Citizens rise in anger

Borrow pit expansion irks neighborhood

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Tuesday, the Seminole County Commission will hold a public hearing on a request for a borrow pit expansion. Former County Commissioner Sid Vihlen Jr. and Ben Benham are requesting approval for the pit, presently 11.9 acres in size, to be expanded to 27 acres.

The pit is located on Marquette Avenue in the area south of the Orlando Sanford Airport.

If approved, it would allow the removal of 1.13 million cubic yards of fill dirt.

Since it was announced, citizens in the area near the borrow pit have risen up in anger. Many, including resident Dorothy McReynolds, have said that not only should the commission deny the request, but the original borrow pit should never have been approved in the first place.

The objections to the present pit expansion request is deja vu. It is almost like history repeating itself.

Recently Dorothy McReynolds submitted a letter to the editor of the Sanford Herald regarding the expansion proposal. She wrote, in part, "What kind of commissioners have we the people put in office that would ever listen to such a devastating health and safety hazard? They were put in office to protect us, not to kill us."

Back in 1992, Vihlen and Benham originally requested permission to operate a borrow pit at that location. It was early in 1993 before the matter came up for a vote before the county commission.

On March 23, 1993, McReynolds fired off a letter to the commission. "We the undersigned do not want a borrow pit in our neighborhood," she wrote. "You were voted into office to protect us, certainly not to tear our neighborhood down."

She not only submitted a letter to the commission at that time, but helped circulate petitions signed by at least 26 nearby residents who also voiced their disapproval of the proposal.

SANFORD — The Victorian charm that has long been hidden among the massive oaks of the downtown Sanford historic district, has been peeking out of the pages of the upscale Orlando magazine in recent months.

Three artistically restored homes, have been featured in the magazine over the last few issues.

Barbara Ferrell, who restored the old Sanford Fire Station into a spectacular and spacious loft apartment, was the subject of a pictorial visit last fall.

Another issue featured the beautiful Higgins House bed and breakfast that showers guests with old world charm and the beauty of Victorian homes and gardens. The house was restored and is operated by Walt and Bert

Residents respond to turning in toxic items

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — In your garage or under your kitchen sink you could probably find enough toxins to poison half your neighborhood.

You never think about what's in those paint cans and cleaning bottles, but they are dangerous, especially when they sit year after year gathering dust and, in some cases, potency.

Twice a year, Seminole County Hazardous Materials workers offer residents the opportunity to bring those toxic materials, which can't simply be thrown in the trash but the opportunity to dispose of them.

On Saturday a steady stream of people looking to get rid of such items rolled through the parking lot of the old Zayre Plaza at the corner of Airport Boulevard and U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford.

The semi-annual Amnesty Day brought out many who wanted to rid their residences of hazardous items they'd been collecting.

"I just wanted to get rid of this stuff," said David Acker of Sanford who had a trunk full of half-empty paint cans he was hoping to get rid of. "Really this stuff was just taking up room in the garage. I don't in-

Requirements revised to oblige Russell

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Several Sanford city commission work sessions ago, Commissioner Lon Howell suggested, "I think it's time we looked into putting the requirement of a four-year college degree back into the requirements for Sanford Police Chief." At the Jan. 22 meeting, several commissioners agreed with the suggestion.

As a result, an initial discussion is scheduled on the matter during the work session of the city commission Monday afternoon.

Following the resignation of former Chief Steve Harriet, acting chief Ralph Russell was elevated to that position in order to accomplish this, however, the commission had to revise its requirements, which originally called for the four-year degree. The change was for a two-year degree connected to some type of law enforcement, and a stronger requirement for length of service.

When Sanford enacted the change in requirements back in 1993, the wording of the change said, "Candidates lacking the four-year degree may be considered if they possess an AA/AS degree in criminology or related field, and minimum of 10 years command level experience in police administration. Russell met all of the criteria.

Russell thus became Sanford's Chief of Police on April 26, 1993, a position he has held since that time. Russell currently is in his 31st year with the police department.

The change however, was not easy. At that time, the commission could only recommend it to the Civil Service Board, which had the final say so. The board denied the proposed change.

Soon afterward, the city commission amended the Civil Service Ordinance which gave the commission, rather than the board, final approval authority. Subsequently, the change was approved.

Now, commissioners have determined that the original minimum requirements should be reconsidered. Not as any move against Russell, who would be grandfathered into his present position, but to set guidelines for whenever the

The Way We Were 1910 a popular year with readers

Several of you have told me that you are enjoying the articles on Sanford in 1910, so I will continue with them. There is still a wealth of information in that 66-page Sanford Herald.

Sanford Post Office

On April 8, 1910, the Sanford Post Office was moved to its new location in the People's Bank Building. The room was nearly twice the size of the former post office and was furnished with every convenience and facility in use in the United States.

In 1908, the gross postal receipts were about $10,000 while in 1910 they were over $16,000. This increase made the office eligible for a much larger part of the appropriations made by Congress for such things as salaries and rental of space.

During the past two years, two additional rural routes had been established covering the Celery Delta to the east and also a route to the west of the city for a distance of over seven miles in each direction. It was estimated that more than 2,000 persons received mail by the three rural routes.

The establishment of free delivery in the city was expected soon; the delay was due to poor sidewalks in the outlying sections. These were being repaired as rapidly as possible.

Postmaster C. F. Haskins

Charles F. Haskins had been a resident of Florida since February 1889 and until January 1904 was employed as a railroad engineer, running on the different lines out of Sanford.

In July 1903, he bought a house on West Third Street and engaged in truck farming and celery raising. On Sept. 19, 1907, he was appointed postmaster and took charge of the office on Oct. 1.

Mr. Haskins was described as a faithful official. He was never absent from his desk at the money order and registered letter windows. From early morning until the close of business, he attended strictly to his duties and carefully saw that everything was done accurately and well.

Board of Councilmen

Sanford was governed by a Board of Councilmen in 1910. The president was D.L. Thrasher, owner of the D.L. Thrasher Clothing House. R.C. Maxwell was clerk, treasurer, and assessor. Members of the City Administration of Councilmen were H.P. Driver, manager of the Sanford House, and H.R. Stevens, manager of the ACL Railroad shops. There were also four aldermen: A.T. Rossetter, G.R. Calhoun, W.D. Holden, and B.A. Howard.

These men were described as aggressive and progressive; public spirited men who had the interests of the city and its citizens at heart.

Attributed to the council were the long stretches of new walk, the streets and avenues of fresh laid pavement, and the general tidying and beautifying of appearances.

Sanford's new school

A beautifully proportioned structure, Sanford High School, had just been completed on Palmetto Avenue between Ninth and Tenth streets.

The architectural design was by the widely known artist, W.H. Talley, and the construction was the solid, enduring and beautiful workmanship of George B. Pope, Sanford's always in demand contractor. This new building cost the city $20,000.

(This building was used as a high school until the building was built on French Avenue in

GRACE M. STINE-CIPHER

1927. It then became Sanford Junior High School and used for this purpose until about 1960. It next became the county school book depository and had other uses until it was sold to a church which now occupies it.

The faculty of the Sanford High School in 1910 is listed as follows: Prof. N.J. Perkins, principal; Miss Clara L. Guild, assistant principal; the Misses A.M. Tetherly, Flora A. Walker, Gertie K. Speer, Nellie Furen; Lucille Richards; Carrie Enslinger; Nita Moore; Clara Millen; Lillie Fair Smith; Peacha D. Leffler; and Lillie Farnsworth. Also, Mrs. George B. Dickinson, Mrs. Zada Washbourne Colby, Mrs. Charles L. Polk, and Mrs. W.D. Dunn.

Interestingly, the Misses Peacha Leffler and Clara Millen are pictured on the same page as having recently completed their high school course. The faculty listed was probably all the teachers in the entire city system.

The Board of Education consisted of C.R. Walker, president; L.R. Phillips, secretary; and B.F. Whitner, treasurer.

Sanford's musical ladies

Mrs. Addie Foss Homrighous, well known singer and voice teacher, was a recent newcomer to Sanford. She was a lady of culture, pleasant address and prepossessing presence and had at once found her way to popular favor. Already she had a large class in vocal music and had accepted the position of musical preceptress in the Educational Inter-Denominational Institution at Enterprise, known as Livingstone College.

While living in Oklahoma, Mrs. Homrighous had been appointed by the governor to the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland, Oregon in 1905. She had also been a member of the national and state clubs of both editorial and educational nature prior to coming here. The lady and her talents were acclaimed to be an excellent acquisition to the city.

Others of Sanford's gifted and popular vocalists and instrumentalists were also pictured. These were Mrs. J.K.

Mettinger, Mrs. A.E. Yowell, Mrs. Fannie Stenbridge Munson, Miss Emily Trafford, Mrs. D.L. Thrasher and Mrs. B.T. Houser.

There was a picture of Mrs. Munson's piano studio. She was stated as being pre-eminently successful in her musical work in behalf of the young people of Sanford. (I know that her daughter, Miss Fannie Reba Munson, had her piano studio in her home at 600 Myrtle Ave. Was this also the studio of her mother, Mrs. Fannie Stenbridge Munson?)

Borrow pit should not be expanded

Tuesday afternoon at 1:30, the Seminole County Commission will hold a public hearing on a request to expand a borrow pit off Marquette Avenue near Lake Mary Boulevard. Citizens living in the surrounding area are upset.

The request to expand the actual pit, approved in 1983, is from 11.9 acres to 27 acres. This would allow for up to 1,130,000 cubic yards of fill dirt to be removed. The request would call for a four-year expansion of the original permit.

In addition, later this month, the commission is scheduled to hear a request to overturn a ruling by the county's Board of Adjustment (BOA) which denied allowing the incineration of land clearing debris at the site.

People who have made their homes in the area surrounding this pit are objecting. We agree with them.

This is not a case where someone moves next to, for example, an active airport, then complains about the noise. This is a situation where the people were there before the pit was approved. As such, the operation of this borrow pit came after the people were already in residence and we must look at it as a violation of their rights as citizens.

Certainly there are already a number of borrow pits in Seminole County. There is also land which could be used for borrow pits which is not located in a residentially developed area.

Most people are proud of where they have chosen to live. Some prefer the city life, while others want a rural atmosphere. Each has his or her own reason for establishing a comfortable residence.

If the county approves this expansion and overturns the BOA denial of the burning, there will be many people who will have their dreams busted.

If all of this comes to pass, we suspect many may consider moving elsewhere. Yet, what would they do with their homes? If you saw a "home for sale" advertisement in the Sanford Herald identifying it as located "next to a borrow pit and burn area," would you even consider it, regardless of the price?

Many citizens have said they not only want the borrow pit expanded, but regret that it was ever approved in the first place.

Let's be clear. A borrow pit is not a garbage dump. Land is extracted to be used in road construction and other projects. Without question, we need borrow pits. They are a valuable asset to the improvements, especially on roads and highways.

We must also make it clear that the Marquette Avenue and Lake Mary Boulevard areas near the borrow pit in question are not massive residential areas. But there are many homes and many residents nonetheless.

We believe there are other solutions to the need for borrow pits. But the expansion of this one, and the authority to burn debris should not be approved.

LETTER

Two important votes

This week Sanford and Seminole County commissioners will hear appeals on two projects that the government's respective citizen review boards overwhelmingly and rightly denied. The commissioners will have to decide whether they are going to protect residents' investments in a high quality residential area or if they instead will continue Sanford's image as an area of low quality industry and low cost housing.

Monday, Sanford commissioners will vote on a request to rezone two large tracts of land on Silver Lake to allow 5,000 square-foot lots.

What this change will do is set the precedent to double the number of homes allowed on the lake. Right now there are 20 homes on Silver Lake, all with at least 100 feet of lake front. Given the zoning in force when the land was purchased and the total lake frontage still available for development, about 18 more homes could be built on the lake. If current city zoning was extended around the lake, 26 more homes could be built. The proposed change would allow 38 more homes on 50-foot lots. No matter how the engineers dress it up, going from the 18 homes allowed on the lake front when the property was purchased to 38 homes allowed with the new zoning is doubling the density. The lake simply can't handle that.

The county's issue for discussion on Tuesday is whether to allow a borrow pit to expand.

It's time the officials we have elected and the staff workers we have hired start working for us.

Stop bellyaching and get to work

In last week's article which was a prelude to this article, and several to follow, I began a discussion of taxes. Throughout the articles that I have been writing, I have attempted to stress the themes of community and individual sacrifice for the common good. I have often been quick to criticize those who would pursue their own individual interests above that of their fellow man. I believe that we have lost a sense of community and commonality, and as a result thereof, we each suffer as we each pursue our own individual interests at the expense of everyone else.

This spirit of selfishness is embodied in our present tax code and all the tinkering that we have made to it within the last 30 years. We are all familiar with the theory of taxation which suggests that it is bad to tax you or me when our government could just tax the man standing behind the tree. The problem arises when no one wants to pull any of their share let alone their fair share. We cannot preach responsibility to others when we practice irresponsibility at home.

In an effort to avoid hypocrisy I admit that I am as guilty as any reader of this article, and maybe more so than some, of not liking to pay taxes. I understand that taxes directly diminish disposable income, and that times are hard, and that the tax dragon as represented by the various state, local and federal taxes, usage/impact fees, and special assessments to which

Opinion

we all are plagued, is burdensome. But I realize two fundamental facts which are at work presently.

First, all these discussions about reducing taxes and tax breaks represent an elaborate shell game. Taxes are not being reduced, they are being increased, shifted, hidden and made more regressive. On the federal level, tax discussion represents one elaborate shell game which I am certain will result at the end of the day in our paying more taxes overall for a declining level of services.

Second, taxes buy services. If you are willing to forego taxes, then you should be willing to forego government services. I cringe every time I hear some person sitting in their governmentally subsidized home, using governmentally subsidized electricity, getting to and from work and having all manner of goods delivered to them on governmentally subsidized roads and highways, complain about all the taxes that they are paying. We all enjoy government subsidies, and the more that you participate in this society economically, i.e., the more money you have, the more you benefit and have benefited in the past from these subsidies. The idea that only the poor benefit from the subsidies and the rest of us have made it on our own is false. We have made it thus far because we have pulled together for the common good, and like boats in a marina, all ships rise with the tide, dingy and yacht alike.

Which brings me to the capital gains tax. Capital gains represent the money you earn when you realize a profit from the increase in value of an asset be it land, product, good or commodity at the time of sale of that item when that item is held for a period longer than one year. In common terms, it represents money made from money as opposed to money made from work. For years, and for no good reason that I understand, capital gains income has been treated differently and taxed differently than income derived from productive work.

Present discussions regarding this tax relate to the elimination of the capital gains tax altogether. This is sheer lunacy. We should be very careful of the message that this sends in an era when we need to stop bellyaching as a nation and roll up our sleeves and work toward a better tomorrow.

A parade is a parade is a...

Having lived in Tampa for about a quarter century starting at the age of 2, the local holiday "Gasparilla" makes perfect, albeit warped, sense to me.

That understanding is apparently not imprinted on the DNA passed along to my daughter.

Gasparilla is a holiday invented near the turn of the century as an excuse for the Tampanians to have a wild, drunken city-wide celebration a la Mardi Gras.

Early in February, a pirate ship sails into downtown discharging a band of wild, laughing, gun shooting (just blanks are in the chambers, so there is a lot of noise, but no physical harm) buccaneers.

Rather than wreaking actual havoc through town, these men — yes, it is a very sexist group of pirates (who 364 days a year are respected judges, doctors, attorneys and public officials) — lead a parade through town, cheered on by crazed townfolk intent on gathering as many tacky bead necklaces and cheap metal doubloons as possible.

Genevieve, hearing the blasting guns and screaming crowds, at the most recent celebration decided she might prefer to watch the parade from a distance.

"Maybe we'll go next year," she said, peering at the goings-on from inside the car on an overpass on the other side of the Hillsborough River. "Maybe we'll go the next year after that."

[Honestly, I think I viewed the parade with my index fingers wedged firmly to the second knuckle in my ears until I was ten. As I got older, I actually participated in the parade twice as part of a band of musically-untalented merrymakers, but that's another story...]

Eyes wide, Genevieve viewed the goings-on from afar.

"Why are those guys dressed like that?" "Do those ladies who are kissing them know all of them?"

"Why is everyone cheering for all the bad guys?"

Perhaps six is too young an age to expose a non-Tampanian to the depravity and near-debauchery that takes place on the streets during Gasparilla.

Compared to the civility that drapes parades in Sanford, the Gasparilla celebration is a peek beyond the gates of Hell. But, boy, is it a lot of fun.

Once a year, you can let your hair down. Even if you don't drink (I don't), you can have a lot of fun singing and dancing in the middle of the street, piling on the tackiest of costume jewelry and waving at friends on floats and in the bands.

"Look," said Genevieve pulling on my sleeve and peering over my shoulder. "They have school bands too."

High school marching bands, floats full of debutantes and Shriners' clown corps are as much a part of the parade as the pirates. Church groups often make huge sums of money hawking hot dogs and sodas or providing safe parking havens for parade goers.

"It's like a homecoming parade," said my veteran of many Seminole and Lake Mary high school homecoming parades. "It's just louder."

A parade allows us to be our more gregarious selves. Happy, Loud. Maybe even obnoxious. Then, at the conclusion, we sweep that part of our personalities away with the paper cups and broken necklaces and wait for next year.

So, perhaps, a parade is a parade is a parade.

Some are just louder than others.

Realizing value of education

Education is a very important part of the survival of African Americans in America. It is a very important stepping stone that gives African Americans an additional tool to succeed.

Many of the programs that were available during the Carter administration were abused by so many young African Americans. To many of them, it was just a way of getting money and not doing anything to earn it, and some of them had no intention of even trying to learn anything.

African Americans have come a long way since the days of slavery. In those days African Americans weren't allowed to learn how to read or write; it was against the law. Even then, slaves had the foresight to know that if they learned how to read and write, it would give them a better chance to improve themselves and their chances of getting out of bondage. They didn't know how or even when they would benefit from it, but they did know that it would be helpful to them or the coming generations. If they could see it, what is wrong with the younger generation of African Americans that can't see it now? Is it that they can't see the forest for the trees?

Many African Americans have made considerable improvements as far as education is concerned, but they still have a long way to go. Some of the older generation was only able to attend the second or third grade in school because they had to quit to go to work, to either help support the family or to finish raising their brothers and sisters.

After African Americans were given the right to get an education, they weren't allowed to go to school with white children. Their education was very limited until a few years ago, especially in the South. African Americans were far behind the white students on an educational level. Integration has made things a little better, but there are children that can read but don't understand what they have read.

Young African Americans now have more of an opportunity to get an education but a large number of them either don't appreciate it or are not willing to take advantage of it. Some of them go to school just to be the class clown. They don't want to learn anything and they want to stop others who want to learn by disrupting the class to the point that, if the teacher doesn't ask them to leave, she or he won't be able to teach the class.

Then there are some who act like they are doing the teacher a favor by coming to school. They don't have sense enough to realize the teacher already has her or his education and will still get paid, whether they (the students) learn anything or not.

Then they will have excuses for not wanting to get an education. They will say, "What good is it going to do you to get an education when you still won't be able to get a job?" They fail to realize that no one knows what the future may hold, and when opportunity knocks if they have the education, they will be able to take advantage of it. If slaves had thought the way that some people do, where would they be today? Education is a stepping stone and a tool in order to succeed.

Some of the young people think that if they know the ways of the street, they will be able to survive, but surviving and living are two different things. Surviving may give them the knowledge of how to hustle and how to live from day to day, but it in no way prepares them for the future. What if they decide that they are tired of living from day to day and are tired of the hustling and want to do something better with their lives? Will they be able to fill out a job application? If they have to take a test in order to get the job, will they be able to read the directions for taking the test? Will they be able to read the legal documents or contracts? By not getting an education, they have nothing to fall back on.

Some of them might be slow learners, but that should not discourage them. They should just keep on trying. There will be someone or people along the way who will see the effort that they are making and will help them. Always keep this thought in mind that people help those who help themselves.

To be able to get an education is a blessing. Please don't throw it away. African American ancestors worked too hard and sacrificed a great deal in order for their descendants to get an education.

Get an education. It is a stepping stone and a tool to a better life and for helping with the struggle for equality and civil rights. Also, the more that they know, the more they will be able to learn. And never forget that they will be the future leaders.

Homes

(Roberta) Padgett.

And soon, Bob Cassel's Victorian house, with multi-colored fish scale shingles and guardian gargoyles, will be featured in the magazine within the next few months as well.

"Sanford is happening," Walt Padgett said. "The antique shops, the restorations. This is where it is."

The Padgetts' Bed and Breakfast has been featured in various magazines, including Country Inns and Southern Living. The interest in Sanford generated by such exposure is "pretty amazing."

He noted that Sanford's charms have long been hidden, but like a treasure hidden deep within the ground, they are now being revealed in their glory.

Farrell spent two decades in Coconut Grove before making her way to Sanford several years ago by accident. She says she immediately "bonded" with this town.

"I love Sanford," she said. "It has so much to offer. There is so much here: the lake, the artists' community, the houses."

Farrell shares her firehouse home with a Yorkie affectionately called Chuck (the dog from hell) ("It's one word," she insists) and a parrot named Willie. There is also, perhaps, a ghost, but he has never given her any trouble.

When she first entered the firehouse to consider purchasing it, she said, the red brick walls were covered with cheap 1950s panelling, several windows were covered up, there were deep drop ceilings and the floors were so damaged that even where it was safe to walk "you couldn't even tell they were wood."

Still she knew this place, where her daughter refused to even enter, was her "dream home."

Now her four grandchildren regularly play in the bright, open spaces that have been born from the previous mess. The Padgetts restored the house that has become their inn one room at a time.

"We started off with one guest room and the rest of the place was closed off," he said. "Then as we were able to afford it, we did the other rooms."

Now, the inn has three guest rooms and an executive cottage amid beautiful gardens.

"It's no wonder magazines are starting to feature us (Sanford)," Padgett said. "This is a great place to be."

Farrell agreed. "Sanford is very cosmopolitan with a personality all its own, not like Mount Dora which is trying very hard to be Winter Park," she said. "Sanford is going to be the place to be. And there are a few dedicated people (such as the members of the historic trust) who have seen this and are making a difference here."

The homes that have been featured in national publications and, of late, in Orlando magazine, are but the tip of the iceberg in terms of the restoration that is taking place in Sanford.

"I'm sure there is so much more greatness coming to Sanford," Farrell said. "I'm glad to be a part of it now."

Pit

Many other individual letters were sent to the commission in 1993. They listed a number of problems they predicted would be brought about including noise, pollution, changes in nearby lake water levels and water purity, (Lake Silver and Lake Golden), traffic, safety, air pollution, and many others.

The letters, petitions and appearances before the commission by many of these residents proved futile. The county approved the 11.9-acre borrow pit.

Now, the request is to expand the size of the pit.

Phone calls and letters are again being sent to the Sanford Herald. Again, noise, pollution, safety, traffic and water quality have been brought to light as being in danger should the pit expand.

But the pit expansion is not the only item which is causing citizens to voice their objections. Vihlen and Benham have also asked for approval to allow the incineration of land clearing debris at the landfill site.

The matter has already been brought before the county Board of Adjustment, but was turned down. Now, Vihlen and Benham are asking the full county commission to overturn the BOA decision.

Citizens are also complaining about this problem. "They are already burning out there," said nearby resident Bob Schultz. "You should see it. The black smoke is just billowing up into the air and when the wind is blowing toward us, it's coming all over our homes."

"Now Mr. Vihlen says he can burn even more materials with this expanded borrow pit, without making any smoke," he continued. "I have to wonder what kind of magical trick he can pull in order to do that."

The public hearing for the request to expand the borrow pit is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 13, beginning at 1:30 p.m. in the County Services Building, 1101 E. First Street in Sanford. Residents have indicated the house will be packed.

The hearing on the request to overturn the BOA denial of the burning permit has been scheduled for February 27.

Session

next police chief position becomes available.

In preparation for the discussion Monday afternoon, City Manager Bill Simmons and Personnel Director Tim McCauley have compiled a list of the requirements for the position, imposed by five other area cities, including Altamonte Springs, Maitland, Lake Mary, Orlando and Casselberry.

In each of the five cities, the Chief of Police reports to the City Manager (Chief Administrative Officer in Orlando). Sanford has only recently realigned the responsibility to have the position fall under the city manager rather than the full city commission.

The requirements are somewhat varied between the five cities. Three of them require a four-year (bachelor's) degree. Maitland's requirements are for a "Bachelor's degree or equivalent experience in law enforcement or related fields."

Altamonte Springs does not specifically call for any college degree, but refers part of the requirements to the "Police Officers Job Description."

The amount of experience required by each of the cities varies from five years in Lake Mary, to 10 years in most of the other cities.

During discussion of the matter last month, Mayor Bettye Smith said she agreed with the proposal that Sanford return to the four-year college degree requirement.

City Manager Simmons was asked to prepare proper information for commission study. The information is to be presented for continuing consideration Monday afternoon during the city commission work session, beginning at 5 p.m. in the city manager's conference room at Sanford City Hall.

The regular city commission meeting will begin at 7 p.m. Monday. The qualifications matter had not been placed on the agenda for formal consideration as of Thursday.

Lorraine Sheraz cleaned out her workshop and found small amounts of varnishes and paints as well as cans of bug sprays and even some nail polish remover.

"You don't realize how much of this stuff you gather up over the course of a year or two," she said. "I guess it was about a year ago I came out and got rid of a whole bunch of stuff and here I am with all this."

Shane Dennis had two half used cans of fluorescent green spray paint in a plastic bag.

"I'm moving," he said. "I might as well get rid of this stuff so I don't lug it on to another apartment. I don't need it and I know they'll do the right thing with it."

Most people said they are grateful for the opportunity to be able to dispose of the toxic items properly.

"I don't ever know what I'm supposed to do with all this," John Fielder said. "It just sits there in the garage and I pile it up and pile it up. I guess my garage was a bomb waiting to go off. I'm glad they do this."

Not clowning around with health

Public health unit takes message to community

By VICKI DEBORNER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Though we usually associate the Fun World/Flea World complex with fun and games, there was some serious business going on there recently.

The HRS and the Seminole County Public Health Unit brought information to the public about the services that are available from the county and from the state regarding health.

Groups ranging from Meals on Wheels and Better Living for Seniors to the Seminole County 4-H program were on hand to talk to the public about the kinds of services they had to offer.

The programs all promote healthy lifestyle alternatives or services for those in need.

The groups were not there to sign people up, but rather to introduce the public to the wide array of services that are available.

Groups like Narcotics Anonymous were on hand to offer guidance and assistance to those with drug addiction problems, but they did not host a meeting at the event.

The representative groups at the event had a serious message to promote, but the day was lighthearted and fun. In addition to informational booths and people who were ready to answer questions there were puppet shows, silly skits and visits from a variety of clowns.

Professor Kno-Y the clown talked to young people about their health and the way their bodies deal with health issues.

The children as well as the adults had fun at the all-day event and there was a lot to be learned while strolling leisurely down the paths at the Fun World/Flea World complex.

The Seminole County Public Health Unit works with those who are less economically advantaged to be sure they are able to receive quality health care from qualified professionals. They also work to educate the general public about health care needs and about the services that are available to anyone who lives in the county.

The events sponsored by the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services and the Seminole County Public Health Unit have been very popular and successful. This is the third annual event at Flea World/Fun World.

Organizers are very pleased with the public's response.

For more information about services offered by the Public Health Unit, call them at 322-2724.

Swiss Scientists Discover New Energy Product

Lugano, Switzerland—After 25 years of research Lightning 8:8 was developed with the help of Swiss Laboratories. After extensive testing with amazing results, Lightning 8:8 is now available in the United States. Scientists are amazed at Lightning 8:8's results on improved memory, attitude and athletic performance.

In a double blind cross-over trial on university students in Italy, Lightning 8:8 was given twice daily for 12 weeks. The results were astonishing. Students obtained higher scores in math, logic and physical education.

This new discovery has been a windfall for working and active people that seem to run short of energy around mid-afternoon and need a little extra lift. Lightning 8:8 when taken in the morning gives a sustained, balanced form of energy throughout the day.

During an interview in Chicago, a beautician stated, "I used to go home exhausted after being on my feet all day. Now it's just incredible. I go home with extra energy and really enjoy my family more." Lightning 8:8 is a necessary boost for students, professionals and senior citizens.

Lightning 8:8 is now available at most K-Mart Pharmacies including:

Knights go to 5-0

KISSIMMEE — Shortstop Adrian Cardenas blooped a tie-breaking two-run double in the bottom of the sixth inning to give Central Florida an 8-3 win over North Carolina Saturday in the Olive Garden Classic.

Cardenas, whose error helped North Carolina (0-2) take a 1-0 lead, hit a sacrifice fly in the bottom of the fourth to break a 2-2 tie.

Central Florida (5-0) starting pitcher George Schmidt, making his second start of the season, earned the victory allowing three runs and two hits in six innings.

In the tournament's first three games Friday, Texas Tech, ranked No. 19 by Baseball America, beat North Carolina 12-4, No. 18 Alabama upset No. 5 Georgia Tech 7-2 and Central Florida won 5-4 over Wake Forest.

Lightning fall in O.T.

ST. PETERSBURG — Sergei Fedorov poked a rebound under Tampa Bay goaltender Daren Puppa 52 seconds into overtime to give the Detroit Red Wings a 3-2 victory over the Tampa Bay Lightning on Saturday.

Fedorov's 23rd goal and seventh game-winner of the season came after a shot from Steve Yzerman, who scored the other two goals for Detroit (38-10-4).

Tampa Bay (22-22-8) had a chance for the victory with seven seconds remaining in regulation, but Alexander Selivanov's shot sailed over the crossbar after a Detroit giveaway.

FSU gets home upset

TALLAHASSEE — Senior Scott Shepherd scored a career-high 21 points and four other Florida State players were in double figures as the Seminoles snapped a five-game losing slump with a 100-78 victory over Maryland.

Shepherd scored 15 of his points in Florida State's 65-point second half.

Florida State (11-9, 3-7 ACC) opened a 35-28 halftime lead as redshirt freshman Geoff Brower scored 13 of his 17 points. Brower has scored 17 points in each of his two starts this season.

Maryland (12-8, 5-5) was never in the game in the second half. The Terrapins had won five of their last six games including a win earlier in the week at North Carolina.

Johnny Rhodes scored 20 in a losing effort for the Terrapins, including 15 in the second half. Keith Booth added 17 points.

Corey Louis and LaMarr Greer added 16 points apiece and James Collins had 13 for Florida State, which had not won since a 75-62 victory over Clemson in mid-January.

Gators pound GSU

GAINESVILLE — Brad Wilkerson hit a grand-slam home run in a six-run seventh inning as Florida beat Georgia State 13-5.

Florida (3-1) took a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Sanford's David Eckstein scored on an infield groundout and Brian Ogle came home on a delayed double steal.

Georgia State (0-2) took the lead in the third inning, as Nathan Knight scored on Skip Reeves' grounder and Mark Mortimer doubled home Reeves and Jason Glover for a 3-2 lead.

Florida scored one run in the third and fourth before hitting three home runs in the seventh.

Eckstein led off the inning with a homer over the left-field fence. Wilkerson followed five batters later with a blast over the scoreboard and Lake Brantley's Eric Castaldo capped the inning off with a solo shot.

Sean Walsh continued the homerun onslaught in the eighth, hitting a two-run blast, and Chuck Hazzard followed with a solo bomb.

Eckstein ties record in UF romp

Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Seminole High School graduate David Eckstein went 4-for-7, hit for the cycle and tied a school-record nine RBI as Florida set all-time school records for hits, runs and margin of victory in drubbing Georgia State 31-0 Friday night.

The 14 runs in the seventh, which came from Florida sending 18 batters to the plate, fell four short of Florida's all-time high, which came on March 17, 1985, against Kentucky. The 30 runs broke the school record set against Tennessee on April 29, 1980.

Florida (2-1) jumped out early, scoring two runs in the first inning off Georgia State starter David Giancarlo. Sean Walsh singled home Brian Ogle, who had earlier doubled, and later scored on Chuck Hazzard's RBI groundout.

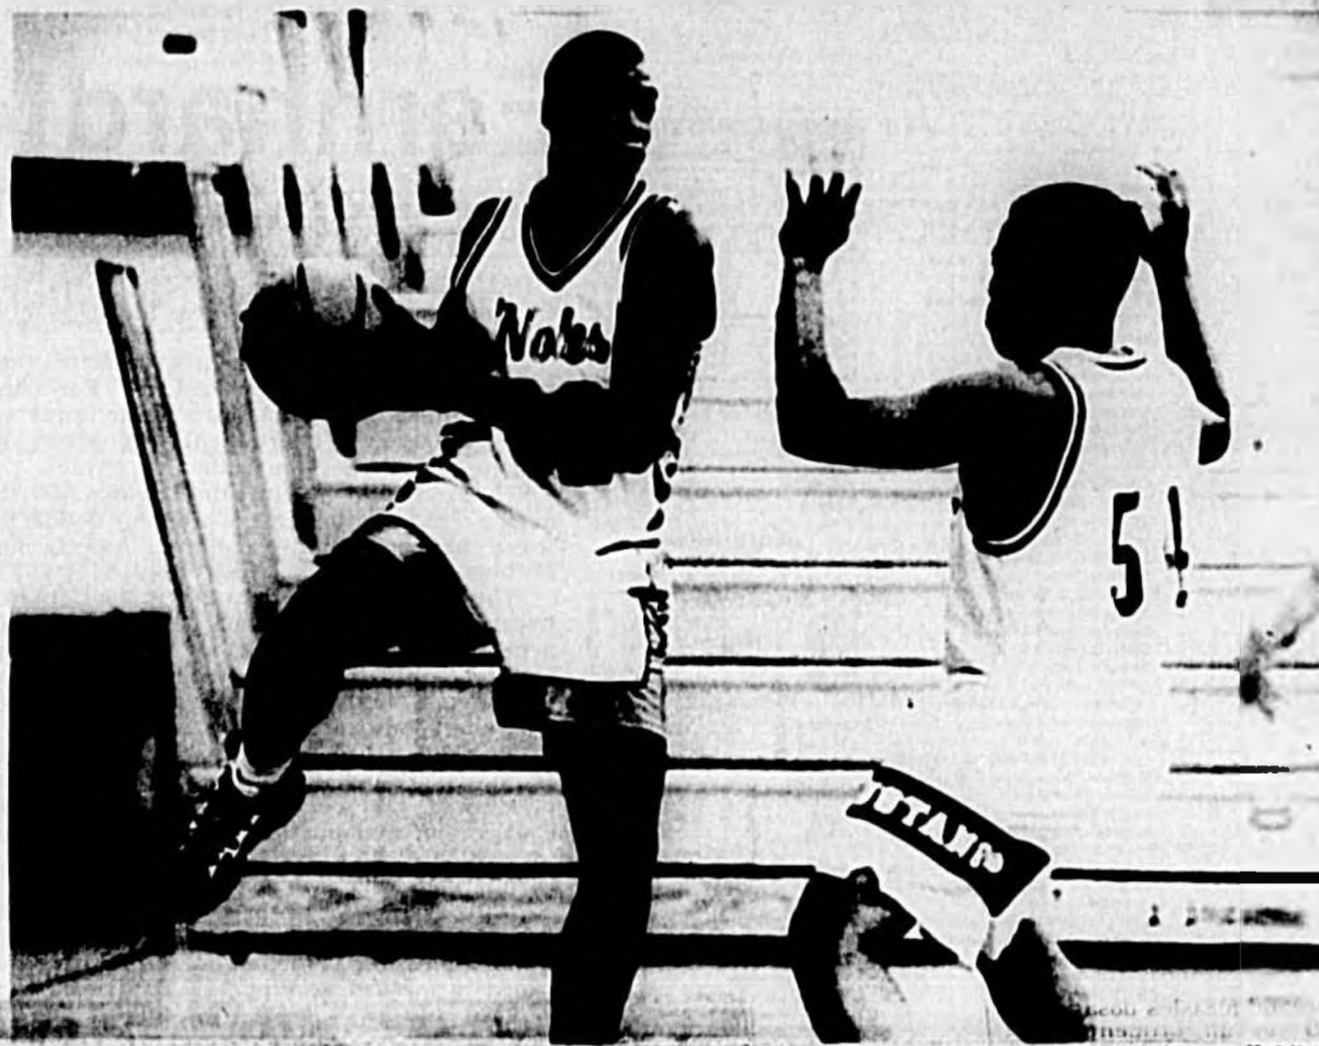

Florida made it 4-0 in the fourth on Chris Chiam's two-out, two-RBI triple down the left-field line. Chiam could have made it 5-0, but he was thrown out at home after attempting to steal.

Florida starter John Kaufman was effective in improving his record to 2-0. The lefthander scattered two hits over six innings and struck out eight.

SANFORD — Before Friday's Class 5A, District 6 boys' basketball game with Merritt Island at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium, Seminole honored senior basketball players Nate Hall and Chuck Smith along with senior cheerleaders Brooke Wagner and Natalie Raines.

The seniors then shined in the game as Hall had 18 points and Smith 14 to lead Arrow Force IV to a 67-38 win.

"Nate and Chuck played through a lot of adversity this year," said Seminole coach Bob Traina. "They were solid role players on a very good team last year. This season, they had to stand out in every game for us to have a chance to win."

Smith gave Seminole an early 7-0 lead to start the game, and Hall later pushed the margin to 11-2 a few minutes later. The Mustangs closed the gap to 13-8, but Arrow Force IV had a 19-10 lead at the end

Time runs out on Lyman

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — "Defense, defense, defense," Lyman head coach Norman Ready told his team during a late fourth quarter time out.

Down 20 points (65-45) at one point in the fourth quarter, Ready was trying to get his Greyhounds to stop the New Smyrna Beach High School Barracudas from driving the baseline.

And while Lyman tried to honor their coaches pleas, it proved to be too little, too late as the Cudas hung on for a 75-68 boys' basketball victory Friday night at The Tank in New Smyrna Beach.

From the start it looked like the Greyhounds were in for a long night against the state's seventh ranked Class 5A squad. Lyman just could not keep New Smyrna Beach from driving the baseline for the easy two.

The Cudas took a 19-14 first quarter lead, built it up to 25-16, but the Greyhounds slid back into the contest by closing the gap to 25-21 with 4:21 left in the half.

That was as close as it would get. At the half, Lyman was down by seven, 38-29. By the end of the third period, the Greyhounds dropped further behind as the Cudas ran their lead up to 14, 55-41.

The gap grew to 20 before Lyman's defense tightened up and started denying the Cudas easy points.

With 2:03 to go, Tavaron Raymon drove in for a basket and then hit two free throws on an intentional foul, moving the Greyhounds to within 69-60.

Lyman would continue the run, outscoring New Smyrna Beach 8-6, but time ran out on the Greyhound comeback.

LAKE MARY — Fans and players alike welcomed back high school baseball Friday night with the first two games of preseason action in the First Pitch Classic at Lake Mary high school.

The Rams, who played host to the event, and fellow partisans, witnessed a display of patient hitting and good base running by district foe Seminole High School, as the Fighting Seminoles routed Okeechobee High School 12-2.

The Fighting Seminoles built a four run lead after one inning when a wild pitch scored center fielder Rob Denmon for the games first run. Then first baseman Chris Louwsma hit a single that drove in second baseman Tim Raines Jr. for a 2-0 lead. After a single by shortstop Alex Acosta made it 3-0, a bases loaded walk by Okeechobee starter Shawn Crews put the Seminoles up 4-0.

"Our hitting was suspect coming into the game," Seminole Head Coach Mike Powers said. "Though with very little batting practice, I would say we looked pretty good."

Leading 4-2 in the bottom of the sixth inning, the Fighting Seminoles broke the game wide open by scoring eight runs.

Okeechobee pitcher John Baillie, who relieved Crews after four innings, gave up three hits, six walks, and two wild pitches in the eight run debacle.

The winning pitcher, Jim Rabun, seemed to be in sync in his six innings of work. Rabun, who had a no-hitter after four innings, struck out seven of the 19 batters he faced. "He had good command of his pitches the whole game," Powers added.

Rabun's only flaw came with one out in the fifth, when Okeechobee third baseman Todd Hackett hit a double, followed by catcher Jason Chapman's home run that closed the Seminole lead 4-2.

However, Jason Flanagan, in his first game since little league, came on in relief to earn the save.

The night cap featured a superb pitching performance by Lake Mary pitchers Robert Vessey, Ryan Mau, and Mike Kapsak. The trio combined for 14 strikeouts, while only giving up two hits, as the Rams beat visiting Martin County 4-2.

Martin County took a 2-0 lead after one inning, when both center fielder Dave Mullins and shortstop Chris Murray scored on a passed ball.

However, after the first inning, it was all Lake Mary pitching. After giving up the two runs, Vessey went on to strike out five of the next nine batters he faced.

Magic searching for answers to road woes

By FRED GOODALL
AP Sports Writer

ORLANDO — The Orlando Magic are perfect at home and vulnerable on the road, a mix that could undermine their chances of returning to the NBA Finals.

Despite a 34-14 record that's only four games off the pace the Atlantic Division leaders set in winning a franchise-record 57 games last year, a sub .500 mark away from Orlando Arena has raised serious questions about the defending Eastern Conference champions.

Critics wonder how a team can play so well at home, yet not develop the type of confidence necessary to consistently win on the road.

"It must be mental," All-Star point guard Anfernee Hardaway said. "We're good enough to win anywhere. It's just a matter of getting it done."

The Magic are 25-0 on their homecourt, but just 9-14 on the road where they lost six of eight games in January and are 0-2 this month.

Three months ago, nobody could have convinced him that the Magic would be good enough to have the second-best record in the East at this point if Shaquille O'Neal missed 26 games and Horace Grant sat out 15 because of injuries.

Hardaway, Nick Anderson and Dennis Scott all raised their level of play to make it possible.

"The only thing that disturbs me is our play on the road," said Hill. "I'm hoping now that we finally have our health and regular lineup back that we can develop the consistency we need to be one of the premier teams."

The starting five that carried the Magic to the Finals last spring has been together as a unit for only nine games this season. Barring more injuries, Hill is eyeing a strong finish.

Orlando may not be able to catch Chicago (41-5) for the best record in the East, but the Magic can close the gap between the teams by improving on the road.

O'Neal promises as much. "The NBA season is peaks and valleys. We did the same thing last year," he said. "We've got a long way to go. We're going to be all right. I'm not worried."

After compiling a 14-9 road record before the All-Star break last year, the Magic went 4-14 the second half of the season, including 0-7 in April.

Chicago's blazing start has magnified Orlando's problems this year.

"It almost makes everybody on the outside feel like what we've done is a huge disappointment," Hill said.

"But I certainly don't feel that way. And, I don't want our team to feel that way because we haven't been healthy. To have the second-best record after all we've been through, I wouldn't have envisioned that. And now that we have everybody back, I think we're going to be a team that everybody's going to have to reckon with."

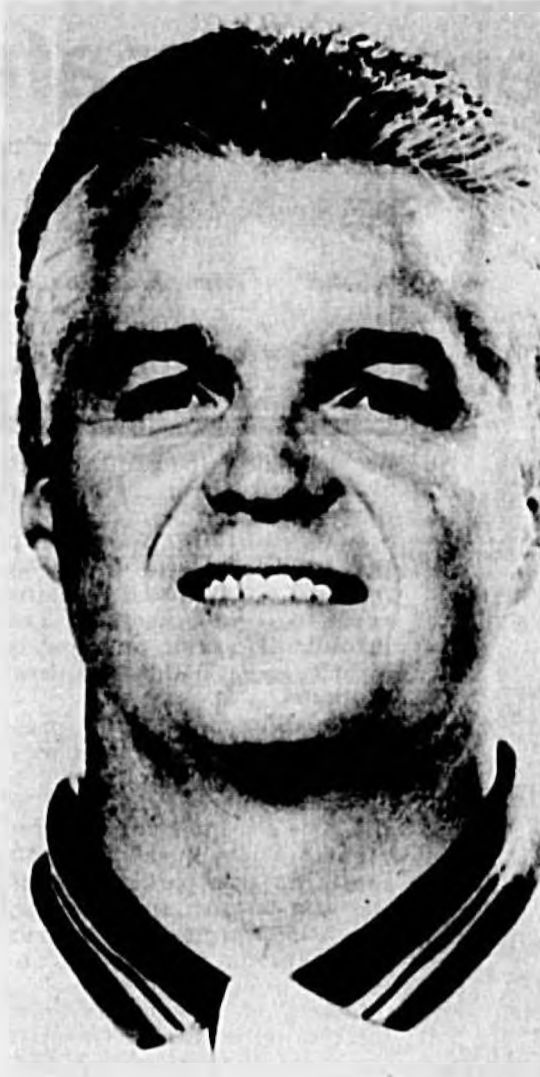

One of Orlando's second-half goals is to play better defense, especially on the road.

The Magic averages just over 105 points, while allowing 95 per game at home. Opponents are scoring 103, while holding them to just under 99 on the road.

O'Neal and Hardaway also will be crucial to how fast the Magic can develop the kind of maturity that helps teams like Chicago, with Michael Jordan and Scottie Pippen, excel on the road.

"I think those two guys almost will their team to win night-in and night-out by their play and their leadership," Hill said.

"I don't think we've reached that point yet. It's something that I'm hoping we get to. But whether it's going to be this year, or it's a year or so away, I'm not sure. ... But we certainly can play a lot better from the standpoint of our concentration level, our energy level and bringing our defensive averages down."

It was the second loss of the season for Lyman against the Barracudas, as NSB edged the Greyhounds 67-59 back in December.

It was also the fourth loss this year for Lyman in The Tank, as the Greyhounds had lost to Tampa-Jeauli, Ft. Lauderdale and Dunnellon in the Cuda Holiday Invitational at Christmastime.

The game was marred by 46 personal fouls, 28 on Lyman, and 38 turnovers, 22 by the Greyhounds.

Following the game, Ready reiterated his message to the players in the locker room.

"It's a game of defense, defense, defense and more defense," Ready said. "You have got to play tough."

Ready said he could not stress the point enough that defense was the key to winning against New Smyrna Beach, particularly in The Tank where they have only lost once this season.

Looking back on the game in general, Ready said he was not happy with the way his team defended the hoop, at least not until late in the fourth quarter.

"Then they started doing the most important thing, playing defense," said Ready. "If we could have played defense like that all along, we could have taken that seven point deficit and made it a seven point lead."

On Monday, the Greyhounds are slated to travel to Lake Howell to take on the Silver Hawks in the first round of the Class 6A-District 4 tournament.

In their previous two meetings, Lake Howell has dunked the Greyhounds, the last time running away to an 11-point win.

But Ready said if the intensity his team played with in the fourth quarter Friday carries over, the Lyman-Lake Howell bout could have a different ending.

"I just hope we continue to play where we left off (tonight)," said Ready. "Then it should be a good game."

RAMS COLLAR BULLDOGS

DeLAND — Sophomore Paul Betk poured in 33 points as Lake Mary closed out the regular season with a 95-88 clubbing of DeLand Friday night.

Also in double figures for the Rams were Jason Junker and Chip Richardson (13 points each), Wesley Jackson (12 points) and Matt Townsley (10 points).

Lake Mary (21-5) will play the winner of Monday night's Lyman-Lake Howell game on Wednesday at Lake Howell in the Class 6A-District 4 Tournament.

In other boys' game Friday night, Lake Brantley and Oviedo, which will play each other at Lake Howell on Wednesday night, both fell, the Patriots dropping a 60-46 decision at Ocoola and the Lions falling 69-63 in overtime at Spruce Creek. Lake Howell, which will host Lyman Monday night, blasted visiting First Academy 71-54.

Club reviews personal safety; bride-elect honored

The regularly scheduled meeting of the Woman's Club of Sanford was held at the clubhouse Wednesday in a romantic red and white Valentine setting.

Dotti Burkett CPP, Community Service Officer of the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, spoke to the women about crime prevention. She gave the women numerous tips on personal safety and told the members to be aware of people surrounding them and take note of their weight, eyes and height. A good way to calculate height, she said, is to remember that a standard door is six feet, eight inches high and victims can use this as a gauge for determining height.

Among the tips she presented was when recording a message on telephone answering machines, have a dog barking in the background of the outgoing message. The speaker also suggested using a timer while away from home.

Burkett further suggested to know your neighbors in today's world when people insulate themselves from their surroundings. The program was "terrific."

Crowds attend Italian night

The crowds kept pouring into the Sanford Woman's Club last Saturday night to attend the club's annual Italian Night. The night was just meant for a plate of steaming spaghetti while the weekend cold weather was settling in.

Pat Bowen, chairman, said she was real pleased with the record turnout. "Everybody just raves about the spaghetti! Carl (Dietrich) cooks," she said.

The stage area featured tall white Roman columns adorned with Italian memorabilia. Italian posters and other Italian accents were used throughout the auditorium.

Red and white table cloths and napkins decorated the tables which were centered with goblets filled with green straw and miniature Italian flags and also hurricane lamps.

Jean Metts, immediate past president, delighted the guests with background piano music featuring a medley of tunes from golden oldies to favorite pop pieces.

Committee members served the guests wearing red-checked aprons, white blouses and bow ties. There were many patrons who took advantage of the carry-out service and others enjoyed dining in the friendly Italian ambience at the club.

Black Women's Congress leader surprised on birthday

What a surprise for a grand lady.

Corine Van Wilson, a woman of great love for others, always places the concerns of others first. She encourages her sisters of the Central Florida Chapter of the International Black Women's Congress, Inc. to step out, aim for success and encourages them to support each other.

She was the focus of the surprise session called by her sisters. A setting of birthday decorations and a sign that stated the occasion "Happy Birthday, Corine Van Wilson" was in evidence at the Sanford Garden Club.

Guests attending this joyous affair saw her surprise as she entered the club to hear an address to be given to a group of young students. There were no students but singing "Happy Birthday" to her were family, friends and sisters of the I.B.W.C. How happy the honoree was as she greeted her guests. The evening of fun, food and music was a celebration fit for a queen.

Give her her flowers while she can smell them and enjoy the beauty of them. Let us say not enough about a lovable lady.

Corine Van Wilson is a native of Oviedo who returned to the Seminole County area after living in Rochester, N.Y. She is the founder of the local chapter of I.B.W.C. In 1992, the chapter was organized and installed by Dr. La Francis Rodgers-Rose, the national president.

The organization under the leadership of President Wilson has sponsored three annual conferences/workshops to provide special training to families, youth, individuals, and community. This last December's theme was "The Black Family, Alive and Well." These conferences are held throughout the Central Florida area. For 1995, the C.F.C.I.B.W.C. held their first "ONI Scholarship Gala."

The funds received from this affair will go to two deserving students who will attend a college of their choice, and the state will match dollar for dollar what was raised.

During Black History Month, we salute Corine Van Wilson, president of the only I.B.W.C. in the state of Florida, and the over 30 members for their service to the community, for being involved and dealing with the issues that confront our black community. These women are concerned with the growing poverty and negative stereotypes of black women. Their aim is to enhance the quality of life for women of African descent. Their objective is to bring together women of African descent for support, socio-

LAKE MARY — Fran Neville and William Mills of Lake Mary are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Erika Lynn, to James Manuel Bettencourt, son of Robert and Madeline Bettencourt (Teixeira) of New Bedford, Mass.

Born in Sanford, the bride-elect is the maternal granddaughter of Thomas and Betty Quillin of St. Petersburg.

Ms. Mills is a 1988 graduate of Lake Mary High School, Lake Mary.

She was employed as an assistant teacher at the School of Dance Arts, Sanford and is presently employed as a dancer at Andy Williams Moon River Theater, Branson, Mo.

Her fiancé, born in New Bedford, Mass. is the maternal grandson of James and Olive Teixeira of New Bedford and the paternal grandson of the late Mr. Joseph and Mrs. Amelia Bettencourt, formerly of Nantucket, Mass.

Bettencourt is a 1985 graduate of New Bedford High School. He is a 1989 graduate of Boston University with a bachelor's of music degree in music performance and music education.

He is currently employed as a musician at the Andy Williams Moon River Theater.

The wedding will be an event of Feb. 9, 1997.

Freeze chills out graduation fete; support needed

Lake Mary High School is trying to raise funds for the "Project Graduation," a service to the students that provides a drug and alcohol free environment where the students can celebrate and have fun and remain safe after graduation from high school. Movies and games, music and food, good conversation and whatever else the students can think to occupy themselves that is safe will be provided in a lock-in-type situation for "Project Graduation."

The best of all is the door prizes provided by local merchants and parents. The goal is to provide a check for $1,000 to some lucky student who graduates from Lake Mary High School this year. The money, of course, can be used for anything the lucky student wishes, but it is presumed that the money will be used to further the education of the student.

The reason the chairman of "Project Graduation" sponsored the Lake Mary High School Carnival was to help provide the money for the major door prize, the $2,000. Unfortunately, the weather did not cooperate with the spending goals. It was the "freeze" weekend and most of the students and their parents were indoors trying to keep warm.

The Showtime Dance Studio of Longwood sent several performances to the Lake Mary High School Carnival. The numbers performed were excellently choreographed and arranged, and the high level of enthusiasm and passion for dance exhibited by the performers in light of the frigid weather was very much appreciated by the audience.

The adults present commended the students on their spirit in facing the cold temperatures and having to dance on the uneven blacktop that was roped off for a stage. Two such ardent troopers were Shelly Harris and Jennifer Garaffa, both 9 years old and fourth graders who performed a number called, "Best Friends."

Jennifer attends Altamonte Christian School and has been a Showtime dance student for the past six years. Her favorite teachers at Showtime are Miss Denise and Georgia.

Miss Denise has taught her dance since she was 3 years old and Jennifer considers her a friend as well as a teacher. Jennifer takes ballet, hip-hop, and company. Company is a competition group performing in parades and attending competitions around the state of Florida. Other interests include basketball and kick ball and Jennifer hopes to make the team on her school's sixth grade girl's basketball team in another two years.

The other half of the "Best Friends" duo is Shelly Harris who attends St. Luke's Lutheran School. She has been attending ballet, jazz and modern dance classes at Showtime for the past four years. This year, she added a class called "character" which includes dance steps and movements from all the other classes and adds distinctive facial characteristics to further illustrate the mood she is trying to project in the performance.

If you are interested in supporting "Project Graduation," please send your contribution to Lake Mary High School Project Graduation, P.O. Box 950097, Lake Mary, FL 32795-0097.

Women's club holds auction

The Longwood Civic League Women's Club held their annual Silent Auction during their February meeting, an event used to raise funds for their annual high school scholarship fund. Each of the members of the Longwood Civic League brings several items that other members silently place bids on, the highest bid winning the donated item. The delicious luncheon was sponsored this month by Margaret McCoy and her mother, Mary Monas.

The Longwood Civic League Women's Club meets the first Tuesday of each month, September through May. For further information, please call the membership chairperson, Eloise Duncan, at 830-5612 or call the president, Caroline Bistline at 830-9459.

Baby Daisy honored at shower; Olde Lake Mary Days coming

You never really have to change her diapers, but she does cry for your attention every three hours or so. Her name is Daisy and she's the newest Girl Scout in the Stardust Service Unit in Lake Mary. Last year, the Lake Mary Community Improvement Association in Lake Mary donated the money for Troop 148 to get Daisy for the Service Unit.

Daisy is a Baby Think It Over. She is the brainchild of a former Lockheed engineer who thought the flour sack babies some middle school health classes use aren't as effective as a crying baby would be. The troops in Stardust will be using the doll with the Contemporary Issues Booklet, "Decisions for Your Life."

But before anyone could use Daisy, she had to have some stuff! All she had when she arrived in Lake Mary was one diaper. She needed clothes, a stroller, a car seat, and everything else that goes with a baby. So, Brownie Troop 1592 and Junior Troop 1431 held a baby shower for Daisy. Girls in Stardust found some of their old baby clothes and baby items for Daisy, and bought some new things for her.

The shower was scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 3 at Celebration Church in Lake Mary. Before they came, each troop was allowed to pick two names to submit for consideration. (Until the shower, Daisy didn't have a name.) The girls posted their names as they came in and then the games began.

The first game was a "Guess the Baby Food Contest." Troops were shown five different jars of baby food without the labels and asked to guess what kind of fruit or vegetable each was. Cadette Troop 148 won the contest with four out of five right. (They missed the sweet potatoes.)

Daisy Troop 458 won the "What's Wrong With This Picture?" contest. Troop 148 won again in the baby items word scramble. (They were the oldest ones there.) Brownie Troop 1592 came in second. Brownie Troop 1050 and Troop 148 tied in the "Guess the Length of the Baby" contest. She's 19 inches long.

The "Pick the Name" contest was the last contest held. Out of all the names submitted, Daisy got the most votes. That name was submitted by Amberly Bolton and Lindsay Loe of Troop 1050. For those of you who don't know, Daisy was the nickname of Juliette Gordon Low, the founder of Girl Scouts in the United States.

The three Daisies from Troop 458 opened the presents for the baby Daisy. Daisy got everything she needed: clothes, bottles, pacifiers, toys, blankets, a stroller, a car seat and a diaper bag. She also got a photo album to keep up with all the wonderful places she goes and all the wonderful girls she visits.

Festival set March 30

Olde Lake Mary Days is approaching more rapidly than last year, but no one at the Lake Mary Historical Commission meeting Monday, Feb. 5 panicked at the second-to-last meeting before the event on March 30. Or if they were panicking, they hid it well.

The guest for the meeting was Larry Lucas, former vice president of the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce. With the help of DeLores Lash, Larry put together Lake Mary's first recycling center in 1988. A joint project of the city, the chamber and Western Waste, the project was the first total recycling center in Central Florida. Larry presented a written and a pictorial record of the recycling center to the Lake Mary Historical Commission. Margaret Wesley, librarian for the commission, gratefully accepted the items.

In other business, Olde Lake Mary Days is coming more than a month sooner than it did last year. The move to March 30 and cooler temperatures is not impeding anyone's plans. The entertainment is looking good, crafters and artisans are sending in their applications, civic groups are planning their displays, and the Kids Korner will be fun for all.

In the Frank Evans Center, Deb Myer from Creative Memories will be displaying some of the albums the commission members have been working on. Harriett Boyd will be setting up her railroad display and the Orange County Museum will bring their hands-on textile display for children.

Quite a number of civic groups are set for Olde Lake Mary Days.

And the Kids Korner is shaping up to be bigger and better than last year. Already the FOX 35 Kids Club has agreed to be on hand and there'll be games and fun for all the kids.

The YMCA will once again be staging a 5K run that will begin at 8 a.m. on Saturday, March 30. The run will begin at Lake Mary Elementary and end on the stage at Lake Mary City Hall to begin Olde Lake Mary Days. Due to the fact that the amphitheater is still underwater, the city is making alternate plans for a stage.

If you're interested in being in the 5K, call the YMCA at 321-8944. If you would like to display your arts or crafts, pick up an application from City Hall any time during business hours. If you'd like to be part of Kids Korner, call Mary Rowell at 321-1498.

WIN AT BRIDGE

The three modern "musts"

By Phillip Alder

Over lunch one day last fall, after beating me by several shots, Buzzy Cox asked me: "If I already use Stayman and Blackwood, which five other bidding gadgets should I add to my system?"

Immediately I replied, "Weak two-bids, limit raises in the majors (with a three-no-trump response being the forcing raise) and transfer bids." Then I stopped, unable to think of any others.

So two days later Cox transferred his allegiance from the golf course to my class on Jacoby Transfer Bids at that Shangri-La in Florida, Jupiter Island. Here is an auction that highlights one advantage of transfer bids. North responds with two hearts, promising at least five spades. Then he continues with three diamonds, showing his second suit and game values below the level of three no-trump, which one cannot do without the aid of transfers. South, with no fit for either suit, selects three no-trump. (True, here four spades should make, but 5-2 fits aren't to be encouraged and three no-trump is the more interesting declarer-play exercise.)

West leads the heart seven: eight, five, jack.

Using the Rule of Eleven, South knows that West has a string of hearts ready to run if East gets the lead to play the suit through the K-10. This makes taking the spade finesse very dangerous. The best play is to cross to dummy with a diamond and take a club finesse.

Suppose South plays his queen and West, after winning with the king, returns a spade. Declarer should play
