Ford Vows Equality In Inflation War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring that no miracle cure is in sight, President Ford convened his economic summit today and quickly found his administration's anti-inflation policies under attack from congressional Democrats. Ford predicted in his opening remarks that "we as Americans can and will win" the fight against inflation, and hinted at tax cuts for the poor so no group is "called upon to carry an unfair share of the load." House Speaker Carl Albert, who followed Ford to the microphone, complained that some congressional recommendations for economic action had been overlooked in presummit conferences. "The administration in effect has spoken of the old-time religion" of tax incentives for business and rollback of programs for the poor, Albert said. In his opening remarks, Ford indicated he was moving toward tax cuts for the poor, who he said had been hit hardest by inflation. "This administration will seek to ensure that burdens are distributed equally," he said. Noting the presence of observers from other nations, Ford also said inflation is an international problem and the United States will "consult with friends abroad as we move to combat an international threat." The President confirmed what many observers had expected — that he made a significant start in preparing an anti-inflation program even in advance of the summit. "We are already narrowing some of the options to those which would appear most effective and command widest support," he said. Ford said the summit, like a dozen preliminary conferences this month, "is wide open." He continued: "All views and opinions are invited. This administration's commitment to visible and responsive government remains intact. I might not like everything I hear. But it is my solemn duty as President of the United States to give fair consideration to all views and to carefully weigh the possible courses of action." Restating a caution against expectation of "quick or easy solutions," Ford said: "No miracle cure has emerged from the pre-conference meetings. Inflation is a problem which we must deal with patiently and persistently... It will require sacrifice and common effort. It will require discipline, but we will win." Ford said the summit was "in the tradition of the American town hall" and represented a joint executive-legislative initiative undertaken in response to a bipartisan congressional recommendation.

State, County Seeking Jail Space Solutions

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

Gov. Reubin Askew today appointed a committee of state officials to propose by Monday preliminary, short-range solutions to overcrowded prisons, telling the panel to submit a final report by next Friday. The action came in the wake of State Corrections Director Louis Wainwright's order Thursday halting for an indefinite period the transfer of new prisoners to state facilities due to overcrowding. Seminole County Commissioners and sheriff's department officials locally, were trying to meet their own overcrowded jail problem today, attempting to find solutions before the traditionally high jail population winter months arrive. George Proudfoot, Seminole jail administrator, said today the 84 bed capacity county jail at Sanford currently has a population of 89 and five additional female prisoners are being held in the Orange County jail. Five prisoners were to have been transferred to the state prison system reception center at Lake Butler next week, but that plan now has been cancelled due to Wainwright's order. He said 10 to 15 additional prisoners could possibly be housed in the jail's drunk tank. But, this is strictly against state regulations, Proudfoot said because of the lack of beds and shower facilities there. "After that I don't know what we would do if other counties refuse our excess prisoners," Proudfoot said, noting that the Lake County jail which has been used by Seminole is now overcrowded itself and Orange County's facilities are almost to capacity. In light of the state situation, Proudfoot said, Volusia and Brevard counties would be reluctant to overtax their facilities with Seminole prisoners, too. Even approval by Seminole voters in the November general election of the proposed $3.5 million bond issue for a new county jail would not solve the immediate problem, Proudfoot said, noting construction time would be two to three years. A near perfect solution, which would have handled Seminole's jail population until 1980, was the lease of Building 310 (which housed 300 sailors when the Sanford Naval Air Station was open) from the Sanford Airport Authority, Proudfoot said. Airport Authority Director J. S. (Red) Cleveland said today, however, the possibility of the county leasing Building 310 is "a dead issue." The airport authority must be able to control activities at the airport and thus wished to retain the option of cancelling the lease at two-year intervals. The county on the other hand felt it had to be able to assure automatic lease renewal for a period of 10 years to justify the expense of converting the building into a jail facility. County Commissioner Sid Viblen, in charge of the jail project, in a letter to Askew Thursday, said Wainwright's action "severely endangers our ability to maintain a functional orderly jail operation," asking that specific state-county arrangements be made to accommodate overcrowded conditions that will arise because of the state order. Viblen slammed state and federal jail guidelines, saying they leaned too much toward requiring "motel-like" conditions for prisoners.

FIRE DESTROYS MIDWAY CHURCH County and state fire officials today probed ruins of New Bethel AME Church, Main Street, Midway, seeking cause of Thursday night fire that destroyed the frame structure and an annex and damaged two adjoining houses. Sheriff's deputies reported one fireman was overcome by heat and smoke in 90 minute battle to contain the blaze, believed to have started in the rear of the church building.

Two Senators To Visit Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., will visit Cuba this weekend, signaling what is widely believed to be the beginning of a normalization of relations between Cuba and the United States. The two senators, both members of the Foreign Relations Committee, are keeping their travel plans under wraps, fearing they may be subject to reprisals from Cuban exiles who adamantly oppose any U.S.-Cuban reconciliation. The visit by Javits and Pell is a follow-up to a July visit to Cuba by Pat M. Holt, the chief of staff of the Foreign Relations Committee. Holt issued a report on his return recommending that the United States take initiatives to end the 13-year U.S.-Cuban estrangement. He described the U.S.-supported hemispheric blockade of the island as a failure. With the resignation last August of President Richard M. Nixon, an avowed anti-Castroite, Cuban attitudes toward the United States seemed to undergo a marked change. Declaring that the Nixon years in the White House were a period of "intransigence and hatred" toward Cuba, Castro expressed optimism over the prospects for an improved relationship. President Ford, meanwhile, told a news conference a month ago that his administration still sticks by the Organization of American States embargo of the island. But last week, the United States threw its support behind a proposal in the OAS to call a November meeting of hemispheric foreign ministers to review the sanctions. The ministers are expected to vote to lift the embargo, and Ford has said that the United States will go along with whatever collective decisions the OAS arrives at. The lifting of the embargo would free all OAS members to legally establish the kind of relations they desire with Cuba. Seven nations now have ties with Cuba in violation of the embargo. Diplomats predict there will be continuing friendly gestures between Washington and Havana as part of a process that ultimately will lead to diplomatic relations.

State Reviews Three Rivers Plan

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A new aspect of environment protection will come before the Cabinet next Wednesday when state planners challenge a developer over plans for a new Lake County town with a projected population of 50,000. After months of wrestling with ways to control development along beaches and with buying endangered lands, the Cabinet will hear its first appeal on a development of regional impact. The landmark Land and Water Management Act of July 1, 1973, gives the Cabinet final say in developments that would affect more than one county. The first one in which regional and state planners could not agree with local government is the Three Rivers Development, planned by Major Realty Co. of Orlando. The Lake County Commission approved plans to build 18,000 homes over 20 years on a 5,800-acre site near Volusia, Seminole and Orange Counties. The East Central Florida Regional Planning Council, Seminole County and the state Planning Division appealed, saying the area is unsuitable for such development. A state hearing officer recommended that the Cabinet send the project back for more information on what the developer will do to provide water, get rid of sewage and storm water, and handle traffic. Charles Wells, representing Major Realty, told Cabinet officials Thursday that his firm was offering a compromise to "accomplish the same things the hearing examiner said should be done." He asked that approval be given to Lake County's action changing the zoning from agricultural, with the assurance that no structures would be built until the plans were submitted to the Cabinet. He said the firm did not want to go to the expense of developing the plans without assurance that construction would not be blocked by zoning. Louis Hubener, Planning Division counsel, said approving the zoning would endorse the entire project and allow further review only in stages. The entire project should be examined as a package, he said. "I don't believe the concept will work," Hubener said. "The traffic problems boggle the mind."

Rocky's Finances Delay Approval PEOPLE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The complexity of Nelson A. Rockefeller's tax returns seems likely to delay Senate action on his vice presidential nomination until after the November elections, informed sources said here.

The sources said that audits of Rockefeller's taxes being prepared for the Senate Rules Committee, which ended its public hearings on Thursday, won't be ready until at least the third week in October.

That was the estimate earlier in the week by Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., whose House Judiciary Committee won't even start its hearings until after the elections. However, Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., of the Senate panel had been hopeful the matter would be resolved by the Internal Revenue Service for the House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, which would be ready next week.

Both houses are scheduled to quit work for the month-long election recess in two weeks, so the delay would assure that neither could finish Rockefeller's confirmation by then.

Cannon said at the close of public hearings on Thursday that the panel won't be able to decide until after it gets the tax audits whether it will have to recall Rockefeller for further questioning. The Thursday hearing produced a number of questions from conservatives and critics of Rockefeller's approval of liberalized abortion legislation.

Two jacks hailed the former New York governor's civil rights record, and two other witnesses urged his approval because he permitted "state police and prison guards to stage one of the most wanton massacres in the history of the United States" at Attica.

On the abortion issue, which Rockefeller had called the most controversial he had faced in his 15 years as governor, he was defended by New York State Republican Assemblywoman Constantine Cook and Carol Burris of the Women's Lobby Inc., and denounced by Edward J. Cohen and Notre Dame Law professor Charles E. Rice, representing two so-called "right-to-life" groups.

Conservative criticism of Rockefeller came from Curtis Dall, board chairman of Liberty Lobby, and from Rev. Kenneth E. Lee, president of the Washington Christian Action Council.

Lee was the only witness all week to mention—and criticize—Rockefeller's much-publicized 1962 divorce and 1963 remarriage.

Nixon's Servants Nixed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate Appropriations subcommittee has acted to ensure that former President Richard M. Nixon is not provided household servants at government expense.

The panel, headed by Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., voted on Thursday to allow only $320,000 of the $650,000 the Ford administration had asked for transitional expenses for Nixon.

In approving the appropriation, the subcommittee wrote in a requirement that any federal employe working for Nixon must be doing a job directly involved in his transition to private life.

Montoya said he was alarmed to learn that Nixon's long-time valet, Manolo Sanchez, and Mrs. Sanchez, a maid, are working at the former president's San Clemente, Calif., home even though they are being paid a total of $20,000 a year by the National Park Service.

The legislation apparently also would take away Nixon's three chauffeurs, who are on the Defense Department payroll.

Calley Imprisonment Is 'Army Arrogance'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Army Lt. William L. Calley Jr. is remaining in prison while the Army decides whether to appeal the reversal of his conviction for murder in the My Lai massacre.

Calley's release was blocked on Thursday when a temporary stay was granted by Chief Judge John R. Brown of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. That stay is to allow the Army time to prepare a written motion for a 15-day stay while it decides whether to appeal.

Calley was ordered freed on Wednesday by U.S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott of Columbus, Ga., who ruled that Calley's rights to a fair trial were violated during his court-martial 2 1/2 years ago. He was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. The sentence was later reduced to 10 years. One of Calley's lawyers, Kenneth Henson, commented that "if they haven't decided on appeal, they are a little early in applying for a stay. If Solicitor General (Robert H.) Bork hasn't made that determination, it is highly unusual."

Henson also said Brown might have disqualified himself from the Calley case because of a remark made during an earlier hearing on the granting of bail to Calley.

Henson quoted the judge as telling J. Houston Gordon, another Calley lawyer, "You may not get an appeal, but you are going to win it on pretrial publicity." One of the main points of Elliott's decision was that pretrial publicity had made a fair trial impossible.

EPA Rule Changes Said Essential For More Energy

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Spokesmen for Southern utilities say the 1970 Clean Air Act should be amended to allow the burning of easily obtained coal with a high sulphur content.

They also told hearings on Project Independence, a program initiated by former President Nixon to lessen the nation's dependency on foreign energy sources, that nuclear power is vital to meet energy requirements.

"The Clean Air Act must be amended to permit burning of the vast reserves of coal found in the east and central sections of the United States," said William S. Lee, vice president for construction and engineering of the Duke Power Co., which serves the Carolinas.

No Utility Cuts Seen

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Representatives of five Southern power companies said they have no immediate plans to ask customers to cut back energy usage despite light coal supplies.

The Tennessee Valley Authority earlier this week asked its consumers to reduce their power consumption by 15 to 20 per cent. "They have a lower percentage of coal contracts than we do," said William G. Lalor Jr., senior vice president of Southern Services Inc., a subsidiary of the Southern Co., parent firm of four power companies.

He said the Southern Co. will have adequate supplies of coal for the winter "barring a miners' strike in November." Bituminous coal operators are negotiating a new contract with the United Mine Workers with the current contract expiring Nov. 12.

George Allen

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Ford have encouraged a coalition from Redskins Coach George Allen to attend the National Football League game between Washington and the Denver Broncos on Monday night.

An aide said the President and his wife will sit in a box with the Allen family at Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Stadium here.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will fly to Salt Lake City on Tuesday and will address students at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, on Wednesday morning.

Betty Ford

WASHINGTON (AP)—The First Family has been eating more fish and less beef, and casseroles are becoming a popular main dish in the White House, according to Betty Ford.

The wife of President Ford told participants in Mayor Walter Washington's Summer Food Dollar Conference on Thursday that she has been trying to save money and conserve food.

The problem of inflation forces everyone to "take a hard look at our own spending to insure that we get the best we can for each dollar," Mrs. Ford said.

She was apparently referring only to family meals, since the White House is still serving lavish dinners for foreign visitors.

Charles Colson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles W. Colson, imprisoned one-time special counsel to former President Richard M. Nixon, has asked President Ford for a pardon, a White House spokesman says.

Colson's lawyer submitted a pardon petition to Ford within a week or two after Ford granted an unconditional pardon to Nixon on Sept. 8, Deputy Press Secretary John W. Hushon said on Thursday night.

Colson was arrested in May 1973 for allegedly covering up the Watergate scandal. He was sentenced to three years in prison and fined $50,000.

Capitol Contractor Must Repair Pillings

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A contractor was ordered to start today uncovering several hundred pillings on the site of Florida's future 22-story Capitol to see how many of the supports are broken.

Robert Brown of the General Service Department Building Division, said the contractor, D & A Construction Co., will have to fix or replace any found broken.

The contractor had a contract to put in good pillings and if any are put in wrong, he has to fix them," Brown said.

In an inspector Thursday of the first two suspicious clusters totaling 17 pillings, five were found broken and improperly repaired, he said. A knife could be pushed into a crack in one, officials said.

Two weeks were required to dig dirt away from them but Brown said he did not know how long construction work would be delayed while the others are uncovered and inspected.

J. A. Jones Construction Co. of Tampa were to begin the main construction this month. Completion was scheduled for May 1976.

The inspection began after a former labor foreman for D & A, Wallace Blatt, reported 50 to 52 pillings had been broken and not properly repaired.

He retired from the U.S. Air Force in 1973 after 22 years service, the last three as director of administrative services for the AF Academy Preparatory School at Colorado Springs.

Hamlic replaces Alton B. Wernick, who was promoted to merchandise manager of Sterchl's Orlando store.

Greenpan, the new chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, is either lacking in political savvy or simply is doing what he feels must be done, that is, talk bluntly.

Any recovery from inflation is going to be painful, he has stated time after time. Inflation cannot be defeated quickly, he states flatly. And he scorns short-term solution, blaming them for creating long-term problems.

His solutions are, in the opinion of many economists, businessmen and labor leaders fighting to understand the problem, straight from the book, devoid of innovation and political appeal.

Many of the proposals suggested by legislators, economists and others already have been discounted by Greenpan, almost automatically, as if by reflex rather than reflection.

The allocation of credit, for instance, would cause "distortions," in Greenpan's view, although some proponents claim it would help balance the distribution of funds, especially to housing.

A proposal to encourage people to spend less and save more by reducing the income tax bite on interest was received by him with little enthusiasm. It won't change habits, he suggested.

Greenpan's program would begin with cutting government spending, an approach that perhaps a majority of economists favor.

Greenspan Tells It Like It 'Really' Is

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street brokers, said Alan Greenspan, have probably suffered more from inflation on a percentage basis than anyone else. He said that to union leaders and others concerned with problems of the poor.

Greenspan, the new chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, is either lacking in political savvy or simply is doing what he feels must be done, that is, talk bluntly.

Army Chief Weyand—The new Army chief of staff, Gen. Fred C. Weyand, is expected to push revitalization of the Army along the path blazed by the late Gen. Creighton Abrams. Although totally different in personality, Weyand and Abrams thought very much alike and together they drafted the policies credited with lifting the Army from its Vietnam-era slump in morale and readiness. The White House has announced that President Ford is nominating Weyand to replace Abrams, who died early this month.

Court Translations Approved—The Senate Judiciary Committee has approved a bill designed to remove the language barrier to a fair trial in the federal courts. The bill provides for simultaneous translation of civil and criminal court proceedings involving non-English speaking citizens.

Amtrak Ridership Increasing—The number of persons riding Amtrak's passenger trains continued to increase in August and ridership for the first eight months of the year now is 26 per cent over last year's totals, Amtrak said on Thursday.

Amtrak said it carried 1,464,000 passengers in August compared with 1,359,000 million passengers in the same month a year ago.

It said it has carried slightly over 12 million passengers in the first eight months of the year, compared with about 9.5 million passengers in the same period last year.

Ford, GOP Candidates Meet—Republican congressional candidates from across the country have been invited to a White House meeting on Monday to have their pictures taken with President Ford.

The invitations were sent out by the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee to 163 Republican congressional candidates, a committee spokesman said. The White House said the session is mainly a photographic one but there may be some discussion of national problems.

Airline Fee Cut Ordered—The Civil Aeronautics Board has ordered most airlines to reduce security surcharges charged airline passengers from 59 to 34 cents by Oct. 12 after ruling that the fees have been too high.

The board did not require the airlines to reimburse passengers for the excessive surcharge.

Standard Time Bill Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate action on a bill to restore standard time from November through February has been postponed until next week.

The postponement was agreed to on Thursday after controversy arose over a non-emergency amendment to eliminate discriminatory state taxes on wines.

The amendment, introduced by Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., would prevent states from levying more taxes on wines produced outside a state than on those produced inside it.

The Senate refused, 43 to 39, to table it, and Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., gave a filibuster against it. Consideration of the daylight saving time measure then was put off until next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Kennedy Kidnap Threat Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secret Service and local police provided increased protection to several Kennedy children earlier this month following a kidnap threat which is still under investigation by the FBI, officials report.

The Secret Service provided protection for six children of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and the son of one of his sisters, while local officers gave increased protection to the McLean, Va., home of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

The investigation of the threat reportedly is focusing on the Boston area, where six of Robert Kennedy's 11 children either reside or attend school. Besides the children of Robert and Edward Kennedy, Secret Service protection also was given to Christopher Lawford, son of actor Peter Lawford and the former Patricia Kennedy. They are now divorced.

Jim Newpher, FBI special agent in Boston, said on Thursday, "The FBI received information concerning an alleged plot to kidnap a child of one of the Kennedy families."

ITT's Fine Hand Seen In Chile Turmoil

WASHINGTON—Was International Telephone and Telegraph (ITT) behind the U.S. effort to undermine the late Salvador Allende's government in Chile? Consider these curious coincidences:

On March 21, 1972, we reported that the CIA and ITT had been plotting together to create economic chaos in Chile, hoping this would cause the Chilean army to pull a coup.

The CIA passed out $8 million, most of it in economic sabotage, to weaken Allende's government. The coup came exactly 18 months after we reported the CIA-ITT scheme.

Even before Allende took office, we also reported ITT sent a secret message to Henry Kissinger urging American action to stop Allende. The Marxist leader had won Chile's election by a plurality, not a majority.

The CIA had reliable information that the Soviet KGB was using the Cuban DGI intelligence network to promote Communism and undermine democracy in Latin America.

While working behind the scenes with ITT against Allende, Korry spoke to Allende about a deal to pay off ITT and two copper companies in the U.S.-guaranteed Chilean bonds.

Under this plan, the United States would have had to make good on the bonds and would have wound up paying ITT a whopping $90 million.

When Mr. Ford first told the VFW convention that he favored "leniency" in this matter, many liberals and conservatives alike leaped to the conclusion that the boys in Toronto would get off practically scot-free.

For even that first statement Mr. Ford said flatly that he rejected a blanket amnesty, and made it plain that draft-dodgers and deserters would have to "earn their way" back home.

The President makes two basic distinctions: between draft-dodgers and deserters, and between those of both types not yet tried and those already convicted.

Deserters must turn themselves over to the military authorities, actually swear a new oath of allegiance, put in the same two years of public service work (unless their military department agrees that less will do), and receive an "undestorable" discharge, which can be exchanged for a "cleanliness" discharge if they complete the work.

Sanford Officials Face Up To Issue

Sanford's city commissioners found themselves between a rock and a hard place on the drainage bond issue the other day and it is to their credit that they declined to side-step the issue.

The issue, of course, is the question of a $6.5 million drainage bond issue which the councilmen voted to put on the November ballot and, more importantly, actively work for its passage.

They've got their work cut out for them. No one with even a passing understanding of the state of the economy or the anti-spending mood of the electorate gives the bond issue much of a chance of passing.

It is difficult enough in 'boom' times to convince people that they should increase their taxes; in times of economic stress it is very nearly impossible.

And the fact that the county jail and its $3 million-plus cost will also be on the ballot does little to enhance the possibility of the passage of either.

In the face of all this it would have been a relatively simple matter for the commissioners to avoid the issue—and the possible ire of the voters—by draping themselves in the cloak of 'responsible, representative government' and refusing to ask the electorate to make the long term commitment.

It would have been irresponsible. No one questions the need of a city-wide drainage program—except on those days when it doesn't rain.

On those days when it does rain droplets of areas of Sanford look almost exactly like the scene photographed by the Evening Herald the other day at 20th Street and Oak Avenue.

It is not our intent here to lecture the citizens of Sanford as to how they should vote on the bond issue. It is our intent to offer our congratulations to Mayor Lee Moore and Commissioners John Morris, Julian Stromstrom and Gordon Meyer for having the political courage to attempt to do what is right and needed rather than what is politically expedient.

We would only suggest that the people of Sanford hear out these gentlemen as they attempt to 'sell' the issue. According to Morris the bond issue, which figures out to a 5.00 mill increase in real estate millage, would cost the owner of a property assessed at $20,000 an additional 19 cents a day for the 30 years life of the bonds.

We have no way of knowing whether either figure is correct, although we suspect they are at least 'in the ball park.' And if they are, the cost doesn't strike us as prohibitive, particularly when the city is dealing with a problem that simply can't be avoided much longer.

But whether you're for or against the project you owe it to yourself and to the men you elected to govern the city to listen closely to both the pros and cons of the argument. Only then can you make an intelligent decision upon entering the voting booth.

Water Into Wine

The Agriculture Department's proposed new standards for grading beef would qualify leaner meat for the rating of "choice." The idea is to cut the time and expense it takes to fatten cattle to the extent otherwise necessary to produce meat worthy of the "choice" label.

If the government is going to start kidding us with its standards of quality, why be timid? Let butchers label flank steak as filet mignon if they want to. Then we can all afford to eat the kings, praising Washington for its miracles as we chew...and chew...and chew.

William Rusher Ford Plan Hard But Fair To All

President Ford has now unveiled his "conditional amnesty" for Vietnam draft-dodgers and deserters, and I am gratified to note that it is long on conditions and comparatively short on amnesty.

When Mr. Ford first told the VFW convention that he favored "leniency" in this matter, many liberals and conservatives alike leaped to the conclusion that the boys in Toronto would get off practically scot-free.

For even that first statement Mr. Ford said flatly that he rejected a blanket amnesty, and made it plain that draft-dodgers and deserters would have to "earn their way" back home.

The President makes two basic distinctions: between draft-dodgers and deserters, and between those of both types not yet tried and those already convicted.

Deserters must turn themselves over to the military authorities, actually swear a new oath of allegiance, put in the same two years of public service work (unless their military department agrees that less will do), and receive an "undestorable" discharge, which can be exchanged for a "cleanliness" discharge if they complete the work.

Ray Cromley Competition Required To Save Rails

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Congressional fumbling on the rail problem is in evidence. Almost literally, the Senate and House have fiddled while the transportation system of this country has disintegrated.

The sad condition of the railroads has come up at every emergency high-level economic crisis session checked on these past weeks. Inflation. Energy. Shortages. Unemployment.

At their White House mini-summit meeting with President Ford, the nation's labor leaders turned time and again to discussion of the rails and what that meant to jobs in other industries.

At the most recent session of the advisory board on the energy crash program, the shortage of railroad cars and the unavailability (and dangerous) state of the roadbeds were cited as major bottlenecks in delivering increased tonnages of coal and other raw materials essential in boosting energy production in the years ahead.

A congressional survey of 250 major U.S. manufacturing concerns disclosed the growing scarcity of basic raw materials and semimanufactured products is seriously hampering production of goods needed for industrial growth, crucial in the battle against inflation.

Headless Body Beach

VILANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Officials say a headless, partly clothed and embalmed body that washed ashore at this oceanfront village this week probably is that of a man buried at sea as long as a year ago.

Capt. R.M. Williams of the St. Johns County Sheriff's office said Thursday a check has begun with the state Division of Health and with the Coast Guard and Navy in an attempt to identify the body.

Williams said an autopsy showed the body to be that of a middle-aged male, and that indications are that the body may have been in the water for a year.

The body washed in from the Atlantic on Tuesday.

Indicted Mayor Suspended

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Gretna Mayor Earnest O. Barkley Jr., indicted by a grand jury on charges of buying personal goods with a city credit card, has been suspended by Gov. Reubin Askew.

Barkley was indicted by the Gadsden County grand jury last Friday on one count of malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance and three counts of grand larceny. The suspension came Thursday.

The indictment charged that Barkley, the first black mayor elected in one of the state's two predominantly black counties, used the town credit card to purchase a diamond ring, wedding band, masonic ring and clothing for personal use.

Jittery Wives Seek Outlet For Tensions

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M.D.

CASE #438: Clark G., aged 31, has a universal sex problem.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "my wife is a jittery type of person. She seems to be unduly nervous and high strung, so she has become a cigarette addict."

"Now she chain smokes and this consumes several packs every day.

"Although I warn her about lung cancer, emphysema and coronary heart attacks, she ignores what I say.

"Our family doctor thought maybe she has a hyperthyroid case, but her basal metabolic rate proved to be within the normal range.

"So what else can I do to relax her and try to break her of this cigarette habit?"

As a basic rule, you can look upon female cigarette addicts as like victims of sexual frustration.

For whenever anybody, adult or child, has been stimulated but not given a complete outlet for such excessive nervous energy, the inner tension generates a subconscious desire for muscular action.

That's why jittery kiddies, cooped up in city apartments where they can't run or romp or swim or play ball, finally bite their fingernails or wrestle or fight.

Cigarettes offer a sexually frustrated wife a chance to wave her hand and arm in graceful gestures as she sucks on her cigarette.

4 Arrested In Drug Plot

MERRITT ISLAND, Fla. (AP)—Four persons have been charged with conspiracy to sell cocaine after federal and Brevard County officers seized slightly more than a pound of the drug, says a spokesman for the Drug Enforcement Administration.

Phillip Claville, 27, of Merritt Island, and Robert Roe, 24, of Indian Harbor, were arrested Wednesday at a motel after they delivered the first order. The taxpayers are committed to pay $10 million for 501 trucks and the cost could go as high as $23 million.

The Army, in a two-page defense of the gook-ridden vehicle, said the Vietnam experience indicated automatic transmissions were cost effective. The early re-ordering was done, therefore to save money.

The tests, said the Army, were "successful." The truck was "rugged" and its defects were "more apparent than real." As for the tires, a 90-minute break was standard for such dumpers, said the Army. "The tire cooling when placed in perspective is no problem."

FLORIDA Tampa Judge Gets Gurney Trial

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The trial of Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., and six others charged with federal housing contracts will be heard by U.S. District Judge Ben Krentzman of Tampa.

The designation of Krentzman was contained in an order received Thursday from George C. Young of Orlando, chief judge of the Florida Middle District.

Krentzman took over for Judge Charles R. Scott, who was transferred to Jacksonville.

Young's order did not indicate if the trial will be moved to Jacksonville but there are several motions pending for a change of venue. Krentzman will decide on these and others, including motions for dismissal.

Charged with Gurney are former Florida Republican party chairman Earl M. Crittenden and former state party treasurer Joseph J. Gurney of Orlando; two former Gurney administrative aides, James L. Groot of Washington and Joseph Bastien of Winter Park; and former officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Dickinson Aide Asks Trial Delay

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A federal judge has reserved ruling on a defense motion to postpone the perjury trial of Mammie B. Mitchell, long-time private secretary of state Comptroller Fred O. "Bud" Dickinson.

Krentzman denied Thursday a series of other motions by defense attorneys Anthony LaPorte of Tampa and Walter Arnold Jackson of Orlando.

The trial is set for Oct. 14. Mrs. Mitchell's indictment detailed three counts of alleged perjury involving her testimony last May about the ownership of $100,000 worth of stock in the North Avenue National Bank of West Palm Beach and about a February note of $100,000 to Dickinson.

The defense also wants to have the trial moved from Tampa because of pretrial news coverage on the case and the perjury trial of Frederick C. Prior, a former Dickinson law partner.

Prior was convicted this week.

The Church... THE HOPE OF OUR COMMUNITY,

OUR NATION!

Too many pressing responsibilities in the Lord's work. The congregation couldn't afford to have its church painted. But painted it was!

That was a glorious Saturday—no picnic or ball games, just hours of hard work. And what with the paint supplied at cost by a local dealer, and the brushes loaned by the very painter who might have hoped for the contract—nobody made a nickel!

But the remarkable thing is that nobody in town thought of this remarkable... You know Christianity has had a deep influence on the life of a community when we begin to take for granted the zeal and sacrifice of Christian neighbors. The next step is to add our strength and faith to theirs in the worship and work of the Church.

Pastor's Corner

By WILLIAM ENNIS
This Friday I would like to... The Gospels are much more than history. The gospel shows, for example, what is happening NOW and what will continue to happen to the end of time. The gospel of Jesus Christ is a light which directs our own life and every other life as well. It enables you to see that for you the WORD (Christ) was made flesh and still dwells among us. Simply put, the gospels reveal how God acts toward us and how we act toward Him; how He treats us and how we treat Him (or sometimes mistreat Him). The gospels foretell, and even denote, just open them and see for yourselves—see yourself. Learn how you are spending your time, "Forgive them for they know not what they do..."

Notice: everyone touched Christ. Everyone justifiably against Him. But only ONE touched Him with respect—with faith—with love. SHE was transformed, healed and made whole. And so if we read the gospels as you would read an ordinary book—without reverence, without faith—then it is for no ordinary book. It will have no effect on your spiritual life. No grace will come to you. Let us pray that we learn to treat the Bible—the Gospels—as a sacred book—a communication from God. Let each one of us read the gospels with faith, respect, and love, realizing, as Peter has told us, that Christ has the words of eternal life. (John 6:68)

Recall the episode of the sick woman who wanted to get near Christ in the crowd. "If I but touch the fringe of his cloak, I shall be cured." (Matt. 9:20-22) The crowd was packed so densely around Him that approach was impossible. Then suddenly there was a backward movement in the crowd and she found herself being able to touch Christ. Immediately, the gospel tells us, she felt a great sense of health and well-being. She was cured. At the same moment Christ demanded, "Who touched me?" His Apostles, realists as always, replied "How do we know? Everyone is touching you—we are so jostled by the crowd. If only they would keep at a little distance..." (Luke 8:43-48)

Korean Lepers Surprise Touring Baptist Pastor

Recently returned from a two-week preaching tour in South Korea, including several days bringing the gospel message to the inmates of a leper colony, is the Rev. Jimmy Johnson of Prairie Lake Baptist Church. When Billy Graham visited Korea earlier this year, he said at the end of his successful tour he hoped more American preachers would return to the country to continue the work he had started. It was in response to this remark Rev. Johnson and a group of preachers, mainly from the southeastern states, flew to Korea in late August. "It was a great experience spiritually, but it was also educationally enlightening for me to learn first hand about life in a foreign country," said Rev. Johnson, who had never traveled across the U.S. border before. He said his group met with wonderful response from the Korean people wherever they preached, and that they were received royally by Korean officials. Rev. Johnson's visit to the leper colony came as a surprise, both to him and to the Korean party who assigned him to the lepers' church. "To them, it was just another church; they

Suspenseful Drama Is Film For Families

"Time to Run," a full length feature film in Eastmancolor by World Wide Pictures, is scheduled to run at the Plaza Theater in Sanford Plaza, Oct. 4-10. "They were obviously waiting for me to make the first move, so I went right ahead and started shaking hands. That broke the ice, and I had a most worthwhile visit." The church in the colony was started by two Presbyterian missionaries, according to Rev. Johnson. He said attendance at every meeting was tremendous — 800 to 1,000 persons each time. "I didn't realize it was in a leper colony," explained Rev. Johnson. Upon arriving in the colony, he and his Korean interpreter were dumfounded and unsure how to react. DEAR ABBY Suitor Warned Of Eating Prunes

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am dating a very interesting widow. She is highly talented and artistic. We are both in our 60's.

Last winter, she hit on the idea of drying olive pits, drying their exotic colors and stringing them together to wear around her neck. A neighbor drilled holes in them for her.

She fed me olives by the pound just to get the pits. Then she got the bright idea to do the same thing with avocado seeds, and now I don't care if I ever see another avocado as long as I live.

What do you think of this idea?

GENTLEMAN FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: It's novel. But if she decides to make a necklace of prune pits—that's where I'd draw the line.

DEAR ABBY: I need your advice. My husband disappeared 11 years ago. I have tried to find him but I can't. All I want is for him to sign some divorce papers so I can be free to marry again.

I went to a lawyer a few years back, and he said my husband would have to sign some papers before I can get a divorce, but I would like for someone to tell me how can I get a man to sign something if I can't find the man? He has completely vanished.

Time is running out. There must be some way out of this bind. It doesn't seem right that I must stay married to a man I haven't seen in 11 years and may never see again. Maybe he isn't even living.

Please, please help me.

MARRIED WITH NO HUSBAND

DEAR MARRIED: You don't say which state you're living in. Laws differ in different states, and laws are constantly changing. See another lawyer. The law surely must provide for a way out of this bind.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend, Mike, walked me home from school the other day. I knew that my older brother was home because I saw his bike, but I invited Mike in, anyway. I know Mike well enough to have invited him into my bedroom. We were partially lying down on the bed—not all the way, and we weren't doing anything wrong. Unless you consider kissing wrong.

Well, my brother walked in on us and I know he thought we were doing something other than just that.

I don't want my brother to think I'm a cheap tramp because I'm not, but how can I convince him? And if he tells my parents, what should I tell them?

I've never gone all the way with a boy, and I don't plan to until I'm married.

How can I convince my brother that we weren't doing anything wrong? I am 15.

INNOCENT

DEAR INNOCENT: If you walked into your brother's bedroom and found him and his girlfriend on his bed kissing, what would you think? The Bible tells us to avoid the appearance of evil. That's good advice. Keep your boyfriend out of your bedroom and if you're questioned by your parents—tell the truth and hope they buy it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 4970, L.A., Calif. 90009. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

POLLY'S POINTERS Yellowing Plastic Makes Her 'Red'

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I wonder if anybody knows how to whiten plastic containers (such as sold at home parties) that have turned yellow and now have sticky interiors. —MRS.R.P.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the makers of women's panties and things that are to be frozen but must be separated for cooking. Stack and wrap them in waxed paper and you can easily remove as many or as few as needed.

I sprinkle talcum powder on my mattress before putting on a clean bottom sheet and also inside the pillowcases just after fresh ones are put on. This gives the bed such a clean, fresh and luxurious feeling for sleeping. —AGNES

DEAR POLLY — Barbara will have no more trouble threading a needle with polyester thread if she will cut the thread on an angle instead of biting, tearing or cutting it straight across. When cut on a slant it threads easily.

I make small pillow covers from my old sheets and use them as extra protection for my pillows. They go on under the regular pillowcases. —MRS.E.S.

DEAR POLLY — If several of the many keys on your key ring look somewhat alike, mark the grooves in the top of the keys with different color felt-tipped pens so they are easy to identify. —MARGARET

DEAR POLLY — When in doubt about what to give new parents as a baby shower gift use typing paper to make a book of "checks" made out in different amounts (50 cents to $5) and redeem them for baby-sitting services. —LEWIS

DEAR POLLY — When washing wood-paneled walls I save money by doing the job with about two cups of vinegar added to each gallon of warm water. Dip rag or sponge in warm solution, wipe. You'll find it cuts dust, dirt and, best of all, grease. This also leaves a nice bright shine. —MISS R.J.B.

DEAR GIRLS — I have done this in the past and most successfully but do test a small inconspicuous spot first. Different woods and different finishes may make a difference in the results. —POLLY

Submerged Scale Tells If 'Overfat'

By SUSAN FORREST
The Herald Services

The height-weight chart says you're fat?

What does it know!

You're 5 feet 4 inches and a solid 130 pounds of muscle. Can you wrestle two kids down at nap time and haul a sinking canoe from the lake singlehanded?

Well, there's another height-weight authority that may agree with you and banish guilt about second helpings.

Some students at the University of California at Davis weigh in a tank of water, then use a computer to determine how much fat and how much lean.

The word "overfat" is used around devotees of the method. They say overfat instead.

Charts told one overweight woman she needed to weigh 125. But the computer said she was solid. Down to 155 she would be as lean as could be.

Body density determination is relatively new and used only where there is a computer, physical education departments at UC-Davis and Sacramento (Calif.) State University, for example.

Weighing underwater to figure fat is based on the fact fat floats—oil to the top of vinegar in salad dressing, cream to the top of milk.

The more you float in the metal chair attached to fish scales in the tank, the fatter. "Picture a swimming pool full of skinny 10-year-olds. They can hardly keep their heads above water," said Julie Speaker, teacher of a class using the system for weigh-in.

"Then along floats a chubby having no problems."

But the formula is not so easy as standing on a scale reading between the big toes.

First students weigh dry on a doctor's scale. Then they sit suspended from a scale in the chair with heads completely under water and bubble out all their air. An automatic nitrogen analyzer weighs the air left in the lungs.

Those numbers go into a computer that hums and blinks until it comes out with a figure for how much lean body weight there is—blood, muscle, bones and hair.

Then they add some fat so it won't be all skin and bones. Women get about 23 per cent, men 15. The extra fat for women accounts for curves men don't have.

Young girls need about 21 per cent, women over 65 need about 27, said Miss Speaker. Fat for men ranges 11 to 17 per cent. The least fat they've seen is 4 per cent on male long distance runners, she said.

A 12-year-old girl she put through body weight determination arrived with a mother insisting she was fat. The computer pronounced her all right with only 19 per cent fat.

On the other hand, an older man who weighed the same for years found he was overfat 10 pounds because lack of activity replaced some muscle with fat.

Blazers Tommy Reamon, 21, displays running skills against the Chicago Fire

Leroy Kelly, 44, makes one of many moves against victorious Blazers.

Forget Last Night, Pirates Come Back

NEW YORK (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates were shot, mentally and physically. They had lost a gut-busting game in St. Louis Wednesday night, but the Cardinals scoring four runs in the bottom of the 11th inning for a 13-2 victory.

Now it was Thursday morning—5 a.m. EDT, to be exact—and the Pirates were just getting into New York, a second-place team again. They trailed the front-running Cardinals by one-half game in the National League East.

And they were coming to Shea Stadium, scene of a series of nightmares last year when they had folded and helped the Mets win the title.

But Manager Danny Mur-laugh put the whole matter into perspective in about 10 seconds, just before the Pirates went to sleep in the pre-dawn hours.

"Forget last night... forget last night," he told them. "Just think about tonight."

And on Thursday night, the Mets, thanks mainly to Al Oliver and Willie Stargell, got the Pirates crushed for four runs. Singles by Rennie Stennett, Manny Sanguillen and Oliver scored one run, Stargell belted his homer into the right-field seats.

Thursday night's AL results: Oakland 2, Minnesota 1; Chicago 5-7, Texas 1-2; Boston 5, Tigers 3, 10 innings; and Royals 10, Angels 1.

Blazers Use Offense, To Put Out Fire 29-0

By PETER ROGERS
Herald Sports Editor

ORLANDO — Adversity either pulls a team together or could have the opposite effect, especially with the speculation of moving its home games.

The Florida Blazers faced such a possibility this week, with the talk of playing its final two home games, not in the Tangerine Bowl but either in Atlanta or Tampa, along with the players not being paid last week.

With this in mind, the Blazers merely had one of their better concentration practices this week, according to coach Jack Pardee. The result spelled disaster for the visiting Chicago Fire as the Blazers, 9-4, thoroughly dominated not only the statistics but the score with a 29-0 victory before 16,679 enthusiastic fans at the Tangerine Bowl, Thursday.

"We got stronger through all this, the team really pulled together," said Pardee, "this has to be the best overall game of the year."

Pardee emphasized the balance between the offense and defense, "for once it's equal."

The defense allowed the Fire, the number one passing team in the NFL, to a mere 131 yards with 11 of 36.

The total yardage was only 230, even with former NFL great Leroy Kelly picking up some long gains.

Pardee as well as several of the defensive players agreed that Kelly is still one of the best runners in football.

Chicago head coach Jim Spavital may have made a vital mistake in his strategy by playing a five man line against the Blazers' cross for their running attack.

But Pardee crossed the Fire up by ordering quarterback Bob Davis to step up on the passing attack especially with the return of wide receiver Hubie Bryant.

The former NFL backup to Joe Namath, started his aerial tactics early by coming out throwing in the first series of downs, resulting in a touchdown pass to Hubie Bryant with 11:18 left in the first quarter.

Bryant, who's coming off an injury tallied his first touchdown with the pass in the end zone.

With the return of the speedster, the Blazers have put in special plays to utilize Bryant's speed.

The former New England Patriot feels the caliber of play in the NFL isn't equal to the Blazers' level.

L. Howell's First Is The Sweetest

By LEE GEIGER
Herald Correspondent

Lake Howell's Silver Hawks first win ever, a 12-7 decision over the Sandcrabs of Daytona Beach, was far from an artistic success, but as Head Coach Tom Ruby said after the final gun sounded, "We'll take it."

In all, it was a very sloppy played game between the newly formed Silver Hawks and the J.V. squad from Florida's east coast.

Daytona fumbled the ball six times and filled the air all evening with poorly thrown kneeballs that go into the ledger as forward passes.

The locals proved to be more sundered than Sandcrabs as they only fumbled once unless you count the number of passes that slipped through their clutching fingers. On both offense and defense the Silver Hawks failed to hold onto balls that hit them right in their numbers.

Despite the lack of an effective passing game, that saw quarterback Jim Pritchard complete but four of 12 attempts, it was the aerial route that gave Lake Howell both its TD's.

With 3:34 left in the opening period Pritchard hit Steve Foster in the end zone to put the home team on top 6-0. The play covered a scant seven yards but Foster was all alone when he gathered in the spiral.

After a penalty on Daytona moved the ball to the 1 yard line Pritchard attempted another tool in it for the tying six pass but this one fell incomplete and the try for the two point play went by the boards.

The second period belonged to Alan Thomas and the Sandcrabs as the 19 pound scabbar ran over, through and around the Silver Hawks for an unbelievable 113 yards on just eight carries.

The hard-core believe thing was not that a back could gain over 100 yards in a single period, it was that his team took him out whenever they got inside the 10 yard line or when he was in, didn't use him.

Thomas' speed and moves were so great that Lake Howell simply could not bring him down at the line of scrimmage. Time after time the back would break arm tackles for gains for 10, 20, 26, 36, and 23 yards.

The 25 yard run took the Sandcrabs down inside the eight and gave them first and goal to go at the 6:00 mark. But an incomplete pass coupled with a couple of quarterback keepers and a fullback plunge turned the ball over to Lake Howell with the count still standing at 6-0.

Lake Howell was forced to cut the ball away and Mr. Thomas ate up the acreage again with his electrifying running and once again Sandcrabs was inside the 10 with a first down.

This time Steve Hamerick was able to burst over from the five on third down. It appeared that Hamerick was stopped at the three but the referee took his time blowing the play dead and the hard driving sophomore moved it in for the tying six pointer.

Maybe that's pushing things a bit, but don't try to tell that to the Silver Hawks.

The Oakland Athletics moved to within the pop of a champagne bottle cork of their fourth straight division title Thursday night with a 9-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

The A's clinched at least a tie for the American League West Division title, Thursday's victory coupled with Chicago's 9-4, 7-2 doubleheader triumph over Texas took care of that.

Oakland now leads the Rangers by six games. The A's would have to lose their last five games and Texas win their last seven in order to force a playoff for the division championship.

The champagne is on order for tonight's game.

Elsewhere, Boston beat Detroit 5-1 in 18 innings and Kansas City swamped California 10-0.

Cathal Hunter hurled a seven-inning shutout for Oakland to notch his 25th victory, the most for an American League pitcher since Mickey Lolich won 25 for Detroit in 1971. Hunter, who last 12, struck out seven batters and didn't walk a man.

Oakland picked up its first run off loser Dave Goltz in the first inning when rookie Claude Washington singled with two out, stole second and scored on Sal Bando's single. The final A's run came in the fourth. Joe Hudi singled and drove all the way home when Minnesota third baseman Eric Soderholm threw Gene Tenace's ground ball into right field.

Hunter lost his shutout when Bobby Darwin homered with one out in the ninth.

Lyman, Lake Brantley In Big One

With the Seminole County football season only one week old, two teams already appear as above average in talent.

The Oviedo Lions with their win over Seminole and Lake Brantley with its win over Apopka appear to be the strong teams in the county.

Both teams get a test tonight, as Oviedo entertains Rockledge and Lake Brantley travels to Lyman to renew its rivalry with the Longwood school.

ROCKLEDGE AT OVIEDO

The visitors finished at 2-4 last season, and will be playing their only Seminole County opponent in Oviedo.

The Lions under Bill Klein, who's in his first year, already have that one big victory under his belt with the opening 13-8 defeat over Seminole last week.

With tailback Glenn Patterson and quarterback Lee Ward heading the offense, the Lions should be hard to stop, as Patterson will present a problem to every defense he faces this year.

The defense, which allowed Seminole only 116 yards in strong at the linebacking spots, with Ted Homer and Jim Stamps stationed at those spots.

LAKE BRANTLEY AT LYMAN

This rivalry matches the Patriots of Lake Brantley who accumulated over 400 yards last week against Apopka and the Greyhounds of Lyman, who gave up over 400 yards to Colonial.

The Greyhounds had problems with their line play as they allowed Colonial 210 yards rushing, while gaining only 158 themselves.

With its 43-20 defeat to Colonial, the Greyhounds are bidding to reach the 500 mark against Lake Brantley.

As for the Patriots, last week's big win over Apopka proved to the predictors that Bill Duty's club is for real.

Groomed as one of the better Class AAA teams in the state before the season, the Patriots are proving their supporters right.

With 169 yards rushing and 251 through the air, the Patriots proved their balance even with their two quarterbacks Henry Stanley and Dan Angulli sharing the duties.

Allen Poses As DeMille

By JAMES BACON The Herald Staff

Irwin Allen, who is doing for catastrophe what Cecil B. DeMille did for the Bible, is probably the town's logical successor to C.B.

I have spent a couple nights deep in the heart of downtown Los Angeles with Irwin as he both produces and directs the action sequences in "The Towering Inferno."

It's amazing how similar his operation is to DeMille's although they barely knew each other, if at all. And Allen never was around the same studio with DeMille.

But I am a common denominator for both.

Both Allen and DeMille love and love directing huge crowds in intricate and complex scenes with many cameras.

An Allen scene, like a DeMille scene, is more like a battle plan for World War II than moviemaking. It's planned down to the most minute detail.

DeMille directed every scene in his movies, seldom assigning even second unit work. Allen loves the complex scene so much that he concentrates wholly on directing the big action. The intimate interiors he assigns to a co-director.

In the case of "The Towering Inferno," this task goes to Director John Guillermin, whom Allen, at his own expense, gives all the production credit. Allen takes only producer credit.

The joy of commanding a movie army—and that's what it is—is reward enough for Allen.

"I try to make it look hard," he says, "but it's really very easy. You have to make your co-workers think it's hard else they lose respect for you."

DeMille, in slightly different words, once told me the same thing.

It's a trait of well-disciplined people who are well organized in every thing they do.

Most superproductions such as "The Towering Inferno" look like chaos in motion to the onlooker. And you marvel how the producer and director can remain so calm in the midst of all that's going on.

It's simple the way Allen does it. He comes to school with his homework prepared.

Every scene, every camera angle in the whole movie was

Money Market Fund Glowing

NEW YORK (AP) — Times denly thrust it into the spotlight. In this market, big banks, banks and the government issue and trade interest-bearing securities that resemble bonds, except that they mature in a few days, weeks or months instead of 30 or 30 or 40 years.

A traditional bar to small investors wanting to invest in these vehicles — Treasury bills, bank certificates of deposit, commercial paper issued by industry, and the like — has been the large minimum amount of capital required.

Treasury bills, for instance, generally require a minimum of $10,000, although one issue this summer was offered in $1,000 units. Certificates of deposit ordinarily start at $10,000.

What the funds do, of course, is to pool the money of investors, and thus they can offer access to the short term money market for starting minimum investments ranging from $5,000 to as little as $100 in a couple of cases.

People in the industry acknowledge the popularity of the money market funds almost certainly will fade quickly should interest rates come down to any significant extent.

Lower interest rates might well be accompanied by a better stock market, however. The question then for the fund industry would be whether it could attract once-burned-investors back into common-double-digit interest rates.

GM Boss Out Next Week

PROMOTED
Kenneth D. Burks, son of Mrs. Mickl Burks of Altamonte Springs, was promoted to Marine Private First Class while serving as a tank crewman with the Second Division at Camp Lejeune.

DETROIT (AP) — A mous-tached engineer who has helped Richard L. Terrell, 55, also an General Motors design and sell automobiles since he was 18 is the odds-on favorite to become president of the world's largest automaker next week.

On Monday, when members of GM's board of directors emerge from a special session in New York, auto observers are betting that Executive Vice President Elliott M. "Pat" Cole, 58, will be the man named to succeed retiring Edward Cole.

Estes' closest competition for the presidency comes from Richard L. Terrell, 55, also an executive vice president, who has been with GM for 37 years. At that same meeting, the directors may name a new chairman to succeed Richard C. Mather, 62, who is stepping down as a vice president he was catapulted over several higher-ranking officers to the vice chairmanship, a post previously occupied by Gerstenberg.

Terrell, by contrast, rose through the nonautomotive ranks in GM's Electro-Motive and Frigidaire divisions.

GM's third executive vice president, Oscar A. Lundin, one of the firm's top financial officers, is considered an outside shot for the presidency, principally because of his age. Lundin turns 64 in November, and that would be forced to retire in 14 months.

Murphy, now 58, became chairman-beat in 1972, when as a vice president he was catapulted over several higher-ranking officers to the vice chairmanship, a post previously occupied by Gerstenberg.

But trying to call the succession sweepstakes at GM is a risky business.

Arab Cowboys? Believe It Or Not

ADAROUCH, Morocco (AP) — The rolling, grass-covered hills look like Texas cattle country. But the 200,000-acre ranches, and at sundown many of them kneel down in the direction of Mecca to recite their prayers.

Morocco's King Ranch, was started as an offshoot of the great Texas ranch in 1971. It was an experiment to save the local breed of cattle from extinction and has proved a spectacular success.

Moroccan businessmen are so impressed that they are investing their money to establish new ranches on 125,000 acres of neglected pastureland in other parts of Morocco.

Small local farmers, who viewed the experiment with distrust and skepticism at first, now bring up their cows at dead of night to "steal" the precious seed of King Ranch's Santa Gertrudis bulls.

"When we flew in the first Santa Gertrudis bulls and cows from Texas and Argentina, the local farmers could hardly believe their eyes. They had never seen such big, healthy cattle."

Estrade's Moroccan ranch-hands own 155 miles of wire fencing surrounding the 30,000-acre ranch in jeeps and on horseback. In more than three years of operations, only seven animals have been lost to cattle rustlers, ranch spokesmen claim.

Adarouch is an Arabic word meaning coyote track. The uninhabited valley was a preserve of coyotes and foxes when "We suddenly find Santa Gertrudis strains all over the countryside," said Raoul Estrade, French manager of the Adarouch King Ranch which now has more than 10,000 cattle and has become by far the largest farming enterprise in North Africa.

"When we flew in the first Santa Gertrudis bulls and cows from Texas and Argentina, the local farmers could hardly believe their eyes. They had never seen such big, healthy cattle."

Estrade persuaded King Ranch owner Robert J. Kibberg Jr. of Texas that it was the ideal site for the Moroccan experiment. The French army used the area long ago as grazing land for its cavalry horses, and nomadic Moroccan herders came on occasional visits.

But the grass was sparse and dry, and the Moroccan cow was a feeble, disease-ridden caricature of their ancestors, introduced by Portuguese set-tlers in the 16th Century.

"The Moroccan breed of cattle has become degenerated as a result of inbreeding, disease and sheer hunger," Estrade said. "There is no doubt that, without outside help, the whole breed would soon become extinct."

The ultimate aim is to regenerate all of Morocco's estimated 20 million cattle with the new strain bred at Adarouch.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Miners Affect Election
LONDON (AP) — The coal miners whose strike last winter helped defeat the Conservatives in the February election now are making trouble for the Laborites with another general election only two weeks away.

Militant minersworkers stormed out of talks on Thursday on a proposal by the National Coal Board to pin a wage increase to an increase in productivity.

The militants scuffled with moderate union men, and afterward the leaders of the National Union of Mineworkers said they would seek further talks with the Coal Board before putting the offer to a vote of the 260,000 members.

This delaying tactic appeared to insure that Prime Minister Harold Wilson would not have to face the voters with a coal strike in the offing. But the miners' unrest, coupled with a 24-week-old wildcat strike at two Ford plants, gave the Conservatives new campaign ammunition against Wilson's policy of voluntary wage curbs.

When the Conservatives were in office last year, Prime Minister Edward Heath's answer to the problem of inflation-generating wage hikes was a compulsory ceiling on pay increases.

Terrorists Quit Group
BEIRUT, LEBANON (AP) — The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine pulled out of Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization on Thursday, accusing it of deliberately immersing itself "in the gutter of American-sponsored political settlement with Israel."

The Palestine Liberation Organization is an umbrella organization to which most of the guerrilla groups belong, and it claims to speak for the Palestinian movement. But a spokesman for the Popular Front said two other groups, the Popular Front-General Command and the Iraqi-backed Arab Liberation Front — may also withdraw from the Palestine Liberation Organization soon. He said the Popular Front would continue the armed struggle against Israel.

Press Ban Proposed
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Approval is expected soon of legislation virtually banning press reports of terrorism and providing heavy penalties for political dissent. The Senate approved the government bill on Thursday, and the Chamber of Deputies is expected to pass it soon. The government proposed the legislation to counter a growing wave of terrorism that has taken an average of one victim a day since President Isabel Peron succeeded her husband on July 1.

Agent Assault Charged
MIAMI (AP) — Two Broward County brothers face charges of assault on a federal officer after allegedly pointing guns at an undercover drug agent, according to the Drug Enforcement Administration.

Gordon Lee Wable, 27, and his brother David, 24, both of Davie, were being held under $100,000 bond Thursday in the Dade County Jail in Miami, a spokesman said.

The brothers allegedly pointed a pistol and a shotgun at the agent after he went to Gordon Wable's mobile home in an attempt to buy marijuana. Agents who had been watching the home rushed in and arrested the pair.

No shots were fired, the spokesman said.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, September 28, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day brings confusion and it is difficult to brew a straight path to your aims, so be cautious. Later a new opportunity develops to put into action that plan that was difficult for you to do anything about. Make influential new allies.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Get those ideas sold in a businesslike way to others and reap the benefits soon. Follow hunches. Dash around visiting tonight — have fun.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Enjoy persons whose sense of fun is similar to yours and be happy. Attend group meeting where you can get needed information.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Join forces with civic bigwigs and back them to gain support. Handle charitable matters wisely. Avoid an unfriendly person.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Some new interest puts more verve into your life and gives you greater future benefits. Those of different backgrounds are helpful.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Try to gain more favor from closest ties and be happier. Find a better way to handle all your monetary responsibilities. Social p.m.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Tread out difficulties with associates, then you get along just fine, increase production and profits. Avoid a telephone bore in p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Plan home improvements now. A fellow worker can give fine advice where some serious matter is concerned. Avoid getting into trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Get rid of any small irritations before you go out for a good time with congenials. Take mate along. Stay within your budget at fun places.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Plan in a.m. how to have more harmony and prosperity at home, then start operating in such directions by early p.m. Entertain.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Help your friends with their ideas, then they do you favors. Get into group and their activities that appeal to you. Be happy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Mend your financial fences now before it is too late and get an extra feeling of prosperity. Be practical. Some bigwig can help.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): The a.m. can start out slow because you are tired, but after lunch you can go great guns at whatever is most important. Enjoy fun in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: He or she should have a good education since there is a most inquiring mind here that needs to be fed properly in order to become the big success this chart indicates. A great force for good here, provided religious training is given early and morals and ethics taught. A born priest, rabbi, minister in this horoscope, or a great lecturer, psychologist, psychiatrist. Sports are a must.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Lake Mary Annex Not Settled Yet

By SEAN CODE Herald Staff Writer

The issue of the annexation of 205 acres of land southwest of Lake Mary for an industrial park is far from decided while it is true that council has instructed City Attorney Thomas Freeman to draw up an ordinance annexing and rezoning the property, the entire matter must still clear two hurdles—the possibility of annexing now and rezoning later and the threat of possible legal action by those who oppose the action.

Freeman told the Herald that council has instructed City Attorney Thomas Freeman to draw up an ordinance annexing and rezoning the property, the entire matter must still clear two hurdles—the possibility of annexing now and rezoning later and the threat of possible legal action by those who oppose the action.

At previous meetings, Farr asserted the utilities would be available from either of two neighboring developments, Greenbelt and Heathrow; buffer zones would remain unchanged from the designated 200 feet; previous land use plans, specifying the tract for low density housing for the park will be forthcoming.

Funding Woes Plague Drug Action Group

By BILL BELLEVILLE Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County's non-profit Drug Action Committee is living up to its name—much to its sorrow. The six year old program is generally regarded as a success in the field of educating youngsters and their parents to the dangers of drugs.

But being non-profit can be carried to extremes. And that's what's happening to the Drug Action Committee. In a word it needs money. The suspension program is funded by a federal grant of $35,000, but the Drug Action Committee must make its own way. They need money for salaries of the two full-time employees — an executive director and an administrative assistant — funds to pay rent and other overhead, and money for materials for the various programs, such as arts and crafts.

The Seminole County Board of Commissioners has contributed $30,000, and the Winter Springs council has allocated $500. Private parties in Longwood have donated another $500. And the committee is still in the process of approaching municipalities in the county to "beg" for money to support the program.

"I hate to use the word 'beg,'" administrative assistant Betty Bannick says, "but that's what it is." Betty and her husband, Tim, who is an unpaid volunteer, are scheduling appeals for funds on the agendas of Sanford, Longwood, Altamonte Springs, and Casselberry.

Some 41,802 Seminole citizens are qualified to vote in the 50 county precincts. A choice of our races is on the Democratic ballot. Only tiny precinct 7A in Chuluota will have a Republican ballot.

Anemic Turnout Expected On Tuesday Runoff Ballot

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

A "very low" turnout for Tuesday's second primary election is expected by Seminole Elections Supervisor Camilla Bruce. "We may have more people working the polls than voting," Bruce said, noting that the turnout probably will be nowhere near the poor 29 percent recorded in the September first primary.

On the Democratic ballot, those vying for nominations, are Bill Gunter and Richard Stone, United States Senator; Gordon Brown and Jo Ann Saunders, U.S. Representative, district 5 (the seat vacated by Gunter); Beverly F. Donier and Bruce A. Smalzer, secretary of state (the seat vacated by Stone); Fred O. (Bud) Dickinson (incumbent) and Gerald (Jerry) Lewis, state controller.

Two hundred eight-two poll workers have been appointed as well as sheriff's special deputies at each polling place. Polling places in Seminole are: 1. Church of God, 801 W. 22nd St., Sanford; 2. Wilson School, Paola; 3. Midway Fire Station; 4. Altamonte Springs City Hall; 5. Oviedo City Hall; 6. Geneva Community House; 7. and 7A, Chuluota Community House; 8. Slovak Gardens Community House; 9. Forest

Winter Park Man Charged In Kidnap

WINTER PARK, Fla. (AP) — An engineering consultant was arrested here in connection with the kidnaping of a Cincinnati broadcasting executive's 4-year-old daughter, the Orange County sheriff's office said today.

Officials said Clifford J. Kroger, a 38-year-old father of five, was arrested Friday night at his apartment near here by Cincinnati and Orange County detectives. Kroger is being held without bond. Kroger is accused of abducting Allison Mechem, daughter of Charles Mechem Jr., chairman of Taft Broadcasting Corp., earlier this week. The girl was released unharmed but no ransom was paid. Meanwhile in Cincinnati, Frank Wiechman, 26, remained in maximum security under $128,000 bond.
