Cardinals take it all

SANFORD — Quentin Hunt and Craig Merkerson combined on a six-hit and Merkerson had three hits as the Knights of Columbus Cardinals stopped the Moose Club Pirates 13-9 to clinch the second-half championship of the Sanford Recreation Department Junior Major Baseball League at Chase Park.

The win by the Cardinals gives them the championship of both halves and the overall City Champions.

Rain delays I-95 facelift

FORT LAUDERDALE — Rain has caused further delays in the $400 million reconstruction of Interstate 95, which was already behind schedule because of a month-long strike by independent dump truck drivers.

Recent afternoon rains have halted work and damaged roadbeds on the interstate, pushing back the completion date by another two to three weeks.

Most of the critical work, such as laying asphalt, placing limestone, striping, paving and pouring concrete, cannot be done in the rain.

"We can use two more months of drought," said Rod Cooper, I-95 project manager for Cooper Construction, one of three contractors on the highway widening project.

The search goes on

SANFORD — Last-minute shuffling marked the start of Seminole County's second round of county manager interviews. One of three candidates scheduled to be interviewed by county commissioners and a selection committee today withdrew this morning and a former county official was added to the interview list Monday.

Larry Arrington, Volusia County deputy county manager, withdrew from the interview list this morning. Arrington had considered seeking the position earlier this year, but decided against it because the Volusia County management was in turmoil. Arrington could not be reached this morning.

Added to the list Monday was James Easton, former Seminole County assistant county administrator under Duncan Rose. His resume indicates he also served as city manager of Winter Haven.

Also being interviewed today are John Lawrence, city manager of Dunedin and Michael Bryant, county administrator of Hall County, Ga.

Longwood ax drops again

City attorney latest victim of ouster wave

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — In a late night surprise move, the Longwood City Commission voted 3 to 2 to terminate the contract of city attorney Richard Taylor. Taylor thus joins the ranks of several others ousted by the commission in the past year.

Taylor's ouster was spearheaded by Mayor Gene Farach, who, in order to present the motion, turned the gavel over to Deputy Mayor Jeff Morton.

City Administrator Mike Abels had presented three alternatives to the commission regarding a requested review of the attorney's contract. The first was to maintain the contract at the current retainer of $4,000 per year. The second was to eliminate the monthly guarantee and pay a $90 per hour fee for regular work and $100 per hour for litigation, and the final recommendation was to raise the salary to $5,000 per year.

Farach, in making the motion, cited a portion of the agreement with the city attorney providing that the "city commission retains the right to cancel this agreement at any time by a simple majority vote of the full city commission," and suggested the agreement be cancelled. Commissioner Rex Anderson seconded the motion. Farach said he had read a memo submitted to Abels by Taylor saying Taylor could not go another year without asking for the $5,000 amount, and Farach said he could not accept that.

Taylor, however, continued citing the same section of the agreement that added a provision for the attorney to "waive any termination provisions in the city charter or code of ordinances which interfere, modify or otherwise limit that right." Taylor said that portion of the contract is not enforceable, that he can only be removed for "cause," and said the city could not find any cause.

Commissioner Hank Hardy said Taylor was a "hard working attorney who has done a good job for the city." Later in the discussion, Taylor said he believed one of the reasons for the ouster attempt was because he was playing favorites with Hardy. Taylor said he had worked a great deal with Hardy during his term as mayor last year, but felt he was not playing favorites as there had been many disagreements during Hardy's term of office.

Accusations of this being a personal vendetta were, at various times, leveled by Taylor and denied by Farach.

Commissioner Adrienne Perry, in discussing the matter was concerned about the disagreements being voiced, and cautioned her fellow commissioners that their "dissension seems to be growing, and must be resolved or it will only escalate."

At one point, Taylor said he didn't wish to leave the city without an attorney, and that he would be willing to continue at his current rate of pay and would continue to do a full job performance. But when this offer was turned down, Taylor accused Farach of attempting to violate his rights, and suggested that "this will end up in federal court."

Twice during the discussions, Morton, acting as mayor, requested that Farach withdraw his motion, but Farach refused.

When the final vote was cast, Farach, Anderson and Perry voted in favor of the ouster, with Hardy and Morton voted against it.

Summer job picture good in Seminole

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

Depending on who you talk to, the summer job picture in Sanford, Lake Mary and elsewhere in Seminole County is either good, or at the least, it shows some promise.

Manpower, Inc., in Maitland, and the Seminole County Job Services both predict not only jobs in the Orlando area tourist industries, but jobs within Seminole County, prompted by the growth of the local area.

Robert Monroe, economist with Job Services of Florida, said there will "definitely be jobs this summer in the service and retail trade industries for all age levels in the work force." Monroe said he expects there will be good employment opportunities for all workers from age 16 up during the summer months.

The Private Industry Council, which oversees the summer youth employment program in Seminole County, currently is training 270 students in preparation for their summertime jobs. "It's a good way to keep them off street and put some money in their pockets," said Leon Mason, a job counselor for PIC, which already has filled all its slots.

Most of the kids are from lower income families, Mason said that about one third of them will be placed in Sanford.

In some cases, city recreation departments are placing youth in summertime jobs. Lake Mary has hired three students and Longwood has hired eight to assist in their summer recreation programs.

The third quarter Employment Outlook Survey for Seminole and Orange Counties, released today by Manpower, Inc., said, "The summer months of July, August and September traditionally show strong hiring activity."

Gerry Dunham of Manpower described the outlook as "somewhat positive." Her statistics indicate 20 percent of local area employers interviewed intend to hire more

SWOP director William Poe: 'Yes yes, indeedy. I'm a whole bunch excited.'

SWOP director marks 10th year of giving hope where none exists

By J. BRADLEY DILLING
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Could there be anyone on the planet who derives more joy or satisfaction from their job than William Poe derives from his?

If you don't believe it, just ask him. "I saw an opportunity to get involved with this about 10 years ago and I said to myself, 'Self. That's what I want to do,'" he said.

Poe is executive director of the Seminole Work Opportunity Program, and he derives immeasurable satisfaction from making working, taxpaying employees out of people who have been told they cannot make any contributions to society.

SWOP has been proving the critics wrong for 10 years and it will celebrate its 10th anniversary at an open house this Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in its facility at 3422 S. Orlando Drive.

Poe said more than 95 percent of SWOP clients are mentally handicapped.

"When you train to do a job and that lightbulb suddenly goes on in your head, and you know how to do it, aren't you excited?" Poe asks. "When I'm working with a guy for three years and the light bulb finally goes on and he finally does it, that's probably the most wonderful thing in the world."

His employees, too, love the work.

Some of SWOP's 95 clients are employed in the program's woodshop, producing everything from curio shelves for local business to bulky, 400-pound shipping crates that airports and railroads use to transport loads weighing as much as 10,000 pounds. Others work in-house stuffing envelopes and sorting brochures for travel agencies, airlines and big corporations like Disney World.

A handful of others are mainstreamed and working in local businesses and a few are living on their own. Four mentally handicapped people are working at Red Lobster in Altamonte Springs and one autistic client recently was named Employee of the Month at Charles Givens in Altamonte Springs.

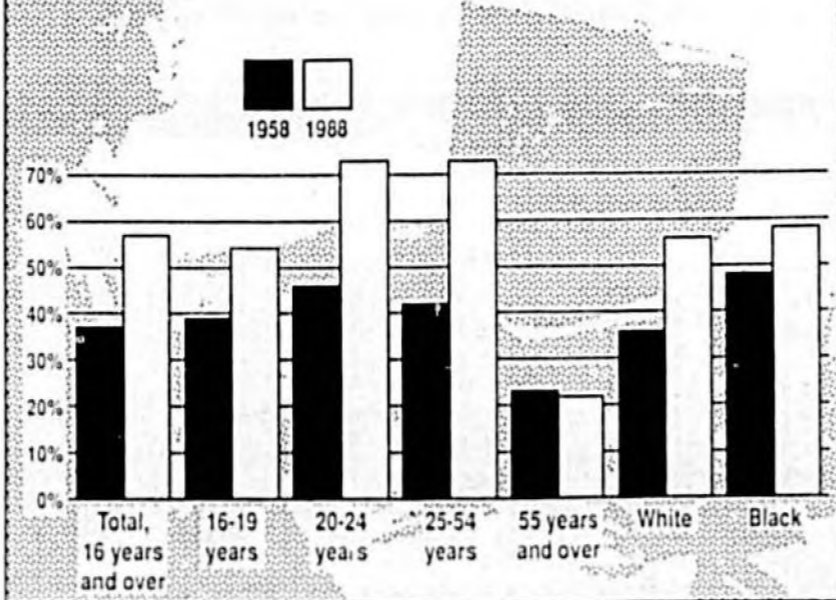

The workers are trained by a work counselor who goes to work with them every day during their first few weeks. The counselors then leave them to their employers. All workers are supervised and trained at the job.

"If the employers have any problems, we're right there," said Sid Loyd, manager of the SWOP

Florida joins 16 other states in protesting company's job policies for female workers

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Florida Attorney General Bob Butterworth and colleagues from 16 other states have joined forces in formally protesting a company's treatment of its female employees.

Butterworth and the other attorneys general have asked the U.S. Supreme Court to invalidate the employment policy of Johnson Controls Inc., claiming that the company bars fertile women from holding battery manufacturing jobs because of potential lead damage to unborn fetuses.

An employee challenge to the policy has been tossed out by a federal appeals court in Wisconsin, and the case is now before the U.S. Supreme Court on appeal.

Florida has filed a friend of the court brief urging invalidation of the policy as a form of unlawful sex discrimination by denying women equal access to higher-paying blue-collar jobs.

The brief also says the policy discourages the company from removing job-site hazards that could also pose a threat to male reproductive systems.

Johnson Controls has plants throughout the United States, but none are located in Florida.

"For the purposes of the case, it doesn't matter," said Judith Beals, an assistant attorney general for the state of Massachusetts, which is the primary petitioner in the case.

Joe Bizzaro, spokesman for Butterworth, said Florida's participation in the appeal relates to the potential broad impact on sexual discrimination cases if the

Member of terrorist group arrested

MIAMI — The last known fugitive from the militant anti-Castro terrorist group Omega 7 was arrested Monday on charges stemming from the bombings of the Nicaraguan and Mexican consulates in Miami and explosives charges in New York, the FBI said.

Jose Ignacio Gonzalez, 48, who has been sought since 1984 on bombing and perjury charges, was taken into custody upon his arrival in Miami from Guatemala after authorities there took him into custody and expelled him from the country.

"According to information filed in 1984 in U.S. District Court, Southern District of Florida, and warrants issued Sept. 26, 1984, Gonzalez was described as being a member of Omega 7 and held a leadership position of this militant anti-Castro terrorist organization, whose membership was kept secret," William Gavin, head of the Miami FBI, said in a statement.

Gonzalez, who fled the United States for Central America in April 1984, is charged with putting a time-bomb under a sofa at the Mexican Consulate in Miami that exploded and caused considerable damage. Authorities said he also put another time-bomb at the Nicaraguan Consulate in Miami Sept. 2, 1982.

"This device failed to explode, but on the same date, another device placed by Omega 7 at the Venezuelan Consulate in Miami did explode," Gavin said.

He also faces charges in Miami including conspiracy to damage the property of foreign governments and foreign officials in the United States. In addition, he is charged with possession of the time-bomb that damaged the Mexican Consulate.

In New York he is charged with conspiracy to deal in firearms, possessing and receiving an unregistered device, failure to appear and perjury before a grand jury.

Mother innocent by reason of insanity

TAMPA — A woman accused of strangling her two children before trying to kill herself was found innocent by reason of insanity Monday and ordered to remain indefinitely in a mental institution.

Dorothy Diane Rose, 31, who faced two counts of first-degree murder and made her first appearance in a Tampa courtroom since the Jan. 23 slayings, cried when Hillsborough County Circuit Judge M. William Graybill read his verdict.

Rose, who has been confined to the psychiatric ward at St. Joseph's Hospital, was turned over to the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

Prosecutors told Graybill last week that they couldn't find a single witness to refute the testimony of more than 20 defense witnesses, including eight mental health professionals, who were prepared to say Rose was insane when she strangled her sleeping children.

Her 13-month-old daughter, Jessica Linn Rose, and 2-year-old son, Michael Holt Rose, were strangled as they slept in their rural Tampa home. Hillsborough County deputies found Rose near death from a self-inflicted stab wound to the chest and slashed wrists.

Detectives said they believed Rose, who was involved in a bitter divorce battle with her estranged husband, killed her children to prevent their father from winning custody.

Doctors testified Monday that Rose still believes her children are alive, and that she presents a danger to herself and her husband, Michael Rose.

Tanker explodes in traffic accident

MULBERRY — A full gasoline tanker truck burst into flames Monday in Polk County after a flatbed truck crossed off State Road 60 to avoid hitting another truck and collided with the tanker, which was headed in the opposite direction.

The driver of the tanker, Raymond Leddy, was taken to Lakeland Memorial Hospital where he is listed in stable condition.

Authorities said the fire burned for more than three hours. No one was evacuated, but Highway Patrol officers diverted traffic on the road for most of the day.

Authorities said the tanker carried 8,500 gallons of fuel, and firefighters allowed the fluid to burn out. The explosion tore through some power lines, which downed power at some businesses in Mulberry.

Fire damage less than expected

MIAMI — Fire damage to the Everglades was not as severe as expected during this year's dry season, state fire officials said.

During the 1988-89 dry season, which generally runs from November to May, 500,000 acres burned in the Everglades. But this season, only 60,000 to 75,000 acres burned, most of it in Dade County, said David Utley, district manager for the state Division of Forestry.

"We've been really fortunate," Utley said Monday. "We're looking good now."

Still, there were more acres of grassland lost in the past fire season than normal, Utley said. Normally about 50,000 acres burn.

The rains in late May ended the threat of larger fires, although the threat of smaller ones will continue all year, he said.

Counterfeiting ring broken up

Four men charged with making $100,000 worth of phony money

United Press International

MIAMI — A counterfeit money operation was broken up and four men were arrested and charged with making about $100,000 in phony bills that was seized, some from the Miami River, the Secret Service said Monday.

Part of the money, in $1, $5,

$10 and $20 denominations, was seized on a farm in Homestead, about 20 miles southwest of Miami, that served as the headquarters for the operation, said Jack Kippenberger, head of the Secret Service's Miami district.

The bills were of average quality. They weren't outstanding, but they were certainly passable," he said. "The good news is that it was a very short-term operation. Virtually none of the bills got into circulation, very little of it was passed."

He said agents also seized a printing press and photographic negatives.

Arrested were Juan Navarro, 53; Leonides Garcia, 37; Raul Garcia, 21, all of Miami, and Juan Antonio Canoura, 42, of Weehawken, N.J.

The Garcias, who are not related, and Navarro were arrested in Miami Friday night and Canoura was arrested in Weehawken early Saturday. The printing negatives were seized from Canoura, a printer by trade, Kippenberger said.

"The man who printed the bills was Canoura. He was brought down here by a distant cousin, Leonides Garcia," he said. "When he returned to New Jersey he took the negatives with him."

Confidential informants notified authorities about the operation late last month.

Discovery doors may be damaged

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — One of the shuttle Discovery's 60-foot payload bay doors may have been damaged Monday when it was briefly bent upward 10 to 12 inches in an accident during routine ground processing, officials said.

Forrest McCartney, director of the Kennedy Space Center, said it was too early to say what impact, if any, the incident might have on Discovery's flight processing.

"I'm not a happy camper about it, obviously," he said. "They tell me there is no visible damage, but that's not good enough. We're going to have to get in there and re-create what happened ... and try to respond."

The doors are designed to flex somewhat in space and NASA managers were hopeful the panel was not damaged. Discovery is scheduled to carry the European-built Ulysses solar probe into space Oct. 5 on a high-priority mission that will be delayed 13 months if the shuttle does not make it off the pad during an 18-day launch period.

With the shuttle Columbia grounded on pad 39A with a fuel leak, the incident happened about 8:30 a.m. EDT in Discovery's hangar, where the spaceplane is being prepared for blastoff, according to a NASA engineer. Engineers were getting ready to close Discovery's clamshell payload bay doors when an overhead bridge crane was accidentally moved. Cables attached to the crane were hooked onto special fixtures used to close the doors and when the crane moved, one end of the right-side door was pulled upward 10 to 12 inches.

A top NASA engineer said there was no clear evidence of any damage, although a structural inspection will need to be conducted to make sure.

"The most annoying thing to me is it's going to take some time and valuable resources to look into this," he said.

The payload bay doors were designed to open and close in the weightless environment of space. To shut the doors in Earth's gravity, an overhead crane and an elaborate counterbalance system is used to minimize the forces acting on the fragile panels.

The overhead crane also is equipped with telescoping work platforms.

Circuit judge in hot water after rebuking jury members

United Press International

FORT LAUDERDALE — A judge's comment that he was "flabbergasted" by a jury's verdict in a drug case has soured jurors on the criminal justice system and prompted Broward County's chief judge to review the incident.

On May 16, a six-member jury deliberated 2½ hours before deciding that Robert Hall was innocent of possessing cocaine.

The bailiff handcuffed Hall and Broward County Circuit Judge Thomas M. Coker told him to take Hall back to jail to await trial on another drug charge.

Then, as he stepped down from the bench, Coker rebuked the jury by saying, "I'm flabbergasted, ladies and gentlemen."

Jury foreman Paul Marcello said he left the courtroom with a knot in his stomach, and the other jurors followed him out with a similar feeling.

"You go in there and you believe in the process and you're proud to do your civic duty," said Marcello, 31, a first-time juror. "You come back with the decision you feel is right and then a judge says that to you? It makes you feel terrible."

"It's sort of like a slap in the face," Marcello said. State law prohibits judges from commenting on juries' verdicts.

"I went bananas," said Assistant Public Defender Maury Halperin. "Here are six people who are trying to do what's right. They're asked to listen to the law and evidence they've never heard before. Then they try to make the best decision and a judge tells them it's the wrong one?"

Coker admits he was wrong, but said he spoke out of frustration.

A day earlier, in an unrelated trial, another jury failed to reach a verdict in a drug-possession case against Hall. Coker declared a mistrial in that case.

When Hall was tried the next day on another drug charge, Coker thought the evidence was stacked against Hall.

"I was flabbergasted," Coker said of the jury's acquittal. "It was an intemperate statement. You hear a lot about how judges and police aren't doing enough to stop drugs. And then you get a case where the evidence appeared to be overwhelming and jurors let him go? Judges are human, too."

Although the law says judges cannot comment on a jury's verdict, it is unlikely Coker will be reprimanded, said Dale Sanders, president of the Broward County Bar Association.

"It's not a major faux pas," Sanders said. "We all lose it now and again and Coker has the reputation of being a very good judge. He's not a loose cannon."

Broward County Circuit Chief Judge M. Burnstein said she was unaware of the incident, but would look into it.

Coker said he apologized to Assistant Public Defender Wayne Corry, who represented Hall and later asked Coker about his comments to the jury.

"And had the jurors called me I would have apologized to them, too," Coker said.

Because of his comments, Coker removed himself from presiding over Hall's pending drug charge. The case will be heard by Broward County Judge M. Daniel Futch Jr.

Juror Jeffrey Huff said that while Coker's comments made him feel bad, he could understand why they were made.

"The man sees a lot more than we, as jurors, will ever see. I'm not saying what he said was right, but I can understand," Huff said.

Three federal agencies telling Nicklaus to 'hit the road Jack'

United Press International

MIAMI — Three federal agencies have challenged the Army Corps' decision to let a developer destroy 59 acres of protected wetlands next to Biscayne National Park in order to build a golf course designed by Jack Nicklaus.

At issue is how the government interprets the Clean Water Act. Under the law, before a developer can fill wetlands, he must prove that no other location can serve the purpose.

Other architects could design a shorter golf course that would not destroy the most valuable 12 acres of wetlands at the Old Cutler Bay site. But developer Raul Planas said Nicklaus would not permit use of his name on any course smaller than the 6,900-yard course planned for the site. The Army Corps accepted Planas' argument that he needs to fill in the wetlands because without the Nicklaus name, the project might not make enough money.

The corps has announced its intention to give developer Planas a permit to fill 59 acres of wetlands so he can "realize a reasonable profit."

Regional offices of the Environmental Protection Agency, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Marine Fisheries Service have appealed to their superiors in Washington. Top officials for the three agencies must decide Monday whether they will try to stop the Corps.

The project would destroy 12 acres of white mangrove swamp that are "vital buffers to protect the water quality and biota of Biscayne National Park," according to a letter regional officials from the Fish and Wildlife Service sent to their superiors in Washington.

Mangrove wetlands are protected by state, federal and local laws because they are important to the coastal environment. The trees provide food for marine life, protect against erosion and help cleanse the water and defend against hurricane damage.

The letter is part of a rare process called "elevation," in which regional bureaucrats ask top-level officials in Washington to settle disputes involving important national policy.

President Bush has pledged that there will be "no net loss" of wetlands under his environmental policies.

Suspect runs from house

SANFORD — A man who allegedly pounded on the door of a Sanford woman's house at 1204 Park Ave., and tried to force entry until the woman's husband unexpectedly opened the door, has been arrested.

The husband told Sanford police the suspect ran from him at about 2:47 a.m. Sunday. Police reported arresting Daniel F. Christensen, 28, of Osteen, at 3 a.m. on Sanford Avenue. He is charged with attempted burglary. The victim reported Christensen has been told not to come to her house or workplace.

Man accused in battery

SANFORD — Michelle Lea Behnke, 19, reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies she was battered by her exhusband because he was enraged that she came to pick him up at a Lake Mary bar Monday night.

Ms. Behnke alleged she was battered as she and Michael Anthony Behnke, 24, traveled to their house at 3821 Elder Springs Circle, rural Sanford. Behnke was arrested at home on a charge of battery at 11:01 p.m.

Man arrested after fleeing police

SANFORD — A man who allegedly ran from and fought Sanford police who were arresting him after an alleged battery of a woman at Castle Brewer Court, at about 5:30 p.m. Monday, has been charged with battery, battery on a policeman and resisting arrest.

Willie George Church, 30, 83 Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, was arrested at home after the alleged attacks.

Woman charged in burglary

SANFORD — A woman caught after witnesses reportedly identified her to police as a suspect who burglarized unit 44 at the Florida Hotel, 500 Oak Ave., Sanford, has been charged with burglary.

Tina Gail Adkins, 21, of Sanford, was arrested at 2:46 p.m. Monday at Cristo's Restaurant on First Street. The manager of the hotel reportedly told police she had seen the woman enter that building through a window without permission.

Former employee charged in burglary

WINTER SPRINGS — An Orlando man who allegedly burglarized his former workplace, the pro shop at the Winter Springs Golf Course on State Road 434, Winter Springs, on May 19, has been arrested.

Police said bank bags taken from a drop safe stolen in the burglary were found about one block from the house of Michael Maniatty, 24, of Orlando, on May 22. A followup investigation reportedly identified Maniatty as a possible suspect in the case. He was arrested Monday by Winter Springs police on charges of burglary and grand theft.

Seminole County DUI arrests

SANFORD — The following persons face a charge of driving under the influence in Seminole County:

- Christopher H. Doyle, 22, of Orlando, was arrested at 2:37 a.m. today after he drove erratically on State Road 436, Casselberry.
- Michael Randolph Purcell, 27, of St. Petersburg, was arrested at 1:16 a.m. today after his car was seen weaving on State Road 436, Altamonte Springs.
- William Gort III, 203 Hays Drive, Sanford, was arrested at 9:34 a.m. Monday after his car ran a stop sign in Lake Mary. He was arrested on Lake Mary Boulevard at Interstate 4, and also charged with running a stop sign, failure to maintain a single lane, having defective tires, having an open container of alcohol and failure to give a left turn signal.
- Larry Trever Riley, 19, 1782 Torrington Circle, Longwood, was arrested at 8:08 p.m. on State Road 434, Altamonte Springs, after his car was in an accident.

Local restaurant robbed

SANFORD — The manager of Shoney's, 3250 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford, reported to city police that at about 4:55 a.m. today as she enter the restaurant a gunman approached her. The man put a handgun to the head of Barbara Ann Williams, 43, and followed her into the business. He fled after robbing the restaurant, police said.

Shopping center changes hands

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Country Club Square shopping center, located at the corner of Airport Boulevard and 25th Street, has been taken over by its builder.

Country Club Square Shopping Center Ltd. of Sanford assumed the shopping center in May from owners Sanford Plaza Associates Ltd., a New Jersey partnership. The transaction involved $3.2 million according to county land records in the Seminole County Courthouse.

The shopping center features a Winn-Dixie grocery store, a Rite Aid pharmacy and a Family Dollar department store. The center also includes Seminole National Bank and several other businesses on the north side not included in the transaction.

Kevin Spolski, Country Club Square president, said his family's construction company, Design Builders, built the shopping center in 1984 and sold it to Sanford Plaza Associates, retaining a large second mortgage on the property.

Before the mortgage was due last November, Spolski said Sanford Plaza Associates had been late on several mortgage payments and the two companies agreed for Design Builders to assume ownership of the center rather than enter into foreclosure proceedings, Spolski said. Sanford Plaza Associates will be paid an undisclosed amount when the center is sold or in five years.

Spolski said his company has spent about $70,000 refurbishing the center and will continue with additional landscaping of the parking lot and installation of benches throughout the center.

Downtown residents inconvenienced by fire at neighborhood grocery store

By J. BRADLEY DILLING
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — For many older downtown residents, the grocery store at Fourth Street and Sanford Avenue was the only place where they could walk to do their shopping.

The fire that closed Food City's doors last week also closed other doors for those residents. For the many seniors in the area who do not have transportation, weekly shopping will now be that much more difficult.

Many residents in the senior citizen complexes of Bram Towers and Redding Gardens will have to find relatives or friends to take them someplace or ride city transportation to another store.

"I shopped there quite a bit," said Mable Pithoud, 79. "I don't have any transportation. I had my car stolen about a year ago."

"I guess we'll all just have to adjust somehow," she said.

"I think it's going to be a terrible inconvenience," said Arlene Boyd, an administrator at Bram Towers.

"About 50 percent of our people did their shopping there."

Boyd also said those who don't have their own transportation or who don't ride buses usually have friends who can get them to a grocery store. Many are alone, separated from family members by death or distance.

Number of Florida teacher sex cases escalates

United Press International

ORLANDO — The number of Florida teachers accused of sexual misconduct has nearly tripled in the past four years, the state reported.

In the 1985-86 school year, 28 Florida teachers were disciplined for sexual misconduct. In the just-completed school year, the number climbed to 70, up 250 percent, according to figures provided by the Florida Education Practices Commission.

A Seminole County teacher last year was convicted of abusing students.

Karen Wilde, commission executive director, said the increase shows school districts are committed to policing themselves and to reporting cases of abuse.

For the past 10 years, sexual misconduct — ranging from kissing and fondling to sexual battery — has been the No. 1 reason for teacher de-certification in Florida.

Each year, the state investigates about 550 complaints of all kinds against Florida teachers, and about 400 cases are forwarded to the commission for disciplinary action, Wilde said.

"Over the past decade we've seen an increase in the number of sexual misconduct cases. Now they're about 28 to 33 percent of all cases against teachers," she said.

In about 25 percent of the cases, investigators find no evidence of wrongdoing, she said.

In Volusia County, eight teachers have been arrested in the past two years on charges of sexual misconduct with students.

Wilde said only about one-half of one percent of the state's 120,000 teachers are investigated annually.

Gunman dies in standoff

United Press International

ORLANDO — A Longwood gunman fatally shot himself during a botched robbery attempt and standoff, leaving four handcuffed hostages escape unharmed, authorities said.

The dead man was identified as Michael McGee, 20, of Longwood. The other suspect, Mark McCardell, 20, of Orlando, who suffered a leg wound, was charged with armed robbery and kidnapping, the Orange County Sheriff's Office said.

Their three-hour standoff ended about 6 a.m. Sunday at a hotel near Orlando International Airport after deputies fired tear gas into the hotel office, got no response and entered to find McGee dead and McCardell wounded.

The four hotel employees, each handcuffed, had escaped shortly after the standoff began.

'Anachronism' group to joust in Sanford

From staff reports

SANFORD — The Society for Creative Anachronism will be meeting tonight at 7 p.m. between the Sanford Civic Center and Fort Mellon Park.

The group is part of a national organization whose function is to teach the arts, sciences, history, customs and martial arts of the middle ages in western Europe. The group's emphasis is on the years from 600 A.D. to 1600.

The group will be having fighter practice in costume tonight. Four or five men will be fighting and four or five others, also in costume will be watching.

"We teach about chivalry and honor — some of the things that I think we kind of miss in today's society," said Connie Knapp, a member of the group. "It was a time when a lady was treated like a lady."

Geneva man arrested in anti-Semitic attack

United Press International

ORLANDO — Police Monday arrested four suspects, including one Geneva man, accused of terrorizing three neighbors by shattering windows and painting swastikas and anti-Semitic slogans on their wall.

No one was hurt, but the victims, trapped inside their apartment for an hour and a half, had armed themselves with kitchen knives, said Officer Karin Burson.

Police Chief Danny Wilson called the incident a hate crime but said both the victims and suspects had been drinking heavily and had traded insults for several hours.

"We do not believe that it's a pattern of things that are to come. We believe it's an isolated incident, and we really believe that it is more attributed to the amount of alcohol consumed by all parties concerned than it is the actual hate tactics that one would think by looking at the apartment," Wilson said.

Three of the suspects were the victims' neighbors, Jonathan Blizard, 19, and Bryan Clement, 18, were charged with kidnapping, aggravated assault, burglary and criminal mischief. Their roommate, Denny Viereck, 19, was charged with interfering with a police officer.

A visiting friend, Steven Cochran, 18, of Geneva, was charged with kidnapping, aggravated assault, burglary, criminal mischief and impersonating a police officer.

Wilson said Cochran was a member of the Florida Corps of Skinheads, a white-supremacist group. He described the other suspects as "self-styled punks."

Wilson said Cochran showed one of the victims, Richard Lee Nichols, a card Sunday afternoon that said all blacks should be relocated to Africa, and the two men agreed.

The violence began when Cochran made an anti-Semitic remark, and Nichols objected because his son is half-Jewish.

The suspects also tried to trick their way inside the victims' apartment by claiming they were police, Burson said.

SEMINOLE COUNTY WATER USE RESTRICTIONS

Faced with dropping well water levels, record-high water demands and saltwater creeping into two Oviedo public wells, Henry Dean, executive director of the St. Johns Water Management District, issued an emergency order May 31 requiring mandatory lawn watering and car-washing restrictions in Seminole County.

Residential violators face $50 fines. Business violations could be fined from $100 to $500.

Violations can be reported weekdays from 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. by calling 894-5423. Violations during evenings and on weekends can be reported by calling local police or the sheriff's office.

Residents of even-numbered houses may water their lawns only on Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday from 4 a.m. until 6 a.m. and 5 p.m. until 9 p.m.

Residents of odd-numbered houses may water on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday during the same hours.

No lawn watering will be permitted on Fridays.

Restrictions are in effect for private wells as well as city water systems and also includes car-washing as well as lawn-watering.

Businesses on five acres or less may water grass with automatic sprinkler systems from 4 a.m. until 8 a.m., following the same even-odd address system.

Businesses on lots larger than five acres may irrigate on their three-day address schedule from 12:01 a.m. until 8 a.m. for automatic systems.

Take another look

It is now clear that the Navy's investigation into the fatal explosion aboard the battleship Iowa last year was hopelessly flawed. The Navy insisted early on that gunpowder in one of the ship's gun turrets could not have ignited accidentally. Investigators concluded that 24-year-old Gunner's Mate Clayton Hartwig "most probably" caused the blast intentionally by placing a detonator between the gunpowder bags, killing himself and 46 colleagues.

New investigations and experiments have proved that the explosion could have been an accident after all. This raises serious doubts about the adequacy and impartiality of the Navy's investigative procedures and clearly underlines the need for a more thorough probe to establish whether Hartwig's character and reputation were damaged unfairly.

The Navy so badly wanted to believe the suicide theory that it was prepared to short-circuit normal, reasonable inquiry procedures. It needed someone to take the blame, to divert criticism away from its own systems and procedures. And it desperately wanted to avoid any suggestion of fatal flaws in its aging World War II battleship fleet that was recommissioned amid great controversy in the early 1980's.

Accordingly, its formal finding was that Hartwig, depressed at being rejected by a fellow sailor with whom he tried to start a close relationship, deliberately exploded bags of gunpowder during practice firing of the battleship's 16-inch guns.

Two gaping holes in the Navy's investigation have been exposed by technicians from the Energy Department's Sandia National Laboratory. Thus, despite the Navy's denials, it is possible that a very simple operating mistake caused the Iowa explosion.

A more formal inquiry is needed, one with legal representation for the Hartwig family and cross-examination of witnesses. The death of 47 sailors calls for nothing less.

Nerds and geeks

Some 20 Harvard students have founded the Society of Nerds and Geeks, whose purpose is to promote learning for learning's sake and, along the way, to persuade the university to extend library hours and provide late-night shuttle service from libraries to dormitories. To make this point clear, they meet Saturday nights at 6 p.m.

You'd think there would be too many such people at Harvard to require an organization, but the founders say that isn't so. Ever at Harvard, they say, "nerds are ostracized while jocks are lionized." One of the things that moved them to organize is that there's too much loud music in dormitories to study. What parent can't relate to that?

The idea isn't new — 40 years ago at Amherst, there was a short-lived Pro-Academic Club whose members met in the library every Saturday during home football games — but it now seems to be spreading to other campuses. How much of it is an elaborate joke, and how much altogether earnest is hard to tell, but either way it makes its point. One of the Harvard members said they had considered calling the organization "The Academic Intellectual Club" but figured they would have been called geeks and nerds anyway. A toast to the geeks and nerds.

Dick Thornburgh's double standard

WASHINGTON — Then-Gov. Dick Thornburgh of Pennsylvania was only 18 months away from being appointed U.S. attorney general when that state's treasurer, R. Budd Dwyer, stood before a packed press conference, placed a gun in his mouth and blew his brains out.

Just before Dwyer committed suicide, he accused Thornburgh of orchestrating a political vendetta against him. He noted that he publicly had refused to approve expense vouchers for Thornburgh's wife for a European trip, and also had questioned Thornburgh's use of stair troopers to chauffeur the governor's children to prep school in Massachusetts.

Thornburgh spokesman David Runkel contemptuously dismissed both allegations as those of a "paranoid." This is the same Runkel who recently flunked a lie detector test during a Department of Justice investigation of phony leaks to the media about an investigation of Rep. William H. Gray III, D-Pa.

Somebody in Thornburgh's Justice Department also has been leaking grand jury information about Washington, D.C., Mayor Marion Barry. The Washington media repeatedly has published grand jury information before it was officially released by the justice department. Leaking confidential grand jury information is illegal, and Thornburgh has been curiously silent about these violations of the law.

Those of us who are long-time Thornburgh watchers are feeling an acute sense of deja-vu. As far back as the '70s, political opponents were frequently accusing Thornburgh of responsibility for grand jury leaks. So, it came as no surprise when conservative columnist William Safire recently held Thornburgh accountable for approving "the sleaziest entrapment yet perpetrated on a suspect." Safire also accused Thornburgh of a prosecutorial double standard in using entrapment to nail Barry for alleged cocaine use, but declining to prosecute a former close aide of two decades, William Barr. He was accused in testimony before a Harrisburg, Pa., grand jury of frequent cocaine use. Barr has resigned.

"If the attorney general chooses to be a zealot in the Barry cocaine case," wrote Safire, "he cannot choose to be an ostrich in the cocaine case that may involve his right-hand man." Oh, but he can, because that's the way the insidiously manipulative and connivingly amoral Thornburgh operates. Yet, he has managed to arm himself with a Teflon image of Mr. Clean. In 1975, when Thornburgh was being considered for assistant U.S. attorney general, Allegheny Sheriff Eugene L. Coon testified before a Senate Judiciary committee that Thornburgh was responsible for illegal disclosure of grand jury information about Coon.

In that same year, the Allegheny district attorney, John Hickton, also accused Thornburgh of "improper conduct" in apparently condoning the leaking of grand jury information.

So, what seems, at first blush, like a series of isolated incidents actually reflects a pattern. And the Bill Gray affair is the latest recrudescence of Thornburgh's cesspool politics. But why Bill Gray? Thornburgh may have figured he was doing his party a favor in going after the third-ranking Democrat in the House.

Groups negotiate deadlock

PRINCETON, N.J. — It was a financier-business consultant who cracked first. "We've been talking here for two hours," he said, "and there have been no trade-offs — none." Around the table, 16 other people nodded their heads in acknowledgment.

Anyone looking at their job titles and knowing that the topic under discussion was national energy policy would have said the lack of agreement was utterly predictable. Gathered at the table in a swank private conference center here were a gas company executive, and independent oilman, the head of a state public-utility commission, a nuclear engineer, a lobbyist for the recreation industry, a housing developer, a coal company officer, the head of an electric utility association, two airline executives, a global environmentalist, a public power lobbyist, two finance executives and a consumer activist.

In seven neighboring rooms were more than 100 other equally mixed participants in the first National Energy Consensus Experiment. Before they came, they had answered individual questionnaires on their preferred energy policies. Morning caucuses of natural allies had refined the list of proposals to some two-dozen topics that one interest group or another said it "must have" in order to go along with the recommendations.

Now, after a box lunch, each room of negotiators had four hours to determine what, if any, "packages" of proposed policy trade-offs they could agree to recommend. The ground rules were tough: A single veto could kill any deal.

"Imagine you are the Secretary of Energy," the professional dispute mediator from Colorado told the group. (I was allowed to observe, on condition that I would not identify anyone by name.) "You have to put together a package that is economically sensible, environmentally sound and politically salable. Who's got a suggestion?"

The unprecedented exercise was dreamed up by two energy-state governors, George Sinner of North Dakota and Mike Sullivan of Wyoming, and some of their friends in the oil, gas and coal industries. Frustrated by the 15-year impasse in energy policy, they invited all of the other "stakeholders" in the energy policy disputes — traditional antagonists — to join the war games managed by Larry Susskind, director of the MIT Harvard Public Disputes Program. Except for the auto industry and organized labor, which rejected invitations, every other interest group decided to send top people to the exercise.

It was tough going. My group chose gas policy as a "simple" area to try first. It heard a gas spokesman plead for higher prices to keep producers from going broke — and shot him down in flames. Other ventures from coal, home-builders and environmentalists fared no better, and halfway through the afternoon, when the financier pointed out the failure to offer any concessions in return for group support of a particular policy, people were looking at their watches and wondering why they'd come.

And then the ice broke, with a consumer activist offering to support four proposals initiated by the electric utilities in return for their agreement to three policies backed by an alliance of consumer and alternative-energy people. In 20 minutes of discussion, the deal was done and ratified by the whole table.

They moved from there to toxics, to auto-mileage, to housing — and suddenly the walls of the room were being papered with sheets of newspaper, outlining their agreements. In the growing euphoria, they even allowed the gas man who had been their first target to revise his proposal, in modified form, and found that it now fit the emerging strategy.

Not all the groups did as well, one or two did even better. Susskind noted the similarity in the dynamics: "Ninety percent of the agreements were reached in the last ten percent of the time" — a formula familiar to labor-management negotiators.

But these people were old antagonists, dealing with policy questions.

The White House and five Cabinet departments sent observers to the exercise. Officials of the Energy Department, which must recommend a national energy policy to President Bush by the end of the year, said they found the process intriguing and were eager to see the formal summary of agreements.

Deputy Energy Secretary Henson Moore said, "It's very important in understanding where there can be consensus." Department General Counsel Stephen A. Wakefield said, "I've never heard people be this candid — When the stakes are real, they may not be as accommodating, but it gets them focused on the fundamental choice — whether they continue to veto each other's most important objectives or become part of a process of working out solutions."

The ground rules were tough: A single veto could kill any deal.

Montgomery irks Vietnam vets ire

WASHINGTON — Vietnam veterans say a hawkish congressman of World War II vintage who controls the House Veterans Affairs Committee patronizes the younger vets, and then gets in the way when they need help.

Rep. G.V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., is fast replacing the Veterans Affairs Department as the thing the vets most love to hate.

Montgomery served in World War II and Korea and was a staunch supporter of the U.S. involvement in Vietnam. Some veterans of that unpopular war now say Montgomery lords over them like a stern parent.

Congress has grown more amenable to Vietnam veterans, in part because it is the politically prudent thing to do. Movies such as "Platoon" and "Born on the Fourth of July" have aroused public sympathy for the Vietnam vets and their post-war needs. And Congress now has a growing number of Vietnam vets in its ranks.

Even in the executive branch, snubbing Vietnam vets is no longer the norm. Edward J. Derwinski, the first Cabinet-level secretary of Veterans Affairs, is making friends among the vets. His stock went up last month when he declared that Agent Orange, the defoliant widely used during the Vietnam War, may cause cancer to those exposed to it. Veterans groups had been looking for that acknowledgment for a decade. It means they can now be compensated for Agent Orange-related illnesses. While Congress and the White House are generally more sympathetic, Montgomery is a hardliner, and Montgomery matters the most because he is chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee. The issue of Agent Orange has done more to alienate Montgomery from the Vietnam vets than any other issue. He believes there is no conclusive proof that Agent Orange causes cancer. And he has fought for years against the efforts of veterans to win compensation.

Derwinski's gesture leaves Montgomery looking like the bad guy. Montgomery's supporters argue that he has done plenty for the vets. But by controlling his committee with an iron fist, he has forced the vets to work hard for recognition of Agent Orange as a carcinogen. Last July, more than 50 members of Congress wrote to Rep. Douglas Applegate, D-Ohio, asking him to hold a hearing on benefits for Agent Orange victims. Applegate chairs a compensation subcommittee of Montgomery's Veterans Affairs Committee. Applegate may be the chairman of the subcommittee, but Montgomery controls the subcommittee staff. Applegate never got the letter asking for a hearing until October. And when it finally arrived on his desk, it was attached to a draft response from the staff saying that it was too late in the congressional session to schedule a hearing.

Sources told our associate Scott Slick that Applegate was furious. Other members of Congress who wanted the hearing suspected that Montgomery's loyalists on the committee staff deliberately held up the letter to avoid a hearing. Undeterred, Applegate held that hearing this spring. Montgomery apparently is smart enough to know when to give in. He saw the popularity of Derwinski's decision on Agent Orange, and he did not dispute the decision. He now says the issue should be left to the VA, not Congress.

That's a new tune for Montgomery to be singing. He has closely guarded Congress's control over the VA.

Montgomery's backers say the problem between him and the Vietnam vets is simply a slight generation gap and that the younger vets distrust him because of his hawkish stance on the war.

Even in the executive branch, snubbing Vietnam vets is no longer the norm.

Cops may face disciplinary action after issuing warrant for 3-year-old

United Press International

RIDGE MANOR — A Hernando County deputy and his superior may face disciplinary action after the deputy tried to issue a criminal mischief warrant against a 3-year-old boy who snatched a pair of plastic pink flamingos from a neighbor's lawn.

Tony Salgado's mother, Margit Salgado, witnessed the May 14 incident and immediately returned the flamingos to Duane A. Vann and apologized. But Vann decided to call the Sheriff's Office.

When Deputy J. Burnett arrived, Vann asked him to press charges, according to the report turned in by Burnett.

Tony's mother said Burnett ordered her to keep Tony under house arrest. "Burnett took their side completely," Salgado said. "He told me that my child should be evaluated and that he didn't know right from wrong."

Burnett filed an affidavit to charge Tony with criminal mischief, and referred the case to the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

Salgado called the whole incident "silly," and Sheriff's Office higher-ups agreed. Capt. Rich Nugent said he learned about the incident Friday and thwarted Burnett's effort to issue a warrant charging Tony for uprooting the decorative lawn birds.

Nugent said the charge was dropped not only because of Tony's age, but because there was no property damage. A criminal mischief charge cannot be levied if no property has been damaged, he said.

"It was poor judgement," Nugent said. "Obviously we don't condone this."

He said both Burnett and Sgt. Lanny Corlew, who reviewed the deputy's report, may face disciplinary action.

Corlew did he missed the detail that Tony was only 3 years old when he reviewed the report.

"This is unreal," Salgado said. "This is absurd, really. It's funny that grown-ups could make such a big deal about something a 3-year-old does."

Plan would sacrifice one species to save another

United Press International

FORT LAUDERDALE — A congressional mandate to restore the original water flow in Everglades National Park could sacrifice one endangered species of bird in order to save another.

The federal government must choose whether to save the Everglades kite, named for the sawgrass marsh, or the wood stork, North America's only truly native stork. The water restoration plan has been placed on hold while two federal agencies search desperately for a way to save both, the Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel reported Tuesday.

"It's a ridiculous controversy," said Chuck Hunter of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. "We're playing a very dangerous game of chicken."

The wood stork's population has dropped to one-fifth of its 1930 level and continues to plummet. In recent years, the stork has started deserting the disfigured Everglades, a sign that the marsh is in severe decline, scientists said.

The Everglades kite is a hawklike bird, also known as a snail kite because its diet consists almost exclusively of apple snails. State officials counted only 464 in January, making the kite much rarer than the bald eagle.

Restoring the water flow would help the wood stork at the expense of the kite.

"What's best for kites is not what's best for storks, and vice versa," said John Ogden, a senior researcher at the park.

The battle pits the Park Service, which is bound by law to preserve ecosystems, against the Fish and Wildlife Service, which is bound by law to preserve endangered species.

In this case, the endangered species lives in the endangered ecosystem.

The Everglades is a broad, shallow and slow-moving "river of grass" that once meandered from Lake Okechobee to the southern tip of the Florida peninsula. Before it was ditched and diked, there was almost always a standing body of water, a plus for the Everglades kite because it ensured a supply of apple snails.

Today, the river has been largely pushed onto its western bank to prevent flooding in urban areas.

That has helped the kite by creating an unnatural pool of water year-round in a conservation area just north of the park. The water serves as home to the apple snails, providing a safety net for the kites.

The Park Service wants to reroute the water so that it spreads over more of its original path. That is key if the Everglades are to be restored and the wood stork's decline stopped, park scientists said.

Until the controversy is resolved, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will not reroute the water.

California responds to Florida Medfly petition

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — A request from Florida officials for the federal government to impose tougher restrictions upon West Coast citrus crops due to infestations of the Mediterranean fruit fly was rejected Saturday by a California official.

Florida Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner filed a petition Friday with the U.S. Department of Agriculture requesting the imposition of additional safeguards in California to keep the pests from spreading to other parts of the country. A 300-square mile area in California has been quarantined because of the Medfly infestation.

"We have asked the federal government to review these quarantine requirements and to impose strict and more encompassing quarantine regulations in California to safeguard Florida and other states from any further Medfly infestations," said

Conner.

Henry Voss, director of the California Department of Food and Agriculture, responded Saturday to the Florida petition.

"We have every reason to believe that the Medfly eradication effort in Southern California is working," said Voss. "The last Medfly find was more than three weeks back, on May 1, 1990. California has a comprehensive and biologically sound Medfly detection, eradication and quarantine program."

workshop. "But they're working out real well. We knew they could do it."

The mainstreaming program began about one year ago under Poe's direction and he is proud of it.

"This is my baby," Poe said. "I've been in on it almost since the ground floor. I wanted to work and it does."

Poe said the ethic at work at SWOP is allowing everybody to contribute.

"What some of them do, you can't do," Poe said. "You'd get so bored, it would drive you crazy. We have a wheelchair-bound adult here who can't feed or toilet herself, but she can count to five. So everyday, she sorts brochures into stacks of five. Not four. Not six. Five. She can do it. And she does it well. We have sorted over a million pieces of mail this year."

So, was Poe excited when the county commission, recognizing SWOP's efforts, decided to proclaim June 3 through June 9 Seminole Work Opportunity Week?

"Yes sir, indeedly. I'm a whole bunch excited," he said.

Poe recited the county commission's resolution with all the animation and forcefulness of a television evangelist reciting the Ten Commandments.

Martinez running mate reprimanded by Florida Supreme Court in 1986

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — The governor's new running mate, Monroe County Sheriff J. Allison DeFoor II, was publicly reprimanded by the state Supreme Court for improper campaigning and holding conflicting interests while serving as a county judge.

DeFoor was cited in 1986 for wrongly campaigning for other candidates who were friends, ordering probationers to wear electronic monitors made by a firm in which he had an interest and withholding judgment on drivers accused of speeding if they paid twice the standard fine.

"Judges serve on the bench in order to further the interests of justice, not their own personal interests," the Supreme Court said in the Aug. 21, 1986, reprimand.

The Judicial Qualifications Commission had recommended against dismissal from the bench, reporting that DeFoor's "contrite demeanor, cooperation and acknowledgement of the seriousness" of the charges showed he regretted his mistakes. The court agreed that a public reprimand was sufficient action against DeFoor.

Gov. Bob Martinez opened his 1990 re-election campaign Monday with the surprise selection of DeFoor as his running mate. Martinez knew about DeFoor's reprimand and even read a copy of it before deciding during the weekend to choose DeFoor as lieutenant governor candidate. The Miami Herald said Tuesday.

"We don't agree with the Supreme Court on everything and this was another of those things," Martinez said. "I don't see this as a problem."

DeFoor said he anticipated the issue would surface. He said he had decided against seeking re-election to the bench while his case was before the state Supreme Court and had severed his connection with the bracelet firm, Controlled Activities Corp.

"The bottom line was that I was determined to be fit to remain a judge," he said. "And that's a lot higher standard than being a lieutenant governor."

DeFoor said the reprimand stemmed primarily from his attempts to defeat other politicians who he said were part of a corrupt system.

The governor's campaign manager, J. M. "Mac" Silpanovich, echoed that statement, saying DeFoor was targeted largely because he worked for reforms and took on Monroe County's good-ole-boy "Bubba" network.

DeFoor, 36, is the first Republican sheriff elected in Monroe County in this century. Before his election in 1988, he was an attorney in private practice for two years, and served as a county judge from 1983 to 1987. During that time, he spent two years as an acting circuit judge.

A seventh-generation Floridian, DeFoor also directed the area's narcotics task force while working as an assistant state attorney from 1980 to 1983. He was an assistant public defender in 1979 and 1980, and has been sheriff for 17 months.

Martinez said he chose DeFoor because of his background as an attorney, prosecutor, judge and law-enforcement officer.

Unseasonably dry weather damages citrus trees

United Press International

VERO BEACH — The unseasonably dry weather that followed the Christmas freeze may have allowed farmers to salvage frozen fruit, but it also made matters worse for the damaged citrus trees, agricultural officials say.

The dry spring meant a lack of water for the damaged fruit trees, which needed water to heal from the cold, said Bob Terry, administrator of the Florida Agricultural Statistics Service in Orlando.

"The weather after the freeze was as ideal as it could be for salvaging the crop, but it was murder on the trees," he said.

The freeze cost growers at least $250 million and the industry — including harvesters, processors, packers and others — a total loss of $1.3 billion. The citrus industry produces $8 billion annually.

"In the long run, the tree damage is going to be the much bigger loss than the loss of fruit this season," said Bob Behr, an economic researcher for the Florida Department of Citrus.

Preliminary estimates predict that next year's orange crop probably will be 110 million boxes about the same as this year's post-freeze crop, though the official USDA forecast will not be out until October.

Terry said the crop loss was about 17 percent as a result of the Christmas freeze, down from the original 29 percent estimate.

For some citrus growers, the freeze was a total disaster.

UNEXPLAINED WEIGHT LOSS PUZZLES SCIENTISTS

FINLAND — The unexpected weight loss experienced by members of a test group has puzzled medical researchers at a leading Finnish university. Scientists were testing a naturally-occurring compound for its ability to lower blood cholesterol levels when, to their surprise, they found that every person who took the formula had lost a significant amount of weight.

The formula was then tested at another prestigious European university hospital. Again, all patients lost weight even though they did not change their eating habits. The report detailing this study, published in the British Journal of Nutrition, stated: "Body weight was significantly reduced even though the patients were specifically asked not to alter their dietary habits."

This woman reportedly lost 134 pounds while on the formula.

While it is still not entirely clear how the formula induces weight loss, some scientists believe this compound actually alters the way the body digests food: when taken before nighttime it bonds with food and suppresses calorie absorption. Unabsorbed calories would pass through and out of the digestive system.

The formula is marketed in capsule form in the United States under the trade name Cal-Ban 3000. A firm located in Tampa, Florida has exclusive North American distribution rights to Cal-Ban 3000. A company spokesman reported that the formula is 100% natural and has been clinically tested for safety. Review of the customer files of this company revealed the names of hundreds of people who have lost as much as 20, 40 or 80 or more pounds overall with Cal-Ban 3000. This appears to be a golden opportunity for people who are plagued by fat and cellulite that they can't seem to lose by conventional methods.

Cal-Ban 3000 is reasonably priced at $19.95 for a 3-week supply and $38.95 for a 6-week supply. Postage and handling is $3. Visa, M/C, AMEX and COD orders are accepted. To order call TOLL-FREE 1-800-537-3723 or purchase locally at:

Cuomo to seek third term as governor of New York

United Press International

ALBANY, N.Y. — Gov. Mario Cuomo announced Sunday he will seek a third four-year term, bucking the trend of Northeastern governors stepping down because of economic woes.

"Matilda and I don't want to do anything else," Cuomo said. "For the past eight years, Cuomo, 57, has been considered a prospect for the Democratic presidential nomination. Cuomo has often derided speculation on his reported plans to seek national office, but has never squelched it and sometimes encouraged it.

Cuomo's announcement that he will run again for governor came less than 24 hours before the Democratic Party's nominating convention and 24 hours after the Liberal Party endorsed him as its 1990 gubernatorial candidate.

Although the governor's popularity has sunk from its record-high level of 77.1 percent in polls reported in January 1988, it hovers now around 60 percent, making Cuomo a formidable opponent in November.

His expected Republican opponent, Pierre Rincret, is a political unknown and not a registered party member. Rincret is an independent and supports abortion rights. On those grounds, some GOP leaders are talking about mounting a petition drive to force a Republican primary.

The disarray in the once-strong New York Republican Party could offset Cuomo's vulnerability on issues such as the state's budget problems and economic slowdown.

Similar woes prompted Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, Vermont Gov. Madeleine Kunin and Connecticut Gov. William O'Neill to announce they would retire at the end of their terms in December.

workers, while during the same period one year ago, 30 percent planned staff increases. Manpower reports industries with the greatest job potential include services, construction, transportation and public utilities. Prospects that appear less promising for summer employment are in finance, insurance and real estate.

The third quarter 1989 Manpower survey for the southern states indicates a similar trend in hiring, down from last year, but up slightly from second quarter employment statistics, right in line with the averages for the entire nation, where Manpower says "businessmen continue to show caution and concern for economic conditions in planning summer hiring."

Manpower's Dunham cited major employers in the area who began operations during the past year, as well as those still set to open, including AAA head-quarters at Heathrow and the new major postal facility in the Lake Mary area, as an indication of an improved overall employment picture in the future for Seminole County.

PIC training centers have been set up at Midway Elementary, Lyman and Seminole High Schools, and Crooms School of Choice.

Before the students' actual employment begins on June 18, they will undergo education and training seminars and meet with prospective employers from business, industry and government throughout the county.

WORLD BRIEFS

Supreme Soviet adopts enterprise law

MOSCOW — The Soviet Parliament, working overtime to codify Mikhail Gorbachev's economic reform ideas, passed a key law giving private businesses the same legal status as state enterprises and now must decide on a single tax rate for businesses.

The Supreme Soviet, or Parliament, intended to take up the business tax bill for a second reading Tuesday. The government's draft plan for a 55 percent uniform tax on profits drew strong opposition from deputies who argued it would limit incentive. An alternative 35 percent tax also was proposed.

Yeltsin cabinet candidates fail

MOSCOW — Russian President Boris Yeltsin's third failure to win parliamentary approval of his cabinet candidates raised questions about his mandate to lead the Soviet Union's largest republic toward radical change.

But the dogged former Moscow party boss said he would call another vote on the same candidates today.

Yeltsin, who won leadership of the Congress of People's Deputies and Russia's effective presidency last week by only four votes over a required majority, used his powers Monday as chairman to force a vote on unopposed candidates for the final two posts in the four-member Cabinet.

Contra leaders disarm to set example

EL ALMENDRO, Nicaragua — Two top Contra leaders surrendered their weapons Monday to set an example for more than 10,000 rebels who are reluctant to give up their arms after nine years of civil war.

Enrique Zelaya Cruz, known as Commander Henry, and Miguel Angel Sosa, alias Commander Emiliano, handed over their automatic rifles to U.N. peace-keeping forces in a ceremony arranged by the government of President Violeta Chamorro.

Two civilian Contra leaders — Pepe Matus and Bernardo Pastora — also registered their names Monday among the some 3,500 Contras who have demobilized so far.

Tiananmen protests suppressed

BEIJING — Armed soldiers beat onlookers and threatened reporters at Beijing University, attempting to prevent a second night of defiant student protests a year after Chinese troops crushed the student-led democracy movement.

Troops armed with AK-47 assault rifles used truncheons Monday to beat two African students from Burundi in an incident at the south gate of the walled campus, where worried officials had met through the day to assess Sunday night's apparently spontaneous demonstration.

Bush's China policy comes under attack

WASHINGTON — President Bush, marking the first anniversary of the Tiananmen Square massacre, pledged U.S. support for those who seek freedom and expressed hope China will turn toward "the path of reform."

But members of Congress and a recently escaped Chinese student ripped Bush Monday for not standing more forcefully for those who died in China in the pursuit of democracy, and charged that his policies toward Beijing are too cautious.

Peace talks to resume

TOKYO — The Vietnamese-backed government of Cambodia and a rebel alliance have agreed to resume peace talks Tuesday, but there was no definite word on whether the holdout Khmer Rouge faction would participate.

The talks, which began Monday, were to run for two days but abruptly ended less than 30 minutes after the start when the Khmer Rouge, the largest of three resistance factions, refused to show up.

Soviet ethnic clashes erupt

MOSCOW — Violent ethnic clashes over land allocation erupted in western Kirghizia, prompting authorities in the Soviet republic to impose a state of emergency in the area and appoint the interior minister as the region's military commander, official news reports said Tuesday.

Canadians far apart over Quebec

By LAURIE WATSON
United Press International

OTTAWA — Talks over a constitutional amendment granting Quebec special powers to promote its French language and culture appeared on the verge of collapse, increasing prospects for the province's secession from Canada.

Despite the continued impasse, Prime Minister Brian Mulroney told reporters after nearly 10 hours of meetings with provincial leaders that negotiations would resume today.

"We have a long way to go," Mulroney said, adding that discussions were "pretty vigorous."

The constitutional negotiations go to the heart of hostilities between Quebec and the rest of Canada, and the French-speaking province has threatened to secede if the measure is altered in any way.

The amendment, which Quebec has championed for three years, would recognize Quebec as a distinct society and give it special powers to promote and preserve its language and culture.

The Meech Lake Accord, as the amendment is known, was drafted three years ago after Quebec objected to a constitution that Canada adopted in 1982. Quebec refused to sign the constitution on grounds it did not recognize the province's 6.2 million French-speaking residents. The country's 10 provincial premiers must approve the measure by June 23 or it becomes void.

Besides giving Quebec special powers to preserve its culture, the amendment would give all provinces a say in selecting Supreme Court judges and senators and requires the unanimous consent of all provinces before the Senate can be reformed or new provinces created.

Three of the country's smallest provinces — New Brunswick, Manitoba and Newfoundland — oppose the amendment. Their leaders have said Quebec will use the distinct society clause to pass new laws that impede the English and other ethnic minorities in the province.

In the third session of talks Monday, the federal government offered a comprehensive proposal addressing key issues, including Quebec's distinct society clause.

Elimination of sanctions 'stab in back'—Mandella

United Press International

GABORONE, Botswana — Black leader Nelson Mandela, in Botswana on the start of a 45-day foreign tour, warned that lifting sanctions against South Africa now "would be tantamount to stabbing the liberation struggle in the back."

Kicking off a tour of Europe, Canada, the United States and Africa, Mandela set the tone Monday for his most extensive foreign trip since his release from prison in February, saying continued economic sanctions would help force an end to South Africa's institutionalized system of racial segregation.

From Botswana, Mandela was scheduled Tuesday to visit Lusaka, Zambia, and then head for Paris. His tour includes talks with President Bush in Washington and an address to a joint session of Congress.

The near-legendary 71-year-old leader of the African National Congress and his wife, Winnie, received a red-carpet welcome from President Quett Masire when they arrived in the diamond-rich country bordering South Africa.

Tribal dancers performed on the tarmac and women ululated before the Mandelas were escorted into town along Nelson Mandela Drive.

After meeting privately with Masire, president of the former British protectorate since 1980, Mandela addressed a crowd of 15,000 at the national stadium. He appeared fit following a six-day medical examination and surgery.

Court dismisses charges against Aquino opponent

United Press International

MANILA, Philippines — The Supreme Court Tuesday dealt a setback to President Corason Aquino and dismissed the rebellion with murder charge against opposition Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile, ruling the allegation had no legal basis.

The decision forces prosecutors to decide whether to go back to a civilian criminal court and file a simple case of rebellion against Enrile, who was ordered freed on $4,500 bail March 6 while the validity of the charges against him was being reviewed. Enrile spent a week in detention on the charge.

The 15-member court's vote upholds a 1956 decision that the crime of rebellion cannot be combined with other criminal offenses. The court's vote was 11-2, with two members absent.

"In the view of the majority, the (1956) ruling remains good law."

MEXICO CITY — Mexico, home to the world's most polluted capital, arranged the planting of more than 1 million trees nationwide Tuesday as it hosts this year's World Environment Day.

International leaders, scientists, businessmen, artists, academicians and entertainers were in Mexico for celebrations across the country, chosen by the United Nations as the site for the event.

President Carlos Salinas de Gortari was scheduled to inaugurate the celebrations with an address at Mexico City's Fine Arts Palace.

Events for this year's World Environment Day, which carries the theme "A Better Planet for Children," included an annual state of the environment report and numerous seminars and workshops, the organizing committee announced.

Officials anticipated more than 1 million trees would be planted in Mexico by day's end, and tree planting ceremonies also were planned at Mexican embassies across the world.

Salinas, who welcomed the choice of Mexico as recognition of "the important role Latin America will play in improving the global environment," has said his government's reforestation program will see the planting of more than 32 million trees.

The extensive participation of youth groups in expeditions to four regions of Mexico is seen as a way of creating an ecological awareness among future generations.

the western state of Michoacan, the Sian Ka'an reserve in the southeastern jungles of Quintana Roo, the coastal regions of the Pacific and the Sea of Cortes and the central volcanic region.

A stone "time capsule," containing messages from world leaders, ecological reports from scientists and other environment-related gems such as satellite photographs of rainforests, was prepared for placement Tuesday at the Plaza of the Three Cultures and will remain sealed until June 5, 2000.

Mexico City is known as the world's most polluted metropolitan area, with 2.5 million vehicles producing an estimated 80 percent of the smog that darkens city skies most days.

Recent efforts by Mexico to counter the problems of air pollution include vehicle emissions controls and a program requiring motorists to keep their cars off the road one day a week.

Some environmentalists have praised the programs, although others charge they have failed to reduce pollution and should be scrapped and replaced with programs to improve the quality of gasoline and to implement stricter controls on industry.

Mexico also recently banned the killing and trading of sea turtles and their shells. Six of the world's seven species of sea turtles breed along Mexico's Pacific and Gulf coasts, and environmental groups worldwide had been calling for action to halt the depletion of the species.

Greyhound seeks Chapter 11 protection

BROWNSVILLE, Texas — Strike-beset Greyhound Lines, the nation's largest intercity bus service, filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection to save its assets, maintain profitable routes and save off creditors until it can repay its mounting debts, company officials said.

Filing for Chapter 11 protection Monday in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Brownsville, the Dallas-based company and five subsidiaries and affiliates also asked for an immediate ruling so customers holding advance-purchased tickets could use Greyhound services.

Crime bill reaches crossroads

WASHINGTON — Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph Biden, D-Del., urged the Senate to end debate on anti-crime legislation, which includes a ban on nine types of assault weapons and provisions to cut the time convicted killers spend on death row.

The Senate was expected Tuesday to vote on cloture, the procedural term for ending debate and forcing a final vote. The cloture outcome, expected to be tight, appeared to hinge on senators who opposed the ban on nine foreign- and domestic-made semi-automatic weapons.

In a last-minute effort to rally support on Monday, Biden and leaders of several police organizations urged Senate action.

U.S. warns PLO dialogue in jeopardy

WASHINGTON — A senior administration official said the U.S.-Palestine Liberation Organization dialogue is in jeopardy because PLO leaders have not condemned last week's attempted guerrilla attack on a Tel Aviv beach.

The official said Monday that although PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat "has attempted to disassociate himself from the attack," he has not taken two other steps insisted upon by the United States: a public condemnation of the attack and taking steps to remove Abu Abbas from the PLO Executive Council.

Abu Abbas has taken credit for planning the Tel Aviv attack. He also was involved in the October 1985 hijacking of the Italian cruise ship Achille Lauro, in which U.S. citizen Leon Klinghoffer was killed.

In the eyes of the United States, the official said, the attack and the inadequate response by the PLO "has clearly placed the U.S.-PLO dialogue in jeopardy."

Stocks close with record trading

NEW YORK — The stock market overcame some early blazes to stage a late rally and send the Dow Industrials to yet another record high, their first close significantly above the 2900 level. Trading was active.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 24.31 Friday to the previous record of 2900.97, jumped 34.22 to 2935.19. The transportation average also set an all-time high, jumping 18.43 to 1207.85.

Broad market gauges set records as well. The New York Stock Exchange composite index rose 2.18 to 200.21, a record high and its first close ever above 200. The price of an average share jumped 40 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 4.24 to 367.40, another record high.

The rally was broad-based as advances pounded declines, 1,104 to 464, among the 2,011 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Big Board volume was 175,520,000 shares, compared with 187,878,590 shares traded Friday.

Health behavior improving slightly

By REBECCA KOLBERG
UPI Science Writer

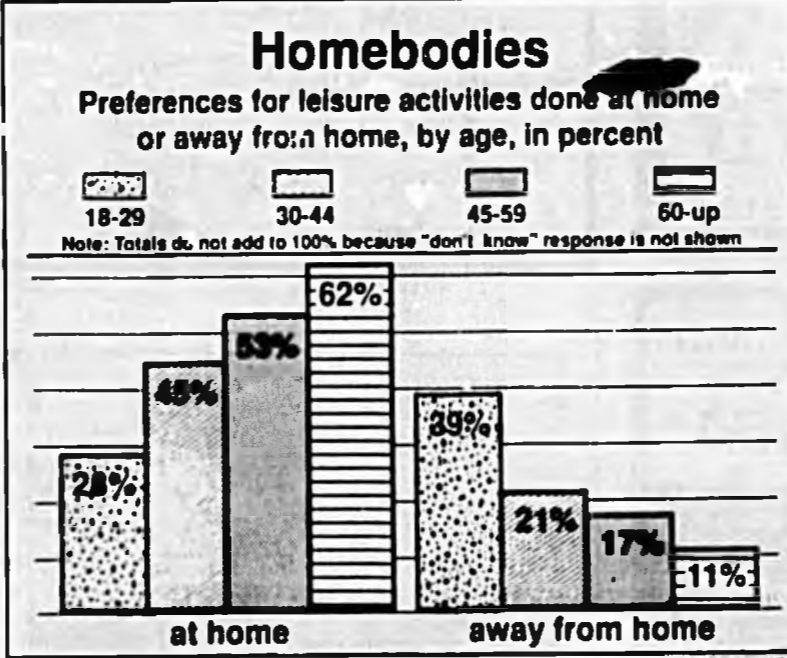

WASHINGTON — More Americans are watching how much fat they eat and are buckling their seat belts, but fewer are obeying speed limits or cutting back on sugary foods, according to a health and safety "report card."

Prevention magazine's seventh annual survey of U.S. health behaviors was released Monday and found 58 percent of the 1,250 adults questioned "try a lot" to avoid eating too much fat, up 4 percentage points from the 1989 poll.

In addition, 50 percent of respondents said they were reducing their intake of high-cholesterol foods such as fatty meats and eggs, up 2 percentage points from 1989 and 8 percentage points from 1984.

"Even though the increases in this year's index are small in several areas, its figures represent millions more Americans who are paying attention to their health," said Sanford Beldon, publisher of Prevention, which is based in Emmaus, Pa.

The overall Prevention Index score, based on Americans' adherence to 21 "health-promoting behaviors," was 66.2 out of a possible 100 points in 1990.

Age is a major factor determining where people like to engage in leisure activities. More than 60 percent of those age 60 or more prefer leisure activities at home. Almost 40 percent of those under the age of 30 prefer leisure activities outside the home.

That compares with 65.4 in 1989 and 61.5 in 1984.

"It (the index score) hasn't increased as fast we would have liked, but in seven years we have made a lot of progress," Beldon said.

The number of adults limiting the amount of sugar in their diets in 1990 was 46 percent, 1 percentage point lower than in 1989 and 5 percentage points below the 1984 level.

Healthy diets were not necessarily paired with good exercise habits. Only half of Americans who say they exercise strenuously practice good eating.

Only 24 percent of Americans surveyed were in their proper weight range, while 61 percent were overweight and 15 percent weighed too little.

Another problem area turned up by the latest poll was a decline in the number of women who regularly examine their breasts for signs of cancer.

About 44 percent of women surveyed for the 1990 index said they checked their breasts at least once a month, down 7 percentage points from the previous year. But the 1990 level of breast examination was still substantially better than in 1983, when only 37 percent of women said they did self-examinations.

About 83 percent of Americans polled said they always wear seat belts, up 3 percent from 1989 and 44 percent from 1984 survey. However, for the first time, less than half of Americans — 49 percent — said they do not exceed the legal speed limit when they are driving, down from 56 percent in 1984.

The index was based on a nationwide telephone poll of randomly selected people over age 18 conducted by Lou Harris and Associates.

Bush briefs congressional leaders

United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Bush called a meeting of bipartisan congressional leaders for today to brief them on his summit with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev.

The White House meeting follows criticism Monday by some lawmakers on Capitol Hill who claimed the president was too soft on Gorbachev for not pressuring him more on the Soviet crackdown on Lithuania.

Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell of Maine charged that Bush "effectively abandoned" Lithuania by not using an offer of greater bilateral trade as leverage to ease Soviet pressure on the Baltic state.

At the summit, which ended Sunday, Bush and Gorbachev signed a trade agreement that could lead to most-favored-nation trading status for the Soviets. Such a status is important to Moscow as it tries to boost its economic reform program.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater acknowledged that a veiled Soviet threat on Jewish emigration could affect strides toward expanded U.S.-Soviet trade. The trade agreement signed by Bush and Gorbachev must be approved by Congress.

Bush reported "very, very positive" reaction from U.S. allies after conferring by telephone Sunday with West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl and British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

Other allied leaders were briefed through diplomatic channels.

Kohl predicted in Bonn that despite the summit's failure to narrow U.S.-Soviet differences over security questions raised by the unification of Germany, the atmosphere of cooperation would improve conditions for that process to go forward. He is to meet with Bush at the White House Friday.

At the opening of a Cabinet meeting Monday, Bush said, "I am pleased with the results of the summit," which produced major accords on trade and arms control and what Gorbachev described as a "personal rapport" between the two leaders.

Bush and Gorbachev admitted that differences remain, such as a unified Germany and the drive for independence by the Baltic republics.

U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar praised Bush for what had been accomplished and told him during a picture-taking session in the Oval Office: "I hope that we take advantage of what you have achieved."

Michael Jackson in hospital

UPI report

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Superstar Michael Jackson was hospitalized Sunday night after complaining of chest discomfort, a spokesman said.

Jackson, 31, was admitted about 9 p.m. to Saint John's Hospital and HealthCenter.

"According to his physician, he's in stable condition and appropriate tests are being conducted," a hospital statement said.

Jackson spokesman Lee Solters said he did not know what the singer was doing when he suffered the chest discomfort.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Rangers need shutout to win

ARLINGTON, Texas — The Texas Rangers' bats have been so inactive during the past month that it has often taken a shutout by their pitching corps to win.

That's what it took again Monday night as pitchers Kevin Brown and Kenny Rogers led the Rangers past the California Angels, 1-0.

The Rangers, whose lone run was unearned, had not come up with a shutout since Nolan Ryan one-hit the Chicago White Sox on April 26 and Monday night's victory was only their sixth in 21 games.

It was the first win for Brown, 6-4, since May 5. He became the first Rangers pitcher ever to win his opening five games of the season, but went 0-4 with one no-decision in his next five outings.

In the only other AL games Monday night, Boston bested New York 5-3 and Baltimore topped Milwaukee 6-4.

BASKETBALL

Krzyzewski meets with Celtics

DURHAM, N.C. — Duke Coach Mike Krzyzewski was silent but apparently still interested Monday after meeting with Boston executive Dave Gavitt about the Celtics' coaching position.

Krzyzewski and Gavitt met for several hours in Durham, but a spokesperson in the Duke basketball office said Krzyzewski would not elaborate beyond his earlier statements about the Celtics' situation.

Earlier, Krzyzewski said he would "be a fool" not to listen because of the Celtics' tradition and his respect for Gavitt.

Gavitt, who was Big East Commissioner for the past 11 years, was named last week as executive vice president of the Celtics and is in charge of all basketball operations, including the hiring of a coach. The Celtics fired Jimmy Rodgers following their elimination in the first round of the NBA playoffs.

COLLEGE BASEBALL

Cowboys nearer to Series final

OMAHA, Neb. — Brad Gore fired a two-hitter and Michael Daniel belted a three-run home run Monday night, lifting the Oklahoma State Cowboys to a 7-1 victory over the second-seeded Louisiana State Tigers in the College World Series.

The Cowboys, 55-16, next play Thursday and could earn a berth in the College World Series final with a victory. LSU, 53-18, comes back Tuesday for an elimination game against The Citadel, 46-13, which knocked off Cal-State Fullerton 8-7 in 12 innings in Monday's early game. The two teams met in the first round, an 8-2 LSU victory.

MISL PLAYOFFS

Wade hat trick boosts Sockers

SAN DIEGO — Wes Wade scored three goals to lead San Diego past the Baltimore Blast 4-1 Monday night and give the Sockers a 3-1 lead in the MISL championship series.

Branko Segota scored a goal and added an assist for the Sockers, who are seeking their sixth indoor title and third in a row.

Freddie Thompson scored Baltimore's only goal. San Diego can wrap up the best-of-seven series Wednesday night at home.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Martinez, Raines rally Expos

NEW YORK — Pinch hitter Nelson Santovenia capped a four-run seventh inning with a two-run single Monday night, rallying the Montreal Expos to a 5-3 victory over the New York Mets.

Trailing 3-1, Delino DeShields opened the seventh by reaching on a bunt single and scored when Lake Howell graduate Dave Martinez tripled into the right-centerfield gap. Sanford resident Tim Raines then blooped a double, scoring Martinez to tie the score 3-3.

One out later, Tim Wallach beat out an infield hit and David Cone was replaced by Jeff Musselman. Pinch hitter Mike Fitzgerald walked to load the bases and Musselman was lifted for Julio Machado. Santovenia then lined a single to center to score Raines and Wallach.

Elsewhere in the NL on Monday, Pittsburgh clipped Chicago 6-2; St. Louis edged Philadelphia 3-2 in 11 innings; San Diego thumped Houston 10-2; San Francisco hammered Cincinnati 10-1; and Los Angeles blanked Atlanta 6-0.

Cardinals clinch title

City crown wrapped up with victory

From staff reports

SANFORD — Quentin Hunt and Craig Merkerson combined on a six-hitter and Merkerson had three hits, including a home run, as the Knights of Columbus Cardinals stopped the Moose Club Pirates 13-9 to clinch the second-half championship of the Sanford Recreation Department Junior Major Baseball League at Chase Park Monday night.

The win by the Cardinals gives them the championship of both halves and makes them the overall City Champions. Since the Cardinals won both halves, there will be no playoffs this year.

In Monday's other game, Ray June cracked two home runs as the Kiwanis Club Orioles outscored the Rotary Club Royals 15-12. Tarrus Davis had a pair of homers for the Royals.

The final games of the regular season will be played Wednesday night at Chase Park. At 6 p.m., the Cardinals will face the Orioles and at 8 p.m. the Pirates will challenge the Royals.

After a scoreless first inning Monday night, the Cardinals got to Pirates starter Matt Harris for two runs in the second.

Johnny Dennis led off the inning with a walk, stole second and scored when the catcher's throw went into centerfield. Anthony Morales later drew a one-out walk and scored an out later on Merkerson's double.

The Pirates tied the score in the bottom of the second when Corey Donaldson singled, stole second and scored on a Harry Flowers double. Flowers scored the tying run on Harris' single.

The Cardinals went back on top in the third with four runs. Hunt walked, stole second and scored when Charlie Farmer reached on an error. Farmer stole second and third and scored when Dennis reached on an error. Dennis scored on a Cornelius Martin single and Martin stole second, third and home for the fourth run of the inning.

The Pirates countered with three runs in its half of the third. Willie Jones walked and stole second. Dewayne Bell reached on an error with Jones moving to third. Willie Williams ripped a double to score both Jones and Bell and Williams scored when Donaldson reached on an error.

Craig Merkerson (above, with glasses) and Johnny Dennis (right, running bases) helped power the Knights of Columbus Cardinals to a 13-9 win over the Moose Lodge Pirates and clinch the Sanford Recreation Department's Junior Major League city championship. Merkerson, who started the game at shortstop, was the winning pitcher in relief and contributed a home run, double, single and four RBI on offense. Dennis tripled and scored three runs.

Seles in, Sabatini out of French quarterfinals

United Press International

PARIS — Second seed Monica Seles, insisting she is less than pleased with her form, swept the final 11 games Monday against Laura Gildemeister to advance to the quarterfinals of the French Open.

Gabriela Sabatini, the fourth seed suffering through a disappointing season, was eliminated by No. 11 Jana Novotna, 6-4, 7-5. After overcoming a 5-1 deficit in the second set to draw even at 5-5, Sabatini had her serve broken for the eighth time.

Seles, who made her Grand Slam debut at in Paris a year ago at the age of 15, reaching the semifinals, could face 14-year-old Jennifer Capriati in this year's semis.

After falling behind 4-1 against Gildemeister, the last woman to defeat her three months ago, Seles overwhelmed the 26-year-old Peruvian, 6-4, 6-0. Seles yielded merely four points in the second set, which she cleaned up in 16 minutes.

In Tuesday's quarterfinals, Seles plays sixth seed Manuela Maleeva, against whom she has yet to drop a set in five meetings, and the unseeded Capriati goes against No. 7 Mary Joe Fernandez.

Three Floridians taken in draft's first 10 picks

United Press International

NEW YORK — The Atlanta Braves, scared off by the college aspirations of high-school flamethrower Todd Van Poppel, instead took prep shortstop Chipper Jones with the first pick of baseball's amateur draft.

Jones hit .488 with five home runs and 25 RBI in his senior season at The Bolles School in Jacksonville. He was rated the best shortstop in the draft by Baseball America.

Jones was one of three Floridians chosen in the draft's first 10 picks. Pitcher Alex Fernandez of Miami-Dade South Community College was taken by the Chicago White Sox on the fourth pick while Carl Everett of Tampa-Hillsborough High School was selected by the New York Yankees on the 10th pick.

The Detroit Tigers, picking second, selected outfielder Tony Clark of El Cajon (Calif.) Christian High School and will try to entice him into giving up a basketball scholarship.

Mike Lieberthal, a catcher at Westlake High School in Westlake Village, Calif., went third to Philadelphia before the White Sox took Fernandez. Pittsburgh then selected pitcher Kurt Miller of Bakersfield (Calif.) West High School.

Van Poppel, widely believed to be the top prospect in the country, told major-league teams last week not to draft him because he was planning to attend the University of Texas on

Dodger newcomer ties Sandy Koufax strikeout record

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — Newcomer Koufax, Drysdale, Valenzuela, Hershiser.

Martinez?

A new chapter was added to the storied pitching history of the Dodgers, a chronicle complete with Cy Young Award winners and legendary performances, when Ramon Martinez struck out 18 batters Monday night in Los Angeles' 6-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Martinez, who in his first full season with the Dodgers, came up one shy of the National League record held by three pitchers but his effort equalled the team record held by Hall-of-Famer Sandy Koufax.

"Tonight was the best feeling I've ever had in the game," said the beaming 22-year-old. "It feels great to be in the record book with a star like Sandy Koufax."

Koufax struck out 18 on in 1959 against the Giants and in 1962 against the Cubs. Tom Seaver, Steve Carlton and Charles Sweeney share the National League record with 19 strikeouts.

The 18 strikeouts were the most by a pitcher in the major league this season.

Martinez, 6-3, had struck out 18 through eight innings and had the opportunity to eclipse the major-league record of 20 set by Roger Clemens in 1986. Despite having two strikes on three of the five batters he faced in the ninth, Martinez was unable to better his

Food class scheduled

Seminole County 4-H is sponsoring a Special Interest Foods and Nutrition class entitled "International Food Fair" from 10 a.m. to noon, Friday, June 8 at the Seminole County Extension Service. The workshop will give participants the opportunity to prepare different international dishes.

The workshop is open to youth 8-18 years of age. There is a $2 charge for materials and class size is limited, so pre-registration is required.

Call 323-2500, ext. 5560 for more information.

Work up a sweat

Sanford Recreation Department offers adult aerobics classes. Cost is $2 each class. There is a one time fee of $10 for any non-city residents. Classes are held at the Downtown Youth Center (downtown level of city hall) on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. and on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays from 10 to 11 a.m. Certified instructor, Debbie Black will teach the courses.

For more information, call 330-5697.

Handling of chemicals discussed

Central Florida Safety Council's Early Bird meeting on June 6 will address the topic "Chemical Handling." Early Bird begins at 7:30 a.m. with a continental breakfast. Marcella Walsh, industrial hygienist with the Bureau of Industrial Safety and Health will discuss the safe handling of chemicals in the workplace. Admission is free.

For information and reservations, call Kathryn Rayburn at 896-1894 ex 4444.

Free skin cancer screening

Skin cancer is one of the most common forms of cancer particularly in Florida. However, if it is caught in time, it is generally one of the most easily cured forms of cancer as well.

As a free community service, the auxiliary at Winter Park Memorial Hospital will sponsor a free skin cancer screening on Wednesday, June 6. Plastic surgeon Thomas B. Hunter, M.D. will be available in the hospital's medical library from 2 to 5 p.m. to check any suspicious moles or skin lesions for signs of skin cancer. As an additional service, trained volunteers will also be available to test for high blood pressure.

For more information, call 616-7090.

CALENDAR

Volunteers council to congregate

The Council of Volunteers Coordinators for Seminole County meets the first Tuesday of every month at 9 a.m. at the American Red Cross office, State Road, 434 Longwood. Membership is open to directors and coordinators of agencies using volunteers. For more information, call Cheryl Werlew, 323-2036.

Toastmasters meet

Seminole Community College (SCC) Toastmasters Club #8581 will meet each Tuesday, at 7:30 p.m. in the SCC library building, room L-205. Meetings that fall on the second Tuesday of the month will be held at Village Inn, Dog Track Road and 17-92 in Longwood. Contact Claire at 699-9318 for more information.

Panic Attack group to meet

Agoraphobia/Panic Attack Support Group meets each Tuesday at 8 p.m. at West Lake Hospital, 589 W. State Road 434, Longwood. The support group is for those who are afraid to go out of their house and be active in public.

Overeaters to gather

A regular meeting of Overeaters Anonymous is conducted on Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. at Florida Power and Light, 301 Myrtle Ave., Sanford. For more information, call Carol at 322-0657.

Casselberry Kiwanis to meet

Kiwanis Club of Casselberry meets at 7:30 a.m. every Tuesday at Village Inn, U.S. Highway 17-92 and Dogtrack Road, Longwood. For more information, call 831-8545.

Awards dinner

Bottom: Members of the Orange Blossom Service Unit of Citrus Council of Girl Scouts recently held the Annual Leader Awards Dinner. Certificates of appreciation were awarded to 20 leaders, assistant leaders, and school coordinators. Top from left: Jennifer Lauderback accepts her 10 year pin and leader in training pin as Judy Jett is awarded a 15 year pin by Elizabeth Welebob, service unit coordinator. Amy Goff, not shown, also received a 10 year pin. Welebob, who is retiring as service unit coordinator, was honored at the dinner for her 3rd years of service. She was presented with a patchwork quilt handmade by Brownie troop leader, Elaine Kostival.

Never judge book by its cover

DEAR ABBY: The letter concerning the minister who, on receiving a pair of leather gloves for services rendered, was disappointed — until he tried them on and discovered a $10 bill stuffed into each finger, reminded me of this story:

A young man from a wealthy family was about to graduate from high school. It was the custom in that affluent neighborhood for the parents to give the graduate an automobile. "Bill" and his father had spent months looking at cars, and the week before graduation they found the perfect car. Bill was certain that car would be his on graduation night.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Imagine his disappointment when, on the eve of his graduation, Bill's father handed him a gift-wrapped Bible! Bill was so angry that he threw the Bible down and stormed out of the house. He and his father never saw each other again. It was the news of his father's death that brought Bill home again.

As he sat one night going through his father's possessions that he was to inherit, he came across the Bible his father had given him. He brushed away the dust and opened it to find a cashier's check, dated the day of his graduation — in the exact amount of the car they had chosen together.

BECKAH FINX, TEXAS

DEAR BECKAH: I hope Bill read the Bible cover to cover, for it contained much he needed to learn. "A foolish son is a grief to his father, and bitterness to her who bore him." (Proverbs 17:25)

DEAR ABBY: You and "Mad at the Mail" are going at things backward; the fault lies not in the stamps, Dear Abby, but in yourself.

You should try moistening the envelope, not the stamp. When you moisten the stamp, by whatever method, you removed some of the glue — sometimes all of it. That's why the stamps don't stick.

Officers elected

How cells send messages throughout the body

How do the body's cells communicate with one another? This question has tantalized research scientists because, until recently, the answer was unknown. If we were able to understand the basis of communication between cells, we could begin to unravel the complex mystery of why cells behave as they do: why some cells remain normal, while others mutate or malfunction to cause disease.

The basic pattern is deceptively simple. A signaling cell transmits a chemical message — usually a steroid, a peptide hormone or a neurotransmitter (such as acetylcholine) — that attaches to receptors on a target cell. These receptors are proteins specially designed to be activated by a single, specific chemical signal. When this signal interacts with the appropriate receptors, the target cell responds by performing its normal function, such as contraction or secretion.

This over-simplification is all well and good, but it fails to explain why the cells respond as they do. Scientists have now discovered a new and crucial piece to the puzzle. A class of membrane proteins, called G proteins, appear to mediate responses between cells by coupling receptors to other membrane proteins; the chemical combination activates the cell. Thus, a chemical signal, after binding to receptors, can initiate more than one response, depending on its reaction with the G proteins.

Let me illustrate this sequence of events with a practical example: whooping cough (pertussis). Pertussis bacteria excrete a powerful toxin that circulates through the body. It is a chemical signal, a protein that attaches to receptors on billions of the body's cells. However, depending on the presence of G proteins, the pertussis toxin causes varied cellular responses.

First, certain cells are sensitized to histamine (a natural chemical irritant), causing inflammation and swelling, the characteristic signs of infection.

Second, other cells — primarily in the nervous system — are activated by the toxin in a different way, resulting in violent coughing. This cough response appears to be mediated by a G protein that is unlike the one affecting histamine sensitivity. The cough of pertussis can persist long after the whooping cough infection has disappeared. It is due to toxin-initiated, G protein mediated nerve-cell responses that are unrelated to the actual infection itself.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Would you hesitate to go down an extra trick in an undoubted vulnerable slam contract, if putting yourself in that position gave you a better chance of success? I think not. On the other hand, you would need the imagination to see the play, since it involves throwing away an ace. Cue-bidding back and forth, North-South wandered into six no-trump, with South declarer. South won the opening lead with the ace of hearts and led a spade. West ducked the first spade, then took the second (South throwing a heart) and continued with the heart 10. Dummy's king won and declarer played out all his spades, discarding a heart, two clubs and a diamond. West, who had to make four discards, let go two hearts and the five and king of clubs, keeping his four diamonds to the 10. When declarer then played the ace of clubs, West was free to let his last heart go. So West took the setting trick at the finish with the diamond 10. South can succeed by jettisoning his ace of clubs as he runs his spade winners. Then West is caught in an unusual squeeze. If he ever throws a diamond, declarer makes five diamond tricks. But throwing away the club king or the winning heart simply allows declarer to play a card from dummy in the corresponding suit, squeezing West once again. Sure, this dramatic play costs declarer another undertrick when East holds the length in diamonds, but the extra chance justifies the risk.
