Rigid Enforcement Of Law Pledged In Democratic Plank

Prohibition Issue Is Handled With Compromise Agreement Between Wets, Drys

Convention Okey Seen By Leaders

Platform Committee Enjoys Lengthy But Harmonious Session

HOUSTON, Tex., June 28.—(INS)—A strict law enforcement plank pledging the Democratic party to enforce rigidly the Eighteenth Amendment as well as all other provisions of the constitution, was written into the platform today by the resolutions sub-committee following an all night session.

The prohibition plank represented a compromise between the extreme wets and drys and followed a middle course as outlined by those leaders who are seeking to prevent a disruption of the convention on the dry issue.

So satisfactory was the prohibition agreement, said Senator Pittman of Nevada, chairman, that minority report, either by the wets or the drys is not anticipated.

In sharp contrast to the bitter fights which have rocked the Democrats in the past, the long meeting of the drafting committee of 14 members was peaceful and harmonious.

"It was the most pleasant and harmonious meeting of the kind I've ever attended," said Pittman. "They are the finest bunch of fellows I've ever sat down with. There were no fights, nor harsh words—merely dealt throughout the night with language and phraseology."

He expressed himself as satisfied with the prohibition and farm planks.

"It is one of the best platforms I've ever seen," he added. "It is not half as long as the republican platform adopted at Kansas City."

The prohibition plank was the last approved by the committee. At the outset three different prohibition proposals were submitted: (1) repeal of the eighteenth amendment and modification of the vote-stayed laws by the west (2) a bone dry plank by Gov. Dan Moody of Texas and (3) a law enforcement plank by the harmony seekers.

This last program had been agreed upon by the Smith forces in an effort to reach a compromise.

Governor Moody held until the end for the bone dry prohibition and even as late as the committee recessed in the early morning he had not fallen into line on the plank adopted. It was declared.

"I have not yet determined whether I will bring in a minority report," said Moody. "I must await developments."

Slowly, however, the other militant drys on the committee, such as Senators Glass of Virginia and Caraway of Arkansas swung over to the law enforcement idea, and thus a slim-bank fight was avoided. The wets made a gesture for the dripping plank but did not press it hard.

Senator Wagner of New York, Gov. Al Smith's spokesman on the committee, said the platform was satisfactory.

"I am satisfied with the whole platform," he stated. "Personally, I am wet and I had such a plank which I voted for, but the one adopted does not go beyond law enforcement so I am satisfied."

Search Is Made For Pittsburgh Kidnaper

CHICAGO, June 28.—(INS)—Detectives rushed into all parts of Chicago today in a search for pretty Norman Morrison, 20, kidnaped from in front of her home in Pittsburgh, May 15.

The girl is believed to be in the custody of George R. Murray, alias Thomas Brady, alias George Kearns. From Mrs. Murray, Chicago and Pittsburgh police learned the girl disappeared shortly after a rented automobile was driven by Murray drove to the Morrison home. Her daughter from the window saw her being dragged into a machine, said to have been hired by Murray.

Confident Of Sweeping Victory In Fall, Secretary Of Treasury Plans Extended Vacation Trip To Europe

Democratic Attacks Called Compliments

Secretary Believes Citizens Will Not Be Influenced By Thrusts Of Democrats

WASHINGTON, June 28.—(INS)—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon does not believe that the American people are ready for a change in administering and has complete confidence in a sweeping victory for Herbert Hoover and Senator Curtis in the fall election.

This Mellon indicated to friends today as Hoover was preparing to resign his post in the Commerce Department and as the Democratic party, with unprecedented harmony, was moving towards the close to its convention and the nomination of Governor Smith of New York as the standard-bearer.

So confident is Mellon as to the outcome of the campaign that he has made reservations to sail for Europe about the middle of July. He plans to spend a few weeks in the rural sections of England, France, but indicated that he would avoid Paris and London.

In the opinion of the secretary political conditions are very little different today than prior to the election of President Harding in 1920 and President Coolidge in 1924.

Mellon feels that the attacks of the Democratic leaders on the Republicans at Houston are not specific and that they are "really a compliment," the fierce assaults of Claude Bowers, keynote, and Senator Robinson, convention chairman against the administration were general in nature, and according to Mellon's view and will not be regarded seriously by the rank and file of the voters.

Chain Store Group Begins Remodeling For Sanford Store

The J. C. Penney Company of New York, operators of a chain of stores throughout the country, has started remodeling work preparatory to the opening of a store in Sanford.

The Penney corporation has secured a long lease on two store rooms in the Woodruff building on First Street. Repairs and alterations are under the supervision of Clarence Smith, local contractor, who was recently awarded the contract for $10,800.

Workmen were busy engaged today in removing a partition between the two store rooms. Under present plans, two entrances will be made to the store, one on each side of a large display window, 12 feet deep. Display windows will also line both sides of the front entrance. Extensive alterations are to be made to the interior in addition to repainting and redecorating.

The renovations are scheduled to be completed within 45 days after which fixtures will be installed by representatives of the company. It was stated today. The store is expected to open for business about Sept. 1.

Election Laws Of State Furnish Floridans Easy Chance To Bolt Parties

Election laws in the state of Florida have "no teeth" when it comes to nominating party lines intact. Those who have any inclination to bolt either major party may do so without fear of the law. Election statutes in this state, on the contrary, make it easy for the bolters. Democrats, who, for one reason or another, desire to vote for a Republican president, or Republicans who want to cast their ballot for the Democratic nominee in preference to their own party's choice, may do so without anyone knowing about it. If party lines fall in the general election in November no one can be questioned about it. That's a voter's privilege.

An interesting feature of the voting in Florida is furnished in a check-up of the election laws. No Floridian gets an opportunity to vote for the president by direct ballot. It's done by voting for the presidential electors, representing the two parties.

The ballot in November will contain the names of six Democratic electors, and six Republican electors. They will be listed in alphabetical order, but a voter must familiarize himself with the names of the electors who represent the

Franklin D. Roosevelt Puts New York Governor's Name Before Democrats For The Third Time In Eight Years

HOUSTON, Tex., June 28.—(INS)—"Victory is his bad habit—the happy warrior!"

With this prophetic characterization, the name of Gov. Alfred M. Smith was presented to the Democratic National Convention last night by one of his closest personal friends and political allies, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"The faith which I held, I still hold," he said, in recalling his eight years' fight to win the presidential nomination for the man who was the boy of the sidewalks of New York.

The speech was short, uttered in crisp ringing sentences remarkably free of bombast and high oratory.

"Between him and the people is that subtle bond which makes him their champion and makes them enthusiastically trust him with their loyalty and their love."

With that unadorned keynote, a Roosevelt presented Smith as a new Lincoln and a new Wilson.

"It was Lincoln's human heart, and Wilson's passionate desire to bring about the happiness of the whole world which will be best remembered by the historians."

Roosevelt followed the lead of the temporary chairman, Claude Bowers, in assailing "the excesses of Republican materialism, petty, political corruption, and spiritual lethargy in administrative leadership. There was no reference to prohibition, either in the exhaustive review of Smith's record or in the summary of the record of the party."

JIM REED NOT CANDIDATE FOR RUNNING MATE

Fiery Missourian Is Slated To Pledge His Support To Nominee; May Be Invited Address Houston Gathering

May Deliver Speech After Platform Okey

Reed Declines Not To Contest For Vice-Presidency Boosts Robinson Position

HOUSTON, Tex., June 28.—Senator James A. Reed, the fighting warrior from Missouri, is not and will not be a candidate for the Democratic vice presidential nomination but will pledge himself during the convention here to take the stump to give his active support to Gov. Al Smith of New York, it was learned today on the highest authority.

Reed will contest Smith's nomination until the New York governor actually has been nominated. In the meantime, he probably will be invited to address the convention and then will take the opportunity publicly to pledge himself to whatever candidate is chosen to carry the Democratic standard in the presidential campaign next November. He probably will speak tonight after the platform is adopted.

Reed's decision to avoid entering the vice presidential race if and when he is defeated for the presidential nomination virtually assured the nomination of Sen. Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas for second place honors with Robinson receiving the solid support of the overwhelmingly powerful Smith organization, his nomination appeared as a matter-of-fact as that of the New York governor himself. Only a miracle apparently can prevent Smith and Robinson being the Democratic tickets.

Informal overtures already have been made inviting Reed to address the convention in person before it adjourns, the idea originated with the Illinois delegation and was said to have been favored by George E. Brennan, Democratic Czar in the "prairie" state. It met with immediate endorsement from the Smith leaders.

Spirit Of Religious Freedom Gripping Houston Session

By Mrs. Mary T. Norton Member Of Congress From New Jersey

(Written Exclusively For International News Service HOUSTON, Tex., June 28.—The spirit of religious freedom is dominant in the minds and hearts of the delegates to the Democratic national convention.

Representative of the thought of the nation, the great demonstration on the floor of the convention on this issue is convincing evidence that the people still cling to this constitutional guarantee.

When Senator Robinson of Arkansas mentioned the constitutional provision that religious belief should not be a qualification for office, a great cheer rose from an overwhelming number of the delegates. That there were some who objected did not lessen the tremendous effect of this demonstration.

I was especially happy to see so many southern states' banners go into the air, proclaiming their adherence to this principle. While a great majority of people are tolerant and it will not prevent party harmony.

With the convention well under way, there is every evidence that it will proceed harmoniously and that the party will march forward triumphantly to the polls in November.

Convention Session Is Featured By More Nominating Oratory

Hawkers Doing Big Business In Houston

HOUSTON, Tex., June 28.—(INS)—The hawkers have made a county air out of the Democratic convention. Souvenir of various kinds, from Democratic donkeys to Tammany Tigers, are being hawked on every corner. And to show that the hawkers are alive to the issues of the oncoming campaign, one appeared today with a tray filled with miniature replicas of a stein of beer below a picture of Governor Al Smith. This gimmick bore the legend: "Show me where I can get a drink."

GOTHAM MAYOR WANTS SOUTH TO KNOW AL BETTER

Dapper Jimmy Walker Suggests That Smith Would Enjoy Locating Fall White House Somewhere In Dixie

HOUSTON, Tex., June 28.—(INS)—"This," said Mayor Jimmy Walker today as he looked over Houston from his fifteenth story Rice Hotel window, "is a sweet spot."

"Do you know I've got to like Houston and the South so much since I've been here that I'm going to suggest to Governor Smith just as soon as he's elected that he will have a fall White House down this way, just as the president's headquarters had summer White Houses."

"That would be a smart stunt, if you ask me. It would be good for Al, good for the South and good for the whole country."

"It would give him a chance, give him a sniff of good climate—not that there's any wrong with our own climate or Washington's—and get him away for a while from a lot of fellows who are always cluttering up Washington and taking up the president's time."

"One of the left handed breaks a man gets when he's made president—being called to a chair in Washington. Why pick a fellow for the biggest job he has and then make a prisoner of him for four years as a reward? No wonder Coolidge didn't want to be drafted. He meant he didn't want to be sentenced."

"They tell me that this city in autumn is delightful. It's a little warm here in midsummer but it's not so bad. Look here; I've worn my vest and coat all day."

Mayor Walker, always fashionably dressed, sure enough was wearing a vest. It was part of a pigeon-hunt suit with ruffled trousers. His shirt was gray and his tie blue, with a dark zig zag design on it.

"I'll tell you why I think it would be a good thing for the South," he resumed, "to have the president down here, say in September or October, before Congress convenes. Al knows more about the South and its problems than a great part of the South suspects."

"These far-off places like Texas and California hardly ever get a squirt at the president, except through the news reels. They think from seeing only these pictures that he's a fellow who spends most of his time laying corners and shaking hands with folks on the White House lawn and who is picked on by the cartoonists."

Two English Trains Crash Near London Killing 22 Persons

LONDON, June 28.—(INS)—Twenty-two persons were killed early today when a heavily crowded excursion train and freight train collided just outside of the Darlington station.

Six of the victims were killed instantly. The others died in various hospitals shortly after the crash. Many of the victims were badly mangled. Many of the excursionists were women and children.

Seventy-five injured persons were in hospitals today, some are seriously hurt that it is feared they may die. Rescue workers chopped furiously at the wreckage all through the early hours of the morning searching for the victims, but they were hampered by the darkness.

Sweltering Delegates Hear Names Of Reed And Hitchcock Presented This Morning

2 Names Remain To Be Offered

Party Leaders Expect To Adopt Platform At Session Tonight

SAM HOUSTON HALL

HOUSTON, Tex., June 28.—Two more hours of nominating oratory was accomplished by the Democratic national convention today, bringing the speech-weary delegates that much closer to the real business of the convention—the adoption of a platform and the naming of a ticket.

Only two more names were added to the list before the convention in the two sweltering hours which the delegates spent in the hall—that of Sen. James H. Root of Missouri and Ex-Sen. Albert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, who eight years ago were the leaders in the bitter League of Nations fight.

The presentation of Reed's name was accompanied by a five-minute demonstration led by loyal Missourians, but it failed to attract many recruits outside Oklahoma and Florida. Reed was placed in nomination by Chas. M. Howell of Kansas City and Hitchcock by Eugene D. O'Connell of Omaha.

The convention recessed until 3 o'clock this afternoon when the word-woolly delegates will return to the big hall for the final application of the nominating oratory. The names of Sen. Atlas Spangenberg of Oklahoma and Cordell Hall of Tennessee are to go before the convention three probably will be more speeches for Smith.

The recess was taken when word reached the leaders that the little prospect of getting the platform before tonight.

Then past the lunch hour there was a hurried course of leaders on the platform delegates were so weary a speaking that it was also possible to keep them in longer than two minutes stretch.

The invocation was delivered by the Rev. J. Frank Smith, of the First M. E. Church of Houston. The delegate session filling up rapidly as the blocks were empty. The names of states for the continued list of names for the platform were presented.

Maryland sent to the her three-time governor, Ritchie. The band sent "Maryland, My Maryland" the handsome chief executive a great ovation.

Governor Ritchie's own nomination of Governor Ritchie whose favor he withdrew candidacy some days ago.

"It is a privilege to see a nomination of Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, the handsome chief executive a great ovation."

Governor Smith is in that democracy can passers that are simple and Ritchie paid high by Governor Smith's personal claim and declared he did have any group of people down and talk with the governor "and not voted afterward."

Miami Blanks The Saints In 1st But Drop Second Game

MIAMI, June 27.—(Special)—Miami and St. Petersburg divided a double-header here Tuesday afternoon, the Hustlers batting out an 8 to 0 victory in the first and the Saints taking the second, an overtime contest, 1 to 0. Miami rolled Domingo and Tucker for 11 blows in the first game while Ferguson permitted only four hits, although he walked seven batters. The second game, scheduled for seven innings, went an extra inning with Jack Hawkins and Chad Davis slugging a hurdlng duel. Triples by Brown and Domingo brought the tally. Davis filled the bases with none out in the fourth inning and then struck out Stewart, Doyle and Hawkins in order to retire the side. Bingham, Saint shortstop was forced to leave the second game when a thrown ball split a finger on his right hand.

SENATOR REED MAY CONTEST FOR 2ND PLACE

MISSOURIAN MENTIONED PROMINENTLY DESPITE DECLARATION THAT HE WILL NOT CONSIDER BECOMING CANDIDATE

HOUSTON, Tex., June 27.—(INS)—A serious contest between Sen. James A. Reed of Missouri and Sen. Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, for the Democratic vice presidential nomination appeared in prospect today in event Gov. A. I. Smith is nominated to head the Democratic ticket.

Reed, however, appeared doomed to a double defeat, with the Smith organization throwing its support to Robinson for the vice presidency after first winning the presidential nomination for the New York executive. Every known Smith leader has gone about the convention city for the last three days openly predicting the ticket would be Smith and Robinson.

Some of Senator Reed's closest friends, meanwhile, were known to be angling to win the vice presidential place, for the Missouriian. Reed thus far has refused to discuss any such ambition and publicly reprimanded one of his closest friends, who suggested Reed would accept second place honors with Smith.

Despite this denial, reports the receiver, representing the interests of the depositors of the Seminole County Bank, can get together on a settlement and amicable adjustment. I suggest that third parties be called in to assist in arriving at agreement.

Following a hearing before Judge Wallace W. Wright on the City's motion to strike the petition of intervention, the City emerged triumphant in a decision granting the motion and overruling the petition. On June 15, the date the decision was announced, Commissioners Housholder and Miller wired Mr. Amos as follows: "You no doubt have been advised by the ruling of Judge W. W. Wright circuit judge, the bonds of the City have been validated after the striking of the petition in intervention filed by E. H. Ashcraft as receiver for the Seminole County Bank. We desire to know if you intend to allow Ashcraft to take an appeal from this validation decree and by so doing cause the City to default on July 1 in its bonded obligations?"

"We are representing the citizens of Sanford and can furnish petitions with as many names as you might desire asking that this contemplated step be not taken. If it is your intention to allow same to be done, and by so doing, assist in weakening the city we should like to be advised of this fact. His policy, if continued, will only mark the end of well laid plans to bring destruction to the city over which you should have some concern. Would appreciate your answer in order that our citizens may be advised as to your position with reference to the future welfare of our city."

"An almost immediate reply came from Mr. Amos as follows: "Answering wire, prior to the receipt of your telegram Mr. Ashcraft, receiver of the Seminole County Bank, was directed not to appeal the case or take any other step that would interfere in any way with validating a sale of your refunding bonds."

Following the announcement last Monday that notice of an appeal had been filed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court, the two Commissioners again telegraphed the Comptroller, their message as follows: "Notwithstanding your telegram of the fifteenth advising you had directed E. H. Ashcraft, receiver of the Seminole County Bank, not to take an appeal for the decree validating Sanford bonds or to take any steps that would interfere with the sale of refunding issue, Ashcraft has today taken an appeal to the supreme court from the decree validating Sanford refunding bonds."

"This action has again upset our plans for the sale of refunding issue. The action on the part of Ashcraft is a direct violation of your instructions to Ashcraft in this regard. Please advise quickly by wire whether the final decision as to the appeal lies with you or Ashcraft as we feel it our official duty to advise the people of Sanford who is responsible for an acute situation created by this last minute appeal."

SMITH MEN FORDER PROPOSED ALLIANCE WITH FARM LEADERS

HOUSTON, Tex., June 28.—A formal offer of an alliance between the leaders of the "farm revolt" and Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York was taken under consideration by the Smith managers today.

The proposal, carefully framed by a score of farm organization heads, was presented by Ed A. O'Neal of Alabama and Clesler H. Gray of Washington, both legislative representatives of the American Farm Bureau Federation. It was received by Judge Joseph F. Prosser and George W. Van Name, generalissimo of the Smith forces.

Nothing definite resulted from the conference. A further effort will be made to bring the forces together, it was said by the farm leaders.

With considerable opposition developing eastern Democratic leaders to a blanket endorsement of the principle contained in the far-famed McNary-Haugen fight on the equalization tax, period inevitable.

The New York congress delegation already had drafted a wade difference of opinion on this particular method of relief. Farm spokesmen counting heavily upon the ability of Sen. Robert Wagner going on the resolutions committee. He fought for the bill in last congress.

YANKS MAY PASS COAST STARS ON TO OTHER CLUBS

DAVIS WALSH, Editor of Deal for "Good of the Game," Contenders No To Get Chance At The Stars

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor
NEW YORK, June 27.—(INS)—Gossip, the undefeated sprint champion at all weights and ages, mounted a dark horse and rode down the stretch today with the story that American League pressure may be exerted, under cover, to have the Yankees pass along Larry and Reese, coast infield stars to another club "for the good of the game."

They are alleged to have cost the Yanks $125,000 for 1929 delivery, which might make any proposal that they be sold traded or given away with coupons sound slightly falsetts. Yet a certain American League manager is authority for the statement that he "understands" the idea has been "seriously considered."

It has distinct possibilities, as a matter of fact. In the first place, the American League affair virtually has become "no contest" again and the league can afford to further reposition in 1929. In the second place, the Yanks don't figure to need Larry and Reese any more than they need somebody to go up there and bash one for Ruth. In the third place, it is the writer's impression that the coast league investment was made mostly with the idea of closing a trade for a pitcher or two in 1929.

The outfits that should be interested are the Cleveland Indians, the Boston Red Sox and the Chicago White Sox. All three might be ready to sacrifice some of the pitching for a capable second base duo.

It may be an item of interest, however, that the coast pair has pulled up somewhat club-footed this season. Notoriety seems to have spoiled them.

Good or bad, you can bet the week's baloney that no potential contender will get them and that eliminates the Athletics and Senators automatically, even if they wanted them, which probably they don't. The Tigers and Browns seem to be well set around second base, too, but the Indians, White Sox and Red Sox must do something about their infields or resign themselves to the business of going nowhere at a frightful clip.

THEA RASCHE PLANS TO BEGIN FLIGHT IN NEXT SEVERAL DAYS

NEW YORK, June 26.—(INS)—Thea Rasche, German aviatrix, plans to take off from Camp Davidson Field at Grand Mere, Canada, within the next few days, on the first leg of a trans-Atlantic flight to Germany in Mrs. Anne U. Stillman's plane, the North Star.

Mrs. Stillman, who is backing the flight, announced that Miss Rasche and the plane already are at Grand Mere, near the Stillman lodge at Grand Anse, Quebec.

Miss Rasche will fly the North Star to Hazel Grace, New Foundland, where the plane will be refueled, and then will hop off for Germany according to Mrs. Stillman.

The aviatrix journeyed to Canada by train. The plane flown from Harley Field, N. J., to Grand Mere late yesterday by pilot Ulrich Koenemann. Miss Rasche flew to Canada under cover of secrecy to avoid a breach of contract suit brought by the Hollis corporation and Hoard W. Harwell, original backers of the flight. The hasty departure of the aviatrix proved to be needless, however, because after she left an injunction to restrain her flight was denied by Justice Valente in New York City.

Thoughts of Victory

Those who listened in on the radio Tuesday night and heard the keynote speech of Claude Bowers at the Democratic convention, and those who have since read accounts of this speech in the newspapers, were impressed by the tremendous enthusiasm with which the delegates greeted his comments on farm aid, Republican graft, and the glorious days of Woodrow Wilson.

We do not know whether it was the remarkable oratorical powers of the keynote speaker, or merely the confidence which his enumeration of overwhelming defects in Republican administration inspired, which so utterly captivated his crowd. It cannot be denied that Mr. Bowers is an orator of no mean ability.

But neither can it be denied that he had an easy subject with which to deal. It is one thing to make a speech for a hopeless cause delivered against an enemy spotless in purity and perched securely in an impregnable position; it is quite another matter to enter an oratorical contest thoroughly imbued with the idea of victory and conscious that in the unity of those about him there is strength, and there to deliver an attack against a party whose almost every act lends itself so admirably and so completely to criticism.

Mr. Bowers did not spare the Republican party. He went back to Alexander Hamilton, to whom the Republicans at Kansas City recently paid tribute, and compared his policies of privilege to the democratic principles of Jefferson. How these Hamiltonian policies have been practiced during the past seven and one-half years was very carefully shown in a detailed account of the scandals which existed in the Veteran's Bureau, in the Department of Justice and in the Department of the Interior.

Naturally enough the convention was enthusiastic. It saw in what Mr. Bowers was saying a chance to win. It was this thought of victory, as much as Mr. Bowers' own abilities, which spurred the delegates on to give him the ovation he received, and which it is hoped will spur other Democrats on to a realization of an actual victory in November.

Magic in a Name

Amid the cheers of enthusiasm aroused by Miss Amelia Earhart's journey across the Atlantic, there arises the still small voice of criticism. This, which appeared in "Time and Tide," a London weekly paper edited by Lady Rhonda, is laid, not upon the "Girl Lindy," but upon the public of two countries which greets Miss Earhart's trip as passenger with a veritable orgy of praise and excitement while it passed over, with only luke warm comment, the solo flights recently made by Lady Heath and Lady Bailey from London to Capetown, South Africa.

While we do not wish to belittle the American girl's achievement, for her venture undoubtedly required a daring spirit, we are inclined to agree with Lady Rhonda that the spectacle of a woman being carried like a piece of baggage over the sea, pales when compared to the feats of those two fearless Englishwomen, who not only had the courage but the ability to pilot their own ships on solo flights from London to Capetown. Evidently, these women were not "too excited," as was our Amelia, to steer their own planes.

Perhaps one contributing element in the welter of emotional reactions that have swept Miss Earhart to the crest of the wave of popular acclaim is the lucky pseudonym that some reporter gave her, "the Girl Lindy." There's a magic in that name that few can resist. It carries with it a cluster of brave memories, a group of gallant mental pictures of a steady-eyed boy who rode away on the wings of the morning with his only companion, "The Spirit of St. Louis." And the halo of the "Lonely Eagle's" name is now shedding some of its undimmed radiance upon the fair hair of Miss Earhart. We do not feel that the nickname is justifiable. True, like Lindbergh, she is American and young. Like Lindbergh, she flew across the Atlantic, but there the analogy stops, for she did not fly alone, nor even with one man but with two, and hers only the passive role of baggage.

The English weekly suggests that the crowd prefers women in this role rather than as the dynamic protagonists of their own adventures. It would seem that the public is a vast deal more excited over the American girl's flight under the protection of her two knights of the air than it was over the independent and rugged spirit of the two women who rode alone without masculine guardianship. "Truly, the crowd mind today has changed but little from the crowd mind that liked princesses to be attacked by dragons, but preferred that princes do the rescuing."

KEEP THE GOOD WORK UP FT. MYERS TROPICAL NEWS

The other day a modest little item on the front page of the Tropical News recorded the fact that the city had just completed the planting of some 480 young royal palm trees along First street and McGregor boulevard. From a standpoint of community progress this item was as important as the opening of the Tamiami Trail, the coming of the Seaboard or the announcement of the letting of the contract for the new bridge. There are among us, no doubt, plenty of good citizens who will regard this as an extravagant statement but we don't think it is. The planting of 480 royal palms means the considerable enhancement of Fort Myers' greatest municipal asset—beauty—and we do not know of anything more important than that.

We have our Thomas Edison and Henry Ford adds to our fame by coming here each season for a vacation at his winter home. We have the famous fishing grounds of the Caloosahatchee and the Gulf; romantic islands are our neighbors; the fascination of the Everglades is at our door; we enjoy a climate that is unsurpassed, summer, winter, spring or fall; all but when the list is made of these things and more we have greatest pride and joy is that vista of royal palms on First street. No visitor comes here but who acclaims the royal beauty of that stately aisle. It is our pride and attraction and we believe an extension of its magnificence will do more to bring to us permanent residents than any other factor, or probable combination of factors. The city has done well to plant these new trees and we hope the authorities will keep it up. We hope, too, that private citizens will continue to go hand in hand with public officials in the comprehensive beautification program which has been launched by Mrs. Thomas and her co-workers. We have ideal material with which to work; no other town in all of glorious Florida can match the superb natural setting of this lovely City of Palms. If we do not make the most of it and reap the benefits, both aesthetic and commercial, then the fault is that of a citizenry blind to its best.

CIVIC TRENDS JACKSONVILLE JOURNAL

At the meeting of the Florida League of Municipalities in Leesburg stress was placed by speakers on the pronouncing scope of the government of cities in this state and elsewhere. Betterment of the lot of the people through welfare work and the enlarged scope of municipal government were treated in a series of addresses.

Undoubtedly the trend is for wider activity on the part of cities. The growth of population, making of improvements, undertakings of social and civic welfare have all made government of cities more complex. They bear as a result an incidence of cost of public service which larger units of government do not have to stand. It is well to keep these currents in mind in the discussion of the relative costs of national, state and local government. We hear much of the need for economy and comparisons are made, in which even the President of the United States takes part, tending to show the mounting cost of municipal services and the stationery or decreasing cost of state and federal government. The purpose, of course, is to impress the people with the virtues of the party or administration in power. We all wish to keep taxes down, but in our demands we ought to keep in mind our insistence upon increased service in cities throughout the country. We should not forget the difference in obligations and the trend of affairs in our constitutional and municipal, in order to keep the record straight.

One factor, which will help to reduce local costs, is reorganization and simplification of government. Much overhead can be eliminated, and if we go about it in sincerity and with determination we will be able to do that in Jacksonville.

Annual Silk Sale Will Be Staged By Yowell On Friday

Extensive preparations have been made for the annual silk sale, which will be staged tomorrow by the Yowell Company, according to an announcement today by J. S. Harvard, manager of the department store.

The sale, always anticipated with a great deal of interest by Sanford buyers, promises to be an even bigger event this year with a larger variety of goods being offered at more attractive prices.

Practically every bit of silk goods in the store will be placed on sale so that room may be provided for a new stock of merchandise that is expected in a short time.

The bargain event will last only one day, Mr. Harvard stated this morning. Doors of the establishment will open at 8:00 o'clock and one of the largest crowds of the season is expected to be on hand early to take advantage of the reduced prices.

Sanford women are cordially invited to inspect the offerings in tomorrow's event.

Marriage Of Miss Sarles Announced

Saturday, the ninth of June, Nineteen hundred and twenty-eight, Christiansburg, Virginia.

Upon their return will make their home at Roanoke, Va.

Fortnightly Bridge Club Is Entertained

Mrs. W. J. Thigpen entertained most delightfully at a morning bridge party and luncheon on Wednesday at her home on Park Avenue. The guests were the members of the Fortnightly Duplicate Bridge Club.

The rooms where the tables had been spread for the games were beautifully adorned with numerous bowls of exquisite roses, zinnias and other Spring blossoms.

After an exceptionally interesting game of duplicate bridge had been played, scores were compared and the prizes for highest scores, toilet requisites, were won by Mrs. George S. Witmer and Mrs. O'Donald P. Drummond.

A tempting luncheon was served by the hostess at 1:00 o'clock. The small luncheon tables were centered with crystal vases filled with cut flowers and sprigs of ferns.

Covers were laid for Mrs. Donald P. Drummond, Mrs. George S. Witmer, Mrs. G. D. Bishop, Mrs. George A. DeCotte, Mrs. F. E. Roumillat, Mrs. Harry B. Lewis, Mrs. Ben Small and Mrs. David L. Thrasher.

Message Reveals How Italia Motor Chief Was Killed

KING'S BAY SPITZBERGEN, June 28.—(INS)—Vincenzo Pomella, motor chief of the Noble Balloon Italia, was killed by a fall of ice from the envelope which crushed part of the cabin, it was revealed today in wireless advices from Virgo Bay where the Citta di Milano is anchored with General Umberto Nobile on board.

Pomella was rendered unconscious and died a few hours later without regaining his senses. His grave at the pole near the Noble encampment is marked by a rude cross fashioned from ice.

Two Negroes Face Assault Charges

Two negroes, K. D. Jenkins and his wife, Harriett Jenkins, face charges of assault following an altercation said by police to have occurred Sunday at their home on Locust Avenue.

Jenkins is said to have attacked his wife while under the influence of liquor, beating her severely. After escaping from him, the woman ran in the house and secured an ice pick. When Jenkins attempted to attack her he was stabbed over the heart, according to Officer Carl Williams who was called to the house.

While the weapon barely missed the man's heart he is not thought to be seriously injured, according to the attending physician. The pair will be tried in Police Court as soon as Jenkins is able to appear.

German Girl Gets Ready For Flight

GRAND MERE, Que., June 28.—(INS)—Thera Rasche, the flying frauclien who will attempt a flight from Canada to Germany in her Wright-Bellanca monoplane, settled down today to her days of preparation and tests which will precede her get-away on her still-man backed expedition.

Taking up what seems to be permanent headquarters at the Laurentia Inn, here, Miss Rasche with her pilot, Ulrich Koennemann and mechanic Zehora, will drive the 26 miles to Cape de la Madeleine airport each day for test flights and to supervise other work on her plane.

Suits Over Flogging Settled Out Of Court

WASHINGTON, N. C., June 28.—(INS)—Civil suit of Joseph H. Needleman, Philadelphia, against 31 North Carolina defendants, alleged members of a mob at whose hands he was mutilated several years ago has been settled by compromise, Deputy Clerk J. B. Respass said here today.

The case was to come up for trial in federal court here. Needleman was suing for $100,000 damages. Several of the alleged members of the mob are now serving prison sentences.

Convention Session Is Featured By More Nominating Talks

When Massachusetts was reached on the roll call, Andrew J. Peters, former mayor of Boston, came forward and seconded the nomination of Governor Smith.

"The selection of a man for this high office should be made because of his contribution to the citizenship of this country, unaffected by the extraneous considerations," said Peters.

Then came Minnesota to add its word of support for the Smith movement. Andrew Nelson of Duluth, spoke Minnesota's second to the nomination of the New York Governor.

When Missouri was reached, Charles M. Howell came forward and gave the convention the name of Senator James A. Reed.

The Missouri delegation came to their foot yielding and shaking cow bells as Howell stepped out in front of the microphones, and it was several minutes before he could proceed. The bands got going and in the midst of this pre-speech demonstration there was produced from somewhere a big picture of the Missourian's fighting face.

It was the first time that the convention has been treated to a pre-speech ovation, and Robinson finally quelled it by appealing for quiet so that Howell could proceed.

Howell concluded at 11:55, after having spoken for 35 minutes, and the Missouri delegation, with their state standard and a picture of their candidate, started a parade through the aisles. Florida joined in. The Reed parade was "dressed up" with American flags and a great canvas banner bearing the legend "We're with Reed."

After one swing about the hall to the raucous din of the Missouri cow bells, Oklahoma's standard was taken into the procession by the Reed men of that state. The other delegations, however, stood fast and smiled and joked with the perspiring marchers.

On the second swing about the big arena, a new banner made its appearance in the marching column.

"Turn the rascals out—Reed." Nebraska came into the show at the end of five minutes, and so did the Philippine's standard, although the six votes from the territory are listed in the Smith column.

The Kansas alternate standard was taken into the Reed demonstration by A. E. Hayes of Leaned, Kan., and J. A. Butler of Kansas City, Kas. They declared there were 13 votes in the Kansas delegation for Reed.

After 15 minutes there was no sign of a lull in the Reed demonstration, although it did not seem to be attracting many recruits. The Reed people, however, apparently were determined to keep it going and match the Smith show at least in point of duration of time.

For the first 10 minutes, the vast majority of the delegates stood on their chairs and watched the show but gradually they sat down and began fanning while Senator Reed's loyal friends continued to "whoop 'er up."

Leads Forces Against All Smith

Senator James A. Reed, fighting Missourian, was still battling gamely today to prevent the nomination of the New York governor. Despite the outlook of certain defeat, the Senator continued his efforts to must enough votes to block the New Yorker.

Best Marketing Facilities Given Celery Growers

American menu. There is a definite demand for celery at all times which varies in proportion to the cost of celery compared with the cost of other fresh vegetables that are available. There is a certain limited demand from hotels and restaurants for high class celery regardless of price but this outlet is so small as to be of no practical importance in establishing celery market prices except when the supply is very short. Under such conditions, the trade that must have celery at any price has been known to pay as high as $20.00 a crate for Florida celery.

However, the trade that Sanford growers should be mainly interested in is the retail grocer because this is the big outlet, the most important single actor in the whole distribution. The retail grocer buys celery because there is a more or less well established demand for it. However, this demand is fickle. The housewife, who does most of the buying usually starts to do her marketing with no very definite intention. She is influenced very largely by appearance and prices. If lettuce is cheap and celery high, other factors being equal, the vast bulk of the buying demand will go for lettuce, or if lettuce is well priced and attractive and the celery blighted or poorly bleached on an equal price basis the demand will be mainly for lettuce, and the same is true of other vegetables. Celery usually competes on the basis of appearance and price with lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers and to a slightly lesser degree with string beans, squash, carrots, beets and many other fresh vegetables. When quality is good and the price reasonable in the estimation of the buying public, vast quantities of celery will be consumed very rapidly even in competition with other fresh vegetables. But just as soon as the quality goes down or the price goes up, the situation changes and celery becomes difficult to move. The law of supply and demand governs the celery market and it is swift and effective in its operations. When anything disturbs the proper balance, a good celery market can easily be "killed" by getting prices too high, and once the movement is slowed up, it is extremely hard to re-establish the demand.

Sanford is fortunate in producing the bulk of her celery crop at a time when other competing fresh vegetables are least abundant. Sometimes this situation is made even more in our favor by the destruction of crops that normally compete with us by freezes, froth or excessive rains. This condition was largely responsible for the good demand at fair prices that existed during February, March and April of this year.

However, we cannot always expect the favorable break that we received this season and Sanford growers must face the fact that under present conditions a bumper celery crop may be more of a liability than an asset. A big celery crop may mean low prices because the demand for celery has not kept pace with production. It is within the power of Florida celery growers greatly to increase this demand for celery and this is the only practical means of insuring a profit in the face of the tremendously increased production that is in prospect for next season.

Atlanta Man Charged With Attacking Girl

ATLANTA, June 28.—(INS)—A comely young woman was in Grady Hospital today in a serious condition, while the man described as her sweetheart was held in the City Jail on her charge that he beat her, late last night.

The girl, who said she was Gladys Meade, 27, of Pine Bluff, Ark., was found by patrolmen in a dazed condition early this morning. Her face and head were badly lacerated. They took her to Grady Hospital, where her statement resulted in the arrest of J. L. Ganes, 24, Unable to make bond of $200, he was locked up.

Smith Lauded In Ringing Address For Nomination

"He is well called 'the pathfinder to the open road for all true lovers of humanity.' He has the honesty that hates hypocrisy and can not live with concealment and deceit.

"Personal leadership is a fundamental of successful government. I do not mean the leadership of the band of good fellows and good schemers who followed President Harding, nor the purely perfunctory party loyalty which has part of the time in past of the country sustained the present chief executive. I mean that leadership which by sheer force of mind, by chain of unanswerable logic has brought friends and foes alike to enact vitally needed measures of government reform.

"His staunchest political adversaries concede the governor's unique and unparalleled record of constructive achievement in the total reorganization of the machinery of government, in the business-like management of state finance, in the enactment of a legislative program for the protection of men, women and children engaged in industry, in the improvement of the public health, and in the attainment of the finest standard of public service in the interest of humanity. This he has accomplished by a personality of vibrant, many sided appeal which has swept along with it a legislature of a different political faith.

"As to the requisite of honesty: I do not mean an honesty that merely keeps a man out of jail, or an honesty that while avoiding personal smirch, hides the corruptness of others. I speak of that honesty that demands faithfulness to the public trust in every public servant, that honesty which takes immediate action to correct abuse.

"The voting public of the nation is fully wise enough to compare the ethical standards of official Albany with those of official Washington.

"America needs not only an administrator but a leader—a pathfinder, a blazer of the trail to the high road that will avoid the bottomless morass of crass materialism that has engulfed so many of the greatly civilizations of the past.

"It is the privilege of Democracy not only to offer such a man but to offer him as the surest leader to victory. To stand upon the ramparts and die for our principles is heroic. To rally forth to battle and win for our principles is something more than heroic. We offer one who has the will to win—who not only deserves success but commands it. Victory is his habit—the happy warrior, Alfred E. Smith."

Disabled Veterans Hold Annual Meet

DENVER, Colo., June 28.—(INS)—Disabled American veterans of the World War in annual session here, today faced a busy day listening to reports of committees and addresses, including the executive committee report which contains some 40 resolutions concerning various phases of the Ex-Soldiers Problems. Many changes in methods of handling compensation are expected to be recommended.

General Frank Hines, head of the Veterans Bureau, will be among the speakers. The final business session, with election of officers, will be held tomorrow.

WAUCHULA—Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company will spend large sums of money improving freight facilities here this summer.

Air Mail Service Taken From Cities

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(INS)—Cities which fall to provide suitable landing fields will be excluded from service on proposed air mail routes, the Post Office Department announced today.
 Pontiac, Day-City, and Flint, Michigan, were excluded from the Michigan Air Mail Service which starts July 17. They were notified in a letter from Second Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover, that cities that did not manifest sufficient interest to provide landing fields could not be given service.
 Action followed an investigation of the Michigan situation by Earl D. Wadsworth, superintendent of air mails.

Home Runs

Famous ball players have won more popularity through home runs than in any other phase of America's National Sport. The dope generally favors the team having the most players to come safely in home.

Likewise ad messages in the Sanford Herald gain more reader attention because of the well-known fact that afternoon newspapers are safely delivered to or ultimately reach the home and the several members of each family.

Baseball stars and Sanford Herald ads are noted for speed and action. Score a hit by calling 148 for an ad.

Brown Derby Fails To Enthuse Smith Backers In Houston

HOUSTON, Tex., June 26.—(INS)—The Al Smith "brown derby" splashed into the convention maelstrom today, creating excitement among everybody but the New York delegation.

Young-Texans grabbed for the derbies when the vendors brought them out in the wake of the arrival of Smith's own cohorts. Other delegates started or cheered, but still the New Yorkers didn't.

Indeed, the entire Tammany delegation seemed to step out of the character assigned to it by long tradition.
 A Texan hand played "side-walks of New York" with vim, but the Gothamites didn't even enthuse over it.

In all the eddies of the convention with emblematic cookies, "official" canes, all kinds of souvenirs and all kinds of songs being sold and sung, the New Yorkers displayed little interest.
 The delegates coming for excitement were disappointed and the Texans were amazed.

Air Transportation Between Continent, London Is Popular

LONDON, (INS)—June 27.—One of the most striking features of boom in air transport which is now evident throughout the whole of Europe, is the rapid increase in both the bulk and the value of the goods which are being carried by air between London and the Continent.

Special services of air-freighters have just been instituted by the Imperial Airways and the German Luft Hansa. A big twin-engine freighter now leaves Croydon Aerodrome each morning at six o'clock for Paris, and goods collected in London overnight are delivered in Paris in the following morning.

A night goods service of smaller airplanes, runs from Berlin to London every night, collecting urgent freight for London at Essen and Cologne.

Practically all the gold exported to the Continent travels by air and during the last three years no less than $125,000,000 worth of gold coin and bullion has been flown in and out of Croyden.

Live animals are constant air travelers. On the freight machines pedicreed dogs travel daily, and thousands of day-old chicks make their first flight by airplane. One air liner which recently arrived at Croyden from Holland was a veritable flying menagerie, having on board a small bear, 50 carrots, a monkey and a number of tropical fish in a tank of water.

FILM "YES MEN" GIVING WAY TO STRONGER MINDS

Men Are Not Wanted Who Are Afraid To Express Own Opinions At Right Time; Mistakes Are Too Costly

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., (INS) June 27.—No "yes men" need apply. Contrary to the opinion that the so-called "yes man" is principal jobholder in a studio, at least one film producer says he has no use for the agreeable fellow.

Louis B. Mayer likes men about him who can say "no" when they believe it's the right answer, and say so in no uncertain terms. "Whether it be as business executive or film director," says Mayer "the man who says 'yes' at the proper time is, in the final analysis, the really successful worker. The ability to do this wisely is the mark of sound judgement." Mayor contends, after getting farther than fast thinking or flashes of brilliance. "I have known business men," he says, "who, though seemingly slow in their mental processes and possessed of apparently insignificant ideas, when crises came, big or little, steer their business courses invariably in the right direction. There was none of the flare that gives fascination to characters about them but unerring precision in big problems. What, then, is the basis for sound judgement that makes a man able to judge wisely? It is ability capable of development and training."

Blacksmith Priest Is Still Lovers Friend

GRETNA GREEN, England, June 27.—Romance still lives, according to R. Rensson, Gretna Green's blacksmith priest. Once the mcca of eloping couples, Gretna Green is regaining popularity.

Mr. Rensson performed five marriage ceremonies at Whitnash and three more in the first three days of June.
 "The reviving popularity of Gretna Green is due in a great measure to the growth of motor traffic," said Mr. Rensson in discussing his recent activity. "Run-away marriages still take place."

"Since May I have had scores of letters asking for particulars and the fee. The bride guardian still survives. Last week an eloping girl's guardian came in great haste and insisted on seeing the marriage register, which apparently satisfied him."
 "Many of the thousands of Whitnash visitors saw one of the short marriage services over the anvil. One of the five weddings which took place was that of a Kilmarnock blacksmith. He was the first blacksmith to be married at the Forge since the passing of the Marriage Act of 1856."

Police Searching For Auto Driver

NEW YORK, June 28.—(INS)—The driver of the roadster which wrecked itself against a tree and probably fatally injured two beauties of "Rain Or Shine" a hit of the current Broadway season, evaded state troopers and police today as the actresses fought feebly for life in City Hospital at Glens Falls, N. Y.

Mothers of the two girls—Frances Shelley, star of the show, and Beth Milton—are at their bedside. Neither victim has regained consciousness.

Hollywood décolletages grow lower and frocks become more moulded to the figure than ever before.
 Greta Garbo, a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star, appeared at a smart function wearing a startling gown of gold colored satin, absolutely without trimming. Its effectiveness relied upon the cut. Entirely form fitting to below the hips, it then flared out in a gored skirt, with an uneven hemline.

ORLANDO—Sale of additional $1,000,000 in Government road bonds authorized.

Legis Fight Looms For Cult Control

BENTON HARBOR, Miss., June 28.—(INS)—A legal battle for control of the House of Deacons was pressed today between "Queen" Mary Furnell, wife of the deceased "seventh messenger," and H. T. Dewhurst who has been head of the colony's advisory board, since "King" Ben Furnell died.

While Dewhurst is virtually a colony leader, Mary retains her painting quarters and W. J. Bernard, attorney for the cult and her friend, declares a majority of the members are loyal to her. Bernard, in a long statement, calls Dewhurst a "trouble maker," and asserts that if Dewhurst were eliminated from the situation the colony would have peace and happiness.
