Jan Bat'a Envisions Factory To Build Millions Of Shoes

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
 BELCAMP, Md., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Bright winter sunlight floods through the huge shoe factory window, and the girl in the factory is an active 18-year old says "I like the work fine."

But upstairs—inside a room with the sign "Keep closed this door"—two boys—also Americans say the work is too monotonous.

The brick-and-mortar factory is the "second Zia" of Jan Bat'a, a Czech refugee with jobs in his pocket, and a vision of the world as four billion human feet.

Bat'a says Belcamp may become the international headquarters of his $375,000,000 shoe industry, replacing his center at Zia in former Czechoslovakia.

But he threatens to close down the United States government holds to an order to send home 62 of his 72 Czech instructors.

Immigration Commissioner James L. Houghaling says American workers can perform the supervisory jobs for which Bat'a insists he needs his countrymen.

Most of the 800 employees here, half of them girls, are high-school graduates. Scarcely any of them are over 20. Few know of the second paternalistic plan Jan Bat'a has for them in buildings unshrouding up on the flat fields overlooking the Bush River, 20 miles from Baltimore. Only last July the fields were vacant.

Two hundred yards from the factory is an unfinished combination hotel, cafeteria, and stores, and farther off are 20 snug little back double houses. Down a road is rising a three-story office building, and peering in the woods to the home of Bat'a, his wife, and four young children.

In plans are a school for workers, three more community buildings, eight more factory units, an administration building, and still more homes.

Bat'a is a six-footer, blond, blue-eyed, thick in girls, almost smiling in gait. He is friendly but cheerful.

"There are 2,000,000,000 people in the world," he says. "Only 100,000,000 wear shoes. I want to put shoes on the rest."

He would do it by mass production of cheap shoes, an idea borrowed from America, by the late Thomas Bat'a, his half-brother and founder of the firm—Hilary took Austria, Bat'a's funds, once in a Vienna bank, had been whisked to safety. When Czechoslovakia fell, Bat'a fled by airplane.

An estimated $2,000,000 already is invested here, and it was "all cash" with no American backers.

The initial plan was for a $10,000,000 factory employing 50,000 workers, to make shoes for North, Central and South America. When war stopped production in Bat'a's 15 European plants, he contemplated making here most of the 50,000,000 pairs of shoes exported annually to his 75 agencies throughout the world.

At one assembly line there is a sign "Department 421. Foreman Polasek. We make today 720 pairs."

"The conveyor belt is 90 feet long, shaped like a lax rubber band. It consists of a metal tray and two rows of holders for shoes. On each side are machines and workers. The belt jerks along slowly, and the worker takes a shoe, does his little job, puts the shoe back."

"These workers started last September, producing 50 pairs a day. They will soon make 1,000, says Vladimir Chlud, production manager. They work steadily, not hurriedly.

"They learn fast. Yes, perhaps better than other nationalities," Chlud says.

A few Czechs are in the room, showing young workers how to do their jobs. A machine breaks

MOTHER, SON WIN AT GOLF

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Feb. 12.—It's not always "like father like son." Mrs. F. William Berry and her son, William, won first place in a mixed Scotch foursome of the Stanley Golf club to dispute the old adage.

"See," says Chlud. "There is one reason we need these instructors. Most of these machines we make ourselves. It is not like other shoe factories, where the machines are leased, where you do not have this same assembly line method."

The Sucker Is To Blame

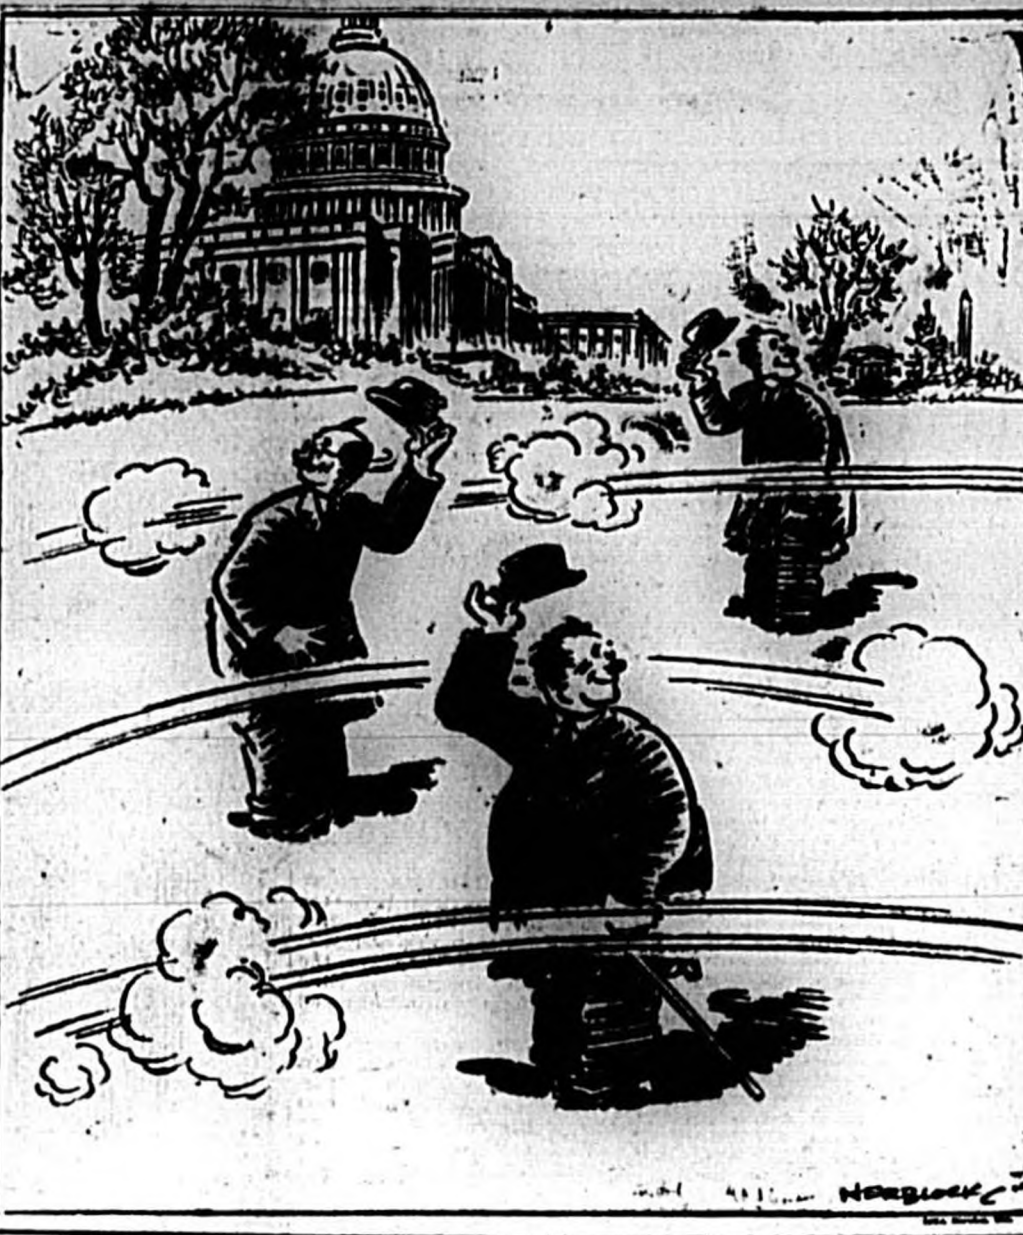

Recently in Miami, a "Professor" from somewhere or other lost $200 to a pair of confidence men with whom he became friendly. According to the story in the Miami papers, the Professor was accosted by a "nice-looking" stranger and engaged in conversation that led to their taking a stroll together in Bayfront Park...

Then came a quarrel between the two "nice-looking" gentlemen about the so-called cheating the second one had done. Next the Professor was asked to advance a few pennies for his friend to try his luck again. The Professor took a roll of $200 from his pocket which the second "nice-looking" man snatched and ran away with...

Every winter there are confidence games played in Florida, just as they are played every summer in northern resorts, and to make them possible there must be "customers"—must be suckers who are probably just as much ready to get something for nothing, and just about as much ready to "clean up" in some sub-rosa quick-profits scheme as are the "nice-looking" gentlemen with whom they fraternize.

Every respectable citizen in Florida regrets to have visitors fleeced of their money, but no intelligent person can feel much sympathy for a sucker who is ready to go into a shady deal, or who is stupid enough to be fooled by professional sharpers.—Melbourne Times.

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 17.—(AP) Detectives were busy yesterday seeking to solve another robbery in the Blackstone Hotel, where a year ago they were at work on a sensational holdup by a gang armed with a machine gun. They took only $27 in cash and $300 in travelers checks from the room of Irving Gleason of Akron, Ohio, Carpenter said.

Polio May Strike Anywhere At Any Time, Writer Says

BY Howard W. Blakelee NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Among the few sure facts about infantile paralysis are these: 1. The disease will strike America in epidemic outbreaks this year—it always does. 2. No one can predict where. There is no sure preventive. The thing that causes infantile paralysis is one of the two smallest known enemies of man. It is a particle, called a virus, about one two-hundred-fifty-thousandth of an inch in diameter. The infantile particle last year made 7,298 American children ill. This number is small, but not in aftermath, for at least 25 per cent of these youngsters were paralyzed, with after-care costs of about $1,000 a year each. The aftermath used to be reckoned at 50 per cent. Years of medical effort at good care have cut that to 25 per cent in favorable situations. One other basic fact about the disease has been brought out by the years of medical effort: The virus hides in the body where there is no way of reaching it effectively. It travels inside nerves. Serums and chemicals do not get inside nerve cells, and that is why all have failed to date. "Entirely new lines of attack will have to be devised if this disease is to be conquered," says E. W. Sabin, M. D., of Stanford University. He is one of the group which developed the only new weapon now on hand. This is zinc sulfate, dropped into the nose, as a hope of temporary immunity during epidemics. The virus apparently enters the body only through the exposed ends of olfactory nerves. The search for a new gateway preventive began in 1932. The first promise of success came in 1936 when Doctors C. Armstrong and W. T. Harrison, of the U. S. Public Health Service, tried alum in an Alabama outbreak. Next, the Stanford group discovered that zinc sulfate is a much more lasting preventive in monkeys. The zinc was tried in Toronto in 1937. Neither was an accepted success, and for an unexpected reason. Sprays used in these epidemics failed to put the chemicals where they would infallibly cover the olfactory nerves. But after these epidemics, it was discovered that simply dropping the chemicals in the nose with the head virtually upside down, was completely effective. This new method was tried, with zinc sulfate, in Nicaragua in 1938. Used on about 4,500 persons it apparently halted that epidemic. But the number was too small to provide a basis for drawing conclusions. Meanwhile, it has been learned that in zinc sulfate there may be a definite threat of permanent damage to the sense of smell. The Stanford scientists are now looking for a chemical which may be entirely free of this risk. Just as 1939 was ending, at Columbus, Ohio, Dr. Albert H. Sabin reported to scientists evidence that the human body has some of immunity against disease. To investigate the possibility of its infantile paralysis, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis gave Dr. Sabin a grant of money. In addition, the foundation is financing 42 other studies.

Political Situation 1940 Takes Shape

It is indeed an important year as far as elections are concerned. The president's race, of course, is the most important, and the senators, congressmen, governors play a leading role in the always interesting American politics. Thirty-four of the forty-six senators are seeking reelection (at least most of them). The greatest percentage of the congressmen are also seeking reelection this year. Thirty-four of the forty-eight governors have their terms expire in 1941. Let us glance at some of the political situations and the political situation in each state.

ALABAMA: (Dem.) Governor Henry F. Ashurst (D) and Senator T. Jones are faced with re-election problems as are Alabama's congressmen. Ashurst has been admitted to the United States Senate.

KANSAS: (Dem.) Gov. Carl Hayden (D), father of nine children, is retiring in 1941. He is running for re-election in 1940. Senator W. W. Carver (D) is also retiring in 1941. Many of the congressmen are running for reelection.

ARIZONA: (Dem.) Governor Henry F. Ashurst (D) and Senator T. Jones are faced with re-election problems as are Arizona's congressmen. Ashurst has been admitted to the United States Senate.

KANSAS: (Dem.) Gov. Carl Hayden (D), father of nine children, is retiring in 1941. He is running for re-election in 1940. Senator W. W. Carver (D) is also retiring in 1941. Many of the congressmen are running for reelection.

CALIFORNIA: (Rep.) Gov. Charles W. Johnson (R) and Senator W. W. Carver (D) are seeking reelection. Johnson is expected to be re-elected easily.

NEW HAMPSHIRE: (Rep.) Sen. Francis P. Murphy (R) is expected to seek his third term as governor. He is expected to be re-elected easily.

NEW JERSEY: (Rep.) Gov. A. Harry Moore (D), member of Hague's "machine" and Sen. W. Warren Barbour (R) are leaders in the respective party seeking control of the state.

NEW MEXICO: (Dem.) Sen. Dennis Chavez (D) seeks another term. Gov. John E. Miles is prevented from doing so by state law. He has not announced his future plans.

NEW YORK: (Dem.) Sen. James M. Mead (D) and the majority of the congressmen hope to keep the U. S. leading state in the democratic power.

NORTH CAROLINA: (Dem.) Only Gov. Clyde R. Hoey (D) and congressman have to "run" and "about" to the people this year. Sen. Robert E. Reynolds (D) and Sen. Joseph W. Bailey (D) have to begin in a few years.

NORTH DAKOTA: (Rep.) Gov. John Moses (D) and Sen. Lynn Frazier (R) are to be re-elected this year.

OHIO: (Rep.) Gov. John W. Bricker (R), republican "dark horse" for president, and Sen. A. V. (Vic) Donahoe (D) hope to gain control of the state for their respective parties.

OKLAHOMA: (Dem.) Nothing at stake only few congressmen seek reelection.

PENNSYLVANIA: (Rep.) Sen. Joseph P. Quinlan (D) hopes to regain his lost prestige and power. He lost control of the state in 1932 to the republicans, headed by Gov. Arthur H. James (R) and Moses Amersberg who owns the Philadelphia "Inquirer".

RHODE ISLAND: (Rep.) Rich Gov. William H. Vanderbil (R) and Sen. Peter G. Gerry (D) are the contestants of the re-election.

SOUTH CAROLINA: (Dem.) Gov. Olin D. Johnston (D) and Sen. James P. Byrnes (D) have until 1941.

SOUTH DAKOTA: (Rep.) As South Carolina, only congressmen are running. Gov. Harlan J. Phillips (R) and Senator J. William Clayton (R) are running for reelection.

MISSISSIPPI: (Dem.) Only important race is for senator in which Theodore G. Bilbo (D), who has served three terms as governor, is running. He is expected to be re-elected easily.

MISSOURI: (Dem.) Gov. Lloyd C. Stark (D), presidential aspirant, and Sen. Harry S. Truman, President-elect, may oppose each other for senator.

MONTANA: (Dem.) Gov. Roy Avers (D) and Sen. Burton L. Wheeler (D) who is a leading presidential possibility have their terms expire this year.

NEBRASKA: (Dem.) Gov. Roy L. Cochran, who has had three two-year terms, and colorful Sen. Edward E. Burke, both democrats and both having their terms expire in 1941. They are outcasts in their state only by Sen. George W. Norris (Ind.), veteran and ranking member of the Senate who, however, may oppose each other for senator.

NEVADA: (Dem.) Sen. Key Pittman (D), president pro tem of the Senate, is expected to be re-elected easily.

Question Posed As To Whether Roosevelt Will Seek Third Term

Will Roosevelt seek a third term? This question is bothering many people—rich and poor. He does not give the slightest hint as to whether or not he will run. Now we will speak of some of the reasons why he should not.

The reasons why he should not are numerous. Continually related is the one that he is the most competent man to face the many crises that are arising here and abroad. He has great knowledge on the condition of the foreign affairs and has ceased the tension between our nation and others time after time. He also has vast information on the ever important welfare of the country. With these facts, he could probably "better" the conditions of the great number of underprivileged. Also a reason should be a third term is that he has many wonderful projects (C. C. U. W. F. A. N. Y. A.) which might be discontinued if he failed to seek and win a third term. He has done many things to aid the people and with a prosperous year in sight, he could do much more. He has given us good schools, good roads, good playgrounds, and many other worthy things. All of these are not forgotten and they are the foundation for the clubs of the "Roosevelt-For-Third-Term" campaigners.

The reasons for not seeking a third term are just as numerous. First is tradition. No president has sought a third term successfully. If he sought reelection, the first thought in the minds of the people would be fear of dictatorship. They do not want a dictatorship and although they might want Roosevelt for a third term, they would vote against him to keep him from becoming a "supposed" dictator. The next reason is economical. He has not balanced the budget during his term of seven years by millions and even billions of dollars. The national debt is "scandalous" and would probably be worse. He does not get along with Congress and a president who does not get along with Congress is like a hospital without doctors and nurses. He can not function and can not accomplish much. There are many minor reasons, but these are undoubtedly the most basic.

With these reasons, pro and con, you can see the problem facing him. What are his plans? Will he upset the precedent? These questions and many others are "popping up" throughout the nation. But one and only one person, the Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, can answer the question as to whether or not he will run again.

Model Planes Lost At Sanford Airport

Every Sunday afternoon at the Sanford airport, model planes take to the air. Last Sunday two planes were lost. A rubber powered jabberwock (a small orange and black monoplane) was caught in the thermal and called out of sight. Earl Jeter's gas powered model climbed out of sight with a stuck timer. It is a red and yellow monoplane with the name Mr. Orrie printed on it. If you have found either of these please notify Earl Jeter. The next reason is economical. He has not balanced the budget during his term of seven years by millions and even billions of dollars. The national debt is "scandalous" and would probably be worse. He does not get along with Congress and a president who does not get along with Congress is like a hospital without doctors and nurses. He can not function and can not accomplish much. There are many minor reasons, but these are undoubtedly the most basic.

With these reasons, pro and con, you can see the problem facing him. What are his plans? Will he upset the precedent? These questions and many others are "popping up" throughout the nation. But one and only one person, the Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, can answer the question as to whether or not he will run again.

Valentine Day's Origin Goes Back Many Centuries

During the second week of February when candy and flirtatious looks are usually abounds with hearts and every magazine newspaper is couched with romantic verse, we wonder what is the origin of the day on which we send messages of love, affection, or burlesque to our loved ones. Saint Valentine, for whom this day was named was a bishop and martyr of the church who was put to death for his faith on Feb. 14, 270.

The custom of choosing valentines on this day is considerably ancient. It was an old belief that birds began courting more or less on the day of St. Valentine's Day. Young people used to meet there was a number of names of the opposite sex put together in a treecle. Drawing one by one each gentleman thus got a lady for his valentine and he became the valentine of a lady whose name he drew.

Students Instructed In Library Science

Seminole High School students have been enjoying some very interesting lectures on Library Science conducted by Miss Edna Chittenden.

She discussed courtesy in the library which all students should observe. Some of the points she spoke of are: follow; speak softly; step lightly; push chairs back quietly; talk only when necessary; return books promptly; and never take books without having a record made.

The next subject was the arrangement of books by classes. She stated that all of the books on one subject are kept together and related subjects near each other. For example, all histories are together, all histories of all European countries are near each other.

To keep books in order and to make it easy to find them all the books on the same subject have the same mark. This number on a book shows the book's place on the shelves.

She told us that the Dewey of Decimals system is used in the school library. This system is the most widely used and it is invented by Melville Dewey. A catalog number stands for each subject and all books about that subject are marked with that number.

Other subjects discussed were: The Care of Books and The Parts of a Book such as the preface, table of contents, introduction, appendix and index.

Whitey Campbell To Head Lookouts

Announcement Ends Rumors As To Pilot Of Sanford Team This Year

Contracts Are Sent To Nine Players; Catcher, First Sacker, Right Fielder Are Needed

Lyon "Whitey" Campbell, star second sacker for the Sanford Lookouts last year, has been named to manage the local baseball team this season, officials of the Seminole County Baseball Association announced today. The announcement brings to an end numerous rumors as to who will act as pilot for the 1934 edition of the Lookouts.

Campbell will assume the job that was held down last season by Dale Alexander, former American League hitting champion, who led the Lookouts to the state league pennant, and won the playoffs, later defeating Albany of the Georgia-Florida League. Alexander, champion of the Sally League, and a group of Miami all-star semi-pros.

Rollins College Defeats Southern By 59 To 27 Score

ORLANDO, Feb. 17.—Jumping into a safe lead early in the game, Rollins College coasted through to an easy 59-27 victory over Florida Southern College in an intra-State basketball game last night on the Rollins court.

The win was the eighth against three losses for Rollins this season. The Tar cagers have three games remaining on their schedule.

The Rollins squad travels to St. Petersburg for a game with St. Petersburg Junior College tonight.

Big Leonard Phillips, towering Rollins pivotman, sank a total of 21 points last night to lead the victors and grab off high scoring honors for the game.

CHALKING 'EM UP

With CHARLIE CHALKER

Looks as though the baseball season is rapidly drawing to its open date with the arrival in Orlando of the first contingent of lookouts for the Washington Senators. . . Among them was Sid Hudson, lanky hurling star of the Sanford Lookouts last year, whom we confidently expect to see stick with Washington this year. . . Grover Williams, Doc Lane's toastmaster par excellence, predicts Sid will make the grade. . . Dix Dean is another of Sanford's stars of last year who will be with Sid in the Nat's training camp. . . Dean will probably take a tour of duty with Charlotte this year. . . Unless he shows more stuff than the Senator bosses think he can show. . . And he may surprise them. . . When the Dean is good, he's very, very good, as some of the Florida State League players who swung futilely at his fast one will attest. . . The name of the Sanford Lookouts will be changed this year, according to the most reliable information we can get at this time. . . Too many memories of one, Joe Engel, in that moniker. . . Understand the bigwigs of the Sanford club plan a contest to pick a new name. . . Whatever it is, we hope it is appropriate. . . And we hope they remember Seminole County grows something besides celery. . . Ben Cantwell, who has been an aide-de-camp at the Joe Strupp College of Baseball for the past several weeks, will leave tomorrow for Oakland, Cal., where he will again team the horseshoe sphere in the Pacific Coast League. . . The Mrs. and the four-month old daughter will be company. . . Lefty Frank Hudson, upon whom will fall a heavy portion of hurling duties for Sanford this year, blew into town the other day to have a talk with Charley Bradshaw and Frank Lamson. . . Hudson had an operation to his eye to remove the cataract that obscured his vision. . . Frank said he could see much better now but more time will be needed before he will be able to see completely out of the one bad eye. . . He probably will wear glasses. . . News dispatches this week from Thomasville confirmed a rumor that big Dale Alexander who managed Sanford last season will act as pilot there this year. . . We wish the big fellow plenty of success but we believe he'll miss having Sid Hudson, Cleo Jeter, and Dix Dean on his staff. . . The Sporting News for this week carries an article setting forth the formation of a Southeast Florida league of six cities on the lower southeastern coast. . . The six cities which will be in the league are Fort Pierce, West Palm Beach, Hollywood, Fort Lauderdale, Miami, and Miami Beach. . . Judge Gordon Lynne, West Palm Beach attorney, has been named president. . . We'd like to see the lion be a success. . . The City has done quite a bit of work on the Ball Park and the field is already in great shape. . . We hope the City fathers see fit to enlarge the press box down in front of the stands or else fix up the old ones so they will be suitable. . . When Sam Butz came down from Jacksonville to cover the All-Star game, he sat in the pressbox and battered out his copy—but when he got out, his usual lanky appearance had the semblance of a corker.
