession of nursing, were being forced to enter hospitals in the north because of the somewhat restricted opportunities to secure training in Florida.

Stole Beacon Tire

Tires are becoming valuable in Sanford and lately several tires have been stolen by a gang that is suspected but as yet there is nothing on them. Recently they stole a Beacon new tire 35x4 1/2 on Park Ave and as this tire can easily be identified having a rib tread anyone getting trace of this tire will be rewarded by letting the Herald Office know about it. The Beacon tire 35x4 1/2 rib tread should help to catch the thief.

SOME ONE WILL GET THE GOLD

TWENTY DOLLARS GIVEN ON APRIL FIRST FOR NAME FOR FLYING FIELD

On April first some one will get a prize of $20 in gold for giving the best name to the aviation field south of the city that is being used by the Dixie Aerial Service Co. This paper announced rules of the contest several months ago and since that time it seems to have been forgotten as only a few names have been handed in to date.

Send in a name that you think is suitable for this field and place the name in a sealed envelope and hand it in to the Herald Office and on April first the judges will look the names over and decide the one that to them seems most fitting for the field.

This money was given by a gentleman who does not wish his name to be mentioned in connection with the contest but he is an enthusiastic citizen over the subject of flying and wants to boost the flying game in this manner. The contest requires no money and no purchase of any kind and the twenty dollar gold piece is sufficient prize for a few minutes study over a suitable name.

Hand in your name for Sanford's flying field and get the twenty on the first of April.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING

MANY MATTERS OF IMPORTANCE WERE TAKEN UP BY THE MEMBERS.

The Board of Trade held a fine meeting last night at the Valdez Hotel where the lights burned brightly and being furnished by the hotel plant never went out. A representative crowd of business men were present and the sun parlor was comfortably filled when President F. L. Miller called the meeting to order. The meeting was an informal smoker the cigars being furnished by the Florida-Cuba Cigar Co., of this city and many matters of importance were discussed by the members the same being brought to their attention by the president. One subject of importance was broached by Mr. Miller who said a citizen had asked him that day as to what the Board of Trade would do if 100 families wanted to come to Sanford and needed houses. This is a question that would stump the Board of Trade of any city in the world today and is not a question confined to Sanford. A. P. Connelly being present arose to remark that he could answer it and proceeded to tell about the good work of the Sanford Building & Loan Association of (Continued on back page)

Providing of Course If One More State Comes Over

IMPORTANT RULING

AND ONE THAT MAY HAVE A MOST IMPORTANT BEARING ON OUR COMING PRIMARY.

New York, March 24.—Claims of anti-suffragists that the Anthony amendment to the constitution, if ratified, would be ineffective in states where state constitutions restrict suffrage to male citizens until such constitutions are amended, are erroneous, according to an opinion obtained from Charles E. Hughes, former justice of the United States supreme court by the National Woman Suffrage association.

Justice Hughes also advised that in his opinion the statement that the extension of the voting franchise to women would allow them only to vote for United States senators is also erroneous.

"I am of the opinion that the amendment will be immediately executing and will render invalid and therefore ineffective any existing provision in any state constitution or statute establishing a suffrage disqualification solely upon the ground of sex. Further, the amendment, in my judgement, will apply to all elections and not simply to the election of senators and members of the house of representatives."

SANFORD THE GREATEST VEGETABLE SECTION THE WORLD HAS EVER SEEN

Remember that when the North is frozen and your ground is several feet under the snow, we are growing the vegetables that are on your table. Also remember that our acreage is small in comparison to that which we are required to supply with green stuff. I know of one party who cut from one acre of land $6300.00 of produce, the profit of which was $3800.00. I know of another, who on fifteen acres, made during the year of 1919, $8500.00. There are also losses encountered by those who are only amateurs; people who were not farmers, but people who thought all they had to do was to plant the seed and wait for the money to come on the roots. The farmers in Sanford who have made a success and all farmers do, are as much business men in their profession as are any of the big, successful merchants in our larger cities.

Our Production And Cost Of Producing.

We produce more per acre than does any section in the United States. During the latter part of August the seed is planted in the beds and in the latter part of the fall the Celery is set in the fields. This is cut for market during the latter part of January and along until April, depending upon the time of seed sowing. From this Celery is cut not less than 600 crates per acre, from which the farmer receives from $1200.00 per acre to as much as $2100.00. I know of a sale of over $6.00 per crate for a car of 400 crates. The cost of production varies as to the expertness of the producer. Some are able to handle the situation to a better advantage than others thereby holding down the cost. It is a fair average with the present price of labor and fertilizer and materials, which are more than double than in normal times, to say that the cost per acre of Celery placed in car is about $800.00 dollars, which would be about $1.50 to $1.75 per crate. The average price of Celery for the past two seasons has been about $2.25 per crate, and which you will see will give a profit of about seventy-five cents per crate, and with a yield of 600 crates to the acre, will net about $450.00. To this is to be added the spring crops of Peppers, Tomatoes or some other crop which will feed from the fertilizer already used on the Celery and the money received from this source will add considerably to the already profit, so you can readily see where we receive the $700.00 profit per acre. The above figures are fair and are not over-rated, they are very conservative in every way.

What Sanford Needs Most.

With all of our success under the conditions that exist, we are more or less in need of more things to make our City and county still more progressive. Our farmers are forced to sell many times at prices which do not justify them, because of the fact that we have no means of holding our products for a better condition of the markets. If we had a large Cold Storage which would take care of several cars of our Celery, we would be able to sell at a later date, at an advance price in place of dumping same on the Northern markets to be bought up at a low price, placed in storage by them and resold some time later at a very high price. A cold storage plant at this point would be of much benefit to us and a source of profit to those who would erect it. We are also hampered as to refrigerator car service. This season I have known of considerable stuff going to waste because after it was cut and placed in crates, the farmers were compelled to let it remain in the fields until ruined for the want of an iced car which was not delivered when ordered. A pre-cooling plant would eliminate this feature. I am advised that in California these pre-cooling plants have been a source of great comfort and returned a good revenue. It is our hope that in the near future some one will see our needs and see fit to build such a plant as indicated above.

Sanford, The City.

Sanford, Florida, the greatest vegetable producing center in this country is situated on the St. John River in Seminole County, and is the County site of said County. It is the end of the Clyde-St. Johns river line, having water transportation all the way from the northern cities. It is also the Division Headquarters of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway Company, having the Superintendent's office located here, together with the Train Master, Dispatcher's office and all other offices which go to make up a Division Headquarters. Railroad Shops are maintained here to make repairs on rolling stock used on this Division. Many are employed in the shops and on the road, with headquarters here. We are just mid-way between Jacksonville on the north and Tampa on the South.

Our fishing industry employs many and the output of the product is considerable. We have a Crate Mill, Paper Mill and Veneer plant, a Broom factory and many other smaller industries which go to make-up a nice little City. We have just completed a new Hotel, modern in every respect—hot and cold running water, telephone and bath with each room. We are situated on a lake ten miles long and five miles wide, where boating may be enjoyed to the fullest extent. Fishing may be indulged in, as we are able to travel more than a hundred miles to the headwaters of the St. Johns.

Our population will run in the neighborhood of six thousand—people all busy and doing well. Our system of hard roads excel anything in any county in the State. One of the smallest counties, we have the most miles of hard road (not hard to get over) but hard surface. We have bonded to build several miles of more hard roads and when completed believe that our mileage will exceed that of any other County in the State. Our schools are among the best in the State, having the very best courses and teachers that we can procure. We have a large brick High School, a very large brick Grammar School and two primary schools. Plenty of churches and a new modern Hospital fully equipped for any purpose.

In fact we have everything that goes to make a City of a hundred thousand, less Ninety-four Thousand people, which part of this, we will sooner or later have.

Sanford always remains on the minds and hearts of those who visit her never to be forgotten, because of what she has to show you in the line of development. Come to us and you will remain with us.

F. L. MILLER, President, Sanford Board of Trade.

Great Revival in Methodist Church

The revival campaign, which held its initial meeting Sunday morning in the Methodist church, is already bringing big results and showing signs of much greater ones to come, not only in the Methodist church but in the community at large. The meetings are being conducted by Dr. L. W. Walker, pastor who was formerly a general evangelist of the M. E. Church South.

Dr. Walker is assisted by Mrs. Walker, pianist and Miss Mary Sue Houston, soloist and leader of the song services. Miss Houston has a very clear, pleasing Mezzo Soprano voice and is known as "The Sweet Singer of Mississippi."

The morning services have been especially interesting and encouraging. They last only from 10 o'clock to 11:00 and have been well attended. The evening services opens at 7:30 p. m. A cordial welcome is tendered to all.

Editor Hosmer was formerly connected with several big papers in Colorado and is a former president of the National Press Association and is recognized as one of the big men in journalism. He is very anxious to have the National Association meet in Florida in 1921 which would bring over 400 editors of America to Florida and give this state a great boost in every section of the country.

TRUCK CROPS GOING FORWARD BIG MOVEMENT

LARGE ACREAGE IN SOUTH FLORIDA HAS BEEN RE-PLANTED.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 19.—Reports from shippers over the state, coming into the Packer office daily, indicate that there are in many parts of the state, a considerable amount of tender truck crops, shipping now. There has been a large acreage in the Southern part of the state replanted, and growers in the Northern truck belts of the state are planting a little heavier than usual.

The movement of the tender truck crops during the balance of March though lighter than it would have been, had no freeze-taken taken the crops, will after all be of considerable importance and will move to a large extent by express and local freight. There will of necessity be a large part of this movement go out on consignment. It is not likely that buyers will be able to pay the prices that growers consider they will be able to receive for their shipments when sold at the terminal market by their commission merchant. The shipment of cabbage, celery and lettuce has been unaffected, and is not considered in this review of the crop movement. There is a great scarcity of bean crop and it is not likely that the bean crop, at any time during the season will fill the demand even at the high prices now prevailing. There is a large scattered acreage of peppers, and owing to the ability of the pepper plant, to a large extent at least to recuperate from frost damage, the supply of the old crop coming from Southern and Central Florida, together with the new crop, from the more Northern sections, which will begin to move during the latter part of April, will be sufficient to almost meet the requirements of the trade.

The eggplant crop is very light and it is not anticipated that the supply will at any time during the season catch up with the demand. A heavy replanting has been done in tomatoes, which if nothing further happens, should see a heavier movement during May. It is not likely, however, that the May movement will be as great, as it would have been had there been no freeze. Heavy rains during May have been a deciding factor in the volume of the crop shipped, in the past, and much this year will depend upon this very factor.

The Irish potato crops over the entire state have been subject to unfavorable conditions. Too much rain has been the rule. Frost has cut the growth of the crop in all sections three times, and in some sections four. Freezes have sent the potato tops back to the level of the ground. But potato are "still in the ring" with a chance to make, for the growers, one of the most remunerative crops placed on the market. It all depends now, upon the weather. The bulk of the crop will not begin to move before the first of May or at least late April. There will be some favored fields, which will liberate their crops by April 10 to 15, but they are the rare exception.—N. Y. Packer.

The witchery of fair Hawaii, Queen of the South Sea Isles, portrayed in beautiful melodies weird and enchanting native songs and dances and the latest popular American songs and rags, all accompanied by the strumming Ukulele and the haunting steel guitar.

The Petersburg Va. Evening Progress of Nov. 26th, 1919 says: Vierra's Hawaiian singers and players, presenting "A Night in Hawaii" at the Columbia this week, have one of the most pleasing attractions witnessed by Petersburg theatergoers this season. Not only do they render their own dreamy Hawaiian music, as only the natives of the South Sea Isles can, but they have demonstrated that they are equally as good at handling American ragtime. Mr. Kalani, the steel guitar player, is recognized as one of the country's best and his performance on the instrument was one of the g features of the show. Mr. Pikaki, a tenor singer from "The Bird of Paradise" has a good voice, as has the big basso

It will be remembered that this company played to capacity houses at the Tampa Bay Casino last season and they will appear at the Princess Thursday only, in connection with the regular picture program.

WORLD'S LARGEST UN-CUT GEM

"Black Opal," Found in Nevada in 1917, Was a Quarter the Size of a Brick.

What is believed to be the largest uncut gem in the world has come to light in a recently opened mining district in Nevada, where it was discovered in the spring of 1917. The stone is a "black opal," so-called because of its color, which is a deep black. It shows mostly dark peacock blues and emerald greens, with a considerable amount of red, and several less prominent shades.

In size this great gem approaches a quarter of an ordinary brick, being three and fifteen-sixteenths inches in length, three and one-eighth in width, and six-tenths and one-eighth thick at the bulkiest point. Its weight is eighteen and six-tenths avoirdupois ounces, which expressed in gem diction is 8,195 grains, or 2,600.56 carats. More than a pound of opal is surely some stone! And it is all solid, uncracked, flawless gem material, free from matrix or adhering rock except for a paper thin skin encrusting the two major surfaces. Little specks broken from this skin here and there reveal the brilliant play of colors within, while the exposed ends and edge exhibit the full refracting radiance of the mass.

This stone is about half again as large as the largest of the noted gems of the world. The Cullinan diamond was roughly the size and shape of a small fist, and, if it had been an opal, would have weighed but 1,729 carats. It is compared with the new opal on this basis since the specific gravity of the diamond is 75 per cent greater than that of the opal.—Archie Rice in the Scientific American.

REACHING FOR WORLD TRADE

Every Nation Wide Awake to the Possibilities That Have Opened, Following the Great War.

A more cosmopolitan document could hardly be imagined than the weekly list of trade chances which is nowadays gathered from all sources by the United States department of commerce, and published for the information of American business interests. An agency in Spain wishes to sell agricultural machinery and mechanical tools; a company in Egypt wishes to handle American carboards and all kinds of paper; a firm in India is eager to come in contact with exporters of general merchandise; agriculturists in South Africa are interested in caterpillar tractors; a man in Switzerland would fain become an agent for yarns and fabrics; another in Belgium wishes to deal in food products; an engineer in Letland would like to represent exporters of agricultural tools and automobiles, but perceives the wisdom of having more than one string to his bow, for he wants also an agency for the sale of land. An interesting medley of commercial ambitions, with items that have already counted up to more than 1,500, the list reveals how, all over the world, individuals and companies are hoping for opportunity to share in international trade.

Crown Dating From 1000 A. D.

The rumor, current in the European press some months ago, when the Bela Kun administration ruled in Hungary, that the Hungarian crown was to be sold, seems to have disappeared, and the later government apparently means to keep it. It was an odd circumstance, says a writer commenting on that rumor and its disappearance, that, with so much talk of discarded insignia of royalty, the one crown actually mentioned as being for sale should have been the most ancient one, with a single exception, in Europe. For whereas the German crown, for example, is comparatively modern, and was made no longer ago than 1871 for the former kaiser's grandfather, this crown of Hungary traces back, at least in legend, to the year 1000, and the sum of 100,000 Swiss marks, about $10,000, which, last summer, was circumstantially reported as the price for which it was to be sold, does not seem particularly exorbitant.

Now, for the truth of things, time makes no alteration; things are still the same as they are, let the time be past, present, or to come. Those things which we reverence for antiquity, what were they at their first birth? Were they false?—Time cannot make them true. Were they true?—Time cannot make them more true. The circumstance, therefore, of time, in respect of truth and error, is merely impertinent.—John Hales (1628).

Inca Stonework. That which is claimed to be the finest stonemason work in the world is to be seen in the ruins of Inca palaces in Cuzco, Peru. Not even a needle can be inserted between the great blocks. The microscope shows that these stones were wrought with tools of-champ, an alloy of copper and tin.

The Seven Seas. Did Kipling consult Hindu mythology when choosing the title for his well-known book, "The Seven Seas"? According to the Puranas, the earth is circular and flat, like the flower of a water lily. Its circumference is 1,000,000,000 miles. In the center is Mount Soomeroo.

Seminole county growers have had a big sell-ery year in celery—Orlando Sentinel.

Says the Jacksonville Metropolis Mary Pickford has finally stopped Owen Moore. And we don't suppose Owen will Mary Pickford again.—St. Augustine Record.

The lights were out again Saturday night and the business men were forced to attempt to do business with candles and lamps and gas lights. The Southern Utilities Co., are getting the plant in shape but no one knows when they can guarantee service again.

The Sanford Board of Trade has a fine start and it is up to the business men of this city to keep it going. The average citizen should be an active member but the business man who has so much at stake should never miss a meeting. The Board of Trade means more to the business life of Sanford than other organization in the city.

The visitors to the city this season are carried away with the many good points of this section. They like our hotels, our beautiful lakes and rivers, our fine fishing and hunting, our good roads, our pure water, our good schools, our many churches and to the farmers and visitors generally our great trucking is a revelation. They are coming again to Sanford and we are happy to state that the city will be better than ever when they come back next season.

The editor of the Herald has never been accused of being narrow minded or hide bound. We expressed our opinion about the Southern Utilities Co., upon many occasions when they were ruining our business by shutting off the current and doing other things to us and to the people generally. On the other hand we wish to say that we looked over the plant last Saturday and can safely say that it is being put in shape and will some of these days be ready for business and when it is ready it will be one of the best utility plants in the state. This does not change our mind about their past policy of allowing the plant to go to pieces or their attitude toward the people and does not change our ideas about municipal ownership. The Southern Utilities Co. is really trying to put their plant in shape and we hereby give them due credit just as we have always done in the past when they were trying to give service.

ONE MORE MONTH OF DAILY On account of the uncertainty of power the Daily Herald will cease publication on or about the first of May. We have struggled along this far during the trying times of the past three months going for days without any electric current but bringing out the daily in some kind of shape because we wanted to keep it going and to give the city a daily boost if possible. Only those who have have had some experience in the printing business can realize what a stupendous task it has been to endeavor to bring out a daily paper without the power to set the type and to run the presses. Seeing that it would be a case of suspension in mid-winter the Herald purchased a gasolene engine and with this attached to the newspaper press and by setting some type by hand we struggled against fate and printed the paper at a dead loss because we had a certain pride in keeping the daily going and not wanting to miss an issue. The Southern Utilities Co., will have the plant in shape some time during the summer to guarantee power next fall and when they can guarantee power the Daily Herald will be resumed. The situation became so unrecallable that we could not guarantee advertising, job printing or any other service and rather than get out a makeshift daily any longer we will drop the daily until next fall at which time either the Southern Utilities Co. will have power or some other company will have it and then the Herald management will be able to guarantee the people a real daily paper. After May first the Weekly Herald or maybe a Twice a Week Herald will be published as usual and always providing we can get sufficient power to publish it. And in conclusion we wish to state that the service is some better and only goes off at intervals of a few hours a day.

WHAT ABOUT LEGISLATURE?

Looking over the newspapers of the state the question, "what about the next legislature?" comes forcibly to mind, for in all Florida it would appear that there are very few men offering themselves as candidates for either the senate or house of representatives. The primary election is, of course, some time away, but the newspapers are filled with nominations of candidates for county officers. In some counties half a dozen men appear as ready to sacrifice their time in the office of sheriff or tax collector, or some other fairly well paid position. But few are expressing their desire to visit Tallahassee next spring, to look over the laws and make such additions as the people may need for their protection and guidance.

Naturally enough, some are offering excuses to the effect that the salary allowed to legislators is hardly more than enough to pay the board, and the private business of the citizen is declared to be paramount to that of the state at large. This is too bad, of course, both excuses, and really they should not be urged as reasons. It is necessary for some to serve the state in one way and some in another. Few men can afford to think that they live apart from the community, county, state or nation. The legislature is considered a necessity, and in Florida the call for service in this body is only every other year and for a limited season. In some states the legislature meets every year, and in others the sessions are possibly longer.

And to get back directly to the need of the hour, Florida's lawmakers who will be expected to meet next spring at the state capital have in view the consideration of a great many things of real importance. Previous legislatures have no doubt done good work; often they have worked hard and efficiently for the good of the commonwealth, but there were many things left undone at the session of 1919; some begun and left incomplete, others not even considered although important. The legislature of 1921 must undo some of the ill-wrought legislation; conditions have changed considerably and much new work is certain to demand attention. There will be a change in the executive office and it can be predicted that constructive legislation will not be handicapped as it has been recently.

Florida needs substantial, strong, careful and conscientious men in the next legislature; men who have made a success in their professions and business enterprises; men who are interested in the upbuilding of the state. There was never a time in the history of Florida when the prospects seemed brighter than at present—but with the eyes of the country directed toward us we must make every step sure. Big undertakings have been started, great industries are moving this way, the most desirable immigration is noted and the newcomers are expecting great things of us. It is a time when a community or section would well afford to ask representative men to contribute their time and talents, for a brief period at least, to the general good.

Officers have not sought the men to any great extent recently but the exception is in order. Men are wanted to volunteer, if call cannot be made upon individuals, regardless of the nominal "pay" that the state can afford for its lawmakers; even understanding the inconvenience and possible loss that an absence from home and business may entail, there are certainly men here who will be willing to devote the time to public service. It is time that announcements were made and it is to be hoped that the lists will contain brains, experience, integrity. The next legislature has much to do and should be composed of the best men in the state.—Times-Union.

THE MAN FOR THE PLACE

J. H. Tench Announces That He Will Run For Railroad Commission Tallahassee, March 24.—(Special) Mr. J. H. Tench, rate expert to the Florida railroad commission has announced that he will be a candidate for nomination to the office of railroad commissioner to succeed Hon. Royal C. Dunn, who will not stand for re-election to that position. Mr. Tench was born in South Carolina and moved to Gainesville, when about seven years old, having been a resident of the state of Florida for the past thirty-five years. His father, Major John W. Tench, of Gainesville, is a Confederate Veteran and served under the leadership of Gen. Joe Wheeler.

Mr. Tench has been engaged in the transportation business practically all his life, and for the past eight years has been the efficient rate expert to the railroad commission, which position was voluntarily tendered to him. He has been in close association with the regulation of common carriers in the state for the past eight years and has been privileged to work with the commissioners during the trying times of government operation. He is thoroughly conversant with all that has transpired during that period. He is peculiarly fitted for the office he seeks by training, knowledge and ability, and in conversation stated that he would solicit the support of the state of Florida on the ground that he has the knowledge, acquired by experience, which is necessary to fulfill the duties of the office. He is thoroughly conversant with all the duties and functions of the office and is in a position to take up its duties equipped to discharge them, without having to go through any period of training to becoming acquainted with the work required.

Mr. Tench expressed his intention to begin active campaign immediately throughout the state.

AMERICAN'S CREED School Children Are Being Urged to Memorize It

School children in many cities and towns throughout the country are being urged to memorize "The American's Creed," which is as follows: "I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. "I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies."

Kiev, Capital of Ukraine, Is Great Religious City

Kiev, the ancient capital of Ukraine, is one of the world's great religious cities. In normal times it counts as many as from 200,000 to 350,000 pilgrims every year. Before the Mongol storm which laid it in the dust in the thirteenth century, Kiev was resplendent with all the glory of Byzantine art. Even now in all that remains of the great cathedral of St. Sophia, built in 1037 by Yaroslav I, mosaics may be traced which show unmistakably their Byzantine origin. Kiev before the war had regained some of her fame as an art center. Her cathedral of St. Vladimir, which was completed in the thirties, is witness to the genius of one of Russia's modern painters, Victor Vasnetsov, who has infused a new life into the religious art of his country. Kiev has also an art museum—or she had before the bolshevik had the run of the city.

ALLOW FOREIGN SHIPS BOOZE

Palmer Decides Prohibition Can't Be Enforced Except on United States Vessels.

Washington.—Foreign seamen hereafter may have their liquor with their meals while their ships are docked in American ports, according to announcement by Assistant Secretary Shouse of the treasury. After numerous foreign governments had protested against the order selling stocks of liquors on ships in American ports, the question was laid before Attorney General Palmer, who held it could not be enforced except in the case of American owned ships. "The decision," Mr. Shouse said, "modifies the order of December 11, which made the selling of liquors in our ports applicable to both American and foreign ships. International comity requires that every courtesy be extended to foreign vessels anchored in our water. American vessels are still subject to the requirements."

PLANT TREES FOR YANKS

Societies Throughout the Country Are Laying Plans for Roads of Remembrance.

Washington.—The first Rotary club in the country to report plans for a road of remembrance to the American Forestry association, which is registering all memorial trees in a national honor roll, is the organization at Tampa, Fla. At a cost of $7,000 a tree will be planted along the West Coast road for every man in the service from Hillsborough county. At Middletown, Ohio, the Welfare association will plant 1,000 trees along the Dixie highway next spring, and at Chattanooga the National League for Women's Service will plant a road of remembrance leading out of that city. In Minneapolis a road of remembrance between two parks is being laid out and the trees will be planted in 1921. The Woman's club of York, Pa., will plant 25 miles of the Lincoln highway with memorial trees.

EX-CROWN PRINCE'S PLANS

Frederick William Hopes to Settle Down on His Estate at Oels.

Amsterdam.—Former Crown Prince Frederick William hopes as soon as circumstances permit to go to his estate at Oels, near the Polish frontier, to live with his wife and family, according to the correspondent of the Telegraph, who interviewed him at Wieringen recently. "The former crown prince said he was writing his war memoirs, but that he could not think of publishing them now. He has learned to speak much Dutch and wears wooden shoes on his morning rambles about the Island of Wieringen, says the correspondent, and amuses himself by boxing with an instructor from Amsterdam. Frederick William said his father was in good health, but that his mother was not well. He declined to discuss political questions.

MOVING BEES NEW INDUSTRY

In Southern California Hives Are Transported by Motor From One Locality to Another.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Migratory bee farming is a new industry that is proving successful in southern California.

The beekeepers move their colonies by motor truck from one locality to another.

One beekeeper, E. L. Mercer, has 270 hives in Castile canyon, in the hills. In March he transported the apiary 64 miles to Glendora, in the orange belt. In May they were returned to Castile among the sage and wild flowers, and then were taken to Oxnard, where they browsed among the bean blossoms.

During this time the bees produced approximately 20 tons of honey, worth $3,600, their owner said.

Paris, France.—Convicted of increasing rents at an "abusive rate," a landlord has been sentenced to spend a week in jail and pay a fine of 500 francs. He leased an apartment to two "mildnettes" for a monthly rent of 135 francs and then advanced the rate to 250 per month.

Pets of Clemenceau No Longer Created Disturbance, After Undergoing a Slight Operation.

M. Clemenceau's love of pets, of which much has appeared in the press since his recent visit to London, once involved him in trouble with his neighbors. Twelve years ago, during his first term as premier, he had a number of peacocks and storks installed in the gardens attached to the ministry of the interior. There are no trees in these gardens only lawn and flower beds, which in M. Clemenceau's opinion lack animation—hence the peacocks. But other people living in the Place Beauvau complained that these birds were too persistent in their cries being so persistent as to render sleep impossible.

Things reached such a pass that the prefect of police was asked to indict his official superior for disturbing the peace of his neighbors, who were all the more indignant because M. Clemenceau went home every night to sleep at his flat in the Rue Franklin, far out of the range of the peacocks' cries. However a scandal was averted by the premier allowing a slight operation to be performed on the vocal chords of his pets, which, without otherwise injuring them, rendered them incapable of squawking.

And Still Eggs Are High!

The hens need a walking delegate. Grinding the beaks of the poor unprotected fowls seems to be the modern poultterer's long suit. Witness the modern working day of an unhappy hen on an up-to-date chicken farm, where as many as 18,000 eggs are hatched at one time.

Electric light has done it. The lights burn steadily until 10 p. m. At 4 a. m. they are turned on gradually until their full glare wakes the hens. The poultry then sit up and rub their eyes and think, "How short" the nights are getting! Yet it's certainly daylight. Well—just one darned day after another! Nights are short. The touching innocence of the hen victimizes it to the extent of getting only six hours' sleep a night. Eight-hour day? Why, the chicken works as long as the farmer!—The Nation's Business.

Depressing "Flying Dream."

In the flying dream, you suddenly leap off your feet and undergo the experience of rising to great heights and skimming over innumerable objects. If the dream only embraces this and nothing more, it may be taken to augur some kind of a surprise, usually of a more or less pleasant nature; but if, as so often happens, one imagines one flies to escape some peculiarly evil presence, then the dream may be regarded as a warning against some sinister person or plot. Flying dreams generally occur to people with marked psychic tendencies.

Painter's Fame Came Slowly.

August Renoir, seventy-eight years old, the famous French Impressionist, died recently at Cagnes, France, on the day that his picture of the Pont Neuf fetched 100,000 francs at an art sale. In his youth he often paid for his dinner with a picture. Renoir was one of the first of the impressionists. He worked to the last, and died with his palette in his hands. "I feel I am just beginning to know my trade," he said when he was well over seventy.

Explanation of Dreams.

To see a funeral, a coffin or a corpse in one's dreams generally portends illness, death, or some grave misfortune. If the dream is rather vague and hazy, it may often be regarded as a sign of birth, or a marriage.

Potatoes' Food Value.

Potatoes differ widely in food value. It is shown that the most useful potato for food is the one with the largest amount of dry matter. When two varieties are practically equal in this respect the nitrogen they contain enters into the estimation of their feeding quality.

Ancient Perfume.

It seems strange to read of saffron as a perfume, but such it was almost universally and an element of "romance" about it lies in the story told by Hauluyt of a pilgrim smuggling, at the risk of his life, from the Levant, a head of saffron in a hollow made in his staff.

TRAINING FOR DISABLED MEN

Government Will Help in Educating All Entitled to Assistance.

NEW RULES ARE MADE PLAIN

Great Opportunities for Rehabilitation Now Placed by Government Within Reach of All Wounded and Disabled.

Washington.—In order to reach the thousands of disabled ex-service men who are still in need of vocational education and training, Lieut. Col. M. C. Smith of the office of the assistant to the secretary of war, has begun the nation-wide distribution of a pamphlet which sets forth clearly the great opportunities for rehabilitation now placed by the government within reach of the wounded and disabled. For the first time the federal vocational act has been stripped of its legal verbiage. Details and facts which ex-soldiers and ex-sailors should know with reference to their desired vocational education are given in simple English. There are two classes of disabled men entitled to vocational education—those who cannot follow their former calling and those whose disabilities are not of such a nature as to entitle them to certain financial benefits. The first class are entitled to allowances which range from $80 a month for a single man without dependents to $150 a month for a man with a wife and six children, or other dependents. It is only when a man's disability interferes with his following his former calling that he is entitled to the maintenance allowance. But other disabled men, if their disability be 10 per cent or greater, are allowed free tuition and books. All applicants must furnish legal proof of honorable discharge from the service. A certificate of discharge, or Help in Making Choice.

When a man's eligibility for training has been established, he is assisted by skilled vocational advisers in making the choice best suited to his needs. He may even have a tryout or preparatory course in a shop or school. Training is given in agriculture, industry, commerce, transportation and other professions, as well as "training on the job" in manufacturing establishments, industrial concerns, offices and on farms.

District vocational officers may authorize transportation and issue mail and lodging requests to cover the time for which a man is detained by the district office for examination.

A disabled man eligible for training and maintenance will receive traveling expenses, school expenses, fees and books, and $80 a month, or more if he has dependents. While being trained at a factory, a man is paid the same allowances for himself and family as if he were taking school training. No deduction is made because he earns wages for his work. Prior to a man's entrance into training, he and his dependents are not entitled to any support, and if they are in distress, the matter should be reported to the Red Cross.

When Entitled to Compensation.
A disabled man being trained can receive compensation from the bureau of war risk only when the amount of compensation from the bureau is in excess of what he would be entitled to from the federal board for vocational education. In such cases the man is paid the difference, so as to make the amount received equivalent to the amount which the bureau of war risk insurance would pay if he were not in training. The amount paid a man under his insurance will not be affected in any way by the fact he is taking vocational training. After the course has been completed, the federal board finds a permanent position for the man, and keeps in touch with him. A man who receives no training pay from the federal board continues to receive the full amount of that compensation to which he is entitled from the bureau of war risk insurance. The war department especially desires to contradict the wide-spread rumor that a man loses his compensation because he takes vocational training. His actual money income cannot be diminished, but it may be increased. In the pamphlet are given the addresses of all district vocational officers and public health service physicians, as well as a table of money allowances to meet all cases of dependency.

Kaiser's Castles Turned Over to People's Uses

Berlin.—All the famous hunting castles of the ex-kaiser are being converted into places of social usefulness. The Leine chateau, near Hanover, in which the imperial family used to live when Wilhelm visited that city on hunting trips, is to house part of the Kaiser museum's exhibits. Another chateau is now a home for undernourished children, while a third has been turned into an art gallery.

Shoe Shine.

A most satisfactory way to dress shoes is to rub them with a section of an orange or a lemon and then to polish with a dry cloth. It gives a brilliant luster to shoes not badly worn and does not soil the clothing. It is often a convenience in freshening up shoes at the end of a journey, for fruit is readily obtained.

Famous Hudson River.

The entire length of the Hudson river is 300 miles. From Troy to the mouth of the river in New York bay, a distance of 150 miles, the river is tidal, owing to the low grade of its bed, by which the ocean tide is able to back up. It is this lower tidal navigable portion of the Hudson that is of so much importance, and, of course, the water is salt. It is regarded as really an estuary of the sea. Above Albany and Troy the river is a small stream, and to its source the water is fresh.

EGYPTIANS HAD FIRST FAIRS

Custom Which Has Become Universal Had Its Origin in the Land of the Pharaohs.

Though country fairs, to us of the metropolis, mean nothing more than a bit of local color on how the other half of the world lives, they are still an important feature of the social and commercial intercourse of many rural communities, where the facilities for reaching large centers are not yet very greatly developed. And so they would seem to be just an adaptation to natural needs, which they were from the very beginning, ages and ages ago. But then they were natural needs of a very different order.

It was among the ancient Egyptians that they started. At the periodic overflow of the Nile, which laid waste almost the entire Nile valley, the people in the affected areas would flock with their produce in barges to the festivals of various kinds which were always being held in the large cities or in the vicinity of the great temples. Here they found a ready market for whatever they had brought with them and many diversions to while away the time until they could go back to their homes. It is interesting to note that it is still the custom among the Hindus and other Asiatic races to flock periodically to the great markets during festival times.

In the early days of the church these celebrations were assigned to the festival day of the patron saint of the town in which they were held. The church yard was then given over to tradesmen for the display of their wares and refreshments were served. Because the inhabitants of the town were supposed to spend the night in prayer to the patron saint, the festivals at this time were called wakes, but as Catholicism waned the religious element was discarded and the term "fair" adopted.—Chicago Journal.

New Fad for Collectors.

Americans are collectors of a good many things from buttons and postage stamps to costly works of art, but so far as known none of them makes a specialty of locks of hair. It is Mr. ferent in England, remarks the Indianapolis Star. Recently a lock of Napoleon's hair was offered at auction and brought $80. It had been given by Napoleon's valet to the captain of the British company on guard at St. Helena at the time of the emperor's death, and had been in his own possession and that of his descendants since the event.

The very next day among the effects of a recently deceased admirer of Admiral Nelson being offered for sale was a lock of the British admiral's hair. It went for $75. It came originally from a barber shop on Bond street, where it was then, and still is, the custom to preserve and tag the clippings from the heads of illustrious customers. The continuance of the fashion as well as the auction sales indicates the existence of a demand for such relics in England. The preservation of such locks for commercial purposes is a point American barbers missed, probably because there is no demand, for since the wearing by women of brooches containing locks of hair went out of fashion it is not known that "human documents" of this sort are treasured, at least in collections. Certainly they would hardly bring much at auction.

The Ways of Children.

Nothing can stagger a child's faith; he accepts the clumsiest substitutes and can swallow the most glaring incongruities. The chair he has just been besieging as a castle or valiantly cutting to the ground as a dragon, is taken away for the accommodation of a morning visitor and he is nothing abashed; he can skirlish by the hour with a stationary coal scuttle; in the midst of the enchanted pleasure he can see without sensible shock the gardener soberly digging potatoes for the day's dinner. He can make abstraction of whatever does not fit into his fable. . . . And so it is that although the ways of children cross with those of their elders in a hundred places daily, they never go in the same direction nor so much as lie in the same element. So may the telegraph wires intersect the line of the highroad, or so might a landscape painter and a bagman visit the same country, and yet move in different worlds.—R. L. Stevenson.

Times Have Changed.

There was recently discovered, in the archives of Winchester, England, in the old Winchester Coffin Book, the following entry: "1625, 30th December. Taken from the coffin thirty shillings for the appurtenance of six poor boys that went to Virginia." These must truly have been the "good old days," before people were bothered about the cost of living. One cannot help wondering what the descendants of these six adventurers going to America would think, if they were given only five shillings and told to go and buy themselves an outfit today.

HER RUSE SAVES FATHER

Italian Girl Takes Blame for Murder in Pennsylvania as Parent Flees.

Bradford, Pa.—Margaret Dicello, 17, can marry any one of a score or more of men. She has turned down proposals galore. The little Italian girl won the hearts of the youths of her own people by the cute way in which she protected her father from the clutches of the law.

Margaret's father was accused of killing a man, but was at once freed when his daughter confessed that she fired the bullet. When her dad was safe in Italy Margaret admitted that her confession was a lie and was given only to allow her father time to get away. There was nothing for the authorities to do but free the girl and forget the father.

"I'm too young to marry," she tells all bidders for her hand.

Fatal Timidity.

Every day sends to the grave obscure men who have remained in obscurity only because their timidity, their lack of self-confidence, prevented them from making a first effort. If they could have been induced to begin; if they had trusted in their own powers and dared to forge ahead they would, in all probability, have gone great lengths in careers of usefulness and fame.—Orison Swett Marden.
