IT'S TRUE! That upward spiral of price rise hasn't so much as budged Greyhound fares. They have remained normal - just as low as before-the-war days. This is more remarkable too, since costs and maintenance of operating bus lines have risen sharply all along the line.

How does Greyhound do it? Well - it's no trade secret. The backbone of Greyhound Lines formula for success is more and better service to more people. Expansion and augmented service... efficient operation and the introduction of newest equipment have all combined to hold the line on bus fares.

Best Harvest In U.S. History Is Anticipated

Agriculture Department Issues Prediction In Spite Of Cut In Corn Crop

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (AP) — The Department of Agriculture today predicted the biggest harvest in the nation's history. Its September survey made this prediction despite the dry weather in August which cut 125,000,000 bushels off the anticipated corn crop. The corn crop was estimated at 3,371,707,000 bushels, as compared with the previous record crop of 3,201,000,000 bushels produced in 1934.

The Agriculture Department also said that grain supplies for livestock feedings will be the largest in 27 years. Department officials declared that it will be possible to allot a greater amount of grains to whiskey-making if foreign demands do not turn out to be larger than anticipated.

There also is a good prospect of the largest amount of bread grains in history, with a forecast of a record wheat crop of 1,107,000,000 bushels, and a near record rice crop of 69,629,000 bushels.

Other crops for which record or near-record production was forecast included tobacco, peanuts, grapes, cherries and sugar cane. Average of better than average crops of hay, soybeans, dry peas, prunes, apricots and sugar beets are expected.

9,200 Workers In Detroit Are Idle In Labor Dispute

DETROIT, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Two factories employing 9,200 workers were made idle by labor disputes today in the Detroit area. Picket lines were set up at the Dodge truck plant of the Chrysler corporation and employees refused to cross them. A Chrysler spokesman said the company was forced to order a 24-hour layoff of 700 men because of a shortage of steering gears. The pickets declared they everybody work or nobody works. The plant employs 4,200 persons.

At the Timken-Detroit Axle Company plant, 5,000 workers were idled by a dispute over piece work rates. A CIO United Auto Workers spokesman said union members refused to work in protest over the discharge of 20 former servicemen. The veteran had walked off the job after an argument over the piece work rates.

The injured nurse is Miss Betty Overdurf of Indianapolis.

A mail at the hospital told the superintendent, Dr. John D. Van Natta, that she encountered the assailant as she left her room after hearing a scream. She fled through the same window by which he had gained entrance.

U. S. Foreign Policy May Become Major Issue In Fall Elections

There are signs in Washington today that foreign policy may become a major issue in this fall's congressional elections. This subject was subordinated during wartime political campaigns but now rumblings in this direction have come from the Republican camp. For instance, Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire recently called into the administration policy toward Yugoslavia after Marshal Tito's armies shot down an American transport plane.

Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace has also served notice that he intends to raise the issue of foreign policy in his political speech at New York tomorrow. Wallace announced that he will discuss the Republican contribution to peace after World War I and what they have to offer after this war, if they get a chance.

GOP National Chairman Carl Hesse stated in a radio address from Detroit yesterday that Democratic party policies are dictated by an alien ideology. At the same time Missouri Republicans, in convention at Jefferson City, adopted a platform which hits at Communism as the nation's greatest peril.

Meanwhile, Harold E. Stassen, who is generally regarded as a candidate for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, is going to learn at first hand what makes the world tick so erratically in some of its troubled spots. He plans to take a three-month recess from domestic politics early next year for a study of European political and economic conditions. Stassen believes that economic conditions are going to have a lot to do with future peace and he's not going to take somebody else's word for what's going on. He wants to see for himself.

The former Minnesota governor will travel on his own with only an ordinary citizen's passport. One part of his trip is scheduled to take him into Russia and the Balkans through a personal invitation from Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov. The invitation was extended during the San Francisco meeting of the United Nations and later on Monday indicated he really meant it.

Washington observers in the Democratic camp are quite optimistic about the future. The current issue of the official party publication, the Democrat, points out that the defeat or withdrawal of about 20 disreputable Democrats

Sanford And Orlando Begin Series Tonight

C. Bisson And S. Cary To Hurl In First Game Of Playoff At Tinker Field

By JULIAN STENSTROM
Manager Ed Levy's Celery Febs, packed full of vim, vigor and vitality after their outstanding victory over the St. Augustine Saints before more than 3,000 fans last night at the Municipal Park, will travel to Orlando tonight where they will tackle the Majestic's pennant winning Orlando Senators in the initial contest of the final league series. Charlie Bisson, diminutive Fed tightlander will receive the hurling assignment from Manager Ed Levy for the first tonight. Bisson's opponent on the hill will be Orlando's speedy little pitcher, Scott Cary. Bisson has topped by hits this season while dropping seven, and Cary has 22 victories and seven defeats.

The Sanford-St. Augustine series drew more than 12,000 fans, some 1,000 more than the Deland-Senator playoff but the final series is expected to shatter all league records. A crowd of 2,500 is expected to be on hand for tonight's tilt in Orlando and a like number will probably come to the Municipal Park tomorrow evening here in Sanford when the two clubs meet in the second game.

The umpires for the series will be Spike Davis, Tex. Coffey and Bill Foxworth. The game may well be the final one of the Sanford-St. Augustine play-off.

Baseball today was on the lips of practically every man, woman and child in the city. Small groups and large groups, gathered at various places in the business district were all talking baseball and discussing the chances of the Febs against the powerful Orlando aggregation.

The majority of the fans seemed to believe that Orlando had the stronger club, but many of them agreed that it may be an even trip. The "darlings" of Tinker Field tonight it will be a first for anybody's money. The first game, they said, would be one of the most important for the Febs to take.

At the start of this season the locals had almost an equal break at Tinker Field and there's no doubt that 1,200 to 1,500 Sanford fans will be on hand for the contest in Orlando.

American Spokesman Action Is Taken In Interests Of World Stability

PARIS, Sept. 11. (AP) — The United States today renounced any claim to reparations from Italy, in the interests of world stability. The American spokesman in the Italian Economic Commission declared that the United States did not propose to pour help into Italy, only to have it go to other countries as reparations.

The American spokesman was William Thrupp. He estimated that $300,000,000 of America's total war cost of more than $235,000,000,000 could be attributed to the Italian campaign. Thrupp added that since the war the United States has sent more than $1,000,000,000 in credits into Italy to bolster its ailing economy. He said this was in addition to paying the Italian government more than $100,000,000 for Army equipment which America might have sold to other countries.

Wish After War

(From The Lyric)
It is long since I have written Of moons and roses, and suns on the autumn hill.
Of love by night, and the morning opens,
the evening closes.
Are there songs in them still?
The world was ill, and I had slowly sickened within, the danger without;
And body and nerve and brain had squirmed and quickened
To pain and horror and doubt.

Till nothing was worthy of singing, I thought, but sorrow
And steel and trouble and trouble and steel and blood,
And I would write of those and of Man's tomorrow
After his torturing flood

Of battles that I must bear . . .
And battle's gathered;
The storms of heaven long; the skies of death were sullen,
But light has burst, and we are April-weathered,
And sun-lit silence has fallen.

O swiftly may I turn from the iron dreaming
And be awhile with music, music sung
Of sweet and ancient things,
clean and gleaming,
It has been long

Since I have worked with words alone, their singing,
The singing that Swinburne knew, the Grecian style Of song with the sound of winds and of swallows winging,
I have need of such music available.

JAMES E. WARREN Jr.
Summer Welles, former Undersecretary of State, and sometimes regarded as America's foremost statesman, says a crisis in world standards, between Russia and the Western Powers (especially the United States and Britain) is now inevitable. He adds the most serious dispute of all has arisen since the Soviet government has undertaken "to browbeat and threaten" the Greek people.

The biggest obstacle to Sanford's becoming a tourist resort, is now, as it always has been, not the lack of recreational facilities, not the lack of suitable and sufficient hotels, apartments, and other tourist accommodations, not a climate that is too cold in winter, or too wet in summer, but too many native residents who cannot see where they would profit from tourists, and who are suspicious of strangers anyway.

Governor Caldwell has invited Florida newspaper publishers, editors and what have you, to sit down with him in a perfectly frank discussion of Florida's problems and other matters pertaining to state government. No holds will be barred, he said, and it will be on or off the record (that is, public or private) as may seem best at the time. It would pay more of our political leaders to confer more frequently with newspapermen on matters of public policy for no one is more closely connected with the public opinion than the men who dig up and write the news of what people are doing.

What happens when a community is particularly hospitable to one group of tourists is often illustrated by the immediate arrival of another group of tourists.
It was only a week or two ago that 12 Estonians, thoroughly fed up with the persecution under the Soviet regime, landed in Miami from Cuba, and in Miami after a stormy voyage across the Atlantic in a little sail boat. They were cordially received. Monday morning more refugees from the same country have hit port in a 33 year old badly scuffed fishing boat. The Russian three-ton boat of them "In 24 hours period I saw 15,000 helpless people carried away for forced labor in the Soviet Union."

American Frankness

There's nothing lethargic about American public opinion. The people of this country may sometimes be slow to organize and act, but they are quick to say what they think.

The State Department has been taking advantage of that characteristic. Officials have observed that the sooner they get news to the people, the sooner people all over the country will fire back their opinions. When they approve what their Washington representatives are doing, that force of a solid, alert public opinion, backing the moves of diplomats, is something to make any foreign government sit up and notice.

Americans are equally quick to be critical, however, and government men have learned that, right or wrong, they can't go contrary to public thought for any length of time and get away with it in this democracy.

Their formerly reticent State Department apparently realizes now that the best way to keep public opinion with it is to keep the citizens informed of American problems and American procedures throughout the world. Information service has been speeded up so that recently American newspapers have been able to follow some international negotiations by only a few hours.

In the United States, people like and expect to know what is going on. It is a healthy state of affairs when they can feel that they are able to keep track of their government and support it or attack it as they see fit. Governments which are not willing to keep their own people informed seem to be somewhat in awe of the American method of frankness.

Indonesian State

Which will get independence first, India or the Dutch East Indies? India gets more space in the headlines, but the East Indies seem to have made more real progress. The Indonesian Nationalists have control of Java and Sumatra, and it would be far from easy for the Dutch to push them out.

The Dutch have now sent former premier Willem Schermerhorn out to the Far East to see on what terms he can get a treaty. The outlook is now that his best idea will be to recognize the independence of Java and Sumatra and in return gain three years before other islands can vote on joining the new Indonesian state. Further matters will have to be determined by a treaty between the Netherlands and Indonesia.

Thus in a very few years the Dutch East Indies have become the Japanese East Indies, and now are on the way to becoming a new Indonesian state. This will hit the Dutch hard, as most of their wealth has come from the East, and they have the losses from the German occupation to make good. But they will probably do well to settle for what they can get.

Elmer L. Irey, Nemesis Of Public Enemies, Is Retiring At Age Of 58

WASHINGTON (AP)—Elmer L. Irey, who was the nemesis of public enemies "Al" Capone, "Waxy" Gordon and "Dutch" Schultz, is a mild-mannered man who admits that in private life he sometimes just "likes to sit."

He is retiring at the age of 58 as chief coordinator of the Treasury's law enforcement agencies, after 40 years in government service.

"I have a heart condition and two sons who are physicians," he says. "I am going to take their advice and take it easier in order to live longer."

Irey says he will do some tax consultant work with a Washington law firm and take time dawdling at his winter home at Sarasota, Fla., and his summer place on Chesapeake Bay.

One of the most popular men in the government, he told me he will miss his wide circle of friends upon retirement.

They will miss him too after long years of association. Especially his secretary, Mrs. Derna Williams, who has been with him 22 years and who is still a member of the Treasury's Intelligence unit.

She said that the tall, broad-shouldered man with the easy smile is one of the most even-tempered men she ever knew. His only gripe is "people who deliberately and feloniously defraud the government."

Irey was born in Kansas City but raised in Washington, where his parents were government workers. He started his long career as a clerk in the office of the chief postal inspector in 1907. His first job was to take down reports on investigations conducted in the Postal Inspection Service.

When the late Daniel C. Roper was appointed Commissioner of Internal Revenue by President Wilson in 1919, Irey moved into the bureau with him.

Here it was his task to supervise investigation of income tax frauds, which had reached scandalous proportions with the increase in rates during the World War.

Taking along five of his former colleagues in the postal service, he organized an intelligence unit that was the nucleus of an organization now numbering about 1,300 trained investigators.

Working through six different units, they are the watch dogs most immediately concerned with protecting Uncle Sam's money.

Irey has had supervision over law enforcement activities of the Secret Service, the Customs Service, the Alcohol Tax Unit, the Intelligence Unit, the Bureau of Narcotics and the Coast Guard.

In the famous case of "Al" Capone, Irey created a secret "C" squad, headed by Frank J. Wilson, chief of the U. S. Secret Service.

While no other agency had been able to "pin anything on the gangster, the investigation of the "T-Men" resulted in long sentences to federal prisons for "Al" and his aides.

Irey also had a part in breaking up the Pendergast machine in Kansas City and the Huey Long machine in New Orleans.

Foreign Policy May Become Major Issue

(Continued From Page One) is a sign that the anti-administration coalition may be broken. The defeat of Representatives Roger Slaughter of Missouri and Lyle Boren of Oklahoma are given as examples of a trend against obstructionists.

Democratic National Publicity Director Sant O'Neal declared the dissident Democrats were an indispensable nucleus of the coalition with Republicans. It was this opposition team that succeeded in defeating or amending to death some of the legislation proposed by President Truman. O'Neal said now that this democratic nucleus is gone the effectiveness of the coalition will be considerably reduced.

State Of Utah Faces Loss Of Whole City

AP Newsfeatures Utah—Wendover—Lying two-thirds in Utah and one-third in Nevada on a scorching western desert—wants to go Nevada all the way.

Lester Giffen, chairman of the Wendover Development Association said he has sought to confer with Gov. Herbert H. Mous of Utah regarding a shift of the boundary eastward.

Giffen said most Wendover residents feel they are ignored by the rest of the state. He admitted also, that the more liberal liquor and gambling laws of Nevada are an attraction.

Another thing—tourists don't have to bother with sales taxes on things they buy in the Nevada side of town as they do in the Utah section.

Hints To Housewives

Weekly from Home Demonstration Specialist, Tallahassee

SCISSORS AND SHEARS—Much used and much abused, these are the story of scissors and shears in too many households. Scissors and shears are designed for different uses. Scissors are usually smaller than shears and are used for snipping and trimming. Shears, which are designed for cutting fabric, are ordinarily six to 18 inches long, have one blade heavier than the other, and the handles are shaped differently. Right-handed and left-handed shears are on the market.

Like knives, good scissors and shears are easily damaged. The fine cutting edge is dulled by use on paper or cardboard, flowers, wet cloth or heavy string. Inexpensive utility shears should be kept on hand for such uses. Scissors should not be used on heavy fabric because this is likely not only to dull but to spring them. Good springs are permanently damaged. Dropping also may spring or break the blades. Points of scissors or shears never should be used to pry things open. Broken or bent points are the result.

Protect scissors and shears from rough knocks by hanging them up or keeping them in a box. In damp weather they may need to be protected against rust by wrapping in waxed paper.

Oiling is necessary every six months or so. Put a drop of sewing machine oil on both sides of the screw that holds the blades together and work the blades back and forth. Then wipe off excess oil. Keep scissors dust-free by wiping before and after using. If rust or dark spots appear, rub off roughness with fine sandpaper of steel wool and rub on a little oil. Sharpening may be done at home by skillful use of a file, but generally it pays to take good scissors and shears to an expert. Some of the best work is done by concerns specializing in barber's scissors.

Winifred Lovell Honors Miss Gormly

Those invited to be with the honoree were Miss Martha Wright, Miss Margaret Spencer, Miss Betty Wilkinson, Miss Catherine Spencer, Miss Lois Nipper of Orlando and Miss Louise Nordgren of Orlando.

Scottish Clans Vie In Battle Of Sexes

EDINBURGH (The reveal of the traditional Scottish highland gatherings culminating in the Royal Braemar gathering in September, to be attended by the King and Queen, has stirred up a lively war between the sexes in the heather-clad hills.)

The Braemar gathering of the clans has had a special place in the calendar ever since Queen Victoria and the royal approval of the first Braemar meeting in the Deeside mountains.

It is not the colorful march of the kilts and sporrans nor their madly feated tossing the caber, nor throwing the hammer that has stirred up controversy, but the dancing and piping competitions.

From his highland fastness at Oban, Atholl Robertson fired a broadside charging that highland gatherings have for too long been infested with small, predatory females, masquerading in male dress, and covered with as many medals as there are scales on a salmon.

Robertson, former member of Parliament, former chief of the Scottish Clans Association in London, editor of the Scots Year Book and a writer on highland customs, folk lore and legend, holds that the sole reason for the decline in "this manly art" of Scottish dancing has been the admission of women.

In the old days, he says, the dances were the prerogative of the male, and served to demonstrate the warrior's agility, endurance and lightness of foot. No woman, says Robertson, can perform on them properly, and highland ladies in the old days had the good sense and good manners to realize that.

Another round of shot came from Catherine Cairns, Tynshiel, Mel-lorhan, fired by Balfour Paul, enthusiast for highland dancing and piping.

Paul is of the opinion that the whole character of highland dancing can be shown only by a man in a kilt—the perky, jumpy movements being out of keeping with women's movements—and he is convinced that there is danger of the great art dying out. This also applies to piping competitions, on the ground that nothing looks so ridiculous as a woman piper.

If "performing mites and killed Amazons" must be included in the programs for the sake of encouraging tourists, then, he pleads, let there be no mixed competitions and let mites and women supply their own judges and not tax the nerves and stomachs of piping judges.

Maj. FitzRoy H. Fyers, assistant sergeant-at-arms in the House of Commons, has weighed in in support of Paul.

In mixed competitions at highland gatherings it is not uncommon for a girl to beat the male entrants, and the preponderance of girl competitors has tended to keep men out of the lists. To make matters worse, it is said that the majority of the girls hail from the lowlands.

The Gala Retort Counter-blasts from the women have so far been mild. Miss Winnie Stanley Brown, principal of the Edinburgh School for Dancing, says they have been doing it now for many years and have scored many successes.

There is no reason whatever, in her view, why girls should not engage in highland dancing. When a young woman gets beyond 20, however, she does not look well in kilt and stockings, says Miss Brown.

Mrs. E. H. Potter, Jr. Gives Cocktail Party

Mrs. Edward H. Potter, Jr. entertained with a cocktail party yesterday afternoon honoring Miss Estelle Hurt and Lieut. Edward McKeever, U. S. N. R. whose marriage will be an event of the near future at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rountall III in San Lanta section.

Martini and cognac were served to the guests on the lawn of the Rountall home by Mrs. Potter who was assisted by Mrs. F. E. Rountall III, Mrs. L. S. Hartsfield, Mrs. P. H. Tepsic and Mrs. Frank Ray.

Among those attending were Miss Hurt, Lieut. McKeever, honor guests, Mrs. William G. Moore, Mrs. Herbert Hill, Mrs. Frank Ray, Mrs. P. H. Tepsic, Mrs. Stull of Tallahassee and Mrs. Potter.

Also Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wright II, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Hartsfield, Mrs. M. R. Algemein Sprer, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Scott, Mr. and Mrs. David Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Michaels of Orlando and Mr. and Mrs. Rountall III.

BUDDY LAKE STARS AS FEDS COP PLAYOFF

Crowd Of 3,000 Electrified As Fed Outfielder Steals Home In Ninth Frame To Down St-Augustine

By ARTHUR DECKWITH, JR.

Herald Sports Editor.

Buddy Lake's theft of home plate completely electrified 3,000 screaming fans at the Municipal Park last night as the Sanford Celery Feds downed the St. Augustine Saints by a 2 to 1 score behind the beautiful hit-burline of Jim Schantel to cap the initial series.

Lake stole home with two away in the ninth frame to give the locals their winning margin for the game and for the series. It was the seventh game in the playoff, Sanford winning four and the Saints taking three.

The Saints were off to a one-run lead in the first of the seven games as Art Stillwell poked a long double to center followed by Stan Kurpinski's single to left to send Stillwell scampering across the plate. After this scoring spree Schantel was never in serious trouble.

In the fifth frame the Feds knew the count as Lake singled and advanced to third and Byron Sharp drove a sharp angle into center to drive Lake home. Sanford threatened to score in the seventh when the bases were loaded with one away. Ossie Glorig poked a hard drive back to Gene Smith who tossed to catcher Stillwell. Stillwell then fired the ball to Mario Perez at first base for a twin killing to retire the side.

The end game in the last of the ninth, Dave Hilde opened the frame by sending a fly ball down the right field foul line, taken by Lyle Jolly in a spectacular catch. Lake then strided to left-center, followed by Manager Levy's first hit of the series. Lake and Levy advanced on an infield out by Byron Sharpe.

Then came the climax of the most thrilling game of the season on the local park. Glorig strided on in the plate and watched two balls go by, then Glorig took a lousy cut at the ball for a 2-1 count. As Smith slowly began his next throw to the plate Lake began his memorable journey. Before Smith knew what was up, Lake was sliding into home with the winning margin for the ball game and the series. Smith's pitch was low and inside and Stillwell made a lunge for Lake, but was too late. The game was over, and Sanford was in the final playoff series with the Orlando Senators.

Jim Schantel pitched a magnificent game as he allowed only three free tickets and sent down a like number by the strike out route. The game was highlighted by the superb support given both pitchers by their teammates.

During the series with St. Augustine Lake poked the Saints hurlers for 10 hits in 24 trips to the plate for a lousy .417 average. Jerry Silverman hit safely nine times in 23 trips for .391. Al Bryant, with eight hits in 26 attempts had a .308 average and Ossie Glorig with six safeties in 23 trips completed the first round with .260 average. Tuttle had Levy one in 23, Brile four in 24, Levy one in 23, Sharpe three in 21, and Howington hit safely two times in eight trips.

Virginia Tech Still Has No Kicking Toe

AP Newsfeatures. BLACKSBURG, Va. Coach Jimmy Kitt's Virginia Tech Gobblers have no kicking toe. The rubber toe some blackkickers slip over their regular cleated shoe when they attempt a placekick.

"During the war," says Athletic Director W. L. (Munk) Younger, "I received a letter from Roger McClure's wife, who had been his sweetheart all through his playing days at Tech. She said she had many newspaper clippings about Roger, and she'd like to have the helmet he wore at Tech and the kicking toe he used."

"I sent them alone, and that was the only kicking toe we had. Now, you can't buy one for love no more."

McClure, of Glasgow, W. Va., was one of the greatest placekickers the Gobblers ever had. Kitts claims the former Tech guard was the best he'd ever seen.

It is estimated that the cost to the United States of crime associated with habitual excessive drinking amounts to $175,000,000 yearly.

Paces Fed Attack

Buddy Lake, above, sent 3,063 fans, that jammed the Municipal Baseball Park home screaming and shouting as he caught the St. Augustine Saints' pitcher Gene Smith napping and stole home to give the Celery Feds their margin of victory both in the ball game and the series with the Ancient City aggregation. The Feds move to Orlando tonight to begin the finals with the Senators who downed DeLand in their first round of play.

Wade's Strategy To Be Exhibited By Blue Devils

By ROBERT L. MOORE

AP Newsfeatures. DURHAM, N. C. Note to Army, Navy, South Carolina, Tennessee and the other football teams: Duke University will play this season. The same old strategy which Duke Coach Wallace Wade used so effectively before the war will be exhibited by the 1946 edition of the Blue Devils.

Wade, who's terms have won five games for every one they've lost down through the years, is back at Duke after a lengthy hiatus in the Army, and while the famous manufacturer of Rose Bowl elevators isn't saying much, the football crystal gazer predicts another powerful use for this university in the land of tobacco.

What about the fourth strategy of Wallace Wade? Later. Wade says that "it's one man's job to play one to catch one to the spectator, one to offend one, and that's the most it should amount to in any one of them."

About playing. Wade believes that "to see the best out of a player is to see the best out of the best. And in my opinion, to do the best is to do what is necessary."

the best is to do what is necessary. About morale. "If I had to choose between a squad of good morale and one of good physical build, I'd take the squad with the morale."

About passing. "A passer should throw the ball with the idea of its not being intercepted rather than with the idea of completing the pass."

About kicking. "How far you kick a ball does not tell how good your punting is. It tells how far did the punting team return them. Return a punt 10 yards is the same thing as making a first down and a touch down."

About touchdowns. "Touchdowns really result for one of three errors: a blocked punt, an intercepted pass, or a fumble. About fumbles. 'Fumbles' can be traced to one of three things—failure to carry the ball correctly, a bad pass from center or from one of the passing backs, or a player's taking his eye off the ball when receiving it. Fumbling is the worst offense a back can commit."

Wade tops his strategy off with the statement that "the road to success is paved with players who did their best. The best player is one who does what is necessary."

INSIDE SPORTS REPORT

By ARTHUR DECKWITH, JR.

Sanford Fans During the broadcast of the series games that have been brought to the public at the corner of First Street and Magnolia, many ardent Sanford fans have taken the traditional seventh inning stretch with the "Sanford people at Francis Field in St. Augustine."

It is said that many persons sit on the Post Office steps and really enjoy the tilt, just as if they were in the park.

Spike Davis Yesterday Spike Davis came into the office and notified us that he was not involved in the fracas in St. Augustine night before, last when there was a discussion as to whether the ball that Jim Ketcher poked down the first base line was fair or foul. In the report from the Ancient City it was stated that Davis had ruled that the ball had landed in fair territory and that Umpire in chief Tex Coker ruled that the ball was foul.

Umpire Bill Givens became involved in the discussion since he was umpiring on the initial sack. The Saints desired that he make a decision on the play because he was nearer the play than the ball landed than was Coker. However, Coker's decision was upheld, and Manager Steve Ecker was ejected from the game.

Umpire Givens became involved over in Orlando a few nights ago when he ruled that Manager Ted Madjeski could not recall a member of the Senator club from the club house in the ninth frame to pinch hit.

Actually what happened in that instance was that Givens had cleared the Senator bench and had sent all of them to the club house. Givens considered that he had ejected all of the Orlando players therefore they could not return to the tilt under any circumstances.

The rule book states that the umpire has the right to clear the bench at any time that he sees fit, but that they can be recalled to participate in the contest upon the manager's request.

The Seminole High School Celery Feds are well underway for the coming grid season and are working diligently to train a good team into condition for the coming grid battles.

The foremost thought in my mind are the filthy conditions under which the poor boys have to train. The shower rooms and dressing rooms at the local school are 25 degrees below zero.

As one enters the rear door to the dressing rooms one finds that there is no glass in the door to the building. It has been "patched up" with a few sticks and scattered boards.

The windows cannot be left open since the rooms are in the basement and any one reading the building at all will get the ventilation system. The training pants in the rooms is nil. Players leave their sweaty uniforms on the benches in the evening with expectation that they will dry by the following evening, but to no avail.

The next day the uniforms are still wet and we request any parent to enter the rooms and take one breath of the air in there. That in itself will be a defence enough that something should be done.

Last year we were told that there would be a permanent clubhouse built to take care of the boys, as yet there is no word and there have been no steps toward acquiring the needed building.

The dressing rooms are the only need of the local school. There is a definite need for a new set of stands on the north side of the football field.

According to reports there were nearly 3,000 persons attending each football game at the local stadium last year. The stands on the south side of the field will hold approximately 800 fans, therefore there are 2,200 people without seats. Can anyone say that a new set of stands, bleachers or some sort of seating facility is not needed?

We request that the patrons and the followers of the local schools make a trip to the athletic field and see for themselves that the need for improvement is needed and needed urgently.

Collection Of Trees Is Unusual Hobby Of Aged Chicago Architect

By EDWARD H. KITCH

CHICAGO—The average golf defender, says George W. Klewer, will use anything in the way of a tee to get more yardage. Klewer, 70-year-old, Chicago architect, has a collection of 1,150 golf tees he has been gathering for the last 20 years. Most of the tees were picked up on courses he played. Others were given to him by golf fans who heard of Klewer's hobby.

All the tees are different. The first tees were made of paper, bone and some of silver.

Klewer considers each subsequent tee a golfer's brainstrom that expresses his individual method of holding a golf ball. They range from directional finders to those that have weighted extensions or chains to anchor the tee as a safeguard against losing it.

A few of these were specially designed to facilitate loft and distance. One is a mechanical device that swings on a swivel.

There are sand tee molds and hollowed out corks. There even is a section of rubber garden hose in the assortment.

Most of them, however, are the conventional plastic or wood putty type tee. One golfer attempted to utilize a roofing nail by hammering the head into a seat for the ball. But golf course operators discourage this practice because the metal is detrimental to efficient mower operation.

Klewer, a devoted golfer, has shown his collection of tees in hope to exhibit all over the country.

Representatives Say Palestine's Independence Would Be Delayed By Plan

LONDON, Sept. 12. (AP)—A number of Arab League delegates at the Palestine Conference, are said to have rejected emphatically the Anglo-American expert plan for federalizing the Holy Land. A British source says at least two Arab spokesmen objected on the grounds that independence for Palestine's Arabs would be delayed by the plan.

Behind the closed doors of the meeting, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said, "I am sure that the Arabs would be very ready to accept a federal arrangement which would be workable economically. I am sure that the British would be very ready to accept a federal arrangement which would be workable economically.
