

General Bradley Disparages Talk Of Another War

MILWAUKEE, June 20 (AP)—General Omar Bradley said today that "if we once again risk disaster by turning our backs on the world, we shall not be given another chance." "There is not enough room in the world for both civilization and atomic conflict," he said.

"Twice the United States has snatched victory out of defeat in the event of another war, we shall become the target."

The Veterans Administrator disparaged talk of "another and inevitable war," however. People who follow this line display a lack of faith in America, he said in an address prepared for the national convention of the American Veterans Committee.

"Democracy," Bradley asserted, "can lose through the fears of its people, through their failure to trust in its strength, through timidity in meeting problems at home and confusion in solving problems abroad."

He said American people must:

1. Be prepared to sustain a bold foreign policy.
2. Strive for economic security which will give other nations confidence in the wealth and productivity of the American system.
3. Contribute willingly to maintenance of armed strength "essential to the security and stability of the world."

Bradley advised the AVC to oppose additional benefits and special privileges for veterans. "There is no such thing as a free ride on the government for any deserving citizen," he said.

"Veterans who demand unwarranted expenditures now are saddling themselves with an unreasonable tax burden in future years."

Lions Meeting

(Continued from Page One) develop this quality more. People would often not have such a hard time in finding out a person's best qualities if that person would develop a more friendly spirit in meeting people and smile, he pointed out.

He told of a survey made of stations by an oil company, the officials of which, when they received the reports, were impressed with the number of instances where employees had failed to greet customers with a smile, thanked them and asked them to come back.

Render a little more service than you are called upon to do, he told the Lions. Don't be a clock watcher. The man whose interest in his work is only for a monetary purpose has completely failed to realize the purpose of his life, he asserted.

"I presume that fear causes more people in the world to fail to accomplish than any other thing," said Mr. Housholder. Often they are afraid to make a step forward due to the fear of not accomplishing some new project. He cited Abraham Lincoln as one who faced almost continual defeat yet forged ahead to become president, and stressed the value of faith in self as a good recipe for accomplishment.

Truman Veto

(Continued from Page One) might occur before the board of inquiry could make its report or perhaps even before the board could be appointed," Mr. Truman said.

The measure was sent to the House where Republican leaders already had marshaled their forces for a quick vote to override the veto and pass the measure over Mr. Truman's disapproval.

Here are the major provisions of the bill:

1. Let the government get court orders to block "national calamity" strikes, as in the coal or steel industries, during 90 days of mediation.
2. Forbid the closed shop, in which the boss can hire only union help.
3. Ban various kinds of special strikes and boycotts.
4. Permit court suits against unions that break contracts.
5. Deny collective bargaining rights to any union having as an officer a Communist or sympathizer, or anyone who could "reasonably be regarded as one."
6. Make it an unfair labor practice, which could be stopped by a court order, for a union to keep non-striking workers from their jobs by mass or violent picketing.
7. Forbid "excessive or discriminatory" union dues and initiation fees.

In a 5,600 word message, the President told the Congress members that the legislation is a "clear threat to the successful working of our democratic society." He declared:

"The bill would go far toward weakening our trade union movement, and it would go far toward destroying our national unity."

"By raising barriers between labor and management and by injecting political considerations into normal economic decisions, it would invite them to gain their ends through direct political action."

"I think it would be exceedingly dangerous to our country to develop a class basis for political action."

The President said there still is a genuine opportunity for enactment of this session of appropriate labor legislation, and added:

"I still feel that the recommendations which I expressed in the State of the Union message constitute an adequate basis for legislation which is moderate in spirit and which relates to known abuses."

In that message in January, the President said he recommended "a step-by-step approach" and indicated specifically problems which should be handled immediately. He also proposed a non-partisan investigation covering the entire field of labor-management legislation. He said he was "fairly convinced" that such a measure would weaken the economy and weaken the unity of the people.

The President's veto was the second one slapped on legislation developed by the Republican-dominated Congress in line with pledges made by party speakers in last year's political campaigns which gave it control of the national legislature.

Two big GOP campaign promises were:

1. A reduction in taxes.
2. Revision of the labor laws.

Mr. Truman vetoed their cutting bill last Monday and the House upheld his action by a two vote margin. Today's action swept away any remnants of White House-Congress cooperation in the domestic field that had survived last Monday's veto.

Disagreeing with the whole philosophy of the labor measure, the President declared it would be "a dangerous strike in the direction of a totally managed economy" and said "it contains seeds of discord which would plague this nation for years to come."

In an analysis of the legislation, the President declared he had put it to four tests. He said:

1. That he had considered whether it would result in more or less government intervention in our economic life and concluded it would "inject the government deeply into the process by which employers and workers reach agreement" and "superimpose bureaucratic procedures on the free decisions of local employers and employees."
2. That in a second basic test as to whether it would improve

"human relations" between management and labor, he had concluded "it would encourage distrust, suspicion, and arbitrary attitudes," inviting "costly, time-consuming litigation, inevitably embittering both parties."

3. On the third "basic test" as to whether the bill is workable, he had concluded it is not and that so-called "emergency procedures" for coping with nation-wide strikes "would require an immense amount of government effort but would result almost inevitably in failure."

4. On a "test of fairness," he said, the bill "prescribes unequal penalties for the same offenses," requiring the National Labor Relations Board "to give priority to charges against workers over related charges against employers," discriminating against workers "by arbitrarily penalizing them for all critical strikes."

5. On a "test of fairness," he said, the bill "prescribes unequal penalties for the same offenses," requiring the National Labor Relations Board "to give priority to charges against workers over related charges against employers," discriminating against workers "by arbitrarily penalizing them for all critical strikes."

He contended also the measure would bring on strikes by depriving "defiant groups" of the right to organize and bargain by classifying broad groups as "supervisors."

"The bill would force unions to strike or boycott if they wish to have a jurisdictional dispute settled by the National Labor Relations Board," the President continued. He said this is because the board is given authority to determine jurisdictional disputes over assignment of work "only after such disputes have been converted into strikes or boycotts."

While he said the bill seemingly preserved the right of employers and employees to agree to the "union shop," the President said "it would place such a multitude of obstacles in the way of such agreement that union security and responsibility would be largely cancelled."

The bill would limit the freedom of employers and employees to establish and maintain welfare funds "by prescribing arbitrary methods of administering them" and "limiting the purposes for which they may be used."

It would present the danger that labor and management "might be prohibited from agreeing on safety provisions, rest period rules, and many legitimate practices, since such practices may fall under the language defining 'feather-bedding.'"

The bill would encourage labor organizations "to engage in constant inter-union warfare" and "generate rating and jurisdictional disputes."

It would prevent an employer "from freely granting a union shop contract, even where he and virtually his entire working force were in agreement as to its desirability."

The measure, the President added, "would also put a powerful new weapon in the hands of employers by permitting them to initiate elections at times strategically advantageous to them and

Several hundred automobile workers marched on the National Assembly to demand their pay. Police dispersed the fight 50 to reach the square behind the assembly building, the Place du Palais Bourbon, and a second and bigger crowd broke up peacefully after sending a delegation inside. Police guards around the building had been doubled when word came that some 2,000 workers had gathered in front of the suburban Hispano-Suiza automobile factory and were planning the march.

Some marchers in the first group were taken to a nearby police station for verification of their identity papers. This group carried a Red flag labeled "CGT," initials of the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor.

Communist deputies in the assembly received the workers' delegates and listened to their demands. Socialist and publicist republicans present refused to receive the delegation.

They would deprive workers of the power to meet the competition of goods produced under sweat shop conditions by permitting employers to halt every type of secondary boycott, not merely those for unjustifiable purposes.

Mr. Truman also contended the legislation would "strait jacket" the National Labor Relations Board's operations by a "series of special restrictions unknown to any other quasi-judicial agency."

The procedure provided for dealing with major strikes affecting the public health or safety, the President argued, would "do more harm than good" and increase rather than diminish "wide-spread industrial disturbances."

On that, he said:

"I am convinced that the country would be in for a bitter disappointment if these provisions of the bill became law."

Repair Bids Asked On County Roads

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 20 (AP)—The State Road Department today asked contractors to submit bids July 15 on 70 miles of road and bridge work in 12 counties.

The proposed projects are located in Dade, Nassau, Duval, Gadsden, Citrus, Taylor, Madison, Dixie, Seminole, Volusia, Hendry and Polk counties.

The project includes resurfacing four sections totaling 13 miles of roads 15, 46, 415 and 600 in Volusia and Seminole counties.

At Hannibal the Red Cross made preparations for caring for 1,000 persons expected to be made homeless. The Mississippi River reached a stage of 22.9 feet last night, a foot under its high mark of the previous flood.

In interior Missouri, the Missouri River was overflowing more lowlands between Lexington and Booneville.

Water was receding at Oakville and Wapello, on the Iowa River. Oakville Mayor O. D. Johnson said the crest there of 18.6 feet, was more than two feet higher than the 1929 previous record. Oakville was completely evacuated but life water got into the town of 440 population as voluntary workers managed to hold the levees.

At Ottumwa, water was receding slowly, but still was four feet above flood stage.

The Mississippi continued to rise at Keokuk and A. A. Kowert, chief engineer for Quincy, Ill., said the great would reach Keokuk about noon.

Page, supervisor of transfer of the ACL at Savannah, who on a visit here this morning predicted that the new fireproof terminal building would be of fine advantage to Sanford.

Sanford is not considered a transfer point now as during the war when it "saved the day" by serving as a statewide transfer point to relieve the overcrowded facilities at Waycross, Ga., he said. The new freight terminal is designed to give service to Sanford and Seminole County.

"I am a great believer in Sanford," declared Mr. Page. "It has wonderful, natural advantages with its lake and river location and its vegetable section. He praised the work of the freight terminal men here who, he said, did a great wartime job during the emergency.

Waycross now has fine mechanized loading equipment and two thousand foot platforms, and can accommodate 125 cars at a time on the eight tracks, he revealed. This will handle "all normal transfer traffic for Florida, but in an emergency Sanford facilities could again be used, he said.

State Control Board Holds Orlando Meet

DAYTONA BEACH, June 20 (AP)—Hal Davis, 17, Quincy, was elected state president of the Florida Association of Future Farmers at the association's final meeting here this morning.

The Quincy future farmer, choice of the nominating committee, was elected on the first ballot, defeating Green Mc Cornick, Sumnerfield, and William Moore, Pompano, for the top office.

Davis is a twelfth grade student at Quincy High School and president of the Quincy FFA chapter. He holds the state farmer degree and has received a $100 scholarship to the University of Florida for having the best all around exhibit at the Quincy stock show.

Veto Reaction

(Continued from Page One) adoption of a new measure to the President's recommendations. He said the things Mr. Truman proposes already are in the Taft-Hartley bill and that Congress would make it "law, veto or no veto."

Halleck noted that 103 House Democrats voted for the bill when the case passed it while 60 Democrats opposed it. In this minority, Halleck said, were "radical New Dealers."

"Henry Wallace need not worry any more about forming a third party," Halleck added. "In his veto message Mr. Truman practically turned the Democratic party over to Wallace and his gang."

While Republican party leaders denounced it, AFL President William Green praised President Truman's veto. Green said it was "a masterpiece of statesmanship" and that the President "has stately upheld the fundamental principles of freedom and fair dealing in industrial relations which the Taft-Hartley bill set out to wreck."

The veto of the Taft-Hartley labor bill was described today by President Walter P. Reuther of the CIO United Auto Workers as "an act of courage and wise statesmanship."

Reuther added, "His action calls for the same kind of courage and statesmanship on the part of all congressmen in both parties who believe in progress." He urged Congress to uphold the veto.

In the late afternoon, the prospects as to the time for a Senate vote were uncertain. It was clear that Democrats would want to, and could by talking, force a delay until after the President's speech.

One Republican leader said efforts were underway to get an informal agreement fixing a time for a Senate vote tomorrow.

He said this hinged on whether the Republicans would provide a "pat," a parliamentary device by which senators register their views when they are absent, for Senator Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) who is in Geneva attending the World Trade Conference.

Democrats were reported willing to vote tomorrow if Thomas' absence could be matched by two absentees on the side of those supporting the bill. It requires two-thirds of those voting to override a veto.

The House acted on the bill swiftly and with little demonstration. A bellow of boos came from the Republican side when reading of the President's message was ended. Some applause came from the Democratic side.

HARTLEY-TAFT LABOR BILL BECOMES LAW

Russia Will Join Britain, France Meet

Foreign Ministers To Hold Conference On Marshall Plan Friday In Paris

LONDON, June 23, (AP)—Russia announced today she would join Britain and France in a conference on American aid to Europe, and France called the three European foreign ministers to meet in Paris Friday.

The French Foreign Ministry said it would be happy to welcome Russia's V. M. Molotov and Britain's Ernest Bevin to join the conference on the Marshall plan. The French expressed "lively satisfaction" at the Soviet suggestion that the meeting begin Friday.

In London, Bevin told the House of Commons:

"The Soviet government agrees that the primary problem of European countries at present is the quickest possible reconstruction and further development of their national economy which has been destroyed by the war."

Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, welcomed Bevin's announcement of Russian agreement to the three-power meeting. Extending his best wishes to the British delegation, Eden said:

"They may make swift and sure progress."

All afternoon newspapers in Paris gave top play to the meeting. France-Sol declared the conference beginning Friday would determine the success or failure of the next four-power meeting of foreign ministers at London in November. The Paris-Tresse cautioned that Russia's "yes" might be modified by several "ifs" or "buts."

Russia delivered a note of acceptance to Bidault yesterday at his country home near Rambouillet, and early today had the official agency Tass broadcast public announcement. Several hours later France announced the Friday date was acceptable.

William L. Clayton, U. S. Under Secretary of State for economic affairs, who arrived in London yesterday, was expected to begin meetings today with Bevin and other cabinet ministers on the proposed aid program.

British government informants looked for him to propose that a U. S. observer attend the British-Soviet-French talks. They mentioned Paul Porter, head of the U. S. Mission for Economic Affairs.

In Rome a foreign ministry official said that Italy viewed the Marshall plan for American aid to reconstructing Europe with "profound satisfaction" and would help make it work.

Dr. Umberto Grazzi, economic director of the ministry, said, however, that Italy would insist on participating on "a footing of parity" with other nations and not with a feeling that "we are beggars." He said notes had been (Continued on Page Two)

Senate Committee Votes Increase In Navy Budget

$176,500,000 Is Added To Give U. S. Well-Balanced Fleet

WASHINGTON, June 23, (AP)—Legislation making permanent the present 3-cent postage rate on first class letters was passed unanimously by the House today. The rate will revert to 2 cents on July 1, 1947, unless the Senate and the President also approve the legislation before then.

WASHINGTON, June 23, (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee today added $176,500,000 to the Navy appropriation voted by the House, an increase which Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass.) declared will give the nation "a powerful, well-balanced fighting fleet."

The measure approved by the committee will give the Navy's personnel strength of 395,000 enlisted men and 43,000 officers; an active fleet of 293 combat ships; and 5,793 aircraft, exclusive of those used for reserve training.

This is 1,000 more officers and 40,000 more men than allowed by the House bill; 24 more combat ships, and 252 more aircraft.

Saltonstall, chairman of the subcommittee which considered details of the program, declared the net effect of the changes voted today would be to add $15,500,000 in usable appropriations to the sum voted by the House.

The Senate Committee voted to authorize approximately $3,462,000,000 in new money for the fiscal year beginning July 1. This compares with the $3,285,500,000 voted by the House, and the $3,668,000,000 asked by President Truman.

Saltonstall told reporters the Senate Committee's action permits operation of the same number of ships the President asked for, and substantially fulfills his requests for personnel and operating aircraft.

The Senate bill would permit operation of 11 large carriers, 23 smaller carriers, 4 battleships, 12 heavy cruisers, 20 light cruisers, 135 destroyers, 24 destroyer escorts and 78 submarines.

In addition, it would keep in service 149 amphibious craft, 53 minesweepers, 54 patrol vessels, 272 auxiliary vessels and 24 floating docks.

The President's budget called for an average employment of 371,300 civilians in the Navy Department next year. (Many of these are employed in Navy yards)

Although the 113-foot excursion vessel kept an even keel, and so far the passengers, so to speak, 100 of them accepted the offer of the Fireboat Cornelius W. Lawrence to take them off the North Haven. The fireboat's loudspeaker gave the instruction, "Women and children first."

Tax Against ACL Upheld By High Court

Anti-Petrillo Law Is Ruled Constitutional; Government's Oil Claim Approved

TALLAHASSEE, June 23, (AP)—Governor Caldwell said today a U. S. Supreme Court decision upholding federal claims to California coast oil lands has "no direct bearing on Florida but may serve as precedent in events of oil field suits over ownership of Florida tidelands."

Real estate taxes on a total 28 mill levy will yield only an estimated $160,000 toward this amount which must be made up by utility and miscellaneous revenues.

The total amount raised from all sources for operation of the general government is estimated at $281,150. The sum of $96,000 is to be expended to pay $49,730 on bond interest, $42,382 to issue bonds and $3,888 collection expense.

Sanford's total assessed valuation is $7,612,405 real and personal property. Real estate is valued at $5,911,300 and taxable personal property at $1,701,105, according to H. N. Sayer, city manager.

The 15 mill levy for operating expenses will yield but $67,000 toward City operating expenses; whereas the 12 mill tax for debt service will net $96,000. It is estimated, however, that the larger millage does not yield the larger amount is due to homestead exemption, which reduces the valuation on which the 15 mills is applied to $3,104,120.

It is anticipated that during the current year general government operating expenses will amount to $281,150. Since the $67,000 real estate tax falls short of this amount, the balance must be secured from other sources. It is expected that $109,650 will be derived from miscellaneous revenues, major items of which are franchise, fines and costs, recovery of liens foreclosed by the County, sale of unoccupied properties and other sources.

The utilities service tax will yield an estimated $33,000, profits from water utilities, $24,750, surplus of $40,000 in the department of general government and other years taxes carried over of $2,750. For the department of water utility, revenues are expected to total $78,000.

Debt service needs will be met by revenues estimated at $93,000, plus $3,000 carried over from previous years, a total of $96,000.

Salaries and labor costs make up the principal expense outlay for general government. It costs $73,848 to operate the division of streets, bridges and sewers, and of this amount, $50,000 for labor.

Next in cost is the police department which costs an estimated $41,299 of which more than $31,882 is for salaries. Property protection costs are put at $23,210 of which nearly $22,000 goes toward salaries.

The cost of the division of finance, records and taxation is estimated at $17,278 of which a major portion is for salaries. Other estimated department costs are: Division of Public Buildings, $14,750; Street Lighting and water supply, $14,500; Municipal Zoo, $4,136; employees' life insurance, $6,750; docks and wharves, $2,085; engineering, $3,778; sanitary maintenance, $4,800; inspections, $3,798; recreation department, $8,050; parks, $5,750.

Other estimated department costs are: public health, $5,030; Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital outlay, $1,200; public library, $3,876; charity, $2,050; airport, including fireman, superintendent and guards and utility men, $21,850; Chamber of Commerce and publicity, $6,000 and contingencies, $4,775.

The City Commission gets but $1,500 of which $1,250 is for salaries. The total amount for salaries is $1,300; the City Attorney receives $1,225. The civil service commission receives $600.

The budget was approved by Mayor H. J. Gut and Commissioners George D. Bishop, Les R. Lester, W. C. Hill and Robert A. Williams.

Reds Decision

(Continued from page one) properly. There has been a somewhat similar situation in Austria, though not so vital. However, the picture in Central Europe differs from that of Western Europe. Eastern Germany and Austria enter into Moscow's project for the establishment of a zone of influence for security purposes. It would not necessarily follow that Russia intended to apply this policy to all Europe. But Moscow has kept its purposes to itself.

Russia's hidden intentions in this respect of course have been the crux of the whole situation. They represent the answer to the great question which Western democracy long has wanted settled, namely:

Has Russia just about fulfilled her ambitions in the way of establishing her new zone of influence, or is she bent on indefinite expansion of Communism?

To in effect this is the query which General Marshall's plan raised in such manner that a reply couldn't be avoided. Refusal to cooperate in putting Europe on its feet would, in the view of Western democracy, mean that Russia intended to play a lone hand in the interests of spreading Communism and, ipso facto, Moscow's influence over other nations.

That much has seemed clear. But what if Russia agreed to participate in rehabilitation with the other powers? At first blush it would seem the answer must be that Moscow would really play ball with the West and the idea of forcing Communist expansion. However, that doesn't necessarily follow.

Authorities in the Western capitals are noting that it would be possible for Russia to accept the invitation and then work to defeat the project. They base this unhappy thought on such past events as the inability of the Big Four to agree on a German peace treaty, on German economic reconstruction, and developments (or rather lack of them) in the postwar matters in the United Nations Security Council. The Western Allies charge that these failures were due to deliberate obstruction by Russia, staged with the idea of causing delays and thereby giving Moscow a chance to strengthen its hand.

Russia's indirect answer to such charges has been along the line of an editorial in yesterday's

MONDAY, JUNE 23, 1947

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

HAVE YOU EVER GOTTEN ACQUAINTED WITH YOURSELF? YOUR REAL ETERNAL SELF? YOU CAN HAVE A RICH EXPERIENCE. I communed with mine own heart.—Ec. 1:16.

President Truman who has just vetoed the tax reduction bill and the labor control bill is expected to accept an invitation to visit Brazil. We can't say we blame him.

Did you know that as of the end of 1946 there were still 45 prisoners-of-war at large in the United States? But don't let this disturb you, or cause you to look under the bed, or have any more restless nights. Most of them have probably been caught by now. And if they have not, it may be comforting to know that at one time there were over 2,800 prisoners-of-war at large in this country. And you survived it all, little the worse off for knowing nothing about it.

Sanford citizens should become more familiar with their local civic affairs. How can you possibly go about improving conditions in your town if you do not know what the facts are regarding it? How can you possibly vote intelligently on matters of public interest? How many know, for instance, what the City tax millage is, what the current bonded debt is, what our assessed valuations are, where the city limits are and what the population is? Can you name the five city commissioners?

For once, we have found something in a Russian publication with which we can agree. "The method of keeping prices high by destruction of products and spending state money on them," says the Moscow New Times, "is by no means an honorable affair." In discussing the recent destruction of potatoes by U. S. government agencies, a practice which it calls a "monstrosity." However, the New Times has evidently forgotten that the plan originated with the New Dealers and the Roosevelt administration which the New Times has always seemed to think were the only decent people in America.

The Florida State Chamber of Commerce is gratified with figures prepared by its statistical experts which show that Floridians are much better off today than they were in 1937 because the income of the average Floridian has risen by 44 percent, that of the national average by only 19 percent. That is indeed encouraging, but if compared with the rise in the cost of living may not be so commendable. We do not have the figures on the price index at hand, but what does it profit a man if his wages are raised from $30 to $45 a week when his cost of living goes up from $25 to $50?

In the current issue of the Florida Legionnaire is a story from The Sanford Herald in which the advantages of Sanford as a site for the American Legion memorial and headquarters building are clearly outlined by State Adjutant Reid Mann. "Many Legion officials were very much impressed by the site, which is now occupied by the municipal softball diamond, and where 135 persons attended the barbecue given for the visitors," Mr. Mann is quoted as saying. This city is getting some mighty favorable publicity on the project and if the people of Sanford continue to give their whole-hearted support, favorable action will be forthcoming at the Panama City Convention.

The Truman Veto

The political sagacity of President Truman in vetoing the Hartley-Taft labor bill becomes clearer the more one studies his veto message and analyzes the political support upon which he must depend for re-election next year. Taken into consideration with the third party threat from Henry Wallace, the labor bill plainly put the President on the spot and left him with no alternative... as long as he continued to entertain any political ambitions whatsoever.

It may be safely assumed that it was not the labor bill itself with which Mr. Truman concerned himself; it was the labor vote. He had previously, when he first took office and the next election was more than three years away asked Congress for an even more drastic bill in order to prevent strikes. And in vetoing the bill, he did not criticize the bill itself but another bill which was a figment of his imagination.

If Mr. Truman had signed the Hartley-Taft bill he would have alienated the support of northern Democrats, whose ranks are now largely composed of organized labor. With both the Democratic and Republican parties against them, there would have been nothing left for union bosses and the big city machines to do but to form a Third Party under the banner of Mr. Wallace. And with Mr. Wallace appealing to the country with forebodings of a war with Russia, that was a dangerous threat.

Mr. Truman knew, too, that southern Democrats who include in their number virtually all farmers and business men as well as organized labor, which in the south is not quite so strong politically as in other parts of the country, would not like his veto, but he knew, too, that there was nothing they could do about it. He did not have to worry about southern Democrats voting for Mr. Wallace, and he knew their prejudices against Republicans.

And so, politically speaking, Mr. Truman did the wise and sensible thing. He has the South in the bag, and he has lined himself up solidly with organized labor. If the Senate overrides his veto, weak administration of the labor bill can bring on more strife and discord, thus further discrediting the Republicans. If the Senate doesn't override, he gets the credit for blocking an iniquitous labor bill.

The Big and the Small

To paraphrase an old song, the big get bigger and the small get smaller, and here's more proof.

Two hundred daily newspapers consume 85 per cent of the newspaper used in the United States. Two hundred, mind you. And get this. The other fifteen per cent is spread around 17,000 (yes, thousand) small dailies, weeklies and trade publications.

To make it easier to understand, one Sunday issue of the Chicago Tribune uses more than do all the dailies of Mississippi together in an entire year. That's hard to believe, but it's so, and you may understand now why the small fellows, lacking mills; inside connections and the like, are up against the wall.

One more thing. We're paying almost twice as much for newspaper as we did in 1941. Want to know part of the reason why? Here it is, and we quote: "International Paper Co. and subsidiaries report released last week show 1946 consolidated net profit of $31,179,048 equivalent to $8.50 a common share, compared with $8,546,078, or $2.14 a share in 1945." —Greenwood (Miss.) 69TH DIVISION VET WANTS TO REVISIT EUROPE

By HAL BOYLE SAN FRANCISCO, June 23

(AP)—The American frontier is the world. One of the men who made it that in Europe is former Capt. Phillip J. Sinnott, Jr., of San Francisco liaison officer with the battle-happy Sixty-ninth Infantry Division. He is an old friend from war days who wants to see what the peace has come to.

The 69th Division was an outfit new to battle which stumbled to immortal glory by sealing the capture of Leipzig and contacting the Russian army vanguard in an unforgettable meeting which ended the European phase of World War II along the River Elbe.

The taking of Leipzig 14 months ago was a dubious military adventure. The Second Infantry Division—a combat-wise outfit—was pushing from the west, but the 69th decided that the honor of capturing this German stronghold must come to it.

So the division created a task force of some 16 tanks and 185 doughboys and sent them in to clean out Nazi resistance and to take the fortified city.

Only 65 doughboys were still in fighting condition when the task force finished battering the city hall fortress, where the poisonous gas of the burgoemeister and his assistant—as well as their wives and daughters—bore testimony to the dramatic decline of the Nazi cause.

It was a great charge that deserves to live in American anti-aircraft guns and small arms fire existing in western Europe.

"Everybody was trying to climb into his helmet," recalled Capt. Sinnott. So we were.

This blood-won territory was subsequently yielded to Russian control under a previous grand-scale military agreement that still exists. Americans won the territory under fire and gave it up to Russians who took it over without loss of life or military struggle. The Russians are still there.

Now 26-year-old Sinnott, his rank forsaken, is shipping as a yeoman on a ship leaving for Japan to pick up German war prisoners destined for return to their fatherland.

"I want eventually to teach economic geography," he said.

"and I think the more I get around the better." So he is going back as a kind of scholarly seaman tourist to see what has happened in two years to the Germany he helped to defeat by force of arms in wartime. He thinks that it is something the American ex-servicemen will like to keep informed on—since Germany is the key to the world content he hopes will come from the half-forgotten sacrifices they made.

Disease Of The Gallbladder

By W. V. BITTING Touchton Drug Co.

The gallbladder is a small sac located between the two lobes of the liver. It collects and stores bile from the liver, and discharges the bile when the contents of the stomach passes into the small intestine.

Any inflammation of the gallbladder or any disturbance in its function may cause pain or discomfort. But the symptoms of the disease are not the same in all persons, therefore, any persistent or recurring pain in the abdomen, stomach, or heart region should be diagnosed by your doctor.

Accuracy in recounting your symptoms will enable your doctor to locate the difficulty sooner.

Accuracy in compounding your prescription will assure you results sooner. You can rely on such accuracy from a trusted druggist.

BROADWAY

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK—I'm a quite typical New Yorker, being a guy from another town, and each time I visit the home burg I get the typical query which faces all Manhattanites whose profession tosses them in proximity with celebrities: "What's she (or he) really like?" Well, here's what a few of the big names really are like:

BERT LAHR: Personable, intelligent, impeccably tailored, likes loud ties, lengthy jokes which he tells delightfully, worries about everything or anything. Married to a beautiful graduate of show business, has two small youngsters. The boy, John, already can do comedy shuffling in his dad's finest burlesque tradition, is an unabashed ham and almost surely will inherit his parents' grease paint tendencies. The Lahrs live comfortably though unostentatiously on Park Avenue. They like the Stork Club, have loads of friends and are a lot of fun.

OSCAR LEVANT: Professionally caustic, he nurses his cynical reputation, would not be caught with his pessimism down. Outwardly acrimonious, he frequently is caught trying to hide a honest admiration behind a screen of sarcasm through which his friends see him clearly, such as when he's making biting little negative compliments about his three youngsters or his beautiful wife. Drinks coffee constantly, is almost frightened to be alone, waves gratefully come-on-over as a pal enters a restaurant where he's by himself. Knows baseball almost as well as Red Barber. Constantly drums pianist-fashion with his fingers while waiting to "get on." Broadway for carrying the conversation ball.

JOE DIMAGGIO: Shy, aloof, monosyllabic to most acquaintances but definitely unbends in preferred company. Likes the girls and like young guys anywhere. Goes in to talk about baseball. Second only to Howard Hughes in the numerical frequency of his rumored romances, chooses certain friends for their volatile good humor and likes to just sit and listen to their quips. Member in good standing of the afternoon mob at Shores in a restaurant where shares with a good many others on "Broadway the belief that George Soltz, the nickel agent, is funnier than anyone else in conversational repartee—Levant included.

FRED ALLEN: Continuously caustic, with a radio constant verbal target. Lives in a small apartment with his wife, Portland Hoffa, in probably the least extravagant style of all big names in radio. Dresses quietly, has the liveliest ad lib propensity of anyone I know, but uses as a bulwark large corporations such as N.B.C. large egos which are better left unmentioned, and in off-air time exhibits an honest admiration for Jack Benny, professionally and personally. Works hard, the while complaining bitterly of the futility of it all. Frantically in the most courteous of all big timers to the small fellows of show business. I've never seen him brush off a "broken record" in fact he seems to delight in talking over old vaudeville times with the little fellows who aren't enthralled with their own success. A heck of a nice guy.

Women's Club Opens Annual Convention

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—The General Federation of Women's Clubs began registration of delegates today for its 56th annual convention at which, for the first time in its history, only women will be presented from the platform.

Mrs. La Fel Dickinson, of Keene, N. H., and Washington, D. C., the president, said she was responsible for the innovation.

"I'm to blame and nobody else," Mrs. Dickinson said in an interview. "Women are being criticized very much. I thought it would be nice for us to get together and talk things over."

"Women have been rather slighted; they haven't had their place in the sun. I thought perhaps we should get together and take stock of ourselves."

Mrs. Dickinson said the speakers would discuss ideas of the day, including displaced persons, relations with other nations of the world and the American home.

She took issue with charges that women's clubs of the nation were primarily interested in social affairs and that clubwomen take themselves too seriously and the

ALMA GRANTHAM WED IN DELAND CEREMONY
The DeLand Christian Church was the setting for the marriage of Alma Florine Grantham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Grantham, to Henry Elton Smook, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Elton Smook of Haines City, on June 21 in a double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. Roy Respass.

White gladioluses, carnations, dahlias, potted palms and burning tapers decorated the church and formed a lovely background for the wedding. The family pews were marked with clusters of white carnations tied with white satin ribbon. Mrs. Ralph Parsons rendered organ music before and during the ceremony and Prof. Harold M. Giffin and Miss Kay Hooper were soloists. They sang "Because," "The Lord's Prayer," "Through the Years" and "I Love Thee."

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore a beautiful gown of ivory satin which featured a fitted bodice and a full skirt which extended into a long full train. She wore a Juliet cap of seed pearls from which fell a full length veil of bridal illusion. A white prayer book was carried with a white orchid from which fell white satin streamers.

The maid of honor, Miss Helen Baker of Clearwater, wore a gown of blue lace and net over tulle. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses. A net cap formed a hair arrangement caught on each side with flowers. Her bridesmaids, Miss Joan Shephard of Lakeland and Miss Shirley George of Titusville, N. Y., were gowned in pink and yellow marquisette respectively. Miss Shephard carried yellow carnations and Miss George's bouquet was of pink carnations.

The groom's father served as best man and usher was Harry Fiquetto, Harry Leichty and Charles Lawhorn. Little Miss Emily Lynn Vinson of Aubreyville, N. C. served as flower girl and young Tommy Lawhorn of Haines City was the ring bearer. Mrs. Grantham, mother of the bride, wore a gown of aqua silk jersey with a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother was gowned in black and chateauere overlaid with a sequin design. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Following the wedding a reception was given at the DeLand Woman's Club. The receiving line was made up of the wedding party and parents of the bride and groom. Mrs. Charles Lamb of Garland, N. C. presided over the bride's book. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and from one end punch was served. Placed at the other end was a three-tiered wedding cake. Those serving were Mrs. Respass, Mrs. J. T. Cannon and Mrs. T. W. Whitington.

Late in the evening the couple left for North Carolina after which they plan to spend the summer in Haines City. They will make their home in Birmingham, Ala. where the groom will resume his studies at Alabama Medical College.

A net cap formed a hair arrangement caught on each side with flowers. Her bridesmaids, Miss Joan Shephard of Lakeland and Miss Shirley George of Titusville, N. Y., were gowned in pink and yellow marquisette respectively. Miss Shephard carried yellow carnations and Miss George's bouquet was of pink carnations.

The groom's father served as best man and usher was Harry Fiquetto, Harry Leichty and Charles Lawhorn. Little Miss Emily Lynn Vinson of Aubreyville, N. C. served as flower girl and young Tommy Lawhorn of Haines City was the ring bearer. Mrs. Grantham, mother of the bride, wore a gown of aqua silk jersey with a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother was gowned in black and chateauere overlaid with a sequin design. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Following the wedding a reception was given at the DeLand Woman's Club. The receiving line was made up of the wedding party and parents of the bride and groom. Mrs. Charles Lamb of Garland, N. C. presided over the bride's book. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and from one end punch was served. Placed at the other end was a three-tiered wedding cake. Those serving were Mrs. Respass, Mrs. J. T. Cannon and Mrs. T. W. Whitington.

Late in the evening the couple left for North Carolina after which they plan to spend the summer in Haines City. They will make their home in Birmingham, Ala. where the groom will resume his studies at Alabama Medical College.

Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 23 (AP)—Not to be outdone by Mexico, Canada is placing its bid as a location for Hollywood film companies. Seeking authentic backdrops as well as lowered production costs, studios have been making use of distant locales, particularly south of the border. An estimated $15,000,000 will be spent on U. S. movie making in Mexico this year, Canada, waiting to advertise its vacation playgrounds, now enters the picture.

Leo Lion plans to film "Rainbow Ridge" entirely within the dominion this summer. The picture, which stars James Craig, will be made at Lake Louise, Banff and also at the Duke of Windsor's ranch at Calgary. The deal for the latter was arranged through Eagle-Lion boss Robert R. Young, who is a chum of the Windsors.

Ronald Coleman was unhappy about "The Late George Apley" ad campaign in which the sex angle was overemphasized. But he is now glad that the picture is the way to sell the picture.

About and Costello are completing plans for their independent picture this year. It will be made at Eagle-Lion. James Stewart may not wish he had never agreed to do "Harvey" on Broadway. His house has been invaded by rabbits sent by so-called friends. When he was dipping at the Henry Fondas the other night, a bunny was placed on a plate before him. Jimmy leaped up, but the Fondas' sister told him he was seeing things.

Dorothy McGuire may do "The A Doll House" after she finishes "Gentleman's Agreement." Doug Fairbanks, Jr., who is looking for a new line, begins preparations of "The O'Flynn" as soon as he finishes the strenuous "The Excuse" film. He is now being filmed for RKO, United Artists and Rank in England, but he'll stick with U-I unless he gets a lot more "coin elsewhere."

John Ford will have all his favorites in "War Party"—John Wayne, Henry Fonda, Mickey Rourke, Ward Bond, etc. Shirley Temple will play a colonel's daughter, as she did for Ford some years ago—in "Wee Willie Winkie." The publicity staff on "Daisy Kenyon" got a surprise when Joan Crawford invited them to her house to get acquainted. The younger players merely tolerate publicity, but Joan realized it is all-important.

The Los Angeles river is interfering with film production. The stream flows (sometimes) past U-I and the studio is being dredged, the noise has been getting on the sound tracks. David Street hopes to inherit the Dick Haymes and Perry Como roles at 20th Century Fox now that the latter cronies have departed. Henry Fonda is now being filmed for RKO, United Artists and Rank in England, but he'll stick with U-I unless he gets a lot more "coin elsewhere."

WORN OUT FROM GETTING UP NIGHTS?
 If you get up nights—have frequent de-toxicate your water—eat, and have backache, due to excess acidity in the urine, be glad you're reading this. Three generations ago Dr. Kilmer, a famous doctor, found hundreds of his patients with this trouble. So he made a medicine of 16 herbs, roots, vegetables, balsams. He called it "Swamp-Root." Millions of men and women have taken it—often with amazing results. Swamp-Root goes right to work to flush out kidneys... increases flow of urine, helping relieve excess acidity... the urinated bladder gets a good flushing... Many report getting a good night's sleep after the first few doses. Caution: take as directed. For free trial supply, send to Dept. R, Kilmer & Co., Inc., Box 1255, Stamford, Conn. Or—get full-sized bottle of Swamp-Root today at your druggist.

AMERICAN HOUSEWIVES ARE THRIFTY
 The buying procedure of the American housewife could well be an example of intelligent purchasing to the country over. They are out to get the most for their money and "shop around" until they find the best buy—in quality and price. Does your family "shop around" when buying insurance? If you can buy the same article for less, wouldn't you consider, you had saved just that much money? That is exactly what we offer you—fire, wind-storm, automobile and other kinds of property insurance equal in quality and dependability as you can buy anywhere—but at a saving in the price. Think of all the useful things you could buy, if you got back 1/5 of all the money you pay for insurance. How can we do this? Send for booklet "How to save money on insurance" and learn how many American families have been saving on the cost of their insurance for the past 195 years.
