FLORIDA WOMEN VOTE IF 36 STATES RATIFY; NO ACTION NECESSARY

Chm. Raney Explains In Letter to Sen. Fletcher

SAYS MUST REGISTER

OUTCOME HINGES ON AC- TION OF DELAWARE LEGISLATURE.

The following from the Tampa Tribune will be interesting to the ladies:

That there is no obstacle in the way of Florida women voting in the Democratic primary in June and in the general election in November, this year, provided thirty-six states ratify the Federal constitutional amendment granting woman suffrage was the statement of George P. Raney, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, when questioned yesterday. Mr. Raney said it will not be necessary for the state committee to meet on the subject, as the committee has already paved the way, and that if the Federal amendment passes the thirty-sixth state successfully, he will at once write all committeemen asking them to urge their supervisors of registration to have as many qualified white women register as possible.

Mr. Raney's views are well set forth in a letter which he yesterday wrote to Senator Fletcher in reply to a letter which Mr. Fletcher wrote him on the same subject. The letter of Mr. Raney to Senator Fletcher is as follows:

Women Entitled to Vote
"Senator Duncan U. Fletcher,
"Jacksonville, Fla.

"Dear Sir: I beg leave to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 23rd inst. expressing the opinion that in the event of the early ratification of the nineteenth amendment to the Federal constitution, that the women of Florida will be entitled to vote in both the primary election and general election of this year without any revision of the state laws by the Florida legislature, that is to say, that such amendment, when adopted will be self-executing; and suggesting further, however, the advisability of calling a meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee to formulate and adopt a resolution expressly urging the registration and qualification of white women Democratic electors and directing that this registration begin as soon as the thirty-sixth state adopts this amendment."

"I fully agree with you that the amendment to the constitution in question is self-executing and that upon its adoption it is desirable that white women who are members of the Democratic party should participate in the Democratic primary election; though I must admit that it may be a debatable question as to whether or not the laws of Florida regulating the qualifications of voters should be revised, at least before the general election in November so as to conform to the constitution of the United States as amended."

"I would respectfully call to your attention that the resolution adopted by the State Democratic Executive Committee of Florida on January 29 a copy of which I am herewith handing you, is so framed and worded as to meet this very emergency. You will observe that it applies to all legal electors who possess the special qualifications provided by the resolution itself, that nowhere in the resolution do the words 'male' or 'men' appear, that nowhere in the resolution is there any use of a noun or pronoun of the masculine gender. On the contrary, upon the women of this state acquiring the legal right to vote by virtue of the amendment to the constitution, there-upon white women become entitled to vote in the next Democratic primary election upon the same terms and conditions as do white men."

"I note that you do not express the opinion that any action by the State Democratic Executive Committee is in fact necessary in order that women may vote in the Democratic primary election. In my opinion not only is it unnecessary for the state committee to meet, but no practical purpose could be served by such a meeting. Section sixteen of the primary election law expressly limits the time for such action by the state committee to the opening of the registration books on March 1 of this year. The state committee at this time has no power to give any further directions to county supervisors of registration, and to repeat the state committee has already done all that it is necessary for it to do in the premises.

"In the event of the adoption of the amendment I will immediately write each member of the state committee suggesting that in their respective counties they urge all

CHICKEN SUPPER AT GENEVA

LADIES RAISED NICE SUM FOR FERNALD-LAUGHTON HOSPITAL LAST NIGHT.

With their customary hospitality the good people of Geneva invited the folks from town and village and hamlet to come out and enjoy a chicken supper last night and there was a goodly crowd assembled at the hall early in the evening. The piece d'assistance was chicken pie flanked with all the good things that go to make up a chicken pie dinner and with coffee and cake and ice cream those present managed to make out pretty well. The ladies waited on the tables and saw that the guests were well treated in the way of eats and after the supper was over E. A. Douglass acting as auctioneer sold all the remaining chicken pies, cakes, bouquets, furniture, rugs, matting and started to sell the shingles off the roof of the building but the committee stopped him in time.

The social and supper was arranged for the purpose of paying the donation of Geneva to the Fernald Laughton Memorial Hospital which was $48 and the chicken supper netted the ladies over $85 which shows that when you want to raise funds for any purpose "feed 'em" and the money will be forthcoming.

And also it would be well in conclusion to say that when Geneva advertises something to eat they never fail to make good for something to eat is the reputation upon which Geneva is built.

Many people from Sanford attended the supper and they all report one of the best times ever among the hospitable people of that famous section of Seminole county. All they need out there is better roads.

MARRIAGE OF INTEREST WILL OCCUR

AT THE COURT HOUSE DURING THE SPRING FESTIVAL.

One of the greatest events of the great Spring Festival that will be put on here by the Woman's Club April 15, 16 and 17, will be the wedding at which one of the attractive girls for which Sanford is famous and one of the nice young boys or one or one of the excellent bachelors of riper age will be married in public in the court house by one of the ministers imported for the occasion.

The wedding will occur on the night of the 17th after the votes for the most popular girl and the most popular man have been counted on the night of the 15th.

This great event will be watched with much interest as some of the eligible bachelors have been hanging on the matrimonial bush much too long and their friends say they will roll up the votes for them and try and put one of the older heads over one of the younger boys although the youngsters will also have their following. Of course the popularity of the candidates for this honor will depend upon how many votes they receive and in this vote business there will be a few pennies change hands for in this contest as in politics votes will depend upon the popularity of the contestants.

The following list of eligibles who have already been entered and their votes are as follows:

Chairman Smith Says No Hitch In His Arrangements

WORK IS STARTING

CONTRACTS HAVE BEEN LET FOR MUCH OF THE RE- ROAD WORK IN THE STATE.

Tallahassee, March 26.—"I noticed an article a few days ago in the Jacksonville Metropolis which stated that there is grave danger of Florida losing her apportionment of federal aid because of failure on the part of the road department to comply with the requirements of the federal government in getting a sufficient number of project agreements for the expenditure of federal aid signed roads," said Chairman M. M. Smith of the state road department.

"There is positively no danger that the foregoing will be the case. In this connection I wish to state that there is absolutely no 'hitch' between the federal government and the state road department, as suggested in the Metropolis in regard to receiving federal aid for Florida.

"This is a matter which the state road department has been carefully looking out for. I make the foregoing statements for the benefit of those who may become uneasy for fear of the loss of Florida of federal aid for road building.

"A contract has just been let which in itself when signed up between the government and the state will take care of all federal aid apportionment for Florida during 1920 and a sufficient number of other projects are now under way to more than take care of the balance of federal aid which will be coming to this state under the apportionment for 1921.

"The bureau of public roads is very particular to see that everything is in first class shape pertaining to projects where a request is made for aid, but in every case where the work of the road department has been properly done through its engineers and the requirements of the bureau of public roads has been lived upon, there has been no hesitation on their part to sign up agreements for aid under Florida's apportionment.

"It would appear that there is quite an amount of 'red tape' to be gone through with in getting federal help for road construction. At the same time the bureau of public roads is only 'playing safe' and cannot be blamed.

"It is further true that to the department of agriculture, road building is in a measure a new proposition as it is with the different road departments throughout the country, and there is no doubt but that in time a better working basis, looking toward the elimination of 'red tape' and a shorter cut to road construction will be worked out by the department of the bureau of public roads, and that it will be possible

Some Phrases in Common Use Date Back to Mother Country; Reflect Customs Long Dead

Many a phrase in common use today dates back to the mother country, England, and reflects old customs, long dead. Long ago in the days of feudalism the dependents of a baron or feudal lord displayed his badge plumed on their sleeves. Sometimes, while on an expedition of their own, these vassals exchanged their badge for that of another, to prevent recognition. This gave rise to the saying: "You may wear the badge, but I cannot pin my faith on your sleeve; I require some further evidence whence you came." To this day, we hear the expression do not "pin your faith on it."
Another phrase of old origin came from an incident of the sixteenth century at Westminster. In December, 1540, the abbey church of St. Peter was constituted a cathedral, with a resident bishop. Ten years later this order was revoked, the diocese of Westminster being united to that of St. Paul's cathedral. Its revenues were granted toward the repairs of the latter church, that is, taken from St. Peter's and given to St. Paul's. So we refer to an event which happened almost four centuries ago when we speak of robbing Peter to pay Paul.

Children Provided For in Inheritance Laws of Belgium

The law of inheritance in Belgium is of a nature to promote thrift, or rather, to prevent the dissipation of property, because it makes the family possessions a common fund in which children have defined rights, observes an exchange. The law treats the property of the father and mother as one. When either dies the whole property is valued and half goes to the survivor. The remaining half is divided into equal parts among the children. On the death of the other parent the second half, with whatever accretions he or she may have made in the interval, is subdivided among the children. The law is automatic, the children know the proportion in which they will benefit and the parents can not alienate their property.

HERE AND THERE
A short-sighted man always expects his neighbor to look through his glasses.
Occasionally a man remains in the bachelor class because he is true to his first love.
If time were money the average man would have his watch geared to run 48 hours a day.
About once in a thousand years there is a girl who really is surprised when a man proposes to her.

"Le Pain de Calende" Used as Cure for Various Ills

A cure for the various maladies that flesh is heir to was the large loaf made chiefly in Provence, and called "le pain de calende." It was very large and very white, and from it was cut a small piece marked with a knife with three or four crosses. This was carefully preserved as a remedy to be used when required, and the remainder of the loaf was divided among the family on the feast of the Epiphany.

Of All Sounds in Nature, Few Thrill Like Bark of Squirrel, Naturalist Says

"As one pushes through the fringe of undergrowth which skirts the forest and seats himself, at daybreak, on a stump or a fallen tree to watch and listen, the woods become instinct with life," says Arthur F. Rice in Boys' Life. "The blue jay sounds his trumpet call, the crows hold noisy consultation over their plans for the day and a ruffed grouse whips the twigs of the pine with her wing as she leaves her roost. The chipmunk scurries about from stump to stump, now rushing precipitately to cover, now coming forth again to take a critical view of the intruder. Their larger cousins, the red squirrels, come out from the hemlocks and, perching on a dead branch, rattle out a challenge to all comers. At last comes the sound for which you have been waiting and which makes the heart beat faster. It is a thrashing among the boughs of the hollow maple nearby, telling you that the gray squirrel is out after his breakfast.
"Away he goes toward some big oak or hickory, scattering a shower of dew from the leaves as he jumps from limb to limb, revealing his course by the springing branches he leaves behind him. If his suspicious are aroused by anything he sees or hears, he stops, cocks himself up on a limb or plasters himself against a tree trunk and barks disapprovingly, accenting each syllable with a jerk of his broad tail. Of all the sounds in nature, there are few which thrill me like the bark of the gray squirrel."

Chinese Schools in Java Established With Hope of Keeping Language Alive

In the hope of preserving a knowledge of the Chinese language, literature and the Confucian ethics, Huel Kuan schools were established in every large town in Java as a bait to the youth of the land. The schools are thoroughly modernized and a youngster can study English and other European languages, geography, history and a score of other things under competent instructors, so long as Chinese is studied at the same time. As further inducement to attendance, all Chinese instruction is carried on in the mandarin, or official, Chinese language, so that any student who returns to China will be prepared to talk to the educated of all provinces and will not be confined to petty boundaries of any of the numerous Southern dialects. Chinese, however, gets little attention from the students, who seem to regard the study of it as useless drudgery, and who devote their whole time and interests to the subjects which will be of most assistance to them in the commercial world. All local business in Java is conducted in Malay, and all foreign business in English.
Scores of patriotic youngsters who graduate from Huel Kuan schools go to China yearly, upon their graduation, and enter military colleges there, eventually finding their way into the Chinese army.

Evidence Indicates Indian Late Comer, Compared With Residents During Ice Age

Several scientific investigators agree that the Indian as we know him is a comparatively late comer. Whether he arrived by way of Alaska from Asia may never be discovered, but the relics of his civilization are believed to date back not more than a few thousand years at most, observes a writer in Boys' Life. There is much evidence on the other hand to indicate that men lived in North America at the close of the ice age and perhaps during the glacial period. The evidence is found for the most part in the Ohio and Delaware valleys. The rude instruments these men used in their hunting and homes have been found buried deep in gravel which is believed to date back to the close of the ice age. If this be the case men lived in America 10,000 or 15,000 years ago. Some geologists believe that the gravel deposits are considerably older. How these men found their way to America in remote antiquity, how much of the land they occupied and where they disappeared are perhaps the most fascinating problems in American archeology. The patient investigations of many trained scientists are carrying us every day nearer the answer.

Chipmunk Stores Plenty of Food for Winter Use

The chipmunk is a provident little chap, and stores up a prodigious quantity of food, sometimes a peck or more of nuts and grain; and when snugly hidden in his winding burrow, the mouth of which he closes when the cold season arrives, a hard winter has no terrors for him. His enemies, the hawk, owl and weasel, may go hungry, but safe in the bosom of mother earth, with the warm mantle of the snow above him, the chipmunk passes a cozy winter, in the midst of comfort and plenty, dreaming of the time when the south wind shall blow again and the squirrel cups shall open once more.—Boys' Life.

A Battle Creek boy, seven years old, was run over by a train, but after it had passed and when the bystanders rushed forward to pick up the remains, the lad sat up, snuffing a little, and said he wanted his mamma. ## ROAD TO SPAN TWO CONTINENTS

Ten-Thousand-Mile Line From Hudson Bay to Patagonia Planned.

PROGRESS IN THE PROJECT

Several Sections Already Have Been Completed—American Investors Are Invited to Aid—Dream of Fifty Years.

New York.—Realization of the dream of a railroad from Hudson Bay to Patagonia has been brought nearer as a result of the recent Pan-American financial conference in Washington, according to Charles M. Pepper, who in 1903 was appointed by President Roosevelt to visit the several countries from Mexico southward and report on the project.

A journey by rail from the Arctic circle to the tip of South America, approximately ten thousand miles, could be made under good traffic conditions. It has been estimated, in sixteen to eighteen days. At present twenty-four days are required for the 5,871-mile sea voyage from New York to Buenos Aires.

This dream of a transhemispheric trunk line, running almost the entire length of the two American continents, was born in the brain of Hinton Rowan Helper, a southern writer and former United States consul in South America, more than fifty years ago. The late United States Senator Henry Gassaway Davis of West Virginia, a practical railroad builder, saw its feasibility, and, with Andrew Carnegie and other wealthy Americans, gave the idea a fresh impetus. James O. Blaine also once advocated it.

Takes Definite Form. The project received first definite form at the International American conference held in Mexico City in 1902, which appointed a permanent Pan-American railway committee composed of prominent citizens of the United States and diplomatic officials of Latin-American countries resident in Washington. Former Senator Davis and Mr. Carnegie were members of it.

"In the eighteen years since the plan was endorsed by the Mexican conference," explained Mr. Pepper in his report, "considerable progress has been made in joining up various railway sections. Chile has completed the longitudinal line from Puerto Montt in the south to the railroads in the north, which form junctions with the main trunk of the Pan-American system.

"The Transandean line, from Valparaiso to Buenos Aires, also has been completed, while the lines joining the Brazilian systems radiating from Rio de Janeiro have been finished so that they form junctions with Uruguayan and Argentine lines.

"The Argentine line was finished to the southern border of Bolivia at La Quiaca several years ago, while Bolivia has closed up most of the links in her Pan-American trunk line. There are now less than 125 miles in Bolivia to be completed, some of which is also graded in order to provide through railway connection from Buenos Aires to La Paz and to the Pacific. It would cost approximately $5,000,000 to complete it.

Bolivia to Get Loan. "The group committee on Bolivia at the recent Pan-American financial conference recommended that a loan be granted Bolivia for the purpose of completing this link. It was explained that the gauge was the same as that of the Argentine lines and an arrangement by which Bolivia could use Argentine rolling stock was suggested.

The war, it is said, has made it virtually impossible for European countries to continue their financing of South America, and this is why delegations from Colombia, Peru, Chile, Brazil, Ecuador, Uruguay, Paraguay and other South American lands have visited the United States in recent years to awaken American investors to what they call "a big investment opportunity." The proposed trunk line would run from the United States through Mexico, Central America, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, almost the entire length of Chile and from La Quiaca, Bolivia to Buenos Aires. From this main line would be connecting roads, some already completed, extending like "fingers" in many directions toward the Atlantic ocean.

Work With Enthusiasm. To be enthusiastic about one's job, always—that is the indispensable to doing one's job well. And those who refuse to take this truth to heart will ever find themselves in the ranks of the obscure, the mediocre and the poverty stricken.

U. S. EXPORTS OF FISH TO EUROPE ARE HEAVY

Large Shipments Are Now Being Made to Greece and Italy.

Owing to the scarcity of fish in Great Britain, the United States is exporting fish to Europe, for the first time in many years. Large shipments of cured boneless fish are being forwarded to Greece and Italy, which were formerly supplied by the British Isles.

The exporting of fish marks a new era in the American fish industry. Since the war Great Britain has been pressed to supply her home demand, owing to the high cost of meat and wheat products. The people of England, Scotland and Ireland spend $2,500,000 a week, $180,000,000 a year, for fried fish and potato chips. Thirty million meals are served over the fish food counters of these countries every week.

Extraordinary progress has been made in the fishing industry in this country within the last few years, and it is predicted in New England that the East Coast Fisheries Products company will soon be handling approximately 1,000,000 pounds of fish daily, or over 300,000,000 pounds per year.

The same corporation recently purchased ten new steam trawlers from the French government. These vessels were built in southern ports and were intended for use as mine sweepers. The company now has a fleet of twenty-one modern steam trawlers, which is the largest fleet of its kind on the Atlantic coast owned by a single corporation.

Throughout the United States fish food is in steadily increasing demand and the large New York hotels are featuring it on their menus.

BIG YEAR FOR INSURANCE

American Companies in 1919 Wrote Ten Billions in New Business.

The amount of new business written in 1919 by American life insurance companies is about $10,500,000,000, it is estimated. The Insurance Press says: "Reports of paid-for business from 51 life insurance companies show aggregate writings of $3,028,949,020, against $1,740,551,786 for the same companies during 1918.

"Not one of the 51 companies reporting had less new business in 1919 than in 1918, virtually all of them showing a very considerable increase, amounting in many cases to double the previous year's earnings.

"On that basis, the total writings in 1918 having been about $5,785,000,000, the total writings in 1919 may be expected to equal $10,413,000,000. When ascertained, the real total will probably fall somewhere between $10,000,000,000 and $11,000,000,000.

WHAT'S A CAT TO THIS?

Takes More Than Nine Lives to Defeat Dynamite Blast.

To stand in a shanty where 75 sticks of dynamite exploded with force sufficient to break window glass seven miles away and fire to tell his sensations was the experience of Harry Gould, thirty-five, a miner of Messmore, Pa.

Gould was cleaning his mine lamp with gasoline. When he filled the lamp with oil some of the gasoline is believed to have found its way into the bowl, causing the lamp to flare up, igniting a box in which the dynamite and caps were packed. The explosion wrecked the shanty, burying Gould.

He worked himself free from the wreckage. Every stitch of clothing had been torn from his body, but he was only slightly bruised.

Must Build Larger Bunks and Bath-tubs on American Boats.

Five-foot bunks and tiny wood bath-tubs won't fit the proportions of American sailors, hence the United States shipping board is planning to expend about $50,000 on each of the 19 or more ships Japan is building for this government.

The Engine Without Crank Shaft SUPERIOR ADVANTAGES

High speed motor develops greater power, develops 95 per cent efficiency, which means a great saving of fuel; light and compact, only two drive shaft bearings, less frictional bearings, valve timer without gears, has no crank shaft, no flywheel, no dead centers; applicable to steam or gas; can be used anywhere where steam or gas motive power is desired.

Reasons Why You Should Invest in This Company

Embodied in this engine are basic principles for applying power that the mechanical world has been striving for since motive power has been known to mankind.

It will give to the user greater power with less fuel and oil cost, greater durability, requires less space. It can be manufactured for less for it is simple, built in units, and requires less material.

If you are familiar with the history of the Continental Motor, Falls Motor, Ford Motor, Northway Motor and Knight Motor, you are sure to understand what an investment in this company means to you.

Hundreds, thousands and Millions of dollars are going out of the South annually to develop Northern industries. Surely you won't concede the North has any advantages, more capable business men, or a corner on brains.

This company is acquiring the best brains that money can buy. It will be managed with economy. It is not only destined to be a money-maker for its stockholders, but the Armstrong-Emley Crankless Engine will be known all over the world in a few years, because it will revolutionize the motor world.

Now is your time to get in on the ground floor while the shares are selling at par, $10.00.

Negro Hit by Ton of Iron.

A ton of iron bounding off his head is nothing in the young life of Ivan Findlay, negro. While standing in the freight elevator shaft of a Colorado Springs hotel the elevator weight, which weighed exactly 2,000 pounds descended suddenly, striking Findlay squarely on the head. Except for a large lump and a tiny abrasion, Ivan felt no ill effects.

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Forty five thousand winter visitors have been in St. Petersburg this season. Just one of the big things that Sanford can look forward to in the future.

Senator Fletcher has arrived in the state to open his campaign and expects to speak in every county in Florida before the close of June.

Joe Earman says he is just recovering from hook worms to which we would like to remark that Joe is much too fast for hookworms. Maybe he has been hooked by some of the candidates that visit his burg.

If 36 states ratify the Suffrage Amendment the ladies will vote and if they do register in Florida there will be a tall scattering of some of the candidates. Senator Park Trammell will go big when the ladies begin voting in large numbers.

That navy controversy is getting tiresome. After every war it seems that we are obliged to listen to a lot of rot about who won the war and why it was not won according to Hoyle. Reminds us of the Schley-Sampson imbroglio that took place after the Spanish-American tea party.

The Daughters of the American Revolution of this city will devote their energy toward erecting a suitable building for the American Legion instead of building a memorial arch. There is no doubt but what the boys will take more comfort from the building than they would from the arch.

The biggest thing in the amusement line in Sanford this spring will be the Spring Festival of the Woman's Club and the great success of this event last year is spurring the ladies to greater efforts this year. We should pull something of this sort several times during the winter season and bring the people to Sanford and help along a good cause at the same time.

HOW TO KILL ANY ORGANIZATION.

The ten points as here presented are not original but have been used by Chambers of Commerce through out the country in informing their memberships the duties and obligations of each individual member:

- 1. Don't come to the meetings. 2. If you do come, come late. 3. If the weather doesn't suit you, don't think of coming. 4. If you do attend a meeting, find fault with the work of the officers and other members. 5. Never accept office, as it is easier to criticize than to do things. 6. Nevertheless, get sore if you are not appointed to a committee; but if you are, do not attend the committee meetings. 7. If asked by the chairman to give your opinion regarding some important matter, tell him you have nothing to say. After the meeting,

Lumber

Building Material

tell everyone how things ought to be done.

8. Do nothing more than is absolutely necessary, but when other members roll up their sleeves and willingly, unselfishly use their ability to help matters along, howl that the Chamber is run by a clique.

9. Hold back your dues as long as possible, or don't pay at all.

10. Don't bother about getting new members. "Let George do it."

PICK UP THE LOSE ENDS

With the advent of spring there is much for our municipal authorities to consider.

A careful scrutiny of this town will disclose abundant food for thought—and action.

Unsanitary conditions will be found streets are in need of repairs, broken pavements require attention, and a few low places should be filled in.

Better fire protection is needed and a greater interest should be stimulated in our public schools.

A public rest room should be provided for the benefit of our friends from the country who may want to while away an hour or two before returning to their homes.

There should be a homelike air of hospitality pervading this town which would cause people to want to come again and come often.

People from the country should be made to feel that this is their town as well as ours.

We can do these things, if we will—and it costs little—but means much.

WHAT ARE YOU?

Are you willing to admit that you are not as good as other people in democratic America?

Do you agree that there is a strata above you, as well as below you? If so, the middle class union, recently formed in New York, will welcome you with open arms—provided you are not a capitalistic profiteer or a member of a labor union.

The middle class union has for its object the protection of the interests of what it terms the middle class—the lawyers, doctors, teachers, and all others who are not capitalists or affiliated with labor unions. It maintains that this great class is at the mercy of both capital and organized labor, and is further trimmed by the profiteers in other lines. Emancipation is its object.

The object is a worthy one, and organization is needed among these people. It may in time grow to respectable and even formidable proportions—after a new name has been selected.

The average American likes to think that he is just as good as any other man—that the self-styled American aristocracy are just a bunch of scheming, unscrupulous profiteering financial buccaneers, moral degenerates aping the ways of the old world.

Middle class? Not on your life. Every man is seated serenely on the top of the ladder—at least in his own estimation.

STARTLING IGNORANCE OF FLORIDA

We have been accustomed to accept surprising statements in fiction, knowing full well that many of the story writers never saw the scenes of their plots and are ignorant of the real conditions in these localities, but when a writer of facts pertaining to the farm and farming condition undertakes to write about them for publication we expect that he is going to write with authority and familiarity with his subject.

During the present month a writer of this character, one McMahon, has been writing articles on the soils of the United States in a Philadelphia farm paper and his articles show a most startling ignorance of Florida and the coastal plains states generally. The map he used two weeks ago was denounced by the bureau of soils in Washington as one that was not official or pertaining to a soil survey and the head of the bureau emphatically stated that McMahon was told not to use the map when it was loaned to him for reference only.

The latest effusion of this misguided writer in the farm journal that seems to be prejudiced against Florida, deals with the soils of the South and he repeats his former statement that the South stands at the very bottom in the matter of fertile lands. There are few direct references to Florida in this article but he says: "The peninsular part of Florida seems to be ignored, as if it were composed only of pure sand and winter resorts." What the winter resorts have to do with the soil he does not say but perhaps that is persiflage beyond our comprehension, as there is a tendency on his part to be semi-humorous at times.

Following this pert paragraph, he says: "The haughty Southerner, responding to the affront put upon his beloved and beautiful domain, laughs sardonically and says the poor South is still producing yearly over ten million bales of cotton, and a heap of tobacco and other crops, whereby automobiles, talking machines and such like have become as thick as flies. To which it may be replied that in order to produce her splendid crops the South continues to use more artificial fertilizer than all the rest of the country put together. On the other hand there is the corn belt land which has never had a pound of fertilizer put upon it and it yields large crops."

Cotton and tobacco! That shows the ignorance of McMahon, as these are not the principal crops of the South any more. Live stock, of which his boasted corn belt has been the leader, in now greater than cotton and in Florida the four million dollars' worth of products are but slightly made up of either cotton or tobacco. As to the haughty Southerner it might be well for McMahon to know that in the South are many Northerners who have grown tired of the corn belt lands that never had any artificial fertilizer on them but which always had a heavy dose of manure every year, although he neglects to say anything about it. He also does not say that the wheat and corn crops will not yield more than fifty to seventy dollars to the acre where most Florida crops run from $200 to $1,000 an acre, so an investment of thirty to fifty dollars an acre for fertilizer would seem to be a profitable one.

In this article he boasts the "alluvial lands of the Mississippi delta and says they would feed the nation if placed under intensive cultivation. Florida has four million acres of rich muck lands that will never need any fertilizer, not even manure and they are rapidly being transformed into the most wonderful farms and gardens in the world and still this wonderfully wise man, who sets himself up as an authority on farming and soils, doesn't even refer to this rich section but says all Florida lands are pure sand. What a fool. Jacksonville Times-Union.

Last Night's Dreams - What They Mean

DO YOU DREAM OF ODORS?

DREAMS in which the sense of smell is present are of the rarest. Yet they do sometimes occur and that they have attracted attention for a long time is evidenced by the fact that interpretations of them have been handed down through the centuries by the mystics. They account it a most happy omen to dream that you smell perfumes, and to this rule there seems to be only one exception—the smell of rosemary in a dream is said to foretell mourning; though to see it and, not smell it is good fortune. All other perfumes mean that you will be well spoken of by your acquaintances and will associate with people of intelligence and standing; all your enterprises will turn out successfully. But let the married man whose wife dreams that she puts perfume on her head look to himself; there is going to be only one boss in that household and she is "it."

Why the dream consciousness, which deals so readily and acutely with most other sensations, should be so chary of handling olfactory ones is puzzling—something for Professor Freund yet to explain. The scientists have endeavored to excite "smell dreams" by the application of odors to the sleeper's nostrils, but experiments in this direction have not usually been successful and Ellis cites an experiment made by Prof. W. S. Monroe upon twenty women students at the Westfield Normal school. A crushed clove was placed on the tongue for ten successive nights before going to bed. Of the 254 dreams reported there were only eight "smell dreams," and only three of these actually involved cloves. The real "smell dream" occurs without any "objective" source, and it would seem to be a most difficult matter to force the dream consciousness artificially to take cognizance of a sense of smell. What to Eat. The following cake is one which may be given to the children:

Cream Jelly Roll. Beat two eggs without separating the whites and yolks; gradually beat in one cupful of sugar, add one cupful of cream from the top of the milk bottle and one and two-thirds cupfuls of flour sifted with half a teaspoonful of salt and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder; add also a grating of lemon or orange rind or half a teaspoonful of the extract. Bake in a dripping pan, lined with greased paper, in a hot oven, about eighteen minutes. Turn out on a damp towel, cut the crisp edges and spread with any fruit jelly and roll.

Atlantica. Beat the yolk of one egg, add half a cupful each of melted fat and molasses, mix and add two and one-half cupfuls of flour, sifted with one teaspoonful of soda, one generous tablespoonful of ginger and half a teaspoonful of salt. Mix thoroughly and chill in the refrigerator; then roll into a sheet, cut in small rounds, set in a well greased pan and bake. When cold place on top.

Reliable Frosting. Put the unbeaten white of one egg, seven-eighths of a cupful of granulated sugar and three tablespoonfuls of cold water into a double boiler. Have the water in the lower part of the boiler boiling, and begin to beat the mixture at once with a Dover egg beater; continue beating seven minutes; add twelve marshmallows and beat until the mixture is smooth; remove and beat until cool enough to hold its shape.

Cornmeal Muffins. Sift together three-fourths of a cupful of cornmeal, one-fourth cupful of potato flour, one cupful of wheat flour, one-fourth cupful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of salt and four teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Beat one egg, add a cupful of sweet milk and three tablespoonfuls of melted shortening and stir into the dry ingredients. Bake in a hot, well greased muffin pan twenty-five minutes. This makes a dozen muffins.

A good way to stretch a small portion of meat for the family is to chop it and mix it with noodles and a little brown or cream sauce. This may be served in one casserole dish, or in the small ramekins covered with buttered crumbs and baked.

HELPED PERRY WIN VICTORY

Peter Tarr Made the Cannon Balls That Served So Well in the Fight on Lake Erie.

When Commodore Perry defeated the British on Lake Erie, his gunners turned the trick largely with home-made cannon balls, although at the time of the engagement the place where the deadly missiles were made was a closely guarded secret.

Accidental discovery a few days ago of a small antiquated iron furnace near Steubenville, however, reveals the secret and adds a new chapter to the historical sketches of Perry's victory. The furnace was found by men engaged in erecting furnaces for a large West Virginia steel company or the Tarr farm in Hancock county West Virginia, directly across the river from Steubenville. It is said to have been the first iron furnace to use this side of the Allegheny mountains, and to have been built by Peter Tarr, one of the earliest settlers along the eastern banks of the Ohio river.

Old records in Hancock county show that Peter Tarr worked day and night at his secret task of making cannon balls from ore deposits found in the hillsides about the furnace, and that he sent them overland on mules to Commodore Perry's forces hiding near Put-in-Bay and Kelley's Island awaiting an opportune time to strike the decisive blow at the British naval forces.

WILL REVIVE PAST GLORIES

Historic Port of Gloucester Likely to Come Back With the American Merchant Marine.

The historic port of Gloucester, Mass., is likely to be restored to its one-time maritime glory as the American merchant marine expands. A bulletin of the National Geographic society calls Gloucester the mother of American fisheries. The story of Gloucester's fisher folk is touched on by Kipling in his "Captains Courageous," James B. Connolly, and Mrs. Ward, in "Old Maid's Paradise." Norman's Woe of Gloucester, is the scene of numerous deep sea tragedies touched on by Longfellow in his "Wreck of the Hesperus."

Schooners are said to have originated in Gloucester and to have been so named by a Gloucester shipwright who, when he launched a vessel, heard a spectator explain: "Oh, how she scoons." The expression was used to describe the bounding of a pebble thrown sideways into the water.

Gloucester has a floral curiosity of great beauty and fragrance, the magnolia glauca, which grows in the swamps near the city. Among the natural wonders that Gloucester discloses are Rafe's chasm, where the pounding waves churn and rumble the rocking stone, oscillated for an inch or so by the incoming tides; "Old Mother Ann" and "White's Jaw."

Painless Dentistry.

"An American at home, with or without toothache, is not much affected by the sign, 'Painless Dentistry,' but at sight of it in a foreign land he thrills pleasantly," a traveler said. "Its lure is not profession at all. Every tooth in his head may be perfectly sound, yet if stranded and homesick he welcomes that sign because all over Europe it is a sure indication that somewhere in the neighborhood lives a citizen of the United States. From the northernmost town of Norway and Sweden to the boundaries of Sahara the words 'painless dentistry' are likely to hit you in the eye at the most unexpected turning. Usually they are followed or preceded by 'American,' but that qualifying term is entirely unnecessary. Dentists of other countries make no pretense of performing painless dentistry, or if they do they do not advise tise their skill. They leave that for their American rivals."

Cold!—Sure.

On one of our most recent cold Saturdays the tenderfoot rank boy scouts of Terre Haute made an all-day hike along the Wabash. They were describing the hike for the benefit of some of their most interested friends.

They had described the city blasts from the river, the frozen ground and the various sensations produced on their spinal columns without winning what they regarded sufficient sympathy from their listeners. Just as they were most disappointed their executive took part. "Why it was so cold that we had to break the ice off the pancake batter between frying cakes," he ejaculated.

And then the audience was moved to speech.—Indianapolis News.

French Views of Indiana.

Many French people have as vague ideas of the United States, outside of New York and the Eastern coast, as Americans have of France outside of Paris.

At a recent meeting of the National Academy of Sciences, Dr. Simon Flexner told what little is known about "sleeping sickness," which has made its appearance in America. Doctor Flexner said the cause, method of propagation and means of cure were as yet unknown.

Name Hard to Ascertain.

United States' Land Dec.

British America, which consists of Canada, Newfoundland and a number of islands, has an area of 3,750,000 square miles, while the total area of the United States and its possessions is 3,743,446 square miles. Thus Britain has a little more territory, but it is largely so far north as to be of comparatively little value.

U. S. BEHIND IN AIR COMMERCE

Foreign Nations Lead in Aerial Navigation.

EUROPE MAKES BIG STRIDES

Landing Fields and Better Terminals Are Needed in the United States to Aid Commercial Traffic Development—Five Regular Passenger Routes Already Established—British Company Plans Air Lines Around Earth.

Commercial aerial navigation became a reality in the United States during the last year. The sudden cessation of hostilities at the close of 1918 threw hundreds of airplanes into the market, and many of these were purchased by private companies and remodeled for commercial use.

Airplane manufacturers, whose energies had been devoted exclusively to the making of war machines, also turned their attention to the commercial possibilities of aircraft and have perfected several standard commercial types. It is estimated that there are more than 2,000 privately owned aircraft in the United States.

Five Routes Established. Five regular passenger routes were established. The airplane mail service, inaugurated May 15, 1918, between New York and Washington an experiment, was extended to Cleveland and Chicago and put on a definite basis; and scores of private firms purchased aircraft and utilized them for the delivery of merchandise and newspapers and for conducting aerial forest surveys and patrols.

Still greater strides were made in Europe and Australia, where there are few thickly populated centers that do not boast of regular aerial commercial traffic, either by airplane or dirigible, or both.

Lack of adequate facilities is considered one of the principal handicaps to aerial commercial traffic developments in this country. If aerial transportation is to become universal, aircraft manufacturers point out that there must be established adequate airfields with definitely marked landing places, convenient to business centers and with facilities for housing the airmen and their machines and providing them with fuel and repairs.

In addition to the regular routes, a company at Seattle has started an international air mail, operating between that city and Vancouver, B. C. Several lumber companies in the northwest are using the airplane for forest patrols and surveys. A Newark, N. J., department store delivered merchandise by airplane to customers in Asbury Park last summer, while a large Chicago clothing house made a specialty of delivering clothes to college students within a 100-mile radius of that city.

Plane Spreads Gospel. One of the strangest uses for which the airplane is being considered is the spreading of the gospel in the Congo states of Africa. A large American manufacturer received a request for prices from the Congo mission of the Church of the Disciples of Christ, which is replacing steam launches with flying boats.

In Europe three English companies maintain regular passenger and parcel post service between London and Paris and London and Brussels. On one of the trips a grand piano was carried from a London store to its customer in France by airplane.

Zeppelins, as well as airplanes, have been used extensively for commercial purposes in Germany. Although little is known of German aviation development during the last few months, it is reported that several long air routes, including one from Berlin to London via Paris or Brussels, and another from Berlin to Constantinople, via Vienna, will be put into operation during the coming year.

Commercial aerial service has been put into operation between Johannesburg and Cape Town, South Africa. Australia already has established a transcontinental route from Sydney to Port Darwin, on the north coast, a distance of 2,550 miles, with stopping points every 300 or 400 miles. Experimental commercial aerial journeys of more than 1,000 miles also have been made from Calcutta to other points of India, and regular routes are now under consideration.

A British company was organized last June, with a capital of many millions of dollars, for the establishment of airship lines virtually around the earth. A route from London to New York will be the first to be put into operation, if the company's plans are carried out.

LITTLE CHANCE TO SIGNAL MARS

Gigantic Searchlight Would Be Necessary.

HOPE BLASTED BY SCIENCE

Light Bright Enough to Be Distinguished by a Martian Would Have About 766 Trillion Candle Power—If Martians Have Big Enough Telescope They Could See Light Waves From Earth, Is Claim of Prominent Scientist.

Any dotting person who plans to guide a weary wanderer from Mars by placing the poetic candle in the window had better abandon the idea. It can't be done. The little Martian would be lost in the deep and vast void with not one twinkle to guide his airy footsteps.

Thus another flight of fancy is blasted by science, for it is estimated that an earth light just bright enough to be distinguished by the eye of a Martian would have to have 766 trillion candle power. And when one talks in trillions it doesn't mean a thing.

This figure is given by Dr. Clarence Errol Ferree, professor of experimental psychology at Bryn Mawr college, which is now seeking a $2,000,000 endowment. Dr. Ferree is the best known authority on light in its relation to vision. He reached his conclusion by laboratory experiments which confirm the deductions made by the searchlight experts of the Sperry Gyroscope company, who believe that it is possible to throw a beam of light visible to Martians.

What the Engineers Find. Professor Ferree's figures check up remarkably with the estimates made by the searchlight engineers, who pointed out that it was unusual that experiments based on actual experience give the same result as careful laboratory work under ideal conditions. The calculations made by George B. Crouse, department engineer, and P. R. Bassett, physicist of the Sperry company, showed that one candle power is visible at 40 of a mile, while Professor Ferree's estimate, based on the minimum candle power visible at three meters, shows a candle power to be visible at .50 of a mile. The difference is accounted for by absorption, for which Professor Ferree may not have made allowance.

The engineers' figures were also predicated on the supposition that the Martians have telescopes with a light gathering power of 8,000, which is much less than the light gathering power of the large telescopes on earth. But Professor Ferree, with the aid of accurate means he has of measuring light, was able first to determine the minimum amount of light visible to the eye at three meters and then carry this out by mathematical calculation to show the light visible at Mars when it is 35,000,000 miles away, its nearest point of approach to the earth.

Can Work by Massed Searchlights. The enormous candle power necessary to produce such a beam of light is inconceivable to the mind, but not impossible of production. It would not be necessary, Mr. Crouse and Mr. Bassett believe, to construct one single reflector. The same result would be attained by massing searchlights of tremendous individual candle power. And the difficulty would not be the production of sufficient current to light them but the great cost of construction. It is not likely that there are enough searchlights in the world to produce anywhere near enough light to be seen by the naked eye of the Martians.

The largest searchlight made by the Sperry firm produces 1,250,000,000 candle power, but it would take 906,250 of these to produce 766 trillion candle power. So unless the Martians have some kind of telescopes, it is not likely that they will have the opportunity right away to catch a flash from the earth.

FARM HELP GETS RAISE

Men on Nebraska Farms Will Draw $100 a Month This Year.

Farmers in attendance at an agricultural meeting at Lincoln, Neb., said they had made contracts with reliable and competent hired men at $100 a month. They said it was necessary to do so for the reason that the supply of competent farm labor was limited.

The average paid in the state 15 years ago ran from $20 to $25 a month. During the war and last year, with the $2 wheat guarantee in effect, $73 and $80 was paid.

The increase of wages in the cities and towns is also given as a reason for the necessity of paying $100 a month to get the best men.

Grows Green Cotton Crop.

Production of green cotton, an objective long sought by scientists, was claimed by C. F. O'Brian, a farmer of Boston, Ga. The cotton is said to be of a beautiful green color and of fine fiber.

Explains Sodom and Gomorrah.

Bricks cemented together with dried petroleum have curiously enough, been found in large quantities in Nineveh and Babylon. The oil-bearing and sulphur-impregnated shales of the valley of the Dead sea, which are now being developed, supplied the "brimstone and fire" which destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah.
