Writer May Get Chance To 'Make It Big'

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hey, mom, look at me! I'm an actor! Or at least I will be if Hollywood doesn't cross me up.
 I have been waiting for Hedda Hopper to break this story, but apparently she hasn't gotten the word yet. So I will give it to you myself. Exclusive!
 One of the studios is considering me for a role in the forthcoming motion picture version of the stage version of the book version of "Advise and Consent." How about that, movie fans!
 Of course not all the details have been ironed out yet. I haven't had a screen test or anything like that. In fact, I don't know for sure whether the casting office has opened my letter yet.
 But I feel certain I'll get the part. Gee, I'm so excited my ears are perching.
 Perhaps I should mention for the benefit of any readers who may have been in a coma for the past couple of years that "Advise and Consent" was a best-selling novel about life here in Washington.
 Some of the scenes for the movie version will be filmed in the capital and the plans are to use real live newspapermen in the shots that need journalists in the background. And that's where I come in.

 A notice went up on the bulletin board in the Senate press gallery last week inviting reporters who might want to appear in the picture to send their names to the casting department. You may be sure that I responded with alacrity.
 As soon as I had mailed my application I went out and bought myself a trench coat. The coat is a little warm for this time of year, but I don't mind. A person never knows when he might bump into a talent scout.
 I also have already picked out my stage name. When you see the movie next year and the list of the cast appears on the screen, look for the name "Nails Larson." That'll be me.
 All I have to do now is decide which type of newspaperman I should portray. In the movies, as all cinema lovers know, there are two types.
 One is the type who goes out and solves the big murder cases while the cops are off following the wrong clues. The other is the type who wears his hat in the city room and is always yelling for someone to stop the presses.

 It has been a long time since I solved a murder case and I have never worn a hat, so I am under a bit of a handicap. But with a good director, I think I can overcome it.
 Another thing that might go against me is my appearance. I don't look much like a reporter. I look more like a linotype operator. This, however, is something the make-up department should be able to handle.

Betting Clamp Down Being Considered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman John L. McClellan of the Senate investigations subcommittee suggested today that Congress might consider making it illegal to sneak betting information from race tracks.
 McClellan made the proposal as his subcommittee prepared to begin its second week of hearings into organized gambling.
 The Arkansas Democrat said one bill designed to counter gambling was on the verge of becoming law. He said the Senate may act soon to stamp final congressional approval on a measure that would make interstate transmission of gambling information illegal.

 He said the ban is aimed at destroying horse race information services which specialize in flashing race track information to bookmakers and horse parlors across the country.
 And to follow this up, McClellan said, his subcommittee may propose a bill that would prevent "underground" operators at race tracks from transmitting information back to their home base.
 Other congressional news: Foreign Aid: A Senate-House conference committee began its second week of efforts to draft a compromise foreign aid bill. The conferees last week managed to reconcile some differences between the versions passed by the House and Senate. But they avoided taking up the key issue of long-term borrowing authority for the president. There were indications that the committee might begin work on the provision today.
 Contracts: Rep. Frank Kowalski, D-Conn., said the Defense Department was considering including a clause in future procurement contracts to prevent the government from assuming the portion of costs resulting from lawful strikes.

City Commission Okays Treatment Plant Report

The City Commission Monday night, despite protests from Mayor Joe Baker that they were forcing the vote, accepted the preliminary report for a primary Sewage treatment plant for Sanford.

The board agreed to submit federal forms requesting the allocation of funds to carry out the project and Laffler indicated that he would work on construction plans and specifications.

Laffler estimated that he could have plans and specifications completed 130 days "after we get the okay from the state."

Conferees be held with the fiscal agent and other officials on methods of financing the plant: That the plant, to service 40,000 persons, be accepted as the most economical and feasible for the "ultimate development of Sanford."

That construction of this plant be undertaken at the earliest possible date to provide these facilities for the benefit of the city.

The engineers also recommended that the city adopt a policy which will allow industry to discharge their waste to the municipal sewage system with proper charges for services and that ordinances be adopted to prohibit discharge of any material that would cause damage to the system or treatment processes.

According to the report the 30,000 population plant would cost $379,800 while the one recommended would be $447,300 and would be financed by a $250,000 revenue certificate bond issue.

Reds Kill Refugee Trying To Swim To West Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — West Berlin police said an East German refugee was shot and killed by Communist police today as he tried to swim to the West.

The unidentified man was the second refugee killed by the people's police since the border was closed Aug. 13. Last Thursday, a young man was shot as he tried to cross a sandbar in the Humboldt pool of the Berlin border.

Today's incident took place near the Lichterfelder Strasse in the Soviet zone when the refugee tried to swim the Teltow canal from East German territory.

The incident came as the Allies swung into a series of maneuvers to keep troops and equipment in top shape in event of an emer-

Shopping Center Drain Plan Gets OK

The County Commission today gave the green light for an overall drainage plan for the shopping center at Hwy. 17-92 at SR 436 after an attorney for the Eastern Shopping Centers Inc. told the board that unless some relief is given, the company was planning to abandon expanding the shopping center.

The board authorized County Engineer Carlton Bliss to attempt to get the right of way from adjacent property owners in the area.

The idea of expanding the site, Wells said. Wells said that Eastern Shopping Centers Inc. has also agreed to turn over a check to pay for the project if only the county would get the needed rights of way.

Work On Post Office To Start In 30 Days

Work on a new Sanford Post Office is expected to start in approximately 30 days, the Herald learned today.

The facility will be located between Sanford and Palmetto Aves. west of the Civic Center. It is expected to be three times the size of the present post office on W. First St.

Postal officials opened bids on the facility Monday afternoon with the apparent low bid turned in by Brown, Mason and McHugh, Inc., of Jacksonville.

Postal officials reported that 11 bids were received and the base bid could not be revealed until it could be studied by officials in Washington.

Brazil Congress Action Likely

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—Brazil's Congress appeared ready today to resist the military drive to exclude Vice President Joao Goulart from the presidency, even if the army padlocked it as a result.

At a joint session that continued until about 3 a. m. today, the national legislature took no action on acting President Ranieri Mazzilli's call for a constitutional amendment to keep Goulart from becoming president.

The most Congress would do, after hearing a succession of speeches denouncing the proposed amendment, was to appoint a committee to study Mazzilli's declaration that Goulart — now in Europe — should be kept out of Brazil "for reasons of national security."

Contract Awarded For School Milk Perfection Cooperative Dairies of Sanford got the nod from the County School Board today, with their low bid to supply the 22 Seminole County Schools with approximately 1,764,300 one-half pint cartons of milk.

The Perfection Company bid met the specifications of plastic-coated cartons, and state requirements of butterfat content with a bid of 37.

The local concern also assured the board that milk would be delivered fresh on a day-a-day basis with proper and convenient storage facilities.

Representatives of Foremost Dairies which was the closest competitor in the recent controversy over requirements of the school lunch room administrations, still contended today that they felt that an injustice had been done their company and that the bids were closed and restrictive, favoring the local company, which is the only one in Florida with the plastic coated containers.

R. T. Milwee, school superintendent, apologized to the Foremost representatives for the confusion and assured them that the school board did not favor one company over the other, but wished to comply with the request of the lunch room administration's demands for a leak-proof carton.

In other business the board, accepted low bids for school lunch room equipment, mainly for the new Hopper School.

The board adjourned for next week's school opening.

City Lukewarm To County Plan

City Commissioners Monday night, appeared "lukewarm" to a County Commission request for use of a portion of a storage building at Municipal Stadium to carry out a welfare food distribution program.

Earl Higginbotham was the strongest objector to the plan saying "I can't see giving away that $15,000 building. We have a definite need for that area."

The board tabled action on the request and agreed to suggest that either the Hopper Academy or, the canning-kitchen be used to carry out the federal program for distribution of federal donated surplus commodities to needy persons.

Commissioner Al Wilson and J. H. Crapps suggested some sort of reciprocal trade and Crapps asked that the board table action pending further study.

Mayor Raps Proposed County Road Policy

Mayor Joe Baker Monday night asked the City Commission to take a firm stand to tell the County Commission they are opposed to the county board spending road fund money by districts.

Baker said any disbursement of funds by districts leads to a misuse of county funds and "we should speak out."

Baker explained that "the taxpayers here kick in a quarter of a million dollars and get back about $20,000."

Baker said that at a recent County Commission meeting, the commission said they were considering spending the money by districts.

Nine Killed As Jet Hits Cable

CHAMONIX, France (UPI) — A French jet fighter plane sliced through the support cable of an aerial railway on the slopes of Mont Blanc today, sending at least nine persons plummeting to their deaths and leaving about 80 more suspended in terror over an icy gorge. Many others were injured.

The plane that cut through the cable in the freak accident was an FBF Thunderstreak. It suffered only superficial damage and managed to reach its base near Lyons.

Helicopters from a nearby base promptly flew to the scene, which is in the French Alps about 450 miles from Paris, in an effort to try to pluck the stranded tourists from the powerless cars swaying high above the glaciers and jagged rocks.

The County Commission today agreed to put into force a federal welfare distribution program and discussed the possibility of using the canning kitchen to house the operation.

The accident occurred on one of the lower stretches of the cable railway system which takes summer skiers up the 12,486-foot Aiguille du Midi, one of the needle-like peaks flanking 15,770-foot Mont Blanc, Europe's highest mountain.

Commissioner James P. Avery said it would take about four-six weeks before the commodities could be turned over to the county for distribution.

The stretch of cable which was severed spanned a glacier in a gorge known as the "White Valley." It carried a series of small cabin cars, each capable of holding four persons.

The board also agreed to put into operation allowing prisoners to work on County projects starting Oct. 1.

Two Negroes Enter Daytona School DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Pamela McMillan, 9, and Dietrich Golden, 12, Volusia County's first two Negro students to enter a white school, registered without incident Monday at Volusia Elementary School.

Launching Pad Bids To Be Opened JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers was due to open bids here today for construction of a second Saturn rocket launching complex at Cape Canaveral, expected to cost about $15 million.

The Army said the contract would be awarded to a single contractor rather than to several contractors for various phases of the work, as was done in awarding bids for the first Saturn complex.

100-year-old Dream For Sanford Near Reality

"The prime developer of the '100 Year Dream' of the Sanford-to-the-sea canal, now known as the Sanford-Canaveral Canal, is the opportunity opened up by the location of the Nova, man-on-the-moon project at Cape Canaveral," John Krider, president of the C. of C. told the Rotary Club Monday.

"Here is the need for the means of transportation to carry the tremendously heavy machinery and equipment needed for this space project," Krider said. This is the greatest chance we have ever had to see our dream become a reality, Krider told the Rotarians.

Krider read figures to show that transportation costs can be cut 32 to 45 percent by water routes. A standard barge will hold a 70 freight car load. Government authorities for the first time see the canal project as feasible, though it is still to be approved. During the last state legislature, the Florida lawmakers approved the project by a unanimous vote. The cost now is estimated to be close to $11 million, which Krider said was small in comparison to the benefits that would derive to the community and to the whole central Florida area. Krider told the Rotarians that Project Nova, the multi-billion dollar moon rocket project, with its attendant solid fuel supply project would have the greatest impact this area had ever known. Several companies who will supply the rocket-propellant fuel have looked over sites near Sanford, in consideration of finding the necessary 20,000 acres of land, with option on 8,000 to 10,000 more, but no decisions have been made. The companies are also investigating other areas in the state. "It is unbelievable what this Sanford-Canaveral Canal could accomplish in boosting this area," Krider said. During the talk, to illustrate the great economic value of water, Charlie Morrison, conducted one of his famous quizzes, giving away silver dollars to the Rotarians, who answered the questions correctly. President Phil Westgate announced that there will be no meeting of the Rotary next Monday, which is Labor Day.

Senate Leaders Plan New Battle To Extend Board

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate leaders planned another attempt to extend the Civil Rights Commission today, with chances of passage enhanced by a week of classroom negotiation. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he would bring up a pending appropriations bill again. It already carries a motion to suspend the rules and let the senators vote on the future of the controversial commission as an amendment to the money measure.

Mansfield made a similar attempt last week to secure passage of a two-year extension but abandoned the plan after two futile days.

He was thwarted when Northern liberals loaded the appropriation bill with a mass of civil rights amendments. In all, more than 30 amendments were offered by the civil rights advocates and others.

It was understood that the senators had informally agreed to hold off the civil rights amendments.

It takes a two-thirds vote to suspend the rules on an appropriation bill but only a simple majority on other measures.

The only amendments expected to be offered were bills to make the commission a permanent body or extend its term by four or six years. These amendments can be offered after a vote on suspension of the rules because they deal with the same subject.

Southern senators were expected to speak in opposition to extension of the commission but did not plan a filibuster. An earlier agreement, among the Southerners, called for a one-hour limit on each southern speech.

Ike's Collapse Last Year Now Revealed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower collapsed during his visit to Afghanistan last year but was revived by quick administration of oxygen brought along by a Secret Service agent, according to former Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman.

Baughman, writing in Look Magazine, said the agent's action "probably saved President Eisenhower from a serious — perhaps fatal — heart attack."

He said the incident, a well guarded secret, occurred after Eisenhower climbed up 24 steps during a ceremony in the Afghan capital city, Kabul. Kabul is 6,000 feet above sea level. Baughman said that agent Dick Flohr was responsible for the oxygen treatment. Baughman said Flohr brought the heavy oxygen equipment along on his own — "just in case." Otherwise, he said, the oxygen would have been in the President's plane, 70 miles away.

Other survivors are a grandson, William A. Ludwig, Sanford, her mother, Mrs. Frank Hausser, and one sister, Mrs. Marion Stickney, both of Cranford, N. J.

Funeral services are scheduled for 4 p. m. Thursday at the First Presbyterian Church, Sanford, with Rev. Grover C. Sewell Jr., officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

The family requests that flowers be omitted. Contributions may be made in Mrs. Ludwig's memory to the organ fund of the Presbyterian Church.

Jaycee Fishing Rodeo Slated Wednesday

Over 700 youngsters are expected to take part in the Jaycee 11th annual Fishing Rodeo which will be held at Lake Carola in Ft. Mellon Park from 2 to 4 p. m. Wednesday, according to Garnett White, president of the Jaycees.

The Jaycees have already put approximately 100 man hours into rigging cane poles and planning for the big crowd of children who will compete for prizes in three age groups, according to Arch Hosick, program chairman.

A $25 savings bond will be first prize in each of the three age categories. Other prizes will consist of cash and gift certificates donated by local merchants.

All children ages 1-14 in Seminole County are eligible to try their luck in the event. Children aged 1-5 must be escorted by an adult. Fishing poles with hooks, line and bait will be furnished by the Jaycees. No rod and reel fishing will be permitted.

Ice cream and cold drinks will be served to the hungry fishermen at the close of the contest. Dr. Tom Lergen will be on hand for the event to insure safety.

A WHIRLWIND TOUR of New York City for the Stempers of Sanford, resulted in lots of fun, lots of sight-seeing and a "wonderful time" as described by Mildred Stemper.

The family accompanied Dad, real estate dealer Bill Stemper, on a combined business-pleasure trip to the "Big City" recently, driving up in the car, while daughter Marti flew up earlier to visit a friend at West Point.

She was the guest of Mrs. Boerger while renewing an old friendship with Cadet David Beaumont, formerly of Sanford. Highlight of her visit was the Cadet dance which she attended with David, in the famous halls of the academy.

After reaching New York by car, her parents drove over to West Point to pick her up and the whole family commenced their fun-in-New York tour, the highlight, of course, being Mildred's appearance nation-wide on the television show, "The Price is Right" which was seen in Sanford by many of her friends and relatives.

"We were real tourists," said Mrs. Stemper, "for this was the first visit to N. Y. for Marti, Billy and I and we went to Chiatown, Greenwich Village, and took the traditional buggy ride through Central Park."

A most interesting trip was made to a boatnik hangout in the Village, where the inhabitants read poetry, dressed in their dirty clothes, dark glasses, and old sneakers, complete with beads and looking like the movie version of a beatnik for all the world.

At Jack Dempsey's restaurant, they saw the famous man himself and at Radio City they saw the famous Rockettes and heard the Shreveport Choir in a wonderful show.

One night, they went out to Coney Island and rode all the fabulous rides on the midway, thoroughly enjoying the special sights, sounds and smells of the famous old recreation park.

"We used boxes of band-aids on our poor feet," says Mrs. Stemper, "for we walked miles and miles." "We looked and looked and did a little shopping at Gimbels, Macy's, Saks Fifth Ave. and all the wonderful Fifth Ave. shops." "We were busy every minute," she said, "and we took subways everywhere."

"Once I was traveling by myself and got on an express subway instead of a local, I really got worried when I saw all those stops whizzing past!"

"The first time it stopped, I got right off and took the next train back!"

On Sunday, they visited the famous Marble Collegiate Church, where Dr. Norman Vincent Peale has been the minister for many years. Although Dr. Peale was not there, the sermon was preached by "the Dr. Peale of Australia," a Dr. Benson, who enjoys world-wide fame.

The trip was further highlighted with a stop for several days in Washington, D. C., for a tour of the sites, museums and buildings so rich in American history. "It really was a lovely trip," said Mildred, "Bill let me stop at all the antique shops!"

MRS. PIERRO AND CAROL

MRS. CAROLINA PIERRO and her granddaughter, Carol Lynn Farello have returned from an enjoyable three day cruise to Nassau. They boarded the S. S. Bahamas Star in Miami, which served as their hotel during the entire time.

When they arrived in Nassau they were met by a group of native boys who dived in the water to retrieve silver coins tossed to them by the passengers.

They toured all the local shops, especially the ones featuring china, silver and perfumes and bought hats and purses for members of their family at the famous Straw Market.

One of the most enjoyable sight-seeing trips was another cruise on a small boat in and around Paradise Beach. The boat was similar to the ones used at Silver Springs and through the glass bottoms passengers could see coral reefs and tropical fish in the crystal clear water. The sand in this part of the Atlantic is pure white.

They also took a tour (on land) in a horse and carriage to see many colorful local scenes. At her request the driver stopped long enough for Mrs. Piero to go inside the Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

To climax the three day events the captain gave a party aboard ship for all passengers, the night before departing for home. Mrs. Piero remarked that she enjoyed it so much she just might go again next year.

Daughter Honored At Birthday Party

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nielsen surprised their daughter, Louise, on her 19th birthday with a party at their home 101 Country Club Road.

Her mother told her that the next door neighbors were having a family reunion and she was helping them prepare the refreshments, so Louise thought nothing of Mrs. Nielsen's preparations for the party.

The guests assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Gailey and came in a group to the Nielsen home. Games were enjoyed during the evening and a wieners roast enjoyed. Served with the wieners were potato salad, slaw, baked beans, potato chips, various types of relishes, marshmallows, chocolate cake and cold drinks.

A large birthday cake decorated in pink and blue with "Happy Birthday Louise" on the top was presented to the honoree. The refreshments were all served on the lawn. During the evening guests enjoyed soft background music from the stereo.

Those attending were Tonya Winn, Karen Miller, Pat Winters, Linda Threatt, Margie Petty, Di-

More Thought

Seminole County economy got a boost in the arm during the last few days—the Nova project in Brevard means many fringe benefits for Seminole County.

There is also a very good possibility now for the Sanford-Indian River Canal as well as the county being considered as the site for the fuel plant for the Nova project.

We also hear of some industrial rumblings around the county and Sanford.

Any qualified day-dreamer can visualize the possibilities of our small county in the near future. For those citizens that are ready to "throw in the towel" it might prove invaluable to give this line of thinking—a little more thought.

We urge the City and County governing bodies to get behind the Chamber of Commerce as well as the newly formed development committee for an all out concerted effort in showing that Seminole County has eliminated all kinds of sectionalism and is working together for new industry and progress.

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

What's definite problem is common to millions of other women. And husbands also feel hesitant about trying to criticize their wives on these subjects that are very personal. Yet it is often necessary and for the victim's own good. So memorize this curative formula by which to criticize without losing the other person's good will.

CASE 3-400: Opal P., aged 23, is an attractive new bride.

"Dr. Crane," she began doubtfully, "I am in a dilemma. My husband is a wonderful man and I am crazy about him.

"But he has a personal fault that I have hesitated to mention. It is halitosis.

"After he has done a lot of talking it is especially pronounced. As a life insurance salesman, his work involves much speaking.

"So when he comes home on such a night, I notice his bad breath terribly, yet I am afraid to mention it lest I hurt his feelings.

"How is it possible to correct or criticize a person without incurring his ill will?"

The only surefire plan to solve this difficult situation is the "sandwich method."

Opal can thus build up her husband's ego with a sincere compliment as the first layer of the sandwich. She can praise his star salesmanship.

Then she can slip across the critical or "meaty" layer deftly by smiling and suggesting that he might even add to his topnotch record by using candy toothpaste.

She can diplomatically pass the buck to this column by saying that Dr. Crane has mentioned the dry throat and tendency to bad breath which follows long speaking or singing.

And that is quite true of preachers, salesmen, telephone operators and others who must talk a great deal, who often have temporary bad breath.

It is well to lead into the meaty middle layer of the sandwich by the smiling route and a casual "Honey, I wonder if it might not be better if, etc., etc."

To take away any possible lasting sting that may attach to the criticism, then build up his ego with a final big compliment.

Sometimes decayed teeth or decomposing food in tonal crypts will contaminate one's breath.

Onions, garlic, tobacco and liquor also give a very objectionable breath, though the guilty party is so accustomed to his own odor that he can't detect it.

This is doubly true of smokers, for the constant use of cigars seems partially to dull or paralyze the sense of smell. Smokers thus can't detect the finer aroma of good food.

And women who smoke often reek of excessive perfume since they no longer have a normal sense of smell.

Constipation also may contribute to bad breath for there is resorption of odoriferous substances from the bowel.

Surgeons and anesthetists will also exhale fumes of ether for as long as 24 to 36 hours after working at the operating table, though they don't realize this fact themselves.

Everybody wants to feel MORE important, so a criticism or correction deflates his ego and tends to produce anger, humiliation and a caustic retort.

"I welcome criticism," many people will blandly announce, but that's malarky. Emotionally they will dislike you if you criticize them, even for their own good.

But correction or criticism is often a necessity on the part of parents, teachers and employers, so employ the "sandwich method" and you can then put across your correction, yet retain the victim's good will!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 4 cent stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

VERONA, Italy — This is the city of bells, in a country of bells. Although not nearly so large, Verona out-rings Rome by a mile and, to judge by the ear, has ten times the number of bell-ringers working in Venice, Naples, or Milan.

Our hotel is in a forest of bells. Hard by on the right are the bells of San Anastasia, which have been ringing since 1290, and which show no signs of hoarseness or sore throat.

A block or two away, on Piazza Della Erbe, banging their iron tongues high in the Scaligero Gardello Tower as if determined to rouse the entire peninsula of Italy, are the most authoritative bells I have ever heard.

They don't summon — they command. As if to help them out in their job is the oldest clock in the city, striking the quarter-hour, the half, and the hour. It has been banging away since 1370, making it completely unnecessary for any citizen of Verona to wear a watch, or have a clock on the kitchen wall.

The bells of the clock don't strike at the same time as the church bells. They are either two minutes slow, or their rivals in the church towers are two minutes fast. Just when the churches have finished the hour, the quiet is settling over the city, the massive clock speaks as if to say: "Listen, here is the CORRECT time. Go by it and no other."

Add to these bells, the bells of the Post Office, the City Hall, the Piazza Del Signori, San Zeno, San Bernardino, Castelvecchio, San Nazario, San Giovanni in Valle, Castel S. Pietro, and scores of others, and you hear bells morning, noon, night, and in between.

No cluster of bells (if cluster is the word) sounds alike. The bells look as alike as identical twins, but each speaks in accents all its own.

After a few days, the visitor can identify the various bells, even when they are in full cry, like a pack of hounds on the trail.

At midnight, when they all begin to peal (and I like to picture dozens of night-shirted, bearded little bell-ringers, swinging up and down in the air), they awake you, but there is this comfort—everybody else in town is awake and listening too.

Last night I listened, and even though I have been here only a little while, I could pick out San Anastasia, which sounded as if it were right in the clothes closet of my room, the softer tones of San Zeno, half a mile away, the higher pitch of the Piazza Del Signori, and the exuberant bells of the Scaligero Gardello Tower.

In the darkness it wasn't hard to drift back into the Middle Ages, and into the Verona of Dante, the Della Scala, the Viscontis, and the conquering Venetians. And a look from the window, with the city shrouded in night, increased the feeling that the present had been ruled back.

Verona looks old, feels old, and gives the visitor an almost eerie feeling that he is out of date, not the city.

Q—My husband and I would like to buy a house, but his salary is only $83 a week. We'd like a $16,000 or $17,000 house, for which we could borrow $8,000 or $7,000 for a down payment from a relative. We have two children and no debts. What would be the monthly payments on the $10,000 mortgage? How much should we pay and extras cost? Can we afford this?—M.Y.

A—Dear M.Y.: Frankly, I would say you can't afford a house. Anyone who has not been able to save for a down payment should not think of buying a house. I'm against borrowing from relatives, even without knowing how close or how distant.

The price you mention is too high for your income, too. The classic rule is that you shouldn't buy a home costing more than 2½ times your annual take-home pay. This puts you in the $11,000-home bracket. My advice: forget house buying till you can save at least $2,500. Try not to buy anything more expensive than a $15,000 home.

Under the new ruling on mortgages issued by the FHA, you can get a $15,000 home for as little as a down payment of $150 and a 33-year mortgage with monthly payments of $81.81. But I think you would be better off with a larger down payment and a smaller monthly carrying cost. You'll need at least the $2,500 to pay for the closing costs on your home to prepay, as needed, taxes and insurance, to pay the movers and to start equipping this home.

Q—I'm over 63. I understand the insurance companies are writing health insurance policies to cover older retired people. How much do these policies cost and what do they cover?—M. M. B.

A—Dear M.M.B.: If you will write to Dept. II, The Health Insurance Institute, 188 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N. Y., requesting their brochure on Health Plans for Over 63's, you'll get all details in chart form. Brochure is free, but you'll find it best buys for your health insurance dollar.

Q—My husband and I are interested in establishing a trust fund for ourselves and daughter. Please send names of firms and foundations we could contact.—R.A.C.

A—Dear R.A.C.: There is only one person who can set up a trust fund for you and your family and that person is a lawyer. Trusts can be administered by anyone given the power, but most often are handled by banks.

There is excellent free literature available at most banks. If your bank has nothing available, ask them to check with the American Bankers' Assn.

Water Supply Cut In Jersey

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (UPI)—A 72-inch water main burst early today, cutting off the water supply to an estimated 150,000 residents. A state of emergency was declared.

Fire trucks were stationed at strategic spots throughout the stricken area to protect against the possibility of fire. About 25 trucks, some carrying 300 gallons of water, were alerted.

Two private hospitals, Christ Hospital and Greenville Hospital, were reported to be without water. The medical center was not affected.

Temperatures of birds range from 100 degrees Fahrenheit in the gull to 112 degrees in the swallow.

Peter Edson's

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA)—From the American viewpoint, the most intriguing aspect of the leftist party election victory in British Guiana, on the northeast coast of South America, is that its 45-year-old leader, Dennis Cheddi Jagan, got his political ideas as a college student in the United States.

Thousands of foreign students come to this country annually for higher education. Nearly all become completly sold on the ideas and ideals of democracy. Then they become leaders of their countries and help make them good friends of the United States.

In the case of Dr. Cheddi Jagan, however, it was a political philosophy which is at least socialist, at worst communistic or now Castroist. What went wrong?

The catch in the Cheddi Jagan case is that he fell in love with an American girl of pronounced leftist leanings. And it is probable that she is the real political brains as secretary of the vicerious People's Progressive party of Guiana, of which her husband is president.

Mrs. Cheddi Jagan, 40, was born Mary Janet Rosenberg in Chicago. Her father, who changed his name to Charles Roberts in 1942, says that his daughter got her progressive notions while a student at Wayne University in Detroit.

The name "Rosenberg" has falsely associated Janet and her father with Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, convicted Communist spies who were electrocuted in 1953.

But there is no direct relationship. Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were of Polish descent. Janet Rosenberg went to Romania in 1932 because, she said, her grand mother came from there.

Anyway, Charles Rosenberg, or Roberts, is a third-generation American. As a successful plumbing contractor in Los Angeles, he is obviously a capitalist.

When his daughter met Jagan, he was a dental student at Northwestern University. In 1940 he entered Howard University in Washington—not Harvard, as is sometimes reported.

He is of East Indian descent, his father having been brought to Guiana by the British as a contract laborer on a sugar plantation. Cheddi grew up with an awareness of poverty but graduated from Georgetown, Guiana, high school.

From Washington he went to Chicago dental school. On the side, he earned a degree in sociology at YWCA college. He met Janet when she was a dental assistant student nurse in Cook County hospital. They were married in 1943 and went back to Guiana. He opened his dental office and they both went into politics.

Both deny they are Communists and there is largely circumstantial evidence on the point. He was a subscriber to the U.S. Daily Worker. In 1934 the Sunday Worker reviewed his book, "Forbidden Freedom," which lambasted the U.S. State Department for influencing British policies on Guiana. She was a member of the Chicago Young Communist League. She was a delegate to the Third World Congress of the Women's International Democratic Federation in Copenhagen in 1953 and was elected to its presidium.

On her return to Guiana she called for organization of small party calls for recruiting, indoctrination and selling party literature. She became the local correspondent for the London Daily Worker. And she is editor of the People's Progressive party paper, "The Thunderer."

Jagan and his wife formed the PPP in 1953. She voted in the Guiana elections that year and lost her U. S. citizenship. The PPP won eight of 14 seats in the Legislative Council that year. Dr. Jagan became minister of agriculture, mines and forests and virtually ran the local government.

In the 1957 elections the PPP won further victories and Jagan became minister of industry. His wife became minister of health and welfare. In 1960 they went to London to demand commonwealth status for Guiana, failed, and came back to demand complete independence.

Last year Jagan and wife visited Cuba. They have both expressed admiration for Fidel Castro, with whose government they have made a trade agreement to supply Guiana rice.

Now, with their latest PPP election victory, independence is expected to be their first demand and the prospect of having the first Communist-oriented government of the South American mainland is a possibility.

Lunchroom Set To Get New Boss

Mrs. Lucille Fester, manager of the Pinescrest lunchroom for the past six years, will take over the management of the Seminole High School lunchroom this year and operate both services.

She will be assisted at the Pinescrest School by Mrs. Katherine White.

Mrs. Fester is past president of the Seminole County School Food Service Assn. and is presently state secretary of the State Food Service Assn. As such she serves on the executive board of the state organization and on the legislative committee.

Mrs. Fester's plans for the high school lunchroom next year include the offering of a selective plate lunch for 40 cents.

This will include meat, choice of two vegetables or salads, fresh hot rolls and butter, dessert and milk.

At the Sanford Junior High School, Mrs. Dorothy Bass will be the new manager, replacing Mrs. Margaret Knight, who has moved to another city.

Bryant Questions CD Lapse

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Gov. Farris Bryant said Thursday he has asked the federal government to explain why needed Civil Defense equipment has not been made available to Florida.

Bryant said he was also investigating a federal proposal to ship about four million bushels of wheat to Florida for storage. Florida would act as a distributing area in the event of a national emergency.

Bryant said although the state had been designated as a storage area, there were no facilities to store the raw wheat, or to mill it into flour.

Bryant, who is taking a 12-hour Civil Defense course in personal survival in case of atomic war, said the class has learned of equipment needed by citizens for protection from attack. But he said hardly any of the equipment was available.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Last round coming up?

DANNY THOMAS SAYS "POSITIVELY"

DEAR ABBY: Please don't give me one of your lectures about how hopeless it is to be in love with a married man because I am already too far gone. I am 24, and have loved this married man for two years. He is 38. I have experienced all the disappointments and heartaches a girl in my situation has to live through. But I still have hope that one day we will be together legally. I KNOW he loves me. He has promised me that if anything happens to his wife, I am next. I believe him. Do I make sense? WILLING TO WAIT

I get invited places, but I am always asked to come early and help set the table before the "company" comes. Or to stay and help clean up after the "company" leaves. I would like to be considered "company" myself once in a while. Should I be hurt, or should I be complimented? JUST MARY

DEAR MARY: You should be complimented. Anyone can be "company." But folks ask the help only of those with whom they are in complete harmony. I'd rather be considered a "friend" than "company" any time.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a boy I like very much, except for one little habit which drives me mad. Whenever we listen to his car radio (and it is always on), or when we are dancing, he constantly HUMS in a monotone. And I mean constantly! He sounds like an engine. I don't want to insult him, but how can I get him to stop it? "EDGY"

DEAR "EDGY": When HE hums—YOU hum. Only hum on key. Unless he is tone-deaf, he will yield the right-of-way. If he keeps humming anyway, learn to like it. Hummingbirds make good love-birds.

"The Danny Thomas Show," with the comedian and his TV "family" starts its 9th season on October 2—and there will be no 10th, says Danny. He insists he's giving up his weekly CBS-TV series after the 1961-62 season. He also expects to make an occasional TV appearance and perhaps make a movie.

We The Women:

By Ruth Millet

Want to do all in your power to keep from joining America's increasing number of widows?

Then be on the lookout for the time in life when your job as a homemaker becomes easy, yet your husband's job remains as hard as ever—perhaps, even harder than in his younger days because of increased responsibilities or because of diminishing physical strength.

The time when the man of the family is carrying a heavier load than his wife usually comes during the middle years, when all or most of the children are grown and gone from home.

That leaves the homemaker with an easy job and plenty of leisure time and the chance to do all that she can to make her husband's life easier.

She can do this in any number of ways. She can take over some of the extra jobs he assumed during the years when her work days were longer than his.

She can lighten her husband's financial load by taking a long hard look at their living expenses and figuring out ways to cut down on the monthly bills.

She can help her husband figure out a retirement plan so that he isn't nagged by worry about the time when he can no longer work. She can cut the pattern of their social life to suit her husband, realizing that since he is carrying the heavier load he probably needs more rest than she does.

She can encourage her husband to find some relaxing hobbies, whether she shares his particular outside interests or not.

She can—with fewer demands upon her time—devote herself to making a home in which her husband's wishes come first, and his welfare her main concern.

With conscious effort a wife can help ease her husband's load when hers becomes much lighter than his.

Jacoby On Bridge

The correct lead from a six card suit headed by king-queen-nine is the king. It doesn't always work, but this time it gives the defense its only chance to defeat the three no-trump contract.

If South is looking at all the cards, he can make the hand by playing low from dummy. But this play is strictly against the percentage. It works against this actual holding, but it costs South the hand any time West holds six, seven or eight hearts and the ace of clubs.

loses the hand if West holds six hearts and East the ace of clubs.

If West holds five hearts, the ace play wins if West holds the ace of clubs. No play wins if East holds the ace of clubs.

Also, even with the actual six-two break, the ace play may win. It won't against an alert East, but a careless East might forget to get rid of the 10 of hearts.

Then, when he gets in with the ace of clubs and leads the 10 of hearts, all South will have to do is play low and the 10 will block the suit.

Highlights

TV Key Previews

Tuesday's top television shows as previewed and selected by TV Key's staff of experts who attend rehearsals, watch screenings and analyze scripts in New York and Hollywood:

Alfred Hitchcock—"Oh, Youth and Beauty." (Repeat) Reasonably absorbing adaptation of John Cheever's penetrating character study of a man who runs hurdle races over living-room furniture to prove he hasn't lost his youth.

Before this is over, he's lost more than that. Gary Merrill is perfectly cast as the aging athlete and Patricia Breslin plays his wife. 8:30 p. m. (NBC).

Thriller—"A Good Imagination." (Repeat) Robert Bloch has written a whimsical murder story made highly palatable by the performance of Edward Andrews. He plays the jealous hook-dealer husband of a cheating wife, and one who doesn't mind disposing of her lovers as they come along. Being a literate chap, each of his crimes follows the pattern suggested by the plot of a famous book. Patricia Barry and Ed Nelson also star, but it's all Eddie Andrews. 9 p. m. (NBC).

Special For Women—"Change of Life." (A repeat) Some revealing over-all comments on that disturbing trend in a woman's life called the menopause make this dramatized study (with Sylvia Sidney) and discussion by psychiatrist Dr. Lena Levine worth while. Of particular interest is the emphasis on self-help instead of self-pity, coupled with a variety of facts toward achieving that goal. 10 p. m. (NBC).

Hopes For Fight

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former Olympic heavyweight titlist Pete Rademacher said today he is hoping to get a non-title fight with light heavyweight co-champion Archie Moore this winter.

Downes Fires Trainer

LONDON (UPI)—Terry Downes, holder of a share of the world's middleweight boxing championship, has fired his trainer Tom Ryder. No reasons were given for the dismissal.

Bigger, Better Films Win Viewers

(With charges that television has become a "vast wasteland," what is Hollywood doing about winning back its "lost audience"? Erskine Johnson asked film industry leaders for their views on the subject. Today's writer is Martin Rackin, executive in charge of production at Paramount Pictures.)

By MARTIN RACKIN
HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—"The glass nymphetmanic is dying!"

"The electronic abattoir is kaput!"

These are the phrases being bandied about amongst those in the know. Television isn't dead... it's just that the public has started to tire of it like last year's Christmas toy.

The average guy, plunked before his home movie screen, is losing interest in the constant rehash of shoot-'em-up junk and slug-fests of interest-free entertainment.

Sure, it was fun for a time. Sure, it was free and all those new easy-to-take home conveniences were there. It all lacked one thing—quality. Now, slowly, the public is becoming bleary-eyed from watching the same old program under a different title every half hour or hour.

Sam G. Public knows he has been had. He's been forced to swallow the same plot, the same actors, night after night and to top it all off he's been bludgeoned with smoking claims and underarm deodorants until he can't tell one program from the other.

Now he is tearing up on his mind legs and hacking his way out of the jungle of mediocrity back to something he can luxuriate in... motion pictures.

Every industry weathers a storm if it has any staying power, and the motion picture industry has just that. Hollywood is hardened and unvanquished.

This is not philosophy, it is fact. Movie attendance is up. More people are going to the theaters this year than last. The product is better.

Every company, not only the one that I work for, can point with pride to stories and bigger motion pictures, stories with greater content, comedies with better jokes, directors with newer ideas, bigger production budgets, more for your money.

This is the way that Hollywood has guided itself and met the challenge.

Now with peak installation of television sets in the home, a new entertainment giant looms on the horizon, one that is being fought by the television groups tooth and nail. Its name is pay-TV. Its advent is inevitable. The TV interests may agitate against it, demonstrate against it, even pass laws against it, but they never will succeed in making it unpopular with the public.

It is working successfully in Canada. The subscribers, people who normally cannot visit conventional theaters—shut-ins and the average fellow with a couple of young kids—who sit in the privacy of their own homes and watch first-run motion pictures at a fraction of the price they would pay at a theater are unanimous in their praise for it. They will never again, they swear, be without it.

Hollywood is ready for it—we are determined to see it come to pass. We know how the 6,000 customers in Canada feel about it. They love it! So will you!

South Seminole May Get Airport, Commission Told

Commissioner James P. Avery told the Board of County Commissioners Tuesday afternoon that there is a possibility South Seminole County will land a giant civilian jet air base if the board agrees to extend Bear Lake Rd. into Lake County.

Avery declined to elaborate on the proposal this morning only to say that 10,000 acres in South Seminole were being considered for the base.

However, Avery emphasized that first a nine mile stretch of Bear Lake Rd. from SR 436 in Seminole to SR 441 in Lake had to be extended.

Avery also spelled out that it would be a terrific boom for that portion of the county as well as the entire central Florida area.

The board turned the matter over to County Engineer Carlton Bliss for study of the secondary road fund program.

According to Avery, Orange and Lake Counties have obligated $150,000 for a tri-county industrial park site including an electrical plant and home for girls.

Commissioner Ted Williams appeared lukewarm to the proposal saying that it would funnel the traffic to Orlando and that Sanford could be hurt economically. In other business, the commission asked the county zoning board to consider the feasibility of establishing septic tank fees at $5.

Agreed to landscape the jail property with the cost not to exceed $5,000. Was informed that a legal description of the redistricting of the county commission districts would be ready by next week.

Bang.. Bang

It sure is getting lively around the County Commission chambers.

Two weeks ago two of the commissioners almost squared off against each other and Tuesday two of the members of the board, James P. Avery and Ted Williams asked the board to approve bonds for them to carry firearms.

However before the board could take any action, Avery ripped up the bond when questioned by Commissioner Vernon Dunn as to the need of carrying a weapon.

"I knew you would bring that up," Avery shouted as he ripped the bond in half and threw it into the waste paper basket.

"I withdraw my motion," he declared.

"Now you're just acting childish" was Dunn's reply to the red-faced Avery.

No action was taken and the matter was dropped.

By LARRY VERSHEL

I guess it's okay for the county commissioners to use fire arms . . . but if they decide on hand grenades . . . we draw the line. The press table would be right in the line of fire.

Although it's not official yet, the bid for the Sanford Post Office by the Jacksonville firm of Brown, Mason and Sclough was $22,998, which means the lease price they have to pay out every year. The building will cost around a quarter of a million dollars.

One county commissioner started talking about Mike Rood Tuesday but was quickly cautioned by the county attorney as to what he says in public.

Well the county jail may have its plaque yet. The on-again-off-again plaque controversy came up again Tuesday at the commission meeting when John Fitzpatrick said that a "private" group wants to donate the plaque. However, the board insisted that they have the final say-so as to the design of the plaque. Now what we want to know . . . is if the design or the names on the plaque that the board is worried about?

Smathers, Holland Vow To Battle For Control Funds

Senators George Smathers and Spessard Holland assured the County Commission by telegram Tuesday that they would do everything "within our power" to get federal approval for planning funds for Seminole County to carry out a $9 million water control project.

The Housing and Home Finance Agency turned down the original proposal for planning funds for the project because the county did not have the necessary funds to finance the entire program.

However, a modified program was worked out, and the board appealed the fund denial and re-submitted its application.

Instead of applying for only the first phase of the program, amounting to some $37,000, the board asked for all four phases amounting to approximately $100,000.

The four phases of the program include cleaning out ditches in the county as well as Howell Creek, Little Wakiva and the Econlockhatchee River.

Civil War Brewing

Brazil General Relieved Of Command

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Gen. Jose Machado Lopes, top army supporter of Vice President Joao Goulart's claim to the presidency, was ordered relieved of his command of the powerful 3rd Army today, according to reports from Brazil.

Goulart left Paris by commercial airliner today en route back to Brazil by way of New York. The vice president made no statement before his departure.

The Brazilian news agency Assapress said in a dispatch from the capital that an official communique was signed early this morning by Acting President Ranieri Mazzilli removing Lopes from his command.

There was no indication whether Lopes would respect the order. His headquarters are in Porto Alegre, a Goulart stronghold.

The move was believed backed by War Minister Odilio Denys, Brazilian military chief, in an effort to break opposition among some segments of the armed forces to his anti-Goulart stand.

Reports from throughout the country said six of Brazil's 20 state governors were behind Goulart's efforts to take over the presidency, a development which pushed the nation a step nearer to civil war.

Gov. Leonel Brizola of Rio Grande do Sul, Goulart's brother-in-law and chief supporter, said in a radio broadcast the vice president also is supported by the governors of Bahia, Goias, Santa Catalina, Ceara and Paraguai.

It was typical of the confusion caused in Brazil by the resignation Friday of President Janio Quadros that the support of the governors of Santa Catalina and Ceara was claimed simultaneously by the military leaders who have vowed to bar Goulart from the presidency.
