Victors Score 2 Magnificent Victories To Sink V.M.I. Hopes

By Heywood Bell
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Mar. 3.—University of Florida pugilists clinched a triumphant battle through the Southern Conference boxing tournament here last night and left early today for their homes, flaunting the blue collegiate pennant won from the hands of North Carolina University.

With two magnificent victories in the final matches of the three day tournament the Florida pugilists, led by the undefeated V. M. I. team, fought on a par with the Florida team into the deciding sixteen rounds. The Cadets' tragedy was that Florida won two of its three fights last night and the final fight tonight.

In the final round Florida won by a knockout. V. M. I. lost to Florida by a knockout. The Florida pugilists, led by the undefeated V. M. I. team, fought on a par with the Florida team into the deciding sixteen rounds.

WRIGLEY AND JOE MCCARTHY FEEL SURE OF VICTORY

Owner, Pilot Of Cubs See Nothing Else But Success Near

Associated Press Sports Writer
SANTA CATALINA ISLAND, Cal., Mar. 3.—When the two baseball magnates, William Wrigley Jr. and Manager Joe McCarthy, came out with statements that the Cubs will repeat and win the National League championship in 1936, it looks as if the 11 other clubs will be having a one-way show this year.

Never before have these two baseball minds seen so certain of winning and from past performance and the success in 1935 they have made over the winter on the ivory markets, they have just cause for their unbounded optimism.

In addition to the fact that they have seen the Cubs repeat in 1935, Wrigley and McCarthy are confident of their own strength. The Cubs are all young fellows, averaging around 25 years. We are 25 percent stronger than in 1935.

Neither Rivera Nor Opponent Consider Honors Satisfied

TAMPLONA, Spain, Mar. 5.—(AP)—It has been learned here that neither Miguel Primo De Rivera, son of the former dictator, nor Captain Rexach of the Spanish artillery consider their honor satisfied in a duel which they fought here Sunday morning. Miguel was cut once on the wrist in the encounter and Rexach was cut twice.

What action the two will take in the matter remains to be seen. They separated only when the seconds, military friends, ruled that Rexach's cuts on the wrist were too serious to permit his continuing the affray. Doctor Quintana, who was the sizer Primo De Rivera's private physician, was said to have assisted. Young Primo De Rivera challenged Rexach after what he considered to be insults to his father by the artilleryman.

Tires are SO cheap now

TIRE prices today are at the lowest point in the history of the rubber business.

The difference in price between the best standard tire and one that you can't be sure of, is, if anything, hardly enough to count.

That removes the last excuse a sensible man can have for not buying as excellent a tire as the Goodyear All-Weather Tread Balloon.

It is the standard of quality of the world; it outsells any other tire in the world; it is the basis of

why not have the BEST

the eloquent fact that "more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

You want the biggest possible money's worth in safety, traction, dependability and mileage when you buy a tire—you can get it now at no premium in the standard Goodyear All-Weather.

Your size is waiting for you at a price you can afford to pay—no farther away than the nearest Goodyear Dealer!

Goodyear can give you greater tire values because Goodyear builds more than of all the tires sold in America, the remainder being divided among some fifty manufacturers. "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

The Prohibition Question

The presidential election in 1928, the recent debates in both the House and the Senate, the findings of the Hoover law enforcement commission, the sideline trend of the Orlando fruit fly investigation, the Literary Digest poll, newspaper editorials and public speeches, all offer potent testimony that the liquor issue is far from being dead despite its burial in the prohibition amendment of 1918.

Admitting that there are some who will never be convinced, the Miami Herald declares "It is apparent that the opposition to the eighteenth amendment is gaining strength and that among a class of people whose sincerity and whose high moral qualities cannot be doubted." It further calls attention to the fact that many periodicals which a few years ago either endorsed the prohibition amendment or else remained more or less neutral, are now openly favoring the repeal of the amendment.

What has brought about this condition in the public mind, is not, we believe, prohibition itself—for real prohibition has never been tried—but rather the way in which that prohibition has been enforced. Prohibition we take to mean the absolute prohibiting of all liquor sales and consumption. Such a situation in itself should not be bad for the country. For surely while there may be some who think liquor in reasonable quantities does no one harm, no one will deny that it does no particular good.

But America has not had prohibition. As far as the poorer classes of people are concerned there has been prohibition to a certain extent. The laboring man can no longer have his beer. Prices of all such beverages put it beyond his reach. But for all others, those who can afford to pay, there is as much liquor of all kinds as ever. It is not as good, much of it is actually deadly, but nevertheless it is liquor and it is accessible. The wets contend that there is more drinking throughout the country generally than ever before.

But worse than drinking itself are the other evils which have grown up with prohibition. The bootlegger, the hijacker, and the racketeers are all products of the eighteenth amendment. Because of their enormous profits, due to the great demand for booze, crime of all kinds has been placed on a higher plane than ever before in history. Criminals have the necessary means for bribing federal agents, prosecutors, police, and even judges. Other laws are ignored, even laughed at. Murder is a mere pastime.

Public sentiment, we believe, will be fairly tested by the Literary Digest poll which is being taken at the present time. No one is likely to doubt the honesty of this poll. The Literary Digest polls have proved accurate indicators of public sentiment too many times to be doubted now. But, in our opinion, if the result should show that the majority favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment it will be because of the way it has been enforced, and not because of the amendment itself.

Brassie Or Spoon?

Testifying at the fruit fly investigation in Orlando, J. C. Chase spoke with an intelligence which every Florida citizen needs particularly at this time. Said he:

"Driving in this morning it occurred to me that California and Texas and Florida were in a threesome (playing golf). They were at the tee. California, the biggest and oldest, drove—it was a beauty. Then Texas walloped the ball. It went clear and far ahead. Then Florida drove—and went in the bunker. After that bad shot, Texas and California said 'We're sorry you are in the bunker—thank God!'"

"And we are in the bunker," Mr. Chairman," he continued, "and we want a Department of Agriculture niblick to get us out on the green and to the markets with as few strokes as possible. No, we don't want a gold-plated niblick. A rusty one will do, and we don't care in this instance whether it is a shovel or a rake."

We wish more Florida people could get that idea of our situation. There can be no doubt that the growers have suffered seriously on account of eradication methods, and quarantine regulations. There is no doubt either that the general public has endured many inconveniences because of these same regulations. It is evident from the testimony in Orlando that many mistakes have been made and much money wasted. Nevertheless we are at the mercy of the fruit fly and its many attendant evils until the Department of Agriculture declares it eradicated.

The Department of Agriculture is not ready to do this yet. It may be, perhaps, in five months. The discovery of additional fly larvae in Orlando yesterday gives credence to the department's position that all danger from the fly has not yet passed. Until this danger is over, or at least until the department says it is over, some form of eradication must be continued, and that, only by means of a federal appropriation.

If the federal government will give us a niblick, even an old rusty one with a broken shaft, we will show Texas and California how to chip from a trap to the green, and perhaps hole out. But we can't be expected to do it with the wood, at least not with the kind of wood we have seen so far.

TELLING THE WORLD

BY NEIL O'HARA

Calvin Gets Garrulous with Calvin Coolidge:

"Mr. Coolidge, what do you think of my skyline?"

"The sky line is very pretty."

"After having been in both places, how would you compare California with Florida?"

"They are both good Republican States."

"Do you plan to settle in California?"

"I settle as I go along. That's the beauty of this budget system."

"What is the nature of your visit to California, Mr. Coolidge?"

"Thought I'd like to see the kind of State Hoover may settle in after 1932. It's in the nature of a duty call."

"Just what do you mean by duty call?"

"If duty calls, I'll expect California's electoral vote."

"Are you contemplating any work in the immediate future, Mr. Coolidge?"

"I may write a travelogue for Cosmopolitan. I got my pencil and cracker along."

"What were your impressions when you saw talking pictures being made?"

"I thought it was a good idea. They spend all day working hard and only get three minutes' talk."

"Did you enjoy your experience as an honor guest of the Breakfast Club in Los Angeles?"

"Sure did. After serving breakfast to Congressmen for seven years it was a pleasure to eat nuts and eggs at some one else's expense."

"If it true, Mr. Coolidge, that you threw away a half-smoked cigar but?"

"Yes, but you'll notice I didn't throw away the coupons."

"What were your impressions of your visit to Mr. Wrigley's private island at Catalina?"

"Catalina shows every evidence of prosperity. The pelicans are diving and getting more fish per capita than ever before. The future seemed very bright as I looked through the glass-boat windows, and there's a bumper crop of marine flora and fauna."

"Did you discuss any future plans with Mr. Wrigley?"

"No. We just sat and chewed spearmint."

"What do you think of the London Naval Conference?"

"It won't do any good. When the ink's all over the only boat Hooper will have succeeded in scrapping is the Mayflower."

"How about the prospects for future peace?"

"They're good if nobody invites Dolly Gann and Alice Longworth to the same dinner. Otherwise it will be a four-year-war."

"How would you go about settling the Gann-Longworth controversy if you were President today?"

"I don't know, but I certainly would."

The World's Window

By Pierre Van Passant

Frozen France

In some collections of eighteenth and seventeenth century furniture one sees little boxes covered on the outside with silk and tassels and fine embroidery and an eiderdown cushion on the inside. These boxes were used as footwarmers by the bourgeoisie and the aristocracy. French homes being no orisouly badly equipped with fireplaces of the kind one finds and always found in English homes, the foot-warmers were a very necessary utensil. As a matter of fact, one feels a pang of regret these blistering wintry days that not a few more of them are around and in use instead of in museums and private collections across the ocean where they serve no earthly purpose. For in the matter of heating houses, except in the up-to-date modern apartment houses in Paris, the French cling to nothing less than mediocrism. Tiny little chimneys, hardly sufficient to harbor a few glowing "briquets," are supposed to keep warm rooms into which a whole New York apartment could be dropped with ease and a six-day bicycle race held on the outside into the bargain. Of course, in summer, these sately old chambers have their advantage. Still, this thought offers little consolation and is pure self-delusion on my part now when rude Boreas is doing his level best to reproduce Arctic conditions in this none too sunny France. The central heating systems established in many ancient houses are hopelessly inadequate. They just let through enough warmth to make one not freeze altogether that there is such a thing. The result of this is, everybody goes to bed shortly after supper. In this little town of St Germain there isn't a soul about in the streets after 8. At the lamp-lighters extinguish the few spattering oil lamps on the streets, and after that one hears nothing throughout the long night but the occasional metallic clang of the night watch on the cobblestones. A 5:30 the church bells of the Augustinian convent announce the coming of dawn. But even that signal is a little premature. The roosters here don't get to business till an hour or so later.

Nudists' Campaign

American residing in Paris have apparently become eligible to join the so-called Nudist club or colonies. Not a week past we receive pressing invitation to join and spend a few days on the island of Eveny opposite the Sully quay, where the mother colony is located. One indiscreet correspondent writes: "Nudism is the school of charity, clothing is the school of vice." Nudism, as the word clearly indicates, is a social theory which has for object to lead mankind back to those charming days when a nice big bon was Eve's only garment and Adam's suit consisted of a long and voluminous beard. Nudist activities in Germany a few years ago, took all shape of "fetes," the Nudists seek to win converts. In Germany they have recently undertaken an "aesthetic and musical" crusade in the street corners. A band plays, a street corner in order to collect a crowd, and then marches to a big hall where the Nudist propagandist holds forth on the virtues of nudism. Every one present is invited to join (with and no proof of loyal adherence necessary) are asked to shed their clothes and step on the stage. The French Nudists are no going about it in quite such a raw manner. They have their islands, discreet retreats in the middle of the Seine, without prying eyes and under police surveillance. Nothing is known of the numerical strength of the French Nudists, while in Germany they count their numbers by the hundreds of thousands. The Parisian Nudists have chosen an unfavorable time for their membership drive. It's cold in Paris.

Royal Homecoming

After a short honeymoon a Courmayeur the Prince and Princess of Piedmont made their state entrance into Turin to take up their residence in the royal palace, a seventeenth century building in the Piazza Castella facing the ancient castle. The festivities that began with gayly decorated streets and a wonderful illumination of the city by night, are to continue all through this month until the first days of March until Ash Wednesday ends them. A good many of the old-time festivities wouldn't appoint a commission. "What do you think of Mr. Hughes' appointment as Chief Justice, Mr. Coolidge?" "Well, with the Gillette people bringing out a new, improved safety razor, it was time to retire Mr. Hughes from private life." "Did you read where the Prince of Wales traveled 100 miles to get an elephant and then missed him?" "Yes, but I'm having better luck. I traveled 3,000 miles to meet the G. O. P. elephants and I'm not missing a one." "Will you stop in Chicago on your way back to Massachusetts?" "Will if the charity drive is all over."

MARY HAD A LITTLE LAMB

HOW CHICAGO GOT INTO TROUBLE

FLORIDA TIMES-UNION

Nothing is to be gained by condemning Chicago for getting into the serious trouble that now confronts that great city, and that calls for removal at the hands of its intelligent, honest and trustworthy citizens. That is, nothing is to be gained by people in other cities, through visiting rebuke and condemnation on those of Chicago who have been negligent of their citizenship duties. But very much is to be gained by taking note of what has been going on in Chicago, and that now has reached a serious climax, and resolving that similar things shall not be permitted to be done in cities and communities that, as yet, are not as seriously afflicted as is Chicago. Reference here and now is not being made so much to the crime epidemic from which Chicago has been suffering intensely for some years past, though gangster operations and killings, as to the bad government side of the picture which Chicago is forced to permit the world to behold and contemplate. Bad government has brought Chicago to the verge of bankruptcy, with the mounting of public debt piled up and rampant with school teachers and thousands of other city employees forced to go for months without payment of salaries, and with general paralysis of financial functioning of the city government. All this has assumed an gigantic and such serious proportions as to call public-spirited and patriotic citizens into action for the purpose of correcting at least some of the ills that afflict and for providing, also, millions of dollars with which the business of the city may be carried on until things are righted, to a degree at least. What is it that has caused Chicago to get into the present difficulties? The best answer that can be given to this very natural question has been given by the Chicago Tribune, a portion of which we give in these words: "Grossly inequitable assessments, deliberately made through favoritism, so inequitable that they had to be made over again, thus delaying the collection of revenues. (The Tribune calls this "the climax of political jobbery in peddling tax reduction.") Accumulating deficits caused by spending more than the income and hitting the revenue debts. Hoarding payroll stuffing, corruption in making public improvements and theft and graft in city contracts and expert hire. To a lesser extent than in Chicago some of these very things are being committed in other cities in this country, and unless warning is taken, by what happened in that city, and strenuous efforts be made to eliminate what is wrong and harmful in government, other cities may expect to be brought down just as Chicago has been. Therefore, the good that can come out of Chicago, in connection with what here is referred to, is by the way of thorough governmental house cleaning in every city in which there is the least of corruption. Criticizing and condemning Chicago will do not the least of good for cities that similarly are afflicted, even though in lesser degree and extent. But the stamping out of fraud and corruption of every character is what will do good, and such action is what will save other people from being afflicted as are those of Chicago. This is the bounden duty of the people of the citizens who wish to save themselves and their respective cities from the fate that has befallen Chicago.

The Farmer's Advice

By Alfalfa Smith

The other day I heard of a man who had at one time weighed 263 pounds. Then he went to a doctor, who quickly pulled his weight down.

The man was so delighted that he kept on dieting until now he weighs 175 pounds and is unable to walk he is so weak.

The most delicate machinery known to man is his own body. You might remember this fact when you start in to experiment with yourself, or you might remember it when you started to grow fat—or thin.

There are enough weighing machines around to supply your wants should you be burdened with a desire to know that your weight is. These machines usually tell you what you should tip the scales at in case you are uncertain.

New Infestation of Fly Is Discovered In Orlando Grove

...and then at 80 degrees for the days.
Informed of the new infestation last night Congressman W. R. Wood, Republican, Indiana, who has opposed a congressional appropriation of $18,000,000 for continuation of the eradication and inspection work, declared that he was "only surprised that it hasn't been found before this. It bears out my contention that the fly has existed periodically in Florida for some time."

Coincidentally, William K. Whitfield, Orlando attorney and member of the Florida Growers Protective League, only yesterday told the inquisitorial committee that in his opinion the situation is not as serious as it has been painted.

Promising "startling revelations," to the committee, Whitfield asserted that the situation does not warrant the full appropriation of $18,000,000 which has been recommended by the department of agriculture.

Whitfield said he could produce witnesses who could testify that the fly has been in existence in Florida for 18 years which "has acted exactly like the Mediterranean fruit fly and if it is not the Mediterranean fruit fly it is his twin brother."

One of the witnesses who is expected to testify to that effect is William J. Howey, of Howey in the Hills, Republican candidate for governor in 1928.

"When we have submitted our testimony," Whitfield said, "I know that if this committee, I fear minded it will agree with us."

He called upon the commission to hear from "the old crackers who will tell you that larvae have been found in fruit down here for 50 or 60 years, instead of for only a short time, as the plant board would have you believe."

Whitfield admitted that his organization had been formed for the purpose of opposing further appropriations, and he added that since that time some of the members have "changed their minds." Discovery of the new infestation will in no way affect the proceedings of the inquiry today, Chairman Wood said.

MARLETT GETS CREDIT AS BIG FLY NUISANCE

ocrat, Tennessee, also supported Cramton's statement and told Pickard "I hardly think it is fair to call the Newell regime, unless you intend to saddle all of these charges directly on him" Cramton then suggested to Pickard that "you might have called it the Marlett regime."

"I have been impressed all along," said Congressman Cramton, "with the fact that Newell took occasion to express very pronounced views on the necessity of making considerable modifications of the quarantine, which have been shown, in the light of subsequent evidence, to have been very wise."

"On a study of correspondence, not previously introduced in evidence, it has been shown that Newell repeatedly made appeals to the department of agriculture that were not always concurred in by department members. I think it is only fair to show this now, at

though it would not have been wise at that time to have shown him in disagreement with higher authority.

"Our investigation of correspondence shows that Marlett almost entirely was responsible for rules and regulations which were put into effect. We are supposed to follow the wise leadership of these experts without question—experts who can entirely change their minds within a month and yet be both wise and right, both times on both sides."

Chairman W. R. Wood, Republican, Indiana, and chairman of the sub-committee, then spoke up and said he believed that "a good percent of this work has been traceable to Marlett," adding that "he inaugurated every conceivable scheme of exhibiting the magnitude of the danger of the fly."

Naval Negotiations Fail To Attain End

LONDON, Mar. 5.—(AP)—Negotiations for settlement of Japanese and American naval ratio differences, which have proceeded between Senator Reed and Ambassador Matsumoto during the past week, thus far have failed to bring any appreciable reconciliation of the two national viewpoints.

It was said authoritatively today that neither of the two negotiators thus far had receded from their original thesis: an offer by America for extension of the 5-5-1 battleship ratio to large cruisers, and the Japanese demand and insistence upon at least a 70 per cent big cruiser ratio. Pending return of a French delegation to the five power naval conference from Paris, the negotiations represented virtually the only phase of conference activity.

ANALYZE THE ALLOWANCE ON YOUR USED CAR

If a dealer pays you more than the true worth of the car he must make up the difference by extra charges on the new car or re-sell it to some one else at too high a price

PERMANENT value is always better than a temporary bargain in the purchase of an automobile. It pays to look ahead and consider reliability and ultimate up-keep costs, as well as comfort, safety, speed, and beauty of line and color.

Since most automobiles are bought for replacement, the value set on your used car is a factor in almost every purchase. Frequently it is given an importance beyond its true worth.

Used cars have a definite market value and you are justly entitled to an allowance based on that value. It is not fair that you receive less. It is not to your best interests to receive more.

If a dealer pays you more than the true worth of the car he must either re-sell it to some one else at too high a price or make up the difference on the new car. This he cannot do unless he is allowed an excessive profit on the car or on financing, extra equipment and other charges. In either case, you pay the bill, for no way has yet been found to give something for nothing. The money must come from somewhere.

You may not get the largest used-car allowance from the Ford dealer, but that very fact should give you confidence that you are receiving full value in the new car. Ford charges are not marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on your old car.

Because there is no waste, extravagance or undue profit in manufacturing, distribution or selling, every dollar you pay for a Ford brings a full dollar in return. In lower first cost, in reliability and long life, in the low cost of operation, service and replacement parts, the Ford will save you much more than the seeming difference in trade allowance.

FURTHERMORE, at least $75 extra value is given to you in the new Ford in the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, the Rustless Steel, the five steel-spoke wheels, and the four Houdaille hydraulic double-acting shock absorbers. The unusually large number of ball and roller bearings, and the extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings, are other features that show the extra quality built into the Ford car.
