Seminole reaches semifinals

SANFORD — The Seminole High School boys basketball team overcame a sluggish start and beat Winter Park 77-66 to reach the semifinals of the Central Florida Classic at Seminole Community College Wednesday night. See Page 1B

Autopsy reveals heat death

SANFORD — Results of an autopsy on Carol White Munchi, 54, of rural Winter Park, showed she was killed by a combination of alcohol and heat exhaustion. Seminole County Sheriff's Capt. Roy Hughey said today.

Munchi's death in October was investigated by sheriff's deputies after her body was found in her car with the windows rolled up at Butler Place on State Road 436, rural Casselberry.

Dealer gets 50 years sentence

ORLANDO — A key cocaine trafficker in rural Altonville Springs was sentenced yesterday in federal court to 50 years in prison.

Kenneth Boudo, 30, who was arrested in May at his home, was sentenced on federal charges. He was sentenced in Orlando on one count of conspiracy and two counts of possession of cocaine with intent to distribute.

COB L. Donald Keltner said he was very pleased with Boudo's still sentence. "This is significant to his neighborhood where he was a major supplier of cocaine to street dealers. This is part of the neighborhood to neighborhood war on drugs," Keltner said.

Plans to be discussed

LAKE MARY — A plan to build several high-rise buildings at Lake Mary Boulevard and Interstate-4 tonight will again go before the city commission, who earlier this month tabled approval of the plan because of concerns about building heights.

The city planning staff has recommended approval of a planned unit development zoning designation, which allows a variety of land uses within a development, for Primera Business Center.

Plans for the commercial and office development, to be built on 104 acres at the northern corner of I-4 and Lake Mary Boulevard, call for buildings up to 150 feet in height. Commissioners and residents have opposed the building heights, which they have said would ruin the character of the city's residential areas and work against an ordinance capping building heights at 36 feet on Lake Mary Boulevard.

Gateway Development of Orlando has planned to build Primera in three phases, with a total of 700,000 commercial square feet, 1,368 million square feet of office space, a 112,000-square foot wellness center and 500 hotel rooms.

The commission will meet tonight at 7 p.m. at the city commission chambers, 158 N. Country Club Rd.

SHA has new boss

By BRAD CHURCH
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Judy Weekley, finance officer for the Sanford Housing Authority, was appointed interim director Wednesday to replace Linda Williams, who the board fired last week.

The board rejected by a 3-2 vote hiring Williams as housing manager, the job she has held for most of her 18 years with the Authority, after the board's attorney confirmed that questions had been raised about Williams' obtaining money from her retirement fund seven years ago.

Weekley accepted the position of interim director on the condition she would get her job as finance director back when she left the interim director's position. The board approved the condition, and also approved a salary of $35,000, which will be reviewed at a future meeting. Weekley was paid $25,636 as finance director. The board said Williams' salary was $35,672 when she was fired.

Jim Sweeting, the board's attorney, said the board must advertise to fill the position eventually, but told board members that an interim manager had to be named in order to sign to receive federal money before the end of the year, and to be named as contracting officer for the contract to renovate William Clark Court. The board did not act on advertising for applicants for the position, or for applicants for the housing manager's position.

The board unanimously approved Weekley as interim director after two motions by commissioner Shirley Allen to reinstate Williams in the position failed by 3-2 votes, with Allen and commissioner Jim Valerino voting in favor, and commissioners Teri Buratti, J. Wain Cummings and Alberta Detreville voting against.

The same vote split rejected hiring Williams as housing manager. After Valerino moved to hire Williams, Sweeting read a letter handed to him by Buratti, the board chairman.

A large crowd attended the meeting, including a couple of boys in blue (background).

The letter was written by Weekley to board members informing them that Sweeting's office was investigating the Authority accounts, books and personnel policy in preparation for the hiring of a management firm.

The letter was written after investigators from Sweeting's office appeared at the SHA offices last Friday.

After urging from the audience to explain the relevance of the letter, Sweeting said he was investigating allegations of financial impropriety.

"It came to my attention there has been an allegation into the handling of retirement funds by Ms. Williams back in 1982 when she reverted back to housing manager after serving as interim director," Sweeting said.

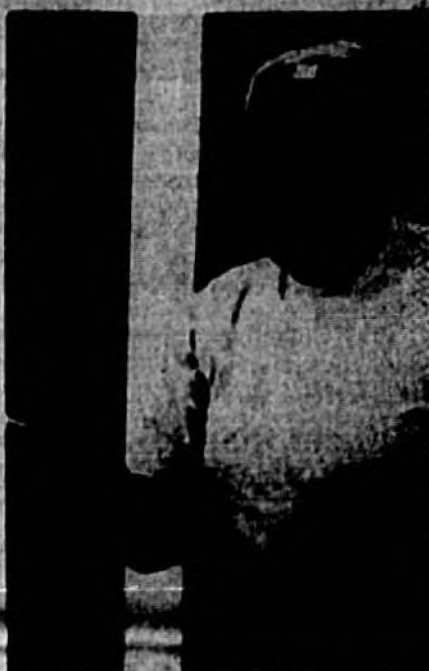

The allegation, according to Sweeting, is that after Williams was reinstated as housing manager after having served as interim director in 1982, she received a check for retirement funds and cashed it. Sweeting refused to say who made the allegation, or how big the retirement fund check was. "Although there is every indication that the allegation may be true, there is no proof that it is," he said. He said the insurance company that handles the retirement funds has been asked to supply records to substantiate the allegation, if it can.

Sweeting said the allegation came to his attention 10 days ago and that he did not inform the board of it before it voted to fire Williams last Thursday.

"I am very uncomfortable bringing this out. It should not have been made public now and if it proves not to be true it shouldn't be made public at all," Sweeting said. However, he said he could not refuse a request from board members to bring up the matter.

The meeting at the Bedding Gardens community room, was attended by a Sanford police officer and Sanford Fire Marshal Richard Cohen, who said 22 people had to leave the meeting because he said

Hannah Pinkney, a William Clark Court resident, lets the board know how she feels.

County charter opponent vows to continue battle despite recent setbacks

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Despite two legal defeats to prevent Seminole and Orange Counties from adopting charters, Bob Webster vowed Wednesday to continue his battle.

"This thing is far from over," Webster said. "Orange County isn't over yet either."

Monday, Seminole Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler dismissed Webster's lawsuit against Seminole County saying commissioners improperly adopted the charter referendum ordinance in September 1988. Leffler wrote in his decision Webster failed to allege the county had violated a state advertising requirement law.

"Evidently, the judge sees something that we do not see," Webster said. "(The law) has nothing to do with our arguments," Webster said.

Webster's attorney, Johnnie McLeod of Apopka, said he would

Ambassador: U.S. action signals end to 'Noriega nightmare'

By JEFF HARRY
United Press International

MIAMI — Although the future of Panama is far from certain, the U.S. military intervention in the Central American country indicates the "Noriega nightmare is over," a former ambassador to Panama said Wednesday.

The most important benefit of the pre-dawn attack is its apparent success in neutralizing the power of Gen. Manuel Noriega, said Ambler H. Moss Jr., dean of the University of Miami's Graduate School of International Studies and U.S. ambassador to Panama from 1978 to 1982.

"He is gone as a political force. He may not be gone physically, but he no longer runs the country," Moss said. "He could be no more than a minor nuisance."

The bold attack by U.S. forces sparked reaction from officials across Florida, which has one of the nation's largest Panamanian exile communities.

Most expressed support for the action, while some greeted it with cautious optimism.

Many said a failed military coup against Noriega in October and actions by the strongman's regime, including Noriega's invalidation of the May presidential elections and the killing of an American soldier on Saturday, forced President Bush to act.

"The tyrannical, repressive rule of Gen. Manuel Noriega, his involvement as a centerpiece of the international drug cartel and his personal responsibility for the murder of an American soldier demanded this appropriate military response," Sen. Connie Mack, R-Fla., said in Tampa. Mack was part of a delegation which witnessed the Panama elections in May.

Sen. Bob Graham, D-Fla., who also witnessed the elections, said it was unfortunate Bush was forced to respond with military force. As a result, the United States has a responsibility to be actively involved in reconstruction, he said.

"This event will not be the end of our involvement in Panama," Graham said in Miami Lakes. "The United States will have some serious challenges in the post-Noriega era. The Panamanian economy is in a shambles."

Panamanian exiles have mixed feelings

United Press International

MIAMI — Panamanian exiles expressed conflicting emotions about the U.S. attack in Panama, saying they were elated by the attempt to oust Gen. Manuel Noriega but worried about the fate of family and friends.

"The reaction in Miami has been very mixed, and I say mixed because many people are worried about their next of kin in Panama," said Luis Endara, a member of the Panamanian opposition movement in Miami and cousin to opposition leader Guillermo Endara, who was sworn in as president as the assault began.

"There has been mostly a party everywhere I have called, people saying, 'Hey, come over. We have champagne. We're celebrating.' And

NAACP on alert for more bombs

Authorities believe attacks racially motivated, trace bombs to Georgia

United Press International

Civil rights offices across the country, including those throughout most of Florida, tightened security and remained alert for package bombs Thursday as federal investigators pursued leads suggesting two fatal bombings and two more attempts were racially motivated.

NAACP Executive Director Benjamin Hooks said Wednesday all 1,200 branches of the civil rights organization were notified to be careful about opening packages and mail because of what he called a "very insidious, hateful crime."

Security also has been heightened at the King Center in Atlanta. There, preparations were under way for the January celebration marking the 50th birthday of Martin Luther King Jr.

The heightened security came amid growing suspicion the deaths of 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Robert Vance and Savannah, Ga., City Councilman Robert Robinson and a bomb mailed to a federal court in Atlanta and the NAACP office in Jacksonville were the work of racists.

"Federal investigators are currently concentrating on a possible racial motivation to the incidents which have occurred in the past four days," Attorney General Richard Thornburgh said Wednesday.

In addition to the bombs themselves, the two common threads in the incidents were the NAACP and the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

"Members of the NAACP seem to be the target of this," one FBI agent said, "and all of the mailings have occurred in the 11th Circuit."

Vance, 56, who died in a bomb explosion at his Birmingham, Ala., home Saturday, was outgoing Wednesday for his office to foster understanding by bringing opposing groups together, and for his pre-judicial efforts in bringing blacks into the mainstream of Alabama politics.

"It is no wonder his assassins would not tolerate such a man in their presence," said U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Clifford Fulford, a personal friend who delivered the eulogy at Vance's funeral.

"He did not want to die. He did not deserve to die. But his assassins were cheated if they think their actions will destroy the things Bob Vance stood for," Fulford said.

Vance was a member of a three-judge panel that in September decided a Jacksonville desegregation case in favor of civil rights plaintiffs.

A fourth bomb was found Tuesday at the Jacksonville office of the NAACP, which was a party in the desegregation appeal heard by Vance.

Robinson, a black attorney, had represented plaintiffs in a Savannah school desegregation case.

The third bomb was found in Atlanta at the federal courthouse that houses the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which has made numerous civil rights rulings in recent years.

Among the leads investigators are following was an anonymous letter sent to a Jackson, Miss., television station in August that warned toxic gas attacks would be launched to punish the 11th U.S. Circuit Court. The one-page, typed letter mailed from Atlanta arrived at WAPT-TV two days after a tear gas canister exploded in the Atlanta office of the NAACP.

The station contacted the FBI, which took the letter.

As the investigation continued, FBI Atlanta chief William Hinshaw said the bombs are similar and "extremely well-crafted." At least two of the devices were rigged with "fusing mechanisms" set to go off when the packages were opened.

Hinshaw said each bomb was in a package measuring 12 by 9 by 4 1/2 inches — about the size of a shoe box — and two of the devices were packed in nails to create shrapnel.

All the packaged bombs were wrapped in brown paper, tied with a string and contained a return address typed on a red-and-white label in the upper left corner.

All four bombs were mailed from towns in Georgia. The bomb that killed Vance apparently was mailed Thursday from Newnan, Ga. The Savannah desegregation case was won from Warner Robins, Ga., and the Jacksonville package was mailed from either Warner Robins or Macon, Ga. The Atlanta package bore an Atlanta postmark.

Mason, Newman and Warner Robins are in central Georgia, south of Atlanta.

"All the packages had different return names, and we have interviewed all the people," Hinshaw said. "They are not considered suspects," Hinshaw said.

Agents said the numerous postage stamps on the packages indicated the sender "may not have had a face-to-face transaction with the postal service."

Authorities said a busy schedule and car trouble probably kept Willye Dennis, president of the Jacksonville NAACP chapter, from setting off the explosive device that arrived in a package at noon Monday.

But Dennis told authorities she did not have time to open it because she was late for an appointment. She had car trouble on her way back to the office and did not return to her desk until Tuesday.

When Dennis learned Tuesday morning about the death of Robinson, she remembered the package sitting on her desk and called police, who discovered and disarmed the bomb.

Fantasy Five produces single winner

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's Fantasy Five game has produced a single first-prize winner worth more than $1 million for only the third time in the game's history, lottery officials said Wednesday.

The single ticket, which was purchased in St. Cloud, matched all five winning numbers in Tuesday's drawing to be worth more than $1.3 million in cash, officials said.

It was the second time in the past two weeks that the Fantasy Five game produced a single winner. Guillermo Sams, 48, a Pahokee machine shop worker, claimed Tuesday the $1.3 million prize he had won in the Dec. 18 drawing. He also has claimed this week's winnings.

"Two millionaires in a week's time from Fantasy Five is surprising," Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul said.

Some 704 players matched four of five numbers in the 499 cash in Tuesday's drawing, and 87,087 players matched three of five to win $7, Paul said.

The Fantasy Five numbers for Tuesday were 18, 19, 20, 21 and 27. The next Fantasy Five drawing will be at 11 p.m. Friday.

Titan launch rescheduled for Dec. 27

CAPE CANAVERAL — The sudden launch of a powerful Titan 3 rocket carrying British and Japanese communications satellites was postponed Wednesday to Dec. 27 because of steady rain and a forecast of rain in the fifth day in 15 days for the long-awaited flight.

An attempt to launch the $100 Titan 3 Tuesday night was stopped by high winds aloft and white teflon was hastily substituted for Wednesday, officials with rocket-builder Martin Marietta Aerospace Group decided to call off the campaign until after Christmas because of more bad weather.

A company spokesman said the rocket had been rescheduled for a fifth launch try at 7:24 p.m. EST Dec. 27. The launch period that day ends at 7:44 p.m.

Sinking ship contains 735 lbs. of cocaine

MIAMI — The U.S. Coast Guard has confiscated 735 pounds of cocaine from a sinking ship and taken seven Colombian crew members into custody, officials said Wednesday.

The seven Colombians were picked up Monday night after they abandoned their sinking 120-foot coastal freighter about 14 miles south of Punta Salinas, Dominican Republic, the Coast Guard said.

Coast Guard rescuers, who saw smoke coming from the sinking vessel, pulled the seven men from the water and watched as the ship sank.

Immediately after the vessel was submerged, several packages containing a total of 735 pounds of cocaine floated to the surface, officials said.

The crew claimed the ship, the Vita Nova, was registered in Maltese.

The Colombians were turned over to U.S. Customs officials and the cocaine was turned over to the Federal Drug Task Force, the Coast Guard said.

Officer tries to confirm panther sightings

PENSACOLA — An auxiliary game officer said Wednesday he is trying to confirm reports that endangered Florida panthers have been seen in two river basins in the Panhandle.

"They're in the area. It's just a matter of documenting it," said game warden, an auxiliary officer with the Florida Game and Fish Commission, speaking from Panama City.

"We don't have any indication that the animals are scarce," said Jeff Gore, a non-game wildlife biologist. His office gets three to five calls each week from those who think they have spotted a Florida panther.

Rivers said he has received 15 reports of panther sighting in 1989, but has not been able to find tracks. The sightings were made in the Perdido River and Yellow River basins.

Rivers wants to obtain conclusive evidence by making a cast of a paw print.

Fire sends Disney workers to hospital

ORLANDO — A chemical fire near Disney's Magic Kingdom Wednesday sent 14 employees to the hospital for exposure to fumes, the company reported.

The fire broke out at 9:16 a.m. in an oven being used by Disney workers to make boat bumpers, said John Dreyer, a Disney spokesman.

"It was a chemical fire. The chemical was papaplast, a wax material used to make master models to make molds," said Disney spokeswoman Pam Parks.

The fire was in a work area about a mile from Magic Kingdom and the nearest tourists, and no visitors were hurt, Parks said. But the 800 employees in the park's workshop area were evacuated as a precaution, Dreyer said.

Man kills himself so brother can receive transplant heart

FORT LAUDERDALE — Jerry Olson lost his home and his hope, but hoped to save his dying brother by committing suicide at a hospital and donating his heart for transplant. But his ultimate sacrifice was in vain.

"His main purpose for (committing suicide) at the hospital was to make his heart available for his brother. Unfortunately, he failed," Broward County sheriff's detective Steve Wiley said.

Olson, 46, put a .25-caliber gun in his mouth at 7:15 p.m. Monday outside the emergency room of University Community Hospital in Tamarac and pulled the trigger.

Police did not find the note donating the heart until long after Olson's death, but doctors said the organ would have been useless because a heart cannot be transplanted unless it is specially preserved.

A nurse on her way home found Olson slumped over the steering wheel of his truck about 10 minutes after the shooting, but efforts to save him failed.

"He may have had an inner feeling of his own that 'I can do some good some way.'"

-Roland Olson
Brother of suicide victim

Authorities later went through his belongings and found a stack of suicide notes in the van. They asked that Olson's heart go to his brother, Bob Olson, 56, of Belvedere, Ill., who suffers from a life-threatening heart disease and needs a transplant.

"He thought of me in his last thoughts. He wanted somebody benefitting from his death," Bob Olson told the Fort Lauderdale News and Sun-Sentinel. "I love my brother. I'm going to miss him."

"If he had been killed accidentally, I could have accepted this. But to take his own life, something that is so precious to me, I can't deal with it," he said.

State warns against eating raw oysters

TALLAHASSEE — State officials issued a health advisory Wednesday warning against the consumption of raw oysters following an outbreak of illness linked to oysters harvested in Florida waters.

The Department of Natural Resources closed down a portion of Apalachicola Bay to oyster harvesting after state health officials reported an outbreak of illness Tuesday among 16 people in Okaloosa County.

Tests were still being conducted, but officials believed the diarrheal illness might be caused by salmonella poisoning, salmonella was one of the organisms implicated in an outbreak of illness associated with raw oyster consumption in October.

Commissioner of Agriculture Doyle Conner, Health and Rehabilitative Services Secretary Greg Cole and DNR chief Tom Gardner said in a joint written statement that tests were still underway to determine the extent of the problem and the source of the taint.

"Until the source of pollution is determined and the problems are eliminated, everyone should take extra precaution by consuming only cooked oysters," the officials said in their joint statement.

P.I. solves case that sheriff's dept. couldn't

ZEPHYRHILLS — Unhappy with a Montana sheriff department's investigation into his son's disappearance, a Zephyrhills man spent $7,000 for a private eye who helped solve the case.

Vern Ruff, 59, hired Montana investigator Jeff Patterson, who found the body of Ruff's son in May after Missoula County deputies spent two futile days searching the same area.

Milton Ruff disappeared in October 1988, and Patterson worked on the case more than a year. He accused the Sheriff's Department of indifference and not being honest with Ruff about his investigation.

"It was a very poor job on the part of the sheriff's office," Patterson said. "My job was much more than it should have been. Vern Ruff hired me to do their job and that's a crime in itself."

"If Mr. Ruff isn't happy, I'm sorry," said Missoula County Sheriff Dan Magone. "But as far as answering allegations by a private investigator, I'd rather not get into that."

Missoula County Attorney Robert L. De-schamps III said Ruff was killed outside the home of his ex-wife Oct. 27, 1988. Robert Guinness, Catherine Ruff's boyfriend, was later accused of shooting Ruff twice in the back of his head with a .22-caliber rifle.

Guinness, 39, confessed and was charged with deliberate homicide. He pleaded guilty last week to a lesser charge of mitigated homicide, Montana's equivalent to second-degree murder, and will be sentenced Jan. 18. He faces a maximum penalty of 40 years.

The trial of Catherine Ruff, charged with tampering with evidence and obstructing justice, began Monday. She is accused of raking up leaves that may have been stained with her ex-husband's blood, De-schamps said.

Man charged with alleged hammering

WINTER SPRINGS — A man accused of beating a taxi driver with a hammer after receiving a call to his home in Orange Springs house from Orlando Dec. 2 has been arrested by Winter Springs police on charges of theft of services and aggravated battery.

Bobby Joe Johnson, 30, 111 S. Ortiz Ave., was arrested at home Tuesday. Police said the cab driver, who during the unprovoked hammer attack took the woman from the street and also hit him in the head, was hospitalized following the incident. Johnson was also hospitalized. Both men received head injuries. The cab driver said he was attacked after he parked in a driveway to wait for Johnson to get money from inside his house to pay his bill. The cab driver said he was attacked from behind while Johnson was still in the backseat of the cab.

Johnson reportedly told police he hit the victim with the hammer after the victim made a sexual advance. Police said they did not confirm that allegation.

Man jailed in fight over baby

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A man who allegedly broke into his in-law's house to try to pull his 6-month-old baby from his wife's arms, and who allegedly fell on top of the child during a struggle involving a Seminole County sheriff's deputy, has been jailed.

Timothy Lee Strickland, 19, 440 Oak Forest St., Altamonte Springs, was arrested at the scene of the incident, 513 Fordham Ave., at 6:55 p.m. Tuesday. He is charged with two counts of burglary with battery, child abuse, battery upon a woman and battery on a policeman. During the fight, Strickland allegedly kicked a sheriff's deputy. The deputy was later treated for an injury to his knee.

A man at the scene reportedly told deputies Strickland threatened to kill him and to take the baby.

Man accused of attempted stabbing

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary police responded to a disturbance at 291 S. Third St. at about 4:30 a.m. and report arresting a man at the scene who is accused of trying to stab another man.

The victim, who was leaving the area in a car with a girl who had just had a fight with her mother, told police the suspect confronted him and stabbed a hole in the windshield of his car when trying to stab him with a knife.

The hood of the car was dented and police estimated damage at $1,200. Jeffrey Allen Odum, 30, a U.S. Navy man stationed in New York state, was charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon and criminal mischief. Bond is $4,000.

Man accused of threats to CCIB

SANFORD — A man who reportedly twice confronted a City County Investigative Bureau agent who was booking a boy into the local juvenile jail in Sanford Tuesday, was arrested later that night after a third confrontation in Midway.

Hubert Lee, of Randall Street, Midway, was arrested on 20th Street, after he allegedly threatened to kill several CCIB agents who were working in the area.

The agent who was confronted earlier said Lee was belligerent and at one point asked him to take his identity-protecting hood off so he could slap the agent's face.

Man accused of raping girl

CASSELBERRY — City police here report charging Roger Thomas Peterson Jr., 38, of 2110 Kewanna Trail, Casselberry, with sexual battery to a child under the age of 12.

The girl reported her allegations to officials Dec. 1, and said she had been sexually abused several times. This last incident, she said, was in October in Casselberry. Police had no physical evidence appears to support the girl's story.

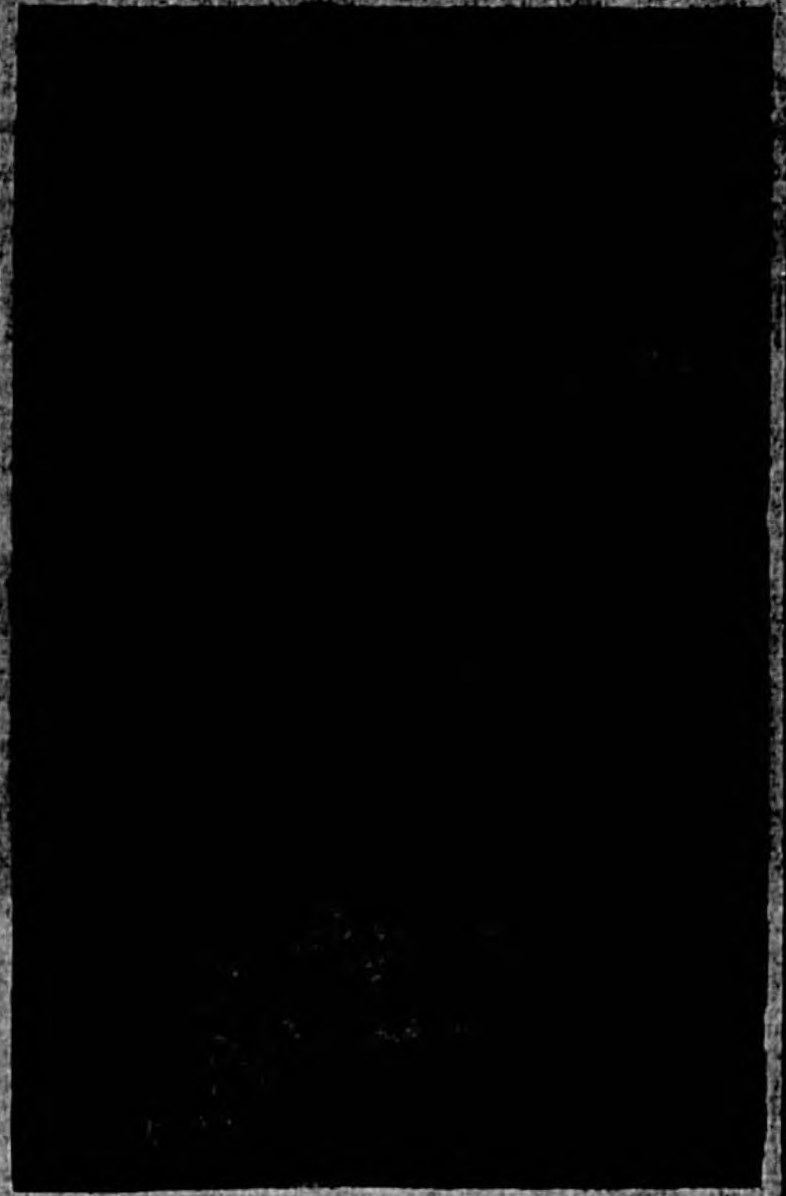

Peterson was arrested at Longwood Fairlawn Bowling in Longwood, at about 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Man accused of bottle-throwing

LAKE MARY — City police here charged Paul Douglas Cave, 34, of 401 First St., Lake Mary, with aggravated assault and throwing a deadly missile, after he allegedly threw bottles through a window of a Lake Mary house.

Cave was arrested at the scene at 208 E. Floyd Ave., at 11:15 p.m. Wednesday. Police said Cave told them he was angry because of an earlier dispute with a girl at that house.

Castor rejects textbook bids

United Press International
TALLAHASSEE — Commissioner of Education Brity Castor has rejected textbooks endorsed by a state panel that spurred a financially troubled Florida publisher in favor of reading programs by four out-of-state firms.

Castor had been warned by Department of Education lawyers that some members of the state Traditional Reading Materials Council, which screened the texts, may have inadvertently violated the state's open meetings law. The Tallahassee Democrat reported Wednesday.

The move might have opened the door to a legal challenge if she accepted the panel's recommendations, the aides said. The aides denied Castor wanted to keep Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, the financially troubled Orlando publisher, in the running for the state contract. Representatives of the out-of-state publishers whose texts did get the endorsement of the advisory panel of teachers, by citizens and school officials, complained it will cost thousands of dollars for their companies to begin the bidding process all over again.

Clarification
SANFORD — A story in Monday's Sanford Herald stated Seminole County Commissioners Fred Streetman and Jennifer Kelley opposed hiring former county administrator Roger Neiswender as a consultant. Streetman and Kelley voted against the proposal to hire Neiswender as a consultant Nov. 15, saying they preferred him on a full-time schedule. Streetman and Kelley voted for a $78,000 budget transfer on Nov. 28 to pay Neiswender.

Superintendent elections supported by state group

County schools superintendent holds an elective position. He will be running for reelection in 1991.

Even if Cummings had succeeded in having her proposal brought to the legislators and they had agreed to put the issue to the people, the earliest date such an referendum could have been placed on the ballot would be 1994.

"I believe that the presence of elected superintendents lessens the quality of education," Cummings has said. She has vowed to continue to bring her proposal to the FSBA membership every year.

Cummings points to statistics which show that the states in which there are still elected superintendents (Florida, Georgia, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama and South Carolina) to be inferior to most other states in the academic quality of their schools.

The FSBA did not hammer out the details of the other planks of their legislative program at last week's meeting.

Former Lake Mary Police Chief Harry Benson dies

From staff reports
LAKE MARY — Retired Lake Mary Police Chief Harry Benson, who founded the annual Santa's parade, died Wednesday after a lingering illness, police said.

Benson, who had been living in Altamonte Springs, served as police chief from 1975 to 1986, when he retired due to poor health, according to police department.

He came to Lake Mary from West Orange, New Jersey, where he began his career in 1945 as a city patrolman. He retired from West Orange several years later as director of public safety.

Benson began the city Christmas parade, where Santa distributes toys and candy to children from a fire truck along every street in Lake Mary. The annual event later was named the Harry S. Benson Christmas Parade.

Benson also founded the Lake Mary Police Youth Action Center.

Lake Mary Police Captain Sam Belfiore, who worked with Benson for seven years, said,

"He cared about the community. He had a real strong affection for youth, and that's why he started the parade and the youth center."

"He was a strong leader," Belfiore said. "He would, as all good leaders do, take up for his people in the community."
Lake Mary Police Chief

Harry S. Benson

Charles Lauderdale said, "It is a real compliment that he was able to come from a much larger organization and instill in a much smaller community values and tradition that will last forever."

For the next seven days, city flags will fly at half mast and Lake Mary police officers will wear black bands across their badges in respect for the former chief.

Baldwin-Fairchild Funeral Home and Chapel of Forrest City will handle arrangements.

Wall should have acted

Despite M. Danny Wall's characterization of himself as the scapegoat in the $200 billion savings and loan debacle, he deserved to lose his job as the nation's top thrift regulator. In fact, he is only the first of several government officials who ought to be held accountable for their roles in the scandal.

The magnitude of the countless savings and loan failures in the nation's history keeps mounting. The $100 billion that Congress allocated earlier this year for the bailout will not be nearly enough to cover the losses. It is now estimated that taxpayers and depositors could be struck with a bill approaching $200 billion during the next three decades. Mr. Wall is not responsible for the entire mess. But he certainly contributed to it.

Two years ago, when Mr. Wall replaced Edwin Gray as chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, he ignored his predecessor's warning that deregulation had made the thrift industry a ticking time bomb. As a Senate Banking Committee staffer, Mr. Wall had helped draft the law that made it easy for high rollers such as Charles H. Keating Jr. to transform S&Ls into federally insured entities involved in a raft of risky ventures.

Mr. Keating's reckless investments, personal phobias and creative bookkeeping caused Lincoln Savings & Loan in Irvine, Calif., to collapse. San Francisco-based bank examiners had warned that something was seriously wrong with Lincoln as early as 1987. But their warnings were rebuffed largely because of pressure from Sens. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., John McCain, R-Ariz., John Glenn, D-Ohio, and Don Riegle, D-Mich., now known collectively as the Keating Five.

The Keating Five, who received $1.4 million in contributions from the S&L operation, were rebuffed by the federal bank examiners. Although Mr. Wall denies caving in to political pressure, he nonetheless took the examiners off the Lincoln case in 1987 and conducted the inquiry from Washington. He also rejected a recommendation from his own enforcement division that the shaky S&L be seized by the government. Instead, he met with Mr. Keating on at least three occasions and conducted private negotiations with Lincoln executives for more than a year while the thrift was sinking.

Last spring, the Wall inquiry discovered what his San Francisco examiners had known for two years — that Lincoln was out of control. Mr. Wall's inexcusable delay will cost taxpayers an additional $1.3 billion to repay depositors and to unload Lincoln's bad investments.

Mr. Wall maintains he lacked sufficient evidence to close Lincoln any sooner than 1989. Yet L. William Seidman, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., says his agency would have slapped the S&L with a cease and desist order two years ago, based on information available at that time. Furthermore, Richard Breeden, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, accuses Mr. Wall of impeding a separate SEC probe of Lincoln.

As part of the congressional bailout, the Senate Banking Committee decided Mr. Wall should be spared reconfirmation hearings. The chairman of the committee is none other than Sen. Riegle; one of its prominent members is Sen. Cranston. Both feared that reconfirmation hearings would focus attention on Lincoln and the senators' relationship with Charles Keating.

Mr. Wall's dereliction of duty clearly warrants his being replaced. Meantime, a special counsel named by the Senate Ethics Committee is probing potential wrongdoing by the five senators. In the end, however, it will be up to the voters to decide whether they, too, should be replaced.

Credibility was lost with secret missions

WASHINGTON — President Bush is developing a credibility problem — the same problem presidents usually get when they choose to operate in secrecy.

There's a lot they can do secretly if they don't get out on a limb and say publicly the opposite of what they are doing. In the words of the late Attorney General John Mitchell, who went to jail as a result of the Watergate scandal, "Watch what we do, not what we say."

The current case in point is China. Bush was very reluctant to do the work being done after the Tiananmen Square blood massacre in June that the world witnessed on television.

But having to pass legislation and move on Capitol Hill that would have involved even tougher action, the president held high-level meetings with the Chinese and imposed sanctions on military high-tech shipments to China.

But in July, just a month after the massacre and after Bush expressed repugnance to repression of the student crackdown in China, he secretly dispatched national security adviser Brent Scowcroft and deputy secretary of state Lawrence Eagleburger to Beijing.

While the country was still trying to absorb the significance of the second Scowcroft-Eagleburger secret mission to China on Dec. 8, which was first publicly announced by the Chinese, Cable News Network disclosed the first clandestine trip.

I was left in White House press secretary Martin Flanagan to fend off the questions. A written statement was issued, claiming that in sending the first secret delegation to China, Bush wanted to demonstrate "how to love" the U.S. "peace and democracy" over the violence in Tiananmen Square.

The 1990s, despite sanctions, was the Washington had conveyed the impression that top-level contacts with the Deng Xiaoping government were on the rise.

Flanagan told reporters he did not know if there had been other secret trips, but that Bush reserved the right to conduct diplomacy in his own way. Which is legitimate, but only if he does not take a public stand that is contrary to what he is doing privately.

That is partly what the Iran-Contra scandal was all about. Day after day President Reagan and Secretary of State George Shultz pounded the podium and declared they would never do business with a designated "terrorist" state.

Not so. They did business all right, shipping arms to the hard pressed Tehran regime. The big profits from the Iranian sales were siphoned off for the Nicaraguan Contra rebels through mechanisms of staffers on the National Security Council at a time when such transactions were banned by Congress. Reagan has claimed he did not know of such transfers.

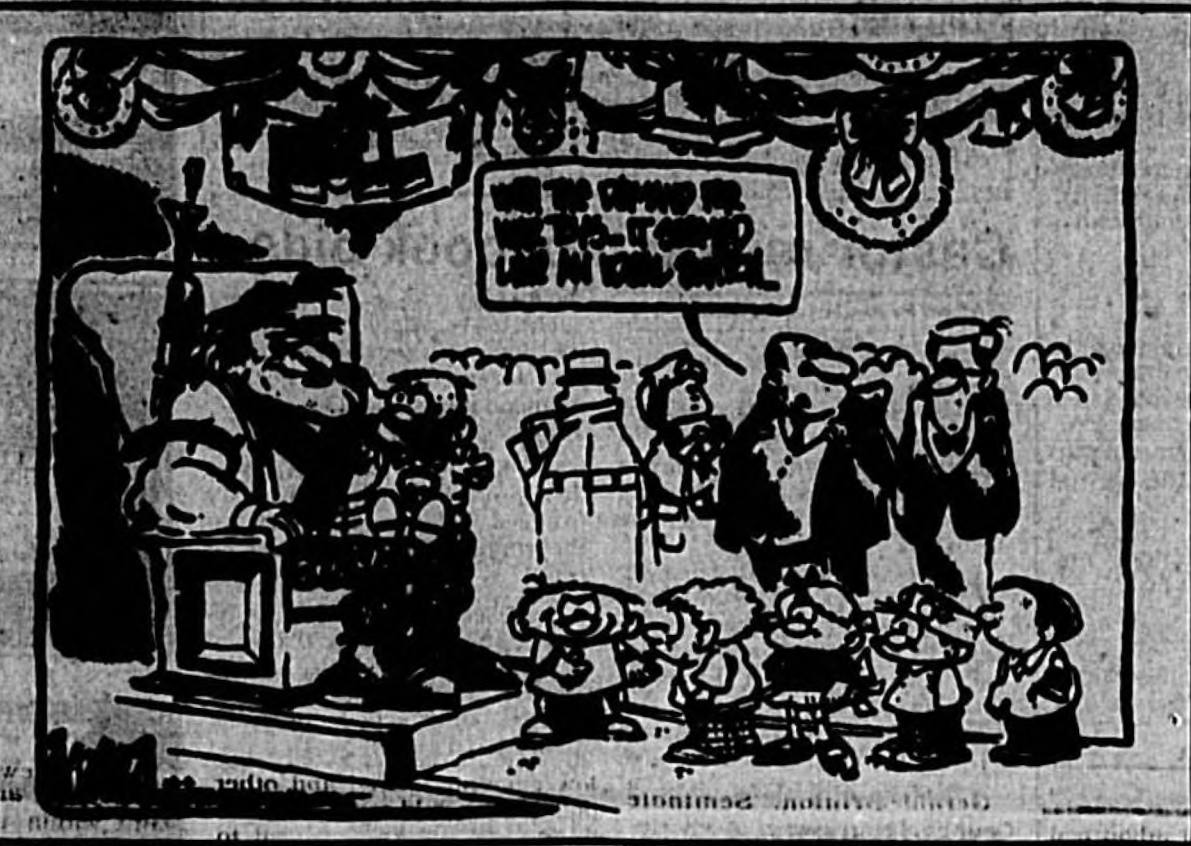

Truth can be elusive. But democracy cannot operate with lies. Leaders should have more trust in the people who are usually ready to accept what a president says and does if there is a logical, or even sometimes plausible, explanation.

But leaders cannot retain their impeccable standing long if their veracity comes into question. In this case, Bush lost some of his halo.

Congressional critics are speaking of "duplicitous" and the fall from grace is all the more glaring since, on one hand, the president is praising the revolt of the masses in Eastern Europe and on the other extending friendship to Beijing.

Truth can be elusive.

Reunified Germany? No problem

WASHINGTON — Regarding Germany, Western leaders, who seem to believe that history can be tamed by communiques, are dotting "i's" and crossing "t's" and missing the point.

The European Community recently revised its formulation to say that the German people should recover unity through "free expression of the popular will" rather than "through free self-determination." The difference, whatever it means, may be related to Secretary of State Baker's belief that German reunification is not just for Germans to decide.

That departure from the principle of self-determination was stated as the four conquering powers — the United States, Britain, France and Hitler's ally at the start of the war, the Soviet Union — announced their "common understanding of the importance of stability." At a moment when Western values are at least causing creative instability, only the Soviet Union has a stake in "stability."

President Bush, who is a Pekingese curled around the ankles of China's tyrants, is a German shepherd barking imperiously at the German people, a majority of whom have compiled a 40-year record of democracy and the rest of whom would like to participate, right now. Unification, says Bush, must be gradual. Oh? Soviet-imposed tyranny has stolen 40 years from the lives of East Germans. That is enough.

Giulio Andreotti of Italy says, "It would be a mistake to settle the German problem too quickly. If it meant turning Europe upside down." But Europe has been turned upside down by progress toward Western goals. Myopic, plodding politicians persist in talking about the German "problem" when what is at hand is a solution to the problem of the unnatural, indefensible division of an organic entity, Germany. The Basic Law of the Federal Republic declares that state is provisional, pending — if the EC politicians will pardon the expression — "self-determination" of all Germans.

Beneath all the measured diplomatic hollowness about the inconvenience of a united Germany's economic power, and what reunification might do to the "stability" — that golden calf, again — of the Tinker Toy project of European federalism, there is a plain prejudice, against Germans. In the kangaroo court of some world opinion, Germany can only be guilty, at any time, because when it is peaceful and democratic, the claim is considered an ominous prelude to a storm.

Germany is considered dangerously volatile. "Protein Germany, as mutable as the sea," wrote Luigi Brazini as recently as 1983. But what Germany's critics are really saying is the reverse, that German history has an implacable continuity. That is no longer true, if it ever was.

For 40 years Germany has submerged patriotism in heroic materialism, reducing national purpose to an ever-rising standard of living. This low but steady absorption was applauded by many non-Germans who wish for Germany what they deprecate in their own societies. They wish Germans to be so distracted and enervated by consumption that they shall have no other energies or longings.

West Germany's postwar history has indeed been a transforming discontinuity. Geoffrey Wheatcroft of the London Daily Telegraph argues, rightly, that few young Germans — "democratic, pacific, sybrite" — would lift a finger, let alone a weapon, to recover the territories lost in the East when, at the end of the war, Poland, in Churchill's phrase, took a step sideways. "Bismark," writes Wheatcroft, "said that the Balkans were not worth the healthy bones of a Pomeranian grenadier. Today, Pomerania does not look worth the healthy weekend of the prosperous Düsseldorf car worker."

Fifty years ago, "Why die for Danzig?" was the last gasp of appeasers of Germany. Today, most Germans do not care a particle for Gdansk (as Danzig now is), home of Lech Walesa.

If the point of the game is a Germany wedded to the West, the West should show a less crabbed spirit regarding reunification which is, in any case, inevitable. Enough of the worship of stability and of "gradual" progress toward justice long denied.

We now see why Bush's laughable problem with "the vision thing" is not funny. Communism is buckling beneath the weight of aspirations that America, by its mere existence, arouses. And America's President? Remember when Presidents were supposed to lead the West in championing change? Today's President is counting the tyrants in Peking (because of them, most of the people who were suffering under communism at the beginning of 1989 are suffering even more at the end of 1989) and nervously longing for "stability" in central Europe.

Remember the argument about where Bush is from — Maine, Connecticut, Texas? He is from Washington. He is a career government man, and it is with governments, not ideals or the people they stir, that he identifies.

Germany is considered dangerously volatile.

New year could bring a White House shuffle

WASHINGTON — A high-level shuffle in the Bush administration is in the works for January, and it hinges on the resignation of William Webster as director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Webster is a holdover from the Reagan administration. Our White House sources say that President Bush never intended to keep him on more than a year. Bush wanted to ensure continuity at the CIA and prove a principle that he espoused 13 years ago when he was CIA director — that the job should have little to do with who occupies the Oval Office.

But that was another time, and now Bush is in the Oval Office.

According to sources close to Bush, Webster's most likely replacement is Brent Scowcroft, the president's national security adviser.

In the domino plan, Scowcroft's replacement might well be James Baker, who would add the duties of national security adviser without giving up his job as secretary of state. Once before, one man held both positions. He was Henry Kissinger.

Webster came into the CIA job in March 1987 as a breath of fresh air. The late William Casey ran the CIA like a band of outlaw cowboys. CIA officials were tired of being tarred as a covert-action squad, and Webster was just the person to polish the agency's image.

He was stable, politically savvy and conservative. He hadn't stuck his neck out as head of the FBI, so it was unlikely that he would embarrass the CIA.

But he proved to be more cautious than the CIA wanted. Our CIA sources have complained constantly during Webster's nearly three-year tenure that he was too interested in pleasing Congress to rebuild the trust that had been lost by the CIA's covert involvement in the Iran-contra scandal. "Whatever the congressmen wanted, he gave them," one CIA source told us.

Webster was never Bush's choice for CIA director. Sources close to Bush say that he considered asking for Webster's resignation before the inauguration. But Bush decided he could live with Webster for a year, and it would prove a point he once argued. Bush was CIA director under President Ford. At first, CIA employees feared he was a political hack, but he let them run the agency themselves and became very popular. And he loved the job, so much so that when Jimmy Carter was elected in 1976, Bush hinted broadly that he wanted to stay on. He said the office should have continuity, no matter who was in the White House. Carter replaced him.

That made it a trifle hypocritical for Bush to replace an appointee from the Republican ranks, when he himself tried to hang on as CIA director in a change of parties.

Scowcroft is the odds-on favorite to replace Webster, but there is less certainty among our sources about who would replace Scowcroft. Besides the possibility of a dual-role for Baker, two names being mentioned are Robert Gates and Richard Armitage.

Gates, the deputy national security adviser, is a well-regarded former deputy director of the CIA who could have been appointed CIA director in 1987 if not for his own minor involvement in the Iran-contra affair. Armitage, a former assistant secretary of defense, was nominated by Bush to be secretary of the Army, but he withdrew his name from consideration. He would have faced embarrassing questions at his Senate confirmation hearing about his own role in the Iran-contra affair and about his friendship that we first exposed with a Vietnamese woman arrested for illegal gambling.

He was stable, politically savvy and conservative.

Commission rejects bid to amend Sunshine Law

United Press International

PENSACOLA — A county commission has dropped plans to ask the state Legislature to amend the Sunshine Law in a way that would allow it to bar the public and media from certain meetings.

Escambia County commissioners voted 4-to-1 Tuesday night to drop a proposal to ask lawmakers to amend the law in such a way as to allow closed meetings when legal issues are discussed.

She said officials need to discuss legal strategy with lawyers. Wagner said the only option right now is for elected officials to meet individually with lawyers, at a cost of about $180 an hour.

hazardous waste storage and treatment facility in Pensacola. Commissioner Wilson Hobson said he would rather have the county pay the cost of meeting privately with lawyers rather than close meetings.

LONGWOOD — A title search must be done on the condemned home of Rose W. Massey before the city may take further action, city attorney Richard Taylor told the city commission Monday night.

The commission decided Dec. 4 to condemn the 401 W. Main St. home. Massey, 62, has until Jan. 8 to vacate her home, where she has lived for 38 years, and until Feb. 5 to bring the structure into compliance with city code.

Taylor said the city needs to give notice to the property owner, if it is someone other than Massey, before the home may be destroyed.

Expressway to negotiate land purchases

ORLANDO — The Seminole County Expressway Authority endorsed plans to begin negotiations with the owners of 1,700 acres south of State Road 46 at the northwest corner of Lake Jesup instead of 1,300 acres at the northern end of the proposed Lake Jesup bridge.

Committee members approved authority plans to rupture a dike that surrounds the lake and portion of the tract and to fill ditches to restore 830 acres of wetlands on the site.

Barbara Beas, wetlands specialist for the DER district office in Orlando, suggested uplands on the site could also be used to plant trees that will be lost for the construction of the expressway. She said for high-quality forested areas, including the 20 acres of the sensitive Black Hammock south of Lake Jesup that will be destroyed, a 10-to-1 ratio of replacement to destruction may be required by state and federal regulatory agencies.

The committee's approval will be taken to the expressway authority at their next meeting Jan. 24, Brinton said.

Exiles

They have reason to celebrate," Endara said Wednesday. "But we have to keep in mind that there are dead people. There are wounded people. There are hostages. ... So, we don't have a detailed picture of what is going on."

Roberto Dominguez, a former Panamanian consul in Miami and a Noriega opponent, also expressed conflicting opinions. "We are not happy that a foreign government has invaded our country," he said.

But, he added, "Thank God a brotherly country has reacted. Thank God they have decided to help us get rid of this monster of evil. We had always said that the only way Noriega would be defeated was through armed struggle."

Raymond J. Tahill, a lawyer for Noriega in Miami, said he believed Noriega would remain in Panama and fight to the death rather than flee into exile.

"It's our opinion that Gen. Noriega is not the kind of man to run away," Tahill said at a news conference. "It's our belief that he'll fight to the death."

Frank A. Rubin, another Miami lawyer representing Noriega, agreed. "There is no question that he will remain in Panama ... and that's where he belongs."

Miami lawyer Neal Sennett, who also represents Noriega, declined to comment on the situation in Panama.

"I'm not really making any comments. There are obviously ongoing actions down there. My responsibilities are only those of a lawyer," Sennett said.

Endara said he had been trying to phone Panama since the early morning hours.

"It has been very difficult to get through to Panama. The lines are just clogged," he said. "We have been able to get through to a few opposition friends ... (and) we understand that our counterparts in Panama are in safe places."

"We were able to listen to (Gutierrez) Endara about 2:30 a.m. (via a telephone placed next to radio speaker) ... We heard

President Endara calling for a truce in the fighting, calling for the PDF (Noriega's Panama Defense Force) to surrender to the newly installed democratic government, that they will guarantee their rights as military officers, and the PDF would play a significant role in the return of democracy to Panama.

"This is not only a happy moment for Panama, but it is also a real hard blow to Cuba and Nicaragua, due to the fact that the Sandinistas evaded the blockade of Nicaragua through Panama," Endara said.

Noriega

Mass agreed that U.S. intervention was unfortunate, but said that is better than allowing Noriega to remain in power.

"The best way for this to have happened was for the Panamanians to do it themselves, but the most important issue is that the Noriega nightmare is over," he said.

Both Republican Gov. Bob Martinez and U.S. Rep. Bill Nelson, D-Florida, a potential Democratic candidate for governor, expressed support for the attack.

But Nelson said Bush missed an chance to support the earlier coup attempt.

"We should have had Noriega in our hands two months ago," he said.

Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said he felt Bush acted properly.

"After all, here was a man in power as a usurper, having nullified a government that had been democratically elected and which had overwhelmingly thrown him out," he said. "He declares war against us, he brutally kills and harasses American citizens."

The political fallout from the action could increase anti-American sentiment in the region, said Terry McCoy, director of the University of Florida Center for Latin American Studies.

"I don't think there's been any support of all for Noriega, except from Cuba and Nicaragua," he said. "But historically there's been little if any support for this type of action by the United States, even where it appears to be justified."

Richard Gregorie, a former federal prosecutor in Miami who helped bring drug conspiracy charges against Noriega, said he hopes Noriega is found and brought to United States to stand trial so people will see the case against him "was a criminal case and not one of some sort of foreign intrigue."

Robert Merkle, former U.S. attorney in Tampa who also worked on the Noriega indictment, said Noriega is his own worst enemy.

"Noriega has progressively taken himself too seriously and has unleashed a torrent of activity against Panamanians as well as United States personnel," he said. "And it was only a matter of time before this sort of action took place."

Decision

polluted stormwater flowing off the bridge. Later, the authority abandoned that project in favor of a plan to clean water flowing into Lake Jesup from Six Mile Creek. Environmentalists were skeptical at first, but finally endorsed the project. Now the authority plans to do neither.

"Everybody bought off on that idea (abandoning a bridge stormwater drainage system) based on that money going to some good environmental idea," said Dick Fowler, president of Friends of the St. Johns. "It was one of the main reasons that the (expressway) route was selected."

Gerald Brinton, Seminole County Expressway Authority executive director, said Florida Department of Environmental Regulation officials in Tallahassee told him treatment of stormwater flowing off the proposed bridge would not be required.

But with no proposed containment of bridge runoff, some environmental officials were concerned an accident from a loaded fuel truck could amount to an environmental disaster to the lake.

"What happens if a tractor-trailer full of gas flips over," asked Dave Cox, administrator of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission St. Johns River project.

"You hope that doesn't happen," Brinton answered with a shrug. "Couldn't you have some kind of underdrain system that would at least capture the runoff," asked Barbara Beas, wetlands specialist for the DER district office in Orlando. Brinton answered a drain system would not work unless the bridge was arched to allow it to flow toward land.

Brinton said yesterday that at the time the bridge was first conceived, expressway officials thought DER officials would require them to capture and treat rainwater from the arched bridge before it could enter the lake. The cleanup system was expected to cost $2.5 million.

But expressway environmental consultants predicted very low amounts of lead and other pollutants would come from the bridge and proposed instead to clean Six Mile Creek to produce a greater benefit for the lake. Though skeptical at first, the environmental committee accepted the idea last December.

With committee and authority approval, arched bridge plans were discarded and the bridge was redesigned to be flat, allowing rainwater to flow directly in the lake bearing road contaminants left there by an estimated 12,000 cars per day.

Brinton said because DER officials won't require bridge stormwater treatment facilities, it would be difficult to justify to bondholders the cost of the creek cleanup system. Expressway officials now propose to build the expressway using locally-issued bonds instead of state bonds because the state failed to pass a tollroad construction program.

Charter

review the case and possibly file an amended complaint within 10 days. Webster said if Lefler refused to accept an amended complaint, he would appeal to the Fifth District Court of Appeals to decide the case.

Webster said he is not disappointed. "Nothing has changed," he said. "If we were right, we are still right. If we were wrong, we are still wrong." Webster said judges in the Seminole County case and the Orange County case, which he lost earlier this year, never considered his arguments. He said Lefler allowed Seminole County Attorney Bob McMillan to "snipe" over McLeod's failure to follow technical court procedures instead of addressing the important issues of the case.

Voters approved the charter in November 1988. Webster said the method the county commission chose to adopt the charter prevents the charter from taking effect. Wording in the state charter law says commissioners must adopt an administrative code after they have been elected "pursuant to" the charter. An administrative code is the rules and procedures used by county government.

Webster said no commissioner can be elected "pursuant to" the charter unless the charter is already in place. Webster said if the charter was to take effect in January 1989, as the voters had decided, it would take four more years before all five seats on the commission would be up for re-election. Only then would a commission be elected "pursuant to" the charter.

But Webster argues the commissioners cannot really be elected under the charter if it doesn't take effect until they had been elected in the first place. Webster said if commissioners chose another state law in their charter adoption process, a charter could be designed to take effect requiring a special election to re-elect all five commissioners under its guidelines.

there were 70 people in the building, and only 48 were allowed according to fire regulations.

The order came while the board was considering the motion that Weckley could get her old job back when she was no longer interim director. Cohen suggested the meeting be moved to a larger hall, but Sweeting said since the 48-hour notice of the meeting said it would be at Redding Gardens, it couldn't be moved without another 48-hour notice.

Several members of the audience volunteered to leave, saying it was important for the board to be able to approve the contract to renovate William Clark Court.

After the contract was approved, the board adjourned. Several people objected to the adjournment, saying they wanted to discuss Williams' firing and board member Alberto Detreville under the "other business" listed on the agenda.

Turner Clayton, county NAACP chapter president, then read the same letter to the board he read to the city commission Monday night, calling for the removal of Detreville for incompetence. He said Burnett and Cummings should also be removed for incompetence "for firing Williams without due process." Clayton claimed Detreville was appointed to the board illegally because of an agreement by the city commission several years ago to allow tenants to elect their representative on the SHA board.

She was a telephone operator and a Presbyterian. She was past matron of Order of the Eastern Star, Patterson.

of underdrain system that would at least capture the runoff," asked Barbara Beas, wetlands specialist for the DER district office in Orlando. Brinton answered a drain system would not work unless the bridge was arched to allow it to flow toward land.

Brinton said yesterday that at the time the bridge was first conceived, expressway officials thought DER officials would require them to capture and treat rainwater from the arched bridge before it could enter the lake. The cleanup system was expected to cost $2.5 million.

But expressway environmental consultants predicted very low amounts of lead and other pollutants would come from the bridge and proposed instead to clean Six Mile Creek to produce a greater benefit for the lake. Though skeptical at first, the environmental committee accepted the idea last December.

With committee and authority approval, arched bridge plans were discarded and the bridge was redesigned to be flat, allowing rainwater to flow directly in the lake bearing road contaminants left there by an estimated 12,000 cars per day.

Brinton said because DER officials won't require bridge stormwater treatment facilities, it would be difficult to justify to bondholders the cost of the creek cleanup system. Expressway officials now propose to build the expressway using locally-issued bonds instead of state bonds because the state failed to pass a tollroad construction program.

IN BRIEF

BASKETBALL

Lakers end trip with OT win

Not only did the Los Angeles Lakers leave Minnesota's brutal 25-below zero temperatures for some California sun, but they went home Wednesday night with an overtime win.

Los Angeles trailed the expansion Minnesota Timberwolves throughout the game before forcing overtime in the closing seconds and eventually posting a 106-97 victory before 25,689 disappointed fans at the Metrodome.

A 15-6 advantage in the extra session let the Lakers survive a brutal 12-day, eight-game road trip with a 5-3 record. That kept them with the NBA's best record (19-6) and extended their Pacific Division lead over idle Portland.

In other games, Denver dumped Cleveland 104-89, Philadelphia whipped Washington 118-111, Boston beat Utah 113-109, Orlando outlasted Chicago 110-109, Dallas dropped New Jersey 84-78, San Antonio stopped Sacramento 103-100, Indiana nipped Phoenix 131-130 in overtime and Golden State ousted Houston 118-112.

BASEBALL

Mets swap Samuel for Marshall

NEW YORK — The New York Mets further clouded their first base-outfield situation Wednesday by obtaining injury-prone Mike Marshall from the Los Angeles Dodgers for outfielder Juan Samuel.

The Mets also acquired right-hander Alejandro Pena, who will act as a setup man for recently acquired bullpen stopper John Franco.

The addition of Marshall creates a logjam in the New York outfield and a duel at first base between Marshall and Dave Magadan. Those positions will be settled during spring training.

"Competition is the best thing," said Joe McIlvaine, the Mets' vice president for baseball operations. "To say (Marshall) will play here or here is a disservice to the incumbents. He'll have to battle for a position. It's up to the manager where he plays."

McIlvaine says he is hopeful Keith Miller can help Marshall and take the center field job.

FOOTBALL

Patriots promote scout Mendes

FOXBORO, Mass. — Joe Mendes, the New England Patriots' chief college scout, was tentatively named director of player personnel Wednesday and immediately put in charge of preparing for the 1990 college draft.

Patriots General Manager Patrick Sullivan said Mendes, 37, would run the team's college drafting "for the foreseeable future."

Mendes came to the Patriots in 1981 with Dick Steinberg, New England's director of player development, who was named this week as the new general manager of the New York Jets.

Sullivan said Mendes would officially be named director of player personnel as soon as he signs a new contract with the Patriots, but cautioned that the talks could "take awhile."

Mendes, who has headed the Patriots' college scouting operation for the past six years, said he had held preliminary contract discussions with the team, but said he was in no hurry to reach a settlement. He said his top priority was improving the Patriots' performance.

HOCKEY

Malarchuk saves tie for Sabres

Buffalo Sabres backup goaltender Clint Malarchuk could easily have complained about his playing time Wednesday night after an outstanding performance against the New York Rangers allowed his team to escape Madison Square Garden with a 2-2 tie.

But Malarchuk played it cool after icing down the furious Rangers onslaught and stopping 41 of 43 quality shots against New York.

"That's what a goalie's job is, when the player in front of you makes a mistake, to cover up," he said after the game. "It's a game of mistakes — if there were no shots on goal it wouldn't be a very good game."

Malarchuk is happy to be playing at all after a freak accident in last year's playoffs nearly took his life when he was gashed across the throat by a skate blade. The livid scar stretching across the front of his neck is a constant reminder.

Burger King has wet star

Lake Mary shuts out Tampa-Berkley Prep

By TONY DeBORNER
 Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY — Bill Eissele, coach of the Lake Mary High School girls' soccer team, keeps saying that his squad is building toward the playoffs at the end of the season.

But whenever you build something, you need some kind of blueprint, some plans to tell you what you need to do and, hopefully, how to do it.

This week, Eissele and the Rams should get that kind of insight as to what the season may hold as they compete in the seventh annual Burger King Classic. Against the stiff competition in the four-day, 16-team event, the Rams should find out how good they are and what they'll need to do to get better.

If Wednesday's 4-0 first-round win over Tampa-Berkley Prep at Lake Mary's Don T. Reynolds Stadium is any indication, the project facing Lake Mary may not be as big as once thought.

"They're starting to work together," said Eissele of his team. "Considering the conditions, I like the way the girls worked the ball around. We need to work on our finishing. There were a couple chances we should have finished earlier in the match."

After a somewhat slow start as both teams acclimated themselves to the cold, wet conditions.

Lake Brantley after third straight title

By TONY DeBORNER
 Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — Only two schools have won the Burger King Classic in its six-year history. On Wednesday, in the first round of the seventh edition of the girls' soccer tournament, Lyman and Lake Brantley took steps to see that doesn't change.

The Lyman Greyhounds, who were Burger King champions 1983-86, opened the tournament with a close 4-3 win over Deltona in constantly falling rain and dropping temperatures at the Lyman High School stadium.

Last night, the Lake Brantley Patriots (winners of the last two Burger King tournaments) opened the defense of their title with a 7-0 romp over Dr. Phillips.

Both teams return to action today in quarterfinal games. Lyman facing Bishop Moore (an 8-2 winner over Eau Gallie) at 6 p.m. and Lake Brantley facing Largo (which defeated Winter Park 3-1) at 8 p.m.

Play will begin at 2 p.m. today at Lyman with first round losers' bracket contests. Dr. Phillips will play Winter Park at 2 p.m. in a Metro Conference clash while Eau Gallie plays Deltona at 4 p.m.

Seminole in Classic semifinals

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Robert Moore scored 29 points as Seminole High School overcame a sluggish start and ran past Winter Park 77-63 to reach the semifinals of the Central Florida Classic at Seminole Community College Wednesday night.

Seminole will play Winter Garden-West Orange, which came from behind to defeat Lyman 62-56. In the other games at SCC on Wednesday, Bishop Moore eliminated Lake Howell 74-69 and Leesburg eliminated Eau Gallie 70-69.

Thursday's schedule at SCC finds Bishop Moore hosting Apopka at 5:30 p.m., Tavares playing Winter Park at 7 p.m. and Seminole and West Orange meeting at 8:30 p.m. for the right to play in the final.

Despite the ease of the victory, Coach Greg Robinson of Seminole was not totally pleased with his team's performance.

"We're going to have to play much better to win this tournament," he said. "We played good in spurts, but we need to be more consistent. And our shooting is terrible. But we haven't been able to practice because our floor has just been refinished."

The game got off to a slow start as neither team could score until Moore hit a free throw with 6:26 to play in the first quarter. The first field goal of the game came at the 5:49 mark.

After beating Winter Park on Wednesday night, Bernard Eady (No. 32) and his Seminole teammates are just two wins away from winning the Central Florida Classic title.

Rams survive; Lions fall in 2OT

By ROBBIE STOCK

OVIEDO — It wasn't pretty, but Lake Mary's boys basketball team made it past Apopka Wednesday night to advance to the semifinal round of the Central Florida Classic at Oviedo High School.

Oviedo fell to South Dade 63-62 in double overtime in the other quarterfinal.

"We played awful," said Ram head coach Willie Richardson after his team's 58-53 win over Apopka. "If we play tomorrow night like we did tonight, we'll get annihilated."

"I've got a senior-oriented team. I was looking for a guy to take charge. That will be important for us later on. This team has been really fortunate in pulling out close games. All-in-all, I'm happy with the fact we can play bad and still win."

The Rams came out hot after halftime, opening up a 47-34 lead. But Apopka battled back in the third quarter, making a 17-4 run and forcing a 51-51 tie with 2:11 left to play.

Jason Hamelin came through in the clutch for the Rams, drilling a three-pointer 30 seconds later for a 54-51 lead. Jamon Perry added two free throws for a 56-51 advantage. Robbie Hillery added the final two points for the Rams.

The game started out slowly, with Perry putting the first points on the scoreboard two minutes into the contest. Two technicals on

Riverview sweeps to tourney title

By TONY DeBORNER

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — In winning the second Lady Patriot Christmas girls' basketball tournament, the Sarasota-Riverview Rams pulled off the trifecta, sweeping the three Seminole County schools in the single-elimination event.

On Monday, Riverview (9-3) blew out Oviedo 62-40. It was Lake Howell's turn on Tuesday, getting hammered 74-36. Wednesday night, the Rams completed the sweep, drilling the host Lake Brantley Patriots 84-31.

The closest any of the three got was Oviedo, which trailed just 42-36 after three quarters. In the next nine quarters, Riverview outscored its opponents 178-71. During the tournament, the Rams outscored their opponents in 11 of the 12 quarters played.

Jordan gets 52 but Smith boosts Magic past Bulls

United Press International

ORLANDO — Otis Smith scored a season-high 28 points, but it was his driving layup with three seconds left that lifted the Orlando Magic to a 110-109 victory over the Chicago Bulls Wednesday night before a sellout crowd of 15,077 at Orlando Arena.

Smith, who connected on 10-of-15 field goals and 8-of-10 free throws, hit a bank shot in heavy traffic to give the Magic a 106-102 lead with 1:11 remaining.

But Michael Jordan countered with five of his game-high 52 points to put the Bulls on top, 107-106, with 16 seconds showing. Then the NBA's most prolific scorer this season came back with a bank shot with eight seconds left, erasing Orlando's 108-107 lead that came on two Terry Catledge free throws with 14 seconds showing.

Smith sparked a surge that saw Orlando overcome a 17-4 deficit and take a 55-50 advantage into intermission. He scored 16 points in the second period.

To snap a four-game losing streak and stop Chicago's five-game winning streak, the Magic also needed the third-period heroics of Reggie Theus and Catledge.

Notre Dame's Zorich is UPI's top lineman

UPI Staff Writer
SOUTH BEND, Ind. - Notre Dame's Chris Zorich, who brought his toughness from the streets of Chicago to the Notre Dame line, Wednesday was named United Press International College Football Lineman of the Year.

Zorich, a 6-foot-1, 270-pound junior, anchored the Notre Dame defense that finished among the nation's best against the run. "Chris Zorich someday will be the standard they measure linebackers by," said Irish defensive coordinator Barry Alvarez.

Zorich, called "Zorro" by friends, made 92 tackles this season, including 45 unassisted. His five tackles for losses included three sacks. Zorich also caused and recovered two fumbles and broke up two passes.

A combination of strength and speed made Zorich a consistent threat to rival passers as well as a formidable stopper up the middle. Zorich bench pressed a team-high 450 pounds in off-season training and has a top speed of 4.65 seconds in the 40-yard dash.

Zorich attended Chicago's Vocational High School, the same school as former NFL linebackers Dick Butkus and Keena Turner. Hardened by life in the city, Zorich followed in the linebacker mold. "I grew up fighting and claw-

 The biggest obstacle that seems to be standing between the Patriots and a third consecutive title is good health. Illness and injuries have struck the Lake Brantley team and put its 11-1 record in jeopardy.

"We were really fortunate to play tonight, when the rain stopped," said first-year Lake Brantley coach John Schaefer. "We have a lot of girls coming off colds and one out with walking pneumonia. And Kimi Kura (the Patriots' starting goalkeeper) is still recovering from two leg injuries."

In Kura's place, Marc Stark has stepped in and posted three consecutive shutouts. On Wednesday, Stark did not have to make a save in blanking Dr. Phillips. One reason why is that Lake Brantley took 27 shots and seven corner kicks while Dr. Phillips could manage one of either.

Stephanie Sanders opened the scoring for the Patriots when she converted a corner kick by Beth Schaefer five minutes into the match. Sanders scored a second goal and assisted on another as Lake Brantley built a 5-0 halftime advantage.

Melissa Prue, Carrie Larsen, Schaefer, Staci Fox and Shannon Henry each added one goal. Larsen also had two assists as Sanders and Schaefer each had one more.

"We got everybody in," said John Schaefer. "We worked on passing the ball around, knocking it around. We'll have a tough match tomorrow. Largo is a solid team."

Largo is in the quarterfinals after beating Winter Park 3-1.

Illini continue winning ways against Missouri

United Press International

It's all very simple to Kendall Gill.

"We just play," said the Illinois guard who scored 27 points in leading No. 5 Illinois to a 101-93 victory over No. 4 Missouri Wednesday night. "It doesn't matter what kind of ranking you have. You just roll the ball out and play and see who's better."

Marcus Liberty added 26 points for the Fighting Illini, 7-0, who have won seven straight from the Tigers.

Illinois Coach Lou Henson has no explanation for his team's success against Missouri.

"There are some things you can't figure out in sports," said Henson. "We always seem to play well against Missouri. Don't try and figure it out. It'll drive you crazy. It was just our best game of the year."

Missouri was led by Doug Smith's 22 points and Anthony Peeler and Lee Coward who added 20 apiece.

athletes." Coward said. After three early ties and five lead changes, Illinois took a 12-11 lead before Missouri went on an 11-5 run to take a 22-17 lead with 10:45 remaining in the first half. Smith scored eight of the Tigers' points during the spurt.

Illinois rebounded to tie the score 24-24 when Andy Kaufmann drilled a 3-pointer with 9:05 left in the half. "We had some role players that did a job for us," Henson said.

"I haven't been shooting the ball too well this year," said Gill, who finished 10 of 21. The coaches told me not to worry about it and just go out and play."

Henson was very pleased with Gill's performance. "Kendall Gill did a lot of good things," he said. "He played good defense, handled the ball and scored a little."

"That Missouri team was the best we've played in the four years I've been here," said Gill. "We got lucky I guess."

In the second half, Missouri was able to close the gap to two points twice, the last time being 62-60 with 12:30 remaining. But Illinois responded with an 8-2 run over the next 2:50 for a 70-62 lead. Steve Burdo and Gill each had four points during the run.

The Fighting Illini never looked back, leading by 13 with 6:55 to play.

Elsewhere in the Top Twenty, No. 3 Georgetown pounded Virginia Tech 97-64; No. 8 Louisiana State rallied to down Northwest Louisiana 73-63 and co-No. 20 Memphis State toppled New Orleans 59-55.

At Landover, Md., Mark Tillman scored 18 of his 29 points in the first half and Alonzo Mourning added a career-best 27 points to power the Hoyas. Georgetown scored the final 13 points of the first half to lead by 29 points.

The Hoyas led by as many as 39 points in the second half, improving to 8-0.

Virginia Tech, 4-3, had won their previous two games and earlier beat highly-regarded Alabama.

At Baton Rouge, La., Wayne Sims scored 16 points, including six during a key 15-0 run in the second half that helped the Tigers assume control.

The Tigers, 5-1, were buoyed by Stanley Roberts and Chris Jackson's 13 points and Shaquille O'Neal who had 12 points and a game-high 7 rebounds. The Demons, 1-7, were led by Eric Scanlan's 14 points.

At Memphis, Tenn., Elliot Perry scored 25 points and Cheyenne Gibson added 18 points and 4 assists to spark the Tigers, 5-1. New Orleans, 2-4, got 14 points and 9 rebounds from Tony Harris.

In the first round of the Richmond Times-Dispatch Invitational, it was Richmond 69, Old Dominion 62 and Virginia 63. Virginia Commonwealth 46.

In other games, it was Georgia 91, Jacksonville 62; SMU 63, UNC-Charlotte 55; Tennessee 92, Western Carolina 68; Dayton 84, DePaul 73; Marquette 77, Chicago State 45; Michigan State 80, Evansville 66; Minnesota 77, Washington 60; Purdue 60, California 55; Texas El-Paso 77, Creighton 66; Colorado State 74, Baylor 55.

goals within a minute as Crisic Snow scored an unassisted goal with 24:00 expired, then fed Dana Hoover for a goal at the 25-minute mark.

Hoover and Snow each added one more goal on free kicks. Hoover's coming just before halftime and Snow netting hers 13:03 into the second half. Goaltender Tammy Scott made four saves in posting the shutout.

Now the Rams advance to play Melbourne this evening at 8 p.m. in the quarterfinals. The other quarterfinal matchup at Lake Mary tonight has St. Thomas Aquinas of Fort Lauderdale playing Lake Howell at 6 p.m.

The other half of the tournament is being played at Lyman High School (see related story).

"Now it's getting tough," said Etanek. "When you get into the second round, all the teams are tough. Each bracket is tough. Each game will be a battle from here on out."

Lake Mary will face Melbourne, a 3-0 winner over West Orange on Wednesday. After she assisted Melissa Glover on Melbourne's first goal, Julie Fleck scored the next two goals on assists from Tammy Paderak.

Lake Howell completely dominated Boone, winning 9-0 to advance to the quarterfinals. Dana Boyesen scored four goals and assisted on another for the Silver Hawks while Jennie Yearick and Dawn Hulbert each scored twice.

Alicia Spengler scored once for Lake Howell as Jessica Cardarelli and Michelle Cook each had an assist. Goalkeeper Heather Brann needed to make just one save on Boone's two shots to post the shutout.

St. Thomas Aquinas (which finished third in the tournament last year behind Lake Brantley and Lake Mary) advanced to meet Lake Howell with a 7-0 blowout of Seminole.

It took just five minutes for Lara Sapiestas to put St. Thomas ahead to stay. Colleen Ryan and Cathie Uustal each added a goal before Seminole was victimized by an own goal to give St. Thomas a 4-0 halftime advantage.

Stephanie Suzanne Lundy and Misti Demeola each notched second-half goals for St. Thomas. Play will pick up today at 2 p.m. at Lake Mary High School, when Seminole will face Boone in a first round losers' bracket game. That will be followed by Tampa-Berkley Prep facing West Orange at 4 p.m.

Apogee head coach Rich Steiner helped the Rams take a 10-8 lead. Lake Mary led 10-10 after the first quarter.

Flamingo led the Rams with 30 points, including three three-pointers. Perry added 11. Rodney Steiner led the Blue Darters with 18.

In the other quarterfinal, Oviedo rallied from a five-point deficit late in the third quarter to force their second overtime game in as many nights.

Neither team could manage a basket in the first overtime period. After Oviedo's Mark Sallerno missed a shot, South Dade held the ball for 1:30 but didn't get a shot off as Rob Crager intercepted a pass.

John Mullins missed on the other end for the Lions and South Dade's Donald Brooks missed a bank shot at the buzzer to force a second overtime.

Crager nailed a three-point jumpshot 1:01 into the second overtime to give the Lions a 61-59 lead, but Connie Moore tied the game with two of his game-high 21 points on a driving layup 15 seconds later.

Mullins gave the Lions their last lead with a free throw with 1:17 remaining. Neither team scored until Mullins missed the front end of a one-in-one to set

Crager's last-second shot rimmed out for the Lions.

The two teams played tie-to-tie all evening long with the largest lead being a seven-point advantage held by the Lions early in the first quarter. The teams were tied 11-11 after one quarter and 29-29 at halftime.

Crager led the Lions with 18 points and 13 rebounds while Brad Nelson added 16. Danny Phillips chipped out 10 points.

Cal Hardick poured in 13 for the Blue while Brooks scored 11.

In the losers' bracket, Deseida got by Lake Brantley 73-63 while Tavares crushed Colonial 88-50.

Deseida collected for 23 second-quarter points and coasted over the Patriots. James Bryant led the Falcons with 17 points while Tom Francis threw in 16. Craig Block scored 20 points for the Patriots.

Semifinals

Moore took a beautiful pass from Bernard Rudy and dropped it in the basket to give the Tribe a 4-0 lead. Winter Park finally scored at the 5:35 mark when Clay Hair hit on a driving layup.

Seminole missed a chance to put the game away early when they converted only four of nine free throws in the first quarter. Their failure to make their free throws allowed Winter Park to take a lead, but Seminole still led by one point, 18-18, after one quarter when Moore missed in a three-point shot at the buzzer.

The second quarter belonged to Seminole as its press forced turnover after turnover and gave the Seminoles several easy baskets. Eady had eight points, Brandon Cash five and Moore four as SEM outscored Winter Park 23-9 in the quarter and took a 43-27 halftime advantage.

Moore led the Niles scoring in the first half with 17 points. Eady (nine) and Cash (seven) also had good halves.

Winter Park did not score until 4:36 was left in the half and only hit three field goals in the quarter. Hair was a one-man gang for the Wildcats in the first half as he scored 11 points.

Seminole took leads of as many as 21 points in the second half before clearing the bench as the Tribe cruised to its sixth victory against three defeats. In addition to Moore's 29 points, Eady had 16 while Cash and sophomore Carlo White added nine points each.

For Winter Park, which fell to 2-7 on the season, Hair and Tony Edney had 16 points each. Riley Williams had 14 and sophomore Willie Brooks chipped in with nine.

The Lyman-West Orange game was close throughout with Lyman leading most of the way. Lyman led 18-13 after one quarter and the game was tied 30-30 at halftime. West Orange took a four-point lead with a minute to play in the third quarter but Toby Durham of the Greyhounds came up with three straight steals that led to a Floyd Nelson basket and two of his own to put Lyman ahead 44-42 entering the last quarter of play.

But Jarrold Shaw of West Orange came off the bench to score nine fourth quarter points as the Warriors outscored Lyman 20-12 down the stretch.

A three-point field goal by Lyman's Todd Patterson cut the West Orange lead to 59-56 with 46 seconds left. Lyman fouled West Orange in hopes of gaining possession on a missed free throw. Three times West Orange missed the second free throw but each time the Warriors grabbed the rebound to run out the clock and end the Greyhounds' modest two-game winning streak.

West Orange improved to 6-1 on the season as Ken Mills scored 21 points. Shaw added 21 and Quentin Smith joined his teammates in double figures with 13. Lyman falls to 2-6 and was led by Durham and Scott Seeger with 12 points each. Octavius Holiday came off the bench to contribute 10 points to the Greyhounds cause.

Lake Howell was eliminated despite outstanding performances by Josh Kohn and Ryan Thomas. Kohn hit five three-pointers, including three straight to start the fourth period, enroute to a game-high 26 points and Thomas made nine of 10 free throws as he scored 21. But Bishop Moore's balance and patient offense proved too much for the Silver Hawks in the end.

In addition to Kohn and Thomas, Thomas Demps had a nice game for Lake Howell as he scored nine points and had several rebounds and blocked shots. The loss drops Lake Howell to 3-5 on the season.

Bishop Moore, now 6-4, placed four men in double figures, paced by Rob Graham' 16. Graham hit four three-pointers in this game after failing to score in Tuesday's loss to Lyman. Also in double figures for the Hornets were Owen Busch (14), Ella Mavrofrides and Andrew Buckler (10 points each).

The game between Leesburg and Eau Gallie was an exciting one as the two teams traded the lead back and forth the whole game. In the end, Leesburg's superior quickness was the difference.

Carlos Williams (17) and Willie Dickens (15) led four Leesburg players in double figures as the Yellowjackets evened its record at 5-5 on the season. Will Foster and Henry Bailey added 13 points each for Leesburg.

For Eau Gallie, which fell to 2-4, it was Brent Buchanan with a game-high 20 points and 6-10 Jeff Faile with 19 points leading the Commodore attack.

tournament and play three games against three local teams and win, you have to be pleased," said Riverview coach Cyril Smith. "I was impressed with our kids."

"We were looking forward to coming up and playing Apogee, but they led in the first round (to Lake Brantley). The girls were a little disappointed, but our goal was to come up here and win this tournament. And that's what we did. I thought we played extremely well. They surprised me."

Led by tournament Most Valuable Player Cindy Hayden, the Rams pressed Lake Brantley through much of the first half, forcing turnovers and converting them into easy baskets.

Riverview led 21-4 after one quarter and 41-16 at the half. It didn't get any better in the second half as Cayll substituted freely. Any combination he put out there were able to stop the Patriots, who seemed somewhat flat emotionally after two big wins over local rivals (Apogee and Winter Park).

"We were flat," said Lake Brantley coach Cindy Frank, who saw her team finish second in its own tournament for the second year. "We just couldn't get with it. Riverview is definitely a better team than we are right now, but they're not 50 points better."

"We won two big games to get here. We just weren't ready tonight. And Riverview played well. But that was a totally different (Lake Brantley) team out there tonight."

Riverview got contributions from everyone that stepped on the floor as 10 of the 11 girls who played for the Rams had at least two points. They were led by Daphne Rocco (21 points), Sharon Brander (13), Hayden (12) and Paula Johnson (12).

For Lake Brantley (6-9), Lori Bance was the only one to reach double figures in scoring, netting 12.

In the third place game, Winter Park used a 40-point effort by Leanne Peterson to whip Lake Howell 93-80. Jewell Woodard contributed 16 and Tami Davis had 12 for the Wildcats.

Lake Howell's Silver Hawks were led by Rebecca Miller's 11 points and 10 from Lisa Nuzul.

The Oviedo Lions finished fifth in the tournament with a 45-30 win over Venice. Ectasy Hughes had 14 and Pam Lindsey added 11 for the Lions. Venice got 15 points from Ruth Terry and 10 from Jennifer Parrish.

Joining Hayden on the All-Tournament team were Riverview teammates Debbie Plocar and Renno. Lake Brantley's Bunce and Tara Gibson, Hughes of Oviedo, Peterson of Winter Park, Lake Howell's Miller, Terry of Venice, Keasha Brown of Apogee and Missy Ott of Barbours Christian.

Monitoring necessary for hormone therapy

DEAR DR. GOTT: I would like information on how long I should take hormone shots for osteoporosis...

tumors can be removed, with a virtual 100 percent cure. Metastatic tumors require chemotherapy.

Since you apparently were fortunate to have a single tumor that was removed and you've had no trouble in 10 years, I believe you needn't worry about a recurrence...

PETER GOTT, M.D.

suggest that you have a liver scan (to check for metastases) or occasional urine tests to identify whether you are excreting small amounts of the substances secreted by the tumor.

DEAR READER: Female hormones often reduce the tendency, common in women after menopause, to lose calcium from the bones (osteoporosis).

Although there is continuing debate about how long to administer hormones, most specialists recommend hormone replacement for an indefinite period...

I suspect you will eventually be given an oral estrogen/progestin combination; this appears to be the most suitable treatment for the majority of women...

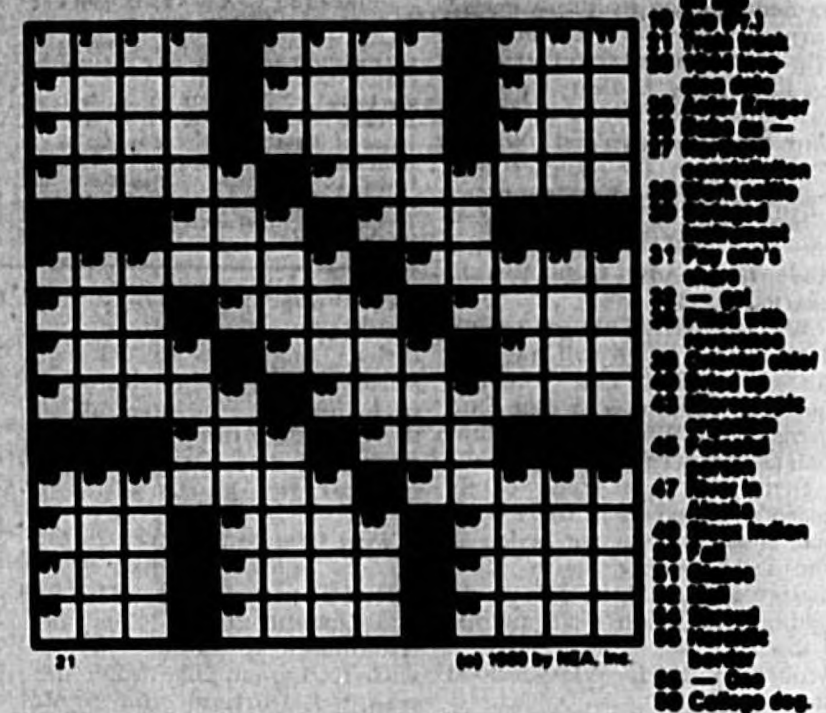

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Osteoporosis."

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had a carcinoid tumor removed 10 years ago. What are the possibilities of another one developing?

DEAR READER: Carcinoid tumors are malignant growths that secrete excessive amounts of various naturally occurring chemicals...

These tumors often develop in the intestine and metastasize (spread to other organs). Solitary

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby West's opening lead is a good choice, even after South has shown a four-card spade suit...

Obviously West is not leading from K-Q-J-x-x of spades. (With that holding, he would lead the king.) And if West is leading from a four-card suit, it doesn't matter...

HOROSCOPE

YOUR BIRTHDAY Dec. 22, 1989

Interesting developments are in the offing for you in the year ahead. It should be a time where many of your hopes, aspirations and expectations are fulfilled.

They'll want to bath in the limelight that will be focused on you when you are around others. ARIES (March 21-April 19) A financial matter with domestic overtones that has been difficult to resolve looks like it will take a turn for the better today...

take place today that will involve you, even though you might not be aware of it. When the dust settles, what transpired will have beneficial ramifications. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be in your element today if you're lucky enough to participate in some form of group activity...
