Thermometer Dips To 28; County's Crops Threatened

The thermometer dipped to 28 degrees in Seminole County today for the third time this winter, with little agricultural damage, but the worst is yet to come, according to County Agricultural Extension Agent Frank Jasa.

On Tuesday morning predictions call for temperatures to drop to the low 20s for an extended period, and if this happens, Jasa said, citrus crops, vegetables, and plants and shrubs could be severely damaged.

Complicating the situation is the fact that the frigid weather comes on the heels of two weeks of unseasonably warm weather that caused citrus trees to bud out and grow, leaving them much more susceptible to damage. The sharp change in temperatures also has left vegetable crops and pasturelands vulnerable.

The main crops now are cabbage, celery, green onions, broccoli, cauliflower and greens, Jasa said, and these can take temperatures down into the mid-20s, but not the low 20s.

Jasa advises those with dooryard fruit trees to pick what fruit they can use in the near future, as chances are Tuesday's chill will severely damage it. "The critical period is when the temperature stays below 27 or 28 degrees for four hours or more," he said.

"Plants that can be brought in should be," Jasa said. "Covering with tarps and blankets might be some help in protecting plants, but sheets or plastic would be no help. If the temperature gets up above freezing during the day it might help to water plants to cut down on dehydration," he said, "but if water is sprayed on at lower temperatures the ice would only break down the plants."

The return of freezing weather brings added fuel costs for heating for the ornamental foliage industry in Seminole County, Jasa said. Citrus grove owners should not attempt to heat, though, as it would be futile with the wind blowing, as well as being too costly, he said.

He said livestock probably would not be hurt by the cold, but it would mean a loss of production for poultry.

A half-hour power outage this morning that affected 1,500 Florida Power Corp. customers in Altamonte Springs was only a localized demand problem, according to FPC spokesman Tracey Smith. The 7 a.m. blackout involved only one feeder line and was the result of an overload and equipment failure, he said.

The peak demand reached 4,000 megawatts, Smith said, well under FPC's capacity of 5,200 megawatts. "In fact, we were selling energy to other areas," he added.

"Of course, during the cold weather we are encouraging our customers to watch their use of electricity and conserve where possible, as they will feel the effect when they get their bill at the end of the month," he said.

Temperatures in the teens were predicted for early today in the northern Florida cities of Jacksonville, Tallahassee and Apalachicola. A freeze was forecast for the central Florida citrus belt, including Orlando, Tampa and Lakeland.

Freezing temperatures were predicted as far south as Lake Okeechobee.

The coldest day ever recorded in Florida was two degrees below zero in Tallahassee in 1899.

Florida Citrus Mutual officials said they imposed their second freeze watch of the winter Sunday night, but there was little farmers could do to protect their crops.

"There are few precautions that can be taken by citrus growers," said Bobby F. McKown, Mutual executive vice president. "We hope the winds remain high and the temperatures don't drop too low."

McKown said some farmers in northern citrus counties were "firing" their crops — using diesel-fueled smudgepot heaters to warm the groves. But he said use of the heaters, once widespread, has become rare because of high costs.

McKown said farmers will also run low-volume microjet irrigation systems, which draws cold air into the running water and warms the tree and fruit.

Citrus Mutual temperature readers were assigned to different groves in every citrus-producing county in the state and gave hourly reports of temperature and possible crop damage.

Redistricting To Split Up Seminole?

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Since Seminole County's official 1980 population was 179,752, and 81,167 persons are necessary to create a state House of Representatives district, it would seem logical that the county after reapportionment will have two legislators whose districts will be wholly contained within the county, plus a portion of Seminole included in a third district. Right?

Wrong. According to State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, the latest reapportionment proposal would have Seminole with only one district wholly within its bounds, with part of the remaining territory tacked onto a district including Volusia, Lake, Putnam and Marion counties and the balance split up in a district centered on Orange and Brevard counties.

"It would be the most gerrymandered county in the state," said Brantley, whose district is currently comprised of portions of Seminole, Lake and Marion. In addition, Brantley said the district in the south end of the county, according to the proposal, would be 1,623 persons short of the ideal 81,167 per district, and would most likely fail to meet a court challenge.

He said it already has been noted that the courts will allow only a 2 percent deviation from the ideal. The proposed south county House district would have a 2.5 percent deviation, he said, and "chances are the court would not accept it."

The proposal, Brantley said, is being made by staff members of the House Reapportionment Committee with support from State Rep. Fran Carlton, D-Orlando.

Brantley explained that the committee staff in preparing the apportionment plan began from the southern and northern parts of the state at the same time, using Central Florida as a pivot point.

"The plan is nowhere near final yet," he said, "but at this point Seminole is getting the shaft and it has come from Orange County — Fran Carlton in particular." He said that in drawing districts for eastern Central Florida, Mrs. Carlton is "making sure Orange County is taken care of."

Brantley said that under the proposal Casselberry would be split off from Seminole and be included in an Orange County district, and Oviedo would be split off and included in a Brevard County district.

State Rep. Robert Hattaway's (D-Altamonte Springs) district would include Altamonte Springs and the Sweetwater and Wekiva areas.

Currently, Hattaway's district includes most of the county on a line from north to south and one precinct in Orange. At the same time, tiny Precinct 7A, with a handful of voters in Chuluota, is represented by the Brevard County delegation.

It had been hoped by Hattaway and Brantley that the inequities created by the Orange County precinct's being included in Hattaway's district and the exclusion of the few voters in Chuluota from Seminole representation would be cured by reapportionment.

Brantley said he met with Reps. Jon Mills, D-Gainesville, chairman of the House apportionment committee and Chris Meffert, D-Ocala, also a member of the committee, to discuss the situation. He said he was assured that the proposed plan is not permanent.

"I don't want Seminole chopped up," Brantley said.

He noted in golf terminology that the district boundaries as tentatively drawn are a "driver and a three wood from my front door and end at the first tee." Brantley is the owner of a small golf course off Markham Woods Road near Longwood and his home is adjacent to the course.

Comedian Paul Lynde Found Dead

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian Paul Lynde, best known for his appearances on the TV game show "Hollywood Squares," was found dead at his Los Angeles home Sunday night, apparently of a stroke, a family spokesman said today. He was 55.

Lynde was found by friends who broke into his home Sunday night because he failed to appear at a dinner party earlier in the evening, according to Alan David, the performer's long-time friend and agent.

Lynde was famous for his caustic, offbeat wit, best displayed on talk shows and game shows. He was the centerpiece of "Hollywood Squares" for many years. He also was a regular cast member of the old "Jonathan Winters Show," "F Troop," "Bewitched," "Dean Martin Presents" and his own short-lived "The Paul Lynde Show."

He was born in Mt. Vernon, Ohio, June 13, 1926, and educated at Northwestern University, where he majored in drama and speech and became a writer and star of the school's shows.

Longstreet Returning To Face Kidnap Charges

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A Pinellas County man being held in Orange County as a suspect involved in the Thursday abduction of a Sanford real-estate saleswoman is expected to be transferred to the Seminole County jail to face kidnapping charges today.

David R. Longstreet, 46, of Pinellas Park, near St. Petersburg, was arrested by Orange County sheriff's deputies after he allegedly abducted Donna Maltby, 28, of 247 Abbott Ave., Lake Mary, at knife-point in Seminole County and fled with her to Orange County.

Once Longstreet is transferred to the county jail, Seminole, Pinellas and Polk county law enforcement officers are expected to question him concerning Thursday's incident and possibly other related incidents in their respective counties, said John Spolski, Sheriff's Department spokesman.

Longstreet reportedly had met with Mrs. Maltby prior to Thursday's incident, indicating he was interested in purchasing property in Seminole and Volusia counties through her real-estate agency, Seigler Realty, 2415 S. French Ave., deputies said.

At about 8 a.m. Thursday, Longstreet called Mrs. Maltby, saying his car wouldn't start and asked her to come help him jump start it, deputies said. Mrs. Maltby agreed, but after arriving at the Days Inn in Sanford, where Longstreet was staying, the car was running. Longstreet then told Mrs. Maltby he was interested in seeing a piece of property on the west side of Interstate 4 and asked her to go see it with him.

Longstreet reportedly drove past the suggested area, stopped the car and, at knife-point, tied Mrs. Maltby's hands and forced her to lie down in the back seat, deputies said. Longstreet then began driving again, stopping at an Orlando restaurant to buy a drink, using part of the $111 in cash he allegedly stole from Mrs. Maltby.

Longstreet then told Mrs. Maltby he needed to buy gasoline and, while waiting at the Orange County service station, Mrs. Maltby managed to escape and receive help from a nearby Orange County deputy.

Longstreet fled but later was apprehended hiding in a nearby house. Longstreet is also wanted in Polk County on charges of sexual battery, Seminole County sheriff's deputies said. He reportedly is known in the Bartow-Polk County area as "Billy Bob."

Officers of the Polk County Sheriff's Department are expected to be in Seminole County today concerning the charges, Spolski said.

Two detectives from the Pinellas County Sheriff's Department also are scheduled to talk with Longstreet today.

According to James Brown, public information officer for the Pinellas County Sheriff's Department, that county "is in turmoil over the abduction of three women in the last 18 months here, one of whom was found dead recently." Brown said the bodies of the two other women, presumed dead by police, have not been found.

Switch In Evidence Convicts Longwood Man In DWI Death

After evidence originally ruled inadmissible in the trial of a Longwood man charged with manslaughter committed while driving while intoxicated was ruled admissible by a higher court, the man was found guilty of the charges.

Roosevelt Edge, 59, of 116 Magnolia St., was convicted Friday of DWI manslaughter in the Oct. 22, 1978, death of Julieta Gonzales, 22, an assistant volleyball coach at the University of Central Florida.

Edge a construction worker, has been a resident of Longwood about 10 years, according to Assistant State Attorney Belvin Perry, who prosecuted the case. Edge is currently being held in the Orange County jail awaiting sentencing, set for March 19. The charge of DWI manslaughter carries a maximum sentence of up to 15 years.

Two years ago Orange county Circuit Court Judge Lon Cornelius ruled against the state in the Edge case. Cornelius said he would not admit a blood sample of Edge's, taken 90 minutes after the accident, showing he had a blood alcohol content of .30.

In Florida a person with a blood alcohol reading of .10 or higher is considered intoxicated.

When refusing to admit the blood as evidence two years ago, Cornelius ruled it was taken in connection with a traffic investigation. The judge said the blood could not also be used as evidence in a homicide investigation.

According to Florida law, information given during a traffic investigation is considered confidential to allow witnesses to testify freely about what happened.

Last April, however, the 5th District Court of Appeal ruled that Cornelius erred in excluding blood alcohol test results as evidence.

Ms. Gonzales was killed after her car slammed head-on with Edge's in the early morning hours of Oct. 22, 1978. The two were driving on Alafaya Trail near the University of Central Florida, east of Orlando.

When Edge's car hit Ms. Gonzales, her car exploded, burning her body beyond recognition. Edge suffered cuts to the face and a broken nose, while his wife suffered back injuries.

Members of Edge's family testified during the trial that they were present at the party he had attended prior to the accident. They said he consumed only two drinks and left the party sober about 3:30 a.m.

When troopers arrived on the scene of the accident, however, Edge smelled of alcohol and seemed to be intoxicated, they testified. Another trooper testified he found three empty but moist beer cans in Edge's truck.

Defense attorney John Baldwin argued that the .30 blood alcohol reading was of questionable accuracy. Alcohol used while treating Edge's injuries or to take the blood sample could have given an erroneous reading, he said.

Baldwin also argued that holding the blood in the trooper's cruiser for a time and then for nine hours in a refrigerator before having it analyzed at the Sanford Crime Lab could have caused significant decomposition of the blood.

Despite Baldwin's arguments, the jury in Edge's case found him guilty of the charges.

Sanford Ponders Move For Library

The use of ground-floor space at the Sanford City Hall by the county library while the Sanford branch library on First Street is being renovated is expected to win approval from the Sanford City Commission at a 7 p.m. meeting today.

The county wants to use the space to keep the library in operation during the renovations of the 1917-vintage former post office building where the library is permanently located under a lease arrangement with the city.

County Administrator Roger Neiswender, in a letter to the city, said renovations on the library building are expected to begin the middle of March and be finished four to six months thereafter.

Assistant City Manager Steve Harriett said today the city is permitting the county free use of the space, asking only that the county pay $1.51 per square foot, which is the city's cost of providing water, sewer and electrical service for the space.

Harriett said the cost would run about $440 per month, depending on whether the county uses 3,000 or 3,500 square feet.

County Librarian Jean Rhein said that during renovations at the permanent facility, library services and regular hours will be continued at City Hall if the commission approves.

The renovations at the branch library include more interior space, restroom facilities and accessibility to the handicapped.

With the renovations will be men's and women's restroom facilities, as opposed to one restroom for everyone, Ms. Rhein said. A children's area will be developed from backroom space once used for storage, and more table space will be available.

In other business, the commission will consider a new liquor-licensing ordinance prepared by City Attorney William Colbert. The ordinance would prohibit the licensing of an establishment selling alcoholic beverages on premises within 750 feet of a similar establishment, or within 1,000 feet from a school or church.

It also would forbid the sale of alcoholic beverages to "habitual drunkards" and ban bottle clubs from the city.

The commission instructed Colbert to prepare the new ordinance after it became apparent that the city could not enforce the ordinance already on the books. While the current ordinance forbade, except with special permission of the commission, the licensing of establishments within 500 feet of one another, a search of the records showed that former commissioners granted special variances on that requirement to 30 of the 44 licenseholders in the city.

Colbert told the commission the ordinance, which was challenged in the courts, probably could not be upheld because of those variances.

The city agreed to issue licenses to three parties who had been denied them under the 500-foot rule, and called a moratorium on issuing further licenses until a new ordinance can be adopted.

And Casselberry Woman

Gunmen Rob Sanford Lil Champ

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford convenience store and a Casselberry woman were robbed at gunpoint over the weekend.

The Lil Champ convenience store, located at 2990 Sanford Ave., was robbed when two men, one of whom was carrying a sawed-off shotgun, entered the store at about 10:30 p.m. Sunday and demanded money.

Store clerk Donna B. Sweat, 58, of 4300 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford, told police one of the men jumped over the counter and took an undetermined amount of cash from the register while the other man held the gun.

The two men then fled the store on foot towards Airport Boulevard, police said.

In the other incident, Eileen Lynn Camden, 35, of 1125 Lancelot Way, was robbed and hit over the head by two men who accosted her at gunpoint at the Seminole Seafoods store located at 1311 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs.

Ms. Camden told sheriff's deputies she left the store at about 8:30 p.m. Friday and was "fumbling with her car keys" in the store parking lot, when two men came up behind her with a gun and demanded she give them her purse.

Deputies said one of the men grabbed the purse and started to run. When Ms. Camden attempted to hold onto the purse the second man hit her on the back of the head with an unknown object. The two men fled behind the seafood store, stealing $117 cash and numerous identification cards, credit cards and personal papers.

SEMINOLE COUNTY GIRL RAPED

A 14-year-old Longwood girl was raped at gunpoint in her home at about 3 a.m. Sunday.

A man reportedly entered the girl's residence through an unlocked garage door and raped her after threatening her with a small handgun.

The girl was taken to Florida Hospital-Altamonte and then transferred to Seminole Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries resulting from the attack, deputies said.

CADILLAC STOLEN FROM CAVALIER

Thieves made off with a south Seminole County man's 1981 Cadillac sometime between 11:45 p.m. Wednesday and 10:45 a.m. Thursday from the Cavalier Motor Inn parking lot, U.S. Highway 17-82, Sanford.

Dell A. James, 21, of 237 Spartan Dr., Maitland, told police he parked the vehicle in the lot, but upon his return the car was gone.

B-B GUN VANDALS STRIKE AGAIN

B-B-gun-toting vandals struck again in Sanford Thursday causing about $600 damage to a window at the Seminole County Courthouse and $100 damage to a Sanford man's car windshield.

Maintenance personnel at the courthouse, 301 N. Park Ave., Sanford, told police someone shot the north window of the courthouse with a B-B gun causing about $600 damage.

NATION

IN BRIEF

Military Spending Hurts Black Workers, Study Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For every $1 billion rise in the Pentagon budget, 1,300 jobs are lost for blacks, a group opposed to increases in military spending said in a report.

"This study found that high military spending has a seriously depressant effect upon job opportunities for blacks nationwide," the group said in the study, "Bombs or Bread: Black Unemployment and the Pentagon Budget."

"During the period 1970-1978," it said, "when the annual average of military spending was $85 billion, it cost the jobs of 109,000 black Americans each year."

UAW May Lose Holidays

DETROIT (UPI) — Paid personal holidays will probably be the first benefit United Auto Workers will lose during rare early contract talks prompted by the industry's deepening slump, a high-ranking union official says.

UAW bargainers were to visit Ford this morning and GM in the afternoon in what will begin as largely ceremonial meetings.

Once the issues are presented, however, it is expected paid personal holidays — of which workers receive 26 per year on top of vacation time — and cost of living allowances will be the first benefits to be affected.

Rescue Efforts Stymied

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI) — Rescuers stymied in their work by a mountainside threatening to send tons of mud and debris down on them pulled back and waited today for geologists to approve a renewed search for victims of last week's killer storm.

Before they were ordered out of the area Saturday, search teams unearthed the bodies of three more mudslide victims in the rugged Santa Cruz mountain enclave, bringing to 29 the known death toll from the storm that dumped 18 inches of rain in some areas.

Common Lot

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — New York and Connecticut now have more than a border in common. Last Monday, lottery officials in the two states drew the same number.

The number 037 came up in Daily Number drawings in both states, and a spokesman for the New York game said it was the first time another state lottery number had matched an Empire State selection since New York began its daily numbers game in September 1980.

But Lottery Division spokesman George Yamin said it had happened in other states before.

"The odds are one in a thousand for any three-digit number to come up," Yamin said.

Casselberry Council To Consider Board Appointments, Fine Reduction

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

The mayor and two Casselberry councilmen are expected to be sworn in at tonight's council meeting at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall, 96 Lake Triplett Drive.

Mayor Owen Sheppard and Councilmen Thomas Embree and John Leighty were re-elected to their respective positions in December. The council is also slated to elect its chairman and vice-chairman. The posts are currently held by Embree and Councilman Frank Schutte, respectively.

The Council also is expected to approve Sheppard's recommended reappointment of City Attorney Ken McIntosh, City Treasurer Mary Hawthorne and City Physician Dr. George Costaro. Sheppard is also making numerous recommendations for appointments to the planning and zoning, parks and recreation boards.

However, Schutte said today he will ask the council to vote for the board appointments individually instead of as a group because of his disapproval of one of the candidates.

"I will be voting against Vince Ballasone (to the planning and zoning board)," Schutte said. "This is the first time I've voted against a board appointment in five years but I just cannot support his appointment." Schutte added he did not wish to disclose his reasons for opposing the appointment because of possible embarrassment to Ballasone.

Embree said he, too, will be voting against Ballasone's board appointment. Councilman James Lavigne, however, said he will support the choice of Ballasone.

Clarence Jessup, 19, of 213 Woodmere Road, told police someone shot a hole in the windshield of his car while he was driving south on Sanford Avenue near the intersection of 25th Street at about 7:30 a.m. Thursday.

Sanford police have announced they will begin "cracking down" on the use of such weapons as B-B guns, pellet guns and air rifles in the city. Police said about $20,000 worth of property damage has resulted as a result of incidences of vandalism with such weapons since September.

FISHING EQUIPMENT STOLEN

Fishing equipment was stolen from a Casselberry man's boat sometime between Dec. 15 and Dec. 29.

Russ J. Daley, 59, of 11707 Calle Del Rey, told sheriff's deputies someone stole the equipment from his boat while the boat was either anchored in the lake behind the apartment complex or parked in the complex parking lot.

The total amount of equipment stolen is undetermined.

FERN PARK HOME ROBBED

A Fern Park couple's home was burglarized sometime between June and 7:25 p.m. Friday, while the couple were living at their Illinois home.

Jeanette Rosenfeld, 31, of 889 Woodridge Drive, Fern Park, told sheriff's deputies the apartment complex exterminator discovered the sliding glass door to Robert Strobel's home at 671 Woodridge Drive broken and several dresser and kitchen drawers open. Ms. Rosenfeld said she has a key to the Strobel home and has been keeping an eye on it for them. She said the Strobel had not been in the home since June or July.

BURGLARS UNPLUG REFRIGERATOR

Burglars broke into a Longwood man's home sometime between 8:15 a.m. Monday and 8 p.m. Friday and stole a pillowcase from the master bedroom and unplugged the refrigerator.

Dennis G. Sabia, 30, of 171 Duncan Trail told sheriff's deputies someone broke into his home by prying the garage door lock and then prying open a door to the home. Once inside, the culprits unplugged the refrigerator and stole the pillowcase, Sabia will provide deputies a list of additional stolen articles, if any.

Deputies said the frozen foods in the refrigerator were still frozen and the other foods were still cool.

BURGLARS USE TALCUM

Burglars broke into a Longwood woman's home at about 7:30 p.m. Friday, stealing a metal strongbox. Cynthia L. Walwick, 33, of 111 Hunters Trail told sheriff's deputies someone pried open the front window and removed the window screen. Deputies said talcum powder was found on the windowpane and window. The burglars also pried open the garage door.

The contents of the stolen box are not known at this time. Nothing else appeared to be disturbed, deputies said.

HARDWARE STORE ROBBED

Burglars pried open the rear double doors of a Forest City hardware store and made off with about $2,800 worth of chainsaws, socket sets and cash sometime between 6 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. Friday.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies said someone broke into the Forest City Hardware Store and Garden Center, State Road 436, Forest City. The thieves made off with about 10 chainsaws, several socket sets and $115 from two cash registers in the store.

LONGWOOD HOME ROBBED

A Longwood man's home was robbed sometime between 4 p.m. Jan. 2 and 10 a.m. Friday, with an undetermined amount of property stolen.

Deputies said the home of William Cox Jr., 28, of 274 Needles Trail was burglarized when the culprits pried open a sliding glass door leading to the bathroom from the pool area. The kitchen and master bedroom were ransacked.

Deputies said Cox's father had been looking after the home while his son was out of town and discovered the burglary.

WINDOWS SMASHED, CAR LOOTED

Thieves broke the rear and front windows on the driver's side of a New Smyrna Beach man's car sometime between 6:30 p.m. Thursday and 8:25 a.m. Friday, stealing about $500 worth of property from the vehicle.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies said the vehicle, owned by Timothy Fisher, was parked in front of the Jenkins Furniture Co., 205 E. 25th St., Sanford, when the incident occurred.

The burglars stole two stereo speakers, five wrenches, a battery, a distributor cap and a master cylinder from the 1974 Ford, in addition to breaking the car windows.

SLEEPING FAMILY ROBBED

Burglars broke into a Sanford family's home at about 1 a.m. today while the family slept, stealing money, rings, a purse, a pair of pants and a jewelry box.

William F. Richardson, 68, of 1700 Forest Drive told Sanford police someone broke into his home by forcing the carport door open and stole about $340, a diamond ring, a class ring, a Mother's Day ring with four stones, a pair of pants, a jewelry box and a purse which was lying on the floor near the television set in the living room.

The total amount of property stolen has not been determined.

Bitter Cold Numbs Nation; 17 Dead

United Press International

A sheet of glacial air numbed the northern half of the nation and the Deep South today, plunging temperatures in the Midwest to their lowest levels in more than 100 years and contributing to at least 17 deaths.

The shocking cold snapped power lines, froze water mains, closed schools and dared automobiles to start across the freeze-dried North, with recordbreaking temperatures in the 20-below range common from Montana to blizzard-stricken New York.

The Deep South had readings ranging from zero in the north Georgia mountains to below freezing in Texas. Alabama Gov. Fob James ordered the National Guard to keep its armories in north and central Alabama open for families who needed shelter. Even northern Florida was expecting lows in the teens today.

The National Weather Service called a blizzard that has incapacitated western New York as being as potentially "dangerous as the blizzard of 1977," that once held the city of Buffalo in its grip.

"It's developing more slowly, but it's just as dangerous and as strong as the blizzard of 1977," said forecaster Peter Parke.

Residents of both New York and Chicago were cautioned to stay indoors and avoid the below-zero temperatures and wind chill factors of 80 below zero to 85 below — almost guaranteed frost burn on unprotected skin.

Northerly winds of up to 50 mph blasted the lower Great Lakes region and authorities blamed the combination of strong winds and dry conditions with touching off numerous fires.

Seventeen deaths were blamed on the weather — six in Minnesota, four in Illinois, three in Michigan, two in Iowa and one each in Wisconsin and Ohio.

Two Illinois victims and four victims in Minnesota died in fires. Other fatalities were due to traffic or snowmobile accidents and exposure. The body of Franklin Steele, 49, was found frozen on a fire escape at a Chicago resident hotel.

The second straight day of extreme bitter cold sent the thermometer to 28 degrees below zero Sunday at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport with a wind chill of 88 below. The previously recorded all-time low in Chicago was 23 degrees, on Christmas Eve 1872.

"Surprisingly, there's really not all that much traffic on the road," Trooper Diane Rottor of Kankakee, Ill., said. "Everyone's home watching football and staying warm."

Blizzard amounts of snow were expected today, forcing Chicago's 600 public schools to cancel classes for over 600,000 students. The city's Catholic elementary schools and school districts across northern Illinois also closed.

The National Weather Service in Chicago may have described it best, issuing a bulletin that began, "... Coldest day ever in Chicago ... Never this cold before ... Baby, it's cold outside ..."

Supreme Court Turns Down Florida Drug Law Appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today refused to consider whether Florida's get-tough drug trafficking law designed to get suspects to "squeal" on one another — is constitutional.

The justices refused to hear arguments from attorneys for a dozen accused drug handlers who contend the law violates their rights by prescribing mandatory, severe prison sentences unless they agree to give information about their accomplices and suppliers.

Whites Fleeing Dade Schools

MIAMI (UPI) — A recent survey shows departures of non-Latin whites from the huge Dade County school system are increasing, and educators who compiled the figures are complaining the trend is not healthy.

The latest population shifts left the school system with 223,934 students — 38 percent of them Latin, 31 percent of them black, and 31 percent of them non-Latin white, the officials say.

Total public school enrollment dropped by 8,499 students in Dade County in the last year. The decline is the largest annual loss in the history of the school system.

$12 Million Of Pot Seized

TAMPA (UPI) — A shipment of more than 15 tons of marijuana apparently abandoned aboard a shrimp trawler anchored in Tampa Bay is in custody of Hillsborough County sheriff's deputies.

The exact quantity of the marijuana aboard has not been determined, but it is estimated the boat contained 15 tons of pot, consisting of about 400 bales, valued at $12 million, said Paul Marino, a sheriff's spokesman.

Fluoridation On Longwood Agenda

A new city commissioner will appear before the public at tonight's Longwood City Commission meeting.

Charles S. "Chick" Pappas, a retired mechanical engineer, defeated Mayor and incumbent District 4 Commissioner John Hepp in the Dec. 1 election. Pappas will be sworn in as the newest Longwood commissioner at tonight's meeting in City Hall at 7:30 p.m. Commissioners also will be required to choose a new mayor at tonight's meeting.

The commission also will review a poll of city residents asking them if they want fluoride added to the city's water supply. The questionnaire was included in resident's water bills.

On Friday, results of the poll showed 478 water customers favored fluoridation, 318 opposed it and 195 indicated they had no preference. Of the 1,393 replies tallied by Friday, 402 people did not respond to the survey, according to City Clerk Don Terry.

In Atlanta Child Murder Trial

Williams' Story Discredited

ATLANTA (UPI) — An FBI agent testified today that suspected killer Wayne Williams told him he was trying, at 3 a.m. on the morning of May 22, 1981, to find the apartment of a woman with whom he had a 6:30 a.m. appointment.

Agent William McGrath's testimony was part of the prosecution's attempt to show Williams lied, or made improbable statements, about his actions on the morning he became a suspect in the city's 28 murders of young blacks.

He is charged with killing two of them, Nathaniel Cater, 27, and Jimmy Ray Payne, 21.

McGrath, who interviewed Williams at his parents' home later that morning, testified the suspect told him he had a 6:30 a.m. appointment with a woman named Cheryl Johnson, to audition her for a television commercial which he said was to be made only four hours after the appointment.

"He stated it was his custom to attempt to locate individuals' addresses prior to going there," McGrath testified. "He indicated he did this physically, not with maps."

Williams said he was unable to find the address, McGrath said, and told him he tried to call the woman from a phone booth at a liquor store at the foot of the James Jackson Parkway. McGrath said the suspect told him an individual answered and told him, "She ain't here."

Police who saw Williams' white station wagon moving slowly off the bridge that morning have insisted he didn't stop at the liquor store and made no telephone call.

He said Williams also told him that a small blue pickup truck — he even gave three characters of its license plate — was on the bridge at the same time, but the stakeout team claimed that his was the only car to cross the bridge in a period of more than half an hour.

Sgt. Henry Bolton opened the third week of the trial with an account of how police searched for a car exactly like that of Williams, except for color, borrowed one and took it to the bridge to make a complicated series of measurements. There were, he said, only 10 vehicles in the area like the 1970 station wagon.

Zoo Looking For A Few Good Docents

During the past two years, the Central Florida Zoo in Sanford has been training volunteers, called docents, to teach local youth about the wonderful and fascinating world of wild animals. These dedicated docents willingly donate their time and energies leading school children on tours of the zoo. They also handle some of the zoo's smaller animals so that the kids can have a close encounter of the feathered or furry kind.

"All of the docents get a great deal of satisfaction and enjoyment from working with the school children," according to zoo executive director Alan Rozon. "This is particularly evident in their enthusiasm after completing a tour with a group of attentive children who were questioning and curious."

The Central Florida Zoo is currently looking for docent volunteers. A training class will begin on Jan. 27 and will run for seven consecutive Wednesdays. These classes will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the zoo which is located on U.S. Highway 17-92 northwest of Sanford near Interstate 4.

To become a docent, volunteers must complete a 35-hour training course.

During their training, volunteers learn about zoo animals and how to give tours. The only requirement for being a docent is that volunteers be at least 16 years old. The course is open to anyone who has a love of children and animals.

"The zoo's education department was established in mid-1979, based on the firm belief that the future hope for the world's wild animals rests with the education of today's youth," Rozon said.

For more information about the docent program, contact the zoo's education department at 323-0181 or 323-4450.

For Haiti, With Love And Squalor

America's closed-door policy for illegal Haitian immigrants has met with mixed success since October, when Coast Guard ships were ordered to interdict refugee boats.

The flood of Haitian refugees, which once reached 1,000 Haitians a month one year ago, has since slowed to a trickle. But Haitians held in Immigration and Nationalization Service centers in Florida and Puerto Rico have rebelled against their living conditions. Recently, 100 Haitians escaped from the Crome Avenue refugee camp in the Florida Everglades, after a stormy protest led by Haitians outside the fence. People were beaten and hauled off to jail. A hunger strike began and was aborted. The INS added 70 security men to the camp.

The case for keeping Haitian refugees from coming to America is strong. They are generally not refugees from tyranny but fugitives from poverty. They come illegally, flouting U.S. laws and endangering their own lives by traveling in unseaworthy boats. Piratical captains take advantage of them, inflicting atrocities. And once here the French-speaking Haitians have difficulty finding jobs and decent living conditions.

To stem the illegal immigration, the United States laid down a firm policy that Haitians would no longer be slapped on the hand and then allowed to enter the country. Haitians were screened to determine who were legitimate political refugees. Non-refugees were given a choice to either voluntarily return to Haiti, or remain incarcerated in centers. The purpose of the tough policy was for word to get back to the villages of Haiti that America wasn't tolerating any more illegal immigrants.

Well enough. That message has been received, as the trickle of immigrants indicates. But what should be done about the several hundred Haitians languishing in Puerto Rico and Florida? They are being used as an example, but riots and escapes are sending another message to the world: of American intransigence. The Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Service, of the Lutheran Council, U.S.A., wrote: "These Haitians have not been convicted of any crime. They are being held in prison while awaiting immigration processing. The United States ought not to operate concentration camps."

Concentration camps is too strong a phrase. But there is a point where preventative policy becomes inflammatory counter-policy. And the Haitians are caught in the middle of an international dilemma of poverty and policy.

America gives foreign aid to Haiti. But we have little influence with dictator Jean-Claude Duvalier. America has no way to guarantee the safety of the Haitians whom we return to Haiti. Even if they were not political refugees when they left, the problems they caused for Haiti's image in the U.S. might make them targets for reprisals on their return. Haitian-Americans say they could relocate them quickly in Haitian communities in Miami, New York and elsewhere.

For the short term, quiet humanitarian release for those presently interned and giving them temporary resident status in the U.S. is the best solution, combined with the continuance of the Coast Guard interdiction program. For the long term, America must insure that foreign aid gets to the poor people of Haiti, and we must encourage U.S. investment to promote development. America should not condone a regime which bleeds Haiti's limited resources while living in palatial opulence in Port-au-Prince. The best way to stop the refugee boats is to give Haiti the means to provide food and housing for its people, and to pressure Duvalier to stop his repressive policies, such as jailing opposition figures. Otherwise, the message being sent back with the returning refugees seems to read, "For Haiti, with love and squalor."

BERRY'S WORLD

"I THOUGHT YOU SAID YOU WERE AGAINST THE SAUDI PEACE PLAN FOR THE MIDDLE EAST!"

By DONNA ESTES

The first of many candidates for statewide, national and local office, who will appear in Seminole during this 1982 election year — State Rep. William "Doc" Myers, R-Hobe Sound — told the Seminole County Young Republican (YR) Club this past week the reasons why he believes he should be supported in his quest for the governor's office.

Noting that he is a practicing family physician from Martin County, Myers said he worked his way through the ranks of the GOP from chairing the Martin County YRs and the Martin County Republican Executive Committee to membership on the State Republican Committee.

After running an unsuccessful race for the Martin County Commission in 1964, Myers was subsequently elected to the County Commission in 1968 and served until 1978. In 1978 he was elected to the Florida House and was elected unopposed in 1980.

Myers said he is seeking the GOP nomination for governor, the source of leadership in Florida and the position that gives the greatest opportunity to get things done.

He also noted that he is leading a drive to get 299,000 signatures on a petition by August seeking to place a state constitutional amendment on the ballot changing the Florida Public Service Commission back to an elective body. He said he has already collected 92,000 signatures and has been traveling the state seeking additional signatures. Myers began the petition drive in November.

He said the petitions are circulating in all 15 congressional districts of the state.

Myers said Gov. Bob Graham is unresponsive to the hue and cry from residents seeking return to the elective public service commission and has threatened to veto any legislation attempting to change the currently appointive body.

The major issue in the gubernatorial campaigns will be Graham's lack of leadership, Myers said. He cited Graham's particular lack of leadership in the special legislative session in 1978 when he tried to get Legislature to require property tax assessments throughout Florida to be at 85 percent of market value. Myers said the Senate preferred 50 percent and because of the differences the Legislature went home after doing nothing on the issue.

"Graham went and pouted in a corner until he found that the Constitution requires 100 percent assessments," Myers said and then Graham began enforcing that.

The Legislature had nothing to do with it, Myers said, adding the governor by his action totally changed the whole local taxing structure, equalizing it to lower than 100 percent.

He said there are currently three bills pre-filed in the Legislature for action during the session beginning Jan. 18, calling the first for the first $5,000, the first $10,000 and the first $15,000 value respectively of a homestead to be taxed before homestead exemptions would apply so that everyone would pay at least a little in property taxes.

Myers said in some north Florida Counties, 70 percent of houses have been removed from the tax rolls because of the $25,000 homestead exemption.

DON GRAFF Home Style Terrorism

You certainly shouldn't be hearing of it here first, but you may well have forgotten by now — time flying as it does and these being exceptionally crisis-prone times.

It is, however, a full year now since the Reagan administration announced the leit-motif of its foreign policy.

"International terrorism will take the place of human rights in our concern because it is the ultimate abuse of human rights," Secretary of State Alexander Haig informed us last January following the first session of the new National Security Council.

Well, that was before AWACS and strategic cooperation agreements with Israel and a new order on the Golan Heights. Not to mention before Poland and Richard Allen's departure as national security adviser for reasons of little concern to administration policies but of plenty to those concerned with its politics.

Under the eventual circumstances, it is understandable that of late there has been less talk about terrorism per se from Washington and certainly not much being done about it, unless you count the border patrol alert for Libyan hit squads.

But should there be a sudden revival of concern, there would be no difficulty at finding nearby targets toward which to direct it. One such was the subject of a recent Wall Street Journal front-page report on the activities of "Omega 7," an anti-Castro Cuban group that, according to law-enforcement authorities closest to the situation, currently may be the most dangerous terrorist operation in the country.

Its business is violence, and since 1973 it has acknowledged responsibility for more than 30 bombings and other outrages. It is a power within the large Cuban exile community in the United States, intimidating individuals who do not share its total hostility toward the Castro regime and seeking to influence through fear even some non-Cuban business and religious organizations.

"Omega 7" may operate largely within the domestic jurisdiction, but its impact is certainly international and it certainly qualifies as terrorist. But while local police are well aware of its activities, especially in the Cuban population concentrations in Miami and the metropolitan New York area, federal authorities have maintained a distance.

The FBI has, however, drawn a bit closer in its most recent report on terrorist activity, which singled out Cuban extremists for major responsibility in an upsurge of investigated incidents.

The Cubans are not the whole story, however. There is also a collection of Central Americans preparing themselves in Florida training camps for eventual expeditionary missions. Revolutionary Nicaragua is their primary target but also on the list is Panama, which most Americans haven't regarded as a threat to hemispheric law and order since the canal business was settled.

Permitting such preparations within American territory for assaults upon other governments is contrary to internal law. Yet the present administration, which continues to hammer at Nicaragua for its violation of that same law in respect to the civil war in El Salvador, looks the other way.

The Justice Department says it is not "officially" aware of exile military activities in Florida.

It's certainly been a long and eventful time between Januarys.

JACK ANDERSON

Memo Discredits ABSCAM Conviction

WASHINGTON — Another astounding document has turned up in Justice Department files that further discredits the ABSCAM conviction of Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J.

Like other exculpatory material I had uncovered earlier, this one also provides damning evidence that the federal prosecutors knew their case against the senator lacked substance.

The government managed to obtain a conviction. But as I reported last October, one of the jurors, Salvatore Ottoviano, said in an affidavit that he would have "voted not guilty on all counts and would under no circumstances have changed my vote to guilty" if the jury had been allowed to see a Justice Department report in which prosecutors admitted they had nothing on Williams after more than a year of investigation.

The latest secret memo, obtained by my associate Indy Badwar, shoots down a

JEFFREY HART

Men, Women Of The Year

Dartmouth College once held a summer-long session on the theme of "where have all the heroes gone?" Its assumption was that something in contemporary life had made heroism difficult if not impossible.

Soon after that session, President Anwar Sadat of Egypt made his sudden and spectacular journey to Israel, changing the whole equation in the Middle East.

Yes, we have had our heroes, Sadat, Solzhenitsyn, Sakharov — and in 1981 their number seemed to grow.

Time magazine annually picks a Man of the Year, and sometimes the choice is so obvious that there is little dissent from it.

Yet 1981 in my judgment produced a variety of heroes, heroic in different ways.

Thomas Carlyle, a philosopher of heroism in his book "Heroes and Hero Worship," saw that, to produce a hero, man and moment must coincide. Without the man, a historic opportunity does not bring forth a hero. But without the moment, the man's resources may not be called upon in a heroic way.

Everyone would agree that Time's Man of the Year, Lech Walesa, is an authentic hero. Unknown outside of his country, he seized the moment and shook the colossus. Solzhenitsyn has remarked that even if the entire surface of the globe were paved over, somewhere a blade of grass would make its way to the surface. Within the Soviet prison empire, Walesa is such a blade of grass.

It is not necessary that a hero prevail in the short run. Walesa will not triumph tomorrow or the next day. But he has stripped the last shreds of legitimacy from the Soviet tyranny and lit a flame that may burn underground for a while, but burn it will.

The Soviets and their puppets have their problems with Walesa, but so have Western liberals. An older liberalism believed that human freedom and human dignity went hand in hand, but somewhere along the line liberalism switched from human freedom to human regulation. Walesa, a Catholic and a daily communicant, has caught contemporary liberalism way off base philosophically — and liberals like Helmut Schmidt have been reduced to muttering about not "over-reacting," even while kissing the foot of tyranny.

One hero, Anwar Sadat, died at the hands of an assassin last year, but two heroes of 1981 survived — Ronald Reagan and Pope John Paul II.

Both men, in 1981, took stagnant and dispirited institutions and shook some life and movement into them.

During Carter's last year, indeed for some time before that, much serious opinion held that the American system was at dead end, in a state of deadlock, suffering from incurable malaise.

In his first year in office, Ronald Reagan seized the historical moment and set the nation on a new course. He cut taxes. He cut back the growth of the bureaucracy. He gave to the office of the presidency a sense of verve and humor that it has not had since — some would say Kennedy — but I would say Franklin Roosevelt. Reagan is serious, very serious, but not solemn. He is, like FDR and Al Smith, a Happy Warrior.

Pope Paul VI was known as a "Hamlet." His papacy was a dispirited one. In the church, many elements swung out of control — the "liberation" theologians, the swinging Jesuits, the madcap nuns. All of this produced little joy and less love of God.

John Paul II set about to change all of this. He is both a joyful and an orthodox man, no "Hamlet." He said that he would "go to Poland" if the Soviets invaded, and in his New Year's message he strongly backed Solidarity. He has let the Jesuits and others know that prayer is back and blue jeans out. The church begins to stir again with spiritual energy.

In every degree and in all walks of life, we were surrounded by heroes and heroines in 1981. There was Mother Teresa in Calcutta, breathing eternity; and Juan Carlos in Spain, putting his crown on the line of democracy; and Judge Sandra Day O'Connor, who, by refusing the extremes of feminism, has accomplished more for women by her achievement than all of the screamers; and John McEnroe, a young perfectionist, who has conquered himself, the other players, and tennis officialdom to become one of the greats, and who had the sportsmanship to play for his country in the Davis Cup, and win it.

These are some of the heroes and heroines. There are others, who wrote the songs and the plays and the books and poems, and still others we have never heard of.

Where have all the heroes gone? They were all around us in 1981, awakening the human spirit.

ROBERT WALTERS If Watt 'Opened' Camp David

WASHINGTON (NEA) — How would President Reagan react if Interior Secretary James G. Watt suggested that motorcycles, jeeps and snowmobiles be allowed access to Camp David, the presidential retreat in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains?

What would Reagan do if Watt proposed that the president open his secluded ranch in California's Santa Ynez Mountains to oil and gas drilling rigs as well as hardrock mining for copper, zinc, gold and assorted other minerals?

Because Reagan is a dedicated outdoorsman who clearly cherishes the grandeur and splendor of an unspoiled natural setting, the answer to both of those rhetorical questions is obvious: Watt would be hustled out of his job before he even had time to clean out his desk.

On six separate occasions since he was sworn in as president, Reagan has fled this city and flown to the West to seek the spiritual and physical renewal offered by his 688-acre Rancho del Cielo in high chaparral country.

On almost every weekend when he has remained in the East, Reagan has abandoned this city in favor of Camp David, which is, in effect, a small national park maintained for the exclusive use of the country's president.

Yet Reagan has allowed Watt to proceed with a destructive policy that would deny millions of citizens (who don't rate a private park and can't afford a sprawling ranch overlooking the Pacific) a more modest opportunity to enjoy the pristine beauty of the more than 780 million acres of land under the Interior Department's stewardship.

"Watt has done more to dismantle longstanding conservation law and to repudiate sound public policy toward the nation's natural resources than any other person to ever hold his office," says the Wilderness Society.

That widely respected organization has produced an extraordinary catalog documenting Watt's systematic efforts to promote the commercialization, exploitation and desecration of the nation's most valuable natural resources.

"The Watt Book" compiled by the Wilderness Society consists of a pair of red loose-leaf binders filled with newspaper accounts of Watt's activities, texts of his speeches and copies of Interior Department memos.

For those who missed his speech last fall to a group of California farmers, "The Watt Book" faithfully records his disgraceful attempt to question his critics' patriotism: "I don't speak of Republicans and Democrats any more; I speak of liberals and Americans."

He has moved to allow airboats in Everglades National Park, snowmobiles in Yosemite National Park, widely expanded use of motor-powered craft in the Grand Canyon and increased access for dune buggies at national seashores.

He has imposed a total moratorium on the acquisition of additional national parkland, sought to abandon his department's responsibility for parks in urban areas and proposed that commercial operators assume the functions of park rangers.

He has rejected policies and traditions established by distinguished predecessors of both parties, claiming instead that his mission is "to change 40 to 50 years of bad government" — which includes the Republican administrations of Presidents Eisenhower, Nixon and Ford.

valueless corporation... No cash was paid to Williams.

The memo compared Williams to the other ABSCAM targets and stated: "There is one factual difference with respect to Williams... Williams took nothing of value — only stock in a fictitious corporation — and because we are unaware of any other losses that the government suffered as a result of his actions, the government can claim no damages."

It should be noted that when Williams was in fact offered something of value — thousands of dollars in cash — he vehemently turned down the bribe.

The July memo obviously couldn't have prevented Williams' conviction two months earlier. But the same cannot be said about the November 1979 memo that made such a deep impression on juror Ottoviano. It was a report on a meeting of all the ABSCAM prosecutors and FBI agents to discuss the various targets of the operation.

The prosecutors concluded that their 13-month effort to trap Williams had been a washout. They even acknowledged that his shares in the titanium venture were not "hidden." He had, in short, resisted their slickest efforts to trick him into committing an overt criminal act.

The investigators asked for one last chance to nail Williams, and got the go-ahead. The trap was sprung, Williams was offered a cash bribe, and he turned it down cold. Yet he was subsequently prosecuted on the very charges that the attorneys had earlier conceded he was innocent of.

Judge George Pratt, in his recent ruling that gave his own and the prosecutors' conduct a clean bill of health, dismissed the suppressed memo as merely a reflection of differences of opinion among prosecutors. Such differences are common, he said.

Red-Hot Raiders Shoot Holes Into Timberwolves

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Sports Writer

JC Basketball

LAKE CITY — Four minutes into Saturday night's clash against third-ranked Lake City, Seminole Community College coach Joe Sterling glanced at the overhead scoreboard in the Amos Howard Gymnasium and didn't care for what he saw.

Timberwolf guard Mervin Jones and forward Rob Johnson had already canned a pair of jumpers from just east of Gainesville to rocket coach Joe Fields' home team to a quick 10-2 lead over Sterling's second-ranked Raiders and the 1,200 hometown fans on hand were calling for more.

Sterling's worst fear about playing Lake City on the road was coming to life right before his eyes. Sterling quickly signaled for a time out to calm the storm and switched his Raiders from a game opening zone to a full court man-to-man press to combat the torrid outside shooting of the Timberwolves. That one little defensive metamorphosis proved to be the eventual difference in the ball game. Over the next 11 minutes, Sterling's Raiders forced four Lake City turnovers and found their offensive rhythm, eventually knotting the score at 12-12 at the 14:50 mark and then took the lead on their next trip down the court on a Bruce McCray jumper.

Ahead 14-12, SCC refused to relinquish the lead the remainder of the game despite three strong rushes by Lake City and preserved its number two state-ranking by virtue of a tough 85-80 win on the road.

"This is the third straight year we've come up here and beaten them at their place," beamed a happy Sterling after the win. "I can't think of anybody else that has done that. This one was almost a replay of last year. We came up here and beat them by two points and that game really seemed to get us going for the second half."

The Raiders stretched their lead to five points with three minutes remaining in the first stanza but couldn't shake a talented and tenacious Lake City squad until shortly before intermission. Point guard Eric Ervin dished off one assist for a Lonnie Jones bucket, found Travis Filer on the fast break for another quick two and completed an all-out play to McCray for another two. Backup point guard Jesse Woods entered with a minute remaining before intermission and came up with a quick steal, feeding Filer for a breakaway layup to bolt the Raiders to a 40-31 halftime advantage.

SCC managed to build its lead to 13 just a minute-and-a-half into the second half but ran into trouble when Ervin picked up his fourth personal foul with 17:26 remaining into the contest.

SCC failed to score its next five trips down the court and with the outside touch of Johnson and fellow forward William Sanford, Lake City used its outside shooting to cut SCC's lead to 46-42 at the 15:05 mark.

Filer completed a three-point play to end the Raider's scoring drought, but Lake City found itself in the bonus free-throw situation at 13:30, and combined with three straight jumpers by Sanford, clung to the Raiders and trailed by only three (55-52) at 10:54 when Filer picked up his fourth personal.

Sterling played his hand by reinserting Ervin and the move paid immediate dividends. Over the next four minutes the Raiders held a three point edge until Ervin slapped away a Lake City pass, chased it down and gathered it in for a layup. He followed up by feeding McCray for an inside bucket and Lonnie Jones drove the key with a couple of moves that left the Lake City defense looking like a revolving door for two more buckets to push SCC in front 69-61 with six minutes to play.

But the Timberwolves refused to fold, showing why they entered the game ranked third in the state with a 14-3 record.

Johnson came up with a steal for Lake City and earned a bucket when Ervin chased him down only to be called for foul tending. Johnson followed up with another jumper and Lake City got an inside bucket from Sanford to slice SCC's advantage to 69-67 with five minutes to play.

That's when SCC went into the bonus situation and did wonders to improve its season average of 64 percent from the charity stripe. Jones first, then McCray, the Jones again, then Filer and finally Ervin marched to the charity stripe in the closing five minute frame for one-and-one tosses. The Raider foursome connected on both ends each time at the line, wrapping up the final 85-80 margin, with McCray canning a pair of free throws after time had expired on a last second shot attempt. Overall, the Raiders were good on 19 of 20 free throw tries, including a perfect eight of eight in the final five minutes of play.

"If there's a better team in Florida, I haven't seen them," complimented Lake City's Joe Fields.

"They were by far the quickest and toughest team we've faced this year," offered Sterling after the tough road victory. "A game like this has got to help up down the stretch."

All-state sophomore Bruce McCray again sparked the Raider offense with a game-high 28 points while Lonnie Jones, playing in just his second game of the year pumped in 20 and snared a game high eight rebounds.

"Lonnie was more into the flow of things tonight," pointed out Sterling. "I think he might have been a little anxious in his first game back, but tonight he came up with some big baskets and key rebounds when we were in foul trouble."

Jones was happy with the win and a little more pleased with the role he played in helping the Raiders boost their

"If there's a better team in Florida, I haven't seen them." — Lake City Coach Joe Fields record to 12-1.

"They had some guys that could really take it to the hole," acknowledged the slim sophomore. "I took it inside a couple of times tonight and had to use all the tricks in my bag. You have to use everything when you go in there and the defense is three and four inches bigger."

Filer turned in his usual consistent effort for SCC by notching 17 points and grabbing seven rebounds. Center Reggie Butler also hit double figures with 10 points while grabbing five boards while Ervin again displayed his quarter-backing skills with nine assists despite missing almost 10 minutes due to foul trouble.

The Raiders begin a busy three-game week tonight by hosting Santa Fe Community College in the SCC gym. Tipoff time is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

The Raiders' backup point guard Jesse Woods came off the bench Saturday night to bail out a foul-plagued Eric Ervin and help SCC past tough Lake City. Woods, a sophomore, stole the ball and fed Travis Filer for a layup to give the Raiders a 40-31 halftime lead. SCC won, 85-80, as Sanford's Bruce McCray threw in 28 points.

Bengals Skill In Chill Leaves San Diego Out In Cold

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The ch-chilly Cincinnati Bengals are heading for the Super Bowl, a showdown with the San Francisco 49ers and — thank goodness — a warm, domed stadium.

But the San Diego Chargers have been left out in the cold.

In an American Conference championship game where the main opponent was Old Man Winter, the Bengals chilled the Chargers 27-7 Sunday.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle considered postponing the game, which began with the temperature nine degrees below zero and the wind-chill factor 54 degrees below. But Rozelle, after consulting a doctor who specializes in cold weather conditions, permitted the contest to go on.

Amazingly, the Bengals played a game they could have been proud of in any weather conditions. And now, they're anxious to meet the 49ers — a team they lost to 21-3 in the regular season — at the Super Bowl Jan. 24 inside the warm-weather dome of the Pontiac, Mich., Silverdome.

"I can hardly wait," said Bengal punter Pat McNally. "We want to get indoors and show people our high-gear offense."

But even in the bitter, bitter cold

AFC Playoff

Sunday, the Bengal offense didn't stall.

Ken Anderson, the AFC Player of the Year, outdueled the gusting wind to complete 14 of 22 passes for 161 yards and two touchdowns. He was never intercepted, a key factor in the outcome.

San Diego's Dan Fouts managed 15 completions in 28 attempts, but was intercepted twice. And both interceptions killed what appeared to be TD drives. One pass was nabbed at the Bengal six-yard line and the other in the end zone. The Chargers also fumbled the ball away twice — and both set up Bengal scores. Cincinnati had just one turnover, a fumble, but San Diego was unable to capitalize on it. On a day like Sunday, when the wind-chill factor dropped to 59 degrees below zero at game's end, just hanging onto the football was crucial.

"Some turnovers would have helped us," said San Diego coach Don Coryell. "But the Bengals hung onto the ball very well."

"The weather was no excuse," he said. "Football is played in all conditions, always has been and always will be. We were soundly beaten by a very fine team. We just didn't do our job."

Indeed, it was hard to believe that the team which set NFL offensive records this season would score only seven points in the conference championship game.

Cincinnati, as it turned out, scored more than enough points in the first quarter — Jim Breech kicking a 31-yard field goal and Anderson firing an eight-yard TD pass to M.L. Harris for a 10-0 lead.

After San Diego pulled to within 10-7 in the second quarter on Fouts' 33-yard TD strike to Kellen Winslow, the Bengals' 250-pound fullback Pete Johnson crashed over from a yard out for a 17-7 halftime lead.

In the second half, Breech booted a 38-yard field goal and Anderson flipped a three-yard TD pass to Don Bass.

As the Bengals pulled away, the 46,302 fans who huddled in sleeping bags and ski masks at Riverfront Igloo began chanting, "Super Bowl, Super Bowl."

This is the first time in the 14-year history of the franchise that the Bengals have made the Super Bowl. After the game, Anderson, who has played all 11 of his pro seasons for Cincinnati, clutched Bengal founder and general manager Paul Brown and shouted, "We finally made it, didn't we?"

All Souls Stomps Shepherd

Steve Harrison pumped in 15 points Saturday as All Souls successfully opened its basketball season with a 27-17 whipping of Good Shepherd at Bishop Moore High in Orlando.

The Sanford-based school jumped to a 15-3 first half lead and steadily built the bulge until the final buzzer.

On Sunday, the Souls bunch wasn't as fortunate as it ran into a tough St. Johns Vlansey club and was trounced, 44-10. All Souls plays St. James Saturday at Bishop Moore.

Dade Dumps Lady Raiders

It wasn't the grandest way to open a new year.

Miami Dade North turned it on in the second half Saturday to blow away the Lady Raiders of Seminole Community College, 85-45, at SCC.

The Raiders trailed by 13, 35-22, entering the second half when Dade got hot. "The second half we had no offense," said SCC coach Fleana Gallagher. "But Doris Fabrott did a good job on the boards for being just 5-4."

Fabrott, forced into the forward spot by the loss of 6-8 Debra Dyer to grades, collected 10 rebounds. Tina Dragalin led the way with 17 points, while ex-Lake Howell cager Nancy Gitzinski had 10 points.

The Raiders get back into action Tuesday night at Brevard at 7.

Sanford's All Souls School opened its basketball season on Saturday with a 27-17 victory over Good Shepherd. Cheerleaders this year include; front row kneeling, (left to right), Stacy Seckinger, Leslie Lyle and Leanne Sundvall. In the front standing, (left to right), are Renee Buccellato and Lynda Swisher. Holding up the girls in the back row, (left to right), are Paula Volpi, Katie Hook and Linda Knowles. In the back middle holding is co-captain Lisa Crandall and Carrie Stevens. On the left side in the back is Lori Petras. On the right side is Lisa Sundvall.

49ers Overcome 6 Turnovers To Down Dallas On Clark Catch

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers are making their first trip to the National Football League's three-ring circus and no one can say they did it the easy way.

San Francisco turned the ball over six times Sunday, surrendered two king-sized interference penalties which led to touchdowns and found itself 89 yards away from the goal line with time running out and needing a touchdown to whip the most experienced playoff team in NFL history.

But the 49ers did it. Driven by a scrambling quarterback who pulled out the big play when he had to and inspired by the largest crowd in the franchise's history, San Francisco prevailed over the Dallas Cowboys, 28-27, in an NFC championship game that was worthy of the Super Bowl itself.

The 49ers thus advance to Super Bowl XVI and a date in two weeks with the Cincinnati Bengals, who won the AFC title over San Diego, 27-7, in weather only a refrigerator could love.

"It hasn't quite sunk in yet that we are in the Super Bowl," said 49ers quarterback Joe Montana, who completed 22 of 35 passes for 286 yards and three touchdowns. "All I know is that when we got the ball the last time I was confident we could move it. We all were."

Big plays piled up as the afternoon went along and the lead eventually changed hands six times. But the contest came down to San Francisco's ability to drive the length of the field and then make the big defensive play to keep the

NFC Playoff

Cowboys from having a chance at a game-winning field goal.

Trailing, 27-21, the 49ers took over at their own 11 following a Dallas punt with 4:54 to play. Dallas went into its prevent defense — which it calls the 4-0 because there are no linebackers — and San Francisco coach Bill Walsh attacked it with a variety of plays.

There were the short passes for which San Francisco is noted, but there were also runs by Lenov Elliott. After 13 plays the 49ers had moved to Dallas' 6-yard line and it was third down.

Montana went back to pass, rolled to his right looked around and, with a crowd of Cowboys bearing down on him, finally saw Dwight Clark in the back of the end zone. Montana let fly and Clark made a leaping catch.

There were 58 seconds left and Dallas, with its history of comeback victories, quickly stunned the 49ers crowd by moving to the San Francisco 44 with 38 seconds remaining. One more pass and Dallas could have been in field goal range. But Cowboys quarterback Danny White was nailed by Lawrence Pillers and the resulting fumble was recovered by Jim Stuckey.

"Our last drive was typical of the whole season," said Montana. "It was a matter of us scoring when we had to. When I released the ball on the touchdown pass I knew it was high, but I was pretty certain that Clark could get it.

"I don't fear situations like that. I don't welcome them, but if it's there, I'll take it."

The 49ers fumbled the ball away three times and three of Montana's passes were intercepted — two of those pickoffs coming by Everson Walls who attempted to guard Clark on the winning touchdown play.

Dallas overcame an early 7-0 deficit on a field goal of 44 yards by Rafael Septien and a 28-yard touchdown pass from White to Tony Hill. The Cowboys grabbed a 17-14 halftime lead on a 5-yard run by Dorsett (after Lott's first penalty), added a field goal of 22 yards by Septien 52 seconds deep in the fourth quarter and went ahead, 27-31, on a 21-yard throw from White to tight end Doug Coakle.

San Francisco took the early lead on an 8-yard touchdown pass from Montana to Freddie Solomon, scored again on a 20-yarder from Montana to Clark midway through the second quarter and took advantage of an interception by Bobby Leopold at Dallas 13-yard line in the third quarter to score on a 2-yard run by Johnny Davis.

The ebbs and flows of the game left both teams spent, but Dallas was more so because it had failed to make its sixth Super Bowl by a single point. "It's kind of like driving a car off the end of a cliff," said Dallas safety Charlie Waters, who was playing the final game of his 11-year career. "All I will remember is that they drove 89 yards on us."

Pilot's Defense Guides 'Hounds' Past Lions, 70-57

By BRENT SMARTT
Herald Sports Writer

Prep. Basketball

How do you cage a Lion? Well, if you're playing basketball you just don't let it have the ball.

That was the theory of Coach Tom Lawrence and his Lyman Greyhounds as they shut off the Oviedo Lion's for the second time in three tries, 70-57, and raised their record to 8-4 on the year Saturday in Longwood.

Before you can stall you have to build a lead and the hurryin' 'Hounds did just that in the first period, as 'Hounds scoring machine Antoine "Pop" Lemon and his backcourt mate William Scott opened up the running game to jump out to a 14-point margin midway through the quarter.

In the final minutes of the quarter 'Hounds center Eric French began to take charge inside, while Lyman forward James Pilot was shutting off Oviedo "Francise", Ronnie Murphy. Pilot held Murphy to two points as the 'Hounds rolled to a 25-15 margin in the quarter.

The second period started much like the first had, but the Lyman offense quickly made an about face with only 45 seconds gone in the period. The cause of the turnaround was Lyman's French joining starting forward Tom Evans on the bench with three fouls. Evans had sprained his ankle earlier in the first quarter.

With two starters on the bench, Lawrence quickly put the Greyhounds into the 4-corner stall, which lasted throughout the period, and allowed the 'Hounds to maintain a 35-23 lead at intermission.

The stall also aided Pilot in holding Murphy to only six points in the half. Lawrence let the 'Hounds run initially in the third period as Murphy managed to come alive momentarily. At this point, Lawrence once again instructed the 'Hounds to go to the stall again. It lasted the remainder of the period.

The stall allowed Lyman to take a 12 point, 47-35 lead going into the final quarter.

The final eight minutes saw Lawrence turn French, Lemon and Scott loose while Oviedo countered with strong outside shooting by James Hamilton and some Murphy flashes of life, which kept Oviedo away from a blowout.

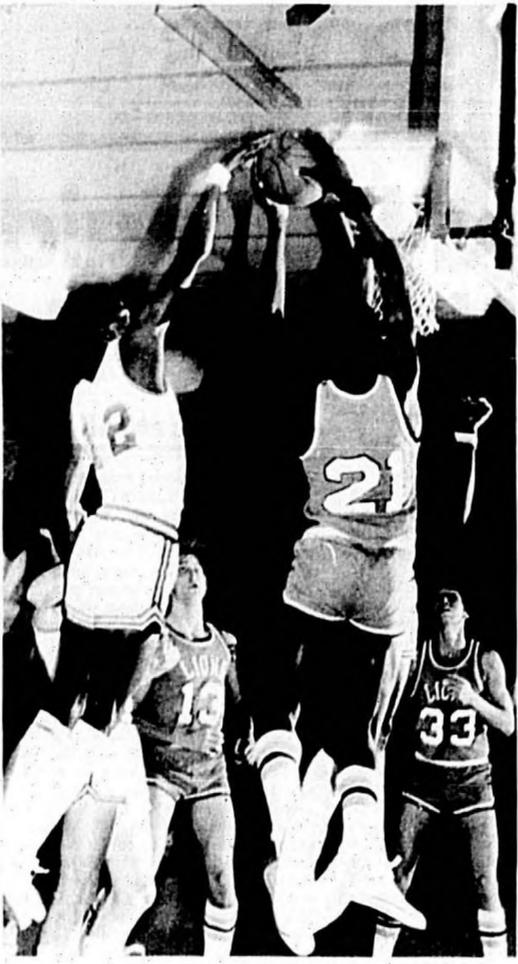

"We didn't make the same mistakes tonight as we did Friday night," exclaimed Lawrence, of Lyman's earlier defeat to Seabreeze. "Our bench did a great job, we can put them in and they don't turnover the ball or foul."

The containment of Murphy surprised Lawrence. "Pilot did a heck of a job, we kept the pressure on all night". Once again it was the big three doing the scoring as Lemon took honors with 22 points followed by French with 20 and Scott's 18. French also had 11 rebounds. Hamilton tallied 18 for the Lions, while Murphy managed 17.

Norman Ready's junior varsity 'Hounds provided the Oviedo sweep as Greg Pilot and Roderic Hillman combined for 27 points in running over the J.V. Lions, 55-35.

The victory upped Ready's squad to 7-2, while being 4-0 in the county. Mike Schwab led the Oviedo cause with 18.

Lyman's William Scott (left) goes high in the air to block a shot by Oviedo's Ronnie Murphy Saturday night at Lyman. The 'Hounds used a stellar defensive effort by James Pilot and a stalling offense to hold the talented Murphy in check. Lyman won, 70-57.

Connors 'Convincing' In Stunner Over McEnroe

ROSEMONT, Ill. (UPI) — The sight was strange. Jimmy Connors was running after John McEnroe trying to convince the world's No. 1 player not to walk out on their championship match.

Connors, ranked No. 3 in the world, must have known something because at the time, he was on the verge of losing to McEnroe but wound up stunning the Wimbledon champion in a dramatic five-set match to win the $310,000 Chicago Men's Tennis tournament, sponsored by Michelob Light.

McEnroe was upset about judge Arthur Leighton's assessing him a misconduct penalty that cost him a critical game in the fourth set of a match that would take more than 4 1/2 hours. McEnroe was leading two sets to one at the time and had stormed off the court in protest.

"I didn't want to win that way and neither would John," Connors noted. Whether the call bothered McEnroe enough to cost him the match and $100,000 first prize, is not known, because McEnroe refused to talk to the press after the match. He received $60,000 for his second-place finish.

Connors went on to win that set 7-5 and rallied from a 4-1 deficit in the deciding set to avenge last year's straight set loss to McEnroe in the inaugural Chicago tournament.

Connors, bidding to regain his No. 1 ranking, posted a 6-7, 7-5, 6-7, 7-5, 6-4 triumph for his second successive victory over McEnroe. Connors had defeated McEnroe in a match last fall in Wembley, England.

As expected, there were fireworks throughout the showdown between the two in addition to McEnroe's near default in the fourth set.

Connors was hit with a delay penalty in the fifth game of the second set. But the umpire reversed himself and Connors went on to win that game and the set.

"I was just standing up for my rights," Connors said.

The third set was nearly a replica of the first with McEnroe winning on a tiebreaker 7-5 after he captured the first set in a similar fashion 11-9.

That set saw Connors jump over the net and approach McEnroe to apparently complain about the 22-year-old's delaying tactics. Connors brushed up against his opponent, waving a finger in his face, and McEnroe brushed it aside. The two had to be separated by linesmen.

"Things like that are bound to happen when you have two people with fiery attitudes," Connors explained. "I've forgotten about it and I hope John has."

But that incident was overshadowed by McEnroe's walking off the court in the 11th game of the fourth set.

Connors walked after McEnroe to try to persuade him to stay. When Connors' efforts initially failed, he decided to walk off the court and tournament sponsors were able to convince both to stay.

"I told him to forget about it and let's keep playing," Connors said.

Outside of the theatrics, the crowd of 7,164 that braved windchills of more than 80 below zero saw red-hot tennis. Connors used consistent passing shots to keep McEnroe away from the net.

The 29-year-old Belleville, Ill., native had little trouble with McEnroe's powerful serve.

"I don't want him to come in on me," Connors said. McEnroe, who had nine aces, but none in the final set, had trouble getting his first service in as the match wore on. However, he still led Connors 4-1 in the final set before Connors broke service twice to win the match.

The two are likely to meet again in this week's Masters tournament in New York. With Bjorn Borg still on the sidelines, a Connors victory in New York City would be another step in his bid to be No. 1.

"I'm playing good tennis and that's my goal," said Connors, who noted his last tournament was three weeks ago in Ecuador where the temperature was 102 — nearly twice what it felt like in Chicago.

Virginia Comes Up Five Minutes Short, UNC Prevails, 65-60

College Basketball

United Press International
Thirty-five from 40 still leaves five. And five minutes was all No. 1 North Carolina needed. The Tar Heels survived a 30-point, 19-rebound performance by Ralph Sampson Saturday to edge No. 2 Virginia 65-60. It was the second time North Carolina has faced a second-ranked team — Kentucky was the other — and UNC's record is still unblemished.

"We played 35 minutes of good basketball," Virginia coach Terry Holland said. "We did the things we had to do. Down the stretch, North Carolina did the things they had to do. We weren't able to regain the momentum. We wanted to keep attacking the basket, but our offense became passive."

But there's no rest for the Tar Heels. On Wednesday they meet No. 15 North Carolina State, 12-1 and a 55-49 victor Saturday over Georgia Tech. The Wolfpack owes much of its success to center Chuck Nevitt, whose key baskets and strong defense were crucial in beating the Yellow Jackets.

Sampson showed his All-America talents, hitting outside shots and dunks. With nine minutes to play, he sparked the Cavaliers to a 9-point lead.

But North Carolina recovered over the next six minutes by collapsing on Sampson and capitalizing on turnovers. With 3:40 to play, Tar Heel forward James Worthy sank a turnaround jumper and put North Carolina up 55-54.

College Basketball

work his way out of the Tar Heels' box-and-one.

With Sampson unable to shake loose, guard Jeff Jones missed 15-footer and Worthy got the rebound. North Carolina killed the clock most of the rest of the time and reserve guard Jim Braddock made several free throws to seal it.

In other games involving Top 10 teams, No. 3 Kentucky fell to Tennessee 70-66; No. 4 DePaul topped Dayton 71-69; No. 5 Missouri downed Colorado 72-50; No. 6 Minnesota beat Michigan State 64-58; No. 7 Iowa defeated Illinois 56-50; No. 8 Louisville lost to Virginia Tech 75-74 in overtime; No. 9 Georgetown downed Boston College 67-51; and No. 10 San Francisco edged South Carolina 72-71 in overtime.

At Knoxville, Tenn., Michael Brooks, who finished with 19 points, hit 4 free throws in the final three minutes to help Tennessee to an upset. It was the third triumph and second straight upset for Tennessee, which last Saturday beat Alabama 88-67.

At Rosemont, Ill., George Morrison's two missed free throws with four seconds left helped DePaul prevail in Ray Meyer's 1,000th game as Blue Demons' coach. Skip Dillard led DePaul with 18 points. Mike Kanisaki paced the Flyers, 9-3, with 20 points.

At Boulder, Colo., Ricky Frazier and Steve Sipanovich, despite being benched with foul problems in the first half, combined for 26 points to lead Missouri in a Big Eight game.

Miss Byrd, J.H. Steinmetz Repeat Vows

Melanie Suzan Byrd and John Henry Steinmetz were married Nov. 14, at 7 p.m., at the Altamonte Historical Chapel, Altamonte Springs. The Rev. Wayne Smith performed the candlelight and double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex A. Byrd, 280 First St., Lake Mary. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. Dean A. and Catherine Melach Smith, Chicago and Sanford, and Mrs. Rosa L. and the late Elbert V. Byrd Sr. of Sanford. The bride is the great granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Melach Sr., Sanford pioneers.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinmetz, 118 E. Jinkins Circle, Sanford.

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride chose for her vows a white bridal satin knit original gown. Fashioned along the princess silhouette, the gown featured a Queen Anne neckline.

The bride's headpiece, hand made by her mother, was designed with a tall lace tiara securing the veil of illusion, edged in scalloped lace embellished with tiny seed pearls and iridescents. She carried a white silk arrangement interspersed with burgundy roses.

Charlene Conley of Lake Mary, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a dusty rose gown with a sheer burgundy print overblouse. Her flowers were a dusty rose and burgundy silk keepsake arrangement centered with a crystal clear hurricane candle.

Bridemaids were Catherine Taylor, sister of the bride, Sanford; and Barbara Muroski, Orlando. Their gowns and flowers were similar to the honor attendants.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Joseph DeSmet, Lake Mary and U.S. Navy, Philadelphia. Ushers were Richard

MR. AND MRS. JOHN HENRY STEINMETZ
Byrd, brother of the bride, and Bob Pike. David Steinmetz, brother of the bridegroom, and Mike Russell were the groomsmen.

Following a reception at the Sanora Clubhouse, the newlyweds departed for a cruise to the Bahama Islands.

The couple are making their home in Sanford where the bride is a laboratory technologist at Seminole Memorial Hospital and the bridegroom is assistant printer in the print shop at Seminole Community College.

Mrs. Barbara McKenna, the secretary at Red Bug Elementary, and her husband, Timothy, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary by taking a trip to Hawaii during the holidays.

Tim's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Terry McKenna from Hackettstown, N.J., also went along on the trip.

There is a special reason the brother wanted to share this vacation. In 1978, Terry donated one of his kidneys to support Tim. After three years the kidney is doing fine.

The McKennas spent their week on Waikiki Island. Although they didn't get to see everything, they did see Volcano and Diamond Head.

The trip was a success and Barbara said they all had a good time.

Tusawilla Middle School will have a skating party on Jan. 13, from 7-9 p.m. at Semerone Skate Way. It is open to school members only.

Don Golder, owner of Big Red Q Quick-print (the Winter Springs Post Office) is celebrating his birthday on Jan. 15.

Kristi Burns will be 11 years old on Jan. 21. Kristi's parents, Joyce and Bob Burns, will celebrate their nineteenth wedding anniversary on Jan. 18.

The Tusawilla Women's Club will meet Jan 14 at New Life Fellowship Church at 8 p.m. There will be a general meeting along with a microwave demonstration given by a representative from Belows.

Seminole County ACLD (Association of Children with Learning Disabilities) will meet on Jan. 11, at 7:30 p.m., at Winter Springs Elementary.

Dr. Steve Jordan, child psychologist from Winter Park will be the guest speaker. Dr. Jordan will speak on how a child can use all his senses to help overcome his learning disability.

There will be a question and answer session at the end of the meeting. For more information about ACLD call me at 327-0378.

Mate's 'How I Really Feel' Poem Gets Mixed Reviews

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for printing that wonderful poem, "How I Really Feel." It was written by a man who had been seeing another woman. His wife found it in the pocket of his jacket.

Abby, I read it over and over and haven't been able to get it out of my mind all day. It expressed so beautifully how he felt. He was trying to tell his wife that sex with her was clean and sacred — that he really loved her, but the animal in him could not resist lusting after a whore.

My husband confessed that he, too, on occasion had felt the need to go to prostitutes. I know the flesh in men is weak and the urge is strong, and even though his actions hurt me deeply, I still love him with all my heart.

FEELING BETTER, TOO

DEAR FEELING: That poem certainly got mixed reviews. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: That corny poem you ran today freaked me out!! I wonder how that cheating creep would feel if he found a poem in his wife's purse that read:

"He makes me feel dirty and guilty. My husband makes me feel clean again.

"I hid when I'm with him. I'm proud to be seen with my husband.

"I know he's a gigolo. I know my husband is a gentleman. "My feeling for him is lust. My feeling for my husband is love.

"He only satisfies the animal in me. I am secure in my husband's love."

He'd probably kick her out of the house and into the next county!

Abby, please don't put any more junk like that in your column!

DISGUSTED IN DOVER, DEL.

DEAR ABBY: I am angry. "Needs an Introduction" wrote to say that she has the feeling that God had put her on earth to love and fulfill the needs of someone Barry Manilow or Burt Reynolds — all she needs is an introduction. Your answer was perfect. ("If the Lord wants you to meet either one of these gentlemen, trust him to provide the introduction.")

Abby, her chances for meeting Barry or Burt are nil. She said, "I am not a fat, ugly, old woman, I am an attractive 22-year-old girl who has no trouble getting dates." How dare she judge other women in terms of her standards? Someone she thinks is fat and ugly might be just right for somebody else. And the same goes for age. Who is she to judge what age a woman should be to appeal to Barry and Burt?

She showed what kind of person she was in her letter, and no way will God ever introduce her to either one of these gentlemen.

That letter hurt me inside.

BARBARA

DEAR ABBY: When you were asked the difference between a psychiatrist and a psychologist, you should have replied, "Somewhere between $25 and $35 an hour."

HAD BOTH IN PASADENA

Everybody needs friends. For some practical tips on how to be popular, get Abby's Popularity booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed stamped (37 cents) envelope to Abby, Popularity, 12000 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 3000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250.

DEAR ABBY: This is for PATTY IN TACOMA, who's 25 and looks like 17: Be patient and keep your sense of humor. When you're 30, and people are trying to figure out whether you're a second wife or had your children when you were 13, you'll get your revenge!

Although I've outgrown Patty's problem and my face has finally caught up to my age, my voice has not. Abby, please tell telephone salesmen that if they don't want to blow their chances for a sale, to stop asking whoever says "Hello" if her mother is home.

I just say "NO," and hang up!

Demos Rap Reagan On Recession

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House Speaker Thomas O'Neill predicts unemployment, which hit a staggering 8.9 percent last month, will continue to climb—fueled in part by what he calls the "Reagan recession."

It is a gloomy prediction, one Democrats see looming under President Reagan's economic program. And, they say, it will be a key issue in this fall's congressional election.

The Labor Department Friday reported the unemployment rate up half a point to 8.9 percent in December, with nearly 9.5 million Americans out of work, including the most adult males since World War II.

The jobless rate is now only fractionally below the 9 percent rate recorded in May 1975, the depth of the 1974-75 recession.

Afterwards, O'Neill told a news conference, "I'll be amazed by March if these figures aren't 9.5 percent ... and maybe higher."

He said, "The same Ronald Reagan who campaigned quoting Franklin Delano Roosevelt has built his administration on the programs of Herbert Hoover."

"This recession is the Reagan recession," he said. "It is the direct result of Reagan tight money and Reagan high interest rates. It is a direct result of the same unfair 'trickle-down' tax policies."

At the White House, deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Reagan "is deeply sensitive to this problem" and indicated it might be well into 1982 before much improvement occurs.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Limiting Calcium Not A Good Idea

DEAR DR. LAMB - A year ago I suddenly developed a kidney stone without warning. The stone dropped enough so that the urologist went up into the tube and removed the stone. He has instructed no milk products. I was taking vitamin C because when I get a cold, I get rather severe ones. Now he says no more Vitamin C because it can contribute to the kidney stone formation.

The lack of calcium leaves me subject to osteoporosis. I have also been taking antacids for stomach acid and these contributed to a dental problem. The dentist says to try to discontinue the antacids as much as possible. Am I borrowing trouble? Is there anything I can take so I won't have calcium depletion that will cause me to have osteoporosis? I'm 65 years old and know that I am in the age group to develop such problems.

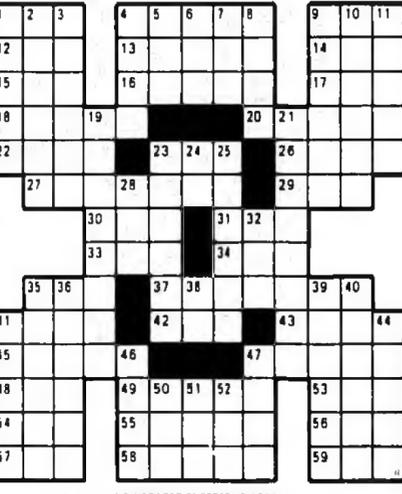

DEAR READER - It is certainly true that women who are on calcium-deficient diets are more likely to develop osteoporosis (dissolving of the bones). If you don't get enough calcium in your diet and your body needs calcium, the calcium is simply taken out of your bones. That is the reason why calcium restriction in the treatment of kidney stones leaves a lot to be desired. The calcium level in the blood is kept almost unchanged regardless of how much calcium is in your diet unless you have an endocrine disorder (which can happen).

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 67-year-old female. Recently I took a flight to New York and about three days after I returned I noticed some bleeding from the vaginal area. I have heard other women have experienced this same symptom. Since I had a hysterectomy more than 20 years ago this seems impossible. Then I read that changes in atmosphere could cause bursting of incisions, increased pain of abscessed teeth and other problems. My doctor says it was not unusual after the menopause or I may have popped an external hemorrhoid. Please advise as I would like to make other trips.

disputed and I am sending The Health Letter number 11-2, Kidney Stones: Treatment Has Changed, to give you the other view.

If you have a struvite stone, and women are more prone to have this form, it may be caused by an infection and calcium restriction is important in these cases. See a specialist in internal medicine who treats medical renal patients for a second opinion.

DEAR READER - You did the right thing in seeing your doctor. Everyone with unexplained bleeding should. Gases in your tissue and in closed spaces will expand as you are exposed to altitude. But the change has to be far more than you experienced in commercial air flights to rupture any previous incisions. Our bodies are normally exposed to 15 pounds of atmospheric pressure per square inch. The maximum change in pressure you had would have been four pounds per square inch.

HOROSCOPE

By BEHNICE BEDE OSOL

For Tuesday, January 12, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY

January 12, 1982
Although the coming year may bring some restrictive conditions, don't let this overwhelm you. Your opportunities to become more independent and mobile are waiting in the wings.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you could step out of character and make thoughtful remarks about a friend. Fortunately, this person is a forgiving soul and will pardon your comments. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in each of the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be very careful about making snap judgments in business or money matters today. If you take time to study things, you'll see what you initially overlooked.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do not select companions today on the basis of what they can do for you. It's not the proper foundation upon which to build a lasting relationship.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Lady Luck will back you in specific areas today, but she might ignore you completely in dealings with associates and co-workers.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Take time to enjoy yourself today, but not to the extent where you disregard your work and responsibilities. Negligence will cause complications.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Events and outsiders could disrupt your schedule and routine today, but try not to let it rattle you. Keep a cool head. You'll be able to sort things out.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you have had a misunderstanding with a family member or a co-worker, try to patch things up today. Constructive action heals scars.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Financial conditions are apt to be mixed for you today, because in some instances you may use unwise or impulsive judgments. Fortunately, your mistakes are all correctable.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your optimism and positive attitude could be put to the test today, but if you persist in thinking "win," you will. Be helpful regardless of what occurs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be wary today of putting obstacles in your own path. There's a chance you might make things harder for yourself than they need be. Lady Luck won't let you down.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You might feel today that you're doing everything for others and getting little or nothing in return. This may be true now, but the wheel will turn shortly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) You could become so immersed in self-interest today that you'll fail to recognize the help of others and think they are being selfish, when perhaps it's you.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Alan: "The hand looks as if someone made it up as a problem, but it really was dealt with properly."

Oswald: "The bidding in the box took place at both tables. We like the bidding. West's six diamond opening may not be scientific, but it certainly is a good bid and we can't fault the East players for raising to seven with the ace of trumps and other goodies."

Alan: "Both North players opened the heart ace. Declarer ruffed, cashed the ace of clubs, ruffed a club, discarded a club on the ace of spades, ruffed back to his hand, ruffed his last low club with the ace of trumps, ruffed back to his hand, drew trumps and claimed. East's raise to seven was a very good bid, but a trump lead would have defeated the contract since only one club could have been ruffed."

Oswald: "I am reminded of a story about the late Charley Lochridge. In an unimportant game Charley had told his partner never to raise him under any circumstances. Things went well until Charley opened six diamonds only to go down one at seven when partner rebelled and raised him with two aces and the queen of trumps."
