Strolling In Sanford

Letter To Santa
"Dear Santa Claus,
"Would you please bring me a play sheriff office to play in? I have been trying to be good very much.
Love,

Did you see him? Honest to goodness, he was at least in front of it, if not more! His woman companion, of normal size, accompanied him as he walked the streets of Sanford. Upon looking back at the plant, it was learned that he was advertising for a local firm.

As a part of the Annual Christmas parade tomorrow at 2:30 p.m., the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce will sell balloons to raise funds to carry out the worthy projects throughout the county. Herb Holler, Jaycee president said today.

Local Resident Named To Position In District NAAWP

L. A. Baker, Jr., newly elected president of the District for the 17th Congressional District of the National Association for the Advancement of White People, announced today that Bryant Bowles, NAAWP national president, will speak twice in Central Florida this weekend.

Bowles will speak first Friday night in Orlando at Eola Park, 7:30 o'clock, and the same time Saturday night at the corner of Plant and N. Main Sts., in Winter Garden, Baker said.

He said that Lake County Sheriff Willis McCall will introduce the speaker. "We are formulating plans to have Bowles speak in Sanford as soon as possible, but nothing is definite yet," Baker said.

Baker selected along with him in office for the NAAWP of this county district in the Tavares home of Carl Averitt last night were: Baker said, John Hughes, Orlando, vice-president and Carl Averitt, secretary-treasurer.

He announced that present membership in this district is approximately 1,000, since the organization was only recently chartered.

Rally Roars Support For Joe; Also Cheers Investigator Cohn

NEW YORK (AP)—A rally in Madison Square Garden roared its support for Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) last night and strongly protests the Senate motion to censure him.

The wildly enthusiastic crowd, estimated at 13,000, applauded speaker after speaker who praised a senator and condemned his critics. Some of the loudest acclaim was won by the senator's wife Jean and Roy M. Cohn, former counsel to McCarthy's investigating committee.

"If the Senate is to censure, it will be committing the blackest crime in history," declared a speaker who spotted in the crowd the "traitor" cries of the "traitor" Roy.

The loyal defenders of our cherished traditions, said the bishop, are arrayed against "powerful influences operating in subtle and devious ways," the stanted press, the slanted radio, the slanted television.

President Refuses Military Blockade

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower feels a naval and air blockade of Red China would amount to "war action," the White House said today.

The White House view was stated by James C. Hagerty, press secretary, shortly after Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, had renewed his call for a blockade in the face of a pronouncement last night by Secretary of State Dulles.

Dulles, in a major foreign policy speech in Chicago last night, declared that the first duty of the United States is to "exhaust peaceful means" to protect the rights of Americans imprisoned by Red China, rather than "now resorting to war action, such as a naval and air blockade."

Hagerty was asked by newsmen whether Eisenhower agrees with Dulles that a blockade would amount to war action.

"Yes," Hagerty replied, adding that the President "approved completely" Dulles' entire speech.

Hagerty said Dulles consulted with Eisenhower regarding the speech several times and that they conferred as late as yesterday afternoon.

Knowland, who has frequently differed with the administration on policy in the United States, argued only a few hours before the Dulles speech that a blockade would be the best means to force the Chinese Communists to release Americans they held prisoner.

In a television interview today (the Dave Garroway show on NBC) he was asked about the speech in which Dulles opposed blockade but said this country will "react vigorously" to Communist provocation in Asia.

Knowland, responding with a reminder of the proposal which the first made of the country, nevertheless said he does not believe the "breach" between him and the Eisenhower administration is as wide as some people try to make it.

Asked if he knew what Dulles had in mind in speaking of "vigorous" measures to be taken in the matter, Knowland replied: "I'm frank in stating to hear."

Knowland said that he felt a naval blockade would make matters "too expensive" for the Chinese Communists that the 11 American and foreign civilians convicted by the Reds as "spies" would be freed. He stated the same view with regard to 26 civilians of whose imprisonment he reminded the speaker.

Sen. George (D-Ga.) stated in becoming chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee next year, said in a separate interview other alternatives should be exhausted before launching any military move. He did not discuss alternatives, one, presumably could be a U.N. appeal.

But George contended direct retaliatory action probably would be the best excuse "for rapid liquidation of all U.S. prisoners they hold." It might also "invite a general war," he said.

ASKING SPEED-UP
GUATEMALA (AP)—Two representatives of President Carlos Castillo Armas' government flew to Washington yesterday to urge the United States to speed up the availability of over six million dollars in economic aid it has earmarked for Guatemala.

34,934 Packages Valued At $87,882 Go Through Market

WINTER HAVEN—Florida's winter vegetable deal continues to increase in volume and variety, according to this week's forecasts and news stories from the individual markets in the Florida State Farmers' Market system. F. H. Lewis, director of the system, reports:

"At Sanford, State Farmers' Market the past week 26 varieties of fruits and vegetables totaled 34,934 packages valued at $87,882 with 120 tons pending in volume and pending pending to purchase coverage per local basket. San food's term crop, which has been the leading commodity on this market, is continuing, but will be augmented with cabbage, celery, peppers, corn and cauliflower plus variety of other items. Good volume of all items except squash, but including orange, grapefruit and tangerines is anticipated this week.

"Economic in fall volume has begun moving on the Palmetto State Farmers' Market along with fair supplies of gold beans and corn, while beans and radishes continue in good volume.

"Cucumbers diminish. The cucumber deal on the Wauchula State Farmers' Market is particularly sluggish until the spring deal. However, excellent quality eggplant and pepper and good quality tomatoes are continuing in fair to good supply.

"Cool weather during the middle of the past week together with the holiday weekend tended to reduce the tomato volume at the Fort Pierce State Farmers' Market last week, however, harvesting is expected to return to normal this week with steadily increasing volume as the season progresses.

Censure Hearing Near End

Says Thinking Is Contorted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jenner (R-Ill.) angrily took Sen. Flanders (R-Mt. W.) to task in the Senate today for a broadcast in which Flanders referred to the Soviet Union as "brotherly."

"The hot clash came as the Senate was moving into the final stage of its long debate on a bill to censure Sen. McCarthy. Under a unanimous consent agreement, voting is to begin tomorrow afternoon. Flanders' remarks, however, would be delayed until a final vote is reached on the bill.

Flanders and Jenner have been in a bitter struggle since the bill was introduced. Flanders has been the original sponsor of the bill, while Jenner has been the original opponent.

When Jenner's motion passed, Flanders put into the Senate a bill to censure the government of the Soviet Union for its actions in the Korean peninsula.

About half an hour later, when Sen. Brown (D-Nev.) had the floor for a speech opposing the bill, Mr. Holler, junior, arose and asked permission of Brown to make a statement.

Jenner, speaking with Flanders still only three seats away, said Flanders had referred to the Soviet people as "brotherly" and that when he was a young man, American planes and a long line was introduced to the Soviet people on "trumpets."

Flanders, replying in a hot, heated and somewhat bitter debate, said that he was a young man when he was a young man and that he was a young man when he was a young man.

Christmas Parade Opens Yule Festivities

CARE Attempting To Match Gifts Given By Servicemen In Korea

Santa wears khaki in Korea. Though he appears in the traditional red suit at Christmas parties, Korea's youngsters are fond of him in the khaki uniform. They know that the bearded, kindly gentleman is really their year-round friend in the khaki uniform.

The knowledge comes naturally to these war-weary, last Christmas, soldiers of the U. S. Eighth Army alone spent a half million dollars out of their own paychecks to give Korean children needed supplies, much of it in CARE packages. Gifts from other American service units in Korea ran into thousands more, as the holidays spurred to a climax the giving that goes on day after day. Ever since American troops landed in Korea in 1950, our men in uniform have shared their rations with the hungry, helped to build new orphanages, hospitals, churches, and schools.

This outpouring of kindness is due to reach a peak again during the coming Christmas season. And this year—the homefolks willing to bulge even more—CARE has pledged that every gift bought by American servicemen for their "adopted" Korean orphanage or destitute family will be matched with a CARE package from Mr. and Mrs. Civitan in the USA.

Gen. Mark Clark, former Commander in Chief of the UN Forces in the Far East and the U. S. Far East Forces, chairman of CARE's appeal for "matching" funds, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Eighth Army commanding general, and AFSAK (Armed Forces Assistance to Korea), which coordinates the troops' voluntary relief efforts, have endorsed the plan. The real "brass", though, are the GIs who will distribute the joint gifts from the American Armed Forces and the American public.

A complete file of the "what" and "where" would fill a flour at the Pentagon, but there is ample illustration in reports from the Eighth Army, whose men sponsored 431 parties for 101,296 Korean children last Christmas. Each party had a tree and a Santa, who arrived by helicopter or jeep decorated to look like a sleigh. Each child received toys and candy. And from the half million dollar gift sack there also poured every imaginable item of lasting benefit. To cite a few examples:

When the 40th Division Artillery's party was over, 127 boys and girls at the Belgian Red Cross Orphanage and Hospital in Seoul had new coats and blankets, and the building had $3,000 worth of needed repairs and heating equipment. Part of the $30,000 donated by the 45th Thunderbird Division provided 632 wafers at the Orphan's Home of Korea, on Cheju Island, with rice, flour, shoes and 100 of CARE's $10 knitting wool packages to make warm sweaters and mittens. The 20th Division Artillery held parties for children at three Seoul hospitals, left behind 10,000 worth of medical equipment.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Take your flash camera outdoors at night. You can make interesting pictures against the darkness which forms a perfect background.

Flash Pictures at Night

All flashes that come in the night needn't be lightning. Some of them ought to be coming from your flash camera. Pictures of people taken outdoors at night may seem like a strange idea at first thought, but there's certainly nothing difficult about getting them—and they are different.

Of course, you can't illuminate a large area with one little flash bulb. But by shooting at about six feet, you can't miss. The flash will light your subject and the darkness of the night will give you a perfect background for them.

As the Christmas season approaches, controllers will be making their rounds. Pictures of small groups of them will make an interesting addition to your holiday snapshots. The traditional pose of the two carollers beside a street lamp which sheds light on the sheets of music they hold, is well within the reach of your simple camera with flash attachment. Don't worry about the street light. The flash is so much stronger at its peak that the other light won't matter at all—except to add interest to your picture.

Outdoor nighttime activities such as skating parties, sleigh rides, and the like, offer wonderful opportunities for your flash camera. One of the very best things about taking your flash camera outdoors at night is that the resulting pictures are so very impressive. It's hard to believe that you can do them with the simplest of cameras.—John Van Gulder

WILL IN A COMA after more than nine months at the County Hospital in Chicago, John Brookhouse, 35, receives a special visit from his wife, Ann, and their three children (l. to r.): John Jr., 14; June, 12, and Alvin, 11. Hospital officials made an exception to the rule which does not permit children to visit patients. Brookhouse, a cab driver, has been in a coma since Feb. 13 when he was struck by a truck.

Traffic Toll Drops Below Last October

CHICAGO (AP)—October's traffic deaths dropped below last year's figure the 10th monthly decline in a row, the National Safety Council reported today.

The two per cent decrease for the month was the smallest since January and the 3,550 death total was the largest for any month in the year, the council added.

For the first 10 months this year, the total of 29,350 deaths was six per cent fewer than for the like period in 1951.

The October decrease for 481 reporting cities was 10 per cent, offsetting an increase in rural areas.

Of those cities, 343 had perfect October records, the three largest being Syracuse, N. Y. (220,000 population), Jacksonville, Fla. (234,000), and Des Moines, Iowa (178,000).

British Are Said To Stretch Cigs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Englishmen don't smoke as many cigarettes as Americans but because of the relatively high price in England they smoke them longer.

Dr. Alexander G. Gilliam of the National Cancer Institute reported this in discussing the possible relationship between cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

He told the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States that recorded mortality from lung cancer in England is over twice that observed in the United States, although per capita consumption of cigarettes is "considerably greater" in this country.

The Navy is a rent-collecting landlord for more than 24,600 families.

Writings Of Americans

President Truman started something. In 1950, when presented with the first volume of the complete writings of Thomas Jefferson, never before gathered together in their entirety, he asked the National Historic Publications Commission to see what other eminent Americans had left writing which had been inadequately published.

The result is a 106-page report, now presented to President Eisenhower. Some of the personages named are already covered by plans for publication, such as Benjamin Franklin, and John and John Quincy Adams. James Madison's papers are being assembled in the University of Virginia Library, and ultimate publication is expected. A crying need is to gather and publish the scattered documents of Alexander Hamilton.

Altogether 361 personages were selected as having deserved publication for their writings. They include scientists, clergymen, authors, physicians and publishers. Some two dozen women are among the number. The papers of Susan B. Anthony, suffrage leader, will probably be the first writings of an American woman to be given to the world in full.

When the writings of all 361 are published, if they do not prove so scattered as to make this impossible, there will be a great gain in our knowledge of our history. There will also be new cause for pride.

Foreign Trade

That it is a major American duty to push forward the development of foreign trade is the view of an eminent business man, Allan Sprout, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. International trade should, he says, become "something more than a stepchild of domestic economic policy."

Such actions as tariff increases on dried figs or Swiss watches do far more general harm than any possible advantage gained by them.

HAL BOYLE

The Batchelor's Dream Widow

NEW YORK (AP)—Madame City Roederer is the kind of widow that bachelors dream of meeting.

She is blonde, hazel-eyed, warm-hearted and highly cultured. She has a mellow, mature beauty that French ladies achieve and wear so well in their middle years. She also has a fine, well-developed sense of humor.

"That sounds all right—so far as it goes," a cautious bachelor might admit. "But to be really ideal she ought also to own a liquor store. Does she?"

No, Mme. Roederer doesn't own a liquor store. This must be admitted. But, on the other hand, she does have something just as good—five million bottles of champagne. She also has a stable of 120 trotters, and her horses in recent years have been among the biggest money winners in France. Since the death of her husband in 1932, this part and vivacious widow has successfully managed the champagne firm of Louis Roederer of Reims and the famous harness racers of "The Stables of the Red Earth."

Mme. Roederer is no figurehead in the 120-year-old champagne firm which ships its vintage products to the courts of Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Ethiopia, Greece and Britain. "I have given this business my whole heart," she said. "I had learned it year by year, and step by step, while my husband was alive."

In the firm's 3 1/2 miles of caves at Reims are stored five million bottles of champagne, none of which is sold until it is at least five years old.

Mme. Roederer, who can taste and accurately name the major brands of champagne while blindfolded, gives the final voice in the selection of a cuvee, the blending of 1,000 choice casks before the actual bottling.

"It is an important decision," she said. "For the wine decided upon that day won't be drunk until five years later."

She has found that being a woman is no handicap in operating a champagne firm.

"Not at all," she said. "On the contrary, it is an advantage." Then she smiled archly and added, "but here one must be careful what one says."

She spends the week at Reims, the wine lands of France, where she takes an active role in selling her champagne to the top restaurants and nightclubs in the French capital. Her interest in the export business brought her here for her first tour of America, just completed. She was accompanied by her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Claude Roussaud, and the doctor's brother, Andre Roussaud, who, at 35, is managing director of the champagne firm.

Mme. Roederer found San Francisco the most European-looking of American cities. She was scheduled to tour some California vineyards, but became too fatigued. Asked how California champagne compared with her own product, she hesitated and Andre Roussaud broke in diplomatically: "Unfortunately, she didn't get to taste any."

New York City impressed Mme. Roederer who it's "massive organization."

"Everything is so well prepared and done exactly on time. Here you know what has to be done—and you do it. In Paris we allow for a little more improvisation in living."

As souvenirs of her journey she is bringing back blue jeans for her four grandchildren. Hopalong Cassidy, it seems, is now galloping the industries affected. They cause widespread concern abroad that we are going back to protectionism and indifference to the economic welfare of other nations.

Of late, Sprout also says, while there has been some progress in easing American trade barriers, in general we have been merely holding the line against a revival of restrictionism. He might have added that the administration gained a one-year renewal of the Reciprocal Trade Relations Act only by assuring the congressional protectionists that for the next year no further action would be taken under the act.

Formerly most business men were strong for protection. A considerable element now regards this as an outmoded policy which tends to be harmful.

Politics In Japan

Premier Shigeru Yoshida has been an able leader of Japan, a confirmed anti-Communist and a loyal friend of the United States. Now it appears that he has lost a great deal of the popularity which he once enjoyed. He may be forced from office. Newsweek magazine reports that his prestige has never been at a lower point.

There are several reasons for his decline in public favor. The most important one is that people always tend to blame economic distress on the head of the nation. When the Korean War ended, procurement of material in Japan by the United States was sharply curtailed. Japan has always been over-populated and unemployment is rife.

If Yoshida should fall, his probable successor, according to Newsweek, would be Ichiro Hatoyama who has committed himself to continuing co-operation with the West. Yet Yoshida has been a stabilizing factor in Japanese politics, able to keep those who would break with the West at bay. Whether his successor would be able to do that as well is something that cannot be predicted.

Perhaps Premier Yoshida will be able to pull off some political magic. If he cannot, events in Japan in the months ahead will bear watching.

Family Dynasty

The United Brotherhood of Carpenters of America has a family dynasty. William L. Hutchison was president from 1915 till his resignation in 1951. His son Maurice was chosen to fill out the balance of his term, and now has been nominated without opposition for another four-year term.

The original choice of the younger Hutchison did not apparently originate at the grassroots, but rather in the Union's executive board. No general poll of the members has, so far as known, been taken for the election of officers for many years. Conceivably at some time or other the carpenters might have liked to be directed by someone not of the Hutchison family, but they had no chance to express themselves.

Undemocratic control of the rank and file is one charge brought against unions by their opponents. The more forthright union leaders recognize that, when such criticisms are valid, they weaken the appeal of the labor movement for the whole country.

Taxes Affect Trading In Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—In the jargon of the astroteller the stock market is now in the sign of the Internal Revenue Service.

This is the time of year that stock traders sell—and buy—with income tax returns in mind. The new fact or will color the market picture, already complicated by the entry of the public as an important buying element—an entry which traditionally stimulates buying, and worries some professional investors.

Profit taking also is an obvious factor of weight in the stock market. Those who prefer a bird in the hand have been selling to cash in on the gains of the exuberant post-election market. Profit selling has slowed down markedly, but not halted, the upward surge of prices.

To this and to the newly emphasized interest of the public—must now be added the selling of those who want to establish losses for tax purposes, or those who for reasons of their own want to make their profit a matter of record, also for tax purposes.

A third group who may be active, both as sellers and buyers, will be some managers of portfolios of stocks—their own or those they control—who may be switching from stocks which have had notable price gains into others which haven't joined the upward surge as yet and therefore may promise better yields.

All of these cross-purpose factors should make the daily performance of the stock market in the next four weeks particularly interesting.

The amount of stock trading for tax purposes this yearend has the brokers perplexed. At first glance, there wouldn't seem to be many losses to be established, so steadily upward has been the main course of stock market this year. Since September 1953, for example, the 100 districts as a group have added 39 per cent to their collective market value.

But look at any recent day when the stock averages made a new margin. Everybody apparently tries hard—but no Houdini, I am astonished that some people still take these things seriously. I got mixed up in one once, but not even a table lamp or a knock was knocked. Undoubtedly it was because I was a callous unbeliever.

I have been reading Arthur Marx's book about his pop, Groucho, and glorified the other day at Groucho's behavior at a dinner, years ago, Sidewalk, a kick if there were any questions to ask of the actor world, he raised his hand and said, "In anyone there tell me the capital of North Dakota."

Met TV Announcer Bert Parks the other day and was stunned to discover that his face occasionally is in repose. As a matter of fact, it seemed an earnest, serious man.

Well—I've had about enough of the Roaring Twenties' revival. Have you? As a man who just missed it, I always had regretted it, until recently. Now, carefully meditating on the flower-pot hats, the pipestem dresses and the child-like humor, as put forth by assorted musical shows (The "Milk and Honey" band, for instance), I wonder if perhaps being a child of the grim, gray thirties was so bad, after all.

I have been browsing through "Out Without My Rubbers," the memoirs of the late theatrical director, John Murray Anderson. Here was a man beloved on Broadway, but I was saddened to read his explanation for his seemingly inexhaustible energy: "I got so flabbergasted and wound up 50 years ago that I have presumably been wound up ever since, and will probably go on ticking in wonderment until the mainspring wears out."

School Integration May Be Slow

WASHINGTON (AP)—It probably will be years before there is an end to segregation in American public schools.

The Supreme Court, ruling last May that public school segregation is unconstitutional and must end, left unanswered for the time being the two key questions: how and when?

The court now can't attempt to give the answer before far into next year. Even then, judging from the court's careful slowness in handling the segregation problem, it is unlikely to call for overnight action.

The court doesn't have to follow the views of President Eisenhower and Atty. Gen. Brownell but no doubt will consider them. Both last week came out for a careful and gradual solution as against a sudden one.

And those Southern states which have given their opinions to the court have called for a gradual approach as a minimum, although Negroes have told the court they want segregation ended no later than September 1956.

A few Southern states in extreme opposition to the court's ruling, particularly Georgia, may try the following kind of device for thwarting any final effort of the federal government to end segregation at all.

End their present public school system and substitute another kind—for instance, private schools—separate. The Georgia voters approved such a plan in the Nov. 2 elections. And Georgia's Gov. Tammidge has said: "Segregation in Georgia will not be ended at any time."

The Supreme Court ruled against segregation in public schools. An arrangement like Georgia's, supported by public tax money, would be in effect a public school system under another name. Or would it? Some lawyers here foresee, before there could be an answer to that question, a fight all the way up through the federal courts again to the Supreme Court, a fight which would take more years.

Although the court was first asked in December 1953 to outlaw segregation, it didn't give its opinion until May 17, 1954. This by itself was clear evidence of understood the problem of the problem and the need for care in solving it.

The problem is not one but many: the intense and ancient racial prejudices that must be softened or compromised; the planning required in combining schools and school districts; financing; redistributing white and Negro teachers.

The court could have laid down

Editor's Assassin Makes 2nd Break From Ohio Pen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The man who assassinated Don R. Mellett, crusading editor of the Canton, Ohio Daily News in 1925, made his second escape from the Ohio Penitentiary yesterday by calmly walking past two guards.

Patrick Eugene McDermott, 33, joined a party of departing visitors and walked out of a penitentiary honor dormitory in what prison officials indicated was a well-planned escape.

An automobile which pulled up in the pen just as McDermott walked out with an attractive woman visitor whisked the fugitive away.

McDermott was convicted of murdering Mellett the night of July 16, 1926. The Canton editor was shot down as he put his automobile in a garage at his home. Trial testimony developed that McDermott was sent to Canton by a Maxwell man to "beat up an editor."

The shooting climaxed a Daily News editorial campaign against police protection allegedly given to vice operations.

McDermott, like other honorary dormitory inmates, normally wears civilian clothes.

DEATH PENALTY DEMANDED (Cairo, Egypt (AP)—The prosecution yesterday demanded the death penalty for two Muslim Brotherhood leaders charged before a military court with "activities against the security of the State." The two, Dindawi Duwair and Ibrahim el Tayeb, pleaded innocent.

CENTRAL figure in a sensational French murder trial is Gaston Dominici, 77, who is shown in a Digne court listening intently to testimony. He is accused of slaying Sir Jack and Lady Drummond and their daughter, Elizabeth, 11, in August, 1952.

When the prosecutor declared that Dominici had confessed the crimes, the old farmer accused the police of drugging his coffee to make him confess.

May public school segregation is unlawful. But it wanted the benefit of the views of those most closely connected with the issue.

It asked the states involved and attorneys for the Negro groups fighting segregation to explain in briefs filed with the court this fall, what they thought should be done. The briefs were filed.

The states proposed the take-it-easy course and the Negroes wanted desegregation accomplished by the fall of 1956. The last brief, from Brownell's Justice Department, was given the court last Wednesday.

That was one day after Eisenhower had talked to a news conference of the need for a solution carefully arrived at. No doubt he knew what Brownell was going to tell the court the following day.

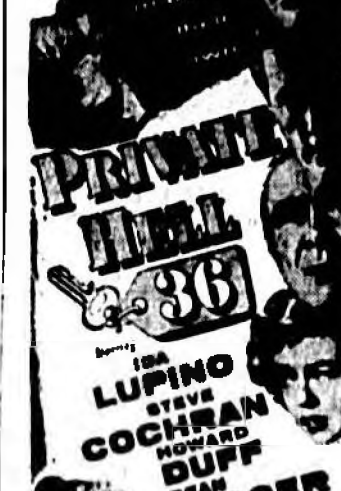

Like Eisenhower, Brownell set no deadline for ending public school segregation. It should be done as "quickly as feasible," he said.

And he proposed the high court allow the judges in the federal districts to determine those states which have segregation—to work out the details, and the timetable, with state and school officials.

The court had intended, after getting the written briefs, to let the attorneys on both sides argue before the court in December. Now the court has postponed those arguments until sometime, date still unset, when it has a full bench to hear them. The nine-man court now has one vacancy and Eisenhower's appointee for the job, John Marshall Harlan, is not slated for a Senate vote on his confirmation until next year.

Building Program Requests On File

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—State Budget Director Harry G. Smith reported today that requests were on file for about 15 to 20 per cent more dollar state institution building program during the next two years.

The requests are only slightly higher than the 30 million dollars asked two years ago. The 1953 Florida Legislature approved 37 million.

Normally, the state agencies ask for about 15 to 20 per cent more funds for the next biennium than they are getting currently.

A request by the State Welfare Board for an 18 million dollar increase to pay higher old age assistance and aid to dependent children grants and other expanded services is the largest among the operating budget requests.

12 Reported Killed Over Thanksgiving

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The Florida Highway Patrol reported today 12 persons lost their lives in highway accidents over the long Thanksgiving weekend.

The death toll in the period from 8 p. m. Wednesday through midnight last night was almost half that during the corresponding period a year ago when 22 were killed.

All unformed patrol officers were assigned in highway duty during the holiday period, and teams of unmarked patrol cars were on duty in areas of high accident frequency.

The twelfth victim, Mrs. A. Thomas Martin, 50, of Fort Myers, died about 11 o'clock last night in an accident at an accident at Fort Myers Thursday.

Shakespeare Presented On TV Show

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK (AP)—Is William Shakespeare for the million, or more specifically for television's millions of viewers?

Maurice Evans, Judith Anderson, NBC and the sponsors of Hall of Fame tried nobly to prove that he is in a two-hour production of "Macbeth" yesterday.

With "Macbeth" being the shortest of the Bard's tragedies, they were able to present Shakespeare undiluted and unadorned with only minor cuts. The five-act play was divided into two parts, and at times the transitions from one scene to another seemed abrupt and hurried, but on the whole the production was noteworthy considering television's limitations of time and scope.

Evans as Macbeth, a man of good intentions but pliable will, and Miss Anderson as Lady Macbeth, the iron-willed ambitious wife, dominated the acting as the roles provided in the script written by Shakespeare in 1603.

But they had strong support from fellow members of the cast, notably State C. L. Lewis as Banquo, House Jamison as Duncan and Richard Warren as Macduff.

It would have been a production to remember if seen from the undisturbed quiet of a theater seat but in the informality of the living room it lost some of the overpowering gloom of the original.

Radio has the best chance since its early days to be creative, says Louis G. Cowan, who has been a major influence in both radio and television programming for more than a decade.

Cowan, who has five shows on the air in this country and two in England, explains that with so much attention focused on it did in the years before it became bound up in pat formulas.

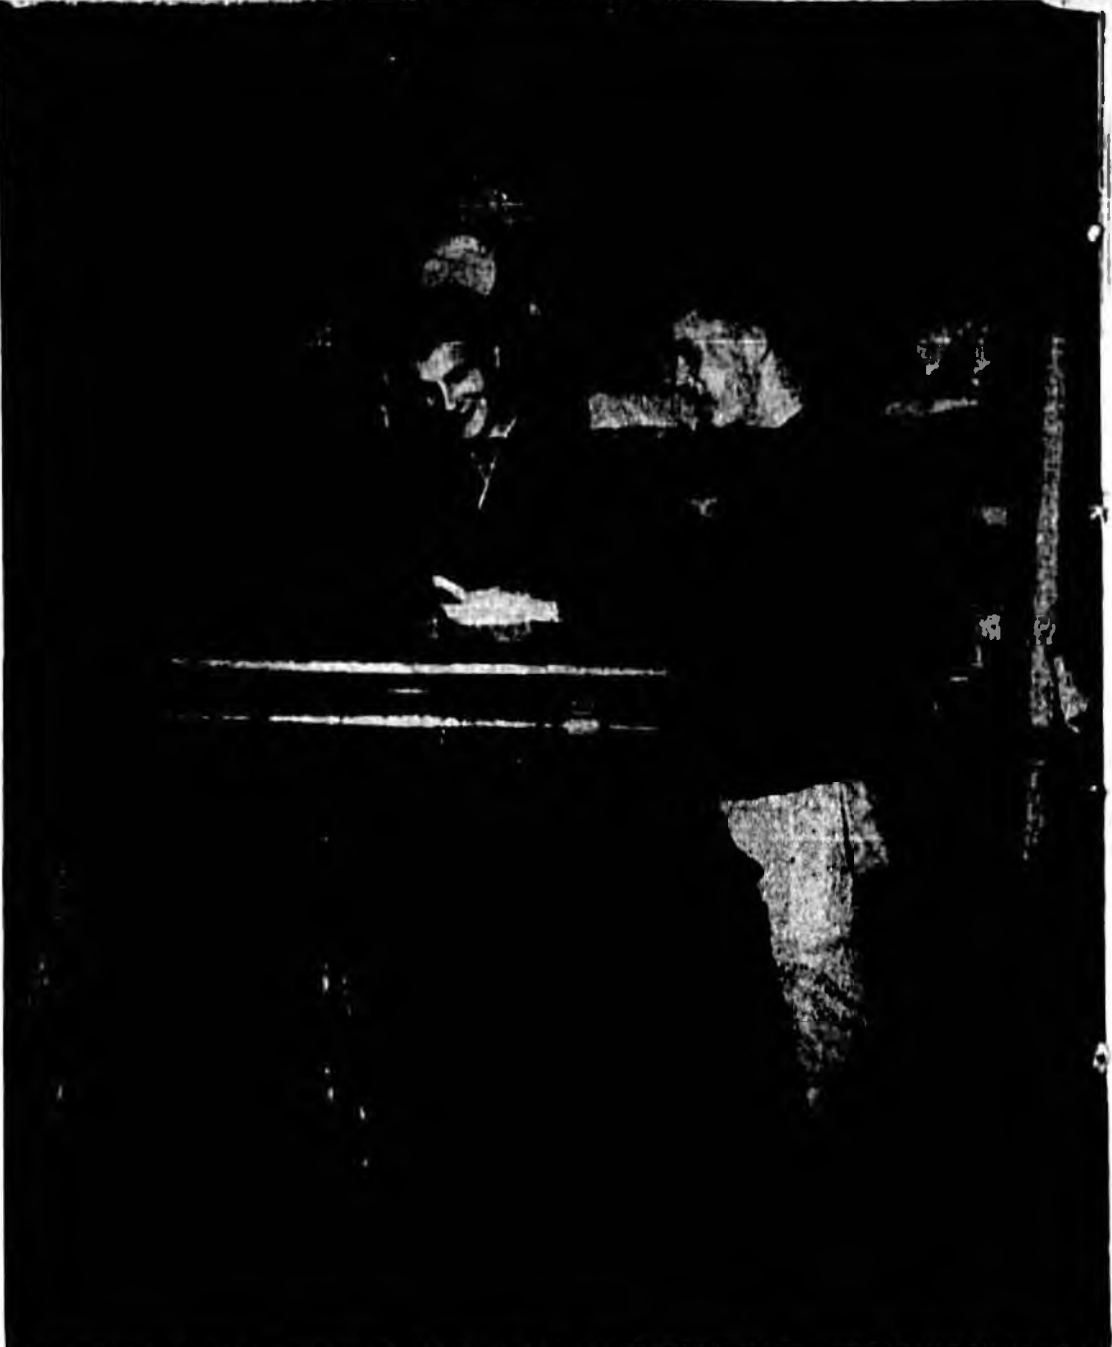

Although Cowan has some very successful commercial shows such as "The Music on CBS radio and ABC television, he generates the most enthusiasm for exploring new fields. He says he tries to turn out enough commercial shows to pay for the ones he likes best, which often do not attract sponsors.

His pet project right now is his Mahalia show on CBS radio Sunday nights, featuring Mahalia Jackson, Negro gospel singer.

"Mahalia Jackson has one of the great voices of our time. However, the reason I became interested in her was because she represents a success, a balm to people in our troubled times.

"She not only has a great voice, but she's also a woman of faith."

FBI Investigating Lake Controversy For Civil Rights

MOUNT DORA (AP)—The U. S. district attorney has asked the FBI to look into the suspension of five children of the Allan Platt family from Mount Dora schools to determine whether their civil rights were violated.

James G. Martin of Miami, the district attorney, said Saturday he acted at the request of Mrs. Mabel Norris Reese, editor of the weekly Mount Dora Topic.

The Lake County School Board suspended the children Oct. 21 upon the complaint of Sheriff Willie V. McCall. Mrs. Reese charged the board "bowled to dictation as sure as anyone in Russia did."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

A light bar makes indoor movie making as easy as flash snapshooting.

Movies for Christmas

If there is any season of the year that calls for "lights, camera, action" it's Christmas! While home movies are good the year-around, they're never better than when they show the family observance of the holiday season.

We've got a suggestion today—a suggestion for the families that don't have movie cameras. It's that you give one to yourselves for Christmas, and do it a little ahead of the big day. You know, all the fun of Christmas is getting ready for it. No matter what type of picture record you shoot, it ought to cover the days in which the air is tingling with anticipation of happy surprises and good things coming up. The favorite people in your life are at their best—and that's the best time for picturing them.

But getting back to the movie camera as a gift from the family to the family. It needn't be an expensive gift, you know, because not only are there movie cameras as simple to operate as the familiar box camera, they're equally low in cost, comparatively speaking.

For less than $50—you can be all set for both indoor and outdoor movie making with a kit including camera and light bar.

The light bar makes your indoor movie making as easy as flash snapshooting. It is simply a bar with a screw in the center that fits into the tripod socket of the camera. On either end is a big photoflood reflector bulb.

As you shoot, you carry your light right with you. You know that there's always enough illumination to cover whatever action you see in your viewfinder.

No Room At The Inn

Beauty and drama, shepherds and wise men, these and the story of a miracle are carefully reproduced on many of the loveliest Christmas cards that will be this year. Manger scenes, the Holy Land itself, Mary and Joseph seeking shelter at the inn have all been recreated—as they may have looked in that first Christmas Eve. Like the inspired Renaissance artists, Christmas card designers, too, have found the Madonna and Child an irresistible subject. Rich twilight color combinations accent

U. S. Refuses Russian Protest Of Disputed Flights

WASHINGTON—The United States today brushed aside a Russian protest that nearly four months ago and said U.S. planes will continue to check all ships flying the waters around the Far East. The State Department released the text of a brief note delivered to the Soviet Foreign Ministry at Moscow today in response to a Russian protest of Oct. 23. The Soviet note had objected to U.S. aircraft hunting for Soviet ships, one of them the tanker Diaphe which was seized by the Nationalist Chinese June 23. The Russian note, after detailing incidents in which it said American aircraft systematically flew low over Soviet vessels and circled them for as much as an hour, asked that "necessary measures" be taken to stop all this. The American reply made no mention of denial. It said U.S. planes investigate in an "innocent" way and are in violation of international law governing freedom of the high seas. It said the U.S. notes said the U.S. is not investigating in an "innocent" way and are in violation of international law governing freedom of the high seas. # Scientists Study Air You Breathe

CINCINNATI—Scientists using machines that operate much like a vacuum cleaner are gathering air samples from all over the country to study what your body takes in when you breathe. They say that in a year's time your body may absorb a couple of grams of metal, hydrogen and lead. The amount depends on where you live. Whatever man has made and whatever can be found in nature can be found in the air in some locality," says L. A. Chambers, director of research at the Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center here. This federal public health center is directing the gathering of the air samples. Chambers says the substances in the air "interact and form new complexities. We know nothing

Defense Tangles With State Witness In Sheppard Trial

CLEVELAND—The defense and an expert state witness wrangled bitterly today over the extent of the injuries Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard received on the day of his wife's murder. Dr. Richard Hexter, a physician who examined Sheppard, was the witness. Sheppard claims he was struck down and later was knocked unconscious by a "bluish haired man" who he says was the actual murderer. Hexter examined the osteopath on the afternoon of July 4, only a few hours after the slaying of Sheppard's pregnant wife, Marilyn.

ACTRESS Ava Gardner bears a plane in Los Angeles for Tokyo. She is on a personal appearance tour that will take her to Hong Kong, Singapore, Rome, Paris, Berlin and London. She told reporters she definitely intends to give Frank Sinatra a divorce, but it will have to wait until she returns from Europe in the Spring. The actress said: "I'm in no hurry to get a divorce."

about the new complexities and know relatively nothing about the toxicity in the air." For the past year, scientists have ignored the air. Public health officials, for example, have concentrated on water and food purification. So the current program at the new four million dollar Taft Center is a pioneering one, although smoking abatement studies have produced some information in the field. Thirty scientists are devoting full time to the problem. They have about $20,000 to work with in the current fiscal year, the first time they've had a large congressional grant to study air pollution. They want to know if there is a relationship between certain concentrations of air pollutants and abnormal mortality rates, the effect of weather on the concentration of pollutants, want to establish the nature and amount of air pollutants caused by automobiles, garbage incinerators and industrial operations here.

Local and state health officials take samples at least twice a week. The main gear is a screened intake pipe and low velocity vacuum action. Air sucked in within a 24-hour period equals man's intake for four months. At the end of the 24 hours, white fibre glass filters, which have been disclosed gray, brown or black, depending on the nature and amount of matter, are taken from the gear and shipped to the center's laboratories here. Then they undergo rigid tests for organic and inorganic content and radioactivity.

Over Half Of Christmas Trees To Be Treated To Resist Fire

NEW YORK—Over half the 30 million Christmas trees sold this Christmas will be chemically treated for flame resistance, color, gloss, reduced dehydration and less needle loss, according to Chemical Engineering, McGraw-Hill publication. Within a few years, it is expected that practically all trees sold will have flame-retardant coatings, the magazine reports.

Tree coatings are an attractive proposition to a variety of people, the producer who is able to extend the life of the tree by special coating, the retail dealer who sees increased sales appeal in treated trees, and the home user, who is getting more safety-conscious every year. Fire resistance also may become a legal requirement, California for instance, already has a state law requiring that all trees exhibited in public places must be flame proof before they leave the lot.

Profits from sprayed trees are a strong incentive for the industry, a tree in its natural state brings about $3 while a coated one of the same size costs as much as $25, the magazine reports.

Although the life of a tree can be prolonged as long as nine months when it is coated with a special non-toxic latex film and put into cold storage, there are three major disadvantages to the process in the processing operation. First, plant location is restricted to tree growing areas, trees being treated must be of uniform height, and investment cost is high—a minimum of $200,000 for a plant able to process 25,000 trees a day. Two plants located in Duluth, Minn., have been able to overcome these problems by limiting their operations to Northern Minnesota's stunted black spruce, which grows to a uniform height of three feet and by keeping chemical waste to a minimum in their dipping operations. The two plants use an estimated 250,000 gallons of coating annually, with a retail value of over $1 million—a relatively low amount of chemicals compared with quantities used on sales lots, according to the magazine.

An estimated ten million trees are treated annually on sales lots at a cost to the buyer of 50¢ to $1 a foot. The biggest drawback against spraying on the lots is the tremendous waste involved; spraying trees is like spraying window screens, there is an 80 per cent loss in over-spray. Producers, however, are reluctant to apply the coating in their plants because of the variety in tree sizes and the huge drying problem, the magazine says. The customer also can treat his own tree with widely available kits of fire retardant or decorative materials. A typical product provides 12 ounces of "magic flakes" for 80 cents which are applied to the tree by a spray.

Christmas Card Roads All Lead to Home

"Christmas comes to great and small... Happy the heart when it's shared with all."

Santa's legendary route leads from one happy home to another, and apparently the 1954 Christmas cards are following his example.

For thousands of colorful designs this year feature gay wintertime travel scenes. Passengers step down from crowded stagecoaches. Snowy roads are wrangled by sleigh tracks and car wheels. A train puffs its way into the village station.

People are pictured hurrying home for Christmas on everything from bicycles to snow shoes. All are carrying ribboned gift packages, and waving friendly greetings.

Even the new Christmas card verses are travel-minded. One that shows jolly St. Nick studying a map chuckles:

Hope Santa takes The shortest cut To bring you joy And nothing but!

Another explains its part in the Christmas card parade like this: Bringing a wish that Christmas Day is just As nice in every way As a ride in a One-horse open sleigh!

This year, however, marks the first time that more Christmas cards picture trains than sleighs or stagecoaches, the traditional favorites. One unusual design even shows the "Best Friend of Charleston," an old-fashioned steam engine with windowless coaches, making its first trip on Christmas Day, 1630.

Autos are popular, too, but mostly on the novelty cards. Open one titled "Merry Christmas to My Husband" and a cut-out convertible of an ancient vintage looms about on a hidden spring. Its grateful wheels "the best of wishes" for "a guy who's just my speed."

Airplanes are as scarce as flying saucers. But the Christmas card industry is filled with cheerful flying machines, many of them, or floating along on clouds. One design actually features a magnificent, one-piece, Christmas card, which a ton of messengers, are playing Christmas carols. While Santa Claus himself takes off in a space ship on a card that says:

Whenever Santa wants to Make a very special trip, He lets the receiver Take a rest and Ponders a rocket ship!

Yule Hospitality Calls For Caution

The "gathering of the clan" traditional at Christmas is a pleasant custom, but calls for special fire safety precautions, warns the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

For several days each year, this custom fills many homes with more people than normally live there. Some of them may have different fire safety habits. All are in a holiday mood, which may make them less careful than usual. Add to that the fact that the usual winter fire hazards are present then at any other season.

If you are playing host this year the National Board suggests you take a few basic precautions before the first guest arrives:

1. Make sure there are plenty of ashtrays strategically located in every room in the house.
2. See that the stove is clean and ready for the big cooking job ahead.
3. If some of your guests will be smokers, put all matches, cigarette lighters and other dangerous objects safely out of their reach.

As long as your company stays, keep these safety tips in mind:

1. If you're heating more rooms than usual, don't try to "force" your furnace if it won't take the added load. Call an experienced repairman instead.
2. Keep portable heaters away from combustibles, and also out of people's way.
3. Keep order in the kitchen. Several extra people all offering to help can cause a "traffic jam" in which someone may lean too far over a lighted burner, or tip over a pot of scalding liquid.
4. If more electrical appliances than usual are being used—space heaters, for example—don't overload circuits. Fifteen amperes fuses are the safe size for most household circuits, and if a fuse blows some appliances should be switched to another outlet.

Guests have responsibilities, too. If you are going to be a guest instead of a host, see that you and your entire family are on your best fire-safety behavior. It is also wise to be prepared for an emergency. Just as you always note the location of the nearest fire escape in a hotel, when you are an overnight guest in someone's home figure out two ways of reaching the ground from the room in which you sleep.

About 40 per cent of the crop grown in Kentucky comes from tobacco.

Safety Council Opens Christmas Driving Campaign

CHICAGO.—For a merrier Christmas, drive with reason during the holiday season.

This appeal was made to motorists today by the National Safety Council as it opened its annual Christmas safety campaign.

The Christmas-New Year holiday season is the most hazardous single period of the year, according to the Council. Twice as many persons are killed in traffic accidents at this time as on the same days of the preceding two weeks. Causes of the extra dangers and higher toll are heavier travel and the festive spirit of the season, plus the usual winter hazards of bad weather, slippery roads and more hours of darkness.

In an effort to reduce these yuletide accidents to a minimum, city and state officials, civic leaders, safety councils and 163 organizations again are joining with the council in enlisting the cooperation of every motorist and pedestrian.

In addition, the President's action committee for traffic safety has designated Wednesday, Dec. 13, as "S-D Day" or "Safe Driving Day." Purpose of the day will be to show that motorists and pedestrians can reduce traffic accidents by their own actions, and to demonstrate that the community is the place to attack the traffic safety problem. An all-out national effort will be made to hold traffic accidents to a minimum.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the Council, said the Christmas season can be faced with optimism but not complacency. He pointed out that the Fourth of July and Labor Day holiday periods brought substantially fewer deaths than had been expected.

"No one waved a magic wand for the Fourth of July or Labor Day," Mr. Dearborn said. "The good records came about because motorists generally recognized that holidays are hazardous days. Christmas, the most dangerous of all our major holidays, will require the same care on the highway."

Specifically, the Council offered the following tips for holiday driving:

1. Respect the weather. Adjust your speed to road and weather conditions.
2. Keep windshield clear, and use tire chains for severe snow and ice conditions.
3. Brake intermittently—don't lock the wheels when the road surface is slippery.

4. Follow other vehicles at a safe distance.

5. Allow plenty of time to make your trip without hurrying.

6. By all means, don't drive after drinking.

McCarthy Wants To End Censure Talks Wednesday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Sen. McCarthy proposed today that the Senate end its censure debate at 3 p.m. EST Wednesday. He said he was prepared for whatever the Senate might do.

"In the interest of the overall national welfare, I suggest that good can be achieved by continuing this debate," McCarthy told his colleagues.

He said he had decided on the speech while he was in the Naval Hospital at Bethesda, Md. He had been treated for an injured elbow. For 11 days, the Senate's special session had been in recess while McCarthy was in the hospital.

Soon after the Senate reconvened today, McCarthy, his arm in a sling, took the floor for his dramatic proposal that the "hole matter be wound up quickly."

"I am prepared for whatever action the Senate may take on this resolution of censure," he said. "My colleagues, I have read or the tremendous implications and recognize their responsibility to the future. For my part, my desire is to expose Communist infiltration in government with complete candor and the outcome of the process to the people."

McCarthy proposed to start out with a 10-minute speech and then to spend the remainder of the day with his Republican colleagues. He said he would not be a leader of the "W" party forces.

McCarthy told the Senate that if he was censured he would not be a compromise on his part. He said he was making no apologies for the viewpoints he has held.

But he said the charges against him "bed down simply to the accusation that I have used discourteous and offensive words—and that have injured the sensibilities of some of my colleagues."

"I admit that at times I have been extremely blunt in expressing my opinions," he continued. "I do not claim to be a master of words. This being true, I say to those who feel they have been offended that I had no intention in the words that were used of hurting the feelings of anyone—but in the fact and opinions that I held, I am unchanged."

"Like my colleagues I am not without weakness. I like to make mistakes, and I never may strive otherwise. I suppose I shall make others in the future."

"I yield to none of my colleagues, however, in my ideal, my principles, my integrity, or my prayerful devotion to this great nation I am privileged to try to serve. I am distressed that for ten months, the attention of the Senate has been too greatly monopolized by the clamor and controversy over one senator—Joe McCarthy."

"It has been stated that the dignity of the Senate is involved. My greatest wish is to help increase the dignity of the Senate, if dignity of the Senate is of great importance."

"Of even greater importance, however, is the honor, the safety, and the welfare of the nation, and the security of its citizens, wherever they may be."

Dramatically, McCarthy told his colleagues the "paladin" days he spent in the hospital had given him time to review the charges against him and brought him to the decision to make his statement.

A youthful California litterbug was found guilty of leaving beer cans from a car. According to Keep America Beautiful, the judge made the punishment fit the offense. The litterbug was sentenced to pick up all cans along a stretch of highway—and serve a month in jail.

Hotelman Has Many Sided Career

NEW YORK, (AP)—A middle-aged man was driving his car one moonlit night at Daytona Beach, Fla. He switched on his radio. The faint sounds of dance music swelled louder, then rounded out a full melodic phrase. The man's deepest blue eyes twinkled with delight as he recognized the tune. It was his own.

"That was one of the greatest thrills I ever had," said Ernest F. Henderson, president of the Sheraton Corp. of America, the nation's second biggest hotel chain.

Henderson got all the more kick out of it because the music came not from one of his own hotels but New York's Hotel Plaza, part of the top-ranking chain of Henderson's biggest competitor, Conrad Hilton.

His music is only one phase of Henderson's many-sided personality which bubbles with paradoxes and enthusiasms.

Here's a shrewd Yankee trader from "Yankee back—a man who pyramided a $10,000 investment into the 160 million dollar assets of the Sheraton Corp.

Here also is a great hobbyist—musician, photographer, antiquarian, aviator, radio ham, wood-and-metal worker, surveyor and linguist.

Henderson's early business career was as varied as the mince-meat of his native New England. Today his Sheraton chain includes 32 hotels from coast to coast and other big real estate holdings.

The huge enterprise was born, virtually, out of the hats of a couple of college boys.

To find out what makes Henderson tick you have to go back about 35 years to his days at Harvard with his roommate, Robert L. Moore, now executive vice president of Sheraton.

"The corporation was built up by two equal partners," said Henderson, "Moore and myself. Moore is really co-president."

The ideas of the typical college lad evaporate in "hull sessions" but Henderson and Moore translated their thoughts into hard really believed you couldn't get anywhere without crossing the line ethically," said Henderson. "But we proved otherwise."

With the depression investment firms were withering under the blast of investigation. But Henderson and Moore picked up a good one, Beacon Participations, on a $10,000 shoestring. This was the real start of their hotel empire.

Using Beacon to purchase real estate in deflated prices, they bought their first hotel, the Continental, in Cambridge, Mass., in 1934. By 1939 they had four hostels, including Boston's Sheraton Hotel from which the corporation derived its name. Ten hotels were in the chain by 1946 when Sheraton merged with United States Realty and Improvement Co., acquiring valuable real estate and a listing on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Sheraton story since then has been one of rapid growth. It invaded Canada. It assed the second place Statler group and was narrowing the gap between itself and the No. 1 Hilton chain when the latter acquired the Statler group this year, boosting it further ahead.

Henderson, black-haired at 57, looks 10 years younger. He talks with an accent as broad as Boston common, dresses more like a New Hampshire banker than an international hotel tycoon. His frothing of New England reserves covers an essentially friendly, fun-loving, inquiring nature.

He was born in fashionable Chestnut Hill, Mass., the son of an eminent historian who wrote a 22-volume opus modestus entitled, "A short history of Germany."

Last May, Maestro Arthur Fiedler led his 100-piece Boston "Pops" Orchestra in playing Henderson's ballad, "You Were Only in my Dreams."

"It took me 13 years to write my first song, but only four days to write the one Arthur Fiedler played," said Henderson.

Last month Henderson haunted antique dealers for days to furnish the suite President Eisenhower occupied briefly at New York's Sheraton-Astor.

As a licensed shortwave radio operator, Henderson has 2,000 contacts with radio hams throughout the world. Right now he's worried about how the neighbors will feel if he puts a huge radio aerial atop the roof of a fine old house he's bought in Boston's arch-territorially-sought Louisburg Square.

"Our hobbies are great fun, but business is our greatest hobby,

I think," said Henderson.

He says it pays to "brevé close to the line on matters of principle" in business. "Instead of losing opportunities, we find them invariably tried not to be too clever."

His ambition is: "ultimately to have the best hotel in every important American city."

Conrad Hilton, take heed!

Strolling In Sanford

Janice Reel, a long-time resident of Sanford who has moved to Tampa with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Reel and family, sent the following letter: "Would you please renew our subscription to the Sanford Herald. I would certainly appreciate it. It is always wonderful to read news from my old home town. I'm living in Tampa now, all I can say is, it's really big. When people say 'where are you from?' I tell them in a proud voice, and more than likely I get a funny look, most have never heard of Sanford, Fla. I usually tell them that they have never heard of Sanford, Fla. I usually tell them that they have missed seeing the nicest and prettiest part of Florida. A few minutes ago someone came in and asked who would win the game Florida vs. Tampa U. and I said, 'I don't know, but I hope Florida wins.' The honor of it all was the man was a coach from Tampa U. But with Sanford men on the FSU team 'we' can't possibly lose. Since I won't see you all before Christmas, I want to wish everyone in my home town a very, very merry Christmas." Signed, Janice Reel.

Bush Is Singer At Osteen Revival All Next Week

At revival services to be held in the Osteen Baptist Church, Dec. 3-12, Thomas E. Bush of New Smyrna Beach, popular blind pianist will be the song leader. He was educated at the Academy for the Blind, Macon, Ga., majoring in music. After graduation Bush was employed for a time to teach music in the Academy. He spent several years playing for an orchestra on the East Coast. It was largely through the influence of the Rev. T. F. Galloway of Thomesville, Ga., and the Rev. Claude Bridges and a young lady whom he met in the summer of 1922 that Bush dedicated himself to evangelistic music.

Letters Go Out To Local Farmers Telling Program

Period for filing requests under the Agricultural Conservation Program started today and will end Jan. 15, according to Homer Ballard, spokesman for the county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee. In a letter being sent out today, Ballard says: "The basic purpose of the ACP is to aid in achieving necessary conservation of our soil and water resources. 'Conservation of these resources is urgent and it pays.' 'The ACP is entirely voluntary. Any farmer who believes he can do the needed conservation job on his farm without the aid of the limited funds available under the program is urged to do so.' 'You will be given an opportunity to request the Federal Government to share the cost, if needed, to aid you in carrying out eligible practices on your farm in the 1955 program year. The 1955 program begins Jan. 1 and ends Dec. 31.' 'The payment of Federal cost shares provided herein is contingent upon such appropriation as the Congress may provide and within the limits of the appropriation.' 'It is explained that 'ACP cost-sharing is available in relation to the conservation needs of your farm...' It is asked that farmers pick one or two practices most needed before coming to Ballard's office on the first floor of the Court House.

Gala Procession Is Watched Today By Many Onlookers

Thousands of people today lined downtown streets to watch the 1954, colorful annual Christmas parade which officially opens the local Yuletide shopping season. Marching bands, colorful floats and Santa Claus were among the components of the procession which passed in review. Streets and store fronts formed an attractive background at the occasion, as onlookers crowded the curbs to see the display. Last, but not least in the parade was Santa Claus who had presents for the youngsters. Little tots, excited and venerable old gentlemen, all were seen about the parade route. School children were stranded for the afternoon so that they could watch the parade and be participants. Sponsoring the event were the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Sanford Merchants Assn.

Reports Divorce Discussed

Jury Hears Tale Of Tryst
CHIEFLAND — Susan Hayes testified today that Dr. Samuel Sheppard told her he loved her, even after a trial and she was "thinking of divorce." These events took place in the latter part of 1953 and in January, 1954. Last March, she said, she and the murder trial defendant shared the same bed at the home of friends in California. Only an hour and 15 minutes after she took the stand, the state's star witness testified to "thinking of divorce." The last question by the former counsel Dr. Garmon was: "While these actions were taking place between you and Dr. Sheppard, you were still aware that he was a married man?" "Yes," she said today.

Fear of Failing School Work Causes FSU Youth To Disappear

PORT MYERS — Fear of failing his studies at Florida State University caused him to fall into the hands of a kidnaper, a young man said when he showed up here last night, safe, sound and soiled. McDonald, 17, son of a wealthy Pensacola oil distributor, had been the subject of a statewide search since his bullet-riddled automobile was found at a train dump in Tampa Saturday night. He said he spent most of the time of his disappearance in West Palm Beach in a fruitless search for a job, and didn't realize until yesterday morning the anxiety he was causing his family or the widespread public interest in his case. Only yesterday his father, Glenn R. McDonald, had offered a reward of $5,000 for the safe return of the youth and $2,500 for information leading to arrest of those responsible for his disappearance. Young McDonald said he determined yesterday to reveal his identity but hesitated to go to police for fear he might be put in jail. He took a bus for Fort Myers, considering just what to do. Thinking a doctor would be more understanding and sympathetic, he went to Lee Memorial Hospital here.
