Battery case goes to higher court

The Seminole County Sheriff's Office has turned over the investigation of a misdemeanor battery case by a Seminole County school bus driver to the State Attorney's office.

Meanwhile, the bus driver is on suspension from his job.

Driver Jim Loomis, 61, who has been a driver with Seminole County schools for about four and a half years, is accused of hitting one boy in the face and crushing another in the bus door after the two were fighting on the bus as it traveled from Teague Middle School in Altamonte Springs on Monday.

George Proechel, public information officer for the sheriff's office, said that there "are some conflicting statements regarding what happened on the bus so the case is being turned over to the state attorney's office."

"We took statements from 19 students on the bus, from the bus driver and from the two boys involved," Proechel said. "We'll let the state attorney decide where to go from here."

Proechel said that problems began when the boys got on the bus and the driver had to physically put one of them in his seat before the bus ever left the school.

He said that at the first stop one of the boys tried to get off the bus to fight with someone outside and the other started off after him.

He said as the driver tried to shut the door to prevent the second boy from leaving, he caught the first boy in the door. He then ripped the second boy's shirt as he tried to put him in his seat, Proechel said.

"From there, there are some conflicting stories," he said.

Officials from the school district were not available for comment.

Chamber awards event

LONGWOOD — The Longwood/Winter Springs Area Chamber of Commerce will be holding its annual awards luncheon Monday. Members of the chamber will be honored for outstanding achievements during the past year.

The cost of the luncheon is $12 per person. Reservations may be made by phoning 831-9991.

A reception will be held prior to the luncheon, beginning at 11:30 a.m., with the luncheon at noon, at Quality Inn North, at the intersection of Interstate 4 and S.R. 434 in Longwood.

NASA sets Dec. 2 launch date

CAPE CANAVERAL — NASA today set a Dec. 2 launch date for the year's eighth and last shuttle flight, a military mission by Discovery. Liftoff was scheduled for 6:59 a.m. EST.

Five astronauts, all military men, will release a classified satellite on the first day of the seven-day flight.

Police chief resigns

Sanford's top cop Harriett to be new county undersheriff

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Mayor Bettye Smith said that no one has yet been considered to fill the position of police chief when Steve Harriett leaves at the end of the year to become the second in command at the Seminole County Sheriff's Office.

Harriett has confirmed that he believes a good choice for his replacement would be Capt. Steve Russell, his executive officer at the Sanford Police Department.

"I have said informally that it seems to me that that choice would be the least disruptive," he said. "He is aware of the issues and the demands of the police department. I don't see any negatives with him."

Smith said that it is far too early to be making such a decision, though Harriett said that he has told her that he believes it would be "least disruptive to the police department and to the community to consider an in-house candidate."

Police Chief Steve Harriett

Eslinger said that Harriett will be replacing Maj. John Erwin as the major in charge of departmental administration after the first of the year.

"I think he is very progressive and innovative," Eslinger said of his choice this morning. "He has a diverse administrative background and will enhance the overall effectiveness of the sheriff's office."

Smith said that there is no hurry to select a replacement. Harriett's resignation has not yet been made officially, she said, though she is aware that it is forthcoming shortly.

Harriett said that he will continue in his position with the city until "on or about Dec. 31," but that he will also be taking advantage of some accrued leave time.

The choice for his replacement rests with the city commission.

Harriett said he was asked to join the sheriff's department staff by Sheriff Don Eslinger "concurrent with the election," but said he did not make a final decision until a few days ago.

He has been employed by the City of Sanford for 18 years he said and has been the chief of police since May 1985.

He said he leaves the city with "mixed emotions", but said that he believes that he will be able to continue to serve the city in his new capacity with county law enforcement.

Harriett said that his family has a long tradition with the law enforcement departments in the city, which made his decision to leave more difficult.

Candidates' forum: Codes, roads, crime

By NICK PFEFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Some controversy arose but no mud was slung as candidates for mayor and city commissioner appeared before the public last night in a political forum that drew about 130 people.

Many in the audience were supporters of specific individuals with only a few undecided on hand at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

The forum was sponsored by the Sanford Historic Trust.

One of the subjects that drew the most controversy centered on the beltway currently under construction in the southern section of the city.

"I originally opposed it," said mayoral incumbent Bettye Smith. "But now it appears to be impossible to stop it so I believe our best approach is to make the best of it and make sure it will be the least disruptive to the city."

"I don't believe it will divide the city," she added. "The south area is mostly residential, but when it comes to equality in economic development of both sides, I would support it."

Her opponent, Sara Jacobson responded, "I remember back in 1988 when I asked Bettye about the beltway, and she told me she voted against it."

Smith said she voted for the beltway, and she told me she voted for it.

Youth minister found guilty of molestation

By GEORGE DUNCAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A Seminole County jury Thursday found youth pastor George Wayne Clatt guilty of molesting a 17-year-old member of his congregation. The jury took less than four hours to reach its verdict.

The 17-year-old said Clatt molested her when she and a friend stayed over at his house one Friday night in preparation for a candy sale that weekend. Clatt denied the charges and said the victim made up the charges.

However, prosecutor Steward Stone brought a clinical psychologist on the stand to testify the victim suffered from the type of stress disorder common to victims of sexual assault. Dr. Barbara Mara told the jury that, in her opinion, the 17-year-old had experienced a traumatic event in her life.

Stone also produced several witnesses that said the Altamonte Springs woman experienced a severe personality change, starting about the time of the molestation.

The victim did not immediately report the assault but Dr. Mara said, that was common in such cases.

Stone also brought a 20-year-old on the stand to testify that Clatt molested her when both were at a Holly Hills church.

A trial earlier this year resulted in a mistrial. Sentencing for the defendant will be held early next year.

Clatt will remain in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility until sentencing.

Lake Mary asks county for agreement to allow school expansion

By GEORGE DUNCAN
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary City Commission agreed Thursday to present an "interlocal" agreement to the Seminole County School Board to provide for the expansion of Lake Mary Elementary School.

The agreement came at the suggestion of special counsel Forrest Fields, who was asked by the commission to review the matter since the city attorney is also the attorney for the school board.

Fields was summoned because the commission initially waived site plan approval for the school, a move that was later questioned by Mayor Randy Morris as possibly illegal.

Fields said the commission should reconsider the site plan waiver because it could expose the city to liability in the future. He said it looked like an arbitrary and capricious use of government power.

"I don't believe local government should behave that way," Fields told commissioners.

Fields then suggested the city commission reconsider the waiver or proceed with the interlocal agreement.

"The bottom line is 'Do we want to do this or not?'" said Commissioner George Duryea.

Commissioners decided they did, even though there was extended discussion on both the legal matters and the expansion of the school.

However, Commissioner David Meador moved that an interlocal agreement be offered to the school board.

Love at first sight for couple wanting a historic home

By DEL FREEMAN
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Toby and Barry Troutman are tickled to live in a historic home after wanting one for a number of years. They moved to the Sanford area into a new home, Toby said, but she longed for one with more old-world charm.

"I work at Midway School, and I'd drive through this area every day just looking at the homes," she said. "When I saw the for sale sign in front of this one, I thought it was one I could live in." They looked at several in the neighborhood, and ultimately decided on the one at 900 Palmetto Ave., she said.

Their 2,300 square foot red brick home is on the insurance rolls as early as 1922, she said, though she doesn't know exactly when it was built.

Health insurance fraud

5 execs indicted for bilking 40,000 out of $29 million

By Associated Press

ORLANDO — Five people were indicted Thursday in a scheme to defraud more than 40,000 employees of health insurance premiums, sticking them with more than $29 million in unpaid medical claims, authorities said.

A federal grand jury returned the 22-count indictment charging John L. Gasitua, 49, of Miami; George V. Doherty Jr., 49, of Longwood; and Kenneth G. Rutter, 49, of Miami, with racketeering, conspiracy, mail fraud, embezzlement, money laundering and the receipt of kickbacks, according to U.S. Attorney Robert Genzman.

The indictment also charged April Marie McGlawn, 34, of Orlando, with conspiracy and Robert L. "Skip" Searle, 48, of Miami, with allegedly preparing a federal income tax return that fraudulently claimed deductions for illegal kickbacks to Gasitua and Rutter.

The five were involved in the now defunct

Orlando-based International Forum of Florida Health Benefit Trust. IFF was declared insolvent two years ago and was taken over by the state in one of Florida's biggest medical insurance collapses in recent years.

Doherty was IFF chief trustee, Gasitua was an IFF consultant and Rutter, McGlawn and Searle were IFF providers, authorities said.

"This corrupt enterprise has caused greater losses to more employees than any other federal investigation of health care fraud to date," said Julian W. De La Rosa, inspector general for the U.S. Department of Labor.

IFF was a multiple-employer welfare arrangement that provided pooled health insurance to small- and medium-sized employers from January 1988 to April 1990.

The indictment alleges the defendants defrauded 43,000 Florida policy holders of $34 million in premiums and left them owing some $29 million to their doctors and hospitals.

The scheme allegedly operated through phony corporations that posed as legitimate service providers to IFF, but were used to channel millions of dollars in IFF funds to the defendants.

Rutter, reached at his home in Miami, said he was innocent.

"When a jury hears what I have to say, I think I was as much of a victim as the people who you mentioned," Rutter said. "I think I'm totally innocent. I think this thing runs a lot deeper than what the U.S. Attorney disclosed."

Rutter's Miami attorney, Bill Ullman, said his client is an independent insurance agent who had no idea there was anything illegal going on at IFF. Ullman said his client cooperated with federal agents during the investigation and was assured he was not a target of the investigation.

"Ken Rutter was as much deceived by Doherty and Gasitua as anybody else," Ullman said.

AIDS-infected teen improving

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Thanksgiving at home is not out of the question for a hospitalized teen-ager with AIDS, his doctor said.

"He's doing much, much better. He's a lucky man," Dr. Jerry Barbosa said of 15-year-old Ricky Ray.

Ricky, one of three hemophiliac brothers believed to have contracted the virus through tainted blood products, entered All Children's Hospital Oct. 17 with pneumonia, a viral infection and internal bleeding.

Two weeks later, his condition had deteriorated. He was unable to eat, required oxygen every few minutes and could barely sit up.

Family members kept a bedside vigil and even President-elect Clinton called with words of encouragement.

By the middle of this week, antibiotics and other medical treatments seemed to have turned Ricky's situation around, Barbosa said. He was still listed in serious condition but had improved, the doctor said.

Court throws out hate crimes law

MIAMI — A Miami appeals court has thrown out Florida's Hate Crimes Act as too vague, but the state attorney general's office said Thursday the ruling will be appealed.

The law, which went into effect in October 1989, increases penalties for crimes motivated by bigotry and racial prejudice.

Two other state appeals court split over whether the law violates the First Amendment right to free speech, and that issue is now before the state Supreme Court, said Deputy Attorney General Peter Antonacci.

"Our plan is to maintain the status quo until the court decides," he said. "They are separate issues, but the court's ruling on the case before it will be instructive."

In the meantime, the law remains in effect in all of Florida except Broward, Dade and Monroe counties, he said.

On Wednesday, the Third District Court of Appeal, which covers the three counties, struck down the law as "utterly ambiguous and totally confusing."

Willetts pleads guilty to charge

FORT LAUDERDALE — Jeff Willetts, the former deputy convicted of prostituting his wife, has pleaded guilty to attempting to hire men to beat up her boyfriend.

Willetts, 42, was sentenced to 2 1/2 years in prison on top of the 3 1/2-year prison term he earlier received for trying to choke his wife, convicted prostitute Kathy Willetts.

While in jail, Willetts, a former Broward sheriff's deputy, tried to hire some men to beat up Mrs. Willetts' boyfriend, Foster McAllester, a former client of hers whose fear of Willetts led to initial exposure of the Willettses' prostitution operation.

"I can only hope that your life is going to be different when you get out," Broward Circuit Judge John Frusciantone said Wednesday.

"It'd be nice for a change," Willetts replied.

The Willettses made national news in the summer of 1991 when police caught them operating a brothel out of their Tamarac home.

She would entertain clients while he occasionally hid in a closet, videotaping the encounter. Customers included several prominent businessmen and Fort Lauderdale Vice Mayor Doug Danziger, who resigned soon after his role in the affair was made public.

Construction lumber mishap kills one

PANAMA CITY — One man was killed and another injured when a load of lumber fell from a bridge under construction and crushed their pickup.

The boards slipped Wednesday from a sling as they were being hoisted by cranes onto the new high-rise bridge crossing West Bay on State Road 79 northwest of this Florida Panhandle city.

Witnesses and Florida Highway Patrol troopers said the wood fell about 40 feet onto the truck as it was crossing the existing drawbridge alongside the new structure.

Raymond Stanley Tew, 28, of Southport, a passenger in the truck, died later Wednesday at Bay Medical Center, troopers said. The driver, Bobby Glenn Johnson, 31, also of Southport, was upgraded from serious to stable condition Thursday, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Police officer dies from gun wounds

HIALEAH — A Hialeah police officer shot last week by a man who police say was wildly drunk died after he was taken off life support, authorities said.

Pedro Caines, 34, was taken to Miami's Jackson Memorial Hospital last Friday after Eteban Quintanal allegedly fired through his apartment door hitting the 10-year police veteran in the side of the head, police spokesman John Rodriguez said.

Doctors declared Caines dead Thursday afternoon, Rodriguez said. Caines was made an honorary sergeant the night before.

Granny conspires to kill

By Associated Press

ORLANDO — A grandmother has been charged with hiring a gunman to kill her former son-in-law so her daughter could gain full custody of her sons.

"Very bizarre," was the description of the affair by the intended victim, Greg Burnead, 34.

Charged was Eloise Kerr, 54, Orange County sheriff's investigators said Wednesday.

Ms. Kerr's motive was to help her daughter, Linda Lewis, gain custody of her sons, aged 9 and 12, according to arrest documents. Linda Lewis was married to Burnead, from 1978 until 1984.

Ms. Kerr and her companion, Loren Reynolds, 61, of Ormond Beach, were arrested a week ago on one count each of conspiracy to commit murder. Both were released from the Volusia County jail on $25,000 bond, Burnead said. The two men their charges are innocent.

The alleged gunman, Andrew Hutchinson, 42, is in a Jacksonville jail on drug charges. Investigators said he would be brought to Orlando to face charges that include false imprisonment and armed burglary.

Hutchinson broke into the Burnead home last October, fled up Sheri Burnead and demanded to know where her husband, Greg Burnead, was, according to a sheriff's report.

The current Mrs. Burnead, who has a 7-month-old daughter, told the gunman her husband was away with the two older children.

The gunman stole a handgun, some jewelry and $1,500 and said he would be back looking for Burnead.

Sheriff's spokesman Jim Solomons said investigators have accused Ms. Kerr and Reynolds of offering Hutchinson $30,000 to kill Burnead.

Survey: Both genders agree women not treated equally

By Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — The so-called "year of the woman" is coming to a close, but women's issues will not fade from the political arena, according to a University of Florida survey.

The Nov. 3 elections showed that the public is open to women taking leadership roles in Florida, with the state's congressional delegation adding three women to its ranks, bringing the total to four.

"Not all women candidates won," said University of Florida political scientist Kenneth W. Meese, Jr. "But their numbers are up considerably. Nearly 40 percent of our sample, across gender and partisan lines, felt that women can offer workable solutions."

In Meese's statewide survey, both sexes identified the same major problems that women face in the 1990s and agreed that men have too much influence in society.

The major problems facing women, independently identified by respondents of both sexes, were unequal treatment at work, not being taken seriously, abortion issues, sexual harassment and the dual mother-worker role.

"A greater number of women considered not being taken seriously and the dual mother-worker role to be more important than men did," Meese said, "while more men than women saw the other areas as being more problematic."

However, both sexes ranked all five problem areas in the same order of importance.

Sixty percent of the men and 65 percent of the women said men have too much influence, while 61 percent of the men and 73 percent of the women thought that women have too little influence.

"When asked if women were happiest in their traditional role of making a home and caring for children, just under half of the women (46 percent) and men (48 percent) agreed," said Meese.

The most striking variations in responses were based on political affiliation.

More Republicans than Democrats of both sexes felt that women's influence in society is "just about right" or "too much." Conversely, Democrats felt more strongly that the influence of the sexes was out of balance.

There were no significant differences across the partisan and gender lines on the traditional roles of women.

Incidents reported

A resident in the 1950 block of Chase Avenue, Sanford, reported that a person or persons unknown broke into his residence and took a portable stereo and a bike.

Several electronics items were reported stolen from 2010 Sanford Ave., Florida Hospital Electronics. Among the items taken included a black VCA, according to Sanford police reports.

Employees reported the Handy Way store on West SR 46 was broken into. A person or persons unknown broke the front window at the store and entered. They attempted to pick the safe but were not successful in forcing it open, according to police reports.

An employee at Hopkins Meats on Michigan Street reported a white female entered and left without paying for various food items. The woman gave a check to a cashier but was told it would have to be checked. The woman did not wait but left the store with the food items.

Clarence Williams of 10th Street, Sanford, reported to police he was assaulted and robbed on the way home from a girlfriend's house.

According to police reports, two black males jumped from the bushes on Williams and hit him with a pistol and a sawed-off shotgun. When he fell to the ground, the assailants kicked him and stole his wallet, which contained $45. The attack happened so quickly Williams said he did not get a good look at the assailants besides noticing one wore a black ski mask.

A resident in the 2300 block of First Street, Sanford, reported a lawn mower had been stolen from his yard.

Construction materials were reported stolen from a construction site on the 600 block of Silver Birch Place, Longwood.

Man accused of assaulting girlfriend

Kenneth Noble, of Sanford, was arrested and charged with battery (domestic violence), after a girlfriend accused Noble of assaulting her, according to police reports.

AAA refuses to lift warning for I-295 violence

By Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE — The American Automobile Association won't lift its warning about Interstate 295 despite six arrests, several days without any problems and a letter from the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce.

The AAA warning was issued earlier this month after at least 38 sniper and rock-throwing attacks were confirmed by police on the beltway since mid-February.

The Chamber of Commerce letter noted there has been no recent violence on the bypass, which is heavily used by southbound tourists this time of year, and police are continuing to make arrests.

It was written by Chamber Chairman Thomas Petway III and was also signed by Mayor Ed Austin, City Council President Warren Jones, and Elaine Brown, chairman of the Convention and Visitors Bureau.

The Florida National Guard was sent in to beef up police patrols 10 days ago and there have been no reports of violence since. Additionally, police have arrested six teen-agers, two of them accused of a highway shooting.

"We respectfully suggest you immediately end your advisory to allow Jacksonville to begin the process of reclaiming our reputation," said the letter. "We believe no useful purpose will be served by the continued redirection of traffic."

The letter ends by demanding that AAA give city officials a full explanation of its safety criteria if the warning remains in place.

Tom Schroder, a AAA spokesman, said it would put the safety of its motorists first.

"There's no one special thing that is going to influence our decision. The factors include the amount of time since any incidents have occurred, the Jacksonville Sheriff's Office interpretation of their progress and a sense of certainty that the road has become as safe as any other in the state," Schroder said.

He noted that the Sheriff's Office is still pursuing leads.

Sheriff Jim McMillan said there are 300 leads in the I-295 investigation and he thinks it unreasonable to require police to resolve every major lead before the warning is lifted.

"I hope they will reconsider if we can show a number of arrests and show we've got the right people for the major occurrences out there," the sheriff said.

Fast food chain agrees to settle labor charges

MIAMI (AP) — Burger King Corp. will set up new systems to prevent future child labor law violations and will pay a record $600,000 fine to settle a federal lawsuit, the U.S. Department of Labor said.

The Miami-based fast food chain had been accused in March 1990 of violating restrictions on hours for teen-agers under age 16, requiring them to work longer and later than allowed of nearly all of its 600 company-owned restaurants.

Under federal law, 14- and 15-year-olds are allowed to work only three hours a day and a maximum of 18 hours a week when school is in session and only from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. They can work longer hours on weekends and during the summer.

The proposed agreement calls for the appointment of an independent compliance officer to oversee compliance with child labor laws throughout the 5,700-store chain and computer monitoring of the hours worked by employees, the Labor Department said in a statement Thursday.

In addition, Burger King would be required to update its child labor training program and provide training materials for restaurant managers.

"It's a win-win settlement for all of us," said Ori Zywotow, a spokeswoman for Burger King. "We believe it could be a model for the industry."

Most of the alleged violations occurred before Grand Metropolitan, the British food conglomerate, acquired the chain in 1990, Ms. Zywotow said. She said Burger King stopped hiring 14- and 15-year-olds at its company-owned restaurants more than a year ago.

Orchestra should make changes to save itself

Some years ago, after being asked about the state of the world, William F. Buckley replied that if you could buy the complete works of Beethoven for only $29.95, then the world wasn't all that bad.

Perhaps that's the view one should have about the $50,000 donation to the Florida Symphony Orchestra by Seminole County, although there are some troubling aspects to the grant.

Those aspects were well-defined by commissioners Larry Furlong and Richard Van Der Weide. Although Furlong eventually went along with the donation, both he and Van Der Weide questioned the priority of such a transaction.

Robert McGinnis, a representative of the orchestra promised a re-evaluation of concerts, ticket prices and community relations in the aftermath of the current financial crisis. One suggestion he made is that the orchestra may, in at least one regular concert, drastically lower ticket prices to attract more, and newer, listeners.

This is a good idea. An orchestra is not simply for the elite, not simply for those who can afford a $24 to $34 ticket. More concerts in surrounding counties would certainly help the orchestra.

Obviously, the FSO board of directors needs to look at the financial structure of the orchestra to ensure that this type of crisis doesn't happen again. Although the FSO will give concerts in Seminole County, it is located in Orange County, certainly not a poor county. Surely there are enough rich patrons to provide a good deal of financial support to the orchestra.

Running around at the last minute to save the FSO is not the best way to provide a sound financial base for a cultural institution. If the FSO survives this crisis, the board of directors needs to put in place the fiscal foundation to assure the sound future of the orchestra.

Saying thank you

We were living in the neighborhood when Commissioner Lon Howell purchased the fire-ravaged, rat- and roach-infested, slum rental, crack house located at 813 Magnolia Avenue.

We, the neighbors were all grateful to him for eliminating an eyesore and neighborhood disgrace. Not only did it improve the area but this was the fourth or fifth house that he had cleaned and restored for the betterment of each block where the houses were located, each time for a profit to himself as well as the city.

At that time no one could foresee the slowdown in the economy and as a result that Howell would lose his job and be caught in a bind that would force foreclosure. We regret these facts but we are grateful for this fifth attempt at restoration. (The size of the house, the price offered, and the amount needed to finish the restoration make it a reasonable purchase in today's market for a large or growing family.) (Or a bed and breakfast.)

The job of public servant would be easier and more pleasant if we would remember to say thank you for a job well done instead of criticizing.

We congratulate Lon Howell for representing his district and the City of Sanford most adequately for the past four years.

We wish him much success in the future.

Malcolm X, an American hero

Now that this nation has resolved its presidential agenda, it's time to confront an unresolved legacy, portrayed in Spike Lee's controversial new movie about an even more controversial American.

Malcolm X. With his baritone, mesmerizing rhetoric, he electrified black masses. His heritage thrives with resurrected energy 27 years after his assassination.

Two years ago, Life magazine, in a special edition, included Malcolm X as one of "The 100 Most Important Americans of the 20th century." That was a beginning of his resurrection. Now, a new generation has come to know Malcolm X, whose Hegelian greatness has been reduced — and encapsulated — by the 24th letter of the alphabet in a sartorial explosion of caps and T-shirts — lionized on the covers of major magazines, including Essence and that elegantly snobbish apostle of white literary culture, The New Yorker — front-paged on USA Today and the Philadelphia Daily News — and finally Hollywoodized.

But there are still critics who dissent. They side with nationally prominent black columnist Carl T. Rowan, who tar-feathered Malcolm for every racial sin from "black power" and race riots to black-on-black crime. Concluded Rowan: "Malcolm X was no great hero of mine."

That's understandable since Rowan neither knew well nor understood this stately and humanitarian Third World apostle. I did. Our friendship dated back to 1959 during my editorship of the then-oldest black weekly, The New York Age.

Shortly before Malcolm was assassinated, he called me in Chicago where I was working. "I don't have long to live," he told me over the phone. He suggested a meeting on a Saturday evening in the lobby of a downtown Chicago hotel. He was being guarded by six detectives from the Illinois attorney general's office.

When we got to the floor of his room, a short black man with a shot-gun was waiting at the end of the corridor. Two of the detectives chased the man down the backstairs, but he escaped.

In the room where we spent the evening, we talked about our friendship, our occasional friendly debates over New York City's WLIB radio and how his jihad (pilgrimage to Mecca) had changed him.

He no longer hated whites. Blond, blue-eyed Moslems were now his brothers and sisters. At one point, a deep, throaty chuckle rumbled up and the goateed Malcolm said, "I can work with the white man if he will form a coalition with the black nationalist agenda." He paused. "But I still don't trust those who won't trust me." Malcolm never stopped being a black self-determinist.

After hearing his prediction that he had, at best, two months to live, I asked if we could take some pictures together.

His prediction was off by six weeks. He was assassinated by three black men two weeks after our evening together, on Feb. 26, 1965.

Clinton campaign got Bush ads early

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Perhaps the best kept secret inside the Clinton campaign was that it had a spy either inside the Bush-Quayle campaign or its advertising team — the Clinton people won't say which, or even that such a mole existed. But several sources in the Clinton camp admit that they usually had advanced copies of ads that the Bush campaign was going to run, and were thereby able to have completed counter-ads ready to go as soon as the Bush ads started to appear.

The sources said that on a number of occasions the yet-to-be-released Bush ads were shown by the Clinton ad team to focus groups to gauge their reactions — positive, negative or otherwise. Armed with this information, the Clinton ad team was able to devise responses that played up the negatives and diluted the positives of the Bush ads.

Almost as important, the Clinton ad team knew where the Bush ads were going to run, so that they could spot buy time for the counter-ads in the same television markets.

As never before, public opinion polls dominated the final weeks of this campaign. In the end most of the pollsters were vindicated. Most of the major polls agreed that Clinton would win with 6 percent to 8 percent over Bush. The actual final margin was 6 percent.

But one polling organization emerged from the fray with a badly damaged reputation, especially within the polling community. The Gallup organization did national polling for several major media outlets including CNN. On the Friday before Election Day, it released a new poll showing the contest dead even (which contradicted the internal polls of both the GOP and the Democrats).

Without announcement Gallup changed its polling methods on these final surveys. Based on questions it asked respondents, Gallup tried to judge who would actually go to the polls. It then discarded the votes of those it figured would not go to the polls. Most polling experts say this made the poll invalid for comparison with previous polls or others done without trying to qualify the respondents.

Gallup defends its action and calls the poll valid. If you are to believe the Gallup explanation, there was a tremendous surge for the president in the last week of the campaign, which then receded just as sharply in the final 48 hours before Election Day. The only problem is that this showed up in no other organization's polling. Even the GOP's polls showed the president a steady 5 percent to 8 percent down the final two weeks of the contest.

Ross Perot ended up with 19,258,910 votes. To achieve this he spent about $3.25 per vote, certainly a record amount — per vote — in a presidential contest. Perot's spending, probably in excess of $70 million, is likely to result in some changes in federal election law.

Because they received public funds, the Bush and Clinton campaigns were limited to spending about $55 million each. They were outspent overall by Perot, and vastly outspent in buying television time, which is where most of Perot's money went.

The courts have said that it is an individual's First Amendment right to spend as much personal money as desired on his or her own election campaign. While there are not too many individuals who can dig as deep as Perot, the fact there are any may lead to a change in the rules.

One suggestion is that if an individual spends more than the federal maximum, additional federal money will be given to the candidates receiving federal funding. That would even put the brakes on an individual like Perot, because it would mean that for every dollar he spent, it would cost the taxpayers $2.

Most of America knows how many votes Clinton, Bush and Perot received. But how about the "other" candidates who were officially on state ballots, like the Libertarian Party's Andrew Marrou, the New Alliance Party's Lenora Fulani, the Populist Party's James "Bo" Gritz or "None of These" — an official ballot category in two states. So in an effort to be complete, here are the vote totals for the "other" candidates:

Andrew Marrou — 281,806; Bo Gritz — 97,721; Lenora Fulani — 80,411; John Hagelin — 42,494; Howard Phillips — 39,840; Lyndon LaRouche — 25,959; Ron Daniels — 25,833; James MacWarren — 5,946; Drew Bradford — 4,605; Jack Herr — 3,539; Helen Halyard — 3,067; J. Quinn Brisben — 2,789; None of These — 2,525; John Yamouyannis — 2,316; Honest Jim Boren — 980; Earl Dodge — 953; Delbert Ehlers — 876; Eugene Hem — 395; Isabel Masters — 395; Robert Smith — 290; Gloria La Riva — 178.

And finally, in the 27th precinct of Chicago's 45th ward, receiving one vote was William "Da Fridge" Perry.

The Clinton ad team knew where the Bush ads were going to run.

Egypt could turn into another Iran

CAIRO, Egypt — It is one of the West's worst nightmares.

An Iranian style revolution overthrows the government of Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, which is replaced by Muslim extremists committed to waging war against Israel and, by extension, the interests of the United States and its allies.

Overnight, the world could become an infinitely more dangerous place, a flashpoint for the Clinton administration.

Far-fetched? Unfortunately, it is all too real, according to diplomatic and intelligence sources. An Islamic insurgency here is growing and showing few signs of stalling. Radical Muslims — directed and funded by outside countries — are fomenting revolution in a country that's an economic basketcase.

Even now, religious extremists are locked in violent clashes with security forces for control of Egypt's poorer towns in the south. Since last March, violent uprisings have raged to transform Egypt into a Muslim theocracy. "Enemies of Islam" have been assassinated, and Egypt's economic lifeblood, tourism, is suffering.

While the United States frets over Mubarak's political health, officials also worry about the physical well-being of another key regional ally, Jordan's King Hussein. Jordan has rebounded from the political and economic crisis caused by the Gulf crisis. But a far more serious concern looms over Hussein's health. He was treated in the United States for cancer, and has made many allusions to his countrymen in recent days about his own mortality. Any negotiated Middle East settlement will require the United States has extended Egypt an open checkbook, making it one of the biggest international charity cases in the history of foreign aid. After the Gulf war, the West rewarded Egypt even more lavishly.

Referring to the windfall enjoyed by Egypt from its pro-Western stance, one Western diplomat told us, "Egypt made out like a bandit." The United States forgave $7 billion in debt, and other Western countries followed suit. Kuwait and Saudi Arabia have directly and secretly contributed perhaps as much as $10 billion.

Yet all this treasure seems to have evaporated like water in the hot desert. A With 58 million people, Egypt is one of the poorest nations in the world, with a per capita annual income of $700 per person. Given such stark poverty, Mubarak's government must heavily subsidize energy and food prices or risk the destabilizing force of food riots.

Already besieged and technically bankrupt, Egypt sustained another jolt when was hit by the worst earthquake in the last four centuries. Our associate Dale Van Atta reported from the crowded downtown section of the city on Oct. 12 when the earthquake measuring 5.9 on the Richter scale hit. More than 550 people were killed and more than 10,000 were injured in the destruction.

What's the solution? The International Monetary Fund is prescribing a privatization plan, which could heighten, not diminish the dangers, playing into the hands of Islamic extremists. Economic warfare is one of the tools of this terrorism.

For example, tourism is Egypt's biggest money earner, at almost $3 billion in this boom year. But fundamentalist attacks on tourists could devastate that industry. There are remittances from the 4 million Egyptian workers in the Gulf countries and revenues from the Suez Canal, but both have been flagging.

It is one of the West's worst nightmares.

Fancy treatments for chest pain no better than aspirin

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
AP Science Writer

NEW ORLEANS — Severe chest pain, which accounts for about 750,000 hospital admissions annually, can be treated as well in small community hospitals as in big medical centers, say authors of a major new study.

Their work found that ordinary medicines, including aspirin, are as effective as high-tech procedures available only in major hospitals.

The report answers important questions about the best way to treat a condition called unstable angina, a dangerous condition that often foreshadows heart attacks.

The new study found about 10 percent of patients go on to die or suffer heart attacks within a year, regardless of whether they are treated with ordinary medicine, receive clot-busting drugs or have angioplasty.

The clot-busting drugs are widely used to treat heart attacks, while angioplasty — a procedure that uses skinny balloons to force open clogged arteries — is a routine treatment for chest pain.

"The message is that for the vast majority of patients with unstable angina, you can adopt a conservative approach," Dr. David McCall of the University of Texas in San Antonio said Thursday.

The study, conducted on 1,392 patients, is the largest ever undertaken to figure out the best treatment for unstable angina, the No. 1 cause of admissions to hospital coronary care units.

The results were disclosed at the annual scientific meeting of the American Heart Association, which concluded Thursday.

Unstable angina is chest pain that strikes when people are not exerting themselves. It often results from a blood clot partially blocking a heart artery.

Aspirin is already a key treatment for preventing new or recurring heart attacks and strokes. Now it is clearly the standard treatment for unstable angina as well. Aspirin's major drawback is the possibility it will trigger unwanted bleeding.

Earlier this week, Dr. Robert Goldstein and colleagues from the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences in Bethesda, Md., reported the most impressive evidence yet of aspirin's power in people recovering from heart attacks or angina. They found that those getting one aspirin tablet daily had a three-fold reduction in their death rates after two years.

In the latest study, the medically treated patients received aspirin as well as four other drugs — the blood-thinner heparin, nitroglycerin, beta blockers and calcium blockers.

Since clot-dissolving drugs, like TPA, are effective in thwarting heart attacks, many doctors hoped they could successfully break up the clots that cause unstable angina as well.

built. Originally a Presbyterian parsonage, the Troutmans are the third owner in the history of the structure.

The legend is that the first pastor, a Dr. Brownlee, used to counsel people in the study and performed a number of weddings in front of the mantle.

Though the Troutmans have only lived in the home six months, Toby said she'd heard that a number of people who viewed the home on earlier tours came back because they had either been counseled or married in its interior a number of years before. The home will be open again to the public at the upcoming Sanford Historic Trust Tour of Homes Dec. 5 and 6.

"The Troutmans haven't had to replace their furniture from their former home because it has fit beautifully into their historic home. The formal parlor is backed by a family room and the kitchen features a butcher block table in its center.

"There are seven different styles of cabinets in this kitchen," Toby said, and she plans to eventually replace them with matching sets. She will not, however, replace the built-in glass-front cabinet along the kitchen wall.

Toby was particularly charmed by the backyard of the home, she said, where grapefruit weigh down trees surrounded by azalea bushes. "We don't really have the time to keep it up, but we love the way it looks," she said.

Like most of the homes on the tour, the hardware on the doors throughout the home is solid brass and at least one room, (the dining room), features sliding pocket doors from the hallway, and a half, swinging french door between the dining and kitchen areas. The upstairs bedrooms all have at least four windows, and Toby said every room in the house has at least four, and some have five.

Toby thinks from small gouges in the painted woodwork in the parlor that the underlying natural wood must be black walnut.

"I'd like to strip it back to its original wood," she said, "but my husband said that is something I should consider as a project for my next husband."

The Troutmans said they have had to do little in the way of restoration, and the home is virtually as it was when they first saw it. The windows are original, with the original beveled glass and Toby has kept to the rustic theme, with wall-hangings such as the handmade quilt she bought in the Ozarks and which adorns one wall of the family room.

And, like other older homes, the natural wood floors are of two different wood types upstairs and down. Downstairs, Toby said, the flooring is oak, while the upstairs is done in pine.

"When I saw this porch swing," she said, "I just fell in love."

"He said that the move to the sheriff's office is an opportunity for him to 'expand his horizons,' but it also gives him the opportunity to serve all of Seminole County.

"I am totally committed to Sheriff Eshinger. We have very closely aligned law enforcement philosophies and I look forward to working with him," Harriett said. "That is not to say that I won't be concerned with the city of Sanford, however."

IN BRIEF

LOCALLY

Girls' soccer jamboree set

WINTER PARK — Lake Howell will host the Seminole Athletic Conference girls' soccer preseason jamboree on Saturday, Nov. 21. The jamboree will be three 40-minute periods beginning at 6 p.m., when Lake Brantley plays two-time defending state champ Lyman. Seminole and Oviedo are scheduled to play at 7 p.m. before Lake Mary takes on host Lake Howell at 8 p.m. Admission will be $2.

Shaq, Magic whip Warriors

ORLANDO — The Golden State Warriors took their turn against Shaquille O'Neal and found out what the rest of the NBA is learning in a hurry: he's virtually unstoppable when Nick Anderson and Dennis Scott also are hot. The NBA's hottest rookie had 29 points and 16 rebounds and Anderson and Scott scored 30 and 25, respectively, to pace the Orlando Magic's 126-102 rout of the struggling Warriors, who have lost five of their last six games.

AROUND THE STATE

North Stars trip Lightning

TAMPA — Goaltender Jon Casey came within 7:51 of his third shutout of the season as the Minnesota North Stars defeated the Tampa Bay Lightning 4-1 on Thursday night. Brian Bradley's unassisted goal foiled Casey's try for the 12th shutout of his career. Bradley directed the puck through Casey's legs while falling down to extend his consecutive point streak to 10 games.

AROUND THE NATION

Bucs to 'camp' in Wisconsin?

STEVENS POINT, Wis. — A representative of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers toured University of Wisconsin campuses at Stevens Point, Eau Claire and Whitewater as the National Football League team examined potential sites for a summer training camp. A decision is expected in December.

Eckersley also AL MVP

NEW YORK — Oakland reliever Dennis Eckersley, named the American League Cy Young Award last week, was also named the league's Most Valuable Player on Thursday. Eckersley, who led the majors with 51 saves in 54 chances, is the ninth player to win both the Cy Award and MVP honors in the same season. He joins Don Newcombe (1956), Sandy Koufax (1963), Denny McLain (1968), Bob Gibson (1968), Vida Blue (1971), Rollie Fingers (1981), Willie Hernandez (1984) and Roger Clemens (1986).

Rams visit Tribe, Pats host 'Hounds to cap season

By TONY DeBORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — So this is how it ends? The 1992 Seminole County high school football season will wrap up this evening with a pair of games, Seminole hosting Lake Mary while Lyman travels to Lake Brantley. Both games are scheduled to kick off at 7:30 p.m. Unless some school is invited to play in the Kumquat Bowl next week, the only football game left to be played involving a Seminole County school is the Rotary Bowl on Thanksgiving morning, when Lyman will host Freedom High School of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. But there'll be no regional road trips on Friday night, no nail-biting finishes while on the way to a potential state title.

This year, no Seminole County school will advance to the state playoffs, the Mainland Buccaneers claiming the title in 5A-District 4

(which includes Lyman, Lake Mary, Lake Brantley, Oviedo and Lake Howell) and the Leesburg Yellow Jackets beating Seminole for the 4A-District crown.

So, except for the Rotary Bowl, this is it. It should still be plenty. Aside from the fact that both games pit neighboring schools against one another, both games should be rich with playoff intensity. While the district titles have already been decided, the Seminole Athletic Conference championship is still up in the air. The SAC crown is Lyman's to lose. The Greyhounds and Seminoles both enter play this evening with 6-3 records, including 3-1 marks in the conference. Lyman's advantage is its 15-9 win over Seminole on the first night of the season.

A win over Lake Brantley (5-4, 2-2) would give Lyman the conference championship. If Lyman loses and Seminole beats Lake Mary (5-4, 1-3), then the Seminoles would rule the conference.

Then again, if Lyman and Seminole both lose, then the Greyhounds, Seminoles and Lake

Brantley Patriots would be co-conference champions, each having 3-2 marks against county competition and 1-1 records against each other.

On top of that, both games will have added emotional appeal to their respective communities.

Lake Brantley will be celebrating its homecoming this evening at Tom Storey Field. During the festivities, Lake Brantley alumni and United States Olympians Wendy Bruce (gymnastics) and Jason Varitek (baseball) will be honored at halftime.

Meanwhile, Seminole and Lake Mary will play in the newly-christened Optimist Bowl. The brainchild of Seminole coach Emory Blake, the game will honor the Sanford and Lake Mary Optimist clubs for the work they've done for the youth in their respective communities.

According to Optimist Bowl chairman Dale Coppock, the two schools will now compete for a traveling trophy, sponsored jointly by the Sanford and Lake Mary Optimist clubs.

Tribe scraps way into tourney final

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — The two heavyweights of Seminole County high school girls basketball went toe-to-toe in the semifinals of the Lady 'Noles Invitational at Seminole High School's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium Thursday night.

And when the final punch had been thrown, the Tribe was left standing with a 66-63 win in overtime.

Seminole (2-0) advances to face Tavares (2-0) in Saturday's 7:30 p.m. championship game. Tavares used the one-two punch of Tanika Solomon and Shantrice Saxon to hammer Spruce Creek 67-43 to advance to the finals.

In other games Saturday, Lake Howell (2-1) and Spruce Creek (1-2) will meet in the third-place game at 6 p.m. and Lake Mary (1-1), a 60-36 victor over Lake Brantley (0-2) Thursday night, will take on Mainland (1-1) in the consolation game at 4:30 p.m.

The Silver Hawks went for a quick knockout as they hit their first five shots, including three 3-pointers, to take a 13-0 lead only three minutes into the game.

The Tribe countered with a 10-point run of their own, but after the first period Lake Howell led 17-10.

Seminole got as close as one point in the second stanza but could not take the lead as the Silver Hawks carried a 25-22 advantage into the lockerroom at intermission.

"We made a lot of mistakes, but kept coming back," said Seminole head coach John McNamara. "We

There's no point in hosting a tournament if you can't at least play in the championship game. On Saturday, Niki Washington (No. 44) will lead Seminole into the finals of the Lady 'Noles Invitational against Tavares.

Gator's claims Thursday title

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Good to the last out. Gator's used a great start and a strong finish to edge Florida Sports Wear 10-7 in the the playoff game to decide the champion of the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Thursday Night Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park.

Gator's took a 4-0 lead after the first inning and built the advantage to 7-0 after two innings, only to see Florida Sports Wear come back with three runs in the fourth and two in the fifth to cut the score to 7-5.

Gator's opened the margin back up to five, 10-5, with three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning. But Florida Sports Wear was not ready to concede the title as they scored three runs in the top of the seventh inning and had the tying run at the plate. But a fly to left ended the threat and the game.

The playoff was necessitated because the two teams had split a pair of regular season games and had finished the regular season with identical 9-1 records.

Contributing to the Gator's offense were Terrell Ervin (three singles, two runs, RBI), Chris Wire (three singles, run, two RBI), Mark Aten (three singles, run, RBI), winning pitcher Wil Bland (two singles, three runs), Scott Page (single, run, three RBI), Mike McLohon (single, two runs), Mark Clatterbuck (single, RBI) and Mickey West (RBI).

Doing the damage for Florida Sports Wear were Randy Yates (four singles, run), Randy Rawlings (double, two singles, run, RBI), Steve James (double, single, run, two RBI), Brantley Brumley (double, RBI), Steve Woodley and Lee Hood (one single and one RBI each), Mitch Burke and Norman Roberts (one single and one run each) and Wes Tanksley and Paul Pratt (one run each).

IN BRIEF

Sanford Rotarians to meet

Rotary Club of Sanford meets every Monday at noon, at the Sanford Civic Center.

Cancer support group meets

Support, Hope and Recovery, S.H.A.R., meets every Monday afternoon at 8 p.m. at Central Florida Regional Hospital in the far corner of the dining room. This is a self help support group for all cancer survivors, whether in treatment now or finished with it. Call 324-8737 or 323-7785 for more information.

Help for child support enforcement

Association for Children for Enforcement of Support, ACES, will meet the second and fourth Monday of each month, 7 p.m. at the Seminole County Library, Casselberry branch, S.R. 436 and Oxford Road. Meetings are free. Call 263-5638 for more information.

SCC seeks minority mentors

BANFORD — Seminole Community College is seeking community and business leaders to serve as mentors in the Minority Mentor Program, which pairs leaders with minority SCC students.

The mentors provide students with academic assistance, successful role models and educational and career encouragement.

For more information, contact Jocelyn Jones at 323-1480, ext. 282 or 561, on Tuesday and Wednesday 1 to 4 p.m.

Let's talk turkey

Make sure to take time to defrost your bird properly

It's a holiday time and every year I get calls from all ages of people who need reassurance on cooking one of their most important traditional family meals of the year. It's also a time you could make your family very sick from food poisoning if you don't take the proper precautions. Please make sure you take the time to defrost your turkey properly!

Defrosting a turkey — recommended methods — there are two methods for defrosting turkey: refrigerator defrosting and cold water defrosting. Remember to keep your turkey cold while defrosting and cook it as soon as possible after defrosting.

Refrigerator method — Place turkey or turkey parts on a tray in the refrigerator in their original packaging. Allow the following amount of defrosting time:

Whole turkey — 24 hours defrosting time for each 5 pounds.

Turkey breast — 1 to 2 days

Turkey parts — 24 hours

Cold water method — Place turkey or turkey parts in their original packaging under cold water in a sink or deep pan. Change water as often as needed to keep it cold. Allow the following amount of defrosting time:

Whole turkey — 30 minutes defrosting time for each pound.

Turkey breast — 4 to 8 hours

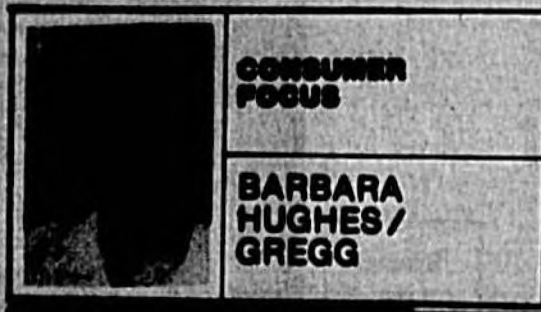

Turkey parts — 2 to 3 1/2 hours

Helpful hints: Food safety — Do not defrost turkey at room temperature. In the time it takes the center to defrost, the surface of the turkey could become warm enough for bacteria to multiply to dangerous levels.

Always refrigerate a fresh or defrosted turkey. Cook within 2 to 3 days.

Never partially cook turkey and finish cooking later.

Helpful hints: Leftovers — After cooking, remove stuffing immediately and slice turkey. Keep extra stuffing hot in a 300° oven while you eat. Never leave cooked turkey, stuffing or gravy at room temperature for more than 2 hours.

CONSUMER FOCUS

BARBARA HUGHES/GREGG

Refrigerate and use leftover turkey, stuffing and gravy within 2 to 4 days. Wrap leftovers in heavy duty Reynolds Wrap aluminum foil and freeze for longer storage. Use within 1 to 3 months.

Preparing a turkey for cooking

1. Buy 1 pound of turkey per person for turkeys that weigh 12 pounds or less; 1/2 pound per person if turkey is over 12 pounds; 1/4 pound per person for bone-in turkey breast.

2. Unwrap the defrosted turkey. Free legs from tucked position. Do not cut band of skin over legs. Remove neck and giblets from both cavities. Rinse turkey inside and out with cold water; pat dry.

3. Stuff body and neck cavities lightly, if desired, use 1/2 cup stuffing per pound for turkeys under 10 pounds; 1/4 cup per pound for turkeys over 10 pounds. Add 30 minutes to roasting time for stuffed turkey.

4. Tuck drumsticks under band of skin or tie together loosely with string or thread, if desired. Fold neck skin under the back and hold in place by twisting wing tips under the back or secure with a small skewer. Proceed with directions for cooking a turkey by following the method that best fits your time schedule and desired cooking results.

Helpful hints: Stuffing — Never stuff turkey ahead of time. Instead mix dry ingredients for stuffing in advance. Then add liquid ingredients and stuff just before roasting.

When cooking a stuffed turkey, add 30 minutes to the roasting time. The stuffing should reach a temperature of 160° to 165°.

To check the stuffing, insert a meat thermometer into the thickest part of the stuffing and leave it for 5 minutes.

Bake extra stuffing in a casserole alongside the turkey during the last 30 to 45 minutes of roasting time.

Helpful hints: Testing for doneness — A meat thermometer is the best guide to turkey doneness. For whole turkey, insert meat thermometer into thickest part of inner thigh, not touching bone. When whole turkey is done, the thermometer should read 180° to 185°F.

For turkey breast, insert meat thermometer into thickest part of breast, not touching bone. When breast is done, the thermometer should read 160° to 165°F.

For turkey breast insert meat thermometer into thickest part of breast, not touching bone. When breast is done, the thermometer should read 170° to 175°F.

No meat thermometer? Press thickest part of drumstick with protected fingers. The turkey is done if meat feels soft and drumstick twists easily in socket.

Another test for doneness is to insert a long-tined fork into thickest part of turkey thigh. If juices are clear, not pink, the turkey is done.

In case you get in a jam and I am out of the office, you can always call the toll free Meat and Poultry Food Safety advice Hotline at 1-800-535-4555. Home economists will be glad to help you out! I hope you and yours have a wonderful and happy Thanksgiving!

Letter-writing leads to exchange of rings

DEAR ABBY: When I told my friends I had a pen pal on the USS Midway during the Persian Gulf War, they smiled apprehensively and said, "Oce, that's nice." Little did they (or I) know at the time that what I once considered an innocent correspondence would turn into a full-fledged love affair. Yes, Abby, I, too, succumbed to an age-old romantic technique: writing letters.

After 10 months and hundreds of cards, letters and love notes, we truly opened our hearts to each other and fell in love — sight unseen.

When the war ended, Mike and I agreed to meet when he returned to the States. With butterflies in my stomach, I flew to Long Beach, Calif., to meet "my" sailor while he was on a four-day leave.

One kiss, and the rest is history! At our second meeting (after writing to my mother to ask her for my hand in marriage), Mike flew to New York to put a diamond ring on my finger.

Our third meeting: I flew to California again, we rented a car and drove to Las Vegas and were married in one of those romantic little chapels. Some people think I'm crazy. Some people think I'm lucky. Either way, Mike and I are very happy, and we thank God for the wonderful blessing of love.

For those ladies and gents who claim "all the good ones are taken," try reaching out a little, and never underestimate the power of words. I will cherish those letters forever.

So, from my heart to yours, Abby, I thank you for encouraging me, as well as others, to write to "Any Serviceman." It was the best advice I've ever taken in my life.

MRS. MICHAEL J. PAULI, BASTLON, N.Y.

DEAR MRS. PAULI: While not everybody who has participated in Operation Dear Abby has managed to snatch the gold ring, many have found friendship, and it is a project in which people of all ages can participate. But letters such as yours are especially thrilling. May you and your husband enjoy many happy, healthy, successful years together.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you can help me with my problem. I have been dating this guy for five months. I love him very much and I know he loves me. He calls me every night when we are not together, and we usually spend the weekends together. Here's the problem: He lived with a woman for six years and they have three children together. They are 5 1/2, 3 and 2 years old. He loves his kids, but he will not tell their mother (his ex-girlfriend) that he is in love with someone else so she should go on with her life and leave him alone. Everyone who knows us thinks that he should tell her. It's really making me feel like I am "the other woman" even though I'm not.

FEELING LIKE "THE OTHER WOMAN"

DEAR FEELING: You "feel" like "the other woman" because you are the other woman.

He may love you, but he has a moral obligation to the mother of his three children — with whom he lived for six years! I think you should say goodbye to this man, for your sake, his sake and the sake of his three children.

Mom should put girl ahead of boyfriend

DEAR MARY: My boyfriend moved out of the house last month because my 14-year-old daughter said he was making her do things to him that were wrong. I had noticed that she never wanted to be at home alone with him, but I just thought she was shy and didn't pay attention to her.

She's still carrying on about how much she hates him and I've told her to just forget about it, since he's gone now. To tell the truth, I really miss him and I wonder if she might not be making some of this stuff up. How can a mom tell if something really did happen?

DEAR DOUBTING MOM: Stop doubting! Your responsibility is entirely to your daughter and both of you must seek professional help immediately. Your unwillingness or inability to acknowledge the severity of this situation is impairing your judgment and preventing your daughter from getting the help she desperately needs. You must seek treatment for yourself as well as your daughter. The long-term consequences of sexual abuse of children is emotional problems among adults. A stable percentage of women in chemical dependency programs also have a history of sexual abuse, and more than half of the mothers of sex abuse victims in a recent study had been sexually abused as children. Researchers feel that others probably were victimized but had repressed or minimized the experience.

You can either call HRS directly (1-800-664-8486) or call your family physician NOW for an appointment for both you and your daughter. If your daughter does not get the help she needs now to deal with this traumatic experience, it may impact her for the rest of her life.

Old Idea ... New Setting
 When the Pilgrims held their first Thanksgiving celebration, it wasn't a new idea. The idea was as old as people's awareness of their dependence on God. It was a new setting. A group of people far from home, barely settled on a new land, were gathered, facing their first winter. They had no food, no shelter, and no help. They were alone. They were in a new setting. But whatever we are, whatever the circumstances, we are always alone. For whatever we are, whatever the circumstances, we are always alone. For whatever we are, whatever the circumstances, we are always alone. For whatever we are, whatever the circumstances, we are always alone.

In Defense of a Little Virginity

a message from Focus on the Family

The federal government has spent almost $3 billion of our taxes since 1970 to promote contraceptives and "safe sex" among our teenagers. Isn't it time we asked, What have we gotten for our money? These are the facts:

- The federal Centers for Disease Control estimate that there are now 1 million cases of HIV infection nationwide.¹
- 1 in 100 students coming to the University of Texas health center now carries the deadly virus.²
- The rate of heterosexual HIV transmission has increased 44% since September 1989.³
- Sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) infect 3 million teenagers annually.⁴
- 63% of all STD cases occur among persons less than 25 years of age.⁵
- 1 million new cases of pelvic inflammatory disease occur annually.⁶
- 1.3 million new cases of gonorrhea occur annually; strains of gonorrhea have developed that are resistant to penicillin.⁷
- Syphilis is at a 40-year high, with 434,000 new infections per year.⁸
- It is estimated that 16.4% of the U.S. population ages 15-74 is infected, totaling more than 25 million Americans — among certain groups, the infection rate is as high as 60%.⁹
- 4 million cases of chlamydia occur annually; 10-30% of 15- to 19-year-olds are infected.¹⁰
- There are now 24 million cases of human papilloma virus (HPV), with a higher prevalence among teens.¹¹

To date, over 20 different and dangerous sexually transmitted diseases are rampant among the young. Add to that the problems associated with promiscuous behavior: infertility, sterility and related nervousness. The cost of this epidemic is staggering, both in human suffering and in expense to society; yet epidemiologists tell us we've only seen the beginning.

Amazingly, the "safe-sex" gurus and condom preachers who got us into this mess are still determining our policy regarding adolescent sexuality. Their ideas have failed, and it is time to rethink their hazardous policies.

How long has it been since you've heard anyone tell teenagers why it is to their advantage to remain virgins until marriage? The facts are being withheld from them, with tragic consequences. Unless we come to terms with the sickness that stalks a generation of Americans, teen promiscuity will continue, and millions of kids thinking they are protected... will suffer for the rest of their lives. Many will die of AIDS.

There is only one safe way to remain healthy in the midst of a sexual revolution. It is to abstain from intercourse until marriage, and then wed and be faithful to an uninfected partner. It is a concept that was widely endorsed in society until the 1960s. Since then, a "funner later" has come along... one that now threatens the entire human family.

Answerable questions are raised whenever abstinence is proposed. It's time we give some clear answers:

Why, apart from moral considerations, do you think teenagers should be taught to abstain from sex until marriage?

No other approach to the epidemic of sexually transmitted diseases will work. The so-called "safe-sex" solution is a disaster in the making. Condoms can fail at least 15.7 percent of the time annually in preventing pregnancy.¹² They fail 36.3 percent of the time annually in preventing pregnancy among young, unmarried minority women.¹³ In a study of homosexual men, the British Medical Journal reported the failure rate due to slippage and breakage to be 26 percent.¹⁴ Given these findings, it is obvious why we have a word for people who rely on condoms as a means of birth control. We call them... "parents."

Remembering that a woman can conceive only one or two days per month, we can only guess how high the failure rate for condoms must be in preventing disease, which can be transmitted 365 days per year! If the devices are not used properly, or if they slip just once, viruses and bacteria are exchanged and the disease process begins. One mistake after 500 "protected" episodes is all it takes to contract a sexually transmitted disease. The damage is done in a single moment when rational thought is overridden by passion.

Those who would depend on so insecure a method must use it properly on every occasion, and even then a high failure rate is brought about by factors beyond their control. The young victim who is told by his elders that this little latex device is "safe" may not know he is risking lifelong pain and even death for as brief a window of pleasure. What a burden to place on an immature mind and body!

Then we must recognize that there are other differences between pregnancy prevention and disease prevention. HIV is 1/25th the width of sperm,¹⁵ and can pass easily through even the smallest gaps in condoms. Researchers studying surgical gloves made out of latex, the same material in condoms, found "channels of 5 microns that penetrated the entire thickness of the glove."¹⁶ HIV measures .1 microns.¹⁷ Given these findings, what rational, informed person would trust his or her very life to such flimsy armor?

This surely explains why not one of 800 sexologists at a conference a few years ago raised a hand when asked if they would trust a thin rubber sheath to protect them during intercourse with a known HIV-infected person.¹⁸ Who could blame them? They're not crazy, after all. And yet they're perfectly willing to tell our kids that "safe sex" is within reach and that they can sleep around with impunity.

There is only one way to protect ourselves from the deadly diseases that lie in wait. It is abstinence before marriage, then marriage and mutual fidelity for life to an uninfected partner. Anything less is potentially suicidal.

That position is simply NOT realistic today. It's an unworkable solution: Kids will NOT implement it.

Some will. Some won't. It's still the only answer. But let's talk about an "unworkable solution" of the first order. Since 1970, the federal government has spent nearly $3 billion to promote contraception and "safe sex."¹⁹ This year alone, 450 million of your tax dollars will go down that drain!²⁰ (Compared with less than $8 million for abstinence programs, which Sen. Teddy Kennedy and company have sought repeatedly to eliminate altogether.) Isn't it time we ask what we've gotten for our money? After 22 years and nearly $3 billion, some 58 percent of teenage girls under 18 still did not use contraception during their first intercourse.²¹ Furthermore, teenagers tend to keep having unprotected intercourse for a full year, on average, before starting any kind of contraception.²² That is the success ratio of the experts who call abstinence "unrealistic" and "unworkable."

Even if we spent another $50 billion to promote condom usage, most teenagers would still not use them consistently and properly. The nature of human beings and the passion of the act simply do not lend themselves to a disciplined response in young romantics.

But if you knew a teenager was going to have intercourse, wouldn't you teach him or her about proper condom usage?

No, because that approach has an unintended consequence. The process of recommending condom usage to teenagers inevitably conveys five dangerous ideas: (1) that "safe sex" is achievable; (2) that everybody is doing it; (3) that responsible adults expect them to do it; (4) that it's a good thing; and (5) that their peers know they know these things, breeding promiscuity. Those are very destructive messages to give our kids.

Furthermore, Planned Parenthood's own data show that the number one reason teenagers engage in intercourse is peer pressure!²³ Therefore, anything we do to imply that "everybody is doing it" results in more... not fewer... people who give the game a try. Condom distribution programs do not reduce the number of kids exposed to disease... they radically increase it!

Want proof of that fact? Since the federal government began its major contraception program in 1970, unwed pregnancies have increased 87 percent among 15- to 19-year-olds.²⁴ Likewise, abortions among teens rose 67 percent; unwed births went up 61 percent.²⁵ And venereal disease has infected a generation of young people. Nice job, sex counselors. Good thinking, senators and congressmen. Nice nap, America.

Having made a blunder that now threatens the human family, one would think the designers would be backtracking and apologizing for their miscalculations. Instead, they continue to lobby Congress and corporate America for more money. Given the misinformation extant on this subject, they'll probably get it.

But if you were a parent and knew that your son or daughter was having sex, wouldn't you rather he or she used a condom?

How much risk is acceptable when you're talking about your teenager's life? One study of married couples in which one partner was infected with HIV found that 17% of the partners using condoms for protection still caught the virus within a year and a half.²⁶ Telling our teens to "reduce their risk" to one in six (17%) is not much better than advocating Russian roulette. Both are fatal, eventually. The difference is that with a gun, death is quicker. Suppose your son or daughter were joining an 18-month skydiving club of six members. If you knew that one of their parachutes would definitely fail, would you recommend that they simply buckle the chutes tighter? Certainly not. You would say, "Please don't jump. Your life is at stake!" How could a loving parent do less?

Kids won't listen to the abstinence message. You're just wasting your breath to try to sell them a useless idea that...

It is a popular myth that teenagers are incapable of understanding that it is in their best interest to save themselves until marriage. Almost 65 percent of all high school females under 18 are virgins.²⁷

A few years ago in Lexington, Ky., a youth event was held that featured no sports contest, no rock groups—just an ex-convict named Harold Morris talking about abstinence, among other subjects. The coliseum seated 18,000 people, but 26,000 teenagers showed up! Eventually, more than 2,000 stood outside the packed auditorium and listened over a hastily prepared public address system. Who says kids won't listen to this time-honored message?

Even teens who have been sexually active can choose to stop. This is often called "secondary virginity," a good concept that conveys the idea that kids can start over. One young girl recently wrote Ann Landers to say she wished she had kept her virginity, signing the letter, "Sorry I didn't and wish I could take it back." As responsible adults we need to tell her that even though she can't go back, she can go forward. She can regain her self-respect and protect her health, because it's never too late to start saying "no" to premarital sex.

Even though the safe-sex advocates predominate in educational circles, are there no positive examples of abstinence-based programs for kids?

Thankfully, some excellent programs have been developed. Spokane-based Teen-Aid and Chicago's Southwest Parents Committee are good examples. So are Next Generation in Maryland, Choices in California and Respect Inc. in Illinois. Other curricula such as Facing Reality: Sex Respect; Me, My World, My Future: Reasonable Reasons to Wait; Sex, Love & Choices; F.A.C.T.S. etc., are all abstinence-themed programs to help kids make good sexual decisions.

A good curriculum for inner-city youth is Elayne Bennett's Best Friends Program. This successful "mentoring" project helps adolescents in Washington, D.C. graduate from high school and remain abstinent. In five years, not one female has become pregnant while in the Best Friends Program!

Establishing and nurturing abstinence ideas with kids, however, can be like spitting into the wind. Not because they won't listen, because most will. But pro-abstinence messages are drowned out in a sea of toxic teen-sex-is-inevitable-use-a-condom propaganda from "safe-sex" professionals.

You place major responsibility on those who have told adolescents that sexual expression is their right as long as they do it "properly." Who else has contributed to the epidemic?

The entertainment industry must certainly share the blame, including television producers. It is interesting in this context that all four networks and the cable television entities are wringing their hands about this terrible epidemic of AIDS. They profess to be very concerned about those who are infected with sexually transmitted diseases, and perhaps they are sincere. However, TV executives and movie moguls have contributed mightily to the existence of this plague. For decades, they have depicted teens and young adults climbing in and out of each other's beds like so many sexual robots. Only the nerds were shown to be chaste, and they were too stupid or ugly to find partners.

Of course, the beautiful young actors in those steamy dramas never faced any consequences for their sexual indulgence. No one ever came down with herpes, or syphilis, or chlamydia, or pelvic inflammatory disease, or infertility, or AIDS, or genital warts, or cervical cancer. No patients were ever told by a physician that there was no cure for their disease or that they would have to deal with the pain for the rest of their lives. No one ever heard that genital cancers associated with the human papilloma virus (HPV) kill more women than AIDS,²⁸ or that strains of gonorrhea are now resistant to penicillin.²⁹

No, there was no downside. It all looked like so much fun. But what a price we are paying now for the lies we have been told.

The government has also contributed to this crisis and continues to exacerbate the problem. For example, a current brochure from the federal Centers for Disease Control and the City of New York is entitled, "Teens Have the Right," and is apparently intended to free adolescents from adult authority. Inside are the six declarations that make up a "Teenager's Bill of Rights," as follows:

- I have the right to think for myself.
- I have the right to decide whether to have sex and whom to have it with.
- I have the right to use protection when I have sex.
- I have the right to buy and use condoms.
- I have the right to express myself.
- I have the right to ask for help if I need it.

Under this final item (the right to ask for help) is a list of organizations and phone numbers that readers are encouraged to call. The philosophy that governs several of the organizations includes presenting homosexuality as an acceptable life style and vigorous promotion of a teen's right to sexual expression.

Your tax dollars at work! Surely there are other Americans who recognize the danger now threatening a generation of our best and brightest. It is time to speak up for an old-fashioned value called virginity. Now, more than ever, virtue is a necessity.

If you agree with Focus on the Family that it is time for a new approach to adolescent sexuality, tear out this ad and save it. Take it to your next school board meeting. Send it to your congressman or senator. Distribute copies to the PTA. And by all means, share it with your teenagers. Begin to promote abstinence before marriage as the only healthy way to survive this worldwide epidemic.

Please use the coupon below to obtain a valuable booklet on abstinence. There is no charge for it. However, your support is requested for an upcoming TV program for teenagers on this important topic. Your comments are also solicited.

Hemorrhage is the main cause of anemia

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please discuss anemia.

DEAR READER: Anemia means too few red blood corpuscles. Basically, the situation develops under one (or more) of the following conditions: loss of blood, destruction of blood cells within the body, or inadequate production of red blood cells.

Hemorrhage is the most common cause of anemia. Excess blood can be lost from any site following a serious injury. The most prevalent forms of non-traumatic blood loss are excessively heavy menstrual periods, bleeding from the gastrointestinal tract and childbirth. Blood lost from the body carries iron with it. Because this mineral is essential for new blood formation, hemorrhage usually causes iron deficiency. Transfusions may be life-saving.

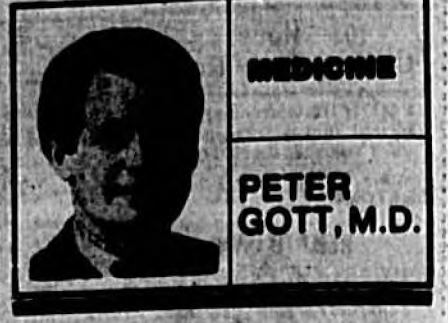

The cause of the bleeding must be diagnosed before treatment is prescribed. For example, a bleeding peptic ulcer may cause no symptoms until anemia develops; treatment for this is different from therapy for a woman who has just delivered a baby. In addition to specific treatment for the underlying condition, iron supplements are ordinarily prescribed to build up iron stores in the bone marrow and allow the body to make new blood cells.

Destruction of blood cells can result from toxic reactions to chemicals (or drugs), or from genetic diseases affecting the blood cells. Thalassemia and sickle-cell disease are two such disorders. Treatment of these conditions is more difficult because there's no actual loss of blood; therefore, the body's iron content is normal or high. Cortisone is sometimes useful in relieving toxic or allergic reactions.

Finally, inadequate production of red blood cells is a frequent complication of vitamin deficiency, notably vitamin B12 and folic acid, the lack of which can cause a chronic and profound anemia. Kidney failure and hypothyroidism often retard the formation of blood cells.

The signs of anemia include pallor, listlessness, rapid pulse, heart failure, weakness and malaise, as well as other clues,

Frank Stewart has been writing for the Los Angeles Times syndicated column "Sheinwoid on Bridge" for several years. He has just published a book of his articles under the title "Two-Minute Bridge Tips" ($11.95, P.O. Box 962, Fayette, AL 35555). The book follows a question-and-answer format. Over a double-page spread, you are presented with four problems. Then you flip the page and read the four columns from which these problems were taken. For frosting, there is a bidding question in every column. However, despite the title, it took me more than two minutes to read each article.

Today's deal from the book features an excellent principle: Try to make life easy for your partner. Defending against four spades, West led the heart four: jack, ace, seven. Back came the heart 10; eight, king, three. West switched to the diamond three, allowing the contract to make.

Was West wrong? On this layout, certainly. A third heart for East to ruff gives the defense four tricks. But if South had the same hand with 5-2-2-4 distribution, the diamond switch would be the only way to defeat the game. Was it an unlucky misguess?

No, it wasn't. The misdefense was East's fault. Knowing from the opening lead that South has three hearts, East should have cashed the diamond ace before returning the heart 10. This makes it easy for West.

If South is void in diamonds, the play will cost at most two overtricks — a small price to pay.

Always protect your partner from error if you can. Remember, he's only human.

YOUR BIRTHDAY Nov. 21, 1992

The aspects indicate you might become closely involved with someone in the year ahead who could be very fortunate for you in material ways. Ironically, this may be an individual who doesn't care much about money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You won't win any popularity polls today by trying to impose your views on others, especially if they are of a political nature. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for Scorpio's Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you refuse a loan to a friend that you can't afford to make, you're being sensible, not stingy. The individual making the request is out of line; you're not.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In matters that affect your career today, don't bring people into the picture who aren't directly involved. They could turn out to be factors that could work against you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you are working closely with a co-worker on a special assignment today, equality is extremely important. Remember, neither of you is the boss.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Guard against the inclination today to be too possessive of loved ones or friends. It could cause them to run away, rather than toward, you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Disagreements between you and your mate could have a low boiling point today; there's a chance either party might readily misinterpret the meaning of what the other says. Weigh your words carefully.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It might be wise today not to work with tools or materials with which you are unfamiliar. Even though you may be anxious to get something done, wait until you have qualified help.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

You could be a bit of an impulsive spender today, which isn't good news for your budget. Don't let your urges cause you to buy things you really can't afford.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) An ebbing of interest is indicated today regarding something about which you're presently very enthusiastic. But if you get too involved too quickly, disappointment is likely.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try not to waste your time and energy today on an emotional issue about which you can do little. It is something that can be resolved only through objectivity and logic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be optimistic today, but don't bank too heavily on things that have an unrealistic premise. You could be setting yourself up for a big letdown.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is a very fine line today between acceptable assertiveness and aggression. If you're not careful, you might step over it — with the wrong person at the wrong time.
