Seminole's Schools Adjust For Growth

By Angela Woodhull
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County has been the fastest-growing school system in Florida in recent years, according to school board officials.

Between 1972 and 1982, the district's public school population increased 9,750 students. Last year there were 39,255 students. This year school officials estimate there will be about 41,412 students.

There will be approximately 1,200 new students in Seminole ready to begin school when the doors open this Monday.

What does the school system have planned for its growing student population? Here's a look at what's new for the 1986-87 school year.

Standard Of Excellence Program in social studies: A new, state-required "standards of excellence" program has been added to the seventh and eighth grade social studies curriculum. "Florida is no longer emphasizing just the basics. We want to challenge kids," said Jim Elliott, consultant/coordinator of social studies.

In the required eighth grade American history course, students will practice in-depth research techniques. "They might write a large research paper or they might produce a tangible product, like constructing a pioneer shelter, as part of the new research requirement, Elliott said.

"Critical thinking" skills will be emphasized. Students will learn to analyze facts like attorneys do, according to Elliott.

The new seventh and eighth grades social studies courses will also include free enterprise and consumer education units. "Actually, none of

Judges List Campaign Funding

By Deane Jordan

Two candidates have taken the financial lead in a four-way race for Judge of the 18th Judicial Circuit, Group 4, Seminole County, but face the specter of campaigning after the Sept. 2 primary because four names on the ballot could split the vote, preventing the front-runner from getting the needed majority to win.

If that's the case, the top two will campaign it out until the Nov. 4 general election.

In a second 18th Judicial Circuit, Group 3 race, a Brevard County Judge has picked up about four times the funds of his Lake Mary opponent.

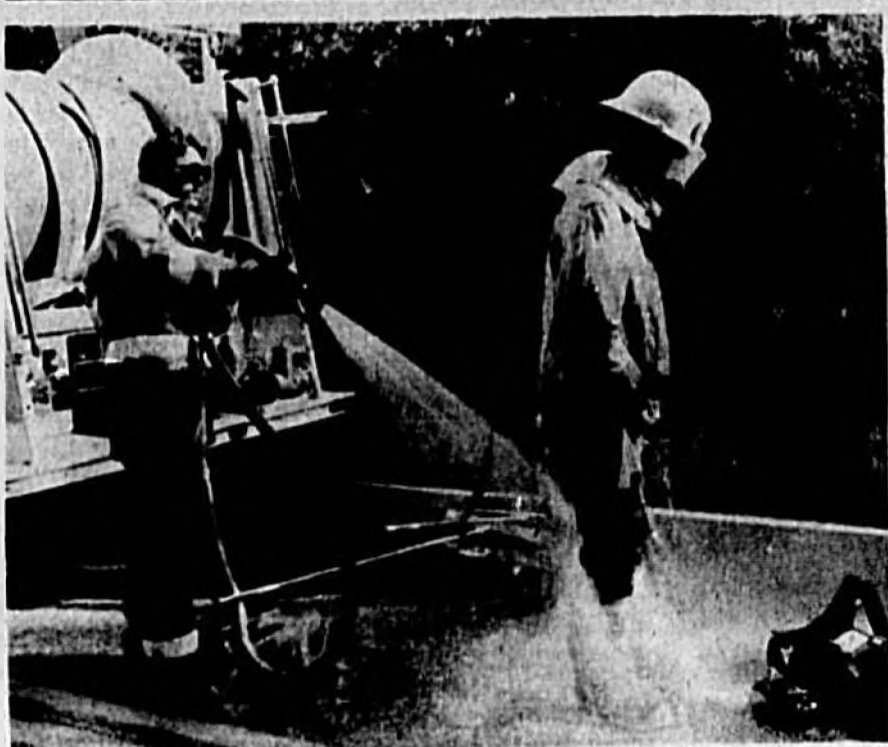

Big spenders from Seminole County in the Judicial Circuit, Group 4 race to be vacated by resigning Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi, are Ned Julian Jr. of Sanford and O. H. "Bull" Eaton of Longwood. Julian has collected contributions and loans of $19,010 and Eaton $12,675.

Third in contributions is Jim Lavigne of Casselberry with a grand total of $4,425. The campaign report of Leonard Wood, fourth lawyer in the legal dash, shows no contribution activity other than $2,100 of his own money which covered the $2,018 qualifying fee paid in July. Wood is also his own campaign treasurer.

The four are running for a

Sulphur Bags Rupture, Traffic Rerouted

Firefighters trained in handling hazardous wastes were called to two scenes in Chuluota around 8 a.m. after one or more 50-pound bags of sulphur fell off a vehicle and ruptured.

Three people at the scenes required medical attention after inhalation of the sulphur fumes. They were treated at Winter Park Hospital and released, said Battalion Chief Mike Millard.

There were unconfirmed reports that some of the sulphur ignited, possibly from exhaust sparks from vehicles.

Millard said the sulphur was on State Road 419 near the forestry tower and at the intersection of Lake Mills and Tropical. The spill on SR 419 was cleaned up by 8:30 a.m. and the other spill was expected to be cleaned up a few minutes later.

Millard said some people who helped direct traffic around the material, including an Orange County Sheriff's deputy, were irritated by the sulphur powder.

Besides the hazardous waste team, county firefighting units at the scenes included two engines and a second squad. About 10 firefighters responded.

Chernobyl Death Toll May Soar

Doctor: 35,000 At Risk

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — From 10,000 to 35,000 people may eventually die from the radiation released during the Chernobyl nuclear accident in the Soviet Ukraine last spring, said a physician who visited victims in a Moscow hospital.

"The tragedy of Chernobyl is just beginning to fall on us," said Dr. Wes Wallace, of Round Rock.

He estimated the eventual death toll at from 10,000 to 35,000 and said the number of those contracting cancer because of the disaster could reach 50,000.

The April 26 steam and chemical explosion at the Chernobyl reactor killed two workers outright and forced the evacuation of 135,000 people.

A Soviet report Thursday revealed 31 people have died from the accident and at least 40 more remain hospitalized with acute and potentially fatal radiation poisoning.

Soviet officials blame the accident on human error.

Wallace, chairman of the House of Delegates of Physicians for Social Responsibility, was one of seven anti-nuclear physicians to visit the Soviet Union about a month after the disaster.

He said he and the others were invited to the hospital to speak on "half-medical, half-peace" issues.

Wallace said many of the workers at the reactor and some nearby Soviet citizens received more than 600 rads of radiation.

"While there is some disagreement, it is normally thought that 450 rads is the level at which half of the healthy

City Told To Use Shopping Center For Offices

Some Lake Mary offices should be moved to a Lake Mary shopping center, A. R. "Doc" Jore, chairman of the city's Capital Facilities Committee, recommended at a city commission meeting Thursday night.

He also recommended commissioners use the Civic Improvement Association building for public meetings. No decisions were reached.

Commissioners voted unanimously 4-0 to adopt Lake Mary's Impact fee ordinance. Commissioner Paul Tremel was absent. The ordinance sets fees to be paid by commercial and residential builders to help meet increased costs in police and fire protection and parks and recreation brought about by their developments. Briley, Wiley, and Associates presented the findings of their firm's two month impact fee study and commissioners recommended the study be further investigated by the city's engineers.

About 40 people attended the regularly scheduled meeting.

Jore said his committee recommended:

- A modular building be built for the Lake Mary police department.
- City hall personnel move into facilities at the Shoppes at Lake Mary, a shopping center at Lake Mary Blvd. and Country Club Road.

Commission and other public meetings be held in the CIA building and that Lake Mary use the present city hall to house administrative operations.

Jore was instructed by the commission to work with staff to further investigate the his committee's recommendations. In July, a proposal by Lake Mary Mayor Dick Fess that the city purchase the Shoppes of Lake Mary for $3.55 million was rejected by commissioners.

In other business, final site plans were approved 3-1 for a drive-in banking facility at the corner of Sun Drive and Lake Mary Blvd. with Commissioner Ken King voting no. King said the bank would create too many traffic problems.

Commissioners postponed approval of the final site plan review in an area zoned Professional Office, 370 West Lake Mary Blvd., for owner Robert Cushman. Commissioners recommended that Cushman erect a cross access easement and a six-foot wall on the back side of this property where an alley way existed previously.

Nomination of Arthur R. Chase for the position of Records/Communications Section Supervisor was unanimously approved.

Citrus Leader, Former Newspaper Editor Dies

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Wilson C. "Red" McGee, widely known citrus industry spokesman and a former reporter and editor for The Mianit Herald and The Orlando Sentinel, died Wednesday.

McGee, 73, died of a heart attack at Winter Park Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted Sunday.

"Red was a super guy," Mack Cleveland, Sanford attorney said. "He was sports editor at the Sentinel when I was trying to play football in high school. Later we became friends when I was in the legislature and when he was representing United Growers and Shippers and I was representing a few growers. He was a good newspaperman and good in the fields of law in which he specialized. He was a rare individual."

McGee was executive director of United Growers and Shippers, a former citrus trade association in Orlando, from 1967 to 1984, when it disbanded.

For two decades McGee was a well-known fixture in the front row at Florida Citrus Commission meetings in Lakeland, tape-recording sessions and taking notes. He attended a commission committee meeting less than a week before his death and appeared to be recovering from a heart attack suffered about two months ago, friends said.

Prior to his 18-year career with the citrus trade association, McGee served as Sentinel editorial director from 1961-67. He began his newspaper career with The Banner and The Tennessean in Nashville, Tenn. in 1930. From 1934 to 1944, he was a reporter, then managing editor for the

Manufactured Durable Goods Orders Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New orders for manufactured durable goods increased in July by a healthy 4.3 percent, or $4.4 billion, the best gain since 1984, the Commerce Department said Friday.

Orders for durable goods, the most expensive category of manufactured products with an average life of three years or longer, were valued at $107.2 billion in July, the Census Bureau said in a statistical report.

Despite a scant 0.1 percent decline in June and a 1.1 percent gain in May, the heavy manufacturing orders component scored its best gain since November 1984.

However, excluding the defense capital goods category, orders rose by a more modest

1.1 percent in July following a 1.4 percent gain in June and a 3.1 percent decline in May.

Department analysts said a 46.6 percent rise in defense orders was the result of a flurry

Rosier Appeals Suit To Bounce Opponent

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A candidate in the race for a newly created judgeship serving Seminole and Brevard counties filed an appeal Thursday in his attempt to have his opponent tossed off the Sept. 3 ballot.

Joe Rosier of Lake Mary filed the appeal with the First District Court of Appeals in Tallahassee asking the court to determine if his opponent, Brevard County Judge Lawrence Johnston, properly resigned before running for the circuit judgeship.

If Rosier succeeds, he will win by default, since no other name will appear on the ballot.

While Rosier said earlier the effort to knock Johnston off the ballot had nothing to do with the campaign, the $46.50 case filing fee was listed among in-kind donations to himself on his campaign finance report. Rosier did not list related lawyer fees to the case.

Florida law states elected officials must resign from one elected position before running for another elected position. The resignation has to be received by state officials 10 days prior to qualifying for the new race.

Often, an elected official will postdate the resignation, as did Johnston. Though he submitted the letter in July, it will not become effective until January.

Rosier maintains in the suit that Johnston, of Merritt Island, did not properly resign though the governor and the Division of Elections accepted the letter and one circuit judge has sided with Johnston, ruling he did resign.

Johnston wrote he "intends" to resign Jan. 5, rather than he "will" resign Jan. 5. He also has a postscript on the letter that advised Gov. Bob Graham that if his letter of resignation was received too late for him to qualify for the race then it should be considered an invalid resignation letter.

It was, however, received in time for Johnston to qualify.

Johnston has called Rosier's bid in court to knock him off the ballot "hypertechnical," and said he was shocked that such a tactic would be used in a judge's race.

The suit against Johnston was initially filed on Rosier's behalf by a Cocoa attorney who lost a race to Johnston in 1980.

Two Jailed On Spouse Abuse / Battery Charges

In unrelated cases, two Seminole County men have been charged in connection with battering their wives.

The first arrest was made by Longwood police who, at 2:14 p.m. Wednesday, charged Steven Saverio Shalkowitz, 38, of 132 Sandalwood Way, Longwood, with spouse abuse/battery. He is accused of trying to choke his wife, Janet, during a fight at their home. He was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

In the other case, Junior Roy, 26, of 423 N. Orlando Ave., Maitland, was arrested at 3:52 p.m. Wednesday by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy. The deputy reported Roy allegedly hit his wife, Cynthia, 10 times with a board and also hit her with a jar. Roy was arrested at his home on an aggravated battery charge and was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Illegal Haitians Nearly Double

MIAMI (UPI) — The number of Haitians trying to enter the country illegally has almost doubled this year despite the popular rebellion that overthrew President Jean-Claude "Baby Doc" Duvalier, authorities said Thursday.

Coast Guard cutters have stopped 3,011 Haitians from reaching U.S. soil since Duvalier fled into exile Feb. 7 — almost double the number interdicted during the first six months of last year.

The increase since Duvalier's departure suggests that most of the Haitians are economic rather than political refugees, authorities said.

"The reason they are coming is to leave the oppressive economic conditions. There has been no change in that," said Lt. Ron Faulky, who manages the government's $24 million Haitian Migration Interdiction Operation from Miami.

"After 29 years of oppression, you cannot change the economic conditions in a few months," said Alix Ottinot, the Haitian vice consul in Miami. "I cannot stop the entrance of Haitian people."

The transitional government that succeeded Duvalier has been criticized as ineffective in boosting the economy and providing jobs. In June, workers in Haiti's major cities staged a general strike that brought the Western Hemisphere's poorest nation to a standstill.

Ottinot said scores of Haitians have relatives in Miami's Haitian community and it is natural for them to seek a better life with them here.

The latest group interdicted during the 540-mile journey from Haiti to Miami was spotted Tuesday by the Coast Guard Cutter Tampa. Eighty Haitians were taken aboard the Tampa and the Coast Guard sank the Haitians' 50-foot wooden sailboat because it was a navigational hazard, Petty Officer Bob Baeten said.

"If you have ever seen those boats, you know that they are an accident looking for a place to happen," Baeten said.

The Tampa had just left Port-au-Prince, where it dropped off 282 Haitians intercepted aboard two boats Saturday about 130 miles north of Haiti.

The Reagan administration established the interdiction program in October 1981, as a three-month experiment to curtail the illegal immigration that brought an estimated 25,000 Haitians to Florida in 1980.

Reagan's Terror Alert Was A False Alarm

As summer draws to a close it becomes increasingly evident that the Reagan administration vastly overreacted when it urged Americans not to travel in Europe this summer because of the possibility of terrorist attacks. So far as I have been able to determine, none of the thousands of Americans who ignored this warning and traveled in Europe encountered the slightest evidence of terrorism.

Traveling in Italy, Austria, Belgium and Ireland this summer, I have never found Europe more pleasant and secure. The one positive benefit for travelers resulting from the administration's warning is that it so drastically cut down the number of travelers it made travel easier for those who did go abroad. There may also have been a second benefit for the tourist business in the United States, Russia, China, Japan and other countries: These nations received some of the travelers who otherwise would have gone to Europe.

But for those Europeans who, over the years, have had nothing to do with terrorism and have worked hard to earn the patronage of American visitors, the Reagan warning was costly. Europeans also felt hurt that their countries were, in effect, declared off limits to Americans.

Thoughtful Europeans explained to me time after time that they could not understand how an American president — aware of the dangers on the streets of American cities — could urge his fellow Americans to avoid Europe on the grounds that it was too dangerous.

Indeed, many European observers believe that the Reagan administration has, from the beginning, vastly exaggerated the terrorist danger. Europe is much closer to Libya, Syria and other alleged terrorist centers than is the United States, but one encounters little fear or discussion among Europeans about Libya, Syria or international terrorism.

In its opening days the Reagan administration announced that, henceforth, combating terrorism would replace concern over human rights as the keystone of American policy. Such a decision could only be the product of minds largely ignorant about the central issues of foreign policy.

Only a handful of people have experienced any real danger from terrorists in recent years.

Vast multitudes of people have suffered oppression, degradation, torture and death because of human-rights abuses around the globe. Reagan and his associates are playing a game of Hollywood charades when they contend that the Libyan terrorist is a greater threat to humanity than those who abuse human rights, such as Pinochet in Chile and Botha in South Africa.

The Reagan administration's curious fixation on terrorism is all the more ironic in view of its own "terrorist" tactics in Nicaragua. In this poverty-stricken little country, American arms, money and CIA agents are waging a secret war (the world's worst-kept secret) to sabotage the government we officially and publicly recognize in Nicaragua. The contra mercenaries the CIA has recruited, armed and trained are now blowing up buses, destroying cooperative settlements, killing innocent women and children and generally harassing the people and government of Nicaragua. To the people of Nicaragua, Ronald Reagan is the chief terrorist — not Moammar Gadhafi.

DON GRAFF

India's Ripe For U.S.

I'm beginning to think they may be getting to me.

The Heritage Foundation, that is. For the second time in recent weeks, the super-conservative Washington think tank is out with a study with which I largely agree. The first was a release blasting the Immigration and Naturalization Service for barring the U.S. door to Cuban refugees.

This time, it is an analysis of U.S.-Indian relations which discerns an opportunity to ease, if not reverse, four decades of mutual disapproval. Heritage thinks the Reagan administration ought to seize it.

I agree. The study notes that low-key Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi has relaxed rigid policies that characterized his mother's rule. He has moved to liberalize regulation of foreign trade and investment and is pushing for closer ties with this country, already India's foremost trading partner.

There remain serious obstacles to better political relations, however. Gandhi shows no inclination to drop India's longtime Soviet connection. India consistently sides with the Soviets on key international issues — even on Afghanistan, which is uncomfortably close to its own borders.

And there is Pakistan, which India views as threat No. 1 and which the United States is again building up militarily. Heritage advises the Reagan administration to convince the Indians that our Pakistani connection is short-term — a response to the Soviet presence in Afghanistan which will end when that intrusion does.

At this point, I have to interject a "yes, but...."

Heritage omits some essential background: Washington, under successive administrations, has shown a consistent preference for Pakistan over India.

For example, when the late John Foster Dulles was remaking the world, he regarded not marching in lockstep with U.S. policy as tantamount to joining the enemy camp. India refused to march and was virtually excommunicated. Pakistan dutifully marched — right into the anti-Soviet Central Treaty Organization, a paper alliance if there ever was one.

Then in 1971, another master of realpolitik chose sides for the United States in the third Indo-Pakistani war in 25 years. Henry Kissinger's inspired choice was Pakistan, which had brought on the conflict by years of misrule in Bengal.

FBI Probes Vietnamese Criminals

WASHINGTON — A special kind of terrorism has afflicted the United States in recent years: violence and intimidation instigated not by Hanoi, but by virulently anti-communist Vietnamese groups in this country.

Some outspoken refugees have been murdered, apparently to silence their advocacy of normalizing relations with the communist Vietnamese regime. These attacks have been compared to the murderous vigilante operations of right-wing "death squads" in Central America, whose thousands of victims have included suspected communists, leftists and moderates who criticized the military regimes of their countries.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Farm Aid A Ploy?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — We have all seen the heart-rending scenes from the drought-stricken South — the farmers stand in parched fields, their withered crops in the background, and wait to receive hay shipments from other parts of the country. When asked, they say that, if help does not arrive soon, bankruptcy is around the corner.

Three times in the last few weeks the White House has announced major "new" initiatives supposedly designed to help farmers in distress. But Democrats charge that these sudden farm initiatives are really aimed at helping incumbent Republican senators. Further, Democrats say the bulk of the money is earmarked for those farmers who need it least, not those facing bankruptcy from one of the worst droughts on record. An analysis of the proposals — which will cost taxpayers more than $1 billion — shows that this is probably true.

In early August, on a trip to South Carolina — the heart of the drought area — President Reagan announced with great fanfare a $1-billion crop-loss payment program. Both the White House and Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng described this effort as "dramatic" and "innovative." The White House stressed it was being tailored to "help the stricken farmers of the Southeast," with at least "half of the money going to farmers in the South."

An analysis of the program shows that almost none of these claims are true.

Actually, the money is simply an acceleration of payments already scheduled to be given farmers starting in December and running through next spring. It will only go to farmers who were eligible for, and who had previously signed up for, federal crop insurance. Not one cent will go to a stricken farmer who is not covered by the insurance. Finally, of the $1 billion, only about $50 million will go to farmers in the drought area.

That is the central fact of this program. Ninety-five percent of the money will go to farmers in Midwestern and Western states — states in which incumbent Republican senators are fighting for their political lives this November. States in which the Reagan administration's agricultural policy is the single most negative issue facing the GOP. States whose Republican incumbents are crucial to continued GOP control of the Senate.

An analysis of the program shows that farmers in Alabama and Georgia, whose entire states have been declared federal disaster areas because of the drought, will get $5 million and $8 million, respectively. The Carolinas are also especially hard hit by the drought. Under the program, farmers in North Carolina will get $7 million, while farmers in South Carolina will get $4 million.

By comparison, farmers in Iowa — whose main problem is what to do with a record harvest — will get almost $150 million, and farmers in Kansas will get almost $80 million. In total, farmers in each of nine Midwestern and Western states (seven with incumbent GOP senators up for re-election) will get more than farmers in the entire drought area of the South.

The most dramatic move to aid farmers was the announcement of President Reagan's approval of subsidized wheat sales to the Soviet Union. The announcement reversed the president's strict, and supposedly deeply felt, opposition to the U.S. help for the lagging Soviet economy. The approval was given despite sharp objections from the State Department and the Defense Department and loud protests from grain-exporting U.S. allies like Canada and Australia.

Making Ape Life Easier

By Lee Stokes

LONDON (UPI) — Coco gave a fleeting mischievous glance at the chattering crowd of parents and children. Then he loudly spat in their surprised faces through the bars of his cage.

"This chimpanzee is controlling its environment — it's manipulating its human audience," said Dr. Brian Bertram, 42, an animal behavior expert and curator of mammals at London Zoo.

"Apes in a zoo have a degree of control over what they see — they can control visitors and to some extent manipulate the public," Bertram said.

"We want to provide apparatus which they can control to stimulate them further."

So for a year, London Zoo — one of the world's biggest — has been experimenting with new ways of pepping up the lives of its caged apes. Results so far have been varied.

Lively chimpanzees loved an orange juice machine and an artificial termite mound stuffed with raspberry jam and baby food, Bertram said. But they rapidly lost their enthusiasm when keepers filled the machine with plain water instead of orange juice.

Twycross Zoo, near the central England city of Leicester, is one of several zoos which use color television to brighten the lives of their apes. Director Molly Badham said westerners are popular because they're full of action.

"But what really sends the apes berserk is the wrestling," she said.

"They get up and thump the set and make warning noises for us to behave ourselves. They think humans are quite mad."

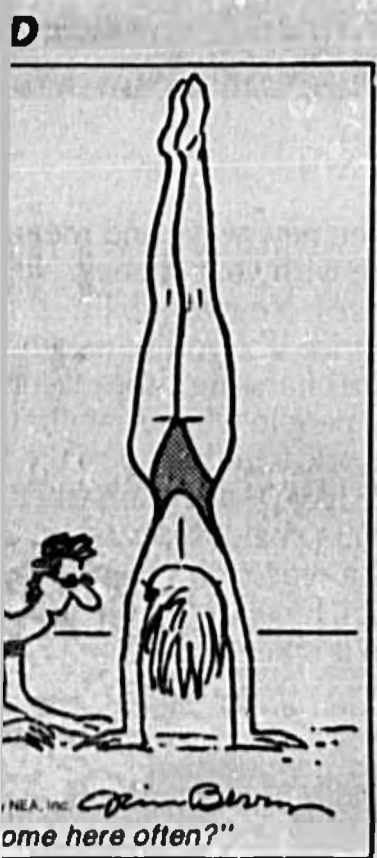

Coming next may be organ-playing orangutans and musical apes, Bertram said.

"We thought the orangutans would be interested in an extra range of noises to those they're used to in their natural environment," he said. "So we intend to install a specially-modified electric organ in the orang-utan house. We hope the experiment will shed light on their musical ability.

"Are they interested in noises, any noises, or notes? Can they learn tunes for a food reward? There is so much to learn."

Bertram also hopes to set up a projector which the apes can operate from inside their cages.

"We want to give them a range of pictures which they will be able to choose, not just a television," Bertram said. "The idea is to get them used to pressing different buttons to see pictures. Then we can observe which pictures they're most interested in."

Soviet's Chernobyl Report Said To Leave Unanswered Questions

MOSCOW (UPI) — Western diplomats said Moscow's first detailed explanation of the Chernobyl nuclear disaster left some questions unanswered and one predicted a "showdown" when the report is reviewed by the West next week.

Five Soviet nuclear experts Thursday presented a nearly 400-page official report on the April 26 accident that said the disaster was caused by a series of six blunders committed during an experiment on safety procedures.

The report, delivered at a two-hour news conference, was the first to bring together the facts surrounding the explosion and fire at the Chernobyl nuclear reactor in the Ukraine.

The scientists also raised the official death toll in the accident to 31, with at least 40 people still hospitalized with acute and potentially fatal radiation poisoning.

Tutu Defends Sanctions Call

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Bishop Desmond Tutu defended his calls for punitive sanctions against South Africa made during a foreign tour, saying the measures were necessary for reform.

Tutu returned to Johannesburg Thursday from a trip that included stops in Japan, China and Jamaica, and shrugged off accusations that his support for sanctions bordered on treason.

"I said absolutely nothing new," he said. "What have I said that I haven't said in South Africa?"

Conservative Party leader Andries Treurnicht, a Calvinist minister and former government minister, said of Tutu, "His actions and statements in any other country would be construed as treason."

Survey: Poles Grow Impatient

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Poles are growing impatient with the communist government's handling of the economy, housing, civil liberties and its relations with both the East and the West, an official survey showed.

A sample of 1,556 Poles, considered representative of the 28 million population, were asked in a survey last month what they felt were the 10 most important questions people should ask the government.

They also were asked if they thought the government had the answers, if it would give frank answers, and if the questions would embarrass the government.

Judgeship being vacated by Salfi, who has been on the bench for 16 years. He announced in early July he was retiring at the end of September to return to private practice and to teach.

Salfi, however, has been asked by Gov. Graham to postpone his vacation of office until Nov. 16, about two weeks after the Nov. 4 general election, Salfi agreed. The newly-elected judge is scheduled to take office Jan. 6. Between Salfi's resignation date and the swearing-in of the new judge, a retired judge will hear cases assigned to that bench.

In the other two-county circuit race, Brevard County's Lawrence V. Johnston, Merritt Island, reports contributions, loans and in-kind donations totaling $12,030. Joe Rosier, his opponent of Lake Mary, has collected contributions of $3,270. Rosier's expenditures included an in-kind contribution from himself of $46.50 for a filing fee in the unsuccessful suit to remove Johnston from the ballot.

Rosier claimed Johnston's resignation letter didn't say he resigned, as required by law. A Leon County Circuit Judge in Tallahassee disagreed and Johnston, whose letter of resignation was accepted by the governor and the Division of Elections, remained on the ballot.

Rosier said the suit was not related to his campaign, though the filing fee was reported as an in-kind contribution to his campaign. He had not reported as of Wednesday related attorney costs to the suit in which Rosier was represented by a Cocoa attorney who was an unsuccessful candidate against Johnston in 1980.

Also reporting campaign activity are two incumbent circuit judges who drew no opposition in their re-election bids. They could pick up write-in opposition, but it is not expected.

Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr., 18th Judicial Circuit, reports a $2,018 expense from his own funds which was the filing fee. He also reports returning a $250 contribution from Growth Control of 425 Longwood-Oviedo Road, Winter Springs.

3 Dogs Killed In Home Fire

Two Great Danes and a greyhound were killed Thursday when the home they were in burned to the ground in Winter Springs.

Cause of the 12:40 p.m. fire was unknown early today and was still under investigation. Officials believe the fire began in the home's kitchen.

When firefighters arrived at the scene the home, in the "Ranch Lands" section of town, was fully engulfed in fire. It took 14 firefighters from Casselberry and Winter Springs a half-hour to bring the blaze under control.

According to a fire report, the homes in that area are set back in the woods and the fire was well underway before a neighbor noticed smoke coming through the home's roof.

Dad's Shout Doesn't Discourage Wiebe From Part Of Series Lead

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Mark Wiebe was just getting ready to tee off when a shout from the gallery distracted him. Most professional golfers would be annoyed with such an interruption, but Wiebe was overjoyed. The voice was the one that first taught him how to play nearly 20 years ago. "It was my dad," said Wiebe. "He and two buddies of his flew all night from Oregon and got to the Firestone course just before my first swing of the round. "He inspired me. Really. It's a thrill just to have him there. To this day, he's a better putter than me." Still, it was Mark and not Mack Wiebe that shot a 4-under-par 66 to share a one-shot lead with U.S. Open champion Raymond Floyd and Donnie Hammond after the first round of the $700,000 World Series of Golf. At 3-under 67 were Bernhard Langer of West Germany and David Lahli. British Open champion and leading moneywinner Greg Norman was at 2-under 68 along with Ben Crenshaw. Masay Kuramoto of Japan, Lanny Wadkins and Ken Green, winner of The International last Sunday.

South Florida Selects Paschal

TAMPA (UPI) — Bobby Paschal spent 2 1/2 weeks in Florida last month looking at potential basketball recruits for Southwestern Louisiana. He will soon be knocking on doors in hopes of persuading some of those same players to attend the University of South Florida. Promising the same fastbreak style that helped the Ragin' Cajuns to five post-season appearances in the last seven years, Paschal was named head basketball coach Thursday at USF. Paschal, 44, takes over a struggling program that went 14-14 last season under Lee Rose, who left last month to take an assistant coaching job with the NBA's San Antonio Spurs. Paschal, a graduate of Stetson University in Deland, was an assistant coach at Florida Southern College in 1971 before taking an assistant's position with the Ragin' Cajuns in 1975. He became head coach at USL three years later.

Pepitone Trial Receives Delay

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former New York Yankees first baseman Joe Pepitone, who hit 219 home runs in his career, never got up to bat at the start of his drug possession trial. The trial, which was scheduled to begin Thursday, was postponed when one of the ballplayer's co-defendants failed to appear in court. Jury selection in state Supreme Court in Brooklyn began at 10:25 a.m. — just minutes after Pepitone, wearing a dark suit and a deep tan, walked into the courtroom predicting he would be cleared. The trial was scheduled to resume at 10:30 a.m. today.

Swimmers To Begin Aug. 26

Seminole High School will open its swim practice Tuesday, Aug. 26 at 4:30 a.m. at Sanford's Sanora Pool, coach Donalyn Knight said Wednesday. Knight, who begins her fourth season, said the early morning practice will run for two hours and she expects 20-30 swimmers to participate. Interested parties can contact Knight at the high school: 322-4352, ext. 232.

Nichols, Byrum Lead Showdown

JEREMY RANCH, Utah (UPI) — Bobby Nichols combined with Kirt Byrum for an 11-under par 61 Thursday to grab a one-stroke lead after the opening round of the $450,000 Showdown Classic.

Rogers Proves His Superiority

Dorman Sets Pace For Low-Buck Racers

David Rogers proved why he was the winningest stock car driver in the country last year as he easily won the Champion TV Rentals 100-Lap Late Model championship last week at New Smyrna Speedway. Lee Faulk, sponsored in part by Sanford's Champion TV Rentals, finished a strong second. While everybody else at the track was watching the battle for the lead, there was an interesting battle shaping up between Lake Mary's Phil Dorman and Sanford's Harold "Fat Rat" Johnson. These two drivers know their place on the track while racing the high-banked, half-mile oval. Neither driver is sponsored, so new parts and tires are hard to come by. Without new tires a car can't run with the leaders, but new tires would cost about $400 a set. Both Dorman and Johnson are in the sport for a hobby and $400 for tires would not justify where they would finish the race. Johnson went out early in the race with a blown engine, while running in the top 10. At the halfway point of the race, Dorman started making his move toward the front of the pack as he picked off car after car. He ran a conservative race, only running as fast as he had to, as he lead the low-buck racers to the finish line. At the end of the event he had managed to place fifth place and took home $500. "Second place only paid $1,000 and he used up a $400 set of tires," Dorman said. "So he only made $100 more than I did. I'm still running the same tires I put on during Speedweeks in February."

In the Thunder Car class, Harry Brazee had his beautiful new car really humming around the track, only to be involved in a first turn crash. The thing of beauty was turned into a battered, torn-up car in seconds. This year he has been keeping track of local driver Rick Wilson in his first full year running NASCAR's Winston Cup Series. Volusia County Speedway had another good night of racing as Orange City's Tuck Tretham presented himself with a birthday present as he picked up another win in his quest for the NASCAR Winston Racing Series Southeast Regional championship. Tretham had his hands full all night as a pair of 02's tried to take the lead away from him. The 02's belong to Steve Moran and Keith Norbisch, both feature winners this year. Moran managed to ease past Noabach with just three laps remaining to take second. Steve Shuman finished fourth with James Powell taking a respectable fifth.

claim the half mile oval as their "home" track. Does racing in front of the hometown fans add any pressure for driver Rick Wilson? "Not really," Wilson said. "Of course, we want to make a good showing for the local fans but it's so tough everywhere we race now that you have to give it everything you've got everytime out." Wilson is looking for an easier time that his first 500 on a half-mile track. "It shouldn't be quite as tough this time out. The spring race was the first time I had ever tried to run 500 laps on a half-mile track and let me tell you it was tough. This time I'll be mentally prepared for it."

Napoleon's Second Hurdle — Make Team

United Press International

Having received unprecedented clearance from the Navy to play in the NFL, Ensign Napoleon McCallum now faces another hurdle — earning a spot with the Los Angeles Raiders.

On Wednesday, the Navy announced McCallum, with a five-year service commitment, can play pro football as long as his participation does not interfere with his military duties. "I'm happy, I'm really happy," McCallum, clad in whites, said Thursday during an outdoor news conference held with his ship, the U.S.S. Peleliu, in the background. "To me it's nothing really big. It's been in the books. You're allowed to seek outside employment. It's just that my employment is more visible than anybody else's." The decision does not guarantee the fourth-round draft pick a roster spot. "This could all get shot down if I don't make the team," McCallum said. "It's up to them if they want to foot the risk, that one spot on the team. Am I really worth it?" McCallum would probably return kicks and punts and play on coverage teams with

Los Angeles. McCallum will serve as an Assistant Food Services Officer aboard the U.S.S. Peleliu, an amphibious assault ship being overhauled in Long Beach, about a 35-minute drive to the Raiders' regular-season practice facility in El Segundo. At Miami, the Dolphins signed tackle Chris Ward, a former No. 1 pick of the New York Jets who was released this week by San Francisco. To make room for Ward, Miami released nose tackle Tony Chickillo. At Smithfield, R.I., New England added veteran center Pete Brock to its 60-man roster and cut guard George Colton, a ninth-round draft choice. Brock ended a 31-day contract holdout Tuesday.

At St. Louis, the Cardinals, in need of defensive line help, activated Bob Clasy, a former U.S. Football League defensive end. Clasy was one of two USFL defensive ends signed by the Cardinals, but the other, Hosea Taylor, walked out of camp this week.

At San Diego, veteran linebacker Linden King blasted the management of his former team, the San Diego Chargers.

King, now a Los Angeles Raider, was with the Chargers for eight years. He played in 73 consecutive games - 71 as a starter, but was cut in the first days of training camp.

"I'm really relieved to be with the Raiders. The situation with the Chargers is a pressure cooker. It's going to blow up one of these days," King told UPI in a telephone interview from the Raiders' training camp. "I felt like I was hired help to (Chargers owner) Alex Spanos. In two years, he said 'hello' to me only once. That's not a construction business he's running. When I got out of the car up here, (Raiders owner) Al Davis was there to meet me. I was on cloud nine."

At Irving, Texas, Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said running back Herschel Walker probably will not play Friday night against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"My feeling is that he will not play in this game," Landry said of the former USFL star who signed a multi-million dollar contract with Dallas last week.

Sedate Wilander Tops De La Pena. MASON, Ohio (UPI) — Jimmy Connors, an expert on such matters, thinks Mats Wilander should throw a tantrum now and then. And of course, to Connors' suggestion that sedate players should throw an occasional fit to keep tennis spicy and popular, Wilander politely declines. Connors and Wilander, who both advanced to today's quarterfinals of the $375,000 Association of Tennis Professionals (ATP) Championship, hold opposite views on tennis deportment. "Fans want to see something happen out there," Connors said after his 6-4, 6-2 win Thursday over Jonathan Canter of Beverly Hills, Calif. "They know I may rip the net down if I have to. "If Wilander would throw down his racket and cuss, that would be the greatest thing ever to happen to the game. People would say, 'I'm going out to see that boy.' Wilander, who calmly outplayed Horacio De La Pena of Argentina, 6-3, 6-2, Thursday and celebrates his 22nd birthday today, said he had no intention of following Connors' advice. In today's other quarterfinals, third-seeded Stefan Edberg of Sweden plays 12th-seeded Tim Wilkison of Asheville, N.C., and fifth-seeded Mikael Pernfors of Sweden takes on 13th-seeded Kevin Curren, a native of South Africa now living in Austin, Tex. Pernfors advanced by topping Christo Van Rensburg of South Africa, 6-3, 7-5; Edberg beat 14th-seeded David Pate of Las Vegas, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, and Wilkison eliminated J.B. Gardening

Strategic Planning Will Assure A Successful Harvest

Are you ready to plant your fall vegetable garden? Soon, we'll have a break in the weather and vegetables will begin to grow well. If you haven't already done so, you should be planning and taking care of some of the preliminary chores right now. Take a piece of paper and pencil in hand and actually make a detailed, scaled diagram of your proposed vegetable garden.

Include in your plan the location of each crop, the amount to be planted, the planting date, and the variety of each vegetable you want to grow. Try to plan your garden so crops that will be planted about the same time and reach picking stage at the same time are close together. By setting up your garden properly, you'll be able to keep the whole garden in production as long as possible.

Arrange crops by plant size. Put your low-growing vegetables such as radishes, turnips, mustard and lettuce along one side. Plant medium-height vegetables, such as peppers, squash and bush beans, in the middle and plant tall-growing ones, such as staked tomatoes, sweet corn and pole beans, along the other side. This way, you'll avoid having the low-growing plants tucked in the shade of the taller plants. And, be sure you run your rows north and south so each row will receive about the same amount of sunshine during the day.

If you're really eager, you can try "implanting" to give you additional crops. This is how it works. You plant a fast growing crop, such as radishes, with slow-growing cole crops. The radishes would be pulled before the slower maturing plants would need the space.

Design your garden so you can rotate crops from year to year. In our area, this is extremely important. You can avoid a lot of

Alfred Bossesen
Urban Horticulturist
323-2500
Ext. 161

disease problems by rotating your crops so you don't grow the same crop in the same spot more than once every three to four years. A buildup of soilborne diseases can reduce your yields and, at worst, kill the plants.

Whether to use seeds or transplants is a very important decision to make. You can be successful with either. Both have their advantages and disadvantages.

One advantage of transplants is an early start. You'll be several weeks ahead of gardeners who start with seeds. It's getting a little late in the season so if you want to grow your own transplants, get on it right away. Or, you can purchase them from your favorite garden supplier. Another advantage is that it allows you to choose only the best plants. And, it's easier to start a garden from transplants, especially if you only need a few. If you have a small garden plot, using transplants is much more practical, and you can minimize disease problems, such as "damping-off."

The main disadvantage in using transplants is that the cost would rise rapidly if you bought seedlings for a large garden. Some crops, too, are hard to transplant successfully. Beans, corn, cucumbers, and turnips do much better when started from seed directly in the garden soil.

If you're raising your own transplants, they should be ready for the garden when they're four to six weeks old. Those you buy usually are ready to set out immediately. If the seedlings are in individual containers or cell-packs, moisten the soil before removing them. If they have been started in peat pots or pellets, insert them, pot and all, directly into the soil. Don't try to remove them from the peat pots.

The best time to set out transplants is right after a rain, when it's cloudy, or late in the afternoon. Handle your plants gently, and don't press the soil tightly around the roots. After planting, carefully pour a little water to each plant to help settle the soil. Then, cover the wet area with a little dry soil to reduce evaporation.

To give your transplants a quick start, apply a start fertilizer solution. You can buy it ready mixed, or you can make your own. For best results, mix one or two tablespoons of a high-phosphate fertilizer, such as a 10-50-10, in a gallon of water. Or, you can use an ordinary all-purpose fertilizer, such as 0-8-6. Just pour about a pint of the liquid mixture into each hole as you set the plants.

A word of caution — don't plant too much of one crop at a time, especially those vegetables that must be eaten shortly after harvest. It's better to plant small amounts of the same crop at 10- to 14-day intervals. You can prolong the season for a crop by planting two or more varieties that have different maturity dates, also.

If you want to be successful, draw up a good garden design and make the right decision whether to use seeds or transplants. When you're finished making your plans and selecting the right varieties for planting, then it's time to get out the spade and go to work.

Happy gardening!

Sharing Joy And Happiness

Historical sites were viewed by the residents of the Good Samaritan on a tour of Sanford and an afternoon at the city park. At the end of the trip the members of Sweet Harmony Chapter No. 388 Order of Eastern Star, Eartha Melton, Worthy Marlon, Alice Murphy, Juanita Redden, Willie Mae Byrd, Ruthia Harris and Adell Hunter expressed their joy at helping to share some joy and happiness with others. This is just one of the projects to help cheer the residents of the home.

Deaf Student Pleads For Handicapped To Be Accepted

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old deaf student at the Rochester Institute of Technology. I was born with German measles, which left me deaf, blind in one eye and 50 percent brain damaged, but I feel fortunate to be alive.

Dear Abby

All my life I have tried to get people to be a little more patient with handicapped people because I have been discriminated against because of my disabilities, and I hate discrimination.

I wrote a piece for my 12th grade high school public-speaking class presentation. It was "The Handicap Plea." Many people loved it. I have met a few famous people who have visited the National Technical Institute for the Deaf, and I typed up my "plea," framed it and gave it to a few special people I thought deserved it. They are Annie Glenn, Peter Jennings and Jeff Float. I even gave one to my best friend, Tim Sly, who never treated me any different.

I am sending you a copy, hoping you will print it and wake up some people to realize that handicapped people are normal. Thank you for your time and good luck with yourself.

HARRISON F. PARSONS JR., ROCHESTER, N.Y.

DEAR HARRISON: I think your "plea" should be shared with my readers, and here it is: THE HANDICAP PLEA

We the handicapped may look strange. But look around carefully, we all have the same needs. As nature goes, we all have the same form of body. But some part of our body may be missing or deformed. Some parts of us may not function the same way as yours do. We may lose it at birth, or get hurt in an accident or have a disease. But we are lucky to be alive and are willing to sacrifice for that.

Normal people can become handicapped from old age, accident, war or disease. If you look around carefully, you will understand that people who are handicapped are just like people who are not. We are still people, who want the chance to walk the golden road to success. We don't ask you to give us success, just the chance to succeed without put-downs or ridicule. You can give us the courage to succeed.

You look at nature as a thing of beauty, yet no two snowflakes are alike. We would be honored to be treated the same, because we know your needs are the same as ours. The needs we all have are physical (natural), emotional and spiritual. So after all is said and done, please give us the chance and encouragement to prove it to all that people who are handicapped are normal people!

DEAR ABBY: My two grandchildren live in the suburbs and attend a private school. The school is 15 to 20 minutes away by car, and the only way for these children to get there is to be driven by their parents.

With tears in their eyes they have begged their parents to get them to school on time.

In June their report cards showed that they had been late 40 times for the semester!

What do you think of these parents?

CONCERNED GRANDPARENTS

Child's Problem Needs Diagnosis

DEAR DR. GOTT — A TV program I saw discussed a boy who had a disorder called "dysfunction." He couldn't control his behavior. I have a grandson who seems to have this problem, but his parents just beat him when he gets out of hand. Where can I get more information on this condition? I'd like to educate his parents.

DEAR READER — The term "dysfunction" refers to the improper functioning of any body organ. I am not aware that it is a specific disease of behavior. If your grandson is showing inappropriate (dysfunctional) behavior, he may have one of many possible diseases. I believe that he should be examined by a physician in order for a proper diagnosis to be established. Perhaps the parents should have counseling, because child abuse is inexcusable behavior in any circumstance.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband and I have been trying to have children for two years. The doctor said that the sperm my husband produces do not reach full maturity. Do you know of any research in this area? Is there any hope?

DEAR READER — Immature, fragmented or poorly moving sperm can be a troublesome cause of infertility. The condition is often difficult to treat, although a hormone deficiency can sometimes produce such an abnormality. I suggest that your husband see a urologist for a thorough evaluation.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I would like to know more about multiple myeloma. What are its first signs, and is it like leukemia?

DEAR READER — When one type of blood cell, the plasmacyte, becomes cancerous, the resulting disease is called multiple myeloma. Plasmacytes are formed in the bone marrow, so myeloma is actually cancer of the bone marrow. As malignant plasma cells grow, they invade surrounding bone and spill into the general blood circulation. Therefore, patients with myeloma have bone pain, elevated blood calcium, anemia, kidney failure and susceptibility to infections. Chemotherapy can help patients with the disease.

Although myeloma may behave like leukemia (causing fatigue, anemia and weight loss), it is not classified as leukemia because the malignancy originates in the bone marrow instead of in circulating blood cells.

DEAR DR. GOTT — A friend of my daughter's says that you can get trichinosis from pork even if it is well cooked. Is this true?

DEAR READER — Trichinosis is caused by eating improperly cooked meat that contains larvae of the parasitic roundworm called trichinella. Cooking kills the larvae, so the answer to your question is: No.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio, 44101.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Those of us in the profession of playing this game and writing about it hope that more large companies will sponsor bridge competitions. One such company, Royal Viking Lines, in addition to placing expert bridge directors on their cruises (my wife and I recently completed such a trip to Norway), is now sponsoring a Player of the Year contest.

Tomasz Przybora of Poland is a candidate this year on the basis of a clever defensive play made against today's two-spade contract. South opened a thin weak-two bid, but his partner had enough high cards to keep the opponents out.

West cashed the king and ace of hearts and switched to a diamond. East, Przybora, won the ace and returned the 10. When a spade was led, East casually played the jack. South won the spade king. Who of us as declarer would not now cater to what appears to be East's original spade holding of the A-J alone? We would certainly continue with a low spade. When that happened, West won the eight and played a heart, which East ruffed with the ace. A diamond back enabled West to take the setting trick with the spade 10.

What happens if East plays low on the first spade and next wins the jack? Declarer would now be able to ruff the diamond return with the spade queen and lead a third spade, clearing the suit as both defenders follow.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY AUGUST 22, 1986
An old friend who has drifted away will reenter your life in the year ahead. This relationship will turn out to be even closer than before.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Unless you can find something complimentary to say to co-workers today, it's best you say nothing at all. Critical comments will create friction. Major changes are ahead for Leos in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, PO Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A joint venture might not work out too well today if you and the other party attempt something in an area where you both lack expertise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be sure to follow through to the letter any commitments you make to your mate today. He or she won't be very forgiving if you don't.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Strive to be methodical today with critical tasks. Think each step through in advance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Guard against tendencies today to cater to your extravagant whims. Wasteful spending will cause later regrets.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Others aren't apt to do your bidding today if you fail to set an example worth following. This will be especially true with members of your own household.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Catering to self-doubts will impede your progress today. Forget about the "what ifs" and concentrate on the "I cans." Don't quit before you start.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Situations that affect your finances shouldn't be treated with indifference today. Give complete attention to money matters.

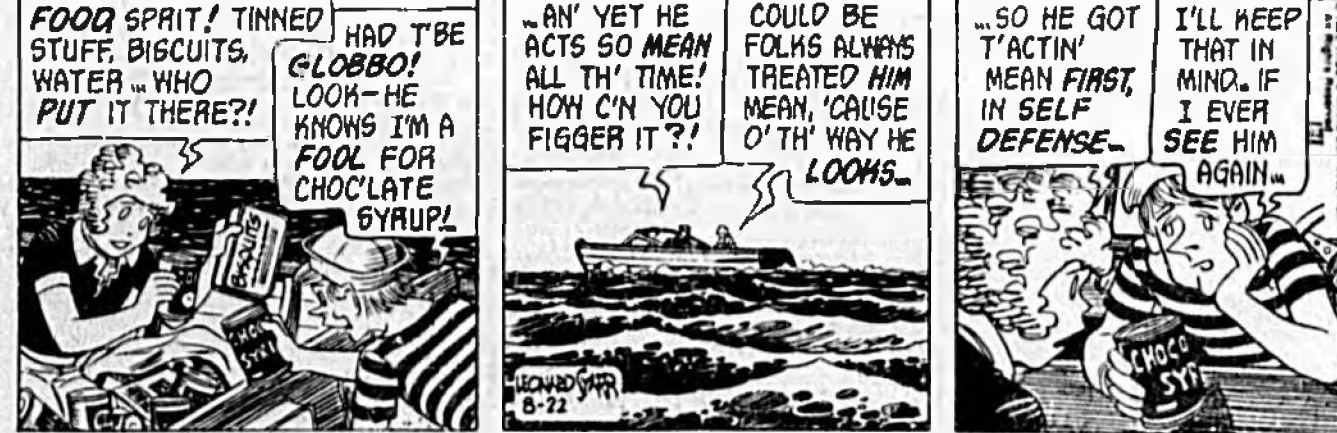

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll have to use a lot of elbow grease today to complete a task that you thought would be a snap. Be prepared to work for what you want.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be a good listener today or you might be offended at something someone says, even though no ill will was intended. You might take it out of context.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Usually you get along well with everyone, but today a person who behaves selfishly will rub you the wrong way and you might want to sever the relationship.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone who you treat abrasively may block your ambitions today. Make it a point to make friends, not enemies; you sorely need allies.

C-C-C-Catch the wave.

Cocologists Steer The Course

The cola wars rage on, with cool, computerized chatterbox Max Headroom trying to woo 'new' Coke to the Pepsi generation. Max may or may not make inroads into the Pepsi camp of that company's androgynous symbol, Michael Jackson.

But when it comes to collectibles, Cocologists say Coke can't be beat in producing, packaging and promotional items that take on a life of their own.

Through the magic of television Max lives. He charms and chatters for us to "Catch the wave."

And Coke memorabilia collectors say now's the time to catch on to Max items, which in years to come will increase in value and will forever say 1986 to cola collectibles freaks.

"Coke items have become so collectible, it's rivaling some of the advertising that was around before, like tobacco items," said Cocologist Gael deCourtivron. "Coke has become probably the most sought after collectible."

And the draw of these Coca-Cola items on the likes of deCourtivron, a native of France, and about 200 collectors in Florida, is more than a love of red and white. deCourtivron said it adds up to a love of red, white and blue — patriotism.

"To me, this advertising is so Americana. It's American history. It's something magical," deCourtivron said. "They captured all the good points of the last 100 years. All of it has been very positive. You can leaf through the ads and see America's history, that's how I got started."

And there's no stopping deCourtivron, or the other collectors who join him as members of the Coca-Cola Collectors Club International. He's from Sarasota and is vice president. The decade-old club's president, Luke Stresovich, is from Fernandina Beach. They both have three-hour drives to meet with other Cocologists in the central point of Mt. Dora. Jan Ziegengist of Eustis doesn't have the same long drive, but he's just as committed to Coke.

To them a trip to Atlanta or Tennessee to pick up a single Coke treasure or to attend a convention of Cocaholics is nothing.

Ziegengist dresses in the red-and-white striped shirt and complete garb of a Coke delivery man, while shading himself under a red-and-white Coke beach umbrella.

deCourtivron sports a Max Headroom T-shirt, a tiny, gold coke bottle chained around his neck, and a diamond ring which marked some Coca-Cola Co. worker's 25 years on the job.

They have no qualms about being walking advertisements for a company they have no ties to, other than a love of the memorabilia that spells COKE. A word that they say is synonymous with America throughout the world.

It's an influence and symbol of capitalism that has seeped even beyond the Iron and bamboo curtains of communism. World-wide, they said, there are at least 5,000 organized collectors of Coca-Cola memorabilia.

"Every American can relate to Coca-Cola regardless of their age," Stresovich said. "If they can talk, they've had a coke and they can talk about it."

Stresovich, isn't dressed the part of a Cocologist, however it would be hard to find one more dedicated to the cause. These three men said each of their homes are mini-museums of Coke memorabilia, but Stresovich may top them all.

He added a room to his home just to house a two-ton, marble Coke soda fountain, circa 1910. It's in working order, and he jerks sodas from it just like in its heyday in Stone Mountain, Ga.

"If we didn't like it we wouldn't have houses full of the stuff," deCourtivron said. "It's on the wall, in every room." deCourtivron's prize is a toy delivery truck collection. He also has so many other items that he operates a permanent booth of Coke items at the flea market.

"You don't like it. You love it or hate it," Stresovich said. "Red, white and you, that's it."

And it can be a wise investment. Although Stresovich branched out into other brands of cola, including items from Pepsi, Dr. Pepper and other brands, it's the Coke goods that draw the most interest and the big bucks.

Paper calendars and other like items from Coke's beginnings 100 years ago in Atlanta, Ga., can carry price tags of over $1,000, Stresovich said.

Pre World War II items are most valuable, especially fragile goods like Coca-Cola chewing gum, cigars and razor blades. But deCourtivron said, "What's happening now, people have anything that says Coca-Cola and they think they have a gold mine and they price it accordingly."

"Usually the biggest problem is uneducated people. It's become a thing where you've really got to know your stuff." And starting in the 1970 books were published to help Cocologist know the product and the collectibles that symbolize it.

"There are things that will appeal to everybody," Stresovich said. "Like Max Headroom. That's a good one now. The kids are really going for him. I'm glad we got him."

These Cocologist traveled Atlanta in May to celebrate and parade, marking the 100th anniversary of the Coca-Cola Co. There deCourtivron picked up for $50 a limited edition, leaded crystal coke bottle, which he expects in five years to be valued at $300.

At such conventions, cola buffs meet and set up individual motel rooms full of their Coca-Cola collections. In the recent Atlanta meet they filled three motels, and room-hopped round the clock to see what other collectors had and to buy, sell and trade, deCourtivron said.

On Nov. 15 and 16, 200 Cocologists are set to meet at the Mt. Dora flea market on State Road 441.

Visitors from France, Germany, Japan and other nations, deCourtivron said, are drawn to Coke collections when in the U.S.

"It's Coca-Cola, Cadillacs and Indians. That's the USA. I love it. It's the symbol of patriotism, the USA, freedom, the Western world, capitalism. Coke is it!"

But is it really the real thing? At the very least, deCourtivron said, the image of us created by the Coca-Cola Co., mirrors the way we were and the way we are. And Max Headroom is the Coke hallmark for the computer generation.

If you don't 'Ca, ca, ca, catch the wave,' at least catch on to Max items if you're looking for a wise investment, so say the Cocologists.

Networks Ready Programs To Smoat Pot

By Mark Schwed
UPI TV Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the first season of "Saturday Night Live," Chevy Chase announced that a dangerous strain of killer dope was making its way around the country and asked viewers to mail in samples for testing.

He gave a flititious address, somewhere in the middle of the Hudson River, but a number of viewers sent samples to the SNL's 17th floor headquarters at NBC anyway.

According to the book "Saturday Night," NBC did not know that the marijuana joint displayed on camera during the segment was, in fact, real marijuana.

The writers of the book say "Saturday Night Live" left the clear impression that the stars on the show, and a majority of viewers, frequently enjoyed illegal drugs, mostly marijuana, but also cocaine.

The fact that one of SNL's stars, John Belushi, later died of a drug overdose only served to drive home that point.

And there was no question that the drug humor was a blatant violation of NBC's standards guidelines.

NBC's Broadcast Standards for Television handbook says, "Narcotic addiction shall be presented only as a destructive habit. The use of illegal drugs or abuse of legal drugs shall not be encouraged or shown as socially acceptable."

All three networks have had similar policies on the books for at least 15 years. ABC has had such a policy for more than a quarter century. Yet hip characters on some of the hot shows — such as John Travolta's Vinnie Barbarino in ABC's "Welcome Back Kotter" and Belushi on SNL — used drugs.

These days, drugs are not funny business.

President Reagan recently launched a nationwide push against drug abuse aimed primarily at the users and he wants the entertainment industry to take a leadership role in getting the message out that using drugs is not glamorous.

The network anti-drug wheels were already grinding when Reagan called on the industry to act.

First lady Nancy Reagan, baseball commissioner Peter Ueberroth and NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle will be among those interviewed during the one-hour prime-time "NBC News Special Report: Cocaine Country," airing Sept. 5 (10-11 p.m. EDT) on WESH-TV, Channel 2.

The program, reported by Brokaw, will present exchanges and debate among drug experts, members of law enforcement, current and former users of cocaine and crack about the problem.

On Sept. 7, the stars of a new animated television series, "Defenders of the Earth," will urge kids to "just say no to drugs" during an unprecedented five-day cross-country train trip that will visit 48 cities in 11 states.

The trip, called the Whistlestop Tour for the Prevention of Drug Abuse, is targeted at elementary school children. In official ceremonies scheduled Sept. 11, the characters from "Defenders of the Earth" — Flash Gordon, Mandrake the Magician, Lothar and The Phantom — will present the first lady with signatures collected during the trip.

King Features also plans to devote a 30-minute episode of the series to peer pressure and drug abuse.

'Special People' On Cablevision

"Special People," an informative program series for the handicapped, can be seen on Cablevision of Central Florida's community programming channel, Thursday evenings at 6 and 9 p.m., channel E-17.

Produced and hosted by Tony Tizzio, a student/songwriter with cerebral palsy, "Special People" is designed to provide Central Florida's handicapped with a wealth of information, Tizzio said.

Highlighted are areas of job availabilities, self-help and physical/mental therapy. Each week a special guest is featured discussing personal struggles with handicaps and how to cope with life's everyday situations.

"We're delighted to present "Special People" as part of our Consumer Night Line-Up," says Cablevision of Central Florida's Director of Programming Ronald E. Durie.

"With interesting guests and timely information on our handicapped community, 'Special People' has become one of the most distinguished public service programs in the area."

NBC Gambles With Satire

By Mark Schwed
UPI TV Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — NBC, the No. 1 network, is about to roll the dice once again and this time the gamble is some of the most scathing satire to scrape across the television screen since the early days of Saturday Night Live.

Except it's even better. Some people will loathe it. Many will hunger for more. They will have NBC Entertainment President Brandon Tartikoff to thank, or curse.

The new show is called "Spitting Image: Down and Out in the White House." The idea comes directly from England, where the "Spitting Image" show has achieved cult status.

It is said that Rolling Stones lead singer Mick Jagger has tapes of the show shipped to him wherever he may be. Sting appeared on one of the shows in England and did a parody of his song "Every Breath You Take." He sang, "Every Bomb You Make."

It is hip, cool and cutting contemporary comedy done with lifelike puppets — grotesque caricatures of the world's most rich and famous.

Puppets, you say. Are we talking Muppets for adults? No. This is a whole new ballgame for television — biting topical humor.

Two half-hour specials air successive Saturdays, Aug. 30 and Sept. 6, at 9:30-10 p.m. EDT. If everything goes well, "Spitting Image" may win a regular spot on NBC's schedule.

"No one has ever seen anything like this on network TV before," said Jon Blair, who shares executive director duties with host David Frost. "It's outrageous. It's different."

Take the opening scene. It is the Oval Office of the White House, and Nancy Reagan is dusting the hot line, a Mickey Mouse telephone. The president's aides come in — George Shultz, Caspar Weinberger — asking him to sign an important defense document.

"Ronnie rides into the office on a toy train," Blair said, "and Nancy immediately stops him. 'Ronnie, you shouldn't be up. It's Thursday.'"

The satire is nonpartisan.

During another scene, pop queen Madonna is at a party. She says she's tired and wants to go home. Then Ted Kennedy comes out and rattles some car keys. "I'll give you a ride home." Madonna has a change of heart. "Suddenly I feel like dancing," she says.

"It's as rough and tumble as it is in London," Blair promises of the American version. The difference is that instead of dwelling on the Royal Family and British political figures, the NBC specials will be Americanized, with a whole new line of puppets, each of which costs between $5,000 and $15,000.

The two specials tell the story of the Famous Corporation, a secret organization that holds its meetings up Abraham Lincoln's nostril at Mount Rushmore. They decide everything — from what's going to be the hit show on television to who's going to be president of the United States.

Ed McMahon, Johnny Carson's sidekick, runs the evil empire. He is the "Great Mentioner." Executives are Walter Cronkite, Jackie Onassis, Bill Cosby and Henry Kissinger.

The Famous Corporation chooses Sylvester Stallone of "Rambo" fame to run on the GOP ticket and to make sure he wins they tell the Democrats to pick a loser, Samuel S. Samuelson, a man they believe to be a window washer.

Everything goes according to plan until the window washer turns out to be Uncle Sam. Samuelson appears for the first time on national television, "NBC Nightly News with Tom Brokaw," to explain his political views. His speech is so moving that it convinces Stallone to quit the race and throw his support Uncle Sam's way.

In a panic, the Famous Corporation decides that drastic measures must be taken to prevent Americans from electing Samuelson as the next president.

The show's prime victims are the celebrities: the rich and famous.

And even before the shows air in the states, NBC is jittery.

- Summer Jobs For Teen Musicians
 KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — High school students selected for Jobs of Note, a summer employment program in Kansas City, are finding that work can be play.
 The program puts musically talented students to work each summer, playing free jazz concerts in nursing homes, in parks and on city sidewalks.
 Jobs of Note is underwritten by Payless Cashways, a building materials retailer headquartered in Kansas City. "We view the program as an investment in the future of jazz, which has a long tradition in this city, and also in the future of these kids," says company president David Stanley.

Businessman Tackles Movies

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — George Linder, a tough-minded businessman who manufactures lightweight wheelchairs, is producing his first movie by applying the byzantine complexities of filmmaking.

million — none of it his own money.
 "There was no point in thinking small," he said. "I based my decision to make this picture on the story, not finances. I know it's going to be a highly successful venture."
 For starters, Linder learned that a wise producer doesn't put up a cent of his own money and refuses to allow the professional film "packagers" to muscle him to the sidelines.

So far Linder is succeeding. So far.
 He's landed Arnold Schwarzenegger — a box-office phenomenon second only to Sylvester Stallone — to star in "The Running Man," based on a novel by Stephen King.
 Not bad for a novice whose only movie experience was as a high school extra in a mob scene for "What Did You Do In the War Daddy?" some 20 years ago.

"I always wanted to be in the film business, but I didn't have a father or an uncle in the industry," Linder said with a grin.
 "It began when I came across Richard Bachman's futuristic novel and took an option on it. Later I found out that Bachman was a pseudonym for Stephen King, which accounted for the stiff price I paid for the option."

Production on the picture starts this month after more than a year of fighting the labyrinthine wars with rapacious agents, studio stooges and financial snagglers.
 Linder quickly learned that making a picture — actually photographing a story on film — is a simple matter. Getting the deal set is the true test of a producer's grit and cleverness.

"I knew it would make an exciting movie, so I wrote a treatment myself."
 Linder and two of his friends wrote the screenplay themselves. "We weren't professional writers, but after nine months — mostly working on weekends — we had an exciting script."

Linder quickly learned that making a picture — actually photographing a story on film — is a simple matter. Getting the deal set is the true test of a producer's grit and cleverness.
 "The film business isn't all that different from the process of conceiving a concept for the wheelchair," he said. "It's a matter of coming up with a product, manufacturing it and then distribution. But movies are more fun and the gamble is greater."
 Linder is starting out in grand style. The budget for "The Running Man" is $20 million — none of it his own money.

 "I had Arnold (Schwarzenegger) in mind for the lead role from the beginning. The story is a sort of 'Spartacus' of the future. This time he plays David instead of Goliath. His opponents in our picture are all seven feet tall."
 Schwarzenegger liked the script and the salary (some $3 million) and agreed to star in the film.

Resemblance Uncanny But It's Normal

Dear Debra — Are Martin Sheen and Emilio Estevez related? — J.D.T., Kalamazoo, Mich.

Yes, they are father and son. The resemblance, I think, is uncanny. Emilio, by the way, can now be seen in Stephen King's "Maximum Overdrive."

Dear Debra — What has become of Pam Dawber? I haven't seen her anywhere since "Mork and Mindy" went off the air. — J.B., Lexington, Ky.

Good news, J.B. Pam will star in the new fall CBS series called "My Sister Sam." She plays Kate Darcy, a bright, independent, free-lance photographer living and working in San Francisco, whose life is complicated by the arrival of her teen-age sister.

Dear Debra — Recently I was watching a rerun of Bob Newhart's first TV series. In what looked like an early episode, he and Jerry (the dentist) were both psychologists. How could this be? When did Jerry become a dentist? Please explain. — N.R., Kalamazoo, Mich.

According to my reference books, Jerry, played by Peter Bonerz, was always a dentist on "The Bob Newhart Show," which ran on CBS from 1972-78. Newhart, of course, was the psychologist and Carol, played by Marcia Wallace, was the receptionist who handled both their clients. Could it have been just a funny plot turn for that particular episode?

Dear Debra — I watched a new program called "Hearts of Steele." There is a girl on

Celebrity Corner

that show (Tracy Nielsen) who I know is the same girl who played Nancy Oleson on "Little House on the Prairie." Who is right, my mom or me? — G.M., Houston, Texas.

The actress who played Nancy Oleson on "Little House" was Allison Balson.

Dear Debra — I am a faithful reader of your column and I hope you can answer my question. My husband and I have argued over this question for quite some time. We have waited years for the movie to air again so we could settle it. Who played Nana in the movie "The World's Greatest Athlete"? I say Jan-Michael Vincent and my husband says Kurt Russell. Please save my marriage. — Mrs. R.H., Cypress, Texas.

You're the one with the correct answer, but tell your husband he's not alone with the wrong one. On the same day that I received your question I received another one asking if Kurt Russell was in that movie. Actually, in two separate reference books, Russell is not listed in the cast credits at all; but Jan-Michael Vincent is. The Disney movie, which was released in 1973, also starred Tim Conway, John Amos, Roscoe Lee Browne and Howard Cosell. Now, make up, lovebirds!

Dear Debra — Can you tell me what show Anne Lockhart played in? — C.F.D., Knoxville, Tenn.

In 1979, Anne Lockhart played Sheba in "Battlestar Galactica," the million-dollar sci-fi series that ran on ABC from 1978-80. "Galactica" came in on the heels of the "Star Wars" success but it never made it with the TV viewing audience, despite its expensive special effects.

Dear Debra — I really enjoyed seeing Arnold Schwarzenegger in the movie "Raw Deal." What are some of his immediate plans? — E.E., Caledonia, Wis.

Schwarzenegger has two movies, "Predator" and "The Running Man," scheduled for a 1987 summer release.

Dear Debra — In what movie did Catherine Oxenberg of "Dynasty" make her acting debut? — L.L., Houston.

Oxenberg, who has been replaced by Karen Cellini in the role of Amanda, made her acting debut as Princess Diana in the 1983 TV-movie, "The Royal Romance of Charles and Diana."

There's Nothing New For Kids This Fall

By Guy MacMillin

Mark your calendars, kids. On Sept. 13, ABC, CBS and NBC start the Saturday-morning fall season. There will be 11 new shows, most featuring rinky-dink music, non-stop chatter and that jerky animation you've grown accustomed to.

The new ABC series are "The Flintstone Kids," "The Real Ghostbusters," "The Care Bears Family" and "Pound Puppies."

CBS will add "Wildlife," "Galaxy High," "Teen Wolf" and "Pee Wee's Playhouse." (The latter, the only non-cartoon new show, will star comedian Pee Wee Herman, who may finally find his ideal audience: kindergarteners.)

NBC promises "Laser Tag Academy," "Kissfur" and "Foofur." (No kidding.)

Saturday morning is a funny time. Not funny ha-ha, as Stan Freberg used to say on "Time for Beany," but funny peculiar. It's the time of the week when the commercial networks set their sights on children.

The competition doesn't result in much variety. In September Hanna-Barbera Productions will have two shows on ABC, two on NBC and one on CBS. Ruby-Spears Enterprises will have three on NBC and one on ABC. D.I.C. Productions will have two on NBC and one on CBS.

Meanwhile "Wuzzles" is moving from CBS to ABC, while CBS is bringing back reruns of "The Puppy's Great Adventures," an old ABC show.

It's all pretty much the same stuff no matter where you look.

To be fair, it should be noted that cartoon producers operate in a stifling environment these days. Kid shows have to avoid ethnic and sexual stereotypes, bad nutritional advice, scary things and practically anything else that might make for dramatic conflict. It really is amazing that cartoon writers find anything at all for their little characters to do.

But they try because there's money to be made selling stuff to kids. As ABC's vice president in charge of kidvid puts it, "The emphasis of our programming is to win a greater share of the audience among 4- to 8-year-olds."

He has his work cut out for him. NBC is No. 1 with the prepubescent audience. CBS is No. 2. ABC is a distant third.

So this fall, NBC will ax only "Snorks," "Mr. T" and "Spiderman." But CBS and ABC are conducting a cartoon massacre. Say goodbye to

"Richie Rich," "Dungeons & Dragons," "Pole Position," "The Get Along Gang," "Pink Panther & Son," "Laff A-Lympics," "Galactic Guardians" and the "Droids" portion of the "Ewoks and Droids Adventure Hour."

I don't suppose Saturday-morning TV does a lot of damage to children. Kids are smarter than cartoons. But after checking out the goods, I must report that these shows can have an unsettling effect on adults.

The cost-conscious animation is uninspiring. The profusion of tiny characters — some fuzzy, some brightly colored, all shouting in deliberately unnatural voices — is unnerving. The aimless stories, the staccato sound effects and the ham-handed morality numb the senses. There's little here to challenge even the tiniest imagination.

Two bright spots: CBS's "The Berenstain Bears" is a charming cartoon sitcom, sort of "Ozzie & Harriet" with fur. And my favorite, cynical old Bugs Bunny, is still on ABC. Those 30-year-old theatrical cartoons are an oasis of wit in all the dross. Kids who don't want to grow up to be wimps ought to watch Bugs Bunny.
