Justice

It May Cost More In Seminole

Justice is never cheap, but in Seminole County it may soon get even costlier.

Faced with a tight budget and a public in no mood for higher property taxes, county commissioners have for weeks been looking for ways of raising more money without having to dip into the pockets of taxpayers.

They think they may have found some relief in the courts.

Fees charged by the various offices that make up the county's judicial system — the clerk of the court, Domestic Relations Commissioner, and guardian ad litem (a program providing independent representatives for children suspected of being abused or neglected) — "could be going up," according to commission chairman Bob Sturm.

"The staff currently is reviewing our present fee structure with an eye toward bringing them in line with those charged in surrounding counties," Sturm said. "Just how much money we could raise by upping the fees, I don't know. The study should be finished by the time the new budget goes into effect October 1."

Needing every penny they can get, commissioners say they would also like to see judges start hitting criminals with stiffer monetary penalties once the malefactors have been brought before the bar of justice. "But we have no control over that," Sturm said. "That's the judges' turf. All we can do is recommend."

They can recommend from now until Dorn's Day as far as Chief Seminole Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler is concerned. "We're not going to levy more fines just because the county needs money," Leffler said. "We use fines as punishment, not as a revenue producer. Our job is dispensing justice, not fund raising." Leffler added that many of the people he and his colleagues deal with "aren't in a position to shoulder higher fees. How are they supposed to pay it, go out and steal some more? The criminal element is not one of those places the county can expect to get more revenue."

Maybe not, but persons filing lawsuits in the civil courts usually have money and the county wants some of it. "Compared to surrounding counties, our fee scale is very low," Sturm said. "We may be raising those." Sturm added that filing a civil action here costs $32 while in Volusia County, the figure is $50, $47 in Orange, $45.50 in Brevard, and $35 in Lake County.

Had all of the 4,234 cases filed last year in Seminole civil courts been charged at the higher $50 rate, the county's coffers would have been $75,284 fatter. "When you're talking about a proposed budget the size of ours — $42 million — that's small potatoes. But every little bit helps," Sturm said.

This scene may soon become a common sight at the Seminole County Courthouse — lawsuit-filing attorneys forking over increasing sums of money in order to get their clients a day in court.

While Sturm may think the courts could pull more of their fiscal weight, the figures show that the legal system isn't doing all that badly in handling its finances. According to the Seminole County Office of Management and Budget, the county's courts — both county and circuit — are expected to produce a total of $40,000 in revenue next year, primarily in traffic fines.

On the other hand, the 1981-82 pricetag for operating the court system is anticipated to be $491,392, a difference of $51,392 in red ink.

Slack that up against the largest single county agency — the sheriff's office — and the contrast is remarkable. Sheriff John Polk has requested roughly $6.2 million for next year, but his department will raise only about $140,000 of that itself, mainly through the service of legal summonses, the housing of state and federal prisoners and the return on an interest-bearing bank account.

OMB analyst Pam Hastings noted that Polk "could lay claim to some of that money which includes all the traffic tickets his men write, but how much of that you could really consider his I don't know."

Sturm, who during the past several weeks of budget hearings has admitted "not been awayed very much by the sheriff's outcry for more money," concedes that Polk has "little opportunity" to produce more revenue. "We're not going back to the old speed trap days when you fill your money needs by writing traffic tickets. That doesn't bring in that much revenue anyway, plus you have to pull men off patrol to do it," said Sturm.

"Since he can't bring in more money, I feel he should spend less," Sturm said. "What I've been saying is that the sheriff should manage his budget a little more tightly. Maybe he should bring in a management consultant to show him how to do that."

"All I know is that we have three alternatives — cut costs, come up with more money from somewhere, which is what we're trying to do, or cut back services," Sturm said. "It's that simple." — By BRITT SMITH

Winter Springs Eyes 20 Percent Tax Hike

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Following a 3½-hour budget hearing, Winter Springs city councilmen reluctantly agreed Tuesday to a tentative 20 percent municipal property tax increase for fiscal year 1981-82 which begins Oct. 1.

However, emphasizing that the budget fight has just begun, council members promised to whittle the tax hike down, possibly to nothing, before the final budget is adopted.

The council found itself between a rock and a hard place Tuesday night, needing to set a tentative tax rate for next year so the county property appraiser can begin his work, but unable to agree on exactly where city revenues will be coming from and how they will be spent.

"It's kind of tough," noted Mayor Troy Piland, to set a tax rate "when you're not sure how much money you're going to need to run the city."

For the proposed $1.9 million 1981-82 budget, he said, the tax rate was set at $2.55 per $1,000 of assessed property value, 50 cents higher than the present rate.

"After you've set a tentative rate, you can't raise it, only lower it. So, until we get the budget in final shape, we set it higher than we'll probably really need," Piland said.

The current Winter Springs tax rate is $2.05 per $1,000 of assessed value for the city's $1.8 million budget.

The council will continue work on the proposed budget Thursday in a workshop which is set to begin at 6 p.m. in city hall on N. Edgemon Avenue.

During Tuesday night's session, the major topics of discussion were salaries for the city's 58 employees and funding for the initial phase of a paramedic program okayed by voters last November.

The five council members started off approving the $786,115 needed to maintain the status quo — hold the line on pay and new personnel — but eventually wound up where City Manager Richard Hozansky wanted them: at $894,352 which would include a 10 percent across-the-board cost of living increase plus a 2 percent raise for certain long-time employees, and four new workers — two in the police department and two for public works.

As proposed, the extra $108,237 would come from the city's reserve fund and would not necessitate a tax hike.

Councilmen Hap Arnold and Jim Hartman derided the proposal as unnecessary and inflationary.

"We're going to give a 10 percent raise on top of the 10 percent we gave last year!" Arnold asked. "That's way too high. I propose we go no more than 5 percent."

Hartman said he couldn't go along with the pay plan because "private industry isn't giving 10 percent raises. I don't think we can afford to either."

"We have to," retorted councilman John Torcaso. "We have a good crew here and I want to keep them. I can't see somebody working for the city for $8,000 or $9,000 a year and trying to support a family. I don't see anything at all wrong with a 10 percent increase."

The four new employees will cost the city $28,161 next year. The two police officers will be hired during the second half of the fiscal year and will represent a net increase of only a single patrolman because one officer is being pulled off the road to work crime prevention and community relations.

In justifying his request for two new men, Police Chief John Govorukh said, "The population is up, the number of calls we receive is up, and the crime rate is up."

"Well, if the department is short of manpower, why can't we call on the sheriff's department to help us cover the city?" Piland asked. "We're paying taxes to the county, which includes the sheriff's office. We should make use of it."

Govorukh had no answer to the mayor's query, but said he would look into the matter.

The council seemed in agreement that the first-year start-up cost for equipment for the proposed paramedic program and four paramedics would run about $89,000 with $14,000 of that coming from federal revenue sharing sources.

The only bone of contention was, as councilman Martin Trencher put it, "Just where are we going to come up with our $75,000?"

The easiest way to do it would be through property taxes, Piland said. That's where that extra 50 cents tax tentatively agreed on comes in, he added.

But councilmen seemed determined not to raise taxes and instead engaged in some rather desultory talk about creating a special taxing district, raising the sales tax, or dipping into the reserve fund.

Ultimately, council members took no action and agreed to try to come up with a concrete proposal for debate during Thursday's budget hearing.

GNP Shifts Into Reverse

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The economy abruptly shifted into reverse from April through June and the gross national product declined 1.8 percent on an annual basis — the first drop since last year's recession, the government reported today.

The surprising drop was matched by some good news, the smallest inflation surge in three years, the Commerce Department said.

As measured within the gross national product, prices during the second quarter — April through June — rose at an annual rate of only 6 percent. In the second quarter of 1978, prices went up 5.8 percent.

The GNP, after seasonal adjustment, was $281 billion — $2.68 trillion — the first decline since last year's recession-struck second quarter, when GNP plummeted 9.9 percent.

From January through March, the economy amazed analysts by expanding at a rate of 8.6 percent.

Auto sales that did not take place were the most prominent feature of the preliminary measure of GNP. The value of cars sold during the second quarter dropped by $10.5 billion.

But the drop was mostly wiped out in the final figure because the government counted cars held by dealers, an inventory buildup of $11 billion over the first quarter.

The decline in GNP was widespread throughout the economy, led by an $18.5 billion drop in final sales and a badly slumping housing industry.

Fixed investment showed a 9.7 percent plunge, computed on an annual basis, and residential housing investment, measured alone, accelerated downward by 20.6 percent.

Exports decreased by 5.3 percent on an annual basis and government output was down by 4.7 percent.

In dollar terms, personal consumption expenditures were down $4.5 billion, residential housing investment was down $3 billion and net exports were down $5 billion.

The Commerce Department does not compute corporate profits as part of this first preliminary reading of GNP. It will be revised twice in the next few weeks. Revisions of first quarter figures sent GNP up an additional 2 percent.

After adjustment for inflation as well as seasonal factors, second quarter GNP decreased by only half a percent.

After-tax corporate profits for the first quarter rose 2.3 percent, recovering to slightly above the level before the recession.

Prices, measured within the GNP figure, were up 9.8 percent at an annual rate for that first three-month period.

House Committee Finishes Democratic Tax Plan

Reagan Wins One, Loses One On Social Security Minimum Benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, pressing Congress to eliminate the minimum Social Security benefit that now goes to 3 million Americans, won the vote that counted and lost the one that didn't.

The Senate voted 52-48 Tuesday to back the president and defeat a bid to save the $122-a-month minimum payment.

Specifically, the Senate voted to reaffirm its decision to eliminate benefits for those who do not make enough payroll tax contributions to qualify for minimum payments. The House, which along with the Senate approved ending the minimum benefit as part of last month's budget debate, reversed itself, 405-13, later Tuesday.

But House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois, noting the resolution was non-binding and therefore lacked legal weight, told his troops not to oppose it to avoid giving the Democrats political fodder.

All this took place while 9,000 angry senior citizens, carrying signs reading "Fair play for the aged" and "Save our security," demonstrated their opposition to any cuts in retirement benefits on the Capitol steps.

House and Senate negotiators attempting to iron out differences in the chambers' separate budget bills could reinstate the $122 minimum monthly benefit — but the Senate vote makes it unlikely they will do so.

Nevertheless, the Senate Democratic Conference later vowed to "continue to fight to defend Social Security benefits to which the elderly of this country are entitled."

was optimistic, saying he hoped conferees would view the House vote as a "powerful and moral instruction" to retain the minimum benefit.

Many of the 3 million people who receive the minimum benefit are so-called "double-dippers" — those who worked in private industry only a few years before joining the government and becoming eligible for government pensions.

The remainder are people who worked for very low wages, women who worked only a few years before or after raising a family or people who earned most of their money in areas not covered by Social Security.

The administration says of those who get the minimum benefit, only 300,000 would be hurt by the change because they do not have another pension or would not be eligible to increase welfare.

But Rep. Mary Rose Oaker, D-Ohio, disputed the administration figures, saying 2 million would be hurt — most of them are elderly women.

Meanwhile, the House Ways and Means Committee early today put the finishing touches on a massive tax cut package Democrats hope to sell to Congress in place of the tax initiatives of the Reagan administration.

The proposal, which would reduce taxes by as much as a half-trillion dollars over the next five years, needs only a final, formal vote scheduled for Thursday afternoon.

The Senate, meantime, is continuing debate on a tax package drafted by Republicans and endorsed by Reagan, which bogged down Tuesday over oil-related issues.

Commissioners Vote To Help Judges Keep Their Cool

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Commissioners Tuesday voted unanimously to keep the judges using new Courtroom E on the first floor at the courthouse cool.

County Administrator Roger Neiswender was instructed to settle as quickly as possible differences between an architect and a contractor over a malfunctioning air-conditioner in the courtroom built and opened for use 3½ months ago.

Neiswender said while the contractor has said the air-conditioning system for the courtroom was improperly designed, the architect has said it was improperly installed.

"I would like the judges to be cool right away and settle the differences on who is to blame for the problem afterwards," said County Commissioner Sandra Glenn, chairing the meeting in the absence of Chairman Bob Sturm.

Neiswender said the situation would be corrected as soon as possible, in a way to make sure someone other than the county foots the bill.

Mrs. Glenn said Judge Joseph Davis Jr., administrative circuit judge for Seminole County, requested that the system be put in operating order.

In other business, the county commissioners named three county residents to the board of directors of the new senior citizen complex in Casselberry. Named were: Elizabeth Redmon of Casselberry; Leo Ware of Altamonte Springs and William Hamilton of Oviedo.

For Negligence Leading To Injury

Paralyzed Ex-Policeman Sues County

Nearly four years to the day that a bullet from a suspected drug dealer's gun turned him into a paraplegic, former police officer Terry Thuma is suing Seminole County, Sheriff John Polk, the man he claims shot him, and the gunman's mother.

In a lawsuit filed in Seminole Circuit Court Monday, Thuma and his wife Jayne are seeking an unspecified sum in excess of $5,000 for damages suffered as a result of a July 23, 1977 shooting at an Altamonte Springs residence which left Thuma paralyzed from the waist down.

The case dates back nearly four years when Thuma, as an Orlando city policeman on loan to the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration was assisting in the arrest of suspected drug dealer John A. Reese who at the time lived with his mother at 519 Oak St. in Altamonte Springs.

During a raid on the Reese home, Thuma was shot once in the neck with a .22-caliber rifle. John Reese was later tried for attempted murder, but after a trial in which Thuma was brought into the courtroom on a stretcher to testify, a six-member jury set him free.

In the first of a two-count lawsuit, Thuma charges the county and Polk with negligence for failure to: 1) "warn Thuma of the dangerous propensities of the suspect," 2) "adopt and provide a safe and secure method or plan of effecting said arrest" and 3) "provide adequate protection for Thuma."

In the second count of the suit, Thuma also accuses Reese of the shooting and his mother with negligence in that "she knew or should have known her son was using the house as a place to sell dangerous drugs, including heroin and cocaine" and she failed to provide reasonable protection for persons visiting her property.

Mrs. Thuma joined her husband in the suit, claiming she has suffered a loss of his "services, companionship, and consortium."

No hearing date has been set for the case which has been assigned to Judge Robert McGregor.

fraudulent home improvement scheme. Arrested at his home about 5:35 p.m. Monday on charges of grand theft and contracting without a license was Lee Charles Daniels of 132 Ronnie Drive. He was being held in the Seminole County Jail today under $5,000 bond.

According to fraud investigator Doug Huth, Daniels "bilked" $3,700 from seven different people. "If there are more, I wish they would get in touch with this office," said Huth.

Huth said that Daniels, doing business as C. Lee First Inc., "would go around neighborhoods in the south end of the county placing flyers on people's doors holding himself out as a licensed building contractor specializing in home repairs." The only problem with that is that Daniels was not certified by the state Construction Industry Licensing Board, an agency of the Florida Department of Professional Regulation.

"His practice was to go out to the home of someone who had responded to his flyer, give them an estimate and then demand in advance a portion of the total price for materials," Huth said. "He either didn't do the job at all or he did only part of it. Basically, he'd just take the money and run."

Huth said Daniels operated from October until June. "He recently started a new business under a new name — General Maintenance Services," he said.

VACATIONER'S HOME ROBBED

Seminole County sheriff's deputies were today searching for clues to the burglary of a Maitland home in which more than $10,000 worth of household goods and gold were taken.

Claxton Henry, a 47-year-old dental technician, told deputies that someone broke into his home on the Pearl Lake Causeway in Maitland between June 24 and Sunday while he was away on vacation.

Taken were five watches, a color television, a grandfather clock, a typewriter, camera, radio, two fans, assorted jewelry and 12 ounces of dental gold. Total value of the stolen merchandise was estimated at $10,902.

PLEA ENTERED OVER BEATING

A 34-year-old Altamonte Springs man has pleaded no contest in Seminole Circuit Court to three separate criminal charges stemming from an Oct. 14 beating of a local insurance man.

Larry K. Taylor, of 409 Barclay Ave., entered his pleas Monday to charges of trespassing, improper exhibition of a dangerous weapon, and battery. Sentencing was deferred pending completion of an investigation into Taylor's background.

Taylor was accused of entering Charles Williams' insurance office, 701 E. Altamonte Ave., Altamonte Springs, after hours, brandishing a billy stick, and beating Williams with it.

Taylor had accused Williams, 38, of stealing some company commission statements.

In other court action, a former Altamonte Springs businessman now living in Illinois pleaded no contest to 15 counts of state sales tax fraud and was ordered to immediately pay $15,000 in back taxes and $3,100 during a 24-year probationary term.

Dwight R. MacPherson, former head of Security Systems and Services Inc., was accused of converting state sales taxes to his personal use from 15 sales at the now-defunct Altamonte Springs firm between December 1979 and May 1979.

The state Department of Revenue said the bill on the unreported four percent sales tax came to $9,612, plus an additional $4,488 in fraud penalties and interest.

In accepting the pleas, Seminole Circuit Judge Willie Williams ordered MacPherson, who now resides in Glen Ellyn, Ill., to immediately hand over $15,000 in government bonds to the state and pay back the remaining $3,100 during his probation.

WORLD

Summit Ends In Muted Criticism Of 'Reaganomics'

OTTAWA (UPI) — The leaders of seven industrial democracies ended their annual economic summit with a diplomatic document miring criticism over high U.S. interest rates that are making the dollar strong and driving up Europe's import bill. President Reagan hailed the session's results.

"I am grateful for the understanding and support for our policies. We leave with a true sense of common purpose," he said as he left for home with what observers described as a major victory in his debut in international diplomacy.

In 16 hours of formal talks at the secluded hotel in the Gatineau Hills 40 miles north of Ottawa, Reagan defended high interest rates to curb inflation and the final communiqué acknowledged such rates, or monetary policy, had a role to play in dampening price rises.

But the document endorsed by West Germany, France, Japan, Italy, Great Britain and Canada also said monetary policy alone should not be used to fight inflation and said such measures can disrupt other economies by altering exchange rates.

Reagan dozed off Tuesday when some other foreign leaders were making their final remarks at the conclusion of the seven-nation summit.

Also observed nodding and fighting to stay awake were West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, a summit veteran, and Japanese Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki. Secretary of State Alexander Haig, sat directly behind the president, occasionally yawning.

Ying-Ying Gives Birth

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Ying Ying turned, stretched, lay back against a wall and gave birth to the second "giant" panda conceived naturally in captivity — a snow-white tike 4 inches long and weighing all of 3 ounces.

Moments later, Ying Ying nuzzled her newest offspring and lovingly carried the wriggling, fluffy white cub in her mouth, officials at Mexico City's Chapultepec Zoo said. Describing the Tuesday birth, which took about 30 minutes.

It was the second successful birth for the 6-year-old Ying Ying and her lifelong mate Pe-Pe, who last Aug. 10 produced the first giant panda cub ever naturally conceived and born in captivity.

The first cub, which weighed 3.5 ounces at birth and also measured 4 inches long, accidentally was smothered to death by Ying Ying after a noisy visit to her pen by high-ranking dignitaries.

Zoo officials have taken extra precautions to protect the new 3.2 ounce baby panda. Two weeks ago they banned public viewing of Ying Ying and have kept her under 24-hour observation with closed-circuit TV.

Battle Rages In Lebanon

United Press International
The PLO charged an Israeli tank column slashed 4 miles into southern Lebanon today and seaborne commandos attempted to land 17 miles inside Lebanon at the port of Zahran in the Jewish state's deepest assault of the 13-day Palestinian-Israeli fighting.

However, in Tel Aviv in answer to a question about an incursion, a military spokesman denied any tank assault on Palestinian positions in south Lebanon took place as reported by the Palestinian news agency Wafa.

The PLO and Wafa said the Israeli tank assault was repulsed near an old Crusader castle of what PLO chief Yasser Arafat called the first "Palestinian-Israeli War."

King Snubs Royal Wedding

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — In a royal snub, Spain told Britain that King Juan Carlos will boycott the wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer to protest the couple's plans to begin their honeymoon at Gibraltar, a British crown colony claimed by Spain.

The royal snub came amid a flurry of diplomatic protests Tuesday with Spain's Foreign Minister Jose Pedro Perez-Llorca calling the honeymoon plans "uncalled-for and inopportune," a government official said.

IN BRIEF

Postal Workers Contract May Lead To 20-Cent Stamp

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The tentative contract between the Postal Service and two major unions would give 500,000 workers an estimated 10.5 percent pay hike but may expedite the arrival of the 20-cent, first-class stamp.

Rank-and-file members of the American Postal Workers Union and the National Association of Letter Carriers are being urged by their leaders to ratify the three-year pact reached Tuesday after a marathon negotiating session.

The proposed $4.8 billion accord averted a threatened nationwide mail strike and had postal workers predicting a jubilant celebration.

The contract calls for raises and bonuses totaling $2,100 over the three years, plus cost-of-living increases. Postal employees now average $19,915 annually.

Design Blamed For Collapse

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A structural engineer hired to investigate the Hyatt Regency Hotel disaster in which 111 people were killed said a design change in the moorings of an elevated walkway doubled the stress on six critical beam supports.

Wayne Jaschka, hired by the Kansas City Star, said he could not determine if the design alteration was a primary cause of two 32-ton "sky bridges" plummeting to a crowded dance floor Friday or just a minor part of a chain reaction. But he said the change was significant and demanded further investigation.

Medfly Case Goes To Court

LOS GATOS, Calif. (UPI) — California went to the nation's highest court to stop five Southern states from enforcing quarantines on its $14 billion fruit and vegetable crop because of the Mediterranean fruit fly infestation.

Deputy California Attorney General Gregory Wilkinson asked the Supreme Court Tuesday for a restraining order against Texas, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina, which slapped quarantines on all California produce this week.

Chief Justice Warren Burger and Justice Lewis Powell, in turn, asked the defendants and the U. S. Agriculture Department for responses to the suit by Friday.

Burned Hotel To Reopen

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The MGM Grand Hotel, where 84 people died in a fire last November, has been approved for reopening and fire officials say it now is the safest hotel in the world.

Clark County Fire Department Assistant Chief John Pappageorge praised the hotel, which installed a new $5 million fire safety system after the devastating Nov. 21 fire.

"The MGM is now the world's safest hotel," Pappageorge said.

Racial Slurs Found On Mural

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — A ceramic tile mural at Orange County's John Wayne Airport contained visible racial slurs that went unnoticed for more than a decade.

County officials said Tuesday the words "spade" and "darkie" were painted around the collar of a black man's shirt, and according to an analysis of the 16-foot mural, the words were part of the original art work.

The mural was created in 1970 by Martin Rudnick as a depiction of Orange County's history and cost the county $26,000. Heathed at his home in Ontario, Calif., Rudnick said he does not recall painting the words into his design.

Cuban Refugees To Move

LOS FRESNOS, Texas (UPI) — A U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service official says plans by the Justice Department to move 900 Cuban refugees to a south Texas detention center would be a "monumental project" that "boggles the mind."

Plans to move the 900 refugees, currently detained at Fort Chaffee, Ark., to the Los Fresnos detention center were outlined in a Justice Department memo obtained by Tony Bonilla, president of the 100,000-member League of United Latin American Citizens.

Total Ban Placed On 'Topless'

Nude and topless dancing has been banned in both drinking and non-drinking establishments in Longwood.

The Longwood Commissioners adopted an ordinance Monday night that prohibits nude and topless dancing in all commercial establishments.

The commission last week adopted an ordinance banning such activity where alcoholic beverages are sold or consumed.

They decided to take the matter one step further to prevent establishments from circumventing the intent of the law by eliminating alcoholic beverages but retaining nude or topless dancing.

Longwood does not have any such establishments. By approving the ordinance, the commission hopes to discourage such businesses from locating in the city.

Longwood's ordinances are based upon similar ordinances that have proved successful in Orange County and other areas of central Florida.

Both ordinances were considered necessary by City Attorney Marvin Rooks to prevent a problem that arose in Orange County. There, when nude dancing was prohibited in places where alcoholic beverages were sold, the establishments simply re-opened as bottle clubs with nude entertainment, accepted donations, or used other evasive action.

The commissioners also adopted by a 4-0 vote ordinance annexing two pieces of property into the city. Commissioner Timothy O'Leary was away on vacation.

Annexed Monday night were Lot 3, less the west 190.4 feet, Longwood Hills, owned by Raymond J. Thibodeau and Parcels 1, 2 and 3 of Lot 14, Central Park on Dog Track Road (next to Sambo's), the property of Fred L. Flanagan.

Zoned R-1 AAA Residential in the county, the Thibodeau property will be designated R-1 Residential in the city. The Flanagan property is zoned C-2 Commercial.

A site plan for Tiberon Hills Subdivision being developed by Florida Residential Communities east and west of Lake Emma Road and north of Longwood Hills Road was approved by the commission. To be marketed as Tiberon Hills, the subdivision will later be known as "The Hills" to distinguish it from Tiberon and Tiberon Cove.

Action was tabled until next week on the Meadow Ridge site plan submitted by Gallimore Homes, Inc. It will be located on the east side of Range Line Road, east of Devonshire.

Action was delayed on the project to allow the developer and the city staff to come to an agreement on changing Range Line Road in front of the property to three lanes. To meet the city's engineer and the Land Planning Agency's request, Gallimore had proposed adding turn lanes to Range Line, but Monday night City Administrator David Chacey recommended changing 650 feet in front of Meadow Ridge to three lanes.

He said if Gallimore would pay for the limerock and asphalt to extend the road six feet on each side, the city, which owns the right-of-way on the other side, would do the preparation.

Philip Hollis of Boyle Engineering, who represented Gallimore, balked at the idea at first, saying, the project budget could not withstand the expense.

To avoid a delay in getting the project underway, Gallimore offered to pay $6,000 toward the three-laning and later upped the offer to $10,000 if the commission would approve the site plan Monday night.

However, the site plan request was tabled until next week.

'Dis-Identification' Of Pets To Stop

Policy at the county's animal control shelter at Five Points in south Sanford continues to be that attendants at the facility will not attempt to identify by telephone for owners animals which are being held.

From today on, they will also not give the owners "dis-identification" on animals either.

The new directive was handed down by county commissioners Tuesday after they received a complaint from a pet owner whose dog was picked up by animal control officers a week ago. However the commissioners voted unanimously not to charge Mrs. Emma Hall of Sanford a 3-day board bill — $12.50 — for her dog.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen said the dog, usually confined at its owner's Sanford home, got away last Wednesday. When Mrs. Hall called the shelter inquiring about her Scottish terrier Thursday, she was told they did not have a Scottish terrier. When Mrs. Hall went to the shelter Saturday, she found her dog.

Mrs. Hall said today she picked up the pet from the animal control shelter Tuesday.

The dog, she said, is a mixture of Scottish terrier and poodle, but looks more like a Scottish terrier. It is named "Scotty, naturally," Mrs. Hall said. The animal control attendants had identified the pet as a poodle.

While County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff agreed with the policy that animal control personnel will not attempt to identify animals by telephone, he added, "They shouldn't dis-identify animals either." — DONNA ESTES

It's Time To Give Helpers Some Help

These are certainly trying times. Inflation is affecting us all. We're still hearing about the "me" generation and its self-interest philosophy.

But coming through unselfishly for the past 50 years and still going strong is the Salvation Army in Sanford-Seminole County. It's been that long the local office of that community-centered organization has devoted its time and manpower to ease the burdens of the less fortunate; came to the rescue of those affected by disaster, natural or otherwise; and it's been that organization which has acted as benefactor to our youth, guiding them and building moral character.

Now the Sanford Salvation Army corps needs help. It needs the help of everyone in the community who knows how valuable this organization is to the young and old alike.

This is the 50th year in Sanford for the Seminole County Corps of the Salvation Army and in the past year alone it has served more than 26,000 persons of all ages through its welfare and other programs from its community center at 700 W. 24th St.

But inflation has caught up with our friends at the Salvation Army here. As Capt. Carl E. Phillips, corps commander, explains it, the Salvation Army had to renegotiate the mortgage on its building according to its original contract.

The original mortgage was obtained at a 9-percent interest rate, but in renegotiating it, the best Capt. Phillips and his people could do was 14.5 percent. That means every month the Salvation Army pays $1,200 on its remaining $75,000 mortgage, and most of that amount is for interest.

What the local Salvation Army wants to do is raise $150,000. Half of that would go to pay off the existing mortgage so the $1,200 a month can go to serve people, rather than interest and the other half would go to capital improvements projects to renovate and repair the Army's Sanford properties.

Most of us think about the Salvation Army around Christmastime, but as Capt. Phillips points out: "The Army is here 12 months a year, it's not just a once-a-month thing."

Pledges are coming in steadily, but the Salvation Army is still far short of its goal. There's a victory dinner planned for July 28 at the Sanford Civic Center which will include a roast beef dinner and entertainment by the Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole.

Tickets are $25 per and can be obtained through the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce office, or by contacting Capt. Phillips at the Salvation Army office.

If you've got a pledge or donation you want to make in this fund-raising drive, you can contact the same people to do that, too. It'd be nice.

BERRY'S WORLD

"...And 'Operation Deadwood,' our program to weed-out those who are not spending money fast enough, is going JUST GREAT."

By JANE CASSELBERRY

The College of Engineering at University of Central Florida (UCF) is looking for volunteers to take part in a year-long study of various energy-conservative water heating devices.

The program, funded through a grant from the Florida Public Service Commission, features the installation of equipment in homes which then will be monitored for effect.

Homeowners selected to participate may elect to keep the equipment for a fraction of the cost once the UCF study is completed.

Persons interested in participating in the energy study are asked to call 275-2416 at UCF for details.

The "Name the Foal Contest" is still underway at the Seminole County Humane Society animal Shelter in Sanford as the deadline has been extended to August 1. The buckskin filly was born May 18 to "Brandy", an aged, abused and neglected pony, which was in Humane Society custody.

Any student 18 years and under is eligible to submit an entry to the shelter at 2001 E. 25th Street, Sanford, along with their name, address, phone number and age. This little critter needs a special name so send those suggestions in right away.

The Humane Society reminds us this hot weather can be harmful to pets as well as humans. In the summer pets are better left at home and should never be left in closed autos or other unventilated enclosures in hot weather. When outdoors, pets must have some type of shade.

Avoid excessive exercise and provide plenty of fresh water at all times.

In heatstroke cases, high fever must be reduced rapidly to save the pet's life and prevent brain damage. Body temperatures of 106 F. and above can be tolerated for only a few minutes before irreversible damage occurs. If heatstroke does occur, gradually immerse your pet in cool water or spray with cool water from a garden hose. Prompt action and immediate veterinarian care are necessary.

Pedestrians died at the rate of almost two every day in Florida in 1980 according to the Florida Highway Patrol.

Patrol records show that 706 pedestrians died in 1980 compared to 656 in 1979. That equals an increase of eight percent.

There were 6,478 pedestrians injured in 1980 compared to 6,343 injured in 1979. This points out a slight reduction in injuries in the overall count. Of those pedestrians killed or injured, ages 1-19 had a slight reduction while the 20-44 group increased. The over 65 age group also had a reduction.

Crossing the roadway where there was no crosswalk caused the greatest number of fatalities. In 1979, 168 persons were killed by stepping in the path of a vehicle and in 1980, 216 died in the same manner.

During the last 10 years, there have been 5,423 pedestrians killed on Florida roadways in tragic accidents. The only time the steady annual increase in deaths has dropped was in 1974 and 1975 after the 55 miles per hour speed limit was initiated and gas was in short supply except for a slight drop in 1977.

"One out of every four of the 2,879 persons killed on Florida highways in 1980 was a pedestrian," said Colonel Eldridge Beach, Patrol director, "and like most fatal accidents, could have been prevented through a little common sense and courtesy."

Choice Of Some Diet Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Morning television fans recently were witness to an acrimonious wrangle between two rival diet book authors appearing on the same talk show.

The exchange was not perhaps as dyspeptic as might have been heard had two talk show hosts been pitted before the same cameras. But it was nonetheless highly unseemly.

No other country on Earth has ever enjoyed such a rich variety of diet plans as is available to the overweight of America. The spectacle of two leading gurus bickering on the public airwaves was indecorous to say the least.

Try visiting one of the so-called "Third World" countries sometime. The relatively meager choice of diet plans available to even the wealthier inhabitants of those benighted lands will make your heart heavy with pity.

I have heard stories of aborigines along the Amazon River who average less than two diet plans per tribe. Contrast that with our own abundance.

In this country, diet books are published in such profusion that reviewers are hard pressed to keep abreast of the tide. The Sunday literary section of one newspaper I read not long ago lumped five new diet books into a single review.

Imagine what talk show duels do to America's image in undeveloped parts of the world where there aren't enough diet plans to fight over.

I remember when I was a child I used to balk at eating hot tamales for breakfast. My mother would try to shame me into downing the portion on my plate.

"Many poor kids in faraway places don't have diet plans that include hot tamales for breakfast," she would admonish.

I would hang my head remorsefully and gulp down a few bites. I never did learn to like tamales for breakfast but it was a lesson I never forgot.

Call me a do-gooder if you must, I believe the United States would be wise to share its diet plan plenitude with less fortunate people about the globe.

Just ask yourself this: Do you want your children to inherit a world in which half the people have more diet plans than they can possibly follow and the other half are barely able to choose between calories and carbohydrates?

The conventional wisdom would be to supply Lower Bagatelle for example, with cookbooks showing different ways to prepare colewort. That type of foreign aid obviously generates resentment toward the benefactors, activating the Ugly American syndrome.

But send them a new diet plan in which colewort is the only authorized dish and we will have won their eternal gratitude, plus a loyal ally.

'Frugal' Gang Spent Freely After Defeat

WASHINGTON—Throughout his ill-starred presidency, Jimmy Carter assiduously cultivated an image of Puritanic parsimony—carrying his own luggage, selling the presidential yacht, installing his cousin Hugh Carter to nurse nickels and dimes on White House expenses.

But once the Carter crowd was retired by the voters last November, the barefoot boys from Georgia began traveling first-class at the taxpayers' expense. The General Accounting Office has totted up the post-election bill, and it turns out that the Carter administration went out, not only with a whimper but with a roar—the roar of jet planes taking off on junkets that served little if any useful purpose to the public that paid for them.

According to internal GAO files, more than 300 Carter appointees traveled about the world between Election Day and Inauguration Day, for a grand total of 798 trips. The total bill for these junkets came to

To be sure, many of these trips were justifiable. But many were not. The disturbing feature of the lame-duck travel itch that afflicted Carter's crew was the number of outgoing officials who apparently felt it necessary to go in style before they were snatched untimely from the public trough. Here are some of the more glaring examples:

—Then-Energy Secretary Charles Duncan's trip to Paris for an international energy conference last December has already been well-publicized. He chose to take the premium-priced supersonic Concorde. Not publicized was the fact that his deputy, Lynn Coleman, who also flew the luxurious Concorde to the conference, had flown to Paris a couple of weeks earlier and spent about 10 days there.

Leslie Goldman, then an official of DOE's international division, also made the Paris scene twice within a month. He insisted that the preliminary trips he and Coleman made were essential to lay the groundwork for the December meeting. Duncan's retinue on the December trip included a secretary and a public affairs adviser. They did not take the Concorde, however.

—Then-Labor Secretary Ray Marshall betrayed a fondness for first-class travel—at least during his peripatetic last three months in office. The GAO files show that he made first-class official trips to New York, Chicago, San Antonio, San Francisco and Atlanta, as well as a tour to China and Japan by way of Paris.

Aides who accompanied Marshall on the Asian junket also went first-class. They included Nik Edes, his deputy under secretary for legislation, although the chances of the Carter administration getting any legislation through the new Congress in less than three weeks before Inauguration Day were remote.

—Dale Hathaway, former under secretary for international affairs and commodity programs at the Agriculture Department, flew first-class to Adelaide, Australia, for a meeting of grain-exporting countries. "I didn't want to go," Hathaway told my associate Lucette Lagnado, "but the Australian government wanted a senior policy official."

In fact, first-class accommodations were practically a condition for Hathaway's making the trip. He said he had "an agreement" with Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland: "If I was going, I would go first-class." He pointed out that the 18-and-a-half-hour flight was "miserable" — though presumably less so in a first-class seat.

—Dr. John McCorry, an official of the Health and Human Services Department, spent four days in scenic Montreux, Switzerland, in December. The purpose of his visit was to take part in a conference on "use and abuse of social services and benefits."

JEFFREY HART

It's A Reagan Summer

In this Reagan summer of 1981, six months into this president's first term, the auspices are all good.

There is something about the atmosphere in Washington and in the country that goes beyond the details of the budget, the tax cuts, or any other measures.

Part of this has to do with the president himself.

Reagan is competent, relaxed and self-confident, but he is also lucky — and, looking back on his career, the consistency of his political luck is rather startling.

I worked for Reagan in the spring of 1968, when he was going all-out to wrest the Republican nomination from the front-runner Richard Nixon.

One theory held that Nixon was a "loser," and would "stumble" somewhere in the primaries. After all, Nixon had lost to Jack Kennedy and to Pat Brown and he had blown his stack at his famous "last press conference."

But Nixon did not stumble and all of the efforts of Reagan, myself, and F. Clifton White availed naught.

But suppose Reagan had won the nomination in 1968 and gone on the beat Humphrey. He would have inherited the Vietnam War and a bitterly divided country.

There would have been no chance to push through the tax and spending cuts which are at the core of his philosophy.

Reagan was lucky to lose in 1968, and, probably, lucky to lose again in 1976.

Instead, he arrived in the presidency at just the point when the nation was ready to listen to his free market and federalist proposals. Even the Democrats in Congress are talking tax cuts and spending cuts. Reagan is working with the grain of history. And, intellectually, his approach now has behind it a new and impressive theoretical literature.

Reagan is also lucky in his opponent.

Speaker Tip O'Neill is now the senior Democrat in Congress and Reagan's principal antagonist. But O'Neill is a caricature of the bloated and corrupt politician of yesterday.

Even if O'Neill managed to say something fresh it would sound stale. After giving one of his routine blasts about the poor, the old, the lame, the halt and the blind, O'Neill climbs into his long black limousine and lights up a long black cigar.

A vintage product of the Massachusetts graftocracy, O'Neill is an opponent out of Central Casting.

Needless to say, Reagan was lucky in the assassination attempt, and gallant in his handling of it.

Particularly against the background of the Carter administration, an easy act to follow, Reagan's White House exudes competence.

The top troika of Ed Meese, Jim Baker, and Mike Deaver has been able to work quietly and effectively. All administrative experience suggests that such a troika would usher in a power struggle, but that has not occurred.

Reagan was lucky to come up with a young man like David Stockman, an economic whiz kid who has done remarkably in his selling of the president's program.

Where the UN is concerned, even to mention the words Andrew Young is enough to make Reagan's ambassador, Jeane Kirkpatrick, look like Joan of Arc.

Secretary of State Al Haig has a tendency to "go public" when it is not opportune, but he appears to be disciplining himself in that regard.

Thoughtful Reaganites worry today about Judge Sandra O'Connor, not on the abortion issue, but because they doubt that she is a boat-rocker. The administration was brought in, they argue, to really change things.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Preaching And Not Practicing?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Carter administration was often faulted for failing to practice internally what it was preaching publicly. Now the Reagan administration seems to be following the same pattern.

Take, for example, two events that occurred just before the Independence Day weekend.

The Merit Systems Protection Board, which was established during the Carter years to protect government whistle-blowers from their superiors' reprisals, announced a major new initiative to try to convince bureaucrats to go public with information on abuses. The effort included a poster equating whistleblowing with patriotism that was to be placed in government offices.

During the same period, Attorney General William French Smith presided over a Justice Department ceremony at which he presented "special meritorious service awards" to some 280 employees.

But three department lawyers who were slated to get the awards did not. Why? Because they had recently criticized the conduct of their superiors.

Two of the attorneys, Michael Lubin and George Mendelson, were involved in the prosecution of officials of the St. Louis-based McDonnell Douglas Corp. on charges of making illegal foreign payments to sell their aircraft.

The lawyers ran into trouble when they wrote a memo protesting a meeting between Associate Attorney General Rudolph Giuliani and the general counsel of McDonnell Douglas.

Giuliani, the department's No. 3 official, admits that the overseas-bribery case was discussed during the 90-minute meeting on May 14. But he says that he had not known before the meeting that the department had any litigation — let alone a criminal prosecution — pending against McDonnell Douglas.

He says that he had no idea why the corporation's lawyers asked for the meeting and that he granted the request as a "courtesy" that he would have extended to the counsel of any major corporation.

The meeting took place in the context of recent administration and congressional attempts to change radically the laws prohibiting foreign payments and intensive efforts by McDonnell Douglas to convince government officials to abandon the prosecution.

So, Lubin and Mendelson quite naturally saw the meeting as undermining their prosecutorial efforts. First they protested the action internally. When that got them nowhere, they wrote a memo to Giuliani that was made public.

Giuliani's reaction was immediate. He called the memo "a disrespect for the facts" and "immature petulance." He also began to insist that he had a right to meet with any person with whom the government had litigation pending.

FLORIDA

IN BRIEF

Movie Set Theme Park

To Be Built Near Orlando

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — The entertainment company, MCA Inc., is planning to build a $200 million movie set theme park in central Florida about 10 miles north of Walt Disney World.

MCA, the producer of 16 to 18 feature length films a year, is slated to announce the project at a news conference Friday.

The project is expected to propel Florida's fledgling film industry into a more competitive position as a motion picture production center with California and New York.

MCA will build the complex on 423 acres near the intersection of the Florida Turnpike and Interstate 4 — a hub of theme park activity with Disney World, Sea World, and Circus World all nearby.

Shuttle Has Blast Problem

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Space engineers say they will have to find a way to protect the space shuttle from blast damage from its own rockets if the second launch of Columbia is to occur on schedule Sept. 30.

Jim Greenwood, shuttle integration manager at the Kennedy Space Center, said the blast problem is "close to No. 1 on the hit parade and has to be resolved before the next flight."

The space agency fears that even if the shuttle and the astronauts withstand the shock wave, the delicate instruments used for the seven scientific experiments in Columbia's first payload might be damaged.

Reagan Image Completed

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — Blaine Gibson says Ronald Reagan isn't an easy man to duplicate.

The molder of presidential figures for Walt Disney World's Hall of Presidents, Gibson spent weeks studying Reagan's movements and mannerisms, and six months putting them all together.

The result is a pretty-fair life-size model of the chief executive sitting in a chair and hands folded. The model is between Presidents Eisenhower and Roosevelt in the Disney exhibit.

"President Reagan presented a special challenge," said Gibson who has produced more than half the figures in the hall. "There's a certain tendency for him to erupt into a smile spontaneously."

Cloud Seeding To Begin Soon

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The staff of the South Florida Water Management District will begin studying bids from cloud seeders today for next month's effort to raise the level of Lake Okeechobee by inducing more rainfall.

The deadline for submitting bids ended at midnight Tuesday. The Water Management District's staff is scheduled to make a recommendation Friday favoring one of the bidders.

The Board of the Water Management District is scheduled to meet Monday to award a contract for the project, which may cost up to $450,000.

Mickey Visits Governor

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Mickey Mouse had lunch at the Governor's Mansion Tuesday.

The heavy wool mouse costume that covers the wearer from head to toe is so hot it can be worn for only 40 minutes at a time.

When it came off, Mickey turned out to be a girl — a four-foot-10-inch tall teenager whose mom works at Walt Disney World.

Mickey came to Tallahassee to promote a fund-raising event at Walt Disney World to raise money to restore and beautify the mansion.

Security Tight At U.S. Embassy In San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — When Salvadorans talk about "El Bunker", they're not referring to a heavily fortified army command post or an underground guerrilla hideout.

They're talking about the U.S. Embassy. American embassies have always been a favorite target of protesters throughout Latin America. In fact, the first U.S. ambassador ever assassinated by modern terrorists, Gordon Mein, was killed in Guatemala in 1969.

But ever since Washington decided to give strong military and economic support to the Salvadoran government, its mission in San Salvador has come under repeated attacks by both leftist and rightwing extremists.

Squat and pillbox-like even when it was built in 1967, the block-square building looks like a modernistic club sandwich of four alternating layers of windows and pebble-encrusted concrete.

But when terrorists hit the mission seven times in 34 days in March and April with rocket propelled grenades and submachine gun fire, embassy security officials breathed a sigh of relief no one was injured — and battened down the hatches.

They also got about $1 million to beef up their defenses and add a little offensive punch of their own, said one embassy source with first-hand knowledge of the security program.

"It was a dream come true for our security chief because he got almost 100 percent of the budget he asked for in new equipment and manpower," the source said.

U.S. Ambassador Deane Hinton now moves about the capital in a caravan of bulletproof vehicles protected by a phalanx of State Department bodyguards who carry Israel-made Uzi submachine guns in stylish Gucci attache cases.

"I had to persuade those fellows that they had to let me out. You have to have a little fun," said Hinton, a widower who like all other embassy staffers had to leave his dependents — nine children — in the United States.

The most visible part of the embassy's new security is the 6,500 olive green sandbags stacked along the lower half of all windows to absorb machine gun fire and reduce the target size for more powerful weapons.

Another 700 sandbags went up on the roof to build corner gun turrets that give U.S. Marine guards clear fields of fire over the four downtown San Salvador streets that converge on a traffic circle in front of the mission.

Then there is the wall — 15 feet high all around the building.

made of steel rods and concrete sandwiched between two layers of building blocks and humorously referred to as "Reagan's Ramparts."

Not quite so visible is "Tiburón" (Spanish for shark), a group of about 50 former Salvadoran soldiers and policemen hired by the embassy to patrol everything within a half-mile radius of the embassy during working hours.

"Tiburón" patrol members ride in unmarked, bulletproof patrol cars, are armed with Uzis and U.S.-made M-16 automatic rifles, and are in constant radio contact with the embassy.

The idea, mission sources said, is to spot any suspicious car in the neighborhood before it can whiz by the mission and let loose with rocket propelled grenades or machine gun fire — or to seal off escape routes after such attacks.

Visitors entering the embassy are searched with metal detectors and get a special lapel badge from a Marine wearing battle fatigues and flak jacket and standing inside a bullet-proof reception cubicle.

Commerce Center Plan Approved

After being assured a new project would not strain the area's water drainage, Casselberry City Councilmen approved a Seminole Commerce Center construction proposal Monday night.

Officials at their regular weekly meeting accepted the planning department's recommendation to approve the new office complex on a Seminola Drive lot between East Lake Drive and Sunset Drive.

Area residents who attended a public work session on July 13 questioned the project's effect on drainage.

But Utilities Director Ed Keuling assured officials that Seminole Commerce Center would not endanger drainage in adjacent residential communities.

Hattaway Realty of Altamonte Springs, partly owned by State Rep. Bob Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, is building the center. Space will be rented to professionals and other commercial enterprises.

According to contractors, Ron Galli and C. Phillip Thompson, the one-story masonry structure will cover an 18,000 square-foot plot.

Builders said work should be completed in four months.

MAGIC OF OIL PAINTING CLASS

REDUCED SUMMER RATE!

HOURS M-T-W-F 10-4, THURS. 10-5:30, SAT. 10-2

Hold down Big Bill.

This summer, electric bills will be bigger than ever unless we all work harder than ever to hold them down. Even with recent declines, the price of fuel oil is much higher than last year. Add our other increased costs and that means higher bills. For FPL and you.

But there is something you can do this summer. Air conditioning typically uses more than half your power. For central air, turn your thermostat to at least 78° instead of 72° and you'll save 40% or more on your cooling costs. If you have window units, use "low cool" and the lower numbered settings. Clean or change air filters monthly. Turn off your air conditioning when away for several hours, or on days when not absolutely necessary. And with ceiling fans the thermostat can often be set higher or the air conditioner turned off completely.

Water heating is the next biggest user of electricity, about 21% of the typical home's total. You can save money every month by one simple change: with the circuit breaker off, lower the thermostat on your water heater to 140° if you have a dishwasher, 120° if you don't.

More energy-saving tips to hold down Big Bill are available at your local Florida Power & Light office. SAVE IT, FLORIDA.

PEOPLE

IN BRIEF

Maybe Sooner Or Later

They'll Get It Right

United Press International

Sooner or later, Evonne Goolagong Cawley and Roger Cawley will get it right. The tennis star and her husband exchanged wedding vows—for the third time—last weekend at a private home in Las Vegas. The Cawleys were first married in her native Australia in 1973 and again a few months later in his native England. This time the best man and maid of honor, Glen Campbell and Tanya Tucker, wore bathing suits and sang. Mrs. Cawley, 30, wore a white dress and her husband, 32, wore a black tuxedo. The Cawleys are now U.S. citizens and have a daughter, 4, and a son, 6 weeks old.

Castro Not Up To Par

There not being much new news about baseball, here's some old news, courtesy of Atlantic Monthly: An article about Minnesota Twins, owner Calvin Griffith in the magazine's August issue says left-handed pitcher Fidel Castro was scouted by the old Washington Senators in the 1940s but lost out because his fastball wasn't up to major league standards. Griffith, whose foster father and uncle, Calvin Griffith, owned the Washington team, says he has a baseball autographed by Castro, and that the FBI once came to inspect the Cuban leader's signature.

Harley Movie Planned

Bob Marley, who made Jamaica's reggae music known around the world before he died recently of cancer, will be the subject of a movie, according to producer Chris Blackwell of Island Records. Blackwell, who discovered Marley when the singer-composer was a teenager, says the film will use footage of Marley concerts and interviews along with interviews with "the people of the ghettos and farmlands he grew up in and in the countries he influenced."

Sophia Loren Viewed

Good Housekeeping magazine asked a roster of Hollywood leading men how they liked working with Sophia Loren. The responses from Robert Wagner, Paul Newman, Omar Sharif and Tony Perkins was predictably flattering, but Gregory Peck manages a twist. "She never gives an inch. The woman has no mercy," says Miss Loren's "Arabesque" co-star. "And she is one of the two people I remember who up-staged me. (Celeste Holm is the other)." Richard Burton—they did the TV "Brief Encounter" together) says Sophia "cheats at cards." Naturally, President Reagan's new ambassador to Mexico City, John Gavin (her co-star in "A Breath of Scandal"), is diplomatic: "She has a great and delightful sense of humor."

Won't Attend Royal Wedding

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — In a royal snub, Spain told Britain that King Juan Carlos will boycott the wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer to protest the couple's plans to begin their honeymoon at Gibraltar, a British crown colony claimed by Spain. The royal snub came amid a flurry of diplomatic protests Tuesday with Spain's Foreign Minister Jose Pedro Perez-Llorca calling the honeymoon plans "uncalled-for and inopportune," a government official said. In London, Spanish Ambassador Federico Arias-Salgado lodged a note with the British government protesting Prince Charles and Lady Diana's plans to board the Royal Yacht Britannia at Gibraltar, on the southernmost tip of Spain.

She Adorns A Peso Note

Never mind the Susan B. Anthony dollar, let's hear it for Gabriela Mistral. The 1945 Nobel Literature Prize-winner has become the first famous woman to adorn a peso note in her native Chile. The South American country this week introduced a new 5,000 peso note featuring a portrait of the poet, who died in 1957 in Hempstead, N.Y. It's worth about $128 and is the highest denomination available in Chile.

Milestone For A Soprano

She's come a long way since her girlhood in Spearfish, S.D., but next Saturday marks a career milestone for the American soprano Johanna Meier. Miss Meier, who has performed the role of Isolde in Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" in Mexico City, Toronto, Seattle and Venice, finally gets to sing it at West Germany's Bayreuth Festival, becoming the first native American to perform the operatic role at the temple of Wagnerian adulation.

China's 4-Million Man Military Being Eased Back Into Barracks

PEKING (UPI) — China's 4-million-man military is being eased back into the barracks.

The People's Liberation Army, a bastion of loyalty to Mao Tse-tung, has lost several political fights in recent months to the reform-minded Deng Xiaoping and his pragmatist allies.

The army, which held China together during the chaotic 1966-76 Cultural Revolution and became the country's central institution, is being told more forcefully than ever, "The Party commands the gun."

"The military is largely on the defensive, having lost the big fights in recent months," one Western diplomat said.

Said another: "Anyway you look at it, the military has been losing out."

Defense is the lowest of China's priorities in its modernization campaign. The size of the army is being trimmed and military leaders have had to swallow two rounds of budget cuts.

Deng's decision to become chairman of the military affairs commission, in effect making him commander-in-chief, also leaves doubt who is in charge. The Standing Committee of the National People's Congress has enacted laws governing soldiers' conduct, the first time the army has accepted this degree of civilian authority.

Deng and his allies overrode military opposition to pass a historical document at the recent Party Central Committee meeting scrapping Mao's policies and stature.

To assuage the military, Mao will continue to receive lip service as the party's guiding light. But on a practical level Deng, new Party Chairman Hu Yaobang and Premier Zhao Ziyang are expected to move further away from Mao's legacy.

The military lacked the necessary clout to prevent Hu's appointment in June despite misgivings that he will move strongly against military interests. "The army hates him," one diplomat said.

One source of antagonism between the military and Hu was the military campaign earlier this year to criticize writer Bai Hua for his screenplay, "Bitter Love," which criticized Mao and cast doubt on the future of Chinese socialism.

The campaign against Bai Hua was picking up steam but the next logical step — appearance of a military article in the Party's People's Daily — failed to materialize. Chinese sources now confirm Hu personally intervened to prevent publication and halt the military campaign.

Other military attempts to reverse what it considers the country's ideological drift from Maoism also have flopped this year. The appeal to Chinese to emulate model soldier Lei Feng's patriotism and community spirit "fell flat on its face," one foreign analyst said.

Foreigners are unable to detect any signs that China's military will vent its dissatisfaction by taking armed action. The country's size and the absence of a charismatic military figure seem to make a coup highly unlikely.

"China is not the kind of country where you can stage a coup," the analyst said. "You just can't march into the capital and take over the radio station."

With the possible exception of a few die-hard Maoists, the army appears willing to accept a downgrading of its status.

Now that the Cultural Revolution is over and the leadership question is resolved for the moment, the need for the army to remain at the heart of Chinese society as a stabilizing factor has lessened.

When Most States Are Scrimping

Florida Universities Get Extra $88 Million

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Florida Legislature pumped an extra $88 million into state universities this year at a time when most states are scrimping on higher education money.

Some say the move has made Florida "the talk of the country."

Still committed to the drive they launched two years ago to improve the university system, state lawmakers appropriated $839.3 million this year, including $16 million for special enhancement of programs and purchase of sophisticated equipment.

The nine universities now have gotten $85 million for "quality improvement" since July 1979 in addition to money to cover increases in general operating expenses caused by inflation and a slight, but steady, increase in enrollments.

"This was a very important year, not only because of the significant level of funding for the universities, but because it was the third year in a row there was a major emphasis on higher education," says House Appropriations chairman Herb Morgan of Tallahassee.

"Florida is the talk of the country in higher education circles right now," Morgan said. "When our faculty and deans go to national meetings, people are coming up to them and saying, 'What's happening in Florida? Tell me about all of the good things I hear are going on in Florida.'"

California's university system is generally considered the best in the country, developed during the 1950s and 1960s as highly technical industry moved into the state.

Legislative leaders and Gov. Bob Graham decided to match California's higher education achievement as Florida tried to broaden its economic base and attract big business and industry.

"We have a real opportunity to gain in that many other states are not increasing their higher education funding or are cutting back," says Duby Ausley of Tallahassee, chairman of the Board of Regents.

"They're having a traumatic experience in Michigan and in Ohio, Illinois and other states. It makes you feel real good about Florida," Ausley said. "You see them going through a bloodbath, while we have an opportunity to expand and improve our education system."

The basic university system appropriation for 1981-82 is $437.5 million, a $48 million increase over 1980-81. The Legislature also appropriated more than $90 million for construction, including money to establish a higher education facility for Broward County to be shared by two state universities and several community colleges.

Legislators also expanded Florida International University in Miami to include freshman and sophomore programs and expanded the engineering curriculum across the state, including establishing an engineering school to be shared by Florida State and Florida A&M universities in Tallahassee.

The Legislature did order a reduction in Chancellor Barbara Newell's central office staff, limit the number of university lobbyists and prohibit universities and colleges from assisting in any way groups promoting out-of-marriage sex, a prohibition most university officials see as an unconstitutional infringement on free speech and a dangerous precedent.

But university system officials believe they made out like bandits overall.

"It was one of the most significant sessions as it relates to higher education since I've been following the Legislature," said Ausley.

Florida's university system, considered about average in terms of quality when the drive for improvement began, already is showing signs of significant achievement, Morgan says, even though "this is not something you can accomplish in just a year or two."

LAKE FRONT MARRED

Sanford's frontage on Lake Monroe recently has been the scene of garbage dumping. Herman Eplin of 110 Oak Drive is shown pointing to a pile of garbage left by fishermen along the U.S. Highway 17-92 right-of-way just outside of Sanford. A spokesman for the Seminole County Sheriff's Department reminds that littering is a violation of state law. A person found guilty of littering of a total weight less than five pounds can be fined $25. Littering of a total weight of five or more pounds is a second degree misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $500 or 60 days in jail.

Biologists Say Burned Woodlands 'Will Come Back'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Wildfires have burned a half-million acres of valuable woodland this year, causing extensive damage to the forest industry and sending animal populations scurrying for new habitat.

But in the long run, biologists say the blackened landscape will probably come back stronger than before and provide a better source of food and cover for the deer, turkey, fox and birds that live in Florida's woods.

"Fire has a rejuvenating effect," says Rob Lee, director of the Merritt Island Wildlife Refuge. "The burned areas will go through a series of changes, but over time they will come back."

So far this year, about 10,000 acres in the refuge abutting Kennedy Space Center have burned. One blaze touched off by lightning last month turned tragic when two wildlife biologists helping fight the fire got caught in a windshift and died in the flames.

Helped on by the nutrient-rich soil left in fire's wake, some of the burned areas are already coloring. Lee says the grasses and palmetto clumps will turn green first, followed by the underbrush. The pines and scrub oaks will come back last and will take at least a decade to mature.

"Nothing in nature is static — it's a very dynamic system. It's always changing," says Lee.

Carlton Chappell, a biologist with the Florida Fresh Water Fish and Game Commission, says fire can be beneficial for such predatory birds as owls and hawks, but tough on the smaller animals they hunt for food.

"What happens after a fire is it does away with the cover. The rats, mice, and snakes have no place to hide and become easy prey," he says.

Animals such as deer and turkey thrive after fires because they feast on the new growth that comes from changes in plants and forest growth cycles.

Juniors Play Holly Hill Tonight At 6

Miller's 13 Strike Outs Wasted, Sanford Falls

Wednesday Night's Games
Sanford vs.
Holly Hill, 6 p.m.
Daytona Beach vs.
New Smyrna Beach,
8 p.m.

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Sanford Junior all-star Fred Miller probably figured it wasn't his night in the sixth inning Tuesday against Ormond Beach when he struck out Ken Connell and two runs scored.

He would have been right. Despite hurling a five-hitter and striking out 13 batters, the Sanford Juniors dropped a 6-4 decision to Ormond Beach when a furious final-inning rally fell short in the District 4 Tournament at Chase Park.

The setback drops Manager Alvin Whitted's squad into the loser's bracket tonight at 6 against Holly Hill, a 10-2 Monday night loser to Port Orange. Daytona Beach takes on New Smyrna Beach at 8 p.m. The two losers are eliminated. In Tuesday's other game, Port Orange dropped New Smyrna Beach 10-8.

FRED MILLER
 ...wasted effort

Fittingly, for "Lackless Fred," the former Crooms standout was at bat with the game on the line in the seventh inning. First baseman William Carr had just singled home Donald Grayson to pull Sanford within 8-4. Carr then stole second base.

Ormond's crafty left-hander Scott Penny, however, jammed Miller with an inside pitch and the ball trickled to second baseman Robbie Dunlop, whose throw to first base nipped Miller by an eyelash to end the Juniors' comeback hopes.

Larry Thomas started the seventh inning rally when he reached on an error by the same Dunlop. Shortstop Bruce Franklin flew out to center field for out number two.

After a theft of second, center fielder Glenn Landreas smashed a one-hopper off Dunlop's glove and Thomas scored when he kicked it out of the catcher's glove. Landreas moved to second on the throw.

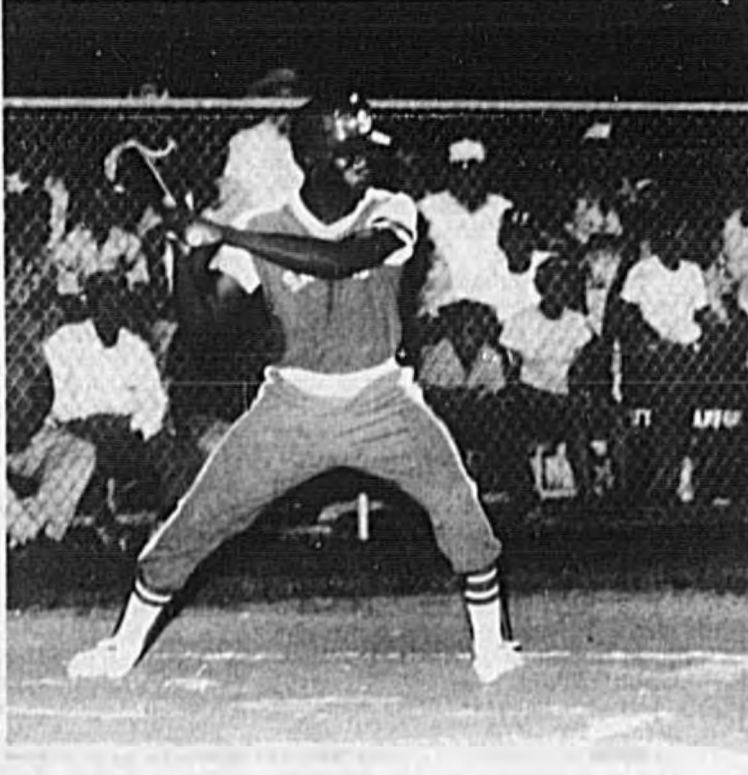

Grayson then followed with an infield hit which moved Landreas to third. The fleet-footed Grayson then stole second and scored moments later behind Landreas when second sacker Kevin Smith slapped a clutch two-run single to left field.

Smith stole third base and Carr stroked his hit to pull Sanford with two runs, but Penny induced Miller's ground ball to finish the locals.

Ormond, who won the tournament last year to break a string of Sanford trophies, jumped on top with two tainted runs in the first inning. Mike Cawood walked, but was thrown out by catcher Lee Frederick at second base on a steal attempt.

Penny started another rally with a walk, though, and subsequently moved to third base when Miller issued another pass to Charley Schultz after striking out Ray Irwin for the second out.

Sanford third baseman Donald Grayson eyes up a pitch in last night's District 4 Tournament. Grayson singled in a run in Sanford's furious last-inning rally, but the effort fell short by two runs as Sanford lost to defending champ Ormond Beach, 6-1. moved Penny to third base and when Miller made a move toward first and didn't throw, a balk was called to force in the game's first run.

Ormond Beach quickly made it 2-0 when Franklin made a nice stop on Mike Carr's ground ball, but his throw was bad to first base which allowed Schultz to cross the plate.

Miller had little trouble after the first. The hard-throwing right-hander blanked Ormond on just one hit the next four innings. During that span he fanned eight batters and retired 12 of 18 hitters at one point.

The sixth inning, however, proved to be his and his batterymate Frederick's downfall. After striking out Schultz, Miller was reached for an infield hit by Carr and walked John Fussell.

After a wild pitch moved up the runners, Miller whiffed Connell only to have Frederick, Monday's hero with three hits drop the ball. His throw to first sailed down the right-field line as Carr and Fussell easily scampers home and Connell ended up at third base.

Mike Rinaldi then dropped a perfect bunt to score Connell. Dunlop walked and eventually came around to give Ormond Beach a 6-0 bulge entering the seventh frame on Irwin's infield hit. Miller allowed just one hit out of the infield — Dunlop's harmless fifth-inning double — but six passed balls by Frederick hampered the effort.

Thomas, Franklin, Landreas, Grayson, Smith and Carr each stroked a hit for Sanford. Smith had two runs batted in. Mike Carr led the Ormond attack with two infield slaps.

In the first game of the night, Port Orange picked up three runs in the third, one in the fourth, two in the fifth and finally put the game on ice with four tallies in the seventh inning to pick up its second victory against New Smyrna Beach.

Kirk Halen and Tom Aldo chased home three runs apiece for Port Orange. Both had triples as Aldo hurled the victory with relief help from Robert Finchum. John Merrick's three-bagger brought home two New Smyrna Beach runs in the third inning. Merrick had two hits for NSB. Alan Husky was the losing pitcher.

Altamonte Split

Bolton's 3-Hitter Hoists Seniors; Oviedo Storms Triple A, 7-6

By BENTON WOOD
Herald Sports Writer

A slight sprinkle was a fitting end for Altamonte's Triple A 13-year-old all-stars Tuesday evening at Eustis. But the rain wasn't about to fall on Russ Whittington's senior league all-star crew.

Southpaw Craig Bolton fired a three-hitter while Altamonte exploded for a six-run fourth inning as the senior league all-stars cruised past Eustis 9-2 to advance in District action.

In the early game, the storm fell on Altamonte's Triple A entry. Oviedo rallied for two runs in the bottom of the seventh off ace Ken Chapelaine to sink Altamonte 7-4.

The Senior League victory pits them against Ocoee at Eustis on Thursday evening at 7:30. Ocoee, who dumped Winter Garden 7-3 in their section, went unbeaten through its tournament. Therefore, Altamonte must win two in a row to advance.

"Who said we couldn't beat Eustis twice?" an elated Whittington asked after his club batted back through the loser's bracket to beat the hosts 12-7 on Monday night before their rout Tuesday.

Altamonte scored first with a run in the bottom of the third. With one out, swift center fielder Scott Underwood doubled to left and scored on the next pitch when right fielder Scott Eusepi looped a fastball off the handle into short right for a 1-0 lead.

All six of Altamonte's runs in the fourth scored with two out. First baseman Marty Coffey took a Brian Andrew's fastball off the ribs to open the inning and a pair of two out walks to the eight and nine hitters in the Altamonte order chased Andrews.

Underwood greeted reliever Todd Auckland with a line single over third base for the first two runs of the frame. Eusepi and Bolton continued the onslaught with two more singles and a two-base error by Eustis left fielder Leroy Webber had the hosts praying for rain.

The 7-0 advantage was more than enough for Bolton to work with as the lefty mixed his fastball with a slow curve to strike out the side in the fourth and fifth innings.

Eustis avoided a shutout with a pair of runs in the sixth without a hit. Shatto answered for Altamonte in its half of the sixth with a two-run blast over the 345 sign in left center.

Bolton retired the side in order in the seventh to nail down the victory. The 6-foot-1 junior-to-be fanned 11 on the evening while allowing just three hits.

"They were sitting back and waiting for Craig's fastball," Whittington said, "so he threw more breaking pitches."

Bolton helped his cause with three singles on the evening in four trips to the plate. Underwood, Eusepi and Shatto rounded out Altamonte's nine-hit attack with two hits and a pair of runs batted in apiece.

"That's why they're hitting one, two, three and four in the lineup," Whittington reasoned. "The bottom of the order did a good job making contact and moving runners around."

"But we've got more than five or six bats on this team. Hopefully some of the other guys will get hot against Ocoee."

Oviedo's bats got hot at the right time to drown the Altamonte 13-year-olds.

Cleanup hitter Terry Gammons laced a single up the middle with two out in the bottom of the seventh to score shortstop David Wood with the tying run. Gammons raced to second on the throw to the plate and scored the winning run on the next pitch when third baseman Craig Duncan slapped another Chapelaine fastball into center as Oviedo advances for a 7:30 p.m. game at Eustis on Thursday night against West Oak Ridge, who beat Ocoee, 3-1 Tuesday.

Trailing 5-4, Altamonte rallied for two runs in the top of the seventh to take a brief one-run lead.

Kyle Brubaker and Chapelaine opened the inning with consecutive walks and moved to second and third on a wild pick-off attempt by Gammons. Brubaker tagged up for the tying run on a fly ball hit to left by left fielder Dave Martin. Center fielder Jeff Jackson laid down a perfect suicide squeeze bunt scoring Chapelaine for the short-lived 6-5 edge.

The lead see-sawed through the first five innings. After Altamonte scored an unearned run in the first, Oviedo stormed back for a pair of runs in its half of the frame.

Wood led off with a bloop single to center, swiped second, moved to third on a ground out and scored on a suicide bunt by Randy Ferguson. Gammons followed with a shot to left which ended in a triple when Martin misjudged the ball. He scored on a single by Duncan. Altamonte went back ahead 3-2 with a pair of fourth inning runs. Martin started the rally with a base on balls and scored on consecutive singles to left by Jackson and Dave Drazen. Jackson scooted home on a ground out by T.J. Scaletta.

The Altamonte lead didn't last long, though, as Oviedo came up with a trio of runs in its half of the fourth. Two walks, an Ellis Bell double, an interference ruling and an error resulted in the 5-3 Oviedo bulge.

With the bases loaded and one run across in the fifth, Oviedo called on Gammons to relieve starter Doug Powell with no one out. Altamonte failed to score anymore runs as Brubaker was picked off third and Gammons fanned Jackson and Drazen to spoil a potentially big inning for Altamonte.

A Mike Pinckes pinch hit double off Gammons in the sixth was for naught as he was stranded on third.

Gammons and Duncan teamed for four of Oviedo's six hits of Chapelaine.

The Altamonte right hander terrorized the Triple A circuit during the regular season with an unbeaten mound record. But Duncan got the best of him with his two runs batted in including the game winner.

Nothing Baseball Talks Fruitless, Resume Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite the presence of Labor Secretary Raymond J. Donovan in the baseball talks, negotiations still have accomplished nothing. Donovan took part in Tuesday's two sessions, but negotiators went their separate ways at 5:30 p.m. with nothing changed. Another session is scheduled for 10 a.m. today, but observers see no signs any meaningful progress might take place. The news blackout imposed Monday evening by Donovan is being observed by both sides. Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, would not talk about the meetings when he left the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service offices Tuesday afternoon, but did air some thoughts. Asked if he thought the blackout was appropriate, Miller answered, "For the time being."

He would not comment on whether any progress was made in Tuesday's talks. Asked if he would be staying in Washington even if no session were scheduled for today, Miller answered, "Probably."

Beaver's Bomber Zeroes In On Greyhound Marks

Beaver's Bomber, regaining a lost touch, is looking more and more like the greyhound to beat this season at Seminole Greyhound Park. The Beaver, as Seminole railbirds call him, is simply burning up the 3-16ths mile course. Beaver runs for the Scheele Kennel, and trainer Buddy Hope makes it clear the Oct. 1978 red fawn dog is clearly "king of the pen."

"The Beaver is a perfect gentleman on the track, but his disposition around the kennel isn't really pleasant as far as the other greyhounds are concerned," says Hope. "He just doesn't like to be messed with. And they leave him alone."

Beaver's Bomber became the first eight-race winner Friday night (July 17) by posting his fourth straight victory and sixth consecutive sub-31 second clocking. On July 4, the Beaver tied the track record (30.57), set by Norton's Queen back on June 20.

Overall, Beaver's record is 8-6-1 in 19 starts. Beaver's primary challengers include kennelmates GE's Hession Sun and GE's El Greco plus Lean Strip from the Wayne Strong Kennel and K's Cardinal from the Jack Kahn Kennel. GE's Hession Sun also has eight wins while the others have seven each.

"Success in greyhound racing is a matter of peaks," explained Hope. "Now I'd say The Beaver is on an extended peak. I don't know how much longer he can continue to do it, but for now he is going strong. Earlier in the season it was GE's El Greco, and then Hession Sun had his streak."

It was something of a surprise to Hope that The Beaver came around in championship form. He had run well in Grade A at Tampa last season, but just couldn't put things together at St. Petersburg. The big wide turns gave him trouble. But at Seminole, the banked turns seem to be more to his liking.

Early in the season, Beaver's time had been competitive enough for a strong in-the-money ratio, but he had only three wins in 12 starts. Then the streak started June 27, closing at the wire to nip WP Cornwall in 30.87. Next start, K's Cardinal nipped Beaver by half a length, despite a 30.88. His next four starts featured wins by 6.7, 5 and 1 lengths.

The boost by Beaver's Bomber has enabled the Scheele Kennel to hold onto fourth place in the track standings. British Sterling, riding a $37,500 paycheck for the Grand National win on June 19 by HJP's Tony, is on top for the meet with $53,112. Kahn is next with $42,518, followed by Carrier Enterprises at $35,210 and Scheele with $33,963.

There were 11 winners in the first half of the season in the Super 8, totalling $66,000. There were six winners for $10,000 each. In the second half of the meet, the Super 8 jackpot was upped to $15,000 progressively and offered exclusively on Monday nights. The July 20 jackpot was $17,000. $1,000 is added each week on one hit.

Mutuel handle for the first 80 performances at the midway in the season was $14,940,394. Attendance was 149,499.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

Sanford's Mike Renaud (left) and Shea Whigham proudly display the honors they picked up at the Tampa Junior Tennis Invitational this past weekend at Lake Front Park. The twosome combined to win the 12 and under doubles competition, while Whigham finished second to Jose Fantera in the 12 and under singles competition, 6-2, 6-0. The impressive pair will be seventh grade students at Lakeview Middle School this fall. Whigham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whigham of Sanford, while Renaud is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald "Lefty" Renaud of Sanford. Both are members of the Bayhead Racquet Club.

Villanova's Jenkins Takes On 'Jumbo' Task

VILLANOVA, Pa. (UPI) — Charley Jenkins now must know how Phil Bengtson and Gene Bartow felt. All three men replaced coaching legends. Bengtson took control of the Green Bay Packers from Vince Lombardi in 1968 after two straight Super Bowl titles. Bartow became head basketball coach at UCLA in 1973 when John Wooden retired after 27 distinguished years. Jenkins filled similarly big shoes Tuesday when he was named the new head track and field coach at Villanova University.

Jenkins, winner of two gold medals in the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne, succeeds James "Jumbo" Elliott, who coached the Wildcats for 47 years before he died of a heart attack last March.

Elliott's track and cross country teams won eight NCAA championships and 39 ICAA titles and produced a total of 467 individual champions, including Jenkins, a 1958 graduate of the university.

And the new coach knows that's a tough act to follow. "You're right, it is going to be very tough," Jenkins said at a news conference. "I don't think I'll be compared with Jumbo, but I'll probably be compared with his successes. 'I've had some fortunate experiences in life but this is by far the most challenging,'" said Jenkins.

The appointment of Jenkins, 47, ended a four-month search for Elliott's successor. Athletic Director Ted Aceto said the hunt started with "about 30-35 names" before it was cut down to eight finalists.

Jenkins has no major college coaching experience but has been a very active recruiter for the Wildcats. "When you have the mold of a Jumbo, you want someone who can fit into the mold," said Aceto. "The (selection) committee knew the things it wanted in a coach. We wanted to make sure we came up with the right man, and everyone is real happy with this."

As for his coaching inexperience, Jenkins said he has kept up with the sport as an official, recruiter and fan, adding, "I think I know an awful lot about the sport and an awful lot about coaching the sport."

For the past 18 years, Jenkins has worked for the federal government. His latest position was in the U.S. Office of Education.

Jenkins said he was first approached about the job shortly after Elliott's funeral but admitted, "I couldn't picture myself in the role." The more he thought about that role, however, the more he liked it.

"Sometimes you find something in life and say, 'This is what I really want to do,'" he said.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Gaetti, Green Tumble

Lookouts, 7-3 At Tinker

Gary Gaetti tripled and homered and Steve Green hurled an eight-hitter as the Orlando Twins tumbled Chattanooga, 7-3 Tuesday night before a "25 cents Beer Night" crowd of 1323 at Tinker Field.

Tonight, Bob Mulligan tries to pull the Twins (15-16) and himself (2-3) to the .500 mark when he faces for Valencia Community College pitcher Robert Fuson (6-4).

Gaetti crashed a three-run homer in the sixth inning to hoist the O-Twins into a 4-3 advantage. The three RBI gave the slugging third sacker 73 for the year.

Green, meanwhile, struck out four hitters, didn't walk a man and shut out the Lookouts the final four innings to record his seventh win in 10 outings. Randy Bush slammed his 14th round-tripper for one of two insurance tallies the Twins picked up in the eighth inning.

Buccaneers Contract Logan

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers have all 60 of their players under contract, now that nose guard David Logan has been signed to a series of one-year contracts.

Logan's signing was announced Tuesday, but the terms of the contracts were not revealed.

Six more veterans reported in for pre-season camp Tuesday, bringing to 46 the number of players in camp. The rest of the veterans must report in by Friday.

Logan, a third-year player out of the University of Pittsburgh, took over at nose guard last year after Randy Crowder went out with a knee injury early in the season.

He is expected to be the starting nose guard this year because Crowder was placed Saturday on the list of players physically unable to perform.

College Jamboree At Howell

The Lake Howell Boosters Club will hold the Third Annual Women's College Basketball Jamboree Saturday, Nov. 14 in the Silver Hawk gymnasium beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The Lady Gators of the University of Florida will headline a card that also features the University of Central Florida, Stetson University, where Sanford's Cheryl Klein is assistant coach, and Miami University. Miami's Lady Hurricanes are the defending Division I State Champions.

Posey Sets Football Meeting

The Seminole varsity and junior varsity football teams will hold an important meeting Wednesday at 6 p.m. in the Seminole High School gymnasium.

"It's very important that everyone attends because we have to get some paper work out of the way and get ready for our start in three weeks," said Posey.

SYSA Registration At Lakeview

Registration for the Seminole Youth Sports Association (SYSA) football season takes place at Lakeview Middle School Saturday, July 25, from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

Cheerleading registration will also take place at this time. The fee for football players is $35.

Griffith Extends Gardner Pact

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Minnesota Twins' Manager Billy Gardner may not have much to do now, but team President Calvin Griffith said he will be busy next season.

Griffith said Tuesday he will offer Gardner, who was named interim manager in May after John Goryl was fired, a one-year contract extension.

Gardner has not been officially offered the extension but Twins' officials said it is only a formality after the settlement of the major-league baseball players strike.

"He's already shown me enough to be my manager next year, even if we don't play another game all year," Griffith said.

Gardner, 54, who is living at his home in Waterford, Conn., during the strike, said he was "depressed" about the length of the strike.

"I finally get a major-league job after 12 years managing in the minors and the players go on strike," Gardner said. "My first summer home in 37 years of baseball and I don't like it. I want to get started again so I can impress the boss and be invited back next season."

The Twins posted a 6-14 record under Gardner, who said it will be "just like spring training" when the strike ends.

AmeriFirst Bombards Mitches

Dave Smith and Paul Roach each hit home runs as AmeriFirst blasted Mitches, 22-7 in Camellberry Men's Softball League action Tuesday night.

Smith had a three-run shot, while Roach's came with the bases loaded. In other games, Don Royal homered as the Rebels whipped Power Drill, 13-3. Lee Rae dumped Baird Ray, 13-4.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (UPI) — The 12-3-11 combination at Arlington Park Race Track paid handsomely on a $3 ticket Tuesday — $36,628.20, the second highest trifecta payoff in the history of the track.

Track spokesman Philip Von Borries said horse No. 12, Willing Angel, a 12-1 longshot, paid $28.30 to win, $13.60 to place and $8.00 to show. Horse No. 3, Valiant Patti, a 29-1 longshot, paid $25.40 to place and $23.20 to show. No. 11, Jelly Face, a 10-1 longshot, paid $7.30 to show.

The combination of 12-3-11 was the second highest trifecta payoff in Arlington Park history.

Francis Retires

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Last year the New England Patriots had two experienced, talented tight ends to help take the pressure off their running game. Now, with summer training camp just beginning, they have none.

Russ Francis, 28, the three-time All-Pro who developed a reputation as one of the best all-around tight ends in the NFL, shocked the Patriots by announcing his retirement Tuesday for personal reasons.

"I've given this a lot of thought in the last few months," Francis said in a radio interview. "A career change is not something one does overnight. All I can say right now is that I am retiring because of personal reasons. Beyond that, I can't go into it at this point."

Francis at times perturbed Patriots officials with his penchant for dangerous hobbies such as sky diving, motorcycling and shooting rapids.

The retirement leaves the Patriots, considered a strong contender in the AFC Eastern Division, without a veteran tight end under contract. Second-stringer Don Hasselbeck is unsigned, along with several other veterans. Only one rookie in training camp at Smithfield, R.I., is a tight end.

Patriots' spokesman Tom Hoffman said Francis and most other veterans are not due to report until 5 p.m. Friday. "A lot of things can happen between now and then," Hoffman said. "We're talking more than 72 hours earlier than the guy has to report."

But Head Coach Ron Erhardt, who talked with Francis at his Wrentham home early Tuesday, apparently could not talk him out of retiring.

"We are in complete shock of something like this happening due to the fact training camp has just opened," said Patriots' President William Sullivan.

"We find the timing of this to be very inconsistent with Russ Francis' character, since in the past he has shown to be very considerate of the Patriots' management and his teammates," Sullivan said.

Dear Abby

Keep Kids From Telling All To Phone Callers

DEAR ABBY: Now that summer vacation is here and many children are left at home while their parents are working, shopping or whatever, parents should instruct their children on how to handle telephone calls from strangers when they are at home alone. You would be amazed at some of the conversations I have had with children when I have called the homes of clients. For example:

Q.: Is your mother home? A.: No.
Q.: Is your father home? A.: No.
Q.: Is your older brother, sister, grandmother, babysitter there? A.: No.
Q.: Is anyone there with you? A.: No. (or) Yes, my little sister.

Q.: When will someone (adult) be home? A.: I don't know.

Q.: I want to verify your address. Is it ()? A.: Yes. Abby, do you understand what I am saying? These kids are all alone, don't know whom they are talking to and are willing to answer just about any question I ask. When I have asked the children for their parents' work numbers, they don't know the numbers, they don't know where their parents work and sometimes they don't even know if their parents work!

For the sake and safety of the children of working parents, please advise parents to teach their children how to handle telephone calls from strangers, because some day the stranger may be really strange!

DEAR L.: Thank you for this opportunity to remind parents to instruct their children to give no information to strangers on the telephone, and never to indicate that they are home alone.

Children should be taught to always ask, "Who is calling?" and "May I have your name and phone number?" (Parents should always leave a phone number where they can be reached.)

A child who is not old enough to answer the phone properly, refer a call or take a message is not old enough to be left alone.

DEAR ABBY: ASHAMED IN SAN ANTONIO wrote to confess that she always sends herself flowers on Mother's Day because her only child — a grown and married son — usually forgets, and she wants to have something to show her neighbors. How sad!

I have an only child — a daughter, also married. I never give her a chance to forget me on Mother's Day. The day before, I send her flowers and enclose a note: "Tomorrow is Mother's Day, and I want you to know how proud I am to be your mother!"

It works like a charm. She hasn't forgotten me yet!

CAGEY MAMMA

DEAR CAGEY: That same wily device can be used for anniversaries. (I'm proud to be your wife.)

DEAR ABBY: I have this terrible complex about being small-bosomed. Where did I get this complex in the first place? From my husband, that's where.

He's always looking at pictures of those big, bosomy girls in the magazines. And whenever a stacked girl walks by, he practically twists his neck off looking.

How long would it take for a flat-cheeked woman to get her breasts surgically enlarged? I'm considering surprising my husband. What do you think?

FLAT IN FRONT

DEAR FLAT: I don't recommend "surprising" your husband. If you want to please your husband, discuss it with him first. Some men like to look, but they prefer their wives as nature made 'em.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (35 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 11066 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 5000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250.

Cook Of The Week: Dessie King

She Clings To Old-Fashioned Ways

By LOIS SMITH
Herald Correspondent

In a quaint house on Elder Road lives 77-year-old Dessie King who has been in residence on that very spot since 1922.

A visit with her is a pleasant trip back in time, 50 years or so, to how life was then in and around Sanford.

Back then, says Dessie, "State road 46 was a single lane brick street. My family had to make our own road back to the house. We dug up palmettos and underbrush with our hands. Nobody had tractors then. Almost all the farming was done with hand plows and mules. In downtown Sanford there were about four buildings and a clock and in the middle of town was a well for watering the horses."

Dessie began cooking at the age of 9. As with most children of that era, Dessie had chores to do. "I was to the stove cooking and helping my mother in the kitchen," she said. Her mother, at that time, operated a boarding house.

Dessie still lives and believes in, what we might call, the old-fashioned ways. "I never wore a bathing suit or men's clothes," states Dessie. The men's clothes she refers to are panis.

"Ladies should dress like ladies," she said. She dresses the way she was taught — pretty print dresses and aprons, with her hair pulled back in a bun — very proper.

Dessie's home is a virtual museum of family history and memorabilia. She has some items dating back to her great grandfather's time. Although she has a 1950s era gas range in her home, she still likes to cook and heat occasionally on her wood stove.

Her cake recipes date back to the late 1800s and the early 1900s. Her corn bread and pickle recipes are her own.

Dessie King still cooks on a wood stove.

'Free' MDA Clinic Opens

The Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) recently opened a new out-patient clinic at the Mease Hospital and Clinic in Durnedin, which provides — free of charge — diagnostic services and therapeutic and rehabilitative follow-up care for patients afflicted with any of the 40 neuromuscular disorders covered by MDA's programs.

The new clinic replaces the MDA facility at All Children's Hospital in St. Petersburg and brings the total number of MDA clinics located throughout the country to 234.

"We are very pleased about the establishment of the MDA clinic at Durnedin," commented Thomas D. Berrell, president of the Central Florida Chapter of MDA.

"With the use of the hospital's multi-specialty facilities, the Association will be able to provide to patients the highest quality of medical care," he added.

The clinic is staffed by a team of doctors and physical and occupational therapists. A social worker and orthopedic surgeon are on call if needed. Patients attending MDA clinic sessions at Mease Hospital can receive diagnostic and follow-up treatment, physical and occupational therapy, genetic counseling, orthopedic aids (such as wheelchairs, braces, and hydraulic lifts), and flu shots. David A. Davis, M.D. serves as director of the MDA clinic.

"The Muscular Dystrophy Association is unique in the health agency field because it offers a wide range of medical services and support to patients and their families completely free of charge," noted Mr. Berrell.

MDA is the voluntary health agency dedicated to the conquest of neuromuscular diseases through an unparalleled worldwide research effort, a nationwide program of free medical services, and far-reaching professional and public education services.

For information about MDA's services and the MDA clinic at Mease Hospital, call the Association's local office at (305) 645-5555.

We'd like to put a bug in your ear concerning the spring and summer months. Actually, we'd like to tell you about getting a bug out of someone's ear — this being the season for errant little creatures to find their way into such places. The newest trick for debugging an ear, as reported in Emergency Medicine, is this: Take the victim into a dark closet and shine a flashlight into the ear. With any luck, the bug, attracted by the light, should fly out! Another home remedy calls for the "bugged" person to lay down with the problem ear up. Fill the ear canal with tepid water using an eye dropper. When the insect surfaces for air, pick it out with your fingers. Dead bugs, of course, must be removed with the aid of a syringe and professional medical assistance. As with all foreign objects in the ear, if it can be gotten out easily, fine, but if extracting an object requires sticking something else in the ear — let your doctor do it.

Special To The Herald

More than one-quarter of the nation's population suffers from myopia — a dysfunction of the eye more commonly known as nearsightedness.

Until recently nearsightedness could be remedied only with corrective lenses: glasses or contact lenses.

Now, however, the condition can be corrected in many people by a simple surgical procedure called radial keratotomy (radial K).

Dr. Robert W. Lennon, founder of the Clayton Eye Clinic in Riverdale, Ga., is one of three ophthalmologists in the southeast proficient in this relatively new procedure.

"Radial K surgery is an ideal solution for people who, in certain job situations, need improved vision but cannot, or prefer not to, wear corrective lenses," Lennon said.

He cited airline in-flight personnel, factory workers and people who cannot tolerate contact lenses as groups who would benefit from the surgery.

Lennon explained that in normal vision an image is focused directly onto the eye's retina through two lenses, the cornea and the internal lens.

In nearsighted people, either because of an excessive corneal curvature or an elongated eye, the image focuses in front of the retina, causing blurred vision of distant objects.

"The radial K procedure, which flattens the corneal curvature, adjusts the focusing power of the two lenses by changing the distance between them so that the image will reach the retina," Lennon explained.

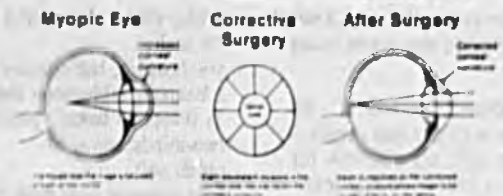

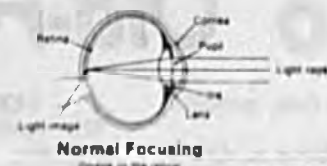

The surgery consists of making eight equi-distant, microscopic incisions in the non-sight area of the cornea. Lennon stressed the procedure's safety. "Incisions never are made within the eye's optical zone, nor do they fully penetrate the cornea," he explained.

Not all myopic people are candidates for radial keratotomy. Extensive preliminary examinations with a patient will determine if he meets the criteria: the degree of myopia must fall within a specified range, the patient's vision should have remained the same for approximately three years, there must be no eye disease, and the patient must be over 18 years old.

Care is taken to be sure the patient understands the alternatives to surgery such as wearing glasses or contact lenses.

Approximately 70 percent of patients meeting the criteria who undergo surgery can expect improvement to a visual acuity of 20-40 or better without glasses. The other 30 percent still will need glasses to achieve that degree of improvement. However, in most cases, a second surgery can compensate for under correction.

The surgery, which Lennon performs in his outpatient clinic in the Atlanta suburb of Riverdale, takes less than one hour for each eye. Surgery is done on one eye at a time. The second eye can be operated on three months later.

After a two or three-day healing and adjustment period, the patient will experience the results of the corrective surgery. The total healing process may take up to three months, during which time the patient may experience some glare and variable vision, but no pain or discomfort.

The radial keratotomy procedure was developed by Soviet ophthalmologist Dr. Svyatoslav N. Fyodorov, director of the Moscow Scientific Research Laboratory of Experimental and Clinical Problems of Eye Surgery, the largest eye institute in the world.

After experimenting with animals for several years, Fyodorov first performed the surgery on humans in 1974. Since then, he has done more than 2,500 radial K surgeries, all successfully.

Radial keratotomy was introduced into the United States in 1978 by Dr. Leo Boreas of Detroit who had studied the procedure under Fyodorov in Russia. Lennon studied under Boreas and other American ophthalmologists who practice the procedure.

To date, more than 3,000 radial K surgeries have been performed in the Soviet Union and more than 2,000 in the United States. No serious complications have resulted in any of the cases. In no case over the seven years the surgery has been performed has the cornea reverted to its previous shape.

Jitterbug, 40's Attire Spark 35th Class Reunion

Members of Seminole High School Class of 1946 met for their 35th class reunion at Quality Inn North Saturday. Everyone agreed it was the best reunion the class has ever had—even the spouses of the classmates had a good time.

Glenn Lingle, class president, Betty (Sasser) Weber, Jean (Williams) Hughes and Judge Ken Leffler deserve all the credit for putting together this highly successful two-day party in just two months time.

"There were only a few in the class that we were unable to track down," Betty said, "and we feel grateful that over a third of the class were able to come on such short notice, and so many traveled such long distances—Washington, Arizona, Texas, New York, Tennessee, South Carolina, Georgia and all parts of Florida."

The reunion started at 6:30 with a get acquainted social at the Quality Inn North, followed by a buffet dinner. Dress for the evening was to be "the way we did in the 40s."

Herman Morris, high school principal at that time, and his wife Gladys, Satsuma, and Jessie (Darden) Perkins, the class sponsor, with her husband Brack, were the honor guests. Jean (Sayer) Wright, class of 1947, who is visiting from her home in New York, also attended as a special guest of the class.

Bobby Jones, Greenville, S.C., the class secretary, gave the invocation and Glenn Lingle served as master of ceremonies. The group observed a moment of silence in memory of their deceased classmates: Mary Elizabeth Carver Thompson, Vern Clark, Margaret Dingfelder Corey, David Howard, Bobo Mero, and Junior Vickery.

Prizes were awarded to two members of the class coming the greatest distance: Richard Singletary from Langley, Washington, and Carl Moss from Scottsdale, Ariz.

Malcolm and Joan MacNeill, Miami, won the prize for having the youngest child (8 years old).

Glenn Lingle, dressed in saddle oxfords, yellow pleated and cuffed pants with a key chain (pants bought at Yowell's in the 40s and still fit!), and Toi (Livingston) Fitzpatrick in saddle shoes, bobby sox, plaid skirt, sweater and pearls, won the prize as the two most authentically dressed.

The jitterbug contest proved a difficult one to judge—they were all too good! Finally chosen were Wade and Margaret Hucker, Leesburg, first place; Ben and Evelyn (Matthews) Wilson, Waycross, Ga., second; and Gerald and Betty Jo (Brock) Lomax, Ocala, third.

The entertainment was the highlight of the evening. Three members of the original "Banana Boys" (music with a-peal), who played for the high school dances for several years in the middle 40s, Dr. Wade Rucker, class of '46; Dr. Neil Powell, and Pete Buker, class of '45, now play with a well-known group in central Florida, "The Dixie Doctors". Dr. Chuck Graham and Dr. D.O. Kline complete the group who played all the "oldies and goodies" for the class members to dance, listen, reminisce and thoroughly enjoy until the wee hours of the morning.

Pete Buker, band director at Sanford Middle School, was given an honorary membership in the Dental Society so he would be eligible to play with the "Dixie Doctors"—(all the other members are practicing dentists in the Central Florida Area).

The reunion reconvened at 10:30 Sunday morning at the Leffler camp. A fabulous beef and pork barbecue dinner, put on by the organizing committee for their classmates, was served at 1 p.m. The meat was prepared on an open grill by Ken's nephew, Vincent Leffler, and the side dishes were catered.

Reluctantly the group broke up late that afternoon. It was decided that 10 years is too long to wait for another reunion. They will meet again in 1988 with the goal of 100 percent attendance and to top the good time that was had by all who attended this reunion—if possible.—TOI FITZPATRICK

Capture The Flavor Of Spain

Wine Region Recognized As The 'Zone Of Sauces'

The renowned Rioja vineyards lie on either side of the Ebro River in north central Spain, where the ancient kingdoms of Aragon, Navarre and Old Castille meet the Basque Provinces. Sheltered by the Pyrenees, the fertile Rioja valley has produced wines since the 11th Century.

Roman settlers introduced viticultural techniques to the Rioja, along with their use of garlic and olives in cooking. Then, Arab occupiers came with lemons, eggplants, peppers and almonds. Late in the 15th Century, Spanish explorers brought home tomatoes, potatoes, pimentos and chocolate from the New World.

The Rioja region is known as the "zone of sauces" and is famous for the simplest and finest cooking in Spain. Seafood from the Bay of Biscay is plentiful, and the surrounding mountains abound with trout streams, game fowl, young lambs, wild rosemary and thyme. Riojans rely on natural juices and herbs to heighten and enhance the taste of basic ingredients, rarely using spices to mask true flavor.

Here are some favorite regional recipes. Each is enjoyed to its fullest when served with a distinctive Rioja wine. Rioja red wines can be light or robust; Rioja whites go from clear and crisp to warm and amber; while Rioja roses range from dry to semi-dry.

CHICKEN IN WINE SAUCE (Serves 4)

- 2 chicken breasts, boned and skinned (about 2 lbs.)
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- 1 1/2 tbsps. cornstarch
- 1 1/2 tbsps. vegetable oil
- 1 egg white, unbeaten
- 2 packages (10 ozs. each) frozen spinach
- 8 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 2 cups sliced mushrooms
- two-thirds cup white wine
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1 tbsps. dried tarragon

Slice chicken into 1/4-inch strips. Combine chicken with salt, pepper, cornstarch, oil and egg white in medium bowl; let stand 10 minutes. Meanwhile cook spinach according to package directions; drain; keep covered. Melt butter in large skillet over medium heat. Add chicken and cook until golden, 8 to 10 minutes. Remove chicken. Add mushrooms to pan and cook until tender. Add wine, cream and tarragon to pan along with chicken. Simmer over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until sauce is consistency of heavy cream. Arrange cooked spinach on platter. Spoon chicken and sauce over spinach.

TROUT A LA RIOJANA

- 4 medium trout with heads and tails left on, cleaned, washed and dried
- 1/2 cup dry red wine
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onions
- 1/2 tsp. each, dried mint, rosemary and thyme
- 1 bay leaf, crumbled
- 15 whole black peppercorns
- 1 tsp. salt
- 3 egg yolks, lightly beaten

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Place the fish in a heat-proof dish, just large enough to hold them in a single layer. Combine all the remaining ingredients, except the egg yolks, and pour over the fish. Marinate at room temperature for about 30 mins., turning once. Place pan on stove and bring marinade to a simmer. Cover loosely with foil. Bake for about 20 mins. or until fish is firm. Transfer fish to a warm platter. Strain cooking juices through sieve into saucepan, extracting as much liquid as possible from herbs and onions. Slowly whisk a little liquid into the beaten egg yolks, then whisk the mixture into the remaining liquid in the pan. Heat slowly, whisking constantly until the sauce starts to thicken. Do not let it come near boiling or it will curdle. Serve sauce separately.

CHICKEN RIOJANA (Serves 4)

- 3 lb. chicken, cut into 8 serving pieces
 - 1/2 cup flour
 - 1/4 cup olive oil
 - 2 cloves oil
 - 2 cloves garlic, minced
 - 2 sprigs parsley, minced
 - 4 sweet red or green peppers, seeded and cut into strips lengthwise
 - 1 large onion, cut into half and sliced
 - 8 ozs. chorizo, cut into slices (if unavailable use any other garlic - seasoned, smoked pork sausage)
 - 8 ozs. dry white wine
 - 8 small asparagus
 - salt and pepper to taste
- Flour chicken pieces and set aside. Heat oil in a large heavy skillet. Starting skin side down, brown chicken, a few pieces at a time, removing them to warm plate as they brown. Brown sausage slices and remove. Add garlic, parsley, onion and peppers to skillet. Stirring frequently, cook over a moderate heat for 8-10 mins. or until vegetables are soft. Add sausage and wine. Cover tightly and simmer over low heat for another 30 mins. or until chicken is tender. Correct seasoning with salt and pepper, if necessary. Keep warm while you lightly steam the asparagus. Transfer chicken to serving platter and garnish with asparagus.

SHRIMP IN GARLIC SAUCE (Serves 4)

- 1 lb. raw shrimp, shelled and deveined
 - 1/2 onion, chopped
 - 1/2 cup olive oil
 - 2 tbsps. finely chopped parsley
 - 1/4 cup dry white wine
 - salt and black pepper, freshly ground
 - 3 cloves garlic, minced
- Saute onion in oil over low heat until soft and translucent. Stir in garlic and 1/2 the parsley, cooking another minute or so. Turn up heat, add shrimp, and cook about 3 mins., stirring constantly, until pink. Add wine, season with salt and pepper, and cook another 2-3 mins. Sprinkle with remaining parsley and serve.

STRIPED BASS BISCAY

- 2 lb. striped bass, cleaned, washed and thoroughly dried
 - 6 thin lemon slices, plus an extra lemon
 - 4 tbsps. olive oil
 - 2 tbsps. fresh breadcrumbs
 - 1 tsp. minced garlic
 - 1 tbsps. minced parsley
 - 1/4 tsp. black pepper, freshly ground
 - salt to taste
 - watercress sprigs, for garnish
- Cut 6 parallel slits, down the bone, on one side of the fish, and insert the lemon slices. Combine next 3 ingredients. Spread 1/2 the mixture on the bottom of a shallow baking dish. Put in the fish, lemon side up and spread with remaining mixture. Sprinkle with salt, to taste. Bake for approx. 1/2 hr., basting every few mins. with pan juices. Garnish with watercress and squeeze fresh lemon over the cooked fish.

BEEF CREPES RIOJA

- 3 lbs. boneless beef (top of rib, shoulder or chuck fillet)
 - 1 tbsps. olive oil
 - 1 tbsps. olive oil
 - 1 tbsps. butter
 - 2 slices bacon, diced
 - 3 tbsps. flour
 - 2 tps. salt
 - 2 cloves garlic
 - 1/2 tsp. thyme
 - 1 bay leaf
 - 2 tbsps. finely chopped parsley
 - 1/2 tsp. black pepper
 - 1 cup red wine
 - 1 1/2 oz. can beef broth
 - 2 tbsps. butter
 - 1 lb. mushrooms, trimmed
 - 24 very small white onions, peeled
 - 1 dz. crepes thawed
- Pat meat dry with paper towels. In heavy skillet heat oil and butter and saute bacon until light brown; remove to heavy, lidded casserole with slotted spoon. Brown beef on all sides in skillet, a few pieces at a time. Remove and keep warm in casserole over low heat. Sprinkle flour on meat, stir pieces until flour is absorbed. Mash salt and garlic with fork; add to casserole; add thyme, bay leaf, parsley and pepper. Add Rioja wine. Stir and bring to simmer, add beef broth to cover meat, simmer again. Cover and remove to preheated 325 degrees F. oven. Turn oven down to 300 degrees to maintain simmer, cook one hour or until meat is barely tender.

In a heavy skillet, heat butter and saute mushrooms and onions. (Make small cross in root end of onions to help keep them from separating.) Sprinkle with salt and pepper. After casserole has cooked one hour, add mushroom and onion mixture. Cover and cook about 30-45 minutes longer or until meat is tender. Skim fat and discard.

To serve, place quantity of filling on each crepe, fold sides over and turn crepe over. Put crepes in ovenproof dishes, spoon additional filling over top and keep warm in oven on low heat until serving time.

Beef crepes are a gourmet's delight.

Opt For Easy Elegance

Plan A Festive, Friendly Weekend Brunch

If you're searching for a festive idea for a friendly weekend brunch, opt for easy elegance by mixing processed potatoes with popular brunch ingredients such as eggs and cheese.

Set your table with radiant bouquets of sun-kissed marigolds and other summer blossoms; with this glowing ambience, bring out entrees that delight the eye and excite the appetite—Idaho Puff de Terre and Potato Brunch Pie.

Make these special spud dishes successfully by selecting quality-processed potatoes.

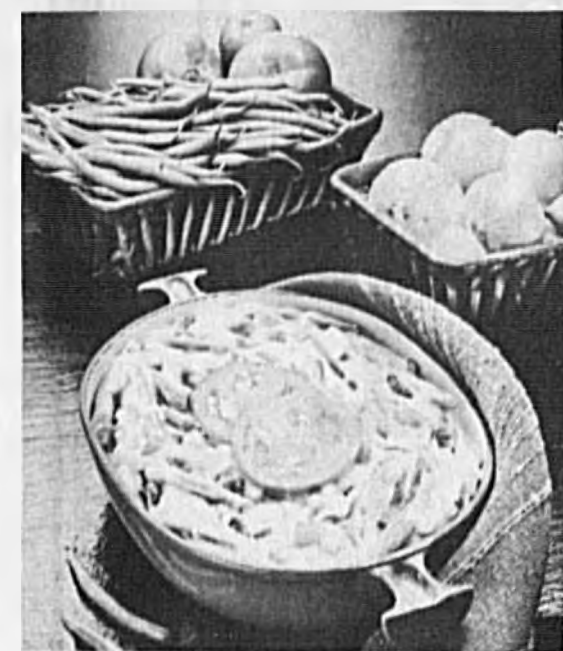

The tasty Idaho Puff de Terre entree is a blend of instant mashed potatoes, eggs, deviled ham, chives and shredded Cheddar cheese. With a toasty golden crust studded with chopped chives and a moist center of potatoes and bits of ham, the puff has an inviting light texture and subtle flavor, reminiscent of the delicate soufflé.

Another great culinary idea for the weekend is Potato Brunch Pie. A simple combination of Hash Brown potatoes with onions, dried beef and eggs makes for a quick, luscious omelet.

Make The Most From Summer's Crisp Harvest

Summer is finally here, bringing a bounty of farm-fresh vegetables and fruits. Green beans, firm and juicy, overflow bins with a crispness that means they're straight from the field.

Crimson tomatoes, just off the vine, burst with juice at the touch of a knife. It's the season to feast on vegetables picked at the peak of ripeness!

Fresh beans and tomatoes can easily stand alone at mealtime—but why not combine them in a zesty casserole? This recipe adds sauteed onions and crunchy bits of bacon for a flavor accent. And to blend everything together, there's a rich sauce made from creamy Casino natural Monterey Jack cheese.

With its mild flavor and soft, smooth consistency, Monterey Jack is the perfect complement to the medley of fresh tastes and textures. The cheese was first made by 19th-century monks in Monterey, California, and is a distant cousin of English cheddar.

TAKE A FLORIDA ORANGE JUICE BREAK

Portable Feast For Outdoors

Summer naturally invites you outdoors to play, to relax, and to eat. Whether you choose a treeshaded park, a spot by the lake or the backyard for your next outing, food plays a starring role.

To simplify warm weather meal planning, home economists have developed a summertime menu with an Oriental touch. Crunchy chow mein noodles are a great beginning. Highlight of the meal is Ribs Royale and Sesame Chicken, delicious either hot off the grill or cooked in advance.

RIBS ROYALE

 - 3 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
 - 1 clove garlic, crushed
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 3/4 cup catsup
 - 2 tablespoons brown sugar
 - 1/2 tablespoons brown sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
 - 1 teaspoon onion powder
- Combine ingredients in a small saucepan. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Brush spareribs often while grilling or broiling. Serves 6.

CHICKEN SESAME

- 1/2 cup soy sauce
- 1/4 cup dry white wine
- 1-3rd cup salad oil
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 1 clove garlic, crushed

Zucchini Dish Wins First In Cooking Contest

Chicken Stuffed Zucchini took top honors in the 1981 Florida Chicken Cooking Contest held June 4 and 5 at Tampa Bay Center shopping mall.

The recipe, prepared by Mrs. Gertrude (Betty) Dupriest of Pembroke Park, won out over those prepared by nine other finalists from across the state. Mrs. Dupriest will be representing Florida in the National Chicken Cooking Contest in Ocean City, Maryland on July 29.

There, the best of 51 recipes prepared by contestants from across the country will receive the top prize of $10,000.

CHICKEN STUFFED ZUCCHINI

- 1 whole broiler-fryer chicken breast, halved, boned, skinned, and cut in bite-size pieces
- 2 broiler-fryer chicken thighs, boned, skinned, cut in bite-size pieces
- 4 medium zucchini, halved lengthwise, scooped out, pulp reserved and chopped
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 3 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce, divided
- 8 ounces shredded mozzarella cheese

In large bowl, mix together chicken, reserved zucchini pulp, onion, parsley, garlic, salt and pepper. In frypan, place oil and heat to medium temperature. Add chicken mixture and cook, stirring, about 5 minutes or until chicken is opaque and fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Blend half of the tomato sauce with the chicken. Divide chicken mixture into 8 equal portions; mound into zucchini. Place stuffed zucchini in single layer in large shallow baking pan. Spoon the remaining half of tomato sauce over and around stuffed zucchini. Bake, uncovered, in 350 degrees F. oven for 20 minutes. Remove from oven; sprinkle with cheese. Bake about 15 minutes longer or until cheese has melted and squash is fork tender. Makes 4 large servings.

Florida seedless limes give this vegetable dip and fruit sauce a sprightly, sweet-tart tropical flavor.

Florida Seedless Limes In Tropical Fruit Best Supermarket Citrus Bargain This Summer

Summertime is lime time and right now Florida seedless limes are becoming very plentiful in local markets.

This season Florida lime growers, who produce 90 percent of the limes grown in this country, are anticipating an excellent crop of this tropical fruit.

Unless Mother Nature plays tricks, inflation weary consumers can expect Florida seedless limes to be the best citrus bargain in the supermarket this summer.

Both sweet and tart at the same time, the versatile lime adds cool, sprightly flavor not only to beverages, but also to appetizers, main dishes and desserts.

Because limes bring out the natural flavor of foods they are the perfect flavor enhancer. Try adding a juicy wedge of lime to iced tea, diet sodas or sparkling mineral water for perky flavor.

And remember, Florida limes have no seeds! This time of year low-calorie fare is always welcome. Crisp, crunchy raw vegetables, with their array of rich color make beautiful appetizers for the hors d'oeuvre hour. Always serve juicy lime wedges along with fresh vegetables so guests can squeeze on extra flavor. For a perfect accompaniment try this Limey Country Cottage Dip. Whirled in the blender until creamy smooth this dip is a flavorful companion for vegetables and crisp crackers. Or, try spooning a dollop in baked potatoes for a delicious, low-calorie topping.

A juicy squeeze of seedless lime brings out the delicate flavor of fresh fruits, too. Summer melons, especially cantaloupes, take on added distinction when served with a big squeeze of lime.

Emerald Lime Fruit Sauce is an easy, elegant way to dress-up simple desserts. Serve as a dip or as a sauce for a medley of fresh summer fruit.

LIMEY COUNTRY COTTAGE DIP

- 1/4 cup fresh Florida lime juice (about 2 medium limes)
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lime peel
- 1 tablespoon honey
- 1 cup cottage cheese
- 1/4 teaspoon dried dill weed
- 2/3 cup finely chopped cucumber, drained
- Salt to taste

Cayenne pepper to taste
Measure lime juice and peel, honey and cottage cheese into container of electric blender. Blend until smooth. Turn into bowl. Mix in dill weed, cucumber, salt and pepper. Chill for several hours to blend flavors. Serve as a dip for fresh raw vegetable pieces, chips and crackers, or spoon over split baked potatoes. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

EMERALD LIME FRUIT SAUCE

- 1 1/2 cups dairy sour cream
- 2 teaspoons grated lime peel
- 3 tablespoons fresh Florida lime juice (about 2 medium limes)
- 3 tablespoons maple or maple-flavored syrup
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger

Thoroughly mix all ingredients in bowl. Chill 2 to 4 hours to blend flavors. Serve as a dip or sauce for fresh fruits. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

Potpourri

Turnovers Welcomed By Beginning Cooks

Beginning cooks will want to add a basic recipe to their files. Savory beef turnovers, especially, will be welcomed by a new bridegroom.

For those not into making pie crusts yet, use frozen or prepared biscuit dough and roll out to make the two 10-inch squares needed.

Serve with oven-fried potatoes and cheese-filled baked onions or baked tomatoes.

SAVORY BEEF TURNOVERS

- 1 can (10 1/4 ounces) beef gravy
- 1 cup finely chopped cooked beef
- 1/2 cup cooked peas
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- Dash salt
- Dash pepper
- Pastry for two-crust pie
- 2 teaspoons prepared horseradish

To make filling, in bowl, combine 1/4 cup gravy, beef, peas, onion, mustard, salt and pepper.

To make turnovers, roll pastry into two 10-inch squares. Cut each into 4 small squares. Place about 1/4 cup mixture on each square. Fold dough over to form triangle. Seal edges by fluting or pressing with fork. Arrange turnovers on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake at 450-degrees for 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Meanwhile, in saucepan, combine remaining gravy and horseradish. Heat; stir occasionally. Serve with turnovers. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

CREAMY CUCUMBER CUSTARDS

Cucumber in custards? Yes! Served warm or chilled, they make a refreshing meal starter, side dish or snack. Though light, they're luscious with cream cheese and sour cream adding richness.

- 1 medium cucumber (10 to 12 oz.)
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 cup milk
- 1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese, cubed
- 4 eggs
- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon dried dill weed
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- Watercress leaves, optional

Cut 8 thin cucumber slices. Set aside. Pare, seed and shred remaining cucumber. Stir in vinegar and salt. Let stand 15 minutes. Drain well, pressing out excess liquid. Set aside.

In small saucepan over medium heat, cook onion in butter until tender but not brown, 3 to 4 minutes. Stir in milk. Heat until very hot. Stir in cheese until melted. Remove from heat.

In large bowl, beat together remaining ingredients except watercress until well blended. Gradually stir in reserved cucumber and milk mixture. Place six (6 oz. each) custard cups in large baking pan. Pour egg mixture into custard cups. Place pan on rack in preheated 350 degrees F. oven. Pour very hot water into pan to within 1/4 inch of top of custards. Bake until knife inserted near center comes out clean, about 20 to 25 minutes. Remove immediately from hot water. Serve warm or chilled. Garnish with reserved cucumber slices and watercress leaves, if desired.

To cook in electric skillet: Prepare egg mixture as above. Place filled custard cups in skillet. Fill skillet with very hot water to level of about 1 inch. Cover. Heat at 350 degrees F. until water boils, about 4 to 5 minutes. Reduce heat and simmer until knife inserted near center comes out clean, about 10 to 15 minutes. Remove immediately from hot water. Serve as above.

BAKED CHICKEN AND PEACHES

- 1 can (16oz.) peach halves or 1 can (11oz.) mandarin orange sections.
- 2 1/2 pounds cut-up chicken
- 1 envelope seasoned coating for chicken—original flavor

Drain peach halves, reserving 1/4 cup syrup. Moisten chicken pieces with measured syrup. Empty seasoned coating mix into shaker bag. Shake 2 or 3 chicken pieces at a time in bag until evenly coated. Place in 13x9-inch baking pan. Bake at 400 degrees for 40 minutes. Place peach halves in pan and bake 5 to 10 minutes longer or until chicken is tender. Spoon pan drippings over peaches. Makes 4 servings.

Mediterranean Lamb Broil calls for sirloin chops served on an intriguing combination of linguini, zucchini, onion and red or green pepper.

Leg Of Lamb: Use Shopping Savvy To Fit Into Menu

Lamb merits a place in the shopping cart. Yet this favorite of connoisseurs and creative cooks, is overlooked by some shoppers. Lamb can be enjoyed within the confines of a moderate food budget, especially with the application of a bit of shopping savvy. You'll find that getting better acquainted with this fine meat is extremely rewarding.

It is possible to have the economy of a whole leg of lamb and at the same time the convenience of cuts sized for one meal. For a leg of lamb can be divided by the meat retailer to yield cuts for three different and delicious meals — a roast, chops and a stew or soup.

Sure to turn any meal into a special occasion is a Lamb Center Leg Roast — a leg with sirloin chops and shank removed. Preparation of this meaty, flavorful roast is easy for it simply cooks unattended to the desired degree of doneness.

Traditionally, lamb has been roasted to well done, however, more and more diners are discovering the culinary delights of lamb cooked to rare or medium. You will note that the roasting timetable includes these three stages of doneness. To dress up the lamb roast, serve it with a Spiced Peach Sauce, quickly made with canned sliced peaches and peach preserves.

Sirloin chops, cut from the top of the leg, can provide another delicious and economical meal. In the recipe for Mediterranean Lamb Broil, the chops are served on an intriguing combination of linguini, zucchini, onion and red or green pepper. This recipe also can be prepared using economical blade or arm chops cut from the shoulder.

For still another lamb meal from the leg, make a hearty stew or soup. Use the shank for this and/or lamb trimmed from the section removed containing the rump bone plus the first sirloin chop which is irregular. Especially appealing is Lamb and Vegetable Soup that teams chunks of lamb with a medley of vegetables.

While the family enjoys the mild, delicate flavor of lamb in a variety of ways, they will be receiving the benefit of many essential nutrients. Lamb is both high in quality and quantity of protein, containing all the essential amino acids necessary to build, maintain and repair body tissues and strengthen the defense mechanism against infection and disease. Other important nutrients in lamb include the B-vitamins niacin, thiamin, riboflavin, B-6 and B-12 and the minerals iron and zinc.

ROAST LAMB LEG

7 to 9-pound lamb leg or 5 to 7-pound lamb leg or center lamb roast

Spiced Peach Sauce, if desired

Place roast, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in thickest part of leg, being careful not to let it rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) to desired degree of doneness. Remove from oven when meat thermometer registers 135 degrees F. for rare; 155 degrees F. for medium; 165 degrees F. for well done. Allow roast to "stand" in a warm place 15 to 20 minutes after removal from oven. Since roasts continue to cook during this time, they usually rise approximately 5 degrees F. in internal temperature, reaching 140 degrees F. for rare; 160 degrees for medium; 170 degrees for well done. For a 7 to 9-pound roast, allow 15 to 20 minutes per pound for rare; 20 to 25 minutes per pound for medium; 25 to 30 minutes per pound for well done. For a 5 to 7-pound roast, allow 20 to 25 minutes per pound for rare; 25 to 30 minutes per pound for medium; 30 to 35 minutes per pound for well done. Serve warm Spiced Peach Sauce with roast, if desired.

Note: Frozen lamb can be defrosted in the refrigerator or cooked frozen. If leg is cooked frozen, allow 1-3rd to 1/2 more time (at 300 degrees F. to 325 degrees F.) than for defrosted leg.

SPICED PEACH SAUCE

1 can (16 ounces) sliced peaches
 1/2 cup peach preserves
 2 teaspoons lemon juice
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/4 teaspoon mint flakes

Drain peach syrup into saucepan. Stir in peach preserves, lemon juice, cinnamon and mint flakes; cook slowly 12 to 15 minutes to reduce liquid to 1 cup. Add reserved peaches and continue cooking 2 to 3 minutes or until heated through, stirring gently to coat.

MEDITERRANEAN LAMB BROIL

4 to 6 lamb blade, arm or sirloin chops, cut 3/4 to 1 inch thick
 Salt and pepper
 3 medium zucchini, cut into 1/2-inch slices
 1 onion, cut into 12 wedges
 1 red or green pepper, cut into strips
 1 clove garlic, minced
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1 teaspoon basil leaves
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon marjoram leaves
 Cooked linguini, if desired

Place chops on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 3 inches from heat. Broil 5 minutes, season chops with salt and pepper and turn; broil second sides 5 minutes and season with salt and pepper. Meanwhile, prepare vegetables by slowly cooking zucchini, onion, red or green pepper and garlic in butter or margarine in large frying-pan 4 minutes. Sprinkle basil, 1/2 teaspoon salt and marjoram over vegetables, cover lightly, and continue cooking 4 minutes or until tender. Serve broiled lamb chops with linguini, if desired, and cooked vegetables. 4 to 6 servings.

Note: Lamb chops may also be panbroiled.

LAMB SCOTCH SOUP STEW

1 pound (approximately) boneless lamb
 1 tablespoon cooking fat
 1/4 cup water
 1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
 3 medium carrots, cut into 1/4 to 1 inch slices
 2 ribs celery, cut into 1/2 inch slices
 1 medium potato, pared and cut into 1/4 inch pieces
 1 onion, quartered
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon chili powder
 Dash hot pepper sauce

Cut lamb into 1-inch pieces and brown in cooking fat in Dutch oven. Pour off drippings. Add water; cover tightly and cook slowly 1 hour. Remove fat from cooking liquid. Break up tomatoes and add to meat. Add carrots, celery, potato, onion, salt, chili powder and hot pepper sauce. Cover tightly and continue cooking slowly 30 minutes. If a thicker soup is desired, combine 1 tablespoon flour with 2 tablespoons water. Add to cooking liquid and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. 4 servings of 1-1/4 cups each.

Note: Rump, shank and sirloin chop can be browned and cooked for first hour before removing meat, cutting it into pieces and returning meat to the cooking liquid. Two lamb shanks can be used for this recipe.

Colon Problems Solved By Diet

DEAR DR. LAMB—Three months ago I experienced a very sudden and unexpected attack of diverticulitis that put me in the hospital for eight days. The condition was cleared through intravenous liquids and antibiotics. Then I had a hernia operation but I am back to golf and daily walks.

to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I eat meals with as much high fiber as I can and my bowels are OK, although I take Metamucil once a week since my diverticulitis attack. I would like to know what foods to avoid as I certainly do not want another attack if I can help it.

Even between attacks it is probably best to avoid foods that contain seeds. The concern is that one will lodge in the pocket and cause complications. Otherwise you should eat a well-balanced diet that does not disturb your colon function. That means avoiding foods that cause gas. People with symptoms often do well to avoid spices, coffee (both decaffeinated and the regular kind), tea and colas. Bran is a good source of fiber but may form too much gas for some people, in which case a greater reliance is placed on bulk formers.

DEAR READER—Diverticulosis of the colon refers to small pockets that develop along the colon. In some ways they are like a small appendix. Indeed, when one gets inflamed it can cause the symptoms and findings of appendicitis. Many people with diverticulosis have no symptoms.

DEAR DR. LAMB—My husband's doctor told him he has marked obesity with possible beginning Pickwickian syndrome. We have looked and asked everyone but we cannot find out what it is. Could you please send us something on that?

When you have an acute inflammation you have to be treated differently than you would between attacks or with mild symptoms unrelated to inflammation, bleeding or perforation. Your letter indicates that you were on intravenous fluids so your condition would not be aggravated by food during the acute stage.

DEAR READER—The term derives from Mr. Samuel Pickwick, the fat character in Charles Dickens' novel, "Pickwick Papers." The character had frequent episodes of dropping off to sleep.

At one time bland, low fiber menus were recommended for diverticulosis. Today most doctors agree that if you do not have one of the complications, you should eat a diet that includes bulk. The Metamucil and other bulk-forming agents are used to help this.

The extreme obesity inhibits the normal movement of the chest, interfering with normal respiration. Since breathing is inadequate, the body doesn't get rid of enough carbon dioxide. This affects the body's chemical balance which in turn is responsible for the tendency to have frequent naps. I presume your husband's doctor thinks your husband's obesity is causing him to have inadequate lung function.

YOUR BIRTHDAY July 23, 1981
Give vent to your artistic, dramatic, creative or musical talents this coming year. By using your gifts properly, you could open up an entirely new field for yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) If you expect others to overlook your shortcomings today, you must be equally tolerant of theirs. Look for their virtues instead of their faults. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A situation in which you feel you are operating at a disadvantage can be readjusted today by speaking to the proper party.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Should disagreements arise today between you and your mate, you're apt to feel he or she is to blame. This might not be entirely true. Be objective.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your chances for success are quite good today, but there is also a possibility you might make things harder for yourself than necessary.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There are certain people in whom you can put your faith today. They won't let you down. There are others who you know from experience it would be unwise to depend upon.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is one of those days where doing for others may have to take precedence over your own needs. The tasks will be harder if your attitude is not cheerful.

Vigilantes Blamed For Death Of County Bully

MARYVILLE, Mo. (UPI) — Kenneth Rex McElroy was the terror of Nodaway County, a bully, or so his detractors said. He had shot at least two men and his fists had hurt many others.

On a hot summer night almost two weeks ago, about 60 of the 440 residents of Skidmore, Mo., encircled his pickup truck outside a corrugated tin bar called the D&G Tavern and someone shot McElroy, 47, once in the head with a deer rifle.

A six-member coroner's

Jury Tuesday ruled McElroy was killed by "person or persons unknown."

The decision was reached despite the testimony of his wife Trina McElroy, 24, who said she could identify the man by name who stepped from the ranks of the angry vigilante mob and fired.

"Police just never liked my husband," Mrs. McElroy sobbed in a telephone interview, explaining why her eyewitness report had not led to an arrest.

McElroy, known as "Kenrex" by both his friends and enemies, had an extensive arrest record.

Police said he previously had been charged with chicken theft, attempted jail break, rape and attempted murder. He was convicted of a misdemeanor in an attempted bribery case, then was convicted of shooting a Skidmore grocer.

That final case was on appeal and he was out on bond at the time of his death.

"We didn't want our lives the way they were with McElroy around, but I can't believe anyone around here is the kind to end the situation with a bullet," Ken Hurner, president of the American National Bank of Skidmore, said in a recent interview.

An autopsy has already determined the cause of McElroy's death to be a wound inflicted July 10 with a highpowered rifle. Missouri law requires an inquest whenever a coroner finds a death caused by violent means, said prosecutor David Baird.

Six witnesses were questioned for about one hour at the inquest hearing. Evidence from more than 350 pages of reports and about 90 leads compiled by 23 law enforcement officers was also introduced, Baird said.

In two hours it was over, the obligation of the statute having been satisfied — although, officially, the investigation is still continuing.

The prosecutor said coroner's juries can make no definitive ruling, such as naming a suspect, but they can suggest grounds on which to proceed.
