WASHINGTON, May 21.

Plans were ordered today by Lewis Compton, acting secretary, to speed up defense preparations by working additional shifts, thereby increasing the civilian shipbuilding forces by at least 15,000 within three months.

President Roosevelt, upon talking to the Navy's portion of his defense program, summoned chairman of the Senate, and Navy naval committee and ranking Navy members to a White House conference.

Secretary of the Navy, Frank Knox, reported that the Administration is studying the possibility of an extension of the hours in work on defense plants. He said, however, that the not doing so would have been foreseen.

The House Naval Committee tentatively approved legislation to prevent the Navy to spend civil money for construction of industrial facilities and industrial.

The fate of Allied armies in the Lorraine battle along the western flank of the huge salient, Germany has moved into the French in a seven days and nights of fighting.

Whether named French forces holding the road to Paris at the moment of the pocket and along its southern flank, the German tank units have moved into the French in a seven days and nights of fighting.

The German military commander of the city, Lieutenant Colonel Engelmann, tried to force an emergency city council with a few captains and the lone professor remaining to the nucleus. Engelmann indicated that most of the civil administration would be turned over to the council.

There was neither light nor shade available. The city, straddled by the ruins of the library, presented a picture of desolation.

On the other hand, life in the city was well maintained.

Bogus Movie Scout Waits In Death Row

Court Says Justice
Prevailed As Facts
Outweighed Words
Of Phil O'Connell

TALLAHASSEE, May 21.—(AP)—Herbert Goddard, bogus movie scout who killed a 15-year-old girl after turning her from home on promise of a movie career, was condemned today for murder.

Known under several aliases, he was convicted in West Palm Beach last fall for killing Frances Dunn, 17.

"Justice prevailed," said the Supreme court's unanimous opinion.

Goddard used a knife, hammer and pistol in killing Miss Dunn on a lonely beach road last August. He carried her there with Jess Bolton, another girl who later escaped and notified relatives in Miami of her whereabouts.

Goddard was arrested as he walked along the road. Goddard now is in Raleigh in the "death row."

Large Number Attends WPA Dinner Launching Open House On Projects

The professional and Service Division of the Works Projects Administration is composed of industrial, artistic, scientific, literary, and service projects. The organization is a program of activity, the value of which cannot be denied, Edward Higgins, secretary of the Seminole County Chamber, said last night in reading a prepared statement to the more than 300 persons attending the "kick-off" dinner for "This Work Pays Your Community Work."

E. F. Housholder, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced Superintendent of Schools, T. W. Lawton who cited the benefits derived by the schools as well as the county at large from the activities of this division of the WPA. He especially praised the nursery school, the book repair project, and the clothing of the large number of school children through the local sewing room project.

The old Bank Building on the corner of Magnolia Avenue and Second Street was filled to capacity last night as the public turned out in observance of the week during which the local professional and service projects have been opened to the public. The public can see examples of the work that is being done. Throughout this week, there will be a special program of interest at the headquarters for the entertainment of those who desire to see the exhibits.

The programs will begin at 7:30 o'clock and for tonight there is planned an Amateur Night during which many types of entertainment will be presented. Wednesday night Constantine DeWald will briefly outline the effects upon the United States of developments abroad, while Thursday night Miss Eleanor McFadden, city recreational director, will have charge of a program of games for both old and young. On Friday night, Mrs. Ruth Gordon Wright will present a play.

Reynaud Admits Amiens Is Taken

French Leader Blames
Daladier For Faults
In Army's Make-up

Nazi blitzkrieg columns slashed to within sight of the Eiffel tower, Paris, 69 miles away today, and swept across the northern plains of France to a point 12 miles from the English channel, the German high command announced.

Premier Reynaud admitted Germans had taken Amiens, Arras—west of the St. Quentin—Cambrai sector—in the race to the sea.

"We must make immediate decisions," Reynaud told the French senate, freely confessing the classical French concept of war had been jarred by swift-striking Nazi mechanized units and parachute troops.

The German command also declared their forces had smashed their way to Abbeville, 18 miles from the English channel. If true, this would imperil the position of more than 150,000 British and Belgian troops in Belgium.

In London, an authorized spokesman termed the German dash "truly extraordinary." The French war ministry spokesman said the Germans were meeting "furious resistance" in Belgium. The spokesman said the French had been forced to retreat in Belgium.

Jimmie Ingley's Model Airplane Sails Into Blue

Many hours of meticulous effort as well as many dreams, owning a contest winner, flew off to the blue for 14-year-old Jimmie Ingley, Jr. at the Municipal Airport last Saturday morning when his model airplane, with a 1-2 foot wingspread and powered by a 1-6 horsepower engine, was caught in a "thermal" and carried off toward Lake Mary.

Only once in a while is a model airplane builder able to build a model with the precision and balance required to make it a contest winner so you can imagine how Jimmie felt when he saw his red and yellow craft, a contest prize-getter in all contests in which he entered it, sail away out of sight after flying about the local airport for nearly half an hour.

Jimmie has enlisted the assistance of his many friends in a search for the model airplane and has also offered a reward of $5 to the person who finds it and brings it to the Hoffman Electric Company on Magnolia Avenue.

Jimmie's plans was about the best there is for a model craft of its class so far as sustained flying time is concerned. Like the Sanford Seminoles, Jimmie's plane usually came out near the top in every meet he entered it, indeed the recent tri-state meet held at Jacksonville at which this plane won second place. Among the prizes he has won with it are a Brownie model plane motor, an Austin flight timer, and a model kit.

If anyone sighted a stray plane flying aimlessly through the air anytime last Saturday afternoon or has any information at all concerning his plane, Jimmie says he will certainly appreciate your giving him this information so if possible, he can get his plane back.

British Move To Get Ready For Invasion

Allies Claim Recapture Of Abbeville, Arras As Counter-Attacks Are Made

Frenchmen Feel More Optimistic

Reichenau Waits Word To Launch Gigantic Flanking Attack

A "dictatorship" bill to marshal all Britain's wealth and manpower in the fight against invasion was rushed into law today as the French claimed the recapture of Arras and Abbeville, to which the Germans had penetrated in their drive toward the English channel.

Parliament quickly assented to the war emergency power's bill, the government had demanded because of the empire's peril.

Across the channel, Allied counter-attacks apparently were relieving some pressure on British troops, fighting with their backs to the sea in the "pocket" in Belgium.

A French military spokesman said German advance guards had been "chased out" of Abbeville, 12 miles from the channel, and Arras, to the east, also was retaken.

Optimism spread through France in the way of the day's news.

In the German drive on Paris, according to an unconfirmed report by "informed circles" in Berlin, the Nazis may have captured Reims, the famed World War battleground—only 40 miles northwest of the French capital.

On the Western Front, in Flanders, Col. Gen. Walther von Reichenau, commander of the German army, was reported to have called for the release of what he described as the "most powerful right wing army ever to flank an enemy."

Reichenau's troops were poised to attack a half million Allied soldiers in the "fields where people grow."

Today's heaviest fighting centered in the fire-scarred triangle north of the Somme River, ranging from Amiens to Arras, to Abbeville, eastward to the Cambrai sector.

Under the British blitz, excess profits taxes were raised to 100 percent to avoid war profiteering. All wealth, property, and labor resources were under government control.

A suddenly renewed alarm in southeastern Europe came from Rumania, where the general staff called 500,000 reservists to the colors on 24 hours' notice.

PARIS, May 22.—(AP)—Premier Reynaud, addressing the senate under the black shadow of German invasion, yesterday issued an anguished appeal to the French and others "far off" to rally to the Allied cause.

"They are beginning to understand that it will be the same to them if everyone within it too," he declared.

"They are beginning to understand that they themselves and their future are involved. May they understand better it is too late."

Reynaud declared that the Allies were beginning to understand that they themselves and their future are involved. May they understand better it is too late.

Ambulance Corps Men Unreported

Four U. S. Drivers Are Missing Today; Group Last Seen Near Fallen City

PARIS, May 22.—(AP)—Four young members of the American ambulance unit operating in the northern war zone were missing today as officials expressed the belief that five others previously reported missing were dead or German prisoners.

The four reported missing today were last seen driving ambulances of wounded south of a town now in German hands. Another driver was reported wounded.

Latest additions to the mission list: Donald C. Taylor, New York; John C. Brown, Brooklyn; George King, New York; Gregory Waite, Springfield, Vt.

Spectre Of Nazi Victory In Europe Unnerves Market

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—The spectre of a German victory in Europe again unnerved Wall Street yesterday, and the stock market its most violent setback of the war period.

Loading issues tumbled $2 to $13 to the lowest general level in two years, but thanks to a last-minute comeback which cancelled about a quarter of the declines in many instances, the loss for the day on the average was no worse than last Tuesday's.

Commodities were also subject to heavy squalls of selling, wheat at Chicago fluctuating a few cents above the Saturday's final price, below which exchanges have ruled no sales may be made.

Final prices were off only 1-1/2 to 2-1/2 cents a bushel, cutting off about a third of Monday's rise.

Wall street investment circles said the collapse of stock prices—reducing the total quoted value of listed shares by about $9,000,000,000—less than two weeks' general unpopularity over what a German victory, with sweeping extension of Nazi economics into world affairs would do to the American economy.

Much of the selling was said to have come from investors' strong boxes, rather than from speculative accounts. Some selling was reported from Shanghai in the morning, but on the whole, brokers thought foreign selling a minor factor. As a matter of fact, prices improved in both the London and Paris markets, but Wall Street did not attach importance to that, in view of rigid controls at work in those markets.

Bonds, along with stocks, were sold heavily, although United States government issues held up relatively well. Foreign government issues were generally lower, with the notable exception of the long depressed German issues.

The German government 7 percent issue picked up $1.25 to a price of $123.75, or $1000 par value bond, almost double the level of a few weeks ago.

Stock exchange authorities said despite the volume of liquidation, the situation at no time seemed to be getting out of hand as bids were plentiful at declining prices. It was said exchange officials felt emergency measures to control trading were entirely unnecessary.

Sales totaled 3,939,510 shares, largest since last Sept. 12. Cotton futures tumbled $1.29 to $11.75 a bale, and wool tops about $ to 5-3/4 cents a pound. Raw hide futures dipped about a cent a pound and such staples as sugar, copper, cocoa and rubber went to lower prices. It was noted imported as well as domestic staples were depressed.

German Thrust Threatens Troops On Belgium Front

Reported Collapse Of Allied Army Would Be Graver Danger

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

With Amiens and Arras and the line between Allied armies in France and Belgium is in peril.

It has not already been reported, and Anglo-French solidarity is threatened.

Even if these Nazi thrusts were held north of the Somme, the collapse of the Allied army would be a graver danger for the Allies in the morning, but on the whole, the British army is in a better position than the French army.

At the front in 12 days of terrific attack. Reported capture of General Gerard, commander of the army, heavily underlined the Berlin claim that the vital link in Allied defense has been pulverized into dissolution.

Livestock Market For Sanford Is Apparently Assured, Officials Say

The proposed livestock auction market which is planned as an addition to the present facilities at the Sanford State Farmers' Wholesale Market, officials here said today, is apparently assured.

Those interested in the project, which is now being drawn up by an architect of the department, and to submit a WPA project for this work as soon as practical.

Those interested in the construction of a cattle market have had to overcome several obstacles in the way of this project. The last one was the lack of funds in the Agriculture Commissioner's budget for this work. Due to the 1-2 percent cut in inspection and the curtailment of revenues from this source because of the drastic reduction of the volume of stock shipped from this state as a result of the January cold.

Mayo told a local group last week that the operating budget of his department is near completion.

The City, County, the Market Supervisory Committee and interested persons, have shown their interest in this market and its developments, however, by offering to assume responsibility for part of the sponsor's share of this work.

The delegation will contact Mr. Goggins immediately to work out plans for beginning the work, Mr. Higgins said.

Those conferring with Mr. Wilson during his short and unexpected visit here yesterday were Market Manager H. J. Lehman, Ralph B. Wight and Edward Higgins.

Dupree Outlines Accomplishments At Club Meeting

Declaring that the Sanford Progressive Club has contributed toward securing some worthwhile things for Sanford and Seminole County, President W. R. Dupree gave the members of the club a "pop talk" at the regular meeting of the group in the Court House Monday night when he gave out membership cards and urged each member present to procure additional members for the organization.

Among the "really worthwhile" things the club has assisted, Mr. Dupree said, are a livestock auction market for Sanford, a radio broadcasting station, and government approval of the project the Sanford club is sponsoring.

From Panama to Lake Harney, the latter through the "able assistance" of Senator Andrews and Congressman Pepper, Mr. Dupree said. Other guests on the program were: Edward V. Nelson, R. J. McQueen, W. Gray, and Mr. Smith. Mr. Dupree complimented S. C. Edwards and J. C. Martin for their work in the club.

He announced that the next meeting of the club will be held on Monday night, June 4.
