Property Tax And Seminole

Okay, so Californians by a landslide margin have won their way. In what was billed as the first salvo in a taxpayer revolt across the nation, voters have approved that well-publicized Proposition 13.

The proposition, as we all know by now, restricts property-times to 1 percent of 1975 valuations and freezes future increases to 2 percent

Two key questions have arisen:

1. What does the anticipated cut in property-tax revenues in California - estimated from $12 billion to $5 billion mean to the continued provision of needed services?

2. Will the so-called revolt spread to other states, including Florida?

The answer to the first question became the focal point of the campaign, with opponents stressing that the revenue cut would translate automatically into a cut in services. Proponents of the proposition called this a fear tactic.

We'll soon find out just who is right and just how California will adjust. Gov. Jerry Brown has pledged to "put a lid on government spending." Seminole County Tax Appraiser Terry Goembel believes the "chances are very good" a similar movement will occur here. If such a one percent cap on property taxes was implemented in Seminole County, predicts Mr. Goembel, it would reduce taxes by at least 33 percent. Its effects? Impossible to determine right now, he says.

Let us assume that Florida and Seminole County do, indeed, initiate a move similar to California's Proposition 13. What, then, could we do to offset the as-yet indefinable results of such a revenue-service loss? Or, better still, what could we do to forestall the need for such a drastic move?

One answer is obvious. And it is one we have hammered away at for a long time: Growth. Growth in Seminole County in the form of new industry making the county its home.

The impact on the overall tax picture is evident. In the long run — as Mr. Goembel agrees - it would mean lower property taxes for individual property owners.

In other words, the more industry, the wider the tax base, the lower the millage on property owners. Industry would be paying that much more of its tax share and the county would have to pay out that much less for services.

So, the direction is clear. And, without getting into complicated formulae and statistics, it is relevant to note that industry could help ease the burden of individual taxpayers who are always complaining of increased taxes.

So, if California's Proposition 13 does nothing else for us in Seminole County, it should at least alert county leaders to the need for more aggressive industry-hunting — replacing lipservice and hope with action and aggressiveness.

Because zoning in the county is such, the introduction of new industry would not necessarily mean an increase in home property values with a corresponding increase in taxes.

Let us then use this latest tax-voter situation as a welcome incentive to get the ball rolling even faster and get the county moving and growing.

Citing such cases can entail writing a book but there is one entity that should not go unmentioned and that is cities and their traffic engineers. With all the recent talk about saving energy it is a wonder why those who install traffic lights do not insure that the lights are coordinated or timed with each other. While this problem is not that evident in Sanford there are other nearby cities where going from one block to another, and one red light to another, means stopping and starting and ultimately the wasting of gas that could be saved with a much easier flow of traffic.

And finally, with all this talk about traffic, I would like to offer my apologies to that driver in front of me last week on First Street. Sincerely, I thought you were a fellow employee and when I hit your bumper (ever so gently) and honked my horn

ANGLE-WALTERS

About Gerald & Jimmy

WASHINGTON - Gerald R. Ford was back at the White House last week. Within the bounds of good manners, he looked and acted very much is though he belonged there.

Ford and his wife, Betty, were on hand for the unveiling of their official portraits, which are indeed handsome. But what lent special piquancy to the occasion was the shine on the former president's political picture.

Only minutes before the Fords arrived at the White House, an ABC-Harris poll was released showing that - for the first time since the 1976 election — Ford would defeat Jimmy Carter, 48 percent to 43 percent, if a rematch were held Although neither man alluded to the survey during their gracious and congenial exchange at the portrait ceremony, its significance was not lost on either Ford or Carter.

The fact is that Jerry Ford is an increasingly roublesome ghost at Jimmy Carter's banque The deeper into his term Carter gets the longer the shadow cast by his predecessor.

Throughout the 1976 campaign, Carter had LIGHTER SIDE the luxury of second-guessing, from the safety of the sidelines, the hard choices Ford had made as president. Now the shoe is on the other foot, and is starting to pinch. Ford, initially cautious about criticizing his successor, has started to open up. During his recent visit here, he took dead aim on Carter's political sore spots, domestic inflation and foreign policy vacillation in the face of Soviet adventurism in Africa. Carter no doubt wishes Ford would worry more about his golf score and less about the Consumer Price Index. But Palm Springs does not held the same allure as Washington for omeone who spent more than a quarter century in the capital's corridors of power. Ford has an excellent excuse for coming here periodically. He is a "distinguished fellow" at the American Enterprise Institute, a fast-

By the end of this week 2093 Seminole County students from the five public and two private schools dressed in cap and gown will have made their eventful walk across the stage to receive the sheepskin known- as diploma marking their transition from high school to another dimension.

The tension, nervousness and excitement they share is much like that felt by the students who first used a mortar type graduation cap at Oxford in the early 1700s. However, this was soon discontinued because the graduates found it uncomfortable.

The first free public high school in the United States was established in 1821 in Boston, Mass., and by the time of the Civil War, several hundred had been started.

Most of the tradition which accompanies the high school graduation was borrowed from the college graduation, according to Dr. Daniel DeNicola, dean of education at Rollins College in Winter Park.

Dr. DeNicola noted that at one time all students and faculty in the United States and Europe wore cap and gown to school. Because of this the custom of flipping the tassle from right to left was begun to distinguish between those receiving a degree and those working toward one.

However, according to Dr. DeNicola, the practice of citizens wearing the cap and gown started to fade after the Civil War, although some professors in England currently lecture in a cap and gown.

Another idea which has slowly faded is the separation of the baccalaureate and the commencement ceremonies. The dean noted that while in the past the ceremonies were held on two different nights, many high schools and colleges have, over the years,

Principal's Message

Congratulations Class of '78! On behalf of the Faculty and Administration, I would like to congratulate the Class of '78 for successfully completing their high school education. I would also like to encourage them to continue the process of improving themselves, be it in the world of work, vocational, technical education or college.

This school year's theme was Altius, Citius, Fortius, or Higher, Swifter, Stronger. It is hoped that they will continue to follow this theme in the improvement of their lives and remember that "the best is yet to be." It is hoped that each Senior will have a positive attitude and fight the formation of negative shadows that would interfere with happiness and success.

We will miss you at Seminole High School. We wish each of you success and happiness and encourage you to continue to have pride in

The Brain Bowl found OHS seniors Mike Cook, Donna Sloane, Dennis Balenger and Kathy Apgar testing their IQ's over such subjects as history, math, science and even a little trivia. These students made a fine showing beating Edgewater (220-110), but later losing to Colonial (145-140).

Seniors have dominated the leadership positions in the clubs and organizations at school. President of the Student Government was Barbara Johnson; Beta Club president, Mike Cook; Yearbook editor, Dennis Balenger; Lion's Tale editor, Dennis Goff:-Dance Corps captain, Laurie Johnson: Drama Club president, Jerry Bennet; FBLA president, Dennis Goff; Media Council cochairman, Mike Seiple; Science Club president, Christi Matzinger; VICA president, David Harwell; Band president, Jim Blanton; Drum Major, Mike Piland; and Varsity Cheerleader co-captains. Robin Lingo and Donna Kline - all seniors.

Homecoming found our own Lauri Johnson reigning as queen with her escort, Scott Meyer. Seniors on the court included Robin Lingo and Kirby Grant; Lynda Blackwood and Jon Zern; Karen Howell and Mike Meta; Cindy Ward and Mike Cook; Lorraines Merritt and Glen Jacobs; and Wonda Jo Granville escorted by Eddie Hendrix. After the game a dance was presented by the Student Government and held at the FTU Village Center with the band, "Society"

The Club's The Thing At Oviedo

Oviedo offers a variety of clubs in which students can participate: OIC, Pep Club, Keyettes, FBLA, and BETA clubs are a few of the more popular activities.

The OIC, or International Club, usually has the most talked about activities in school. Dances, Homecoming booths, and trips to Saint Augustine liven up school activities for OIC members.

Pep Club encourages students to support their athletic department and fosters the idea of the concept of school spirit and unity. By attending home games, and making possible a bus to be taken to away games, the club actively supports sports activities.

Keyettes is another major organization in school. It's objectives are initiative, leadership, cooperation with people, promoting higher standards in scholarship, sportsmanship, social contacts, and serving the school and community

Some of the ways that they attain these objectives are in service projects like washing signs in Oviedo, to taking pine cone turkeys to Lakeview Nursing Home in Sanford. They also make pep posters for games and give parties for athletic teams.

Future Business Leaders of America also actively works in the school by promoting all facets of business. The club went on a trip to the courthouse to learn the procedures that take place in a courthouse.

Another quite active club is the BETA Club. National Honor Society has higher requirements like a 3.4 average and qualities in scholarship, leadership, character and service. They've sponsored homecoming booths and a candy bar drive.

These clubs all offer many opportunities for students to learn and to have fun. These plus FHA, Youth Advisory Committee, FCA, Science Club, CBE, Media Council, VICA, Forensics, Work Experience, DECA, Electronics, and Interact are most of the clubs

However, this did not dampen the school spirit any, rather it added to it with the new faces and friendships that could be made.

The Student Council began the activities with a Welcome Back Dance acquainting new and old students.

Before the student body knew it, Homecoming was around the corner. Many participated in the Spirit Week activities with students seen parading around the school in Micky Mouse ears (tourist day) slicked back D.A.'s and bobby socks (50's day), scuba gear (sports day), and bermudas (hats & shorts

During the middle of spirit week came the powder puff game between the juniors and the seniors. On a wet Wednesday night the girl gridders dashed, only to result in a tie of 0-0. Even though the game wasn't so exciting, the Powderpuff cheerleaders turned the

Something More To Think About-It's Been 10 Years

This is a very special year for Trinity. It is our decade year. This year's graduating class is our Decade Class, and therefore, a very special class.

In these 10 years, Trinity's reputation has been established as an outstanding college preparatory school. We are proud of the accomplishments of our graduates. They have gained admission to almost every major college and university in the country.

Competition for college acceptance increases. More and more emphasis is given by colleges to the need for the basic skills of learning. We know that our graduates are well-prepared for college.

We are particularly pleased with our Decade graduating class. We, their parents and the community can be rightly proud of these young people. We wish each of them the very best as they enter into institutions of higher learning across the nation this fall.
