SANFORD -- With AIDS patients turning more and more to alternative and unconventional medicine to deal with the deadly disease, more money is available to keep patients healthy, at home and out of the hospital for as long as

Some patients are weeking alternative treatments for the disease. Over the weekend, a group of doctors met in Miami to discuss AIDS treatment strategies.

Extract of Chinese cucumber, ozone gas enemas and rattlesnake meat are among un-orthodox remedies sought out recently by AIDS patients who feel stymied in their search for a conventional cure.

But, so far, none of them has proven effective. More than 100 AIDS doctors turned up

Saturday for the meeting sponsored by Mercy Hospital, along with hundreds of patients and social service providers, for discussions of everything from writing a will to depression to discrimination.

Public health experts estimate that 1 in 40 prople in Dade County is infected, the third-highest AIDS rate in America, behind only San Francisco and New York. Caroline Gerts is the director of client services for AIDS Resource Alliance, Orlando, a not for profit organization which serves AIDS clients from Seminole. Orange, Lake, Occeola and Brevard counties. In the four-county area, excluding Brevard, the number of AIDS cases topped 2,000 late tast year, she said.

School board moves over for election

Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - When the citizens of Seminole County exercise their right to vote on Nov. 8, the wheels of government will continue to turn.

But, because Precincts 123 and 124 are also the meeting place for the Seminole County school board, something had to give. The school board meets the second and fourth

Tuesday of each month unless members vote to change the schedule during a public meeting. November's first meeting is scheduled for 3:30 p.m., three and a half hours before the polls

Rather than move a polling place, the school board is expected to move their meeting place. The board will vote Tuesday evening whether or not to move its meeting to the District Media Center-TV Studto.

The District Media Center-TV Studio is located at the district headquarters, 1211 S. Mellonville Ave., Sanford, It is on the second floor of the two story building just north of the main building.

Following the election, whether board chairman Jeanne Morris is reelected to a second term or if challenger Ted Barker becomes the newest board member, there will be a reorganization. A new chairman and vice chairman will be elected.

State statutes require that the board reorganize on the third Tuesday following the first Monday in November. That date is Nov. 22, which is the time of the regularly scheduled board meeting on the fourth Tuesday. So, the reorganization will take place just prior to that meeting.

In addition the board is expected to vote Tuesday evening to move the Nov. 3 work session regarding the housing options for Lake Howell High School and South Seminole Middle School during construction at those facilities to the Lake Howell High auditorium.

Finally, they will vote on a proposal to cancel the Dec. 27 board meeting as it falls at the heart of the holiday season between Christmas and

The board will meet this Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. in the board meeting room.

Dial F H P for help

TAMPA - Officials with the Florida Highway Patrol are hoping motorists with cellular phones will memorize the agencies initials - F.H.P - and use them just as they'd use 911 in an emergency at home.

Since April, anyone in Florida with a mobile cellular phone has been able to dial F.H.P or 3-4-7 to summon troopers to a roadway emergency, free of charge, Drivers can also call to report drunkenness on the highway, said FHP spokesman

When someone reports a drunken driver, that's a lifesaving call." he said. "Hopefully, the system will become as familiar to cellular callers as 911 is.

Some 400,000 rellular phone owners users are able to make use of the service. Howes said. The program began in some parts of the state last Fall, but all 10 cellular phone companies operating in Florida weren't on board until April.

Search for missing girl halted

MIAMI - Police called off the search for a missing Broward County girl after saying a body found in a canal was 5-year-old Amanda Dougherty

We are fairly confident this is the child," North Lauderdale police Capt. Robert Manfre said Sunday. "It is just a formality at the medical examiner's office to make sure this is positively from the medical point of view the child."

As the command post for the multi-agency search operation was being dismantled, the search for suspects began.

A jogger found the girl's body Saturday in a canal west of Police initially said they could not identify the bloated and decomposed body, but after conferring with the father, Manfre said they were "99 percent sure" it was the missing girl.

Circumstances surrounding the girl's disappearance are bizarre. She disappeared sometime after going to bed Wednesday night. A jogger reported seeing a girl crying on a nearby park bench. Neighbors saw the Dougherty's front door open around 2.30 a.m. And the family's two pit bulls were found roaming outside. But Amanda was nowhere to be found

Convicted rapist dies of AIDS

Charles Henry Williams, 38, died at 7 a.m. Friday at Jackson Memorial Hospital's jail ward. He had been hospitalized since

In April 1989, police arrested Williams on two unrelated rape charges and possession of drug paraphernalia. In 1990, he was convicted of one count of rape and was serving a 40-year sentence at the time of his death.

Williams death came just 10 days before he was to have been tried for the 1984 rape and murder of 19-year-old Patricia Johnson, whose partially nude body was found in a vacant lot near Williams' mother's home in Miami's Overtown neighbor-

Using DNA matching on evidence from the crime scene that had been misplaced for three years, police finally charged Williams in 1992 with Johnson's killing.

Corrections officer charged in shooting

MIAMI - A 17-year veteran of the Metro-Dade corrections department has been relieved of duty with pay after being charged with shooting a prostitute in the thigh.

Officer Miguel San Miguel, 41, was charged with aggravated battery and use of a firearm in the commission of a felony in connection with the shooting Saturday night of Bertha Alexander, 26, according to police.

Alexander, who told police she was a prostitute, was reported in good condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital, where she was being treated for the single gunshot wound to her upper left thigh.

San Miguel told investigators Alexander was getting into his car at about 6 p.m. Saturday when he recognized her as a member of a group of people who'd robbed him earlier this year, Miami Police Sgt. David Magnusson said Sunday.

She then started to jump out of the car when the officer allegedly fired his 38 caliber pistol, Magnusson said.

"He was supposedly giving her a ride," Magnusson said.

Recent poll gives Bush slim lead

By The Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE - Republican Jeb Bush took a slim lead over incumbent Democratic Gov. Lawton Chiles in a recent poll of 1,000 Floridians, but he and Chiles both downplayed the survey's significance.

About a week after a strong primary win and at weeks before the Nov. 8 election, Bush was the choice of 47 percent and Chiles was picked by 42 percent of those responding to a telephone survey of regiotered voters.

While "gratified" to have a lead, Bush called the poll a "momentary anapahot" that could change.

Chiles and he wasn't discouraged. "Given what he's spent and the Republican party running all this negative stuff against us and everything else, the good news is that we're that close," he said. "The campaign is getting ready to get

Those polled also expressed concern about crime, refugers and achools, and leaned toward banning certain commercial fish nets in Florida waters.

The Sept. 16-19 survey was the first independent poll to show flush, 41, matching or perhaps exceeding the 64 year old incumbent's support. However, the margin of error was plus or minus 3 percent.

The campaign is getting ready to get started.

-Gov. Lawton Chiles

'I'd say this race is ton close to call, a dead heat statistically." said Suganne Parker, director of Florida State University's Policy Survey Center. "Bush may be riding a bubble because of the primary, but Chiles may also have gotten a bump from his handling of the Cuban refugee crisis. So I'd say II washes."

Bush dominated six Republican primary opponents, becoming the GOP nominee when distant runner up Jim Smith, the secretary of state, pulled out and endorsed

Computer animation being used to depict tragedies

By MARY Alsse LEWIS Associated Press Writer

MIAMI - Computer animation in increasingly being used in the courts and on television news programs to help juries and viewers better understand complicated technical procedures. crimes and accidents.

Highly publicated crimes and accidenta like the O.J. Simpson murder case and the crash of USAir Flight 427 near Pittaburgh could lead to wider attempts to use hi tech methods to explain the unexplainable. experts say.

"These are visualizations." says Jack Suchocki, president of Eyewitness Animations of Pompano Beach.

Suchacki believes, his computer animations, crested with painstaking detail, can clear away some of the unorrhinty and ambiguity surrounding crimes and accidents.

"It really to just an aid to people ... to brip them find out what happened." he nays.

Using information gathered from the news media, Suchocki created a computer animation of Flight 427's final momenta 24 hours after the plane plunged into a hilleide outside Pittaburgh killing everyone aboard

All we know to that the airplane rolled over onto its back, then went into the ground in an inverted position. he says

"We also know it took 23 seconds for that to happen. We put the information into the computer model, and that resulted in a 35-second animation. It starts a little bit before the aircraft leaves 6,000 feet, and ende a little after impact."

Buchocht said one of his animations helped determine the cause of an earlier fatal crash in California, in which a jet crashed into a commuter plane while attempting to land.

ST. PETERSBURG - Not until his van developed problems did Kentuckian James Haley learn about its hidden past - bobbing in the saltwater surge of a Florida storm.

Hospital. Proceeds of the event will go to the Seminole County

Previous owner Melvin Engelke Jr. remembered when 90 mph winds lashed a Palm Harbor marina March 13, 1993, and he watched the 1990 Ford Aerostar floating in 3 feet of water in the parking lot.

Even though (the van) ran after the flood. I know what saltwater can do." Engelke told the St. Petersburg Times for a story Sunday. "When it gets flooded like that, it's only a matter of time and it will be rusted out."

Engelke's insurance company assessed damage at $11,000. declared the van a total loss and gave it an "unrebuildable" title. Such a vehicle can only be sold for parts or scrap: by law it can no longer be driven in Florida.

But 18 months later, the van is back on the road in Bowling Green, Ky. Haley, who paid 87,500 for it, said it has had three major breakdowns and persistent electrical and transmission problems.

"They told me it just got a little wet in the back," Haley said of the dealership where he bought the van "That's all."

The Pinellas County Sheriff's Office tracked hundreds of cars damaged in the no-name storm of 1993, in an investigation that took more than a year and cost several hundred thousand dollars.

No criminal charges have resulted, but the Times said voluminous files in the case showed how easy it is to resell heavily damaged vehicles.

The probe focused on Copher Brothern Salvage and Auto Parts in Tampa, which bought Engelke's Aerostar and scores of other "unrebuildable" flood cars from Nationwide and Allstate Insurance companies.

Records show that for about $125 a car. Copher Brothers cleaned the saltwater-damaged vehicles, made minor repairs and shipped them to Kentucky. The cars were sold to local dealers, who sold some to the public and disposed of others at an auction in Bowling Green.

"They did a minimal amount of repair work to these cars and made an enormous profit off of them." said Cpi. Walt Schneider of the Pinellas County Sheriff's Copher Brothers denied any wrongdoing. "The Copher company went to great lengths to insist upon disclosure" of damage, said Joseph Shaheen, an attorney for the company.

Keep focus on the waterfront

We were under the impremion that the word "waterfront" indicated that portion of land which bordered on or was relatively near a body of water.

The Sanford Waterfront Master Plan Steering Committee however, may be trying to enlarge the concept of the city's waterfront

The committee has been doing an excellent job on working toward the improvement of the city's waterfront area. The primary developent area has been the Lake Monroe lakefront from Mellonville Avenue in the east to Interstate-4 in the west.

Naturally, a lakefront area consists of more than just docks and a breakwall. It was only logical therefore, that the development of the waterfront also include its relationship to the downtown Sanford area. The scope of planning for the waterfront group now includes the land in the city, between the lakefront and First Street.

A recent report from the committee however, says consideration is now being given to including the neighborhoods of Goldsboro and Georgetown, Indications are that the group may expand the area to the south, to include 13th Street.

There is no question that the 13th Street area needs help. Citizens have clearly shown this necessity through pleas made to the Sanford City Commission.

Community Development Director Charles Rowe has been working diligently on establishing an improvement project for the area. Citizen groups are also banding together to help eliminate such problems as crime. littering, loitering, poor streets and sidewalks. drainage problems, and businesses in poor condition, but without financial resources for improvements.

We commend the people who are working in this direction.

We become concerned however, when a committee originally dedicated to improving one of Sanford's most valuable assets, the lakefront, wants to expand and add other areas. Improving the developing of Sanford's waterfront will be a major undertaking. It's going to take a great deal of work and financing to do it, but we believe, judging by the caliber of people on the committee, that it can be done.

To expand the area to be included in what is supposed to be a "waterfront," before any actual development gets underway may be biting off more than the committee can chew.

We support improvements needed in Goldsboro, Georgetown, and several other areas. We support Main Street and the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association. But let's not mix the projects. Trying to do more than a group should, could end up with nothing getting accomplished.

Eating cake

On Aug. 21, you called for a ban on assault weapons. On Sept. 15, you seem doubtful that our small county will get any benefit from the $30.2 billion crime bill recently signed into law. Well. you cannot have your cake and eat it too.

Perhaps you failed to notice that the assault weapons ban was a part of and a major sticking point in that crime bill. The gnat you strained at before you swallowed the carnel, so to speak. Believe it or not, some people do read with understanding what is being done to us in Washington, D.C.

When government forgets its place

I am grateful to Housing and Urban Development Secretary Henry Common Roberts Achtenberg, his assistant accretary for fair housing and equal opportunity. Every fall, preparing for talks with school kids about the Bill of Rights, I look for a fresh, powerful example of James Madison's legacy to the nation:

"The censorial power in in the people over the government, and not in the government over the

From time to time in our history, the government has forgotten its place in our constitutional scheme of things; but never in recent years has an agency of the government -HUD - actually canceled the First Amendment right "to petition the government for a redress of grievances" as well as other forms of free speech

HUD's purpose was noble, just as Secretary Cianeros' motivation was well-intentioned when he proposed last spring that public housing tenants include in their leases a clause allowing the police to break into their apartments without a warrant in a search for guns and hoodlums. The secretary did not understand how anyone could oppose strengthened security in a trade for that technicality, the Fourth Amendment.

This time, he and Roberta Achtenberg wanted to make sure that the Fair Housing Act was firmly implemented — over any dissent. Accordingly, when, for example rederally subsidized housing projects for people with histories of substance abuse or months.

mental disorders were proposed for various neighbor-hoods, HUD rode shotgun on those projects. If the press had not verved HUD's attempt to revoke the First needment, I expect that protesting neighboroed groups would still be having their records appearance — and would still be threatened with any financial fines simply for trying to get a press.

I also have a surprise for the students. In Richmond, Va., a neighborhood association objected to the placement of two facilities for AIDS patients in the middle of their neighborhood. The association questioned the legality of the soning of those facilities. That led to an extensive investigation of that association by the Fair Housing Office of HUD.

Haiti mirrors U.S. military future

As American troops patrol Haitian streets in their weirdly mlabegotten role as 'partners" of the junta's armed thugs, we are reminded once again that U.S. power remains both a necessity and a conundrum. The former is self-evident. The latter is best stated by two related questions: How much is enough? Enough for what?

The first order of business for any state is national security. That means military force is indispensable and will remain so until lions and lambs learn to lie together in peace.
But saying that self-defense demands a strong military force is the easy part. The hard part is determining its size and mission. That task is doubly difficult now that the Soviet Union's collapse has created a radically changed external environment and America's severe budgetary crunch has produced a radically different internal envi-

In other words, the United States no longer faces mortal peril. There is literally no nation that has the military strength to challenge us and expect to win. America's annual defense spending is larger than all the military spending of the next 10 nations combined. and it gets a bigger technical bang for its

In response to the changed situation, both the Bush and the Clinton administrations reduced defense spending and the military's size from their Reagan-era highs. As of today, the defense budget is about $263 billion. considerably lower than 1985's in constant dollars, though not 1980's.

That budget supports a military force that is supposed to be capable of fighting and winning two major regional wars simultaneously. While they agree on virtually nothing else, most defense analysts say that $263 billion cannot possibly meet that goal.

But there is good reason to question the two-war doctrine on the one hand and the current allocation of weaponry and personnel

Is it realistic to expect that the United States will have to fight two Gulf-size conflicts by itself and at the same time? The answer is no. It is almost impossible to construct a realistic scenario for such a contingency. The number of potential belligerents with a force capable of matching even Iraq's vastly overrated army can be counted on one hand. And each of them has regional adversaries whose military power is a rough match for their own. Additionally, overt aggression would almost surely trigger U.N. condemnation and a multinational response, rather than the Lone Ranger deployment of U.S. forces. We might feel called upon to fight, but we would not be fighting alone.

It is possible to envision a day when North Korea might attack South Korea at the same time that Syria was attacking larael, or Russia was attacking one of its neighbors. Contingency planning can envision anything. But it is utterly illogical to bese military spending on the thesis that South Korea would not fight for itself, that larnel would roll over, or that Russia's larget would passively accept the reimposi-rule. Even one regional war along the lines of Desert Storm would require a massive U.S. effort, of course. That argues for the retention of enough military capacity to meet such a contingency. But it makes no sense to add yet another nuclear carrier to a Navy whose carrier fleet is unrivaled in size and reach by all the other carrier forces of the world combined, as the current defense budget does. The

tion of Moscow's

The first order of business for any state is national security.

U.S. does not need more Trident II missiles for an arsenal whose undeterrable nuclear force is already capable of destroying the world several times over. The B2 bomber is a weapon system in search of a mission, its chief justification being the perceived need to penetrate Soviet air defenses that no longer exist.

As Haiti demonstrates, we are going to need first-rate military force for the foresecable future. But most of the missions that can be realistically envisioned, beyond adequate nuclear deterrence, involve limited wars. The day when the most likely conflict involved massed armies maneuvering across the plains of Europe, or a spasmodic intercontinental nuclear exchange, has come and gone.

A justifiable defense budget would concentrate on retaining our technical edge, developing a highly mobile fighting force and paring away the weapons systems and force structure designed to defeat the Soviet Union. The current defense budget remains too tied to yesterday's world, reinventing threats that are shadows of a vanished time. For better or for worse, the most likely military missions of today and tomorrow are mirrored on the streets of Port-au-Prince.

God keeps some strange company

God took time out again in mid-September to talk with the Rev. Pat Robertson about how America ought to be run.

Firehly being that I am. I really don't know how the Lord does it. There were a few million starving Rwandana to deal with and a coup attempt in Liberia and the endiess war in Bosnia, but somehow He found time to talk politics. Of course, I cannot state this as absolute fact because, frankly, I do not enjoy the same facile accens to the Ultimate Source as Prescher Pat. But he claims he heard from God, and of the cloth with motives as pure as an anidel's breath, I are n'b ye suon we shouldn't accept his Well, maybe we should be a little skeptical. After all. he did claim in 1968 that God told him to "run for president of the United States," and he did tell adoring legions that year:

"I assure you that I am going to be the next president of the United States." And he did claim once that through his influence with the Almighty, he diverted a hurricane that threatened his broadcasting empire in Virginia Beach. Va. Why he didn't see fit to spare Florida from the ravages of Hurricane Andrew in 1992. It's difficult to comprehend, but it's not for mere mortals to understand the mysteries of Anyway, what Preacher Pat was told by God in this recent conversation is that lie wants the reverend's organization, the Christian Coalition, to become a "powerful political force." Just so you have the context. Preacher Pat's exact words - spoken at a recent conference of his organization, held in the very den of iniquity, Washington, D.C. - were these: "We are seeing the Christian Coalition rise to where God intends it to be in this nation, as one of the most powerful political forces that have ever been in the history of America."

This raises another slightly confusing matter. Having declared his organization political to its very marrow, Preacher Pat and his minions spent the next couple of days arguing that because they represent God. they ought to be exempt from criticism. which they refer to as "Christian bashing."

Just one example: During the conference, Democratic Party chairman David Wilhelm said at a news conference that "Pat Robertson's Christian Coalition does not speak for all, or even most, people of fatth." A fairly mild and accurate statement, I thought. But not Ralph Reed, executive director of the Christian Coalition. Wilhelm was trying to "attack those of you in this room and to attack this organization." Reed said. "I have a message for David Wilhelm. David, you cannot intimidate us, you will not drive us out of the public square. We are Americans too, and we have every right to be involved in Doggone it, things keep slipping by me. I missed it when somebody said Preacher Pat and his disciples were not Americans and have no right to be in politics. I have heard it said that their politics are primitive, but that's just politics.

Another one of those darned impon-derables: Most potential Republican candidates for president were invited to the conference, but not former congressman Jack Kemp. He is said to be a pariah these days because of his sympathy for the urban poor. Jesus comforted lepers, but they probably weren't homeless lepers of a different color.

A final note: One speaker was G. Gordon Liddy, who thinks President Clinton is trying to change his style.

Poll: Young have more faith in UFOs than SS

By Januaran Bixon
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Young Americans have more faith in UFOs than Social Security. according to a poll released today by Third

The nonpartinan organization started by the so-called Generation Xers said its survey tells a "chilling tale of young people convinced that the social contract between the generations has been dissolved."

According to its poll, only 9 percent of people between the ages of 18 and 34 believe Social Security will have the money to pay their retirement benefits.

Just over a fourth say Social Security will still exist when they retire, compared with 46 percent who think that there are unidentified flying objects, or UFOs.
"Despite their faith in UFOs, young people know that the solution to the Social Security funding crisis - and the national debt crisis will not fall from the sky," says Richard Thau, Third Millennium executive director. Indeed, a draft report by the Congressio-nal Budget Office concludes that "no easy fixes to the funding problems of the Social Security system exist. Right now, the Social Security trust funds take in more than they spend. This year alone, CBO estimates that Social Security will collect about $58 billion more than it will pay out in benefits. But during the retirement years of the baby bnomers, the generation of people born between 1946 and 1964, under current projections, annual benefits will exceed receipts and the trust funds will be exhausted by 2029.

The congressional budget experts, in their draft report, conclude that improving the investment returns of Social Security's trust funds or investing to improve overall economic growth will not noive the funding

In its report today, Third Millennium said Social Security is "hurtling toward its next financial crisis." Serious, structural reform is desperately needed, it said, but the political will to make the difficult decisions

"And as public confidence in the retirement system deteriorates, inter-generational conflict becomes an increasingly likely feature of the American public landscape.

Social Security Commissioner Shirley Chater said she was very concerned about the growing numbers of younger Americans who question whether they will ever receive

"I am committed to rebuilding confidence in the program." she said, promising to educate the public about Social Security's value to society "as well as providing Americans with the straight facts regarding the program's sound flacal health."

Third Millennium said in its report that while Generation Xers have been labeled selfish and self-centered by the media, its survey demonstrates it is the elderly who care most about themselves, even at the cost of future generations.

Its survey found that one-third of seniors think they are getting less than they deserve from Social Security, although their benefits have far outstripped their contributions.

According to the poll, 82 percent of the youth surveyed favored allowing workers to invest a portion of their Social Security paymenta into a private retirement fund that they could control.

Just over half supported paying benefits based on need and making benefits 100 percent taxable for wealthy recipients.

The poll was conducted in early September and has a margin of error of plus or minus 4.4 percentage points. Surveyed were 500 Generation Xers and 500 senior

A separate survey by the American Association of Retired Persons, the country's largest seniors group, found that Americans of all ages are overwhelmingly opposed to cutting Social Security and Medicare to reduce the federal budget

The AARP said means-testing Social Security benefits - basing them on the income of the recipients — is also a non-starter with the American public.

through whatever means. Most of the debate at the gathering centered on alternative cures. According to experts, waning faith in the efficacy of such conventional drug therapies as AZT has prompted up to 50 percent of AIDS patients to look elsewhere for relief and hope.

There is a tremendous need to study non-drug therapies." said Dr. Corklin Steinhart, a conference organizer. "Over the last few years, there has been more and more reluctance about using AZT or conventional cures, so people are trying other things.

That view was echoed by Jon Stangell, medical director at San Francisco General Hospital and a leader in the fight against AIDS.

"It's a matter of desperation." Stansell said. "For the last year.

Sheelah Ryan always said she didn't want her millions to change her life. But after winning what was then the nation's single largest lottery jackpot, she spent the rest of her life using her money to charige the lives others.

Ryan died Saturday night of cancer at her home in Winter Springs, a suburb of Orlando.

She spent her last years - and part of the $55.2 million she won in the Sept. 3, 1988 Florida lottery - finding ways to help others, from underprivileged kids to stray cats. In December 1988, she established the Ryan Foundation to help build low-cost housing in north-central Florida and pay overdue rents to spare single mothers and their children from eviction.

"It's a dream I want to live on long after I'm gone," she said at l'amela Ohab, who serves on the foundation's board of directors, said Sunday the organization "will definitely continue."

"It's really her legacy, and that's what she wanted." Ohab said. "She left it very well funded."

Ryan found many ways to spend the money she'd won. She gave $10,000 to help pay for a teen-ager's kidney transplant. She donated $1,000 to an animal-rights group at the University of Central Florida to lind homes for stray cats and

Killer strikes in Brooklyn hospital

By TOS MAYS Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK - When the truth becomes too much, which is often. Martlyn Reid simply refers to Aug. 15 as the day her father "passed away.

She hadn't been particularly surprised that day when a ductor she'd never met pulled her aside and told her he had bad news about her father. After all. Victor Skelton was 83 and had already spent more than 40 days in a hospital with a higney allment.

"I knew he was old. I knew he had been sich." said Reid, an assistant principal. "I was pre-had to say: Hours earlier, the retired postal worker had been found murdered in his hospital bed. A fabric arm restraint had been twisted around his neck.

The homicide was the first in a New York hospital since 1987, when a nurse, dubbed "The Angel of Death." was arrested for potsoning patients in one Long Island hospital. He was later convicted in four killings.

No suspects and no solutions have arisen in this case. Bix weeks after Shelton's murder, detectives are stumped, hospital officials reticent, the victim's relatives anguished.

former Jewish Hospital of Brooklyn. Built in 1927, it once was considered one of the city's best. Albert Einstein was a pattent. Barbes Stretaind was born there.

Today, the hospital, which merged with another in 1983 to form Interfaith Medical Center, is suffering. The building, trimmed with razor wire in spots, is surrounded by gutted brownstones. In recent years it has weathered a nurses' strike, mounting debt and heavy state fines for poor care.

"We've had to go in there a lot," acknowledged Wayne Osten, a state official overseeing a Department of Health investigation of Skelton's Victor Skelton spent his twilight years not far from Interfaith, in a brownstone where he raised two daughters. After his wife died in 1981, he passed the time watching his two grandsons grow up, and walking back and forth to a senior center, the barber shop and church.

On July 3, Skelton's new doctor told his family his kidneys were failing. A bed was available at Interfaith. As she checked her father in, Reid found the place "very degreesing."

found the place "very depressing."
Her list of complaints grew with each visit: Her father's room was small, dingy and had no call button: a day passed before anyone cleaned up blood splattered around the bathroom by his roommate: doctors moved him into the intensive care unit without notifying the family; a nurse once yelled at him for delecating in his bed.

Sierra Club restructures

By Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO - The Sierra Club is cutting staff and tightening its focus to save itself from extinction.

A drop in donations and membership forced the century-old environmental group's first major restructuring in 22 years.

The reorganization that will begin in 1995 includes reducing the club's efforts on population. energy conservation and international issues in favor of major campaigns to prevent pollution and preserve open spaces.

The changes will help the 500,000-member group meet its 1995 budget, which at $40 million is $3.7 million less than 1994, executive director Carl Pope said Sunday.

The Sterra Club's financial difficulties mirror the trend facing many environmental groups. Donations also are down for Greenpeace, the Wilderness Soclety, the National Audubon Society and others,

The group's net worth has declined from $7.7 million in 1993 to an estimated $6.7 million by the end of this year, and changes are necessary to save the group from going extinct.

"We felt that if we didn't take steps, it might." Pope said. "These are not easy changes for a 100-year-old organization to make. We feel what we need to do is focus."

The Sierra Club expects to lay off some of its 350 employees. but Pope said he was not sure exactly how many. The group also plans a 1995 campaign to sign up 75,000 new members.

The club, founded by naturalist John Muir, has kept itself out of bankruptcy by borrowing against its $10 million endowment, treasurer Terry Shalfer said. Under club bylaws, that money cannot be used for operating expenses.

Sierra Club executives blamed the problem on the economy and a declining interest in social issues such as environmentalism. Since 1991, more than 100,000 people have dropped their membership and those who remain are giving less.

"The economy, especially in California where a third of our membership is, has been extremely bad," Pope said. "People are able to give less money. The difference between giving us $40 and $35 ... adds

Nazis still being prosecuted

By JON MARCUS

Associated Press Writer

BOSTON - Why press to strip U.S. citizenship from a frail 87-year-old man?

Because, says the government. Aleksandras Lileikis was part of a campaign to murder 60,000 Jews in Lithuania, and half a century hasn't diminished its zeal for prosecuting aging war crimi-

"The crimes these men committed are just as helnous today as they were 50 years ago," said Allan Ryan, former director of the Office of Special investigations, the government's Nazi-hunting

"Although they are old and although it was a long time ago, if we look the other way, we are saying we don't care any more.

An estimated 10,000 suspected Nazis and their collaborators entered the United States since World War II. according to government prosecutors and Nazi hunters.

The OSI, set up in 1979, has stripped U.S. citizenship from 50 people suspected of war crimes. Forty-two of them have been deported. More than 300 others are under investigation.

The pace of investigation has accelerated since the Justice Department gained access to former Soviet and eastern European archives.

"They have succeeded in lying low," Ryan said. "They have succeeded in avoiding detection. But they are as guilty now as they were then.

Government officials describe Lileikis as the first senior Lithuanian police official to be prosecuted in connection with Nazi-era

They claim he headed the Nazi-sponsored Lithuanian Security Police in Vilnius. ordering the arrest of Jews who violated the Nazis' anti-Jewish decrees and turning them over to German execution squads.

Last week, the government filed suit to revoke his citizenship, claiming he concealed his links to the Nazis when he applied for immigration to the United States in 1955 and for U.S. citizenship in 1976.

Lifetkis has refused to comment. He has 30 days to respond to the complaint. No court date has been set.

"Whether he lives to be 5 years old or 500 years old, if he is alive in freedom, then he has to be brought to justice. because that's not the type of signal we want to give: that you can get away with murder, said Rositta Kenigsberg, president of the International Network of Children of Jewish Holocaust Survivors.

Rams 4th at W. Orange

From Stell Reports

WINTER GARDEN - Lake Mary High School's varsity girls volley ball team finally got what it needed, an extensive shakedown cruise to learn something about themselves and each other.

And the Rams did it all in one day, playing ats matches Saturday on their way to finishing fourth in the West Orange Times Tournsment at West Orange High School.

Oviedo and Lake Howell also participated in the tournament, both falling in the quarterfinals.

"We saw a lot of progress throughout the day." said Lake

Mary coach Candy Henry Sunday evening, her voice still hourse from the experience. "It was a very long day, but it was a good day. We needed this."

According to Henry, the Rams reached the West Orange gym about 6.35 a.m. and didn't leave until 10 45 p.m.

After matches with First Academy [7:30 a.m.), Edgewater (9:30 a.m.), and Satellite (1:30 p.m.) in pool play, the Rarm advanced to the quarterfinais, where they eliminated Hisleah Mami Lakes 15-12.

In the semifinals, Dr. Phillips (which defeated Lake Howell 15-3. 15-3 in the quarterfinals) rallied from a first-game loss to knock off Lake Mary 14-16, 15-9, 15-11.

LAKE MARY - Individual champions Angle Olson of Lake Mary High School and Lyman High School's Rob Evans both set course records while the Lake Howell Silver Hawks scored a girla sweep Saturday morning at the Lake Mary Invitational cross country meet.

Olion won the girls' varsity race, covering the two-mile course in 12 minutes, 35.76 seconds, nearly nine accords ahead of runner-up Kelly Hudson of Lyman (12 44 55).

The margin was a little closer in the varsity boys' three mile race, Evans breaking the tape in 15:55.03. more than six seconds ahead of Dr. Phillips' Jonathon Bonnette (18 01.72).

Lake Howell and Tampa Leto dominated the team competition, the Lake Howell Saver Hawks winning the girls championship in both the varsity and junior varsity girls' events while the Leto Falcons ran away with both the varsity and junior varsity boys' crowns.

They did a good job," said Lake Howell coach Tom Hammontree "It was nice to watch them run successfully, to see them run as a pack I was pleased with their intensity, their desire to be successful.

The reason that the variety is beginning to gel is because there are 12 or 13 runners fighting for the seven varsity positions. No one wants to be that eighth person. Everytime they go out to run, they run the best they can. That competitiveness is there." railing Lake Howell 178 team points were Winter.

Packers rip Buccaneers

By ARME STAPLETON AP Sports Writer

GREEN BAY, Wis. - Not all the ex-Packers had a good time at Green Bay's annual homecoming game.

Brett Favre was 30-of-39 for 306 yards and three TDs and Chris Jacke kicked three field goals as Green Bay routed Tampa Bay 30-3 Sunday, spoiling the return of ex-Packers Jackie Harris, Vince Workman and Charles Wilson.

Sixty former Green Bay players. including four Hall of Famers and six who played on the 1944 championship team, were at Lambeau Field for the reunion.

They got to see the Packers, who had scored just 37 points all season, finally find their offensive touch.

Jacke's second field goal, a 20yarder with 16 seconds left in the half, broke the team record held by Chester Marcol, who kicked 120 field goals over an eight-year career. See Bucs, Page 2B

Many called but few chosen, even in high school

"Letters to the editor are welcome. All letters must be signed. include the address of the writer and a daytime telephone number. Letters should be on a single subject and be as brief as possible. The letters are subject to editing."

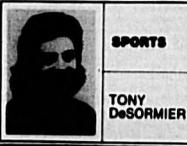

That is the Sanford Herald policy for letters to the editor. I mention this only because someone dropped off an anonymous letter here at the Herald last week. So, to whomever wrote the letter, that's why you will not see it printed in its entirety in the Sanford Herald.

However, the letter does raise a disturbing topic, one I feel compelled to take up here.

Apparently, the author of the letter is the parent of or knows a child who attends Seminole High School and plays on an athletic team. Actually, the child is a member of a team because, according to the letter, whether or not the child in question (or any child, I guesal plays is the problem.

The following is an excerpt: "What do they teach our children?

By telling them at practice that all players will get to play, but the night of the game, that doesn't happen so the coaches apologize. So they are teaching our children to LIE (author's emphasis) and that IT IS OK if you apologize for the lie. They also teach them that even if you come to practice, and practice hard that the game is all about

They also teach them that you can be on a team, but not a team winning and not being fair to each

Do coaches realize how it affects the child, or do they care how it affects the child to be in the locker room with the guys that played and they're talking about what they did and how they contributed to the game and yet those that didn't play are like outsiders looking in becasue they can't say anything.

So they again teach our children that it is OK to make some people have low self esteem as long as you WIN. They also teach them that the coach doesn't really care about all the children, but just those that can produce a WIN for the team." Without knowing the particulars and with all due respect. I have a great deal of trouble with the issues raised by the letter, not that a coach would actually do what he or she needs to do to win a high school game, but that a parent has a problem with that.

Rather than debate the letter point by point - other than to say that any coach stupid enough to promise players that everyone will play in every game deserves the grief created when he or she inevitably breaks that promise - let me say that you couldn't pay me enough to be a high school coach.

High school coaches are trapped between the proverbial rock and a hard place. They're teachers whose effectiveness is often measured (incorrectly) by wins and losses. They walk the fine line between those who accuse of them of trying to win at all costs and others who challenge their commitment to suc-

Their task is complicated by the unhealthy perception of a growing number of parents that everyone who tries out for a team deserves a uniform and that everyone who wears a uniform deserves to play. It doesn't work that way.

Like it or not, high school is where the "weeding out" process begins. It's not "win at any cost" but it is competitive. Coaches have to make decisions on who to keep and who to cut, on who plays and who sits based on whether or not that individual can help the team win.

Interpersonal competition takes on subtler forms in other aspects of high school life, from those students who earn honor roll status to those who get the leads in the school play or sing the solos at choir concerts.

Many are called, few are chosen. The character lesson in athletic competition comes from dealing with those situations when you aren't "chosen," whether it be losing a game, not being named to the starting lineup, or being cut.

Running

Continued from 18 According to Lyman coach Fred Finke, some of the members of his boys' team had their eyes opened by being able to race against Tampa-Leto's fabled Long Red Row (six-time state champions and ranked No. 3 in last week's Class 6A state poll).

"The stress level, the intensity was high with so many good teams on the course." said Finke. "The newcomers got the test of fire. Some responded. some didn't.

What was good about Tampa-Leto showing up is that it showed my guys that there's not all that much difference. You take away 30 seconds from my guys' times and we're ahead of them.

Leto, which had all seven of its runners finish in the top 20, won the team title with a score of 53. well ahead of St. Cloud (105). Lyman (148), Lake Howell (149). Lake Brantley (177), and Oviedo (187). Lake Mary came in ninth (240). Seminole did not have a team score.

Plant Fair scheduled Demos, tours, plant clinic, lectures set

Saturday, Oct. I is again being set aside at the Cooperative Extension Services Office for our 2nd Annual Plant Fair. The Seminole County Master Gardener Volunteers, 4-H Youth and Family and Community Education Volunteers and the Extension staff are working to make this a special day filled with useful information and goodies for you to take home. The fair will begin Saturday morning at 10 a.m. and last until 3 p.m.

The educational portion of the Plant Fair will feature demonstrations, slide presentations, guided tours through the Master Gardener Trial Gardens, displays, a plant clinic and lectures by special guest speakers. The speakers' agenda will be available at the restaination table.

speakers. The speakers' agenda will be available at the registration table.

The compost demonstration/tour will include a tour of an on-site, working compost system. There will be several types of composting systems on hand — one to accommodate everyone's fancy. Compost made on site at the Extension Office continues to enrich the soil in our demonstration/trial gardens and was also used as a potting medium for the many potted plants that will be available for sale. There will be plenty of free brochures available to explain the basics to making your composting system work for you.

Tom MacCubbin from Orange County

Tom MacCubbin from Orange County Cooperative Extension Service will be here from 10 a.m.-noon to conduct a plant clinic. Bring your problems in for diagnosis from a well known "local" expert.

Tom Carey is the owner of Sundew Gardens in Oviedo and will be with us from 10:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m. His lecture will include planting tips, best vegetable varieties and basics on how to grow a vegetable garden in Central Florida using organic methods. Tom will also sell vegetable seedlings and have information available at this booth from 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Mike Mingea, native plant authority and active member of the Native Plant Society, will speak on "Native Plants for the Landscape" at 11:30 a.m. Mike is presently designing habitat gardens for songbirds and butterflies and has many ideas to help lure them to your garden. Mike, will have many of the more popular native plants on-hand, to give you a better feel of how they might fit into your landscape.

Cecil A. Tucker III will do a Seminole County Historical presentation at 1:30 p.m.

Since perennials are still "the" rage we have continued our Trial/Demonstration Gardens and hope it's still helpful to the public. The Seminole County Master Gardeners designed and installed the garden here at the Extension Services office in Nov. 1992. the purpose is to evaluate perennials that will survive our harsh summer weather. The garden looked great all spring, suffered through this very hot, wet, humid summer and with all things considered is holding up well. The garden is open to the public each day frm 8 a.m.-5 p.m. A brochure is available at the Master Gardener desk for self-guided tours. Master gardeners will be available to answer questions about perennial gardening.

Herb gardening to also a popular topic these days and Tricia Thomas, Seminole Co. Urban Horticulturist and herb enthusiast has grown herbs in our Central Florida climate for several years and will present "Herbs" through a slide presentation at 12:30 p.m., and of course herb plants will be available for sale.

The Master Gardener cookbook will be on sale as will vines, herbs, hard-to-find perennials and other Master Gardener

The Seminole County 4-H youth will have a variety of baked goods for sale in the auditorium, and the Seminole County Family and Community Education volunteers will have a wide variety of handmade crafts for all occasions.

The day should be both fun and educational, so mark your calendars for Oct. 1, and come join the feativities. Free educatinal publications will be available for most presentations. For more information about the Oct. 1 Plant Fair, contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 323-2500, ext. 5556.

In conjunction with Pioneer Days there will be shuttle service available from SCC parking area to the Cooperative Extension Service.

(Tricle Thomas is Sominate County Urban Hartsuffertet, Inquiries may be directed to her at the Cooperative Extension Service, 250 W. County Home Read, Senterd, FL 32777 or phone 323-2500, Ext. 5265.)

Woman owes only thanks for accepting bar drinks

DEAR ABBY: I'm a faithful Dear Abby reader and usually agree with your answers, but your response to the feminist who complained about men treating her to drinks in bars and then behaving as if they expected "something" in return upact me. You said that if she really wanted to promote equality between the sexes the next time she struck up a conversation with a guy in a bar, she should buy the drinks. Then she wouldn't owe him anything!

Since when does accepting a couple of drinks in a bar create a debt possibly to be repaid in prostitution? You were off base with the feminist, who rightly assumed tht the gift of a couple of drinks was politely discharged by the pleasure of her company.

sumptuous interpretation?"
"Buying a drink" is a unilateral gesture of friendliness — not prepayment for sexual favors.

DEAR ABST: I'm another one of those wives who were married to "ice men." I was married for 30 years to a man who never needed sex — ever — not even on our honeymoon. I ask myself now how I could have been so naive, but he, too, was always home on time and never had any unexplained absences. To our families (his and mine), and the few friends we had, he appeared to be the perfect, loving husband.

When he asked for a divorce, I begged hm to tell me why. I got no reply. It wasn't until 15 years after our divorce that I was told by somene he had worked with that he had used prostitutes all the time we were married. All the pieces of the puzzle that never made sense to me before began to come together.

Abby, I thought I was marrying a good Christian man. He had been a dutiful churchgoing man. Little did I know that his daily "lunch hours" were spent with prostitutes.

I could go on and on, there is so much more: but I hope that this letter, along with the others you have already printed, will help to wake up some very naive wives.

Please do not use my initials or location. Just call me ...

Monitoring frequent urination pattern

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 65 and have to urimate every hour of the day and night. I do not drink abnormal amounts of fluids, just two juices, one tea, one coffee. one milk and six glasses of water a day. Should I reduce my liquids or increase them? Doctors may I have a small bladder. It was stretched once, but that was so painful that I can't undergo the procedure again. Any suggestions would be welcomed.

DEAR READER: A small bladder volume is, alas, a predictably common cause of frequent urination, because as fast as the bladder fills up and stretches, it must be emptied. Other than undergoing repeated procedures to enlarge your bladder volume, your only hope is to reduce your fluid intake. I do not believe that you need six glasses of water a day, in conjunction with your other fluid intake, to maintain good health. Cut back on this. Drink water only when you're thirsty. And, to avoid the nuisance of voiding at might, don't drink any fluide after supper; such fluide will be filtered by your kidneys and end up in your bladder while you're asleep.

If my suggestion doesn't appreciably help you, return to your urologist for further advice. DEAR DR. GOTT: Please provide information on fibromyalgia.

DEAR READER: Fibromyalgia is a poorly understood syndrome of unknown cause, marked by muscle aching, stiffness and tenderness. The affliction is more common in women and appears, in many instances, to be associated with stress, injury. insomnia, or other illnesses. Some authorities believe that fibromyalgia is caused by a virus infection, but this theory has yet to be proved.

As a general rule, fibromyalgia is a "rule-out diagnosis." meaning that other conditions such as rheumatoid arthritis. Lyme disease and lupus - must be eliminated from consideration by special blood tests. There is no single diagnostic test for fibromyalgia.

The disorder often disappears. in a matter of weeks, without therapy. In resistant cases, an-ti-inflammatory drugs (Notrin. ti-inflammatory drugs (Motrin, aspirin and others), in conjunction with anti-depressant medicine (Elavil and others) and cortisone injections (into the most painful areas) may be necessary. Physical therapy is usually helpful.

Fibromyalgia is not a hazard to health, but it is a burdensome nuisance for those who have it.

By Phillip Alder

Not that it matches my experience, but Francis Galton, a British scientist, said, "Wdl-washed and well-combed domestic pets grow dull; they miss the stirmulus of fleas."

There are certain bridge plays that seem easy to miss too. One is highlighted in today's deal.

South would have liked better diamond spots for his one-notrump overcall but he didn't want to double, because he didn't want to hear his partner respond two clubs. North should have continued with two diamonds, what I call Cue-Bid Stayman, to look for a heart fit. But the actual bidding had an effect on West. Thinking South was prepared for a diamond lead. West guessed to lead the spade nine. (Remember this deal next time you are thinking of not leading partner's suit.)

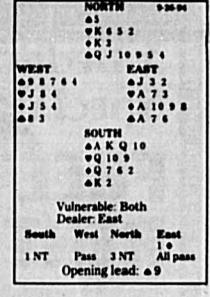

After winning East's spade

jack with his king. South led the club king, which held, and a second club to the queen and ace. Back came a spade. Now declarer needed a dummy entry. He led the heart queen, but East ducked. Then South tried a sneaky heart nine, but West, wide awake, covered with the jack. The dummy was dead and South had to lose five tricks: one heart, three diamonds and South left East with a safe exit card. After the club king held. South should have cashed his remaining spade winners, dis-carding two hearts and a club from the dummy. Then when East wins with the club ace, he has to lead either a heart or a diamond, giving a trick to one of dummy's kings.

Missing this play didn't make South grow dull. His stimuli were embarrassment and a determination to do better next time. ONEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

HOROSCOP

By Bermice Bede Ocol YOUR BETHDAY Sept. 27, 1994

In the year ahead, it looks as though you'll be instilled with greater ambition and stronger motivation to make your mark in the world than you have been previously. With this new determination and drive, anything is possible.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your chances for gratifying your ambitious objectives look probable today, provided you're not the one who places obstacles in your own path. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper. P.O. Box 4465. New York, N.Y. 10163.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Rely on your logic today instead of on your intuitive perceptions. Your emotions and feelings might cloud your judgment and cause you to make unwise SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.

21) Persons you feel you can depend upon might turn out to be the least reliable today, so be prepared to provide your own back-up. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In order to placate another today, you might impulsively make a commitment you'll later regret. Unfortunately, it could prove very difficult to wiggle out AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Usually you're reasonably well organized in your work habits and able to operate effectively. However, poor planning today could have you skidding around corners.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you expect others to accept you for what you ave, with all of your shortcomings, you must be prepared to overlook the annoying peccadilloes of associates.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Do not make any major changes today that could effect the family or household without first obtaining a consensus of opinion. Let the majority rule.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Regardless of how justified you feel in criticizing a co-worker's shortcomings, it's best you keep. your comments to yourself today. Trouble could result.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Manage your finances and resources with extreme prudence today. If you let extravagant urges dominate, you might do something you'll later regret.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order to be a leader, you must first define your objectives and then pursue them boldly. If these impulses are absent, success may be denied you today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today you might be inclined to antici-pate difficulties and problems in situations you have yet to attempt, then later wonder why you weren't able to get things off the ground.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Devise ways to limit your nonessential expenditures today. instead of increasing them. Remember, funds you waste now might be sorely missed a bit down the line.
