Officials To Review Mutual Needs

County, School Board To Share Ideas

NANCY WARREN
... time to discuss issues

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

A meeting between Seminole County commissioners and School Board members is designed to produce an air of cooperation between the two bodies.

A 15-item agenda has been drawn up for the meeting, which will be held Feb. 28 at the Seminole County Courthouse, but representatives of both groups are hesitant to predict what results may come from the meeting.

The groups have met once previously, in March of 1981, and from that meeting a sense of cooperation emerged in several areas. The board and commissioners have worked together over the past to coordinate information on growth in the county.

County Planner Woody Price and former County Administrator Roger Neiswender both served on a committee to help predict growth trends for future placement of schools.

But for the most part the two groups have remained independent of one another.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen said the groups have "a new feeling. At least we're communicating, that's more than previous boards did."

School Board member Nancy Warren agreed that the two groups have much to share with one another.

"The time has come to discuss them (issues)," she said. "Money just doesn't go as far as it used to."

Mrs. Warren said the school district has used population data compiled by the county staff over the past few years. "There needs to be more and more of that."

Mrs. Warren said it is important for school board members to become acquainted with T. Duncan Rose, the new county administrator.

Several items dealing with combining county and school board services are on the agenda for the meeting. Among those items are joint bidding, cooperative use of computer equipment and purchasing information, combining the fleet management programs, cooperative use of school buses and public use of school libraries.

Public use of the libraries is a favorite topic of Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather, who served on the school board for eight years prior to being elected to the county commission in 1980.

Feather sees the planned construction of four new libraries by the county as a duplication of efforts. He wants the school libraries to be thrown open to the public.

The facilities are being underutilized, Feather claims, since the schools are open only a portion of the day for 10 months of the year.

The groups also will discuss an easement for a track that serves Lakeview Middle School in Sanford which is built on property recently purchased by the county for use as a health clinic.

After a survey of the property it was discovered that a portion of the track is built on the health clinic site.

Commissioners also want a five-year projection of school construction in the county. County planners have been active in trying to prepare development plans which leave parcels for construction of schools.

Commissioners want specific information on new schools planned for construction in the Wekiva and Heathrow (Lake Mary) areas, communities which are expected to see the largest increase in population over the next five years.

Also on the agenda for discussion is the deputy in the schools program, civil defense, use of federal impact funds, examination of possible solutions to fire flow problems along General Hutchinson Parkway and County Road 427.

Construction State Straightening Spaghetti U.S. 17-92 Intersection

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Construction on the modification of the intersection of Park Avenue and French Avenue in the city of Sanford will continue for another 60 to 90 days.

The installation of two new traffic signals on U.S. Highway 17-92 and the replacement of two others are included in the project.

Sam Thurmond, district construction engineer with the state Department of Transportation, said Friday that the entire project is costing $365,938.73. The contractor on the project, the low bidder, is WMJ Paving Division of the Wiley N. Jackson Co. of Roanoke, Va.

Thurmond said the work includes straightening out the "spaghetti" intersection of Park and French. In addition, traffic signals will be installed at Park and French and in the Sanford Plaza and Zayre's area on U.S. 17-92. A storage lane will also be provided for vehicles at the entrances to Sanford Plaza and Zayre's Shopping Center.

In addition, newer traffic signals will replace the one at the intersection of Florida Avenue with U.S. 17-92 (between the Fairway super market shopping center and the Pine Crest Center) and at Park Avenue and 25th Street.

This Park Avenue and 25th Street signal will be coordinated with the one at 25th Street and Sanford Avenue.

"We are trying to simplify the intersection of French Avenue and Park Avenue a little bit," Thurmond said.

He said the modifications include relocating the northbound lane a little to the west to follow the southbound lane more closely. The southbound Park Avenue lane will come in at a right angle to French, the DOT official said.

On the southside of the intersection where French Avenue is extended to the south, it will also be changed to a right angle direction.

He said a good bit of curb work is included, and all of the present pavement at the intersection will be removed and replaced.

One of the reasons for changing the alignment at the intersection is to permit the installation of a traffic signal, Thurmond said, adding work of this sort is usually scheduled when a large number of accidents are recorded at a site.

Despite the work, the median of U.S. 17-92 will be retained, Thurmond said.

Edgar Lemons cautions motorists along U.S. Highway 17-92 to slow down as workers are busy reconstructing the intersection at Park Avenue in Sanford. The $365,938 project will include new traffic signals and other improvements. Work will continue for 60 to 90 more days.

Dates For Auto-Ferry Comments Not Set

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Dates for the period to receive public comment regarding the proposed auto-ferry train service approved Jan. 19 by the Amtrak Board of Directors have yet to be set.

According to Diane Elliott, director of Amtrak's corporate communications in the Eastern United States, the 60-day period for public input is the first step in the decision-making procedure concerning routes and service.

The Lorton, Va. to Sanford route used by the now defunct Auto-Train Corporation is Amtrak's prime choice for the service. Negotiations are now underway between Amtrak officials and Auto-Train, which is in receivership, for the use of the firm's Sanford terminal and equipment.

The northern terminal in Lorton is privately owned.

Amtrak, a federally subsidized rail system, expects to spend $4.4 million in capital investment funds acquiring the terminals and equipment and getting them ready to begin service later this year.

Plans call for daily service eight months of the year during the busy tourist season and three times weekly the other four months. The non-stop trains would leave both points at 4 p.m. arriving at 9:30 a.m. the next day.

JUDGE ALAN J. DICKEY

Judges 'Are Very Vulnerable'

By VICTOR ASSERSON
Herald Staff Writer

Justice, it has been said, must not only be done but must be seen being done.

But judges themselves can get caught up in potentially dangerous situations in the aftermath of cases they hear. "We are very vulnerable," said Seminole County Judge Alan A. Dickey, who received about 40 "hate letters" after Deanna Pitman, the reigning Miss Florida, was given 40 hours community service by Dickey after she had pleaded guilty to careless driving.

What prompted the outburst toward this mild-mannered man was the fact a driving while under the influence of alcohol charge against the beauty queen had been dismissed.

Dickey stressed it was not his decision to drop the DUI charge but that of the prosecuting state attorney.

That didn't matter. The letters still flowed into his office from as far away as Santa Ana, Calif., and Maryland.

He also had received a number of hate letters when he was involved a couple of years ago in the case of a German Shepherd dog called Rolf, which faced execution because it was vicious.

He has a disarming defense against writers of vicious letters. "I laugh about it and it's infectious," he said with his eyes twinkling. Judge Dickey said judges' wives and secretaries are upset by the letters.

Dickey will not reveal all of the details of the event. "I wouldn't say I have ever had letters written by people saying they were out to get me. I had one man once who was extremely upset," said Dickey.

He met with the man in his offices but an armed plain clothes sheriff's deputy and a court bailiff were in the room.

The drama unfolded after Dickey had fined a driver with no previous convictions for driving while he was intoxicated. The judge revoked the driver's license and put the man on probation.

A short time later the man went to a bar, got drunk and while driving on a revoked license knocked over and killed a young motorcyclist.

"The boy's father contacted me and told me that he held me equally responsible for the boy's death," said Dickey, the smile leaving his face.

"He contacted my office and said he wanted to meet me so I decided the best way to handle the situation was to meet with him — to give him a chance to get it off his chest," he said.

Dickey showed the father that the man who had knocked over his son had a clean record.

"The day I start worrying about getting threatened is the day I quit. Until we have judges behind bulletproof glass we are vulnerable. We have to live with danger," he said. "The biggest danger we face is people losing respect for the law. I can't allow public opinion to sway me. I have got to try and follow the law as best I can."

FBI Probe Of Shredding Of EPA Documents Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The chairman of a House committee, sensing a possible "criminal cover-up," wants the FBI to investigate the shredding of subpoenaed documents by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Rep. James Howard, D-N.J., head of the House Public Works Committee, requested the inquiry Friday in a firmly worded letter to Attorney General William French Smith.

"The conduct of this entire affair, by the White House, the Justice Department, and the EPA, is beginning to smell suspiciously like a criminal cover-up of wrongdoing in the enforcement of the Superfund waste disposal law," Howard wrote.

Justice Department officials could not be reached for comment. An FBI spokesman, Dave Divan, said the agency would "await the review of the Department of Justice and act accordingly."

EPA Administrator Anne Gorsuch was cited for contempt of Congress Dec. 15 for refusing, under President Reagan's orders, to provide some of the documents to congressional committees.

'Combat Zone' Quiet Again

The nation's truckers were back on the road again, delivering their goods on schedule, and even the Pennsylvania-Ohio "combat zone" during the independent truckers strike was quiet. But a maverick group of independents vowed to stage a second strike.

Most state highway officials reported traffic about normal and moving smoothly Friday except in the Northeast where a major snowstorm snarled traffic.

Even the Pennsylvania-Ohio "combat zone" where hundreds of trucks were hit by gunfire, rocks and bricks during the 11-day strike was quiet. "There haven't been any reported cases of violence," said a Transportation Department spokesman. "Commerce seems to be moving along normally."

But the strike left a bloody record. One trucker was killed and 98 people were injured during the 11 days in which there were 656 shootings and 2,023 acts of violence and vandalism.

POWs Anniversary Marked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ten years ago Saturday, the first planes filled with American POWs landed in the Philippines—leaving behind the war, but not the memories of Vietnam.

Jeremiah Denton, now a senator from Alabama, said he still has nightmares about his seven years and seven months of struggling to survive in a North Vietnamese prison camp.

On Feb. 12, 1973, Richard Nixon was president. The month before he signed a treaty to end the war, and on television as the first plane loads of 118 POWs arrived at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines.

"One by one, the men came down the ramp, walking or hobbling on crutches," Nixon wrote in a statement made available to United Press International.

"Some made eloquent statements. Some fell to their knees to kiss the ground. All saluted the flag. I remember thinking to myself these were no ordinary men," Nixon wrote. "They were true heroes."

The Life And Times Of Anna J. Cooper

From Slave Cabin To Pioneer Educator

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Herald today publishes the following article on Anna Julia Cooper in recognition of February as Black Awareness Month.

By JOHNNIE DOUTHIS
Smithsonian News Service

"It isn't what we say about ourselves, it's what our life stands for." — Anna J. Cooper, Aug. 10, 1958.

She was the first woman from the District of Columbia to earn a doctorate from the Sorbonne. She was among the first black women to earn a bachelor's degree from an American college. And she became principal of the first public high school for black people in the United States.

Anna Julia Cooper, feminist, human rights advocate, educational reformer and teacher, was born into slavery as Annie Haywood in Raleigh, N.C., about 1858 (her exact birthdate is unknown).

But Cooper's life represented far more than a resume of achievements. It illustrated, concludes, Louise Daniel Hutchinson, Cooper's biographer and historian at the Smithsonian Institution's Anacostia Neighborhood Museum in Washington, D.C., that significant accomplishments could be made by a black woman against seemingly insurmountable odds for blacks late in the 19th century.

"When we consider," Hutchinson writes, "that she began her life under the most adverse circumstances and attained such a high mental capacity of blacks and women was questioned and disparaged, her achievements take on greater significance."

Cooper, indeed, has won a large place of respect in American history for steadfastly refusing to bow to the prevailing view held in the late 1800s that black people should forego higher education for work in the trades and fields — work, this thinking proceeded, that would help blacks better themselves and improve their relations with southern whites embittered by post-Civil War Reconstruction politics.

Fate gave Anna Cooper a very long life, one that for American blacks spanned a century of tumultuous history — servitude, Civil War, emancipation, Reconstruction and the brief hope of full citizenship, reaction, segregation and, at last, the slow movement toward racial equality. Cooper died in the 1960s as the civil rights movement was coming to life; yet her life's work aided that cause. She also was well ahead of her time in arguing for women's rights — in particular, roles for the black woman.

The Civil War was barely three years over when little Anna, encouraged by her self-sacrificing mother (whose child presumably was fathered by her master, Dr. Fabius J. Haywood Sr.), went off to school at Raleigh's new St. Augustine's Normal School and Collegiate Institute, established by the Episcopal Church to prepare black teachers to instruct black youth. Bright and precocious, Anna served as a tutor at the school, where she received a small stipend to pay for board and tuition, but as she would later recall, "after a while I had a great deal of time on my hands. I had devoured what was put before me, and...was looking for more."

In that quest, Anna developed a courageous side that would serve her well in her professional life. Generations before it was in vogue, she fought against sexism at St. Augustine's, confronting the issue as she tried to enroll in a Greek class. Told the class was for males only, she fought back, won a victory — and a seat in the class.

Ironically, a close friendship developed between the young woman and her Greek studies teacher, ministry student George A.C. Cooper, and at the close of the 1877 school year, they were married. "He was probably just the kind of balance wheel that this intense young woman needed in her life," Hutchinson suggests. But the shared life and plans they had made were not to be; George Cooper died two years later on Sept. 27, 1879.

Now 21 and a full-time teacher at St. Augustine's, Cooper in 1881 looked toward the possibility of higher education, applying to Ohio's Oberlin College, among the first U.S. schools to admit blacks and, especially important to this woman, admired for its academic standards. With her characteristic directness and candor, Cooper wrote the school's president asking to be accepted as a "free tuition" student. "Southern schools pay very mealy," she declared, but "I expect to have money enough to keep me one or two years at college...."

Managing, resourcefully, to complete a classical curriculum at Oberlin in 1884, Cooper soon found another chance to take a stand against sexism. She had been promised a professorship by the president of St. Augustine's, but that commitment was ignored by his successor, who instead offered Cooper the position of "teacher in charge of girls." She refused, then headed for Wilberforce College, a black church school in Xenia, Ohio to chair the science and modern language departments.

For this work, Oberlin awarded Cooper a master's degree and its president recommended her for a teaching post in Washington, D.C., at the respected M Street Preparatory School (later, Dunbar High), one of the nation's few black schools at the time — and also fertile ground for the coming clash of two competing, nationally important educational philosophies.

When she arrived at M Street, Tuskegee Institute in Alabama was emerging as "the model" for black education. Founded by Booker T. Washington, Tuskegee stressed vocational and industrial training as a step to improve the lives of black people and relations with whites as the Reconstruction era gave way to discrimination and segregation.

Simply put, Washington urged his fellow Negroes to forget about politics and a college education and to learn how to be better farmers and artisans. Cooper also favored industrial training; yet she found herself far more closely aligned with the black scholar and author W.E.B. DuBois who advocated classical instruction for his race.

"The object was black survival," says Hutchinson, noting that Cooper and others felt that, without the academic programs, there would be little hope of getting black students into college and ultimately the professions. "These students, then, would become the bootstraps by which the entire race would be uplifted," Hutchinson concludes.

Cooper became the principal of M Street in 1902, but by the 1904-05 term she was at odds with the white-dominated board, which insisted on the vocational approach, believing, Hutchinson writes, that blacks were "mentally inferior" and that such an approach was therefore "appropriate."

The angered board charged that under Cooper's direction school standards had slipped and that the faculty was neglecting student discipline. All the while, however, M Street students for the first time were being admitted — many with scholarships — to Harvard, Brown and other Ivy League colleges.

In 1906, the board fired Cooper. Writing of her dismissal, she said: "The dominant forces of our country are not yet tolerant of the higher steps for colored youth."

Cooper's background and principles also put her squarely in the middle of the emerging black women's club movement. The clubs grew among women dissatisfied with being cast aside as "colored" units of white clubs and angered by racial intolerance throughout American society, even among religious groups. Cooper believed "the struggle for human rights might be waged more effectively with the perspective and balance of intelligent black women," Hutchinson says. Always one to back polemics with action, Cooper became a delegate to the First National Conference of Afro-American Women in Boston in 1895.

A quarter century later, Cooper, now in her 60s and back in the D.C. school system, took time off from teaching to continue her lifelong quest for education, this time pursuing a doctorate at the Sorbonne in Paris.

In 1930, when she was about 72, Cooper at last retired, but soon she was again involved in an effort to broaden the educational horizons of black people, now as president of Frelighuysen University, a black institution in the nation's capital.

Feminist, human rights advocate, educational reformer and teacher, Anna Julia Cooper (c. 1858-1964) led a remarkable life.

The university, established to educate poor, working class blacks from the South, had no real campus of its own and met in homes and other makeshift educational centers.

But the school's morale and very life was threatened when the D.C. Board of Education terminated its right to confer degrees, thrusting Cooper into yet another battle over the issue of educational opportunity for blacks. Rejecting the concept that the school could effectively continue as a non-degree-conferring institution, she appealed for reconsideration, writing the superintendent of schools: "I am unwilling to preside at a farce."

She lost the battle, and she suffered another blow when her niece and namesake, whom she had hoped would carry on the vital work, died in 1939.

Anna Cooper lived for another quarter century, quietly but without losing her life's philosophy. A few years before she died in 1964, she wrote how she wished to be remembered:

No flowers please, just a smile of sweet understanding.

The knowing look that sees beyond and says gently and kindly

FEATHER'S PROPERTY AUCTIONED

Property owned by Seminole County Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather was publicly sold at auction Tuesday as part of a foreclosure.

The property near Longwood included two homesites and a four-acre strip on State Road 434 near Meredith Manor Boulevard called Park 434. Charles E. Meiner, acting for Steven B. Clippinger, the Fort Lauderdale artist who started the foreclosure action on Sept. 13 of last year, bid $10,000.

Clippinger claimed Feather hadn't made scheduled payments on a 1981 promissory note and mortgage on the property. Circuit Court Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. had ruled in December that Feather owed $97,423, which included attorney's fees, interest and the mortgage balance of $85,669.

The foreclosure action will be final in 10 days. Feather hopes to sell the property appraised at $770,000. The sale on the steps of the Seminole County courthouse was conducted by deputy clerk Carrie Buettner.

EQUIPMENT MISSING FROM COLLEGE

Equipment worth more than $3,000 has been taken from Seminole Community College on U.S. Highway 17-82 during the last few weeks.

Two stereo speakers weighing 100 pounds each and worth $2,000 were stolen from the college band room between 9 p.m. Monday and 9 a.m. Tuesday. A report filed with the Sanford Police Department Tuesday shows that between Jan. 24 to Jan. 27, during unknown times, someone removed a Panasonic video cassette recorder worth $1,311 from Room J103 at the college.

FRUIT STOLEN

About 40 boxes of citrus fruit, valued at $270, were stolen from a trailer parked in a grove on State Road 419, one mile east of State Road 434, near Winter Springs. The theft took place between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 11:00 a.m. Wednesday. The fruit was owned by Robert Parker of Tuscaawilla.

CHURCH BURGLARIZED

A burglar broke into the First United Methodist Church, 419 Park Avenue, Sanford, Wednesday night and the Sanford Christian Sharing Center, 318 S. Magnolia Ave., a block away was also burglarized.

Entry was gained to the church by breaking a window in the alley door and the thief broke the glass to the office door and took out eight offering plates which were later found dumped in the churchyard.

"I guess they took them because they thought they were gold but they are brass and they were dumped," said Church secretary Mrs. Deena Stephen. Nothing else is thought to have been stolen during the time of the raid between about 5 p.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. this morning. An unspecified quantity of food and clothes was taken from the Christian Sharing Center when the thief broke a window between noon on Wednesday and 9 a.m. this morning. Police are still investigating the break-in.

TV STOLEN

A television set worth $545 was stolen from the home of Anne

Lemon, Plum Lane, Longwood, between 12:15 and 9:25 p.m. Thursday.

Police said there was no forced entry to the house.

WALLET SNATCHED

As Frank Mascaro of Orange City took out his wallet to give his wife some money to buy cigarettes, a man ran up and snatched his wallet containing $200.

The theft occurred at 4:15 p.m. on Thursday outside Richards supermarket, 1506 W. 13th St., Sanford.

DEPARTMENT STORE ARRESTS

Two women and a man were arrested after they tried to get refunds from a store for merchandise they had not bought there, police said.

The three were Christine Soto, 23, Lou-Anne Crews, 20, and Jerry Randall Evans, 23, all of 300 W. Second Street in Apopka. They were arrested at about 4 p.m. Thursday on Interstate 4 after they left Marshall's department store at East Altamonte Drive in Altamonte Springs. They were released on $100 bond on Thursday, police said.

Soto had gone to the back of the store and picked up two bedspreads and took them to the front of the store and asked for a refund, although she did not have a receipt.

Police said she said her name was Judy Smith and after further questioning by store clerks threatened bodily harm to them and then left. She was charged with theft, having no driver's license and obstruction by giving false information. Crews and Evans were both charged with theft after taking dresses up to the counter and asking for a refund, although they had not been purchased there, police said.

LONGWOOD MAN FREED ON BOND

A 29-year-old Longwood man was released on $2,000 bond from the Orange County jail on Thursday after being arrested early that morning after allegedly threatening several people with a gun and a knife in the parking lot of Sugar's, a club on South Orange Blossom Trail.

Patrick Lee Nichol, 208 Charles Street, stomped on the foot of deputy sheriff George Ellis and also threatened to kill him, according to Orange County sheriff's reports.

Nichol was charged with carrying a concealed firearm, aggravated assault with a firearm, battery on a police officer, and resisting arrest with violence.

Man Killed In Longwood

A man was shot to death in a van in Longwood early Friday morning, according to a police spokesman.

The shooting took place at about 3:30 a.m. Friday off Grant Street near Dog Track Road in Longwood.

The man, described as being in his 40s, was found slumped in the van near the back.

Longwood police are investigating the shooting. Police said they have not released the identity of the dead man pending notification of the relatives.

The man is believed to have been an area resident.

The body was taken to Central Florida Regional hospital in Sanford for an autopsy to be carried out by the Seminole County medical examiner.

The shooting is being investigated by Detective Sergeant John Bosland of the Longwood Police Department. He was not available for comment today.

The shooting took place near the Post Time Lounge on Dog Track Road. The lounge closed at 2 a.m. and the woman manager, who would not identify herself, said no one had heard anything.

New Hepatitis B Vaccine Is Found To Be Safe, Doctors Say

By SHARON RUTENBERG
 CHICAGO (UPI) — A new hepatitis B vaccine made from blood plasma and feared to contain an agent of the deadly AIDS disease is safe and should be administered to anyone at high risk of developing hepatitis B, physicians say.
 A number of health-care workers have refused to be vaccinated because some plasma is obtained from hepatitis B-positive male homosexuals, the primary victims of acquired immune deficiency syndrome, known as AIDS.
 The Food and Drug Administration approved the vaccine and distribution began last July. An estimated 100,000 to 200,000 people have been vaccinated to date.

The cause of AIDS has been undetermined, but there is concern it may be caused by an agent that can be transmitted through blood or blood products.
 The United States has 200,000 new cases of hepatitis B each year — 10,000 sufferers die of acute liver failure and 10,000 to 20,000 experience chronic hepatitis B.
 "It is estimated half of these cases of hepatitis B can be prevented by immunizing all persons at high risk for hepatitis B with the licensed vaccine," Dr. Robert J. Gerety and Dr. Edward Tabor of the FDA said Thursday in a Journal of the American Medical Association commentary.
 High-risk groups include hospital workers, homosexuals and intravenous drug abusers.

 The vaccine is "one of the most highly purified and safe vaccines," Gerety said in an interview. "There's no direct evidence of any infectious agent being transmitted by the vaccine. So all the concern is hypothetical — and not actual."
 The doctors said, "The recommendations of the Immunization Practices Advisory Committee have recently been reaffirmed; all persons at high risk for hepatitis B should receive hepatitis B vaccine."
 Dr. Donald Francis of the Centers for Disease Control told the committee: "We can say strongly hepatitis B vaccine does not cause AIDS. It looks extremely safe. It's a very efficacious and very useful product."

 The vaccine is unique because it is manufactured from human plasma.
 Donors must have chronic hepatitis B, but be otherwise healthy. They provide a complete medical history, have a complete physical examination and undergo laboratory tests.
 During vaccine manufacturing the blood plasma is treated with pepsin, urea and formaldehyde to inactivate all known groups of animal viruses by interfering with their ability to reproduce and infect human cells.

Alcohol Raises Inactive Men's 'Good' Cholesterol

By SHARON RUTENBERG
 CHICAGO (UPI) — A few cans of beer a day could be just as good as jogging to help maintain a level of "good" cholesterol associated with decreased risk of coronary heart disease, researchers say.
 "Good" cholesterol in the blood is known as HDLC, high-density lipoprotein cholesterol.
 "The consumption of alcohol in moderation seems to be associated with increased HDLC levels in inactive men but not in men who engage in regular running or jogging," G. Harley Hartung and colleagues said Thursday in the Journal of the American Medical Association.
 "Our data suggest non-exercisers can maintain levels of HDLC similar to those of individuals who jog regularly by ingesting three beers a day," he said.
 The researchers cautioned more information is needed and alcohol should not be used for the sole purpose of raising "good" cholesterol levels.
 Hartung's research team at Baylor College of Medicine studied 16 marathon runners, 15 joggers and 13 men who did not regularly exercise — all between age 27 and 59.
 None had a history of coronary heart disease or took medication that would affect the level of HDLC in their blood.
 Routine alcohol consumption was similar in each of the three groups.

During the study, each man abstained from drinking alcohol for three weeks, then drank alcoholic beverages equivalent to three 12-ounce cans of beer daily for three weeks.
 Blood levels of HDLC were measured at the start of the study and at the end of each three-week period.
 Hartung's group found the joggers and inactive men had about the same levels of HDLC at the beginning of the study, while HDLC levels in the runners were higher.
 In the inactive men, abstinence from alcohol resulted in a substantial drop in HDLC levels, which rose again to previous levels when drinking was resumed.
 "Alcohol consumption did not influence HDLC level in runners and joggers, whereas it did have a significant impact on HDLC level in non-exercisers," they said.
 But the researchers warned, "Alcohol used to increase HDLC level is not encouraged at this time, since it is not known whether increasing HDLC level reduces the risk of coronary heart disease."
 "We are also aware of the considerable body of literature that links the excessive consumption of alcohol with adverse physiological and social conditions, including cirrhosis of the liver, hypertension, cardiomyopathy, pancreatitis and a host of social problems related to alcoholism," they said.

Area Junior High Students To Cipher For A Computer

Math students of a local junior high school may bring home a computer for their school if they win a statewide math tournament that will be held in Tampa in March.
 The first phase of the competition will be a Central Florida mathematics tournament sponsored by the Central Florida Chapter of the Florida Engineering Society. This tournament, called MATHCOUNTS, will be held March 1 at the Maitland Civic Center.
 Twenty-seven teams of eighth grade students from Seminole, Orange, Osceola, and Lake counties will compete in a one-hour written test followed by a fast paced ciphering match where they mentally calculate answers to math problems.
 Winning students in the Central Florida tournament will receive $50 savings bonds and completion certificates. The winning school will receive a trophy. (A rotating Central Florida trophy will be kept at the school of the winning team until next year's competition.)

 The public is invited to support their local schools and attend the Central Florida competition.
 "Winners of the Central Florida tournament will travel to the University of South Florida in Tampa on March 26 to compete with winning teams from 243 competing schools from around the state for the final tournament.
 The winner of this tournament will be declared the state champion. The school of the winning state team will receive a TRS80 Model III cassette system computer donated by the Education Division of Radio Shack, a division of the Tandy Corporation.
 Winning students will receive programmable calculators and other prizes.

It's A Tragic Double-Standard

The rubble of Berlin is grim testament to the cynicism of the Marxist guerrillas who captured and wreaked havoc in the Salvadoran city, even while knowing they would not be able to hold it.

Their transparent effort to embarrass the Salvadoran government and encourage those who want to stop U.S. military assistance to El Salvador produced wanton destruction and horrible suffering for Berlin's 35,000 residents.

But where is the protest over this savagery from those Americans who have been so quick to point an accusing finger at any hint of wrongdoing by the popularly elected Salvadoran government?

Where is the outrage at the ravaging of Berlin? Where is the condemnation of the guerrillas' looting? Where is the denunciation of the guerrillas' torching of buildings as they recently fled the city before government troops?

And where is the compassion for the 4,000 refugees who had fled to Berlin from guerrilla attacks elsewhere, only to find themselves facing renewed terror?

Predictably, there is only silence. Sadly, these Americans who portray themselves as zealous guardians of human rights are too busy applying their double standard to worry about the plight of Berlin, too busy deploring the State Department's certification of demonstrable progress in human rights made by the elected Salvadoran government.

Never mind that this proper certification is needed for continuation of military assistance for El Salvador's struggle against insurgents armed and financed by the Soviet Union via Cuba and Nicaragua. Astonishingly, the guerrillas' sympathizers in Congress even would suspend military aid until the House and Senate determine that requirements of the certification law have "truly been met."

No wonder many moderates in El Salvador now question whether the United States will continue to assist their just and democratic cause. How can they not doubt U.S. consistency when too many Americans are blind to the guerrillas' brutal trampling of human rights?

The guerrillas' barbarism in sacrificing the city of Berlin merely to score political points should teach the world what to expect if they should overthrow the elected government.

How can anyone seriously doubt the Salvadoran Marxist slogan, "Revolution or death"?

Tire Sales Guessing

A system that gives consumers information on how long the tires they purchase can be expected to wear has been suspended indefinitely by the Reagan administration.

The reasons offered were that the tread-wear grading is unscientific, expensive, unreliable and confusing. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said tire purchasers were better off "buying by price" — getting better tires by paying more for them.

Consumer advocates are angry about the suspension. They say defects in the system can easily be corrected. They point out that tires are the most expensive replacement for most car owners and testing was costing only about 6 cents a tire.

The government answers by saying a new testing system may be reinstated if research now under way produces a better method of tread testing.

We say the government has acted hastily. If a better system is needed, it should have been developed and placed in use before abandoning the old system. Consumers need all the help they can get.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Sometimes I feel like a joystick in the video game of life."

By DORIS DIETRICH

The bulky large white envelope that reached my desk aroused my instinctive curiosity. I tried to guess the contents as I turned the puzzling enclosure back and forth. I shook it, but with caution. Careful. It was obvious that the contents were several pieces of something. Oh, what the heck. I frantically ripped it open. Pieces of a jigsaw puzzle spilled out on my desk. I hurriedly fitted the colorful pieces together which formed a large red heart with black lettering thanking the Herald for our help in promoting the Girl Scout Cookie Sale. The lovely valentine was signed by Doris Bacon-Elsea.

Monday is Valentine's Day. It's the chance to renew relationships (maybe re-ignite an old flame for singles), open a gate to friendship, mend a rift or simply say, "I love you." Valentines can say a little or a lot. They are not necessarily for lovers only. In fact, some of the comic valentines years back gave the sender an opportunity to get even, anonymously, of course (Guess Who? remember) with the foe.

According to the National Association of Greeting Cards, the first publisher of valentines in this country was Esther Howland of Worcester, Mass. A graduate of Holyoke College, Miss Howland was a spinster until the end of her days. Nonetheless, her valentines were treasured by recipients of both sexes throughout New England.

Valentines have evolved considerably since the first was penned more than 16 centuries ago by Saint Valentine, a Roman priest who sought converts to Christianity.

Jailed for his beliefs by Emperor Claudius in 269 A.D., Valentine was befriended by his jailer's daughter. The girl, blind from birth, brought food and carried messages to the cleric.

Shortly before the eve of his execution, she was suddenly given the gift of sight. Her vision was considered a miracle and testament to the priest's faith and prayer.

But there was no stay of execution. On the eve of the execution, he wrote her a note of appreciation, signing it, "From your Valentine."

And from that first note, a tradition was born. Go ahead, send someone endearing to your heart a sentimental, sweet message.

If mush and puffery aren't your signature, then send a tart and sardonic greeting. After all, it's the thought of the sender that counts.

RUSTY BROWN

'And Arn't I A Woman?'

She called herself Sojourner Truth. "Sojourner" for her nomadic lifestyle as a self-ordained preacher. "Truth" for the wisdom of God she hoped to scatter.

She was an extraordinary woman. She was black, thin and angular and wore a white kerchief on her head. She smoked a pipe and had a curious low voice. A fighter for women and her race, she died 100 years ago this year.

Born in 1797, she lived the first nine years of her life in a dank cellar with her slave parents who spoke a Dutch jargon learned from settlers of Ulster County, N.Y.

At age 10, she was sold for $100 to the first of four owners. She was whipped for not knowing English, and the beating marked her for life with ugly scars and a compulsion for justice.

When she was 30, she was freed by New York's abolition law, but her owner refused to comply. She ran away before dawn one day carrying her youngest in her arms.

Inheriting her mother's deep religious faith, she lived and worked for several years with two ministers. It was then, at age 46, that she took her new name and began her public career.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" author Harriet Beecher Stowe liked to call her Sibyl, for the prophetess. She was friends with Lucretia Mott, Quaker and pioneer feminist.

In a conversation with President Lincoln at the White House in 1864, the black woman said she had not heard of him before he was talked about as a candidate. He told her, "Well, I had heard of you years and years before I ever thought of being president."

She was present one night when the black abolitionist Frederick Douglass spoke pessimistically to a large throng about the slave problem. In answer to his mood of futility, Sojourner belted out, "Frederick, is God dead?" Her challenge inspired hope where there had been none.

In 1852, she gave a dramatic speech at a woman's rights convention in Akron, Ohio. Sitting quietly in her gray dress and sun-bonnet, she listened as several ministers spoke against equal rights for women. Finally, she could be still no longer.

"Well, chillun," she began. "Dat man ober dar say dat women needs to be helped into carriages, and lifted ober ditches, and to have de best place everywhere... Nobody eber helped me into carriages, or ober mud puddles, or gave me any best place! And arn't I a woman?"

"I have plowed and planted and gathered into barns and no man could head me — and arn't I a woman?"

"I have born'd five childrun and seen 'em mos' all sold off into slavery, and when I cried out with mother's grief, none but Jesus heard... and arn't I a woman?"

Then she pointed to one of the ministers. "He say women can't have as much rights as man, 'cause Christ wrn't a woman. What did your Christ come from?" she thundered to a transfixed audience. "From God and a woman! Man had nothing to do with him."

According to biographer Arthur Fauset in "Sojourner Truth," the deafening cheers and stomping drowned out her final words, "Now ole Sojourner hain't got nothing more to say." But she did.

In later years she talked about equal pay for equal work; "I use ta work in the field and bind grain, keepin' up with the cradler; but men doin' no more got twice as much pay." She longed for the right to vote and urged women to "get going" because she didn't intend to die until she voted.

She did not live to see the day, however. She died in 1883 at age 86.

CIA: No Comment...Unless Convenient

WASHINGTON — The CIA would like us to believe that, though it may see evil and hear evil, it will speak no evil. Its policy, reaffirmed by the current director, William Casey, is that the CIA will "neither confirm nor deny allegations appearing in the media."

This is patently untrue. The spooks will, when they choose, rush to deny any hint in the press that they have misbehaved. For example:

— Last August, charges were published that the CIA had been involved in the death of Marilyn Monroe 20 years earlier. An official CIA spokesman dismissed the accusations as untrue, even absurd.

— Last July, Casey went on the record with a categorical denial that the CIA had meddled in the Salvadoran elections. Any CIA involvement, he said, had been purely benign and open; there had been no dirty tricks to affect the outcome of the elections.

JEFFREY HART

Reverse Discrimination

Since the early '70s, and at an accelerating pace; the civil rights of white Americans have been under accelerating assault by the federal government in the name of favoritism for specified minorities. Once known as "affirmative action," this process is really "reverse discrimination."

At long last, the Reagan administration has begun to move against it.

In two important cases, which will no doubt become landmark Supreme Court decisions, the Reagan Justice Department has filed legal briefs supporting a "color-blind" approach to hiring and has come out against race-conscious decision-making by government.

A "consent decree" is an agreement between an employer and civil rights litigants to establish a hiring quota. The employer agrees to the quota in return for avoiding litigation. Both of the present cases arise out of consent decrees.

In New Orleans, a consent decree ordains a 50-50 racial balance in promotions within the police department. In an appeals court proceeding, the department is arguing that the quota limits the opportunities not only of white males but of white females as well, not to mention Hispanics. Since this is in flagrant violation not only of the anti-discrimination provision of the Civil Rights Act but of the equal-protection-under-the-law provision of the Constitution, the Justice Department is making its case on constitutional grounds.

The other case involves hiring and firing in the Boston police and fire departments.

In 1975, Boston entered into a consent decree agreement for a black quota in both the police and fire departments. The unions went along, since the agreement preserved existing jobs.

In a time of economic austerity and voter-mandated tax cuts, however, the question came into the foreground of quotas versus seniority. When an employee had to be laid off, which would prevail?

The courts ordered Boston to fire a man with 12 years of seniority because he had the wrong skin color, and retain a man who had two years plus the correct skin.

The unions sued to preserve seniority rights, and it is this case that is now before the Supreme Court. The Justice Department is backing the unions, this time not on constitutional grounds but with the argument that when it passed the Civil Rights Act of 1964 Congress did not intend to abolish a valid seniority system.

This has been a long time coming, on the part of our federal government, and we have already moved far in the direction of a system of racial entitlements rather than a nation of free and equal citizens.

It is only a beginning. There remain hundreds and perhaps thousands of racial-quota consent decrees in effect throughout the country, both at the federal and state levels, and it is going to take a legal earthquake to overturn them.

By every indication I have seen, in the polls and in the political arena, the vast majority of Americans of all colors oppose race-favoritism government, and know that one person's quota is another person's rejection.

The famous Bakke and Weber cases began the legal discussion of all this, but inconclusively — except that Allan P. Bakke has now completed his medical education — at a school that had rejected him — and is a physician.

It has been a long time coming, but the Reagan administration now appears to have reverse discrimination in its legal and political cross-hairs.

No previous administration has had the political courage to thus commit itself to elementary fairness.

Barbarians Knocking At Our Door

There's a war going on in Southern Africa. It hasn't attracted the attention of the world the way the simmering dispute in the middle East has, or the on-going counter-revolution in Nicaragua. It doesn't rate the headlines or editorials prompted by the guerrilla skirmishes in San Salvador, or the battles aimed at ousting Soviet troops from Afghanistan.

But a hot war rages from Angola to Mozambique to Lesotho. At its source is the Republic of South Africa, determined to destabilize its black-ruled neighbors to the north. It now threatens nuclear annihilation as well.

In early December, South African commandos invaded Mozambique, terrorizing farms and highways. A few days following the raid, Mozambique's major oil depot in the port of Beira was blown up.

On Dec. 8, South African soldiers invaded Lesotho's capital of Maseru, burning houses and leaving 42 people — including women and children — dead.

The South African army remains in control of a large portion of Angola, while the South African government has successfully stalled negotiations for ending its occupation of Namibia.

In Zambia and Zimbabwe, South Africa continues supporting anti-government terrorist groups and inflicting economic sabotage.

South African belligerence is a slap in the face for the Reagan administration's policy of "constructive engagement" aimed at placating Pretoria by ignoring transgressions against peaceful states surrounding the white-ruled nation and the repression of black South Africans and their white sympathizers in the vain hope that the government's behavior would change.

"Constructive engagement" has failed. And with failure comes the frightening possibility that Reagan administration overtures may widen the "hot" war waged by South Africa into a nuclear confrontation.

According to the respected Washington Office on Africa, a private group, the Reagan administration:

— Allowed U.S. companies to broker enriched uranium for South Africa's Koeberg reactor;

— Allowed the export of a Control Data Cyber 170-750 computer to the state-controlled Council for Scientific and Industrial Research in South Africa;

Collaboration between South Africa and the United States on nuclear development began in 1945 when Britain and the United States sought a supplier for raw uranium for their nuclear weapons programs. They bought all of South Africa's uranium and financed mining and processing industries.

In 1957, as part of President Eisenhower's "Atoms for Peace" program, it was agreed the United States would supply South Africa with nuclear training, a research reactor and the highly enriched weapons-grade uranium to fuel it.

In September 1979, the U.S. Vela satellite recorded a double flash of light — the sign of a nuclear explosion — in the South Atlantic. Three days later, Prime Minister Pieter Botha said, "We have military weapons they do not know about."

In October 1981, South Africa obtained enriched uranium from a Swiss reactor with the complicity of two U.S. companies.

South Africa without nuclear weapons already threatened to plunge Africa's southern tip into a bloody conventional war. Nuclear weapons in the hands of its aggressive white leadership should send frightening signals throughout the world. The barbarians are knocking at our doors.

Aspin suggested a solution: Have the CIA review its files and the Times story and write him "an unclassified letter that states flatly and clearly that, contrary to the New York Times article, the agency has concluded that there is no basis on which to impeach Mr. Demetracopoulos' honesty."

Casey replied with the old refrain about agency policy "to neither confirm nor deny allegations appearing in the media." My associate Lucette Lagnado obtained copies of the correspondence.

The CIA did, however, publicly deny that it had given any information to the Times reporter for his 1977 article.

Footnote: Demetracopoulos has taken his case to court. In an unusual move, Aspin has asked the presiding judge to declassify the documents the CIA gave him on the Demetracopoulos affair.

OUR READERS WRITE

Withholding Of Earnings Opposed

The "Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982" was signed into law on Sept. 3, 1982. Contained in this law is the provision which requires financial institutions to withhold 10 percent of my interest and dividend income and remit it to the U.S. Treasury.

Our representatives passed this law despite the fact that a July 1981, IRS study indicated 96.7 percent of taxpayers reported interest and dividends when they filed their tax returns. In addition, industry experts have projected that it will cost almost as much to establish the withholding and exemption process as the U.S. Treasury will gain in new revenue. Withholding will cause me to lose the use of my funds and the compounding of interest and dividend that would otherwise have been earned throughout the year.

Senior citizens and individuals with low income, which includes many family members, must file exemption certificates with each financial institution every year to prevent withholding. Failure to file the exemption certificates will result in the loss of the use of the funds. Many elderly and low income individuals do not file income tax returns. These people will find it difficult to recoup the funds withheld.

In their zeal to squeeze the last cent out of us, Congress, and the bureaucracy have imposed this new tax on all of us who try to save our money. The new 10 percent withholding on earned interest is a tax increase. Every time a dividend or interest payout occurs, the paying institution is required to sequester 10 percent of the interest and forward it to the U.S. Treasury. Why is that a tax? Because I have been deprived of the compounded earning ability on 10 percent of my interest income for the balance of the time before my actual taxes must be paid. Using the hypothetical example of an invested $1,000 earning 10 percent annually, interest paid monthly, it will cost me... as a new but unstated tax on my earnings, approximately $10.70. That tax will be collected from everyone... schoolchild, working adult, retiree, and disabled... without regard to ultimate yearly tax confiscation; except, on savings accounts earning less than $150 interest each year. Whether or not I finally owe any tax at all, I have been taxed at the additional rate of over 1 percent on my invested capital. While I may ultimately recover the withheld portion of my earned interest, the earning ability of that money is gone forever.

If the greed of Congress ultimately prevails and the tax is not rescinded, the earnings on my savings will be further reduced by the increase in operating expenses... forced on all paying institutions... caused by the increase in accounting cost required by the new tax.

I feel that I am being "ripped off" by an increasingly greedy, avaricious Congress, and wish to convey my anger and disgust with being victimized by my "elected representatives" who not only can... but are... killing the goose that lays the golden eggs.

I do not want the earnings withheld from my and my family's savings. Unless the withholding provision is repealed, it will begin on July 1, 1987. Early repeal is required to avoid unnecessary funds being spent preparing for the implementation of withholding. It is not too late to have the withholding tax repealed.

Utility Bill Upsets Customer

Now that the Florida Power Corporation is going before the commission to ask for a rate raise that will up all Florida Power consumers fourteen dollars a month per customer, what are senior citizens who have to live on Social Security and other low income people going to do?

I was appalled when I received my electric bill in January. My bill had jumped from eighty one dollars and some odd cents to one hundred twenty seven dollars and thirteen cents, a difference of forty six dollars. The sad part is that I had cut way back on the amount of electric I had used.

I can not understand why the fuel adjustment was ten dollars more than the energy I had used. The new item labeled "facilities charge" meant that we were being charged five dollars a month for meter reading, billing, accounting, etc.

I don't mind paying for the energy I use for that is only fair and right, but I do object to having to help pay for the fuel used to make the electricity that we then have to pay for; plus helping to pay Florida Power's office help and meter readers and other on-going costs.

I have been a customer of Florida Power Corporation for the last ten years. My bill has always been paid on time, but when I talked with one of the company's representatives I asked what would happen if, God forbid, I was unable to pay my electric bill. I was told that of course my service would be turned off.

So please, can't this rate hike Florida

Power Corporation is asking, be turned down? We who must live on Social Security can hardly survive as things now stand without having another unfair burden to weigh us down.

I know I am only "tilting at windmills" and can not hope to win against a great utility, but I believe I speak for thousands of others in my position.

Thank you for having the kindness and the courtesy to read my letter.

Justice System In U.S. Is Plagued

The United States Supreme Court's recent decision to block the execution of convicted Texas murderer Thomas Andy Barefoot offers a prime example of the problems which plague the administration of justice in our country.

Barefoot was convicted over four years ago in connection with the brutal shooting death of a police officer, Carl Levin, the father of five.

No question exists as to Barefoot's guilt. Nonetheless Barefoot, his lawyers, and the criminal-oriented ACLU have managed to repeatedly delay the imposition of his capital punishment.

This is not an isolated incident in the files of the Washington Legal Foundation. Weeks earlier criminal lawyers were successful in obtaining a stay of execution for Ronald "Candyman" O'Bryan, the man who fed cyanide-laced candy to his son on Halloween. O'Bryan has been appealing his sentence for the past eight years.

Today a solid 73 percent of the American people support capital punishment—up over 30 percent from 1966. And yet the murderers on death row, their attorneys, and sympathetic federal judges have continued to thwart the will of the people and the enforcement of the law.

The authority to determine whether and when to impose the death penalty lies with the people, speaking through their elected state representatives, and not with unelected federal judges.

As the only public interest law firm actively supporting the right of the States to impose the death penalty and execute wanton murderers, the Washington Legal Foundation thinks it's time for the frivolous and appeals to end, for the well-deserved executions to begin.

Policemen Appreciated By Society

We would like to commend Highway Patrolman Smith and the Seminole County Sheriff's Department for their cooperation and assistance in the sad, but necessary, emergency euthanizing of a severely injured horse which was hit by a car while running loose off West 46, Sanford on Friday night, Jan. 21. The euthanizing was delayed while every effort was made to get veterinarian assistance. However, because of the animal's condition, the final decision was made before medical help could arrive.

We appreciate all who helped in any way and ask bystanders to understand that we must often delay such a decision in order to attempt to locate an owner and/or receive professional medical advice.

We also urge all animal owners or caretakers to provide adequate fenced areas and never allow any animal to run loose. It can be deadly to people and pets.

Firefighters Should Want Training

As a firefighter and retired fire chief with over 25 years in the service, I was astounded and appalled to hear certain so-called "firefighters" were grumbling because training as E.M.T.s was being given to them.

This training is not available to all firefighters everywhere even though they eagerly seek it and in most cases are required to have some advanced knowledge of first-aid.

Having the city pay for this knowledge is commendable and I congratulate Chief Knowles in keeping his department up to par with the best.

In earlier years dedicated firemen were proud and anxious to acquire any knowledge to help in their profession and most did this on their own time with their own money.

If these "firefighters" grumble about what has been known as part of their profession, there are plenty of dedicated people looking for this opportunity to serve where "Save Lives" has been and always will be the first objective.

There is no greater compensation in the world than when some mother with tears in her eyes looks at you silently and says "thank you." Remember, firefighter, it could be your child or someone you love.

Be proud.

School Busing Is Opposed

This morning (Feb. 2, 1983) at 6 a.m. right after a severe tornado storm while I was on my way from Sanford to Gainesville to the V.A. Hospital, I noticed a very pitiful sight, a school bus picking up children to take to school. What does our school system expect of the children by making them get up so early to go to school without getting enough sleep and not being awake enough to eat a breakfast of enough substance to give them enough strength and energy to be able to study and learn.

It is no wonder that we are graduating so many dumb clucks that can't even fill out an employment application. If the shoe was on the other foot, I wonder how our justices who make and enforce these horrid laws and our school board members and school officials that administer them would like it if they had to live up to and obey the similar conditions. We have to wonder what our children think of us for putting them through such horrid conditions to get an education. We can hardly blame our dropouts, because we put them through these horrid conditions to get an education. It is a wonder that we don't have more dropouts.

We would like to commend our local police.

Several times we have had to call them and they have always responded right away. Even at 3 a.m. they were always extremely helpful, courteous and concerned. They never made us

So, Sanford Police Department — thank you. Thanks for being there when we needed you!

Protection Of Whales Is Needed

Attempts to save the whale are being scuttled by four nations (Japan, USSR, Norway and Peru) which refuse to accept the overwhelming 25-7 vote of the 1982 International Whaling Commission meeting calling for an end to the killing of whales by 1985-86.

If these governments continue to resist all reasonable attempts to change their pro-whaling policies which diminish the effectiveness of whale protection measures, then I strongly support stern economic sanctions against these nations, as provided for in existing U.S. legislation. I hope this effort will receive the editorial endorsement of your newspaper.

Social Security Deal Is Explained

Q. All the debate over Social Security has been somewhat confusing to beneficiaries such as myself who are depending on every dollar of their Social Security benefits. I wonder if you could spell out why you went along with that agreement made by the president's commission on Social Security when it would mean a delay in our benefit increase this year.

A. The agreement that you refer to is a compromise endorsed by 12 of the 15 members of the National Commission on Social Security Reform. It has also been endorsed by President Reagan and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., who are, in effect, the leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties, respectively.

Like all compromises this one required concessions by everyone involved. In my case, I reluctantly agreed to a one-time delay from July to January of the 1983 cost-of-living adjustment (COLA). I also reluctantly went along with the taxing of benefits when adjusted gross income of a beneficiary exceeds $20,000 for an individual and $25,000 for a couple. And I agreed, finally, to moving up some of the payroll-tax increases that are scheduled for later in this decade.

I don't like any of these things. But here's my thinking:

The deferral of the 1983 COLA was accepted in return for the Republicans' dropping two other proposals that would have been benefit cuts. One would have lowered the amount of benefits that a person gets on retiring at 62 from 80 percent of the age-65 benefits to 76 percent. The other would have reduced the ratio of benefits to average wages from about 42 percent to about 37 percent.

The taxing of benefits would only affect about 10 percent of Social Security beneficiaries — those who could best afford it. Moreover, the tax would be on only to half the benefits, which is in keeping with existing taxes on Civil Service pensions and unemployment compensation. The money from the tax would be credited to the Social Security Trust Fund.

Polls have shown that most workers, if forced to choose between benefit cuts and higher taxes, favor more taxes. This agreement, while accelerating taxes, would assure that both today's beneficiaries and those who will retire in the future won't have their benefits cut. There would also be a refundable tax credit for the tax increase to be moved from 1985 to 1984, and I hope to persuade Congress to provide credits for future increases as well.

Growing Older

In sum, I think the agreement is a fair trade-off of concessions in return for something we all want: assurance that Social Security will remain essentially as it is, as far as the future as we can see. I hope Congress will approve it quickly.

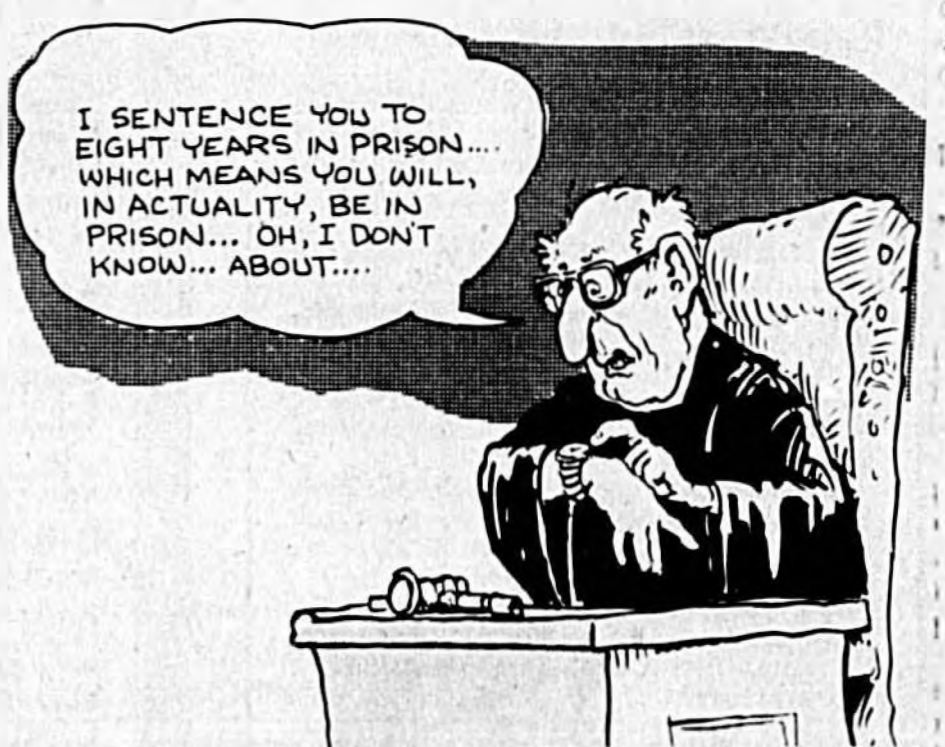

I was hospitalized recently with a rather severe case of pneumonia and had to pay a $304 deductible. I've always felt that hospital coverage provided by Medicare was quite good, but I'm concerned about these increasing payments. Why is it that they go up this way?

A: The Medicare Part A in-patient hospital deductible is by law tied to hospital costs and is intended to reflect the average cost of a day's stay in the hospital. Hospital costs have been rising considerably faster than other, medical care costs in recent years. That is why the deductible, which is adjusted each Jan. 1, has been rising so rapidly.

Moreover, Congress, under pressure to make cuts in the Medicare program, in 1981 enacted a provision raising the base amount that is used in determining the deductible. So the new deductible, $304, which went into effect, Jan. 1, 1983, is somewhat higher than it otherwise would have been.

I am deeply concerned over the effect these increasing out-of-pocket payments have on the ability of older people to cover their health care costs. Clearly holding down rising hospital costs is a matter of direct dollars and cents concern to the elderly and I hope Congress will take meaningful steps to address this problem.

Rep. Claude Pepper is the ranking member of the House Select Committee on Aging.

Will A Tax Hike Solve Anything?

By M. STANTON EVANS

The pressure is on for still another federal tax hike as a supposed method of reviving the economy.

Since most economic thinking tells us you shouldn't raise taxes in the middle of a recession, the logic of his position is hard to fathom. The main idea, apparently, is that enormous federal budget deficits must be reduced. Such deficits scare the business community, "crowd out" private investors who want to borrow money, and keep interest rates high.

As everyone knows, the deficit problem is a real one, and so is the problem of "crowding out." But none of this adds up to a convincing case for added taxes. On past experience, such an increase is likely to make our economic troubles worse, instead of better.

"Crowding out" means private borrowers who want credit to expand the nation's economic activity can't get the money. There is only a certain amount of lendable funds in the economy, so dollars borrowed by the federal government are dollars that can't be borrowed by someone else. With Federal deficits growing by leaps and bounds, this is indeed a problem.

But will another tax hike solve it? Such a hike would take money from businesses and private citizens just as surely as federal borrowing — even more so. Not all of us have to borrow money. But all of us, one way or another, do have to pay for increased taxes. Money gobbled up by taxes "crowds out" the private sector at least as much as Federal borrowing.

The obvious point is that the total burden of government spending must be paid for. If taxes are raised to finance the spending, the paying is done directly. If there is a deficit, the paying is done indirectly. Either way, the government outlay transfers resources from private hands to public. That is the real source of "crowding out."

While the politicians are quarreling about the right way to finance the burden of government spending, that burden continues to get bigger. It is this growth, not lack of revenue, that accounts for our tremendous deficits. Despite all the talk about gigantic tax cuts, the Federal government last year pulled in $20 billion more in revenues than it did in 1981. This occurred because increased receipts from Social Security tax hikes and inflationary bracket creep more than canceled out the 10 percent tax rate reduction.

Unfortunately, spending for fiscal '82 was $72 billion higher than for '81 ($729 billion vs $657 billion). Thus federal outlays last year grew more than three times as fast as revenues.

IN BRIEF

Governor May Call Gas Hike Tax Session

TALLAHASSEE—(UPI)Gov. Bob Graham will decide Monday whether to convene a special legislative session next month to deal with a proposed 5-cent increase in the gas tax.

The additional revenue from the tax would be used to upgrade a state transportation system that Graham said has been neglected for the past decade.

Graham and House Speaker want a special session to avoid having the gas tax run the risk of being held hostage in a House-Senate confrontation that could develop in the regular session in April.

Senate President Curtis Peterson is opposed to a special session and is leaning toward a boost in automobile license tag fees and other transportation charges.

Graham wants the legislature to remove the sales tax exemption on gasoline, which would have the effect of boosting the 8-cent state gas tax by five or six cents.

He would earmark about $250 million of the revenues for the Department of Transportation and state road work and earmark some for cities and counties. Peterson envisions a program costing considerably less than $250 million.

Launch Date Threatened

CAPE CANAVERAL—(UPI) The search for a gaseous leak in a replacement engine for the space shuttle Challenger threatens to further postpone the space plane's delay-plagued first voyage.

Technicians continued to search Friday for a "probable leak" in the substitute engine. But no conclusive evidence was uncovered and crews planned to put the engine through additional testing over the weekend, a Kennedy Space Center spokesman said.

"They'll keep looking into the weekend," said Rocky Raab, a space center spokesman. "There's no way to predict when a decision will be made."

If a leak is discovered, space agency officials must decide if they will install another engine now undergoing post-manufacturing testing at Bay St. Louis, Miss., or use one from the veteran shuttle Columbia.

The testing and installation of another engine could push back the Challenger's first mission by several weeks.

The space agency, which originally hoped to send the Challenger into orbit last month but postponed the launch because of the discovery of leaking hydrogen, had reset liftoff for March 7.

Another delay could force the launch date back to mid or late March, said Raab.

Sharon Says Massacre Report 'A Sign Of Cain'

TEL AVIV, Israel—(UPI)—Ariel Sharon resigned as defense minister but refused to accept indirect responsibility for the Beirut massacre, warning the Israeli report on the slaughter would be "a sign of Cain on our foreheads."

Israel Radio quoted Prime Minister Menachem Begin's closest advisers as saying he will offer the defense post to Israel's ambassador to Washington, Moshe Arens.

Officials said Sharon will remain in Begin's Cabinet as minister without portfolio for an unspecified period of time, although he has been removed as defense minister.

Opposition Labor Party leader Shimon Peres, however, demanded Sharon leave the government entirely, saying that was the intent of the recommendations of the commission.

In a speech before the Israeli Bar Association, Sharon bitterly cited the document that recommended his removal from office—a recommendation the Cabinet accepted.

"I cannot accept even for a minute... that clause that deals with the indirect responsibility (of Israel) for the events of Sabra and Chatila (Beirut refugee camps)," Sharon said of the commission's document.

Murder Suspect Charged

LONDON—(UPI)—A former policeman was formally charged Saturday with hacking to death one man in a death believed linked to some 15 other slayings targeted in the biggest murder investigation in Scotland Yard history.

Dennis Andrew Nilsen, 37, was charged with murdering Stephen Sinclair—the only victim identified so far in the investigation—"on or about Feb. 1."

Sinclair is one of three victims whose bodies were found hacked up in a sewer drain of Nilsen's north London home. Police dug Saturday in the garden of another home for 13 to 14 more other victims, believed to be drifters.

About 10 years ago, Nilsen served as a policeman for a 12-month trial period in London, but he left the force "because he was not up to scratch," relatives and other sources told British reporters.

Business Partnership Seeks To Assist City Schools

ATLANTA (UPI) — Officials at Henry W. Grady High School, like many inner city public schools, are struggling to cope with pressures such as declining enrollment and urban problems — but they have a powerful new weapon.

Grady is one of 63 Atlanta area public schools that are members of the Atlanta Partnership of Business & Education Inc. The APBE is a group of Atlanta area businesses that have decided to do something about helping public school education to survive.

The organization's symbol is an equilateral triangle whose three bases are public schools, colleges and businesses. Dr. Boyd Odum, executive director of the project, emphasizes that all three bases of the triangle must function properly for the program to be effective.

"Our plan is to get as many businesses as we can involved in the project," said Odum. "Then we go to the schools and colleges to find out what their needs are and we match them up as best we can.

"Businessmen simply must realize that the future of our country itself lies in the quality of the student we graduate from our public schools. It's a three-way operation and if one part of the operation doesn't fulfill its role then the whole concept suffers."

The APBE received its charter in January, 1981 and since then it has grown to include 140 businesses and colleges, which have adopted more than a half million dollars in financial and in-kind support to the school programs that are adopted.

The group is led by a 24-member board of directors headed by James M. Zimmerman, president of Rich's Inc., a major department store chain.

"We have been enthusiastic supporters of the partnership since its inception," said Zimmerman. "We recognize the critical role it plays in the future of our public school system."

Rich's has adopted D.H. Stanton School in Atlanta's southside. Zimmerman said Rich's employees spend time at the school helping out in the instructional program and providing training tools for business education.

At Grady High School, named for the late, famous editor of the Atlanta Constitution, the Atlanta Newspapers are providing instructional help in the Grady School of Communications.

Kay Earnhardt, director of the Grady School of Communications, said she wanted to publish a school newspaper using the writing and photography of her students. Atlanta Newspapers offered her the use of its printing facilities to print "The Southerner," a four-page publication that serves the Grady faculty and students.

"There is no substitute for the experience these students are getting in seeing how a newspaper is put together and distributed," said Mrs. Earnhardt. "The students have increased their awareness of all sorts of things that can't be learned entirely in the classroom."

According to Odum, the program is paying off in changes within the schools that are not just cosmetic. While there is a public relations value to the project, Odum said this was not the primary focus of the program.

"Our goal is to make our children realize that there are big dividends to be realized from being a good citizen," said Odum. "At the same time, we want to make the businessmen see the advantages of having a good relationship with the young men and women who are going to be their consumers and in some cases employees."

Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Succeeding

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
UPI Education Editor

Insider information is a free booklet that tells teenagers and others how to aim for one of 98 careers not requiring college.

The jobs with good paychecks attached require some training after high school, however. They range from bricklayer to diesel mechanic, emergency medical technician, computer service technician and hair stylist to locksmith, practical nurse and plumber.

The handbook from the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools in Washington, D.C., tells about careers that can be learned in two years or less.

Considering the cost of college these days—edging up to $50,000 for four years at the most prestigious schools, word that a skill leading to a job can be mastered in a relatively short time may be welcome news for millions who can't afford the time or don't have the money for college.

The guide lists career, trade or skill-training schools by state. It also lists skilled careers alphabetically. Under each skill is printed names of schools in particular states offering training in that career.

It also features tips on exploring careers. And it gives hints on how to check out the school's offerings—including promises of job placement.

Skill training, the guide says, may be a best bet path to economic security right now and for a good while. For this reason, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that within the next decade 20 million new jobs will be created with 80 percent of them requiring some type of skilled training other than college.

Of the top 20 jobs that the Bureau of Labor Statistics predicts will show the most rapid employment growth in years ahead, 14 require vocational training, NATTS reports.

NATTS is an educational association of more than 500 private trade and technical schools nationwide. It claims to monitor current and future job trends.

Schools accredited by NATTS are checked out on educational goals, faculty, admission and enrollment policies, course offerings, placement and completion rates, advertising, facilities and equipment.

Once a school has been stamped "approved," there also are periodic check-ups to make sure standards are kept up.

"A feature of accredited trade and technical schools is their emphasis on placement of their graduates," the Guide says.

"Training is most of the job, but since these schools are employment oriented institutions, placement is a very important part of a vocational school's program.

"Moreover, a reputation of good placement is essential if a school is to thrive year after year.

"So, vocational schools work closely with employers. This contact helps graduates find good jobs and employers find qualified employees.

"While placement rates vary from career to career, most men and women who are available for work after completing their training at a NATTS-accredited trade or technical school have little difficulty finding a job in their field."

For a copy of the guide, "The 1982-83 Handbook of Trade and Technical Training," write NATTS, 2021 K. Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Some of the guide's tips on picking a trade or technical school:

—Write for catalogs from three or more schools offering training in a chosen career. Compare the offerings on the following points.

—Is the school licensed by your state's post secondary school licensing bureau?

—Is the school accredited. Accreditation means the school meets standards on educational quality, teaching ability and administrative integrity, as certified by an examining agency approved by the U.S. Department of Education.

—Are the courses up-to-date? Who teaches them? What are the qualifications of the teachers? Do the instructors have experience in the field in which they are teaching?

—Is the equipment current with that being used on the job?

—Does the school have a laboratory or shop set up which duplicates a real work scene? Hands-on training.

What Makes People Rebel?

GAINESVILLE (UPI)—A University of Florida psychologist is studying former Cuban political prisoners to find out what psychological factors make a person rebel against an oppressive political system.

"What manner of men and women are these people when it would be so much easier for them to succumb to authority?" that's what I hope to find," Alex Iglesias, a Cuban exile himself, said Friday.

Iglesias, a counselor at UF's Counseling Center, already has interviewed 25 of the estimated 1,000 former political prisoners living in south Florida. He hopes to talk with at least 60 others.

Students Sell Sod Certificates For New Sports Complex

Lake Mary High School, in an effort to raise sufficient funds for its future sports complex, recently held a sod sale.

This sale involved the entire student population selling certificates ($1, $5, and $10 denominations) to help pay for sod and other necessary building materials.

Twelve LMHS students did more than their share by selling over $100 worth of certificates. They were: Michael Horner, Amy Moran, Scott Michaels, John Citrone, Rodney Johnson, Chris Carter, Theresa Schmitz, Billie Gordon, Robert Lee, Chris Michaels, and Mark Swartz. Also included was freshman Mickey Reynolds who was the top sales person with $127.

These students all received a free trip to Walt Disney's EPCOT Center.

The homeroom that sold the most was run by Mrs. Connie Mosure.

The sophomore class had the highest number of sales, selling over $1,300 worth of certificates.

The freshmen were second with over $800 and the juniors were last with over $700.

The total amount of money collected by the sale was $3,082.45.

Faculty Follies At SHS On Monday

One of the most exciting events of the year will occur Monday.

On this special occasion, many teachers will exhibit their talents and abilities before a live audience in the Seminole High School auditorium. Of course, this is the Faculty Follies. There will assuredly be an exciting program as the favorite educators of the school perform. Don't forget to come out and see this entertaining show sponsored by the junior class.

This week's Tribe members are William Boyd and Michelle Walton, both seniors. William is a member of the cross-country and track teams. He is a member of Interact, Spanish Club and Chorus. He was on the senior calendar and won the Mr. SHS contest. Michelle is the treasurer for both Student Government Association, and Interclub Council. She is a member of Keyettes and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. She was also on the Homecoming court.

Last week's Tribe members were Tracy Gregory, Angie Thomas, and Scott Claytor, all seniors. Tracy is a member of the volleyball team, National Honor Society, and Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Angie is a member of Future Business Leaders of America, FCA, AAU, and Spanish Club. She is also on Yearbook and a basketball statistician. Scott is in Key Club and is on the basketball team.

Scotty's Sales Up 33%; Dividend Is Declared

Dennis W. Stults, executive vice president of Scotty's Inc. has reported sales for the four weeks ended Jan. 29, of $27,900,925, an increase of 33 percent over sales of $20,916,209 for the corresponding four weeks last year. Sales for the 30 weeks ended Jan. 29, were $183,962,601 or 14 percent over sales of $161,115,491 for the 30 weeks ended Jan. 23, 1982.

Stults explained the increase in sales in the latest 4 weeks reflected improvements in the economy, including a significant increase in the professional builder business.

There was one additional sales day in the 4 week period this year over that of last year.

The board declared a regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents per share payable on May 2 to stockholders of record as of the close of business on April 15, 1983.

Scotty's issued a previously announced 3-for-2 stock split on February 1, 1983 in the form of a 50 percent stock dividend.

Sailboat Deal Signed

Dave Clark, president of Clark Mfg., of Auburn, Washington, and Jerry Van Gundy, president of Sailboat Works, Inc. of DeBary, have announced that Sailboat Works will build Clark's San Juan 21' and 23' Sailboats for distribution in the eastern and central United States.

This marks the end of Clark's six-month effort to locate an Eastern U.S. builder with production capacity and quality controls sufficient to fill the void left when Clark shut down its New Bern, N.C., facility in mid-1982.

Sailboat Works, which recently acquired the plant, tooling and dealer network for the Victoria Sailing Yachts, will build and market the Classic 21' San Juan and both versions of the 23' San Juan performance cruiser under direct license from Clark.

Existing San Juan dealers will be retained and Victoria dealers will be offered the San Juan line if no San Juan dealer is currently active in their area.

Clark said the Sailboat Works commitment to quality and constant improvement was the major factor in his decision. Over 3,000 of the three San Juan models are currently sailing. No changes are contemplated on the Clark designs.

Walgreen's Promotes Health

During February, Walgreen drug stores around the country will observe National Children's Dental Health Month as part of the company's ongoing effort to help inform the public about health related matters.

Walgreens, along with Beecham Products, makers of Aqua-fresh toothpaste, are making available free of charge the American Dental Association booklet, "Cleaning Your Teeth & Gums." Aimed at children, the booklet reinforces the need to remove bacterial plaque from teeth through proper brushing, flossing, and rinsing techniques.

Walgreen advertising scheduled for February 17 will announce the availability of the booklet. All Walgreen pharmacies will distribute the booklet free upon request while quantities last.

IBM Contributes To Community

TARRYTOWN, N.Y. (UPI) — Barbara Harpell, head of a nonprofit organization in Stamford, Calif., never realized she was an S-4 before her week in the New York countryside.

"I tend to say: 'We're going to do it and here we go,'" said Ms. Harpell, describing characteristics she had just discovered were the typical traits of an "S-4" leader, who specializes in delegating responsibility rather than constant supervision.

"I've learned here I have to listen more to the staff," added Ms. Harpell, who was among 22 heads of non-profit organizations spending a cold January week in Tarrytown as part of IBM's Community Executive Program.

IBM has spent more than $2 million on the project, which permits heads of community service groups to receive an intensive week-long course in management similar to those IBM traditionally provides for its own executives.

The project was supposed to run throughout 1982, but was extended an extra nine months by popular demand. Except for transportation, all costs of the program are borne by IBM.

"Non-profits just don't have the available funds," said David Morris, head of a neighborhood center in Toledo, Ohio. "We could never see taking this kind of thing out of the operating budget."

"Could you imagine the board of directors' reaction?" he asked, rolling his eyes.

The non-profit executives seem particularly interested in IBM's theories on situational leadership, which urges managers to match their own styles with the maturity of their employees. The highly-desirable M-4 worker, for instance, is too mature and inner-directed to tolerate the constant interference of an S-1 leader. Workers who are less advanced on the self-starting scale, however, flounder when given their heads by an S-4.

The head of a counseling center tells one class she has discovered much of the dissension and rancor among her own employees could be traced back to her tendencies toward S-4-ism.

"It's certainly sunk in this week that a lot of the blame is mine," she said abashedly. "I need to get some things done — develop job descriptions."

Other class members suggest that the workers themselves should write up their descriptions, and the born-again manager sets herself a June 1 deadline for finalizing the project. "I do procrastinate," she admitted.

The students in the Community Executive Program are well-educated, replete with advanced degrees from speech pathology to medieval studies. But most apparently were in the same boat as the one who wrote on his application: "My only management training has been on the job."

Toxicity Group Researching New Hazards

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the mushrooming problems of American industry today is the chemical toxicity of so many materials and products.

A case in point is the current dispute between the steel mills and the plastics companies over the alleged poisoning potential of plastic pipes and electric conduits, particularly over fumes released if the plastic pipe burns.

Although it is not directly concerned with the plastic pipe dispute, the Chemical Industry Institute of Toxicity in Raleigh, N.C., active since 1976, is engaged in wide-based research paid for by some two-score major chemical companies to determine which chemicals are most likely to involve industrial companies in serious pollution and public health problems.

"CIIT is not an adversary institution," said its president, Dr. Robert A. Neal. "We don't take cases to defend companies against specific allegations that the chemical substances they use are harmful to workers or their products are harmful to consumers." That is left up to the manufacturers themselves.

CIIT engages in basic, independent research on the toxicity of chemical and other physical substances.

Since, in interpreting the federal Toxic Substance Control Act of 1976, the Environmental Protection Agency listed 43,000 such substances, the priority problem is enormous. These 43,000 substances don't include finished combination products in food, cosmetics, drugs and pesticides. The institute does not test proprietary compounds.

Despite the huge number of substances listed as potentially poisonous, Neal said no one knows for sure how many chemical substances really are high risk for workers or consumers.

In its work up to now, Neal said, CIIT has given higher priority to hazards to workers than hazards to consumers. That's probably because workers are better organized than consumers and their claims for protection and compensation present a more direct threat to manufacturers. "The goal," Neal said, "is to present industry and the scientific world with impartial evidence about the potential toxicity of materials so manufacturers won't rush into new products unaware of potential poisoning and pollution problems."

Because of the comparative paucity of current knowledge of toxicology, Neal said, industry faces a severe regulatory bottleneck in the development of new and useful chemicals and consumer products, and even in the use of chemicals now available.

Cardinal Apartment Projects Progress

Modular apartment units were recently "set" at the site of the Green-tree Apartments being developed in Thomasville, Ga., and at Ramblewood Apartments in Valdosta, Ga.

Built by Cardinal Industries, Inc., of Sanford, the country's largest apartment manufacturer, the 33-unit Thomasville rental community will comprise four efficiencies, 21 one-bedroom, and eight two-bedroom in six single story buildings. It is expected to be completed and ready for occupancy Feb. 22.

The Valdosta 82-unit rental community will comprise 42 one-bedroom, and 10 two-bedroom in eight single story buildings. It is expected to also be ready for occupancy Feb. 22.

Cardinal apartments arrive at the site in the form of 97 percent complete 12-by-24-foot modules, which are set on permanent crawl space foundations with a 50-ton hydraulic crane. The company has developed approximately 100 projects in Florida and 350 in Georgia and the Midwest.

Cardinal has also opened the second phase of the Candlewood Apartments on Mohr Road in Tampa and the Country Square Apartments in Tampa on Pinecrest Drive.

The Mohr Road project cost $1,254,000 and the Country Square Apartments cost $2,774,000.

Candlewood Phase II is composed of six studio, 26 one-bedroom and one two-bedroom single story garden apartments in five buildings on a 1.5-acre site. Each unit features a full circle of insulation on all sides including the floor and unique "double wall" construction designed to provide maximum sound, fire and energy control.

Country Square Phase II is composed of eight efficiencies, 53 one-bedroom, and 12 two-bedroom single story garden apartments in 11 buildings on a 4.56-acre site. Each unit features a full circle of insulation on all sides including the floor and unique "double wall" construction designed to provide maximum sound, fire and energy control.

Cardinal constructed the Country Square II units in its 125,000-square-foot factory and transported them to the job site in the form of 12-by-24-foot modules, which were then set on permanent foundations.

Utility Rate Hikes Supported

NEW YORK (UPI) — If consumers pressure public officials into denying electric rate increases now, they will reap a whirlwind in years to come, says a top industry economist.

Dr. Douglas Bauer, senior vice president for finance and research at the Edison Electric Institute, said short-term higher rates now will mean relatively lower rates in the future while failure to give the utilities adequate short-term rate boosts could mean disastrous increases in the future.

An underfinanced and technologically backward utility industry could become an economic house of cards, he said.

Failure to face up to the situation now could lead to the very real prospect "that America's electric utilities may not be able to meet the nation's power needs in the future."

Such a failure, he said, could profoundly impair or even destroy the nation's ability to compete in foreign markets, to provide employment at home or maintain an adequate defense.

"In short," he said, "the electric industry makes other industries go."

Too low a rate of return on equity because the level of consumer rates doesn't go up sufficiently means the utilities are looked on as poor investments in Wall Street, he said. Even though they are the largest borrowers in the country next to the government, this forces them to pay extremely high interest rates for money and that in turn will force future consumer power rates up even more.

Bauer said utilities, on the average, were getting a return of 13.4 percent on common equity in the first half of 1982 although state laws allowed them an average of 15.9 percent. He said the number of utilities that carry good bond ratings has shrunk by two-thirds and some are rated so low certain financial institutions cannot legally purchase their bonds.

He said the precarious financial position of the companies is making it impossible for them to convert from oil to cheaper fuels or to modernize their plants.

He told United Press International the average age of first line power plants in the United States was about 10 years for three decades but, the way things are going now, plants producing some 89,000 megawatts of power will be 40 years old by the end of the century and still in use. Of course, most plants do have a much longer useful life than 10 years.

"This is too big a price to pay for getting power a little cheaper now," he said.

Flagship Contest Winners Listed

George Wallace of 771-4 S. Wymore Road in Altamonte Springs was a state first prize winner of a three-day Caribbean cruise to Nassau, Bahamas, and the Out Islands on the MS Sunward II but he's not the only winner in Flagship Bank's "24-Hour Jack" Cruise and Cash Give-away.

Wallace, who said he had never won anything before, hopes to take the cruise some time next summer after it

"warms up a little bit."

"Actually, I'd been telling everyone I'm going to win the cruise," but I was still surprised," he said.

Although he has been on the Sea Escape one day excursion, he said this will be his first real cruise and he is really looking forward to it. He plans to take along a friend, Shirley Brooks, who he has been seeing for over a year.

Local winners in the Flagship Bank of Seminole contest included: the first prize of $300 for a getaway weekend went to Barbara Norris, 3291 S. Sanford Ave. in Sanford; second prizes of $100 cash for a night on the town went to Janice Overman of 1001 Esplanade Way in Casselberry, Charles O. Bauman of 1388 Yellow Pine Court in Winter Springs, and James Polgar of 106 Highland Court in Sanford.

Stromberg-Carlson System Installed In Tennessee

The Ooltewah-Collegedale Telephone Company of Ooltewah, Tenn., recently placed its first System Century Digital Central Office with the new Local Line Switch in service. The occasion was marked by a formal cutover ceremony and Open House in the telephone company's new building.

Ooltewah-Collegedale's Executive vice-president and general manager, Art Barnes, labeled the event "100 percent successful." The Ooltewah-Collegedale Telephone Co. is part of the Chickamauga Telephone Corporation in Chickamauga, Ga.

The cutover ceremony was attended by Congresswoman Varilyn Lloyd Douquard of the Third District of Tennessee, who helped Mrs. Frances V. Barnes, president of the telephone company, throw the switch that placed the 2,100-line DCO System in service. The system has the capacity of 5,000 directory numbers and offers a full line of custom-calling features and pushbutton dialing.

Barnes expressed his appreciation to Stromberg-Carlson for its efforts in making the day of the cutover one of the most successful in the history of the Ooltewah-Collegedale Telephone Co. He also praised the new switch and the state of the art it represents and noted Stromberg-Carlson's contributions to the independent telephone industry over the past three decades.

Stromberg-Carlson, a member of the Plessey Group, is headquartered in Lake Mary.

Edmonton's Gretzky Is Most Dominant Star In Sports

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Ziegler, the NHL's always proper, always courtly head honcho, was a little self-conscious about being the center of attention, the same as you'd be if everybody else in the room was watching as this beautiful girl sang a love song to you on your birthday.

The place was the grand ballroom of the Long Island hotel that served as headquarters for all the hockey people connected with Tuesday night's All-Star game in Nassau Coliseum. This was a couple of hours after the contest, at the President's Reception, where the smiling host, John Ziegler, was celebrating his 49th birthday.

Vicki Moss of Edmonton was the girl who sang to him. She's Wayne Gretzky's girlfriend and she did a fine job with the song, but as good as it was, it couldn't begin to compare with the job turned in by the fantastic Gretzky only a short time before that.

Until Tuesday night, the most goals scored by a player in any one All-Star game was three. Ted Lindsay was the one who did that way back in 1950. Not only did Gretzky go Lindsay one better by scoring four goals, but he betted them all within a 12:58 span of one period, the final one, to lead the Campbell Conference to a 9-3 laughter over the Wales Conference.

For doing what he did, Gretzky was named MVP and the winner of still another car. At that, he was short-changed. They should've given him the keys to the kingdom.

The way I see it, Wayne Gretzky is the most dominant figure in sports today, easily, and I mean in all sports. Run down the list of some of the other great performers, people like John Riggins or Dan Fouts, or Moses Malone, Tom Watson, John McEnroe or Robin Yount, whom Gretzky reminds me of most. The skinny blond Edmonton Oilers' center overshadows them all statistic-wise and otherwise. He makes extraordinary accomplishments look ordinary. The last two athletes I've ever seen do that were Joe DiMaggio and Joe Louis.

Even if you don't get too overheated about hockey, you have to be impressed with someone like Gretzky, who's only 22, because he makes everything look so easy.

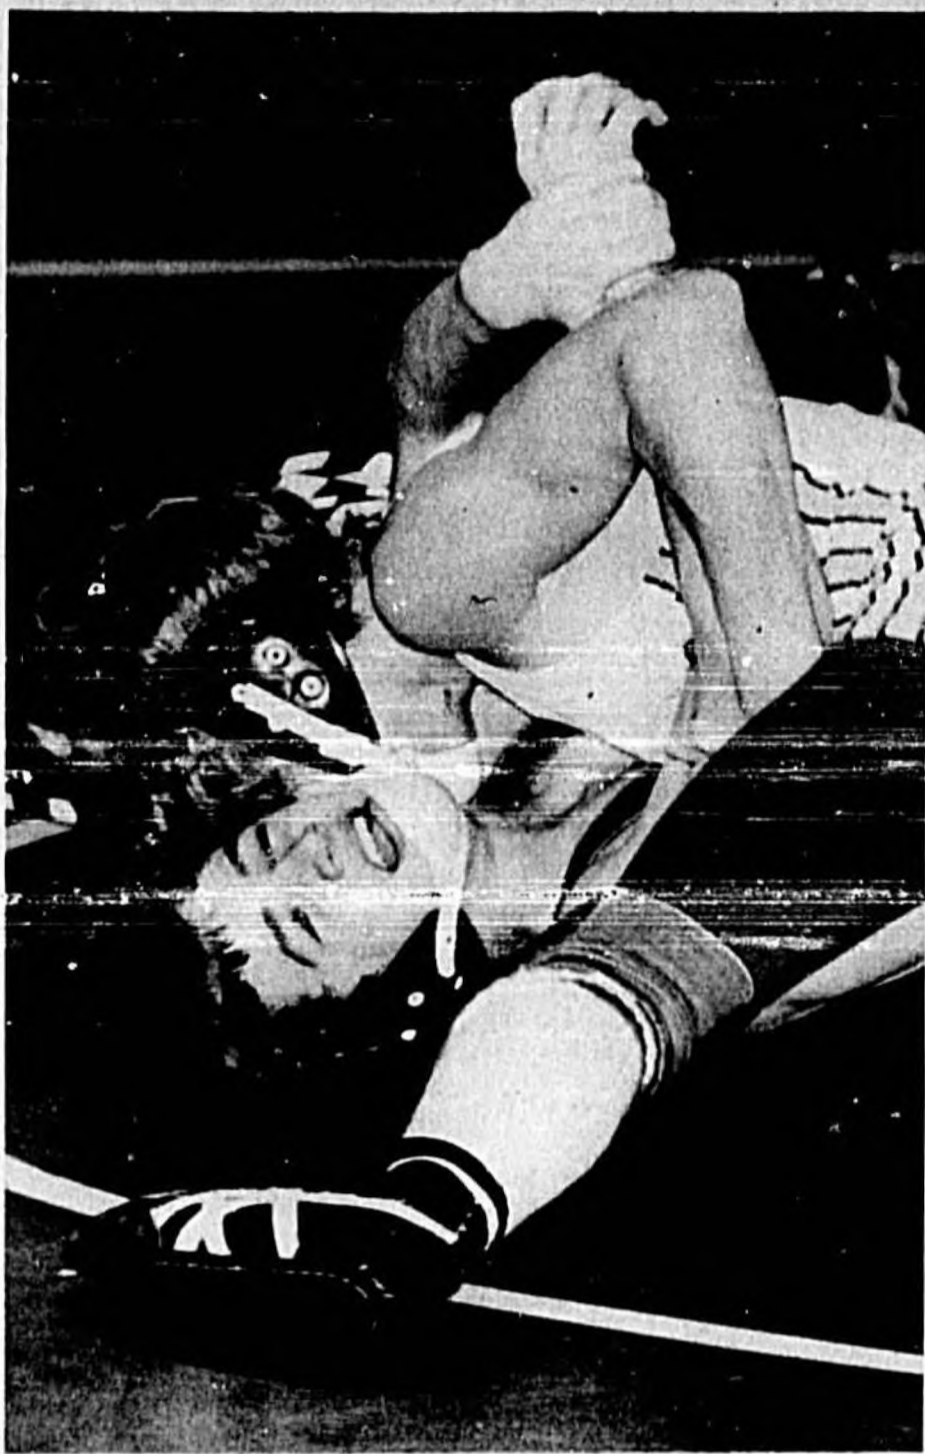

Some think Gretzky already is the greatest hockey player ever. Generally I like a guy to be around at least 10 years before making any definitive appraisal, and I've seen some of the truly great ones like Maurice Richard, Bill Cowley, the Conachers, Jean Beliveau, Gordie Howe, Bobby Hull and Bobby Orr, but I wouldn't quarrel with anyone calling Gretzky No. 1.

But, it's not his nature to go around telling everybody how good he is, even though he has led the league in scoring the last two years. With a 52-point lead over his closest pursuer now, he wouldn't have a whole lot of trouble making it three in a row if he took the rest of the season off.

Gretzky is almost too good to be true. Everytime the hockey writers try to make a big deal out of him, he starts praising the play of his teammates. He means it, too. His fellow players with Edmonton know that and it only makes them appreciate him more.

Doug Wilson of the Chicago Black Hawks, who won the Norris Trophy last season as the best defenseman in the league, played on the same team as Gretzky in the All-Star game and talked about how his opponents feel about him and the tremendous publicity he gets.

"All the players in the league respect him," Wilson said. "There's no resentment about him at all. One of the reasons for that is he's not impressed with himself. He knows he's good, but he's not arrogant. You can see that just by the way he acts. No matter what he does, how many goals or assists he gets, he goes out of his way to praise the guys he plays with. I've talked to them. They love him."

Seminole's Ronnie Watson has a mission. He's been wrestling it over in his mind all week. He has to beat Lake Brantley's Jamie Offenberger in the District 4A-9 Wrestling Tournament at Seminole High School.

"That's all Ronnie has talked about all week," confirmed Seminole assistant wrestling coach Stacy Sherman. "Offenberger, Offenberger. That's all he thinks and talks about."

One obstacle stood in Watson's path Saturday morning. The talented 116-pounder had to dispose of Lyman's Juwan Lee in the semi-finals in order to get his big chance against Offenberger in Saturday night's finals at 8 o'clock.

Offenberger moved into Saturday morning's semi-finals with a pin of DeLand's John Pennington in 3:05. Lee toppled Lake Howell's Paul O'Callaghan, 11-6. Watson drew a bye Friday in the tournament's first round.

"The first time I wrestled Offenberger (in the conference), I didn't know if I could beat him," said the easy-going Watson Friday night. "I lost by one point (11-10). Now, I have the confidence. I know I can beat him. I'm going to try and pin him."

While Watson was contemplating his "Offenberger Mission," Lake Howell coach Pete LeClair was shaking his head and mumbling under his breath about the Lyman Greyhounds.

LeClair and his Silver Hawks were a close second to Lyman in the Five Star tournament, but two head-to-head losses put the Hawks in trouble after the first round.

"We had six guys in the finals and four winners in the conference," lamented LeClair. "But nobody in the wrestlebacks. That's where we got beat. Losing these two doesn't help either."

Lyman took a 25 1/2-16 1/2 first-round lead over Seminole as coach Skip Pletzer's 'Hounds advanced all 12 wrestlers (they don't have a heavyweight) to the semi-finals. Lake Howell and Mainland were next with 14. Lake Brantley had 13.

"That's unbelievable," said Pletzer about the perfect Lyman showing. "I never thought we'd get everybody into the semis. Our freshmen really did a great job."

The best of the frosh was Chris Waxler. The strong 136-pounder completely overwhelmed Lake Howell's David Collyer in overtime to take a 20-12 decision in one of those head-to-head battles.

"Waxler is going to be great," raved Pletzer. "For a freshman to wrestle at that heavy a weight (136) and do that well is really something."

In the other Silver-Greyhound meeting, Lee controlled Paul O'Callaghan to put the Greyhounds 2-up against their biggest challenger.

Seminole, meanwhile, continued to play its darkhorse role by advancing 9 of 10 grapplers to the semi-finals. Senior Vince Clark (142), looking for his second straight district crown, used a "ball and chain" to pin Spruce Creek's Jeff Stemmler in just 1:10.

Junior Vince Williams (159) built a 5-0 lead over Mainland's John Taylor before pinning him at 3:22 for Seminole. Tony Turner, (149) out-maneuvered Apopka's Glenn Watson for a 12-5 decision while James "Cheese" Morgan survived a penalty point for throwing his headgear at the opponent and won the match to win by default in overtime against Lake Brantley's David Zimble.

Tribe Kickers Squash New Smyrna Beach, 9-1

The Seminole High soccer team posted a 9-1 drubbing on New Smyrna Beach Friday night as the Tribe claimed its third straight win and fourth in its last five games. Seminole ended the regular season with a 7-9 record.

Seminole put the game away in the first half as it scored five goals and stopped New Smyrna's offense cold. "It was one of our best offensive games of the year," Tribe coach Howard Hawkins said. "It's good that we're playing so well going into districts."

The defense also had a good game for Seminole as it shut down the 'Cudas the entire game. New Smyrna Beach's only goal came with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

The first round of the district tournament starts Tuesday as Seminole hosts Spruce Creek at 4 p.m. at Seminole High. In other district action, Lyman hosts Lake Brantley, DeLand hosts Apopka and Mainland hosts Lake Howell.

Seminoles Sting Brantley, 80-66

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

For the first time in three games, the outcome of a Seminole High basketball contest did not go down to the last few seconds. No last-minute free throws, no shots at the buzzer, this one was over after the first quarter.

The Tribe sailed to a 23-8 lead after one quarter and went on to defeat Lake Brantley's Patriots, 80-66, Friday night at Lake Brantley.

"Seminole has a super team," Lake Brantley coach Bob Peterson said. "We dug a hole for ourselves in the first quarter. We missed too many free throws in the early going."

In the first five minutes of play, Seminole outscored the Patriots, 16-3, hitting 8 of its first 10 shots from the floor. Meanwhile, Brantley struggled and hit just 1 of its first 9 shots. The Patriots hit 4 of 9 free throws in the decisive first period.

"The starters did a great job and really hit the boards hard in the first half," Seminole coach Chris Marlette said as the Tribe improved its record to 18-9 overall and 11-3 in the Five Star Conference. Seminole didn't get much help from cross-country rival Lyman as the Greyhounds fell to conference leading DeLand, 67-55. DeLand remains in the driver's seat in the Five Star with 12-2 record.

Lake Brantley fell to 5-17 overall and 3-11 in the conference. Seminole set the nets on fire in the first quarter, hitting 11 of 15 shots from the field for 73 percent while Brantley was a frigid 2 of 11 for 8 percent.

Lake Brantley could not manage to pull within 10 points again as the Tribe dominated the boards. With 1:43 left in the first half, Calvin "Kiki" Bryant canned two free throws to give Seminole a 40-20 lead. Seminole led, 42-25 at halftime.

The Tribe continued its torrid shooting spree into the second quarter and wound up hitting 19 of 32 shots in the first half for 60 percent accuracy. Lake Brantley made only 6 of 26 shots in the first half for 60 percent accuracy. Lake Brantley made only 6 of 26 shots in the first half for an icy 23 percent.

Although Marlette was pleased with the performance of his starters in the first half, he wasn't too happy with the way the Tribe's reserves played in the second half.

"I was disappointed in the bench," Marlette said. "They didn't come ready to play. The whole team has to do its job, not just the starters. It's nice to win but I hate to put the starters back in because the subs don't perform well."

The starters left the game early in the fourth quarter and had built a 22-point lead, 73-41. The reserves committed numerous turnovers and fouls and let Brantley back to within 12 points, 76-64, with about a minute left to play. Fortunately for Seminole, Lake Brantley did not have enough time to catch up.

"We were just standing around in the first half," Peterson said. "But we started to pick up late in the third quarter. I was pleased with the way we played the last 12 minutes of the game, even though it was against their (Seminole's) reserves. Our intensity level was good and that's what we need for the entire game."

All five of Seminole's starters scored in double figures with Bryant's 19 points leading the way. Willie Mitchell added 13 points, William Wynn tossed in 11 while Vernon Law and Jimmy Gilchrist added 10 points apiece. Paul Hoffman had a game-high 28 points for the Patriots while Mike Garriques and Rick Zullo added 12 apiece.

This Guy Is Marvelous!

Hagler Stops Sibson In 6

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI) — It was supposed to be Marvin Hagler's toughest test as a champion. What it turned out to be was a showcase for his talents.

Hagler did a methodical hatchet job on No. 1-ranked Tony Sibson of England Friday night, pounding his face into a bloody pulp and knocking him down twice before the bout was stopped in the sixth round.

It was Hagler's sixth defense of his world middleweight title and pushed his record to 56-2-2. Sibson, an aggressive straight-ahead fighter who had been expected to give Hagler a stern test, fell to 47-4-2.

Hagler was at his best before an overflow crowd of nearly 14,000 that packed the Centrum despite a heavy snowstorm. He brought swelling around Sibson's left eye with a series of stinging right jabs in the first round.

In the fourth, Hagler switched from his normal left-handed style to right-handed and brought blood streaming from Sibson's nose with a wicked left right.

And in the fifth, Sibson's face was covered with blood as Hagler opened a deep gash along the challenger's left eye. A quick combination put Sibson down briefly in the sixth and a left hook to the body and two chopping rights to the top of the head put him down again. The British challenger staggered to his feet but referee Carlos Padilla refused to let him continue.

"I was just going into my tool chest," Hagler said. "I was very effective in switching styles. It felt good to see him go down — I wanted to see him go down."

"I was working on the cut. I didn't expect him to cut so easily. He was coming after me very aggressively and I thought to myself 'this guy is a very dangerous fighter. Let's get him out of there.'"

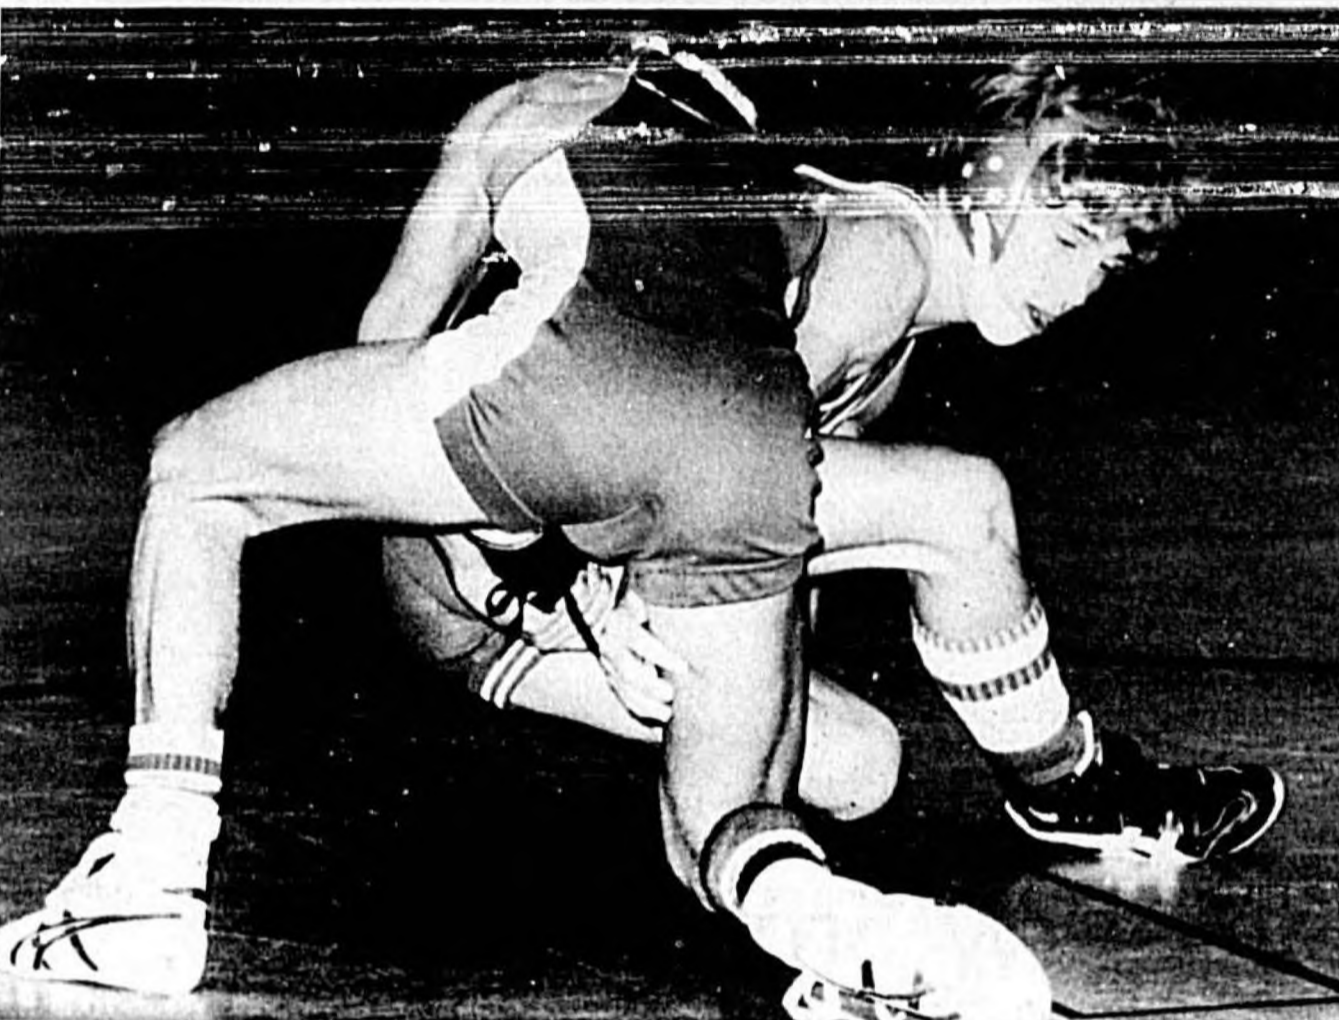

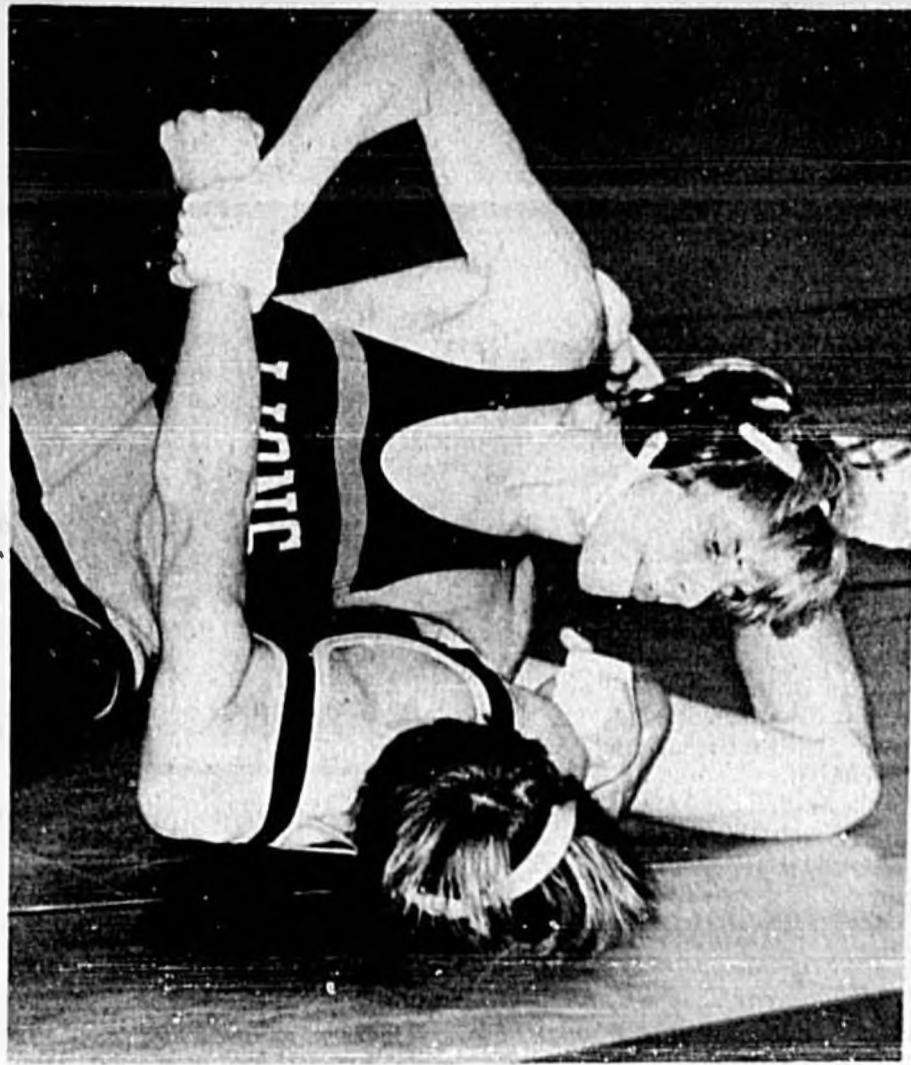

Sibson was extremely confident entering the fight and he admitted afterward he was simply overmatched against Hagler.

"I just fought the best in the world," Sibson said. "I really believed I was going to be world champion."

Lake Mary's "Pin Twins" continued to roll in Region 3A-2 Wrestling Tournament at Lake Mary.

Jack Likens (109) easily disposed of two opponents and unlimited Robert Rawls took just 32 seconds and 54 seconds to flatten two more in the opening rounds Friday.

"Likens and Rawls looked super," said Lake Mary coach Frank Schwartz. "Rawls should have a pretty tough match Saturday morning but I think Likens should take care of his guy."

Likens took care of Citrus' Phil Montgomery in just 1:38 and struck Tampa Jesuit's Todd Mezrah in 4:47. The feisty junior built a 17-0 lead before using an armbar for his first pin and then built a 10-0 bulge prior to nailing Mezrah with a three-quarter nelson. Likens is 26-0 for the season.

"I haven't wrestled (Osceola's) Russ Mason this year," Likens said about his semi-final round opponent. "But he was fourth in the district and I beat the guy that beat him."

Sanford's Rawls, meanwhile, ran his record to 25-1 by subduing Land O'Lakes' Mike Clark in 32 seconds with a corkscrew and then bear-hugged and pinned Bradford's Don Thornton. Rawls wrestled Santa Fe's Todd Filer Saturday morning in his attempt to reach the finals.

"If Rawls hits you, you're done," said Schwartz about his 6-9, 328 pounder. "If he gets any part of his body on you, it's all over."

While Rawls and Likens had no trouble advancing, Lake Mary's other district champion, Bob Olson, lost to Santa Fe's

Gary Lumpkins, 6-2. If Lumpkins continues to win, Olson will get a reprieve in the wrestlebacks.

On the strength of Likens' and Rawls' strong showings, Lake Mary stood in ninth place with 23 points. Oviedo, making use of its strong lower weights, was eighth with 28 points.

Bishop Moore, as expected, took the second-round lead with 51 points.

Defending champion Suwannee was next with 46 while Kissimmee-Osceola is third with 37.5. Crystal River (37) and Springstead (32) are next.

Coach John Horn's Lions advanced five grapplers into Saturday morning's semis. Gerald Jordan (102) pinned Gainesville's Bobby Gerrazano in 2:25 and decisioned Ocala Forest's John Fair, 10-5. He met Bishop Moore's tough Barry Hyde Saturday morning.

Shawn Knapp (109) tripped Crystal River's Tim McCain, 7-6, and then pinned Buchholz's Tim Mersereau in 5:11. If Knapp continues to win he could meet Likens in the final.

Brian Smith (116) decisioned Tampa Jesuit's Paul Ferlita, 4-3, and nipped Bradford's Tom Pierce, 9-7. Mike Hilgar (123) stuck St. John's Kyle Hill in 1:44 and decisioned Buchholz's Greg Miller, 8-4.

Steve Berg (130) became the fifth Lion to reach the semis when he pinned Severino Francisco in 3:15 and dropped James Christopher of Tarpon Springs, 8-5.

Oviedo's Joe Locklin (149) lost to Ed

Kennedy of Crystal River, 10-4, in the first round.

In other action concerning local wrestlers, Sanford's Kevin Huaman (116) decisioned Hernandez's Sean Edwards, 8-3, and pinned Lake Weir's Dennis Miller in 5:36 to advance for Bishop Moore.

Lake Mary's Virgil Grant (123) was stuck by Ocala Forest's Troy Wiseman in 1:31. The Rams Todd Beauchamp whipped Eastside's Daryl Frazle before losing, 14-0, to Ocala Forest's tough Walt Poole.

Lake Mary's Mark Lindquist (149) was pinned by Ocala Forest's Mike Council while Brent Blakely blew a 5-0 lead in losing to Greg Hendrix of Land O'Lakes. Willie Green (171) was decisioned by Lake Weir's Shelly Bothwell.

Another Ram, Ned Kolbjornsen (180) pinned Gainesville's Dave Johnson in 5:27 before losing to Crystal River's Joe Vorwerk, 6-2. Ed Ales (224) was pinned by Crystal River's Charles Brooks in 2:35.

Oviedo's Steve Berg (top) dominates James Christopher of Tarpon Springs during his 8-5 decision.

No Trips On Payne Travel Itinerary

Seminole Community College basketball coach Bill Payne took a glance at the state map and his eyes never wandered past Sanford.

It's second-place time in the mid-Florida Junior College Basketball Conference which means the runnerup to Lake City will be decided in the next week. The runnerup gets to host the tournament which produces the other state qualifier and Payne does not want to go to Jacksonville (Florida Junior College).

He was just there last week and FJC treated his Raiders rather rudely, sticking them with a 94-69 setback. The second-place battle has turned into a four-way fight. All teams play in the tournament.

Here's a look at the standings:

Team	W	L	GB
Seminole	7	4	—
Florida Junior	7	4	—
Central Florida	6	5	—
Daytona Beach	6	5	—

SCC hosts Valencia Saturday night. The Raiders go to Santa Fe on Wednesday before closing the regular season next Saturday at home against Daytona Beach.

"All road games in this league are tough," says Payne. "So, it's important that we win both our games at home."

The Raiders, 17-10 overall, have beaten VCC twice this year. They whipped Santa Fe, 78-71, at home but were blown out by Daytona Beach on the road.

Florida Junior, which has beaten SCC two out of three, hosts Lake City Saturday, plays at Valencia Wednesday and hosts Central Florida next Saturday. Central Florida hosts Daytona Saturday, plays at St. Johns Wednesday and goes to FJC Saturday. Daytona plays Santa Fe, CFCC and SCC.

SCC, which lost swingman Jerry Smith with a knee injury, hopes to have him back by tournament time. "I talked to his doctor last night and he said it was coming along 'well,'" said Payne about the arthroscopic probing.

Payne will start guard Keith Whitney and Jimmy Payton along with forwards Ricky Sutton and Bernard Merthie and center Luis Phelps against VCC.

fourth quarter en route to a 54-35 victory. Seminole built a five-point lead, 32-27, after three quarters of play and outscored the JV Patriots, 14-4, after four and half minutes went by in the fourth quarter.

Kenny Gordon led the JV Tribe with 14 points while Joe Corso added 12 points and nine rebounds, James Rouse and Eugene Nathan had 10 points and seven rebounds apiece. Seminole raised its record to 7-12 with its second straight victory.

Apopka's Sue Grant knows how to follow the bouncing ball. With just four seconds remaining in Apopka's game with Lake Mary Friday night, Grant went to the free throw line for a one-and-one situation with her team leading, 50-48. Grant missed the front end but grabbed her own rebound and dropped in the follow up shot to clinch a 52-48 victory for the Lady Darters at Apopka.

Grant wound up with a game-high 22 points as Apopka defeated Lake Mary for the second time this season. The Lady Rams, 18-6, have lost three of their last four games.

"We couldn't generate any hustle," Lake Mary coach Bill Moore said. "They (Apopka) killed us on the boards. We only had six offensive rebounds."

Lake Mary got off to a fast start and took a 14-9 lead by the end of the first quarter. The Rams went cold in the second quarter and Apopka came back to outscore Lake Mary, 12-6, to take a 21-20 lead at halftime.

The Lady Rams managed to stay close enough to make a run in the final seconds as Kim Averill hit a shot with six seconds left that made the score 50-48. Lake Mary pressured the inbound pass but Apopka got it into Grant, who was fouled with four seconds left to set up her last second shot.

Pinone Reigns Inside As Villanova Blitzes Pitt

Basketball

While it snowed outside, John Pinone reigned inside.

The senior center scored 25 points on eight of 12 attempts from the field to lead the No. 14 Villanova Wildcats to a 76-65 victory over Pittsburgh Friday night in a game played despite a blizzard that dropped nearly 2 feet of snow.

The triumph raised the Wildcats' record to 16-4, 9-2 in the Big East, while Pitt dropped to 12-9, 5-6.

"We're still lacking a groove, but Pittsburgh is a tough, pesky team," said Villanova Coach Rollie Massimino.

Clyde Vaughan led the Panthers with 22 points.

"Villanova played a good game this time, but I think we played them better than the time before," said Panther Coach Roy Chipman. "This environment is certainly not conducive to a win."

Villanova has lost only three of its last 49 home games.

The Wildcats maintained a six-point cushion through most of the first half. Pinone's inside muscle underneath combined with the outside shooting of seniors Stewart Granger and Mike Mulquin to give the Wildcats a 40-33 lead at halftime.

NEW SMYRNA BEACH—Greg "Superman" Sacks won the modified finale on Friday night at New Smyrna Speedway. Mike "Polar Bear" Eddy, driving the same old war horse which took him to the American Speed Association (ASA) National Championship last year, took the late model main. Thunder car winners were Danny Knoll and Dave Olszanski.

A record entry field of over 200 race cars overcrowded the pits and a record opening night crowd warmly greeted the competitors who came from all over the U.S. and Canada to fight it out on the brightly-lit high-banked half-mile.

Current Thompson Speedway Winston Racing Series champion George Kent took an early lead on lap three of the modified finale. Kent, heading a tight front pack, was followed by Ken Bouchard, Fast timer Richie Evans and Sacks.

Coming out on top of a spectacular wheel to wheel duel with Evans, Sacks inherited the lead and the win when first place runner Kent went out in a puff of smoke on lap 16.

Third to fifth were Reggie Ruggerio, Jamie Tomaino and veteran Bentley Warren. Ruggerio and Corky Cookman were the heat winners.

Twenty-nine cars took the green for the late-model finale, with outside front row starter Junior Hanley powering on to an early lead. By lap five, three caution periods had already slowed the pace when leader Hanley lost power and put it behind the wall for good.

Up there knocking at the door was Eddy who went on to a narrow victory over fastest qualifier Mark Malcuit, Art Sommers, Richard Coffin and Dick Trickle who charged back up from last after pitting for tires.

Heat winners were Randy Slack, Sommers, Al Schill and Joe Middleton.

DAYTONA BEACH, (UPI) — Rick Roland zoomed around the Daytona International Speedway in a record time of 1:59.093 mph Friday to capture the pole position for Sunday's 20th annual ARCA 200 Late Model stock car race.

Roland, driving a Pontiac, wheeled around the high-bank 2.5-mile trioval in 45.205 seconds, nearly missing the 300 mph barrier. His time shattered every existing lap record in the 25-year history of Daytona International Speedway.

Roland broke the record for the 2.5-mile trioval set by John Greenwood in 1977 at 1:57.845 mph. He also broke the mark for ARCA qualifying set by Billie Harvey in an Oldsmobile last February at 1:54.225 mph. "That was some ride, I'll tell you," Roland said. "It was wild out there."

Heart Donor's Mom Meets Altamonte Girl Recipient

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS (UPI)—Sharon Flannery said it was an "unexplainable feeling" to meet the girl who is being kept alive by the heart of her own daughter, who was killed in a motorbike accident.

"I just wanted to see you," Mrs. Flannery told 12-year-old Felicia Holland. "You're a very special little girl, you know that?"

Felicia nodded but never said a word during the meeting. Kelly Flannery, 12, was killed in a motorbike accident in September. Her parents decided to donate her organs, including her heart, for transplant purposes.

Felicia received Kelly's heart Sept. 9 in surgery in Richmond, Va. Prior to the operation, Felicia, who was born with a hole in her heart, was given three months to live by doctors.

Mrs. Flannery and Felicia's family were brought together Thursday for the filming of a national television show to be aired next month.

"I feel sad because I lost my daughter, but I'm happy for Felicia and her parents," said Mrs. Flannery of Bad Axe, Mich. "It helps me to see they've done a good thing with the organs."

Kelly's liver and kidneys have been transplanted in three other people. Mrs. Flannery also has met a Michigan man who received one of her daughter's kidneys.

"I was really excited and I was really happy we were able to save this man's life," she said.

But Mrs. Flannery said Felicia is the most special to her. "When I found out she was just a little girl, and then I saw her picture, she was just so very special," said Mrs. Flannery. "It's an unexplainable feeling."

"We think you're kind of special, too," said Felicia's mother, Donna Rush.

"Thank you."

Nursing Center Sets Heart Fund Jamboree

Families and friends of Lakeview Nursing Center will join the staff and residents at the Center on March 12 to raise funds for the American Heart Association.

The event is part of the Nursing Home Rock 'n Roll Jamboree conducted each February and March by nursing homes across the country. Sponsored by the American Health Care Association, the jamboree encourages the community to give financial support to health education and research.

The marathon fund-raiser traditionally features individuals rocking in rocking chairs and rolling in wheelchairs for donations pledged to them by members of the community. Lakeview Nursing Center's event will include clown faces painted by members of the Fun and Frolic unit of Bahia Temple, white elephant sale, bake sale, kissing booth, rolling and rocking, wheelchair races and a concession stand.

The money raised will be used for education and for community service programs, both in local areas and on the national level.

For more information persons may call Mrs. June Miller at the center, or 322-6707.

Channel 43 Here Monday

TV Channel 43 is spotlighting Seminole County in its programming. Lou Frey Jr., president of Southern Broadcasting Corporation, said WMOD, which started broadcasting in July, has been well received.

Nelle Ayres, director of administration, said the format will consist primarily of film features and syndicated programs. National sports and other programs will be received via satellite. Ann Morehead, community affairs director, and camera crews will be in the Sanford Area Monday meeting with Jack Horner, president of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce; Macon Hare of the New Tribes Mission; Capt. Bill Dolle of the Bay Queen; the Sanford Junior Women's Club and other personalities. A special report on the Central Florida Zoo is being considered.

Mardi Gras Enters Last Carnival Weekend

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Cast in secrecy and fired by imagination, Mardi Gras is a complex combination of history and social structures — despite the chaotic nature of the finished product.

"The older organizations have years and years of tradition," said Errol Laborde, author of a book on Mardi Gras. "That's something I really like, the mystique of those organizations."

With the rolling of the Hermes parade Friday night, New Orleans pitched into its final frivolous weekend of Carnival.

Ten more "krewes" are scheduled to march through the downtown area before Fat Tuesday becomes Ash Wednesday and the traditional restraint of Lent prevails. Other groups are getting ready to roll in the city's many suburbs.

Nearly a million people are expected to squeeze into a few square blocks on Mardi Gras itself. But different sections of New Orleans pack them in for a few hours each as smaller parades go by.

THE BIG IDEA THAT WON'T WORK.

THE 'EDEL' REFORM. IT'S OUT OF TOUCH WITH AMERICA.

When the President's Commission on Social Security unveiled its plan to save the System from bankruptcy, it offered Americans a glimpse of a "solution" that is out of touch with the nation's needs and desires.

Just like the infamous Edsel.

Congress is now under pressure to rubber-stamp its approval of this unworthy reform package . . . or else.

"Our reform must not be amended," the Commission exclaimed. "Or else the entire solution will unravel."

BUNK! Americans want a real, long-term solution to the Social Security System's funding dilemma. Not policies fashioned from politics and sold like an automobile.

A SOLUTION WITH PROBLEMS.

The President's Commission failed to realize that some of their big ideas would create even bigger problems.

The inclusion of new federal and postal workers in the Social Security System, for instance. Bringing them into the already shaky system would do more harm than good. Because each new participant will someday be a recipient.

It's the same old story — more money going out than coming in. That's what got Social Security in the mess it's in now. And more of the same won't solve anything. But it will make things worse. And the amount federal and postal workers might contribute to Social Security wouldn't make a dent in the Commission's estimated $200 billion shortfall.

PROBLEMS WITHIN PROBLEMS.

And it doesn't end there. When Congress looks into the matter, it will find that the Commission's "reform" guarantees the bankruptcy of the Civil Service Retirement System, which now covers federal and postal workers.

Without the contributions of new federal and postal workers into the 63 year-old federal pension program, CSRS is doomed to destruction.

Unless this system, too, is bailed out of bankruptcy by the American taxpayer. To the tune of hundreds of billions of dollars.

And we don't think that has to happen. Or should. Consider, too, that a supplemental pension program, comparable to CSRS, will be necessary for new federal and postal workers. Except the new program would be paid for by taxes. Right. More and higher taxes plus another pension plan. And we don't think that's fair. Or necessary.

CONGRESS HAS THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR TRUE REFORM.

We do not see the Reagan Commission's package as a "reform." We see it as a product that is out of step with America. Just as the Edsel proved to be. It is incumbent upon Congress to rescue Social Security, an income insurance program we're committed to preserve. But the Commission's reform is not the way to save Social Security. It is just another example of politics dictating policy.

CONGRESS, DO YOUR JOB.

Don't be stampeded.

Congress should not be afraid to explore workable options for solving the System's funding deficit, hold hearings, write legislation and vote its conscience.

But the Commission's reform is unconscionable by any measure. It just has one idea of having new federal and postal workers join Social Security has so many negative consequences that aren't worth legislating. Isn't it worth examining every "reform" option proposed by the Commission?

The Social Security 'Reform' America Won't Buy.

We ask Congress to search for a long-term solution to the Social Security crisis, not take the easy way out — because it seems to us, the Commission's politicians are selling America another Edsel.

The Name That Rings A Bell

By DORIS DIETRICH
PEOPLE Editor

The Sanford community is going to miss Thomas E. Hunt.

And the affable Southern Bell executive says he is going to miss Sanford.

"People ask where you grow up. Well, I really think I grew up in Sanford — with losing a son and all the tragedy, I matured in Sanford. The community of Sanford gave me more than I could possibly give back," Hunt says.

Tom Hunt began his career in the marketing division with Southern Bell in 1973 after spending 16 years in the Aerospace Industry. In August of that year he was transferred to Orlando, still in marketing. In May, 1974 he moved to Sanford as manager of Seminole and Southwest Volusia Counties Operations. In May, 1980 Hunt was appointed district manager for Orlando Residential Service.

Beginning Feb. 1, Hunt was appointed district manager for the Brevard County Operation replacing Pat Blummer upon his retirement.

"I have a lot of misgivings leaving Sanford and going back home," he said.

Hunt and his wife, Barbara, are both from the Cocoa-Rockledge area. He is a graduate of Cocoa High School and Brevard Community College. The Hunts were married in the Presbyterian Church, Rockledge, in 1956. Her mother and his parents are all living in Brevard County.

The couple are the parents of four living children: Tom, a six-year U.S. Navy veteran who is now a manager with Consumers Power, Midland, Mich.; Susan, an accountant in Jacksonville; Chris, a three-year U.S. Navy Veteran and fulltime student at Seminole Community College; and a daughter Kelly, a ninth grade student at Crooms High school, Sanford.

When the Hunts lost a son, Eddie, 14, in April, 1978, the tragedy was almost more than the family could bear. Eddie died of Hodgkins disease at Shands Hospital, Gainesville.

With Ronald MacDonald Houses emerging in parts of the country, Hunt saw a void that he could fill by helping establish a Ronald MacDonald House in Gainesville, a home away from home for families of hospitalized children.

As vice president of Friends of RMH Inc. Central Florida since 1978, Hunt has been a vital foundation block in the house that love built.

Through community contributions, the house in Gainesville opened in July, 1982 with a Sanford Room furnished by concerned citizens, he acknowledges.

Hunt says when Cmdr. Gerald Coffee, a former Prisoner of War stationed at the then Sanford Naval Air Station, returned from Hawaii last summer to address the Rotary Club of Sanford Breakfast at its annual installation banquet, it was announced that about $2,200 was needed to furnish the Sanford Room at a total cost of $12,000. The club generously followed through with this amount, Hunt said.

In January, Hunt asked the Home Life Department of the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. to fill his seat on the RMH Board of Directors, explaining that the facility, costing about $515,000, is still in need of $90,000 annually for operating expenses. "The projects of the clubs is an ongoing process," he said.

For his untiring efforts with the Ronald MacDonald House, Hunt was the recipient of the National Service Institute's prestigious Jefferson Award for public service in 1981.

In 1978 Hunt was named Sanford Rotarian of the year, followed by Jr. Sorosis Club's (Orlando) Man of the Year in 1980. He was made an honorary member of the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. in 1982.

Hunt's past community involvements include: president of the Sanford Rotary Club; president of Greater Sanford of Commerce; chairman of the Industrial Development Committee; campaign chairman and president of the United Way of Seminole County Inc.; Board of Trustees, Central Florida Zoological Society; Board of Directors; American Cancer Society; and member of City of Sanford Public Employees Relations Committee.

Hunt's present activities include: member of Rotary of Orlando; Board of Directors, Downtown Orlando Inc.; Board of Directors, Orlando Chamber of Commerce; vice president of Orlando Economic Development; public relations of Junior Achievement; Board of Directors-Executive Committee of American Red Cross; and vice president of Friends of RMH Inc. Central Florida.

The overwhelming response to his son's death and the "love story" surrounding Ronald MacDonald House arouses tearful emotions in a proud Tom Hunt, "the rock to which his whole family has clung and his shoulders have been very broad," Barbara says. "It's hard to believe a man can be in so many places at once and still remain the loving husband and father that he is."

Tom Hunt walks tall. "The community of Sanford is like home to me," he says. "The community has demonstrated something to me — real love and understanding. How could a man ask for more? It's hard to leave these folks."

Kathy Miller, former Home Life Department chairman of the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford Inc., looks on while Tom Hunt shows the clubwomen movies of the progress of the Ronald MacDonald House.

Stan Rockey, right, former president of the Sanford Lions Club, presented a check from the club to Tom Hunt for the Ronald MacDonald House.

Miss Whittern, S.J. Weimer Exchange Vows

Leslie June Whittern and Stephen James Weimer were united in Holy Matrimony Feb. 12, at 2 p.m., at the First United Methodist Church, Sanford. The Rev. Leo King performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Whittern of Sanford. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Miller of Merritt Island.

Given in marriage by her father, the radiant bride chose for her vows an elegant gown of Ivory Qiana. Fashioned along the empire silhouette, the bodice, Queen Anne neckline and long slim sleeves were lavishly embellished with silk Venise lace motifs. The pleated A-line skirt gracefully cascaded into a full chapel train bordered in narrow lace. A Juliet cap secured her waltz-length veil of illusion edged in rolled satin. She carried an arm bouquet of Ivory and pink roses.

Norma Reed of Sanford, attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a mauve-colored gown styled with a full Qiana skirt. An overlay of georgette formed the capped sleeves and bodice that dipped to a V in the front and back. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Tracey Reed, niece of the bride, Sanford, was the bridesmaid. Her gown and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

The bridegroom's father was the best man. Ushers were: Steve Rumsey, Chuluota and Joseph Lampa, Tampa. Charles Turner, of Altamonte Springs, was the groomsmen.

Following the reception at Sanora Clubhouse, Sanford, the newlyweds departed for a wedding trip to Jekyll Island, Ga.

Feb. 4 was a joyous day for Lake Mary's city secretary Carol Spotts. During a ceremony held at city hall, Carol became the bride of John G. Edwards of Sanford.

City hall was beautifully decorated with ferns, lavender begonias and bows, arranged by Carol's step-mother, Mrs. William Brumley Jr.

As the bride and groom entered the room, Barbara Gorman, the city utilities clerk, sang "You Light Up My Life." Carol's father, William Brumley Jr., gave her away, while her 6-year-old son, Jeffrey, was the ring bearer.

The matron of honor was Carol's grandmother, Genevieve Brumley. Genevieve said she was excited because it was the first time she has ever been asked to be a matron of honor. John's father, John Edwards Sr., was the best man.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Virgil Bryant of the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford. During the candlelight ceremony, Barbara also sang "We've Only Just Begun."

A reception followed the wedding at the home of Madeline Minns, the city treasurer.

Among the 50 guests were John's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards, and the bride's mother, Katherine Odham.

This was the third wedding to be held at the city hall.

Ursula met the 45 German speaking writers and photographers as they arrived at the airport via two chartered Pan Am jets and for the next week she would be their only link to Central Florida and our customs.

The week included trips by bus to Disney, Epcot, Cape Kennedy and a gala dinner party at the Contemporary Hotel.

Ursula found the week to be the most "intellectual, stimulating, and exciting" time she has ever had as a tour guide.

She and her husband Tom have four children. They attend Holy Cross Episcopal Church in Sanford and she has been a resident of the Lake Mary area for over 25 years.

Jaycee Women Observe Week Of Feb. 13-19

Feb. 13-19 is U.S. Jaycee Week across the nation and the Sanford Jaycee Women have a full calendar of events planned in observation of the Week, according to Eileen Mack, president.

Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore has signed a proclamation declaring Jaycee Week in Sanford honoring the Sanford Jaycee Women for their contributions to the community.

The Jayceettes are young women from 18 to 36 years of age who are interested in assisting their community and improving their leadership abilities through individual development.

Some of the projects run by the Jayceettes include the MDA Phone Center each September, visits to nursing homes, Officer-Ugh Poison Control Program, and assisting the Jaycees in their projects. They also conduct CPR Courses, Child Abuse Information Programs and Child Safety Restraint Promotion.

Local women in Sanford are involved in the Florida Jaycee Auxiliary on a statewide basis. Sherry Kitner is presently serving as the State Individual Development vice president, overseeing all phases of the self-improvement programs offered state-wide.

On a social basis the Jaycee Women offer a wide variety of social functions designed to better acquaint the members with each other and also to acquaint new members with their organization.

Throughout the nation the U.S. Jayceettes are helping to make their community a better place in which to live.

This week the Jaycee Women will be hosting a pizza and bowling night on Monday, a social night on Tuesday, an Undercover Wear and Mary Kay Membership Night on Wednesday, Jaycee

Garden Circle

MIMOSA CIRCLE
A breakfast meeting of Mimosa Circle of Sanford Garden Club, was held in the private dining room of the Holiday Inn.

Following breakfast Mrs. Florence Korgan, an invited guest, explained that the regular meeting of the Garden Club Board, scheduled for Feb. 2, had been canceled by the president, due to inclement weather. Mrs. Korgan read a message from Mrs. Elizabeth Welebob, Garden Club president, in which among other things, she announced the general meeting and covered dish luncheon will be held Thursday, Feb. 17.

There will also be a commemorative service and dedication of a painting honoring the memory of Mrs. Carmella Farrington.

The featured speaker of the morning was Mrs. Charles Wilke, who spoke on flower arranging. A blue ribbon winner of numerous flower shows, Mrs. Wilke brought several arrangements which she deftly altered by adding a few essentials or taking away height and interest to her others, thus adding depth, creations.

Don't Look Gift Horse In Mouth

DEAR ABBY: Should we ask relatives what they need or want for Christmas? Or should we send whatever we think is appropriate at a price we can afford?

I am enclosing a letter we received from my husband's cousin, who sends us a Christmas card every year:

"Thanks for the purse. It's attractive, but I only use those with compartments for wallet, change purse, glasses (reading and sun), shopping bags (folded), plus other junk I carry, too numerous to mention.

"Sorry to say, the dress you sent me is not usable. The size is for a gal at least 6 feet tall. Besides, the jacket has no buttons and the material is too dressy for work. Also the color is not suitable, as I wear very plain, conservative clothes in black, brown and navy blue.

"Sorry I don't have the postage to return these things to you. And since I'm on welfare, I sure could have used the money instead. I hope you won't get mad at me, but why couldn't you have asked what I could use?"

Abby, I come from German immigrant parents who taught me to make the best of everything, and I would never look a gift horse in the mouth! My husband says to forget it, but I think differently. What do you think? I wonder what reaction your readers would have.

ALBANY, N.Y.

DEAR ALBANY: Your cousin is letting you know exactly how she feels about your Christmas gifts. I'd give her an "A" in communicating, a "B" in candor and a "D" in diplomacy.

DEAR ABBY: My wife of many years died recently. She made a peculiar request before she passed on. She asked me to have her cremated, then mix her ashes in a can of white paint and paint the bedroom ceiling with this mixture.

This understandably creates a difficult dilemma for me. I certainly want her near me, but not necessarily when I'm entertaining in the bedroom.

PEELING PAINT IN DAYTON

DEAR PEELING: I don't foresee much datin' in Dayton with the ashes of your dear departed mate on the bedroom ceiling. Honor her request, but entertain elsewhere.

DEAR ABBY: I was shocked to receive this in the mail:

"This invitation sent especially to you,
"To mark the end of this bizarre year of '82.
"Please come to my home and mix and mingle
"To celebrate with this newest single.
"A cheerful time we'll all have, of course,
"I'm celebrating my divorce!"

I think this invitation is in very poor taste. Some of my friends thought it was a good idea.

The divorce was one of those messy ones involving several children. With divorce on the increase, it would be interesting to have your comments and the comments of your readers.

WONDERING IN NEW HARTFORD

DEAR WONDERING: It's one way of putting out the word officially that a marriage is over and the sender is available for dating, mating or whatever.

However, I've seen worse. Example:
"Jim and I have finally split
"C'mon to my house and let's get lit!"

In Speech To Broadcasters

Reagan: 1983 Is Year Of The Bible

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

The high point of the recent National Religious Broadcasters convention was President Reagan's ringing reaffirmation of the social agenda — anti-abortion, school prayer and tuition tax credits — he and the generally conservative broadcasters share.

In particular, Reagan capped a year-long campaign by many of the religious new right broadcasters by announcing he would designate 1983 as "the year of the Bible."

values of faith, family and caring for the needy, they are saying they want the word of God," Reagan told the broadcasters. "We want to face the future with the Bible."

But as the broadcasters ended their annual three-day Washington gathering, theologian Carl F. H. Henry kindly chided the conservative religious movement for its prosperity, its non-biblical lifestyle and its often intemperate criticism of the United States.

Henry sees a lot of troubles in the United States, not least the conservative's favorite target, "secular humanism."

But, he told the convention's closing banquet: "To depict the United States mainly in terms of weaknesses and vices as politicians do in order to topple an incumbent from office or as some evangelists and social critics may do to elicit decisions or funds, may hasten the eclipse of America as a model for authentic national possibility and spur interest in far less promising political alternatives."

"We need to voice a balanced judgment on our troubled nation," he added.

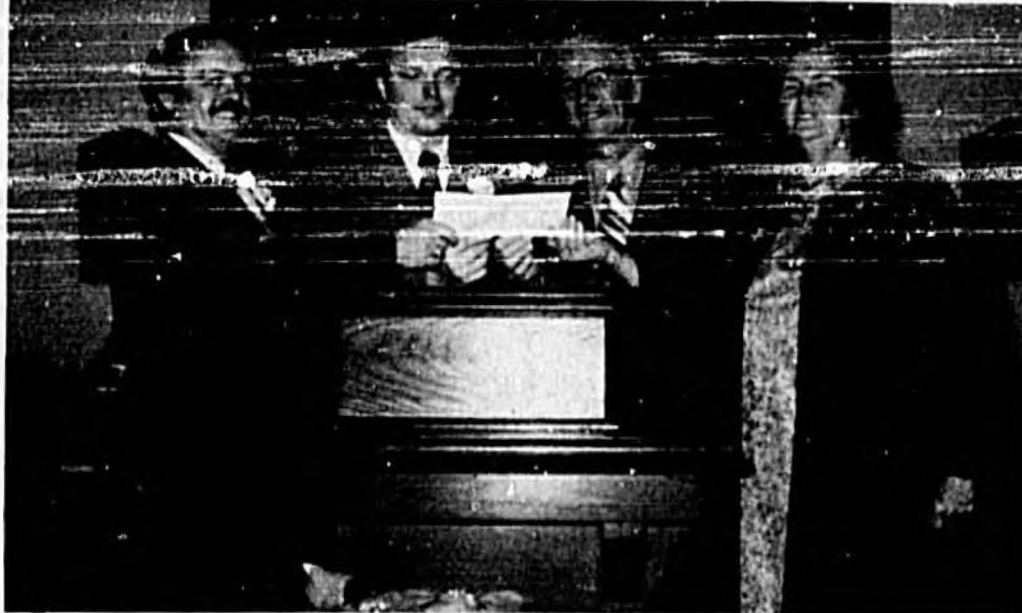

Henry, perhaps more than any other conservative writer, has been responsible for the renewed strength of the evangelical movement in the United States but despite its apparent success, he told the broadcasters he found it ailing.

"For all our impressive numbers, for all our larger public visibility, for all our varied ministries with multimillion dollar budgets ... evangelical Christianity is now weaker in America than it was 15 years ago."

"In a culture where 40 million to 50 million persons claim to be 'born again,' and where evangelists emphasize their growing harvest of conversion, the statistics of abortion, divorce, alcoholism and drug addiction, rape and murder nonetheless continue to mount, and a disconcertingly wide segment of American society succumbs to the premise that life has not come from God, does not move toward God, and cannot be enriched by God," he said.

"God's kingdom is built not on perpetual motion, one-liners and flashbulbs, but on Christ, (and) His sure Word," Henry said.

Endowment Makes Gifts And Expansion Possible

On a recent Sunday evening the First Baptist Church of Geneva presented special gifts to the Florida Baptist Convention for the Cooperative Program and the Seminole Baptist Association for local mission needs.

The check for the Cooperative Program amounted to $40,231.71 and was presented to Dr. Dan Stringer, Executive Director, Florida Baptist Convention, who was the guest speaker at the evening service when the checks were given.

Pastor Larry Sherwood gave the checks on behalf of the church. Receiving the $13,410.58 check for the Cooperative Program and the Seminole Baptist Association was George E. Dunn, director of missions; Hubert Parr, associational stewardship chairman, and Aileen Parr, associational treasurer.

The money was part of an endowment received by the church from the Cader and Janie Hart Estate. The proceeds of the endowment are being used to purchase additional property and build new facilities for the church which has grown from 37 to 190 in Sunday School in the past 3½ years. The church has been conducting two worship services on Sunday morning for over a year because of inadequate space. The new facilities will make possible expanded worship and educational programs.

Gratitude From The Heart

"Gratitude is the memory of the heart." This is what a child in a deaf and dumb school wrote in answer to the question, "What is gratitude?" The child's heart was neither deaf nor dumb. With our two good ears and tongues for many words, we are shamed by this handicapped child. Frances Havergal, a hymn writer, kept a "Journal of Mercies," a book in which gratuities were recorded.

The way of thanks is the "king's highway." Our Lord Jesus Christ used that road. Many of his prayers were thanksgivings.

The way of thanks leads out of the land of complaining into the place of music and song. It is the way out of self-centered thoughts into the thoughts of God. "They shall abundantly utter the memory of daily great goodness, and shall sing." (Psalm 145:7) It is the way out of envy and covetousness.

Thanks light up our little homes so warmly that we stop looking at our neighbor's big house and begin to enjoy our own.

The way of thanks is the way of peace and school in Christian living. The memory of what God has done for us in Christ is the motive and power of our life in him. Happy is the man who keeps a book of mercies!

Louis Cassels says that intercessory prayer has been described as "loving your neighbor on your knees." Confession is prayer in which we acknowledge our sins and accept God's forgiveness of them.

Thanksgiving means counting your blessings. As in the case of intercession and confession, it is always better to be specific—to thank God sincerely for particular good things in your life. The true spirit of thanksgiving also accepts the adversities of life.

Victorious Life Conference Set

The Methodist Hour International, with headquarters on State Road 436 in Altamonte Springs, will sponsor its 10th Victorious Life Conference, Feb. 21-24, at Lake Yale, Baptist Assembly Grounds near Eustis. The theme will be "What United Methodists Ought to Believe about..." the Bible, the Holy Spirit, the church, holiness and health and other related topics.

D. Herb Bowdoin, founder of Methodist Hour and Herb Bowdoin Crusades, has announced special conference guests will include Dr. Harry Haines, former missionary now chief executive of United Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief, and Dr. Sundo Kim, pastor of the world's largest Methodist Church, which has a membership of 12,000, in Seoul, South Korea.

Other speakers will include the Rev. Walter Allbritton, pastor of the Richard Memorial United Methodist church in Pensacola and for many years national director of the United Methodist Lay Witness Missions; Dr. Charles D. Whittle, president of the Council on Evangelism for the United Methodist Church and president of the board of Methodist Hour; Dr. John Turner, former president of the Methodist Church in Ireland, vice chairman; and Dr. J.C. McPheeters, 93, president emeritus of Asbury Theological seminary.

There will be an array of Christian musical talent coordinated by the Rev. Whitney Dough, associate evangelist, and crusade music director.

United Methodist ministers in the Orlando District will be awarded one Continuing Education Unit.

Is There A Case For Matchmaking?

Betsy's marriage to Roger was breaking up — as her mother had predicted it would.

Her mother eight years ago had set her cap for a different boy, David, as a husband for Betsy. David today was successful both as a husband and a provider for some other girl.

"It seems mother was right," Betsy sadly told her minister. Should Betsy have listened to her mother? And not only listened to her but followed her advice in the choice of a mate? Would her life have been happier today?

Some marriage counselors are ready to give a qualified yes to those questions.

"The statistical results would indicate that the 'arranged marriages' of the Old World were more successful," says Dr. Harry Taylor, a marriage counselor on the West Coast, "but obviously they are not going to work in a Western setting today. We are too individualistic. Young people would not permit it."

Why is it that arranged marriages often work better? "Parents may have more wisdom in these matters," says Taylor, "than youth who tend to be impulsive and to select a partner on a more superficial basis — such as chemistry, convenience or circumstances. I mean, maybe they met as summer camp counselors and found each other congenial and decided to get married."

Parents, he says, are more selective for their children. "Parental interference" in a boy's or girl's choice of a marriage partner is of course still practiced today. In this column, I recently told you about matchmakers who advertise in the Jerusalem Post, telling parents they will, for a fee, introduce their children to a marriageable partner without the children finding out what is happening.

Parental matchmaking, after a fashion, is practiced in the United States too. Parents make sure their children meet "acceptable" companions by moving to a "good neighborhood" or by sending their children to a "good school." Getting their daughters to join a "good sorority" carries the game plan one step further.

Saints And Sinners
George Plagenz

You can't keep a girl from falling in love with the man of her choice but you may be able to control the kind of boy she falls in love with.

She can't fall in love, obviously, with a boy she hasn't met and good sororities try to make sure she meets only selected boys by having dating arrangements only with those fraternities which are in the same social class.

In these days of youth independence, such underhanded attempts at matchmaking may, of course, backfire more often than they work.

In any case, the ancient custom of arranged marriages which takes for granted that parents will pick (or at least approve of) the persons their children marry is no longer in vogue in western countries.

"Romance and courtship did not play a large role in ancient times," says Prof. Paul Maier of Western Michigan University. "Most marriages were arranged between parents of the couple."

On the other hand, Maier remarks, bride and groom were not simply thrown at each other in a loveless match. "Directly or indirectly, their comments and conduct often alerted parents as to which family to contact."

In the case of Jesus' parents, what probably happened was this, says Maier: "One day Joseph asked his parents if he could marry that village girl, Mary, who was his distant relative. They discussed it among themselves before giving him an answer."

Rabbi Daniel Jeremy Silver of The Temple in Cleveland points out that "for 4,000 years Jews were married off by their parents and, you know, it tended to work out."

Companionship, says Silver, led to friendship and friendship to love.

Taylor agrees that it is possible to "learn to love."

"Even the 'spontaneous combustion' kind of love may emerge when two partners make an effort to love each other," he says. "In a matriarchal or patriarchal society, when you know you are expected to love the partner who has been picked for you, it often works out that you do fall in love."

Musical Events Scheduled

Rolling Hills Community Church, Zellwood, will present two musical events this week that are open to the public.

The Sweet Adelines 60-member barbershop chorus, under direction of Nancy Lewis, will be in concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the church on U.S. Highway 441.

On Wednesday, Toby and Barb Waldowski, seen on the nationally televised Hour of Power coming from Dr. Robert Schuller's Crystal Cathedral in California, will give a concert at 7 p.m. in the church sanctuary. This will be the second appearance here for the couple, who compose much of their own music for duets and solos. This is one of the February events in conjunction with the church's fifth anniversary.

Colson To Speak

States, Charles W. Colson, will speak at a Crusade prayer rally — in advance of the Central Florida Billy Graham Crusade at the Tangerine Bowl — on Saturday, Feb. 19, at 10 a.m. in Orlando's First Presbyterian Church.

Author of two best-selling books, "Born Again" and "Life Sentence," Colson now heads up a growing nationwide Christian ministry, Prison Fellowship. Launched in 1976 with the assistance of U.S. Senator Harold Hughes, Prison Fellowship has brought thousands of American Christians into various kinds of personal, volunteer prison work. A native of Boston, Colson holds a bachelor's degree from Brown University and the juris doctor degree from George Washington University. He served the U.S. Marine Corps during the Korean conflict, gaining the rank of captain.

Prison Fellowship grew out of Colson's own experiences during a seven-month prison term for a Watergate-related crime.

Howard Hill, concert pianist and soloist, will provide music for the rally. All seats are free to the public.

Purim Festivities Planned

The Central Florida Jewish community is planning several special events in celebration of the Purim holiday which will be on Feb. 27 to commemorate the story of Queen Esther in the Bible.

This year's community-wide Purim Carnival will be held on Feb. 27 at the Jewish Community Center at 851 N. Maitland Ave., Maitland. There will be game booths, a moonwalk, clowns, food, dancing, singing and prizes.

Orlando Jewish organizations and agencies will be participating from noon until 3 p.m. at the Congregation of Liberal Judaism, 928 Malone Drive, Orlando.

Admission is free and children should wear costumes for the costume parade contest. For more information call David Seidenberg or Robin Caine at the Jewish Community Center at 645-5933.

Prior to the holiday on Feb. 19, the Jewish Community Center Couples Group has planned its Third Annual Purim Old TV Show Costume Party at 8 p.m. at the center at 851 N. Maitland Ave., Maitland.

The group has planned an evening of games, tapes and music from old favorite shows. All participants are asked to come dressed as their favorite character. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes. Pizza, beer and wine will be served. Admission is $12.50 a couple.

For information or reservations call 862-7052.

Temple Israel is also holding its annual Purim Masquerade Party with live music, entertainment, and dancing on Feb. 19 at 7:30 p.m. There will also be a best costume contest and a Queen Esther Reauth Pageant. Call Elly Baru at 647-3055 for more information.

WIN AT BRIDGE

4-3-3-3 distribution, but finally decided to settle for a simple raise to six no-trump. It was well that he did so. There was no play for seven of anything and while six clubs would breeze in, there were considerable problems with the no-trump slam.

South failed to solve them due to a brilliant and well conceived false-card by East.

South ran off the clubs to start with and East discarded two small diamonds while West chucked a heart. Now South led his three of spades and stuck in dummy's eight. East won with the queen and led a heart.

South cashed the hearts and the king and the ace of diamonds. Everyone followed to reach a three card ending.

The king of spades picked up East's deuce and West's jack and the five of spades produced the seven from East.

South decided that East couldn't hold the spade 10, went up with his ace and lost the slam.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Sunday, February 13, 1983

YOUR BIRTHDAY
February 13, 1983

In the coming year it will be your resolve and dedication which will be responsible for achieving the successes you'll envision. Your girl makes you a front runner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be hopeful and optimistic today, but also be realistic regarding the manner in which you attempt to bring your objectives into being. My 1983 predictions for Aquarians are now ready. Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic combinations and compatibilities for all signs.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you scatter your forces too thin today, your possibilities for reaching your goals will be greatly lessened. Aim for one target at a time.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Beware of tendencies today to turn small problems into something larger and more complicated. Should a sticky situation arise, use good judgment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is not a good day to probe into confidential affairs of friends, nor to let them become involved in yours. Stay at arm's length.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Associates will mean well today, but there's a chance they might not be able to steer you in the proper direction. Think for yourself where major issues are concerned.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be very careful today if you are going to attempt an intricate task usually handled by an expert. It may be best to leave well enough alone.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Steer clear of involvements with friends today which could require an investment on your part. You might get into something way over your head.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) To bring harmony into a domestic situation today you might feel impelled to make a promise for the sake of expediency which you may not be able to keep.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Unfortunately, responsibilities can't be rationalized away today. If you try to excuse them, they'll later pop up to haunt you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Normally you are a rather good manager of your personal resources, but today you might yield to unwise forms of extravagance and get little value for what you spend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though you justifiably feel lucky today, it will prove unwise to leave important matters up to the whims of fate. Without guidance, mishaps are likely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually you're pretty good at presenting your views in ways which win support, but today you might talk down to people and arouse their tre-

For Monday, February 14, 1983

YOUR BIRTHDAY
February 14, 1983

Be security conscious this coming year, but don't place too much emphasis on the acquisition of worldly goods. More will come your way if you aren't materialistic.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your profitable possibilities look extremely encouraging today, especially if you are doing business with persons who are genuinely fond of you. Order now: The NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic combinations, compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Aquarius Astro-Graph predictions for 1983. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Friends will be very responsive to your dictates and whims today. You have the gift to charm your way through anything confronting you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Heed your compassionate instincts today to be helpful. This is admirable. However, don't carry things so far that your kindness is abused.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your greatest asset today is your ability to put those you deal with at ease, and at the same time make them feel important. No wonder you're popular!

GEMINI Credit and recognition could finally be coming your way today for an accomplishment which you were instrumental in bringing about.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Words of encouragement from you can brighten spirits and arouse enthusiasm today. You'll know what to say if conditions warrant it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you've met someone recently to whom you are attracted, allow ample time for the relationship to develop. Play it slowly, not impetuously.

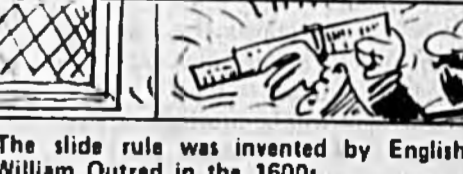

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Put the concerns and needs of your mate above those of your own today. Sincere supportive gestures will work wonders in your relationship.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Conditions affecting your career and earnings look favorable at this time. Stir things up a bit to generate results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Take extra pains to look your best if you're attending a social function today. There's a strong possibility you'll want to impress.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today you have the knack of handling complicated matters with ease and of tying them up in a neat little package so nobody feels short-changed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It will boost the self-esteem of those you praise today if your remarks are sincere. Be complimentary to associates who are deserving.
