AN UNMANNED NAVY BLIMP, used in military effects experiments on its blast and heat, rose into the ground at Yucca Flat, Nev., four miles from the detonation of an atomic device, which forms the customary mushroom cloud over the desert. The blimp was in temporary free flight at the time of the blast, which gave off a blinding flash that was visible 400 miles away. (International Soundphoto)

JACKY FENWICK

Like I've said before, so many people seem to be leaving! Talked with Rue King at the pool yesterday, and she was telling me that the Jeffersons are about to take off! Bill goes to school in Key West for about six weeks, and Shirley and the boys are going along too. Rue didn't know what their plans were when Bill completed school, since he is supposed to go to Argentina, Newfoundland, Shirley and the boys may return to their home on Princeton Ave., and remain... and then again, they may not.

We have some more new Navy people in Sanford. They are Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Atkinson, and four lovely daughters. At present they are living in one of the motor courts on 17-92 until they take possession of the home they just purchased on E. Woodland Drive. Chief Atkinson will be attached to VAH-11 when he reports in.

The Atkinson's came to us from Memphis, Tennessee, where Chief Atkinson has been a supervisor at the ATA school. Both the senior Atkinson's hail from Montana, and I can guarantee them they'll find life here in Sanford a lot different from what they've been used to!

I just don't think we could live more casually than we do here. Not without being completely lazy. What I'm wondering is how you stand it when you finally leave here?

All Chief's Wives are reminded that their meeting is tonight, and it's an important one. And even if you haven't attended before, they are always anxious to greet new members.

My trying to get settled in this new place is suffering sadly with all this real hot weather we've been having the past few days. I feel like that "age-old" philosophy; "If you don't get it today, it will be waiting for you tomorrow!"

Good thing that people take the time to remind me when I fail to write about some things! I really appreciate being reminded, except when it's done in a downright accusing way, as if I deliberately left things out! I've often stated that I will print anything and everything that people ask me to, providing its printable and I sincerely mean that. However, there have been times when things have been cut from my column without my knowledge, and I haven't as yet made a practice of checking copy. And if there's one thing I do each day against my carping that irks me, it's being accused of leaving things out when it was not my error. If that ever happens, all it takes is a reminder to me, and I'll put it in the next day. However, these people who go around with "chips on their shoulders", and

State Milk Board To Hold Public Hearing Monday

TALLAHASSEE — The State Milk Commission will hold a public hearing next month to determine whether a distributor must pay full prices for milk he sells to schools or military bases. The price for class "A" milk is 42 cents a gallon.

The commission will also decide whether it has control over the milk hauling industry at the Sept. 11-12 meeting.

Two issues were put off Wednesday at the conclusion of a two-day hearing on milk problems. The commission ruled that Borden Milk Co. must resume buying milk from the Jacksonville Springs producer.

The dairyman, Horace Shores, protested that Borden quit buying from him because he testified contrary to company policy before the Senate Agriculture Committee during the 1957 Legislature. He said the company did not give him proper notice before dropping him.

Borden's attorney, D. Wallace Fields of Jacksonville, conceded the dairy was in error when it ended its contract with the producer.

The commission ruled that notice must be given 90 days before the base price-setting period beginning in October. Thus Borden must continue to buy milk from Shores for at least the next year.

Borden claimed that Shores' milk was the second lowest in dairymilk content—the basis on which milk prices are paid.

accuse you of DELIBERATELY omitting things, and won't stop long enough to let you try and explain what happened, will soon find that most people don't really care WHAT they do! No one has to remind me that I'm writing a general information column about ALL enlisted personnel. (I think I know my job.) And if some names seem to be repeated more than others, it's because they are the ones who take the time to let me know what they've been doing. And if I sometimes write a little too much about my own activities, it's because I know what I've been doing!!!

Hale to make all of your loyal readers "sounding boards" for my "gripes" but sometimes the typewriter "runs away" on me!! Now that I've got that "off my chest", let's see what else I can think of to write about!!

Forgot to mention that Rosemary Finnegan had a small card party one week ago yesterday. Attending were Chris Ricker, Jim Gold, Doris Shortland, and Joyce Williams. That was the day we moved, and since I wasn't quite able to move myself, I didn't make it that night. Rosemary made it real easy on herself and just served cookies and iced tea, which Doris helped her prepare. That was Joyce Williams last card party before they left Saturday. Chris and Jimi won high score, and Rosemary and Doris won low. I did manage to play cards last Friday night (couldn't bear the thought of missing two games in a row!!!) we played at Jimi Gold's, and she and Rosemary were co-hostesses for that one. They served gallons of iced-tea, (right Rosemary), and warm cherry pie topped with vanilla ice cream. (yep - more calories!!)

Chris Ricker seems to be on a "winning streak", as she and Margie Leming won high score prizes that night! Low score was AGAIN won by Doris Shortland and Rosemary Finnegan! (Jim and I didn't win a thing but a few unwanted and unnecessary ounces of weight!!!)

Once again I've come to the end of my limited store of "odds and ends" of information. See you tomorrow.

DROWNS IN SAKE

Ingrid Bergman's Daughter Reported Seeing Rossellini

ROME — Jenny Ann Lindstrom, Ingrid Bergman's teenage daughter, has fallen for a Rossellini. Roberto's 22-year-old nephew Franco, a Rome newspaper reported today.

The Memento Sera said Jenny Ann and Franco took a long boat trip together in the blue grotto in Capri last week.

They were seen smiling and holding hands in the streets of Capri like any young couple in love.

The newspaper, carrying the story under a Paris dateline, quoted Jenny's father, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, as saying, "Another Italian and even worse another Rossellini," when he heard the news.

Las Vegas Nuclear Test Postponed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Unfavorable weather conditions again have forced the 17th postponement in the firing of a medium-sized nuclear device at the Nevada proving grounds.

The Atomic Energy Commission Wednesday postponed its Shasta test until Friday at 3 a.m. p.m.t. However, the AEC said if wind conditions fail to improve sufficiently to fire Shasta another device, dubbed Franklin Prime, would be triggered instead.

BUILD NUCLEAR STATION
LONDON — Britain's fourth—and the world's largest—nuclear power station will be built at Trawsfynydd, North Wales. It was announced today. The station will have a capacity of 400,000 to 800,000 kilowatts and is scheduled for operation in 1962.

A Citizens Tax Committee Can Find Answers To Tax Problems

Democracy means primarily one thing—citizens taking part in their government. And when citizens become so interested that government be conducted on a level that will benefit everyone—then we're striking the keynote to bringing about a grass roots surge toward the proper functioning of our government at every level.

A "Citizens Tax Committee," created to study the tax structure of the Seminole County Community, is one of the soundest moves that can be made.

This means that a group of citizens, from every section of the county, without coercion from any source, can bring themselves together to delve into every phase of tax within the county. Through this group, findings can be disseminated to the public at large so that every citizen might be informed as to "what is going on" inside our government—the methods being used—formulas adopted—and who is paying what tax.

There is even the possibility that such a group of citizens can employ expert tax counsel—experts familiar with every phase of Florida land, homes, farms, groves, and industry—people who know the answer to the questions citizens are asking.

Government, as even children are taught, is for the people, by the people and of the people and a citizen's tax committee is formed merely to carry out the pledge made to all citizens in the original constitution and charter of our land.

A "citizens committee" does not use the flagrant words "you can't tell us what to do"—instead, it adopts the policy of "we want to know what you want us to do."

We're headed in the right direction with a Citizens Tax Committee, as has been found in many another community—for within that democratic structure can be found the answers to questions that have been asked over and over again—its very formation is to provide the answers.

Our county government is sinking deeper into the quagmire of insufficient revenues for its operation—funds too small to take care of the normal operation of government in a progressive, aggressive, and forward moving community.

To dig the quagmire away from the sound structure of democratic government takes the action of citizens one way or another. There are two questions that need answers: "where are our tax dollars going?" and "where do our tax dollars come from?"

Figures are fine! But what's behind the figures? What are they meant for and how do they balance with others?

A Citizens Tax Committee can find the answers!

Foreign Trade Creates Payrolls

President John F. Gehan of the American Export Lines has made an unusual observation: "Regrettably, the expression 'foreign trade' is an unfortunate one. That word foreign causes the trouble—it seems to imply something alien, apart, perhaps even hostile, certainly something different from our way of doing things."

That is a good point to stress. Foreign trade is not like that at all. It is intimately connected with the daily desires and needs of most of us. It is an economic force that works to the benefit of practically every American.

For instance, we import more than half of our total supply of 100 raw materials—some of which are of the highest strategic importance. In the case of 81 of these materials, imports account for 80 to 100 percent of our total supply.

Looking on the other side of the coin, we find that in recent years our shipments abroad have amounted to more than eight per cent of the total value of all movable goods produced in this country. To take specific examples, we have been exporting about a quarter of our cotton, a third of our wheat, half of our rice, and a quarter of our tobacco. And all manner of manufactured goods abroad—such as the $3 billion-plus worth of machinery that foreign peoples bought from us in a late year.

Altogether, Mr. Gehan says, foreign trade is creating jobs for more than 4,500,000 Americans and generating more than $13 billion of income in the form of wages, salaries and other pay-roll benefits.

So foreign trade is a very vital "domestic" asset—as is the U. S. Merchant marine which carries our flag to the corners of the free world.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

"He answered and said, In I see four men inside, walking to the middle of the floor, and they have no hurt; and the form of the fourth is like the face of God."

Herlong Report

The people everywhere are worried about inflation. The situation is serious. This is especially true for those on fixed incomes and retirement plans, not to mention those who are trying to make a go of it on Social Security. Businessmen, especially the small business man, are feeling the impact as their profits narrow.

What to do about the situation is the concern of Congress. Heavy Federal spending has greatly helped to bring about this condition. As you know, I have battled for economy in this Congress as well as the past one. It is a difficult job to make cuts when a government has grown as large as ours, and too, we must keep an ever vigilant defense.

In the immediate months ahead before the next session of Congress begins we will hear much about a reduction in Federal income taxes. Along this line I have just introduced a bill designed to bring about tax cuts and chop Federal spending - one to balance the other.

My bill, a companion to that introduced by Congressman Antoni Sadiak of Connecticut, calls for the setting up of a realistic tax program covering a period of five years.

Let me say this: I am not wedded to the figures contained in my bill but I do think, and it was planned this way, that it will help to set the wheels in motion leading to a general overall tax reduction.

I will add that I think my bill is an excellent one, and if enacted would lead to a far better tax structure than any we have ever had. Its purpose is to help people in all walks of life.

The reductions in taxes, under the legislation, would be met largely from increased revenues resulting from normal economic growth. If the economy continues to grow over a period when the reductions are scheduled as it has in recent years, there should be sufficient revenue to provide for regular retirement of a portion of the national debt. I am, and always will be, opposed to tax cuts through deficit financing. The legislation I have introduced contains ample safeguards to protect against such a condition.

The survival of small business is and must be a major concern of Congress. Something must be done and done quickly. Dun and Bradstreet figures show that there were 12,686 business failures in 1955, 10,949 in 1953, 11,086 in 1954, 8,662 in 1953, 7,611 in 1952. In the first six months of this year there were 7,089 failures compared to 6,494 in the same period of 1956. These failures have come despite the fact that "everyone is supposed to be living high on the hog."

Small business is a wonderful and honorable profession and these people must be given a chance to expand, but above all,

CIVIL RIGHTS VOTE - The final vote in the Senate on the so-called civil rights bill found Florida's Senators divided. Senator Holland voted against the measure, feeling that even with the "jury trial" amendment it was wrong. Senator Smathers, against the original bill, voted for it after the passage of the amendment, in its original form as passed by the House, all of the Members of the House from Florida voted against it.

OFF TO EUROPE - Four weeks ago we mentioned a special assignment that might go to Congressman Dante Fascell. He got the job. As soon as Congress adjourns Fascell will go to Paris as head of the subcommittee to study Uncle Sam's "off-shore" spending. This is money being spent overseas as part of our Mutual Security and Foreign Assistance programs. Fascell said enough information had already come to the Government Operations Committee to make his trip "look interesting." He did not say what he expects to uncover. He plans to be gone a month. While in Europe he will inspect operations in Switzerland, France, Italy, Western Germany, Spain and England.

KEEP YOUR HANDS OFF -

Don't go monkeying around with the Suwanee River (the song that is) unless you are willing to take on Congressman Bob Sikes. A Nation-wide storm was started when he and Congressman Billy Matthews called attention to the "bleach" job that the radio and TV networks were doing on Steven Foster's beloved songs. They felt that to take the color out of the songs will ruin them. (Example: "darkies" was changed to "chillun"). Furthermore, they said, this kind of censorship could lead to more serious censorship and they called for an investigation. Last week, Sikes went a step further. He introduced a bill that would require the networks to submit to the Federal Communications Commission any proposed changes. These changes would have to be approved by the FCC and then Congress. Failure could end in a jail term - after a jury trial, of course. Sikes pointed out that the full censorship of Hitler started with censorship of a few words here and there - went through the book burning phase and ended in complete suppression of free speech.

GAY YEAR AHEAD - The new regime of the Florida State Society cut off to a fine start last week with their first official function. A grapefruit-punch party

It was held in the Ways and Means Committee Room and was billed as an adjournment party. (Nobody there was sure just when Congress would adjourn - a few didn't seem to care). Next "big do" will be a Christmas Party followed by the annual Congressional Reception in January, the Cherry Blossom Princess Ball in March, and a big banquet in May or June.

MIAMI IS LARGEST - Come January 1958, Florida's 4th Congressional District will be the country's largest in population. At present the dubious honor goes to Texas. The 8th District of Texas, which takes in Houston, had more than 800,000 persons in 1950. Florida's 4th had 525,000. But in 1953 the Texas District will be cut up and reapportioned. In the mean time, the Dade County area has grown to more than 900,000.

HOPE YOU LIKE WASHINGTON - Newest "newcomer" to the Capital is Miss Glenda Chincy, 18 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow A. Chancey, Palatka, Florida will work as a secretary in the office of Congressman Billy Matthews. Glenda, a brunette, is a graduate of Palatka High and was an attendant of the Azalea Maid of Honor last year.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IF YOU THINK the present-day commuter has troubles, cast your eye over this selection spotted by John McCutcheon, Jr., in an 1883 issue of Popular Science Review:

"It has sometimes happened to passengers to feel the floor of their carriage gradually crumbling away beneath their feet. They have no recourse but to await in a state of hopeless terror the moment when their last support shall be shattered asunder, hurling them bruised and maimed on the iron tramway, to be crushed and dismembered by the following carriages!"

A typical smiling son of Texas, suh, was driven to the rim of Mt. Etna and permitted to peer into the mouth of the volcano. The seething, red-hot lava and the sulphuric clouds of smoke left him visibly unimpressed. "Shucks," he declared, "our Fort Worth fire department could put that thing out in twenty minutes!"

Conning The News

By VIRGINIA CONN, Society Editor

There is a strange fascination for more than golfers in the Mayfair Country Club. For the second time within a short period a group of Central Florida business men have met at the club to listen to speakers. The Electrical Contractors of Central Florida met last night at the club to dine on roast beef, hash browned potatoes and other male favorites. Arrangements and most of the cooking were done by club manager Helen Andrew, and her cake-baking mother, who provided two large chocolate cakes for the occasion. The club was decorated with hibiscus and magnolia leaves, and even the unobservant (as a rule) men commented on how pretty it looked. The men were served at individual tables, with one large speaker's table, and I for one would have given any thing for a picture of Helen Andrew trying to stuff forty pounds of hot into the oven at the Country Club.

Pegging Away

Now starts the last lap of our summer vacation, which also means an end to summer theatre going. We are going to miss the pleasant ways of box office treasures Madeline and Kathryn Healy of the John Drew Theatre at East Hampton, I. I. Broadway II. O. People are often accused of being snippy and impulsive, and many of them are. They could certainly profit by the example of the Healy ladies, who help to make theatre going a pleasure.

Looking over the list of scheduled plays for the coming season, you come across some fascinating titles: "Dark at the Top of the Stairs," "The Man in the Dog Suit," "Square Root of Wonder," and for a laugh "Brouhaha"—only it's spelled as one word. The most intriguing is "Summer of the 17th Doll."

McGill University's musical offering, now at Stratford, Ontario is called "My Fair Lady." "Showboat" in Jones Beach, N.Y. is doing right well, but the Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board says that if you want to see an authentic "Showboat," come to Mississippi. Claude Philippe, veepee of the Waldorf Astoria is having a wonderful summer. His famous wife, Money Dalmes of the "Comedie Francaise," who spends most of her time in Paris, is in town. Money and Philippe have been married five years.

They say that most accidents happen in the home. Yvonne De Carlo accidentally kicked through a pane of glass in a patio door in her Hollywood home and had to have 40 stitches taken in her foot.

Text McCrary is in Tokyo, scouting material for NBC's "Tex and Jinx" show. Eddie Jackson of the Durango team went to the Coast to see his brand new grandchild. The Lomts are pursuing their favorite hobbies in Paris, where they are spending the summer. Alfred is attending the Gordon Bleu cooking school, while Lynn is studying languages.

If you expect to see "Bells Are Ringing" with Judy Holiday and Sidney Chaplin, we just want to let you know that Betty Garrett and her husband Larry Parks will be vacationing in Columbia Pictures. "Three Blondes" is slated for production. How about Marilyn, Jane and Diana for the lead roles? Actor Ralph Farnsworth is positively "The Most Happy Fellow." A member of the musical, Ralph just became the father of a baby boy. His wife is the former singer, Maria Casan.

Deanna School Of Dancing Will Open Second Season Next Month

The Deanna School of Dancing is preparing for another year of instruction Miss Deanna McManus is having her studio on Hiawatha completely remodeled and painted. A year ago, when Miss McManus started the studio the building was an old garage, with doors on either end. The pupils did not seem to mind, but learned their steps on the old flooring oblivious to the surroundings.

Before the opening of the school for registration on the fourth of September, the transformation will be complete. The old partitions have been removed and new windows installed. Miss McManus is extremely enthused about her young pupils, and they in turn adore her.

Ages for students are three years and up, and instruction includes tap, ballet, toe, and acrobatics. Last year, Miss McManus had fifty children enrolled, and surprisingly enough there was an even distribution among the types of dance.

Deanna McManus was born and brought up in Orlando. There she studied at the Eben School of Dance. After graduating from school, she went to New York for a teacher's course at the Dance Educator's of America Convention. She has studied in Chicago with Stone and Cameron, and returned there this summer for another course. After completing her studies, Miss McManus returned to Orlando to teach at the Eben School. Then she and her mother Mrs. Elna McManus, moved to Sanford, where her mother is her

New Waterfowl Hunt Rule Proposals Announced Today

WASHINGTON — Under-secretary of Interior Hatfield Chilton today announced new hunting regulation proposals for waterfowl.

Hunters of wild ducks and geese can expect the flight of migratory birds this fall to be "about the same as last year," Chilton said. Shooting seasons and bag and possession limits which will be in effect during the 1937-38 hunting period will be substantially the same as last year in all flyways except the Pacific.

The new federal proposals specify by flyways the length of the shooting season, bag and possession limits, and shooting hours, but do not include the specific season dates for the various states. These will be announced later by the states.

The specific dates will be selected by state game administrators within a general framework of Oct. 1 to Jan. 15.

For the third successive year, the Atlantic and Mississippi flyways will have a 70-day season for waterfowl and geese.

Split seasons have been offered as options to the states, subject to the usual 10 per cent penalty. Split seasons again may be divided into unequal lengths.

The framework within which the states are permitted to recommend open season on ducks, geese, and coots:

Atlantic Flyway
The states in this flyway—which include Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia—can select concurrent open season on waterfowl and coots of 70 full consecutive days, or two seasons aggregating 63 full days, beginning on or after Oct. 1 and ending not later than Jan. 15. The daily bag and possession limits on ducks are four and eight respectively, and on geese except snow geese at two and four. A single bag and possession limit of 10 coots will prevail.

Wright, a native of Durango, Mexico, launched his boxing career in 1917. He won the featherweight crown in an 11th round knockout over Joey Archibald on Sept. 11, 1911 and lost the title to Willie Pep on Sept. 29, 1914.

How well I remember the first World Series game I covered, the Yankees and the Giants playing in the brand-new Yankee Stadium. They came into the last inning tied 4-4 and then a light-hearted, young Giant outfielder hit a home run off Joe Bush to bring McGraw's team a victory. The sight of that fellow joyously running the bases I will never forget. Nor will anyone who saw Charles Dillon Stengel beat the Yankees on that October afternoon.

Also, I recall the many fabulous stories I had heard in the West of the Washington fireball pitcher, Walter Johnson. I had my misgivings that anyone could be that kind of pitcher. I remember the first time I saw him pitch, which was also the day my skepticism vanished.

Days With McGraw
The pleasant memories of the days when my assignment was the Giants, a rollicking crew under the fabulous John McGraw. And the big kick that came when I would watch that fine left-hander Artie Nehf, against whom I had batted while in college. And, later, Herman Bell and Eddie Pick, both of whom I played against in the Colorado Springs City League.

I can still see the line drives jumping from the hat of wonderful Zach Wheat, truly a great ball player. Zach, today, is my number one choice for election to baseball's Hall of Fame.

I remember vividly sitting in the press box in what was then Navin Field in Detroit watching a little boy on a bicycle pedal furiously down the street in pursuit of a ball that Babe Ruth had belted far out of the park, one of the longest blows I have ever seen.

Former Boxing Champ Dies In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES — Police today listed the death of Albert Chalky Wright, 45, former world featherweight boxing champion, as an accidental drowning in the bathroom of his mother's home.

Officers said Wright, who suffered from a heart condition, apparently fell in the bathtub Monday. Efforts to revive him by a fire department rescue squad failed.

Worst Mismatch In Boxing History Says Joe Louis

By DAN HANLEY JR., United Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis said today the "worst thing ever to happen to boxing" will be the Aug. 22 meeting between heavyweight title holder Floyd Patterson and Olympic king Pete Rademacher for the "championship of the world."

Louis, who holds a place in the boxing "hall of fame," said the bout "is the worst mismatch in boxing history," out-doing Patterson's first title defense against Hurricane Jackson "for bad matching."

Louis, who was the most victorious heavyweight title defender in history, said Patterson was bringing "shame to his crown" by agreeing to fight the 28-year-old Rademacher, who'll be making his professional debut at Seattle.

"I would never have done a thing like that," said the Brown bomber of the 1930's, "and neither would any other champion in boxing."

"The National Boxing Association should withdraw its recognition of the Washington state Boxing Commission," said Louis, who is here to play Mercury records.

"The NBA will be a sorry body of men if they recognize that fight," Fred Saddy, chairman of the NBA's rating committee, said the association has "no right to interfere with Washington's state autonomy" in this matter.

"Besides," said Saddy, "if Rademacher would accidentally win, and it would have to be by accident as far as I can see, the NBA would look foolish by condemning Washington's Boxing Commission."

Saddy said the NBA was on record with its opposition to the match, but explained that when a champion goes into the ring his opponent is at stake.

Louis said that no matter what the outcome of the fight, Patterson would look ridiculous.

"If he scores a quick victory, everyone will say that's how it was bound to be. And if Rademacher goes more than three rounds, people will say Patterson carried him," said Louis. He wouldn't concede that Rademacher might win.

Cuban Orlando Ready For Another Shot At Title

NEW YORK — Orlando Zulueta, heartened by his first comeback victory, said today, "Now I'm ready to fight seriously for another shot at the lightweight title."

Cuban Orlando and manager Hymie Wallman were satisfied with the speed and ease of movement he displayed while winning a unanimous decision over unranked Frankie Ippolito of New York in their television 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night.

It was third-ranked Zulueta's first start since champion Joey Brown stopped him in the 15th round of their title fight at Denver, June 19. He weighed 137 pounds Monday night to Ippolito's 149.

Orlando's next opponent will be Mexican Al Navarrete at Jureta, Mexico, probably Sept. 17. After that he will fight at the Denver Coliseum, Oct. 1, against an opponent to be selected soon.

Fleischer Takes All Marine Golfer Honors

ALL SMILES—Marine Corporal Mel Fleischer, center, 2nd Marine Division, seems to be the only serious one in the trio. Fleischer is flanked by his father, Irving Fleischer, Sanford on left and Major General J. C. Burger, commanding general, 2nd Marine Division. The young golfer had just officially been crowned the new 1937 Open Division All-Marine golfer. He combined a 78-76-67-72 for a four round total of 287 to win by 10 strokes over his nearest rival. On the third day of the tourney, held at the Paradise Point golf course here, the ex-Florida State University linkster fired a blazing 67 to set a new competitors record for the course. ## Parker Quits Lions

By JACK BERRY, United Press Sports Writer
DETROIT — Buddy Parker said today he definitely quit as head coach of the Detroit Lions and he nominated assistant coach George Wilson to take his place when the Lions open the exhibition season here Wednesday night against the Cleveland Browns.

Parker shocked a crowd of more than 800 persons, including club President Edwin J. Anderson, many of the directors and all of the players, at the annual "Meet the Lions banquet" Monday night by announcing his resignation.

"When you get to the situation where you can't handle your football players it's time to get out and that's what I'm doing tonight," said Parker, one of the most successful coaches in pro ranks.

The effect couldn't have been greater than if an atomic bomb had been dropped. For a moment there was a dead silence then a milling, buzzing crowd.

Anderson hurriedly conferred with general manager W. Nicholas Kerby and then went to the speaker's stand.

Will Not Reconsider
"I'm sure Buddy is just emotionally upset over two things that happened today," Anderson said. "With a good night's sleep to think it over and realize what he said in public he'll reconsider," he said as fans yelled "don't be a quitter, Buddy!"

But Parker says he has no intention of reconsidering. "Detroit is just dead," the Texan drawled later. "I've been in pro football as a player and a coach since 1933 and I know what I can do with a team. So far in practice this year I haven't been able to do anything with them," Parker said.

Former Boxing Champ Dies In Los Angeles

Written for the United Press
NEW YORK — It is a pleasant feeling to again sit down at the typewriter to turn out a newspaper story, and even more wonderful are the memories that come racing back from the days when I did it every day.

They were wonderful days, and it seems hard to believe that more than 30 years have passed since I came east from Colorado Springs to write for the New York Journal.

How well I remember the first World Series game I covered, the Yankees and the Giants playing in the brand-new Yankee Stadium. ## Rademacher May Not Make Penny

By WILLIAM J. TUCKER, United Press Staff Correspondent
COLUMBUS, Ga. — He's roving in the fight an amateur, and he may come out one, too.

For win, lose or draw, Pete Rademacher may not make a nickel in his attempt to win the world's heavyweight boxing championship from pouter-faced Floyd Patterson.

He's the last guy on the payroll — a payroll with a minimum of $250,000. That quarter of a million is what his friends had to put up to give him a shot at boxing's greatest and richest title.

"I didn't make this match with an eye toward making a profit," Rademacher explains.

"I'll be lucky to come out even. If there is anything left for me it will be divided 50-50 with Youth Unlimited Inc., at Columbus."

It's this Youth Unlimited that makes this title fight at Seattle, Wash., on the night of Aug. 22, possible.

The story goes back to May, 1934.

Rademacher was a lieutenant in the Army, stationed at Fort Benning, Ga.

Interested In Youth
Because he was interested in working with youth, "to try to get the kids off the street," he became acquainted with M. C. Mike Jennings, a youthful looking man at 45.

Jennings came here after World War II from Pittsburgh, Pa., where he is reported to have made a small fortune in the oil business. Here on the banks of the Chattahoochee River, Jennings married the daughter of Curtis Jordan Jr., a big construction and real estate man in this city of 80,000, and opened a sporting goods business.

He enjoys tremendous respect in Columbus because he has been on radio and TV for some time with outdoor programs accenting youth, getting them off the streets and into the streams and woods.

His youth work took him to Fort Benning one day and he met Rademacher.

Trains For Olympics
"Pete and I talked about a venture like Youth Unlimited from the first," Jennings says. "The plan evolved, and finally Pete said when he was training here at the Olympics: 'I hope I do all right in the Olympics and meet a Russian in the finals so I can knock his head off. Then I want to fly for the world's heavyweight championship.'"

"At the time he made that statement, I thought 'well, here's a pretty ambitious program' and sort of dismissed the idea."

"When Pete got back from the Olympics — with the championship — he still had that in mind and we talked some more."

"I told him, 'Pete, you don't want to go into this professional boxing if you want to continue this youth work. You're valuable to people now, but if you go into that you'll gradually get all shaken up.'"

"But we kept on talking and about May 17 we decided to try it."

"I started moving around. I went to New York City and met Gus D'Amato Patterson's manager. He said he wanted a $250,000 guarantee for the fight from Rademacher and gave me two weeks to raise the money."

Decides To Try
Jennings flew back to Georgia the next day and "decided to try it."

"I started moving around," he explains. "I started about the first of June, we had what we needed."

The money is on deposit at a Columbus bank and will be forwarded to Seattle some time before the fight.

Jennings admits he is one of 22 backers who raised that quarter of a million.

He said he was not "at liberty to identify the others" because they asked that their names be withheld. But it's no secret here that his father-in-law, Jordan, came up with a healthy sum.

Jennings did reveal that the largest contributor put up $25,000, and the smallest, $5,000. He admitted, too, that among them were doctors, lawyers, stock brokers and automobile salesmen. All are Georgians except three-one from Louisville, Ky., one from "some place in North Carolina" and one from New York.

"None of them," Jennings reveals, "especially care about boxing."

But, he adds, "they are interested in youth work, and some of them donated as stockholders in Youth Unlimited. Others are interested only in the fight as a speculative investment."

And for those who know boxing best, "speculative" is a conservative description of this unusual venture in the world of boxing.

Being properly prepared for entertaining the young ones makes the big difference in successful family cruising.

GUNLOCK by the prize-winning western novelist WAYNE D. OVERHOLSER

CHAPTER 28
ORDINARILY Delaney would have locked the store and gone home hours ago, but he was still there when I reached town, proof that he was anxious to make any kind of sale and get out of the valley. I stomped snow from my boots before I went in.

"Did he hit you with a gun barrel?" I asked her.

"Yes, I tried to kill him but I missed. Before I could shoot again, he cracked me. That's all I remember." She licked her lips and felt her head. "Get me a drink, Will. There's a bottle in the pantry if he didn't take it."

I found it, and a cup that wasn't broken, went back into the front room, and poured her a drink. She sat up long enough to get it down, then fell back, clutching the top of her head.

"What was he after, Kathy?" She opened her eyes to look at me, her right hand still holding her head. "You don't know, do you, Will? You really don't know, Will? You can fight something that's in the open, can't you? Like Turner and his chondria. You cleaned 'em off the Box P range like a whisker's a whistle, but you didn't know you'd turn Dillingham into a wild man. You don't savvy anybody who waits and waits, do you? Me and Dillingham were good waiters, for a while. I wanted him to wait some more, but he wouldn't. Had to rob me, and get out, but I'll get him. I'll get him if I chase him to the end of the earth!"

"What was he after, Kathy?" I asked again.

"Money. What else would make him do a thing like this?" She swore for a full minute. "I had better'n $4,900 laid away. Didn't know then what I was saving for, but I knew after Joe cashed in. He was gonna leave me all his money, and what'd I get. A thousand dollars!"

She sat up, cursing again as pain racked her. Even after what had happened tonight, she seemed to hate Sarah far more than she hated Gene Dillingham. She jabbed a forefinger at me.

"You can buy respectability. That's what I was saving for. Had the money right here in the house, and Gene knew it. After you killed Turner, he was bound to put out of the valley. Wanted me to go with him, but I wouldn't. I was going to stay here and bust your widow friend. I'd have hired some gunslingers to do the job—not plow pushers like Score and Troy and Runyan. We aimed to get you, Will, you and Thurston and the King kid. Run off her cattle. Whistle her down till she'd be glad to sell. I was going to buy the Box P, and then I'd live up there in the house where Joe lived and I'd lord it over the valley just like they used to when Joe was alive."

She shut her eyes again. I sat there staring at her, thinking that the last time I had seen her I had sensed she was evil; but I hadn't realized how virulent her hatred for Sarah was, how much she had changed in the year since Joe was killed.

I rose. Whatever sympathy I'd had for her in the past was gone. She'd leave the valley, I'd see to it that she did.

"Gene hunted till he found the money. That's when I tried to kill him. We figured it out a long time ago. I was gonna buy the Box P and he was gonna run it for me, and people'd look up to us just like they used to look up to Joe and that thing he married. But Gene wouldn't wait. Now he'll kill her and he'll go 'way with my money . . ."

I grabbed Kathy by both shoulders and shook her until she cursed me and put her hand to her head again. I yelled: "Where's Dillingham? Did he go to the Box P?"

"Sure he went to the Box P. 'n' you're too late to stop him. He'll kill her 'n' then he'll kill you. Think he'll forget she made his foreman 'stead of him? Not Gene. No, sir . . ."

I didn't wait to hear any more. I ran across the snow-covered yard and swung into the saddle once more, the wind still blasting across the valley, fat snowflakes pelting me as I put my tired horse up the road to the Box P. Kathy Morgan's words were going through my mind in an endless burning refrain: "Sure he went to the Box P, and you're too late to stop him." She could have told me that at first, but instead she'd talked, holding me there so that Dillingham would have more time.

Something inside kept telling me to ride, ride . . . All I knew was that it was cold and that it was an effort to stay in the saddle.

My horse stopped. Instinct made me dismount. I knew I could not stand there motionless, so I began stirring around and waving my arms, and a moment later I stumbled into the corral gate.

The bunkhouse windows were dark, and when I opened the door the room seemed as cold as the driving snow outside.

I went on toward the house, guided by a faint show of light that was hardly anything at all when I first saw it, so hard was it snowing. But it was enough, and I was fully aware of what lay ahead. I must kill Gene Dillingham or he would kill me. The waiting was over, and yet, knowing that I made a stupid mistake for which there was no excuse . . .

"Dillingham stood as motionless as if he and the gun were carved out of granite. I did the only thing I could—" Continue VIII Beeson's story tomorrow.

$300,000 Appropriated For Asiatic Flu Fight

Mr. H. H. Coleman Funeral Tomorrow Morning At 10:30

Funeral services for H. H. Coleman, 60, North Central Division Manager of the Florida Power and Light Company will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 a. m.

Rev. Fr. John Thomas will officiate with Masonic services held at the gravesite.

Interment will be in Oaklawn Memorial Park.

Mr. Coleman, a long time resident of Sanford and a community civic leader, died Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 p. m. at his home on Mellenville Ave.

The Florida Power and Light Company executive interested himself in every civic improvement group in Sanford and Seminole County. However, he was well known as a director of the Sanford Atlantic National Bank.

Mr. Coleman was a member of Masonic Lodge 62 A.M. and the American Legion. He served in both World War I and II.

All Master Masons have been requested to assemble at the local Lodge at 10 a. m. to attend the funeral services.

Also, members of the Sanford Rotary Club will attend the funeral services in a body. The Rotary Club members have been asked to assemble at the Holy Cross Episcopal Church.

Active pallbearers will be: A. L. Lee, Frances Rountree, Sr., John Galloway, Randall Chase, R. G. Bauman, and Al Wright.

Honorary pallbearers will be: Bill Livingston, Henry Moore, Jim Grant, Harry Campbell, J. L. Reese, J. W. Thrasher, Bennie Austin, J. W. Barker, R. J. Laver, V. P. Rosen, J. B. Phillips, R. L. White, A. J. Chesna, H. F. Ballard, C. T. Raborn, John E. Higgins Jr., Lofton Johnson, Robert H. Fite, C. B. Hoskins, J. M. Argo, A. C. Wortham, C. H. Cole, C. L. Moore, W. L. Duncan, H. G. Rowall, C. H. Smith, R. C. Fullerton, J. P. Moffett, J. H. Brooks, E. E. Laney, Kin Shabwell, Hamp Valjeal, and other officials of the Florida Power and Light Company who will be in Sanford for the funeral.

Mr. Coleman's survivors include his wife, Mrs. Blanche C. Coleman, Sanford; three children, Mrs. Robert Trimble, Bradenton, Mrs. R. B. Parrish, Titusville, and Mrs. C. I. Robinson, Orlando; 9 grandchildren, 2 great grandchildren; two sisters, one brother and one niece.

The family has requested that flowers be omitted and in lieu of flowers memorials be sent to the Holy Cross Episcopal Church.

NAS Sanford Civil Service Employees To Be Reduced

Captain I. A. Arthur, Commanding Officer, Naval Air Station, Sanford, announced today that due to budgetary restrictions imposed by the Defense Department, the Navy Department has directed the release of 10 civil service employees presently serving aboard the U. S. Naval Air Station, Sanford.

Captain Arthur further stated that the release of the civil service employees would be effective in the next 30 to 60 days. It is anticipated that personnel affected by the reduction in force will receive notification of their release prior to September 1, 1957.

At an impromptu news conference Burney, who heads the Health Service, said he was "a little bit surprised at the large number" of Asiatic flu cases already reported in the United States. He said he was speaking as an administrator and not as an expert biologist.

No Age Priority In connection with the proposed population basis for vaccine distribution, Burney said the Health Service will not recommend priority for any age group.

California with 17,000 cases, has been harder hit than any other state.

New York City health officials, meanwhile, reported the first cases there. They said eight foreign exchange students who arrived there by plane Aug. 7 had the disease, and all have recovered.

But 27 other foreign students and two adults who arrived by ship yesterday also probably had the new flu, officials said, one of the students died Thursday.

Surgeon General Burney said he has suggested to the six licensed producers of flu vaccine that they distribute each week's batch of serum on a state population basis.

Population Percentage Under the voluntary program, Burney said, each state would get a percentage of weekly vaccine production based on the state's proportion of the total national population.

Under Burney's plan, if a flu outbreak in any state was particularly severe, the Public Health Service would recommend extra shipments to that state.

Burney said the service does not plan any allocation between purchases by public and commercial agencies.

The Surgeon General said the manufacturers will report weekly to the Health Service on the amount of vaccine released that week and the amount shipped to each state's public agencies and commercial buyers.

So far, 502,000 shots have been released.

Knowland Confers With Ike

WASHINGTON — Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland told President Eisenhower today that with Democratic help the Senate may restore a "substantial" part of the 600 million dollars chopped from foreign aid funds by the House.

Knowland said after a breakfast strategy conference with Eisenhower that the President's threat to call Congress into special session to boost the mutual security appropriation was not discussed but it remained a strong possibility.

In cutting back the aid bill Thursday, the House ignored the special session threat and urgent appeals from Eisenhower and Democrats ex-President Truman.

It voted a total of $1,191,610,000—including 2,524,760,000 in new money and $667,850,000 in carry-over funds. This is a reduction of $1,287,900,000 or 30 per cent less than Eisenhower's "bare bones" demands.

It was one of Eisenhower's worst congressional defeats.

Knowland said he would "explore on a bipartisan basis" how much of the slash could be put back by the Senate, which will take up the bill next week.

President Hopeful Knowland said the President "is hopeful the Senate will be able to review the House action and restore a substantial part of the amount cut." He added, however, that he did not think Congress will finally restore all the House cut.

The White House said its reaction to the administration's foreign aid defeat in the House.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said only that the President has made his position "very clear" and congressional action is "not yet concluded on the measure."

Reporters asked if Knowland believed the President would call Congress back into special session unless he gets the full amount of foreign aid asked.

Knowland replied that he did not think the President meant he would call a special session under "any and all circumstances."

He said Eisenhower set two conditions in his news conference: That he would call a special session "if there were not sufficient funds to do the job, or if world conditions warrant it."

Interstate Hiway Construction Gets Underway Dec. 1

New developments in plans for the Interstate Highway between SR 46 in Seminole County to SR 40 in Volusia County have been revealed in the hearing held recently in Deland.

"There will be two access or approach roads in Seminole County," John Krider, Manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, said on his return to Sanford from the hearing.

One of the approaches he said, would be at SR 46, bringing traffic into West First St. and French Ave. The second approach will connect Highway 17-92 with the Interstate Highway immediately south of the Lake Moore Bridge. The latter access is a new development and was announced at the hearing.

John Krider, along with Fred Dixon, Chairman of the Seminole County Board of Commissioners attended the public hearing.

Krider said yesterday that construction of the bridge and highway would begin by December 1 of this year.

The bridge spanning Lake Monroe and the St. Johns River would have a 45 foot clearance and a 90 foot span to allow sufficient room for water traffic. "The 45 foot clearance will allow even seagoing barges to clear," Krider said.

Apparently all plans for the first Central Florida section of the Interstate Highway have been completed. This means, in all probability, that bids on the multi-million dollar project will be open and awarded before the Dec. 1 deadline announced at the hearing.

VA Official Tells Of Limitations

A widow's income does not affect her eligibility for death compensation if her veteran husband died of a service-connected condition, Benjamin S. Beach, Officer in Charge of the Central Florida Veterans Administration Office said today.

Some misunderstanding may exist on this point, Beach explained.

"Death compensation," he added, "may be paid the widow of a veteran whose death was the result of his service. Her other income has no bearing on its payment."

"However," Beach emphasized, "income limitations do apply to VA death pension, which may be paid the widow of a wartime veteran who died of a non-service-connected condition."

Quarter Million Dollar Payroll Deal To Be Closed For Sanford

Brookfield Mills, which closed down and began liquidating their operations in June of this year, has been sold as an operating plant to Max of Miami, Inc. makers of nationally famous patio fashions, dresses, sarongs, and sportswear for women.

W. H. Stemper, Realtor, who made the sale through the sales organization of Stemper Agency, stated that "it seemed a crime to do what the plant and lose a payroll, when with a facility of this kind available, there must be somebody in these United States that could use it to an advantage and at the same time bring in money and payroll into Sanford. We were fortunate in interesting Alex Schindman, President of Max of Miami, Inc. in doing just that."

They plan to start production as soon as the deal is closed on Wednesday, August 21. Schindman estimated their payroll will be near $250,000 within 8 to 12 months. The new payroll will more than double former payrolls related to the Sanford area by Brookfield Mills.

Key personnel will move in immediately and details of the new operation will be released in all probability, next Wednesday when final transfer of Brookfield Mills is made to Max of Miami, Inc.

As soon as plant operations are planned, many of the former employees will be notified that they will be rehired.

Stemper further stated today that the active and moral support "it would be the decent thing to do."

It said the two judges further usefulness is "negative."

"By resigning they could repay their fellow members of the bench and bar for the honors they had accorded them, and the people who in the past have showed confidence in them."

"It would be the decent thing to do."

USN Blimp Ditches In Ocean; Crew Rescued Today

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. — A Navy reserve blimp, caught in a thunderstorm, ditched in the Atlantic Ocean about midnight and a fishing vessel rescued the entire crew early today.

The Coast Guard reported 16 men were aboard the blimp, enroute from the Glynn Co., Naval Air Station to Lakehurst, N. J.

Officials at Glynn said, however, there were only nine men aboard and that all appeared to be in good condition following the ditching in Pamlico Sound off the coast.

Writer Charges French Troops Torturing Arabs

PARIS — A well-known writer who recently toured Algeria charged today that French troops and police there are torturing and sometimes killing Arab prisoners.

Louis Martin, a Charleville charges were printed by the Socialist weekly domain.

A large number of persons arrested in coups or investigations are released immediately, Martin said. "Others are handed over to the legal authorities for trial... but police or soldiers hold many suspects for days, weeks and even months without notifying anyone in authority."

"Sometimes the questioning is so harsh that the victim dies of it, or in some instances a prisoner who survives the ordeal cannot be allowed to live to tell the tale. In either case, he disappears without leaving a trace."

Fair Association Officers To Be Named Monday

Officers for the American Legion's Fair Association will be elected at Monday night's meeting of Campbell Lodge Post 55.

The meeting, to be held at the American Legion but on Seminole Boulevard, will be preceded by a supper which gets underway at 7 o'clock. George DeMatteo and Jesse Lodge will prepare the supper, consisting of country fried steak, mashed potatoes, green salad, string beans and drink.

No reservations are needed, said Post commander Lyon Lyon, in this week's edition of "Post 55 Script."

Lyon also said in the local American Legion membership bulletin that the 1956 membership cards are in and Early Bird cards are now being issued.
