Rains finally came to douse fires

Update on fires

Shelters closed
The Seminole County shelters for persons relocated due to fires are now closed. The shelter at Lake Mary High School was officially closed Monday morning. The shelter at Lyman High School in Longwood was closed as of 10:30 Saturday morning. For persons seeking shelter for their pets, the Pet Friendly Shelter is located at Sanlando United Methodist Church, 1890 SR-434 in Longwood. The Salvation Army had been prepared to feed as many as 200 people this past Friday night, but only fed 10. As a result the concern was also closed.

Animal feed
OVIEDO - Seminole County Animal Control in conjunction with Winter Hills Race Track is boarding approximately 60 horses from neighboring counties. Items needed include 200 bags of hay, 75 feed buckets, 20 large garbage cans, 20 bags of 12 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 18 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 24 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 30 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 36 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 42 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 48 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 54 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 60 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 66 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 72 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 78 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 84 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 90 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 96 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 102 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 108 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 114 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 120 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 126 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 132 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 138 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 144 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 150 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 156 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 162 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 168 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 174 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 180 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 186 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 192 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 198 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 204 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 210 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 216 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 222 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 228 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 234 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 240 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 246 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 252 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 258 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 264 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 270 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 276 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 282 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 288 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 294 percent protein feed, 20 bags of 300 percent protein feed.

I was there Evacuees are singing 'Home Sweet Home'

By Vicki Belluccia
HERALD STAFF WRITER

Monday morning, the last of the evacuees from the latest wave of fires were allowed to return to their homes in Flagler County while heavy rains and hail pelted the area.

As residents unloaded teddy bears, frightened critters and lock boxes of important papers, photos and knickknacks, lightning tickled the tops of the trees with fingers of flame, threatening to reignite the nightmare they had just survived.

Residents in Volusia and Brevard County had been allowed to return home for good the day before.

Most people I know say they got pretty sick of the constant television coverage of the wildfires across the east coast over the last week.

When I was, I needed the information.

I had the opportunity to be out on the front lines of the fire as a correspondent for the Associated Press in Flagler and Brevard counties and it was an eye-opener that I wasn't expecting.

Native Americans from the Village of Mary Tribes performed an authentic rain dance at Sanford's Fort Mellon Park shortly after noon on Monday. Within a very short time, the rains began to fall. Above, Donnie Rainbird, in buckskin, summons the spirits to open the skies and help stop the fires of Florida.

By Nick Piskunov
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - It only took two people to perform the traditional rain dance, but within a short time, Sanford's Fort Mellon Park saw over 1 1/2 inches of rainfall. The ancient Cheyenne Rain Dance was performed by Dave Trezak and Donnie Rainbird, both adorned in authentic costumes.

Both are Native American members of the Village of Mary Tribes. The mission of the organization is, "Saving the Land, Mother Earth and the Environment."

Chief Donnie Rainbird serves as chairman of the organization. He was born on the Cheyenne and Arapaho Reservation in Con Cho, Oklahoma. He is the direct descendant of Cut Nose, the Medicine Man of the Southern Cheyenne Tribe, and his wife, Cedar Grove, the Medicine Woman. Cut Nose is considered the oldest living Native American, now 118 years of age. His wife Cedar Grove is 110.

Dave Trezak was born in Ocala near Fort King, the site of the second Seminole Indian

Happy trails end for Roy Rogers

From Staff Reports

Starring in 87 movies and a number of television studios, Roy Rogers, 85, was a symbol of the West and pure country Americana. He died Monday, July 6, at his Apple Valley, Calif., home. Rogers died in his sleep. He had been suffering with illness including congestive heart failure.

Married to Dale Evans for 51 years, the two popularized the ballad "Happy Trails to You", the duo's theme song, which they sang after every episode of The Roy Rogers Show back in the mid 50's. Rogers also sang such camp fire tunes as "Tumbling Tumbleweeds" and

"Don't Fence Me In".

Rogers was born Leonard Slye in Cincinnati, Ohio. In 1931, Rogers made his radio debut as a member of Uncle Tom Murray's Hollywood Hillbillies. Rogers is also a two time inductee of the Country Music Hall of Fame.

After hearing about an audition in a hat shop, Rogers rushed over to Republic Studios, where he won his first role on the big screen with the 1938 film, Under Western Stars.

Rogers and Evans adopted four children during their 51 years, and were the foster parents of another in addition to Rogers' son and Evans three children from previous marriages. It was Rogers who coined the phrase "The family that plays together and prays together, stays together". Rogers is survived by Evans, six children, one foster child, 15 grandchildren and 33 great-grandchildren.

Rogers is preceded in death by his trusty steed, Trigger, who died in 1965. Rogers had the horse stuffed and mounted, and he is now on display at the Rogers' and Evans' museum.

The two now trot into the sunset as the life of one of the great Western heroes (also

ATM machine without money still missing

From staff reports

SANFORD - Officers find it confusing as to why anyone would steal an ATM machine when it no longer contained any money. Such was the case shortly after 4 a.m. Saturday at a Handy Way store at the intersection of CR-15 and Orange Blvd. west of Sanford.

As of this morning, neither the ATM machine nor the three persons who reportedly stole it have been located.

According to Sheriff's Lieutenant Jack Cash, a blue Chevrolet Suburban was apparently driven through the front wall of the store in the commission of the crime. Three persons were said to have exited the vehicle, and used a second vehicle to steal the ATM machine.

Cash said the clerks on duty at the time were unable to provide descriptions of the three, due to the fact that they wore garments with hoods that were pulled down to hide their faces.

The suburban was used to create an entrance into the building while the second

Concerns grow over reckless boating on Big Lake Mary

The Seminole County Sheriff's Office, in conjunction with the city of Lake Mary, will present an informational meeting on safe boating practices and marine statutes, on Wednesday, July 8, at 7 p.m. in the city Commission chambers at 100 N. Country Club Road.

By Shari Bredie
HERALD FEATURE EDITOR

LAKE MARY - The chairman of the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board wants to send, via the city commission, a message to reckless drivers on the city's lakes.

Seated on the dais, below the seal of the city of lakes, Laura Myreia-Morris led a two-hour discussion on the boating problem on Big Lake Mary at Monday's parks and recreation board meeting. Myreia-Morris wants an ordinance adopted by the city to regulate boat traffic.

"Reckless boating behavior will not be tolerated by the city of Lake Mary," said Myreia-Morris, who is a homeowner on the lake.

The chairman was approached in June, by another homeowner, John Paakoiki, who had circulated a petition requesting relief from hazardous boating conditions on the lake.

Paakoiki and several other homeowners were present at the meeting. Paakoiki outlined the trouble areas of Big Lake Mary, specifically a narrow channel near the middle of the mile-long lake.

"Herein lies the big problem," said Paakoiki. He said he had observed several incidents in that area of the lake that could have ended in injury. Paakoiki said the area is too narrow for two boats to pass especially when a water skier has fallen.

The homeowner would like to see the city adopt state boating regulations on city lakes.

"We're concerned that someone's going to get killed."

Board member Michael Hanson suggested sending a newsletter to property owners, highlighting the state regulations that would apply to situations on Big Lake Mary, such as operation of water craft by no youths under the age of 14 and licenses for youth ages 14 to 18, no boating 1/2 hour after sunset, and designating no wake zones a specific distance from the shoreline. "There are several things, even as a (personal water craft) owner myself that I would support," said Hanson. "They're just some common sense rules. They don't prevent you from enjoying the lake."

The question then becomes one of enforcement. In a memo to City Manager John Litton, Police Chief Richard Beary said, "Because we do not have the resources (boat, etc.) to properly conduct enforcement operations we request(ed) the assistance of the sheriff's office. They have the equipment and expertise in marine enforcement."

Myreia-Morris said she knows a local boat dealer donates personal water crafts to law enforcement agencies for marine regulation. "I think we'll have to have enforcement to regulate this issue," she said.

She wants a police officer or sheriff's deputy to patrol the lake at peak times, especially on the weekends.

Myreia-Morris and Paakoiki said the problem wasn't as much the homeowners but the guests they allow to use the lake on weekends, "weekend warriors". "If these people aren't concerned with their own safety, then it's their own tough luck if someone gets hurt," said Paakoiki.

Other homeowners voiced concerns regarding the restriction of their use of the lake and over-enforcement, which might lead to a decline in lakefront

Common indoor plant known for its by-products

The common Indian Rubber Tree which is considered by many just a beautiful indoor plant, is the same plant used as a source of latex from which rubber used to be made before the Brazilian rubber tree was discovered. To make it more interesting, the India Rubber tree is a close relative of the edible fig. Both plants belong to the genus Ficus which includes more than 1,000 different species that vary considerably in appearance, from large tropical trees, shrubs, trailing epiphytes and climbers, in spite of the great variation, they share some similarities, such as the inflorescence, the shape of the fruits and the milky sap they contain.

A unique fruit: The manner in which flowering, pollination, and fruit formation are brought about in the Fig Tree is unique in the plant kingdom. The greatly thickened, fleshy receptacle develops into a pocket-shaped socket containing unisexual flowers, male flowers develop at the top of the female flowers below. An opening or "eye" located at the fruit apex allows water and insects to penetrate the fruit. The opening is used by a special fig wasp known to be needed for pollination in the case of edible figs. If water gets inside the fruit it may result in rotting of the fruits. Common edible types recommended for Florida do not require pollination to develop and mature fruits.

The tree: The Indian Rubber Tree is a tropical plant that can be severely damaged by frost. In tropical areas, it can grow up to 50 feet tall and is used as a street tree, shade tree, hedge, indoors, and bonsai. The leaves are up to foot long, oval, leathery, dark green, and glossy. Young leaves are sheathed in red stipules, which soon drop. The cultivars of this tree do not branch readily. Indoors, in bright light it will grow to an imposing height of 10 feet.

Varieties: The green-leaved forms are "Decora", with very shiny, fairly broad leaves, new leaves are maroon, shading to a deep glossy green as they mature; "La France", with smaller leaves and a twisted top; "Robusta", with very broad leaves and leaf nodes growing closer together, giving the plant a compact appearance. The variegated varieties are "Docascheri", with clearly marked foliage with white margins, with a reddish center vein and leaf stalk; "Tricolor" with irregular cream, pale, and dark green patches; "Schryveriana" has narrower leaves, finely marbled in dark, pale green and yellowish white, the palest zones have stippled markings.

Care: Ficus in general dislike being moved, they may drop leaves if environment changes occur. They are very sensitive to changes in temperature and are also to wet or cold feet. Figs grow well at temperatures between 55 to 60 degrees F, and can tolerate 40 degrees F without damage. Average humidity should be above 25 percent. Grow them near a bright east or south window, the variegated varieties, because the yellow portions of the leaves do not contain chlorophyll, have higher light requirements than green-leaved varieties. Fertilize once a month only after new leaves appear and discontinue feeding the plant in the fall. Large plants need to be repotted every second or third year, and often it is sufficient to replace the top layer of compost. Repotting is done usually around February. Water only after the surface of the potting mixture is dry but never allow it to dry out completely.

Propagation: The rubber tree can be propagated from cuttings and air-layering. Cuttings should be taken in spring, use tip or sideshoots with a maximum of three to four leaves removed in pruning. Prevent sap flow by dipping the cutting in water or charcoal powder. The cut on the parent plant must be sprinkled with white sand or charcoal powder. Eye cuttings can be obtained by cutting the stems 1/2 inch above and below a leaf. This gives you a cutting with a node, a leaf stalk, and a leaf. Rooting powder will speed up the process and checks the sap flow.

Pests and diseases: Too much sunlight or drafts often lead to attacks by red spider mites or thrips. Under warm temperatures and dry atmosphere mealy bugs or scales insects can become a problem.

Smooth divorce hits relocation bump

DEAR ABBY: My wife, "Beth," and I are being divorced, and until recently, things were cordial and polite. At first, she was going to remain here in Oregon and allow me convenient access to our daughter, Cathy, who is 6 years old. Both tried for three years, with little success, to get her own business going here in Oregon. I must admit that she's tried hard. Now she has received an offer to relocate

Cathy has more.

DEAR ABBY: Women often lose one of a treasured pair of earrings. Since it is impractical for a woman to wear the remaining earring by itself, and since she often wears several complementary colors at one time, it would be nice if women were to adopt a "fad" of wearing two different earrings, each of which could match in color a different part of her outfit.

This would enable a woman to still wear beloved pieces of jewelry and not just look longingly at them as they rest on the dresser. THOMAS MURPHY, BRADENTON, FLA.

to Florida and live in the home of a male friend while he is away in the Navy for the next few years. She is involved in a multilevel business and her "up-line," who lives in Florida (not the person who owns the house), has promised to get her set up and on her feet. She's planning to move before the end of the summer.

This morning I asked Beth if she'd consider going to Florida alone for the first six months to see if she likes it. She rejected the idea. I am staying with my parents now, and they are really upset about the idea of Cathy leaving. My mother wants me to fight it. They love their granddaughter and see her quite often.

Abby, I want this divorce to be amiable. It was, until Beth decided to move to Florida. I suppose if she does move and gets her life together, I could move to Florida to be close to our daughter.

Should I try to control my animosity and allow Beth to go to Florida and tell my parents to butt out? Or should I try to force her to stay here in Oregon? I'm certain that deep down Beth knows that taking Cathy 3,000 miles away is wrong, but she feels she must do it for reasons of self-esteem and economics.

HEARTBROKEN IN OREGON

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Your soon-to-be-ex-wife has legitimate reasons for moving to Florida, and your daughter is at an age when she still needs her mother, so let her go without an ugly fight. I think your idea of eventually relocating to Florida in order to be near Certainly I learned about the power of fire, a frightening beast. Fire is not something you can really call "under control."

One man I met described the raging fire as a monster with a personality. The first night, the fire burned slowly and fire fighters washed it down to the point where they said it was under control.

It was still burning, but mostly it was little licks of flames. A few hours later, a wall of flame erupted from that spot and reared up before screaming angrily toward the road and toward homes.

"They didn't take the beast seriously," Jack Stone said to me. "They said the fire was under control and let it just sit there. Then, when it was ready, it came back and took what it wanted."

And that is what it did. Near Mims, a community known as Hog Valley is a lot like Geneva with trailer homes nestled among pine trees and palmetto scrub.

People there are a close knit bunch under regular circumstances. They grew up together, as did their parents and their grandparents before them. Everyone knows everyone else.

"We're all like kin...even if we ain't really," Paul Clouser said. "Family is the most important thing and we're all family."

The flames, however, brought everyone closer.

One night, while the fires were still burning "under control," another reporter and I had the chance to sneak back into the neighborhood where residents were being allowed to check on their houses after a flare up had been tamed away from the houses. We went to check on some of the people who had chosen to remain in their homes despite the mandatory evacuation order. (One sheriff's deputy told me, "We can't really force them to leave, all we can do is ask them for their next of kin.")

When we arrived at Johnny Lucier's house, he was standing on the roof of his trailer sprinkling it down with the garden hose. He was exhausted and eerily against an orange sky.

The woods 100 feet behind his home were awash in fire.

Without a word, the group in the truck tumbled out into the yard and grabbed garden hoses, attached them to one another and began to water down the area. Meanwhile others in the entourage, myself included, shoveled dirt over the glowing ground and sparking embers at the foot of trees. As we worked, flames sprang skyward along the trunks of pine trees and exploded near the clouds like the fireworks that had been so recently banned by the governor. Flaming ash rained around us, igniting new fires, spreading the damage closer to Johnny's house.

One member of the group stood on the dirt road leading into the woods, begging a brush truck crew to come help out. They had far too many other fires closer to houses to battle to make their way back.

Less than an hour later, the fire ground was still warm, but there were no visible flames. The group chained sprinklers to the roof and the whole group, including Johnny, moved on to check on another friend's home.

"Family and friends come first," Clouser said. "We do what we gotta do."

For three days the pattern repeated itself at home after home. Neighbors helping neighbors. Family and friends coming together to help each other survive.

When the final wave, a huge blaze, pushed through 30 homes were lost in Brevard, a similar number were burned in Volusia and Flagler counties.

Laura Duval of Palm Coast returned to a burned out shell of a house.

"It isn't fair," she said as she looked at rubble between two neighboring structures that were untouched. "But I suppose it would be unfair to them if it had been the other way around."

Next door, moving over still-warm ground, neighbors brought their belongings back into the house.

"It's not over," Lt. Randy White of the Jacksonville Fire-Rescue department said as he worked on mop up efforts in Palm Coast, watching the residents scurry ant-like from vehicle to home. "Even with the rain, it's not over until every flame is out. And that won't happen until we have about 10 inches of steady rain."

Lightning, fire experts like White said, is as big a threat as the lingering embers.

"Until we have more rain than lightning, the rain doesn't matter," he noted.

For now, those people who have homes to return to in the fire zones are back home. The 60 or so who find themselves without a place to live, have initiated the process of rebuilding their lives, working with their insurance carriers or with FEMA.

"We just gotta start over again," said Beatrice Snyder, surveying the remains of her trailer where 47 years of mementos of marriage and family were no more than gray ash blowing toward Interstate 95 a few hundred yards away. "What else can we do? We just gotta start over."

property values. David Walter wants to prevail upon regulatory agencies such as the St. Johns River Water Management District and the Department of Environmental Protection to allow the narrow portion of the lake to be widened, easing congestion in the area. "I personally don't want to have police officers in people's back yards," Hanson's motion, to ask the city to development a boating rules newsletter passed. The motion was not as strong as Myra-Morris wanted it to be, so she cast the lone dissenting vote.

Parks and Recreation Director John Holland said he would make sure the item was discussed in the staff's agenda meeting and hoped it would appear on the city commission agenda on July 16.

vehicle was used to transport the stolen ATM from the store. A vehicle similar to the second vehicle was later recovered in the general vicinity and turned out to have been stolen. Cash said that vehicular investigation is still underway, as the license tag indicates it was from Lee County.

Additionally, the suburban was also stolen, reportedly from David Marteney of Palm Coast, a fire evacuee from Flagler County who had checked into a motel at the intersection of I-4 and SR-46 to get away from the fire in his neighborhood.

"What is really sad," Cash commented, "is that here is a man (Marteney), who was an evacuee because of fire possibly threatening his home. Now that it's all over, while he finds his home is still untouched by the flames, his Suburban has been destroyed. Sheriff's department supervisor at the scene, Sgt. Tim Wedding said regarding the sign saying there was no money in the ATM machine, that there were actually signs both in front of the actual machine as well as the store front.

Cash added that this location would have been the first ATM machine location south of the St. Johns River Bridge, and had apparently been well used by persons being forced to evacuate from Volusia and Flagler Counties during the heavy fire and smoke periods.

As to why the men apparently didn't see the signs indicating the machine was empty, Cash observed, "Typically, people like this are concentrating on committing the act. For them, it's a bang-bang operation. Get in, get the machine, and get out as fast as they can. They probably didn't even take the time to check what the various signs might have had on them."

A bit of trivia for today

Regarding "Today is..." It should be noted that Russ White, the regular contributor for this column is involved in another assignment for the next few days. As a result, Nick Pfeiffauf will be compiling the information regarding each passing day. Trivia for today

Today Is...
NICK PFEIFFAUF

Let's start out with some trivia connected to today. Who were Mary E. Surratt, Lewis Payne, David E. Harold and George A. Atzerodt? Today is the anniversary of their death, but why, under what circumstances, and amidst what controversy did they perish? The answer is in the last few paragraphs of this column. See if you can come up with the answer before we get that far.

Hi to Hawaii

Today is the anniversary of the annexation of Hawaii to the United States. Before it was included as one of the states, (long before), it was considered a territory. President William McKinley signed a resolution annexing Hawaii on July 7, 1898.

It isn't believed that anyone started shouting with joy over the event. Absolutely nothing changed. The Hawaiian government remained completely in charge until the year 1900 when Congress passed an act making Hawaii an "incorporated" territory of the U.S.

All that meant was that the U.S. government would include expenditures for Hawaii in the federal budget. Again, it meant nothing more.

The actual big day came on August 21, 1959 when Hawaii became the 50th state. But we will discuss that in this column next month.

Someday I'll be a Starr

Just to make you feel like you're getting older, former Beatles drummer Richard Starkey, (known as Ringo Starr) turns 58 today. Former Tonight Show band leader and trumpeter Doc Severinsen turns 71. Former President Jimmy Carter and his wife Rosalynn are observing their 52nd wedding anniversary. No longer with us, baseball hall-of-famer Leroy Robert (Satchel) Paige was born on July 7 1906. He was the first black pitcher inducted into the hall. Even our primary historical source is sometimes incorrect however, as it shows that he died also on July 7, 1906. (He actually died in 1982).

Under control

As for the future, everyone hopes today, July 7, 1998 will be considered as the day the fires in Central Florida were declared all under control, and even more hopefully, that it's the day they were finally extinguished.

Did you know the answer

Back to our trivia question. Surratt, Payne, Harold and Atzerodt died by hanging on July 7, 1865 in Washington, D.C. They were accused of being involved in the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln almost three months earlier.

The hanging death of Mary Surratt came into controversy for several reasons. Her only involvement in the assassination was the fact that she owned the boarding house in which John Wilkes Booth is said to have planned the deed. She was also said to be the first woman ever executed for a crime (officially) by hanging, in the United States. Until that time, our laws prevented women from execution by hanging.

Which brings us to the local area and another trivia question. The last person (and possibly the only one) ever legally hanged for committing a crime in the city of Sanford, was done on a scaffold at the rear of the Sanford Fire Station, then located in the 100 block of S. Palmetto Avenue. The station was abandoned by the department in 1975.

I have been unable to find out the crime, the name of the person, when it occurred or any other details, and would appreciate anyone with such information writing to the Herald. While it may not be some of the "glorious" past in the city's history, it is, nonetheless, part of the history, and would be interesting information.

One day, everything is so dry we don't know what to do. The next day, it's so wet, we don't know what to do. Above, Sara Rempe, an employee with the Seminole County Property Appraisers office in Sanford, heads to her car to move it to higher ground. Strange but true, the move was required only a short time after a traditional Cheyenne rain dance was performed at Sanford's Fort Mellon Park.

Dance

War. Dave, of Cherokee decent, and his family members have maintained the Ocala National Forest as their home grounds. In addition to his rain dancing in Sanford, he is a popular musician and song stylist, with a list of musical appearances including many with Native American stylings.

While the rain dance was not heavily publicized, a number of interested onlookers attended the event at Fort Mellon Park at noon Monday.

According to records, the Sanford area ended up with 1.58 inches of rain shortly after the conclusion of the rain dance, while some surrounding areas had almost 3 inches of rainfall.

While the rain did not completely quell all of the woods fires in Central Florida, authorities say they were a big help, and with a few minor exceptions, no new woodland fires were reported overnight.

The Village of Many Tribes, a fully chartered non-profit organization, presently has its headquarters at 250 International Parkway, Suite 114 in Heathrow. For information on the organization, phone 805-9131.

Update

Safety officials say there is currently an abundant amount of supplies, with the majority having been transported to the front lines in surrounding counties.

However, the department, on behalf of all of Seminole County, is saying "Thank You" to all citizens and businesses that donated items to the fire fighters.

Red Cross assistance

CENTRAL FLORIDA - In the latest American Red Cross report issued late yesterday evening, it was reported a total of 1,241 persons had been sheltered during the peak of the fires, being served 82,111 meals. A total of 796 Red Cross workers have been involved thus far with 228 still on duty as of Sunday night.

Persons still requiring American Red Cross assistance are asked to phone 1-800-634-4661.

Extra Points...

Jeff Berlinicke

Herald Staff Writer

It was a good weekend to catch up on your sleeping

SANFORD - Fourth of July weekend is supposed to be one of the big look forward-to events of the year.

By late Sunday night, I had taken about four naps and slept in all weekend.

Yawn.

I'm no couch potato even though my physique might suggest that. Normally, I get out to the golf course at least once a weekend and at least try to give the couch a little bit of time to get rid of a permanent indent of my butt.

This time, plans were changed.

First of all, it was too smoky to hit the ball around the golf course 110 times. At least I got to see the stars of the LPGA do that in the final round of the U.S. Open Sunday, but more on that later.

Forget about auto racing because there wasn't any. I was kind of looking forward to going to my first Pepsi 400 or, for that matter, my first NASCAR race.

So much for that idea.

(By the way, anybody who complained about the cancellation of that race as fires blazed through Central Florida should be forced to watch the World Cup consolation game this Saturday).

So it was time to settle down for a day of channel surfing.

I almost drowned doing it.

There was baseball on FOX.

Who cares. I don't care about the former national pastime and neither should you.

Time to nap before the golf came on at 4.

Oh year, I think there was some tennis match on Saturday. Jana Something versus Somebody Nobody Ever Heard Of. At least it gave me a chance to sleep in.

Back to golf.

There was none.

Now I know I'll sound like a selfish brute, living in Sanford, out of harm's way, but was it necessary for all three networks to show 24-hour fire coverage without anything to report?

Hour after hour, the folks at the three local networks gave us the same Super Double Doppler information (no chance of rain, high humidity).

We all knew I-95 was closed from here to Jax. The only thing the stations did was show interviews with people who lost their homes and were holed up in shelters.

Frankly, if my residence ever burns to the ground, please, local television, stay out of my face.

There were also countless pictures of burning bushes. To me, they all looked the same, but that didn't stop the heroic news faces from getting as close to the brush fires as possible in an attempt to show us that the bushes were actually on fire.

Again, I know the fires affected more people than myself, but, if there's no news, there's no sense in being a purveyor of human tragedy.

So, anyway, I missed my golf and fell asleep to burning bushes.

Saturday night, the Fourth, was no better. I think ESPN was showing a dog show.

By Sunday morning, at least the local news station showed the Wimbledon men's final, but cut in during the awards presentation to show us that bushes were still on fire and that I-95 was still closed.

Sampira beat somebody who's name I can't spell and isn't in this computer's spell-check.

Then, there was the Wimbledon doubles competition.

I took a nap an hour after I woke up.

Around 2 p.m., the Pirates were playing the Cubs, but Sammy Sosa wasn't in the lineup. Apparently he slept on his shoulder the wrong way.

Seriously.

He must have been watching Wimbledon and dozed.

At 4 p.m., it was time for golf. In the PGA event, a bunch of guys who don't fly their own jets from event to event were battling it

Longwood youngster starring in USA baseball tryouts

HERALD SPORTS EDITOR

TUCSON, AZ. - Lake Brantley High School baseball coach Mike Smith took a team of 20 players, made up of local area high school players, to compete in the USA Baseball Junior Olympic Tournament in Tucson, Arizona from June 19-27.

The team won its first four games before losing to Maryland. The team bounced back to beat Utah to advance to the elite eight out of 52 teams that were entered.

The team was then eliminated from medal contention, again losing to Maryland.

The squad was led by the hitting of Longwood's Kevin Melillo, a second baseman from Lake Brantley High School, and the pitching of Fritz Conrad, from West Orange High School in Winter Garden.

Melillo, who played on Longwood's 13-year old National Babe Ruth Championship squad in 1995, went 13-for-25 (.520) at the plate with five triples, two doubles, six stolen bases, 14 RBI and 12 runs scored.

Conrad was 2-0 on the mound, striking out 28 in 13 innings and giving up only two earned runs for an ERA of 1.54.

Despite not having much rain over the past three months, it still got very wet at Pinhurst Park Monday night, washing out the scheduled Co-Ed Slow Pitch Softball tripleheader.

The league will play the games scheduled for this week next Monday night, then conclude the season (weather permitting) on July 20th.

Also rained out Monday night were the opening rounds of several Little League Baseball and Softball district tournaments and regular season American Legion contests.

Action should pick up around the county again tonight, but there is a 50-percent chance of more thunderstorms this evening.

SANFORD - Mother Nature put a hold on the stretch run of the Sanford Recreation Department Spring Co-Ed Slow Pitch Softball League at Pinhurst Park Monday night.

Because of Monday's thunderstorm and heavy rain, the league will wait a week to see if a playoff to decide the champion will be needed.

Beer :30 and Kempke Music Service are both 8-1 and are being trailed by MJO (4-5), Maronda Homes (3-5), Sanford Christian Church (2-5) and the Seminole Scoop (0-5).

Next Monday night at Pinhurst Park, Kempke Music Service and Beer :30 both finish their regular season schedules with Kempke Music Service battling Maronda Homes at 6:30 p.m. and Beer :30 taking on the Seminole Scoop at 7:30 p.m.

The final game of the evening has MJO taking on Sanford Christian Church at 8:30 p.m.

The regular season is now set to end on July 20th with Sanford Christian Church playing a doubleheader against the Seminole Scoop at 7 p.m. and Maronda Homes at 8 p.m. But the schedule

Champs nip Surge in sudden death OT

Special to the Herald

LONGWOOD - The Orlando Surge lost their first game of the season to the undefeated Anaheim Bulldogs, 6-5, in a climactic sudden death shoot out in a MLRH (Major League Roller Hockey) contest at Inlines Skate Center in Longwood Saturday afternoon.

The Surge dominated the first half, leading the defending RHI (currently inactive Roller Hockey International) champions 5-1.

The home team took a 1-0 lead with 2:12 left in the first period as Mike Martens scored on assists from Brett Larson and Francois Leroux.

The Surge would score again before the end of the period as with just 0:41 showing on the clock, Jocelyn Langlois beat the Bulldogs goalie after assists from Leroux and Alex Alepin.

The hosts appeared headed for another easy victory as they scored twice within 26-seconds early in the second period to make the score 4-0.

Surge Captain Kyle Reeves got the first goal with help from Jamie Cooke and Langlois and the sec-

FT. LAUDERDALE - The Nova Southeastern University Department of Athletics has announced its new athletes for the 1998-99 school year and a pair of Lyman High School graduates are among them.

The Hickey twins, Brianne and Meghanne, have decided to continue their athletic and educational pursuits at the Ft. Lauderdale-based University.

And both are planning on doing something that is almost unheard of these days, playing two sports, volleyball and basketball.

Brianne is a 5-foot-9 middle hitter who led Seminole County in digs and kills and was the Most Valuable Player on the Greyhound squad.

Meghanne is a 5-foot-9 outside hitter who was an All-County Honorable Mention in both basketball and volleyball.

The volleyball team begins play in just over two months, as coach Cheryl Morgan's netters will participate in the Palm Beach Atlantic College Fall Invitational on August 28th.

The Hickey's are also guard/forwards on the hardwood and will be a part of the Knights first women's basketball team this fall.

school in parenthesis, were: George Brandner, Lanter Bush, Eric Werrenratt, Andrew Van Landingham, Dwayne Driggers, Scott Myers, Paul Cross, Ian Holmen, Rickie Weeks, John Dickson, Bryan Smith, Greg Motrera (Lake Brantley), Luke Lockwood, Ross Decker (Lake Howell), Todd Leitz, Bernie Rosario (Ocala-Vanguard), Ed Tanzi (Winter Park) and James Scrubbs (Lake Highland).

For their efforts Melillo and Conrad, who will be junior's at their respective high schools this fall, were among 23 players selected to try out for the USA Baseball 1998 Youth National-Junior Olympic Team.

After staying in Tucson for another week of trying out and practices, the USA Baseball Committee gave the local duo the good news, they had made the final cut of 18 and would be members of the team that will represent the USA in the World Youth Championship Games on July 11-19 in Fairview Heights, Illinois.

The USA squad will open up against Japan on July 11th.

Melillo has stayed hot in a pair of exhibition games against the Australian 'AA' Colts.

On Friday, at Hi Corbett Field in Tucson, Melillo was 2-for-3, including a double, scored a run and drove in one as the Americans edged the Colts 9-8.

The USA team then put on a pre-fireworks display of their own on Saturday, crushing the Colts 28-7.

Leading 2-1 in the top of the third inning, the USA offense ignited. The Americans sent 19 batters to the plate and tagged the Australian pitching corps for 11 hits and 14 runs.

Every player in the USA lineup scored at least once and five scored twice. Designated hitter Dane Artman from Key West, led the attack, going 4-for-5 with a double, three runs scored and four RBI.

Melillo wasn't bad either, going 2-for-6 with a double, two runs scored and three RBI.

The team was to have played the Arizona All-Stars on Monday, but the game was canceled due to inclement weather and poor field conditions.

Tonight, the USA will play its final tune-up prior to heading to the International Baseball Association's World Youth Championship by taking on the Arizona Baseball Academy 18-and-Under team at 6 p.m. Arizona time.

The team will head to Illinois on Wednesday and prepare to take on a field that includes Australia, Brazil, Chinese Taipei, Czech Republic, Italy, Japan, Korea, Mexico, South Africa, Ukraine and Venezuela.

Melillo and Conrad left Orlando on June 19th and will not return home until July 20th.

Both said they miss home, but are excited about representing the USA and hope to bring home a medal.

Surge

10:11 left in the half, came from Cooke with assists from Reeves and Langlois.

Anaheim's only first half score came with 5:28 left on the clock on an a goal from Darren Colbourne on assists from Mark Woolf and Bill Lund.

The Surge got the goal back with 1:54 left in the half as the newest member of the team, Brett Larson, scored on a feed from Langlois.

The Bulldogs regrouped at intermission and outscored the Surge 2-0 in the third period on a pair of goals by Mark Woolf. The first came at 7:47 on an assist from Lund and the second came at 8:31 on an assist from John Hanson.

Beginning the fourth period with the Surge leading 5-3, Anaheim attacked again, with Captain Darren Perkins scoring a goal at 4:56 on assists from Lund and Woolf.

The Surge seemed to get the answer to that score as Langlois appeared to beat the Bulldogs goaltender with approximately one minute left in the contest.

Though the goal judge hit the siren signifying a score, the linesman, in a call that was extremely controversial with the home crowd, waived off the goal, leaving the score at 5-4, in favor of the Surge.

Following the waive off, Anaheim pulled its goalie and placed an additional man on the floor in an effort to tie the score.

The strategy paid off with 9.6-seconds remaining as Colbourne put one in the net for the Bulldogs, tying the score at 5-5. Kevin St. Jacques and Taj Melson assisted on the tying goal.

Neither team could gain an advantage in the five-person shoot out, forcing a sudden death shoot out.

Perkins missed the Bullfrogs' first shot, but so did the Surge's Larson. Melson hit Anaheim's second attempt, which turned out to be the winning goal when Alepin's shot was blocked.

Woolf paced the Bullfrogs' attack with two goals and two assists, while Colbourne added two goals and Perkins one score. Lund chipped in with three assists and Hanson, St. Jacques and Melson contributed one assist each.

Langlois led the Surge with a goal and three assists. Larson, Reeves and Cooked contributed one goal and one assist each and Martens had a goal and Alepin an assist.

The Surge (6-0-1) will meet Southern Division rival South Carolina (3-2-1) at Inlines Skate Center on Wednesday (July 8th) at 7 p.m.

Led by Reeves, the MLRH-scoring leader averaging four goals and 2.4-assists per game, the Surge look to outlast goaltender Ken Shepard (8.85 goals allowed per game) and the Fire Ants for the second time this season. Orlando pounded South Carolina 14-6 on June 13.

Inlines Skate Center is located at 745 Fleet Financial Court, Suite 100. Take 437 and turn onto General Hutchinson Parkway. Inlines is immediately on the right. Parking is in the rear.
