Letter Makes Pitch For Keeping Zoo Board

Members of the Central Florida Zoo's board of directors Monday made a last-minute effort to keep their seats on the board, sending voting members of the zoological society letters detailing the board's accomplishments and reasons for the June firing of longtime zoo chief Al Rozon.

The letters to the more than 250 voting members were mailed in hopes of swaying the society members toward giving the board a vote of confidence at Thursday's 7 p.m. special meeting of the society at the Sanford Civic Center.

The letter, in part, states: "The Central Florida Zoo's future is very bright. You can be a part of ensuring that these goals are met by showing your support at the special board meeting on Aug. 6. We hope to see you there."

The letter said the board fired Rozon, who was the zoo's executive director for 14 years, because "of his refusal to cooperate with board decisions, policies and direction, as well as misrepresentation and withholding of information and selective enforcement of the by-laws. With this difficult decision, the board of directors chose to honor their obligations to the membership and the best interests of the zoo and its future."

The letter also emphasized the board's claim that it never voted to pay Rozon the two and one-half years remaining on his approximate $37,500-a-year contract.

"A committee has been formed to finalize his compensation," the letter stated.

Meanwhile, a dispute over who can vote Thursday continues and could end up having to be settled in court.

Leaders of an effort to oust the board members contend a recall of the board can occur through a majority vote of the voting society members who

Homestead Denials At All-Time High

Investigators Spot Those Living Out Of County

By Ted Carter
Herald Staff Writer

The number of homestead exemptions denied by the Seminole County property appraiser's office has reached an all-time high this year, totaling 604 compared to the 100 or so denials each of the past few years.

One of the reasons is the automatic exemption renewal forms the office mailed out earlier this year. They made it easier to renew the exemptions but also gave the property appraiser's office an idea of which homeowners were not maintaining residences in the county.

The property appraiser made sure each envelope containing the renewal forms was marked "do not forward" to a new address. So when the forms came back, the appraiser sent out field investigators who determined the people listed on the renewal forms were no longer maintaining homesteads, and thus were not entitled to the tax exemptions on the first $25,000 of their property assessments.

Property Appraiser H.W. "Bill" Suber came up with the idea of not forwarding the renewal forms to new addresses. Also, it was Suber who

'If you moved and did not notify us, we must deny you the exemption.'

-Terry Goembel
Asst. Property Appraiser

persuaded the county commission to switch this year to the automatic renewals, an option the Legislature gave each county.

The automatic renewal forms went to the county address of each person who received a homestead exemption last year, said Terry Goembel, assistant property appraiser.

"If you moved and did not notify us, we must deny you the exemption," he said.

Goembel noted that although the bulk of the denials resulted from the returned renewal forms, field checks based on other information gathered by the office accounted for some of the 604 denials. The number of denials normally would be in the 100 range, he said.

People denied the exemptions can appeal on Aug. 17 to the property appraisal adjustment board, a panel made up of county commissioners Barbara Christensen, Bob Sturm, Sandra Glenn and school board members Larry Betsinger and Ann Neiswender. Board members listen to the appeals and decide whether those denied homesteads have been treated fairly. However, Goembel said he expects few to appeal.

"If five out of the 600 are there, I'd be surprised."

The board also rules on appeals of property assessments after receiving recommendations on the appeals from special masters, a process that begins in September. Recommendations of the special masters, who are chosen from the ranks of professional property appraisers, seldom are rejected by the board, even though recommendations of lower assessments are not uncommon, said Goembel. "The board tends to go along with the special masters."

The appraiser's office bases its assessments on "full just value," which represents 100 percent of the value of the property but not necessarily the market value.

Just how many appeals of property assessments will be heard by the special masters will not be known for another few weeks, according to Goembel.

County To Investigate Storage-Shed-Dwelling

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Reports of people living in storage sheds at the I-4 Industrial Park west of Sanford will be investigated by the park's manager and county officials.

"If I find them, I will throw them out ... We're patrolling. We're doing the best we can," said James Hickman, Hickman, manager of the 180-acre park, stressed today that the problem of people living in storage sheds is a nationwide problem. Hickman also said he is legally restrained from unlocking and walking into rented sheds to check them out.

A county official today said the county will look into the situation following published reports Monday and today. A sheriff's spokesman said the area is routinely patrolled, but there have been no reports of problems.

The reports surfaced after a man was seriously injured in the park early last Thursday while bicycling to work at a clock manufacturing firm in the park. His wife said they had been living in a storage shed with four children for at least three months and the firm's owner said upwards of 20 people were living in the sheds. Hickman said that figure, he believes, is exaggerated.

Published reports indicate, however, that at least three individuals and smaller family units are using the storage sheds for living quarters. Although the sheds have no windows, air-conditioning or toilet facilities, some of those who have set up housekeeping in them reportedly have fans, small cooking implements, and refrigerators.

John Dwyer, a county code enforcement official, said the county will inspect the park premises probably this week for signs that people are living there. He said there have been such complaints in the past, but a previous inspection a few months ago failed to turn up any violations. He said inspectors cannot look inside the sheds without the renters' permission. Hickman says he's restricted by the same laws.

Seminole County Sheriff's Chief Deputy Duane Harrell said today that the industrial park area is routinely patrolled by sheriff's deputies to check to make sure the area is secure. The timing and numbers of patrols into the area vary, he said, but there have been no reports of problems related to persons living in storage areas.

Harrell said he was not aware that people were living in the sheds. Sheriff's deputies have not taken any

Post Service Approves Lake Mary Mail Center

The U.S. Postal Service's board of governors Tuesday approved construction of a 318,000-square-foot mail distribution center on a 50.3-acre tract just east of Interstate 4 and south of County Road 46A.

The approximate $27 million facility is scheduled to open in the spring of 1990 and is expected to employ up to 800 workers. They will sort mail going to and from the 327 zip code area, according to a press release issued today by the Postal Service office in Tampa.

Preparation of the parcel for which the postal service paid $3.8 million is slated to begin in

Plans To Sue Longwood Commissioner

Administrator Says He Was Slandered

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood City Administrator Ron Waller says he will sue City Commissioner Lynette Dennis for slander.

In a memo he distributed Wednesday to the mayor and city commissioners, Waller charges Dennis distributed copies of a proposed resolution that is false and slanderous and attempted to introduce it at Monday's commission meeting. He said his lawyer will be taking legal action on this resolution.

Dennis said today she still plans to bring up the controversial resolution calling for Waller's firing at a special meeting of the city commission Thursday. The meeting is to follow a 7 p.m. work session at city hall.

The meeting was called to discuss projects the commission would like to see funded by the city's share of a proposed one-cent local option sales tax, but several unrelated items have been included, including the resolution commissioners refused to discuss Monday night when Dennis attempted to present it for consideration.

When Dennis tried to read the resolution during the city commission report time, Mayor Ed Myers said, "I got it too late to study and I don't think it should be read."

Dennis said she wanted to evaluate Waller's performance before the budget was approved.

Chamber Plans Constitution Celebration

A copy of the Constitution for all local citizens to sign, a sunrise flag-raising service and a proclamation by Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith are among local activities planned to recognize the 200th anniversary of the U.S. Constitution.

Tuesday the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Constitution Bicentennial Commission laid out celebration plans for Sept. 13-19, a week proclaimed nationally to recognize the kick-off of the planned five-year recognition.

The events will be sponsored by the committee. The committee instructed Dave Farr, executive director of the chamber, to send letters to all churches in the community urging that they recognize Sunday, Sept. 13, as Freedom of Religion Day as proclaimed by the U.S. Bicentennial Commission.

Churches will also be asked to ring their bells for 200 seconds beginning at 4 p.m. Sept. 17.

Churches throughout the nation are being asked to participate in the bell-ringing.

Jim Elliott, coordinator of social studies with the Seminole County Schools, said the school board will be asked to pass a resolution proclaiming the week at its Wednesday meeting, and several events are planned to recognize it.

The school district will also offer a six-week course on the background of the Constitution and the Constitutional Convention to high school juniors in U.S. History classes.

A sunrise flag-raising is planned for Memorial Park Sept. 17. Included will be an invocation, the singing of patriotic songs and a reading of the preamble to the Constitution.

Farr will also be in charge of having a copy of the Constitution printed on a long roll of parchment paper. The scroll will be introduced at

Accused Of Selling Trailer Twice, Different People; Doesn't Own It

Seminole County sheriff's deputies are investigating allegations by two residents of Black Hammock Fish Camp, Palm Drive, Oviedo. The two say that independently each has bought the same trailer from a man, whose address is also listed as the fish camp. The trailer belongs to a Casselberry relative of the suspect's and the owner said he had not given permission for the sales.

Helen Young, 56, of Park Drive, Oviedo, told sheriff's deputies she paid $500 for the trailer in addition to one month's rent, valued at $200. She was given a title with the owner's name signed to it, but the owner said he didn't sign the document, a sheriff's report said.

James Edward Phelps, 25, of Park Drive, told deputies he paid $510 for the trailer. Both Phelps and Young have receipts from the suspect showing they each paid for the same trailer, which the seller was not authorized to sell, a sheriff's report said.

Pot Crop Harvest

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy who found a single marijuana plant growing in a field he owns while he was mowing that area off State Road 434 near Wagner's Curve, at about 10 a.m. Monday called in another sheriff's deputy.

The two searched the area and reported finding and confiscating 15 pot plants growing on the deputy's property.

Jailed On Burglary Charges

An 18-year-old Altamonte Springs man was telephoned by two other suspects who allegedly burglarized Douglas Plumbing, Altamonte Springs, July 13. He responded to the call and met the pair shortly after the burglary and took possession of some stolen goods, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

The three left for California and after the 18-year-old man returned to Seminole County on July 30 he went to the Seminole County Sheriff's Department and made a statement to investigators.

A witness had earlier reported to sheriff's deputies the names of possible suspects in the case. Two remain free and the investigation continues.

Todd Allen Starkey of 501 Majorca Drive has been charged with burglary, grand theft and as an accessory after the fact. He has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court August 24.

Burglaries And Thefts Reported

Ann C. Vollet, 51, of Freeport, N.Y., gave sheriff's deputies the name of a suspect who may have stolen a washer and dryer valued at $100 each from her rental home at 2361 W. Lake Brantley Drive, Longwood. The theft occurred July 31 and was reported Monday.

DMSO abrasive powder valued at $500 was stolen along with a $50 radio from Southeastern Supply, 310 Lyman St., Casselberry, between Saturday and Monday, according to a report owner Bob J. Kittinger, of Casselberry, filed with sheriff's deputies.

A .45-caliber handgun, a $300 camera, a $900 pocket watch and $5 in change were stolen from the home of William E. Fulford, 43, of 2808 Jewett Lane, Sanford, Monday, a sheriff's report said.

Man Jailed On Rape Charge

A woman's accusation that a man, whom she tried to resist, raped her as they watched television together in the living room of a Winter Springs home at about 11:35 p.m. Saturday, brought the Sunday morning arrest of the man on a charge of sexual battery.

229 Albert St., Winter Springs, was arrested at his home at 8:48 a.m., after the victim reported the alleged attack to Winter Springs police and had been examined at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford.

Aldrich was being held without bond.

Man Charged In Car Attack

By Susan Lodes
 Herald Staff Writer

An attack with a car coat a man his left thumb, and has brought an attempted murder charge against the Sanford man who allegedly drove a car into the victim as he sat on a porch of a Sanford home at about 10:20 p.m. Tuesday.

The left thumb of William Franklin Lewis was cut off when Reginald L. Blocker, 37, of 401 Magnolia Ave., #4, allegedly threatened to kill Lewis and drove his car into the porch where Lewis and others were sitting at 808 1/2 Cypress Ave., Sanford, a Sanford police report said.

Blocker has been arrested by Sanford police on charges of attempted murder, aggravated battery and willful and wanton reckless driving. He was being held today in lieu of $25,000 bond. The arrest was made shortly after Lewis was injured.

Lewis, who left the crime scene when police arrived, was found at 90 Redding Garden, Sanford, and from there was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford. He remained in the hospital today in good condition. A hospital spokesman refused to say if any attempt had been made to reattach Lewis' thumb. Police did not report recovering the thumb at the scene.

Blocker told police he and Lewis had been "playing around," when Lewis "punched him in the face with his hand." Blocker allegedly left the porch, got into his 1987 Nissan and drove into the porch where Lewis was hit, apparently by the right front of the vehicle, which police reported was bloody.

Police questioned Blocker at the police station before booking him into the Seminole County jail and reported he stated several times that he had tried to kill Lewis and allegedly continued to make threats to kill him.

None of the other persons on the porch at the time of the crash were injured. A resident of that address, Milton Roebuck, who was on the porch, reportedly refused to make a statement to police about the incident.

Firestone Rumors Spark Speculation

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Speculation over the future make-up of Florida's Cabinet continues today, following Secretary of State George Firestone's refusal to dismiss a persistent rumor he will resign for a job in the private sector.

Firestone fueled speculation his resignation is imminent Tuesday, when he first dodged Capital Press Corps reporters at a Cabinet meeting, and, when finally cornered, refused to confirm or deny the rumor.

Firestone also asked Gov. Bob Martinez if Martinez would be available for a meeting on Wednesday. If he did resign, Firestone would have to submit his resignation to Martinez.

Martinez would then name a replacement who would serve through next year and have the option of running in the November 1988 elections.

A Firestone resignation would allow Martinez to appoint a Republican ally to the Cabinet, giving the GOP its first Cabinet post in modern Florida history.

It could also mean a return to public office for former Attorney General Jim Smith, now a top Martinez aide. Smith lost a bid for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination last year, then joined Martinez' staff and became a Republican.

Martinez and Smith have discussed Smith rejoining the Cabinet as Firestone's replacement, but Martinez said he has made no firm decision on who would replace Firestone if he does resign.

Rumors of a pending resignation have surrounded Firestone since early this year, when he told reporters he had been offered but rejected a job in the private sector. But Firestone said at that time he would listen to other job offers.

Sanford Files Liens On Florida Hotel

The city of Sanford filed two liens Tuesday, totaling $1,625, against the Florida Hotel, 500 S. Oak Ave., for nonpayment of fines levied against the property for city code violations.

The rooming house has been the subject of controversy for more than a year since the city cited the building for several violations.

The fines levied against the property result from a $250-per-day fine levied for violation of an off-street parking code until the violation was corrected. Another $25-per-day fine was levied for violation of the fire code until a sprinkler system was installed.

The liens were filed in circuit court and the owner of the property, Peggy Nestor of Matland, has six months in which to pay the fines, plus interest. If the fines have not been paid at the end of that period, the city can begin foreclosure proceedings.

Last September, the Code Enforcement Board voted to begin levying fines after violations of the building code were reported the previous winter, and had not been corrected. The city commission gave Nestor two waivers of code requirements to help her avoid further fines.

In October, the commission allowed her to muck an off-street parking lot instead of paving it, as code requires. The $250-per-day fine being levied was then stopped effective the day the parking lot was completed.

In November, the commission allowed another waiver, concerning 28 hotel room doors in the building. The commission said a sprinkler system could be installed in lieu of removing the doors, which Nestor claimed were historically significant, and aided efforts she said she was making to get a historical designation for the 100-year-old building.

Heat Wave Deaths Estimated At 80

United Press International
 An advance of cool air from Canada today shrank the portion of the country gripped by a heat wave blamed for at least 80 deaths as only the South sweltered in temperatures fit for ice salesmen but few others.

"It'll be the weekend before they really have much relief," National Weather Service forecaster Harry Gordon said, forecasting temperatures today from the mid 90s to around 100 degrees from the southern Plains across the lower Mississippi Valley and north along the Atlantic Coast to Virginia.

However, the cold front from Canada was expected to bring relief today as far south as Washington, D.C., where a high of 99 degrees Tuesday just missed the record for the day of 102.

"We're going to have a bit of a cool spell," said forecaster Scott Proaise in the nation's capital. "It should be anywhere from 85 to 90 degrees."

Since July 18, the heat wave has been blamed for 80 deaths in Missouri, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, South Carolina, Georgia, Wyoming, Iowa and South Dakota.

Record high temperatures were reached Tuesday with readings of 98 degrees in Huntsville, Ala., and Greensboro, N.C., 97 in Baltimore and Philadelphia, 94 in Bristol, Tenn., 91 in Asheville, N.C., and 89 in Beckley, W.Va.

"There aren't enough hours in the day to cover the increased business," said Stanley Friedman, co-owner of the Baltimore Ice Co., in Pikesville, Md. "When you go from 90 to 100 degrees in a stretch, usually business is about 20 percent above normal."

But Jim Furlong of Durham, N.C., where the temperature hit

94, called Tuesday "the No. 1 nominee for the worst day ever in Durham. It is just drip city."

The heat in West Virginia Tuesday touched off several forest fires.

"The conditions are not critical yet but it's right on the verge," said West Virginia Agriculture Director William Gillespie. "It's nothing big right now but if the heat continues there will be a few serious ones (fires)."

However, storms along the cold front did bring rain late Tuesday to Virginia and West Virginia. Rain fell today in North Carolina and from Georgia to Mississippi, Arkansas, southwest Missouri and western Tennessee and Kentucky.

In Scottsbluff, Neb., an 8-year-old girl died when runoff from heavy rains swept her down a drainage canal and under city streets for more than a mile Tuesday afternoon during a four-hour ordeal.

Heather Holland was hunting grasshoppers at the entrance to a drainage canal about 17 blocks from the North Platte River when she slipped and fell into the open ditch early Tuesday afternoon, police said.

In Cheyenne, Wyo., estimates placed damage at $27 million following a hailstorm that shattered windows, damaged roofs and dented cars.

The storm, which pelted the city with hail the size of golf balls Monday, is considered the third costliest in Wyoming history, the Western Insurance Information Service said Tuesday.

Insurance companies have paid Wyoming policy holders more than $134 million for hail damage in the past five years, the insurance service said.

Local Report

The high temperature Tuesday in Sanford was 94 degrees and the overnight low was 75 degrees as reported by the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center, Celery Avenue. There was no rainfall recorded. Mostly sunny today with expected high in the low to middle 90s and a 50 percent chance of afternoon showers.

Stockholders Decide Chrysler-AMC Merger

DETROIT (UPI) — The final step to approve a merger between Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. could be stalled by a group of dissident AMC stockholders challenging the $2 billion acquisition.

AMC shareholders were to vote today in a special stockholders' meeting on whether to approve the merger, and votes already received by mail indicate that it has, AMC officials said.

On Tuesday the Federal Trade Commission closed its investigation of Chrysler's planned acquisition of AMC, clearing the way for the deal to be completed on a vote by AMC stockholders.

But if the dissident group of shareholders has its way, that vote could be halted. The Shareholders Committee for an Independent American Motors Corp. filed suit in U.S. District Court in New York to stop the vote, accusing AMC of failing to disclose the true value of their shares.

In May, Chrysler agreed with AMC's board of directors and Renault, the French carmaker which owns 46.1 percent of AMC, to buy the No. 4 American automaker for $4.50 a share in a deal worth more than $2 billion that includes the assumption of AMC's long-term debt obligations.

Chrysler's original proposal to buy the ailing carmaker, which was made on March 9, offered AMC stockholders $4 a share.

Jordan H. Eakin, a lawyer and member of the committee that owns at least 15,030 shares of American Motors' cumulative convertible preferred stock, each worth $2,375, and 6,000 shares of the common stock, accused the company of omitting material facts from the proxy statement that were necessary for shareholders to make prudent investment and voting decisions. "We are in it to actually improve the value of the stock from $4.50 to $6.80 (per share)," Eakin said.

Eakin said AMC failed to mention $250 million in profits from its Jeep division and analyst projections showing projected AMC earnings of $3.40 per common share in 1989.

The suit asks that AMC be enjoined from holding the stockholders' vote, and that any vote on the proposed merger be nullified until a final judgment is made. The suit also sought an undisclosed amount in damages plus interest to the plaintiffs.

The suit is separate from three class-action suits filed on behalf of AMC's 111,000 shareholders that said the price is unfair and that the AMC proxy statement soliciting the takeover was in violation of federal law. AMC spokesman Lloyd Northard dismissed the suits as being "without merit," and noted that the three class-action suits "are being dismissed with no payments to the parties...."

In Washington, FTC spokesman Kevin Arquit said Tuesday that the agency had "voted to close the investigation of the proposed acquisition of American Motors Corp. by Chrysler Corp. That means the deal can go ahead."

AMC spokesman Michael Aberlich said no more details were available other than that "an approval had been granted in Washington."

Chrysler spokesman John Guinville also confirmed the FTC concluded its investigation into the merger, but said the No. 3 carmaker would have no immediate formal statement.

Sanford Negative To Hyacinth Solution

Sanford city commissioners remained unconvinced that the water hyacinth is the answer to the city's sewage treatment plans, despite arguments to the contrary Monday.

A representative of a Cocoa engineering firm which specializes in the treatment of waste water through the use of water hyacinth plants tried to convince the commission that such treatment would be beneficial to the city.

E. Allen Stewart III, senior vice president of Amasek, Inc., argued that the company's method of removing nutrients such as nitrogen and phosphorus from waste water is so effective the city would be able to discharge treated waste water into Lake Monroe.

However, City Manager Frank Falson and City Engineer Bill Simmons said the DER has been adamant about its ruling that Sanford can't discharge any nutrients into Lake Monroe.

Stewart said recent communications he has seen from DER officials in Tallahassee indicate a change in attitude toward a more realistic position concerning cities' waste water discharge problems.

Falson and Simmons said they would be interested in seeing such communication, but meanwhile had to stick to the city's stated plan of upgrading the waste water treatment plant and discharging the treated water through spray irrigation on city property and the 2,200-acre site near Lake Jeap.

Bristol Conklin of the city's consulting engineering firm, Conklin Porter & Holmes, said the DER has begun a sampling program to determine the nutrient levels of the St. Johns River, a program expected to last more than a year. Until that program is completed the city will not receive any different orders than to discharge any water into Lake Monroe.

"Until we get a different word from the DER we have to proceed on the basis that we can't put any nutrients into Lake Monroe," he said. "If we do receive different word in the future that would be the time we could consider your proposal," he said.

The commission agreed. Stewart said the Amasek system uses hyacinth plants in a lagoon. Waste water which has received primary treatment flows through the lagoon and the plants very effectively remove a large percentage of the water's nitrogen and phosphorus, he said.

The hyacinth plants are regularly harvested and ground up and have a good potential use as cattle feed supplement because of their high protein content, he said.

Stewart said an Amasek system has operated in Orlando for four years and another one has been very successful at Orange County's Iron Bridge facility, located in south Seminole County.

He also told the commission that Sanford could get a DER permit to discharge waste water containing nutrients into the St. Johns River if it used the hyacinth method to remove nutrients upstream.

Falson said that would be an entirely different project than the city is now engaged in to solve its waste water problem, and without any assurance from the DER that Sanford can discharge treated waste water into the river or Lake Monroe, the city has no reason to investigate such a plan.

Greyhound, Trailways Combine

Beginning today, Greyhound and Trailways buses will operate from the Greyhound terminal at 120 S. Park Ave., according to William J. Lambert, president of Southeast Greyhound Lines. The Trailways terminal at 1002 S. French Ave. will be closed.

"We are combining the terminals to improve service to our passengers and package customers," Lambert said.

Passengers will now be able to make connections between the two carriers in the same building, he said.

Until recently, Greyhound Lines and Trailways Lines were independent carriers with separate terminals. On July 14, Greyhound acquired the routes of Trailways Lines, under temporary authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"The merging of the two terminals is the first step in building a healthy new national bus system," Lambert said. "In recent years, during the deregulation of the transportation industry, the two carriers lost passenger traffic and withdrew from some routes."

"That is all behind us now," Lambert said. "We will maintain service to all communities on both networks, and in the future we will return to communities that lost bus service recently."

At the same time, the improved service of the single terminal operation will help Greyhound and Trailways Lines attract new passengers, he said.

Lambert also announced that Donald Drury has been appointed the commissioned agent for the combined Greyhound-Trailways Lines Terminal. Drury has been with Greyhound for 20 years.

Drury will be responsible for all terminal services in the combined operation.

Drury provides terminal services for the bus carriers as an independent business contractor. In that capacity, he employs the people who work in the terminal.

"The added traffic in the single terminal could require an increase in employment over the number who worked there up until now," Lambert said.

"We have encouraged the agent to consider employees of the Trailways terminal in the event he needs to hire additional people."

Passengers and package express customers can continue to call the telephone numbers listed for both carriers for schedule and fare information.

Thatcher's Global Role

With Ronald Reagan's lame-duck presidency gravely impaired by the Iran-Contra ordeal, a new senior leader of the Western world has emerged in Margaret Thatcher.

Recently re-elected as Britain's prime minister for a third consecutive term — unprecedented in this century — Thatcher arrived in Washington recently for a one-day visit during which her indomitable spirit contrasted vividly with Reagan's worn-out air.

"America is the flagship of freedom. She must sail into the sunrise and not look back at things that may or may not have happened," Thatcher declared in tones designed to inspire not only the Reagan crew but the captain as well. "If America does not take the leadership role ... she injures the interests of the free world."

Thatcher's energetic stewardship and clarity of purpose are readily evident as she advances her vision of "an England free of socialism" and of a democratic West that must bargain from a position of strength to ease tensions with Mikhail Gorbachev's swiftly evolving Soviet empire.

Two elements of the British parliamentary system have contributed to the making of Margaret Thatcher as the pre-eminent stateswoman of the Western Alliance.

One is the twice-weekly grilling the prime minister faces before opposition questioners in the noisy pit of the House of Commons. These sessions force the prime minister to defend her government's policies in detail. No leader, least of all Thatcher who relished the stormy debate, can survive without honing his or her thinking to articulate lucidity. It is hard to imagine that Ronald Reagan's grasp of policy would not benefit from similar face-to-face challenges on Capitol Hill.

A second factor that has suddenly enhanced Thatcher's stature at home and abroad after eight years in office is June's parliamentary elections, which returned power decisively to the Tories. No such opportunity to clear the political air is available to Reagan.

Under Thatcher's Conservative policies, Britain has undergone an economic transformation dubbed "populism." It has emphasized selling off a host of unprofitable state-run enterprises, curbing subsidies to failing industries, cutting taxes for individuals and businesses and enacting mortgage-tax deductions and selling off publicly owned rental units to encourage broader home ownership.

Along with falling inflation and more-robust economic growth, Thatcher's grass-roots economic reforms have spurred the number of Britons who own property or shares in private companies. Such structural changes in the economy have produced social changes that in turn have shifted crucial political support to the Tories.

Because of her successful policies, Thatcher arouses respect but not affection among voters. This admiration may be the key to her resilience despite the fact that many regard her as preachy, autocratic and insensitive to the needs of the less fortunate.

In spite of such traits, Britons have proved again their eagerness to follow her clarion lead. As Ronald Reagan's days in the White House dwindle, the Western democracies also are likely to turn increasingly to Thatcher's seasoned leadership, lending further support to her resolute pledge "to go on and on and on."

Congressional Leakers Are At It Again

By Steve Gerstel
WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the never-ending quarrel between the administration and Congress over which of the two branches of the government is more prone to leak sensitive information, Congress has just been caught behaving like a sieve.

Which does not end the dispute nor does it mean the administration is free of guilt. Leaking is, after all, an entrenched form of communication in the nation's capital.

Indeed, an investigation by the Senate Intelligence Committee discovered that two-thirds of classified intelligence leaks can be traced to the executive branch, based on an analysis of eight newspapers in the first six months of last year.

But two recent, highly publicized instances did little to turn away charges by Lt. Col. Oliver North and others that Congress cannot be trusted with secret information.

One involved Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, and Senate Republican leader Robert Dole; the other, Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., former vice chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee.

Aspin and Dole, along with other congressional leaders, were told details of the U.S. escort mission in the Persian Gulf — including the date the first convoy was to sail — during a closed meeting with top administration officials.

As soon as Aspin emerged from the sanctity of the briefing, he confided the starting date of the operation to reporters, a fact then quickly confirmed by Dole.

Aspin later lamely excused the breach by saying that the contents of the briefing were not classified. But it does not take a chairman of the House Armed Services Committee to figure out that the beginning date of a military operation should be kept secret.

There was no disclosure of classified information in the Leahy case that involved the leak of the Intelligence Committee's draft staff report on the investigation into the Iran-Contra scandal.

The draft had been declassified by the executive branch. But the disclosure was not authorized and the committee had voted not to release the report. Some Republicans charged the report was being suppressed by Democrats because it tended to distance President Reagan from the scandal.

The draft was made available to NBC by Leahy in January "because there were major gaps and other problems with it, and not because of a desire to embarrass the president."

the senator explained.

In a somewhat naive, self-serving statement, Leahy said he was "angry with himself" for letting NBC reporter John Dancy "examine the draft report and to be alone with it."

In the third-person statement, he said, "Senator Leahy had no intention that any part of the unclassified report be made public."

What did he think Dancy would do with it, save it for his memoirs?

Caught red-handed, Leahy submitted his resignation from the committee, a token gesture because he was due to leave under the panel's rotation system within a few weeks.

A much better-kept secret was the identity of Leahy as the leaker from Jan. 13 when he resigned until July 27 when he decided to come clean.

In the long term, neither disclosure did irreparable harm.

Certainly Iran would have known when the U.S. escorted convoy started making its way up the Persian Gulf and no one even remembers that the Intelligence Committee conducted an investigation of the Iran-Contra scandal.

But pin-pointed leaks such as these two provide fodder for those who, like Ollie North, need a reason not to confide in Congress.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Who Lied, North Or Casey?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Either Lt. Col. Oliver North or late CIA director William Casey lied about a crucial fact in the Iran arms deal, but congressional probes fear that with Casey dead the truth may never be known.

Central to North's testimony was his assertion that he always operated with the explicit knowledge of his superiors and under their direction.

Although on paper North reported to a series of national security advisers — first William P. Clark, then to his successor, Robert McFarlane, and then to his successor, Adm. John Poindexter — North testified he also took orders from Casey.

North said that Casey was fully aware of diversion of Iranian arms sales profits to the Contras. He claimed it was Casey who told him — shortly after the downing of the Eugene Hadenfus supply plane over Nicaragua — that the operation was starting to unravel, and that he should start tidying things up. North said he took this as a tacit order to destroy documents.

But in his testimony, Attorney General Edwin Meese all but called North a liar on these critical points.

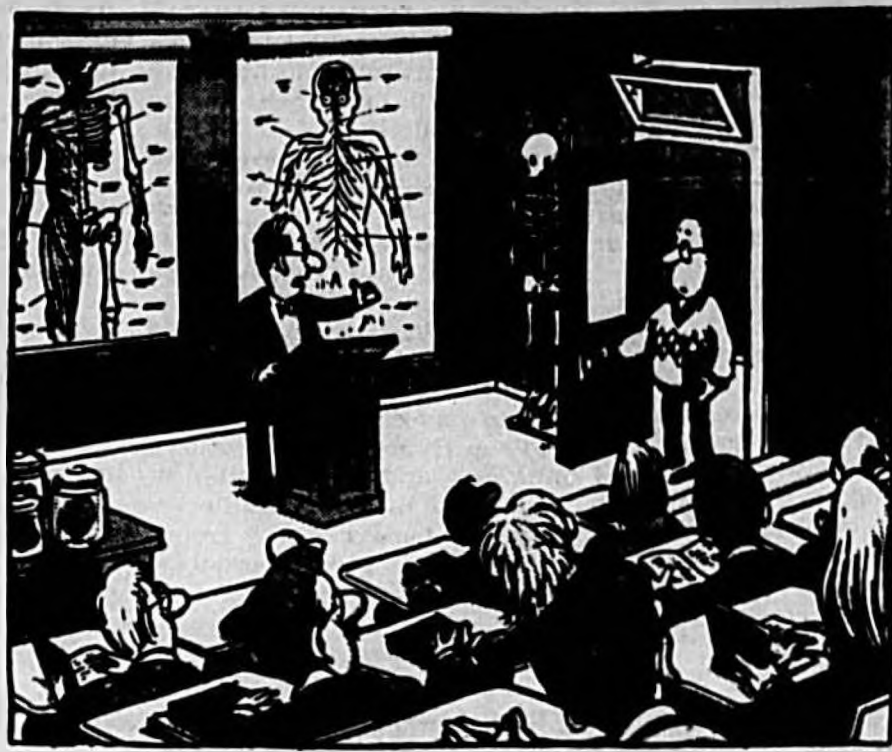

Meese said that he had twice asked Casey if he knew anything about the funds diversion. He said Casey told him that he knew nothing about it. Meese also said that the fact that the profits diversion was central to North's uments.

Based on years of friendship and working together, Meese said, he still believes that Casey was telling him the truth.

So who does one believe? Committee staffers say the only hope of sorting this out may lie in circumstantial evidence, much of which tends to back up North.

Evidence shows that North and Casey had a close relationship, both personally and professionally. Casey's office logs show that the two met alone in Casey's office at CIA headquarters on 35 occasions in less than a year. North's logs show at least that many meetings between the two either in North's NSC office or in the office that Casey maintained in the White House complex.

Other evidence shows that Casey was very involved in the day-to-day contra resupply operation, and that North was very involved in many operations Casey was running.

"... No, this is pre-law... pre-med is next door studying civil liability statutes."

Neologists Everywhere

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The only female I ever knew to publicly admit placing an ad in a "personals" column said she advertised herself as an expert player of word games.

I don't know whether it was the novelty of the approach, or what, but she told me she had good response and eventually narrowed down the list to a few suitors.

One, at last report, was still holding on, presumably in hopes of one day beating her at Scrabble.

I can't imagine why else he persists. Frankly, this female is no looker.

Nevertheless, according to Genesis magazine, there is no longer any need "to shrink at the idea of placing or answering personal ads."

"Not too long ago," the "girlie" periodical concedes, "personal ads were mainly back-of-the-book fillers in sex tabloids or semi-racial publications."

But now, it says, "dozens of mainstream publications" carry them. Chances are, it adds, some publication in your hometown prints personals.

Oh, no! Not the ol' hometown! Well, as the saying has it, "There goes the neighborhood!"

Genesis attributes the acceptance of this kind of advertising to "censorship guidelines" that help keep the ads "relatively tame." Even "married men and women are almost always barred," it says.

A casual reader might think the letter "M" stands for "married." However, the magazine claims it means "mature" or "middle-age." There is no evidence that it stands for "monkey business."

If the day ever comes when matrimony is considered erotic in my hometown, heaven help us all. But "Genesis is blunt about how to make fudge," a spokesman says.

"If you're trim," he advises, "just throw in height and weight stats. No problem."

"But if you're overweight, try 'huggable,' 'cuddly,' 'snuggly' or 'teddy bear.' And if you've got a good job, flaunt it: pilot, cattle breeder, physician."

"If not, try to sneak in some mealy mouthed euphemism, such as 'professional' or 'financially secure' — meaning can raise the rent money when you have to."

This mavin, however, recommends "avoiding trite come-ons such as ski-jogging partner. Why not be original?"

You mean, like, "good at word games?"

My mentor also suggests adding "a dash of spice," where applicable. He assures me "you can slip in such suggestive labels as 'velvet,' 'sensual' and 'adventurous.'"

Why, he continues, some publications "will every let you drop in code words such as 'discreet' and 'libertine' — words that hint you are married and will keep the affair hush-hush."

"Used to be that young people who wanted to meet members of the opposite sex dropped in at the local pub. Now they drop a personal to the local publisher."

Maybe so. But if you run across a "personal" in which a married neologist seeks companionships with word games in mind, don't answer.

Pregnancy Symptoms Shared

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

BOSTON — Fathers-to-be tend to share the same symptoms as their partners during pregnancy, including feelings of anxiety and fatigue, according to a recent study by University of Pennsylvania researchers.

Other studies have shown that between 25 percent and 50 percent of expectant fathers exhibit psychological and physical symptoms common to pregnant women, but the new study shows the symptoms of the future fathers tend to mirror those of their partners.

"Previous studies have looked only at men while we looked at the women as well," said Jaqueline Fawcett, a professor at the university's school of nursing who co-authored the study.

"We found if a wife had a particular symptom, the husband was more likely to have that symptom also," she said. "If one did not have the symptom, neither did the other."

Fawcett and her colleague, university researcher Ruth York, studied 70 couples in the Philadelphia area, the majority of whom expected a baby within a few months. The remainder had had a baby within six weeks of the study period.

The couples were asked to independently fill out detailed questionnaires about their health that asked when specific symptoms developed and for how long they had persisted.

The survey also asked questions about the participants' attitudes and mental well-being, Fawcett said.

"The results showed a striking similarity between what husbands reported and what their wives reported," Fawcett said. "Statistically it was very significant."

In particular, the couples were most likely to experience fatigue and irritability together, according to the study results.

However, couples late in pregnancy tended to have different psychological symptoms, suggesting that men and women develop different attitudes as actual childbirth becomes imminent.

She said about half of the men in the study had symptoms in common with their wives and the remainder had no symptoms.

JACK ANDERSON

Baldrige Saw Space As The True Frontier

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The violent death of Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige has cheated America of a leader who had a vision of the future. In his quiet corner of Washington, he sought to open up the space frontier to entrepreneurs as well as explorers.

As he saw the future, it would belong to the nation that conquered space. For the technology of tomorrow, he believed, will be developed on the space frontier.

Baldrige watched in dismay as the Soviet Union, like the tortoise, pulled relentlessly ahead in the space race. Rabbit-like, America would leap ahead briefly, then sit back on its haunches while the plodding Russians moved steadily onward and upward.

The Soviets launched their rockets in all kinds of weather, undeterred by accidents or failures. A few cosmonauts died, some on the launch pad, others in orbit. The Soviet Union paused a moment to mourn and deliver medals to the survivors, then immediately resumed the space flights.

All told, the Soviets have sent up 40 times more space launches than we have. Of 103 rockets that roared into orbit last year, 91 came out of the Soviet Union. It was their lowest number in six years.

Soviet cosmonauts have had far more experience in space than American astronauts. The cosmonauts have performed unmatched feats in space. They have trained aboard space stations that the United States won't be able to duplicate until the mid-1990s.

Jane's Space Flight Directory, the most eminent authority on space, calls the Soviet lead in space "frightening." According to Jane's, the Soviet Union is now 10 years ahead of the United States in space development.

Yet Soviet leader Mikhail

Gorbachev has assigned still higher priority to the Soviet space program. Intelligence reports explain that he believes space exploration will boost Soviet technology and give the Soviet Union an edge in the high-tech age.

All these facts troubled Malcolm Baldrige. He believed that progress in space was too important to be left to the scientists and specialists alone. "Space is no longer the exclusive domain of science," he contended. He wanted to turn the free enterprise system loose on this new frontier.

"Cutting-edge technology has always been one of America's competitive advantages," he wrote shortly before he died. "It is important to our security and prosperity that we maintain leadership in this field." We will fall behind in technology, he warned, unless we "maintain our space leadership into the 21st century and beyond."

Baldrige contended that "government should devote itself to research and leave the commercial development and application of new technologies to the private sector." He looked upon space as a "national laboratory" where the government should conduct research. But as fast as businesses could adopt the new technologies and operate in space, he wanted to declare the orbit path around the earth a "commercial zone" open to entrepreneurs.

It was his vision that space explorers and entrepreneurs, working together, would develop technologies that would improve everyday life, thus ensuring that America's best years lie ahead.

Footnote: Before he died, Baldrige was working with Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole on a campaign to promote space exploration, development and commercialization. Those who share their dream can contact Upward America, P.O. Box 65432, Washington, D.C., 20036.

School Plans Year-Long Anniversary Celebration

The Seminole County school system will begin in August celebration of 75 years of serving students culminating on its birthday in August 1988.

The school board plans to mark the year-long birthday celebration with different events and ceremonies that will emphasize the history of the school system and the county.

Karen Coleman, coordinator of community relations and public information for the school board, said the school administration is working on materials that will remind children of Seminole schools of the importance of the past of this area.

"Over the year we will share with students and others some of the interesting facts about the history of this outstanding county," Coleman said.

The school system was established in 1913 after the Florida Legislature divided Orange County into two separate sections, with the northern part becoming Seminole County. Seminole was the 50th county in the state.

Coleman explained the school board is putting so much emphasis on its history, and that of the county, because students are so unaware of what has happened to bring schools to where they are today.

"We also want to remind students of the great resources made available to them by the work of people from the Seminole's past," she said.

One of the places of focus Coleman said will receive a great deal of attention throughout the coming year is the student museum, "formerly Sanford

Grammar School, and before that the site of the first Sanford High School.

The museum is located between Elm and Myrtle avenues at Fourth Street.

Coleman said all Seminole schools are being encouraged to prepare a presentation on their individual history that will be on display at the museum. She also said there will be exhibits spotlighting the early Indian population in the county, as well as one on the Seminole school classroom at the turn of the century.

An exhibit following the theme of American ingenuity is also being developed for the museum. Coleman said the exhibit will feature a memorial for the crew of the Space Shuttle Challenger to be entitled "Reach for the Stars".

Coleman feels the 75th birthday of Seminole County and its school system will be of interest to many local residents.

"A lot of people want to share in the history of the area," she said.

Opinion: Reagan Credibility Hurt

By United Press International

The Iran-Contra hearings damaged President Reagan's credibility but probably will not have any lasting effect on relations between the United States and its allies and adversaries, a sampling of world opinion showed Tuesday.

The biggest loser in the hearings was Reagan, whose image overseas was sullied by revelations about his role in sending arms to Iran and White House involvement in diverting profits from the arms deals to Nicaraguan rebels.

One self-proclaimed winner was Israel, which was criticized for helping arrange the arms deal.

"The general impression was it was not too bad for Israel," said an Israeli government official, who asked not to be named. "Israel was mentioned a couple of times in these hearings, a few times with a negative connotation. But I think most times we were mentioned as actually telling the truth (about Israel's role)."

Some of the reaction was predictable. The Soviet news agency Tass said, "The affair has, in general opinion, done enormous damage to the prestige of Reagan and the administration as a whole, and undermined trust in them."

In Nicaragua, where the government videotaped the proceedings every day, officials trumpeted the developments as evidence of the "illegal" U.S. war against them.

But allies also were rocked by the developments. In Japan, the Japan Times said, "The principal casualty in all this was not a man, however, but a reputation: Mr. Reagan's as president."

"Perhaps worst of all, the first (full) two-term American leader since Dwight Eisenhower has been shown to be incompetent or foolish," the newspaper said in an editorial.

Scie suggested the hearings might hamper U.S. ability to deal with the rest of the world.

Peruvian Sen. Manuel Ulloa Elias said the revelations of a secret Contra-financing network and other covert operations might undermine the United States in the eyes of the developing world.

"It confirms the impression that we are subject to all these pressures, and we have to take it into account whether we are discussing the renegotiation of foreign debt or protectionism or what have you," he said.

But most observers believed the hearings would not have a lasting effect.

"Obviously, Reagan made some mistakes, but he'll survive it," said Yaaron Jacobs, 24, an international relations student at Bar Elan University in Israel. "Somehow it will all pass. What could possibly happen now?"

Still, the Mainichi Shimbun, one of Tokyo's bigger dailies, predicted the damaged Reagan administration would pay more attention to its allies in its remaining months in office.

Commentators in Britain were harsh in their assessment of Reagan. The London Times said the president "now seems a spent force."

Few people overseas seemed impressed by Lt. Col. Oliver North, the former National Security Council aide whose unapologetic testimony about his scheme to divert arms profits to the Contras captured U.S. public opinion.

Redesigned Booster Joints Hold Up Under Pressure Test

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah (UPI) — The redesigned space shuttle booster rocket joint apparently held up under the ferocious pressure of its first test-firing, keeping the shuttle program on track for a launch next year, officials say.

Rocket maker Morton Thiokol Inc. tested the redesigned O-ring joints for the first time Tuesday using live propellant during a short firing of a small-scale booster that marked a major milestone toward the planned June 2, 1988, launch of the shuttle Discovery on the first post-Challenger mission.

"We carefully inspected the joints and didn't see any evidence at all that any gas had escaped," said Allan McDonald, a top Thiokol engineer. "I think it's basically a design that's going to fly."

RFK Files To Be Released

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Questions about the possibility of a second gunman in the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy may finally be answered when the police investigation files are released after nearly 20 years under an agreement the city has signed.

After nearly two decades of broken promises and delays, city officials said Tuesday they have signed an agreement that will release the police files of the 1968 assassination.

The agreement marks the first time the city would allow the public full access to the Kennedy files since the Los Angeles Police Department completed its investigation in 1969. The New York senator was shot and killed in a pantry of the Ambassador Hotel on June 5, 1968, just after winning the California primary during his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Critics of the delays in releasing the files say the documents may embarrass the police department, which has been accused of conducting a shoddy investigation.

2 Arrests In Freeway Shootings

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The recent spate of shootings on Southern California roads increased by four in one day, and police made two fresh arrests in the traffic violence that has spurred officials to post $25,000 rewards.

Longwood Proposes 8.6% Tax Increase

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood commissioners set the city's property tax rate for fiscal 1987-88 at $3.15 per $1,000 assessed property valuation, up 25 cents from last year's $2.90 rate. The commission rejected the $3.61 tax rate proposed by City Administrator Ron Waller.

Waller proposed the $3.61 rate to fund a proposed revised general fund budget of $4,611,894. The budget will remain the same under the lower rate. Commissioners said they feel enough revenues will be available due to carryovers from this year.

The first public hearing on the proposed budget was set for Sept. 14.

Fire and Police increases account for 51 percent of the increased tax rate.

Waller originally proposed a $4,279,327 87-88 general fund budget with the property tax rate remaining at $2.90 per thousand, which would still have provided more revenue than this year because of increased value of taxable property in the city. The tax rate that would have provided the same revenue as this year is the official "roll-back" rate of $2.627. The tax rate set, $3.15 is 19.9 percent

If the commissioners had failed to set the tax rate, the city would have been stuck with the roll-back rate.

The total proposed city budget including the various self-supported funds is $9,072,555.

Commissioner Harvey Smerilson, who made the motion to adopt the $3.15 rate, said he went through the proposed budget and calculated a "tremendous carry-over" from this year because some budgeted positions are unfilled. He said because of this the commission could set the tax rate at $3.15 and still go on with road improvements, expand parks and recreation, hire new people and come up with added services.

The commission agreed with Waller that another work session is needed to go over the revised budget, but didn't set a date and time. The budget was prepared by Waller after commissioners agreed by consensus on increases sought by department heads at the July 21 marathon budget work session.

Waller told the commission it was essential that they agree on a proposed tax rate Monday to beat the Tuesday deadline for submitting the proposed rate to the county property appraiser.

In allegations brought against Dennis at Monday night's meeting, Carolyn Emiling accused her of telling City Clerk Don Terry shortly before midnight during a work session on the budget to turn off the tape so that the media would not hear her evaluation of Waller.

However, Terry said Tuesday he honestly did not recall Dennis ever telling him to turn off the tape.

Commissioner Harvey Smerilson told Dennis Monday that according to the charter, the city administrator is supposed to be evaluated in December.

The reason in the proposed resolution given for firing Waller is "incompetency." According to Dennis's resolution, the city administrator "has not performed his duties as required by the city charter which makes him responsible to the commission for the administration of all city affairs placed in his charge. He has not provided the leadership necessary for a growing city to cope with its many problems."

Specifically the document charges a "lack of initiative with respect to the city's sewer problems. The city still has not received permission to spend money borrowed from Sun Bank to complete the agreement approved by the commission in December 1986. Meanwhile, the Columbus Harbour and Skylark sewer plants have both been charged by the Department of Environmental Regulation due to their poor condition.

"The charter states that the city administrator shall appoint and when necessary for the good of the city, suspend or remove all city employees and department heads. He has not supervised the departments with sufficient supervision to be aware of the many problems that are obvious. I offer the situation as is apparent in the Finance Department and the Police Departments. The problems in Finance were brought to the commission's attention by the city auditor and the solutions were also recommended by them. The city has still not received a final audit report.

"The auditor was unable to give an opinion due to the lack of information from the finance director even though the information had been requested for months. Mr. Waller failed to direct that required information be provided. The problems in the Police Department were brought to his attention by Commissioner (Dave) Gunter.

"The city charter states that the city administrator shall make such reports as the commission may require concerning the operations of city departments, offices and agencies subject to his direction and supervision. Waller has not been receptive to my requests for information on a number of occasions. When I went to him for information on items on the agenda, he responded with the comment, 'I am not a great fountain of knowledge.' He advised the commission at a public meeting that he would not furnish documents to the commission unless they were requested at a public meeting.

"The city charter requires the city administrator to keep the commission fully advised as to the financial condition and future needs of the city and make such recommendations concerning the affairs of the city. Mr. Waller does not seek out problem areas within the city departments. He waits until problems are brought to his attention by a commissioner."

Dennis also pointed out a newspaper editorial discussing Waller's "lack of leadership" and said she no longer has trust and confidence in his ability to serve as city administrator.

Also on the agenda for the special meeting:

- Authorization of a survey of streets in Longwood Industrial Park in preparation for the city's laying claim to them.
- Authorization for Waller to fill the position of purchasing director. Waller told the commission Monday night that he had received a couple of in-house applications and would like authorization to hire one of them. He said having a purchasing ordinance and no one to fill the position of purchasing director was a "Catch 22."
- Setting of a date and time for a work session on the proposed revised budget for the coming year.

action since the dwellers living conditions were publicized.

"Right now nothing has come over from zoning. It's not a criminal violation. It's a zoning violation. I don't know what they're going to do," Harrell said. Sheriff's deputies would enforce the law as it pertains to zoning regulations on orders from that department, but Harrell said he would hate to see the storage dwellers put out in the streets. "I don't know where they could go. These people are up against the wall," he said. Hickman agrees and said in addition to the zoning ordinance questions, "there are moral questions."

"This is an ongoing problem, and it has been going on since the beginning of God," said Hickman.

"It is not unique to this area or this complex. It happens in every warehouse space in Central Florida. I suspect five years from now you will find people living in them."

But, he said, "If you think I am going to jeopardize anything for $150 a month (rental fee on some of the sheds, depending upon size) you are on the wrong track." He said he could be fined $250 a day if he allowed people to live in the sheds.

Hickman said he has 174 storage units renting from $20 to $500. They range in size from 5 feet by 6 feet to 30 feet by 50 feet.

Hickman said there are legal and moral issues involved when inquiring whether people are living in the storage sheds, or using them for illegal purposes.

"I can't check for marijuana. I can't check for dope," said Hickman. "The moment I discover it, they will be out of here." He said he has helped law enforcement when he could to make drug busts in the park.

"Legally, I don't allow anybody to stay there. Morally, am I going to make a guy go stay in the woods? I have a dilemma. I have never dealt with it. I have never been faced with that situation. My god, I have never faced it! "I'll look into it," he said.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Chilean Airliner Crashes; American Only Casualty

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — A Lan Chile Boeing 737 carrying 32 passengers and crew collapsed onto its belly and burst into flames while landing in the northern town of Calama, killing a passenger believed to be an American executive, officials said.

The remaining 31 people aboard slid down the emergency chutes to safety. Three crew members received minor injuries.

The airline spokesman said authorities tentatively identified the dead passenger as Ronald Josey, an executive for Caterpillar who worked in the Chilean copper mining industry.

A spokesman for the airline said the plane's right front tire apparently burst on landing at 6:20 p.m. EDT Tuesday, collapsing the undercarriage and slamming the nose to the tarmac.

Pilgrims Plan Demonstrations

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — The first Iranian dead and wounded from clashes in Mecca were airlifted home today and Tehran warned that interference by Saudi authorities in two more planned demonstrations this week could lead to another catastrophe in the holy city.

The official Islamic Republic News Agency said an Iran-Air plane left Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, at 11:23 p.m. (3:53 p.m. EDT) Tuesday carrying "58 martyred and 41 wounded pilgrims" from the "horrible crime of the Saudi regime in Mecca."

The airliner was scheduled to reach Tehran by 3 a.m. today (7:30 p.m. Tuesday EDT) and would be given an official welcome as "the first caravan of martyred and wounded pilgrims," said IRNA. It did not say when further flights would be made.

Protesters Taunt Agents

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — Hundreds of angry protesters taunted government agents with shouts of "murderer" and "justice" as officials raided the offices of Panama's opposition movement and carted away boxes of documents.

The protesters gathered in a driving rain Tuesday at the Panamanian Chamber of Commerce, jeering and throwing rocks at government agents who confiscated documents from the headquarters of the National Civic Crusade, which has orchestrated two months of protests against the military-backed government.

The raid was the latest attempt by the government to silence opponents of military strongman Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, members of the movement charged. The government last week shut down three opposition newspapers.

Officials of the attorney general's office, accompanied by armed plainclothes security agents searched through files at crusade headquarters and confiscated papers they said threatened national security.

Fiji Emergency Lifted

SUVA, Fiji (UPI) — Governor-General Ratu Sir Penala Ganilau today lifted emergency restrictions imposed following a May 14 military coup, but ethnic tensions in the island nation remained high, with some natives urging all non-Fijians to leave the country.

A spokesman said Ganilau signed an order lifting emergency restrictions on food, private property, ships and road transportation, saying a growing mood of national reconciliation made the move possible.

Ganilau's interim government invoked the emergency to stabilize the nation's faltering economy shortly after a May 14 military coup led by Lt. Col. Sitiveni Rabuka toppled Fiji's first Indian-dominated government. Some residents charged the restrictions violated their constitutional rights.

Despite the easing of economic and travel restrictions, ethnic tensions between ethnic Fijians and the majority Indian population remained high, with one right-wing group urging all non-Fijians to leave the country.

Thousands Remember Hiroshima

HIROSHIMA, Japan (UPI) — Thousands of people from around the world gathered today in the world's first city devastated by an atomic bomb to pray and remember the American attack 42 years ago.

Some 150 Korean residents and Japanese held a solemn service in memory of the more than 2,300 Korean victims who died in the holocaust. The attendants, many clad in the traditional Korean costume, offered a one-minute silent prayer for the victims and resolved to work together for peace.

Organizers said 2,318 Koreans, most of them brought to Japan during World War II for hard labor, were confirmed to have died in the atomic bombing of the city on Aug. 6, 1945.

Advertise For Sale: Either Orchard Or Son

DEAR ABBY: Our problem is failure. Now, in our late 60s, my husband and I have lost all of our savings in an effort to do more for our children, especially our 40-year-old son who talked us into mortgaging our farm and going into debt to purchase a nearby peach orchard in Georgia.

We desperately need to sell our peach orchard. There are so many people with so much money now; surely the prospect of expenses deductible from income tax should appeal to them. And the expense of operating a peach orchard is considerable, and it's deductible.

Abby, can you help us find a buyer?

NEEDS A BUYER

P.S. Our son is tall, blond, handsome and unmarried. Many girls have tried to land him. My only other hope is that some wealthy girl who loves horses as we all do will show up.

DEAR NEEDS: I urge you to advertise in your newspaper and contact an agent whose business it is to sell such properties. If that doesn't bear fruit, forget the orchard and advertise your son. (Only kidding.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a real couch potato. Now, don't get me wrong, I like TV as much as the next person, but here's my problem: He stays up until all hours watching old movies and reruns and then comes to bed late. It's not that he ignores me or is trying to avoid sex — it's just the opposite. He wakes me up at 2 or 3 a.m. wanting to be romantic.

I have asked him to come to bed first, then watch TV afterward, but he says it takes away all the spontaneity. But, Abby, once I go to sleep I would like to stay asleep.

What do you think?
MRS. COUCH POTATO, GLENDALE HEIGHTS, ILL.

DEAR MRS. POTATO: Forget the spontaneity and plan ahead. Talk this out together while you're both wide awake.

DEAR ABBY: This October, my husband and I will have been married for five years, and I have never sent thank-you notes to relatives and friends who gave us wedding gifts. Needless to say, I feel terribly guilty about this.

Is there a way I can now, at this late date, send the thank-you along with an apology? I guess what I'm hoping for is a "magic phrase" that I can incorporate into the "thank you" note which will enable them to forgive me, and, I hope, to understand that I not only want to thank them, but also want to correct this seemingly rude omission.

Thank you in advance, Abby!
C.H.M. IN BRAINTREE, MASS.

DEAR C.H.M.: The "magic phrase" is: "We are profoundly embarrassed to be writing at this very late date to thank you for the beautiful ice bucket you gave us when we were married."

"Please forgive us for what must seem an inexcusably tardy acknowledgement. Believe us to be terribly ashamed. However, the pleasure we have received from that wonderful ice bucket would warm your heart" etc."

I hope you have kept a list of what each giver gave because if you can make an identifying comment about the gift, you may be more readily forgiven. Good luck.

Human Rights Forum Proposed For Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) — A high-ranking Soviet official Tuesday reiterated a Soviet proposal to hold an international human rights conference in Moscow with all full sessions "open for the public and press."

But a self-styled glasnost press club, including former political prisoners, issued an appeal to Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev that it be allowed to participate in such a forum, and that all political prisoners be freed to set the stage for the forum.

Yuri Kashlev, the Soviet representative at the Vienna conference on European Security, repeated a Soviet offer made at Vienna to hold the human rights conference followup to the 1975 Helsinki Accords in the Soviet capital.

"For the first time in the history of the all-European process, we have proposed to hold all the plenary meetings open for public and press," Kashlev told a news conference. "This has never happened before."

"Representatives of various organizations defending human rights will be admitted to Moscow in strict accordance with the standards and norms of the all-European process," Kashlev said.

By standards and norms for admittance, he said he was referring to those used in other human rights conferences at Belgrade, Yugoslavia, in 1977-78 that also were convened to monitor the observation of the Helsinki accords.

Asked about the attendance of exiled former Soviet citizens who participated in counter-conference in 1986 at the Vienna meeting, he said Moscow would not block them.

"I think that if Moscow conference is to be attended by these kinds of people, who would want to arrange a similar action like that, I think, let them hold it. I don't know how this will be arranged," he said.

Kashlev also noted that the people, who participated in the counter-conference in Vienna, wrote an open manifesto to Gorbachev, "which was made widely public in this country, far wider than in the West incidentally."

Kashlev said the proposal made a strong impression and Western delegations were thinking about it, an identical view voiced with some fear early Tuesday at a news conference by a self-styled Glasnost press club, named for Gorbachev's policy of glasnost, Russian for openness.

"Chiefly because of the really existing possibility (of a Moscow conference), we consider that the favorable prerequisites might be the following actions by the Soviet government," said Lev Timofeyev, 50, a former political prisoner and the secretary of Glasnost.

Timofeyev, released in February after serving two years of an 11-year sentence, then called for the unconditional release of all political prisoners and their full rehabilitation, and freedom for independent information organizations.

In an appeal addressed to Gorbachev, Timofeyev said his group of about 10 were not setting any conditions for holding such a rights session in Moscow.

Martinez, Nationals Bomb West Tampa, 16-4

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

DUNEDIN — To say that Eric Martinez has been on a roll would be a gross understatement.

Martinez, a hard-hitting left-hander, has been the bread and butter of the District 14 Nationals' offense. Tuesday night, he continued his offensive tear as he went 4 for 4 with two RBIs, leading the Nationals to an impressive 16-4 victory over West Tampa in the winners' bracket final of the Florida Big League State Tournament before 123 fans at Englebert Field.

"I know what I have to do up there," Eric Martinez, who leads the team with 12 RBIs said. "I'm seeing the ball well and making contact every time I'm up there."

The victory advances the Nationals into Thursday night's championship game at Grant Park. The Nationals will await the winner of tonight's losers' bracket final between Dunedin and West Tampa. Dunedin eliminated Brevard with a 7-4 victory Tuesday night.

Nationals' manager Gene Letterio said that he would rather take on Dunedin.

"I think it will be more exciting to play someone you haven't already seen," Letterio said. "They are the host team of the tournament and I'm sure they would draw a lot of people."

Letterio said that Steve Shakar, a hard-throwing lefty, will be on the mound Thursday night.

Baseball

"I was saving Steve (Shakar) for the championship game," Letterio said. "On last year's team, they didn't have that many pitchers, but this year we have the ability to do a lot of different things with our pitchers. I'm confident Steve will do the job for us. He's pitched in several big games before."

Nationals' pitcher Dave Westgate, who struggle in two previous appearances, relieved starter Anthony Laszaic, who gave up two runs in the bottom of the first inning. Westgate went the rest of the way and yielded six hits.

"I can't tell you how relieved I am," Westgate, who fanned 10 while walking two, said. "In the other two games I pitched, I was overstriding. Tonight I wasn't and I threw the ball harder than I have in a long time."

Letterio said he was encouraged with the way Westgate performed.

"He came in an did a heck of a job," Letterio said of Westgate. "You have to be pleased when a guy comes off the bench and pitches the way he does."

The Nationals pounded out 13 hits as they went through four Tampa pitchers. Mark Whiteside was the starter and loser. All but one of the Nationals' starters recorded hits with Martinez leading the way.

Catcher Ryan Liale had a pair of RBIs while Ernest Martinez, Mike Schmit, Glen Reichle, Laszaic, Mark Coffey, William Thompson, Westgate and Russ Adler all drove in runs.

"We are playing as a team right now and they're really pleasing me," Letterio said. "The kids are swinging the bats well and I think it is going to take a good team playing its absolute best to beat us."

Coffey, who had been in a slump lately, said he feels more confident at the plate. "I'm a lot looser out there and getting a lot better cuts than in the previous two games."

After Tampa scored a pair of runs in the bottom of the first to take the early lead, the Nationals, who have been a big-inning team, came back with five in the top of the second.

Reichle started the rally with a single to center. Laszaic followed with a long double to center, scoring Reichle. After two walks and a wild pitch scored a run, Liale hit the first of two sacrifice flies. Ernest Martinez then ripped a single to left to score Westgate. After Ernest stole second, Eric

Er. Martinez

Letterio

Martinez clubbed a single to left, scoring Ernest.

After Tampa added a run in the third, the Nationals retaliated with six in the fourth to pull away. Liale led off with a single to left, Ernest Martinez walked and Eric Martinez singled to center to score Liale. After a walk loaded the bases, a passed ball scored two more runs. Coffey then lined a two-run single to left.

The Nationals added to their lead with five runs in the sixth in which Schmit hit a two-run single to right.

"I think we needed a game like this," Letterio said. "If we are to win this tournament, I want there to be no doubt we are the best team."

Disneyed Athletes Head For Pan Am

LAKE BUENA VISTA (UPI) — About 300 athletes leave Central Florida today for competition at the 10th Pan American Games, following a day of ceremony and frolic with Mickey and Goofy at the nation's No. 1 tourist attraction.

Athletes and dignitaries from 30 Western Hemisphere countries visited Walt Disney World outside Orlando, courtesy of Disney, which is staging the Games' opening ceremonies Saturday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The extravaganza will be broadcast live on CBS television 8 p.m. EDT.

The athletes paraded down Main Street USA in the sweltering Florida sun Tuesday to Cinderella's Castle to hear brief remarks — translated into Spanish and English — by Indianapolis Mayor William Hudnut, Disney World President Dick Nunis and Mario Vazquez-Rana, president of the Pan American Sports Organization.

Playing on a familiar Disney theme, Hudnut told the athletes in Spanish. "I hope that all your dreams come true in our city. Have a good day."

Mickey Mouse squeaked a bilingual "good luck" and was joined by Disney's other costumed critters and hundreds of tourists in screaming "hip-hip-hurray" for the Pan American athletes. About 10 from each nation participated.

U.S. Olympic medalist Carl Lewis, who was supposed to headline the American delegation, did not attend, so the task of lighting the symbolic torch fell to Tracie Ruiz-Conforto, the gold medal-winning synchronized swimmer.

Although the athletes of the Pan American Games, featuring 30 sports competitions over 16 days, listened politely to the speeches, it was clear the real thrill was visiting the Disney corporate showcase.

After ceremonies, many giggled as they gathered for pictures with the furry Disney characters.

Roberto Lazzarini, a Brazilian fencer, echoed the sentiments of others.

Single Shot Could Decide PGA

Golf

PALM BEACH GARDENS (UPI) — Chances are reasonable that at the end of this week's PGA championship, the tournament will be best remembered for a single shot.

Bob Tway and Larry Mize are familiar with such a scenario, both having vaulted into golf lore during the past year by holing spectacular shots to win major championships.

"By winning the way I did last year, people remember and associate me with that shot," said Tway, the defending PGA champion.

"I thought the shot I made at Augusta would change things," Mize said. "But I'm surprised by how many changes it has actually made."

Tway knocked in a shot from a bunker at the 72nd hole of last year's PGA, before Mize pitched in from 50 yards away on the second hole of sudden death at this year's Masters.

Both victimized Greg Norman with their sensational shots.

"Sometimes," Norman said, "one shot can be the one that turns you around. You can be going along without doing much and make a 90-foot putt or chip-in and suddenly that gives you the feeling you are going to make things happen."

Such attention-getting shots could be repeated this week because the PGA National Golf Club course presents plenty of trouble from which players will have to escape.

The thick rough and spotty greens should make the course a difficult test when competition begins Thursday.

Because of a quick acting fungus, the delicate bent grass greens have died and coarser bermuda grass now covers most of the putting surfaces. But there are still bare spots on some greens and they are all far slower than normal for a major championship.

"I'm sure the greens are not the way they would like to have them," Mize said. "They are slow, bumpy and inconsistent. They just aren't that good. But I grew up playing on bermuda greens."

Thanks to his Masters victory, Mize now is one of the most recognized players at a tour event. That is something he was not used to before his victory.

"It has brought about a big change as far as the fans are concerned," Mize said. "I get more recognition. I guess they think of me as a contender. And when I do interviews there is a different tone in the questions."

"But I don't think there has been a big change in how the other players treat me. And I like that. I think they felt I could play before Augusta."

Mize has not won since his Masters triumph, but he has had four Top 10 finishes.

Tway, meanwhile, has had to put up with a season that suffers in comparison with his 1986 campaign — during which he won $652,780.

"Actually, I don't think I'm doing so bad this year," he said. "When you compare this year to last year, it's not as good. But I've made $170,000 this year, so it's not like I'm playing terrible. I'm just not playing as well."

"Golf is a very difficult game. There is a small difference between playing good and not so good. You miss two five-foot putts per round and that is eight shots in a tournament. That could be the difference between first place and 40th place."

No matter how good or bad Tway plays during the rest of his career, however, he will be remembered for his shot in the 1986 PGA.

"That's what people mostly talk about," he said. "And that's understandable. Obviously, to win in that style, well, it made a big difference."

NOTEBOOK

PGA Championship Notebook
United Press International
PALM BEACH GARDENS (UPI) — Players on the PGA Tour have grown accustomed to almost perfect greens, but they have found an unpleasant surprise this week in the final major championship of the year.

"The greens are not good," said Tom Watson, who finished a shot back of Scott Simpson in the U.S. Open. "I'm not complaining, I'm just stating a fact."

"There are a lot of rumors about the greens concerning the use of herbicide. But the fact is the bent grass is gone and the bermuda grass is all that is left."

"They are spotty and slow and inconsistent. But we're spoiled out here. The rest of the course is perfect for a major championship."

Watson got a scare on route to the PGA when the plane on which he was traveling had to make a quick return to Kansas City, Mo., because of what turned out to be a false signal in the cockpit.

"It was not really an emergency, but they had to treat it as one," Watson said. "It's not something I would want to go through again."

Niekro Faces Suspension Ejected Twins' Pitcher Denies Any Wrongdoing

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Six baseballs allegedly scuffed by Minnesota Twins knuckleballer Joe Niekro have been sent to the American League office despite teammate Al Newman's efforts to intercept them.

Niekro was ejected from Monday night's game against the Angels when an emery board and a piece of sandpaper dropped from his pocket during a search by umpires. He faces a possible 10-day suspension.

"Dr. (Bobby) Brown will wait and look at the baseballs," a spokeswoman for the league president said. "If he finds that they were doctored, then the rule book is pretty clear."

An emery board and a small piece of sandpaper fell to the mound. Phillips immediately ejected Niekro and the umpires confiscated six balls for evidence. Niekro, an 18-year veteran, denies any wrongdoing.

"He (Tschida) said, 'I want to check your glove,'" said Niekro, who was acquired from the Yankees this season. "I said, 'Why?' and he just repeated, 'I want to check your glove.' I had nothing to hide, so I let him check it."

"They checked my glove, my hands, my cap and then they told me to empty my pockets. I pulled them inside out. I never did go to my back pocket during the game. I threw a lot of balls in the dirt tonight. I had a good knuckleball."

"I file my fingernails between innings," Niekro said. "I've been keeping an emery board and piece of sandpaper in my pocket for 15 years. I guess I can't put it in my pocket anymore."

Three Must Rules To Improve Advanced Play

When a tennis player gets to a more advanced level in his game, it is not enough to rely on the simple, basic rules of strategy.

The most basic rules of strategy are, of course, to keep the ball in play, hit to your opponent's weakness, and hit to the open court. These rules are basic and should not be neglected. After all, no one can ever reach a very high level if he does not practice the rules.

To get to a really advanced stage of your game though, and to reach your potential, there must be more. To start moving up the ladder, to start winning some big matches, and to start beating some people who have always beaten you, the following three advanced rules of strategy will help. In fact they are a must. Like any other part of the advanced level of play in tennis, it will take a lot of work.

Here's a look at the three rules:
Advanced Rule 1: Change the pace of the ball during rallies. For most of a person's tennis life the main concern has been to hit the ball over the net and inbounds. The person is told to avoid mistakes and to be very steady.

Larry Castle

HERALD TENNIS WRITER

Of course a player should always have steadiness as a major goal, but there comes a point in your tennis life when you need more. You can't beat a certain level of player by just getting the ball over the net. You need to start mixing up your groundstrokes.

This is done with spin. A really advanced player must be able to hit with topspin, underspin, sidespin and flat off both sides. It is easy to get in a groove against a player who hits all of their groundstrokes with the same pace, the same spin. It is, on the other hand, very hard to play against a player that mixes it up using different spins and different speeds. When playing against a player that can vary the pace, we often get the feeling of being manipulated — of being caught off balance. It is hard to adjust to hitting one ball shoulder high because of the topspin coming at you and having to dig the next one out of the court because of the underspin.

Advanced Rule 2: Attack short balls and go to the net. Too many good groundstrokers are afraid to take a short ball and come in. They do not feel comfortable at the net so they just stay back and hope their opponent will make a mistake. Your good, steady groundstrokes are certainly a great weapon but if you fail to exploit your opponents short balls you are only playing at about 60 percent of your maximum.

Avoid that trap, attack when you get a chance. Keep the ball deep on your baseline rallies and sooner or later you will get a short ball. When you do make that approach shot and come in, you will be delighted with the results.

Advanced Rule 3: Play the percentages with weaker shots. If you have a weakness you will be much better off to go for the high percentage shot whenever you can. For example, if your serve lacks power, it is a good idea to just spin the ball in and go for depth and placement instead of trying to hit the ball harder than you are capable and double faulting.

Depth and placement are actually more important than power anyway. Some of the greatest players who ever played the game had relatively slow serves. Ken Rosewall, Chris Evert-Lloyd, and Phil Logan just to name a few. If your backhand groundstroke is weak, you should go cross-court as often as you can. The net is lower in the middle and the cross-court angle gives you more court to hit at.

Using spin, either underspin or topspin, will also give you more safety. Protect a weak shot and play it safe whenever you can, but work on your weaknesses a lot so that they will not remain weaknesses.

Pursuers Gain Ground

United Press International
All but one team in pursuit of the division leaders gained ground Tuesday night in the American League.

In the AL East, first-place New York was humiliated by the last-place Cleveland Indians, and the second-place Toronto Blue Jays defeated the AL West doormat Chicago White Sox to pull within a half-game of the Yankees.

In the West, both the Oakland Athletics and California Angels recorded victories to close the gap on Minnesota. The Twins' lead was cut to one game over the A's, and 1 1/2 games over the Angels.

The Kansas City Royals pulled within three games of Minnesota by whipping Detroit 8-4, and dropping the AL East's third-place Tigers three games behind New York.

At Detroit, Danny Jackson finally got the support he needed to break a three-game losing streak and post his third victory in his last 10 decisions. The hard-luck left-hander, suspended three games for his part in a beanball war against Cleveland July 8, returned to the active roster and pitched a seven-inning.

"I used the suspension to get away from the game a little bit," said Jackson, 5-13, who walked four and struck out five. "There's no doubt about it, I was throwing good but not getting anything from it. There was no satisfaction."

IN BRIEF

Auburn's Dye May Have Violated NCAA Rules

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Auburn head football coach Pay Dye said that his star quarterback won't be punished but said Jeff Burger should have walked away from an incident that has raised questions of possible NCAA rules infractions by another coach.

Quarterback coach and former Heisman Trophy winner Pat Sullivan may have violated NCAA regulations by posting ball for quarterback Jeff Burger, who was arrested following a fight in mid-July, an NCAA official said Tuesday.

Auburn Municipal Court records show Burger, of Cedartown, Ga., was arrested July 14 after a fight in a restaurant parking lot and charged with carrying a concealed weapon and public intoxication.

Sullivan posted a $700 bond to get Burger out of jail. The intoxication charge was dropped after he pleaded guilty to the concealed weapon charge. Burger was fined $50 and ordered to pay $32 court costs.

Rick Evard, director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Legislative Services, said posting bond for a student-athlete is a violation of the NCAA's constitution.

Evard told The (Montgomery) Alabama Journal that student-athletes must be treated the same as other students, but he could not comment specifically on Burger's case.

Bird Ordered To Court

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Boston Celtics star Larry Bird has been ordered to appear in court Aug. 17 on a warrant charging him with threatening his sister's estranged husband.

The warrant was filed in Jefferson District Court by Benjamin Campbell of Louisville, who said Bird, Bird's older brother, Mark Bird, and the player's older sister, Linda Campbell, have threatened Campbell over a custody dispute.

A divorce is pending between Campbell and his wife, both 31. They had lived in Decatur, Ill., before separating.

Campbell, who is a state employee in Louisville, said Monday that he was threatened during phone calls July 20, 21 and 23 when he called his wife's trailer home on Larry Bird's property in West Baden Springs, Ind.

Campbell said his wife had promised she would "see to it her five brothers will beat (Campbell) to death" if he tried to visit their sons, Benji, 11, and John, 4.

He also said Larry Bird flatly said Campbell would see the children over his "dead body."

Texas Bars Lott From Program

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — University of Texas has barred defensive back James Lott from the school's football program, pending a review by the NCAA of circumstances surrounding his acceptance of an $800 loan from a sports agent.

UT Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds Tuesday declared Lott ineligible for the 1987 football season because his alleged acceptance of the loan from Los Angeles sports agent Lloyd Bloom is a violation of NCAA rules governing college athletes.

In a letter to the NCAA infractions committee, Dodds requested the review and noted that Lott's involvement with Bloom, who is under investigation for improper contacts with college athletes, was different from the cases that prompted the criminal inquiry.

"James' situation is different from those of other players who have been publically tied to those agents," Dodds said. "As best we can determine, he did not sign a contract or negotiate a contract."

Kansas Nips Bama At NBC

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Kelly Zane singled in Scott Childress in the bottom of the 10th inning to help Wichita, Kan., to a 3-2 victory over Mobile, Ala., at the National Baseball Congress World Series.

In earlier games Tuesday, Rene Rivera and Rob Scott had three RBI to lead San Fernando Valley, Calif., to a 10-4 win over Miami, and Randy Tomlin pitched a four-hitter as Athletics in Action of Colorado Springs beat Tampa, Fla., 9-3.

San Bernardino, Calif., was scheduled to play Madison, Wis., at 10 p.m.

In the Wichita game, left fielder Childress tripled to set up second baseman Zane's game-winning hit with two outs in the 10th.

Pitcher John Schultheis kept Mobile at bay most of the game, yielding only five hits while going the distance. Schultheis walked one and struck out five, retiring 17 of the last 18 batters he faced.

Dollar, Gold, Silver All Fall In Markets

By United Press International
The dollar was lower against most major currencies Wednesday and, in a rare combination, the price of gold also fell.

In European trading, the dollar fell by small fractions in every market but Milan, where it rose. Gold fell in both London and Zurich, and silver tumbled 16.5 cents in London.

In Tokyo, the dollar remained almost unchanged against the Japanese yen in slow trading, closing at 151.55 yen, down 0.05 yen from Tuesday's closing rate of 151.60 yen.

After opening higher at 151.70 yen, the dollar fluctuated narrowly between 151.45 yen and 151.78 yen, compared with Tuesday's 151.03-75 yen range.

Spot turnover totaled just $3.185 billion, compared with $6.133 billion Tuesday.

Dealers said the market was bullish for the dollar but noted that insurance and institutional investors bought yen after reports that the West German federal bank intervened to bolster the German mark for fear of inflation.

They said the dollar is expected to remain stable barring a major change in the situation of the Persian Gulf.

the city commission meeting Sept. 14 and city commissioners, city officials, and members of the audience will be asked to sign it.

The scroll then will be placed at various locations throughout the city on a schedule to be determined, to allow as many people to sign it as possible.

The committee also discussed the possibility of placing the scroll in the Henry Shelton Sanford Library-Museum for safekeeping until the new band shell is built. Then, committee members suggested the scroll, along with other mementos from the kick-off of the Constitution Bicentennial, could be placed in a time capsule to be placed in the new band shell, to be opened at the Tricentennial of the Constitution in 2087.

A Sunday in the Park planned for Sept. 20 by the chamber's Cultural Arts Committee, will include patriotic music by the Melbourne and Seminole County bands, and other events in recognition of Constitution Bicentennial Week, Farr said.

The committee also recognized receipt of a list of five attorneys who are interested in making up a speakers bureau to speak to interested groups about the bicentennial of the Constitution. The attorneys, suggested by the Seminole County Bar Association, are Carmine M. Bravo, Ned N. Julian Jr., Richard S. Taylor Jr., Tricia A. Madden and Nancy Rainey Palmer. Groups interested in having one of the attorneys speak to them are asked to call the Sanford Chamber of Commerce to make arrangements.

Judge Joe Davis, chairman of the committee, said the Bicentennial will be recognized over the next five years, with dates of ratification by each state, and adoption of the first 10 amendments, known as the Bill of Rights, recognized.

W.E. "Duke" Adamson, chamber president, said he would contact banks to ask if they would sponsor posters which could be placed in public places commemorating the bicentennial.

turn out for Thursday's meeting. The board's specially hired attorney, Mel Martinez, argues it will take a majority vote of the board's 254 voting members, not merely those society members who show up for the meeting.

It "just wouldn't make sense any other way," said Martinez, who theorized that those society members who are happy with the zoo board may decide to register their support by staying home.

Martinez said that under the argument put forth by Orlando lawyer J. Cheney Mason, less than a dozen voting members could decide the issue because 5 percent, 12.7 members, of the voting membership makes a quorum. Martinez conceded the by-laws say the zoo board will operate by majority vote, but he insisted "that applies only to routine business."

Mason represented Rozon and now represents honorary zoo board member Newman Brock and Gerald Rutberg and former board member Shirley Mason. They recently filed suit to force the zoo board to release the names and addresses of the voting members. The board later, however, agreed to release the list of voting members.

Martinez said he had to base his opinion of the voting rules on his interpretation of state statutes that apply to for-profit corporations, because neither the zoo's by-laws nor the statutes on non-profit corporations address removal of board members.

"We have a situation where the by-laws are silent. So we must look beyond them to general corporate statutes," said Martinez. "I've looked at it up and down and sideways. But it could be the court may have to decide it."

To help ensure correct procedures are followed, the zoo board has hired a professional parliamentary for Thursday's meeting.

January. Actual construction could begin by summer 1988, said postal officials.

The Seminole County facility also will offer customers a full-service lobby, at which post boxes can be rented and stamps purchased. Moreover, a 23,000-square-foot garage for repairing and maintaining postal vehicles is planned for the site west of Rinehart Road.

Officials said mail for postal customers in the 328 zip code area will continue to be processed at the general mail facility near Orlando International Airport. That facility opened in 1980.

Approval of the $39 million expenditure for the land, facility and automated equipment for the facility near Lake Mary came during the board of governors meeting in Denver, Colo., Tuesday. The decision, according to officials, was prompted by a continuing boom in the volume of mail generated by Central Floridians.

Gerald Edwards, sworn in as Orlando's postmaster Tuesday, said the new facility will be a vital part of the area's postal operation.

"We've seen an explosion in the amount of mail we handle each day," said Edwards. "Our existing work area is just not large enough for us to process mail efficiently if growth continues as it has in the past. We need more space for additional automated and mechanized equipment."

Cook Of The Week

Chinese, Jamaican Fare Specialties Of The House

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

Always on the go, our Cook of the Week still finds time to serve her active family all their favorite dishes, and for Jamaican-born Gloria Chang of Sanford, the specialty of the house is usually a combination of spicy Jamaican fare and authentic Chinese entrees.

Speaking of her family, Mrs. Chang says, "They like food. They're good eaters, and I have no problems. I can practice with them and they'll eat everything I cook — well, almost. I teach my children to try something once, at least, and if they don't like it, they don't have to have it. But I usually encourage them to try it first. We never turn our noses up at anything unless we try it. And if we don't like it, we don't go for it. But if we like it, then I try to improve on it. I'm always messing up somebody else's recipe," she adds.

Although her parents were born in China, the West Indies beckoned and they settled in Jamaica to raise their family. She recalls that the West Indies customs and holidays, and also the school curriculum, were based on the British system before the islands became independent around 1962. "Based on the British system," she says, "the day after Christmas is called Boxing Day. There are several versions of why it's called Boxing Day, but I don't remember, really. And Good Friday and Easter Sunday are also public holidays. They celebrate the Christian holidays with much more reverence than they do here, I think."

Mrs. Chang confesses to being a little bit of a "tomboy" as a youngster in an effort to keep up with her six brothers and sisters. "I used to like to go fishing with them," she recalls. "My father used to do most of the cooking at home," she adds, "so as a child I never cooked at all. Most Chinese men do a lot of the cooking, and my father just used to cook. I learned my cooking starting in high school, and then when I got married, apart from trying on my own, my father-in-law helped me a lot.

Gloria Chang steams an egg roll.

He was one of the greatest cooks."

Comparing the two types of foods she is accustomed to cooking, Mrs. Chang explains that Jamaican dishes are very spicy. "They use a lot of seasonings and spices," she says, "and they use a lot of peppers." Curried mutton is a popular dish in the West Indies, according to our cook, along with various rice and bean combinations. Thyme, ginger and allspice are also staples in the Jamaican kitchen, notes Mrs. Chang, and all are readily available in our local supermarkets. She also has a plentiful supply of ingredients growing right in her own backyard and enjoys a small harvest of fiery-hot peppers in addition to the Jamaican yams, the sugar cane, and the papaya and pineapple that she grows.

Mrs. Chang was still a school girl when she met her future husband, Sylvester, and they dated for about three years before tying the knot in 1964. Chang, also a native of Jamaica, was employed in the exporting field traveling throughout the West Indies. He was also the director of a large supermarket chain before moving his family to Hageraville, a small town in southern Ontario, Canada in 1977. "about an hour's ride from Niagara Falls," says Mrs. Chang. "It was very nice there," she says. "It was just the weather that was really terrible," she adds, remembering all the snow. In 1981, the Changs chose Sanford as their new hometown, and Sylvester is now the owner-operator of Sanford Gulf Service, Inc. on French Avenue where he and his able crew dispense automotive service to motorists.

Working side by side with his father is the Changs' son, Sheldon, who helps keep things humming along smoothly at the service station. The elder Chang is area vice president of the Service Station Dealers of Florida, and is on the advisory committee of the automotive department at Seminole Community College. He also keeps up with the latest changes in automotive service, passing his expertise on to his customers. Mrs. Chang's daughter, Gail, was a student at Liberty Christian School and is now looking forward to her first year at Lakeview Middle School next term. She is also a budding pianist and enjoys taking dance lessons at the School of Dance Arts.

Our cook is a very personable and versatile woman who likes to keep busy at home and away from home. "I don't have much excitement in my life," Mrs. Chang says, "but I'm always busy doing something." At home, she uses her bookkeeping knowledge to help keep her husband's business in order. At one time, she was the internal auditor for the largest liquor company in Jamaica, situated on an estate which also produced sugar cane. Proudly, Mrs. Chang explains that she worked her way up in the company to become "the first woman to hold the post of internal auditor. There had never been a woman in that department until I got there," she says. "That was a first." More recently, Mrs. Chang has received her license as a real estate associate, and is eagerly looking ahead to joining the team at Stenstrom Realty after a brief training course.

The credits do not end there. For Mrs. Chang's talents in the world of arts and crafts is extensive. She loves to create lovely ceramic pieces which add to the decor of her comfortable home. She is also an accomplished cake decorator, and has taken an advanced course in cake decorating instructed by Winnie at Create-A-Cake of Longwood. Carefully preserved in a special photo album are examples of Mrs. Chang's beautiful cake creations that look almost too pretty to eat. "I love to do things like that," she says, "that are artistic. With art, I can get my imagination going. And I never knew how to ice a cake until I started that class," she says with a laugh.

Outdoors, Mrs. Chang tends to her garden of orchids and roses with loving care. "I'm not very successful with the orchids," she explains, "but I can't do anything wrong to my spider plant," referring to a healthy specimen of monstrous proportions which hangs near the pool. And making the most of their pool and patio area, the Changs often barbecue outdoors with close friends and neighbors. "We try to do that as often as we can, when we have the time," she says. And sometimes, tasty dishes are exchanged with a neighbor whose specialty is Italian food. "She cooks things and sends them over, and I cook my Chinese food and take it over there," says Mrs. Chang. "And if I'm not around, she cooks for my kids. They love Italian food. Sometimes I think they'd rather eat over there than by me!"

Working in her bright kitchen, gaily decorated in her favorite strawberry motif, Mrs. Chang often alternates her cooking style between Jamaican and Chinese offering a tantalizing change of pace. "I consider myself a Jamaican more than Oriental," she explains, "because I was born there. And Jamaica has such a good mix-

Microwave Magic

Everything's Just Peachy

Peaches are at the peak of their season now. Those that I have found in the markets have been very good and reasonably priced. Select peaches that are creamy or yellow behind the pink blush. Avoid green colored ones or those that are wrinkled. I prefer a peach that is "free stone" and if possible one of the Alberta variety, although it is often difficult to gain information about the variety.

These microwave recipes call for peaches but nectarines can be used.

When you have a few peaches that need to be used quickly before they spoil, a peach butter or peach sauce is a good easy solution.

PEACH SAUCE

2 cups chopped ripe peaches
2 cups sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Combine peaches and sugar in a bowl. Microwave on 100% power, 5-10 minutes or until the sugar is dissolved, stirring several times. Add lemon juice and continue cooking on 100% power until thickened about 6-12 minutes. Stir several times. Pour into jars and let stand until set. Refrigerate. Serve with meat dishes, just as you would cranberry sauce. (I like this served with pork.)

One of my favorite desserts is a fruit crisp. Peaches, apples or blueberries have been used with this basic recipe with good results.

PEACH CRISP

6 medium peaches
2 tablespoons sugar
Topping:
¼ cup rolled oats
¼ cup packed brown sugar
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
3 tablespoons butter
dash of salt
Combine topping ingredients and cut in butter with pastry blender. Set aside.
Peel, seed and slice peaches in a 10x6-inch baking dish. Sprinkle with sugar. Microwave uncovered on 100% power for 6

Peach pie is a dessert few can pass-up. You could buy the crust already made, but once you see how easy it is to make you'll probably do it yourself.

ture of all kinds of people." She goes on to explain that some of the Chinese dishes that we are familiar with in the United States are not necessarily authentic, such as the egg roll. "What you call an egg roll here we call a spring roll," she says. The egg roll, Mrs. Chang says, is made with a pork filling and rolled up in an egg "pancake" jellyroll style, then steamed gently until the meat is done. It is served with a delicious sauce. The spring roll, on the other hand, has a vegetable filling and is usually deep fried.

Listed below is a collection of Mrs. Chang's easy-to-follow recipes:

ASSORTED MEATS FRIED RICE WITH

Approx. 8 small bowls cooked rice, cold

1/4 pound chicken breast, sliced or diced

1/4 pound shelled, cleaned shrimp

1/4 pound smoked ham, diced

1/4 pound cooked, mixed vegetables

3 eggs, beaten, with dash of salt

Soy sauce

4 tablespoons oil

4 stalks green onions, chopped

Oyster flavor sauce (optional)

Salt to taste

Season chicken breast and shrimp with garlic powder and salt to taste. Heat 2 tablespoons oil. Fry beaten eggs, break into small pieces and remove onto a plate. Heat 2 tablespoons oil. Fry shrimp, chicken and ham. Add rice and vegetables, stirring constantly on low heat. Add 2 eggs, salt and soy sauce (oyster sauce) to taste. Add chopped green onion and mix thoroughly. Serve hot. You may use only one kind of meat, but increase amount to 1/4 pound. Serves 4.

CHICKEN IN SOY SAUCE

2 1/2 to 3 pounds chicken, quartered

2 pieces ginger root, minced

4 stalks green onion, chopped

1 tablespoon sherry or white wine

1/2 cup soy sauce concentrate

1 teaspoon brown sugar

2 tablespoons oil

1/2 cup water

1 teaspoon cornstarch

salt

black pepper to taste

Clean chicken. Rub with salt and pepper, wine, 1 teaspoon ginger and 1 teaspoon soy sauce. Let stand for one hour. Heat oil. Add rest of ginger and 2 stalks green onion, rest of soy sauce concentrate. Bring to a boil. Place chicken in hot sauce mixture. Cook on medium heat until skin of chicken is browned. Add 1/2 cup water. Cover and simmer for 20 minutes on low heat, or until chicken is cooked. Add sugar and cornstarch mixing well. Cut into small pieces. Pour sauce over all and serve hot with remaining 2 stalks of chopped green onions. Serves 4 to 5.

EGG ROLL

Filling:

1/2 pound finely ground pork

2 teaspoons soy sauce

1 teaspoon cornstarch

1 tablespoon sherry or white wine

1 teaspoon salt

1 egg, slightly beaten

Egg Pancakes:

4 eggs

2 teaspoons peanut or vegetable oil

Prepare ahead — Combine pork, soy sauce, cornstarch, wine, salt and beaten egg and mix thoroughly.

Beat 4 eggs with fork or whisk just enough to combine them. Have pork mixture, beaten eggs and oil within easy reach.

To cook: Set a 12-inch wok or 8-inch skillet over moderate heat for 30 seconds. With pastry brush or paper towel, brush the bottom of pan with 1 teaspoon oil. Pour in half of beaten eggs. Lower heat at once. Working quickly but carefully, tip the pan from side to side until a thin round pancake about 8 inches in diameter forms. As soon as pancake is firm enough to handle, no more than 30 seconds, lift it with spatula and transfer to plate. In similar fashion, make another pancake. Reserve any uncooked eggs. Spread half of the pork filling over each pancake. Roll tightly, jellyroll fashion, and seal with reserved uncooked egg. Press edges firmly together to make them adhere.

Place egg rolls on a heatproof platter 1/2 inch smaller than diameter of pot. Set platter on a rack in pot with water in bottom. Cover and let steam on low boil for 20 minutes, or until pork filling is cooked. Remove from steamer. Cut rolls diagonally into 1/2-inch slices and serve hot. Can be served with sweet peas.

2 minutes or until sauce is thick. Keep warm over low heat.

JAMAICAN PLANTAIN TART

1 cup very ripe plantain, finely mashed

1/2 cup sugar

red food coloring

1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

1 teaspoon vanilla

1 tablespoon butter or margarine

1/2 pound short crust pastry

Cut pastry in rounds about 4 inches in diameter and set in a cool place.

Combine plantain, sugar, butter in a saucepan. Cook thoroughly over low heat. Remove from fire. Add flavoring and a few drops of food coloring. Cool. Put by spoonfuls on pastry rounds, moisten edges, fold over and seal. Prick tops with fork. Bake in a 350° oven for 10 minutes, then reduce heat. Brush tops with a little milk. Bake until pastry is delicately brown.

Short Crust Pastry:

2 cups all purpose flour

3/4 teaspoon salt

1 cup Crisco

4-6 tablespoons ice water

Sift flour and salt together and cut in Crisco. Add water, sprinkling in a little at a time until the pastry holds together. Press lightly into a solid mass. Wrap in foil and refrigerate until ready to use.

CORN CUSTARD CASSEROLE

1 can whole kernel corn, drained

1 can cream style sweet corn

8 eggs, well beaten

1/2 cup water

1/2 cup sugar

1/2 cup milk

1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

1/2 teaspoon wine or sherry

1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Combine whole kernel corn with cream style corn. Add beaten eggs, water, milk, sugar, nutmeg, vanilla and wine. Mix thoroughly and bake at 325° for 1 hour or until set. Can also be steamed. Serves 4 to 5.

over peach slices, carefully covering all the peaches. Refrigerate until chilled.

Top with whipped cream, or ice cream when served.

Graham Cracker Crust:

1/4 plus 1 tablespoon butter or margarine

1 1/2 cups fine graham cracker crumbs

2 tablespoons brown or granulated sugar

Melt butter in 9 or 10 inch pie plate on 100% power for 50-60 seconds. Stir crumbs and sugar. Press crumbs firmly and evenly against bottom and side of plate. Microwave on 100% power 1 1/2 minutes.

Food for Thought

by Bill Painter

How much fresh basil to add to vegetables or sauce? When in doubt, use more. Add herb at the last moment; it fades in heat.

The fast way to pasta primavera: drop half-thawed vegetables into boiling water just moments before pasta is done. Drain it all together.

Lean cut of beef taste best if marinated before cooking. Tenderize with wine, lime or tomato juice, or yogurt, plus lots of spices.

If you like salad nicoise made with canned tuna, you'll love green beans and potatoes vinaigrette served with grilled FRESH tuna. Serve hot or at room temperature.

The key to successful dieting: limited amounts of meat and other high-fat items, and lots and lots of vegetables that are low in calories and filling.

Vitamins, Minerals Measurements Vary

DEAR DR. GOTT — In writing about vitamins and minerals, you express some in milligrams and others in units. I understand milligrams, but what is a unit?

DEAR READER — Traditionally, the unit of measurement of vitamins A, D and E has been the international unit (IU). Other vitamins and minerals are measured in grams, milligrams or micrograms. The international unit is a reflection of activity, not quantity; this has been found to be a useful shorthand when comparing the active components of vitamins. For example, retinoic acid and beta carotene, like 30 other compounds, can be turned into vitamin A. Technically, vitamin A is retinol; 1 microgram of retinol is biologically equivalent to 8 micrograms of beta carotene. To complicate matters further, 3,333 IUs of retinol is equal to 10 IUs of beta carotene.

Take my word for it; you and I will be less confused if we simply follow tradition on this one. Nutrition handbooks and food packages usually list vitamins A, D and E in international units.

DEAR DR. GOTT — When medication and diet failed to relieve the severe pain from Crohn's disease, I had major surgery. My doctor told me I would need a vitamin B-12 injection every month for the rest of my life. Why?

DEAR READER — Crohn's disease is an inflammatory bowel disease that usually affects the lower small intestine (ileum). If the inflammation is severe and does not respond to medication, part of the inflamed bowel may have to be surgically removed. Unfortunately, this is rarely curative because other adjacent portions of intestine tend to become inflamed and the process repeats itself.

Vitamin B-12, when combined with a compound (intrinsic factor) secreted by the stomach lining, is absorbed into the body through the wall of the ileum. In your case, the ileum probably was removed. Therefore, you are lacking the specific intestinal area for B-12 absorption. No matter how much of the vitamin you take by mouth, it will slide through the intestine and be excreted; over time, you will become B-12 deficient. This will cause you to become anemic and weak. The condition is identical to pernicious anemia — anemia caused by a lack of intrinsic factor in the stomach.

As your doctor has properly

suggested, your potential B-12 deficiency can be corrected by vitamin shots. This way, B-12 is delivered directly into the body without the necessity of it being absorbed through the intestine. A shot a month will supply the vitamin B-12 that your body requires.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

There is a great philosophical conflict in the world of international bridge these days. Because complicated and abstruse systems have proliferated, many experts feel that high-level bridge has become so complex that young minds are turning away from the game entirely. Although there is a large body of bridge professionals — writers, teachers and players — who can master the complexities of the game, I join those who feel that competitive bridge will endure only if the dedicated amateur can enjoy playing and can also enjoy following the exploits of the world's great players.

Many conventions used in competitive bridge are easy to understand, and their use occurs in such a startling way that they are hardly ever misconstrued. Such a bid is the splitter bid. Today South opened one spade. When his partner jumped to four clubs, that described a hand with four-card trump support, 9-11 high-card points and a singleton club. When South cue-bid his heart A-K, North was delighted to show his diamond controls, even though that advanced the partnership to the five-level. That was enough to propel declarer into a six-spade contract — an easy contract to make, given the excellent dummy. All declarer had to do for 12 tricks was ruff two clubs in dummy and then pitch a third club on the second high diamond. In fact, when the ace of clubs came down on the second club ruff, the club jack became a winner.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY AUGUST 6, 1987

In the year ahead, you are likely to set aside old interests that have neither produced a profit nor advanced your position in life. Your rewards will lie in the new.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A bit more self-discipline than usual may be required today regarding your health habits. Practice moderation when eating or drinking. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your luck today may be bounded by definite perimeters. Rejections are possible if you press things too far. Try to play important matters close to the vest.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you hope to keep your household budget intact today, you might have to hide your mate's checkbook in order to counter his or her extravagant whims.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Things will work out well for you today, provided you can find someone to carry out your ideas. You may not do too much about them yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) As of this time, you should have accumulated a little surplus. Bank it for a rainy day, instead of blowing it on something frivolous.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Schedule your day so that you can take care of your more important needs later in the afternoon. Today you are a slow starter, but a strong finisher.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Associates are prepared to behave cooperatively toward you today, but don't make it a one-way street. Their assistance will cease if you are unresponsive.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try to select companions today who are on your wavelength philosophically. Involvements with individuals who aren't may not turn out too well.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you hope to exploit a present area of advantage, it will be necessary for you to make a more conscientious effort than you are now doing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A decision to which you've given considerable thought could misfire today if you start making last-minute changes. Stick to your blueprint.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be cautious today when dealing with people or firms about whom you know little. If you are too naive, there's a chance you might be deceived.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't expect too much today in a commercial way from someone you only know socially. This is a person who tries to keep the two worlds separate.

TERIYAKI KABOBS

½ cup salad oil
3 cloves garlic, peeled
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¾ cup soy sauce
1 teaspoon curry powder
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 cup sherry or apple juice
¼ cup sugar
2 pounds sirloin steak, cut in 1½-inch cubes
3 onions, quartered
3 green peppers, cut in 1-inch squares

Prepare one layer of sparsely spaced charcoal to provide heat that is not too intense. Combine first 9 ingredients; mix well. Put steak in a flat non-metal container; pour marinade mixture over it, stir and turn meat to coat meat completely. Cover; refrigerate overnight. When ready to grill, blanch onions and peppers in boiling water for 2 minutes, if desired. Alternate steak, onions and green pepper on skewers. Place kabobs on cooking grill. Cook approximately 15 minutes or until meat is done according to taste. Baste with remaining marinade while cooking. Turn kabobs occasionally to cook evenly. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 kabobs.

REUBEN QUICHE

5 slices rye bread, toasted
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup shredded cheese
½ cup chopped corned beef
1 cup sauerkraut, well drained and chopped
1½ cups half-and-half
3 eggs
1 tablespoon grated onion
2 tablespoons Thousand Island dressing

Microwave Method:

In electric blender or food processor, break up toast and process into crumbs (about 1½ cups). Place butter in a 9-inch pie plate. Microwave on High 45 to 60 seconds until melted. Add crumbs and mix well with fork. Pat mixture onto bottom and up sides of plate. Sprinkle cheese over bottom of shell, then add corned beef and kraut. In medium-sized bowl, beat half-and-half with eggs and onion. Pour over filling. Microwave on High 9 to 11 minutes, or until just set in center; let stand 5 minutes. Spread surface with dressing just before serving. Serve hot or cold. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

Conventional Method:

Process toast as directed. In small saucepan, melt butter over low heat. Add crumbs and mix well. Pat into pie plate. Sprinkle cheese over bottom of shell, then add corned beef and kraut. Beat half-and-half with eggs and onion. Pour over filling and bake in 375-degree oven 35 to 40 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

Spread with dressing. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

QUICK FISH PROVENCAL

1 can (16 ounces) whole tomatoes, crushed
1/3 cup sliced, pitted ripe olives
¼ cup dry white wine or apple juice
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1 teaspoon thyme leaves, crushed
½ teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed
¼ teaspoon onion powder
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons water
2 pounds thick fish fillets (cod, halibut, etc.), fresh or frozen and thawed

In a 12-inch skillet, combine tomatoes, olives, wine, orange peel, thyme, oregano, onion and garlic powders, salt and black pepper; bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, for 10 minutes. Combine cornstarch with water; stir into tomato mixture. Bring to a boil; cook and stir until sauce is clear and thickened, about 1 minute.

Arrange fish over sauce, spooning some sauce over fish. Simmer, covered, until fish flakes when tested with a fork, about 7 to 10 minutes. Serve over white or brown steamed rice, if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings; 161 calories, 65 mg. cholesterol per serving.

BROCCOLI STIR-FRY

1 bunch fresh broccoli
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon honey
½ teaspoon freshly grated ginger root or ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
¼ cup slivered almonds
Wash broccoli. Cut off broccoli florets. Peel broccoli stems. Slice stems ¼-inch thick. In large skillet or wok, heat oil. Stir-fry broccoli 5 minutes until crisp-tender. In small bowl, combine soy sauce and cornstarch. Add honey, ginger and hot pepper sauce. Pour over broccoli. Cook until sauce thickens slightly. Stir in almonds. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

CABBAGE PAPRIKASH

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
5 cups shredded cabbage (half a small head)
1 small onion, sliced (¼ cup)
¼ cup light cream or milk
1 tablespoon freshly squeezed lemon juice
1½ teaspoons paprika
¼ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
¼ cup chopped parsley
In large skillet, melt butter; add shredded cabbage and onion. Cook 5 minutes stirring occasionally. Add cream, lemon juice, paprika, sugar, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil. Simmer 5 minutes until cabbage is crisp-tender. Stir in parsley. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 2 to 3 servings.

Sinfully Delicious Cheesecake Wins Grand Prize In Contest

Sinfully delicious Chocolate Raspberry Truffle Cheesecake clinched the $5,000 Grand Prize in the Kraft's "Philly" Cheesecake Lovers Recipe Contest. Winning the judges' unanimous approval over thousands of other entries, this luscious combination of chocolate and raspberry exemplifies today's creative cooking talents. Mary King, a homemaker from Concordia, Kan., is the proud winner.

A slice of the best-of-contest winner reveals a creamy vanilla filling studded with dark chocolate raspberry truffles. Easy to prepare, the truffle mixture is a simple combination of chocolate, raspberry preserves and cream cheese. The chocolate cookie crumb crust, rich chocolate glaze and fresh raspberry garnish add the finishing touches to this $5,000 dessert spectacular.

The Cheesecake Lovers Recipe Contest showcased America's love of cheesecake and creative flair for preparing desserts. Many entries incorporated interesting "spirits" from peach and apple schnapps to cappuccino and praline liqueurs. For added texture and flavor, nuts of all manner were added to fillings, toppings and crusts. Many contestants creatively used gingersnaps, coconut macaroons and even fortune cookies and pretzels to add new dimension to crusts. Entries revealed that chocolate and fresh fruits remain all-time favorite additions to fillings, toppings and garnishes.

CHOCOLATE RASPBERRY TRUFFLE CHEESECAKE

2 tablespoons margarine, melted
4 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs

1 6-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
¼ cup whipping cream
Combine crumbs and margarine; press onto bottom of 9-inch springform pan.

each addition. Blend in sour cream and vanilla; pour over crust. Combine remaining cream cheese and melted chocolate, mixing at medium speed on electric mixer until well blended. Add preserves; mix well. Drop rounded tablespoonfuls of chocolate cream cheese batter over plain cream cheese batter; do not swirl. Bake at 325°, 1 hour and 20 minutes. Loosen cake from rim of pan; cool before removing rim of pan. Melt chocolate pieces and whipping cream over low heat, stirring until smooth. Spread over cheesecake. Chill. Garnish with additional whipping cream, whipped raspberries and mint leaves, if desired.

Real Food Of The South, The Good Stuff, With Home-Cooked Flavor Latest Love Of Publishers

By John DeMers
UPI Food Editor

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The tables of the South are a long way from the publishers of New York. Yet the dishes on these tables are the latest love of the people who put out cookbooks for a living.

The subject here is not White Trash Cooking. A tongue-in-cheek book by that name, celebrating bottled mayonnaise, flour and lard, became a surprise best-seller last year.

What people are talking about now is the good stuff — the fresh ingredients, the loving preparation, the gracious yet unpretentious presentation. What people are talking about now is the real food of the South.

"The core of Southern cooking is still in the home," said Nathalie Dupree, host of the national PBS series "New Southern Cooking" and author of a cookbook by the same title. "That home-cooked feeling is what I think is making Southern cooking hot."

"It's not a revolution. It's not trendy, and it's not a fad. Southern food is rooted in our friends and family."

Dupree spoke recently to food editors gathered in Jackson. But the movement she discussed is as evident in Seattle, Chicago and New York as on any nearby veranda.

And it is reflected dramatically in the latest stack of publishers' catalogs. Nearly every respectable house has its own splashy import from south of the Mason-Dixon Line.

Several books have hit the stands already, led off by Dupree's TV-promoted volume. There's also a photo-and-word odyssey called "Southern Food" by John Egerton and "Gene Hovis's Uptown Down Home Cookbook" by a North Carolina native who made his name cooking in Manhattan.

Yet the "biggest" book on the subject may be still to come.

Craig Claiborne, who has penned books about nearly every food except the kind he grew up around in his mother's Sunflower, Miss., boarding house, has precisely such a work scheduled for September.

With more than 300 recipes taking in Creole, Cajun, Tex-Mex and barbecue as well as country cooking, it might well turn out to be the most popular book ever published on Southern food.

Even with Claiborne waiting in the wings, however, the Southern cooks currently making the rounds are making no apologies.

"They're doing precisely what they and theirs do best, cooking satisfying meals with simple ingredients and talking, talking, talking about the favorite cousin, aunt or grandma who bequeathed them the recipe."

"One of my great pleasures is entertaining at home," said Hovis, who first made his way to New York as an aspiring actor but ended up soliloquizing to a cast-iron skillet. "I can't think of a better way to please ourselves and our friends. Restaurant dining is not in the same league."

Here are two kitchen-tested and very traditional Southern recipes. Asparagus Rolls from Gene Hovis's Uptown Down Home Cookbook and A Mess of Greens from "Southern Food"

ASPARAGUS ROLLS

1 cup sharp cheddar cheese
½ stick butter
24 thin asparagus stalks
Cayenne pepper to taste
24 slices white bread
1 stick butter, melted

Place the grated cheese and the ½ stick of butter in a small bowl, cover and leave out of the refrigerator for 5 to 6 hours, or overnight. Steam the asparagus until tender. Drain and cool.

Mash the cheese and butter together to form a thick, smooth paste. Add a few dashes of cayenne pepper. Trim the crusts from the bread and flatten the slices with a rolling pin. Spread each slice of bread with a generous teaspoon of the cheese-butter mixture.

Place an asparagus spear on the bottom of each slice and roll tightly. Trim away any of the asparagus stem that protrudes from the end. Place the rolls seam side-down on a baking sheet. Brush each roll with melted butter and refrigerate until ready to use.

Preheat the broiler. Place rolls 3 inches under the heat. Watch carefully to avoid burning and broil until golden brown. Turn and broil other side. Serve hot. Rolls may be served whole or cut in half. Makes 24 rolls.

A MESS OF GREENS

2 pounds fresh greens
¼ pound ham hock or salt pork
1 Tbsp salt (more if needed)

Thoroughly wash the fresh greens, trim off the stalks and immerse the leaves a few at a time in 1½ gallons of boiling water, to which the seasoning meat has been added. Stir in the salt.

Cover the pot and simmer for 1 hour or more, or until the greens are tender. As with cabbage or beans, additional seasonings such as onions and red pepper pods may be put into the pot.

This amount of greens will boil down from a large mass (known as a mess) to a more manageable amount — about enough to serve 4 people.
