

A Rewarding Use Of Our Lake

One of the questions most frequently asked by visitors to Sanford is the one about what use we make of the lovely lake located at our doorstep, and because there is no apparent activity, the inference is usually made that Sanford is missing a bet by not taking advantage of this natural asset.

The commercial possibilities of the lake have always been recognized and through the years a great deal of traffic has plied its surfaces, but in recent times due to a combination of circumstances less and less use has been made of this natural waterway. Civic groups, however, are now active in plans to re-establish Sanford as the real port of Central Florida.

In the meantime, what better use could be made of the lake than as a setting for the operation of sailboats, with all their potentialities for providing exhilarating pleasure in a setting of picturesque attractiveness. The scene presented by some 25 sailboats of various types of water is one of the most thrilling anyone can ever behold, and it stands to reason that Sanford would gain untold amounts of publicity throughout the country if our lake should become a mecca for sailboats.

We think the lake has been too long neglected as a sporting adjunct and we like to envisage the day when every afternoon throughout the year we will be able to see an endless array of sailboats giving pleasure to those who sail them and to the countless spectators who would line the boulevard to witness the spectacle. As an inducement to new residents the exploitation of this natural asset might very well mean the advent of Sanford into the real pay dirt of tourism.

Resistance Boosts Morale

For the second time since the end of World War II the city of Berlin has become the scene of morale-lifting events which may put new vigor into the warring nations of Western Europe. Oddly enough both of these incidents resulted from Russian foolishness and shortsightedness.

In 1948 the Russians blockaded Berlin from contact with the outside world. The situation was critical and only the ingenuity of the airlift and the determination of the Western allies not to give in, kept the Russians from succeeding. Many observers mark the success of the airlift as the turning point in the cold war.

A few weeks ago, in response to years of Communist oppression, the people of Berlin revolted and showed Europe that resistance to the Reds is not dead in the areas they occupy. Resistance groups in other parts of the Red empire were heartened by the demonstrations. A people who want to be free, who will fight and die for freedom if necessary, will not remain enslaved forever.

Security Depends On Planes

Today our security as a nation depends in large measure upon our military and naval air strength. It is a little difficult to believe that the first airplane built to military specifications was accepted by the War Department only 44 years ago, on July 30, 1909. Aug. 2, 1909 is considered the birthday of the Army Air Corps.

Few flighted military men of that day had high hopes for airplanes. They were capable of speeds up to forty miles an hour and this would make them invaluable for reconnaissance purposes. Few men, even the Wright brothers who built that first military plane, had any idea of how aviation would revolutionize warfare.

By today's standards that first military plane was awkward and feeble. But it did give the first wings to the men who defend the United States against its enemies.

Man With Black Eye Is Pitted

NEW YORK — Nothing will turn an optimist into a cynic faster than a black eye.

It is then one learns the depth of hypocrisy in friendship, and how false a thing is man's pretended faith in his fellow man.

A man with a black eye is the loneliest figure in the world. Every body wants to hear his tale about how he got it, and nobody ever believes he is telling the truth. The cringing wretch goes from desk to desk in his office, saying pleadingly, "I know you won't believe this, but I bumped into this open door in the dark, and—"

And sure enough nobody will believe him. Nobody really listens to his words. Everyone insists on taking him at his face value—and a black eye is universally regarded as a sign of guilt.

When you have a black eye no one sends you flowers. No one has sympathy enough to ask, "Does it hurt?" All you hear are the time-worn clichés:

"Next time I guess you'll learn to duck."

"That ought to teach you to quit pecking through keyholes."

There are two exceptions in history of black eyes acquired in recently, accidentally, or through gallantry and kindness, such as:

A. You are helping a old lady across the street during a heavy rain, and she falls you in the eye with her umbrella.

B. You bang your head hurrying to get out of a car to help your wife alight.

C. You slip in the bathtub.

D. You are helping your wife hang a picture, and she drops the hammer on your upturned face—presumably by accident.

E. You are feeding sugar lumps to a policeman's horse, and it suddenly tosses its head and gives you a lump under your lamp.

The medical literature on the subject of black eyes is full of such cases. But there is no record that the victim's story was believed by either his friends or foes.

A man with a black eye is like the defendant in a Russian spy trial. He might as well quit trying. The world has already been reached before he opens his mouth.

"Guilty."

I knew another fellow who actually got a black eye by bumping into a door, and came into work the next day bent over double with the door on his back to prove he was telling the truth. That made everybody sure he was a liar. I knew another fellow who got a black eye from a bee sting. He carried the carcass of the bee around in a little box for days, stowing it to all same result. He just blackened his own reputation.

There ought to be a Society for the Extension of Goodwill and Understanding to People With Black Eyes, and I'd like to join it right now.

Yes, I have a black eye. It is a result of food poisoning. That's right—food poisoning.

I know you'll find this hard to believe, for it is an odd story. I love watermelon. Well, I was in this grocery store, and it was a very hot day, and I picked up this watermelon in one arm. I began thumping it with my hand, when—bang—it blew up right in my face and a piece of rind hit me in the eye.

No, I never heard of a watermelon exploding before. But you see, as I said, it was a very hot day, and anything can happen in a heat wave.

Look, I can show you the bill the cleaner sent me for taking the watermelon stains out of my suit. I got it right here in my pocket. I guess that proves it, doesn't it? (Editor's note: I guess that'll teach Boyle to quit peaking through keyholes. Wonder how he really got that black eye?)

Debt Poses Problem

NEW YORK — Financial circles are wondering if the administration will find a way to squirm out of asking Congress to raise the legal limit on the federal debt.

If the debt rises above its present legal ceiling of 175 billion dollars, bankers fear further inflationary pressure and another roadblock in the administration's announced purpose of stabilizing the purchasing power of your dollar.

The debt has just taken another jump higher and is now within about 2½ billion dollars of the limit set by Congress in June, 1946. Its peak as a result of World War II spending was 278 billion dollars in February of that year.

The U. S. Treasury is facing the unpleasant task of raising more money before the end of the year—unless some way is found to cut spending. The Treasury deficit is mounting steadily. So far this month, it has exceeded Treasury spending by about 1½ billion dollars.

Congress can do something about cutting spending in future years, but can't do much about slowing down spending for the rest of this year.

The Treasury is in its present fix because: 1. Spending continues at a great rate in spite of congressional economy drives. 2. Tax receipts fell below expectations. Part of this drop in tax receipts below expectations was due to the steel strike last summer, which pared Treasury receipts by an estimated one billion dollars. Steel companies, and others affected by the strike, reported sharply reduced earnings.

Even so, the Treasury took so much from individual incomes last year that its total receipts hit a record of more than 45 billion dollars. It had hoped to take more this fiscal year. It expects to top last year's record by nearly 3½ billion dollars more—but most of that will roll in during the first part of 1954. For the rest of 1953 the story is going to be more outgo than income.

Most bankers agree that the best way to keep the Treasury from having to ask that the debt limit be raised would be to cut back government spending now.

The reverse side to that coin is that any sizable spending cut would be quickly felt by business.

The Agriculture Department says Americans' annual intake of red meat has declined more than 15 pounds per person since 1929.

USO Holds Gala Event

The USO's first birthday party last night turned out to be a gala event. A large crowd enjoyed dancing to the music of Paul Krahan and his orchestra in the attractively decorated dance hall. Red, white, and blue streamers throughout the room carried out the theme of the USO and its first birthday. A variety of colored summer flowers, fern and palms were placed in beautiful arrangements on tables around the room and on the piano.
On a long table near the entrance were flowers and fern placed on the green cloth centered with a four-tiered birthday cake decorated with red, white, and blue icing. The top tier was encrusted with a replica of the United States flag and on each side were miniature cloth flags. In the center was a large red birthday candle. The cake was flanked with two tall silver vases containing red and white gladioli.

MRS. E. F. LANE, who headed the plans for the entire party, was assisted in decorating by three NAAS boys, Gene Tom, and Bill A. R. Nowell of New York City. The NAAS boy whose birthday was nearest July 17, the USO's birthday, was awarded a phone call home. Other prize winners were Margie Hodges and Bob Gossett.

Blues In The News

By BOB ANTHONY
Men on duty in the NAAS Personnel Office Sunday thought nothing of when they saw their co-worker, Thomas S. Noffs, come walking in from Jacksonville, where he is stationed with the Navy. The men became slightly confused when they also saw Tom come in the back door at the very same time. The answer, they found out, was that the first man to enter the room was not Tom, but Tom's identical twin brother, John, who came down to Sanford for a week's vacation from Jacksonville, where he is stationed with the Navy. The two, Tom and John Noffs, had been together at the Naval Air Station at Orlando Springs and Ken and Bill agree that the only way they were able to tell the twins apart was by the difference in the color of their bathing suits. These two, Tom and John Noffs, not only look alike they talk alike, laugh alike and act alike. What may mean even further complications is the fact that the two men are hoping to get duty together some time in the future.

Head Of B&PW Gives Answer To Big Query

By DOROTHY ROE AP Women's Editor
What holds women back? This is the subject of deep research by members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, as voiced recently by their president Helen G. Irwin of Des Moines, Iowa.
And the answer, after all these generations of suffragettes and equal rights crusaders, is just the same as it always has been—women.
It is a basic fact of human nature that few women consider a career more important than husband, children and home. They have careers, yes, because of economic necessity for the most part. But in a pinch, faced with a choice between complete dedication to office or home, the home usually wins in a walk.
There are more working women in America today than ever before. Approximately one-third of the national working force are women. Many of them are highly successful too in every field from banking to bricklaying. Even the normal woman considers even a top-bracket job in business or industry secondary to her main job as a successful human being in the multiple role of wife, mother and homemaker.
That's why most women don't go all out to be president of the company or boss of the shop, even when they spend eight hours a day helping earn the family income. Such ambition requires a singleness of purpose that leaves no room for all the other feminine duties—and joys.
There are, of course, a few women who have made the choice in favor of personal ambition—who have shut the door on family responsibilities and devoted all their efforts to reaching the top of their chosen careers. But most of them find it's rather lonely at the top.

MRS. ARTHUR COPLIN, of the Lake Mary Home Demonstration Club, represented Seminole County in the State Dress Revue held at the University of Florida in Gainesville recently. Mrs. Coplin has been sewing for 75 years. The dress was entered in the street dress group, and is made of tan and brown tann chamois, matching accessories, beige hat and gloves, shoes and bag of brown straw.

There's a new and better way to kill ants. It's called Roach-E-Lime. When applied to any surface with the built-in cap applicator, it leaves a hard, dry, clear, invisible film. The film can't burn or soil any surface, but when ants touch it, their legs become paralyzed and they die in two hours. A single application remains effective for months. You never see it, but it sure does get rid of ants and roaches. Roach-E-Lime is available at Lighthouse Drug, 1515 N. Ave.

Short TV Programs Seen Best

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK, N. Y. — Is a half hour long enough to present a first quality television dramatic production?

Producer Bill Spier says it is. The black-headed, youthful veteran of TV and radio says the short video dramatic presentation not only can be done well, but that it's a must in this 31-propelled age when everything moves faster.

He's attempting to prove his point with Medallion Theater, new 30-minute series from New York launched last Saturday night on CBS-TV.

Spier tackles his new chore fresh from completing the assignment of producing Omnibus, the 1 1/2 hour Ford Foundation show on CBS-TV, during the past season. His long list of previous productions includes creation of "You Are There" for CBS-TV, creation of Suspense on radio, and production of Sam Spade on radio.

Some critics have contended that a half hour allows at best only enough time for a skeleton plot and not enough for development of characters, but the versatile Spier disagrees.

"You can develop character in terms of reaction to the plot," he declares, adding that he already has seen several fine examples of character development on half hour program by other producers.

However, Spier says, the choice of stories for a half hour show is very important and that writers of the early part of the century seemed to excel at telling a story briefly—such as Rudyard Kipling, Conan Doyle and O. Henry.

"Nowadays," he declares, "The term short story is used to indicate a fragment or a mood—it used to be a complete story." Spier adds that "people don't have time any more to read Dickens or Tolstoy's 'War and Peace'—We should have the leisure time but it no longer is that kind of world."

He does not believe the short play has to have a happy ending. "But I do think it has to end with a completion of the design."

However, he has given a happy ending twist to the adaptation of Evelyn Waugh's "The Man Who Lived Twice", due as the fourth in the series, to rescue the principal character.

"You can't leave an innocent man in a position where the audience will say 'That's a dirty trick to do to a nice guy,'" he explains.

In both appearance and background, Spier is as colorful as a character from one of his own productions. His full but fairly close-cropped beard, short jet black hair and piercing eyes would fit him for a role suggesting intrigue or high diplomacy. As for his career, it has included turns at being music critic, pianist, composer, writer, movie director, network official, director-producer for both radio and TV, advertising agency executive and talent scout.

His favorite hobbies are magic and book collecting, and occasionally he tries his hand in the kitchen under the tutelage of his actress wife, June Havoc.

Truck Driver Has Close Call With Death On Tracks

WARWICK, Va. (AP)—Willie E. Smith, 36, of Richmond, was driving his truck on State Route 158 near here during a rainstorm yesterday. Too late, he saw the red caution lights blinking at a railroad crossing.

He slammed on the brakes. The truck started skidding. It skidded all the way across the tracks, clear of the approaching train, and Smith was about to breathe a sigh of relief when the vehicle suddenly did a U-turn and skidded right back on the tracks.

The train smacked into the truck. Smith walked away unhurt but the truck was destroyed.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia crops are suffering heavily from a midsummer drought and state agriculture officials say damage may already exceed 50 million dollars.

Mountain Climber Saved From Cliff

CLIFTON, N. J. (AP)—A 9-year-old would-be mountain climber, clinging desperately to the sheer face of a cliff 100 feet above ground, was plucked to safety yesterday by a policeman who was lowered at the end of a rope.

Clifton Patrolman John C. de Groot, dangling at the end of the rope, grabbed the youngster, George Conklin of Paterson, and both were pulled to the top of Garret Mountain by other policemen and firemen.

George and a friend had got about halfway up the mountain when George got stuck. The friend clambered down and summoned help.

Legion Reaches Finals On Jim Hawkins' No-Hitter

Sanford Edges Winter Park, 1-0, For 13th Consecutive Victory

By SAM JACOBSON

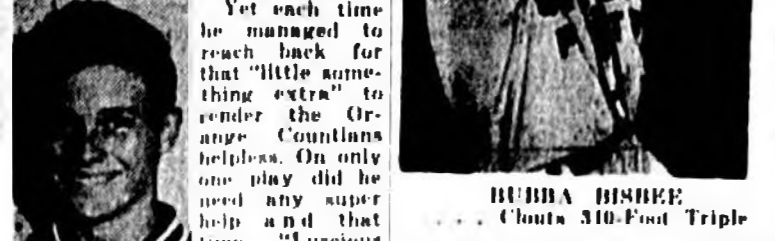

Jimmy Hawkins literally wrote his own page in the annals of Sanford Junior Legion baseball history as he fired a sterling no-hitter against Winter Park to bumble the Packers, 1-0, yesterday in the second round of the District Six tourney currently being held in Orlando.

The sturdy left-hander "Hawk" undeniably stole the tournament spotlight as he cut down batter after batter in the close, hard-fought contest to lead the "Baby Birds" to their 13th straight triumph. He really had a rough time, for the pressure on him was double that usually brought to bear on a pitcher going for the once-in-a-lifetime hitless game.

In several instances he was working with men on base and even time he was faced with the realization that one wild pitch would not only ruin his bid for glory but could also cost the game.

Yet each time he managed to reach back for that "little something extra" to render the Orlando outfit's counting out useless. On only one play did he need any super help and that came in the seventh inning.

Jim Hawkins playing in left field, rose to the occasion with a sliding, twisting, star-studded, backhanded catcher of a drive with base hit written all over it. It was a good thing that Hawkins did come through so splendidly because for the second straight day the top bats of the locals were almost fatally silenced. This time "Lefty" Eidel did it as he shackled the "birds" with a neat five-hitter. It must be mentioned, though, that the Winter Park outfielders received quite a workout.

JIM HAWKINS
Clouts 310-Foot Triple

Hawkins retained the opposition in order all but twice yesterday. The Winter Park outfielders gathered in not fewer than ten Sanford fly balls throughout the afternoon. Quite a total for a seven inning game. The "birds" were drilled on fundamentals and frequent repetition of "Run! Run!" are really beginning to pay off for Sanford. Without the hustle and trained reactions that he has instilled in them, the locals probably wouldn't have won these last two games.

Sanford as usual seized the initiative early in the game. Yesterday it was in the first frame when Bates and Junior Metts felled out successive singles and Jimmy Kriker was hit by an pitched ball to load the bases. But Eidel had down forcing Johnny Jones to ground out and end the inning.

In the third, however, Sanford was not to be denied. With one away Bates reached first on his second single. Junior Metts popped out, but Hubba Hulsebund followed with a 310-foot triple to drive in Bates with what proved to be the winning run.

The win was probably the most strategic one of the meet for the Campbell-Lesburg Post 53 representatives in that it definitely set them up in a "tallor made position" for the 4th encounter tomorrow night in Tinker Field. Their opponent will be either Winter Park or Orlando.

In the meantime the two Orange County teams culled today in a game to decide which will face the "Baby Birds." An injury to Winter Park ace Wendell Struggans makes Orlando the favorite.

In either case Sanford will have a definite advantage over the survivor. Winter Park, since Struggans' mischance, has only Eidel for the mound while Orlando has but an assortment of second rate hurlers.

"Chick" Kriker, who shot out Orlando Monday on two hits will go for Sanford.

Dunn Paces Cards To 4-3 Win Over Lakers

Wed. July 22, 1953 THE SANFORD HERALD

The Sports Register

By KENT CHETLAIN
Sports Editor

A book could be written about the trials and tribulations of the Leesburg Lakers during the past two years... there have been exactly five field managers for the Lakers, now Packers, in that short span... Starting with Walter (Chippelenki), the list reads Don Anderson, John Latawh, Red Dulaney and now Francis "Red" Barrett.

The Cuban Negro Chico Fundora has been the center of more than one fracas and he has figured in the firing of a manager... From the other side of the baseball operation, two young dynamoes—Wendell Struggans and John Miller—have attracted the attention of the baseball scene with no experience during the middle of last year and added the then Leesburg Packers to their chain of enterprises... As owners of radio station WJBE, they were immediately interested in preserving baseball for Leesburg and collecting the tab on the advertising bills for their own team.

The brother combination which successfully built WJBE into a going concern had the right combination of youthful Wendell, bubbling over with ideas, and the older and more prudent Paul to lend balance to the business operations... In their zest the Minutemen natives of Scandinavian extraction, plunged head long into the labyrinth of present-day baseball headaches.

Chippelenki was benched and shelved for a long period, returning with recurring headaches, which numbered his days with the Packers last year... G-Man manager Don Anderson was hired, but the expected steel worker from South Chicago lost his batting eye carrying the seventh place Lakers down deeper in the mire... A former Triple A player John Latawh finished out the season managing from the bench.

Latawh viewed the perennial Leesburg catching dilemma with Chico Fundora... Hill Robertson, Chicago Cubs catcher, was traded to the Jacksonville Beach for veteran 300 hitting receiver Bill Robertson... This was done on his own, or so the story goes without consulting the Husbos who were numbered among Fundora's fans.

Robertson was sold before the season began to a Class A club and is playing up there now... Fundora has been batting over .300 and was a mainstay in the Lakers' third place finish... After his contract with Empire State was terminated at the end of the first half, Fundora was suspended by President Jack Dempsey... According to the record, Dempsey made his decision before consulting with the Leesburg officials and released the news in Daytona Beach, from which source the Husbos first learned of the action.

The bitter controversy followed between Leesburg and Dempsey and a special hearing was requested by the Husbos in Orlando... Orlando's new General Manager Howie Fox teamed with the Husbos, since Fox was irritated with Dempsey's handling of the suspension of Lee Piking, Senator manager... Dempsey refused to grant the hearing but did consent to hash the thing out unofficially.

Meanwhile, Kriker was approached by some of the discontents and asked if he would accept the job... They claimed if he would take the job they would gather enough votes to oust Dempsey... Kriker refused stating that he didn't want the non-paying job with all of its headaches.

The Herald learned through a well informed source that Dempsey wired Leesburg just before the end of Fundora's suspension last week and stated, "I cannot lift Fundora's suspension." The enraged Laker officials contacted a Mr. X who in turn contacted Trautman, president of the Minor League... Trautman then confirmed the lifting of Fundora's suspension and Chico played until he was injured two nights ago.

It is reported that the Husbos have had just about enough operating the Lakers independently trying to whip together a winning ball club... Mired at the bottom of the league, the only hope for the Lakers is to sign a working agreement... This may become a reality. According to one source, Leesburg is pressing the New York Yankees for such a working accord which may be signed either next month or after the season.

Smith Takes 6th Victory In Relief; Sanford Plays In Orlando Tonight

By KENT CHETLAIN

Manager J. C. Dunn's bludgeoning bat propelled the Sanford Cardinals to a narrow 4-3 victory over the Lakers in Leesburg last night, ending the Redbirds' three-game losing streak. The combination of batting orders for the first time this year in five encounters, Sanford battered the little "junkball" twirler from Cuba for 10 hits, including Bill Silverthorne's 26th double of the year.

Tonight the Cardinals will invade Orlando to engage the Packers in a battle for fifth place. A victory for the fifth standing Redbirds would insure Sanford the No. 5 spot, since Sanford is trailing by only a half-game. Manager Dunn will probably throw in National Guard veteran Dave Leonard (4-1), Ernie Palmeri (12-3) or Paul Smith.

The latter worked the last two and two-thirds innings last night to earn credit for the victory. Smith also appeared the night before here against Leesburg. He blanked the Lakers last night from the seventh on after taking over with two men on from Clarence Ingram.

Ingram started the game and lasted until the seventh with one out, turning in a creditable job of fingering Dunn pulled Clarence in the seventh after observing Ingram was tiring. The Sanford skipper was in a good position to know and as it turned out it was a wise decision. Dunn caught the entire contest, since regular receiver Bill Harris will be sidelined for nearly two weeks with a jammed thumb.

Smith fanned two and passed just one in his stint in earning his sixth win as against nine strikeouts. It was a big night for the "Big Boy" Jay Dunn. The Sanford skipper drilled out three timely singles to drive in three runs, boosting his season's RBI total to 26. With three hits in five trips, Dunn hiked his season swatting mark to 344. Dunn also accounted for the other run in the game by scoring once. It was Dunn's 103 run of the season.

CARD CAPERS: While Bill Batty fell below .300 again, Benny Bennet jumped back in the scrapped .300 circle to .300... Bill Silverthorne added a point to his average making it .311.

Wilson-Maier Cuts Sal-Army's Lead

Third-place Wilson-Maier blasted the front running Salvation Army Warriors, 11-5, in the first game of the second half of the City Men's Softball League at the Lakeland Diamond last night. Wilson cut the league leaders margin to 1 1/2 games over second place FASHON-51 and only two games over the Maiermen.

Meanwhile, fifth place Robinson's took the hapless National Guardsmen to the cleaners, 7-1, in the other game of last night's double.

Wilson-Maier has now four full games in back of fourth place VC-9 and the last play-off berth.

Tonight, Sal-Army plays VC-9 and National Guard in the FASHON-51 at the Lakeland Diamond with the first game at 7:30 p.m.

Fresh Riots, Wave Of Arrests Spread Over Rebellious Red Zone

BERLIN (AP)—New riots in the Soviet-run uranium mines of East Germany reported today as a fresh wave of arrests by Communist police spread over the rebellious Russian zone.

Third Of Globulin Allotted For Polio Has Been Given Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approximately a third of the supply of gamma globulin expected to be available for mass inoculation use against paralytic polio this year has already been distributed.

Figures gathered today from the U. S. Public Health Service showed it went to 11 communities where sharp outbreaks of polio have occurred since mid-June. Officials said they could not estimate how many other sharp outbreaks might still occur, and hence how far the further supply for mass inoculation might go.

Housewife In Miami Offers Eye For Cash

MIAMI (AP)—A Miami housewife, who has a husband out of work and four children, today offered to sell one eye for $25,000 "so that I can have security and one of my small sons back in my home."

The 31-year-old woman made the offer in an advertisement in the Miami Daily News and asked that her name not be used.

"She said she was married at 18, she had been struggling all my life and I am right at the place where I started," she explained.

The woman said one of her four children had been "spoiled by an aunt and also could get into a bad way if she were better able to care for him."

"My husband is a painter contractor," she said. "He hasn't worked for two weeks and a woman named Miami Beach owes him $3,000 he can't collect. We are fighting to keep our home together."

trills to brag about, but with the welcome which creates mutual understanding and enjoyment.

Unlike his earlier report submitted a month and a half ago, the consultant backed his latest remarks with pages of statistics showing economic characteristics, industrial groups, farm data, and other pertinent information of value to northern industrialists.

Major Caccavajo pointed out that the industrial board must be prepared to answer at least four vital questions:

(1) What can be done to make Sanford more attractive and profitable to industries already established here in order that they may, if possible, expand to meet the era of industrial growth, population growth, and general prosperity that is undoubtedly ahead for all sections of the Sunshine State?

(2) What are the outstanding economic advantages which Sanford has to offer manufacturers and other businesses by reason of its geographical location or physical attributes?

(3) What particular classes of industry will find economic location here?

(4) What property within or without the City limit is best adapted for manufacturing and proper housing developments? How much is available and at what price and terms?

Major Caccavajo declared that "local business concerns and for that matter, everyone in the City, should be vitally interested in the efforts of the Industrial Board to attract new industries to the Sanford area. Industry adds material to the local economy, it meets payrolls, it brings money into the community. There can be no doubt that without primary payroll dollars no city is economically sound—no business safe—no family secure."

"It is of prime importance for the industrial Board to encourage and promote the best of its ability well defined research and development studies which will fit into the local picture."

Abundant electric power for both power and lighting purposes at attractive rates.

Water transportation, via the St. Johns River, which if necessary can be developed to meet special needs.

Plan For Giving Congressmen Tax Relief Appears Joked By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House plan to give additional tax relief to Congressmen appeared likely today to be tossed by the Senate.

Sen. Martin R. Smith, chairman of an Appropriations subcommittee on the bill, said in an interview he was against the provision and would do what he could to kill it.

Sen. William W. Borah said that if the committee passed it at all, it would be with only a few all-out weapons at its command on the Senate floor.

The Motor Vehicle Bureau of Virginia has finally cleared up a problem for Mr. and Mrs. Somer-Timer that has kept the two of us bewildered ever since last December. During that month we traded in the title to our trailer issued in California for a Virginia title following the man of the house's release from active duty by the Navy when in Norfolk he went off for Florida to get the new papers. In May when we started to register the trailer in Florida, no title could be found. We searched and researched in every conceivable spot without success and finally sent a letter for a duplicate. A letter came in from motor vehicle officials in the Old Dominion State yesterday saying they had sent the title to an old address, it had been returned to them, and it was now "released herewith." And thus ended a baffling mystery in which both the missus and your reporter were sure that the other had misplaced the all-important document.

Thoughts While Shaving—The father of one youngster stopped us on the street the other day to state that his six-year-old son was an avid follower of this column. We thought perhaps his youngster was a child prodigy, but the father added "he can't read, but he can try it yet, but we're sure it won't work." In that connection, we should mention that the Somer-Timer doesn't draw the little red line on the picture, but that they are supplied by a printing plant service. Why is it that on a lake which seems to be such an ideal spot for sailboats that we never see anyone indulging in that sport on Lake Monroe. The Somer-Timer is wondering about that item. We haven't seen any sailboats on the lake, but it would be possible some terrific afternoon to fry an egg on the sidewalk in front of the Herald office.

The City is between the devil and the deep blue sea these days. Insofar as sewers are concerned, City manager Tom Simon says he hates to put anything in an emergency and temporary repairs since an entire new system is to be laid as soon as the necessary details are completed. However, an sudden heavy rain and floods are jamming up the drainage system. The city crews stand by to take care of such on days and nights when there are downpours. Tom points out that in case of trouble, residents should feel free to call the city at any time. Many of the old sewers are collapsing under the strain this month.

Still another agricultural venture which might be tried in Seminole County is the New Hampshire Midget, a cantaloupe-sized watermelon. It was developed by a farmer from a few from immokalees, a farming community near the Everglades, and found them to be really tasty. He states that many sections look as tasty just like the standard sized variety, and there is a little little rind. Sounds like a possible bet in this County next time we see Ben Whitner out at the Central Florida Experimental Station we'll have to check to see if they're experimenting in that field.

Junior Chamber of Commerce officers please note, in Melbourne and Eau Gallie, the Jaycees are sponsoring a plan by which a coupon book containing a value of approximately $40.00 in gifts and discount certificates is being offered to consumers. Each booklet will sell for only $2.00, proceeds of which will go into the Jaycees fund for worthy causes. It's called a Trade Promotion Program and has met with wholehearted cooperation by both merchants and residents. Of course merchants usually are in there pitching for the Merchants' Night game tomorrow at Memorial Stadium. From every indication, the crowd will be so great that blankets will be spread out along both foul lines.
