

A $20,000,009 FIRE

Salem, Mass., June 26. Special
This city of 43,000 population is doomed to almost complete destruction by fire. It is the greatest fire in the history of New England bringing in its wake a terrifying tale of suffering and loss.

At midnight tonight a great fire fighting force of a thousand men drawn from all cities and towns within a radius of 23 miles is helpless. The water supply has given out. Dynamite has taken the place of water in the mad fight to check the flames but this is ineffective. The center of the city is doomed. Fifteen thousand people are homeless. The property loss will reach ten million and may double that. Many lives were lost, scores being driven insane by the excessive heat and excitement.

Pine Apples Higher

Receipts from Cuba and Porto Rico are falling off. Prices have advanced. Market firm.

The demand for pines is very brisk and the market is in splendid shape. Receipts from Cuba and Porto Rico are falling off. Arrivals yesterday were 9500 crates from Cuba and 4500 from Porto Rico. There are about 12500 crates due tomorrow on the Cuban trip.

Prices have improved very much since last week: 18s are selling at 2.50 to 2.65. 24s bring the same figures. 30s, 2.40 to 2.50. 36s, 2.10 to 2.15. 42s, 1.45 to 1.50. There will be a big demand for 4th of July trade.

Plenty of Water for Young Chicks

Watch the drinking water. When the hot weather comes sees that the young birds have plenty of fresh water before them at all times. Keep it in a shady place and protect the fountain so that the chicks cannot get into it and foul the water. Don't put water in a soiled vessel, as seventy-five per cent of chick sickness comes from unclean drinking water. You will find that vessels that are not regularly cleaned will have a white scum on the sides and bottoms. If this is not removed you may expect to find some roup, chicks or diarrhoea or other disease.

If the chicks are worth raising at all, they are worth the time and trouble that absolute cleanliness requires. Hot weather and uncleanness go hand in hand and work havoc in a flock. See that the sleeping quarters are clean. If these are offensive to the smell they are not clean enough to keep the chicks in normal health. Give the little fellows a fair chance and they will repay you for your time and trouble.

If chicks are confined give them plenty of grit, ground oyster shells and ground charcoal; they will take just what they need. You will find them all the better for these little attentions. Hot weather makes the average person sluggish and he is apt to forget the little, but important details. One must remember that disease flourishes in hot weather and that prevention is easier and the worry and work to cure.

NEW "GARDEN OF EDEN"

Recent Discoveries Seem to Prove That Lower California Was the Site of First Paradise.

The skeleton of a pygmy at least two hundred thousand years old, just unearthed near Los Angeles, is expected to send long-established theories of anthropological science crashing into the ash heap with other exploded beliefs, and probably prove that the Garden of Eden was in Lower California. Scientists who have examined the find of Frank S. Daggett, head of the California museum's research department at Exposition park in Los Angeles, see in the bones a cold fact that shatters the heretofore generally accepted "uncontrollable" dogmas of scientists who have tinkered with the earth's crust in an attempt to solve the riddle of the universe.

Professor Daggett has been directing a force of workmen in the La Brea asphalt beds in their labor of digging for extinct animal specimens. The dwarf's skeleton, which is only three feet two inches long, was discovered in an admirable state of perfection within one hundred yards of the fashionable Wilshire boulevard.

That a race existed of which modern man knows nothing and which yeoman the American continents ages before the earliest date assigned to the most ancient remains dug up by scientists, is the belief of Professor Daggett and his associates after a close study of the pygmy bones and a comparison of them with other famous collections.

"I am confident," said Professor Daggett, "that long before man appeared in the countries of the old world a diminutive race thronged the section now occupied by Los Angeles and its environs. There, I believe, was the home of the human race, the Garden of Eden, I might say."

The moment we uncovered the skeleton I was beside myself with joy, because in those bones I saw proof of my theory that the American continent was peopled prior to the time of Adam and the creation as referred to in the Bible. The bones will also shatter the theory that the first people to inhabit this continent came from Asia."

Professor Daggett is jealously guarding his remarkable find, believing himself a steward acting in the interests of the whole world of science, so important does he regard his discovery. Very few of his associates know the secret of the skeleton's hiding place, the professor believing it best to keep it hidden until the state can make proper provision for guarding it while on public exhibition.

Dickens Souvenir

Manager Ben Harmon of the Neil house, Columbus, O., has in his possession an old silver salver in use at the time the English novelist, Charles Dickens, stopped at the Neil house. Tradition has it that the tray was used by employes of the hostelry in serving Dickens.

The salver was recently presented to Mr. Harmon by a Columbus lady, whose great-grandfather secured it immediately after the famous Englishman left the hotel. Time and long use had worn the silver edges of the tray to such a degree that it was necessary to apply a generous coat of solder to keep the whole intact.

The inscription of the name "Neil House" can still be seen in the bottom of the salver, although worn very faint by its long use. It is one of Mr. Harmon's prized possessions, and occupies a place of honor on his private desk.

Laughter Aids Digestion

Laughter is a most healthful exertion; it is one of the greatest helps to digestion with which I am acquainted; and the custom prevalent among our forefathers, of exciting it at table by jesters and buffoons, was founded on true medical principles.—Hufeland.

TRIFLING MATTER CAUSE OF KILLING IN SEMINOLE COUNTY

D. W. CURRY SHOTS B. F. BRYAN AT TURPENTINE CAMP SATURDAY

DISPUTE OVER HORSE CAUSE OF KILLING

CORONER'S JURY BRINGS IN VERDICT OF MANSLAUGHTER AND CURRY RELEASED ON BAIL

D. W. Currie, who owns and operates a turpentine still about four miles from Chuluota shot and killed Will Bryan last Saturday afternoon.

The trouble started over the question of whether Bryan should use one of the horses to go calling that night. He had been with Currie several years and stayed at his home and while speaking to a little daughter of Currie's about taking the horse became enraged because she wanted the horse and used some vile language and when cautioned by Mrs. Currie swore at her and cursed the entire family.

Currie immediately gave himself up and was lodged in jail here Sunday and taken out to the scene of the crime with Sheriff Hand and County Attorney DeCottes yesterday morning.

The inquest was held by Justice of the Peace Aulin of Oviedo and after all the evidence had been submitted the coroner's jury rendered the verdict of manslaughter and Currie has been placed under bond in the sum of $15,000.

There are several versions of the affair and those who saw the remains state that the two bullet wounds look as if the shots had been fired from behind, the bullets coming out near the nose.

In the preliminary Currie was prosecuted by Attorneys George A. DeCottes of Sanford and John C. Jones of Orlando, while the defense represented by Attorneys Carl B. Robinson and LeRoy Giles of Orlando, and by one of Currie's lawyer friends who had been wired for in Georgia, to assist in the case.

Mr. Bryan was a widower, 41 years old, and came from South Carolina, and is survived by two children and one brother, R. C. Bryan, driver for the Gordon bakery, Orlando, and his married sister, who resides in Tampa, and J. H. Bryan of Kissimmee.

Bryan had been the foreman of the Currie turpentine place and had been in the employ of Currie for many years and just why the men should have the trifling trouble that resulted in the death of Bryan will probably never be known, unless it is brought out in the trial before the circuit court.

There are many conflicting reports about the case but none that will bear investigating and The Herald will pursue its usual policy of giving the facts in the case and reserving the judgment to the courts.

Both parties are well known in the county, and in the state and it is to be regretted that the killing took place without any apparent motive for the taking of human life.

D. W. Currie came to Florida from Georgia many years ago and has long been a resident of Orlando and Orange county, being prominent in Florida and Georgia among the turpentine and lumber men. Recently he started the camp at Curryville near Chuluota and was a frequent visitor to this city.

Beginning this week all the barber shops will close at night at 7 o'clock with the exception of Saturday nights. Those who would be shaved must get in under the wire or they will be flagged with the whippers on for the barbers are anxious to get home to supper and take a spin in their new automobiles. This ruling is good, there being no reason in the world why the barbers should be compelled to stay in the shops late every night.

Georgia Crackers in Florida Through the courtesy of H. H. Wilcox, who is in the real estate and insurance business with A. P. Connelly, we were shown a copy of the Hartwell Sun, his home paper. The paper is a neatly gotten up weekly and shows the earmarks of up-to-dateness.

From the reading matter in the paper we are led to believe that it is very hot and dry up in old Georgia and while the people of that section are sizzling and sweltering with the heat, we who live in this gopher section are revelling in fresh breezes, refreshing showers and cool nights.

Why not come on down here, all you good North Georgia people? "Where the weak grow strong and the strong grow great"—where sleepless nights are not known—where mocking birds sing day and night and the air is laden with the sweet perfume of tropical flowers.

The proceeds to the last dollar will be kept here at home, and the children themselves will vote the money to the civic use that appeals most strongly to them.

AUTO BUS HELD UP SATURDAY NEAR ORLANDO

An auto bus running between Orlando and Oakland was stopped by three armed men Saturday afternoon four miles out of Orlando and one of the party jumped on to the front step emptying a pistol promiscuously among the ten passengers. The assailant was H. F. Hopson, a mill-walker living in Clermont, who claimed that Webb Sylvester, one of the passengers, had stolen his wife and secreted her in Winter Garden. One shot buried itself in the roof of the bus and the balance found refuge in the anatomies of various passengers.

The most seriously wounded is L. C. Kunz, a travelling man in the employ of a Columbus, Ga., bank supply house, who had bullet wounds in right arms and both hips. Webb Sylvester was shot in right hip and his brother had his left elbow shattered. All will recover, but Kunz may lose a limb.

There were two women in the bus but both escaped uninjured. As soon as the firing ceased the men in the bus jumped out and captured the gun man, after a severe struggle, in which all three were badly cut and bruised with revolver butts, bricks and a small pocket knife.

H. D. Everett, one of the passengers, an insurance agent living here, cut a deep gash in the neck of J. B. Tyner, claiming Haines City as his home. A friend and accomplice of Hopson, the third assailant, refused to give his name, but it is thought he also lives in Clermont and may be a brother of Hopson. He is severely cut about the scalp from blows from the butt of a gun.

A passing auto hurried Kunz to a local hospital. The machine used by Hopson brought in the three trouble makers and the bus soon followed with its passengers.

Hopson and his pals made no effort to flee and were lodged in the county jail after having their wounds dressed.

They refused to make any statement to newspaper representatives. No details are obtainable in reference to the domestic troubles that seem to have been the cause of the attack, beyond the statement of Hopson, so he began firing, that Sylvester was the man he wanted to get.

He and his pals went to Winter Garden on the bus Saturday afternoon and learning that Sylvester was to come to Orlando on the return trip, hired an auto to chase the bus. After passing the bus he forced the driver of his machine, at pistol point, to stop the car and halted the bus driver in the same manner.

ENTERPRISE CAMP THE SCENE OF PLAY AND FINE LECTURES

THE CAMP FIRE GIRLS ARE HAVING THE TIME OF THEIR LIVES

SEVENTY-FIVE ARE ENROLLED IN COMPANY

A VARIED PROGRAM KEEPS THE GIRLS ON THE QUI VIVE AND THEY ENJOY IT

The stay of the Camp Fire Girls at Enterprise is being made very pleasant and under the direction of Rev. and Mrs. Allen the hotel is serving meals and making the girls as comfortable as possible. The fine lake and shade trees and springs and drives are appealing especially to the girls from the larger cities who are there for a two weeks' outing and vacation and there is no better spot in the south to be chosen for such an outing.

Up to date there are seventy-five girls at Enterprise and they come from every part of the state. The varied program each day gives them ample time to play and work and in both the girls are taking a great interest. The very fine lectures and talks given them by ministers and ladies of the conference are greatly enjoyed and the girls will go home at the end of the two weeks both refreshed in minds and bodies.

Last Sunday night Miss Emma Tucker gave a most interesting talk on "Patience" and brought out many points in the daily lives of children and grown people that were most interesting.

The lecture last night by Rev. George Hyman of this city brought out a large crowd of visitors and many went from Sanford to enjoy the trip by boat and to hear the lecture. Rev. Hyman is a most forceful speaker and his lecture was a great treat to the girls and many visitors.

The following program will be carried out this week:

Wednesday, July First: Rising bell at 6:30, Breakfast, Room Inspection, Bible Class, Mission Study Class, Technical Council, Campfire Girls, Editorial Staff, Camp Range, Dinner at 12, Quiet Hour, Trips to Swimming Pool, Fishing Trip, Supper, Camp Fire Council.

Thursday July Second: Rising Bell at 6:30, Breakfast, Room Inspection, Bible Class, Mission Study Class, Technical Council, College Girls, Missionary Institute, Dinner at 12, Quiet Hour, Trips to Swimming Pool, Stone Island and DeLand, Supper at 8, Entertainment Enterprise Orphanage, Vespers on Dock.

Friday July Third: Rising Bell at 6:30, Breakfast, Room Inspection, Bible Class, Mission Study Class, Dinner at 12, Quiet Hour, Trip to Lemon Bluff and Picnic Supper, Vespers. The interest manifested by the girls is so intense that these assemblies will be maintained each year and already they are making preparations for a larger crowd from Florida and other states to summer at Enterprise next summer. If possible the directors may bring another party of girls down later in the season before the hotel opens for the winter season.

Odd Fellows Memorial

The Sanford Odd Fellows held their annual memorial service last Sunday night in the Presbyterian church, the sermon being preached by Dr. Brownlee. There were many present to hear the lecture and many of the Odd Fellows of the Sanford and other lodges attended. Dr. Brownlee took the subject of charity as his theme and the good that lodges can accomplish.

The Odd Fellows of Sanford are doing a great work in helping the afflicted and burying their dead and their ministrations, though quietly done are none the less effective. The lodge is growing steadily and new members are added all the time but in the early fall an active campaign will be waged for new members and the lodge that means so much to young and old will be materially strengthened.

FLORIDA EXHIBIT AT SAN FRANCISCO WILL BE A SUCCESS

IT HAS BEEN MADE POSSIBLE BY PROMISES OF ASSISTANCE

PROMINENT FLORIDIANS TO TAKE ACTIVE PART

IN RAISING MONEY FOR FLORIDA SHOW AT THE PANAMA EXPOSITION

Necessary money having been subscribed and a ready response having been met with from prominent citizens all over the state, Florida is to have a creditable official building at the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco and architects of the state are invited to submit plans. Money for the preliminary steps has already been secured and more will be forthcoming when needed.

This in brief is the report of an all day meeting at the Hotel Seminole at Jacksonville last Friday of the Florida commissioners for the Panama Pacific International Exposition, which is composed of the following men, who were present: Gen. J. Clifford R. Foster of St. Augustine, chairman; J. P. Felt, of Eustis; J. W. Sample, of Haines City; W. N. Conoley, secretary Jacksonville Board of Trade; A. V. French, of Sanford; C. A. Carpenter, of Jacksonville and H. C. Schrader, secretary, of Jacksonville. Three other members of the commission were not present, as follows: T. M. Wier, John Frobock and State Senator W. H. Malone of Key West.

The meeting was called to order and presided over by Gen. Foster and with the commission was W. W. D'Alara, commissioner general for the southern states.

Mr. O'Hara outlined the plan whereby other states are making arrangements to be represented at the exposition and told of the needs for this state to be exploited from every commercial and industrial standpoint.

The commission spent almost the entire day in studying and devising plans and means for carrying them out, whereby Florida shall be placed on the same basis as the other states in the exposition and such a plan was finally mapped out and pronounced to be not only feasible but entirely practical.

Having before them tentative agreements from the most representative and the largest producers and shippers of the state to support the enterprise, the commission felt no hesitancy in going into detail with their plans and practically winding up this part of the work.

Intending that the Florida exhibit shall be typically and entirely Floridian, the commission by resolution decided to invite at once tentative plans and drawings or a building to cost $30,000 to $40,000 from Florida architects, and this invitation will be sent out at once. Architects from all over the state will be asked to confer with the secretary of the commission, H. C. Schrader, at 1305 Heard National Bank Building, this city, who will furnish them with details and specifications and other necessary information for their guidance in making plans for a Florida state building to be erected on the exposition grounds in San Francisco in time for the opening of the exposition next February.

The commission also confirmed the committee appointments of delegates from the commission to visit San Francisco and select a site for the Florida building and passed a resolution urging Gov. Park Trammell to head the committee and go with it to San Francisco. The selection of the site by the Florida commissioner representatives will be made an occasion of ceremony by the San Francisco officials.

Union Services of Churches

Beginning next Sunday night the Sanford churches will hold union services at the Star Theater. Rev. Strong of the Congregational church will preach next Sunday night. All the churches however will not have these union services. Only the Presbyterian, Methodist, Congregational and Episcopal are joining in the movement.

Fourth Cong. Committee Chairman Bert Fish, of the new Fourth Congressional district committee has issued a call for the committee to meet in Jacksonville Thursday morning, July 2, at 11:30 o'clock at the Hotel Aaragon.

He states that the purpose of the meeting is to organize and elect officers as required by law and to transact such other business as may come before the body for consideration.

Under the new primary laws of the state, the party committees are practically shorn of any real work, and have not even the canvassing of returns and declaring certain candidates to be the nominees of the party, thus certifying them for the general election.

Chairman Fish urges a full attendance of the members.

W. E. Watson of this city is the member from Seminole county.

Lost Barn by Fire

W. Y. Dunn who resides in the Lake Mary section had the misfortune to lose his barn last Friday morning. He was in Sanford at the time and his small boy in playing in the barn must have dropped a match in some loose hay catching the entire structure. Another barn close by was threatened but was extinguished by the heroic efforts of Mrs. Dunn and the children. Aside from ten sacks of potatoes and a quantity of hay lost in the barn a fine young nursery close by was so badly scorched by the flames that the trees are ruined and will have to be replanted.

Mr. Dunn has the sympathy of his many friends in his loss.

SOUTH FLORIDA PRESS ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED

Lakeland, Fla., June 29.—(Special)—Permanent organization of the South Florida Press Association was perfected here Friday, representatives of about twenty newspapers being present. Joseph H. Humphries of the Bradenton Journal was elected president; W. B. Harris of the Kissimmee Valley Gazette, vice-president; M. F. Hetherington of the Lakeland Weekly News and Evening Telegram, secretary; Mrs. O. C. S. Wilson of the Sarasota Times, treasurer.

A constitution and by-laws were adopted and it is expected that all the newspapers of peninsular Florida, except those of the extreme east coast will join the organization. Plans for raising the subscription price of weeklies to $1.50 per year, and the establishment and maintenance of equitable advertising rates were discussed. Semi-annual meetings will be held, the first of which will be at Arcadia on July 10th.

Gordan Brown

Gordan, the fifteen years old son of Mrs. George H. Brown died at the family residence Monday morning at 6 o'clock. Gordan had been an invalid from babyhood and a great sufferer, having sustained a fall from his nurse's arms when but nine months old that resulted in curvature of the spine. The little fellow was timid and sensitive, rarely ever being seen by strangers. The funeral service was held at the home at 1:30 p.m. Monday and immediately after the body was taken to Oviedo for burial. Gordan is survived by his mother, two sisters, Misses Julia and Evelyn and three brothers, George, Myron and Charles Brown. Many beautiful floral offerings testified to the warm sympathy of their friends.

Weekly Weather Report

Washington, June 18.—"Except for showers tomorrow in New England, and the Middle Atlantic states, fair and warm weather is forecast for the first half of the coming week over most of the country."

"Over the middle and southern districts, west of the Rocky mountains, the central plains states, the southwest, the gulf states and the Ohio valley generally, fair weather will prevail during the week with continued high temperatures to the southward and with rising temperatures over the central districts by the middle of the week," said the weather bureau's bulletin tonight.

"In the South Atlantic states high temperatures will continue with occasional relief through local thunder storms."

HEIR TO AUSTRIAN THRONE AND HIS WIFE ASSASSINATED

WERE SHOT TO DEATH BY A YOUNG SERBIAN STUDENT

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED AT SARAJEVO

ATTEMPT WAS MADE TO TAKE THE LIFE OF THE ARCH DUKE EARLIER IN THE DAY

Vienna, Austria, June 30.—The assassination at Sarajevo yesterday of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir apparent, is certain to have an important effect on the empire's policy.

The Archduke and his morganatic wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg, were shot by Gavrio Principi, a young Serbian student, while they passed through the streets in an automobile. Both died immediately.

Principi was arrested, but is satirical and unrepentant.

Emperor Francis Joseph's reign will soon end. It is impossible to forecast the political result of yesterday's tragedy.

Early in the day another man threw a bomb at the Archduke but he saw it and warded it off with his arm. The bomb exploded, injuring many.

Martial Law Proclaimed

Sarajevo, Austria, June 29.—Martial law was proclaimed here this morning as the result of the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife.

B. & O. GARAGE CHANGE

W. P. Carter Purchases the Business From J. R. Holland

The B. & O. Garage has changed hands this week, W. P. Carter buying the same from J. R. Holland. The only reason Mr. Holland was willing to part with the garage was the fact that he has been made the state agent for the famous Overland cars and it became necessary for him to locate in Jacksonville, hence the sale of the B. & O. Mr. Holland has made many friends while here and built up a fine business not only in the garage but in the sale of Overland cars and it was this activity that brought him into prominent notice of the Willys-Overland Co., and they made him the offer of the state agency. This is a rapid rise for Mr. Holland and he could not afford to turn down the offer although he wanted to remain in Sanford. Fred Fields, the efficient office manager of the B. & O. will accompany Mr. Holland to Jacksonville and be in charge of the business office at headquarters. The people here hate to lose Mr. Holland and Mr. and Mrs. Filbin but rejoice in their advancement.

W. P. Carter, the new proprietor of the B. & O. needs no introduction to the people of Seminole county, having long been a resident of this city and engaged in the lumber business. He will continue his lumber business, having made a success of it and will keep the B. & O. up to the high standard maintained by that institution.

SEMINOLE SYSTEM BETTER

Deputy Sheriff Tells of How the Mail of Justice Grind

Deputy Sheriff D. H. Hooker, of Seminole county was in Orlando Monday and paid the Reporter-Star an appreciated call. Deputy Hooker is an alert officer, and is of the opinion that the justice court method of procedure is better in many instances than the criminal court method.

He told of several instances where arrests were made, the defendants tried and delivery made to the convict camps within a few hours, the saving of time and costs to the county being much without the ends of justice suffering in the least.

Mr. Hooker says that all is going well in Seminole and a prosperous season is being anticipated.—Reporter-Star.

L. A. Brumley left Monday for a stay of a month in North Carolina. Mr. Brumley and the boys drove through the country while Mrs. Brumley went on the train.

Peculiarly Daring Combination

THE attractiveness of this most daring evening gown, one of the recent triumphs of Paquin, is accentuated by the Marie Antoinette albino wig. The wearing of colored wigs has not been taken up with any degree of favor by the leaders of fashion in Paris, but some undeniably beautiful effects have been achieved in this direction under the guidance of such modistes of genius as Paquin. Not for many seasons has such elaborate attention been paid to the coiffure as is now in evidence. Most of the designs are of real beauty, and nothing seems too daring for the costumer to attempt. Odd shapes and brilliant colors in long scarfs of gold or silver tissue are wound once or twice around the head and caught in the most becoming way with beads, rhinestones, pearls, etc., and are worn low to the top of the forehead with hair below. Cap-shaped bands are of pearls, rhinestones or imitation aigrettes in front. Gold and silver cords are the simplest of bandeaux. Velvet bandeaux are overlaid with a tiny band of rhinestones or fridescent jet. Bandeaux are also formed of spangles. A platinum band in three rows, set with jet and rhinestones, has a fluffy group of white feathers on the left. A band of jet sequins, closely overlapped, is clasped on the left with an outspread jet butterfly of wire covered with spangles, with three white feathers above. A close turban cap of net, embroidered in Chinese design and worn pulled down, shows only a fringe of hair. Pink satin apple blossoms form a bunch on the left of the coiffure below soft feathers of the same pink hue. JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

MEXICO'S BEVERAGE KNOWN AS PULQUE IS DEADLY DRINK

Responsible for Degradation and Misery of Peons.

ADULTERATED IN THE CITIES

Cultivators of the Maguey Plant, From Which Intoxicant Is Made, Live Like Feudal Lords—Little Cultivation Is Required.

Kansas City.—Dispatches from Vera Cruz say that after the recent battle between the American marines and the Mexican soldiers the remnants of the troops of General Maas raided a couple of cantinas or liquor shops and were soon wandering about the streets of the city intoxicated, says the Kansas City Times. It is fairly safe to assume that the shops' supply of pulque, the national drink of Mexico, was confiscated; for the peon fills himself up with this strange drink on the slightest provocation.

Cultivating the maguey plant, from which pulque is made, is one of Mexico's most lucrative industries, ranking almost on a par with gold and silver mining, coffee growing and the cultivation of tropical fruits and products. The plant grows to best advantage and greatest height on the table lands of Mexico. The plain of Apam, not far from the City of Mexico, is noted for producing the best pulque in the republic.

Acres and acres of the huge plants can be seen growing on the great haciendas. The trunk of the plant is a pineapple-shaped bulb with roots widely spread out into the ground. This bulb is called the "corazon" or heart, and contains within a soft vegetable pulp. From the outside huge blades 10 to 15 feet long radiate, armed along their edges with sharp, strong points, and culminating at the top in a longer and stronger spike.

Being a desert plant, the maguey requires none of the cultivation and care that is necessary in the cultivation of other crops. From the time of its planting until the sap rises in its heart little or no attention is necessary. In setting out a plantation the Mexican divides his land into 15 or 20 sections. One of these sections he plants at one time, another at another, until he has so arranged the tract that one bunch of magueya will mature one year, the next bunch the ensuing year and so on, until a sort of continuous chain of pulque producers exist, giving an inexhaustible supply year after year, and an equally inexhaustible supply of dinero to the owner of the hacienda. No plant, however, will give forth sap until its tenth year, and then only upon the very eve bag made from the skin of a pig, which he carries on his shoulder, and pumps the sap into it from the siphon.

When newly taken from the bulb the sap is thick, white and sweet and tastes something like sweet cider. In this state, while not yet pulque, it is very agreeable and not the least intoxicating.

For three or four months repeated visits are made to every plant tapped and the sap withdrawn. When the last drop has been taken from it the great plant droops, its blades sag to the ground and it becomes a dirty brown. It is then dug up and hauled away to be used as fuel and thatching and, perhaps, needles and thread.

One load after another of this agave miel the gatherer gathers in the plank pigskin to the building on the hacienda where the pulque is made. It is poured into vats made of cowhides. The hair side of the hide is uppermost, so that the liquor is poured on the hair.

A small quantity of fermented sap is placed with the fresh, and soon a great white foam forms on the top and rises into a sort of pyramid as fermentation is complete. It is a thick, sour liquid, sickening to one who has not cultivated a taste for it. There is nothing that can be compared to the taste of pulque, nor, for that matter, to its smell. That is usually enough for most visitors to the country. But

Market Square in Mexico City Where Pulque Is Sold.

It is said that good pulque, after one has grown accustomed to it is an exceedingly agreeable beverage.

Once fermented, the pulque is loaded on the hacienda's own trains and shipped to its destination. Often a peon will own a few maguey plants somewhere, and it is a common sight in the City of Mexico to see one of them driving a diminutive burro laden with two pigskins full of the "liquor divine," or, if he doesn't own a burro, he carries the pulque filled skin on his back to the cantina.

When it is first shipped pulque is no more harmful or intoxicating than real light beer, and it is said to be beneficial to those suffering from liver and stomach troubles. But no sooner does it reach the large cities than the work of adulterating it begins. Water is used sometimes. In the majority of cases, however, it is heavily doped with extract of Jimson weed, which makes it exceedingly intoxicating. Two glasses of it will make a man roaring drunk. And to this cause are traced largely the degradation and misery of the peon class.

This drugging continues despite the attempts of the government to prohibit it. The Indians, after having acquired a taste for the doped pulque, refuse to drink the unadulterated product.

Cantinas, or pulque shops, can be found on almost every corner, and each one glories in a picturesque title. Inside they are gaily decorated with paintings of saints, usually of "La Virgen de Gaudalupa," and with pictures of a religious nature.

Pulque is the never-failing beverage of the servant class of Mexico. Any cañador, or porter, upon delivering a package, will give forth grievous sighs as if entirely worn out and end by requesting "Unos centavos, señor, para mi aguita,"—"a few cents for the little water."

The owners of some of the large haciendas live like feudal lords on their vast estates. They have large retinues of servants and retainers. They are men of great wealth and power. Each hacienda is a little town to itself, with its collection of adobe houses and stores, all the property of the owner of the ranch.

BISHOP CRUCIFIED BY REBELS

Catholic Clergyman Nailed to Cross by Zapata's Men, Who Demanded Church Funds.

San Francisco.—Among the tales of revolution atrocities told by refugees from the west coast of Mexico is that of the crucifixion of the Catholic bishop of Chalapa. A band of Zapata's soldiers called on the bishop to surrender the funds of his church. He refused, whereupon the soldiers are said to have nailed him to an upright cross and left him to die.

Your Final Chance to Enroll in the Hoosier Cabinet $1 Sale

Your only chance to get the NEW HOOSIER this summer on the $1 plan is not to delay beyond the minute when the last Hoosier allotted for this sale is taken. After that--

- 1--The "Hoosier Plan" terms will be withdrawn. 2--Regular furniture terms will then prevail. FURTHERMORE, IF YOU MISS GETTING YOUR HOOSIER NOW, YOU MAY HAVE TO WAIT A LONG TIME before you get a new Hoosier at all, owing to the enormous demand. THE LAST MINUTE may be tomorrow. You ought to go see the new Hoosier in justice to yourself before it is too late. THE HOOSIER MFG. CO., New Castle, Ind.

Tomorrow, Only $1 Puts This NEW HOOSIER in Your Home—Don't Wait!

- The mid-summer sale terms are: 1. You may choose any of the new Hoosiers—"White Beauty," or "Oak Interior" at slightly less price. 2. $1 puts your Hoosier in your home at once. 3. $1 weekly quickly pays for it. 4. The low cash price fixed by the factory prevails strictly. 5. No interest—no extra fees. 6. This sale is under direct supervision of the Hoosier Company. 7. Sale is strictly limited to our small summer allotment of new Hoosiers. 8. Your money back if you are not delighted with your Hoosier.

This is your opportunity—if you act quickly—to own this wonderful Hoosier on the most liberal terms ever offered. You may search the whole world and find nothing that will save you so much labor in your kitchen as this new Hoosier. White Beauty is a wonder of convenience. It combines three roomy cupboards, a large work table and peakage pantry in one spot so you can sit down at work and save inches of steps. You have places before you for 400 articles, all at your fingers' ends. You save most of the weary hours other women spend in their kitchens. This new Hoosier on these terms is the greatest kitchen cabinet bargain you have ever seen. The few we have will be sold in no time at all. Only those women who grasp this opportunity tomorrow can be sure of getting one of these cabinets on the liberal Hoosier plan.

Read about these conveniences that made the HOOSIER necessary to over 700,000 women.

- (1) Mrs. Christine Frederick's famous "Housekeepers' Food Guide"—on the upper left door—answers the eternal problem: "What shall we have for dinner?" (2) The Cook-book Holder on the middle upper door holds your cook book securely when not in use. When you are cooking, simply open up the book to the proper page behind the holder. It is on a level with your eye, always—lean, never to the way. (3) The Hoosier Metal Flour Bin holds fifty pounds. It is low and easy to fill. The sliding glass front enables you to clean the entire bin easily. The inside is entirely of metal, with no corners to hold flour. First flour in is always out first. (4) The New Shaker Flour Sifter is the most wonderful of all the new Hoosier inventions. It is the only flour sifter ever made on a kitchen cabinet that shakes flour through instead of grinding it through. It cannot wear out and cannot grind through any grit or foreign substance that might be in the flour.

OUR WINDOW DISPLAY is the talk of the town—come and see it. (5) A new feature in the Base Cupboard is a narrow shelf conveniently located for the storage of canned articles. Most women will find this a great convenience as an "emergency shelf." It will save many trips to the cellar or pantry.

TOMORROW YOU may examine all the new features. You incur no obligation. But you should come early. You may be too late to get one on the HOOSIER PLAN if you delay. Come and SEE this remarkable NEW Hoosier tomorrow.

BEST USE OF GREAT WEALTH

Men of Millions Have Shown They Recognize the Duty of Benevolence.

A few years ago a gift of $1,000,000 for any benevolent object was a surprising and epoch-making event. A great advance in ideas of benevolence and the sense of responsibility for the use of wealth is marked when it is found that during the year 1913 there were 28 persons in the United States who gave $2,000,000 or more to benevolent purposes.

If a full list of these were printed few would be able to tell on what objects the majority of these gifts were bestowed, so common have great gifts to benevolent purposes become.

The amount in the aggregate of gifts during the year, as far as recorded, was $302,000,000. Of this, $179,000,000 was for education, and $25,000,000 for religious and charitable purposes, including missions.

The largest beneficiary was the Metropolitan Museum of Arts in New York city, which received $23,000,000, including an art collection valued at $15,000,000 from the Benjamin Altman estate, a collection of some value at $5,000,000 from W. M. Riggs, and the whole estate of J. M. Hammond, the typewriter manufacturer, estimated at $3,000,000. This does not include what the museum may receive from the $50,000,000 collection of J. Pierpont Morgan, part of which is now on loan exhibition to the museum. Probably the next largest beneficiary of the year is the foundation for charitable purposes established by John D. Rockefeller, chartered in the state of New York. The amount is not named, and ultimately may exceed the gifts to the museum.

The $10,000,000 given by Andrew Carnegie for a charitable foundation in his native town, Dunfermline, Scotland, comes next. The gifts of Oliver H. Payne, of $4,250,000 to Cornell university, and Robert P. Doremus, estimated at under $5,000,000, to Washington and Lee university of Virginia, are in the same class.

But the most unique and heart-stirring gift of the whole year was that of Reed B. Freeman of Binghamton, N. Y., who gave his whole fortune, estimated at $3,000,000, to the families of the 30 girls who perished in the burning of his factory, and at sixty-five years of age began business again as a clerk in New York city, a poor man.

Whole Families in Same Trade. Among the silver masters of Sheffield, England, it is rather an established practice to encourage the employment of families. It is more the rule than otherwise that a father working in the silver trade will apprentice his children to that trade as they arrive at working age.

DANGEROUS CROSSINGS

An automobile in Orlando was wrecked the other day at a railroad crossing. The aldermen of that city are taking up the matter with the A. C. L. Ry. and expect to make the said company protect the public in the future. Sanford people in the past few weeks have had some very narrow escapes at the railroad crossings in this city and there are at least two of these crossings that should be protected either by gates or by watchmen. That they are dangerous is demonstrated by the near accidents that happen each week at these same crossings. The French avenue crossing has become doubly dangerous since this street has been bricked to Ninth street, making it a thoroughfare to the new station and the crossing being almost in the confines of the railroad yards, where the switch engines are going and coming all times of the day and night. The first street crossing at one time had a flagman, but since the depot was moved the watchman was taken off, although the crossing is as dangerous as ever. It would be well for the city council to investigate some of these crossings in the city of Sanford before there is loss of life and limb.

THE SPEAKER'S RACE

Theo. T. Turnbull of Monticello is most favorably spoken of in connection with the speakership of the next house of representatives. Mr. Turnbull is a progressive Democrat—he is one who will never compromise with the special interests—he has the ability—he would make an ideal presiding officer. The railroad-owned and controlled newspapers are booming Cary A. Hardee for this position. This is enough to create suspicion. Mr. Hardee is classed as a "plute," and certainly the next house should not have a plute for a speaker. A young Progressive Democrat, of splendid ability, would be S. C. Harrison as a compromise candidate, yet Forest Lake, also an aspirant, has a pretty good record as a Progressive Democrat. The Progressive Democrats will be in the majority and a good Progressive Democrat should be speaker. As to the presidency of the senate the Progressive Democrats also being in the majority, an admirable man is available in Dr. J. N. Fogarty of Key West, who is talented and who possesses exceptional ability. The Progressive Democrats have a majority of six in the senate.—Dixie.

"Cards of thanks" are doomed in South Florida. Hereafter parties must be thankful to the extent of a dollar or two if they desire the newspapers to convey their thanks—such was the trend of expression at the initial gathering of the South Florida Press Association. Cards of thanks are useless, and they are a nuisance to newspapers. If you have neighbors who expect to be publicly thanked for the performance of the ordinary offices of humanity when sickness or death enters your home, better move out of that neighborhood. People who won't cheerfully do such things are little better than savages. Also it is highly unnecessary to erupt into a card of thanks if your wife runs away with a better looking man, if your mother-in-law drops in the lake or if you get snowed under in a political race.—Lakeland Telegram.

Forest Lake of Sanford is a prominent candidate for speaker of the next Florida House of Representatives. The sylvan beauty of that name ought to get the gentleman some votes—and then he's a good fellow, too. But he'll have some Hardee opposition.—Lakeland Telegram.

As Old Song to New Words Backward, turn backward, O Time in thy flight, give us a girl with skirts not so tight; give us a girl, whose charms many or few are not exposed by too much peek-a-boo; give us a girl, no matter what age, who won't use the street for a vaudeville stage; give us a girl not too shapely in view, dress her in skirts the sun can't shine through. And give us the dance of the days gone by, with plenty of clothes and step not so high, put turkey trot capers and butter-milk slides, hurdy-gurdy twigs and wiggles tall glides, and other such bunny-bugs all on a level, as products of ball inspired by the devil, and let us feast our optics once more on the pure, sweet woman of the days of yore. Yes, Time, turn backward and grant our requests for God's richest blessing—but not unexpressed.—E.L.

MALARIA IN FLORIDA

At the risk of wearing holes in a subject already threadbare, the State Board of Health is again calling attention to the matter of malaria in Florida. There are several features of this affliction which can hardly be too frequently emphasized. The first is that it is unnecessary, entirely unnecessary, no one need have it if he doesn't want to. Second, it is a very uneconomic disease, in that it reduces to a low stage the physical and mental productiveness of the individual, reduces his energy, his desire and his ambition to accomplish, far below the normal. While the disease is not considered fatal to any large degree, it lowers the resisting force and makes easier the way for the entrance of more serious ailments.

There is no scale by which the weakening capacity of malaria may be measured, but no one who has watched intelligently the progress of the disease in even a few cases can fail to have noted this effect. The malarial parasite has been identified under the microscope, its picture has been taken and its habits have been definitely described. Not only has the medical profession provided a simple cure for the disease, but, better yet, it has discovered a method of prevention. It has been established as a fact that if once this parasite could be completely eradicated from any given section, the disease itself would disappear, never to return except by importation. It has been done within certain well known limits in several foreign countries.

So often has the cycle of malarial infection and reinfection been described, that a repetition can bring information to few intelligent Floridians. The parasite exists in the blood of the human patient. By the bite of the Anopheles mosquito the parasite is taken into the system of the mosquito where it passes through a period and process of further development, and by the bite of the same mosquito it is transmitted into the blood of a new human victim. The process is repeated indefinitely and the disease is spread through a constantly widening circle of human beings.

To interrupt this cycle of development at any stage is to interrupt and stop the disease. To prevent the inoculation of the mosquito by the human host, and to prevent the inoculation of the new human victim by the infected mosquito—that's all there is to it. The matter is resolved down to the very simple proposition—don't allow yourself to be bitten by the mosquito.

In the particular case of the Anopheles the matter is made even more simple by the known fact that its working hours are confined strictly to the early evening and night. Where's the remedy?

SCREENS. That's the solution, simple and safe and complete. The only precaution to be added is that the screens should not be put up as if you were building a chicken house, full of holes and loose around the edges. They should be made literally mosquito proof. At all the windows and outside doors and around the porch that is used as a sitting room in the evening, over the beds and at every place where the insect may gain admission to the members of the family. The screen is a necessary part of the Florida house; no home in this state is safe or comfortable without it. And it should be constructed and fitted to its place with as much care as the front door or the windows in their casings.

It is the duty of the individual to avoid malaria, a duty that each one owes to himself and to the community in which he lives.

Plan Big Engineering Feat. In the Chilean Andes there is a lake 10,000 feet up in the mountains, which is prevented only by a granite wall a few feet thick from devastating the valley below. In order to avert the disaster engineers are draining the water by a tunnel and expect to supply electrical current and light to all the valley cities through the water power which will be developed.

World's Darkest Moment. The darkest moment is said to be just before dawn. This is now discovered not to be so. The darkest moment, relatively speaking, is when the noonday sun shines. Then it is that living things on the earth are blinded by the glare of the sun and fail to recognize the light that never fails out in space.

Fortunists Indians. In a composition dealing with the habits and customs of American Indians, a boy deeply impressed with the free-and-easy life wrote the following: "The Indians had few laws, but they were well 'planted'."

Millions of Wood Screws Used. It has been estimated that 4,700,000 wood screws are used in the United States each year.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON BY THE SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT OF THE HERALD

Washington, D. C., June 30 — (Special)—Congressman Caleb Powers of the Eleventh Kentucky District, talking to a number of friends in the Republican cloak room the other day, said there were many quaint characters in the mountain regions of the "Dark and Bloody Ground." He tells this story by way of illustration: "Shortly after I was admitted to the bar and was riding the circuit, I was appointed by the court to defend a middle aged fellow who was indicted for the murder of his mother. It was regarded as a bad case, and, naturally, I wanted to make as much reputation out of it as I could. I examined the indictment carefully and was unable to pick a flaw in it. Then I took my client to one side for a private consultation and told him it was necessary that I should know the exact truth, assuring him, of course, that whatever he told me, as his counsel, was privileged and could not be used against him. Then I shot the direct question at him: "Did you kill your mother?" "Yes," he replied, "I did kill her." "Why did you do it?" I asked him. "I killed her," he answered, "because she was not worth wintering."

Mississippi, who is accounted one of the best story tellers in the country, told this one to several old cronies the other day. A generation ago a story went the rounds that Dr. Gwin of California, the same time "Duke of Sonora," the title given him in jest because of his efforts to colonize that Mexican state during the second empire, and the Hon. Robt. J. Walker of Mississippi, ex-secretary of the Treasury, were going to fight a duel with tomahawks. The quarrel was reconciled, it was said, in consequence of Walker's laughter at discovering the erratic results of Gwin's private practice at throwing the tomahawk at a stump. "There is a story of a similar nature told," said Senator Williams, "of a duel between Charles James Fox, the famous English Whig statesman of the eighteenth century, and Mr. Adam of the British Ordnance Department, growing out of Fox's bitter attacks on the management of that department, the chief charge being that useless ammunition was supplied to the forces. The two met and exchanged shots. At the second fire Adam was not hit, but his bullet struck Fox and stuck in the waistband of his thick leather breeches. "By Jove," exclaimed Fox, on the instant, smiling at his own wit, "if you had not used Ordnance powder I would now be a dead man." "A laugh followed, Adam offered his hands, Fox took it, and they were good friends ever after."

Women Threatens Life of Oil Magnate's Son—L. W. W. Speaker Invades Millionaire's Office.

New York.—Wb's "mourning patrol" was walking in the rain in front of 26 Broadway and Upton Biscari, Elizabeth Freeman and Dona Leitner were starting a hunger strike in the Tombs, "Beautiful Marie" Ganz, L. W. W. orator, went up to the fourteenth floor and threatened to shoot John D. Rockefeller, Jr., if he did not end the Colorado strike war. Miss Ganz, who was recently released from jail, made an impassioned address in Franklin square, in which she declared she would "shoot John D. Rockefeller down like a dog" if he refused to see her, and then started toward the Standard Oil offices at 26

John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Broadway, followed by a large crowd. At the entrance to the building a patrolman attempted to halt her. "Who are you to stop me?" she cried, as she brushed past, and, entering the elevator, went to the fourteenth floor, where the private offices of the oil magnate are located. A negro doortender told her that John D., Jr., was not in. The woman was indignant. "I'm going to see him!" she cried. "And if he — — —" doesn't arbitrate and stop the murders in Colorado I'll shoot him down like a dog! Take my card in to him or to his secretary. The frightened doortender took the passbook, and five minutes later returned with the message that Mr. Rockefeller wasn't in. "Well, you tell him exactly what I told you," she said the door man, and he promised to repeat the "shooting" message.

HOME RUNS THAT HAVE BECOME FAMOUS

Heinie Zimmerman of the Chicago Cubs.

Some of the famous home runs made in the major leagues may be cited as follows:

Hans Wagner's four-base swat in Pittsburgh which broke the windshield of an automobile standing outside the grounds.

Chief Wilson's drive, which landed 320 feet from the St. Louis Cardinal park home plate.

Gus Williams' drive over the right field wall of the St. Louis American league park. It also was a 320-footer.

Big Bill Lange's homer over the center field fence in Cincinnati. It called over a tree 50 feet from the fence and splashed into a creek.

Billy Alford's homer at the old Cleveland ball park. It knocked three bricks off a chimney near the fence.

Mike Tiernan's smash over the fence at the old Cleveland park. It's traveling yet.

"Buck" Freeman's drive off Chief Bender at old Columbia park, Philadelphia. The ball went over a block of houses beyond the fence and landed in the second-story window of a house on a side street between Twenty-ninth and Twenty-eighth.

Home Run Baker's world series drive that broke Christy Mathewson's heart.

Red Ames' four-bagger at the Polo grounds. It was one of about four hits he made during the season.

Heinie Zimmerman's two homers, made over the left field fence in Cincinnati. He was the only player that ever put the ball over that wall.

Cy Seymour's hit from Boston to New York. The ball fell into a coal car attached to a fast freight and was found by a brakeman when the train reached New York.

Nap Lajoie's drive, which stuck in the screen in the old left center sub-way at League park in Cleveland.

Buddy Ryan's smash over the right field wall at Somers' park, with the bases full.

Frank Baker's crash over the right field wall in Washington off Walter Johnson, which made the management decide to enlarge the park.

Miller Huggins' hit in Cincinnati, which fell 20 feet behind the right fielder, who lost the ball in the sun and didn't locate it until Huggins had crossed the plate.

Fred Clarke's circuit swat in the Detroit-Pittsburgh world's series, the hit that shook the Tigers' confidence.

Alva Williams' heart-breaking homer, which called over Buddy Ryan's head and won a game for Washington which the Naps seemed to have sewed up.

Harry Davis' clout over the deep center field fence at Bennett park, Detroit. It cleared that long fence by at least 30 feet.

Walter Johnson's drive in Washington. The force of the blow tore the cover off the ball.

Fred Luderus' two homers against Pittsburgh, the first one tying the score and the second one winning the game, 2 to 1.

Ham Hyatt's hit at Forbes field last year, which cleared the right field fence by 25 feet.

Nap Lajoie of Cleveland.

smashed through a plate glass window of a saloon and broke up a picnic party.

Red McLean's peculiar wallop, made on the Pacific coast. The ball went through the only knothole in a short right field fence.

Jake Stahl's homer at Hot Springs.

Hunting Ground for the Author.

The hunting ground for the author in search of a title is the Bible. Hall Caine has drawn therefrom "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," "The Prodigal Son," "The Scapgoat." Miss Marie Corelli went to the same source for "Wormwood" and "Barabbas." Miss Braddon for "One Thing Needful" and "Thou Art the Man." Marion Crawford for "Whosoever Shall Offend." Whyte Melville for "Black But Comely," Thomas Hardy for "The Leodicean," Kipling for "Many Inventions," W. J. Locke for "Where Love Is," William Black for "A Daughter of Heth," William L. Queux for "As We Forgive Them," Walter Besant for "Children of Gideon" and "The Fourth Generation," and so on. The list might be prolonged to fill the window twice over.

Plaza Tablet to Ancient Wits.

It is proposed to erect a tablet in St. Leonard's church, Shoreditch, London, England, to the memory of the Elizabethan actors who are recorded in the parish registers to have been buried there. The list includes the following: Will Somers, Henry VIII's jester (died 1560); Richard Tarlton, Queen Elizabeth's famous clown and possibly Shakespeare's Yorick (died 1588); James Burbage, the builder of the first English playhouse (died 1597); Richard Burbage, the original impersonator of many of Shakespeare's characters (died 1618-19); Gabriel Spenser, William Sly, Richard Cowley and other actors in the original and early productions of Shakespeare's plays.

Lesson From History.

F. Irving Fletcher, at one of the Sphinx club's dinners in New York, began a historical review of advertising with the words:

"None understood the value of advertising better than Samson. Samson took two solid columns. The result was that he brought down the house."

Retort Courteous.

"Can you support my daughter, sir, in the way to which she has been accustomed?" "I can, sir, but I'd hate to be that mean."

Two Good Rules.

Men will never disappoint us if we observe two rules: (1) To find out what they are; (2) to expect them to be just that.

Not Possible.

"Are you sure that these eggs have no chickens in them?" "Yes, miss. They are duck eggs."—Life.

A Pessimist's Version.

All's well if it ends well, but the chances that it won't.

MUCH ART IN CLEVERNESS

Straining for Effect an Error Into Which Really Brilliant People Sometimes Stray.

Some of us are always amused at the different ways in which people try to be clever or pretend to be gay and lively. Some show it by spending a vast amount of money on dinners and being rude to waiters. Others chatter all the time, and imagine that if they show their front teeth steadily for several hours somebody will call them brilliant conversationalists.

Some like to make a great noise and carry on a perpetual fire of banter, of which "You're another" is a vivid specimen of the repartee. Others, on the other hand, imagine that if they are daringly décolleté and make goo-goo "eyes" at everybody, posterity will range them among the great fascinat-ors of their generation.

Not a few find a huge fund of hilarity in placing a cushion over the door and a piece of soap in the bed, while others hope that if they talk long enough and loud enough they may eventually utter a mot and claim the fame of being a wit forever and ever afterward. As a matter of fact, however, a brilliant light conversationalist is one of the rarest things in the whole world. Such a one is born, though time and experience may elaborate the gift.

Lots of people talk—talk an awful lot—but very few are worth listening to. Above everything else in gaiety there must be no sense of "strafe." Better be silent than force your humorous "note." A witty conversation lies not so much in what is said as the whimsical way a person says it. That is why so many books of humor invariably get "all-edged" mentally inserted by the reader between brackets.

That, too, is why so many people who amuse you once drive you frantic with boredom the second time. It is so different to be lightly amusing, and amusingly light, without being merely frivolous and "sizzly."

Not What You'd Call Unanimous.

"The many men of many minds," a trifle mordaciously remarked J. Fuller Gloom, the well known misanthrope of Sniffles, Mo., "who were as numerous in the revered copybooks of our bare-footed school days as the many birds of many kinds and the many fishes in the sea are still with us. They are expressing the devious workings of their multitudinous mentalities by writing pieces for the papers and promulgating in hired halls, from handy stumps and in street corners their many theories about things that are wrong and their favorite remedies therefor, and seem to me to cover the question in each case about as aptly as did the parrot whose proud owner boasted that the bird could tell time. The erudite fowl screeched 'Seven o'clock!' all day long and far into the night, and hit it with fair accuracy but twice in the 24 hours."—Kansas City Star.

British Navy Estimates.

Despite the fact that the British navy estimates for the current year show a proposed expenditure of $257,500,000—an increase of nearly ten million dollars over last year—the greater navy advocates are not satisfied. The London Daily Mail says: "The program of new construction, consisting of only four battleships, four light cruisers and 12 destroyers, with an undisclosed number of submarines, is disappointingly meager. Judged by the admiralty's own standards, it is quite insufficient. No provision, other than a slight acceleration of the battleship program, is made to fill the gap left by the delay in voting of the Canadian dreadnaughts. And yet, as Mr. Churchill said last year, these three ships 'are absolutely required from 1916 onwards for the whole world defense of the British empire.'"

Greater Safety in Coal Mines.

The management of the Windsor colliery, which is in close proximity to the Senghenydd colliery, Rhymney Valley, in Wales, have devised and installed a system of signaling by which it is anticipated all electric signaling underground might be abolished. In consequence of the home office inquiry the management are endeavoring as rapidly as possible to do away with all their electric wires, and to achieve this object a scheme of signaling by means of blast hooters has been successfully put in. Each haulage engine on the main roads has been fitted with a hooter which is attached to a compressed air column which runs along the road, and by pulling a wire the signal is given. There is no danger of sparking by this apparatus, which is regarded as a safe innovation.

England's Great Storm.

Grievous as has been the damage wrought in Europe by recent storms, it is unlikely that they were more violent than England's great storm of 1703. A strong west wind had set in about the middle of November, and it increased in violence until on the morning of the twenty-ninth few people ventured out of their houses, and on that night houses were unroofed, buildings torn down and thousands of people were killed. About two thousand stacks of chimneys were blown down in and around London. In the Thames only four ships remained between London bridge and Limehouse; 640 wharves, 399 shipsboats and 100 lighters and barges were entirely lost, and many were badly damaged. The damage in London alone was estimated at $10,000,000.

Henry J. Allen of the Wichita Beacon describes the ruin of Kansas by the prohibition of liquor and he describes it in his own inimitable way as follows:

The Distillers' association is sending out a new argument against prohibition. It says that prohibition "ruined the grape industry in Kansas." It claims that in the eighties this industry was over $200,000 per year, and it is estimated at less than $25,000 now.

The grape industry wasn't the only industry ruined by prohibition. There was the mint industry. Prohibition killed the mint julep hence there was no more demand for mint except in a few homes where they made mint sauce for spring lamb dressing.

Then there was the blow to the eggs for eggnog, since the eggnog departed. When prohibition came the hens had been doing their best in their free way to keep the egg industry alive, and you could get eggs for 8 cents a dozen. Since prohibition hit the egg industry you have to pay 2 cents a piece for eggs. Prohibition took the life out of the hens. They do not seem to have anything to cackle about since the saloon left us.

A man over in the eastern part of the state used to make roulette wheels. He was a fine cabinet maker and the wheels he turned out for roulette and other games of chance were mounted with ivory and mother of pearl. Prohibition killed that industry also.

In fact prohibition has killed about every industry in Kansas excepting the raising of wheat and corn and alfalfa and fruit and live stock; potatoes and peas and cabbages and "garden eggs," chickens and ducks and geese and horses and mules.

I busted up many of our most prominent gamblers; paralyzed the beer gardens and absolutely killed the bartenders' union.

Prohibition has left very little of Kansas except the growing crops in the fields, the stock in her stock pens, the dreary round of work, work in her factories and stores and other industries. It has left us little to do in hours of leisure except just to fall in love, to get married, send our children to school, go abroad occasionally, join the church when we feel like it, run into each other with expensive automobiles and store our money away in dusty bank vaults, instead of giving it to cheerful gentlemen with white aprons who used to stand in front of cut glass bars and say frequently, "this one is on the house."

Where once the thriving business of the saloon sent the clamorous odor of its prosperity out upon the sidewalks and clear across the street, we find nothing but shoe stores, clothing stores, dry goods stores, meat markets, grocery stores and other sordid activities of an unhappy people.

Where once you saw fog lines of men on Saturday night going joyfully into rooms where the doors always swung in, never out, where there was sawdust on the floor and a merry crowd standing around the mahogany bar; where they were trawling all around and a man could get his salary check cashed and spend it right there on his boon companions, and then go enthusiastically home and break up the furniture and give his wife a black eye instead of all these manifestations of a care free people which characterized the saloon day, we now have nothing but gloom. We see men going quietly into the butcher shop or grocery store or department store to get their weekly salary checks cashed and then go moodily home with shoes for the children and beef-steak for supper and the fixings for a heavy Sunday dinner the next day, and you know instinctively there will be no hilarity in that home that night and nothing to cheer the lives of these people except such sober activities as mother may introduce into the family circle.

There is nothing in that family to look forward to except a comfortable Sunday dinner and maybe church in the morning and Sunday school, possibly a decorous ride around town in the family automobile in the afternoon.

Then Monday they begin the same round all over again and spend the next week doing nothing but working and playing and riding and eating and sleeping and buying new clothes and taking music lessons, and going to parties and theaters and overfeeding each other at dinners, and during the livelong week father never comes home and breaks down the door with a war-whoop and goes to smashing up the furniture, and carrying mother with his doubled-up fist and kicking little Tommy just to see what little Tommy would do, and doing other things to show the pride of strong manhood that used to be in him in the days before prohibition came and killed everything in Kansas.

And yet there are some who are asking, other states to ruin themselves in this absurd, dreary way.

I heard a fellow spouting in a loud tone of voice on the corner the other day and stopped to listen and found out that he was knocking the brick roads to a finish. Said they were not being laid right and the material was not right and nothing was right and that he knew what he was talking about all right. I asked him where he lived and how much property he owned and discovered that he was comparatively a stranger here and owned not a cent's worth of property. Now what was the use of arguing the question with him about any part or parcel of Seminole county. I did not.

I am glad to see a start made on the Y. M. C. A. building and to see it agitated in The Herald of last week. Since that time I have heard several gentlemen speaking about it and they too see they have been lax in their duty toward the boys of Sanford. We seem to be more concerned about making money than making souls and some day it will be brought home to us. There is no city in the south where a Y. M. C. A. building would pay greater returns than in Sanford, made up as it is from a cosmopolitan population and filled with the railroad boys who have spare time on their hands and no place to pass away the time. I tell you we are certainly losing the best opportunity of our lives in not taking up this matter at once and the men here who have plenty of money should take a look at the idea of a Y. M. C. A. building now. It will come home to them later on and in a way that they least expect. It is the duty of every one of us, be he parent or not.

Being over in the store of W. W. Abernathy lately he showed me the new Hoodier Kitchen Cabinets and if I was a housewife I would certainly take hubby by the hand and gently lead him to it, for if there was ever one thing constructed for the benefit of the lady of the kitchen this Hoodier thing is the best. It is well constructed right from the ground up and the man who made it must have been a perfect lady for it is built to save steps in the kitchen and there seems to be a place for everything. Such a piece of furniture in the kitchen will save the housekeeper many steps besides keeping all the utensils and the makings neat and clean. All the housekeeper needs is to sit down in front of the kitchen cabinet and everything opens out before her all ready for use. It does everything in the household except pay the bills, and I really believe it will be a great help in this direction. The sooner we get things better in the kitchen the sooner we are getting nearer to the right principle, for the fine furniture in the parlor does not help us to get something to eat in the best and most sanitary fashion.

Wherever annul is to be fought, there is gambling. In the Journal of Religious Psychology Mr. Albert N. Gilbertson notes that winter gambling is one of the favorite amusements of the Eskimo, and he quotes the following statement on the "passionate gamblers" among the Alaskan natives of the Ungava district, described by Holmberg:

"Gambling is carried on to such a degree among both sexes that even their own lives are staked upon the issue of a game. The winner often obtains the wife of his opponent, and holds her until some tempting offer is made for her return. The only article they possess is frequently wagered, and when they lose they are greeted with derision."

London.—A remarkable coincidence that would be hard to beat is reported by the Manchester Guardian.

Just before the opening of the battle of Diamond Hill, in the Boer war, four soldiers, complete strangers, met around an overturned keg for a hearty meal. After the meal one produced a bad fortune, which was neatly cut into quarters, and a compact was made that each man should wear the memento on his watch chain should he survive. The four, who belonged to different regiments, then went into action and from that moment neither heard anything of the other until recently, when a farewell dinner was being given to a popular man in Birmingham, who was going abroad. The four then with amusement recognized each other by the pieces of metal attached to their watch guards.

All knew the guest of the evening intimately, and one of them had sent an invitation to the others.

The new Hoodier thing does just that and I take great pleasure in calling attention to it.

As I said before, the sidewalks are being constructed to Sanford Heights and ere long there will be many beautiful homes built out there. It is certainly the most beautiful part of Sanford.

I believe the weather has much to do with the human passions and in looking over the papers this week I discover that there have been numerous killings here and there and everywhere and it would seem that it is more difficult to curb our passion and prejudice in the hot weather than it is in the winter time. If this is true the people should curb this spirit that would take offense at every trivial or fancied insult and overlook what might be taken as a slight but is not so intended. Few of us care to turn the other cheek for a blow given but at the same time many of us could use more diplomacy in the words spoken. Remember that it is summer time and the blood is hot.

There is absolutely nothing doing here on the Fourth of July and as every one seems to be going away somewhere I believe it will be the proper thing for the men of the family to go to Woodland Park where a nice quiet day can be spent in the shade and the cooling waters of the springs. Let the young seek the pleasures of the far shores and the older ones will stay at home and rest.

Tobacco Monopoly.
The president of Uruguay has submitted to the general assembly for approval a contract signed by the minister of finance, for the purpose of establishing a tobacco monopoly. This contract provides for the concession to a private company, for a term of 25 years, of the sole right to import, purchase, manufacture and sell tobacco in all its forms. The present manufacturers and dealers may become stockholders in the new company for the value of their plants and stocks on hand plus a bonus, or they may dispose of their establishments, machinery and stocks to the company at actual value plus a bonus. The company is to pay the state $1,300,000 annually during the first five years, $1,757,800 from the sixth to the thirteenth year, and from the thirteenth to the end of the twenty-fifth year $2,068,000. After 25 years the monopoly shall revert to the state.

Parenthood.
The blame, then, for the boy who goes wrong does not rest with the boy himself, or yet with his remote ancestors. It rests squarely with the parents who, through ignorance or neglect, have failed to mold him aright in the plastic days of childhood. What is needed, especially in this complex civilization of ours, with its myriad temptations and temptations, is a livelier appreciation of the responsibilities as well as the privileges of parenthood. Most of all, perhaps, from the point of view of coping with the problem of vice and crime, do parents need to appreciate that it is in the very first years of their children's lives that the work of character building should be begun.—From "The Boy Who Goes Wrong," by H. Addington Bruce, in The Century.

CAPE COD NOW AN ISLAND

By Opening of Sluiceway Waters of the Two Bays Mingle in the Canal.

Buzzards Bay—By the opening of a sluiceway in Foley's dike, the chief obstacle that remains in the Cape Cod canal, the waters of Cape Cod bay and Buzzards bay mingled for the first time recently and the cape itself became an island.

August Belmont, president of the canal construction company, poured together bottles of water, one taken from Cape Cod bay and the other from Buzzards bay, as the sluiceway was opened, and said:

"May the mingling of these waters bring happiness and prosperity to our country and save some of the misery which the waters of the cape have caused in the past."

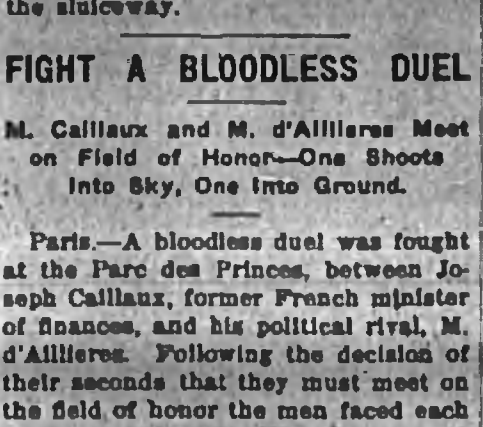

The canal is not expected to be ready for traffic for several months, for there is still considerable dredging to be done. The dike will be removed, probably on June 21, with the 5th anniversary of the beginning of the work on the canal. By July 4 small vessels will be able to go through the new waterway.

The opening of the sluiceway was for the purpose of permitting herring to pass through the canal. They abound in Monument river, over the course of which the canal runs for some distance. Shadrach Smith promised Mr. Belmont to catch for him the first herring that passed through the sluiceway.

FIGHT A BLOODLESS DUEL

M. Caillaux and M. d'Aillieres Meet on Field of Honor—One Shoots Into Sky, One Into Ground.

Paris.—A bloodless duel was fought at the Parc des Princes, between Joseph Caillaux, former French minister of finance, and his political rival, M. d'Aillieres. Following the decision of their seconds that they must meet on the field of honor the men faced each other with pistols at 25 paces. Caillaux, who fired first, pointed the muzzle of his pistol to the sky; d'Aillieres fired into the ground. Then General Delstein, formerly military governor of Paris, who acted as master of ceremonies, declared honor satisfied.

TO GET RID OF RED ANTS

Red ants can make a house almost uninhabitable. One can get rid of them, however, if one knows how. The first thing to do is to find the place they come from—i. e., where the nest is. If it is in an accessible spot, a little kerosene will quickly stop the trouble. On the other hand, if the nest is in the wall or under the floor, find the nearest accessible point, and kill the insects off as they appear.

FOR CLEANING TINWARE

First wash the tin in hot soap suds and wipe thoroughly dry. Then pour with dry flour, applied with an old newspaper.

SANFORD LANDS BRING THE PRICE SALES ARE BEING MADE DAILY

A GOOD SEASON INSPIRES CONFIDENCE IN THE CELERY DELTA

LARGER ACREAGE WILL BE PLANTED

THE SEASON OF 1914-1915 PROMISES TO BE MOST PROSPEROUS ONE IN SANFORD

The prospects for a good crop of vegetables and new citizens were never brighter than just now almost on the eve of another planting of the seed beds from which the big crops will be raised in the celery delta.

On account of the good season last year there are many returning to the farms that a few years ago looked anything but inviting. Many new people are writing about the prices of Sanford land and many of the old growers are adding to their possessions and expect to farm more acres next season.

All of which means that real estate has started to move and that the scenes of activity will again be noticeable in the Sanford section. The many improvements being made in the city with the chances good for the starting of the new tourist hotel are also calling attention to our city, and between city and country there will not be many dull moments during the winter season.

At least six improved farms have been sold here this week but on account of a delay in the abstracts and deeds that had to be sent out of the state the deals are not to be made public at this time, but the property has been sold.

There are also several deals to be made in a few days in city property as many people come to Florida at the season of the year to procure their winter homes before the rush begins later in the season.

Many of the farmers are busy hauling muck and making other improvements and ere long the summer visitors will return from the mountains and seaside resorts and the real work of making money from Sanford soil begin in earnest.

Lake Gaining Ground Hon. Forrest Lake, member of the Florida legislature from Seminole county, and candidate for speaker of the house during the next term, is making good headway in his canvass to secure this important position.

He has been in various sections of the state recently and gotten in first-hand touch with the members and upon his return home today he found a great mass of mail awaiting him relating to the same topic, so it is believed that Mr. Lake will have little or no trouble in landing the place as he has a universal favorite with members in the last house from all parts of the state and as Mr. Lake is what is known as a progressive Democrat of the latest approved type, it seems that he will have fair weather and easy sailing to the coveted goal.

As the speaker for the 1915 house came from West Florida and the speaker for the 1913 house came from north Florida and it is generally conceded that this time the speakership should be given to Peninsular Florida as a matter of equity and justice.

Forrest Lake has been a resident of Florida for the past twenty years and has been prominently identified with the vast development that has taken place in the state within that period. For a number of years he was owner of the ice plant and waterworks of this city, all of which he sold last fall to a corporation operating in various cities in Florida. In 1911 he was elected as a member of the house, was re-elected in 1913 and has just been returned as a member of the house by his constituency without opposition.

This makes Mr. Lake one of the oldest members in the coming legislature and the fact that he has served on many important committees during his incumbency gives him an insight into preliminary affairs that will be of great value to the house. During the past session through the courtesy of Speaker Payne he was called upon at various times, all of which he did with credit to his co-workers. Times-Union.

READY FOR BIG RACE

Five Contestants for Honors at Daytona Beach

The entry list for the cars that will compete in the auto races at Daytona Beach on July 4th has closed and six cars have entered. Each car will contest in the three feature races, of one mile, five miles and twenty miles.

The entry list for the stock touring car races will not close until the day of the races, giving all drivers an opportunity to enter.

Orlando furnishes three of the six entries for the big races, and Sanford, Euatis and Bradentown each furnished one. Five makes of cars will be contestants and every car entered is capable of making at least seventy five miles an hour and some good records are expected Saturday.

The complete list of entries is as follows:

O. P. Harndon, Sanford, Overland car.

W. M. Warren, Bradentown, National car.

Henry Self, Euatis, Premier.

Cook Auto Co., Orlando, Buick.

Gray-Rush, Orlando, Ford.

S. B. Hutton, Orlando, National.

A number of the cars entered have already been taken to the beach and tried out, and the drivers are each confident that records will be broken for amateur race meets.

The handsome silver cups for which the racers will contest will probably be on display today at T. H. Evans' jewelry store on Orange avenue. They were expected yesterday but failed to arrive.

Two of the judges for the races have been selected from Orlando. They are Hon. Seth Woodruff and City Commissioner S. A. Johnson.

The third judge will be selected from some other point, probably Daytona. Orlando Sentinel.

Hudson a Candidate

Tallahassee, July 3.—All doubt as to his probable candidacy for governor in 1916 was removed today when the resignation of Senator F. M. Hudson as counsel for the railroad commission was made public, he declaring his purpose to be a candidate as his main reason for resigning.

When interviewed as to his action Senator Hudson had the following to say:

"My resignation has been contemplated for some time. The commissioners had notice some months ago of my intention to resign, to take effect July 1, but circumstances arose which made it advisable to postpone such action for the time being. My resignation will take effect at the pleasure of the commissioners, but not later than April 1, 1916. I have fixed that final limit for several reasons. In the first place during April and May of next year my time must be given to my duties as a member of the senate. In the next place my private affairs need more attention than I can give them in my present position. Finally it is my intention to be a candidate for governor in the primary election of 1916, and I desire to be free to devote to the campaign as much time as may be necessary.

Union Sunday Evening Services

Beginning next Sunday evening, July 5, for the months of July and August, the members of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches will unite to hold their evening services, at 7:30, in the Star. It is wise and good, in more ways than one, that this Christian fellowship should thus be manifested; it is in harmony with the present day spirit of denominational fraternity which is seen all over our land; indeed, no ecclesiastical organization does so doing.

The ministers of these churches will unite in conducting the services, each one taking turns while here in preaching. The following program for the preaching of the sermon will be followed for July:

July 5—Rev. F. P. Strong.

July 12—Rev. F. E. Steinhilber.

July 19—Rev. Smith Hardin, Presiding Elder of M. E.

July 26—Rev. E. D. Brownlee.

It is further desired that the choir of these churches shall help in leading the singing, which will be looked after by Mr. Woodruff. All are urged to help make this a splendid union effort.

MEXICO AND THE U. S. MAKE A TREATY; VIRTUALLY SETTLED

THE MEXICAN AMBASSADOR HAS GIVEN OUT THE INFORMATION

SAYS STATEMENT MADE THIS WEEK

PEACE FACT HAS NOT YET BEEN MADE, BUT THERE IS ONE READY

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 3.—Ambassador DaGama, of Brazil, today formally announced the virtual settlement of the conflict between the United States and Mexico. The ambassador explained that while mediation would take an immediate recess awaiting the outcome of efforts by representatives of the two Mexican factions to solve the internal problems of Mexico the task of mediation was not yet concluded, though an essential part of its work had been accomplished.

The ambassador spoke at a luncheon given by the three mediators to newspaper correspondents. The entire Mexican and Huerta delegations to the mediation conference were present and the remarks of Mr. DaGama, after careful revision, were made public later, constituting a formal statement of the mediation work thus far.

"It is a source of satisfaction for me," said the ambassador, "to be able to say that one of the essential points of our program, that dealing with the international side of the conflict is virtually settled. This does not imply that we go home with our task concluded, but we feel that so far we have averted war.

"We have established also through agreement between the parties most directly interested—and in complete harmony with the sentiments of the government of the United States that it is a principle of American policy to have our national problems always given a fair examination and settled without foreign interference. We understand that if a result has been attained we shall have created a more favorable atmosphere in international politics in America."

Mr. DaGama called attention to the fact that President Wilson personally had informed the mediators before they left Washington that the only way to solve Mexico's problem was to aid "the contending parties in Mexico to reach an agreement among themselves, thus obtaining a Mexican solution of the Mexican question."

In this manner, the ambassador revealed that the course mediation has taken was in President Wilson's mind from the beginning.

The speech served also as a definition for the world generally of the hitherto unsettled status of mediation. Ambassador DaGama and Minister Neaon had planned to leave tonight, but found many details to arrange and postponed their departure until tomorrow. The Washington government would have preferred that the mediation board remain here while the constitutionalists were urged to act quickly on the invitation already extended.

The mediators tonight formally acknowledged the latest note from Gen. Carranza. The answer expresses appreciation for Carranza's friendly sentiments toward peace and is courteously phrased. It will be made public tomorrow.

The American delegate today received word from Washington to leave here when they thought advisable, but they will be the last to go. The Huerta delegates received formal instructions from their government giving them plenary powers to discuss internal questions with constitutionalists.

Card of Thanks

The committee in charge of the Smuggleman express their cordial thanks to all who contributed in any degree to the success of the operetta. To the merchants who gave their aid; to the Herald for its generous advertising; to the owners of the machines in the parade and to the children who gave their time and talents. Thanks are also due Messrs. Thresher, Williams and Smith for their courtesy.

TEACHERS MUST WAIT

Orlando Public School Muddle Not Yet Straightened

Attorneys Giles & Davis, who represented the school teachers in their recent mandamus suit to compel Dr. J. F. McKinnon, county superintendent, to sign their salary warrants for the last two months of the school term, have appealed from Judge Perkins' decision to the supreme court.

In his decision Judge Perkins did not go into the merits of the contention further than to judicially assert the standing of the county superintendent as secretary of the school board. He held that the county superintendent serving in such capacity had the right to exercise discretion in the performance of his duties. In this view the superintendent had a right to refuse to sign the warrants if he thought proper to do so.

Mr. LeRoy Giles who made the argument in the case, and who was formerly chairman of the local board of school trustees was not satisfied with this construction of the law and wished to obtain the opinion of the supreme court on it. He holds to the view that the duties of the superintendent as secretary of the board are wholly ministerial, which is to say, that the secretary must carry out the dictates of the board irrespective of his own opinions.

The supreme court usually takes recess about this time of year until October, and if the court is about to recess for the summer, it is probable that decision will be delayed for several months.

In the meantime the teachers are waiting for their money with no immediate prospect of getting it. Reporter-Star.

Tax Sale Next Monday

The first sale of lands in Seminole county for delinquent taxes will take place at the court house next Monday afternoon, at which time Tax Collector Jinks will sell all lands on which the state and county taxes have not been paid, and although taxes have been paid up remarkably well there is considerable property on which the taxes still remain unpaid.

The law requires the Tax Collector to advertise delinquent taxes for five weeks, which has been done in the Sanford Herald, in each Tuesday's issue for the past five weeks, if at the end of that time the taxes and costs of advertising have not been paid the sale is made at the next legal sale day, which is the first Monday in the succeeding month, beginning at 12:00 o'clock noon. The property is offered for sale for the taxes and costs of advertising and sale. If no one bids on it it is bid in by the Tax Collector for the State of Florida. If two persons are bidding against each other, the bid the same amount of money, as shown by the tax advertisement, but bid to pay said amount for a smaller piece of land to be taken out of the southeast corner; the balance of the property remains unincumbered. Should the owner wish to redeem the land after it is sold he can do so by going to the clerk of the circuit court, and paying all costs, and tax, and interest at the rate of 25 per cent for the first year or fraction thereof, and 8 per cent after the first year. In case the property was sold to an individual the amount he paid out is returned to him with the interest at the above rate; if the state bid it in then the interest goes to the state. At the expiration of two years a tax deed may be secured from the clerk, if the land has not been redeemed by the original owner.

ONLY THREE CHURCHES

Of Sanford Will Have Union Services in the Star Theater

Only three Sanford churches will have union services in the Star Theater as announced in the paper of Tuesday. The mistake was made in the announcement that the Holy Cross Parish would join in the union services but they will continue to hold services in their church at the corner of Park avenue and Fourth Street.

The Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches only will hold union services beginning next Sunday night, July 6th.

A MILLION MORE THAN ESTIMATED

OTHER NEWS OF THE WORLD AT LARGE COMPILED FOR BUSY HERALD READERS

Washington, July 3.—There is much joy today among Democrats because the Wilson administration closed the fiscal year with an income exceeding the ordinary expenses by nearly $94,000,000.

The treasury department announced total receipts for the year of more than $784,000,000.

This is a million and a half more than Secretary McAdoo estimated.

Freemason, N. Y., July 3.—The murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey is still unsolved and no arrests have been made.

The police think that either a lunatic or a woman fired the shot through the window. Dr. Carman's wife told the police that she had a concealed telephone in her husband's office where the shooting occurred and was comforted by what she heard.

Washington, July 3.—J. P. Morgan was expected to call on President Wilson today to discuss business conditions. It is the first informal conference the President plans to hold with a number of industrial and financial leaders.

Old "Bob" Is Dead

He was only a horse but he was a good one, and having lived to a ripe old age had been pensioned by his kindhearted master and during his declining years had nothing to do but eat grass and recline in the shade of the orange trees on the Miller grove southwest of the city. Bob was the old gray horse that had worked for the firm of T. J. Miller & Son for the past twenty-four years. He had worked for other people thirteen years before that and last year the Millers decided that Bob was due for the pension department and he was given the freedom of their farm and orange groves with nothing to do but wait for his entrance into the horse heaven.

He was just 37 years of age and easy living seemed to be too much for him and he departed this life last Monday afternoon. He was given decent burial just outside of the cemetery to which spot he had hauled many a deceased resident during his younger days. It is a pity that more people were not as kind to the animals that have served them faithfully and when their days of work are over place the dumb creatures on the pension list and make their last days peaceful and full of feed.

More Dangerous Crossings

Editor Herald:

The Herald in mentioning railroad crossings in the city limits the other day overlooked one of the most dangerous of all, the one at the big ice plant on First street and one that is more extensively traveled than any other street of the city, both by the farmers and people travelling across the state. Every day some one has a narrow escape on this crossing as all the through trains and the switch trains use this track and the danger is there always. There is no provision made at any time for the protection of the people who are obliged to cross here in going and coming to town and back and some time there will be some very serious accidents at this crossing. With the increased number of automobiles the danger is increasing and the railroad should do something at these crossings to protect the people. I do not wish to place any hardship on the railroad and have nothing to suggest in the way of gates or watchmen but would say that if the flagmen or some of the employees of the company would be allowed by their superiors to pay some slight attention to vehicles at the crossings it would lessen the danger.

Accident to Her Eye

Mrs. Endor Curlett and her sister, Miss Icehour of Geneva were in the city Tuesday to consult Dr. Neal. Miss Icehour, while opening a box of pineapples at her home had a nail or particle of the box strike her glasses, breaking them and sending a small particle into the eye, making a serious wound and one that caused her intense pain and suffering. It is to be hoped that Miss Icehour will not suffer any serious injury to the eye, although it may be necessary for her to consult a specialist at Baltimore if the injury develops into something more serious.

Hayman Sells Out

W. Z. Hayman, who has been operating a turpentine still at Osteen for the past three years has sold his entire holdings at that place to Ivey & Co., who in the future will operate the still. Mr. Hayman is undecided where he will locate, but in investigating several places in the state, his many friends here will hate to lose him from their midst for Zaak Hayman is always a good fellow, no matter where he may be.

SMUGGLEMAN GREAT PLAY

Amateur Performance by Youngsters was Greatly Enjoyed

The performance of the Smuggleman by the children of the Junior Civic League at the Imperial last Tuesday night was enjoyed by the many who came out to see the children take part. The children had been hard at work for the past week under the direction of Miss Aspinwall, to whose wonderful development of the latent possibilities in the children is due the success of the playlet. It was a mixture of songs, chorus and solo work and various other stunts that displayed the talents of the children from mere infants to those fifteen years of age, and from the smallest to the largest they carried out their individual parts in great style.

The scene opened with the Mothers' Garden and the girls dressed as Mothers in ancient costume sang a chorus. Then came the children, Toots the bad boy, Reginald Holly and Billy the good boy, Alfred Robinson, Toot's mother, Lillian Herring and Billy's mother, Clarence Hand. The chorus of mothers and grandmothers and the song, "Whose Little Boy" followed.

The Mother Goose characters then made their entry and this brought forth generous applause, the little tots being so sweet. Little Camilla Puleston as Jill; Willio Garing as Jack had her hand. Theodora Miller as Bo Peep, Thomas Wight as Humpty Dumpty, Iva Wauthen as Mother Goose, Sara Wight Old Lady in Shoes, Paul Strong and Waverly Abernathy as Ding Dong Bell Boys, Olive Newman as Mistress Mary. The character song were splendid and consisted of "The Big College" by Newton Lovell, "Down on the Ohio" by Miss Elinor Herring and Reginald Holly and "I've Got the Mumps" by Miss Welma Graves and Mollie Abernathy.

The Smuggleman cleverly taken by Clarence Mahoney then proceeded to steal the little boys, all of which required much singing and many speaking parts, the different characters being faithfully portrayed by the boys and girls. Clarence Mahoney in the song, "I'll Steal Out at Night" with the gnomes and also the song, "The Twilight Boat" was in good voice. The soprano solo, "The Man in the Moon is Wise" by Miss Virginia Brady and "The Moonshine Man" by Mrs. Vance Douglas were well rendered and well received.

After the Smuggleman had been caught with the goods by the Fairy Queen and restored the kidnapped boys to their mothers the entire company rendered the "Galloping Song," "My Country's Flag" and "Dixie" as a Grand Finale to a very pretty playlet and one that reflects great credit upon the boys and girls who took part and their instructor, Miss Aspinwall.

The Junior Civic League netted a nice sum of money for their work in beautifying the city and the children have not only gained valuable instruction but they are enabled to assist in making Sanford more beautiful in many ways.
