Unemployment jabs discount rate

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's unemployment rate jumped to 8.5 percent in June, breaking a four-month trend of improvements, a state economist said today. The May rate was 7.9 percent.

"We were surprised by the magnitude of the increase," said Rebecca Rust, chief of the bureau of labor information.

The nation's unemployment rate surged to 7.8 percent in June, the highest level in more than eight years, the government said today. The Federal Reserve immediately cut interest rates in a bid to revive the flagging economy.

The second consecutive big deterioration caught economists by surprise and spurred the Federal Reserve to cut the discount rate, the rate it charges on loans to member banks. A wide variety of rates charged businesses and consumers were expected to follow the discount rate down.

The new discount rate, 3 percent and down from 3.5 percent, is the lowest since July 1983.

MORGAN CITY, La. — Filmmakers in need of a realistic storm found Hollywood's best special effects coordinator in its oldest — Mother Nature.

A film crew shooting scenes of a hurricane put the fans and hoses away Tuesday as 5 inches of rain and high wind swept through the area.

"We didn't need the wind machines and the fire hoses," crew member Cougar Easley said. "Man, that was some weather."

CBS-TV has been in the area for three weeks filming a mini-series, "The Fire Next Time," starring Craig T. Nelson, Bonnie Bedelia and Richard Farnsworth.

The plot involves disruption of the earth's weather patterns in the year 2017.

Expressway foes fail

SANFORD — Opponents of the proposed extension of the Seminole County expressway west of U.S. Highway 17-92 vow to continue their battle against the $140 million tollroad, despite refusal by expressway builders to reconsider their plans.

"We will try to get experts to take a look at all aspects of this," said Crystal Lawrence, a Hidden Lake resident who has led the recent opposition to the proposal. "We will also consider seeking an injunction against them."

In a meeting halted by Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith after a man began shouting from the back of the audience, members of the Seminole County Expressway Authority voted 5-2 not to reconsider their May decision. The May changes moved the proposed expressway extension south by up to 200 feet from the former approved route along the current Airport Boulevard path.

Seminole County commissioners Jennifer Kelley and Pat Warren called for another hearing on the expressway changes, saying many residents of Hidden Lake and other neighborhoods along the proposed route were unable to attend earlier hearings on the route changes.

But county commissioners Fred Streetman, Bob Sturm and Larry Furlong said they didn't see a need to hold another hearing on the route unless there was new information to suggest why it should be changed again. Smith and Lake Mary commissioner Paul Tremel joined them in rejecting another hearing.

Sanford: No tax hike predicted

By NICK PEPINAWP

SANFORD — City Manager Bill Simmons in preparing Sanford's 1992-93 budget predicts no tax increases for city residents.

In his introductory budget report, Simmons predicted a balanced budget, no ad valorem tax increases for city residents, no reduction in city services, and no reduction in the city staff. He is proposing no change in the millage rate.

The City Commission will begin budget workshops Monday afternoon.

Simmons commented, "The General Fund budget is submitted balanced, with no requested tax millage increase." He is however, recommending that the roll back millage, estimated by Property Appraiser Bill Suber to be 6.8132 mills, "not be adopted."

The millage rate establishes the amount of money a city expects to obtain from property taxes. Should Simmons' proposal to keep the rate at the same level as last year be accepted, Finance Director Carolyn

County mulls lower taxes

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — In a pocket-pleasing move, County Manager Ron Rabun has recommended commissioners lower taxes by nearly five percent this year.

Unincorporated residents could also see a nearly three percent decrease in their taxes under the proposal.

Rabun unveiled his spending plan today for the year beginning Oct. 1, 1992. Commissioners will begin their formal review later this month.

The overall spending in the budget decreases from the current $321.3 million to $233.7 million. But the figures don't tell the whole story. Much of the additional $88 million included in last year's budget was for capital projects such as the $15 million natural lands bond and completed road and garbage projects.

Pari-mutuels receive extension

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Seminole County's two open pari-mutuel betting ventures will continue operating without interruption for at least another month because of a Jefferson County circuit judge's decision Tuesday.

Lawmakers ended their second special session of the year without renewing the state wagering law, which expired yesterday.

But most pari-mutuels will remain open under a ruling by Jefferson County circuit Judge Felix Johnston Monday, who allowed any pari-mutuel venture participating in a lawsuit against the state to continue operating even if the Florida Legislature failed to extend the state betting law.

Johnston allowed pari-mutuels to continue operating for 30 days to give a Leon County judge a chance to hold a hearing on the issue.

Johnston's law clerk Pam Cooksey said the judge's office received numerous filings from horse and dog tracks and jai-alai frontons throughout the state to enter their names in the suit and thus assure his ruling would apply to them.

Two Seminole County betting ventures that entered the lawsuit before the deadline, Orlando-Seminole Jai-Alai in Fern Park, and Seminole Greyhound Park in Cassiberry, were both included in the decision, officials with the companies said. Both the fronton and the dog track are operating now.

"It's business as usual," said Jim Haynes, assistant general manager of Orlando-Seminole Jai Alai. "The primary thing is we are continuing as we were."

"We are open for business," said Patrick Biddix, president of Seminole Greyhound Park.

Sanford Orlando Kennel Club, in Longwood, is closed until November. It could not be determined whether the kennel club was affected by the decision. Leon County court clerks were unable to determine if Sanford Orlando was included.

Magnet school decision stalls

By NICK PEPINAWP
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board is still in a holding pattern for the magnet school concept. While Seminole High School is still being considered as the location, the curriculum has not been determined.

Following a lengthy discussion, the matter was tabled at yesterday's School Board meeting, pending further input.

Acting School Superintendent Richard Wells explained, "A magnet school is one which offers special programs to attract special students." He commented, "The students would be selected based on several requirements we must adhere to, including integration, family income levels, and other qualifications."

Wells said, "I'll admit, there have been some drawbacks in this. The critics say this is a poor time to start the magnet school project, that it will cost too much to start up."

He added, "What we are hoping for however, is financial support from local businesses as is happening in other parts of the nation."

Wells revealed, "I would like to say that we are working on an excellent agreement with the Arvida Corporation, (developers of Heathrow), which is offering us assistance in the money needed to launch the program."

State budget glance

Here are the basics of the tax and spending plans approved by the Florida Legislature and signed into law by Gov. Lawton Chiles for the fiscal year that began Wednesday. The supplemental tax bill would raise $373.8 million while being phased in this fiscal year, and $405.1 million in full years after that.

WHERE IT COMES FROM
The lawmakers' tax sources, and their first-year revenue:

Intangibles tax ($184.7 million):

A one-half mill increase would push the tax rate from $1.50 to $2 per $1000. Banks would be exempt. The first $100,000 of individual accounts and $200,000 of joint accounts would be exempt.

Sales taxes ($69.9 million):

A one-percent sales tax would be imposed on non-residential telephone and electricity bills, raising $68.3 million.

Sales-tax breaks on rare coins would be lifted, raising $1.6 million.

Man accused of killing wife of 61 years

WINTER HAVEN — An elderly man is accused of killing his 61-year-old wife with a hatchet, a rope and a butcher knife in a dispute over money for a car, police said.

Clarence Henry Schreiner called authorities the next morning, said he had killed Ethel Mary, his wife of 61 years, but waited to report it "to make sure she was dead," investigators said.

Schreiner, also 61, told deputies he wanted money to buy a car, but his wife refused. He was charged with first-degree murder and held without bond at the Polk County Jail.

Schreiner said the two began arguing about 9 p.m. Monday at the mobile home where they had lived for about eight years. He dialed the emergency 911 operator at about 6:30 a.m. Tuesday to report what he had done.

Circus won't come to town

LAUDERDALE LAKES, Fla. — The circus will not be coming to town any time soon, city council members have decided.

Prompted by a strong turnout from animal rights activists, the Lauderdale Lakes City Commission voted 4-1 Tuesday to ban public displays of exotic animals.

"We are very proud to be here tonight when the commission made their decision to satisfy the need to protect people and animals from dangerous situations," Nanci Alexander, president of the Animal Rights Foundation of Florida, told the commissioners.

The ordinance exempts pet shops, veterinarians, educational exhibits through the Broward School District and adoption appearances by the Humane Society.

Violators are subject to a $500 fine. Hollywood approved a similar ban two years ago.

Squabble over rental unit ends in death

MARGATE, Fla. — A bakery employee was convicted of first-degree murder for fatally shooting the president of his condominium over a squabble on rental restrictions.

John Maggio will serve a life sentence. The family of shooting victim Thomas Lowery did not want the death sentence, and the prosecution obliged.

"We were angry with him, but we pray for forgiveness," said Ellen Raynak, one of Lowery's daughters. "We just feel like it's not our place to judge someone."

After the Tuesday verdict, Maggio's family sent condolences to Lowery's survivors.

Maggio killed Lowery, an avid fisherman and family man, on Jan. 31, 1991. The shooting came after the condo board refused to allow Maggio to rent his unit at the Margate Village Condominiums to a tenant because she was younger than 55.

Teens save youngsters from drowning

MIAMI — Four teen-agers, including one who received a 'D' in his CPR class, saved two youngsters who nearly drowned after falling into a canal, rescue workers said.

The two children — Christopher Buckner, 6, and his sister Brittany, 3 — were in stable condition Wednesday at Miami Children's Hospital, a spokesman said.

"It was an amazing rescue," said Metro-Dade Lt. Raul Chavez. "If it hadn't been for these teen-agers, these children would have been dead."

Alfred Gray and three basketball-playing buddies, all 14 to 16, spent some time Tuesday evening that the children were in the canal.

Killer of 11-year-old sentenced to die

MELBOURNE — The killer of an 11-year-old boy subjected the victim to prolonged suffering and deserves to die in Florida's electric chair, Circuit Judge Ed Richardson said.

"It is impossible for this court to contemplate another crime that would be more heinous, atrocious and cruel than the death of Junny Rios-Martinez," the judge told Mark Schwab on Wednesday.

"The terror of the abduction and rape followed by the slow death of strangulation or suffocation was extreme," added Richardson.

"May God have mercy on your soul," the judge said in sentencing the gangly, 23-year-old

Schwab to death.

Schwab was convicted May 22 of the April 1991 kidnap, rape and murder of the fifth-grader, who was lured from Clearlake Middle School in Cocoa by the killer.

Schwab, who committed the crime just weeks after his release from prison for the rape of a teen-age boy, read a statement, complaining that he had not received proper psychiatric treatment after his first arrest.

"I wanted a life that everyone else takes for granted," Schwab said. But, he added, "this deviant behavior overpowered my normal fantasy world."

In passing sentence, the judge noted that there was a question whether an unstable family life had led to Schwab's sexual deviance.

"Experts differed on causation," Richardson said. "Are sexual deviants made or are they born? The answer is unclear to this court."

In court were the victim's parents, Junny and Vicki Rios-Martinez. The mother dabbed at tears while the father held his head in his hands. Both had said they wanted a death sentence.

Schwab had confessed to kidnapping and sexually assaulting the youngster but said a mysterious man named Donald forced him to do so. Donald murdered the boy, Schwab contended.

The judge rejected the arguments during the trial and again Wednesday, calling the defense a "concoction" and Donald a "fiction."

Schwab gained the trust of the victim and his family by posing as a writer hoping to do stories about Junny's surfing skills.

Junny disappeared April 18, 1991, from a Cocoa ball field. A caller who identified himself as the boy's father had asked school officials to tell Junny to meet him there instead of riding home on the bus.

Police tracked Schwab to Port Washington, Ohio, where he was arrested April 21, 1991. Two days later, Schwab led investigators to a black footlocker in the woods. Junny's body was crammed inside.

Clinton considering Graham

By GARY HALLIDAY
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — U.S. Sen. Bob Graham may not want the job, but he's reportedly on a short list of vice presidential candidates being considered by Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton.

Graham's name popped up again Wednesday when NBC Nightly News reported that the former Florida governor was among a handful of possibilities on the list of finalists being considered by Clinton.

"I'll tell you the same thing I've told everybody," spokesman Ken Klein said in a telephone interview from Washington. "Senator Graham spoke with Warren Christopher over the last several weeks. Mr. Christopher asked that the conversation be kept between he and the senator and the senator said he would honor that request."

Christopher heads a committee to help Clinton find a running mate.

Clinton is also believed to be looking at Rep. Lee Hamilton of Indiana and Graham's Senate colleagues Al Gore of Tennessee, Bob Kerrey of Nebraska and Harris Wofford of Pennsylvania.

Graham served as governor in Florida from 1978 to 1986 before moving to the U.S.

Senate. It was during his time as governor that Graham became acquainted with Clinton.

"I think he's a good man," Graham said in the earlier interview about Clinton's chances in Florida in the general election. "He probably has the best chance of any Democrat in Florida since Carter."

With independent Ross Perot in the presidential picture and Florida's 23 electoral votes the fourth-most available in November, Clinton strategists might think Graham could help them win a critical state in what could become a three-way free-for-all.

Graham has never pulled less than 54.7 percent of the vote in three statewide races in Florida, one reason why he also met with Democratic nominee Michael Dukakis in 1988 and was on Dukakis' final "short list" of fewer than 10 possible running mates.

However, Graham would have to give up what appears to be a relatively safe Senate seat under Florida's resign-to-run rules. Klein said Graham prefers to seek re-election to the seat he won from Republican incumbent Paula Hawkins.

Graham, 55, traveled across Florida in late May to announce his re-election plans.

Sen. Bob Graham has visited Sanford numerous times. He is shown here with Thelma Mike, director of the Good Samaritan Home.

Five teens arrested in 'bum-bashing' for fun

Associated Press

FORT LAUDERDALE — Police have arrested five teen-agers who allegedly beat a man while they were "bum-bashing" for kicks.

A group of 10 youths, ages 13 to 16, were involved in the assault on a man they found sleeping in a baseball stadium. They attacked him with baseball bats, fists and feet, leaving him severely injured, police said.

On Tuesday, one of the youths suspected in the June 7 attack, Shawn Poiroux, 16, of Davie, was charged as an adult with aggravated battery and was in Broward County Jail Wednesday. Four other teens have been arrested and charged as juveniles.

Poiroux, who has a police record as a juvenile, was with the other youths when they attacked Robert Hammack, 37, about 2 a.m. as he slept in the last row of bleachers at Floyd Hull Stadium in Fort Lauderdale, youth services Detective David Nickerson said.

"They decided to go bum-bashing. That night the victim may have had too much to drink and stopped at the stadium to sleep it off," Nickerson said. "The guy was asleep and five of them took part in the beating. If one kid hadn't stopped it, (Hammack) probably would have been killed."

Hammack was treated at Broward General Medical Center for a deep head cut that required four staples. He also had severe bruises to his arms and legs from the blows.

Nickerson said the youths used two bats, one metal and one wood, in the attack. Hammack was also punched and kicked. Hammack told detectives he thought he was being hit with pipes.

Hammack's mother, Elizabeth Collins, said her son had gone to the stadium, one of his hangouts, on his bicycle.

The Edgewood Civic Association is concerned about the problem with teens.

Federal court adopts plans for new House and Senate districts

By GARY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — A three-judge federal panel, worried about delay of the fall elections, has adopted redistricting plans for the House and Senate, including a major change in South Florida Hispanic representation.

"We're at the point where going forward with an election is jeopardized," U.S. Circuit Judge Joseph Hatchett said in a late-night court session Wednesday.

"It's important that the voters know where the districts are."

The judges imposed a revised House plan that creates 11 Hispanic seats in Dade and Broward counties — an increase of two seats over the plan passed by the Democratic-controlled Legislature and four more than there are currently.

"It's definitely a grand slam," said Rep. Miguel De Grandy, a Miami Republican who was a lead plaintiff in the Voting Rights Act lawsuit by the GOP, minorities and U.S. Justice Department over the maps.

The lawsuit claimed the lines drawn by the Legislature were rigged by Democrats seeking to keep white incumbents in power.

But Hatchett and U.S. district judges William Stafford and Roger Vinson accepted the Democratic-crafted Senate map, even though they believed there are enough Hispanics in South Florida to warrant a fourth Senate seat.

The judges said creation of such a seat might weaken black political power.

Barring a reversal by the U.S. Supreme Court, the judges' decision ends a months-long, multi-million-dollar ordeal to design new districts to reflect Florida's population growth.

It clears the way for candidates to begin planning for legislative elections, which start with a Sept. 1 primary. Qualifying for the offices begins July 13.

The American Jewish Congress and a group of Jewish lawmakers urged the judges not to approve plans that deeply cut the number of Jews in the Legislature from South Florida. Reps. Elaine Bloom, D-Miami Beach, and Art Simon, D-Miami, are among those who could lose out to Hispanics.

"We are opposed to quotas," said Rep. Steve Geller, D-Hallandale. "But we can't stand by and let Jewish influence in South Florida be destroyed."

The plan adopted by the court, which only changed southeast Florida House districts, would leave Bloom — the incoming House speaker pro tempore — a solid district from which to run but would probably eliminate Simon. Ripple effects to the north could affect Geller, Rep. Jack Tobin, D-Margate, and Democratic Reps. Fred Lippman of Hollywood and Mike Abrams of North Miami Beach.

The Senate plan, which has already been redrawn to add a new Tampa Bay black influence district following a previous Justice Department objection, has two black districts and three Hispanic seats mainly in Dade County. Another black seat is located in the Jacksonville area, while a fifth is in Palm Beach and Broward counties.

Lawyers for Senate Democrats showed that many Hispanic residents are not U.S. citizens and can't vote, making some districts appear more strongly Latin than they really are.

"There are not sufficient eligible voters to create four Hispanic and three black majority seats," said Senate attorney Steve Zack.

They also contended the plans crafted by the Legislature and approved by the Florida Supreme Court balanced the tense communities of non-Hispanic whites, blacks and Hispanics who compete for political and economic power in South Florida.

Astronauts test mini greenhouse

By SUSAN MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Columbia's astronauts today tested a new miniature greenhouse to learn more about growing crops that could someday help sustain life in space.

Crew member Ellen Baker checked how well the instrument, called Astroculture, circulated water and nutrients in weightlessness. There are no plants inside the unit.

Astronauts will have to grow much of their own food once they start spending months or longer in space. A trip to Mars and back, for instance, would take at least a year.

Researchers believe that growing crops on long missions would save money on food and air purification and give astronauts a psychological boost.

In a test today, astronaut Carl Meade incubated germinating seeds to help develop technology for growing plants in space and improving Earth agriculture.

Meanwhile, Eugene Trinh conducted tests to see how temperature variations create currents in liquids and gases. Such currents cause defects in crystals and alloys. He studied glowing aluminum oxide specks floating in hot silicone oil.

The seven crew members are on the longest shuttle flight yet — a 13-day mission scheduled to end July 8.

Alford expresses thanks to the community for its contributions

By ROSE PFEIFFER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Fireworks will begin to fly along the Sanford lakefront at 9 p.m. this Saturday. Steve Alford says he owes many people a vote of thanks.

This is the third year Alford has been primarily responsible for obtaining money with which to purchase fireworks for the July 4th Independence Day holiday. "People's Fireworks," he calls it.

Through his connection with the Sanford Jaycees, which has adopted the project, the fireworks fund drive reached full swing this year, with over $6,000 being purchased for fireworks, plus extra money to pay for permits, barges from which to launch the fireworks, and other needs.

For the first and second year's drive, Alford was only able to obtain $5,000. "Even with what people consider a lagging economy," he said, "they came through in 1992 like never before, and we can all be proud."

Among the businesses Alford listed as helping were:

Sunniland Corp., Ace Hardware, Holiday Inn, Southern Bell, Alken's Printing, Spears Insulation, Grand Romance, Johns Small Engine Repair, A.A. McClanahan, Rich Plan, Texaco Express Lube, Tibbets Auto Repair.

Also, Touchton's Drug Store, Stairs Property Management, North Seminole Family Practice, Seminole Ford, Delightful Finds, Monroe Harbour Marina, Stenstrom Realty, Kokomo Tool and Recycling Co., Nichols Outboard Service Center, McConnell Towing & Recovery, Hartsack & Hartsack CPA's, Barnes Heating and Air Conditioning, and Don's Glass & Mirror.

Also, Britland Enterprises,

Steve Alford

Global Press & Quality Printing, M.R. Sulpizo Truck Brokers, Seminole Loan and Finance, Volkahop, Kar Supplies, O S O Discount Tire, C&B Discount Auto, Powell's Office Supplies, Continuous Forms and Checks, M&M Auto Parts, Kennedy Tractor Co., Deltona Laundromat, Seminole Sporting Goods, Sanford Discount Drugs, and Sun Bank.

Also listed were Go-Clean Products, Florida Power & Light, Domino's Pizza, Whitley Welding and Fabricators, Myer's Appliance, Time Travelers, Inc., Celery City Cruisers, Viking

Coach Works, Mike's Auto Electric, A.D. Roster's, "I Remember That," H&K Antiques, Billy Boy's, Wheelchairs & Howard, Inc., and Yard Stop.

Individuals named by Alford include A.A. McClanahan, Karen & Diane Callon, Cynthia Hamlin and family, and Birchfield the Magician.

Alford listed the following organizations as giving their assistance:

Sanford Seminole Jaycees, Sanford Kiwanis, Sanford Shriners, Sanford Masonic Temple, Junior Women's Club of Sanford, Sanford Historical Downtown Waterfront Association, Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, and the Disabled American Veterans Chap. #30.

"I also owe special thanks for their support to a number of other organizations," Alford said. They included the Sanford Herald, City of Sanford, Sanford Fire Dept., Sanford Police Dept., Seminole County Sheriff's Dept., Alben's Printing, and the Navy Orlando Credit Union.

"One extra-special thanks," Alford commented, "should go to my wife and children for putting up with me during this money-raising and planning time. I couldn't have done it without the support of everyone, and when those fireworks take off Saturday night, we can ALL be proud and say, 'we did it.'"

Governor signs state budget

By BNA ASSOCIATED
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles signed a $31.5 billion budget for Florida and returned state employees to business as usual 17½ hours after the new fiscal year began.

Chiles earlier had signed executive orders that kept most state workers on the job in the interim, and said services weren't disrupted.

He said he and Lt. Gov. Buddy MacKay will bring up tax and spending reforms the Legislature denied him when state lawmakers are up for re-election in the fall.

"Buddy and I are not running for re-election this November, but we intend to make those issues a central part of the coming campaign," he said.

Chiles used line-item vetoes Wednesday to strike $13.8 million in projects he said would only benefit particular lawmakers' districts.

The largest of the 16 vetoed expenditures was $6 million to try to persuade the U.S. Defense Department to locate a finance and accounting center in Florida.

The only others topping $1 million were $2 million each to build east Florida and west Florida regional marine research facilities, and a $1.5 million sewage system.

"I can't allow the state to spend $14 million for yet another set of legislative 'turkeys' while we can't find that same amount needed to immunize thousands of children against measles," Chiles said.

He signed the budget bills hours after lawmakers recessed their fourth special session of the year and went home.

"You have nothing to go home and apologize for," House Speaker T.R. Weber, D-Daytona Beach, told departing representatives. "You may have to explain a few things."

Chiles' executive orders kept government running with few problems as lawmakers stumbled through the early-morning hours Wednesday before finally agreeing on a budget.

State park officials said that of their 133 facilities, two parks and two state historical sites weren't open Wednesday.

Some drivers' license offices closed, but 150 of the state's 171 were operating, highway department spokesman Ed Bira said.

With Chiles signing a budget Wednesday, Bira said, "We will be operating as usual tomorrow."

The budget battle spilled into the first day of the fiscal year when Sen. Robert Johnson, R-Sarasota, made a pre-dawn move to recall a $600 million supplemental spending plan sent to Chiles to augment a $60.6 billion no-new-tax measure he'd vetoed.

He feared Chiles wouldn't sign the new measure, keeping pressure on the lawmakers to move closer to his $1.3 billion tax proposal. After Chiles pledged to sign both the no-new-tax and supplemental budgets, the Senate sent him the supplemental bill.

Chiles and House and Senate Democrats coaxed the Senate, which refused to pass new taxes for the last six months, to pass 23-18 for a $372.5 million tax package (CS-88 88H). Along with federal matching funds and revenue from a 15-percent university tuition increase, it boosted the budget nearly $500 million.

Chiles' sought-after tax reform bills that died in the Senate included:

- A "lottery buyback" bill to put more general revenue into education and five lottery dollars for school extra like computers.
- A proposed constitutional amendment to let lawmakers roll back property taxes on the first $100,000 of homesteaded assessments.
- A proposed commission the governor and lawmakers would appoint to review hundreds of sales tax exemptions and recommend which ones to repeal.

Legislature couldn't agree on doctor-owned clinics

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Lawmakers ended a month-long special session Wednesday without re-enacting a law regulating the part-owned industry or fixing another that bans doctor-owned clinics and sets fee caps.

A bill (SB 3081) that would exempt independent centers and clinics in four specialties from the fee caps and apply them to only doctor-owned clinics in those areas had passed Tuesday in the Senate.

But the House didn't take the legislation up before finishing Wednesday.

Lawmakers also went home without acting on gambling laws, which were set to expire Wednesday. However, a state judge ruled earlier this week that horse and race tracks that turned to the court for relief can stay open for 30 days under the old laws until the courts decide if that's legal.

One of the sticking points had been video lottery machines, which House leaders wanted to authorize but were opposed by the Senate and Gov. Lawton Chiles.

Under the Senate proposal on fee caps, the limit would go up from 115 percent of Medicare payments to 140 percent and the October 1990 deadline for doctors to divest of their interest in clinics would be moved up a year.

Rep. Charlie Roberts, a Titusville Democrat who wrote the new law passed this spring, had been working on a different proposal.

His idea was to delay fee caps for both doctor-owned clinics and independent centers for a year. Roberts' proposal would also have ordered a study of the effectiveness of rate regulation.

Four thefts reported at city hall

By BNA PRESS/APP
Howard Staff Writer

SANFORD — Four employees of the City of Sanford Personnel Department have had their purses robbed. The incidents apparently took place over several days.

Sanford Personnel Director Tim McCauley said, "Tuesday morning, Rebecca Wise and Kristin Strine came to me and reported having their purses robbed during the past few days, so I immediately contacted the police."

He commented, "As I recall, Strine said her incident may have taken place last Thursday or Friday, while Wise said her purse incident happened Monday."

McCauley added, "Since that time, two other employees, Patricia Bennett, and a 17-year-old girl working part time with us through the Summer Youth Program, also reported similar incidents in the past few days."

According to police records, all filed on Tuesday, 804, belonging to Rebecca Wise, was taken from a locked cabinet. Police said the keys to the cabinet were apparently taken from her desk.

Two dollars in cash was reportedly taken from the purse of Patricia Bennett, which was near her desk.

A cigarette case, containing $11, was said to have been taken from the purse of Kristin Strine. The case was later found in a trash container in the ladies room of city hall.

McCauley said the student reported $15 was taken from her purse, although no police reports were immediately filed on that incident.

"These happened at separate times, in separate sections of our Personnel Department offices," McCauley commented. "They did not all happen during one morning, as reports may indicate."

Sanford police Capt. Ralph Russell commented, "We have started an investigation of the matter, but haven't uncovered anything at the present time."

He added, "So far, we have no indication of whether or not it could have been an inside job."

"Whenever someone is apprehended for these incidents, we plan to prosecute them to the fullest extent," McCauley said. "I imagine it will be even more severe if it's found that a city employee did this, although I don't believe we have that type of individual around here."

Do what?

Standing on the steps of the state Capitol in Sacramento to kick off his presidential campaign for California's electoral votes, Ross Perot asked 7,000 cheering supporters, "Do you want to talk about it or do you want to do it?"

"Do it!" the crowd roared in reply.

In their answer is the frustration shared by tens of millions of Americans. They've watched the nation's domestic problems fester as divided government has stymied leadership from Washington and as cleaving interest groups have blocked forceful action against soaring health care costs, lagging productivity, inadequate education and spreading economic insecurity.

The thousands who turned out to cheer Perot are the iceberg's tip of a universal desire that this year's election re-energize the nation's institutions and produce clear-cut direction and leadership.

But as much as Americans may want a definitive result from the election, it's not true, as Perot said, that "action is all that matters."

In expressing contempt for "talk," Perot also expresses a frightening contempt for democracy. Elections are conversations free people have with themselves to set goals and establish legitimacy for the future exercise of power by the leaders they elect. First they talk, then they act: by voting to confer power on those whose program matches the voters' ideals and interests.

Perot's vision of the kind of country he wants — "a kind, generous country that helps people that cannot help themselves"; "a force for good throughout the world"; a place where people "share and care and love and look after one another" — is appealing. It's also ~~very real and unexceptional~~. It's a vision shared by George Bush and Bill Clinton and most other people in public life.

The conversation in this campaign is about how to get there. Having gained the attention of so many Americans, Ross Perot now has an opportunity to play a major role in that dialogue. Should all Americans be guaranteed access to health care? How large a military force does the United States need in the post-Cold War world, and what should be done with defense savings? How can the deficit be reduced? What measures are needed to spur investment and job creation? In other words, do what?

Perot is fond of saying, "We've got to lift up the hood and get under there and go to work." The image is folksy, but misses the point. If you want an engine to run, you don't get to choose where to put the spark plugs or the carburetor. But there is no manual for governing; it's not repair work, but design and navigation and compromise between competing desirable objectives.

The many Americans who see a Perot candidacy as a possible vehicle for restoring vigor to a deadlocked democratic system deserve more than appeals to action and a strongman's disdain for the democratic conversation of an election. They deserve to know where Perot wants to go and how he proposes to get there.

Political tragedy begins to unfold

It is time for the American people to begin bracing themselves for a political tragedy that is about to unfold before their eyes. Lawrence Walsh, the special counsel for the Iran-Contra affair, is preparing to crown his lackluster record by indicting former President Ronald Reagan for perjury. His hope is to put Mr. Reagan in prison.

The specific charge will be that Mr. Reagan testified falsely concerning when he first learned about the (allegedly illegal) sale of weapons to Iran. The evidence, insofar as there is any, is contained in the handwritten notes of former Defense Secretary Casper Weinberger.

Weinberger has resolutely refused to change his own interpretation of the notes, and thereby became a witness against his former boss, despite Walsh's offers of a lesser charge if he would do so. Walsh has retaliated by indicting Weinberger for perjury, as a prelude to proceeding against Mr. Reagan.

The indictment of Mr. Reagan, in the midst of this year's presidential election campaign, will of course constitute a major political development. That is hardly surprising, for the whole treatment of the Iran-Contra affair as a legal issue, rather than as the policy dispute it really was, has been a savage abuse of legal process for partisan political purposes. But I call this development a tragedy because the legal process has now acquired a life of its own, and is reaching out to destroy a man who is greatly loved, and will continue to be loved, by many millions of Americans, as well as by other millions all over the world.

The roots of the tragedy, like the roots of so many other ills of America in today, are to be found in the American voters' vicious habit, during the past half-century, of electing a president of one party and a Congress of the other. Inevitably, Democratic Congresses began intruding in foreign policy areas that Republican presidents regarded as historically their exclusive turf.

By the time Ronald Reagan became president, the conflict was well established. Congress passed laws seeking to limit what the executive branch could do in the field of foreign policy without its prior consent. Mr. Reagan's response was to conduct much necessarily secret diplomacy through the National Security Council, appointed by and beholden only to him, relying on his constitutional prerogative to conduct the nation's foreign affairs.

A great many people will doubt that Mr. Reagan's denial to Congress that he knew of the arms sales on a given date, even if false, was unlawful at all, let alone grounds for prosecuting him. But many of his longtime foes will take a thin-lipped pleasure in insisting that "cover-ups" must be punished, whatever the cost.

I suspect, though, that a good many Democratic politicians are going to feel vaguely uneasy about this turn of events. They will sense that the prosecution of Ronald Reagan, on what constitutes at best a highly debatable technicality, runs counter to the American people's instinctive sense of fairness.

And they will remember one other thing, which is rarely noted: In the battle between Republican presidents and Democratic Congresses, the Democratic victories have all been legal ones, designed to reverse or diminish the effect of Republican victories won at the ballot box.

Indictment of Mr. Reagan will constitute a major political development.

Parents concerned about school policy

While we applaud your motives for implementing the proposed "Alcohol and Other Drug Use Policy for Extra-Curricular Activities," we, as parents, deplore your proposed methods outlined in that proposal. The board was not elected to become the "social conscience" of our community; it was elected to provide and maintain the framework in which a quality education is possible.

To insist that school officials are responsible for the judging of and punishment for any and all violations of school property, 365 days a year, is ludicrous. It is not what the board was elected for. You are exceeding your authority.

Aside from the issues of authority, here are a few things wrong with the proposed policy, as written.

Degree of guilt

The proposed policy would treat all offenders equally. The teenager who has one beer is treated just as harshly as a heavy drug or alcohol user. Even the criminal justice system does not make this mistake.

Teen-agers, no matter how trustworthy or intelligent, make errors in judgment. It's part of the learning process. To turn over a first-time offender to HRS for making the potential mistake of having just one beer in an evening, is not only extreme, but scares the hell out of us. This is the same HRS that is being investigated for using, "Gestapo-like" tactics in taking children away from their parents, without "Due Process?"

One drinking infraction "does not" necessarily mean that the teen-ager has a drinking problem; it could be that they did make that "error in judgment" that we knew they would. This type of problem should be corrected by the parents of the teen-ager. HRS should not be involved in any first offense, unless it involved addictive drugs, or blatant abuse of alcohol.

We agree that a teen-ager who drinks heavily and/or frequently, or on school property during school hours or is involved with addictive drugs, does have a problem and needs help, but the school should be talking to the parents first, and working together to solve the problem. If the parents refuse to help solve a serious problem, and if evidence warrants, then, and only then should the school take any official action with HRS.

It is the parent's responsibility to do something about the problem. If they don't, and the offenses continue beyond a reasonable point, then the school should act on the child's behalf.

The HRS issue

The referral of a student to HRS should be considered a drastic action of last resort, since that referral could jeopardize a child's chances for military service and/or scholarships. For example, the military service requires full disclosure of any treatment for drug or alcohol problems under penalty of $20,000 fine and/or up to 5 years in prison. Disclosure of HRS counseling, no matter how minor the offense, could disqualify the person from military service.

Using the extracurricular activity as a teaching tool

Extracurricular activities are, potentially, some of the best places that children learn cooperation, responsibility, and other positive social actions. It does not make much sense to discipline someone (in the minor cases) by taking away one of the most positive influences on their lives.

It would make more sense to let the adult leader of the activity use the program itself to help the offender. For example: in sports activities offenders suit up, practice with the rest of the team, but do not play in games for a set period of time. In this way the teen-ager has to live with the consequences of their actions and face their peers, which can be much more influential than separating them completely from the team.

A student who is summarily removed from these activities may even turn to increased use of alcohol or drugs out of revenge or anger. You would have made them outcasts and examples for their peers to look down at, rather than helping them make the right decisions in the future.

The due process issue

A fundamental principle of administrative law requires an agency to grant a hearing to those whose interests are likely to be affected significantly by the agency's proposed action. In all cases, the agency must comply with the due process clause of the Constitution and grant the affected individual an opportunity to be heard at a meaningful time and in a meaningful manner.

Your proposed policy "must" include provisions for the proper application of due process. Frivolous and unproven accusations "must not" result in the loss of any rights or privileges of any student. All investigations "must" be made in strictest confidence, to protect the reputation of the accused. The accused "must" be offered the opportunity to bring forth their own witnesses, cross examine witnesses, and offer testimony on their behalf.

Judicial review

Still another fundamental principle of administrative law requires that decisions of administrative agencies typically be subject to review by the courts. This ensures that administrative agencies, which sometimes act with excessive zeal, pursue their mandate within the limits of their authority and with proper respect for individual rights.

We feel that the proposed policy, as currently written, may open the door to many potentially expensive legal battles, which our county school system cannot afford. The proposed policy is over simplified and incomplete, and could lead to judgments that are either arbitrary or discriminatory.

Extracurricular activity focus

Your proposed policy is discriminatory. The excuse of "holding participants to a higher standard," tells us that you don't know what to do about the other kids who don't belong to any extracurricular activities. Because of the lack of these positive social experiences, these kids potentially have higher percentages of drug and/or alcohol problems.

Singling out only this one class of students for special treatment is discriminatory. If you are going to offer any solutions to this social problem, address all classes of your student population, not just one.

Summation

We believe that every honest, caring citizen wants our country's drug and alcohol problems solved. We believe that the School Board's just trying to do its share in helping minimize these problems.

But your proposed policy, no matter how well intentioned, has not been well thought out. Most parents of teen-agers in these extracurricular activities "do not" want their children singled out for this special treatment. It is improper to ask all parents of all classes of students what they think of the proposed policy. The results of such a poll are bound to be biased.

Go "back to the drawing board" and write a policy that treats all students equally and fairly, guarantees due process, distinguishes between degrees of infractions, insures that a student's reputation is not unnecessarily stained by an HRS record, and minimizes the possibility that Seminole schools will face many legal battles.

If you come up with such a policy, you will find more "voters" will back you.

Neighborhood schools best

Here are the facts about rezoning and the magnet school program as I see them.

1. Seminole High School wants more students to attend their school.

2. Students that would be rezoned to Seminole High more than likely attend Lake Mary High School and live much closer to Lake Mary High than Seminole High.

3. I would like to see all the high schools return to neighborhood schools. A neighborhood in Sanford is literally split in half because half of the subdivision is bused to Lake Mary and half goes to Seminole High. This causes tension and rivalry between a neighborhood that would not exist if the students were allowed to attend their own neighborhood school.

4. Forcing students to attend a high school away from their neighborhood is very unfair to the students. Especially if the students' loyalties are already formed to their neighborhood high school. The children's loyalties are started in elementary grades. Through older siblings or neighborhood children, and you hear them making statements like, "When I become a R.A.M.'s cheerleader... or when I play football for the R.A.M.'s..."

5. A magnet program would be a no-lose situation for all concerned. Seminole High's enrollment would increase by students through a choice. This would alleviate any hostility toward the school for any new students. Lake Mary could remain a neighborhood school which, I may add is not over capacity, and actually has lost more students than Seminole High.

6. Seminole High has some of the plushest subdivisions in Seminole County (Heathrow, Lake Forest, Timacuan, just to name a few). If the Sanford Committee put as much effort into recruiting students from these areas that are already zoned for their school instead of changing zone lines, it would be a much happier, healthier situation for all concerned.

7. All the new growth is marked for the Seminole High School area in Seminole County. It would really be an injustice to change the zone lines to increase the enrollment at Seminole High and then in two or three years have to reverse the decision because of new growth in an area that is now zoned for Seminole High.

Magnet good for Seminole

I am in support of starting a magnet program in the Seminole County school system. From learning about other magnet programs throughout the state, it looks like Seminole County is behind the times on this one. If we are to give our students the best opportunities and education possible, we need to implement a magnet program as soon as possible. There is a concern of cost, but we are not talking millions here. There is a good possibility that much of the funding would come from the state, depending which program was selected. To start a magnet program would be a progressive step for Seminole County.

My children are still in elementary and middle schools. If they have the right focus and direction as a freshman entering high school, and would like to sign up for a magnet program, I would be thrilled.

Seminole High School seems to be the logical choice for a magnet program. They have the room and since it would raise the enrollment of the school, it should satisfy those who feel that Seminole High's enrollment is too low. This would also eliminate the need to rezone all of the other high schools for awhile.

IN BRIEF

Hunter classes coming up

SANFORD — The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is again offering its Hunter Education course to the public in cooperation with Seminole Community College. To register for one of these classes, call the college at (407) 323-1450. There is a $6 per person registration fee.

The next series is scheduled to begin Monday. The final class will begin August 3.

The course covers many interesting topics including survival, wildlife identification, hunting laws, ethics, first aid and gun safety. Students will get to practice what they learn in a field trip that will afford them the opportunity to shoot rifles, shotguns and bows and arrows. The course is open to anyone and families are encouraged to attend and learn together.

Anyone born after June 1, 1975 is required to successfully complete a state hunter education course before hunting in the State of Florida.

Tampa set for hockey

TAMPA — The NHL expansion Tampa Bay Lightning will open its exhibition campaign at home against the Minnesota North Stars on Sept. 16. The same teams will play in Lakeland the next night.

The Lightning will play the St. Louis Blues in Tampa on Sept. 23, the Ottawa Senators in Lakeland on Sept. 25, the Philadelphia Flyers in Orlando on Sept. 29 and the Boston Bruins in Tampa on Oct. 2.

The preseason road schedule includes games against the Blues in St. Louis on Sept. 22, the Senators in Ottawa on Sept. 27 and the Bruins in Atlanta on Oct. 3.

Heat make roster moves

MIAMI — The Miami Heat said Wednesday that it has extended qualifying offers to Keith Askins, Bimbo Coles, Kevin Edwards and Grant Long, while allowing John Morton and Alan Ogg to become unrestricted free agents.

"Dream Team" qualifies

PORTLAND, Ore. — The United States basketball team is officially Barcelona bound as they beat Argentina 128-87 to clinch an Olympic berth.

Michael Jordan led Team USA with 24 points in 25 minutes. Charles Barkley scored 23 points and Chris Mullin 18. Magic Johnson added nine points, six rebounds and 14 assists.

Three way trade in NBA

PORTLAND, Ore. — The Portland Trail Blazers acquired the rights to first-round draft pick Tracy Murray in a three-team trade that sent Dale Ellis to San Antonio and Alan Abdalnaby to Milwaukee.

Murray, a 6-foot-7 sharpshooter from UCLA, was picked by San Antonio as the No. 18 selection in the NBA draft. He averaged 21.4 points percent last season as a junior.

Ellis, 31, has a career average of 17.9 points. The 6-10 Abdalnaby, chosen out of Duke in the 1990 draft, fell out of favor with the Portland coaching staff in his two seasons.

Spurs spurn Strickland

SAN ANTONIO — The San Antonio Spurs decided not to extend a qualifying offer to guard Rod Strickland, making him an unrestricted free agent.

Strickland averaged 13.6 points, 8.6 assists, 4.6 rebounds and 2.1 steals this season.

Beer:30 a perfect 10

Getting dirty

Mac McNight of Briar Corporation goes to his left and makes a beautiful diving stop and throw for an out against Beer:30 at Pinehurst Park Wednesday night.

The play went for naught, however, as Beer:30 won 13-12 to complete a perfect 10-0 season in the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Class D Spring Softball League.

D champs come back to end 10-0

SANFORD — Neither a shortage of players nor being out-hit could keep Beer:30 from its appointed round of finishing the season unbeaten.

In the final night of the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Class D Spring Softball League at Pinehurst Park, the league champions overcame a defensive problem of having only nine players and being out-hit 20-14 to score four seventh inning runs to post a 13-12 victory over Briar Corporation.

The other game played Thursday night was just as exciting as Texaco Express Lube (which had forfeited the 7:30 p.m. game to the Desperados) came back from an 8-6 deficit to win 9-8 over Mobil Tech.

The victory gives Beer:30 (10-0) a full five-game margin in the standings over the Desperados and Mobil Tech (which both finished 5-5). Texaco Express Lube finishes the season 2-8.

Beer:30 had scored a run with two outs in the top of the seventh inning to tie the game at 10-10, but a two-out error on a pop-up opened the flood gates as the champs took a 13-10 advantage into the bottom of the seventh.

But Briar responded by scoring two runs and putting the tying and winning runs on second and third with no-one out. The runners remained there as the next three batters made outs to end the game.

Pitching depth is key in Lyman Tournament

By BILL KENNEDY
Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — Self-discovery can turn painful, for as one digs deep inside, sometimes there's only emptiness.

From today through Sunday, the Lyman baseball tournament will put its competitors through the grueling process of plunging into the depths of their pitching staffs and benches. Four Seminole County teams and four non-county teams will take part in the challenge at Lyman High School.

The Oviedo White Sox played Evans in the opening game of the tournament this morning at 11 a.m. The Casselberry (Lake Howell) Bucks challenge Dr. Phillips, one of the perennially top baseball programs in the state, at 2 p.m., the Lake Mary Mudcats take on Winter Park at 5 p.m., and the host Seminole Animal Supply Bullets (the summer team of Lyman High School) plays Oak Ridge at 8 p.m.

Both Friday and Saturday will see four games played, starting at 11 a.m., 2 p.m., 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. Sunday's championship game will be played at 1 p.m. and, if necessary, a winner-take-all game at 5 p.m.

"We have some pretty good teams," said tournament coordinator Dave Campbell. "The team with the most pitching depth will probably win. I've only seen (the Seminole County teams) play, and they are capable of beating any one. Dr. Phillips is always strong, and Winter Park is usually solid."

The biggest concern for Campbell is the pitching staff in the Lyman Tournament this weekend.

Conditions unbeatable at qualifier

By ROBERT STUCK
Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY — It doesn't get any tougher than this.

Saturated fairways, windy conditions and bumpy greens all hassled the 40 competitors in the Florida State Golf Association Match Play Qualifier at Timacuan Country Club Wednesday, driving up scores and tempers as well.

No one broke par at the 6,800-yard, Scottish style layout and only three players shot even par on either nine.

John Pettit of Winter Springs led all competitors in the championship with a two-over-par 74. Pettit, a senior at the University of Florida who finished ninth in last week's FSGA State Amateur, carded nines of 37-37.

In the championship flight, 12 of a possible 31 players qualified for the match play event, to be held July 16-19 at the Old Trail in Jupiter. Four spots were available for the nine competitors in first flight.

Hammer Time cops Wednesday C title

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Each of the three top teams in the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Wednesday Night Class C Spring Softball League posted wins at Chase Park, but it was Hammer Time that came out the big winners as it clinched the championship and came a step closer to an unbeaten season.

Hammer Time jumped out to a 6-0 lead, then cruised to a 7-3 victory over Hancock Hardware in the opening game of the evening. In the second game, Touchdown Pub followed suit, using a four-run third to post a 5-3 win over The Wrecking Crew.

The final game of the night was different, however, as Hall's Stucco used an 11-run second inning to erase a 2-0 deficit and went on to a 15-2 mercy rule triumph over Royal Oak Pub.

Hammer Time now has an 8-0 record with games remaining with Hancock Hardware and Hall's Stucco. Trailing the leaders in the standings are Touchdown Pub (5-3), Hancock Hardware (4-4), Hall's Stucco (4-5), The Wrecking Crew (3-5) and Royal Oak Pub (1-8).

Next week the league will make-up games that were rained out on June 3rd. At 6:30 p.m., The Wrecking Crew will battle Hancock Hardware, at 7:30 p.m., Royal Oak Pub will take on Touchdown Pub and at 8:30 p.m., Hammer Time will play Hall's Stucco.

Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Sanford's Sharon Vining has been employee of the month, and of the year, during her 12-year career with the Langford Hotel in Winter Park, but this is the first time her excellence has been recognized outside the walls of the hotel.

"I got a certificate and there was always some monetary reward," Sharon said, "but this time the Langford is participating with a number of other hotels, and one outstanding employee is recognized from each business at a banquet at the Clarion Hotel in Orlando."

The award ceremony is inclusive of the Central Florida hospitality industry. Sharon received a plaque with her past and current achievements listed, and says there were "some other goodies," including some discount coupons to Florida attractions.

As Assistant Director of Housekeeping for the Langford, Sharon says her day involves issuing work assignments to the entire housekeeping staff, inspecting rooms for cleanliness, disciplining employees, (which she calls the hardest part of her job), paperwork and payroll, plus other tasks.

"No two days are ever the same," she says.

Sharon was nominated for recognition by her immediate supervisor, Anne Smith, director of Housekeeping, who says Sharon is not just super and cooperative — she does everything.

"As a family-owned hotel, we do a number of unusual things in housekeeping such as taking bids for carpets, drapes and furnishings, and Sharon has a knack for coordinating colors, setting up rooms, etc. And she can spot a piece of dust six feet away," Anne says.

Anne also says that Sharon can visualize the layout of a room from a seat behind her desk, which is pretty remarkable considering all the rooms are different. Sharon also has a winning way with both guests and other employees, Anne says. "Everybody loves her and that's saying something when you have 135 employees."

Each department head at the Langford nominated their own employee of the month, resulting in a four-way tie. The tie was broken by upper management votes, because, Anne says, "We wanted the first winner in competition outside the hotel to be the most special. We wanted THE employee, and that happened to be Sharon."

"I couldn't run the department without her," Anne says.

Sharon is among a number of employees who have been with the Langford for extensive years and attributes that to the fact that it's family run, rather than a chain hotel.

"It's very quaint and homey, with lots of atmosphere," she says.

It is, in fact, so homey that it has its own mascot — Sylvester, the cat. No discernible breed, Sylvester showed up about 10 months ago and adopted the Langford and its employees as his family. He lofts about in the halls and lazes in the sun under the lounge chairs by the pool, Sharon says. An animal lover herself, owner of a black lab named Kahn and a cat named Alexander, this particularly appeals to her.

"Usually, he lays in front of the doors. I guess you could invite Sylvester into your room if you were a guest, but he's a little timid and doesn't take to everybody," she says.

Besides which, Sylvester never knows when he's going to find another of his ilk behind closed doors. The Langford, unlike chain hotels, allows guests to bring their pets to stay with them, and often plays host to rabbits, snakes, cats, dogs and birds.

A quaint, homey atmosphere, a family-oriented staff and some very outstanding employees, make the Langford unique. So say Anne, And Sharon, And Sylvester.

Affairs with married men are not about sex after all

DEAR ABBY: Don't ever stop printing letters about how destructive "affairs" are to marriage.

I'm another woman who became sexually attracted to a married man. I was 30, attractive, and had a handsome, intelligent husband who adored me. I'll admit, he wasn't the greatest lover in the world, but instead of addressing my needs to him, I looked elsewhere.

I met a man 20 years my senior, and the sparks flew! Before I knew it, we were intimate. It wasn't lovemaking — it was cheap, unsatisfying sex on the floor of his office! I couldn't believe I was capable of such degrading, sluttish behavior. It happened several times, and each time I felt worse about myself, so I finally ended the affair.

Almost immediately, I became attracted to another man closer to my age (also married) and the same feelings started up again. Fortunately, nothing happened, but I came close. I was so confused by then, I was disappointed that nothing had happened.

Finally, with the help of God and a good therapist, I was able to end my self-destructive behavior.

Abby, thanks for telling your readers to get professional help before they become powerless over their own behavior. Affairs outside of marriage are not about sex — they are escapes from a multitude of problems to which there are constructive solutions. Keep telling people to get counseling, Abby. It saved my life.

NO NAME, NO CITY, U.S.A.

DEAR ABBY: I was recently divorced and have moved to another state from where my family and ex-husband live.

After I moved, I got an unlisted telephone number. I gave this number to my two sisters and our mother, and asked them not to give the number to anyone else.

So far, I've changed my number three times, only to have one of my sisters or my mother give it to my ex-husband, who then calls to harass me!

I have explained my reasons for paying extra for an unlisted telephone number, but my wishes were ignored. My mother and sisters have my work number in case of emergency. Abby, would I be justified in changing my number again, and not giving it to anyone in my family?

FRAZZLED IN FLORIDA
DEAR FLORIDA: Not only

ADVICE

would you be justified, you would be very wise.

DEAR ABBY: Now that I am retired and home all day, my wife and I chat frequently. Our house has several rooms and, as we roam about, one of us may continue talking while the other has moved out of hearing range. When this happens, it creates hard feelings, and sometimes anger.

What is the solution? I have read about a beeping device that police attach to the ankles of prisoners to monitor their movements. Perhaps a pair of such devices could solve the problem of letting a spouse know when one has moved out of hearing range. It would certainly reduce domestic friction.

J.E.V.

DEAR J.E.V.: It sounds like a great idea, but after checking out the cost of such a "monitoring device" the idea of talking to someone who is out of hearing range may not seem so traumatic.

DEAR ABBY: I thought I'd seen everything in your column, but this problem is unique.

A little background: I'm a 42-year-old man with a 22-year-old son, whom I raised as a single parent. I thoroughly enjoyed being a parent and doing domestic chores, so I went to school last year to get my certificate as a "child care specialist" — otherwise known as a "nanny."

Frankly, I think the $2,000 in tuition was wasted. Since I graduated, I've sent out 50 resumes and made 10 to 20 phone calls a week. So far, only one person has called back. When I do get a live person instead of a recording, it's always, Or, "If we didn't have daughters, we might consider you" — despite the fact that the three families I've worked for have all had girls.

Abby, if women want to eliminate sexism in our culture, I think they should start at their own doorsteps. If we want our nation to become kinder and gentler, we have to accept men as caring and nurturing individuals.

I know you can't do anything about society's attitudes, but I feel better just being able to unload this. Thanks for listening.

GARY JONES
BAKERSFIELD, CALIF.

DEAR GARY: Your situation is a new twist, but "society" and our culture do not easily accept male nannies. (They should be called "mannies.") I have no doubt about your being every bit as qualified as a female for that position. Let's hope that silly prejudice is done away with soon. Tomorrow is not too soon.

Loss of smell is linked to allergies

MEDICINE
PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've had allergies all my life. I've suffered from tonsillitis, hay fever, allergic asthma and everything else you might mention. My complaint is that I no longer smell flowers, aromas or anything - nor do I taste anything. Can I get my taste back? Zinc doesn't seem to help, and I'm told that because of the inhalers I'm on I may never taste anything. Any suggestions?

DEAR READER: Allergic reactions in the upper respiratory tract (nose, throat or sinuses) often cause loss of smell, as well as congestion and difficulty breathing. Furthermore, chronic allergies can lead to polyps, benign growths that aggravate the symptoms I mentioned. Because much of our taste sensation is actually smell, food may taste flat and uninteresting. I believe your first step ought to be to find an otolaryngologist. After examining your upper respiratory tract, the specialist can advise you about treatment, further testing or referral to an allergist who, through skin and blood tests, may identify the substance to which you are reacting. Once your specific allergy is addressed, you may no longer require nasal inhalers, which can contribute to your loss of taste and smell.

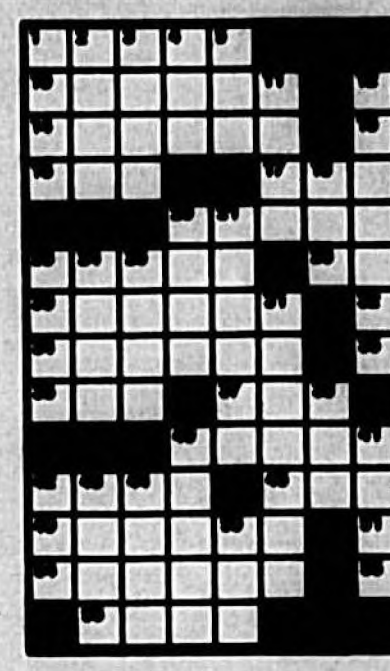

DEAR DR. GOTT: Several months ago I wrote to you explaining my health condition and asking your opinion. Since then I've been looking for your answer in our local newspaper. Am I being too impatient?

DEAR READER: I'm sorry you haven't seen the answer to your question. There are several possible reasons for this.

I receive about 2,500 letters a week, most of which contain health questions. I would like to answer every question but, as you suspect, this would take quite a long time, given the volume of mail. Also, if several readers ask similar questions, I will answer only one representative question. Some questions are not suitable for a family newspaper, so I discard them. Perhaps your letter was lost or mislaid. I regret this, but it can happen.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
You might find it hard to believe, but today's deal really happened. It was played shortly after World War II between two of the top pairs of the day. Have a look at the diagram and guess South's result in six clubs doubled. South might have passed in the first seat. West might not have doubled. A psychic take-out double is a rare attempt to talk the opponents out of their just deserts. North decided not to beat around the bush. He knew that a scientific auction might tip off the spade lead, which could be the only one to defeat the slam. East wondered if he was being talked out of a slam, but he opted to take the "sure" profit. Now it was West's lead. A heart is normal, but eventually he selected the spade king. East was disappointed not to get a diamond ruff, but he wasn't worried. After declarer won with the spade ace and led a club to the king, East won with the ace and shot back a spade. When South produced the queen, East exploded with the force of two atom bombs: "What a lead! You could have chosen a heart, a diamond or a club and beaten the contract. Yet you had to select a spade!" Declarer wondered why a diamond lead would have been fatal. There could be only one answer. South led a club to dummy's jack. When West's 10 luckily dropped, declarer could return to hand with a club to his nine. Now South led a diamond and finessed dummy's nine. When East discarded, South claimed his slam. The moral is to keep your comments until after the hand.

HOROSCOPES

By Bernice Bode Cool
YOUR BIRTHDAY
July 3, 1992
Material conditions look rather stable for you in the year ahead, provided you don't become involved in situations that are outside your sphere of expertise. CANCER (June 21-July 22) You might lack the assertiveness required to advance your self-interest today. Don't waffle at the first sign of resistance. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences governing you in the year ahead. Send for Cancer's Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're going to do something for another today, do it without having strings attached. The response from the recipient could be hostile rather than grateful. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Playing politics today, either socially or at work, could produce undesirable results. Strive to be forthright and sincere instead of manipulative. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Wishful thinking will not help you achieve the objectives you establish for yourself today. You must be both realistic and assertive in order to attain your goals. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Some information you possess can be used either constructively or destructively today. Don't use what you know as a weapon to belittle another. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Feeling sorry for yourself or thinking the world owes you a free ride won't furnish you transportation today. If there is something you hope to gain, you're going to have to work for it. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you support the position of an outsider over a loved one today, the latter could be deeply wounded. Additionally, this interloper might be trying to use you. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Usually, you're a responsible individual, but today you might try to palm off on others duties you should be taking care of yourself. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Forego the temptation today to gossip to one friend about another pal who isn't present. More harm could be done to you than to the butt of your comments. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Do not let suspicious inclinations cloud your better judgment today. There's a chance you might read things into the intentions of others that are non-existent. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You might be a harsher critic of yourself today than your peers will be. Try to see some of the good points that they see in you instead of only the negative ones. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A financial matter that affects another, as well as yourself, should not be treated indifferently today. If something is wrong and you don't acknowledge it, further complications are possible. (C)1992, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
