

Public Defender Cleared In Wrongdoing Probe

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

A special state's attorney looking into allegations of wrongdoing at the Seminole-Brevard public defender's office has found no "indications of prosecutable" offenses, according to courthouse sources.

Special State Attorney Robert Stone of Ft. Pierce today forwarded to Gov. Bob Graham the report on his investigations into allegations of wrongdoing at the Seminole-Brevard public defender's office.

Porter was charged with having "close friendships" leading to favoritism in his office and permitting open drinking among some employees in his office.

Stone, called in by the governor to investigate the complaints, declined to divulge the contents of his report, saying it would be more appropriate for a statement to be made by the governor's office.

However, according to a courthouse source, the report says Stone could find "no prosecutable" offenses in the investigation.

"It doesn't surprise me," said Porter today, commenting on the findings of the investigation. As I said from the very beginning, none of these things were done by me. The accusations were plain and obvious lies by disgruntled employees.

"There never was anything and there never will be, the charges were fictitious," he added.

The controversy in Porter's office surfaced over allegations of favors extended by the public defender to Betty Davidson, a secretary in the office. Donna Downing, a former secretary said the entire issue included several complaints going back a few years. Ms. Downing, one of the prime complainants, said she resigned from her job at Porter's office. Porter said, however, her resignation was a compromise to being fired.

One of the issues involved was whether it was appropriate for Ms. Davidson to participate in a polygraph examiners' course and then be in line for a promotion when others in the office believed they were more qualified.

Porter had said, however, the state personnel department and the auditor's office okayed Mrs. Davidson's promotion. She said she described in her complaint "the favors Porter said he did for certain employees" but would not elaborate.

Porter called the accusations "political logwash."

Stromberg Burglary Nets $100,000 Plus

In the biggest burglary in Lake Mary history, burglars during the nighttime hours broke into the Stromberg-Carlson electronics plant taking a 1,538-pound safe containing more than $100,000 in negotiable travelers' checks and $5,000 in cash.

Lake Mary Police Detective David Higginbotham said the burglary was discovered by a secretary at 7:05 a.m. today. Higginbotham said the burglars were professional. "It had to be an inside job. One of them had a key to the payroll office and used it," he said.

The safe, Higginbotham said, was five feet tall, three feet wide and two feet deep. He said it was obtained from the premises by using a standard appliance dolly and the burglars probably pushed it right through the front door.

"They probably plain walked through the front door and out the front door while the guard was making his rounds," Higginbotham said.

The detective said the guard received a "suspicious" telephone call at 1:30 a.m., calling him away from his station to go to a back door. When he got there no one was at the door. By the time the guard was finished making his rounds, it was 3:30 minutes before he returned to his station.

Higginbotham said investigation is continuing. He said he is acquiring the serial numbers of the travelers' checks, notifying area banks and broadcasting statewide alerts on the police computer system.

Higginbotham said the burglars left a crowbar, a pair of pliers and two ski masks at the scene. Officials of the Stromberg plant, located on Rinehart Road, were not available for comment today. — DONNA ESTES

Dying Adult Can Refuse Care: Court

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Florida Supreme Court today upheld the right of a terminally ill adult with no minor dependents to refuse extraordinary medical treatment.

The court in a 6-0 ruling backed up the findings of lower courts which last year ruled that Abe Perlmutter, a 75-year-old retired cab driver living in Fort Lauderdale, had the right to be taken off a respirator and other life support systems.

Sen. Edward Kennedy said he wants America to participate, but would not object strongly if President Carter decides the nation should boycott the games.

The New York Times called for a boycott in a Thursday editorial.

Muslim guerrilla leaders claimed their forces smashed an Afghan army regiment of 6,000 men in northeastern Afghanistan and captured a provincial capital in the southeast.

Affghanistan Throws Out All American Journalists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All American reporters were ordered out of Afghanistan today by the Soviet-backed government, the State Department said today.

Spokesman Mark Swoski said journalists, including cameramen, were told to be on the first available plane out of the capital city of Kabul.

He said additional details of the order, relayed to Washington by the U.S. Embassy in Kabul, would be available later in the day.

"It's a flagrant violation of basic norms of international behavior. We find it reprehensible," he said.

"We cannot change the venue and we cannot cancel the Games," said Killian in Dublin. "The IOC is legally bound to hold the games in Moscow and that is where they will be held. There is no question of them being changed."

Calling for a change of venue Wednesday were Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, who supported such a resolution 18 months ago, and Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., who sent President Carter petitions with 65,000 signatures urging the Olympics be moved out of the Soviet Union and former Texas Gov. John Connally.

In another development related to the Soviet Afghan invasion, meanwhile, International Olympic Committee officials remained firm in their insistence this summer's Olympic games would take place in Moscow.

Momentary support for either a boycott or a change of venue for the games, but more importantly, Olympic committees seem virtually unanimous in rejecting any infusion of politics into the event. Both the committees, and individual athletes, who also appear to oppose a pullout, are under legal obligation to obey directives from their governments.

Fad Diets Are Poor For Overall Health

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — What do you think of these so-called grapefruit diets? I've just started on one and been told that the acidic content of grapefruit will burn holes in your stomach. Is this true? Is it harmful to eat too many grapefruit in one day and seven days per week?

DEAR READER — The harm is not in the grapefruit. Most normal people produce an appreciable amount of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. That amount of acid is so much more than any acid you get from grapefruit that the grapefruit isn't very important.

Now if a person happens to have acid indigestion or ulcer problems, they might need to go easy on grapefruit and other citrus fruits or might find that he would do better to avoid them entirely. Otherwise, I don't think you'll have a problem with them.

I'm not particularly fond of the so-called grapefruit diet and I'm not fond of most diet fads including starvation diets, extreme low-carbohydrate diets or the whole gamut of fat diets that promise people they'll lose lots of pounds in a short time.

The key to successful dieting is learning proper nutrition and adjusting your habits so you'll eat properly thereafter. Otherwise, you'll just go on one of the fat diets and lose a lot of water and perhaps some fat, then return to your usual eating habits and regain most everything you've lost.

DEAR DR. LAMB — While a friend of mine had earphones on, someone turned the radio on full blast. Can it cause deafness or damage ear drums?

DEAR READER — Any noise that is sufficiently loud can cause ear damage. Sometimes if the noise exposure is of brief duration, the hearing will gradually return to normal. There is no way I can say what will happen in this individual case since I don't know how loud the noise was or what effects it had, but certainly it is the kind of thing that can cause permanent ear damage. For that matter, even exposure to loud rock bands and loud music on a persistent basis can lead to ear damage as well.

Men Arrested For Loitering In Sanford

By DAVID M. RAZLER
Herald Staff Writer

Two out-of-state men are in the Seminole County jail after their arrests early this morning after they ran from Sanford police officers.

Sanford police say they arrested the pair on loitering and prowling charges, after they ran from officers who found them in a downtown alley. One of the pair is also charged with possession of burglary tools.

Richard Russell, of Portland, Maine, was arrested at 12:15 a.m. today in the alley in back of the Warco service station, at 110 N. French Ave., just off First Street, say police. He is charged with loitering and possession of burglary tools, and is being held in lieu of $5,250 bail pending first appearance later today.

An hour and a half later, police arrested Larry W. Bates of Birmingham, Ala., charging him with loitering. Police say Bates was arrested in front of the Evening Herald office at 300 N. French Ave., adding he had managed to escape when they were arresting Russell.

Held in lieu of $105 bail, Bates will face first appearance later today.

Roof-Repair Costs Rise At 2 Schools

By DIANE PERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Having already paid nearly $2 million to repair leaky roofs at six Seminole county schools in the past few years, the school board has just approved cost increases on two existing roof-repair contracts that will up the price of those repairs by $9,777.

A third change order, however, resulted in a savings of $1,415.

The roof repairs will cost more at Alamo Elementary School and Jackson Heights Middle School. The repair costing less is for Sahai Point Elementary.

The schools with leaky roofs were designed by Sanford architect Eagan Kelley.

The district is suing Kelley, several contractors and GAF Inc. for allegedly designing, installing, and supplying defective roofs at the schools.

The board also discussed the possibility of allowing the Army Corps of Engineers to "practice" building airplane landing strips by letting them grade and level ground at the new Rock Lake Middle School. The school needs ground leveled for tennis courts and baseball fields.

Longwood Seeks School-Roads Annex

By JANE CASSELL-BERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County's new Rock Lake Middle School, which opened this month, is causing Longwood plenty of headaches. The county enclave on which it is constructed is virtually surrounded by the city, and the increased traffic and its safety hazard and wear on streets is bringing complaints from residents of the adjoining subdivisions.

To compound the problem there is a question of ownership of some of the streets with neither the county nor the city taking responsibility for their maintenance or law enforcement.

City Administrator David Chacey says the county property appraiser's office maintains Rock Lake Road and Slade Drive are platted as being in the city, while City Attorney Ned Julian Jr. says when the city annexed the property the area wasn't included in the legal description.

The streets, which connect State Road 434 with the new school, are thought by some to be privately owned.

To clear up the "man's land" problem the Longwood City Commission voted Monday to take steps to annex Rock Lake Road and Slade Drive, including the property on Slade not presently in the city. The vote was unanimous on Rock Lake and 4-1 on Slade.

Commissioner J. Russell Grant voted against the Slade motion as it did not include houses on the street, but later voted for authorizing steps toward annexation of the houses.

"I'm not in favor of annexing the street for maintenance without the houses on this action with minimal adverse reaction."

Chacey said he believes the city should take the future holds," he said.

Attorneys Speeding Lance Jury Choices

ATLANTA (UPI) — Attorneys are stepping up the pace of jury selection in the bank fraud trial of former federal budget director Bert Lance and three others, making Friday the probable completion date for the process.

As the trial enters its fourth day today, more than half of the 56 jurors needed for the pool have been chosen. After the pool is completed, a total of 12 trial jurors and six alternates will be selected.

On Wednesday, 13 potential jurors were chosen, more than on any single day since the beginning of the trial. It is rate continues, a full panel will be selected late Friday.

Defense attorneys tried again Wednesday to dismiss the case after Lance and three others said he had heard about news leaks in the case from a friend on the grand jury.

The dismissal motion was denied, but the prospective juror, Edward Colie, was eliminated from the jury.

Colie testified during jury examination that a coworker had served on the grand jury that indicted Lance and his former associates.

"He told me about the leaks," Colie said. "Often the newspapers knew before they (grand jurors) did about what was coming up."

Graham: Tighten Budget Despite Flow Of Funds

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham still wants to trim the budget slightly even though the state has found itself with a $75 million windfall.

Total revenue collections in December were $21.5 million more than expected and $20.2 million in excess for November, according to a Senate Ways and Means Committee report released Wednesday and first obtained by the Tallahassee Democrat.

Collections have been surprisingly high almost every month since the current fiscal year began July 1, so the state has $75 million more than it should have had at this point in the revenue estimate prepared last April that was the basis for the $16 billion 1979-81 budget.

Graham aides and legislative analysts say, however, there is still a need for the budget trimming being considered by the governor.

When Graham reviewed two weeks ago he is considering a $75 million cut in general program budgets to free money for other than expected tax and utility electricity bills, there already was a $65 million windfall.

The excess grew when December revenue collections were completed last week.

Marijuana Penalty May Rise As Congress Looks At Study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate committee that approved a bill reducing penalties for marijuana use may reconsider those reductions now that scientific experts say heavy pot use can affect the brains, lungs, heart and reproductive systems.

Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., said the two days of hearings on medical effects of the drug, which end today, will help the Judiciary Committee decide whether it needs to take another look at the marijuana provision in the criminal code reform bill it approved last year.

The legislation would reduce the penalty for possession of up to five ounces under federal jurisdiction from a one-year prison term and a $5,000 fine to only a $500 fine and no prison term.

Interferon To Slow Viruses

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Scientists say they have developed a way to use bacteria to produce large amounts of interferon, a costly protein believed helpful in fighting virus infections and possibly even cancer.

Interferon is produced naturally in cells attacked by a virus, giving them a certain amount of immunity. It was discovered in 1957 and doctors suggested it might be used as a way of fighting virus diseases.

Investigators with Biogen, S.A., a Geneva-based international research group, say they've identified the genes in human cells that produce interferon. And using genetic engineering techniques, they have inserted those genes into bacteria — the genetic material — into bacteria. The bacteria then produce interferon scientists are able to harvest.

GAO Fingers Orlando Base

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Double-billing, unnecessary work and unfulfilled contracts were among scores of such incidents uncovered in a General Accounting Office study of 10 military installations across the country. Orlando's Naval Training Center is named in the report.

Rep. William Whitehurst, R-Va., released copies of the study Wednesday and called for a congressional investigation of the military's contract procedures.

"Some of these cases are real horror stories," Whitehurst said. "They are distressing to me and I'm mad. I'd say mismanagement would be an appropriate characterization of what happened. This must be corrected."

Durante Continues Slide

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Jimmy Durante is in serious condition and officials at St. John's Hospital say the 86-year-old entertainer's vital signs are slowly deteriorating.

"Mr. Durante's condition continues to decline," a hospital spokeswoman said late Wednesday. He is still semi-conscious and remains listed in serious condition. There was a slight deterioration in his vitals since yesterday.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Shuttle Nears New Landing After Problem Nixes 'Flight'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Astronauts planned another simulated attempt to return the Space Shuttle Columbia to earth today after a computer problem left the rocket plane hanging in make-believe space.

The reentry and landing were rescheduled for 11 a.m. today, with the astronauts to board the spacecraft at 8:15 a.m.

Today's make-believe reentry and landing were to cap a series of dress-rehearsal "flights" by the Columbia, which is scheduled for its maiden voyage later this year.

The Columbia's mock return to earth was postponed for the fourth time Wednesday about 15 minutes after astronauts John Young and Navy Cmdr. Robert Crippen entered the craft, which is sitting in its Kennedy Space Center hangar during the test series.

Bundy Jury Selection Drags

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Circuit Judge Wallace M. Jopling, growing impatient with the pace of jury selection for Theodore Bundy's second Florida murder trial, has taken to adjourning late and convening early.

NEW FAMILY Man, 78, Gets 'Adopted'

MIAMI (UPI) — Jim Donovan, the 78-year-old man who longed for family so much he placed a classified ad offering himself for adoption as a grandfather, now has two new grandchildren.

Donovan will be joining a family headed by Debbie Webster, 33, and Linda Gene Bingham, 32, of Dallas, Texas, who was listed as a character witness for Webster, were married Sunday in a private ceremony by a notary public.

"I went down to see them Tuesday evening and I was there for several hours," said the retired electrician Wednesday. "I thought they were very nice people and a very lively group, very pleasant people."

Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., said the two days of hearings on medical effects of the drug, which end today, will help the Judiciary Committee decide whether it needs to take another look at the marijuana provision in the criminal code reform bill it approved last year.

The legislation would reduce the penalty for possession of up to five ounces under federal jurisdiction from a one-year prison term and a $5,000 fine to only a $500 fine and no prison term.

NEW WIFE Webster Marries Witness

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Gary Lynn Webster married one of his defense witnesses last Sunday, the day after he was acquitted of second-degree murder in the death of his wife, records showed Wednesday. Her dismembered body was found in a box at a Texas mini-warehouse.

Webster, 33, and Linda Gene Bingham, 32, of Dallas, Texas, who was listed as a character witness for Webster, were married Sunday in a private ceremony by a notary public. Mrs. Bingham, a divorcee, was with Webster when he was arrested last July in Casper, Wyo., for the murder of his wife.

The mutilated body of Betty Fay Webster, 18, Webster's second wife, was found in a sealed box at a mini-warehouse in Garland, Texas, a suburb of Dallas, last July. Webster testified at the trial he used a circular saw.

NEW JOB Davidson Replaces Douglas

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Entertainer King Davidson is replacing talk show host Mike Douglas, whose daily television show has been syndicated nationwide for more than 18 years.

"The Mike Douglas Show" was syndicated to 100 stations for Group W Productions this June, and will be replaced with "The John Davidson Show," Group W's Edwin T. Vane said Wednesday.

Vane said Davidson's daily talk-variety show will originate from Hollywood and will be syndicated in more and 60-minute versions. The exact format of the show is still being negotiated.

Davidson, frequent guest host on "The Tonight Show," said the new show "is a dream come true."

A spokesman for the Westinghouse Broadcasting Company affiliate said Douglas "has another project planned."

Carter, Kennedy (But Not Brown) On TV

By United Press International
Political aides say President Carter is about to resume active campaigning — and he and challenger Edward Kennedy will have a face-off of sorts on separate national television programs Sunday.

But California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., is crying "fool!" He charged Wednesday that NBC's scheduling is unfair to the candidates and that he will not appear at all in advance of the Iowa debate which was canceled last month.

The scheduling is different in different cities, but in Washington and New York, Carter and Kennedy will be on simultaneously on one night.

The third interview show, CBS' "Face the Nation," has scheduled Republican contender George Bush for Sunday, so apparently Brown will not appear at all in advance of the Iowa caucus.

His campaign chairman Tom Quinn, however, said he is filing a complaint with the Federal Communications Commission for NBC's failure to respond to his and Kennedy's requests, and said "NBC's decision to have only one of the three candidates... is an unprecedented use of the public airways in a manner that could have a substantial impact on the presidential campaign."

He requested an immediate ruling so he could appeal to federal court if he is rejected, but the FCC reported late Wednesday it had not yet received the complaint.

Carter's campaign manager Robert Strauss told a news conference Wednesday he expects the president soon to end his self-imposed isolation from political activity.

Attorneys Speeding Lance Jury Choices

ATLANTA (UPI) — Attorneys are stepping up the pace of jury selection in the bank fraud trial of former federal budget director Bert Lance and three others, making Friday the probable completion date for the process.

As the trial enters its fourth day today, more than half of the 56 jurors needed for the pool have been chosen. After the pool is completed, a total of 12 trial jurors and six alternates will be selected.

On Wednesday, 13 potential jurors were chosen, more than on any single day since the beginning of the trial. It is rate continues, a full panel will be selected late Friday.

Defense attorneys tried again Wednesday to dismiss the case after Lance and three others said he had heard about news leaks in the case from a friend on the grand jury.

The dismissal motion was denied, but the prospective juror, Edward Colie, was eliminated from the jury.

Colie testified during jury examination that a coworker had served on the grand jury that indicted Lance and his former associates.

"He told me about the leaks," Colie said. "Often the newspapers knew before they (grand jurors) did about what was coming up."

Elvis' Doctor: King Didn't Follow Advice

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Elvis Presley needed drugs to wake up and drugs to go to sleep; drugs to kill his pain and drugs to clear his throat, his doctor says, and if he didn't provide them the King of Rock 'n' Roll would get them from someone else.

"You can't believe how big a nightmare this was for me," Dr. George Nichopoulos told the state Medical Board Wednesday. "I sat down. I stood up. I spent hours and hours talking with him" about his dependence on pills and injections.

But Presley refused to listen, he said, and often would storm off and get his drugs elsewhere.

However, two women close to Presley told the board, which is hearing malpractice charges against Nichopoulos for the indiscriminate prescribing of drugs, that they didn't think Presley had a drug problem.

Shirley Dyeux, who traveled with a member of Presley's entourage, and Sheila Ryan Cann, a Presley girlfriend and former wife of actor James Cann, opened for the defense.

"Elvis seemed to have no drug problems," Mrs. Dyeux said. "He didn't allow alcohol or marijuana ever around. As far as I know Elvis didn't take alcohol or drugs."

Mrs. Cann said she was aware he routinely received sleeping pills.

"He was always having things wrong with him," said Ms. Cann, explaining he had continuing problems with his liver, back, hands and arms.

HCA For Hospital Care: Sound Choice

Sanford and Seminole County residents will reap the benefits of the sound choice made Tuesday by the Seminole County Commission in selecting Hospital Corporation of America as the front runner to provide future health care.

The issue has been one of the more complex matters confronting the commission in some time and could have been a highly emotional issue which might have clouded clear thinking.

For too long the current board of trustees and its predecessors as well as Seminole Memorial Hospital's administration tried desperately to provide the community with the best possible health care on the tightest of budgets.

Indeed, SMH administrator Charles Bentley, shortly after he assumed his duties about two years ago, embarked on a variety of projects designed to improve the health care.

But there was that problem again: no money available for such a project and under SMH's current status as a public hospital under the control of the county commission, not many other ways to raise such capital without going to the taxpayer.

With the good business sense expected of any sound thinking organization entrusted with making decisions affecting many, county commissioners didn't jump at the idea, but opted to explore all other possibilities.

After carefully examining all of the prospects answering their ads, the county commissioners boiled it down to three possibilities: Florida Hospital, operated by the Seventh-day Adventists on a not-for-profit basis; Hospital Corporation of America, a for-profit group already operating some 150 hospitals; and the SMH board of trustees, still asking for private, non-profit status.

Which to select was not an easy task. The three proposals had to be gone over with a fine-tooth comb and the final decision had to be one which most benefited the community.

Moreover, the hospital would be run by an organization with a proven track record of successfully operating more than 100 hospitals in the United States with all the expertise that implies.

We are confident the county commission will negotiate a final agreement which will provide the best possible patient care to the Sanford area, and one which will bring the most benefit to Seminole County's taxpayers.

The late Rich Quigley is departing this land of paradise to join with the dragons of South Daytona. Sanford Mayor Lee Morre's remark came as the city commission accepted Quigley's resignation as assistant to City Manager Warren Knowles. On Feb. 1, Quigley is to become city manager of South Daytona.

The vote in South Daytona to hire Quigley was unanimous. His salary will be $22,000 annually plus a car allowance of $150 per month. The council there said it will review Quigley's salary after six months and consider an increase at that time.

Medical Center Inc., the Hospital Corporation of America (HCA) facility in Ft. Pierce, told Seminole County commissioners not all areas of the hospital are in use even though the facility was built two years ago.

A Need To Know Profits

By HAROLD C. GORDON

Most Americans understand profits about as thoroughly as they understand the inner workings of their automobiles—and yet profits and sales are so essential to our way of life.

The majority of our people believe that manufacturers average 33 cents after-tax profits per sales dollar, when in fact they average about a nickel. Ironically, while 33 percent is considered "too high," there is general agreement that ten percent is a "fair" profit.

Most businessmen would be overjoyed to make that much. Even the oil companies, who are presumed to have scored huge gains during the energy crisis, have yet to reach ten percent.

But if the public acknowledges that profits are necessary, and if nearly all business enterprises in this country are making less than a 10 percent profit, why is there such widespread support for "windfall" and other high corporate taxes?

To report that a leading oil company realized a 200 percent increase in profits over the previous year makes a more sensational story than to tell what really happened: namely, that the company's profits rose from 2.7 percent in the third quarter of 1978, to 7.8 percent in the third quarter of 1979.

Another reason for the American work ethic. There are few among us who would deny an individual the legitimate fruits of his labors. Yet there are many who regard a return on investment as "unearned income."

It is not that easy to make a profit. Whether one is drilling for oil or marketing a new product, the risk of failure is usually as great as the prospect of success. As a rule, high profits and high risks go together.

Official Commerce Department figures, however, show that just the opposite is true. Fully 90 percent of divisible corporate income goes to employees—either directly, as wages, or as payments into company pension funds.

For Less Glitter In The Games

By DON GRAFF

What has the skyrocketing price of gold to do with the sporting life, you ask? Even if you don't, here's the answer: It's raising the ante for the Olympics.

The original quote for the winners' medals at the upcoming Winter Games at Lake Placid, N.Y., was entered when the market price of gold was in the $180-an-ounce neighborhood.

Now that it has moved a very long way up from around $750, the designer, the renowned Tiffany's, is going to have to adjust its price accordingly; a current Wall Street Journal report reveals.

To a lesser degree, runners-up are in the same situation. Silver that was selling at $5 an ounce has recently been hitting $40.

If the upward course of precious metal prices continues, these could conceivably be the last Olympics in which winners receive the real thing. A bankruptcy-averting substitute may have to be found, even though that could well take a lot of the glamour out of the Games.

Think, for example, of Mark Spitz with seven plasters. And what do the Olympics have to do with baseball? Not by a long shot as much as organized baseball would like. That game is not among the multitudinous forms of athletic competition presently included in the international games, despite the firm opinion of the American major leagues that it should be.

Baseball is nevertheless going to be doing its bit for U.S. Olympics participation. A traveling Baseball Hall of Fame Exhibit will be making 40 stops around the country for the purpose of raising funds for U.S. teams as well as for the Hall of Fame's own building fund.

Opening in Pompano Beach, Florida, in mid-January, the admission-free exhibit, underwritten by the Gillette razor company, will be hitting points in that state and elsewhere in the South through the spring training period. It will move on to major league cities during the 1980 baseball season.

Worker Theft Surveyed

By LEROY POPE

Younger, unmarried workers do the most stealing, the study said, because they have the least to lose if they are caught and fired—little seniority and no dependents to be deprived.

Ironically, though, younger workers most inclined to cheat the company are often also those with high career goals and concerned with self-improvement, the summary said—the very traits employers look for in workers.

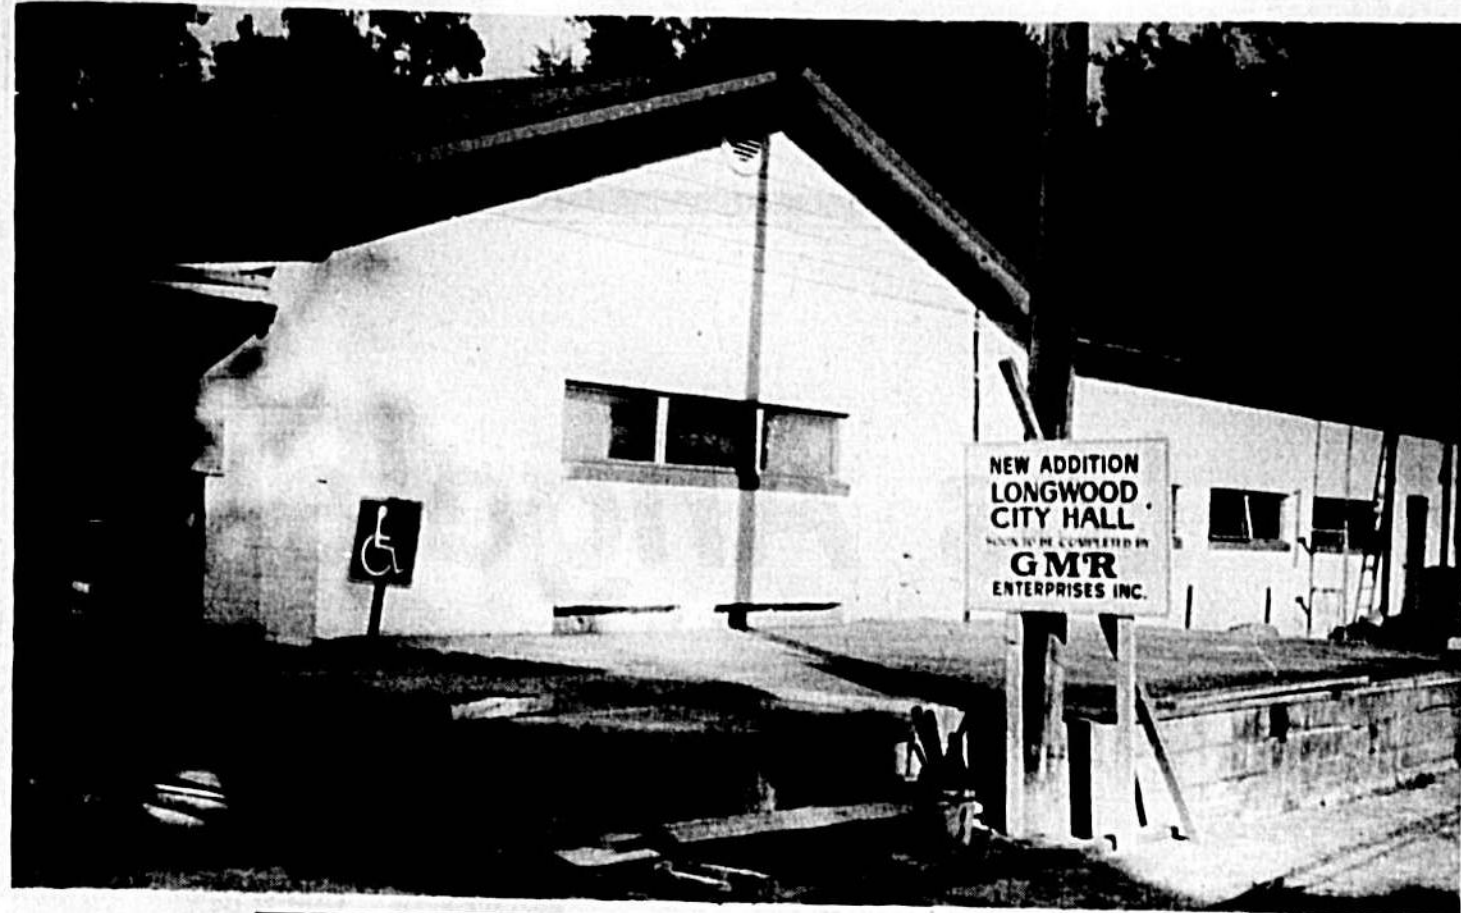

The dissatisfied worker definitely is the one most inclined to steal, the researchers found. Conclusions on what business should do about employee theft were somewhat more revealing than the study of the diabolical thief.

For example, it was found that company security staffs presently give a low priority to worker theft. They are too preoccupied with protection against burglary, vandalism and possible terrorist acts. It also was learned that theft and cheating by employees becomes particularly likely if employees congregate together after working hours.

This led Hollinger to the conclusion that reducing worker theft is a complex management problem calling for firmness and clearly defined policy. For example, investigators in the Minneapolis survey found a surprising proportion of inventory managers did not consider that the control part of their job description. The few companies that had clearly listed that control in the inventory manager's job description had fewer problems with theft.

The survey, on the whole, confirmed what many less comprehensive studies have indicated in the past: most managements just hate to come to grips with the problem of worker theft.

There is, of course, another point of view—the skeptic's—from which the 16-in. may appear as one more example of the selling of the games, the commercialization of a professedly amateur endeavor that is in full swing.

Gas Boats Banned From Lake Winsor

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Staff Writer

Longwood City Commission has given final approval to an ordinance banning gas powered boats on Lake Winsor with violators subject to a $300 fine, 30 days in jail or both.

Commissioners were asked Monday night to contact homeowners associations in their districts for names of volunteers to assist census takers in getting a complete tally. Names are to be submitted by the last meeting in January.

The commission voted unanimously on a motion by Commissioner John Hepp to purchase a mow-trim mower head to be attached to the city's Gradall machine, at a cost of $2,800 plus $200 for an adapter.

City Administrator David Chacey reported construction has started on the $13.48 city hall expansion by GMR Enterprises Inc. He said it would cost an additional $700 because he had miscalculated and the existing septic tank was in the way and had to be replaced.

Construction has begun (left) on Longwood City Hall extension which will provide more room in the commission chambers.

Zahedi's Heady Times Come To Light

WASHINGTON — The deposed shah of Iran still rules a far-flung, multibillion-dollar financial empire from his exile on Contadora Island off the coast of Panama.

He is in constant communication with his trusted minions around the world, who still address him reverently by his imperial honorifics. The Panamanian authorities have upgraded the island's telephone system to accommodate him.

The prime minister of his shadowy empire is Amir-Abbas Zohabi, who used to be the shah's retiring ambassador in Washington. He writes reports to the shah, as always, by hand with the substitution: "I kiss your feet thousands and thousands of times and beg you to allow me to report to His Imperial Majesty the following."

That goes as wit at Washington parties. But behind the tinkling glasses, sparkling wine and sophisticated chatter, he led a hectic, more sordid life. He conducted out his files before he surrounded the Iranian embassy to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's bayonets. But in his haste, Zahedi left behind clues in the double life he led.

This cryptic note, for example, was found among his abandoned belongings: "4 girls w/it. $10M." Witnesses explain that Zahedi did it big business with some of Washington's clandestine prostitutes.

He held office in the embassy's Persian Room — an intimate but lavish room, with a high octagonal dome of mosaic mirrors, 7 frons of lovers get among files and silk. Persian rug covered about $80,000 space. He invited prominent guests into this richly draped and cushioned room to watch lively dinners, smoke opium and sample the favors of his high-priced call girls.

Zahedi assigned two men to procure the women who were offered to guests he wanted to influence, including the notorious American muckamucks who preferred out-of-town playboys; he reserved a suite at New York City's fashionable Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, the deposed shah's favorite.

Among his personal effects was a photograph, taken in his bachelor quarters, of a strikingly beautiful, raven-haired woman lounging on rugs and pillows. She is dressed in red pants, red scarf and a white blouse open down to her breasts.

There were never any witnesses to the actual transactions. Both witnesses and records attest, however, that he distributed expensive gifts to thousands of prominent Americans. The gifts ranged from $700 ties of Iran's finest carpet to dazzling jewelry and Persian rugs worth up to $20,000. There were 4,000 names on his gift list.

Students Cook To Explore Metrics

Students in Mrs. Ada B. Byrd's mathematics classes have been cooking for understanding.
These Sanford Middle School eighth graders culminated a unit of study on the metric system by preparing foodstuffs from metric recipes.
Using these recipes gave them an opportunity to explore the concepts of quantity, temperature, time and sequence, according to Mrs. Byrd.
Various measurements were also involved that required students to put their mathematical skills to work: counting, estimating, computing and most important of all fostering a greater understanding and applicability of the metric system.

At the same time, Mrs. Byrd said the students benefited from participating in a social activity which required cooperation and sharing.
And what did the students prepare?
Mostly cookies and refreshing beverages.
Tina Burgess, left, and Rebecca Morgan are ready to whip up a batch of cookies using metric measurements.

Maneuvered By Junior Con Artists

DEAR ABBY: What is a mother supposed to say when her child asks, "Can Kevin stay for supper?" - and Kevin is standing right there looking up into your face?

I always say, "Of course, but Kevin has to call his mother and get her permission first."
Then my brat says, "Mother, you call Kevin's mother. He's afraid to."
So, like a ninny, I call Kevin's mother, and she says, "Barbara is 11, and Joe is a very good provider."
I really don't mind having one more for supper because mine is an only child, and it's nice for him to have someone to play with. But I don't like being maneuvered into it, and my son pulls this often. Also, after supper they play until it's dark, and guess who has to take the dinner guest home?

Is there a solution?
CONNED BY CONNERSVILLE

DEAR ANDY: My old lady and I are having an argument and hope you can settle it. I say pigeons are still being trained to carry messages, and the wife says that pigeons haven't carried anything but diseases since the Civil War. Who is right?

DEAR ANDY: You are. Pigeons are still being trained to carry messages. (They were used in World War II for that purpose.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO "IN LOVE WITH A CO-WORKER WHO'S TRAPPED IN A LOVELESS MARRIAGE": Get out of that office and out of his life. It would be easier to smuggle down past a rooster than to hide the fact that you two are madly in love.

NAMES CHANGED
DEAR CHANGED: What's to be gained by making a

DEAR CONNED: Your resentment at being outsmarted by a couple of junior con artists is understandable, but you're lucky your son has friends. Simply instruct him to ask you privately if he may have a guest for supper.

DEAR ABBY: My husband (11) call him Joe and I live in the same house but have separate bedrooms because I've known for years that Joe can't leave other women alone. I got tired of fighting

WIN AT BRIDGE by JANE CASSELLERRY

When you bid as Eddie does you should make it a point to play the cards as well as Eddie does.
He studied the hand for a while and saw that if he could score five trump tricks, one heart and two diamonds he would be home. Then he took dummy's ace of hearts, ruffed a heart, led to dummy's ace of diamonds, ruffed another heart, led to dummy's king of diamonds and ruffed a heart.
This line of play is called a dummy reversal in that Eddie had managed to reduce his trump length to less than dummy's. He also had six tricks in hand and was going to get two more to bring home the contract.
Dummy reversal is an important procedure to remember. Normally one prefers to ruff in the hand with fewest trumps, but extra tricks can sometimes be scored by taking advantage of a void or singleton in what would normally be the handmaster hand. Dummy now becomes master and his short suit is used to collect opponents' trumps.
The bidding in the box was when Eddie Kantar held the South cards. His two-spade bid was indicative of his style which is to bid when there is any conceivable reason to do so. This time he held five spades, a singleton heart and the jack and it was his turn.

Cluster Headaches Difficult To Treat

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband is 25 years old and he has been having severe headaches for the past two years. They usually occur at night, sometimes waking him out of a sound sleep. The headaches are preceded with dizziness, spots and blurred vision.

Recently one of these occurred late in the daytime and the doctor was able to see him during the attack and decided he has cluster headaches based on the fact that the headaches come on abruptly and are throbbing pain behind the eye on one side of the face. He swears excessively with these attacks and the headaches last about seven hours. The headaches occur frequently for a period of time and then they don't occur at all for several months.

The doctor prescribed Calgeft with strict warnings about taking it only when necessary. Are there other medications that are effective that are safer? He has taken mild tranquilizers and aspirin but they don't help much. Will these headaches go away without returning? Some of the attacks occur after drinking. Can this be a cause? DEAR READER — You've given a fairly good description of cluster headaches. They're really just a variant of migraine headaches and the reason they're called cluster headaches is because a person may have a series of attacks of headaches or a cluster of them and then there may be a hiatus for several months, as you described in the case of your husband.

They are sometimes difficult to treat. In addition to Cafergot or ergotamine tartrate, there is a long list of medicines that have been tried with varying success. A few are very effective but can only be used for short periods of time. You'll need to rely on your doctor's advice on which one he might try. Propranolol (Inderal) is effective in 50 to 60 percent of the patients who have migraine headaches and might be useful. Some other medicines that have also been used to treat high blood pressure are sometimes helpful — even though the headache patient doesn't have high blood pressure.

Your husband might benefit from a better understanding of headache problems and so I'm sending you The Health Letter number 29, Headache: Man's Most Common Pain. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

In general, cluster headaches tend to be more difficult to treat than most migraines (although some migraine headaches are pretty refractory to treatment). In both instances, an improvement in lifestyle does help. People who have migraine headaches tend to be perfectionists and strive to please. The tension this sometimes creates seems to be a factor in precipitating frequent attacks in some people. It's hard to say whether alcohol has any relationship to your husband's cluster headaches or not. It is not usually thought of as a cause of such headaches but, of course, it is generally appreciated that if one overdoes it, one can have a rather severe headache the next morning. But those are called hangovers, not cluster headaches.

The Art's Council Seminole County coordinator Don Reynolds, assisted by artist Martha Black, works on a mural on Magnolia Avenue at First Street in Sanford to help make the public aware of art in Seminole County.

Art Council Meets In Sanford: Will Ideas Fall On Deaf Ears?

The Council for Arts and Science for Central Florida conducted an open meeting Thursday evening at the Sanford Civic Center to determine the ways of promoting the artistic and cultural needs of Seminole County.

Special invitations had been sent to representatives of various cultural organizations, educators and artists throughout the county and about 50 people attended the meeting to express their views about art and culture and how it should grow in this area.

Many ideas were discussed and interest in specific areas were expressed, but according to Don Reynolds, artistic coordinator for the council, it may simply be wishful thinking without strong public support and funding.

"There was a feeling among everyone," he said, "that while everything is possible, and there are some good ideas, that it's going to fall on deaf ears."

Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funding for the Sanford office of the arts council expires next month, which may force its closure.

Those attending the meeting expressed a desire for an old building or home, that could be converted to a permanent arts building or museum. They also expressed a desire for a center. Actors and musicians all would like to see some central building they could call their own, said Reynolds, where they could study, perform or go to find out about art in the county.

The possibility of using the large auditorium planned for the new Lake Mary High School for performances was mentioned. The school is expected to open in 1981.

A desire for more art in the public schools utilizing the state's Artist in the Schools program was expressed. Dr. Mabel Sherman, the program's state director, said young students control the future and the county is to survive artistically, the U.S. must accept the need for more art in the schools.

Dorothy Morrison, chairman of the humanities department at SCC, agreed with that statement. "Art is not a fuff, but a basic part of a person's education."

Reynolds said funding for projects can be made available with public support. "I feel if people in the community can come up with a project or create something they want, we can come up with the funds but it will be well-defined."

Reynolds is currently painting a mural depicting a scene from the 1800s on the side of a building on Magnolia Avenue at First Street in Sanford. In speaking of the mural and how it can make the public more aware of art in the community, Reynolds said "That's the way I communicate better than anyway else. Hopefully that will help."

Tentative Coal Slurry OK Pleases Continental Head

By JANE CASSELLERRY
Herald Staff Writer

"This is really all we wanted all along," said Gus J. MacLachlan, a Continental Resources Co. executive in Winter Park. He was talking about a tentative finding by a committee established by the state Legislature to look into the feasibility of construction of a 1,000-mile coal slurry pipeline to connect the Midwest coal fields and power plants in Florida and Georgia.

"We won't build it unless the project is viable, competitive and environmentally sound. It's a shame they had to go through all of this effort to come to the same conclusion we have been reporting all along," he said.

The committee, which will be reporting its findings to the Legislature, determined the Winter Park firm (formerly known as Florida Gas Co.) should be allowed to build a coal slurry pipeline into Florida if it can get the necessary environmental permits and financing. The pipeline proposal is environmentally and economically feasible, the panel said in tentative findings made Thursday.

"We ought to acknowledge that pipelines are a feasible mode of transportation of bulk commodities under certain circumstances," said Public Service Commission Chairman Bob Mann, head of the committee.

"We ought to tell the Legislature, last year, you gunned it up. Take the gun out now and leave this thing on the books," Mann said.

Continental coal needs eminent domain power to cross the property of railroads, who don't want the competition.

"The chairman would certainly be commended for seeing some of the problems with the legislation we have seen," MacLachlan said.

The Legislature granted Continental formerly Florida Gas Co. eminent domain power during the 1979 session, but imposed several conditions.

Lawmakers created Mann's committee and said it must study the project economically and environmentally feasible.

They also said every state to be crossed by the project would have to grant eminent domain power to the project before the authority in Florida would take effect and the pipeline would have to be economically and environmentally sound.

"We ought to acknowledge that pipelines are a feasible mode of transportation of bulk commodities under certain circumstances," said Public Service Commission Chairman Bob Mann, head of the committee.

Lake Mary Taps Reserves For Park

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Faced with the possibility of losing the park land property the city is planning for more than a year to purchase, the Lake Mary City Council Thursday night voted unanimously to temporarily use city reserve funds for the acquisition.

City Attorney Gary Massey told the board he received word just prior to Thursday night's meeting that the land would be sold to the U.S. Department of the Interior for $37,000. The city has an option on the parcel for more than a year. The option is to expire Monday.

If the option expires without the city closing on the purchase, the city will not only lose the $37,000 which was used to bind the option, but also the $12,000 which the city would have realized in the increased value of the land in the past year.

Purchase price of the property is $37,000. Recent appraisal of the tract showed its current value at $66,000.

City Manager Phil Kalbas said the chances are "extremely good" the city will receive at least a partial grant for the purchase of the property. Kalbas is expecting word of the grant approval from the U.S. Department of the Interior.

FBI Joins Probe In Stromberg Heist

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The FBI has joined the investigation being conducted by the Lake Mary Police Department into the burglary of the Stromberg-Carlson electronics plant in the early morning hours Thursday.

It may take weeks, Lake Mary Police Detective David Higginbotham said today, before the exact value of checks and other items taken from the electronics plant can be determined. The loss may be well over $250,000, Higginbotham said today.

Agents of the FBI joined the investigation today because the crime in all likelihood will involve the crossing of state lines.

The burglary of the plant and the removal of a 1,935-pound safe from the payroll office was discovered by the payroll office and reported to the police at 7:05 a.m. Thursday, Higginbotham said a partial list of items contained in the safe included $100,340 in negotiable Bank America travelers checks; 300 United States savings bonds of unknown denominations, other securities, titles to vehicles, employee checks and cash.

The value of the safe is $4,000. Higginbotham said the alarm system at the plant was either turned off or disconnected and there was no alarm on either the safe or the payroll office door. Higginbotham said the police department has been deluged with telephone calls from area merchants wishing to know the serial numbers of the travelers' checks. Those serial numbers are as follows:

- $50 denominations — 33-001-342-280 through 094; 33-001-569-270 through 359; 34-113-556-265 through 689; 34-116-321-720 through 999; 34-116-322-000 through 888; $100 denominations — 43-065-697-214 through 341; 43-067-458-200 through 674; 43-082-133-160 through 334.
- $20 denominations — 24-087-416-526 through 589; 24-088-891-260 through 399; 24-091-718-116 through 219; $10 denominations — 14-057-041-224 through 229; 14-058-097-550 through 559; 14-079-231-280 through 289.

Stromberg-Carlson officials were not available for comment.

Carter Ponders Olympic Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter will make a decision within the next several days on whether the United States should boycott the Summer Olympics in Moscow, his spokesman said today.

But White House press secretary Jody Powell noted Carter has already said he could not support American participation in the Soviet Union July 19-Aug. 3 while Russian troops are in Afghanistan.

Powell spoke as the two top officials of the U.S. Olympic Committee arranged to meet later in the day with White House aides on the situation. The committee has charged Carter has no legal basis for keeping American athletes away from Moscow this summer.

Armed with philosophical arguments and bylaws of the International Olympic Committee, U.S. committee President Robert Kane and Executive Director F. Don Miller came to Washington from Colorado Springs, Colo., for the White House meeting.

Carter will speak out on the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and on the hostage situation in Iran in his State of the Union message next Wednesday.

Powell said Carter "will devote the major portion of his State of the Union address Jan. 23 to the threat to international peace and security created by the invasion of Afghanistan and to the continuing crisis in Iran."

Carter planned a foreign policy break-fast today with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, Defense Secretary Harold Brown, who has just returned from China, national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and White House chief of staff Hamilton Jordan.

They were expected to discuss a report from Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher that his mission to Europe this week found wide support for "strong punitive action" against the Soviets.

The Foreign Ministry of Soviet-occupied Afghanistan today invited newsmen from all other countries to visit the nation and report "the correct and true picture" American journalists failed to present.

Reporters Leave Iran As U.N. Hopes Dim

By United Press International

Government-banned American reporters packed their bags for their exodus today from Iran, leaving behind the 50 American hostages who on their 78th day of captivity had scant hope of going anywhere.

The expulsion of all reporters working for American news organizations left the official Tehran Radio as one of the primary sources of information from Iran, as the Iranian authorities apparently wanted it.

The radio, monitored by the BBC in London, said hundreds of thousands of Iranians marched through Tehran and other cities Thursday, mixing a religious commemoration with a massive protest denouncing both the United States and the Soviet Union.

American correspondents, banned since the revolution, were ordered to leave today.
