civil court.

The money initially budgeted for the circuit civil mediation program has ballooned from $10,565 in the 1993-93 year budget to a projected budget for 1994-95 of $73,408. Money for the arbitration/mediation type program comes from an additional $5 service charge collected when circuit civil cases or county civil cases are filed. There is a $45 service charge on any petition for medification of final dissolution (of marriage) to defray family mediation services. Besides the collection of fees and rollovers from year-to-year, interest earned on the unspent money adds to the funds.

Family mediation had a $188,644 budget for 1993-94 and $168,864 remained unspent as of Sept. 15. The county civil mediation budget was $21,090 with $8,217 remaining in mid-September. A total of $64,886 was in the circuit civil mediation fund last month.

"We already have a pretty good mediation system," Eaton commented, "because there are a lot of mediators around that do civil mediation. The problem is, is that most of those cases are cases where there's a bunch of money involved.

Lake Mary to clarify bar, restaurant issue tonight

By MCK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - Specific identifications of businesses serving alcoholic beverages have not been clarified in Lake Mary. An ordinance is to be presented on first reading at tonight's city commission meeting. which is aimed at clarifying a number of points.

Most of the confusion connected with interpreting various laws already on the books, concerns differences between establishments such as restaurants which serve alcohol, or bars which serve food. Some establishments, such as night clubs or cocktail lounges may serve both. Under which laws therefore, are they governed?

The city already has laws governing eating establishments, and bars. Generally, they have been separate from each other. With the mixture of the two businesses however what is now considered what, is the main problem.

City Planner Matt West has been

Entomologist finds new use, polymers

And Richard Levy's invention comes from dispers.
"Six or seven years ago, I saw this television commercial where they stuck this baby in some water, and his disper kept him dry," Levy said. "I thought, "Gee, what's sucking that water up? I did some research and found out it was polymers."

It was then that the research entomologist for the Lee County Monquiso Control District realised the capacity of polymers. His pesticide-annied polymers can be dried, shaped, and placed in monquiso-breeding areas during the dry season.

Fisheries panel looks at turtle protections

Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - The Marine Pisheries Commission is again seking Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet to ban gill net fishing from a section of the east coast from January through May to protect sea turtles.

The panel unanimously voted Wednesday for a rule to ban gill net fishing during that time within one mile of the Brevard. Indian River, St. Lucie and Martin County shores, said commission pokesman Lee Schlesinger.

We're still showing some significant mortalities of turties in that area and now the Department of Environmental Protection has requested this," Schlesinger

The commission will hold a public hearing on the rule in November in Tampa, and it could go before the Cabinet in December, he said. Bob Jones of the South-castern Fisheries Association said the commercial fishing industry group would oppose the rule at the public hearing and might challenge it in court.

The rule would affect at least 50 to 75 commercial fishing enterprises. Jones estimated. It'll close down fish houses.

It's just a poor rule."

The commission approved the proposal at a Fort Myers meeting after receiving reports of continued turtle strandings off Florida's cast coast.

Sixty-five green turtle strandings were recorded through August of this year off Brevard. Indian River, St. Lucie and Martin counties. compared with 40 for January-August 1993 and 45 in the same period in 1992, according to a Florida Marine Research institute report.

Voter campaign, opposition turn back Christian Coalition

TAVARES - An extensive voter-education campaign. a bipertisen opposition and a big election turnout are credited with furning back Christian Co-alition candidates for three hotly contested Lake County School Board positions. "This election showed that if you educate the public to what the issues are, they will go out and vote. I think the truth won out," said Keith E. Mullins. co-chairman of People for Mainetream Values.

The bipartisan, grassroots organization was at the forefront of the campaign against three Christian Coalition-backed Re-publicans defeated by GOP modcrates in Tuesday's runoff.

The election spells the end of a "cultural superiority" policy that catapulted rural Lake spotlight. Lake turned out 28 percent of its voters - compared to about 13 percent statewide - to reject the Christian conservatives and, in effect, hand control of the schools to moderates.

All remaining six candidates for the three contested seats. Republicans and Democrats. have indicated they would repeal the controversial America-first edict adopted by a conservative 3-2 majority last May.

The policy requires teachers to emphasize to their students that American culture and values are superior to all others.

"I think what we got was the conservatives won over the extremists." Mullins said. "It's now a matter of the best choice. We have two good choices. Democrats and Republicans, in each race. We will be talking about the issues now."

Survey: Casinos opposed

TALLAHASSEE - Six out of 10 Floridians are against open-ing the state up to castnos, according to the second survey in less than two weeks.

A proposed constitutional amendment that would allow up to 47 casinos across Florida was supported by only 30 percent of the people surveyed by Mason-Dison Political/Media Research inc. in Miami for several

The measure, known as Limited Castnes, will allow 12 leated castnes in selected neighborhoods, cities and counties; castnes at 30 horse-trachs, dog-tracks and jet alsi frontone; and, if approved by state lowmakers, up to five riverbest castnes.

Ken Whittaker, a retired FBI agent who was once in charge of the bureau's Miami office, said organized crime leaders aren't involved in casinos.

"They're not very happy that they're not, but they're not allowed in," he said, adding that the commissions that oversee casinos in states such as Nevada and New Jersey keep a close eye

"They check with the FBI and they check with the local police and if anybody is near involved with organized crime they get the heave-ho," Whittaker said.

Roberts argued that the way to reduce crime is to increase employment and Limited Casinos would do that by creating 67,000 new jobs.

We see this as a much needed approach, to not only this particular pond in Lake Mary. but for retention ponds throughout the area.

The lure of water is great for children. They want to throw rocks into it, wade in it, or play around the edge. But with the extensive rainfall which has become so well known in Central Florida, many of these ponds have several feet of water, more than enough for a drowning.

Our laws require the fencing of swimming pools. Inland lakes where swimming is permitted (and we have so few any more) are generally protected. It shows people are concerned about this type of safety.

The retention ponds however, are relatively

There have been no drownings of children or adults reported in retention ponds in our area in a considerable time. This doesn't mean such a tragedy won't happen. If and when it does, we expect everyone to start jumping up and down demanding that every one of them be protected.

People have done such things too many They know of a problem, but fail to take any action until a life protecting the

Let's start protecting the people now, before it's too late. We suggest examining requirements for retention ponds, not only those which will be required as new development comes into the area, but those already existing.

Lake Mary is showing its concern over this one pond. Now let's see other government entities examine similar situations in their own jurisdictions.

Failure to take action at a time when it can be accomplished can lead to disaster. And there won't be any question about who to larycare' has come to the end

In his 1993 State of the Union address, the newly elected Bill Clinton stood before a Congress wholly controlled by his own party and announced that universal health care coverage would be the central aim of his administration. To show that he meant it, he waved a pen in front of the assembled lawmakers and warned them he would veto anything less. He then appointed the first lady as chief of a huge task force to draft a health care bill.

Mr. Clinton had been advertised during the her. Clinton had been advertised during the campaign, by himself and others, as a "new Democrat," refreshingly free from the old Democratic tendency to regard Big Government as the solution to all problems. But when the Clintons' health care bill finally emerged, it was clear that the liberal Democrats, like the Bourbons, had learned nothing and forgotten nothing.

Their bill was a grotesque bells-and-whistles caricature of a government-run health care plan: a monetrous combination of compulsory "health alliances" (meaning medical chain-gangs) financed by huge new taxes disguised as "employer mandates," and arbitrary govern-ment rationing of everything from medical services to doctors' specialties - all to be enforced by heavy fines and long prison sentences, and run by a vast new bureaucracy of agencies, commissions.

and czars. It didn't take long for the American people to learn the basic outlines of La Rodham's vision. and soon thereafter legislators of both parties began fleeing from it as if it were some new and par-ticularly deadly sort of plague.

Yes, there are pro-blems, most of them

It was clear that the liberal Democrats, like the Bourbons, had learned nothing and forgotten nothing demand such care but are reluctant to pay for it themselves. But very few people think the solution is to impose Hillary's medical dictatorship on the U.S. population.

In the event, Mr. Clinton's own Democratic Congress couldn't even pass a leaser bill for him to veto. Moreover, it is perfectly clear that, though he and his legislative allies have vowed to come back next year and renew the battle, they will face a more Republican (and hence more conservative, and less cooperative) Congress. Bill Clinton's dream of adding universal government-run health care to FDR's Social Security and Lyndon Johnson's Medicare and Medicaid is in ruine.

Modern American liberalism is a protean thing. and it is dangerous to assume that it has come to the end of its socialist road, on health care or anything else. But the national revulsion against the insufferable arrogance and sheer incom-peterice of government as a solver of human problems has grown so great that it is hard to envision the democratic socialists who call themselves "liberals" winning hereafter many struggles to impose socialist solutions on major problems facing the country.

Is there jury rigging here?

Jury rigging! Is it legal or illegal? What circumtances would make it either legal or illegal? Is it illegal if you or I attempt to "rig a jury"? Is it possibly illegal for a "lawyer" or a "bunch of lawyers" to attempt to "rig a jury"? Does the status of either the defendant or the plaintiff enter into the "legal vs. illegal" category of jury rigging? Can a jury be rigged?

The answers, my friends - snoozing away out there in LaLaLand, will most probably either surprise or shock you - hopefully out of your almost total complacency. What follows are some of the answers to the above questions, as well as several thousand other unasked questions.

"Yes-no, any-all-none, always-neversometimes, today-tomorrow-yesterday, positive-negative-neutral, wet-dry, odd-even, etc., etc., etc., The list of direct and indirect answers to any legal vs. illegal question is darn near endless. It depends very heavily on who asks the question, to whom is the question directed, and under what specific or even general circumstances is the question asked.

If you or I attempt to "rig a jury" by offering a monetary award for a "favorable position" to any juror or jurors we would be in deep yogurt. Yup! The judge would have our poor old donkey swinging from the nearest yardarm in a matter of seconds. You see, that's called bribery and is illegal. It also subverts "justice."

If a lawyer or a battery of lawyers attempt to "rig a jury" by loading that jury with jurors predisposed toward either "conviction" (pro-secuting attorney) or "innocent" (defense attorney); that action may or may not be illegal but it is wrong as hell. It too subverts "justice."

But, then again, "justice" has, in my N.S.H.O., been taking one hellava shellacking in so many of our "courts of law" for so many decades now ... I can't count that high any

The O.J. Simpson flasco out in California is possibly a prime example of what I'm making reference(s) to. Each side, prosecution and defense, originally bemoaned the difficulty, if not the impossibility, of getting an "impartial" jury. "Impartial jury" your belly button. Neither side wants an impartial jury according to the news media, both newspapers and TV.

Oh, yes, my friends, the prosecution seeks to load the jury with jurors who have been proven to lean toward conviction. Oh no. not by the person him/herself — but by age, sex, ethnic background, profession, social status, and other like differentials that may apply.

Likewise, the defense also seeks to land the jury with jurors who have been proven to lean towards forgiveness and a "not guilty" verdict. Again - not be the individual juror but by those same physical facts of age, sex, etc.

Ohmyyes, each and every prospective juror will be questioned to painful lengths as to his/her "unbiased" thoughts, feelings, beliefs and so on, pertaining to probably everything under the sun - relative or not - and may even include their preference for or against liver and onions for supper.

And all this homogenized heifer dust in a a supposedly supreme effort to seat a left- or right-leaning jury who are - each and everyone of 'em - totally and completely unbiased in every possible facet, relative or not to the case at hand. Well, good ... luck ...

Let me quote, please, Amendment VI in the Bill of Rights. Yup! that same Bill of Rights lamendments one through ten ratified way back in 1791) that is constantly being trampled on by our everlovin' jurisprudence/criminal justice system.

"In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a "speedy" and "public" trial, by an "impartial" jury of the state and "district" wherein the crime shall have been committed; which "district" shall have been previously ascertained "by law." and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation: to be confronted with the winesses against him: to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor. and to have the assistance of counsel for his

This, of itself and by itself precludes any and all transfers of trial location from that state and district whether called a county, or a parish, or even an election district, to lower Slobovia ... or even upper Slobovia.

You don't like it. You do like it. Whichever you do or don't like - I think that's great. In any case, you can just puff on that eight-and-a-half yard of homogenized whatever to your heart's content.

Tell me - through our editor - a great gal. Ms. Lacy Loar - through a letter to the editor. Do it now - or even yesterday. Your choice. Grandpa's gone. Bye!

Foley folly: saying no to term limits

WASHINGTON - Early last year. House Speaker Tom Foley, D-Wash., rejected a private appeal from Rep. Jim McDermott, D-Wash., that may wind up costing Foley a 30-year career in the House of Repre-

As ardent foes of term limits, Foley and McDermott were meeting with attorneys in March 1993 to devise a legal strategy for challenging Wash-ington state's newly passed term-limits law on constitutional grounds. Foley was about to climb into the foxhole by himself by becoming gainst term limits. AcDermott implored Foley not to put his name on the 18-page lawsuit as a plaintiff - and even volunteered to substitute his own name for Foley's. McDermott feared Foley would be falling on his sword. that his rural and conservative constituents would never forgive him, and that right-wing activists rom across

McDermott figured his own district, which is less conservative than Foley's, would be more receptive. But Foley felt impassioned enough to put conscience ahead of career, and refused to let McDermott take the fall. McDermott looks back on Foley's decision as a true profile in

"I said. 'I'm in a position to take a hit like this and not be damaged," McDermott told us. "(Folcy) said it was his responsibility as Speaker of the House and that he couldn't step aside and let some junior member take the hit for it. Politically, the easy thing was to let this thing go unchallenged and let some guy in Arkansas (which also passed term limits) bring it up.... Foley knew the risk better perhaps than anybody else."

Foley's risk is as real as the latest polls that show him trailing his Republican challenger. George Nethercutt, by double digits heading into the November election. Anti-incumbency and anti-Congress sentiment has created a lynch-mob mentality among voters. Nobody is more threatened by this mood than Foley. the incumbents' incumbent. So far, voters have been slow to forgive him for resisting their wishes on the term-limit referendum which passed two years ago.

During an interview with us last week. Foley said his aim is to force a court challenge which will benefit both proponents and opponents of term limits. He also lamented the increasing lack of civility in politics. "They intensely personalize their disagree-ment." Foley said of his detractors in the term-limit movement. "There is sort of an organized effort now to vilify and demonize There is the suggestion that people should express whatever upset they have by (voting out) the nearest member of Congress. I think that's my task to deal with and try to explain to my constituents... why being Speaker is extraordinarily unusual for a district west of the Mississippi.'

The term-limit question will be definitively settled by the Supreme Court, some time after the November election and possibly before the end of the year. "If he's defeated in the fall and the Supreme Court rules in December and upholds him, it's going to be a terrible trony," said McDermott. "If you're going to go down, go down on the right kind of issue.

Term limits aren't the only issue on which the normally cautious Foley has taken a courageous stand.

Can't fly away from phones anymore

By LARRY MOSMANE different ethics

NEW YORK — The airplane: A cloud-clearing haven from pounding boom boxes, ear-piercing beepers. Jangling cellular phones and earthly Sorry. Mr. Cruising-At-35,000-Feet. It's your boss on the line.

Technology unveiled this week now makes it consible for airline passengers to receive high-altitude calls. But if the people on two flights Wednesday were any indication, earth-to-airplane dialing may be less than a ringing success.

With this cutting-edge device sitting right above their locked and upright dining trays, people read newspapers or magazines. They scribbled on legal pads. They caught 40 winks on the way to Washington.

Similar behavior on the way back. Nobody answered any phone calls on a pair of shuttle

I don't know about this idea. Theologically. it bothers me." said passenger Eric J. Maffet, a magazine editor. "You're away from the cell phone, the beeper - you're supposed to be

No longer. Once the skies were truly friendly, but now your office, or your spouse, or anybody else with access to your 10-digit Airphone number can barge right in.

"We heard from a lot of people who said they need this type of service because they like to stay in constant touch with the boss or home." said Sharon Cohen-Hagar, a spokeswoman for the company behind the calls, GTE.

Maybe. But the idea of a 35,000-foot phone cord didn't appeal to the folks on Delta's one-hour shuttle between New York and Washington. Some 400 planes are to be equipped with the new service: East Coast shuttle flights for Delta and USAir, along with some United transcontinental flights, are already hooked up.

"I consider it a personal failing if I have to talk with my office from a plane." confessed one Manhattan man who understandably requested anonymity.

ABCDEFGHIJELMNOPO

Before boarding, call and receive your 10-digit Airfone number and your four-digit pin code (unless you already went to the trouble of picking up a GTE Airfone card with a permanent number and pin code). Then, share the 10-digit number with someone on the ground. Upon boarding, punch in your seat number, your 10-digit number, followed by your four-digit number, followed by a swipe of your credit card to make sure you can afford the whole thing.

Deep breath. Let's continue.

The person on the ground calls 1-800-AIRPHONE, and enters your 10-digit number, along with the 10-digit number of the phone they're calling from.

Then you answer the phone in the air, and call them back on the ground. It's $5 for the first minute, $2.50 for each additional minute. Yelling out the window might be easier.

SANFORD - It was there, then it was gone, and then it was back again, just in the nick of time.

It was that kind of evening for the Seminole High School variety boys' volleyball team, which pulled out a 15-8, 5-18, 15-6 win over the visiting Lake Brantley Patriots in a Seminole Athletic Conference match Wednesday night: order."

It was a real good town effort."
and Seminole coach Both Corso. "We've really been working on our defense in practice and it showed in that first and third game. I don't know what happened in that second game, but we got it straightened out by the third game."

Brent Bradshaw had a lot to do with getting the Tribe back on track in that third game as he put together a nine-point service run that included five of the eight aces he served on the night.

"He went on a string in the third game that really got us going," said Corso. "He took us from the fourth point to the 13th."

Josh Elliott served the final two points, including an acc off a jump serve for the match point.

Anderson goes wire to wire for 5th Pro Series win

By PAUL MAROSOLIA Special to the Herald

SAMSULA - Wildwood's Dick Anderson and his MOPAR Dodge easily outraced the competition to win the Florida Pro 125 Late Model feature last Saturday, Oct. 1, at New Smyrna

At the drop of the first green flag, the outcome of the race was all but decided as Anderson, who by virtue of the draw, started the race from the inside pole position, bolted to the lead. Despite 10 caution periods, Anderson led every lap to secure his win.

"The car was strong tonight and we were a little bit lucky," said Anderson, the current Pro Series points leader, "We set the fast time, and then drew the pole. A little bit of luck every once in a while really helps. "The car felt real comfortable. A few laps into the race, I knew our little red Dodge was the car

For Anderson, who is sponsored by Citrus Chrysler, this is his fifth Florida Pro Series win.

The only race of the evening was between David Russell and Eddle Gainey for second place.

Russell, who set the evening's second-fastest qualifying time, started the race from the fifth position. But for the majority of the race, he was caught up in "Follow the Leader" racing, stuck behind Anderson, Gainey, Jimmie Britts, and James Powell.

On lap 69, Powell and Russell got to the inside of Britis, swapping positions. Nincteen laps later, Russell used a high-groove move to get around Powell for third place. On lap 101, Russell went the other way and, with a paint swapping inside move, got by Gainey.

With 24 laps to the checkers, Russell mounted a charge on Anderson, but came up short, Anderson taking the flag about nine car lengths

'We qualified good, but when the race started, l just couldn't get a bite in the corners," said Russell. "When we stopped on the red. I adjusted my tire pressure and on the restart, the car just

"I know that if we had more laps to run, I would have had something for Dick (Anderson)."

Trailing Anderson and Russell to victory lane were Gainey, Powell, and Bryan Campbell.

"We ran strong for most of the race tonight. but not strong enough to keep Russell behind me," said Gainey. "I can't complain, though. We ran 125 laps and never ran worse than third. Plus the car is going home in one piece, so overall, it was a good night."

Powell, Friday night's Pro Series feature winner at the Orlando speedplant, was also pleased with his car's performance and his finish.

"Last night, with about 10 laps to go, I burned a piston," said Powell, who currently is in second place in the traveling Late Model show point standings. "The crew worked all night long, with no sleep, rebuilding the engine. And we got here just in time to qualify."

The race, which included 10 caution periods, took 70 minutes to complete. Anderson picked up $2,500 for his wire-to-wire run.

Other race winners Saturday night were Jacob Warren (Late Models). Conrad Grenier (Mini Stocks), Art Chapman (Sportsman), Chuck Vola (Bombers), and John Pregent (Run-Abouts).

Clubs offered cash grants

Local clubs and troops of the six largest national youth organizations, representing more than 13 million young Ameri-cans, have been invited to enter their best community service projects in the 22nd annual "Coigne's Youth for America" campaign. The award-winning program presents cash grants for the best executed projects in the U.S. by local units of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Boys and Girls Clubs, Girls Incorporated. Camp Fire and 4-H.

More than 240 winners will receive checks for up to $2,000 from Colgate-Palmolive Company this year. A celebrity panel of judges determines the top programs. Recent judges have included Joey Lawrence. Andrew Shue, Alex Trebeck. Phylicia Rashad, Jackie Joyner-Kersee, Tiffani-Amber Thieseen and Ethan Hawke.

Infant's quiet death serves a loud warning to parents people read your column, I can't think of a better way to get the word out.

Three years ago, we had a beautiful son. We named him Adam. When he was about 7 months old, I bought him a stuffed bear (about six inches in size). It never entered my mind that something so small, soft and cuddly could be so deadly.

Somehow, during the night, Adam removed the ribbon from around the bear's neck (the ribbon was approximately 6 inches long and a quarter of an inch wide), put it in his mouth and suffocated. He was unable to cry for help because the ribbon apparently balled up and rested on his larynx. We found him early the next morning when we went to give him his bottle. Our efforts to work with the dently, manufacturing laws are expensive to fight and next to impossible to change. We were told that the bear was an import. and therefore was one of the millions of items sold in this country which are hard to regulate. We were distressed to learn that the same country that does so much to save premature babies, handicapped children. etc. - at any cost - would do so little to protect children from such a tragic death.

Please warn your readers that they purchase for their childrem, as well as gifts they may receive. Our friends, and even our pediatrician, were surprised that such a terrible thing could happen. They relayed their concern and told us that Adam's death made them "aware." We hope to reach as many other people as possible. Although it is not a common problem, even one child to one too many to lose in such a horrible and senseless

We can never replace our son, but if this letter can prevent that tragedy from happening again, we will feel that Adam did not die in vain.

HEARTBROKEN IN UTAM Thank you for your generosity in

DEAR MEARTBROKEN: warning other parents about the tragic accident that took your precious Adam. I have read about button eyes on stuffed it is up to them to check all toys animals becoming detached and posing a danger to infants and toddlers, but who would think that a ribbon 6 inches long and a quarter of an inch wide would ball up and kill an infant? Your letter is a timely reminder for parents to examine toys for anything that could become detached and obstruct a windpipe, injure an eye or break

DEAR ARET: I was amused by those Ph.D.s who instated on being called "Doctor."

My father put the whole matter in proper perspective when I became a coporate vice president at a relatively early age.

He reminded me that the number of people who come to my funeral would probably depend on how hard it is raining at the time.

My wife was even more humbling — unintentionally, I'm sure. Upon leaving for the office on my first day as a vice president, she called out to me (loudly), "Don't forget to take out the garbage, John!"
JOHN G. IN FLORIDA

DEAR JOHN: Lucky you. Between your father and your wife. they will keep you humble.

DEAR ABOY: I am a faithful reader of your column, and this is my first letter to you. I have no problem or gripe. However, re: the letter from the old bowler who didn't want to tell her age: When someone asks me how old I am, I smile and say, "I'm somewhere between the age of concent and collapse." Abby, I'm actually 74, and have no wrinkles, so most people think I'm younger. You may print my name.

PEGGY O'NEIL PUYALLUP, WASH. DEAR PEOGY: Congratulations. That's what I call "the luck of the Irish!"

CONFIDENTIAL TO FALL-ING APART: Obviously W.C. Fields reached the same conclusion. He once joked: "If I had known I was going to live this long, I would have taken better care of myself."

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm A old woman in excellent with the exception of suffering from chronic sine I've tried eliminating va do from my diet, with no rious results. I'm sensitive to ild, dust and pollen. I've also ticed a consistent pattern coinciding with my menstrual cycle. During the week of my period and the week following, my sinusitie is severe. This is followed by two weeks of

going on? DEAR READER: Your s

m of environmental controle in conjunction with preecription nose sprays and antiistamines and, perhaps, de-resitization injections. I do not understand the relation between your sys and your menstrual cycles. Maybe the allergist can shed ome light on this as well.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm on

Xanax under my doctor's direc-tion. Can I get off this medica-tion without his help? I really don't want medication to be part of my daily regimen. DEAR READER: With your doctor's approval, you can safely wean yourself off Xanax, an anti-anxiety drug that is appropriate only for short-term use. (Prolonged use of Xanax has been reported to affect memory and cause other side effects.)

I recommend reducing the dose by one tablet a week. Once you're down to one or two Xanax pills a week, you can stop altogether. This is merely a

What is "the most unexpected

One person's answer to that query at the end. But it made me think of a friend, let me call him Joe, and a bridge analogy. Whenever something unusual happens during the auction. Joe immediately shuts down his brain. He makes no effort to work out a logical explanation. East's action on today's deal would be wasted on Joe. What do you think his double means?

East's three-spade overcall was pre-emptive, showing a weak hand with, usually, a decent seven-card suit. So how can he suddenly produce the high cards needed to defeat five hearts? Answer: He cannot. The best interpretation for this outof-the-blue double was first proposed in 1929 by Theodore Lightner. He suggested that the double of a freely bid slam should imply a side-suit void. It out which suit tolead.

Since then, the concept has been expanded to encompass lower-level contracts. Here, East is showing a minor-suit void with his double. And it isn't hard minor it is. He leads a club. selecting a high spot-card as a suit-preference signal for spades. East ruffs, returns a spade to his partner's ace and receives a second ruff to defeat the contract.

Without the double, it would be normal for West to lead the spade ace, after which the contract cannot be defeated. It is a clever idea, but not without its dangers, as we shall see tomorrow. Trotsky's answer to the initial question was "Old age."
