Opera won't use Swaggart confession

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jimmy Swaggart's confession won't be used for opera tickets after all.

The Cincinnati Opera had planned to use part of the television minister's confession of sinning in a radio advertisement for the opera "Susannah" in which a preacher seduces a woman.

But after receiving complaints from Swaggart's lawyer and several area residents, segments from the Feb. 21 Swaggart confession have been deleted from the commercials.

Appeal court upholds expressway decision

SANFORD — The Fifth District Court of Appeals Tuesday upheld a Seminole county circuit judge's ruling last December declaring county commissioners may serve on the Seminole County Expressway Authority.

The attorney for the law is an Oviedo property owner argued commissioners could not serve on both boards because they would be in conflict with constitutional prohibitions against dual office holding, said Assistant County Attorney Tommie Capot, who defended the county in the suit.

Capot said he argued the county was required to include five commissioners, and two city commissioners on the authority by the Florida Legislature.

Seminole Circuit Judge Kenneth Laffler upheld the county's right to let commissioners serve on both boards Dec. 17, Capot said.

Merchants' cruise to buy decorations

SANFORD — The cruise ship Romance is hosting a benefit cruise Sunday for the Sanford Downtown Merchants Association.

Proceeds from the cruise will be used to buy Christmas decorations for the city.

A similar cruise last year raised $3,000 for decorations, said Shaun Briggs, corporate sales director for the Romance.

The cruise, which will be from 5:30 to 8:30 in the evening, will feature a live reggae band. For further information and tickets contact the Romance at 321-5091.

Walter Garner, 9, is all concentration as he awaits his turn at bat in the on deck circle during a Pee Wee League baseball game at Chase Park on Celery Avenue in Sanford.

Garner, who plays for the Kinkor Materials team, was hit up first against the pitcher for the Leonard Shell team on the Sanford Recreation Department League.

New rules apply to Sanford public housing applications

SANFORD — A new set of rules for public housing applications will be implemented by the Sanford Housing Authority (SHA) starting July 1.

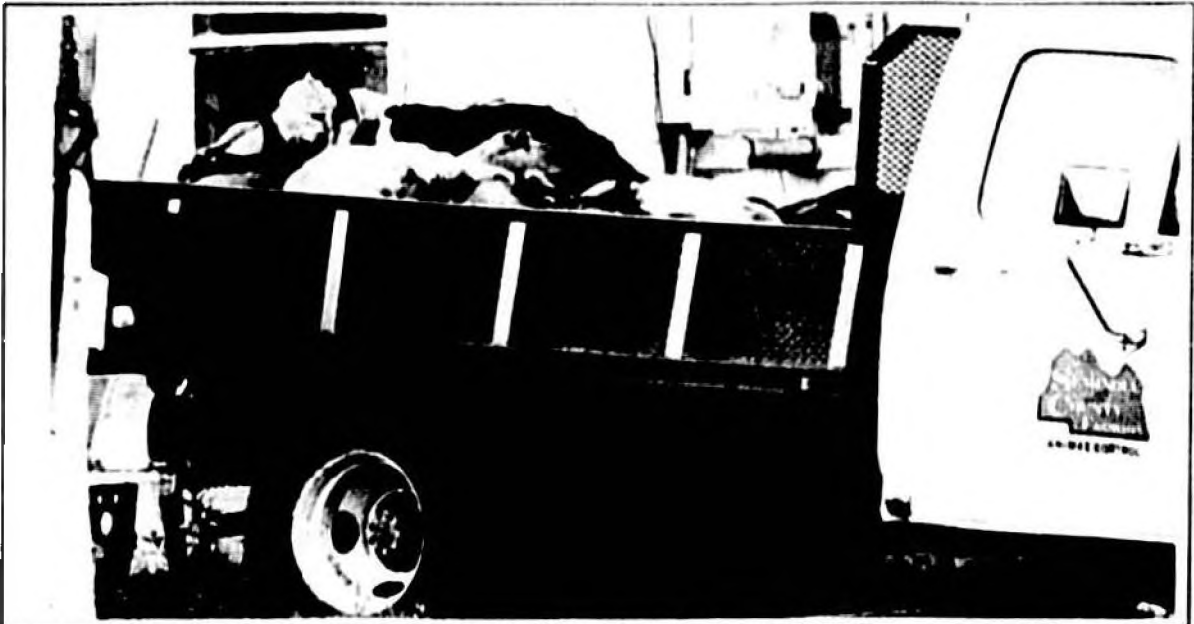

The SHA will require applicants to complete a questionnaire and provide a letter of recommendation from a community organization.

The questionnaire will ask for information about the applicant's income, employment, and family size. The letter of recommendation will be provided by a community organization, such as a church or school.

The SHA will also require applicants to provide a letter of reference from a previous landlord or a community organization.

The new rules are designed to streamline the application process and to ensure that the SHA receives the most qualified applicants.

For more information about the new rules, contact the SHA at 321-5091.

SANFORD — A panel of district commissioners has decided to allow the Seminole County Charter Advisory Committee to propose a charter that would allow the county to change its form of government without a referendum.

The committee, which met Tuesday, will recommend a charter that would allow the county to change its form of government without a referendum. The committee also will recommend a charter that would allow the county to change its form of government without a referendum.

substantive requirements of the single-member districting committee, and a Sanford attorney said a constitutional challenge could not override the constitutionally mandated voter laws.

Any effort to override the referendum would face numerous court challenges, Swearing said.

As a compromise to a possible court challenge, committee member David McIntosh suggested the proposed charter leave the present system of district commissioners elected at large, but include wording that would allow the commission election system to change automatically if voters decide otherwise in a referendum.

The motion passed with committee members Bob Webster and Harry Beckham opposing. Webster had proposed asking the county commission to place the single-member districting question on the November ballot. Swearing said commissioners refused his request to do so last year.

Swearing said he would be able to draft wording for the charter that would allow a current or future referendum to change the commission election system.

Bicyclists pedal through Carolina

By Wayne Mize
Herald Staff Writer

After 12 states and more than 1,000 miles, four bicyclists, traveling from Maine to Sanford, found the route to Sanford, Fla., during the 10th day of their journey.

The Francis Marion National Forest and tobacco fields were the order of the day.

Jim Clark, John Lammers and James Quinn, all of Sanford, along with Tom Quigg, of Manhattan, N.Y., are making the 14-day, 1,000-mile trip to benefit the American Heart Association (AHA).

The four left Sanford, Maine, on June 12 and are expected to reach the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce at 4 p.m. June 26, where they will be greeted with a welcome home ceremony.

Tuesday morning, the quartet left Conway, S.C., traveling state highway 704. The four crossed over the Santee River and passed through Lumberton before stopping at Summerville for the night.

The four traveled 110 miles in 22 hours, beat and were forced to deviate off course in order to find lodging.

Surplus dead animals piled on flatbed truck

By J. Mark Harfield
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The brown and white bodies lay in the early morning sun.

From about a half a dozen of rotting animals was visible.

With what Seminole County Animal Control officials say was an overflow situation Tuesday, 100 animals were euthanized and many of their bodies were stacked on an open flatbed truck in the sun and left until this morning.

Normally, between 60 and 80 animals are euthanized at the shelter, two workers officials said.

Bob McIntosh, Animal Control director, said the bodies would be taken to the county dump this morning. He said the animal control shelter freezer, a tin shed with an air conditioning type unit, was stacked about one or two feet high with dead animals.

It wasn't really full, but when you put animals in there, they tend to curl up and they're harder to stack on the truck, McIntosh said. "I'd rather keep them thawed out so they lay flat better."

McIntosh said the shelter was full Tuesday morning before more animals were brought in.

IN BRIEF

Theft, battery charges filed after victim catches suspect

SANFORD — A man who was reportedly chased and caught by a victim who alleges the suspect snatched $100 from him, faces charges of aggravated battery, the result of a fight with the victim.

Gilbert Mobley, 18, of 615 E. Inn St., Sanford, also has been charged with petty theft. He remains jailed in lieu of $2,000 bond following his arrest by police at 7:29 p.m. Wednesday on Eighth Street at Hickory Avenue.

That's where victim Albert Reaves caught up with Mobley after a chase from Wades Grocery, 509 E. Seventh Street. At the store, Reaves alleges, Mobley stole $100 from him.

In the confrontation on Eighth Street, Reaves said he was kicked by the suspect. Police report there were several other suspects involved in the incident, but they have not been identified.

Alarm alerts police to burglary

SANFORD — Sanford police, drawn to the Seminole County School Board compound when a burglar alarm sounded at about midnight Tuesday, report catching a suspected burglar as he tried to climb over a fence at the compound located at 1613 Lake Avenue.

Willie Cleve Law Jr., 27, of 116 Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, was charged with burglary at 12:51 p.m. today. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Police alleged Law entered a maintenance shed and stole several power tools, which were recovered outside the shed, following his capture.

Two face drug charges

SANFORD — Two men who were allegedly involved in May 9 drug sales to a Sanford police informant face charges related to those deals.

Thomas Neal Terrell, 18, of 201 W. 19th St., Sanford, was arrested on charges of conspiracy to deliver cocaine, sale and delivery of marijuana and possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana, at 4:34 p.m. Monday on 14th Street at Sanford Avenue. He has been released on a total of $3,000 bond and is scheduled for two court appearances July 18.

Allen Jonathan Hunter, 18, of 119 W. 19th St., Sanford, was arrested Monday at 2505 Yale Ave., Sanford, on charges of conspiracy to deliver cocaine and conspiracy to deliver LSD. He has been released on $2,000 bond to appear in court July 18.

Bogus license leads to arrest

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The passenger in a pickup truck stopped at a traffic checkpoint in rural Altamonte Springs, who allegedly presented a suspended driver's license as identification, was arrested for that offense. He also faces a charge of possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies report finding the marijuana in the pocket of Larry James Doversdike, following his initial arrest at 8:21 p.m. Monday on North Street, Doversdike, 27, of 612 Tralwood Drive, Altamonte Springs, has been released on $500 bond.

Store site of armed robbery

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — As two armed men, one who had a knife and the other a gun, were fleeing from the Amoco Food Store in Altamonte Springs, the gunman grabbed a rack of cigarette lighters to add to the loot.

The store clerk told Seminole County sheriff's deputies the robbery occurred at the store at 101 Mohr Ave., at about 12:10 a.m. today. When the robbers entered they asked about buying beer, before brandishing weapons and demanding and taking cash from the register, a sheriff's report said.

Thieves steal, return car

SANFORD — Gary Grillis, 42, of 811 W. 20th St., was a little surprised when someone stole his 1980 Chevrolet Corvette Tuesday afternoon. He was even more surprised when the thieves brought it back.

According to the police report, witnesses observed two male suspects enter Grillis' residence at approximately 1 p.m. and later drive off in the Corvette. The car was returned a short time later and the keys were left on the back porch.

Police have a description of the suspects and are still investigating.

In other police action:

● A motorcycle, valued at $800, belonging to Francisco E. Garcia, 117 Pinecrest Drive, was reported stolen early Tuesday evening.

● Police are looking for two known suspects that drove off with three air conditioning units, valued at $2,500, from a construction site at 2335 W. Seminole Blvd., at 4:45 p.m. Tuesday afternoon.

Polk back in the saddle; gets insurance renewed

By Susan Loden
 Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Sheriff John Polk, back in his office on a part-time basis while recovering from a heart attack, said he was successful last month in negotiating a renewal and expansion of the Florida Sheriffs Association insurance policy for excess liability insurance coverage.

Polk, along with Altamonte Springs Police Chief William Liquori, a Louisiana sheriff, and an insurance executive, traveled to London May 22 for two days of negotiation with insurance brokers for underwriters with Lloyd's and British companies.

While at London Polk suffered a heart attack and was hospitalized for about two weeks.

He said that for the same $500,000 premium he negotiated last year in London, the 57 Florida sheriffs covered will have excess coverage expanded from $3 million to $5 million this year. That excess insurance kicks in at the rate of up to $1 million per sheriff after basic self-insurance liability coverage exceeds limits of $100,000 per person, $200,000 per incident and $300,000 aggregate annual loss for each department.

The premium is paid with funds pooled from the sheriffs' departments when they pay annual basic self-insurance premiums ranging from $350 to $200, to $100 per employee, depending on the risk associated with specific duties, Polk said.

Polk, who spent about eight hours at work Monday, said he plans to drop by his office for a few hours on days he has work there that cannot be handled by telephone. He expects to be back to full-time duty in about a month.

Doctors in London, and at Florida Hospital-Orlando where he spent six days following his return from London June 4, agree on the cause of his attack, he said.

One of two heart bypass surgeries he underwent in 1979 was improperly executed, he explained. The artery involved in that bypass is completely blocked and cannot be cleared by surgery or any other means, he said. His other arteries are clear, doctors have told Polk. He is on medication to keep his blood flow normal, has stopped smoking and has lost 14 pounds which he said, "I hope I'm able to keep off."

Polk said he and his doctors had expected that particular bypass area to fail. "It was going to close up sooner or later. It's a relief, because I knew it was going to. Now, I don't have to worry about it," he said.

Guy's Hospital in London, where he was taken when he began to experience chest pains on May 24, is a teaching hospital, he said. There he received treatment with a blood-clot clearing drug which is not available in the U.S. Polk said he doesn't know the name of that drug, but because of its availability in London, "I guess it's a blessing it (the heart attack) happened there. I got the very best of care."

Under England's nationalized medical program, Polk did not have to pay for his emergency treatment.

He remained hospitalized in London until his doctors arranged for his flight to Orlando. Thirty minutes after landing in Orlando on June 6, Polk was admitted to the Orlando hospital where he underwent further tests. He was discharged June 10 with doctor's orders to relax for about a month.

CCIB drug raid nets six arrests

WINTER SPRINGS — City County Investigative Bureau agents report the arrest of six persons in or outside the Winter Springs house of an accused drug dealer.

Charles Donald Levering, 23, and Joyce Ann Coyle, 41, both residents of the house at 115 W. Panama Road, face charges of trafficking in cocaine and possession of marijuana. Both remain jailed without bond, following their arrest at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Agents report that on Monday an informant called Levering and reportedly made a deal to buy cocaine at his house the following night. Tuesday night the informant met Coyle at that house she shares with Levering. They waited for the arrival of Levering, who allegedly had gone to pick up cocaine from his supplier.

When Levering arrived, agents confronted him and searched his vehicle. They reported finding two ounces of cocaine in a water cooler in the vehicle. Coyle and Levering were arrested. Additional cocaine was reportedly found in the house.

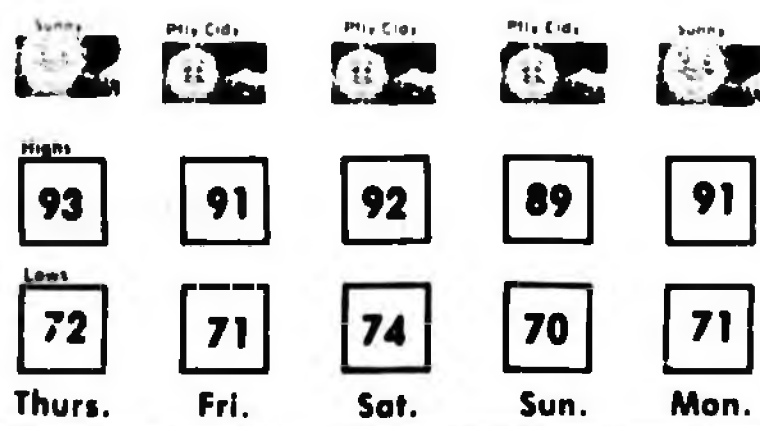

Levering reportedly agreed to call his alleged drug supplier. Following that call, James David Roath, 31, of 1070 Douglas Ave., Altamonte Springs, and Susan Marie Hender, 34, of 102 Todd Drive, Casselberry, arrived to be arrested. Roath has been charged with two counts of trafficking in cocaine. Hender has been charged with trafficking in cocaine. They remain jailed without bond.

Outside the house, while agents were waiting for the arrival of other suspects, Robert Mitchell Hunter, 31, of 101 N. Bombay Ave., Winter Springs, was charged with possession of more than 20 grams of marijuana. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond. Arrested with him was his companion, David Brent Rollet, 19, of 2302 Castledown Road, Matland, who was charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana, reportedly found in his pocket. Rollet has been released on $500 bond. Hunter is accused of having marijuana in the glovebox of his pickup truck.

WEATHER

Five-Day Forecast

For Central Florida

Weird rain cycle in game rainouts

By Fred H. Cooper
 Herald Staff Writer

Run outside and check the truth of yesterday's fearless forecast from the "official" federal government sponsored meteorologists at the National Weather Service. If what you see is not what you observed yesterday, cry foul. Just to check accuracy, during the past 24 hours the temperature in the southern sectors of Seminole peaked at 89 degrees, then dipped to 74 degrees overnight. The northern section fared about the same, high of 86 degrees and low of 73. However, there is one great difference. South Seminoles were treated to a trace of rain. Not so up north in Sanford. Today? More of the same.

Strange thing about the rain during recent months. This bit of weather lore comes courtesy of the Sanford Parks and Recreation Department and relates to Little League vs. the elements. Games scheduled on Tuesday and Thursday evenings have been rained out 14 times this season but no games scheduled on Monday and Wednesday nights have had any rain. How about that score, sports fans. TT 14, MW zip, calculate like golf, low score wins.

How you read about the lottery for permits to shoot Gators? Well reports from biased sources indicate that a majority of the thousands who have applied for permits are Seminoles and are even now cleaning their weapons and donning war paint. There may be a mistaken concept of this government sponsored reptile hunt. The Gator part is not to be capitalized and is intended by sponsors to refer to alligators. Thus, the Seminoles applying should not assume that it is open season on the Gannassee specimens and the Tallahassee trilemmen should not try to impersonate real Indians. Nutsed.

If you're thinking of ways to get away from the dog days and summer and your concept of a dream house is a low energy consuming abode guaranteed to stay cool, then your heart's desire just may be available. There's a man in Arkansas who has listed his home for sale. It's a little odd, perhaps, but definitely in prime condition. Primalordial perhaps. It is a 200 million year-old cave in the Ozarks with a real waterfall in the living room. Ten of thousands of square feet of living room and furnished with everything, including stalagmites and stalactites. No bats or vermin and priced at only $3.3 million. Better hurry for this weather perfect home.

The perfect weather is not shared beyond the bounds of the cave opening however. Temperatures yesterday soared above the 90 degree mark in nearly every state in the Union. Record highs registered in 93 cities nationwide. Not here, of course, "cause we didn't hit the 90s.

Overnight temperatures never got below the 80-degree mark in several areas, and the mercury began edging back toward the 90s and 100s as soon as the sun rose.

Heavy rainfall was not in the forecast for the parched Midwest or South. Engineers were dredging the drought-lowered Mississippi River to make the dwindling waterway passable for barge traffic, and restrictions were imposed as of 8 a.m. today on pleasure craft using the locks on the upper half of the Ohio River.

Reports by United Press International and data provided by the National Weather Service were used in compiling this report.

AIDS education program wins PTA honors

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — An AIDS education program in which students play AIDS sufferers won top honors Tuesday from the National Parent-Teacher Association as organizers planned to offer the course nationwide.

The Center for Cooperative Learning for Health Science Education, at the University of Florida, will produce the instructional materials, developed by professors for an AIDS education program at Gainesville High School.

The Gainesville program was rated highest among 123 other entries in the National PTA's first AIDS Education Awards competition.

Surgeon General C. Everett Koop presented the prize to Mary Jay McClave, Gainesville High School PTA president, at the National PTA's annual convention in Salt Lake City. The prize included $500.

The award-winning program features a variety of teaching methods, including drama. The most distinctive element is a classroom skit where students role-play their way through a predicament where a teenager contracts AIDS and must break the news to his fiancée and friends.

Each actor is given a fact sheet with different information about AIDS that they have to work into their dialogue.

"There are all kinds of ways to learn," said McClave. "Students who are too shy to get into the role-playing may get more from the lectures or written tests. That is what's so special about this program."

Dr. Parker Small, professor in the College of Medicine, developed the group educational materials in an effort to fight the spread of the disease through public education. "Our goal is to introduce a group-education methodology to high schools throughout the nation, letting students teach each other about AIDS," Small said.

The Gainesville team based its AIDS program on a group-learning concept Small developed 15 years ago.

Investigative team formed to curtail weapons flow

DALLAS (UPI) — The federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms has formed an investigative team to stop the flow of illegal weapons from Texas to Jamaican drug gangs in New York.

Only Florida outranks Texas as a source of illegal weapons in New York City, Richard Gardner, a special agent in charge of the bureau's Dallas office, told The Dallas Morning News.

He said the formation of the new investigative team, which began operation May 23, expands from two to 10 the number of agents working full time on Jamaican gun cases in Dallas.

"Since mid-1986, we have had at least 1,200 guns confiscated in Dallas, New York and other cities that can be traced to purchases in the Dallas area" for Jamaican gangs, Gardner said.

"We think that's a fraction of the guns actually being purchased here for Jamaican gangs. It appears to be a growing problem," he said.

Gardner said the group will work with local authorities and other ATF offices across the nation to track and attempt to stop the flow of weapons from Texas.

Chris Nelson, assistant agent in charge, said the effort is the largest the Dallas ATF office has ever mounted to target a single organized-crime group.

Although ATF officials declined to reveal how many weapons cases linked to gangs are under investigation, Nelson said the total represents "probably 30 to 35 percent" of the Dallas cases the bureau has recommended for trial during the past six months.

Texas has traditionally drawn gun smugglers because state laws allow any adult with a valid Texas driver's license, a document easily forged and readily available in counterfeit form in New York City, to buy unlimited quantities of guns with no wait or background check. New York laws are far more restrictive.

Agents said by the time Jamaicans from New York had established drug operations in Dallas in 1986, they had recognized Texas as a virtual one-stop shopping source for high-powered weaponry.

Three killed in separate gang attacks

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Three men were killed in separate gang-related shootings, including an apparent "pay back" attack mounted Tuesday only hours after the first shooting, police said.

At least two of the incidents involved drive-by shootings, which police say accounted for 38 of the 96 homicides attributed to gang members in the city through the end of May.

The shootings brought the number of people killed in gang violence to at least 159 so far this year.

In the latest fatal attack, Charles Ticer, 21, a known gang member, was shot shortly before 10 p.m. Monday.

Ticer was with a group of gang members spraying graffiti on a wall when gunshots were fired from a passing car. Detective Dave Grabelski said.

At shortly past 1 a.m. Tuesday, Shapiro McMillon, 31, was shot and killed outside a liquor store, Grabelski said.

McMillon's killer shouted what sounded like a gang slogan and fled in a waiting car. Officer Joe Mariani said.

There were no arrests in either slaying.

Grabelski said McMillon, who was not believed to be a gang member, may have been killed in retaliation for Ticer's shooting.

"Until we find otherwise, we are investigating the two incidents as related and the second as a possible pay back for the first," Grabelski said.

In the third shooting, Anthony Williams, 19, was fatally wounded about 12:30 a.m. by shots fired at him from a passing car as he stepped outside a house, Detective Steve Deshan said.

Williams, a gang associate, was pronounced dead a short time later at Martin Luther King Jr. Drew Medical Center.

His alleged killer, Willis Burnley, 25, was arrested and booked on suspicion of murder, Deshan said. The driver of the suspects' car remained at large.

Former senator a candidate for newly created judgeship

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Mattox Hair, who recently resigned the state Senate after 16 years in the Legislature, announced his candidacy Tuesday for a newly created circuit judgeship in his hometown of Jacksonville.

The 1988 Legislature created 10 new circuit judgeships, including the one sought by Hair in the 4th circuit containing Duval, Clay and Nassau counties. Each judgeship will be filled in the fall elections.

Hair already had announced he was leaving the Senate after his term expires Nov. 8 and his candidacy for the judgeship was expected. He abstained from voting on the bill creating the judgeships.

No other contenders have announced for the position, but qualifying does not begin until July 18.

"I feel my 16 years of legislative experience, and my experience as a practicing attorney for over 23 years, enhances my understanding and appreciation of the judicial system, and that I can make a contribution sitting on the circuit court bench," Hair said.

Charter boat tax repealed

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A state levy on charter boat admissions — condemned by opponents as the "last vestige" of the controversial sales tax on services — has been repealed.

"When we got rid of that nasty tax, charter boats were left up the creek," said Senate Rules Chairman Depuisey Barron, D-Panama City, the law's sponsor.

Now we have finally gotten rid of the last vestige of the services tax.

The bill consigning the tax to history passed into law at 12:01 a.m. Sunday without the signature of Gov. Bob Martinez. Any bill that passes into law without a governor's signature takes effect 15 days later.

Altamonte police get good grades

Encounters with policemen are stressful for most people. In the case of criminals the reason is obvious, however for all the cause of the encounter is usually an unpleasant occurrence — the citizen is a victim of a crime or has been caught in some form of traffic violation. Psychologically, it is almost always a tense moment and seldom is the individual entirely satisfied with the outcome: a fine is assessed, stolen goods unrecovered, or the person is jailed. Subsequent to this experience reflections vary but at least one Seminole County police department is interested in the attitude of people following their unfortunate experience.

William A. Liquori, chief of the Altamonte Springs department, has established an ongoing followup with 50 questionnaires mailed weekly. Half are sent to victims of crimes and half to individuals who were arrested or received traffic citations. The department reports receiving 299 responses in 1987 from victims of crimes and of this number 287, or 96 percent, indicated satisfaction with the performance of the department. Those who were arrested or received traffic citations returned 247 surveys with 193 or 78 percent, reporting satisfaction with the department.

Surveys received during the first three months of 1988 indicate 95 percent of the victims and 85 percent of those arrested or receiving traffic citations were satisfied, a significant improvement in the latter group.

The survey program is designed to monitor performance in an ongoing effort to maintain high standards of effectiveness, and reflects sensitivity to the public. It is encouraging to see a department that continues to work to retain the respect of the people they serve.

Postoffice hope

They all laughed when presidential candidate Barry Goldwater suggested in 1964 that the U.S. Post Office be turned over to private enterprise. There was less laughter and more gnashing of teeth as postal efficiency declined and costs rose, and in 1971, the U.S. Postal Service, a quasi-autonomous government corporation, was set up to streamline things.

The USPS has had some profitable years, but lately the red ink has spread: The most recent deficit was $177 million, and there have been cuts even in basic service to keep matters from getting worse. Enter H. Ross Perot, the Texas billionaire whose entrepreneurial talents include not only building the multibillion-dollar Electronic Data Systems but organizing a successful rescue of EDS employees held under house arrest in Iran some years back.

Perot, who later sold EDS to General Motors, has created a new company, Perot Systems Corp., that has contracted to study the Postal Service and recommend changes to speed up service and hold down costs — and thus postage rates. PSC's job is to find ways to employ the latest labor-saving technology without harming labor-management relations, a neat trick.

PSC will do the initial phase of the study at cost, and stands to profit only if and when its cost-cutting ideas are implemented — and work. Given Perot's record, and the amazing loyalty he has generated among those who have worked for him, it's just possible he will succeed, whether you call it private enterprise or public service.

INF agreement made, then Reagan reneges

By Steve Gerstel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, whose relations with Senate Democrats is touchy at best, has found a new way to stir the embers on Capitol Hill. To put it as harshly as possible, he reneged on a deal.

As the Moscow summit neared, Reagan wanted to have the INF treaty approved by the Senate so he and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev could sign the paperwork ratifying the first-ever elimination of a class of nuclear weapons.

Similarly, the Senate, with the exception of a small band of conservatives, was anxious for Reagan to have approval in time for the superpower meeting in the Kremlin.

One of the problems, however, was the Senate's insistence on adding language that, in effect, said that a president of the United States, in the near or far future, could not unilaterally reinterpret a treaty.

There was good reason for the Senate's determination to attach a condition to the INF's resolution of ratification, having been put in exactly the same spot by Reagan on the anti-ballistic missile treaty.

Reagan, without involving the Senate, gave the ABM treaty the so-called broad interpretation, decreeing that it permitted testing and development of the "Star Wars" space defense system.

Senate Democrats, unenthusiastic about the SDI anyway, said the narrow or correct interpretation permitted no testing outside the laboratory.

With this dispute very much alive, Senate Democrats held up the INF treaty, pending what they thought was an ironclad agreement with the White House.

Working in collaboration with White House chief of staff Howard Baker and national security adviser Colin Powell, Senate leaders drafted a condition that does not allow a president to reinterpret a treaty without the consent of the Senate.

They thought — and had every reason to assume — that this was an ironclad agreement, worked out in conjunction with the White House, and it was offered to the Senate on that basis. It passed easily 72-27.

With great acclaim on all sides, the Senate approved the treaty and Reagan had it in hand when he came to the Kremlin gates. In fact, there was such a great spirit of comity, that Senate leaders Robert Byrd and Robert Dole were flown to Moscow so they could witness the historic moment.

But a week after Reagan returned from the summit, he sent a message to Congress that, in its flowery words, simply said: The deal is off.

In his message, Reagan said, "I am compelled to state that I cannot accept the proposition that a condition in a resolution of ratification can alter the allocation of rights and duties under the Constitution, nor could I, consistent with my oath of office, accept any diminution claimed to be affected by such a condition in the constitutional powers and responsibilities of the presidency."

Whether Reagan's position under the Constitution or international law is the correct one is not the issue. That will have to be resolved, should a dispute occur.

History's worst movie

I paid $7 for a seat and walked out three-quarters of the way through the movie called "The Moderns."

Maybe it's worth your $7 to see this Olympic level of badness, probably the worst movie ever made. Badness represents a kind of achievement. It may be difficult to make the best movie in the world. But it does take a kind of serious ingenuity to make the worst one ever made. Of all the thousands of movies, to make the absolute worst one takes a kind of genius, the kind of thing Norman Mailer sets out to do every time he sits down to write a novel. Why not the worst? Anyway, "The Moderns" is about artistic life in Paris during the year 1926.

Now, to be fair, this columnist knows the year 1926 on an almost day to day basis. I have taught a course in the literature and culture of the 1920's at Dartmouth and will shortly publish a book on Hemingway and Fitzgerald. The year 1926 has a magical quality. The year before, Ernest Hemingway had published "The Sun Also Rises." The next year, Lindbergh flew the Atlantic and Babe Ruth hit his 60 home runs. Bliss it was in that dawn to be alive.

So, I plunk down my seven bucks and go into the theater to see "The Moderns." What's this?

Director Alan Rudolph must be a crackpot. We meet an absolutely febrile Ernest Hemingway, a quivering wimp, whereas the real 1926 Hemingway thought, with good reason, that he might be the best writer in the world. We meet a dykish Gertrude Stein, whom the director surrounds with the heavy irony that she is still collecting "worthless" Picasso's.

Director Rudolph creates a travesty of the famous episode which Fitzgerald, as time-keeper, forgot to ring the bell and let Hemingway get knocked to the canvas. In "The Moderns," Hemingway is the time keeper, and forgets to ring the bell as the movie's hero.

Why in the world does a director like Alan Rudolph think he can condescend to 1926? His condescension is entirely unearned. His movie itself is artistically bankrupt. In each and every sequence, "The Moderns" declares the imaginative bankruptcy of Rudolph. Rudolph has not earned the right to carry James Joyce's sneakers.

Aaarrghhh. Maybe it's worth seven bucks to experience the pleasures of contempt.

Phone leaks frustrate security experts

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — No administration has done more to keep its phone lines from being tapped than Ronald Reagan's. But, at the same time, the White House phones have leaked like a sieve to Soviet electronic intelligence snoops.

We recently reported that the Central Intelligence Agency believed the Soviets listened in on nearly every phone call Nancy Reagan has made to her California astrologer since 1981. The first lady normally used unsecured phone lines from the White House or from the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md.

White House officials admitted that Mrs. Reagan used unsecured lines. But they differed on whether it mattered.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater dismissed the importance of the calls by portraying the first lady as a chatterbox who said nothing important. The only thing the Soviets could learn from a Nancy Reagan phone call was "how many pizzas are ordered by the first family," Fitzwater said.

Deregulation hurt S&Ls

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "All in all," an ever-optimistic President Reagan proclaimed on an autumn day almost six years ago, "I think we hit the jackpot."

The occasion for that upbeat comment was a White House Rose Garden ceremony at which Reagan signed the Depository Institutions Act of 1982, giving savings institutions unprecedented authority to diversify their investments.

Allowing thrifts to expand their lending authority beyond conventional home mortgages into a wide variety of commercial activities was supposed to enhance their financial condition, slightly shaky at the time.

Now the payout the president promised is in sight — but it is not quite what he and members of Congress envisioned when they endorsed the federal legislation. Instead, the "jackpot" is the $25 billion to $70 billion that probably will be required to bail out insolvent savings institutions.

Hundreds of thrifts have mismanaged their depositors' money by investing in everything from unwanted shopping centers and unneeded office buildings to race horses, fish farms and other highly speculative ventures.

"Some of the more highly celebrated investment schemes," says Regardie's magazine, "include plans to open a branch office on the moon, to make a $3 million loan for the purchase of the Rolls Royce collection of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh and to build a private overpass on a 10-lane Dallas freeway."

Some thrifts failed because tradition-bound managers could not make the transition to an intensely competitive deregulated environment. In other cases, hustlers, grifters and opportunists engaged in hyper-speculation and fraudulent practices that bled the thrifts to death.

Regardless, a Washington-based monthly that reports on business, cites "fast but unchecked growth, the absence of sound underwriting and appraisal policies and forays into exotic financial schemes. In a word, greed."

More than 500 savings institutions now operating are bankrupt — with half of the thrifts in that category classified as "hopelessly insolvent." Another 500 are in such perilous straits that they also are likely to eventually require bailouts.

Thus, almost one-third of the 3,100 savings and loan associations and savings banks regulated by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. are in serious financial trouble.

At the end of 1987, FSLIC liabilities exceeded assets by $13.7 billion — a shortfall more than twice as large as the $6.3 billion deficit recorded at the end of 1986.

A 1987 law authorized FSLIC to replenish its depleted insurance fund by selling $10.8 billion worth of bonds, but knowledgeable industry experts say even that amount will be inadequate and a bailout financed through the federal treasury eventually could be required.

"We conclude," says the General Accounting Office, "that the eventual costs of restoring the thrift industry's financial health are likely to exceed the funds that FSLIC will have available."

Congress and the White House must share some of the blame for the disaster because they were unconcerned about carefully monitoring the deregulation experiment they set in motion.

Disorders require therapy

By Beth Scott

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Hoyt Morris, a psychologist who specializes in treating severe eating disorders, says his patients have to change their psychological makeup as well as their eating habits.

Morris should know. He has personally experienced three of the worst eating disorders — compulsive overeating, anorexia and bulimia — and the compulsions associated with each problem.

"You've got to deal with both at the same time," Morris said. "You've got to deal with the emotions and you've got to deal with the behavior or the addiction."

Morris overcame his eating disorders — he was obese as a child, then suffered from anorexia and finally bulimia — through traditional therapy.

He says the fact he suffered from the same problems his patients are encountering gives him added credibility, but he does not rely solely on traditional therapy because of the complexities of severe eating disorders.

"There have been so many stimuli... so many circumstances and things that they (patients) associate with food," Morris said. "All of those behaviors have taken on certain functions in the person's life," Morris says.

Chronic eating problems are symptoms of deeper personality problems or conflicts, he says.

The most common eating disorder — compulsive overeating — is the one Morris sees the least. He says most overeaters diet constantly and "anguish over their obsessiveness over food or weight."

Compulsive overeaters are not necessarily obese and their problems are hampered by the failure of society to recognize the condition as a result of psychological problems.

"Those persons who come to therapy have crossed that line and gotten to a point where just so much of their life revolves around the whole food, weight, eating issue," he said. "It just wears them out."

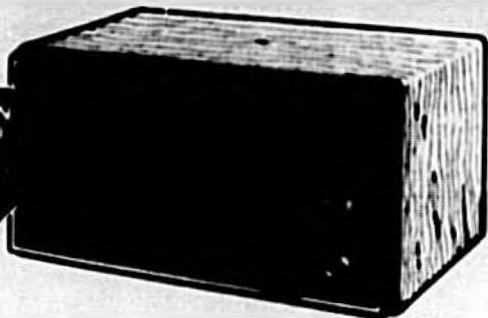

Anorexia — restricting food — and bulimia — binging on food and then purging the food from the system — are less common, but more health-threatening, Morris says.

"The meal is a huge part of the treatment," he says. "There has been so much denial of what they're doing with their eating."

Mississippi River traffic faces standstill

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Towboat operators worried about the shrinking Mississippi River asked Tuesday how long the waterway could remain open and said stalled traffic may spell "economic disaster" if the situation worsens.

Towboat operators meeting with the Coast Guard in Memphis were told the river would be shut down 6 miles north of Memphis for two to three days to dredge a deeper and wider channel. But they wondered what will happen later on, with no end of the drought in sight.

"If the river continues to fall, I think you're going to see the end of navigation. Dredging is going to be futile," said Dan Brock, marine superintendent of Ingram Barge Co. in Nashville.

"It's going to be an economic disaster, not only to the towing industry, but to the many thousands of people who rely on this industry. People are going to be affected that you cannot imagine," he said.

Coast Guard Cmdr. Mike Donohoe asked towboat operators to agree on restrictions on barge sizes and loads to ease traffic problems on the river, which was already more than a foot shallower than record-low water levels.

"What we're trying to do is work with the industry to keep commercial traffic moving on the lower Mississippi as long as possible," Donohoe said.

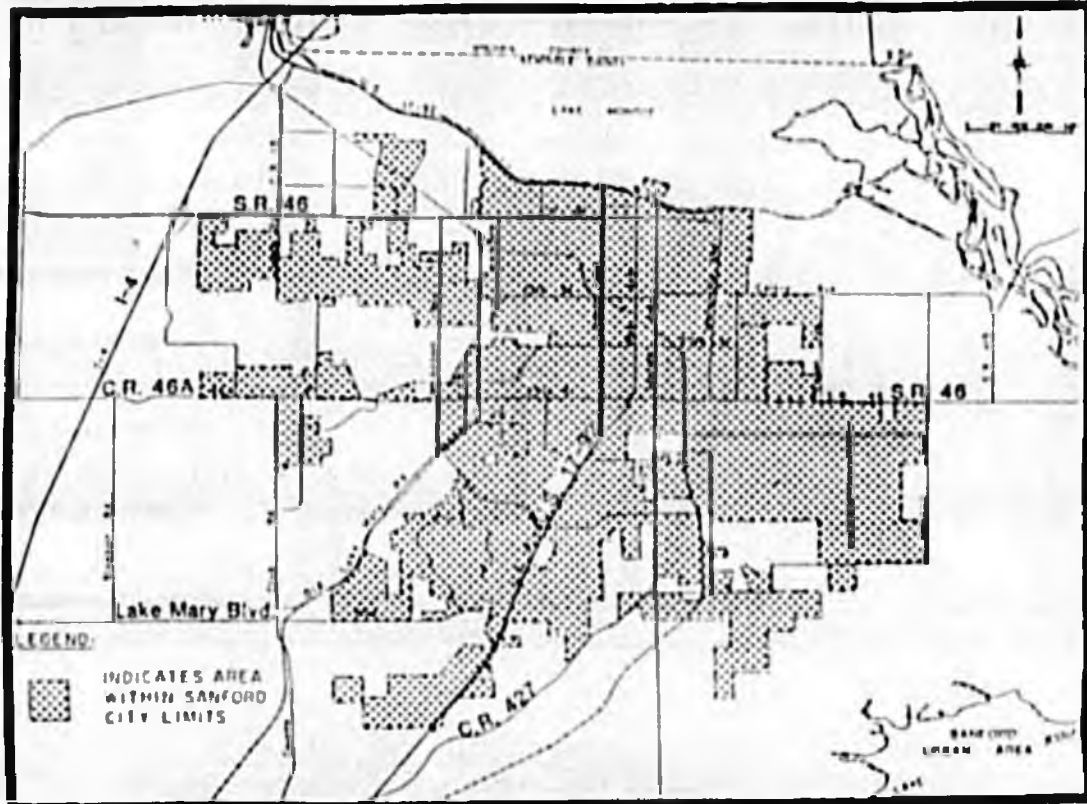

The Army Corps of Engineers planned to begin dredging near Memphis at sundown, and the river was expected to close for two to three days.

"Some 800 to 1,200 barges will ultimately be detained here," Donohoe said.

IN BRIEF

Climbing smokestacks leads to arrest of demonstrators

AQUASCO, Md. (UPI) — Greenpeace demonstrators protesting acid rain damage Tuesday climbed two 400-foot smokestacks and tried to scale a transmission tower at Maryland's largest power plant, a utility spokeswoman said. Eight people were arrested.

Four demonstrators climbed smokestack catwalks and unfurled two vertical banners — "Congress Act Now" and "Stop Acid Rain" — at the Potomac Electric Power Co.'s Chalk Point facility, which releases pollutants that Greenpeace claims contribute to the acid rain problem.

About 12 demonstrators made the land and water assault against Peppo, which supplies power to the federal government, said Julie Brencgar, spokeswoman for the environment group known for using a variety of disruptive tactics against those Greenpeace feels threaten the ecology.

Greenpeace claims federal legislation to combat acid rain has stalled in Congress. The group says a recent federal survey showed acid rain has damaged parts of 500 mid-Atlantic and Southeast streams.

Bush not worried about polls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President George Bush said Tuesday he is not worried about trailing Democrat Michael Dukakis in public opinion polls and promised Senate Republicans he was "not going to be ousted" by the Massachusetts governor in the race for the White House.

Bush traveled to Capitol Hill for a lunch with enthusiastic GOP senators, who promised to back the vice president "every step of the way" in what they acknowledged would be a "tough fight on the 1988 campaign trail."

Polls nationwide and in individual states show Dukakis leading Bush by double-digit margins. An Iowa Poll published Sunday, for example, gave the Democrat a 2-1 edge; an ABC-Washington Post poll released Tuesday found Dukakis still leading Bush 51 percent to 39 percent.

The Wednesday-Sunday survey of 1,012 adults carried a 3 percent error margin and showed virtually no shift from the Dukakis lead of 53 percent to 40 percent in a Post poll completed May 25.

Bush acknowledged to the GOP senators, "I am behind at this point, and I don't think that's bad, either. I like fighting back. Our message is right."

"I'm not going to be ousted by Michael Dukakis. I can guarantee you," he said.

Youths refuse to testify

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three white youths convicted of killing a black man in a racial attack in Howard Beach refused Tuesday to testify in the second trial stemming from the incident, saying they did not want to incriminate themselves.

The three — Jon Lester and Scott Kern, both 18, and Jason Ladone, 17 — all invoked their Fifth Amendment rights in a hearing without the jury present in state Supreme Court in Queens. They were convicted last December of manslaughter in the death of Michael Griffith, 23.

The three were joined in refusing to testify by Salvatore DeSimone, 20, and Harry Buonocore, 19, both of whom pleaded guilty to first-degree riot charges in return for lesser sentences which have not yet been decided.

Their refusal to testify allowed prosecutors to request that statements the five made to police about the incident be given to the two juries hearing evidence in the case.

Defense lawyers vehemently opposed the prosecution's request and state Supreme Court Justice Thomas Demakos reserved decision on the issue.

Five defendants are on trial for their alleged roles in the second case stemming from the incident in the predominantly white neighborhood of Howard Beach in Queens.

Stonehenge site of riot

SALISBURY PLAIN, England (UPI) — Thousands of hippies hurling rocks, iron bars and bottles clashed Tuesday with police in clearings around prehistoric Stonehenge, turning mystical dawn rites celebrating summer solstice into a bloody riot under the floodlights of a police helicopter.

Seven policemen, one with serious head injuries, and two hippies were hospitalized after the pre-dawn melee, described by Wiltshire District Police Chief Donald Smith as one of the worst nights of violence he had ever seen.

Sixty people were arrested and charged with assault, breaching the peace, theft and other offenses, police said.

"We came to watch one of the sweetest and most innocent of British religious rituals — the blessing of nature — but it was a nightmare," American tourist Joe Franklin told a London newspaper.

But in what has become an annual ritual, an estimated 4,000 hippies started gathering during the weekend at Stonehenge to celebrate the first day of summer.

Situated about 80 miles southwest of London, the towering stones of the mysterious monument, thought by some to be a temple for sky worship, were erected over 400 years, beginning 1,400 years before the birth of Christ. Their purpose still is unknown.

The hippies set up roadside camps along the quiet country lanes of Wiltshire, quickly angering local people and landowners worried about the litter they would leave behind. The area is famous not only for Stonehenge but its hundreds of ancient burial mounds.

Shortly before the summer solstice at 4:42 a.m., when the first sunbeams marking the longest day of the year shot straight under the huge, square Stonehenge arches, thousands of hippies began converging on a barbed wire fence around the monument to the beat of bongo drums, police said.

Within the ring of stones, about 60 Druids wearing white robes and pointed hoods were preparing to celebrate the dawn when a group of hippies threw a metal barrier at a line of riot police. Others quickly surged forward hurling rocks, bottles and metal bars as a police helicopter clattered overhead, its search light illuminating the melee.

"This is one of the saddest days of my life," said chief Druid Tim Sebastian. "The hippies are pilgrims and justly deserve a site near the monument to conduct their own ceremonies just like anyone else."

English Heritage, the government body in charge of the site, had issued only 1,000 tickets.

White House conference issues final report on drug war

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New York City Mayor Edward Koch is denouncing the final report of a White House anti-drug panel because it failed to join mounting calls for the military to interdict illegal narcotics shipments.

Koch contends the leadership of the White House Conference for a Drug Free America on which he served "was stacked against full and frank discussion" and it now is up to Congress to right what he considers the group's wrongs.

The White House conference issued its final report Tuesday, proposing more than 100 ways to fight narcotics but declining to endorse proposals that the military's powers be expanded to allow drug confiscations.

Koch, who maintains military involvement is a key to winning the war on drugs, said, "Fortunately, both the House and Senate have endorsed the concept, so the delinquency of the presidential commission is obviously going to be addressed by the people who were elected to do the people's business."

Conference Chairwoman Lois Haight Herrington said the panel decided against urging military interdiction because its 127 members — public officials, drug experts, law enforcement officers — could not reach a consensus.

Gov. Martinez urges greater role for military

Gov. Bob Martinez ...Need Washington's help

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Martinez met Tuesday with Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci and urged a greater role for the military in the war against drug traffickers.

"Florida is the port of entry for most of the cocaine and marijuana that comes to the United States and the federal government must continue to recognize its responsibility to help our state stop the smugglers," Martinez said in a statement released in Tallahassee.

Martinez also endorsed establishment of a federal drug czar to coordinate federal efforts against drugs during a meeting with Carlucci in Washington, D.C.

In meetings with other federal officials, he said Florida is not getting its share of anti-drug resources.

Martinez wants the military to establish air and sea blockades to stop drug-laden vessels bound for U.S. borders. He also wants the Department of Defense to share intelligence with state, local and federal agencies fighting drugs.

Martinez also advocates using military personnel and equipment to help civilian law enforcement with the drug war.

He said deep cuts in the U.S. Coast Guard's budget should be restored and called for military eradication programs in countries that seek

U.S. help.

He supports federal legislation to provide $2.4 billion for the fight against drugs, but fears the funding formula in the bill would shortchange Florida.

An estimated 70 percent of the nation's cocaine enters through Florida, yet the state receives less than 3 percent of the federal funds for drug enforcement, treatment and education — or $20.7 million out of the $548 million now available.

"The federal government must recognize Florida cannot continue to bear the brunt of our nation's drug trade without substantial help from Washington," Martinez said.

said, "There are a number of positive recommendations (in the conference's report) to which we can all subscribe, but what's glaring by its omission is a meaningful recommendation in support of military interdiction."

Even as Herrington released the report, Florida Gov. Bob Martinez, in a meeting with Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci, made another pitch for drug interdiction by the military.

Other recommendations included in the conference report are creation of a Cabinet-level position to oversee anti-drug programs, establishment of tough narcotics policies for every American workplace and increased federal taxes on alcohol and tobacco to pay for various programs.

One of the report's major themes is that drug use is not a victimless crime.

"If we are going to be successful in dealing with illicit drug use, then users and traffickers have to be made to assume the responsibility for their actions," Herrington said.

In a related development Tuesday, a House committee passed legislation to effectively end the administration's controversial "zero tolerance" policy in which vehicles are seized for having even minute amounts of drugs aboard.

Thousands seek permits to join alligator hunt

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — If you want to bag an alligator this fall, you will have to stand in line.

An estimated 4,000 people had requested applications by Tuesday to join the first legal alligator hunt in Florida since the species was declared endangered 18 years ago, state wildlife officials said.

The number of applications requested slightly exceeds the amount expected, but wildlife officials said estimates were difficult because of the novelty of hunting the reptiles after such a long hiatus.

"We've had experimental alligator hunts in the past, but they were extremely limited in scope and in hunting area," said Dennis David, a wildlife biologist coordinating the alligator program for the Game and Freshwater Fish Commission.

Only about 250 hunting permits will be issued for the initial season, which will last between Sept. 1 and Sept. 30. A lottery will be used to select hunters.

About 15,000 applications are available, David said. They will be accepted only between July 1 and July 15. Any received before that period probably will be shipped back to the applicant to be resubmitted at the proper time, David said.

Each applicant may select up to five of the 28 areas being opened to the hunt. Successful applicants will have to attend a training and orientation program to study complicated regulations and study safe and effective hunting techniques.

Each hunter will be limited to 15 gators. Only gators longer than 4 feet may be taken.

The state and federal government banned hunting of most gators in 1970, amid fears the species was on the brink of extinction. The only hunting since then has been of "nuisance" gators that venture too close to people or homes.

The protection has helped the gator population swell to 1 million — about twice as many as in 1970, David said.

Despite the population increase and human encroachment on their swampy habitat, alligator attacks on humans have remained at a fairly constant rate, according to David.

There have been only six fatal attacks on humans since the state began keeping records in 1946.

The latest claimed the life of a 4-year-old girl who was wading along a lake near her home in southwest Florida earlier this month.

Hides taken in the nuisance gator program fetched a record $42.72 per linear foot in February.

Pentagon officials reassigned; Capitol Hill reactions mixed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five of at least six Defense Department officials moved to jobs away from sensitive contract data are suspected of accepting kickbacks in the Pentagon procurement scandal under scrutiny, sources say.

Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci explained in announcing the reassignments Tuesday that he took the action "in the interest of ensuring that the ongoing procurements of the department are free from question."

Pentagon officials refused to give the precise number of employees affected by the directive but said all five whose officers were searched last week by the FBI — including two deputy assistant secretaries — were among them. There is evidence all five are suspected of accepting bribes, federal sources said.

In addition, a law enforcement official speaking like the other sources on the condition of anonymity said late Tuesday that another, unidentified, Navy procurement officer was reassigned under Carlucci's order.

President Reagan praised the response of his administration to the breaking national scandal, conceding he is "very upset" by the matter but predicting in the end, "I don't think (anyone) will find we were derelict in our duty."

Many on Capitol Hill were far from placated, however, with Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, assailing the administration for the third straight day about what he considers lax enforcement.

"It's a national disgrace (that) under both Republican and Democratic presidents we can allow this to go on," Grassley complained.

Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., charged more specifically on the Senate floor that the Pentagon has understated its use of private consultants in what amounts to a pattern of "keeping this shadow government under wraps."

Pryor declared angrily that in fiscal 1987 the Pentagon reported spending $155 million for consultants but a General Accounting Office summary given to him Tuesday showed between $2.8 billion and $18.8 billion had been spent.

In a more defensive tone at the other end of the Capitol, Rep. Bill Chappell, D-Fla., called a news conference to deflect reports that he and Rep. Roy Dyson, D-Md., are under investigation in the scandal for allegedly accepting questionable campaign contributions linked to Unisys Corp.

"I know of no person in the U.S. Congress that's involved as a target in this investigation," Chappell said.

Federal law enforcement sources said while Chappell's statement might be technically correct it was only because investigators had yet to advance to the stage of pursuing evidence of misconduct by lawmakers.

One law enforcement source said that while the primary focus in these inquiries will be on those who funneled the contributions, "Some people are so close to the scene it's hard to believe they didn't know what was going on."

Sources have predicted scores of federal employees, industry consultants and executives of some of the nation's leading defense contractors may face criminal prosecution in the investigation of kickbacks-for-insider data.

In a Pentagon statement, Carlucci said he directed that the officials under scrutiny "be given duties that will not involve them in ongoing procurements or provide them with access to information related to ongoing procurements."

The secretary said they would be "assigned other duties compatible with their capabilities and experience pending the outcome of the investigation." As more information in the probe becomes available, the Pentagon "will reassess the duties of each of the affected employees," he concluded.

The five Defense Department officials identified to date are Stuart Berlin, head of the ship systems engineering branch of the Naval Air Systems Command; Victor Cohen, deputy assistant secretary of the Air Force for tactical warfare systems; James Games, deputy assistant secretary of the Navy for acquisition management, international programs and congressional support; Jack Sherman, supervisory contract negotiator in the Marine Corps Contracts Division; and George Stone, information management services division head for the Navy's Space and Naval Warfare Systems Command.

IN BRIEF

Sikh separatists bombing kills 32, leaves 75 wounded

AMRITSAR, India (UPI) — Angry Hindu fundamentalist groups called for a citywide strike today to protest a bombing by suspected Sikh separatists that killed at least 32 people and wounded 75.

Police blamed Sikh militants for planting two time bombs that exploded simultaneously Tuesday evening at a pedestrian-jammed intersection near the Sikh Golden Temple and a Hindu shrine to the god of destruction.

Authorities said at least 32 people died in the blast and 75 were wounded.

Hindus enraged by the explosions attacked Sikhs and hurled stones at police near the blood-spattered scene.

Authorities, fearing large-scale communal violence, imposed an indefinite curfew on parts of the Sikh holy city, 250 miles northwest of New Delhi in Punjab state.

Hindu fundamentalist groups called for a citywide strike in curfew-free areas today to protest the bombings.

Police said the deaths brought to at least 58 the number of people killed in northern India since Sunday in violence linked to a bloody 5-year-old campaign to create a Sikh nation, to be called Khalistan, in predominantly Sikh Punjab.

Police said one bomb was hidden under the engine cowling of a motor scooter parked at an intersection across from the Golden Temple, the white marble seat of the Sikh religion, and the other was planted about 15 feet away outside a Hindu temple dedicated to Shiva, the god of destruction.

Workers oppose new Haiti boss

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — In the first sign of opposition to Haiti's new military regime, workers at a state-run flour mill went on strike to protest the government's reinstatement of a manager fired two months ago by deposed President Leslie Manigat.

Radio station Haiti Inter reported late Tuesday that workers at the Mouterie d'Haiti plant went on strike to protest the return of director James Cartwright, who was escorted back to the mill by an unnamed high-ranking military officer.

"We won't eat what we have thrown up," one worker told the radio station in a reference to the return of Cartwright, who was fired by Manigat April 20.

Manigat, who is now in the neighboring Dominican Republic, was ousted Sunday in a coup led by Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy, who declared himself president Monday.

The strike at the state-run flour mill is the first sign of organized protest against Namphy, who has received no public outpouring of support as he enjoyed in February 1986 when his military junta succeeded the deposed 30-year-old Duvalier family dictatorship.

Haiti Inter also reported protests at a state-run cement plant by union leaders angry over the return of manager Pierre Leger, who was fired by Manigat.

South Africa debates continue

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Parliament opened a second day of unprecedented debate today among white, Asian and mixed-race lawmakers on a proposal to give blacks a say in national government but deny them equal voting rights.

The proposal for a multiracial National Council, put forth by President Pieter W. Botha's ruling National Party, would give South Africa's 26 million voteless blacks a voice in running the country for the first time.

The debate opened Tuesday, the first time that Asian and "colored" — or mixed race — lawmakers debated directly with whites in a new hall of Parliament, constructed last year for interracial sessions. The Asian and mixed race lawmakers were brought into a segregated tricameral Parliament in 1984.

Botha called the three houses into a joint session to discuss a bill proposing a 46-member council of white, black, mixed race and Asian leaders to advise the government on national issues.

The bill as presented empowers Botha to appoint himself and 13 other members in a move that could limit black membership on the body to 50 percent.

Funeral home director faces several charges

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — A funeral home director could face up to 35 years in prison if convicted of charges that he did not bury, cremate, embalm or refrigerate the remains of 70 people found at the home.

Lewis J. Howell, who was arrested Tuesday, said most of the remains were those of indigents whose burial expenses were being paid by the city. He said paperwork on those burials is often delayed, forcing him to keep the bodies in the funeral home for long periods of time.

Howell was charged with six felony counts of grand theft for allegedly taking $5,500 for unperformed burials and cremations, and 36 misdemeanor counts of fraud and other misconduct, including failure to embalm or refrigerate bodies.

Bond was set at $5,000. Howell surrendered to authorities through his attorney. An initial hearing has not been set in the case, which could also bring Howell $48,000 in fines.

Inspectors earlier this month found 44 bodies, many stacked in closets, and the cremated remains of 26 people at the Howell Morning Glory Chapel Funeral Home.

Assistant State Attorney E. Merae Mathis said one body had been at the home since Nov. 26, 1978, another since April 1979 and others from 1980 and 1981.

He said five of the felony charges involve allegations that Howell collected money from relatives or from an estate for burials that never took place.

"We charged him with stealing those funds of up to $3,000 in one instance," Mathis said.

The sixth felony count deals with grand theft from the city, which had hired Howell to take care of the remains of indigents. He was charged with taking $100 for the cremation of the bodies of four indigents whose remains were found at the home two weeks ago.

The misdemeanor counts involved the remains of 67 people.

"That information relates to false reports filed with the city of Jacksonville's Bureau of Vital Statistics and the failure to embalm and refrigerate bodies as required by federal law, and other misconduct," Mathis said.

Howell said his city contract specified he would receive $450 for the burial of adults and $100 for children. City officials said he was paid only after burials or cremations were performed.

Mathis also announced the arrest of Eddie Sowell, owner of Mount Pleasant Cemetery, on a third-degree felony charge of operating a cemetery without being properly registered with the state. That arrest resulted from investigators attempting to determine whether some burials did take place.

Mathis said the investigation had not turned up any evidence of a conspiracy between the funeral home director and the cemetery owner.

House okays defense spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House gave overwhelming support Tuesday to the mainstay of a $299.5 billion Pentagon spending plan for fiscal 1989 — a bill putting up $3.5 billion for "Star Wars" work and money for more drug seizures.

While the House voted 360-53 for the $282.6 billion defense appropriations bill, the Senate Defense Appropriations Subcommittee also approved its version of the legislation Tuesday. Other bills dealing with military construction and defense-related work at the Energy Department push the defense total to $299.6 billion, with actual spending in the year forecast at $294 billion.

The bill — devoid of arms control language in the earlier authorization bill that now is in conference with the Senate — also provides money for a new Trident submarine and a 4 percent pay raise for the uniformed military.

It marks the fourth consecutive year of declining defense spending. The 1989 bill, although up slightly from the 1988 figure of $279 billion, is down slightly after inflation. The 1989 figure is about 10 percent, after inflation, below the Reagan administration's high point in its defense buildup of 1985.

The bill appropriates $410 million for the Navy to support Coast Guard activities for coastal defense and drug interdiction. Some $350 million of the money is for three radar planes, six helicopters and 10 patrol boats. The rest is to be transferred to the Coast Guard to maintain the equipment.

The bill does not address the issue raised in the authorization bill of an extensively broader Pentagon role in drug interdiction, including limited arrest powers. And it does not touch the issue of closing outdated bases. A separate bill, expected to get a floor vote next week, covers that topic, which the Senate included in its authorization bill.

Largely paralleling the earlier authorization bill, the appropriations measure puts up $3.2 billion for President Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative or "Star Wars" program, and the roughly $300 million in SDI work at the Energy Department makes the total at $3.5 billion. The figure in the Senate's version is about $4 billion.

Most of the budgets of the Central Intelligence Agency and National Security Agency are hidden in the Pentagon bill. Although the amount is classified, a congressional research group said published reports put the figure in the range of $20 billion to $25 billion, or as much as 8 percent of the Pentagon budget.

The cost of freedom

- TOTAL BUDGET: The House supports the mainstay of a proposed $299.5 billion budget.
- STAR WARS: The Star Wars defense plan will receive $3.5 billion.
- PAY RAISE: Provides for a four-percent increase for the uniformed military.
- COAST GUARD: $410 million has been appropriated to support Coast Guard activities for coastal defense and drug interdiction, including $350 million for three radar planes, six helicopters and 10 patrol boats. The remainder is for Coast Guard maintenance.
- CIA: Much of the money for the Central Intelligence Agency and National Security Agency is hidden in the budget. Although the amount is classified, a congressional research group estimates the figure to be somewhere between $20 and $25 billion.
- CLASSIFIED AIRCRAFT: $3.1 billion will go for classified combat aircraft programs, including the B-2 stealth aircraft.
- PORTER PLANES: Money has been appropriated for 12 more F-14 Tomcat fighters, 180 F-16 Falcon fighters, 42 F-15 Eagle fighters and four new C-17 transport aircraft.
- MISSILES: $100 million will go for the Air Force-backed plan to put the 10-warhead MX missiles on railroad cars and $600 million will be spent for a competing single-warhead mobile missile known as Midgetman.

Members approved by voice vote an amendment seeking a Pentagon report on training deaths, prompted by the drowning death of Lee Mirecki of Appleton, Wis., while undergoing training at the naval facility in Pensacola, Fla. His death is now the subject of a hearing to see if training officers should be court-martialed.

The authorization bill gives broad permission for Pentagon projects, some of which take more than a year to complete. The appropriations bill handled Tuesday actually sends the money to Pentagon bank accounts.

Woodall triumphs in women's softball

SANFORD — Woodall Chipractic came up with a run in the top of the fifth inning for an 11-10 victory over the Pink Panthers Tuesday in Sanford Women's Softball action.

Also on Tuesday, the Re-Runs took a forfeit decision over Pretty Pouch.

Patty Adamson led Woodall with a pair of triples, three runs batted in and two runs scored which included the game winning run. Trish Lively connecting for three singles with one run batted in and one run scored. Tina Hunkut added a single with three RBIs.

Julia Jones led the Pink Panthers with a single and three runs scored. Robin Kimard added a single with two runs scored as Patti Spangler contributed a single with one run batted in and two runs scored.

Coaching great Dodd dies of lung cancer

ATLANTA (UPI) — Robert Lee "Bobby" Dodd, who coached Georgia Tech's football team from 1945-66 and spent 46 years working in the school's athletic department, died Tuesday of lung cancer. He was 79.

Dodd, athletic director at Georgia Tech from 1950-76, died at West Paces Hospital, where his condition had been reported to be deteriorating for a number of days.

Born Nov. 11, 1908 in Galax, Va., Dodd was an All-America quarterback at the University of Tennessee. During his three varsity years (1928-30), the Vols lost only one game.

Under Dodd, Georgia Tech was unbeaten in 31 straight games in the early 1950s and was ranked second in the nation behind Michigan State in 1952, when he was named Coach of the Year. Dodd wound up with a 22-year record of 165-64-8, including a 9-4 bowl mark.

Holland advances to European finals

HAMBURG, West Germany (UPI) — Holland defeated West Germany 2-1 Tuesday night on a goal by Marco van Basten with a minute left to advance to the finals of soccer's European Championships.

Van Basten's winner began with a sweeping move by Ronald Koeman. Jan Wouters then passed to Van Basten, who turned on the ball and sent it past goalkeeper Eike Immel.

Van Basten, who scored three goals against England, carried the Dutch into the final of Europe's most prestigious soccer event for the first time. The result marked the first time in 32 years Holland defeated West Germany.

In Munich Saturday, Holland will play the winner of Wednesday's game in Stuttgart between Italy and the Soviet Union.

Lakers steal the show, 108-105

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — When the infamous guarantee proved much more than an empty promise, Los Angeles Lakers Coach Pat Riley could relax for the first time in months.

"I guarantee one thing," Riley said Tuesday night following the Lakers' 108-105 victory over the Detroit Pistons in Game 7 of the NBA Finals. "We're going to enjoy this championship. We wanted to be the best again. Tonight, we proved it."

The triumph marked the first time a league champion has repeated since the 1968-69 Boston Celtics and backed Riley's words from last year that the team would win two straight. The victory also gave Los Angeles its fifth crown of the decade.

James Worthy, who had 36 points, 16 rebounds and 10 assists, was named the Most Valuable Player. The triple double is the only one the six-year veteran has ever recorded.

Byron Scott had 21 points and Magic Johnson added 19 points and 14 assists for Los Angeles. Joe Dumars had 25 points and John Salley scored 17 for Detroit.

Seeking the first crown in franchise history, the Pistons furiously rallied from an 88-73 fourth-quarter deficit to trail 102-100 with 78 seconds left on Joe Dumars' 18-footer. Magic Johnson's free throw two seconds later put the Lakers up by 3 before Bill Laimbeer missed from the top of the key.

Laimbeer blocked a Worthy shot with 45 seconds to play, but Dennis Rodman was off on a 14-footer from the right with 39 seconds to go that would have pulled the Pistons within 103-102. Scott's free throws nine seconds later made it 105-102.

The margin stretched to 106-102 on Worthy's foul shot with 14 seconds left before Laimbeer's 3-pointer got Detroit within 1 point. A.C. Green's breakaway basket with two seconds to go tied the Los Angeles victory.

"To be a champion, you have to be good and lucky," said Detroit guard Isiah Thomas, who had 10 points in 28 minutes on a severely sprained right ankle. "We are a good basketball team, we are just not lucky. Experience helped (the Lakers) in this series."

Trailing 54-49 in the first minute of the third period, the Lakers took over the game with a blistering 18-3 blitz that made it 67-57 with 6:09 to go in the quarter. Los Angeles had five layups in the run with Worthy getting the first 7 points on a jumper, two lay-ins and a foul shot.

Los Angeles maintained the 10-point lead until opening the final quarter with a 20-footer by Johnson and Michael Cooper's second 3-pointer of the game, making it 88-73 with 10:49 left. The sellout crowd of 17,505 gleefully chanted "Repeat, repeat" during the ensuing Detroit timeout.

"We said, 'Don't give up,'" said Detroit center Bill Laimbeer. "We've come back before. We as a team have a lot of confidence. We didn't want to lose by 20 in Game 7, so we fought back and came back and gave it our best shot."

Earlier, Thomas hobbled onto the court for warmups and started. After the Lakers scored 7 of the first 9 points, Adrian Dantley hit two layups and a pair of free throws in an 8:00 run that gave the Pistons the lead with 6:50 to go in the quarter. Neither team had an advantage of more than 3 points in the period, which ended with Detroit up 23-21.

Down 26-23, the Lakers tallied 8 consecutive points to lead 31-26 with 8:50 remaining in the half. Less than two minutes later, the Pistons began a 12-3 spree — getting 4 points each from Rodman and Dumars — to lead 40-37 four minutes before halftime.

Los Angeles, which got 20 first-half points from Worthy, trailed 48-47 in the final minute before Thomas capped the Pistons'

Sanford All-Stars win title

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — The Sanford All-Stars used a strong hitting performance and battled back from the losers' bracket to take the Pinto Division title Tuesday night with a 15-12 victory over the Winter Springs All-Stars before 301 vocal fans at the Seminole Pony Baseball Complex.

Sanford had lost to Winter Springs, 15-3, in an earlier meeting before coming back to post two consecutive wins to take the title. Sanford, made up of three teams (KORC USA, Ovidio Materials and Orlando Drive Medical Center) used strong hitting and fielding and remained consistent throughout the entire ballgame to take the championship.

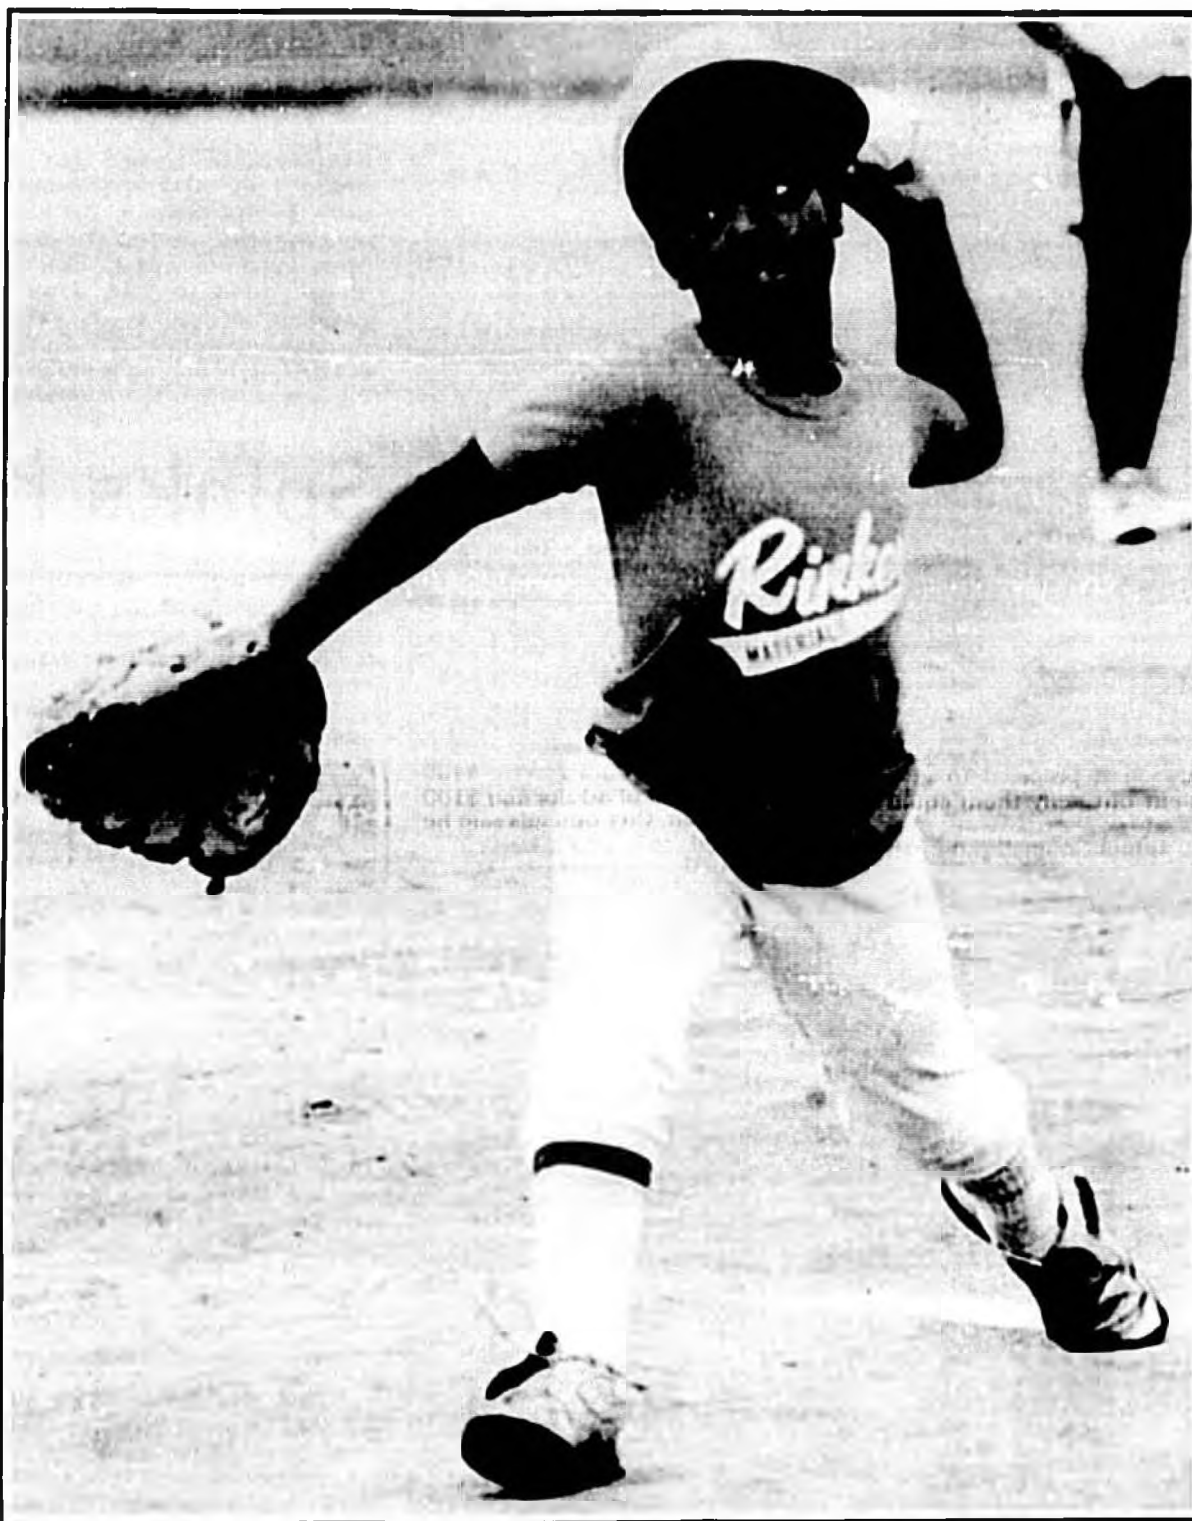

All-Star selections will now be made and the teams will begin action in early July.

Winter Springs jumped out to a quick lead, though, as leadoff hitter Nick Melasius sent the first pitch of the game sailing over the left field fence to give Winter Springs a 1-0 advantage.

Sanford answered with four runs in the bottom half of the inning to take charge of the game. Jason Mitchell led the hitting off for Sanford and reached on an error. Jason Bernosky followed with a single to left to place runners on first and second. After an out Michael Evans reached on an error that scored Mitchell. After the second out Ned Rames drilled a shot over the center field fence for a three-run homer to give Sanford a 4-1 lead.

Winter Springs came right back, though, and re-took the lead with five runs in the top of the second inning. Andy Cole led the hitting off and reached on an

Herrbach hurls another gem

Altamonte Athletics' lefty throws no-hitter at Apopka

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Editor

Anyone who has been around baseball long enough knows how hard it is for a pitcher to throw back-to-back masterpieces. With that in mind, lets look at what Todd Herrbach of the Altamonte Athletics has done in his last two games.

In his previous outing, Herrbach set an Altamonte Springs Little League record with 14 strikeouts in a six-inning victory over Rolling Hills. The hard-throwing southpaw returned to the hill Tuesday night and pitched a near-perfect game in the Athletics' 10-0, five-inning rout of Apopka in Top Team Tournament Major Division action at Pine Hills.

The Athletics return to action Friday night at 7 against Ocoee at the Apopka Little League Complex.

Herrbach's no-hitter Tuesday night included 10 strikeouts and only one walk, which was the only Apopka baserunner of the night. The game ended after five innings due to the slaughter rule.

"He (Herrbach) has pitched two tremendous games in a row," Athletics' manager George Pahakis said. "And we hit pretty well, too, against a pretty tough pitcher (Jeremy Rudolph). They had the radar gun on him the last time he pitched and he was throwing 67 mph which is pretty quick for a 12-year-old."

The Athletics received all the offense they needed in the first inning when Chris Lewis blasted a three-run homer off Rudolph. Robbie Bruce and Genias McRae added two hits each for the Athletics.

Another highlight for the Athletics was the hitting of Jared Rouse who had a pair of hits. Rouse, only a 10-year-old, is getting the most out of the Top Team tourney as he won't be playing all-stars (only 11 and 12-year-olds play all-stars).

"It's too bad 10-year-olds aren't allowed to play all-stars," Pahakis said. "Jared (Rouse) is definitely good enough to play on the all-stars this year."

The Athletics are one of four teams remaining in Top Team Tournament Majors play and they will play a double-elimination format to determine the district champion.

Oviedo Angels triumph

Tyson Crist tossed a three-hitter and also drove in three runs as the Oviedo Angels drubbed the Eustis A's, 15-0, in Top Team Tournament Senior Division action Tuesday night at Mount Dora.

The Angels will now take on the Altamonte Mets tonight at 7 at Eustis. Oviedo must defeat the Mets twice to advance while the Mets need to win

"That was our second victory over Apopka," Pahakis said.

"It's a pretty big accomplishment since they have Top Team champions. Now we'll go up against a team (Ocoee) that I heard was the best we'll play."

The Top Team Tournament is for regular-season champions in the local leagues and only goes as far as the district finals. All-Star competition, which leads up to the Little League World Series.

Crist's three-hit shutout included four strikeouts and three walks. He helped his own cause with a single, double and three RBIs. Mike Williams added two hits and drove in two runs while Irwin Alexander also had two hits. Bubba Fore and Mario Ambrosio each had one hit and one RBI. — Chris Flater

McEnroe wins opener

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Three-time champion John McEnroe, saluted by the fans who once scorned him, Tuesday won his opening match in straight sets in his first appearance at Wimbledon since 1985.

"It feels good to be here, the reception's been great," McEnroe said following his 6-1, 7-5, 6-1 victory over Horst Skoff of Austria. "I am happy coming back and I am looking forward to it being even more enjoyable in future years. It's like starting over in a sense."

The 29-year-old New Yorker held his temper during his easy triumph. McEnroe won Wimbledon in 1981, 1983 and 1984 but endured some of his more exasperating moments at the All-England Club. He declined to play the last two years.

McEnroe, the No. 8 seed, said he still needs to sharpen his game, but warned: "I think I am on the road back."

No. 5 Jimmy Connors, who won the title in 1974 and 1982, also advanced to the second round with ease, beating fellow American Leif Shiras 6-3, 7-6 (7-4), 6-1.

"I'm going to be 36 (in September) but I'm not dead yet," Connors said. "I can still get around a little bit."

Sweden's Mats Wilander and West Germany's Steffi Graf, both halfway to the Grand Slam after winning the Australian and French Opens, scored impressive first-round victories in the $4.3 million championships.

Wilander, the No. 2 seed, defeated Argentina's Eduardo Masso 6-3, 6-4, 7-6 (7-4). Graf, No. 1 among the women, overwhelmed American Hu Na, 6-0, 6-0. The Chinese emigre, who defected to the United States during the 1982 Federation Cup in California, managed only 22 points.

"I try to get the points over," Graf said. "Everything has to be fast."

No. 2 Martina Navratilova, No. 3 Pam Shriver, No. 4 Chris Evert and No. 5 Gabriela Sabatini also won.

Navratilova beat Sabrina Goleis of Yugoslavia 6-1, 6-2. Shriver overcame South Africa's Dinky van Rensburg 6-2, 4-6, 8-6. Evert defeated Alexia Dechaume of France 6-1, 6-2, and Sabatini of Argentina routed Carling Segoso of Canada 6-1, 6-1. No. 11 Claudia Kohde-Kilsche of West Germany withdrew because of a knee injury.

Wilander faltered briefly against Masso, missing a match point and then recovering from a 4-0 deficit in the tie-breaker. He moved into the second round along with Ivan Lendl, Pat Cash, Stefan Edberg and Boris Becker, all winners Monday.

"I am never ever going to feel grass is the natural surface for my game," Wilander said. "I am never going to be the kind of player who likes to take risks."

Kevin Curren, the last player to beat McEnroe at Wimbledon in the 1985 semifinals, suffered a first-round defeat to Chile's Ricardo Acuna, 7-6, 6-7, 7-6, 6-4.

The men also lost their first seed, No. 14 Andrei Chesnokov of the Soviet Union, a 7-5, 6-4, 6-4 victim to West Germany's Udo Riglewski.

Don't be surprised Bass have appetite for surface snakes

Many fishermen like to put bass on a pedestal and think they dine only on gourmet fare. In reality, the bass is an opportunistic feeder. More than one of us has found a partially-digested water snake while cleaning a bass.

The fact that bass will eat surface swimming snakes offers an exciting alternative in fishing for bass — swimming a plastic worm or snake across the top of the water in weed infested areas. A word of caution is in order, however. This method is not for the faint of heart because the strikes will often be vicious.

The method is amazingly simple. All you need to do is find some thick cover in 1-5 feet of water and chuck out a Texas-rigged plastic worm or snake and reel it in across the surface. The seductive swimming action of the plastic snake replica will be too much for even the smartest of bass to resist.

In fact, several companies make plastic snakes specifically for this type of fishing. Bill Norman's Snatrix, Mr. Twister's Skinny Dipper, and Burke's Snakebat are swimming plastic snakes that catch bass.

In addition, any type of plastic worm with a curl of kink tail will work.

How about rigging the snake or worm for action? First of all, a 40 or 50 hook should be rigged with the snake, and the hook's barb must be turned and inserted back into the snake's belly. In this fashion, the hook always rides under the bait, providing a keel effect. Also, the shank adds to the worm's weedless action as it glides through heavy cover.

This type of fishing is designed for warm water temperatures—over the 60° mark. This method is more effective when used near cover such as green vegetation, tree tops, brush piles, stumps and logs, and boat docks. Snakes are rarely seen swimming in open water, so make sure to fish your offering in heavy cover.

The best type of retrieve is simply a steady swimming action. Keep your rod tip at a 45 degree angle and swim the snake back to the boat.

Most experts agree that the hook should be set immediately upon the strike. Strikes are ferocious as the bass appears to be "killing" the snake. In fact, many times bass attacking surface swimming plastic snakes will hook themselves.

Shupe's Scoop

The swimming snake is great around hydrilla. A good tactic is to swim the snake up to a pocket and let it sink into the opening for a second. Many times bass will be in ambush around these openings, and the sinking snake will look like easy pickings.

Fishing Report

Lemon Bluff Fish Camp reports that bass fishing is good all over the river. Look for bass in Lake Jessup, at the washout, and at the cut by the fish camp. Bream and catfish are also rated as good, and believe it or not, a few specks are still being caught.

Steve Gard at the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp said that Snook are still active at Sebastian Inlet, with most of the fish running from 8 - 15 pounds. With the season closure on the linesides, angling pressure on the rocks has been greatly reduced. A few flounder and bluefish are also hitting.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports spotty offshore fishing. A few anglers are really getting into the fish, while others troll all day without a knockdown. A lot of dolphin, wahoo and a few saibms seem to be around the 120 foot mark. Flying fish can be found in as shallow as 70 feet. Bottom fishing has been hampered by a super-strong current. Anglers can hardly get the baits down to the bottom in less than 100 feet of water. The buoy line is slow, with only a few triplets. Inside the Port, sheepshead, flounder and bluefish provide steady action. Trout are slow in the Banana and Indian Rivers.

The New Smyrna jetties have been crowded with the recent calmer weather. Boats and jetties jockies have been catching flounder, sheepshead, bluefish, and drum. Live or dead shrimp is hard to beat for all species. Flounder are best around the south jetties, while the north side of the north jetties is a good bet for the other species.

Spinks happy to be quiet

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — As he has matured, Michael Spinks has come to see training for a fight as a peaceful experience.

"I'm still having a good time, and this is where I'm having a good time," Spinks, 31, said after a workout for his Monday night bout against Mike Tyson.

"I get to play my music as loud as I want. I can scream. I'm free."

Since the first week of May, Spinks has trained in a calm atmosphere — first at Kiamasha Lake, N.Y., and the past three weeks in Atlantic City — for his heavyweight title fight.

Meanwhile, Tyson's life has been in turmoil. Marital and managerial problems have angered the 21-year-old champion and cut into his training time.

The betting odds have reflected Tyson's problems, dropping from 5-1 in his favor several weeks ago to 3 1/2-1.

Spinks says Tyson's problems are no advantage to him, but is happy to be the quiet man in this fight.

"That would be saying I'm looking for some type of help to beat him," Spinks said. "I don't even care about Tyson's troubles. I'm facting him in another arena."

Spinks is no stranger to trouble training camps. His older brother Leon was a textbook example of how to allow outside influences affect him, and Michael Spinks had a rough time preparing for his biggest bout as light heavyweight champion.

Six weeks before his 175-pound unification title bout against Dwyght Muhammad Qawi March 18, 1983, Spinks' common-law wife Sandra Massey was killed in a car accident.

Spinks prepared for that bout under duress, balancing training with sorrow and the responsibility of consoling the couple's 3-year-old daughter Michelle.

"That was like the roof was caving in on me," Spinks said.

Minutes before the bout, Michelle was brought into Spinks' dressing room and asked her father, "Where's mommy?"

Spinks burst into tears.

"I thought the fight was going right there," said his trainer, Eddie Futch.

But Spinks composed himself to win a 15-round decision, highlighting one of the greatest careers in light heavyweight history.

His brother Leon's career was ruined by troubles outside the ring. Leon Spinks was dragged down by personal problems after defeating Muhammad Ali in 1978. He lost a rematch in his next fight, and is now an unsuccessful club fighter.

"Tyson's situation brings back memories, bad memories (of Leon Spinks)," Spinks' promoter Butch Lewis said. "The women the cars, everything else."

Michael Spinks said he thinks he knows what Tyson is going through, although he says it will not affect Tyson's performance Monday.

"It is anything like Leon went through, then I can understand," Michael Spinks said. "But I don't know exactly if it is or not."

Tyson's trainer Kevin Rooney says the distractions will not bother his fighter in the ring.

"Mike's a moody fighter, but this is a normal camp for me," Rooney said. "Come fight night, Mr. Spinks is going to pay for everything that's disturbing Mike."

Tyson's major problem is what his wife Robin Givens calls an unhappy marriage. The champion and Givens blame their troubles on his manager Bill Cayton.

Tyson, who owns all three heavyweight championships, has said he will get rid of Cayton after this fight. Cayton, however, has a contract to manage Tyson through February 1992.

Dokes-Stokes headlines card

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former WBA heavyweight champion Michael Dokes, continuing a comeback from drug abuse problems, will headline the card at Madison Square Garden Monday in a 10-round bout against Andrew Stokes of Lafayette, Ind.

Dokes, who is ranked No. 14 by the WBC, has a career mark of 33-1-2 with 20 knockouts. Stokes, who will be making his New York debut, is 12-5-1 with nine knockouts.

Two other 10-round bouts will precede the closed-circuit showing of the Mike Tyson-Michael Spinks heavyweight championship from Atlantic error, after an out, Josh Pickett reached on an error as did Jimmy Costa to load the bases. Nick Trager then hit a fielders choice to third that scored Cole. Don Krahn then hit a two run single before Casey Earnest ripped a homer to give Winter Springs a 6-4 advantage. The five run rule prevented Earnest's run from counting and ended the Winter Springs at bat.

Sanford tied the game up in the bottom half of the inning as Buster King led off with a single, Danny Purcell followed with a line drive homer over center field to knot the score at 6-6.

Winter Springs came up with a single run in the top of the third as Ryan Hadden led off with a single, after an out, Melasius singled and after the second out David Pavlik stroked a run scoring single up the middle to give Winter Springs a 7-6 advantage.

The Sanford All-Stars came right back again, though, and took the lead for good with three runs in the bottom half of the third inning. Mitchell led the frame off and reached on an error. Bernosky followed with a single as Chaz Lytle followed with a run scoring angle. After an out Danny Sizemore reached on an error to score Bernosky before Raines grounded out to score Lytle that gave Sanford a 9-7 lead.

Winter Springs was held scoreless in the top of the fourth and Sanford came up with five runs in the bottom half of the inning to take command of the game. J.R. Nobles led off the inning with a double and scored off a single by King, after an out T.J. Martin sent a home run over the left field fence. After the second out Stuart Gilmer and Patrick Helms both singled to place runners on first and third. Mitchell then singled in Gilmer and Bernosky ripped his third single of the game up the middle to give Sanford a 14-7 bulge.

Winter Springs was held in check again in the top of the fifth inning, therefore, giving the win to Sanford although the final inning was played.

Sanford came up with one run in the bottom of the fifth as Winter Springs used three errors and four hits to score five runs in the top of the sixth to complete the game.

Hadden opened the sixth for Winter Springs, made up from the Pinto Division champion Salvaggio's Boys, Dr. Gittens, Hooters and Spognardi Polygraph, with a single up the middle. Ben Lupo then hit into a fielders choice with Hadden being thrown out at second.

Trammell's slam beats Yankees

United Press International
The Detroit Tigers have pushed New York Manager Billy Martin precariously close to his breaking point, and increased their lead over the Yankees to 1 1/2 games in the American League East with a second straight exhilarating victory.

Alan Trammell capped a six-run ninth inning with a two-out grand slam Tuesday night, rallying Detroit to a 7-6 triumph Monday night. Tom Brookens homered in the 10th for a 2-1 victory.

"In 10 years, I've seen some strange things," Trammell said, "but I can't remember anything better than these last two games. When you're trailing 6-1 entering the bottom of the ninth — You don't count yourselves out, but you hope."

Martin's hope of lasting the season in his fifth tenure as Yankees manager is dwindling following the crushing loss. He went on a rampage in the visiting team clubhouse, overturning the post-game buffet, then retreated to the sanctuary of the tiny manager's office.

"It's our game," New York first baseman Don Mattingly said. "We outplayed them the whole game, really. There's not much else to say."

Dave Bergman opened the rally with a single off Neil Allen, and Darrell Evans walked on a 3-2 pitch.

"He asked me how I felt and I told him I felt good, and to let me have the next hitter," Allen said. "I walked him on a 3-2 pitch."

Dave Righetti relieved, and Matt Nokes singled to load the bases. After Pat Sheridan flied out and Brookens struck out, Righetti walked Lou Whitaker on 3-2 and Luis Salazar on 3-1, pulling the Tigers within three runs.

Righetti threw a ball to Trammell before Cecilio Guante, 4-4, entered and ran the count full to Trammell. On the next pitch, Trammell hit his 10th homer of the season.

Red Sox 10, Indians 6
At Cleveland, Jim Rice drove in four runs and Mike Greenwell hit his fourth homer in his last three games, powering Boston to its fourth straight victory. The Red Sox have scored 39 runs in their last three games. Boston starter Jeff Sellers suffered a broken finger.

Orioles 4, Blue Jays 2
At Toronto, Cal Ripken tripled home two runs in the eighth inning to lift the Orioles. Rick Scho led off the eighth with a single off Mike Flanagan, 6-5. With two out, Billy Ripken singled, and Jose Nunez relieved. Cal Ripken drove a shot off the center field wall to erase a 2-1 deficit.

Angels 5, Twins 4
At Minneapolis, Chili Davis homered with two out in the 10th to lift California to its sixth straight victory. Davis hit a 2-2 pitch from Mark Portugal, 0-1, for his ninth home run of the season. Greg Minton, 2-1, pitched 2 1/3 innings for the victory and Bryan Harvey recorded his sixth save.

Royals 6, White Sox 2
At Chicago, Frank White doubled home two runs and added a solo homer, leading the Royals. Mark Gubicza, 10-5, yielded eight hits, struck out five and walked four in six innings. Chicago starter Jerry Reuss, 6-3, gave up five runs on eight hits over six innings.

A's 4, Brewers 2
At Milwaukee, Dave Parker curled a two-run homer inside the left field foul pole for his third home run in three games, lifting Oakland. Curt Young, 5-4, allowed two runs on seven hits in 6 1/3 innings, and Dennis Eckersley got his 22nd save Dave Righetti did not do what relievers are supposed to do Tuesday night. The Yankees' lefty walked three and gave up two hits, setting the table for Alan Trammell's grand slam that gave the Tigers a 7-6 victory.

Chris Bosio, 6-8, pitched his ninth complete game.

Rangers 6, Seattle 0
At Arlington, Texas, Paul Kilgus pitched a six-hitter and Jeff Kunkel collected three RBI, pace the Rangers to their third straight victory and dealing the Mariners their ninth straight loss. 14th straight on the road. Mariners starter Steve Trout, 3-3, lasted four innings.

Astros steal one from Reds

United Press International
On a night Mike Scott limped off with a hamstring injury, the Astros won a game with their legs.

Houston tied a team record with seven stolen bases — including a theft of home — Tuesday night in a 3-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The Astros scored all their runs in the seventh inning, with Craig Reynolds stealing home for the winner.

With the Reds ahead 1-0 in the seventh, Alan Ashby drew a one-out walk off Jack Armstrong, 0-1, and pinch-runner Louis Meadows stole second. Buddy Bell ripped a run-scoring ground rule double. Frank Williams relieved and Bell took second on Reynolds' infield single.

Pinch hitter Kevin Bass walked to fill the bases, and Gerald Young greeted reliever Rob Murphy with a sacrifice fly. Reynolds taking third, Bass and Reynolds then executed a double steal, with Reynolds knocking the ball from catcher Terry McGriff's glove.

"There's a time to try something like that," said Reynolds, whose steal of home was the Astros' fourth this season, a club record. "It's not going to work all the time, but the other team is aware that we will try it, and this time we were fortunate."

"He should have been out at the plate," Reds Manager Pete Rose said. "I don't know what McGriff was thinking about. We should have had him."

Houston received a superb effort from its bullpen, pressed into service when Scott left after two thirds of an inning when he aggravated his strained left hamstring suffered last Thursday.

"You've got to give Joaquin (Andujar) a lot of credit," Astros Manager Hal Lanier said. "Larry Andersen pitched well, and so did Juan Agosto, and then Smitty (Dave Smith) closed them out. You've got to be happy with that."

Any manager would be happy with 8 1/3 innings of three-hit relief.

Andujar allowed the three hits, and one run, over 5 1/3, with Andersen, 2-3, Agosto, and Smith each working a perfect inning. Smith recorded his 14th save.

Armstrong, called up Sunday when the Reds released Mario Soto, scattered two hits over 6 1/3 innings in his major league debut, walking five and striking out five.

Expos 7, Cardinals 0
At Montreal, Pascual Perez, making his first start since breaking a finger May 7, scattered five hits over eight innings to improve to 4-3. Andres Galarraga drove in two runs with a triple, and a homer — tying him for the National League lead with 17

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Mets 9, Pirates 0

At New York, Kevin McReynolds slammed a sixth-inning grand slam and added an RBI single in a five-run eighth to match a career best five RBI. Ron Darling improved to 8-4 in his third shutout and fourth complete game of the season. Doug Drabek, 5-5, went seven innings, hurt only by McReynolds' eight homer.

Phillies 6, Cubs 1
At Philadelphia, Mike Schmidt singled home the winning run in the first inning, giving him 1,538 RBI, one more than Joe DiMaggio to gain sole possession of 24th place on the all-time list. David Palmer, 3-6, pitched seven innings.

Dodgers 2, Braves 1
At Los Angeles, Tim Lincecum, 6-5, threw a four-hitter, striking out seven in his fourth complete game this season. Jeff Hamilton banged out three hits and scored the winning run in a two-run first.

Padres 8, Giants 3
At San Francisco, Dennis Rasmussen, 5-6, won for the third time in three starts, since being traded to San Diego. Keith Moreland and Garry Templeton each drove in two runs against Rick Ruffolo, 10-4, who lasted a season low 3 2/3 innings.

UMPTAKES LUMPS
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Umpire Jerry Crawford left Tuesday night's San Diego-San Francisco game suffering from his second injury in as many nights.

Crawford, behind the plate for Tuesday's contest, was hit on his left hand by a sixth-inning foul tip off the bat of San Francisco's Candy Maldonado. Crawford was taken to the nearby Palo Alto Medical Clinic for X-rays of his left middle and ring fingers.

The game was delayed 13 minutes while crew chief Doug Harvey, who was the second base umpire, strapped on the gear necessary to work behind the plate.

In Monday night's contest Crawford was working first base when he was hit by an errant throw from San Diego catcher Benito Santiago. Crawford left that game with a bruised thigh.

Yankees in Detroit: Controversy time?

By RICHARD L. SHOOK
UPI Sports Writer

The New York Yankees are in Detroit — it must be time for another controversy.

Almost every year when New York comes into Detroit, a fiasco follows on the next plane.

Last year, George Steinbrenner issued a rambling, multi-page statement about his manager, Lou Piniella. Highlighted in that controversy was the ongoing issue of the key Headerson's lingering hamstring pull that kept him out of the lineup much of the latter part of the season.

Steinbrenner sideshows with Billy Martin would be an annual affair — except Martin isn't the manager every year. So we're only treated to those every two or three seasons. They're starting to look like summer reruns on television.

One year, Steinbrenner held a press conference in Tiger Stadium during a nationally televised game for some long forgotten reason. Another year he dictated a short statement in the midst of another game.

And if there's no management vs. management scenario going on, there's a good chance of a player-management problem. Working for the Yankees must be the only job in the country where you have to keep bullet-proof clothing on your back.

It's as big a reason as any why the Yankees can't win despite annually having one of the top clubs in terms of talent. As soon as the race gets tight, the blaming and back-biting begin.

This year's episode featured the New York Yankees activating a player from the disabled list who is still disabled.

Martin got a call Monday from New York's new general manager, Bob Quinn, telling him the Yankees wanted to activate catcher Don Slaught, who went on the list May 15 with a left groin muscle pull.

"I told them he was not ready," Martin said. "They told me he was ready."

Guess who won that argument?

So Slaught was activated and catcher Bob Geren was optioned back to Columbus, New York's Triple-A affiliate. Except Martin told Geren to stick around, which meant he was really optioned to his hotel room.

Slaught tried running before Monday night's 2-1, 10-inning loss to the Tigers that put Detroit into first place by a half game over New York, and told Martin no go. He could run, but only straight ahead. Left turns on the bases were out of the question.

Prof says pay the players

ORLANDO (UPI) — Leave it to an economics professor to talk dollars and sense.

On the concluding day of the NCAA Presidents' Commission National Forum, more than 500 delegates heard a bold, new proposal on financial aid to student athletes, delivered by Cecil Mackey, who teaches economics at Michigan State.

The plan Mackey unveiled Tuesday argues for sweeping changes in NCAA policies, including direct cash payments to student-athletes and encouragement of contact between agents and college players.

On Monday, the National Forum opened with a discussion of NCAA membership structure and legislative procedures. The National Forum, which has met three times in the past 18 months, will conclude with a Jan. 9 national meeting in San Francisco in conjunction with the annual NCAA Convention. "Our present system for supervising and regulating intercollegiate athletics is essentially unenforceable," said Mackey.

Mackey's blueprint called for several marked changes in the NCAA's approach to financial aid — allowing each student-athlete to receive a "modest" direct cash payment (perhaps $100 per month) as part of the athletic scholarship.

— In dealing with sports agents, student-athletes should be encouraged to get timely advice of a helpful nature. The movement toward statutory regulation of agents is not desirable.

— Schools should be allowed to provide a student-athlete with round-trip transportation home at least once during the academic year.

Trading active, prices up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened sharply higher today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 25.24 Tuesday, was up 19.74 to 2128.91 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 634-125 among the 1,038 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 14,740,000 shares.

The stock market recovered from a midday selloff Tuesday and rallied to send prices sharply higher in moderate trading. Favorable economic data and strong buying interest late in the session underpinned the advance.

Before the market opened Tuesday, the Labor Department said consumer prices rose only 0.3 percent in May, slightly below market expectations.

Dollar sharply higher; gold, silver open lower

By United Press International

The dollar surged to a three-month high in Tokyo today, then opened stronger across the board on other major foreign currency markets. The price of gold slipped back.

In record turnover in Tokyo, the dollar closed against the Japanese yen at 127.60 yen, up 1.27 from 126.33 yen on Tuesday.

Market watchers in Japan noted today's close was the highest since March 18 when the dollar finished at 128.35 yen.

Currency dealers said the dollar's rise was bolstered by President Reagan's remark at a Toronto news conference that the dollar's value had been stabilized.

Most market players sold their yen holdings to purchase the dollar and the German mark, causing the Japanese currency to weaken against other major currencies, they said.

"The market is bullish for the U.S. currency and the dollar's upswing is expected to continue for the time being," one dealer said.

In Europe, the dollar began the day in Frankfurt at 1.7605 West German marks, up from 1.7576.

In Zurich, the dollar opened at 1.463 Swiss francs, up from 1.462, in Paris at 5.9385 French francs, up from 5.931 and in Amsterdam at 1.9845 Dutch guilders, up from 1.9750.

In London the pound began the day at $1.776 compared with $1.7855 on Tuesday.

In Brussels, the dollar opened at 37.05 Belgian francs, up from 36.95 and in Milan at 1.307 lire, up from 1.304.90.

May goods' orders drop sharply

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A big drop in orders for aircraft sent May orders for big ticket items down a sharp 2.2 percent from April, the steepest decline since last August and following three months of increases, the Commerce Department reported today.

The bon's share of the 2.2 percent drop to $114.8 billion was caused by a $2.8 billion stall in orders for transportation equipment, especially aircraft, the department's Census Bureau said.

The department said orders would otherwise have increased 0.6 percent.

Today's advance report on heavy equipment orders is a preliminary one that is usually substantially revised 10 days later in the May report on all factory orders and shipments. For instance, two large airline orders for aircraft in late May have not yet shown up in the Census Bureau's data banks.

The drop in May was also caused by a 16.6 percent cut-back in orders for defense capital goods, the bureau said.

Citrus Shipments

WINTER HAVEN (UPI) — Today's citrus shipments reported by the Division of Fruit and Vegetable Inspection, Shipping total in 4.5th bushel cartons and canneries totals in 1.3-5th bushel boxes.

Reagan addresses scandal critics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, back at the White House today with warm praise from his last economic summit, found himself unable to bask in the glow because of the harsh light shining on the latest government scandal.

"I'm very upset," Reagan told a nationally televised news conference at the conclusion of the summit in Toronto Tuesday when pelted with questions about Pentagon procurement fraud. "I'm not taking this lightly at all."

The president appeared dismayed when reporters brushed aside his lengthy opening statement about the three-day meeting of Western leaders in order to focus on the Defense Department scandal and other domestic concerns.

He pointedly told his audience that the current investigation of payoffs to influence military purchases had been carried out in the last two years by authorities in his own administration.

Asked whether his aloof management style — cited by his own Tower Commission in the evolution of the Iran-Contra scandal — might have played a role in the latest crisis, Reagan responded, "You can't be down there watching several millions of people, what they're doing and their phone calls, (etc.)"

As to whether he shares former Defense Secretary Charles Weinberger's reported sense of failure in not being "vigilant" enough against unscrupulous defense employees and contractors, Reagan replied, "I think all of us are disappointed and upset that such a thing could happen."

However, he said defensively, "I think it should be understandable about how such things can happen in something as big as our government is."

Reporters pressed the president as to whether he could have prevented the scandal by taking a stronger personal hand in management.

"I don't think there was any way that anyone at higher levels could have had information on what was going on at all," he said. "If people will listen and get the explanation on exactly what the facts were, and wait to get the facts on this investigation, I don't think they will find that we were derelict in our duty."

As in the case of the Iran-Contra scandal, Reagan praised the government's investigators for their work, expressing no concern that they were "keeping their own decisions to themselves" and preventing leaks by limiting who knew about the 2-year-old probe — including himself.

Such silence, he said, was necessary because the investigators did not have any way of knowing how high into government the corruption reached. "They had no idea where this leveled off or how high or how far it went," he said.

About 275 subpoenas have been issued in the case, in which investigators used court-authorized wiretaps to learn that outside consultants allegedly bribed Pentagon officials for confidential data on defense contracts or rival bids.

Addressing the possible political problems from the case — which could add to Democratic charges about the "steal factor" in Reagan's administration — the president asserted that "the very fact it was investigated" takes a sting out of the scandal.

Reagan also rejected suggestions that his $1 trillion military buildup led to wasteful projects and greased the skids of corruption.

On another topic, he offered a brief recap of the Iran-Contra scandal and maintained after 18 months of various investigations, "I still haven't found out how there was extra money" diverted to the Nicaraguan rebels from secret U.S. arms sales to Iran in 1985 and 1986.

And he came close to ruling out pardons for his two former aides indicted on criminal charges at the heart of the case, suggesting Oliver North and John Poindexter should stand trial to lift the "shadow of guilt" hanging over them.

"I have said already that ... I don't think those men were guilty of any lawbreaking of any kind. But of course the case has to go forward," Reagan said. He then appeared to go even further but stopped before completing his thought, saying, "So I have no intention of —"

In other areas, the president — DeLorred comment on reports of new efforts to dislodge Panama's Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, saying, "I can't speculate or even hint at what options are being considered or anything — but we have not changed our minds about the fact that Panama should return to a civilian democracy."

— Said he sees no cause for concern about the U.S. savings and loan industry, which was more than $3 billion in the red for the first quarter of 1988, in light of the fact that "the market today went up 25 points."

— Asserted that the 1980s revitalized the industrialized world because the Western allies embraced his free market philosophy.

— Said of the crippling drought across much of America's midsection, "Outside of praying for rain, there isn't anything we can do."

Sewage dispute settled out of court

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — An out-of-court settlement has been reached between the plaintiff, Risa Kay, owner of Fairmont Plaza, and the city of Longwood in a four-year dispute over sewage capacity for the shopping center.

To settle the summary judgment suit, which has already cost the city $12,000 in legal fees, city commissioners Monday night approved an agreement, tentatively reached at a work session the week before, where the city will provide the shopping center with 6,400 gallons per day of sewer capacity at the rate of $4.50 a gallon for a total of $28,800.

In addition, Kay was given the option of purchasing an additional 600 GPD capacity at the same rate upon presentation of proof of need within the next two years.

Kay is giving the city the unfinished lift station, the sewer line and an additional sewer line easement, and a deed for the property where the facility is located. For its part, the city agreed to accept the lift station and lines and to complete work on the lift station and sewer line-in at city expense. Engineers estimate it will cost the city $17,000 to complete the lift station.

The city has agreed to complete the work within a reasonable time, not anticipated to exceed 30 days after the city ties into the Seminole County Sewage Treatment facility at Greenwood Lakes in August.

City Attorney Michael Kramer said Kay will still have to officially withdraw her complaint against the city.

...Animals

during the day. He said the 88 dog runs were full, some with two or three puppies and 136 cats were in the shelter. Several other animals were in quarantine sections. The adoption section in the front of the shelter was also full, he said.

McIntosh said all of the animals euthanized had been there at least five days or more unless they were sick. Shelter policy is to keep animals at least five to seven days to allow owners to claim them, then if they're adoptable, they are moved to the front section for public view.

Part of the overcrowding problem Tuesday was the Humane Society of Seminole County left 30 cages, some with four or five animals in them, at the county shelter Tuesday morning.

"We were here until 6 o'clock last night putting animals down," McIntosh said.

When animals are euthanized at the shelter, the workers say they are put down — killed.

Irene Wolk, president of the Humane Society, said the Society's shelter had a busy day as well. She said all 32 dog runs were full and all of the approximately 60 cat cages were full, some with four or five cats in them.

"This horrible surplus of animals is due to the general apathy of the public in regard to spaying and neutering," Wolk said.

Farm subsidy reform unresolved

TORONTO (UPI) — It was a textbook lesson in international diplomacy: Unable to agree on whether trade-distorting farm subsidies should be abolished or merely curbed, all sides at the seven-nation Toronto Economic Summit declared victory and went home.

The 14th economic summit ended Tuesday with President Reagan and six fellow leaders in harmony on a wide range of major economic issues, including Third World debt and economic policy coordination.

They failed, as expected, to resolve the subsidy issue.

But they reached compromise language on an "approach" to the problem, providing some hope of progress in their bitter, increasingly expensive trade dispute. European leaders said they would intensify negotiations to reduce payments to farmers without accepting Reagan's proposal to eliminate all subsidies by the end of the century.

"It's fair to say that we have moved the process forward," Treasury Secretary James Baker said at a briefing late Tuesday.

The leaders also endorsed a wide-ranging communique that opened the door to new debt relief efforts for the 22 poorest African nations.

The declaration also provided a renewed push for the United States, Canada, Britain, France, West Germany, Italy and Japan to move further away from state control of economies through tax cuts, deregulation, labor reform and other measures.

The communique reaffirmed the "Group of Seven" coordination of economic policies that has led to relatively stable currency exchange rates, low inflation and efforts to reduce trade and budget imbalances, policies deemed especially important by the allies in light of last October's worldwide stock market crash.

In an opening statement at a news conference at the summit's conclusion, Reagan, attending his eighth and final summit, delivered a farewell assessment of the global economy. He said the 1980s produced a revitalized industrialized world because the West embraced his free-market philosophy.

"We can seize opportunity or watch the world go by," he said. "The future belongs to the flexible."

"It was pretty tough sledding, as you might expect," said Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, the summit host.

Britain and Canada support ending the payments, but with less drastic timetables. Europeans favor curbs, but not a ban, on subsidies.

The issue was debated at the summit during around-the-clock negotiations that were not resolved until the last plenary session yesterday, when Baker and European representatives agreed on communique language.

The document said the seven countries "must develop a framework approach which includes short-term options in line with long-term goals concerning the reduction of all direct and indirect subsidies." An earlier draft said the allies, at a December meeting of all trading nations, in Montreal, "should" develop a framework "agreement" — not an approach — on agriculture.

Pascal Lamy, a European Community official, hailed the outcome as a victory for the 12-nation trading bloc because the document does not use the words "abolish" or "eliminate" in referring to subsidies. It uses the word "reduction" of payments instead of phase-out.

But Baker claimed victory for the United States because, he said, the communique "directs" negotiators to reach a framework approach on subsidies — marching orders that represent an incremental step toward their elimination.

"Reductions carried all the way out leads to a phase-out," Baker said, adding that summits are designed for consultations, not negotiations. "It was never reasonable to expect we were going to have that agreement."

Delfona student gets on dean's honor roll

LAURINBURG, N.C. — Carolyn Jean Moore of Delfona was recently named to the dean's honor roll at St. Andrews Presbyterian College.

Moore was among 147 St. Andrews students named to the honor roll.

To be named to the honor roll, a student must be working toward a degree and earn at least a 3.5 grade point average at the end of the term. In addition to the grade point requirement, the student must complete at least 11 credits during the semester and cannot have received a C or lower for any course.

Student keeps earning top-notch grade points

ORLANDO — Kevin Tumin, who graduated from Seminole High School in 1987 with a 4.09 grade point average, has been named to the president's honor roll at the University of Central Florida for the fall semester of 1987 and spring semester of 1988.

A student must have a 4.0 grade point average to qualify for the president's honor roll.

Tumin, majoring in electrical engineering at UCF, earned his high school grade point average of 4.09 by taking dual enrollment and advanced placement courses.

Aerobics for seniors to gear up once more

LONGWOOD — Senior Aerobics, a low impact aerobic exercise program, will start up again June 28 until Aug. 4 on Tuesdays and Thursdays at HCA West Lake Hospital.

Open to the public, Senior Aerobics consists of 12 55-minute sessions made up of a warm-up, aerobic activity, floor workout and cool-down.

Each session is $2 per person, or $20 for all 12 classes.

For advance registration, one should mail the fee to West Lake Hospital or call the hospital's marketing department at 260-1900, ext. 102.

Participants are asked to bring a medical consent statement from their physician. Wheelchair seniors are invited.

Shows are scheduled for Central Branch on Tuesday, June 28, at 2 p.m.; West Branch on Thursday, June 30, at 2 p.m.; and East Branch on Tuesday, July 5, at 2 p.m.

COOK OF THE WEEK

Her tutors: Mom, Grandma, Betty Crocker

But cooking's just one of her activities, joys

By Jane Hale
Herald Correspondent

Deborah Justice, our Cook of the Week, has never won a cooking contest. But then, she never has the time to enter one. Nevertheless, her sons think her cooking is good!

Deborah was born and raised in Sanford. Her father, Foy Justice, is in the produce and brokerage business both in Sanford and in North Carolina. Her mother, who Deborah describes as a "great cook," works as a cook for Mac's Pub in Sanford.

Deborah has an older brother and two sisters—one older and one younger than she. Brother Ricky is in the produce business with his father and is a Sanford resident. Her two sisters live in North Carolina. The older has a plant nursery and the younger enjoys writing poetry.

"My mother and grandmother taught me how to cook," says Deborah. "My grandmother lives in North Carolina and when you would go to visit she would tell you she didn't have anything to eat. But several hours later she would have an array of foods, such as a fresh pot of beans along with several types of meats, and hot biscuits along with regular corn bread and crackling corn bread, plus all kinds of desserts." Deborah remembers fondly. "My grandmother lives in the mountains and can really put out some good old-fashioned mountain cooking."

Deborah says she was ambitious in the kitchen after marrying. "When I got married I used The Betty Crocker Cookbook for two and I used to cook three full meals a day. But when I went to work and started college I found it easier to fix meals that are quick and simple yet nourishing."

Deborah has two sons. J.J., 18, is a 1988 graduate of Seminole High School, who was on the football team where he was the place kicker and was awarded several awards for this. In the fall, J.J. is heading for Florida State University in Tallahassee, where he plans on studying law. He works part time at Stenstrom, McIntosh and Whigham Law Firm after winning the Executive Internship Program at Seminole High School this year.

Patrick, her other son, will be a junior at Seminole High School this fall. He enjoys restoring old cars and is mechanically inclined. He also enjoys sports.

When Deborah's sons were younger she stayed home with them, but soon became a Dividend Volunteer worker at Pine Crest Elementary School in Sanford. At that time as well, she was involved with a theater group in Altamonte Springs.

Currently, she works with the Victim Advocate group with the

Frozen vs. fresh: OJ's taste varies with form

By CARL JEROME
UPI Food Writer

Line them all up—the cans, the jars, the cartons, the containers, and the bottles. Taste them all, side by side. And the winner is frozen orange juice.

There are two types of frozen orange juice. The best, simply frozen freshly squeezed orange juice is brought to us by Steve Smith, a man who has experience in developing and marketing premium ice cream.

Smith is now selling the first "premium" orange juice under the name Just Pkt. Just Pkt squeezes its juice from freshly picked oranges, usually within 24 hours, pours it into special plastic cartons and freezes it without processing or pasteurization.

Its taste is fresh and sweet, with a thick texture and lots of pulp. But it is not perfect. For people who are used to the sanitized taste and texture of processed orange juice, Just Pkt will taste too rich. And as one child said, "It has stuff in it!" Yes, it does.

The other form of frozen orange juice is frozen concentrate. In terms of taste and texture, frozen concentrate is superior to canned, aseptically boxed and chilled ready-to-serve orange juice. But it is a major, if still acceptable, step down the culinary ladder from a freshly squeezed orange.

To make an orange juice concentrate, oranges are squeezed, then the juice, without seeds or pulp, is heated quickly in an evaporator to produce the concentrate. The whole process takes less than 10 minutes. But in that time, much of the complex flavor and aroma of the juice is lost.

During the processing, heat destroys many of the 24 chemical compounds responsible for orange juice's flavor. To compensate for this, some of those lost compounds are captured and added back to the concentrate, along with cold pressed peel oil, which adds flavor without bitterness. Sometimes frozen concentrate is superconcentrated so that it can be diluted with freshly squeezed orange juice, which helps to return flavor and aroma to the concentrate.

Unfortunately, the best concentrates have only a fraction of the full, rich flavor and sweet-tartness of fresh orange juice.

Chilled, ready-to-serve orange juices, which are gaining in popularity and sales, are processed more than frozen juice, which isn't processed at all, or concentrate, so the taste is even more greatly reduced. Most chilled juice is made from a highly concentrated frozen concentrate that is shipped to a regional processing plant where it is mixed with water, packed into bottles or cartons, and then pasteurized to extend its shelf life. But pasteurization destroys much of the flavor of the concentrate and some of its nutritional value.

As if that weren't had enough,

Juice labels may not give whole story

By Brian Hedberg

Labels on juice products often confuse consumers as to the actual juice content in a drink brand, according to the Center for Science in the Public Interest.

"Many shoppers assume that 'juice cocktails,' 'juice drinks,' 'juice punches' or 'fruit coolers' are 100 percent pure juice," the CSPI, based in Washington, D.C., says. "Especially tricky are juice blends—which sound like a mixture of two juices, with nothing added. In fact, such beverages are diluted with water, contain sugar or corn syrup, and in some cases, have added flavors."

A January survey conducted by the center showed that "more than a dozen brand-name fruit juices actually contain only 50 percent to as little as 5 percent real juice."

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration's labeling regulations for diluted juice beverages would clear up consumer confusion. The 1990 FDA regulations would require fruit juice products to disclose on the front label the percentage of real juice in all diluted fruit and vegetable juice products, except orange juice products, which are regulated separately, CSPI says. But the FDA indefinitely stayed the effective date for companies to comply with labeling regulations and a proposal to revoke the regulations has been published, said FDA spokesman

MICROWAVE MAGIC

Speed-cooked muffins take the cake

Quick, nutritious muffins are microwaveable.

For busy people in a hurry, but still in need of a quick breakfast or snack, muffins are the answer. If you can't find time to bake muffins in the conventional oven, try the microwave oven. It's quicker and more economical and does not generate heat.

For the best results:

1. Fill muffin cups only half full because microwaves expand batter more than conventional ovens.

2. Line microwave muffin pan with two paper liners instead of one to absorb moisture. If no microwave muffin pan is available, custard cups may be used, lined with paper liners.

3. Microwaves do not brown. Use darker batters and toppings to add texture and color to microwave-baked products.

4. Microwave ovens tend to vary in cooking speed. Start with the minimum cooking time called for in a recipe and cook to the desired level of doneness.

5. For quicker baking without over-baking, place dishes on inverted saucer.

Midge Mycoff

6. Rotate dishes ¼ turn occasionally during baking if the oven is not equipped with a carousel.

Muffins taste even better when sprinkled with your favorite topping. Try one of these toppings to make your muffins look and taste more appealing:

*Graham cracker or corn flake crumbs

*Streusel topping: Combine 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon in small bowl. In another shallow bowl, melt 1 teaspoon butter or margarine. Dip tops of warm muffins in butter, then in cinnamon-sugar.

Tell us about your vacation—good, bad, or ugly—in contest

After seeing the sights and sounds of the Big Apple, you spent the night among deer-hunts at an airport, grounded due to a snowstorm.

Or there was the time your luggage caught up to you in Europe once you were set to leave again.

Or, amid your dreams of camping out in the great outdoors, it rained all week, making it impossible to cook your food.

On the other hand, you may have had a "Fantasy Island" type of vacation experience—moonlit and romantic, adventurous and thrilling, unique and mysterious.

We at the Sanford Herald see those memories worth preserving on paper. In celebration of summer, we invite our readers to tell us about "My Believe-It-Or-Not Vacation."

In entering our contest, follow these instructions. Type or print clearly your name, street address, city and daytime phone number at the top of your entry. Then write your vacation experience, good or bad, without embellishing beyond the truth. There is no length limit, but the Herald reserves the right to edit as necessary. Mail to Vacation, c/o The People Editor, P.O. Box 1657, Sanford, FL 32771. Deadline for entries is noon on Monday, Aug. 1.

The top winners in the categories of best and worst vacations will have their experiences featured in the Aug. 14 edition of the Herald. Photographs should not be mailed, but winners will be asked permission to reprint any available photos from their vacation.

DEAR ABBY

Eyes, other transplants, in transit is routine business

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from a California reader concerning the casual manner in which the cremated remains of her aunt were sent to her home via regular mail rather than by a more dignified route, I think I can top that.

While dropping off a box of documents to be delivered by a well-known bus company, I noticed on the counter a plastic-foam cooler large enough to hold two six-packs. It obviously had made many trips because the carrier showed signs of wear. I gasped when I read the label on the box. It read: Refrigerated: HUMAN EYEBALLS. I later learned that they were being transported by bus for transplant purposes!

I am well aware of your efforts in this cause, Abby, and I report this to you and your readers merely to point out how commonplace transplants have become.

Please print this. It might make some uptight readers realize that hundreds—perhaps thousands—of donated body parts are in transit daily.

WANTS TO GIVE IN ALBANY, N.Y.

DEAR WANTS: I, too, want to give. And when I go, I plan to take nothing with me that could improve the quality of life for the living. Readers, how about you?

DEAR ABBY: We have a problem. Some close relatives sold their home, bought an expensive RV, and told everybody that they were going to travel.

In three months they have taken two short trips. The rest of the time—you guessed it—the "monster" sits on the street in front of our house, connected to our electricity!

These "travelers" also have pets that are a nuisance. Our neighbors do not appreciate all this and neither do we, although we do love these relatives.

There is a city ordinance that prohibits a vehicle from sitting for more than 72 hours in one place. We haven't been bothered yet, but we are getting nervous.

How does one handle a problem like this? I hope you put this in your column. Maybe they will see it and take the hint.

UNHAPPY AND BEWILDERED

DEAR UNHAPPY: Don't leave a message as important as this one to chance. Tell your relatives that there is a city ordinance prohibiting the parking of vehicles in one spot for more than 72 hours. Also inform them that their pets have become a neighborhood nuisance—and suggest that maybe it's time they moseyed down the road. Harsh? Perhaps, but consider the alternative: The meek stand to inherit some insensitive guests, and a long list of inconveniences.

DEAR ABBY: I am an 80-year-old woman who recently went by train to Portland, Ore., to attend a regional bridge tournament. My daughter, who lives in Portland, took me to the restaurant in the union depot for a cup of coffee and a few last words before I boarded the train. I was wearing a pink pantsuit (my best) and a matching beret and scarf. I've had many compliments on this outfit!

The waitress brought our coffee, looked at me and said, "We have a policy here—no hats." I went into a state of shock! I know that men should not wear hats in a restaurant, but I have never heard of a woman being asked to remove her hat, have you?

Please help me get to the bottom of this bizarre incident before I completely lose my mind. I haven't slept well since. No name, please.

INSULTED IN PORTLAND

DEAR INSULTED: There is no reason why a woman should remove her hat in a coffee shop—or in any other dining room. The waitress was in error. Now, dear lady, please put this unsettling incident out of your mind. It takes energy to worry, and although the waitress committed a gross gaffe (through ignorance, I presume) it is not worth a second thought.

DEAR ABBY: We can verify that you have readers all over the world and that they have a keen interest in dentistry. After your column on "The Dental Patient's Bill of Rights" we received requests from 47 states and seven foreign countries. We are delighted!

The California Dental Association has a new booklet that contains the "Bill of Rights" and other useful dental information, such as what to do in a dental emergency, definitions of the various dental specialties, and the members of the dental team and what they do.

DALE F. REDIG, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, CALIFORNIA DENTAL ASSOCIATION

DEAR MR. REDIG: The booklet is indeed informative—particularly the section on what to do in case of a dental emergency.

Readers, send a No. 10, stamped, self-addressed envelope to "Know Before You Go," P.O. Box 13749, Sacramento, Calif. 95853-4749. Its free to Abby readers.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Oviedo student receives degree

MISENHEIMER, N.C. — Kathy M. Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Richardson of Oviedo and a 1983 graduate of Lyman High School, recently graduated with honors from Pfeiffer College in Misenheimer, N.C.

Richardson received her bachelor of science degree in physical education, with a minor in athletic training and coaching.

She was one of six students to be honored by the Honorary Order of the Sundial, an honor society for students who have shown exceptional campus leadership in spiritual, physical, aesthetic and social life at Pfeiffer.

Pfeiffer is a four-year Methodist-affiliated college.

In the service

Airman 1st Class Henry A. Thur of DeBarry has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the community college of the Air Force.

He graduated from Edgewater High School, Orlando, in 1979, and in 1987 he received a bachelor's degree from the University of Central Florida in Orlando.

thankful for what you have," so that when saying you have done your best, make sure you know what your best is before saying that. Always make sure you take a little time to reflect on what you have to be thankful for because you have so much that you take for granted. Before you complain, you should be thankful for what you have."

Some of the recipes that the Justice family likes best are as follows:

TASTY GOURMET BEEF
2 pounds stew beef (stirloin tip)
2 cans cream of mushroom soup
1 package dry onion soup mix
1/2 cup dry vermouth

In a baking dish, mix ingredients (except beef), then submerge beef in mixture. Cover. Bake at 300° F for 4 hours. Separate beef with fork and stir. Serve over potatoes, rice or noodles. (May also be cooked in a slow cooker or on 200° F all day, but 1/2 cup water should be added.)

SCALLOPED CORN
1 can creamed corn
1 can niblet corn
2 cups cracker crumbs
1/2 cup milk
3 tablespoons margarine
Salt and pepper

Combine the 2 cans of corn. Layer corn, crackers, corn, crackers. Top with margarine and dash of salt and pepper. Pour milk over top and bake at 350° F for 30 minutes. Bake in an oval casserole dish.

PINK FRUIT PUNCH
2 cups water
1 6-ounce can of frozen pink lemonade
1 10-ounce package of frozen strawberries or 1 pint fresh
1 8 1/2-ounce can of crushed pineapple
2 28-ounce bottles of ginger ale

3 bananas
Place lemonade, strawberries, bananas and pineapple in blender. Blend until almost liquid. Add ginger ale and water just before serving.

STRAWBERRY CAKE
3 tablespoons self-rising flour
1 box white cake mix
4 eggs
1/2 cup salad oil
1/2 cup water
1 package of strawberry gelatin

1 pound package of frozen strawberries
Add flour to cake mix. Add eggs, salad oil, water and gelatin. Beat well. Fold in strawberries, saving about 1/2 cup for icing. Bake in 3-by-8 inch pans or 2-by-9 inch pans at 350° F for 25-30 minutes. (Pans may be lined with wax paper). Cool. Frost.

Strawberry Cake Frosting
1 stick butter
1/2 cup frozen strawberries with juice
1 package Confectioners sugar
Soften butter, add sugar. Blend strawberries and juice until thick enough to spread.

STIR FRY CABBAGE
1/2 cup chopped onion
6 cups shredded cabbage
3 tablespoons oil
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chicken broth
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon Accent
1/2 teaspoon sugar
Dash of pepper
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
Place oil and onion in skillet and cook for 3 minutes. Add cabbage, tossing and stirring gently until all cabbage is coated with oil. Add chicken broth and cornstarch. Cover and cook for 3 minutes until cabbage is wilted, but still crisp. Add remaining ingredients and cook until sauce is thick and shiny. Keep warm.

CREAMED CELERY/ CHEESE POTATOES
5 medium potatoes
1 can cream of celery soup
1/2 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese
Dash of salt and pepper
Peel potatoes and slice thinly. Cover with water in pot and add salt and pepper. Bring to boil and boil gently until potatoes are tender. Drain all but 1 cup of water and add the celery soup. Bring to boil again. Pour into serving dish, top with cheese and cover to melt cheese.

CHEDDAR SPINACH QUICHE
1 10-ounce package of frozen chopped spinach (cooked, drained)
2 cups shredded sharp cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
2 eggs, beaten
3 crisply cooked bacon slices, crumbled
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 9-inch unbaked pastry shell
Drain spinach well on absorbent paper. Toss cheese with flour. Add spinach, milk, eggs, bacon and seasonings, mix well. Pour into pastry shell. Bake on 350° F for 1 hour. Garnish with additional bacon if desired.

CABBAGE CACCIATORE
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1 cup chopped onions
1 medium head (about 1 1/2 pounds) cabbage, cut into 1/2 wedges
1 16-ounce can of meatless spaghetti sauce
2 teaspoons garlic salt
1 cup grated mozzarella cheese
3 cups hot cooked rice
In a large oven-proof skillet, sauté beef and onions until meat is no longer pink and vegetables are tender crisp. Stir frequently to crumble meat. Arrange cabbage on top of meat mixture. Drain spaghetti sauce and garlic salt. Pour over cabbage. Cover tightly and bake at 350° F for 45 minutes or until cabbage is tender. Sprinkle with cheese. Return to oven for 5 minutes. Serve over beds of fluffy rice.

...Juice

Martin Stutman, based in Washington, D.C. "Our market research suggests that a significant number of consumers mistake diluted citrus beverages to be pure juice products," said Dr. Dan Gunter, executive director of the Department of Citrus. "It would be an injustice to consumers and the citrus industry for the FDA not to take action on the labeling issue."

Stutman, assistant to the director in the Division of Regulatory Guidance, Center for Food Safety and Applied Nutrition, said, "I don't have any evidence one way or another to invalidate or refute what the Department of Citrus says about diluted juices being deceptive. I don't have any comment on that."

After the FDA published juice labeling regulations in the early '80s, stringent objections by the cranberry juice industry led to an indefinite stay on the deadline for companies to meet regulations. Stutman said. He said cranberry juice, highly acidic, is unpalatable in an undiluted potency. Were cranberry products to show they contained no more than 25 percent actual cranberry juice, consumers might think them inferior products, Stutman said.

A 1987 Florida Department of Citrus study on diluted juice products found that:

Consumer confusion is materially reduced upon close examination of the label, if the

"The prominence of the word 'juice' in the name of a diluted orange juice beverage can have a considerable impact on product preference."

One of the functions of the FDA is to determine and regulate foods and cosmetics that are false or misleading, Stutman said. "Generally you can look at a product and it will be apparent whether it's deceptive or not," he said. "That isn't to say we wouldn't do consumer opinion surveys."

Stutman said the period for comments on the diluted juice issue has closed and comments are now being evaluated for a decision on whether to require juice percentage labeling. How it's going to turn out is not something I want to speculate on," he added.

He said food products that currently must list the percentage of certain ingredients include peanut spread, frozen heat-and-serve dinners, potato chips made from dried potatoes, and mixtures of oil and olive oil.

The Florida Department of Citrus has developed a toddler leaflet to help parents understand the importance of vitamins in orange juice and the fact that "all juices are not created equal." For a free copy of "Toddler Talk," which contains orange juice recipes that kids can make, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Toddler Talk, c/o Florida Cup of Juice, Suite 1900, 40 West 57th St., New York, NY 10019.

...Muffins

Muffin mixes are quick and simple to use when baked in a microwave. Some come with M/W instructions on the box. This recipe for blueberry muffins, made from a recipe adapted for the microwave oven, is good! (Remember, blueberries are in season in Florida in June and July.)

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 cup cooking oil
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 2 1/2 cups all purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon grated fresh lemon peel
- 1 pint (2 cups) fresh blueberries
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

M/W butter on 100 percent power for 20-30 seconds or until softened. Blend in 1 1/2 cups sugar and the oil. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each. Blend in milk. Add flour, baking powder, salt and lemon peel, stir until smooth. Fold in blueberries.

Line M/W muffin pans with 2 paper liners. Spoon batter into cups, filling 3/4 full. M/W on 100 percent power 6 minutes. Combine sugar and cinnamon. Sprinkle a little over each muffin.

M/W on 100 percent power for 30-60 seconds or until no longer doughy. Repeat with remaining batter.

Makes about 28 muffins.

I always have a ready supply of these bran muffins. They're quick, easy and nutritious.

Try putting your pears in the oven

This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings:

BAKED PEARS AU GRATIN

- 4 pears, halved and cored
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/2 cup water
- 2/3 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- 1/3 to 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Dip cut sides of pears in orange juice to prevent discoloration. Place pears, cut-side up, in buttered baking dish. Add remaining orange juice and water. Combine crumbs and melted butter. Sprinkle pears with buttered crumbs and cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes, or until tender.

SIX WEEKS' BRAN MUFFINS

- 1 cup water
- 1 cup raisin bran flakes
- 1 1/2 cups packed brown sugar
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 3 eggs
- 2 cups buttermilk
- 2 1/2 cups all purpose flour
- 2 cups All Bran cereal
- 2 teaspoons soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- M/W water on 100 percent power in 1 quart batter bowl for 2 1/2 minutes, or until boiling.

Mix in raisin bran flakes and set aside. Cream brown sugar and shortening in mixing bowl. Add eggs one at a time, beating after each. Blend in buttermilk. Mix in raisin mixture, flour, All Bran, soda and salt until combined. Spoon batter into paper-lined muffin cups, filling 3/4 full.

M/W six muffins at a time on 100 percent power, uncovered for 2 1/2 minutes or until no longer doughy.

Store extra batter in the refrigerator up to six weeks. Makes about 3 1/2 dozen muffins.

...Orange

the best quality chilled orange juice costs about twice as much as the best quality concentrates.

Boxed, aseptically packaged orange juice and canned orange juice is even more processed than chilled juice and they contain almost no fresh orange flavor. But they can be stored at room temperature.

Commercially prepared and distributed "fresh squeezed" orange juices are now quite popular. Unfortunately they are squeezed hundreds, sometimes thousands of miles from where they are purchased, and even when transported and stored under ideal conditions, their taste has deteriorated. They also have a short shelflife and must be consumed very soon after purchase. Their quality varies from batch to batch and season to season. At many times of the year, juice made from concentrate has a better flavor and is considerably less expensive.

Since the taste of juice made from fresh oranges is the standard for judging all orange juice products, it would seem to the casual observer that juice squeezed by the local grocer or in the house should be best. But generally this is not the case.

The local grocer often uses inferior oranges for the juice and the machines used press so firmly on the orange that the bitter oil from the peel is extracted with the juice and dominates the flavor.

When fresh valencia oranges are available, during the warmest months, homemade orange juice is, of course, the best.

Skin dryness, itching requires medication

Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: The fronts of my legs were too dry, so I coated them with Vaseline when I showered. They became very red, rough and itchy and broke out in watery blisters. I stopped the Vaseline and my legs are healing, but still dry. What can you suggest?

For Dr. Gott's complete discussion of problems and treatments of the prostate gland, write for your copy of Dr. Gott's new Health Report on "The Prostate Gland." Send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369.

DEAR READER: Vaseline is petroleum jelly. As such, it is not absorbed into the skin. Its primary use is to act as a protective mantle on the skin's surface. For this reason, Vaseline is not usually an appropriate treatment for dry skin, unless the dryness is caused by exposure to wind or inclement weather. In addition, petroleum jelly is greasy and messy, it prevents the skin from "breathing."

I believe that you will obtain better results by using a moisturizing cream for your dry legs. There are many of these products on the market. They often contain lanolin, a natural oil that is readily absorbed into dry skin. I suggest that you try various skin creams until you find one that solves your problem.

One caution: If the dryness and scalliness persists, see a physician, because you could have a primary skin disorder, an underactive thyroid gland or an allergy to something you are putting on your legs, such as soap and certain fabrics.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I hunt bird and small game. Sometimes I accidentally swallow the lead shot that I use in my shotgun. Will this harm me? Should I switch to steel shot?

DEAR READER: Lead shot probably will not harm you, because it will ordinarily pass through the intestinal tract rapidly enough to prevent significant absorption of the mineral. Nonetheless, there is a potential hazard. This is why conservation groups and hunting organizations, such as Ducks Unlimited, recommend that hunters change to steel shot.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Many psychological forces are at work during a bridge game. Today South was properly willing to play in four spades, but then the nasty opponents pushed higher. So, when North bid one more, South did him one better and bid the slam. Maybe he decided that all the North cards would work well for him, or maybe he just got mad at the opponents and decided to show them some stuff. Who knows?

an unusual play to prevent West from getting a trick with the jack of trumps. After playing the first round of trumps, he should lead the queen of hearts from dummy. When East plays the king, declarer should shed a diamond. Since East has no club to return, he will continue with another heart. Declarer ruffs, plays ace of diamonds and ruffs a small diamond. Then he plays two more high trumps from dummy and ruffs another small diamond. He can now return to dummy with the king of clubs. The king of diamonds will take the last diamond from East and the remaining diamond 10 will be cashed. South shedding both club losers on those diamonds and making his slam.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
JUNE 23, 1988

In the year ahead you might become more involved than ever in the management of the affairs of others. You'll enjoy these developments and those you'll be helping will benefit.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Where your career is concerned today, you'll be good at extracting secrets from others. A few well-aimed questions could ferret out information that competitors are trying to hide. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to restore the relationship. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Keep in close touch today with people who are pertinent to your immediate plans. If you urge them on, it will give them the incentive to speed up their pace.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In critical situations that affect you today, trust your judgment over others. You'll be able to conceptualize the whole where they may only see small parts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Being a good listener could prove profitable for you today, especially when close to people who have their fingers on the business pulse.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today, your best results are not likely to be derived from what you do on your own, but from situations where you are working closely with others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In situations today where you are competing against others, you'll have a slight edge. However, it's not so great that you can be overconfident.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll learn and retain knowledge more easily than usual today. This will be obvious in situations where you'll be dealing with others on a one-to-one basis.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There will be a shift in circumstances today that will benefit you and loved ones. The changes may not be what you've been hoping for, but it will be a start.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Words and ideas are your strongest allies today. Use your logic in analyzing issues, especially when associates appear to be viewing things emotionally.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your material aspects look encouraging today, yet you might not make a big killing. Be content with nominal gains, provided you're moving ahead in a positive direction.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your efforts are likely to be focused on advancing your own interests today, yet you'll operate in a manner that will arouse admiration in others.

Shuttle attached to external tank

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Euphoric NASA engineers, hailing the "rebirth" of America's space program, stood today to begin attaching the shuttle Discovery to its external tank and boosters for the first post-Challenger flight.

Discovery, cheered on by hundreds of proud NASA workers, was towed to the Vehicle Assembly Building Tuesday, the first movement for the orbiter since it was put in its hangar Oct. 30, 1986 — exactly 600 days ago. Its next stop: launch pad 30B for blastoff on the 28th shuttle mission late this summer.

"This was like a rebirth," said John "Tip" Talone, the NASA engineer in charge of Discovery's ground processing. "This was like saying we're back in business again and we mean to stay in business."

Discovery's crawl from its hangar to the assembly building was a clear sign of the growing pace of launch processing and NASA's determination to resume American manned space flights late this summer after a 2 1/2-year hiatus caused by the January 1986 Challenger disaster.

"That's the cleanest orbiter we've ever moved, and it's just in great shape," said Forrest McCartney, director of the Kennedy Space Center. "I don't know of any single thing about that orbiter that we're concerned about."

Engineers planned to pick up the orbiter today with a pair of overhead cranes to begin the process of bolting Discovery to its external tank and boosters. Roll out to the launch pad is expected around the end of the month.

Under that schedule, Discovery would blast off around Sept. 3, but NASA hopes to make up time later in the processing "flow" and launch could slip back into August at some point. A firm launch date is not expected to be pinned down until well after the shuttle is on the launch pad.

Flanked by about 30 engineers, technicians and security guards, Discovery was carefully backed out of its hangar at 2 p.m. EDT Tuesday under the watchful eyes of hundreds of engineers, reporters and spectators. At first motion, the crowd lining the route broke into cheers.

"We've been sitting in there too long," Talone said. "We've done a lot of work, hard work, all those troops over there deserved to see what they got to see today. You heard the cheer when it came out and that's where it counts."

"We're the ground-pounders. We feel good about processing the hardware. We've plowed a lot of new snow with this one because a lot of new requirements, a lot of changes, were made to the vehicle. We've learned a lot," Talone said.

754 more counties added to drought relief program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Drought-plagued farmers will receive more help through an expansion of the new program for using conservation land, and the government is considering still other options to offset effects of the dry conditions.

Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng expanded the hay relief program Tuesday, adding 754 counties to the list eligible for use. Before the announcement, 309 counties were cleared for use of Conservation Reserve property.

"The extreme severity of the drought and the remote possibility of any relief in sight makes this decision necessary," Lyng said in announcing his decision.

The prolonged dry spell has stricken crops in the upper Plains, the Corn Belt, California, Texas, the Rockies and parts of the South.

Congressmen and governors from farm states say the Conservation Reserve can be a valuable source of forage for hungry livestock. The reserve was created in 1985 to take highly erodible land out of crop production for 10 years, and the government pays annual rent on the land.

Lyng gave permission last week for farmers in the hardest-hit drought areas to harvest hay on reserve land. He said Tuesday that farmers could produce hay on reserve land in any county where emergency haying and grazing is allowed on crop set-aside land.

But Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., called the drought a national crisis and told his colleagues, "More must be done and it must be done quickly."

Leahy warned of a probable increase in food prices and potential effect on inflation, and he expressed hope that a plan of attack could be settled at a meeting today between Lyng and a special House-Senate drought task force.

"I would hope we would have some consensus tomorrow. I would hope we would stay there until (there is an agreement)," Leahy said Tuesday.

Top staff workers on the Senate and House Agriculture committees are meeting to review possible legislative steps, and one said Tuesday, "We're looking at everything." A possible step includes letting grain farmers keep the advance deficiency payments they have been given.

Also discussed on Capitol Hill are ideas such as giving farmers more time to decide whether to redeem government-owned grain stored on their farms and revising the so-called zero-92 program so it will help growers hurt by the drought. The program now pays farmers 92 percent of the usual subsidy payment if they were unable to plant wheat or feed grains.

In a Senate speech, Leahy described seeing "a brown and brittle land" during a weekend tour of three drought-stricken wheat states.

"A drought of this magnitude is a national crisis. Every citizen will be affected," he said.
