Our Changing Language

We have often heard arguments between the younger and the older generations regarding the spelling or pronunciation of some word. The older declares it is thus and so, while the younger invariably looks with eyes of disdain and declares that it never was that way, that it was this way. Son and daughters think their parents are old foggyish and perhaps never had any education any way and are merely stalling when they insist that pronunciations have changed since they went to school.

But the English language is nevertheless constantly changing, in spelling, in pronunciation, in diction itself. We are not of the ultra-modern school which now spells "write" "rite", and "thorough", "thoro", but we have no doubt that the time will come when simplified spelling, as abundant as it may be, will hold sway throughout the English speaking world. We can remember when a plane was a carpenter's tool; now within a few short years, it is nothing else, as far as ninety percent of the people are concerned an aeroplane.

To prove our contention that the English language is constantly changing, we have only to go back a few hundred years and cite some examples of what it was then. For instance, at about the time Columbus was discovering San Salvador, William Caxton, the first newspaperman in England, was sending out to an eager public such lines as these: "There was a child of Rome that was named Lapirus that on a tyme went with his fader whiche was a senator into the chambre where as they helde their counceyll", which was considered good English in that day.

Geoffrey Chaucer was an Englishman who lived in the latter part of the fourteenth century, and naturally enough spoke English, but few of us would recognize it as such today. How hard have we tried to translate: "Whan that April with his shoures soote The droghte of Marche hath perced to the roote, And bathed every veyne in swich licour, Of which vertu engendred is the flour," And those lines from Spenser's Faerie Queene: "Lal the man whose muse whyvyns did make, As lime her taught, in lowly shophards weeds, Am now enforst, a farrre unfetter loken, For trumpets sterne to chaunge mine outen reeds, And sing of knyghts and ladies gentle deed," Pronunciations do not change? Spelling does not change? English does not change? Somewhere in Shakespeare, we remember a line which read, "It stinks, and stinks 'Aye!' English, mind you, but do you know what it means?"

Appropriation Needed

Seminole County citizens who have probably had about as much experience with the Mediterranean fruit fly as those of any other section in Florida, are much interested in this congressional investigation committee which proposes to find out how the last government appropriation was spent and how much money is needed for the next appropriation. The Tampa Tribune points out that it is a foregone conclusion that fifty million dollars are required, as follows:

"A congressional investigation of the fruit fly situation is proposed in a resolution adopted by the House, at the instance of Chairman Wood, who declares he has evidence, from Secret Service sources, of 'damnable and condemnatory' conditions. Wood's statement is not surprising in view of his well known attitude toward the fly campaign.

"The investigation is to be made by the House Committee on Appropriations (Wood's Committee) through a delegated subcommittee. It is proposed to ascertain how the money already appropriated has been spent and how much more is required. This should not be at all difficult. It is a matter of easily produced record how the money has been spent and it is a matter of ready reckoning how much more will be necessary.

"Indeed, the latter question has been answered by the Department of Agriculture and President Hoover, who has submitted an estimate of $15,000,000, based on a careful study of the situation. The House Committee probably will find the same conditions, needs and figures of amounts mutually the same. Several other committees or boards have made full investigation on the ground and reached the conclusion that the work has been well done and should be continued.

"Mr. Wood's hope, doubtless, is to obtain verification of the charges he has made regarding the fruit fly campaign. Florida will welcome the investigation, with the fear only that it will be indefinitely prolonged, while the campaign lags or ceases for lack of financial support."

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

By Robert Barry

For no good reason at all there is a terrible hullabaloo in Washington over the selection of James West, White House correspondent of the Associated Press, as a substitute man for the Republican National Committee.

I am told that a committee of even-tempered newspaper men sent to Senator Watson of Indiana, the Administration floor manager in the Senate to protest, I know something of the shortcoming of professional jealousy in Washington. I am amazed that Senator Watson gave rise to such etymology.

The story is told that another group of twelve Washington correspondents took it upon themselves to protest the appointment of Mr. West to a responsible position with the Republican National Committee on the ground that he was a "Virginia Democrat."

Having known "Jim" West for some years without knowing whether he was a Buddhist, a Democrat or a Virginian, I am inclined to protest my personal acquaintance in the Senate press gallery by asserting that the Hoover Administration is fortunate to have Mr. West.

As the story goes, the publicity which the talented "Charley" Michelson, former chief of the World's Washington bureau, has accumulated has put under the skin of the Hoover Administration the seeds of something ought to be done about it.

It is a matter in which the President has given his personal attention.

Senator Moore, New Hampshire Chairman of the Republican Senate Campaign Committee, which will have to stand the puff for the loss of eight or ten Republican seats in the Senate next November, has not believed that a high priced publicity man was necessary. "Jim" Shay has been doing a very effective job. Senator Moore has appreciated it.

Charles Hutton, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, turned down two or three men of National prominence for the publicity job to match Michelson's functions on the Democratic side of the fence.

Somebody or other it came to the notice of President Hoover that "Jim" West might be available for the Republican job. The President asked Mr. West if he would not come down to Washington to see the President and to see how he could be of service to the President.

Mr. Hoover likes "Jim" West. He came to know him during the Presidential campaign of 1928. He drew to report West as the closest man to the President.

West is a man who has been in the White House for a long time. He has been in the White House for a long time. He has been in the White House for a long time. He has been in the White House for a long time.

West is a man who has been in the White House for a long time. He has been in the White House for a long time. He has been in the White House for a long time. He has been in the White House for a long time.

"In getting up Washington," says The Louisville Courier-Journal, "there should be a list of words to be avoided. The list should include: 'The White House', 'The President', 'The Administration', 'The Government', 'The Nation', 'The People', 'The World', 'The Universe', 'The Cosmos', 'The Galaxy', 'The Universe', 'The Cosmos', 'The Galaxy'.

ROLLINS HALL IS FIRST PORTION IN DORMITORY PLAN

Unit Was Constructed With Funds Left By Founder Of College

WINTER PARK, Fla., Feb. 12.—Rollins Hall, a $50,000 dormitory, is the first portion of the first dormitory plan to be completed in the plan to give Rollins College, a distinctive group of buildings of the Spanish-Mediterranean type of architecture.

ROLLINS HALL

New $50,000 dormitory which is the first portion of the first dormitory plan to be completed in the plan to give Rollins College, a distinctive group of buildings of the Spanish-Mediterranean type of architecture.

Rollins Hall is named for the late Edward Warren Rollins, who gave $25,000 toward the cost. In accordance with the wishes of its donor, Rollins Hall has been built as a complete building with ample space provided for reading, recreation, and entertainment. Formal education of Rollins Hall as a dormitory for men will take place during February. Work began February 21 to 25, it is announced.

The new building is 72 feet long, 42 feet wide, and has a total area of 3,024 square feet. It is built of concrete and is finished with Spanish-Mediterranean style with stucco exterior, red tile roof, and a central tower. The architect is the originator of this type of architecture which is considered to be particularly adapted to Florida both in its climate and as a utilitarian standpoint.

The exterior shows an old Spanish texture, brownish-tan in color, highlighted in three tones, and set off by ornamental arches and lines and decorations, with massive columns which support the main entrance which opens on a large porch. The porch runs the entire length of the building, and the hand-made tile floor gives a touch of color to the exterior.

The first floor contains a large living room, with fireplace, a parlor, a dining room, a general room, a common room, and a sun porch. Two large staircases lead to the second floor which is given over to dormitory accommodations. Several porches extending the entire width of the building are located at each of the second floor. All rooms of the dormitory have built-in furniture. Bathrooms are provided with complete plumbing and hot water. The third floor is a continuation of the second, an open space of three feet, containing a complete installation of laundry plant. The Rollins Building is the first of a group of buildings to be constructed at Winter Park, Fla., by the contractor.
