Radio Bishop

The favorable impression created among churchmen by the radio broadcasting of the sermons has caused the Rev. Warren L. Rogers, dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, Detroit, to be named bishop coadjutor of the Episcopal Diocese of Ohio. He has been using the radio every Sunday for two years.

TRIAL OF MEANS AND FELDER HAS STARTED IN N. Y.

Rosenblatt, one of defendants in Casket Case Is On Stand Tuesday; Jarnecke Star Witness For Prosecution

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Because of his experience "in getting a man named Moore out of a certain matter" for which he didn't get anything, Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent at first refused to interest himself in a deal to quash indictments in connection with the Altoona Glass Casket Company mail fraud case, it was testified Wednesday, by Samuel Rosenblatt, one of the defendants in the casket case.

Means was introduced to company officials in Washington where they said they found him sitting in Burns' chair with his feet on Burns' desk, it was testified. After his hesitation, it was said, he told them that he would "stand for" anything that Jarnecke had said he would do. Felder was described in the casket case as an "out" or person used to give camouflage to the transaction as an appearance of regularity.

Rosenblatt testified that after paying the money demanded to "fix" the case and having been told that "all their troubles were over" they learned that the indictments had been found after all. When protest was made to Felder, Rosenblatt said, they were told that it was "an honor to be indicted these days" and that they "didn't" have a thing to worry about." Felder offered to furnish bail for his clients as high as $75,000 if necessary, Rosenblatt said.

Two Cases Ended In Circuit Court, Third Is On Trial

With two cases already disposed of and another before the jury, the Seminole county circuit court entered today morning the second day of the January term. The Seminole county grand jury which is in session, continued its deliberations through Tuesday afternoon and this morning but, it is said, is unlikely to make a report until Thursday morning.

U. S. FOREIGN POLICY WILL REMAINSAME

Hughes Retirement Will Have No Effect On U. S. Attitude Toward Other Nations, Thus Dispelling Capital Rumors

President Keeps In Touch With Situation
President Declares That U. S. Policy Toward Russia Is Same As Has Been In Past

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—A White House pronouncement was made Tuesday to dispel any impression that the retirement of Secretary Hughes from the cabinet involved impending changes in the administration's foreign policy. President Coolidge sees no reason to alter the general course he has been pursuing with regard to foreign relations. While he expects that American foreign policy will develop and enlarge to keep pace with the march of world events, there is no prospect that the principles governing the attitude of the Washington government on specific questions will be subject to change during the administration beginning Mar. 4.

The president has been more familiar with the details of the nation's foreign relations from day to day since he took office than he has been with the specific problems of governmental departments having to do with domestic matters. Secretary Hughes, it was pointed out at the White House has consulted his chief with regard to every decision of importance it was necessary for the state department to make, the president being charged directly under the constitution with the conduct of foreign relations, and this practice will continue after Ambassador Kellogg succeeds Mr. Hughes.

White House comment on the subject was prompted in part by published suggestions that some change in policy toward Russia was to be expected after Mr. Hughes' retirement. On the contrary, it was said, the president's attitude with respect to Russia remained precisely what it was when he addressed his first message to congress in 1923, and when Mr. Hughes explained that policy in considerable length to a delegation which visited him to urge recognition of the Russian soviet government.

Mr. Hughes outlined at that time a number of conditions that must be met before the Washington government could give serious consideration to granting diplomatic recognition to Russia. These had to do, not with the form of the Russian government, but with its external relations, such as repudiation of debts, confiscation of the property of foreign nationals in Russia and similar actions.

President Coolidge, in his 1923 message, expressed hope that developments would permit recognition and the return of Russia to the family of nations. It was explained Tuesday, however, that the hope for progress in Russia was to materialize and that the time when diplomatic recognition could be granted was not in sight.

Fort Mellon Lots To Be Put On Sale Thursday Morning

Lots in Fort Mellon, one of Sanford's newest subdivisions, will be formally placed on the market at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, it was announced today by A. P. Connelly, local realtor, whose organization will handle the sale of the lots. Mr. Connelly is anticipating the fastest sale in the city's history for never, he declares, has he seen such interest manifested.

First Day Of Longwood Community Fair Draws Many Visitors Wednesday

With an avidity bred during a quarter of century of denial, the people of Seminole county flocked to Longwood Wednesday morning where the Community Fair, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, opened at 10 o'clock. The fair is the first exhibition of any kind held in the county in 25 years, it is declared.

Every provision has been made for both education and amusement of those attending the fair. Virtually every product of the county and exhibits representing every activity have been entered. Those who attend with the purpose of seeking amusement will find their desire amply catered to by the Johnny J. Jones show, which will be given at 7:15 o'clock Thursday night when the Longwood Chamber of Commerce will host to a number of distinguished men of Central Florida at a dinner at the Orange and Black Hotel. A number of prominent men from Sanford, including representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the civic club, city and county officials are planning to attend.

Visitors to the fair who come in automobiles are relieved of trouble through the provision of parking space by the fair management. Inspection of the exhibits by S. D. Hardaway of Orlando, the judge, began shortly before noon today. The variety and extensiveness of the exhibits, however, is expected to make it necessary to consume the remainder of the day in judging.

SALES OF STOCK IN LAND COMPANY TOTAL $150,000

Citizens Numbering 127 Have Contributed To This Sum; Support of Big Development Plan Is Urged By Bodwell

The purchase of additional stock in the Sanford Realty Company which placed the hands of the big clock on First Street past the $150,000 mark and gave added impetus to the sale of shares, was announced Wednesday by Officials of the company.

With half of the amount required to carry on the immense development plans of the company, already subscribed and indications that the other half will be forthcoming within the next few days, members of the company gave expression to an optimistic feeling Wednesday.

Efforts to finish the sale of the last half of the stock during the present week, Harry T. Bodwell, general manager of the company, announces that active solicitation by members of the sales force of the Bodwell Realty Company is being made this morning.

Speaking for the company, Mr. Bodwell stated that its officials are very anxious to enter into their full plans for development at the earliest possible time and toward that end is sounding an appeal to the civic pride of every Sanford citizen. Speaking further along this subject, Mr. Bodwell said:

"Sanford is a city of 10,000 people but only 127 of that number have subscribed to stock in the land company. This very small percentage should serve as a boost for everyone to join in this civic movement in order that there will be no further delay in our plans. We trust that everyone will give this matter his serious consideration and join with us in making this proposition a big success. Team work will mean the absolute success of our plan and it is in the spirit of co-operation and civic pride that we solicit the support of everyone."

COUNTYROAD BODY MEETS ON TUESDAY

Recommendations of Chamber of Commerce Are Accepted Almost in Their Entirety And More Highways Added

Road To Titusville Causes Discussion
County Board Will Consider Proposed Issue Finally At Its February Session

The special committee composed of the Seminole County Commissioners and five members of the Chamber of Commerce, took another step forward Tuesday in the preparation of the county-wide road building program when, with several minor exceptions, it accepted the recommendations of the Good Roads Committee and proposed several additional highways.

All of the through roads numbered 14, were accepted, each one to be built separately. The one which brought on the most discussion but which was included in the acceptance, was the Titusville road from the Oviedo-Geneva road east to the St. Johns River, being about 6.5 miles long. The road would cost approximately $75,000, received one dissenting vote, that of Commissioner Entzinger.

With reference to the Titusville road, R. W. Pearman, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, stated that a letter received from the secretary of the Titusville Chamber of Commerce and that Gov. John W. Martin had pledged the State Road Department to build another link of this road lying in Volusia county, the completion of which, would give Sanford and Seminole county county a through road to the east coast.

Additional roads suggested at the meeting were as follows:
To continue the Osceola road for approximately three-quarters of a mile from present road to Osceola to continue road through west Longwood north through Markham to the Wekiva River Road, a distance of approximately nine and one-half miles; from Paola west to Markham for a distance of approximately one and one-half miles and another road beginning at the side street running south for about a mile and a half.

The present status of the proposed bond issue, it is declared, is that it is now in a form subject to final approval by the county board which meets at 7 o'clock Tuesday. At Tuesday's meeting the committee of 10 requested County Engineer Fred T. Williams to begin work on a complete estimate on the cost of each road.

Mr. Williams, it is believed, will have this estimate ready in time and it is further believed that the county board will make its final decision at the February meeting in the matter before submitting it to the people.

Should the board accept the full program as it stands, the issue will be for not less than $1,500,000, it is declared. However, it is believed that some revisions are yet to be made which will mean a (Continued on page 8)

Underwood Shoals Bill Is Substituted For Norris Measure

PLANS FOR LOCAL GOLF COURSE ARE PERFECTED HERE

Officers Elected At Buffet Supper At County Club Tuesday Night; Final Arrangements Next Meeting

Plans for the organization of a golf club in Sanford were made last night at a buffet supper at the Sanford County Club attended by approximately 35 players and enthusiasts of Seminole county. Further details of the project, including the adoption of a charter and the appointment of committees to care for the various phases of the club's work will be perfected next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock when the organization will meet again at the club house.

Officers elected last night are: R. L. Dean, president; Frank McNeill, secretary-treasurer, and Judge E. P. Housholder, Edward Higgins, R. E. Stevens, G. W. Spencer, Jr. and Dr. Samuel Puleston, directors.

In the meeting that followed the supper, at which Edward Higgins, president, Mayor Forrest Lake led the speakers. The mayor declared that the city has gone to considerable expense in building the course for the benefit and pleasure of the people of Sanford but that it was not being used enough to compensate for the money invested. Approximately $30,000, the mayor said, has been spent on the course.

The expense incidental to keeping the course in condition are considerably more than the revenue derived from green fees, the speaker said. If the present condition of affairs is allowed to drag on, he continued, it will come to the point where the city will be forced to withdraw its support and the course allowed to deteriorate.

The speaker summed up the parliamentary part of the course as "mere people playing." The best means of accomplishing this end, it is said, is through a golf club.

The purpose of the club is to keep the course in condition are considerably more than the revenue derived from green fees, the speaker said. If the present condition of affairs is allowed to drag on, he continued, it will come to the point where the city will be forced to withdraw its support and the course allowed to deteriorate.

Senator Underwood then offered his bill in amended form as a substitute for the Norris measure and failing to have it ruled out on a point of order, supporters of the Norris plan renewed their assault upon it.

Finally the senate threw the whole thing aside until Wednesday and proceeded to the consideration of the first deficiency appropriation bill.

Irrespective of whether the Underwood bill is accepted or rejected, Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, says he will offer a substitute anew, after amending it so as to provide for a commission of five to investigate the project instead of a commission of three.

Around in a Circle

Under the ruling of President Cummings that the Underwood substitute could be re-offered, a ruling which the senate sustained 53 to 22, some leaders said revised substitutes could be offered at will and that the senate might find itself traveling around the same circle for days.

Other leaders took a more optimistic view of the situation, however, predicting that the Underwood bill again would be substituted for the Norris measure and that then the amended Jones bill would be rejected.

Even should their prediction hold good, that would not be an end to the fight, for whatever measure emerges out of the present practically unprecedented situation in the senate, it still would be open to amendment and subject to a second and final approval.

This was agreed upon by leaders on all sides but it was the only agreement that came out of the mass of confusion in which the senate found itself for more than three hours. Most senators had thought that with the acceptance of the Jones' substitute the fight was ended except for a perfunctory final vote.

Senator Norris upset their calculations, however, by offering his bill in amended form. He conceded later when he objected to Senator Underwood taking a like course that his strategy could have been frustrated by any senator interposing objection.

Administration forces, which joined with some of the Democrats last week in substituting the Underwood measure for the Norris bill, were divided today on the Jones substitute, enough of them going over to supporters of the Washington senator's bill, which would have the effect of deferring final congressional action on the disposition of the power and nitrate plant for at least a year.

ADAIR FIRMS DEVELOPING LARGE TRACT

Realty Company Begins Work On Its First Realty Development in Florida At Sarasota On Whitfield Property

Palatial Hotel Will Be Among Projects

Development Will Be One Of The Most Important In Florida At Sarasota. Firm Has Faith In Sarasota

SARASOTA, Jan. 14.—The Whitfield Estates, an expanse of almost 800 acres, stretching for a mile and a quarter along the placid waters of Sarasota Bay, now in process of improvement that will make it one of the most elaborate developments in the Florida coast, has been subdivided and will be placed on the market almost immediately, sales to be directed by the Adair Realty and Trust Company, nationally known firm of Atlanta, according to announcement authorized.

This announcement, in Florida realty circles, is considered of particular importance, since the Adair Realty and Trust Company, the nation's oldest real estate firm, is entering into the active sale of Florida real estate for the first time. Local business leaders consider this firm's action as indicative of a recognition that real estate values in Florida are now stabilized, viewed from the firm's conservative policies during the past six decades.

The property to be offered, acquired recently by L. B. Whitfield, president of the Alabama-Georgia Syrup Company, of Montgomery, makers of "Alaga" syrup, is said by real estate men to be one of the most ideally located and formed sections in all of Florida. This general opinion is further borne out by the fact that the Adair organization has selected it for its first Florida venture of this nature, although the firm has been intensely active in the state for many years with financing activity having brought millions of dollars of outside capital to the state for building construction and other investment.

Development of the Whitfield states, already guaranteed, includes the erection of a palatial hotel on one of the points which jut out into Sarasota Bay; a 18-hole golf course, designed by Donald Ross, upon which work is already begun; a club house in connection with the course; a yacht club house for a power boat association to be built in the yacht basin provided—and any other projects of a similar nature.

E. A. McGovern, a representative of Donald Ross, declared to be a nation's foremost golf architect, has been on the ground for several days, working out details of the course construction, and has announced the acreage provided probably the most ideal in all Florida for high class golf links.

Mr. Ross will arrive in Sarasota, Jan. 15, to superintend further work.

The land in Whitfield estates, which is out by the Tamiami Trail and one-half mile from Sarasota, is 47 miles south of Tampa and has a frontage of a mile and a quarter both on Sarasota Bay and both sides of the Miami Trail.

The plot is part of the original land purchased by the late Alfred P. Potter and is within a quarter of a mile of the present estates of the Binglings, who have large holdings in the vicinity, as has the late Mrs. Potter Palmer, which controls some 75,000 acres in a radius of a few miles of Sarasota—near where stands the beautiful home of the late Mrs. Dr. W. C. A. and each member of the hygiene staff of Smith College.

Dr. Edward Conrad, president of the college, has been invited by Dr. Ellen Bristol, chairman of the Social Welfare Conference, to attend the conference at Gainesville Feb. 8-11. He will preside at the meeting Sunday evening, Dec. 8.

The freshman cabinet will be "tapped" Monday, Jan. 12. Nominations were made by the class and from these nominations the number that will go into office will be chosen. To the freshman cabinet is entrusted the establishment of a close bond between the Y. W. C. A. and each member of the class.

The Y. W. C. A. secretary expects to obtain several notable speakers for the spring. Among them will be George Collins of the Fellowship of Reconciliation of New York. His work is to speak in colleges on subjects of war and peace. Others expected are Mrs. Raymond Robbins, president of the International Congress of Working Women; Miss Adelle Clarke, director of the third region, National League of Women Voters; or Miss Jefferies Heinrich, regional secretary of the third region; and a speaker from the International Commission also may be secured.

Advantages—the happy combination of climate, broad expanses of sapphire sea and natural beauty which has made Sarasota the favored playground of some of the country's wealthiest and best known citizens, among them are numbered Honore Palmer, Princess Cantacuzene, Edson Keith, John and Charles Elmsing, Dr. P. H. Albee and many others.

Good Weather is Needed To Climb Highest Mountain

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The most obvious difficulty which had to be encountered in the attempted ascent of Mount Everest was that of breathing, according to Major R. W. C. Hingston, who accompanied the last Mt. Everest expedition as medical officer.

In a recent lecture before the Royal Geographical Society, the major said the difficulties of the ascent were enormously increased by the slightest exertion. Somervell, one of the climbers, made a record of his breathing at 27,000 feet, at which altitude he had to take seven, eight or ten complete respirations for every single step forward. Even at that slow rate of progress he had to rest for a minute or two every 20 or 30 yards.

At 28,000 feet Norton, another climber, in an hours climb ascended only 80 feet. This was the highest point reached without the aid of oxygen. The climbers were surprised that they could even make such strenuous efforts and still more that they could remain in comparative comfort when they sat down to rest. The strain at that altitude was immense.

High altitudes, Major Hingston declared, affected the operations of the mind. One member of the expedition was aware of a dulling of the will power. Somervell described a lack of observance at and above 25,000 feet, and General Bruce, leader of the expedition, recorded an enlargement of memory. Regarding the possibility of reaching the summit of Mt. Everest, Major Hingston said that though the physiological difficulties were undoubtedly severe, they could be overcome, but favorable weather conditions were imperative for success.

Flow Of Foreign Workers Begins To Alarm Frenchmen

PARIS, Jan. 14.—The French government is beginning to take notice of the ever increasing immigration which has brought to the total of foreign workmen in France to about 2,000,000. This number is approximately five per cent. of the total population, and in official circles it is said France may soon have to follow the example of the United States and limit immigration.

The inflow of workers in 1923 was approximately 272,000, mostly from Italy, Poland, Spain and Belgium. Sixty per cent of these men went to the devastated regions.

France encouraged immigration after the war because she sorely needed men to replace the great waste of hand labor from 1914 to 1918. Annoying difficulties, however, have arisen, through the presence of great numbers of foreigners in what was once the war zone and the participation of foreigners in communist agitation has caused some alarm. There is an undisguised feeling that, though important labor has rendered France great service, she has now about enough of it, particularly since there is a strong communistic strain running all through the foreign laboring element.

Woman Physician At College Given Leave Of Absence

FLORIDA STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN, Jan. 14.—Dr. Anne Young, who has been the college physician for the last four years, has been granted a leave of absence on account of illness, and Dr. Marion O'Hara has been appointed to take her place. Dr. O'Hara received M. D. Degree from the University of Michigan and since has practiced medicine, served on the staff of several large hospitals, and for a number of years was medical examiner and professor of hygiene at the State Normal School in North Dakota. In 1923 she was on the hygiene staff of Smith College.

Dr. Edward Conrad, president of the college, has been invited by Dr. Ellen Bristol, chairman of the Social Welfare Conference, to attend the conference at Gainesville Feb. 8-11. He will preside at the meeting Sunday evening, Dec. 8.

The freshman cabinet will be "tapped" Monday, Jan. 12. Nominations were made by the class and from these nominations the number that will go into office will be chosen. To the freshman cabinet is entrusted the establishment of a close bond between the Y. W. C. A. and each member of the class.

PLANNING GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN NEW NAVY GIANTS

Naval Engineers Expect Lay Keels for New Ships in Ten Years; All Ships Will Be Equipped With 16-inch Guns

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Naval engineers would hesitate today to predict what the military characteristics will be of the first American battleships to be built in replacement under the Washington limitation treaty. Added to the fact that they will be 25 per cent bigger than the present naval battleships, West Virginia, Colorado and Maryland, and carry not larger than 16-inch guns, they are unknown quantities.

The first two replacement ships may be laid down in 1931, to be completed in 1934, when the 12-inch gunners Florida and Utah will go to the scrap heap. They will be 35,000 tons, treaty measure, which means almost 40,000 tons pre-treaty rating. The West Virginia class of battleships, now the biggest and hardest hitting vessels afloat, are 32,000 tons, old rating.

Since the first post-treaty battleships will be the British Rodney and Nelson, to be completed in 1928 when four ships of the present British fleet of the King George V class will go to the junk man, wide interest prevails in naval circles everywhere as to what their armament, speed, cruising radius, protection, method of propulsion or other characteristics will prove to be. Little is known generally as to the British plans, developed since the Washington conference.

But no naval officer is likely to forget that the dreadnaught, first all-big-gun ship to be built, virtually rendered obsolete every existing pre-dreadnaught battleship of any navy. Nothing then afloat could compete with her on anything approaching equal terms, and the feverish building of dreadnaughts on both sides of the Atlantic began.

American naval designers are laying away information on what they will do for their own new ships will be based on experiments incidental to the building of the hull of what was to have been the battleship Washington were conducted for this purpose, to a large extent, and much valuable data resulted.

For one thing, navy experts wanted to know just how wisely they had planned the increased peck protection of the Washington class of ships. It has not been revealed definitely whether the Washington deck armor withstood high angle fire but Secretary Willoughby announced at the time that the biggest and hardest hitting results of the experiments had justified expectation.

That the new British ships will have ample deck protection as well as a new type of 16 inch guns more powerful than any yet afloat in any navy, is taken as a forgone conclusion. They will be the product of the post-war years of study by

Nutrition Tests Cause Great Good In Florida Schools

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 14.—

Great good is to be accomplished among Florida school children as a result of the nutrition tests and corrective feeding experiments being made in some counties of state, according to opinions of specialists in this work which is now under way in Polk and on other South Florida county under direction of the State Home Demonstration workers. It was found that scores of the children attending the public schools in the two counties were under weight.

By means of corrective eating and certain forms of exercise prescribed by the demonstrators, they hope to build up the children's health and make them more efficient citizens of the country. It is said, that underweight children and oftentimes retarded children have been developed in Florida by the use of weight and height charts, shown that there is a greater number of children underweight than an underweight child is a mean a handicapped child, a retarded child, with a body. Weight and height are related, it is claimed, weight being needed to maintain height. A normal child should gain one-half an inch a month, it is said.

Dr. William R. T. Emery, of the foremost authorities in nutrition in the country, says that certain causes, namely, physical lack of home control, faulty food habits and habits.

Home demonstration plan to broaden the scope of corrective efforts in Florida rapidly as conditions permit.

EVERYBODY has a certain amount of civic pride—that sort of pride which helps make a village a town, and a town a Metropolitan City.

THE growth of any community is dependent upon the support of its citizens. If you fail in your co-operation—SANFORD either stands still or falls back.

BETTER THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Search the Scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life; and they are they which testify of me.

KEEP SCRAPPIN'

When you're sick as the deuce, and you think, "what's the use?" And you're fired out, discouraged, afraid; And you keep asking why they don't let you die

When you're tired of hard knocks and you're right on the rocks; And nobody lends you a hand; When none of your schemes, the best of your dreams

When you're tired of hard knocks and you're right on the rocks; And nobody lends you a hand; When none of your schemes, the best of your dreams

Wise Men Believe In Fairies

In an endeavor to make her little son "absolutely truthful", as she put it, dull-minded mother refused to let him hear fairy tales.

But one day a kind fate intervened for that boy. His father lost every cent he had in a big bank failure.

And just about the first day he was permitted to go unsupervised Tommy met a ragged little prince who was sailing a boat on a temporary lake left by a recent rain.

That night Tommy told his mother in the laconic language he had been trained to use that he had spent the after-noon sailing a piece of wood in a mud puddle, but he lay awake for ever so long trying to remember all the beautiful tales that new playmate had told him.

Being quick to learn, Tommy saw ways of making prosaic tasks easy. There was a Brownie who helped him bring the wood for the kitchen fire.

And all of the "facts", all of the "absolute truthfulness", are at his call when he needs them.

Invaluable Advertising For Sanford

Speaking of invaluable advertising, conservatively speaking something like ten million people read these paragraphs of Arthur Brisbane's referring to the advantages of California and Florida for home-making, and city-making.

Readers of The Sanford Herald saw the paragraphs, but in order to speak a little of Florida's gratitude for the kindly, and truthful words, this paper is republishing the tribute today.

Those now living will see in California and in Florida cities greater than any now on earth. They will not be cities of crowded, windy streets, but cities that will cover hundreds of square miles, spreading over hills and valleys, with beautiful roads and great landing fields for flying machines, that will bring swiftly through the air passengers that the trains now carry slowly.

The east and northeast will send their millions to Florida. The middle west and northwest will send them to California. California and Florida will send back to the north energetic young people to work in the colder climate.

The development of this nation has only begun. California or Florida could easily feed, under intensive cultivation, the entire population of the United States, and Texas could feed the population of the world.

Nothing to worry about, over-crowding least of all, if the people combine imagination and common sense.

The Herald fancies that not many thousands of the people who read those words took the trouble to write to Arthur Brisbane and thank him for them.

Some day Florida is to have cities "greater than any now on earth", and one of these will be Sanford! Tell that to the world. It is true. And Sanford can convince the world that it is true.

The more you expect from yourself, the more you will accomplish; and the more you expect from your opportunities, the more you will realize from those opportunities.

"THE TEACHER'S greatest field of usefulness is in making children think. Make them think rather than make them good. Once they learn to think they are naturally good.

SANFORD'S FORUM

Editor The Herald: Permit me to express for the Woman's Club our appreciation of your excellent editorial in yesterday's paper, entitled "Nobody's Business."

On behalf also of the Woman's Club I wish to thank you for sending a special reporter from The Herald's staff to report our meeting on January 7, and for the very correct and fair manner in which he handled the story of the business and the program of the afternoon, especially the speech of Mr. H. Harold Hume and his presentation of "A practical program for beautification."

As Brisbane Sees It

Roosevelt Said It. A Lady on Corsets. They Killed a Chinese. A Dead Postmaster.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1924)

IN TOMORROW'S instalment of letters between Roosevelt and Cabot Lodge, you will find this warning, written by Theodore Roosevelt, 20 years ago, in 1905:

"Some time Japan may work us an injury, if we show ourselves opulent, aggressive and unarmed." We are not aggressive, but when was this nation more opulent, more completely unarmed, or more completely at the mercy of an enemy nation, well equipped with flying machines?

AND HOW much interest, do you think Roosevelt would take, if he were alive, in the fact that Japan with 17 factories working day and night is now turning out 500 fighting airplanes each month, while this most opulent nation owns just 20 flying planes fit to fly?

DR. CAROLINE Hedger, learned lady of Chicago, has a new theory about corsets. She says they are bad for fat women, but thin women need them.

It isn't fat that keeps things "in place." It's muscle. If the thin woman develops a thin layer of muscle where it is needed, especially if she keeps her spine straight she won't need any corsets."

THE SCIENTISTS say that human beings, including women, have bodies that were originally planned to go on all fours.

When you are on all fours the ribs across the chest hold up the lungs, heart and liver normally. The muscles of the abdomen hold up the intestines, and all is serene.

JOHN RAYS, 19, John Emelito, 21, were killed in the electric chair night before last for murdering a Chinese. Their notion that a Chinese didn't count did not save them from the electric chair.

WHEN, IF ever, and where and how will those three meet again, the Chinese and two white men that killed him? Will the Chinese look like a Chinese, and the white men like white men, on the other side of the river of death?

AND HOW much is civilization helped by killing two badly born, badly taught boys, instead of putting them in a prison with work that might reform them?

POSTMASTER MORGAN of New York City is dead of appendicitis. His photographs show a tired, overworked man. Three Presidents in succession appointed and approved him. He worked hard for the people, and considering ability and services rendered, he was as ill paid as any letter carrier or postal clerk.

OLD-FASHIONED tampering with the vote hasn't died out entirely. Years ago this writer, voting in New York City at a polling place in Oliver Street, downtown, was told by an experienced local politician "You are the only man in the line just now that isn't a repeater. That old man with the whiskers and spectacles will vote 20 times today, at least."

OTHER TIMES, other methods. A New York grand jury is investigating a regular "college" that trains in ballot box frauds to operate in five different cities. One manager of this institution of learning confesses to having made $5000 in fees.

IBN SAUD, who operates in the neighborhood of old Bagdad, had a bad idea. Forgetting about flying machines, he sent his tribesmen followers to make raids on British possessions.

A few Englishmen flew over, attacked the Akhwan tribesmen with bombs and machine guns, killed fifty and warned them not to be so foolish next time. Conditions have changed since men have learned to fly.

MONEY FOR speculating was cheap again yesterday, and that 1925 drop was once more postponed. Stocks went up, railroads leading. United States Steel made a new record since the war, going above 124. If you have any friend that gambles on the Stock Exchange, advise him not to sell this stock market short, for a little while, anyhow.

SOME NEWSPAPERS, yesterday afternoon published extras with a rumor of Mussolini's assassination. He's alive still, but nobody knows better than he that he lives every day in danger of sudden death.

He has been obliged to rule by force, and knows that thousands, if he could, would remove him by force. That must make government a nervous occupation.

THIS IS QUITE A TRICK FOR A NOVICE

MR. HUGHES RETIRES ASHEVILLE CITIZEN

Surprise though it is, the resignation of Mr. Hughes as Secretary of State has for months been inclined in the political gossip of Washington to pass. Fortunately, however, for the morale of the Coolidge Administration, the Hughes retirement does not follow any row in the official family, although it may be the forerunner of important and far-reaching changes in some of the country's foreign policies.

Secretary Hughes has been in public life twenty years and his expressed desire for the quiet of an ordinary citizen's existence is natural and this is the only reason for the resignation appearing in the letters exchanged between the President and his Secretary of State. Nevertheless, it is probable that the rise of Senator Borah to the Chairmanship of the Committee on Foreign Relations strengthened Mr. Hughes' longing for the repose of private life.

WALKING INTO THE SAME OLD TRAP DEARBORN INDEPENDENT

The bootleg game is repeating in detail the abuses which called down the public wrath upon the saloon, and this may prove the deciding factor in prohibition enforcement. The abuse which did more than any one thing to set the public upon the saloon was its greed for the trade of children. It is part of the liquor history of this country (and within recent months in England) that the liquor interest fought with every conceivable weapon the proposal to keep children out of saloons. It was in meeting the saloon resistance to this proposal of plain decency that the public got in training for the bigger fight.

NOT A JAZZ FLIGHT NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

Two patrolmen testified that the army flyer who lately swooped over Washington Heights flew his plane within about twenty feet of the housetops. On the other hand, some citizens swore that only the police were frightened. "It was so thrilling," said a girl witness, "No one was scared when he looped the loop." On the weight of the evidence the court martial acquitted the lieutenant of "stunt" flying in violation of orders and ordinances.

DAN DOBBS

The weather forecast has lots of competition. Only neighbor who thinks of debt is the one we owe. Some people could say we think and still to be quiet. Stepping to one side of you any nearer to the fact. When a man is full of there isn't room for much. Business is back. News goes away we hope to get a trip ticket to return in a. It is all right to tell everything that happens don't tell her ever more. This last word you have women havin' is the last clothes. The chief interest in some people is the 3 per cent get on their money. Never put on until what the advance styles on today. And sometimes we think a man's wife is a mug he is married to a jackass.
