Grocery chain expects Lake Mary internet operation to begin in 2002

LAKE MARY — An Internet-based grocery distribution and fulfillment center should be up and running by Spring 2002.

Publix Super Markets Inc. announced it has finalized the lease for its second on-line market, which will be located in Skyline Business Center. The facility will serve as a warehouse distribution center for people ordering groceries over the Internet, with a fleet of vehicles disbursing orders directly to customers.

The PublixDirect center will serve a 25-mile radius, Publix Spokeswoman Jennifer Bush said. Customers will go on-line, make their selections and pay by credit card. Initially groceries will be delivered the following day.

"We are going to start with next-day delivery, but our goal will be to deliver the groceries on the same day they are purchased," Bush said.

Publix will charge for home delivery, although a specific fee has not been determined.

In November, officials from PublixDirect asked City Commission members to consider giving the company an economic incentive to locate a new facility within the city. Commission advised them an incentive award would be considered on the con-

Seminole County Sheriff's Office investigates home computer hacker

The Seminole County Sheriff's Office is investigating a case in which a computer hacker allegedly took over a home computer, locked out the computer's user, and rendered the system inoperative.

The victim, Jason Smith of Fern Park reported he began having problems with a hacker last September. Smith later installed a firewall in his system that could also track the hacker's Internet provider number. The problem with the hacker appeared to have stopped until earlier this past week.

The hacker apparently got around the firewall, took over the system once again and began communicating with Smith, even using Smith's computer camera, remotely, to describe to Smith what he was wearing. Smith was able to get the Internet provider's number.

This past Thursday, when Smith arrived home, he found the hacker had somehow, remotely turned on Smith's computer, deleted his programs, and made the computer inoperable.

The Seminole County Sheriff's Economic Crimes Unit is investigating, and will analyze the victim's computer data stream for evidence.

Remembering Dr. King

Woodruff speaks about progress and the challenges that remain

By Dan Ping Editor

SANFORD — More than 300 people gathered Saturday night in the Sanford Civic Center to celebrate the legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King.

The 16th annual celebration featured awards, performances and an inspired keynote address from Dr. Minnie B. Woodruff, principal at John Young Elementary School and one of the state's most respected educators.

In a 30-minute speech peppered with wit and sharp insights, Woodruff spoke of the progress Americans have made in racial and social issues. She was quick to point out, however, that much remains to be done.

"Dr. King said, 'I have a dream that one day ... sons of former slaves and sons of former slave-owners will be able to sit down together at the table of brotherhood.' You're doing that right now," Woodruff said.

"There's a sign on the Turnpike that says, 'Are we there yet?'" Woodruff said. "Maybe we're not there just yet, but we've come a long way."

"When I was a young girl in Winter Park, I never dreamed I'd be invited to speak at the Civic Center. But

City hosts four days of celebration

By Merva Hawkins Herald Correspondent

The city of Sanford Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Steering Committee, made up of various community minded citizens who love their fellow man and the non-violence legacy Dr. King left for all, hosted a series of events during the weekend to celebrate King's birthday.

The three days of events in Sanford were also to inform this generation of the struggle for civil rights and human dignity in the country.

Officials from the city of Sanford and Seminole County held groundbreaking ceremonies for the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Highway on Friday, Jan. 12, at the corner of Airport Blvd. and 46-A. Because of road construction a temporary marker was placed and a permanent monument will be erected at a later date.

Friday evening at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce, students competed in the annual Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Oratorical Contest. They were competing for scholarships to be given to help them with their college education. Receiving the top award was Andrew William Bagley, a senior at Winter Springs High School. Andrew aspires to attend the University of Florida, where he will pursue a degree in law. He is the son of Anne Richards.

The second winner was Ben-O-Ni Smith, a Senior at Seminole High School. Smith aspires to attend Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University where he will pursue a degree in law. He is the son of Anne Richards.

Police search for missing teen-ager

Mack 'Lil Mack' Jackson was last seen Friday getting off his bus

By Joe DeSantis Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sanford Police are seeking assistance in locating a local teenager missing since Friday afternoon.

Mack C. Jackson, a 15-year-old Seminole High sophomore, who goes by the nickname "Lil Mac," was last seen getting off his school bus at approximately 2:45 p.m. He was wearing blue jeans, a red FUBU shirt and was carrying a black and red back pack.

A spokesperson for the Missing Children Center said

Jackson may be somewhere in the Midway area of Sanford. Jackson's aunt, Cynthia Oliver, is spearheading family efforts to locate the teenager.

"He got off the bus at Mellonville with special permission Friday afternoon," Oliver said. "He was going to spend the night with my father who is 94 years old and battling cancer."

"Our family is scared," Oliver added. "Mack is naive, he's been somewhat sheltered

No holiday from learning for history students

By Arthur Ziellinski Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — For Jan Blackwelder and her class of 35 American History students from Lake Mary High School, Martin Luther King Day was no holiday.

While other Seminole County students may have used the national holiday to relax and enjoy time off from school, Blackwelder's class went on an historic tour of Lake Mary. Because of time restraints during the school day, Blackwelder said the students must do the project on their day off or after school.

Blackwelder said the class consists of students in grades 10 and 11. During the school year she will conduct the same tour 4 or 5 times, with more than 150 students participating in the class project.

"The goal is to get the students to know something about local history," she explained.

In addition to the historic section of Lake Mary, the class

Lillian H. Griffin, librarian at the Frank Evans Center/Lake Mary Historical Museum provided students with invaluable information on local history of the Lake Mary area. Griffin, 72, a lifelong resident of Lake Mary, has worked as the librarian since 1995.

also will visit other museums and historic sites in Seminole County. At each location the students take notes and a lot of photographs. Blackwelder said each student will place the historic information and photo's in a scrapbook which she will grade.

The Lake Mary tour concluded at the Frank Evans Center/Lake Mary Historical Museum. The class was greeted by Lillian Humphrey Griffin, museum librarian.

Griffin, 72, is a lifelong resident of Lake Mary and has worked at the library since 1995. She said her family roots in Lake Mary go back to 1866.

"I can remember when the area had only one paved road, the rest were dirt," she noted. "We used to play football in the street and didn't have to worry about traffic. Only two cars a day came past, once when they went to work and once when they came home — things have changed."

Cigarette blamed in Lake Mary house fire

By Michelle Jertis Managing Editor

LAKE MARY — A cigarette probably caused an early morning fire Monday that destroyed a house on Lake Mary Boulevard.

The structure fire occurred at 2109 W. Lake Mary Boulevard around 1 a.m., said Wendy Benton, Lake Mary Fire Department public information officer. Two tenants in the house were treated and released with minor injuries.

"Both of them escaped through windows," Benton said. "The fire was so intense, that's the only way they could get out of the house."

According to Benton, both individuals were asleep when the fire began. One resident had to jump from a second story window and then wake up his roommate on the first floor.

"The resident on the second floor got up only after he heard the fire crackling and a dog barking," Benton said. "A smoke detector was reported to be in the house, but it wasn't working." Two dogs in the house also escaped without injury.

An investigation by the Lake Mary Fire Department and the state Fire Marshal's Office determined the fire was accidental and probably caused by a smoking material, Benton said. Fire damage to the home was extensive and is being called a total loss. According to Benton, only one battery-operated smoke detector was in the 3,500 to 4,500 square foot house. The occupants indicated the device didn't work because of dead or missing batteries.

As a reminder to the community, Benton said all homes should have smoke detectors located in all sleeping areas and on all levels. If smoke detectors are powered from a home electrical system, one battery-operated device should be installed in case there is a power outage.

Smoke detectors should be checked monthly, change the batteries every six months and practice home escape drills.

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Temperature and water levels

We have heard newcomers and visitors talking about those of us who are long-time Florida residents. They say we complain more about the weather than anything else. When temperatures go down, as they have in recent weeks, we wish it was warmer. When mid-summer temperatures go into the high 90s, we wish it were cooler.

Nick Pfeifauf

The same holds true with rainfall. We have had some seasons when rainfall has caused our lakes, rivers and retention ponds to overflow. The retention pond next to Lake Mary City Hall is a prime example. At one time, just a few years ago, even the park benches surrounding the pond were under water. Look at it now — there's very little water in it, even though it is supplied by a fountain. The fountain is supposed to collect water from other runoff areas which are higher in level. There are none.

Speaking of Lake Mary, I can recall, during a very heavy rainy season several years ago, when the Lake Mary City Commission heard complaints about flooding in residential areas and on certain streets at almost all of its meetings. People demanded the city do something. Other than fill in what could be filled, there was little else to be done.

So we complain when there is too much rainfall — and when there is too little.

Right now, the concern is about too little. Central Florida is drying up. While anyone is allowed to complain, we should also be concerned. Low water levels not only dry up our lakes and ponds, they create more damp soil along the edges where mosquitoes and other creatures develop. Underground, low water levels are depleting the amount of water in the aquifer — the underground water supplies that wind all over the state. When those levels go down, it increases the possibility of sinkholes, which could cause extensive damage. Of course, when the aquifer is too full, it can also result in sinkholes. We haven't had any large scale sinkholes in Seminole County this season, but watch for them — they can be expected.

And of course, when the water level in our lakes and rivers drops, it produces algae, which creates losses in fish and wildlife. Some of the algae even gets into the fresh water supplies, especially our wells, which should give us even more concern.

Who among us doesn't use water. Therefore it should be the duty of everyone to conserve whenever and wherever possible until we have adequate rain later this year. This means obeying the edicts about only watering a lawn twice a week, not washing your car so many times, and generally conserving water at all times.

Some entities will tell you we are at a critical period in this water shortage. Even though some may not believe it is a serious problem, it is going to get worse — have no doubt — unless we get more rainfall. There is little else that can be done.

Eagle's perch

Taking a break from building his nest, an eagle uses a Sanford utility pole, located on Towne Center Boulevard, as a perch. Bird watchers can find numerous eagles' nests throughout Seminole County, usually in a tall tree.

Bar code red

I was in the mood for an iced tea yesterday, so I stepped into a convenience store. I grabbed a can and went to the check out. The guy picks it up and tries to scan the bar code on the side of the can. Now I don't know a lot about bar codes, but this was a shiny silver can with beads of condensation on the side, so I wasn't surprised when reading the bar code did not go well.

After five minutes of unsuccessful scanning, the guy tries to read the 47-digit number under the bar code and punch that into his computerized cash register. By this point, I'm ready to punch a couple of things in myself.

We've been told that bar codes are to allow the store owner to track sales and control inventory. Don't believe it. Bar codes are just the next phase in getting the customer to do all the work. A hundred years ago, you'd step into a store, march up to the counter and ask the guy for an iced tea. He'd go get one from the storage area, hand it over and take your three cents.

Now you actually step into the storage area yourself, rummage around until you find what you want, haul it up to the counter, stand in line behind a bunch of other customers who've done the same thing, and then stand there looking at your watch while Mr. Inventory Control runs a beam of spooky red light across something you're planning to drink, in the hopes that if it scans properly, he'll be able to charge you a $1.99 for three cents' worth of iced tea. I guess when they called them convenience stores, I misunderstood whose convenience they were referring to.

Red Green

Garbage Day Today is garbage day. I really enjoy standing at the front window and watching the garbage men take all that stuff away. Bags that smell bad, boxes that were cluttering up the garage, things that outlived their usefulness, evidence of projects that had gone horribly wrong. They throw it all into the truck and drive it away to somewhere I will never go. It's a great feeling. A clean slate. A fresh start. The cleansing of garbage day. I wish I could do that with my brain. Take all the useless information and self-destructive thoughts and unpleasant memories out to the end of the driveway and watch somebody throw them into a truck and drive them away. Man, that would feel good. Of course I can't throw out any of the junk in my mind. But I do recycle.

Preparing For Lift-Off

If you have somewhere to go and are trying to decide what time you should leave to get there, you have to take a few things into consideration. For example, let's say you need to be out the door at noon, here's when you need to get ready:

— If you're going alone, start getting ready at 11:59. That allows you one minute to either comb your hair or find your hat.

— If you're going with your son, start getting ready at 11:30. That allows him time to get from his bed to the car.

— If you're going with your daughter, start getting ready at 9:30. That allows her time for three complete wardrobe changes and phone calls to friends who track her every move.

— If you're going with your wife, start getting ready at 7:30. That allows time for her to make the lists and do her hair and make-up, and time for you to come up with something for you to wear that passes inspection.

— If you're going with your wife and your son and your daughter, think seriously about handing them the car keys and faking an illness.

What global warming crisis?

I don't get it. I've been informed, repeatedly, that the scientific evidence of global warming is indisputable. And that no less indisputable is the evidence that this calamitous climate trend has been precipitated by human consumption of fossil fuels, which has increased atmospheric levels of carbon dioxide.

Yet, hardly a fortnight passes, it seems, without some revelation that appears to this non-scientist to contradict the prevailing wisdom on global warming, that suggests to this skeptic that proposals to tax or regulate American families and businesses into lower energy use — as some government scientists advocated back in November — are unjustified.

Consider the recent report by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's National Climate Data Center. It notes that in 2000 the United States experienced its coldest November and December on record, with an average national temperature of 33.8 degrees Fahrenheit.

If, as we've been warned, we are in the midst of a man-made planetary warming trend, and if, as certain scientists have claimed, the past 10 years have been the hottest on record, we certainly wouldn't expect to see record cold temperatures in this country for the last two months of last year.

And this is not the only recent report that casts serious doubt upon the global warming orthodoxy.

In November, scientists at Armagh Observatory in Ireland said that an analysis of climate records, culled from weather observations made almost daily since 1795, indicates that the sun has been the main contributor to global warming over the past two centuries (NOT human consumption of fossil fuels).

In December, a top Canadian scientist who has tracked global temperatures and greenhouse gases as far back as 500 million years, arrived at the same conclusion as the scientists at Armagh.

Carbon dioxide has been oversold as the chief cause of climate change, said Jan Veizer, selected by Canadian government science officials to study global warming. He attributes warming to fluctuations in the sun's intensity and other natural, rather than man-made, factors.

"I don't want to jeopardize the environmental agenda," he said last month. "But it's better to be honest."

Nevertheless, the global warming faithful will find a way to discount the contradictory research of Veizer and the Armagh scientists. They will gin up some explanation for the record cold temperatures recorded here in this country in November and December. For that is their standard defense when confronted with evidence, with research, that is inconsistent with the global warming gospel.

That's what happened in 1999 when the Climate Prediction Center, another division of the NOAA, reported that the continental United States actually got cooler, rather than warmer, over the past third of a century.

That's what happened when Scripps Institution of Oceanography examined Antarctic ice core samples from the last three glacial cycles (the transitional periods between ice age and planetary warming) and discovered increases in atmospheric levels of carbon dioxide were actually preceded by rises in planetary temperature. According to global warming theory, the opposite should have occurred. There should have been a rise in carbon dioxide levels followed by a rise in global temperatures.

It is increasingly clear that there is no global warming "crisis." That, to the extent that planetary temperatures have increased, human activity has had little to do with it.

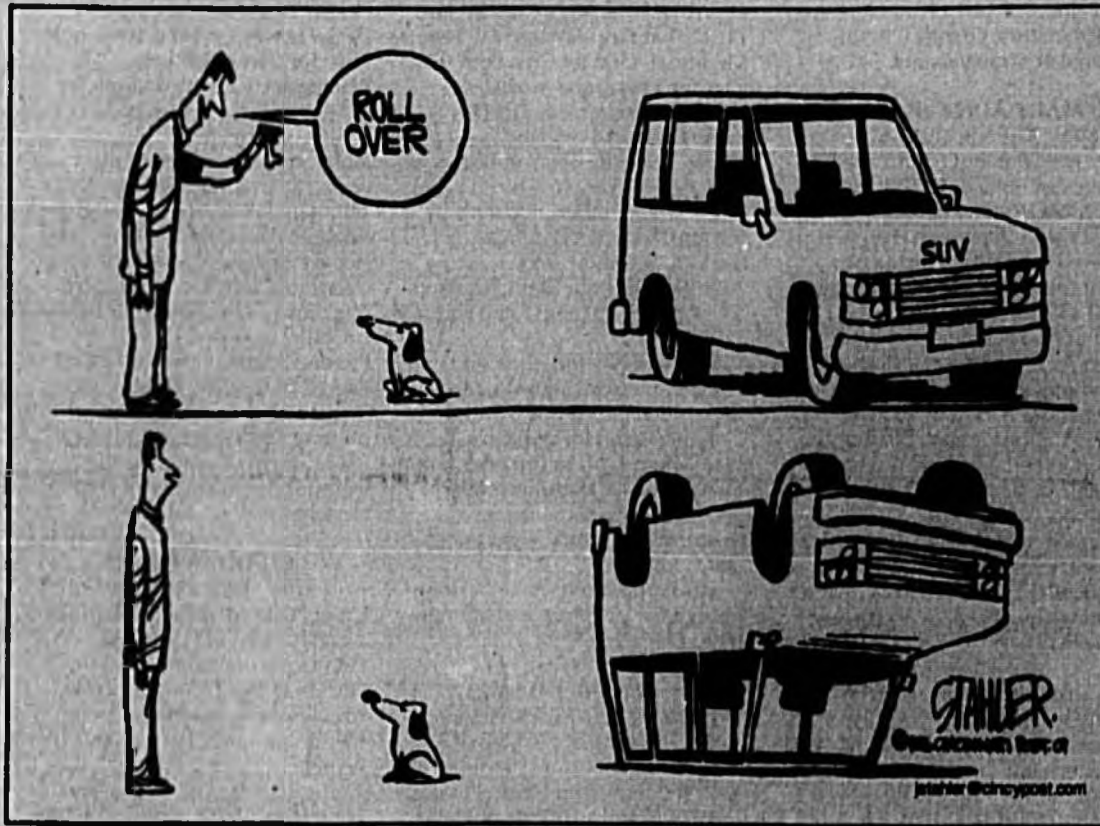

Those who continue to ominously warn us of looming calamity, who continue to offer prescriptions for averting this putative environmental disaster (like higher energy taxes and more research dollars), are doing so not on the basis of sound science, but because they have a vested interest in global warming — politically, professionally or otherwise.

Johnson thanks state Supreme Court justices

To the editor:

This is in reference to the article your wrote in the newspaper concerning Republican's Palm Beach County Commissioner and a Mary McCarty trying to raise $4 million plus to mount a campaign to remove the Florida Supreme Court Justices from office.

In reading the laws and previously believing that every vote counts, I can say that it appears that the only officials to take the honest and legal action was the Florida Supreme Court. Better to take the four million and hire some honest people to do an investigation of the election (especially in Florida).

I thank the Florida Supreme Court for trying to protect every vote. Also the hard working people of both parties who (during the Holiday season) worked such long hours to make this a legal election by trying so hard to give us all an honest vote count. It is not the voters fault machines did not function properly. How many times have we all heard "Every Vote Counts."

Well, they did not in this so called election.

What about the people who were not allowed to vote? I'd like to know more about what happened through all this. We're finally on the map because of Republican tampering with absentee votes. How many other counties?

The laws state "only the voter is to write on this ballot." They must request an absentee ballot. If a voter cannot write (due to illness, etc.) two officials must be there (upon his request) to help fill out the ballot.

My daughter and I followed the election closely. Early on she said this wasn't right (actually more). I tried to keep an open mind. Well, all I can say is the truth will eventually come out. I pray it does. What have we with-out a vote?

As far as the U.S. Supreme Court, I feel very saddened that the highest court in our land fails to go by the laws of our land. What are our young people supposed to believe now? The laws count when they are convenient.

Sherry Johnson, Retired USPS Sanford

P.S. Between you and me, I believe (now) that it all went down just as it was all planned! If Florida went for the Gore/Lieberman ticket, other activities went into action — and result planned.

Ashcroft will push blacks away from GOP

Back in August, Condoleezza Rice expressed her confidence in George W. Bush's ability to transform the Republican Party and eventually attract African-American voters. She had worked closely with Bush during the presidential campaign as his foreign policy tutor, and he has since nominated her to be his national security adviser.

Rice, who is black, acknowledged the racism that still lurks in the corners of the GOP, but she insisted that Bush would clean out the cobwebs of old-fashioned bigotry. "This is a battle for the heart and soul of the Republican Party, and I'm confident (then) Gov. Bush will win," she said.

But in nominating John Ashcroft as attorney general, Bush has caved in to his party's reactionaries without ever firing a shot. Ashcroft is not only ultra-conservative, but he is also chummy with bigots. If he is confirmed to head the Justice Department, African-Americans are unlikely to warm up to the GOP anytime soon.

It's puzzling how the GOP can never quite break with its four-decades-long tradition of courting racists. Ever since Barry Goldwater ran a "states' rights" campaign in 1964 that delighted Southern segregationists, the Republican Party has attracted Confederate sympathizers, anti-Semites, anti-integrationists, anti-immigrationists, civil rights skeptics, and a host of other bigots and mombacks.

Ashcroft is a fine example of that political style. He is not merely a religious fundamentalist, but he is also holder of an honorary degree from South Carolina's Bob Jones University. Until recently, Bob Jones prohibited interracial dating, and its Web site declared the Catholic Church a "Satanic cult."

Ashcroft is not merely an opponent of affirmative action; he is also a hero of the editors of Southern Partisan, one of the last redoubts of secessionism. In a 1998 interview, Ashcroft praised the magazine for keeping the ideals of the Confederacy alive. "You've got a heritage of ... defending Southern patriots like Lee, Jackson and Davis. Traditionalists must do more. We've all got to stand up and speak in this respect, or else we'll be taught that these people were giving their lives, subscribing their sacred fortunes and their honor to some perverted agenda."

Ashcroft is not only a staunch advocate of the death penalty, but he was also willing to trash the reputation of a distinguished black jurist in order to block his nomination to the federal bench. Missouri Supreme Court Justice Ronnie White was the target of a vicious campaign in which Ashcroft distorted his record to portray him as soft on crime.

While Ashcroft claimed White was "anti-death penalty," White had upheld capital sentences in 71 percent of the cases that came before him; his record was consistent with those of the white Missouri justices Ashcroft had appointed while he was governor. Ashcroft also claimed that Missouri's major law enforcement organizations opposed White's nomination. In fact, Ashcroft solicited protests to White's nomination from law enforcement groups. White is scheduled to testify during Ashcroft's confirmation hearings, and his account of the campaign against him is likely to be riveting. And black Americans are unlikely to forgive it.

If Bush were serious about making his party more appealing to blacks, he would not have nominated Ashcroft. There must be reputable conservative lawyers who view protecting slavery as, indeed, "a perverse agenda," who want nothing to do with Bob Jones University, and who haven't gone out of their way to trash a sitting black judge. Couldn't Bush find one?

George W. Bush will have the title President of the United States bestowed upon him on Saturday, Jan. 20. Half the country may be apprehensive about their future during the next four years, while other people are very optimistic. So today we asked, "Do you think George W. Bush will be a good president — will you be better off four years from now?"

If we pray for him I think he will do well. The people elected who they wanted to be in power. It was sealed by Almighty God. We will have to see where the Lord will lead us four years from now. Zeina Rolle, Sanford

Yes, I think Bush will be a good president. During the election I was rooting Bush more than Gore. I think his morals are better. And he has experience from his father being president. Anita Todd, Deftona

I think we will be better off four years from now. Bush has a better plan for the future of the United States than Gore. Hopefully Bush won't start a war. Brittany Todd, Deftona

State's first female senator inducted into Women's Hall of Fame

From Staff Reports

Former United States Senator Paula Hawkins was recently inducted into the Florida Women's Hall of Fame.

She was nominated by Congressman John L. Mica (R-Winter Park) and was recently selected by Governor Jeb Bush for induction into the Hall of Fame.

Hawkins became the first woman elected to statewide office in Florida when she was elected to the Florida Public Service Commission in 1972. It was also the first time any candidate had garnered over one million votes in Florida. In 1976, she became the only Florida Republican to be elected statewide when she won re-election to the Commission. Because of her willingness to take on big business and the government, she was dubbed as the "Fighting Missional Republican."

In 1980, Hawkins became the first woman elected to the U.S. Senate in her own right, without a husband or father preceding her in politics. On the senate floor, she helped lead the fight for the rights of the often forgotten citizens: children, victims of drug abuse, the poor and the elderly. As a member of the Senate Children's Caucus, she was effective in raising public awareness of child abuse and was instrumental in passing the Missing Children's Act of 1982, which established a national clearinghouse for information about missing children and resulted in the locating of more than 2,000 children by 1983.

As Senator, she helped initiate the South Florida Drug Task Force that was implemented by President Reagan and was highly successful in the 1980s. Hawkins also assisted in creating the Senate Caucus on International Narcotics Control and was appointed the Senate member of the Advisory Task Force on Narcotics Control. Her proposals linked the U.S. financial assistance certification to drug eradication efforts and minimum standards of international human rights laws, later adopted as public law. Because of her leadership in the fight against illegal drugs, Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole called her the "Senate's General in the War on Drugs."

Although she retired from the senate in 1987, Hawkins continued her work fighting illegal drug use, helping neglected and abused children and reversing the decline in education.

Hawkins served as a chief delegate to the United Nations Drug Conference in 1987 held in Vienna, Austria. She was also a delegate to the United Kingdom/United Nations Cocaine Summit held in London in 1989. As the U.S. Principal Representative with Diplomatic rank to the Inter-American Drug Abuse Control Commission of the Organization of American States, Hawkins has been U.S. head of delegation to over nine ministerial level meetings in Washington, DC and abroad. She served both President Clinton and former President Bush as Chairman of the National Commission of Responsibility for Financing Post-Secondary Education. Moving to Maitland in 1993,

Senator Hawkins began her public service by becoming actively involved in local community affairs, participating as an officer in the Parent Teacher Association and other civic organizations. As her precinct's representative to the Orange County Republican Executive Committee in 1964, she assumed positions of greater responsibility over the next decade. She has been listed in "Who's Who in America" and in "Who's Who in American Women."

Feds seek public comments on manatee plans

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is seeking public input on the draft revised recovery plan for the Florida manatee, an endangered species endemic to the coastal and inland waterways of the southeastern United States.

This is the third revision of the recovery plan for Florida manatees. The original plan was produced in 1960, revised in 1989 and again in 1996. In the 20 years since the original plan was approved, a tremendous amount of knowledge of manatee biology and ecology has been achieved and significant protection programs implemented.

"It is very important for the agency to know what the public thinks about the updated recovery strategy for this endangered species," said Sam D. Hamilton, the service's Southeast Regional Director.

All comments must be received by January 30, 2001. Comments may be mailed, hand delivered, faxed or submitted electronically.

For mail or delivery, contact Bill Brooks, Jacksonville Field Office, 6620 Southpoint Drive, Suite 310, Jacksonville, FL 32216-0958. To fax, the number is 904-232-2404. The e-mail site is billy_brooks@fws.gov.

'Evil weevils' destroy Florida citrus

There are eight species of root weevils that are known to infest citrus in Florida. Out of that group of insects, the weevil known as Diaprepes is the largest and most destructive of them.

Often referred by citrus growers as the "Evil weevil", the sugarcane rootstalk borer weevil is a silent killer feeding on the plant root system while the top of the tree initially shows little or no symptoms of the damage. Citrus roots, injured by the feeding of the weevils can be invaded by root destroying fungi accelerating the death of the trees.

Diaprepes

Originally known as the "Apopka Weevil", this insect was first reported in Florida in 1964 in a nursery near Apopka. It is mainly considered a major pest of citrus and sugarcane.

The adults measure between 0.4 and 0.75 inches, and have a black background with colored scales on the wing covers that range from white to orange. Adults can be found throughout the year with two peak emergence periods in June and September.

Female weevils will lay up to 5,000 eggs during their lifetime. Eggs are generally laid in concealed sites, most often in the space between two adjacent leaves.

Egg masses are deposited in a gelatinous cement which seals the leaves together, providing protection for the eggs. Emerging larvae fall to the ground where they start to feed on plant roots.

The adult males are active for two months while adult females are active for up to four months. Adults feed on leaf margins of newly emerged leaves, making it possible to detect their presence due to this particular behavior of feeding.

Diaprepes is found mainly in Lake and Orange counties with smaller infestations in St. Lucie, Palm Beach and Polk counties.

Damage

No rootstock appears to be resistant to the damage of this insect. It has been observed that it takes only as few as two weevil larvae per containerized seedling to remove the entire bark from their root system in four to five weeks.

Other Root Weevils

The southern blue-green citrus root weevil, the blue-green citrus weevil, Fuller rose beetle, and the little leaf notcher, also behave similarly to Diaprepes and can also be considered important pests of citrus.

Detection

The best way to determine the presence of weevils on citrus trees is to look for the typical notching along the margin of the leaves. If notching is present, examine foliage for adult weevils or egg masses.

Weevils are nocturnal and will be found on the outer portion of the tree in the early morning or late evening hours. When the adults are disturbed they will usually fall to the ground faking death.

The use of emergence cages placed on the ground beneath the canopy to capture the adults as they ascend from the soil has proven successful to detect their presence. The cages are used during the months of April and May when most adults emerge from the soil.

Distribution

Weevils have three methods of moving from grove to grove.

The initial introduction to a particular place occurs mainly via nursery stock either as larvae in containers or as egg masses on foliage. Additional movement can occur from tree to tree by equipment.

The third way is by natural spread. The Fuller rose beetle and the little leaf notcher are flightless, and therefore very slow to disperse. The sugarcane rootstalk borer and the blue-green citrus root weevil are poor flyers but can fly from tree to tree.

Control

The use of foliar insecticides to control the adults or the use of soil insecticides to control larvae in the soil can be used if a large number of weevils are detected. It is important to have a good irrigation and fertilization program to reduce tree stress.

Al Ferrer is Seminole County Urban Horticulturist. Inquiries may be directed to him at the Cooperative Extension Service, 296 W. County Home Road, Sanford, FL 32773 or phone 888-8688. All Seminole County Cooperative Extension services are open to all regardless of race, color, sex, handicap or national origin.

Old friend won't leave young wife alone

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 years old and happily married with one child. A longtime family friend has a huge crush on me. "Mr. Jones" is in his late 40s and is always buying me gifts — items of jewelry, etc. He keeps trying to persuade me to go to bed with him. He has even asked me to leave my husband, saying he would treat me better.

Dear Abby

Abby, I'm scared to tell my husband. He is protective of me, and I'm afraid he'll kill Mr. Jones. I also am reluctant to ruin a longtime family friendship, but I'm tired of being scared to be around him alone — afraid he'll do something to me.

What should I do? Should I tell my husband? Should I confront Mr. Jones? Help!

ON THE SPOT, SIDNEY, OHIO

DEAR ON: Stop being passive and tell Mr. Jones in no uncertain terms that you're happy with the husband you've got, have no desire to "trade up," and his attentions are insulting. Return the jewelry and inform him that if he propositions you again, you will inform your husband and the rest of your family.

Curtain the amount of time this intimidating "friend" can spend alone with you, and if it happens again, keep your word.

DEAR ABBY: Although I'm a longtime reader, I've never felt compelled to write until I read the letter from "Bowled Over in California." It's the one from the prisoner who communicated with another prisoner by talking through the toilet bowl.

The letter disgusted me. I am a female deputy in a county jail in California (probably the same one in which the writer is incarcerated). We call that method of communication "toilet talking," and it goes on daily in our jail. If we catch inmates communicating that way, we give them a "major write-up," because it's a violation of the rules.

Yes, many an unsuspecting woman (or man) has "fallen in love" in this manner, but I'll bet you won't find a single couple who have met this way, married, and are still together. It is a scam used to get the new, weak and uninformed inmate to send mail or money. The overwhelming majority of these toilet talkers are already married or tied up with someone else. Oh, the lies and schemes we've heard.

If "Bowled" has a brain in her head, she will run away from this so-called relationship as fast as she can. Think about it: Would you want to strike up a relationship with a person who may be locked up for many months or years (or a lifetime)? Or would you rather marry a fine, upstanding citizen who will be by your side, especially in times of need?

Most of these guys are ex-cons or have been through the system many times. They know how to manipulate. When they get out of prison, poor "Bowled Over" gets used and abused and taken to the cleaners before she's dropped like a hot potato.

Please forgive the length of this letter; I could go on and on. If even ONE new, unsuspecting inmate turns her life around because of my letter, then it has been worth my time and effort.

DISGUSTED DEPUTY IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR DISGUSTED: Thank you for the warning. I hope that those who need it will heed it. A real prince would communicate FROM his throne, not THROUGH it.

dition that Publix officially supported the annexation of its Lake Mary Village store.

Publix withdrew its application for the incentive in December, announcing it would not favor the annexation. However, plans continued to be reviewed for the proposed property.

"We selected the Lake Mary area based on our research," Bush said. "The area is high in Internet usage and high in its usage of on-line shopping."

Although the on-line grocery store will not offer everything available in the chain's "brick and mortar" facilities, Bush said the Internet-based center will offer items in all major categories.

The Lake Mary facility will be the second PublixDirect to open in the country. The Lakeland-based chain plans to open its first on-line center in Pompano Beach in late spring or early summer.

"We are focusing on a quality program rather than the quantity of on-line stores we build," Bush said. "We are making sure we meet our customers' expectations."

When the Lake Mary facility opens in Spring 2002, it will create about 300 jobs over four years with an average salary of $31,700. The facility includes a 124,000 square foot distribution center with an estimated capital investment of $17.3 million.

Although the project is in the early stages, Bush said individuals wanting to learn more about PublixDirect and its job opportunities can go online at www.publixdirect.com.

coming from a very Christian family. My gut instinct is that he may have gotten involved with the wrong crowd, that's why we've listed him as both a possible abduction or a possible runaway."

Oliver added that Jackson is a "sweet kid, very impressionable, and has been somewhat isolated with his time spent solely between school, church, and family circles."

Oliver said there may be a possibility Jackson could be headed for or be in New York. The family has relatives in the Rochester area. In addition to working with local police agencies and the Winter Springs Missing Children Center, Oliver has contacted law enforcement agencies in New York and Atlanta as well as the National Missing Children Network. She is also making efforts to contact local television stations, get Jackson's picture and information up on the Internet, and is trying to contact Orlando Magic basketball executive Julius "Dr. J." Erving for help.

Erving's son, Cory, was also missing last year. He disappeared on the way home from work in Altamonte Springs. His body and car were discovered in a retention pond just a few hundred yards from the Erving's Seminole County home almost two weeks after his disappearance.

Jackson has black hair, brown eyes, is 5 foot 7 inches tall and weighs 145 pounds.

Anyone with information about Jackson is asked to contact investigator Doug Boptalico with the Sanford Police Department at 407-323-3030, or the Missing Children Center, Inc., located in Winter Springs at 407-327-4403 or toll free at 800-330-1907.

Community Notes

French seniors need home
The Center for Cultural Interchange is looking for families/individuals to host French seniors, ages 50 to 60 for 10 days in April. These adults will be visiting area attractions during the day, and socializing with their American families during the evening.

To volunteer as a host or for additional information, phone Teresa Clark at 407-880-3989.

GoldenRule help
GoldenRule housing and Community Development Corporation, Inc., has now extended its services to approving loans. GoldenRule has its Mortgage Broker Business License and is now specializing in Affordable Home Ownership opportunities and down payment assistance up to $25,000 for the first time home buyer. GoldenRule has been providing home ownership for first time home owners since April 1991.

For more information, call 407-324-9143 or fax to 407-328-7148.

Graduate scholarships
Outstanding Seminole Community College GED graduates, Kevin Dawson of Orlando, Gwen Grainger and Daphne Trospen of Sanford and Lorayn Jordan of Winter Springs were each awarded $1,000 scholarships to continue their studies at SCC in the 2000 fall GED graduation ceremony held earlier this month.

Main Street seeks new members

Sanford Main Street has kicked off its membership drive.

The goal is to obtain members who have a vision of what downtown can be and will help energize and revitalize the historic downtown area.

Membership chairwoman "Bert" Padgett says the group is currently taking "membership investments" for the coming year. Membership investments in Main Street range from $25 Booster membership to $4,000 Patron.

Padgett said this membership drive will continue through the first quarter of 2001. She said her organization is not only asking for people to invest in downtown and become a member of Main Street, the group is also asking that new members immediately find two friends who believe in Sanford and get them to join as well.

Membership packets are available at the Main Street office, 209-B West First Street in downtown Sanford.

For additional information, contact "Bert" Padgett at 407-324-9238, or Walt Padgett at 407-322-5600.

Sanford, The Historic Heart Of Seminole County

Johnell Scott, president of the Southern Riders Motorcycle Club cruises along 13th Street on his Harley.

A group of parade watchers mugs for the camera as the parade approaches Fort Mellon Park.

Ashionna Wesley, 8, and her sister, Antquanasha (in background), watch the parade as it goes by on West 13th Street.

Woodruff

we've progressed, and as the young people say, 'I'm all up in here now.'

Woodruff said progress is not limited to racial issues and reflected on the economic prosperity throughout the nation.

"It's a wonderful time to live in Sanford and to live in America," she said. "We live in $300,000 houses. We've got two cars. We've got three TVs. Some of you even have two VCRs."

But Woodruff said despite racial and economic progress, America still faces problems which threaten basic values the nation was built upon.

"Is this the best of times in America, or could it also be the worst of times," Woodruff asked. "Fifteen kids die from guns everyday in this nation. Sexual abuse, child abuse and emotional abuse are at record levels. We're still struggling with cross-racial problems. Just one out of every four children lives in a household with two married people. Is this the prosperous life?"

"We're in real need of a new moral compass. There are certain values we must hold and below which we should never accept. Now let me tell you something — values are learned by people sitting the example. You cannot teach it through material things. Your Mercedes Benz and your big fancy home ain't getting it." Woodruff said leaders in the community should adopt the medical fields mantra of "Each one teach one," and she challenged the men in the audience to stand up and take a leadership role. Woodruff also stressed the need of self-monitoring and self-improvement.

"We must watch our thoughts because our thoughts become our words," Woodruff said. "We must watch our words because our words become our actions. We must watch our actions because our actions become our habits. We must watch our habits because they become our character. And we must watch our character because it becomes our destiny."

"Are we there yet? I think Dr. Martin Luther King would be proud of the progress we've made, but I also think he would say we've got a ways to go." During Saturday night's ceremony before Woodruff spoke, Lemul Stallworth was awarded the 2001 Brotherhood Award for his years of community service.

"It's with a great deal of thanks and humility that I accept this award," Stallworth said. "To God be the glory for anything I've accomplished. My hope is that this celebration will continue with the goal of love, peace and brotherhood in our community and throughout the world."

Stallworth was reared in Oviedo and graduated from Crooms Academy. He earned a degree from Bethune-Cookman College in Daytona and received his master's degree from Flak University in Nashville, Tenn. He also earned a certification in Guidance and Counseling from Rollins College, as well as a certification in School Administration and Supervision from the University of Central Florida.

Stallworth served a tour of duty in the U.S. Army, where he worked as a clerk-typist in the office of the Alaskan Branch in Anchorage.

His professional and community services are numerous and include: Chairman of the Seminole County Middle School Counselor's Association; president of the Crooms High School Band Parent's Association; charter member of the Seminole county Federal Credit Union; treasurer of the South Side Elementary School PTA; co-chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee of Educators for the merger of the Seminole County Teacher's Association to form the present Seminole Education Association; treasurer of the Seminole County Teacher's Association; the Florida Retired Educator's Association; and the Seminole County Retired Educator's Association, where he served as past president.

Although he is retired from the Seminole County Public Schools, Stallworth continues to serve as a part-time GED instructor at Seminole Community College. He tutors at New Life Christian Academy, as well as The Harbor Tutoring Center. He also serves as a Dividend (volunteer teacher) at several district middle schools in the Sexual Abstinence program.

Stallworth is a member of New Bethel Missionary Baptist Church, where he serves as a deacon and Sunday School teacher.

Celebration

sue a degree in business.

Students across the county accepted the challenge that the poster contest gave them. First place winners were Charday Carter of Goldsboro Elementary and Shequita DeBose of New Life Academy. Second place winner was Ebony Poyser of New Life Academy. Third place was Edrienna Thomas of Highlands, Elementary.

Others receiving mentions are Christina Danielle Humphray, New Life Academy; Edward DeBose, New Life Academy; Noel Burgus, Highland Elementary; Kyle Emnis, Wicklow Elementary; Jarques Waters and Gale Frazier, Goldsboro Elementary; Tara Smallwood, Wicklow Elementary; Eric Mills, Highland Elementary; Karissa Moore, Shaquille Cherry, Travius Mathis, Mark Lopez, ShanKeena Lemon and Amber Silva, New Life Christian Academy; and Brianna Jones, Wicklow Elementary.

The Inter Faith Commemorative Service was held Sunday afternoon. Worshipers from every belief joined together in the fellowship experience held at the Sanford Civic Center.

Speakers for the event included the chairman of the MLK Steering Committee, Bernard D. Mitchell; chairman of the Inter Faith Service Rev. Leonard J. Wilson; guest commemorative speaker Rev. Dr. Walter R. Prince Jr.; City Commissioner Brady Lessard; and other ministers.

Program participants included the MLK Jr. Celebration Choir and the guest choir of Mt. Pleasant Missionary Baptist Church, Orlando, who led the march of celebration into the service, where more than 400 worshippers of all faiths joined in the song, "We Will Stand."

As each person in the line of march joined hands in a show of togetherness and sang, "Yes, you're my brother, you're my sister, so take me by the hand. Together we will work until He comes. There's no foe that can defeat us, when we're walking side by side, as long as there is love, we will stand."

Soloists for this selection were the mother-daughter team of Rebecca Brown and Stephanie Brown of the Celebration Choir.

Pastor Rev. Dr. W. Frank Williams of Mt. Zion Missionary Baptist Church gave the invocation.

Musical renditions were given by the renowned MLK Jr. Choir, under the direction of Gloria Williams. Her assistants are Sylvia Stallworth and Charles Jackson. For 14 years, the choir organized by the late Mary Whitehurst assisted by Gloria Williams, former Mayor Bettye Smith, Faye Williams, Sylvia Stallworth and other musicians in the community.

The dream of Mrs. Whitehurst continues to live on as the choir consists of members who love to sing, serve and are dedicated to the life and legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Sherlyn J. Polk, a member of the Celebration Choir presented the honorees of the Inter-Faith Service. The Rev. Dr. W. Frank Williams was honored for his dedication, service and support of the Dr. MLK Jr. Inter-Faith Observances. Also, the Dr. MLK Jr. Celebration Choir Award for dedicated service for 14 years went to Rebecca Brown who is a charter member of the Celebration Choir. After the honors, the choir joined in the beautiful rendition of "The Beatitudes" Matthew 5:1-13.

As the observance continued, greetings from the city were delivered by the Honorable Commissioner Brady Lessard. The community greetings were given by Cynthia Butler and Master Jeremie McCall gave greetings from the youth.

Rev. Albert Covington, pastor of St. Paul Missionary Baptist Church presented his pastor, Dr. Walter R. Prince for the message of the hour.

Before Pastor Prince stood, his Mt. Pleasant Missionary Baptist Church Gospel Choir rendered various soul-stirring selections to prepare the congregation for his commemorative message.

Pastor Prince rose to feed the soul. He blessed our hearts and told us the story of the man, the great leader, orator and hero.

He told us of the man God, who can help and will help us overcome all adversaries. He said, "After we have celebrated, marched, sung, remembered, after we have shouted, what will we do? How can we bring about a change? Don't only remember, celebrate — act. It was not just a day on, not just a day off, but a day to take a look at what you can do to make this world better, without God there cannot be any successful changes."

"This day should be a day we join to make it a day of love, reaffirm the American dream of freedom, justice and an opportunity for all. Make it a day for love not hate, understanding not anger, for peace not war.

"A day for families and friends. A day when people of all races, religions, classes, set aside their differences and join in a spirit of oneness."

After a great spiritual feeding and informative message, Pastor Marvin Scott of the Second Shiloh Baptist Church gave the invocation.

Chairman Bernard Mitchell, co-chairman of the MLK Jr. Steering Committee thanked Pastor Prince for his dynamic and powerful message, and to close the three day celebration planned by the City of Sanford Steering Committee. The choir reminded the audience that "The Battle is the Lord."

Benediction by Rev. Dr. Prince. As the dais and choirs marched out on the hymn of fellowship "Let There Be Peace on Earth," and let it begin with each of us.

Raiders roar into conference play

Gyarfas comes off bench to lead SCC women to 92-51 win

By Dean Smith
 Sports Editor

SANFORD — Maybe the bench isn't so bad after all.

A year ago 6-foot-9 Sue Gyarfas was one of the "go to" players for a Seminole Community College women's basketball team that went 27-6 and finished tied for third in the state tournament.

But this year the going has been tough for the sophomore from Budapest, Hungary as her scoring touch has been off and she was getting into foul trouble before going to the bench in favor of freshman Brandi Davis.

But now the big southpaw appears to be making the transition to coming off the bench very well as she has had three good games in a row heading into the start of Mid-Florida Conference play this week.

During a trip to South Florida, Gyarfas had 18 points, eight rebounds and six blocked shots, including a 12-point, 5-rebound, 2-blocked shot effort against nationally-ranked Palm Beach Community College, and then came up huge Sunday, scoring a team-high 17 points in the Raiders' 92-51 thumping of the Community College of Rhode Island at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center.

Sunday's victory, the 16th of the season against five losses, came on the heels of an 83-35 (40-13 at halftime) laughter over Abraham-Baldwin Agricultural College in Tifton, Georgia on Friday and was SCC's third win in four starts, giving the locals a lot of momentum with Santa Fe Community College from Gainesville coming to town

Saturday for the M-FC opener.

Saturday's game will begin at 6 p.m. and will be followed by a men's game between Santa Fe, and Seminole High graduate Cornelius Blue, and the Raiders starting at 8 p.m. at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center. Admission is free.

The game will be the second M-FC game for coach Stan Cromartie's men, who will open the conference schedule tonight in Palatka against St. Johns River Community College, led former Winter Springs star Marcus Wiggins, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The SCC women took an 11-0 lead against Rhode Island on Sunday and were never threatened, rolling to a 49-22 lead at half-time and cruising from there.

In addition to Gyarfas, Gabrielle

Rams rebound nicely

Lake Mary bounces back from tough loss; Seminoles, Bears romp

By Dean Smith
 Sports Editor

DeLAND — Ahley Prasey scored a game-high 15 points as the Lake Mary girls basketball team bounced back from just its second defeat of the season on Friday with a 61-43 victory over DeLand at the New Dog House on Monday.

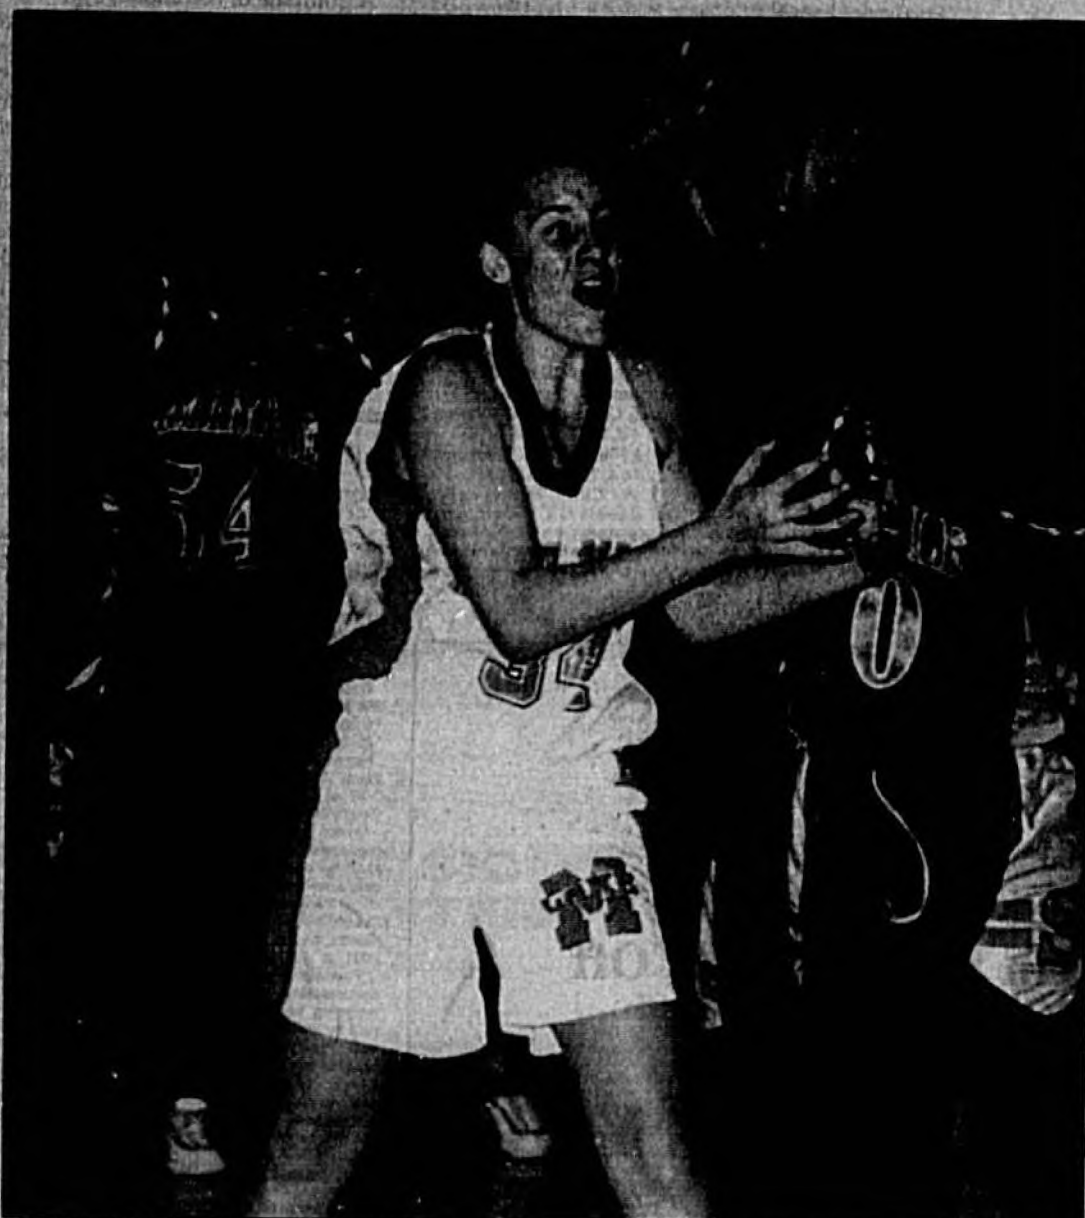

The Rams (19-2) led 17-7 after one quarter and never looked back. Bryn Mosler (11) and Jackie Beik (10) also scored in double figures for the winners.

On Friday, Lake Mary was outscored 32-18 in the second half as they saw its long winning streak end at the hands of Lake Highland Prep (14-7), 48-40.

The other top girls teams in Seminole County, Seminole, Winter Springs and Lyman all posted victories over the weekend.

Seminole (16-5) took a 45-13 lead over visiting Eau Gallie (1-13) after three quarters on Friday at Bill Fleming Alexa Kane (No. 34, white) scored 18 points as Lake Mary split a pair of weekend basketball games, scoring 10 in a loss to Lake Highland Prep on Friday and tallying eight in a district victory over DeLand on Monday.

Ohio duo claims Wekiva PGA tourney

Special to the Herald

LONGWOOD — The Ohio team of Brian Unk, Cuyahoga Falls, and Jeff Bors, Chardon, rallied to win the North Florida PGA Winter Tour team tournament Thursday (Jan. 11) at the Diamond Players Club at Wekiva.

Playing a modified Chapman, or alternate shots, format, Unk and Bors scored a final round of six under par 66 on an eagle, five birdies and a bogey on the 6,640-yard course. They earned $600 apiece from the $4,700 purse.

At 129, including a better ball of 63 on Wednesday, Unk and Bors finished a shot ahead of Aaron Barber of Casselberry and Rob Johnson of Knoxville, Tenn., who closed with 66-130.

The first round leaders, Michigan's Joe Pollack of Ann Arbor and Jason Lee of Comstock, added a 71 for 132, seventh among 18 teams, but they missed the money by one shot.

Unbeaten Lions roar to 18th win

By Dean Smith
 Sports Editor

OVIDO — The undefeated and No. 1 Class 6A State-Ranked Oviedo Lions went over the 100-point mark for at least the third time this season, and second time in two weeks, as they whipped visiting Seminole, 101-41, Friday night.

Junior Shawn Witherspoon led a balanced Oviedo attack with 19 points as it improved to 18-0 on the season.

Senior's Marcus Hayes (11), Darrell Freeman and Eric Dupree (10 points each) also scored in double figures for the Lions.

Senior Derrick Oliver and junior Robby Dupre led Arrow Force IX (9-8) with 12 and 11 points, respectively.

In another Seminole Athletic Conference game from Friday night, Lake Brantley used a 40-22 second half scoring advantage to keep visiting Lake Mary winless, 66-44.

The Patriots (9-10 overall, 3-3 in SAC, 3-1 in district play) again were led by the senior guard tandem of Scott Bradley and Jamar Guy.

Guy hit 8-of-10 from the free throw line to finish with a game-high 23 points, while Bradley hit three 3-pointers to finish just behind with 31 points and chipped in with eight assists for good measure.

 process.
 Leading the group was Eckstein's younger brother, David, also a graduate of Seminole High School and the University of Florida. Currently, David is a second baseman in the Anaheim Angels organization and is on the 40-man spring training roster.
 Former Oviedo High School head coach Kerne Brown (who was the assistant coach at Seminole High School when the Ecksteins were there) also was on hand to assist.
 Other camp instructors were:
 * Matt Allegra - a graduate of Lake Mary High School, he is an outfielder in the Oakland A's minor league system; last year, Allegra played on the A's Rookie League team.
 * Kenny Birch - left-handed pitcher from Oviedo High School, he will be a senior at the University of Florida this year, where he is expected to be a key member of their staff.
 * Mark Ellis - a shortstop from the University of Florida, he was the Minor League Player of the Year for the Kansas City Royals' organization before being included in a trade with the Oakland A's on Monday.

* Justin Holmes - another product of the Oviedo High School system, he is a freshman middle infielder for the University of South Florida in Tampa.
 * Chaz Lytle - now attending Daytona Beach Community College, Lytle graduated from Seminole High School; he is an early signee with the University of Georgia.
 * Andy Neufeld - also a graduate of Oviedo High School, Neufeld has been named one of the team captains for the University of Georgia team this year.
 "The quality of the camp draws directly on the quality of the coaches," said Rick Eckstein. "The players who came out and shared their knowledge and experience with the athletes are all highly respected, not because of their physical skills but for their approach to the game."
 "One thing that I hope every player took home with him from this camp is how important the mental approach is and that the mental approach doesn't begin just when you get to the field and end when the game is over."

You can help:

- Stay in deep water channels. Avoid running your motor over seagrass beds.
- Look for the manatee's snout, back, tail, or flipper in the water.
- Call 1-800-DIAL-FMP, or use VHF Channel 16 if you spot an injured manatee.
- Wear polarized sunglasses.
- Don't discard trash into the water.
- Look, but don't touch. Please don't feed manatees or give them water.
- Watch for posted speed zone and sanctuary signs.
