LAKE MARY — Lake Mary police officers involved in breaking up a group responsible for $100,000 in construction site thefts in June, and for their role in diffusing a hostage situation during a July bank robbery, received medals of merit from the City Commission on Monday.

The officers receiving medals included Captain Sam Belfiore. Sergeants Ronnie Gregory and Gregory Grayson, Specialist Tanya Marlow, Tracy Kirkland, Officers Christopher Taylor, Johnny Thomson, Anthony Seda and John Kelly, Det. Camille Long, and Pfc. Edward Rossi.

While enroute to the scene, police observed a white van heading west on State Road 46A matching the description given by the caller. Police followed the van as it traveled along Rinehart Road, Primera Boulevard, then into a driveway cutout.

Two Hispanic males exited the van and fled into the woods, but police were able to catch the suspects.

Meanwhile, police also found that nearby construction trailers had been burglarized.

When searching the suspects' van, police discovered numerous items of expensive construction equipment, raising the suspicion of criminal activity, Beary said.

SANFORD - A Teague Middle School student has been arrested by Seminole County deputies and charged with battery and possession of a weapon on school property following an incident on campus Tuesday.

One of the witnesses told Perez the knife-wielding middle-schooler then attempted to hide the knife under a sink in one of the school's restrooms.

The juvenile was placed under arrest and transported to District 7 offices in Altamonte Springs for processing. He was later taken to the Juvenile Assessment Center for evaluation.

The parents of the threatened student said they will wait to hear from the State Attorney's office to decide whether or not to prosecute the case. The Sheriff's department is holding the knife as evi-

"Due to the rapid dispatch, response, and assertive efforts of the personnel involved the total time of the incident from original complaint to the capture of the suspects was twelve minutes," Beary said.

Voters in Lake Mary approved a 1.6 million bond in 1995, but finding the right parcel of land to build the new police station was a challenge.

Located on East Crystal Lake Avenue in Lake Mary's downtown section, mayor Mealor labeled the site and the facility, "A market event for the city of Lake Mary.

"This will allow us to deal with this area of Lake Mary as successfully as we've dealt with other parts of the city, especially the I-4 corridor."

Designed by TGF Architects Inc., the building will be constructed by Clancy & Theys Construction Company. A 12-16 month completion date is targetto work in a building that is far too inadequate," said Beary.

"The new building is going to be functional from the ground up. It will change almost everything our officers do, from processing prisoners, to writing reports, to dealing with the public."

Some of the new features built in with police work in mind will include two interview rooms, and intake and detention area for more secure prisoner processing, and a new evidence processing area.

Beary said the lengthy construction time is due in part to the supply and demand of certain construction materials that will be used, especially brick.

Sanford police department public information officer Kris Ziegler said officers Darrell Wright and Joseph Santiago were first on the scene. When they arrived, approximately 50 people were fighting, using boards and broken beer bottles.

Wright and Santiago first attempted to disperse the combatants by using their public address systems from patrol units. When that failed they physically attempted to break up the groups of people fighting.

Both Wright and Santiago needed medical attention when they were attacked by several people involved in the fight. Wright was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital and treated for various bumps and bruises to his head and face. Santiago was treated on the scene by Sanford Fire and Rescue for similar injuries.

When word of "officer down" hit police communications, additional Sanford units rolled to the scene as well as officers from Altamonte Springs, Oviedo, Longwood, Lake Mary, Winter Springs, and the Florida Highway Patrol.

On going home to Washington

Somebody once said that Washington, D.C. was "neither Rome nor home." I disagree. I'm from D.C., and today, I'm going home.

Washington is a wonderful city. I love the white marble and green trees, the ideals celebrated by the great monuments and memorials. Washington speaks of who we are, what we've accomplished, what we value.

I miss the changing seasons, the Cherry Blossoms, the Fourth of July fireworks, the sweet autumns, the White House

Christmas Tree and the snow. I miss the Smithsonian, the Library of Congress, the National Archives, the Tidal Basin, the C&O Canal, Union Station and the National Zoo. More than any of this, I miss my mom and dad - both gone now. My mom used to go shopping each Friday, bargain day at stores like Woodies and Kanns. Mom always brought me a Sporting News from a newsstand near the 9th Street bus stop. The paper cost 25 cents in the 1950s. My dad was a White House Policeman. He protected presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower. He used to accompany President Truman on some of his morning walks. President Eisenhower gave my dad a "Mr. President" golf ball.

When I was at Gonzaga High School, I used to do my homework inside the White House, * and then go home with my dad when his shift had ended. It was a 3-cent trolley ride from Gonzaga on North Capitol Street to the White House at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. The D.C. trolleys are long gone, of course. My favorite route was the Cabin John Line that went to Glen Echo Amusement Park.

We used to take the trolley to old Griffith Stadium to watch the Washington Senators or Washington Redskins play. I was in the Senators knothole gang. We went into the park for 25 cents and sat in the bleachers. Washington doesn't have a baseball team anymore, and the Redskins now play in Maryland.

I say quarterback Sammy Baugh was the best pro football player ever. I used to have a No. 33 burgundy jersey. Slingin' Sammy Baugh wore #33. All boys born in Washington --then and now - have Redskin blood. "Hail to the Redskins, Hail Victory, Braves on the Warpath, Fight for old D.C."

My first newspaper job was in June 1957 at the Washington Daily News. Nick Blatchford, a kind and wonderful city editor, hired me to be a copy boy. I made $40 a week, working from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. I mixed paste for the editors, ran errands, wrote obituaries and occasional sports stories.

After serving in the Navy, I returned to the News. For the next 11 years, I covered the Senators and the Redskins. That meant precious hours with Gil Hodges, Ted Williams and Vince Lombardi. The News put my picture on the side of its delivery trucks. But the News quit delivering in the early 1970s. I went to the Washington Star, and 10 years later it stopped deliveries, too.

Regrettably, much of my childhood Washington has changed. Not all of it though. There's still enough there to remind me of what I consider the best hometown of all. I'll be seeing all the familiar places that remain, visiting with dear friends and family.

I'll visit my dad's grave at Arlington Cemetery. He's buried at a site that overlooks the city he loved. You can see the Washington Monument and the White House. I'll be right with you, dad.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies responded to a report of a disturbance between two vehicles on I-4 near the Lake Mary Boulevard exit at approximately 8 p.m. on Tuesday. One of the motorists, Peter Smith, used his cell phone to contact the sheriff's communications center to report a female truck driver had pointed a pistol at his vehide while his car and the truck were side-by-side on the interstate.

After tracking down the truck and investigating, deputy Brian

Six hours earlier on I-4 near the SR 46 exit, deputy Mark Kilgore didn't have to worry about firearms, but encountered Romaine with a fully loaded arsenal of profanity.

The deputy was traveling in the westbound lane in an unmarked patrol car when Romaine buzzed by him at high speed. He paced her vehicle and Romaine cut Kilgore's vehicle off to avoid hitting a motorcyclist, forcing Kilgore to hit the brakes and drive on the inside shoulder of his lane. As she passed Kilgore, Romaine gave him some nonverbal communication, commonly referred to as the "bird."

Wekiva Presbyterian Church to dedicate new organ

This music this Sunday is going to sound full and rich to the congregation of 1000- member Wekiva Presbyterian Church in Longwood. And not by accident, but by design.

"We've been planning for this for more than a year," says church organist Robert Joyner, who, along with a hard-working organ committee of trained sacred musicians, sorted through the myriad choices of organs available, and recommended the new three-manual Renaissance organ made by the Allen Organ Company.

There are similar organs in several other Central Florida churches, according to Wekiva's Minister of Music Barbara McEntire. But Wekiya's organ has been installed in a unique way. The secret? It's the placement of the main speakers, eleven of them, elevated in a gallery behind the front wall of the Sanctuary's chancel. It was a brilliant stroke, first suggested by Will Benton of Dunn Music, the Allen Organ representatives in Orlando.

"When I took a good look at our options for installation," says Benton, the organ committee chairperson, Bonnie Nordyke, showed me this wonderful room behind the chancel. It was as if it had ben designed for the sound we want to achieve. It was just perfect for our purposes."

The space became, in effect, a huge sound chamber not unlike the chambers usually reserved for more traditional pipes. "This has really made the difference," says Pastor John Dalles. "The sound would have been great, even with a more conventional installation, but this allows the tone to build before it fills the Sanctuary." The congregation is sure to enjoy singing hymns and listening to every era of church musci with that quality of sound.

There are eight additional speakers in the rear of the Sanctuary, producing an antiphonal efect, almost as if the church had two organs, not one. "When the chimes are played," says associate pastor Paul Anderson, "it sounds as if they are up there in the skylight, right in the center of the space."

The new organ will be welcomed with a dedication prayer this Sunday, and a Dedicatory Candlelight Recital on Sunday, October 3, 1999, at 7 p.m., by the church organist Robert Joyner, who also teaches music at Clay Springs Elementary School. The program will include works of Bach, Bohm, Mozart, Cook, and Haydn, among others. The Dedicatory Candlelight Recital, the first in a series which will include well-known Central Florida and nationally known organists, is open to the entire community. "We want everyone to hear how inspiring a first-class organ can sound," says Joyner, "especially with this one-of-a-kind acoustical arrangement."

In the final four months of whom I had known in Washington, that I was going to be writing something I knew "less about than I knew of baseball."

He dropped his napkin, twisted his neck and asked "We'll, what's that?"

"I'm going to be the Orlando Sentinel's religion writer," I told him. "The old sportswriter has found religion."

Williams had this huge smile - as if he had hit a grand slam home run in the All-Star Game. "That's great. That's really great," he said. He shook his head, adding, "I wish I read the Bible more often. I sure wish I did that. I want to do that. I really want to. I have tried to be fair, tried to be even more than fair to everyone."

Williams raised his right arm. "I really believe it is right to 'Do unto others.' That's the way we should live."

Breakfast that morning was like being in church.

Best of all, there is no overcrowding. If the time should over come that you feel elbowed, you can just saddle old Paint, move a couple hundred miles in any direction and set down new stakes. There will be nobody to fence you in. Overcrowding is one of the major ills of our society. It creates perhaps more than anything else the stresses and strains that bring on a host of physical and mental maladies. Overcrowding in schools causes behavioral and learning problems. Much of our crime, social scientists say, can be laid to the stresses of overcrowding in our ghettos and central cities. Wars are fought over lack of Lebensraum - space needed for life and growth.

The other side of the coin

by Art Sansom By Phillip Alder

So far this week, I have given four deals in which a defender doubled with long trumps but couldn't defeat the contract. To balance the books, as it were, let's end with a couple of less obvious but effective doubles.

This deal occurred during a Philip Morris Cup event in Evian, France, in the mid-1970s. Evian, famous for its spa water, is a picturesque town that sils on Lake Geneva - or Lac Leman, as the French call it. The play features excellent defense by two French internationals, Leon Yallouze, who was Egyptian by birth, and Leon Tintner, an Austrian by birth who is perhaps the quietest-spoken expert of all.

The bidding exhibits the modern tournament game. First, South made an absurd overcall. (If a simple over-

North presumably bid only two spades be-cause he worked out that his partner was light. East had to compete to three hearts. And when North couldn't resist going to three spades - who could? - East made a cling wrap thin penalty double. The defenders began with three rounds of diamonds ending in West. Yallouze switched to the heart queen, declarer playing low from the dummy.

Now Tintner found the perfect defense. He overtook with the heart ace and returned his last diamond. Yallouze rulfed with the spade 10, So which uppercut dummy's king and promoted a trump trick for East: one Pa Pa down.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Three weeks by Jimmy Johnson ago, I had a glucose tolerance test that was normal. However, half-way through the test (an hour and a half after drinking the sugar water), I suddenly became very exhausted and almost fell asleep. Since that time, my fatigue continues and I find it difficult to eat; the fork may feel too heavy to pick up. Then, after eating, I become more tired than before. 1 have lost 12 pounds in two weeks. My doctor says that my symptoms have nothing to do with the test. Any ideas? DEAR READER: I agree wholeheartedly with your doctor.

The glucose tolerance test is used to diagnose diabetes and its opposite, hypoglycemia. Initially, a blood sugar reading is obtained. Then the patient is given a sugar-rich drink. Following this, at periodic intervals, blood sugar levels are obtained up to about three or four hours. In diabetics, the bloodsugar curve soars. With hypo-glycemia, the sugar level may decline to unacceptably low levels after about two hours. At that time, patients may experience weakness and lightheadedness.

Your pattern is unusual, so unusual, in fact, that I doubt that the sugar drink played any role whatsoever. You and your doctor must now try to determine why you developed symp-toms and why they have continued.

Since your blood sugars were normal, I'll bet that you are experiencing anxiety or an emotional disturbance of some kind. Have you been depressed and/or jittery? What else is going on in your life? Are there stresses that should be addressed? Follow your doctor's advice about how to approach this unusual problem

To give you related information. I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Diabetes Mellitus." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Alter an auto accident several years ago, my husband developed compulsive behavior because of severe brain damage. He is chronically unhappy and demand-ing, insists on a strict schedule, and flies completely off the handle if the schedule is disrupted. I cannot deal with this. Is there medicine he could take?

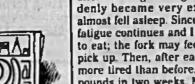

DEAR READER: Traumatic brain damage may cause emotional changes that are quite upsetting to family and caregivers. Unrealistic expectations, loss of emotional control, violent outbursts, and lack of cooperation can make home care a nightmare. Such mental alterations are incurable in most instances, and require medication - such as the anti-anxiety drug Ativan and antidepressants - just to control the patient's behavior. Ask your husband's doctor to prescribe the appropriate medicines.

DEAR WOUNDED: A person who pours salt on the wound of someone who is already hurting is not a "friend"; she is a troublemaker. All you had left of your marriage were your mem-ories, and I have to wonder why someone would want to destroy them. I hope that your years of therapy have helped you put your feelings of anger and betrayal into perspective, and to focus on the many wonderful years you had together because in the long run that is all that's important. You have years of life ahead of you, and it would be a tragedy if you spent them crying over something that no one can change and was better left unsaid.

School Board makes changes to summer school classes

By Bill Kerns Slaff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board plans to limit the size of summer school courses, and to no longer offer band and chorus camps for credit, because of changes in state funding for summer school.

Each schol will handle band and chorus camps individually, without district funding to offer the camps as credit courses.

"These can and will be offered as they have been in the past at no charge to the students," said Marion Dailey, director of instructional support services for the school district.

In addition, limits may be set on class sizes for remedial and core academic courses. Remedial courses will be limited to 22 students per teacher, and core courses will be limited to 28 students per teacher, Dailey said.

The State Legislature has revised the way summer school funding is allocated.

During the 1998-99 session the legislature lumped several previously funded programs including summer school into one large categorical called the Supplemental Education Allocation.

The School Board receives the block funding, instead of funding for specific programs. This means that money spent on band and chorus camp by the school board would decrease the funding available for remedial and academic courses. Because of the wording of the bill, many school systems interpreted the legislation to mean that funding could only be spent on remedial education. The Department of Education has since said that districts may do what they feel is best so long as the districts are helping "students progress from grade to grade and to graduate," Dailey said.

The Seminole County Public Schools total Supplemental Education Allocation is $10.9 million. The budget includes $964,984 for summer school in kindergarten through eighth grade. There is also, $2 million for other summer school funding, including grades 9-12 and exceptional student education.

Longwood company sees sales increase

Consolidated Label, Inc., the Longwood, Fla.-based product label manufacturer that grew from $225,000 in annual sales back in 1984 to a projected $10 million in sales this year, plans to expand its Flexigraphic technology and add new presses and personnel to capture a top spot among regional label manufacturers in the U.S.

Consolidated President Joel Carmany said production has increased by 10 percent or better for the past several years and he has perused a conservative growth strategy, reinvesting in new equipment and technology as revenue increased

Currently, Consolidated owns eight Flexigraphic and has hot stamping presses and hopes to add a new eight color, 10-inch Roto press next year. Carmany said he is also considering a new Olec Oval Flexigraphic exposure system used in the plant making process. This will bring cycle time down on photopolymer plates from three hours to one hour and provide higher resolution screens on four-color process printing.

With new equipment, Carmany said he plans to add at least 10 new employees. Consolidated started the year with 55 employees and Carmany said he should finish 1999 with at least 65.

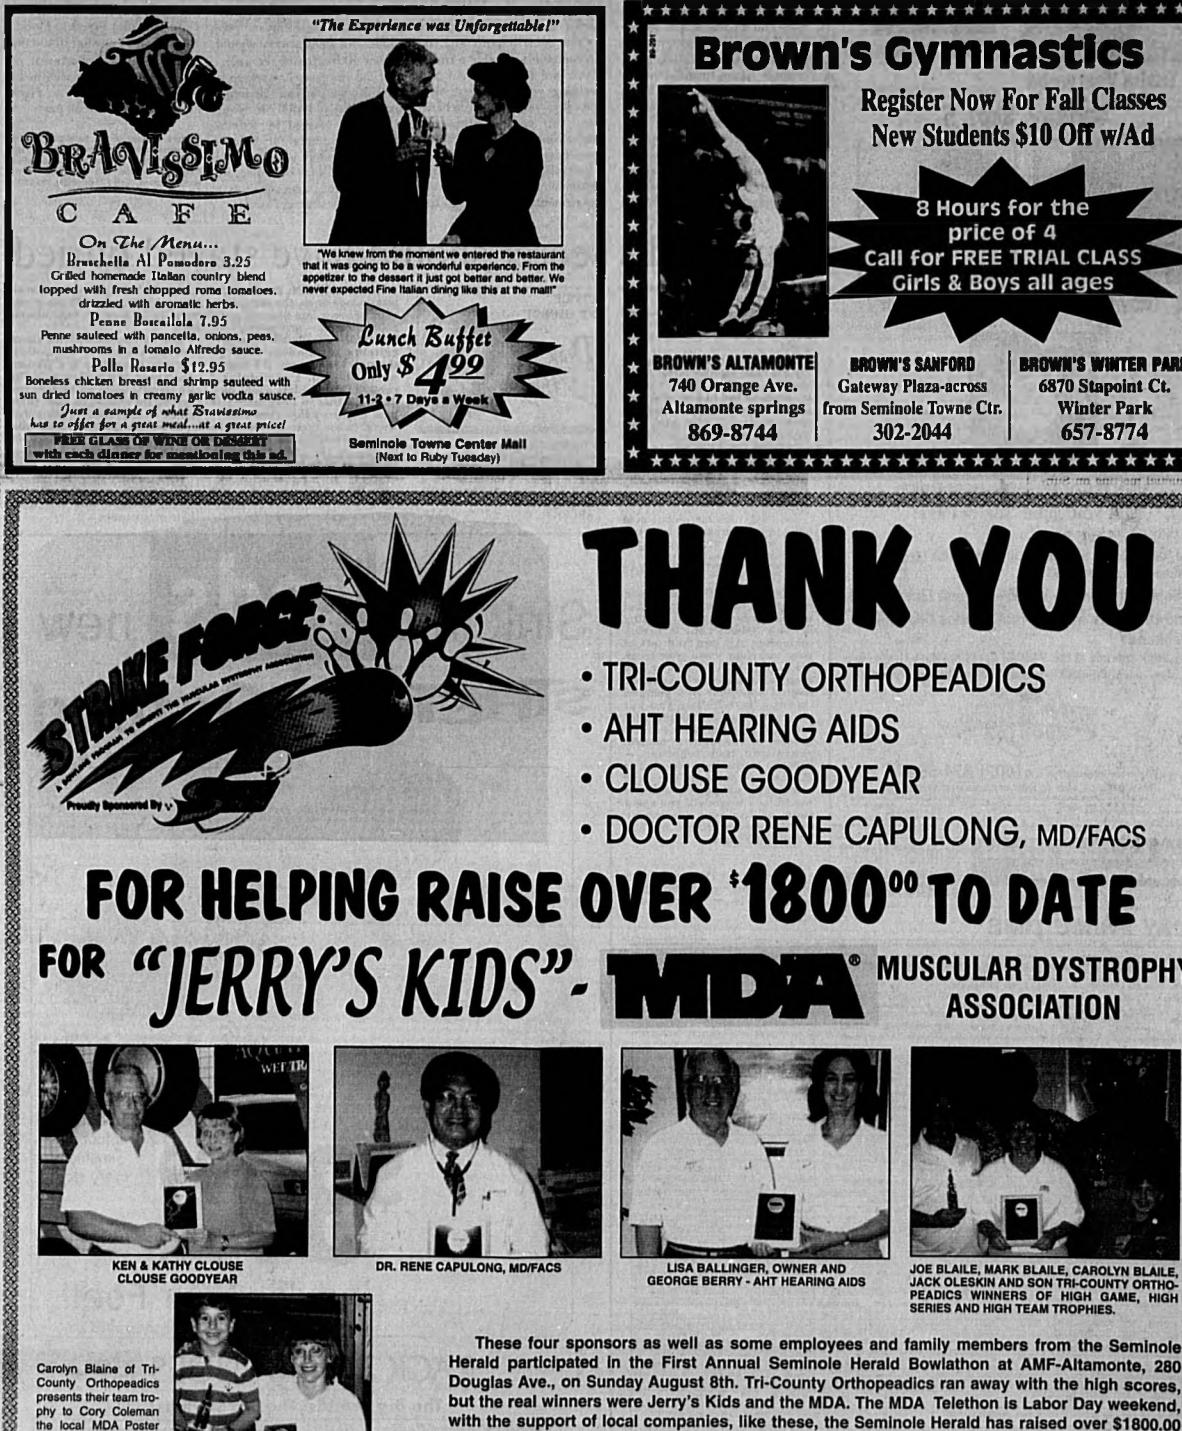

"Our principal aim is to cut turnaround time, increase capacity and maintain our exceptional quality standards," Carmony said.

Recently, Carmany re-engineered his product inventory system, adding new computers that maintain close running inventories of customers' label stocks and alert customer service workers whenever supplies start to run low.

"We have built this business on a reputation for personal service," Carmany said. "Now that we are a large regional supplier, close personal service is more important than ever before," he said. An experienced five-man sales force mixes product packaging expertise with an understanding of the customers' needs for partnering with customers' manufacturing, packaging, and distribution divisions.

Nationwide, the labeling industry has been growing at an annual rate of 7 to 8 percent of the strength of new consumer products or new versions of established products. Carmany said he expects to maintain his 10 percent growth rate going forward.

McClelland led the first seven laps and appeared on his way to the win when mechanical failure spotled his return.

Black had the 10x Pontiac in the perfect position to capitalize and successfully held off a hard charge by "Boaty" Boatwright in the #8 Chevy. Jeff Anderson's number 10 was third followed by Ricky Wood and Bruce Everett in "Chocolate Thunder."

Limited Late Model _ Chris Lawrence was back in the Down-n-Out #63 Chevy with a vengeance, looking especially strong in this race as he dominated from the start.

David Logan pushed the #1 In-Fab Monte. Carlo for all if was worth, but had to settle for second.

Osteen's Bobby Sears raced Sanford's Nolan Wilson hard and came out with the third spot. Altamonte Springs' Brian Bellaw rounded out the top five.

Modifieds _ Everyone thought Tank Tucker's #15 was the car to beat after the heat race, but Tom Root pulled off a fantastic start, took the lead and led every lap.

Root thanked Joe Harris for repairing his badly damaged car and getting it back to Victory land!

Tank ran a great race but had to settle for 2nd, Wayne Southard, Chris Hardcastle and Joe Middelton rounded out the top five, Sportsman _ Worst Sportsman wreck 1 have ever witnessed!

In the feature, the #90 Dophin building

Past champ Rich Clouser looked strong and finished 2nd. Joe Adams' "U Pull It Speedway Auto Parts" #62 ran a strong 3rd with Randy Newby and Pat "Big Cat" Buckley in hot pursuit.

Mini Stock _ Ted "Mr. Mini Stock" Vulpius made it three feature wins in a row as he held off several hard charging competitors for the checkered flag.

The Greener Side Up/Jenny's Auto Parts Pinto driver took advantage of Bob Doxle's absence and rolled to the victory.

Rookie and points leader Tim Clark was impressive in the Space Coast Steel #25 and ran a strong second. Ronnle Strosahl ran third followed by Rick Tumey and Pat Wells.

Bomber _ A big field of 18 rough and ready Bombers took to the track and it was a battle all the way to the finish.

Veteran driver Charles Fry did a great job of fighting off a very determined charge by Jim Winterstein in his lucky green #13 Oldsmobile to get a very popular win in front of an appreciative crowd.

Mike Hendrix drove a great race in his Dodge #71 but 3rd was the best he could do. Kevin Schultz and Ed Zikowski were close behind.

Because the administrative hearing process is designed to formulate final agency action, the filing of a petition means that the Department's final action may be different from the position taken by it in this notice.
