BRIEFS

School vandalized

Police suspect four juveniles, the youngest 7, vandalized Lake Mary Elementary School, Lake Mary Boulevard and Country Club Road, late Saturday.

Two nine-year-old boys were questioned by Lake Mary Police about the incident that left 22 windows broken, and eight classrooms damaged, according to Capt. Sam Belfiore. Two girls, a 13-year-old and a 7-year-old are also suspects. Belfiore said he expected to have the girls in custody Saturday night. The youths will be fingerprinted and released to their parents, Belfiore said.

Vandals plugged up sinks, turned on the water and flooded two rooms. They discharged fire extinguishers and spilled paint over carpet and walls.

Both boys had been students at the school. One of the classrooms that sustained the most damage had been the third grade homeroom last year of one of the suspects.

Police had not determined a motive late Saturday.

UN-US forces attack warlord's positions

MOGADISHU, Somalia — After a strong U.S.-led counterpunch against a Somali warlord from the air, soldiers took to the streets of Mogadishu on Saturday in a show of force that brought both cheers and condemnation.

In a sign of a possible backlash, Pakistani U.N. peacekeepers fired on stone-throwing demonstrators as they marched toward U.N. headquarters. At least one person was killed.

Angry crowds also gathered at the ruins of a radio station run by Gen. Mohamed Farrah Aidid, the target of the aerial attack early Saturday for apparently masterminding an ambush that killed 23 peacekeepers a week ago.

A defiant spokesman for Aidid warned the attack would lead to more unrest. And a Somali radio broadcast hurled abuse at the U.N. troops for the attack, calling them "imperialist bootlickers."

In Washington, President Clinton said the allied troops suffered no casualties.

Future for stadium?

Sanford may reclaim historic baseball site

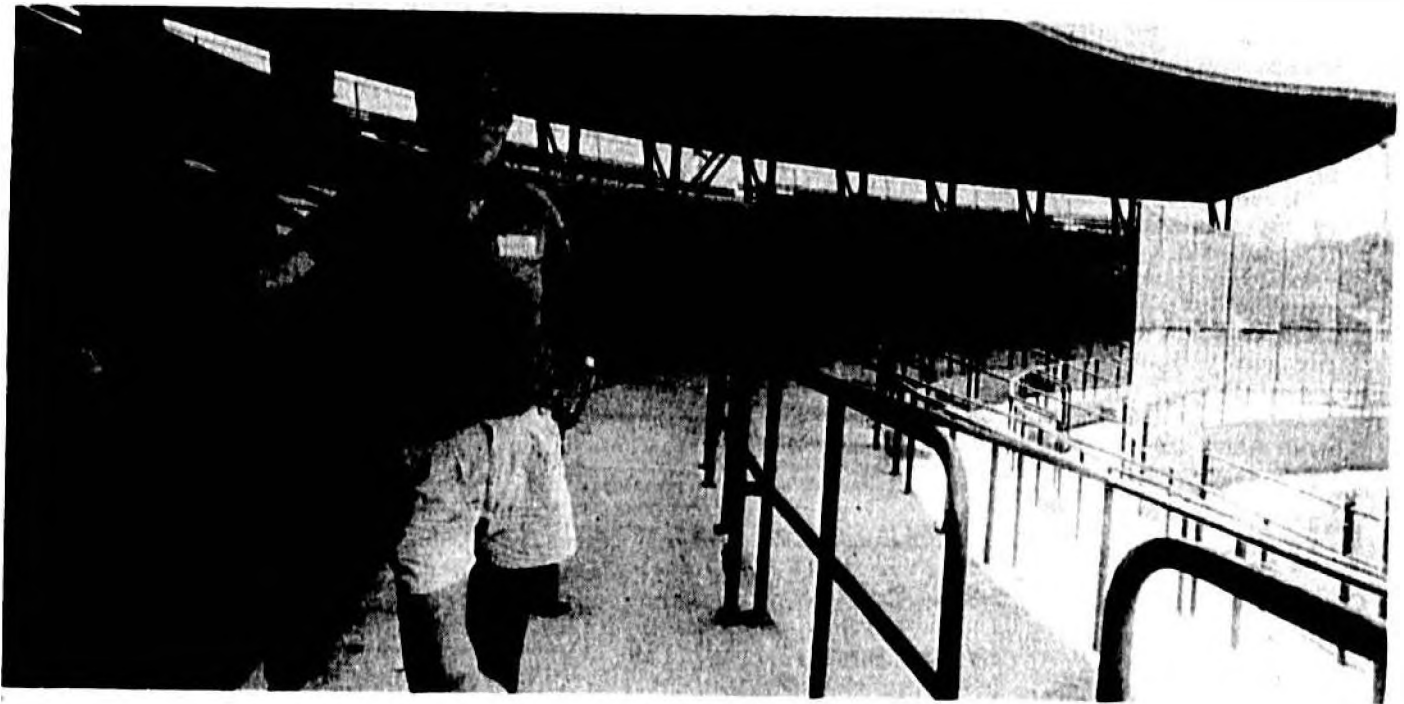

By NICK PFEIFAUPE
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The City of Sanford may regain control of a historic baseball stadium because taxes haven't been paid and insurance coverage hasn't been proven, the city's finance director said.

The Seminole County Tax Collector's office has reported to the city that as of June 2, taxes on the Sanford Memorial Stadium have not been paid. The city commission will discuss the problem Monday night.

Wes Rinker, who operates Florida Baseball School, is the leasee of the stadium, located on Mellonville Avenue, just north of the Seminole County School Board headquarters. Rinker was not available for comment. An employee said Saturday he has been out of town since Monday.

Rinker took control of the stadium in 1975. It had fallen into disrepair. See Baseball, Page 5A

College expansion irks some

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — Seminole Community College officials say the school's expansion plans will benefit residents in eastern Seminole and Orange counties, but Valencia Community College officials disagree.

SCC is making plans to build a new facility in eastern Seminole County, about eight miles from where Valencia Community College's East Campus is in Orange County.

SCC officials describe the proposed facility as a "center" rather than a "satellite campus."

It will be, they explained, a small, specialized facility. Most of the classes in vocational, academic and leisure areas will continue to be housed at the Sanford campus.

While Valencia has expressed concern that SCC's plans to build the center in the Oviedo-Chuluota area are misguided, Jim Sawyer, vice president for student services at SCC, disagrees.

"Our mission (for that center) is completely different than that of Valencia," he said. "We are primarily a vocational and technical educational center. Valencia is almost exclusively academic." See College, Page 5A

Volunteers spruce up Lake Mary park

Neighbors brave heat, give boost to nature

The sloping lawn behind the Lake Mary community center buzzed with activity Saturday morning as volunteers worked to revitalize Crystal Lake Park.

Once the primary park and recreation focal point of the city, the park had fallen into disuse in recent years. On the hot summer morning, 20 to 25 volunteers planted about 20 small live oak, magnolia, and pine trees, cut weeds, raked the lawn, picked up trash and generally spruced up the area.

Several teen and pre-teen members of the Nature Club of Lake Mary worked throughout the area. See Park, Page 2A

Rebuilding after fire: County won't waive sewer fee

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Local Humane Society officials still hope they will find grounds for compromise with county officials to waive a portion of $60,000 in sewer hookup fees, but County Manager Ron Rabun offers little support.

"I don't think so," said Rabun. "It could set a tremendous precedent to do something like that. There are plenty of charitable organizations out there that would like us to help them."

"This is not a major stumbling block," said Joseph Vaughn, society president. "We still hope the county will donate the money. We're not really trying to get a lot of money out of them." See Fire, Page 2A

Tidbits, memories, addresses compiled here

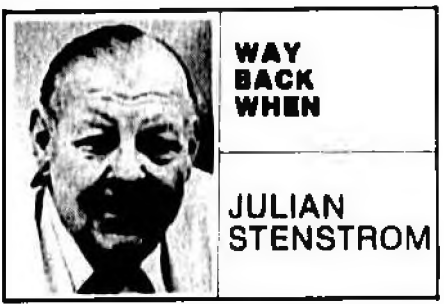

Morning, again! Warm up your coffee, finish your grits and let's discuss some tidbits from here 'n there. Had a call from Roy Taylor and his wife, Rita, who reside on West Grand Boulevard in Lake Mary.

This couple decided to cultivate an area on their property for a garden. I forgot to ask if it was for vegetables or for flowers. Anyhow, while digging they unearthed a round identification tag. On it was the name of Mary Lucille East. There was also this serial number: 745-92-61. Also on the tag was "A T-5/44. Under that were the letters, "USNR" and also a "P." The tag is slightly larger than a "quarter" but less than the size of a "half dollar." And, it's thinner than a 10-cent coin.

One can only surmise it's a Navy identification tag. However, Roy and Rita wonder which war. The couple has lived in Lake Mary for 10 years. They said they read the Herald because of our "Way Back When" columns. Because of the articles they said they seem to feel they have lived in this area a lot longer.

By the way, Taylor has been associated with Wal-Mart for quite a spell. If any of you folks can shed any light on who Mary Lucille East may be, let me know. See Stenstrom, Page 5A

Landmark at airport moved

SANFORD — The Central Florida Regional Airport has moved a landmark. The Lockheed Constellation at the Wyly Ave. entrance has been relocated.

The large WW-II vintage 4-engine passenger aircraft has been on the airport property for the past three and a half years, and has been near the entrance area for approximately two years.

"Several pilots asked if it could be moved," said Airport Director Steve

JACKSONVILLE — A drunken driver has been ordered to carry a picture of a friend in his wallet for five years as a constant reminder of killing her.

"If people see this beautiful young woman and know that she's gone, maybe we can put an end to the slaughter on the highway," Circuit Judge Lawrence Haddock said Friday in ordering the unusual condition of probation.

Thomas Browne lost control while driving on Interstate 295 when he and two friends were in town from North Carolina for the Gator Bowl last Dec. 30. His passenger Terry Fister, 24, was killed when she was thrown from his vehicle.

Browne, 34, was placed on probation for five years for manslaughter in the death. He had a blood alcohol level of 0.15 after the crash, compared to the legal limit of 0.10.

"To this day I don't know what happened," Browne told the woman's family in court. "Everyone agreed that I would be the best driver. I felt fine."

The judge also ordered Browne to make speeches against drunken driving and take along a portrait-sized photograph of his victim.

"If everybody could feel the tragedy that this can cause, then maybe there would be a lot fewer of them every year," Haddock said.

Prosecutor Lance Day, who accepted the conditions along with the Fister family, said he hoped the sentence "will serve as a constant reminder to Mr. Browne and others of how precious life is and how easily it can be snatched from us when we act irresponsibly."

Tuesday, Seminole County commissioners accepted Rabun's recommendation to reject a request by the Humane Society of Seminole County to exempt the animal care group from $25,000 to $28,000 of the connection fees to connect the shelter compound to a nearby county sewer line.

Society director Norma Spivey said the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services has ordered the organization to discontinue use of their septic tank system because it becomes easily clogged with animal hair and other debris.

Vaughn said the society wants to include the municipal sewage as part of the design of a new shelter complex at County Home Road in the wake of the April 14 fire that left dead 72 of the more than 100 dogs kept in an old group of cages. Ignited lint in a dryer was identified as the cause of the fire.

Spivey said the overall reconstruction of the complex will cost about $1 million. The society has received about $300,000 since the fire, Spivey said. If the county doesn't waive the fees or otherwise donate the amount to society, less money will be available for construction, she said. The new facilities could house more animals than before the fire, said Spivey.

Rabun said the county already contributes more to the Humane Society than any other organization. He said the county provides the land to the society rent-free, which it has done since 1982, and recently extended the deal until 2043. Rabun also noted the county provides free incineration to euthanized animals from the society.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Perot fans nominate candidates

By BILL KACZOR
Associated Press Writer

MILTON, Fla. — Ross Perot's United We Stand America is holding weekend meetings across Florida to nominate candidates for district offices in the organization, but elected officials need not apply.

Fort Walton Beach Mayor Larry Trenary's nomination for coordinator in the 1st Congressional District was ruled out of order at a meeting in this Florida Panhandle city Saturday.

Organizers are afraid that letting public officials hold organizational offices would force the group to comply with federal elections laws.

"If it's really true that you get involved in the federal elections law, you have to do so much red tape it wouldn't be worth it," said Trenary, an independent elected on a non-partisan basis. But he added, "They are denying themselves good leaders."

Meetings were held Saturday in 14 of Florida's 23 congressional districts. The other nine were scheduled for Sunday. Members will reconvene next weekend to vote.

Similar meetings were being held in California. The two states are the first being organized by United We Stand America. "This has never been done before — steep learning curve straight up," said Patricia Muth of Tallahassee, state executive director of the group organized by the Dallas billionaire.

She was in South Florida to attend as many of the nominating sessions as possible. Perot was not expected to make any appearances.

Members in each district will elect a district coordinator, an alternate, secretary and treasurer. The 23 district coordinators are scheduled to meet July 10 in Gainesville to choose a chairman to represent Florida on a national board.

Ms. Muth, who is paid by the national organization and headed Perot's presidential campaign in Florida last year, would remain as executive director.

In the 1st District, three candidates, all women, were nominated for coordinator. They include Joyce Owens of Fort Walton Beach, a former Okaloosa County Democratic Executive Committee member who was disillusioned by what she said was the Democrats' top-down organization.

"Most of the people in the precincts were gofers who just did as they were told," she said. "I wanted to do grass roots voter registrations. I wanted to do some grass roots demands for public officials' accountability. And I couldn't do that with that organization. ... With United We Stand I can do that."

Her opponents are Judi Sutherland of Milton, who was Santa Rosa County coordinator for Perot's presidential campaign last year, and Lynn Kane of Valparaiso, a regional coordinator in the campaign, responsible for a 10-county area.

Perot formed United We Stand America as a grass roots organization to put political pressure on Congress, shape national policy and decide the outcome of elections. Members were urged to oppose the North American Free Trade Agreement and insist on spending cuts before any taxes are increased to cut the federal deficit.

the morning on the project. Club president Brian Nolan, 13, said the club has now planted trees in two city parks and also participates in a clean road campaign on Main Road as well.

"The city has been very kind to us," Nolan said, "they paid for our 'Adopt-A-Road' sign and donated trees for the park."

While Nolan, Blake Longstaff and sisters Katlin and Kim Mahoney planted and watered the trees, toddler Tom Mahoney, took on the unofficial job of "tree striker" smacking the saplings with a stick. Brothers Dave and Andrew Staggs helped on the project the first hour, but had to leave, Nolan said. Nature club founder Caroline Craddock missed the morning session although Nolan said she was to come to town later in the day.

Parks and Recreation director, John Holland, said he hopes to implement plans to make the area an overall recreation complex rather than a community building with a fence around it and a park out back.

"This has a wonderful potential for being a nice park," Holland said looking over the lovely view of the lake from the park. He said the Lake Mary Garden Club has proposed developing a wedding garden at the site. Many wedding receptions are conducted in the community center. Holland added.

Dad, Jim Brodie helps Megan, 7, and Jaime, 11, plant trees.

City Commissioner Gary Bender and his wife, Fran, also volunteered during the six-up clean-up effort at the park.

Along with the new trees, four new picnic tables and outdoor grills are being added. A small shelter on the site will be painted soon, Holland said.

Mary Wolff, who helped provide food and drinks for the group, recalled when she was growing up, there was a popular dance hall at the park.

"My daddy kept a rope around my neck," the octogenarian joked, when someone asked if she danced there as a young woman. "He kept me on the farm."

Kid tosses condoms during parade

By The Associated Press

PENSACOLA — Some celebrants expecting to catch candy, plastic beaded necklaces and other trinkets tossed from participants in a festival parade were surprised to get condoms.

An 11-year-old girl riding in a van sponsored by the Community Drug and Alcohol Commission tossed about 20 condoms Thursday before someone stopped her, commission executive director Hank Wood said Friday.

The condom-tossing generated complaints from some of those watching the Grand DeLuna Parade during Pensacola's Fiesta of Five Flags, which continued through the weekend.

"They want to catch candy and trinkets, not to have condoms thrown in their face," said Pensacola real estate agent Wanda Lewis, who took her 10-year-old granddaughter and two neighbor children, ages 8 and 5. She said one child asked, "What is a condom?"

Wood said the girl who did the tossing has a behavioral problem, and she took the condoms without permission from the commission's office in a low-income housing complex. The agency gives away condoms to those who ask for them, he said.

Those riding the commission's van were supposed to be throwing rulers and erasers along the parade route.

"We are very bothered by it," said City Manager Rod Kendig. Cal Moore, president of the festival, said he was horrified.

The festival celebrates Pensacola's history under the flags of five countries, dating back to 1559 when a Spanish colony was established here by Tristan de Luna.

Plane

Cooke. "It wasn't a serious hazard, but some pilots said they were concerned when they started making their approach and saw that huge plane sitting there."

The aircraft is owned by a firm in Boston, which has, for the past years, offered it for sale. It is virtually inoperable, and Cooke said that any attempt to get it back into flying condition to move it would take a great deal of money.

"The only thing we know that still works is one of the four engines," he said, "which we have been running, but the other three probably won't work."

One of the engines, on the port side, has had the props feathered, indicating the engine was not operative when the plane last landed at the Sanford airport.

"The Boston company is still paying rent for us to house the plane," Cooke said, "and right now, we don't know what they plan to do with it."

The plane has been moved to the south side of Hanger 4, which was the main operational hanger when the airport was used as a Naval Air Station.

Shortly after the plane arrived several years ago, there were rumors that it may have once been used to transport Adolf Hitler's top aides from city to city during World War II, but the rumor has never been proven.

Logs of the aircraft reportedly confirmed the craft had been in Germany during that time period, but they were not verified.

"It was getting to be a landmark for people coming to the airport on Wylie Avenue," Cooke said, "and we hated to move it, but if it will help make the pilots feel better when they go into their approach for the first time here, then it's well worth it."

County PTA gives awards

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Council of PTAs recently recognized the outstanding leadership and humanitarian efforts by PTA schools and by individuals in the Seminole County schools.

The theme of this year's PTA awards was "Children First—Each One Matters."

Marianna Stronko, the council's out-going president, said that there were, as always many dedicated programs and volunteers who were involved in countless programs to help the community and the students.

Recognition was given to the following individuals and programs:

• Top PTA Project: Crooms School of Choice for their Thanksgiving program in which the members of the PTA worked with school employees and students to provide holiday dinners for the homeless and hungry in the Sanford area.

• Top PTA Programs 1993: Partin Elementary School and Heathrow Elementary School for strong membership and strong programs.

• Humanitarian Award: Sid Pollock, PTA president at Crooms School of Choice. "Mr. Sid," as he is known to those with whom he works, was honored, Stronko said, because his "sole purpose in life is to help children."

Pollock arrives at the school before 7 a.m. and stays until the last student leaves, Stronko said.

She said he encourages the students in all kinds of ways.

He takes them under his wing and works with them individually, Stronko said. She said he often takes students to Magic games, to activities around the area, even to his own home to help them with their individual needs.

"He is a fantastic man," Stronko said.

• Child Advocacy Award: Barbara Kirby, principal at Crooms School of Choice for her work with children from the young mothers in the Teen Age Parent Program to their children to the other students in the school.

• AIDS Education: Wayne Epps, principal of Oviedo High School.

• Outstanding Leadership: Diane Thornton.

• Distinguished Service: Janice Tubbs, Presidential Pride and Judy Smith.

• PTA Spirit Award: Meg Betel and Debbie Pelio from Lake Mary High School.

Traffic stop brings arrest

Julie M. Johnston, 27, 401 W. Seminole Blvd., Apt. 58, Sanford, was charged with driving with a suspended driver license and with attaching a tag not assigned to her vehicle on Friday by Winter Springs Police.

Police said she was stopped after failing to stop at a red light. When asked for her license she produced a Florida ID card, and told police she did not have her Massachusetts license with her.

A computer check of her identification showed that her Florida license had been suspended three times this year for failure to pay fines.

Police said the tag assigned to the vehicle was found to be expired. It was in the back seat of the car. There was a temporary tag in the window.

She was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $100 bond.

Domestic violence alleged

Charles Edward Michel, 55, 279 Coachmen Ct., Sanford, was charged with domestic violence by Sanford Police on Thursday.

Police said his wife told them that he had shoved her into a table which caused a mirror to shatter and cut her arm. Police said she reported they had been in an argument.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $2,500 bond.

Couple charged with retail theft

Paul Edward Crouse, 41, and Susan Renee Peters, 43, both of 1999 Lake Emma Rd., Lake Mary, were charged with retail theft and resisting arrest without violence by Lake Mary Police on Thursday.

Police said security employees observed them go through the store. They said Crouse would pick up items, hand them to Peters and she would put them in her purse.

Security personnel saw them pay for some items and attempt to leave.

They said they found $388.62 worth of merchandise in Peters' purse.

After their arrest, it was found there was an outstanding warrant on Crouse.

They were taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility. Crouse was held on $5,500 bond. Peters' bond was set at $500.

Domestic violence charged

Oscar Salcedo, 22, 472 Sun Lake Cir., Apt. 203, Lake Mary, was charged with domestic violence by Seminole County sheriff's officers on Thursday.

State hate-crime law pending high court hearing

By JACKIE HALLIPAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — An annual study showing a 25 percent increase in hate crimes reported in Florida was on its way to the printers when the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the idea of stricter punishment for hate crimes.

The draft report was held back to update it with the development.

Florida's hate crime law, which has had an up-and-down journey through the state courts, is similar to the Wisconsin law upheld by the nation's high court Friday.

Peter Antonacci, deputy attorney general, said of the ruling came as no surprise "because every walking-around prosecutor knows that motive is always an element."

Florida's hate-crime law is pending a ruling by the state Supreme Court. It's possible, but unlikely, that the state high court will act differently than the nation's high court, Antonacci said.

Put on the books in 1989, Florida's hate crime law pushes an offense up the classification ladder of crimes if it's motivated by hate based on race, religion, ethnicity/national origin and sexual orientation. It also allows for triple damages if a victim sues.

"Florida's Hate Crimes Act, based on the model ADL statute, is the toughest such law in the United States, and now, through this decision, has withstood the basic constitutional examination," said Arthur Tettelbaum, the Anti-Defamation League southern region director.

The case pending before the state court is from Broward County, where a Fort Lauderdale man was charged with battery on a lawyer, Richard Stalder was accused of pushing Herbert Cohen and then uttering a string of anti-Semitic comments.

The trial judge dismissed the charges, saying the law was too vague to be constitutional.

Florida's mid-level appellate courts have split on the issue.

Last November, the Third District Court of Appeal in Miami found the law unconstitutional because it is "utterly ambiguous and totally confusing."

Two months earlier, the 5th DCA in Daytona Beach upheld the law, rejecting challenges that it is vague and violates the First Amendment.

The statewide hate crimes report due to go to press Friday documented 395 offenses in 1992, up from 309 in 1991 and 306 in 1990.

But in a letter at the beginning of the draft report, Attorney General Bob Butterworth warns that the statistics don't indicate whether hate crimes are on the rise or if the public and police are becoming more aware of the underlying factors.

Reports increased in almost all categories, with the exception being the number of organized crimes responsible for hate crimes.

Sixty-two percent of the offenses reported last year were racially motivated, 15 percent were motivated by sexual orientation, 12 percent were religiously motivated and 11 percent were ethnically motivated, according to the draft report.

Seventy-one percent of the crimes were against people as opposed to property, nearly 35 percent were aggravated assaults.

Organized groups were responsible for 15 of the crimes and, overall, 108 arrests were made.

Doctored brownies afflict school staff

By The Associated Press

FORT MYERS — A batch of brownies stuffed with Ex-Lax had "a tremendous effect" on 21 high school staff members and landed the student who thought up the prank in trouble, the principal said.

An 18-year-old who graduated Tuesday from Mariner High School admitted delivering the doctored brownies to teachers Thursday morning, said Principal Michael McNeerney. Ten to 12 boxes of the laxative had been added to the batch of 40 brownies.

"He obviously didn't give a lot of thought to the aftermath," the principal said. "He said his mother fixed them for the teachers as a thank-you for the nice job they did."

But the extra ingredient produced stomach cramps, dehydration and diarrhea.

The student, whose name was not released, was in the top echelon of his class. McNeerney called him "an integral part of this school over the past four years."

The student hand-delivered a letter to McNeerney on Friday to apologize "for the malicious act of tainting brownies in the teacher's galley."

The principal saw the prank as a sign of the times but doesn't want him to go unpunished.

"The tendency is not to hold them accountable for their actions," he said. "We have to send a message that they have to think these things through. They should be willing to pay the price. That's what this young man's dealing with now."

Student leader has a busy summer planned this year

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Jennifer Martinez is always on the go. Her mother, Rose Phoenix of Sanford, said she isn't sure if the 17-year-old will be home for more than a few days at a time this summer.

Martinez has been selected to study at Stetson University this summer as part of the Governor's Summer College Program. She and 99 other students from around the state were selected for their academic accomplishments and their leadership ability. They will attend a three-week session at which they will discuss many of the critical issues the state will face in the future.

"She's a born leader," her mother said.

In addition, she is involved in Close Up, a program which will take her to Washington, D.C. to meet with national leaders and discuss governmental operations.

"Some of our finest leaders of tomorrow will be participating in the Close Up program," said Susan Jenkins, a spokesman for the Close Up Foundation which sponsors the seminars. "We try to select those young people who have the potential to lead us into the next century."

Legally blind since birth, with 20/200 vision, Martinez will be a senior at the Florida School for the Deaf and Blind in St. Augustine when classes resume in the fall.

She had been enrolled in Lake Mary High School, but transferred to the school for the deaf and the blind where she felt she had more opportunities to be involved in leadership roles.

"It is a wonderful school," Phoenix said. "They have encouraged her to get involved in a variety of opportunities where she has excelled."

In addition to being actively involved in her classes, where she maintains a 3.8 grade point average, Martinez takes on assorted duties around the school.

"She is an overall good gal," said assistant principal John Gunia. "We are very proud of her."

Martinez has been elected president of the senior class at her school. School officials say they look forward to her tenure in that position.

"She is a real mover," said Gunia. "She is motivated and she always seeks out the best solution to problems. She has no qualms about participating in all aspects of the school."

Jessica Martinez

According to Phoenix, Martinez has not yet finalized her college plans.

"She knows she wants to major in psychology, but she's not sure if she wants to go to junior college first or go to a four year college," she said.

Gunia said Martinez is "one of the brightest young ladies" in the school.

"She recently won awards for having the top grades in every one of her classes," he said. Phoenix said she is very proud of her daughter.

"She's a great kid," she said.

She said she will miss having her daughters cheerful faces around this summer, but she is pleased with her accomplishments and with the educational potentials she will be experiencing.

"I think it is wonderful," she said.

Ask Teena

DEAR TEENA:
I'm 14 and I have started getting awful zits. I don't think I can go to school next year if my face looks like this. I'll be an outcast in high school.

I can't wear make up because that makes them look even worse.

What should I do?
FIONA, SANFORD

DEAR FIONA:
I know it may not seem like it now, but the pimples will go away with time and with some careful attention to hygiene.

Buy some of the prepared facial washes and use it as directed. Try to keep your face clean and eat a balanced diet.

And, before you consider staying out of school because of the pimples, look around you. Most teens have pimples. You are not alone.

doing yourself. When you get involved in activities that you enjoy, you'll meet people with similar interests and someone will ask you out.

In the meantime, enjoy your friends and maybe try to make friends with some guys, too.

DEAR TEENA:
What should I do?

I'm a 12 year old boy and my 16-year-old sister beats me up. She pushes me and hits me with her fists when she gets mad at me.

My mother taught me that I shouldn't hit girls, but I don't think that my sister should be able to hit me either.

My friends all say I'm a wimp because I don't stand up to her.

Should I just put up with this or should I hit my sister back. I need help.

BRAD, SANFORD

DEAR BRAD:
It's your sister... not you... who needs help.

She has to learn to control her aggressive behavior. Mature people do not hit other people in anger.

Your mother is right in telling you not to hit her, but keep in mind that it is wrong to hit anyone in anger. It doesn't matter if it is a boy or a girl.

Do not hit your sister, regardless of what your friends say. Work with your mother and see if you can get help for your sister.

DEAR TEENA:
Help.

I can't seem to get a date. Is there something wrong with me?

All my friends (we'll be in eighth grade next year) go out with girls, but no guy ever asks me out. I don't want to be in a serious relationship, but I'd like to go out to McDonald's or a movie or something with a guy.

DATELESS IN SANFORD

DEAR DATELESS:
I wouldn't worry about not having had a date yet. You're still young. Your time will come.

Take the time to learn what kinds of things you really enjoy

Ask about aspirin

We've all heard about the benefits of taking aspirin to prevent heart attacks.

But if you are considering taking low-dose aspirin for this purpose, make sure you check with your physician first.

Like any medication, aspirin is not totally risk-free and, among other things, can cause stomach pain, heartburn, nausea and intestinal bleeding. Aspirin also may increase the risk of hemorrhagic stroke.

Also, certain medical conditions, such as liver disease, ulcers or bleeding disorders, may rule out any use of aspirin as a heart protector.

Dealing with hostile personality

According to a recent issue of the Mayo Clinic Health Letter, a hostile personality may add to your risk of a heart attack, especially if you are an older male.

One theory of hostility's role in heart disease is that certain people are "hot reactors," and as a response to everyday stress, they exhibit extreme increases in heart rate and blood pressure. These surges may gradually damage coronary arteries and the heart itself.

There are cardiovascular rehabilitation programs that can help people to learn how to reduce stress and, in doing so, become less impatient or hostile.

Hip replacement the natural way

A new type of hip replacement that closely mimics nature is under review by the Food and Drug Administration and may be approved within a year.

The device requires no cement to keep it in place, and has shortened recovery time considerably. Bone grows onto the new device, permitting it to wear normally and last longer.

Within 24 to 48 hours following replacement, patients are able to walk and are able to leave the hospital within four to seven days.

The device was developed by Joseph Fetto, an orthopedic surgeon at NYU Medical Center who also is a former engineer.

New contraceptive technologies

Each year approximately 50 percent of all U.S. pregnancies are unintended. Less than 40 percent of women in the U.S., aged 15-44, use highly effective contraceptives. Recently, two methods of contraception have been introduced. The first is the Norplant System, and the second is the Depo-Provera contraceptive injection or "The Shot." Both methods are highly effective and also importantly, very convenient. Perhaps as these two new methods gain acceptance, the number of unplanned pregnancies will drop.

In 1990, the FDA approved the Norplant System for contraception. The Norplant System consists of six Silastic capsules, each about the size of a match stick, which are implanted surgically just beneath the skin of the upper arm. Each capsule contains 36 mg of levonorgestrel. This is a progestosterone hormone used in many types of birth-control pills for over 20 years. This hormone is slowly released into the bloodstream, providing effective contraception for a period of five years. One of the most effective forms of contraception next to sterilization, the average annual pregnancy rate over five years is less than one percent.

- Advantages of this method:
- Very effective.
 - Long-term continuous protection for up to five years.
 - Convenient. User action at times of coitus not required. Does not interfere with normal activities.
 - Does not contain estrogen.
 - Reversible at any time with return to previous level of fertility.
 - Comfortable. Once the insertion site has healed, the implanted capsules are not noticeable in most women and should not cause any discomfort.
- Disadvantages of this method:
- The most common side effect is irregular menstrual bleed-

Contraceptive failure rates

ing which improves over a period of nine to 12 months.

Other less common side effects include headache, nervousness, nausea and dizziness.

The Norplant System has proved most appealing to patients desiring long-term birth spacing and to those who have previously experienced either contraceptive failure or dissatisfaction with other contraceptive methods.

Although Depo-Provera contraceptive injection or "The Shot" has been available in the U.S. for many years, the F.D.A. only on Oct. 28, 1992, approved it for use as a contraceptive. More than nine million women worldwide are currently using Depo-Provera for contraception, and the number of users continues to increase. Depo-Provera is approved for use as a contraceptive in some 90 countries.

Depo-Provera is a slow release or depot form of medroxyprogesterone acetate (DMPA) which is a synthetic progestosterone hormone. This hormone is administered by injection of 150 mg every three months. The first injection is usually given within the first five days after the menses starts. The typical failure rate of this method is only 0.3 percent, meaning that if 1,000 women used Depo-Provera for one year, only three of these women might conceive before the end of that year. This is comparable to the failure for Norplant or sterilization.

Menstrual changes occur in almost all women using Depo-Provera. Episodes of unpredictable irregular bleeding and spotting lasting seven days or more are common during the first several months of use. However, these irregularities decrease, and about 50 percent of women after one year stop having menses altogether. Other minor side effects may include headaches, dizziness, bloating, or mood changes.

Advantages of this method include its effectiveness, convenience and safety. Women that cannot take estrogen or who have had difficulties with other birth control methods are good candidates for Depo-Provera. Both the Norplant System and Depo-Provera contraceptive injections are attractive options for a large number of women. If you have some interest in these newer contraceptive technologies, please discuss them with your doctor.

Study checks effect of toxins on the production of sperm

By RANDI MUTTER EPSTEIN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — When it comes to sperm counts, Finnish men are way above average, according to a new study.

An ego-boost for Finns, maybe, but investigators said the study is important because it lends credence to speculation that urban pollution or other environmental toxins are triggering a worldwide decline in sperm counts.

Other experts are not convinced that there is any link or significance in comparing sperm counts, as long as the count is sufficient. Big numbers do not mean bigger sex drive or enhanced fertility.

Unlike the rest of the world, sperm counts among Finnish men have not declined in the past 50 years, wrote Dr. Jyrki Suominen, a scientist at the University of Turku in Finland.

The study is preliminary, he admits, but he believes sperm counts among Finnish men have stayed higher because Finland is less polluted than other countries.

His findings are published in the June 7 issue of the British Medical Journal.

According to six Finnish studies involving 189 men, the average sperm count among Finnish men averaged about 114 million sperm per milliliter compared to a worldwide average of about 60 million sperm per milliliter, Suominen reported.

The study was prompted by a previous global analysis, also published in the British Medical Journal, showing average sperm counts worldwide plummeted from 133 million sperm per milliliter in the 1940s to 60 million sperm per milliliter in the 1980s.

Study of steroids reveals wide range of reactions

By IRA DREYFUSS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — New evidence that anabolic steroids can affect the mind comes from an unprecedented experiment on people who took the muscle-building aids.

The steroids seemed to trigger reactions ranging from euphoria to aggression, according to an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Earlier studies of steroid abusers also had reported such mood changes, but this was the first time the drug was tested under controlled conditions in people who had never used steroids before, researchers said.

Twenty men, aged 18-42, spent two weeks in a National Institutes of Health research ward. The men were not trained athletes and were found to be clear of drug use or psychiatric problems.

Over 12 days, they received an inert fake drug, 40 milligrams of steroid or the fake drug, 240 milligrams of either, and the fake again. They also completed questionnaires on their moods and were evaluated by nurses.

The researchers found greater energy, confusion, distractibility, euphoria and sexual arousal associated with steroid use. The changes were not strongly marked, but were common enough to be meaningful, said Dr. David R. Rubirow, clinical director of the National Institute of Mental Health.

Researchers also found a rise in violent feelings, but these were not quite common enough to meet strict scientific standards for a clear association, so they were labeled a trend, said Rubirow, who did the study with Dr. Tung-Ping Su.

One subject did demonstrate the feelings of uncontrollable anger known as "roid rage," and requested being put in a virtually bare room, Rubirow said.

"He realized he needed to be away, but he wasn't a risk to anyone as long as he was off by himself," Rubirow said.

"The fact that we found anything at all is rather amazing in a study in which we used such low doses at such a short period of time."

The man was seen pounding the walls a couple of times, but the symptoms were gone within days, Rubirow said. This was the most extreme case, but the overall study demonstrates the existence of mood changes among steroid users, he added.

"The fact that we found anything at all is rather amazing in a study in which we used such low doses at such a short period of time," Rubirow said. However, there was too much variability among participants let researchers predict who may be affected and how strongly, he said.

Other researchers consider the clinical study an advance over previous data from steroid abusers, but contend its value is limited by several factors.

The constant psychological assessments may have had their own effects on the subjects' moods, said Dr. Gary I. Wadler of Cornell University Medical College, Manhasset, N.Y.

Because the testing ran for only about two weeks, it is impossible to tell whether the reported mood changes would have gotten stronger or weaker, or remained unchanged over the longer periods in which abusers normally take steroids, Wadler said. Steroid users have been reported to cycle through dosages in 8-12 week periods.

Dow Corning wins breast implant lawsuit

By JENNIFER MEARS
Associated Press Writer

DENVER — A Dow Corning Corp. lawyer says his company's court victory over a woman who blamed her fatigue and joint pain on leaking silicone-gel breast implants set a precedent because it was based on science, not hysteria.

Attorney David Bernick said on Friday he hopes the verdict in the $7 million lawsuit will discourage women from filing similar lawsuits and assuage fears of other women that the implants are unsafe.

But the plaintiff's lawyer, Jo Stone, contended Dow Corning's case was tried on "character assassination, not facts."

Dow Corning's lawyers focused at times on Tammy Turner McCartney's past. A 30-year-old former topless dancer, McCartney had an abortion, gave a child up for adoption and is considering reconstructive surgery for her nose.

Company lawyers also contended no scientifically established link existed between the release of silicone in women's breasts and symptoms of the autoimmune disorder McCartney says she suffers.

Jurors Gunda Nienke, 71, and Elizabeth Sturns, 78, said they were influenced by aspects of her life.

"She lied too much," said Nienke, who didn't believe leaking implants caused McCartney's disabling fatigue. "How can she go dancing for seven years and then want to do something about it?"

Jury foreman Chuck Vandevander, a 30-year-old law student, said the jury "basically didn't believe the silicone caused her health problems."

McCartney said Friday she will appeal.

Thursday's verdict was the first victory for Dow Corning since the U.S. Food and Drug Administration last year banned the sale of silicone-gel breast implants for all but medical reasons. About 5,400 cases are pending against the company, which no longer markets the implants.

Jurors deliberated less than two hours before finding that McCartney had failed to prove her case against Dow Corning and plastic surgeon Stephen Goldstein.

"It was unbelievable," McCartney said. "I was hurt they didn't give me the consideration of looking at the evidence. They didn't give me anything. ... I know I was right. I know I didn't do anything wrong."

Some lawyers said the verdict could give the company ammunition to fight other breast-implant lawsuits.

"Women and their lawyers will now realize these cases can be lost. You don't just walk into the courthouse and ring up the cash register," said lawyer Doug Bragg, representing a dozen women who have silicone-gel breast implants.

Others disagreed. "Ms. McCartney's lifestyle was probably and unfortunately a major factor in this jury's decision," said Steve Cook, a lawyer who handles breast-implant and other product liability cases. "I think that by and large most of the women who will have been the victims of silicone induced immune disorders are not topless dancers."

Stone contended the company chose McCartney's case as part of a corporate strategy to dissuade other women from coming forward, and to reduce damage compensation in settlements.

"They have millions of women with implants out there and they have to do something," she said.

In December, Bristol-Myers Squibb was ordered by a Texas jury to pay a woman $25 million. A year earlier, Dow Corning lost a $7.4 million case in San Francisco. In 1984 it lost another case for $1.7 million.

Blake added that Terrance Jones hopes to sign with the University of Louisville later this week.

Rob Morgan and Scott Ferguson signing with Seminole Community College while Matt Freeman is going to Broward Community College.

Kay Kay Mullins of the Tribe girls' basketball team is considering attending Seminole Community College next year.

Fishing is simple fun for young sportsmen

Fishing is a popular sport in Florida and many children enjoy the experience.

Children who enjoy fishing should be encouraged to practice good outdoor manners and become responsible anglers. Responsible anglers help protect our resources and make fishing safer and more enjoyable for everyone.

The young angler can use either a cane pole or a rod and reel to catch fish. The cane pole is simpler. The rod and reel lets you fish at a greater distance from shore.

One of the first tricks-of-the-trade is to learn how to get bait on a hook. Worms are a favorite fish bait. The worm will wiggle. Hold it tightly at one end with your thumb and finger. Bring the hook down through one end and the worm until the worm covers the hook. Pull the hook down; don't try to push the worm on the hook.

Worms are found in rich soil, under leaves in the woods or in gravelly soil along streams. Keep them in a can with damp soil and in the shade.

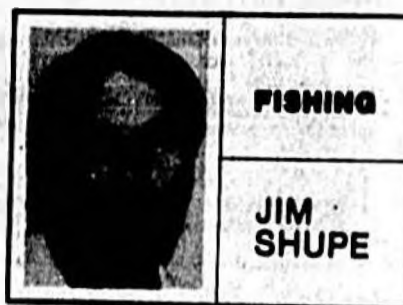

Minnows used for bait are usually 1 to 3 inches long. Put the hook through the very top of its back, just in front of the fin, so the minnow can swim. You will probably want to buy your minnows. Keep them in a minnow bucket in shaded water.

Grasshoppers and crickets are good summer bait. Hook them through the collar that is just behind their necks. The hook should be slipped under this collar so that the point is exposed. This keeps the insect alive and will attract fish. Grasshoppers are found in tall grass and are kept best in a small wire cage.

The next important fact a young angler needs to know is what to do when they get a fish. Keep the line tight and your rod tip up. Slowly reel in the fish.

Hold the fish tightly. Put your thumb inside the lower lip and forefinger outside. To remove the hook, push it down and turn so it comes out the way it went in.

keep? Will it be used for food? If not, carefully release the fish in the water. Handle the fish as little as possible. A fish that you catch and release carefully can be caught again someday when it is bigger.

You can keep your fish alive by threading a stringer under the chin and through both lips. Let the fish swim in the water. Tie the other end of the stringer tightly to the bank. You can also use wire fish baskets to keep your fish alive.

FISHING FORECAST

Summer may not be officially here, but bass can't read the calendar. Expect bass fishing to be very slow until the temperatures once again start to dip this fall. Bream and catfish, however, peak in the summer months. Bream fishing is best around full moon periods, as these fish gather together for spawning activities.

Now that snook season is closed, Sebastian Inlet is less crowded with anglers. Redfish, ladyfish, flounder, tarpon and jack crevalle are still providing plenty of action.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports great dolphin fishing in 150 feet of water on out. Quite a few of these beautiful fish are in the 20-30 pound category. King mackerel are present in 80-120 feet of water while tripletail and cobia are roaming the buoy lines.

Inside the Port, it's mainly jack crevalle and sheepshead. Reds are rated as good on the flats of the Banana and Indian rivers.

Ponce Inlet has been packed with anglers catching sheepshead, drum, redfish, flounder, whiting, jack crevalle, and bluefish.

Marlins

on a pace to break the major-league record for victories by an expansion team.

Perhaps more significantly, they've been embraced by a community too often divided in the past by ethnic and cultural differences. Just ask Emilio Diaz Jr., a Cuban American who likes to go to the ballpark with his father and 9-year-old son.

"Miami has grown so much," Diaz says while watching a recent game. "We needed this."

Longtime residents can best appreciate the excitement major-league baseball brought to town. Miami native Sonny Hirsch, a sportscaster for WIOD radio, remembers when a Triple-A game that drew 9,000 fans was a big event. Now, working as an official scorer at Joe Robbie Stadium, Hirsch pinches himself.

"I sit back and look at it and say, 'Can this really be true?'" he says.

Baseball's other expansion team in Denver draws bigger crowds (and loses more games), but the Marlins are far from a box-office bust.

Going into Friday night's game with the Pittsburgh Pirates, their average attendance of 40,089 ranks among the top teams in the major leagues, ahead of such traditional baseball hotbeds as St. Louis, Cincinnati and Boston. The National League last computed the attendance standings through last Sunday and the Marlins were fourth in the National League and sixth overall.

Marlins mania extends beyond the ballpark. The team's teal baseball caps have become the head wear of choice along Calle Ocho, Ocean Drive and even the Don Shula Expressway.

"You look in the stands every night, and three-quarters of the people are wearing a Marlins cap," says Dave Dombrowski, the team's general manager. "Everybody is proud to be part of this."

South Florida suddenly sounds different, too. Three Miami radio stations now have sports talk shows, and that's just in English. The town's new team is the favorite topic.

"We get calls even on non-sports shows about the Marlins," Hirsch says. "Everybody becomes a manager and general manager. This area has 250,000 Rene Lachemanns who would run the ballclub differently."

Lachemann, the team's manager, is well-known only among Marlins maniacs. Most of the players are obscure north of Cape Canaveral. One exception: 45-year-old Charlie Hough, a respected pitcher for years and now a Miami folk hero. He grew up in nearby Hialeah and enjoys visiting with the team's fans.

"The people I get to meet are really up — not for winning a pennant but for playing a good game," Hough said. "You know? Their expectations are a little different."

They come from Loxahatchee and Okceehobee, from Palm Beach and Yeehaw Junction, from Jupiter and Venus. They go wild when Hough strikes out a batter with his knuckleball, or when catcher Benito Santiago throws out a runner from his knees, or when the scoreboard operator tries to inspire a rally by showing a rousing clip from the movie "Animal House."

"It's good to realize that baseball can still be fun," Dombrowski says.

Cynics say Miami's broiling summer weather will put an end to baseball fever. Skeptics suggest attendance will drop when the Marlins hit a long losing streak.

Ruth Reilly of Pompano Beach, who accompanied 60 Boy Scouts to a recent game, dismisses the heat as a deterrent.

"This is Florida; it's 100 degrees everywhere," she says. "Only the tourists go to the beach. This is good, cheap family fun."

And Hough regards the players' performances as incidental to Marlins mania.

"I think the team would have been a hit," he says, "even if we stunk."

20 and counting

Mets' Young akin to Murphy, Anderson

By MAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Murphy's Law — whatever can go wrong will go wrong — no longer belongs exclusively to Murphy. He now must share it with poor Anthony Young, an otherwise pleasant young man, who has the great misfortune of pitching for the New York Mets.

Like smoking, this is an activity that can be hazardous to your health. Like Murphy, whatever can go wrong usually does for Young, who now has lost 20 consecutive decisions, a Mets record.

That is no small accomplishment considering that in its early years, this team had a number of pitchers who were perfectly capable of stringing long stretches of losses. Many of them, in fact, often did. None of them, however, found a way to lose 20 in a row, which requires a rare combination of abilities.

A 20-in-a-row loser must have a live arm and enough tools to have the manager go back to him 20 times or, in Young's case, 68 times between May 6, 1992, and June 8, 1993.

A 20-in-a-row loser must also have a colossal combination of bad luck and no luck because, if only by chance — 68 of them, in fact — the law of averages suggests he'd win a game here or there.

That's what Craig Anderson thought, too.

Anderson was a member of Casey Stengel's bullpen in 1962, the Mets' first adventure in the National League. On Saturday, May 12 of that season, he relieved in both ends of a doubleheader against the Milwaukee Braves. In the first game, Hobie Landrith pinch hit a home run against Warren Spahn in the bottom of the ninth inning for a win. In the second game, Gil Hodges hit a another ninth-inning homer for another win.

In one day, pitching just three innings, Craig Anderson had two victories. This, he thought to himself, is easy. He would soon learn otherwise.

A week later, Stengel's Amazin' Mets took three of four from the Braves, including another doubleheader sweep, with Anderson saving two of the wins. Then, all at once, the bottom fell out.

"We lost 17 in a row," he said. "We only won 25 games the rest of the year. My streak started in there."

Anderson was 3-1 with three saves when things went south on him. Beginning on May 24 against Los Angeles, he would lose 16 consecutive decisions, a streak interrupted only by two saves. There were two more losses as a late-season callup in 1963 and another in 1964 — a club record 19 in a row.

He was an equal opportunity loser, beaten by every team and in every conceivable way.

"I lost starting and I lost relieving," he said. "There were times I didn't pitch well and lost and times I pitched very well and still lost. We lost in unbelievable ways."

"I got down on myself toward the end of the year. Look at the team. As the season progressed, it seemed like it would take a miracle to win. It didn't get better. It got worse. I hated it."

His story sounds hauntingly like Young's, who started last season with a six-hit complete game victory over St. Louis in his first start. Two weeks later, he beat Montreal in relief to go 2-0.

After that, nothing.

It's not that Young hasn't pitched well. Moved into the bullpen on July 1, he converted 12 straight save opportunities and had a two-month earned run average of 0.85. He did not, however, win any games, and, in fact, finished the year with 14 consecutive losses — two less than Anderson's 1962 nightmare.

The losing streak albatross made Young conspicuous in spring training. No problem. Pitching in Florida, he went 3-0 with a 1.32 ERA. Then they started playing for real and Young started losing again.

Fans have rushed to his aid, offering all manner of amulets and paraphernalia to chase away the bad spirits. He assembled them in his locker. And he continues to lose.

The Mets offered a switch in uniforms from No. 19 to No. 13. It is a tactic that helped Roger Craig halt a 1963 losing streak at 18 games. Young refused. "I started the streak with 19 and I'll end it with 19," he said.

But when? When he hit No. 20 the other night, he broke Anderson's record. The old Met felt for the current one.

"You've got to have some hard luck to lose that many in a row," said Anderson, now an associate athletic director at Lehigh University. "I feel sorry for him. I hope he hangs in there. I'm rooting for him."

Sooner or later, one way or another, Young almost certainly will win a game. When he does, Anderson will envy him. That's because, after that magic Saturday afternoon in Milwaukee, Anderson never did. He retired in 1966, a loser of his last 19 major league decisions.

"His streak will end," Anderson said sadly. "Mine never did."

HAPPENINGS

Recycle junk batteries

Montgomery Ward, 130 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs, along with other stores across the nation, is joining forces with the Exide Corporation, an automotive and marine battery manufacturer, to recycle junk batteries.

The store will give $1 per battery per customer. (limit of 12 per visit) at the Auto Express department.

Exide will recycle the batteries in an environmentally-safe manner, saving the recycled lead and plastic to manufacture new batteries.

Montgomery Ward spokesmen say improper disposal of automotive and marine batteries threatens the environment and may pose a human health and safety risk.

The offer, at the Auto Express Dept. of Montgomery Ward retail stores, will continue through Sept. 30, 1993.

Bubble Yum coming to mall

"Planet Bubble Yum" will be at Altamonte Mall next weekend. It is a computer-generated universe of craters, swooping birds and floating chunks of bubble gum, orbiting through the mall's center court.

The event will be the seventh stop on the "Bubble Yum Virtuality Mall Tour," of 15 major U.S. Cities.

The display will be open to the public Friday June 18, through Sunday, June 20.

Swiss plane maker wins the right to lead bidding

By CATHERINE WILSON
AP Business Writer

MIAMI — A Swiss plane maker will play the "stalking horse" to attract bankruptcy bids for Piper Aircraft Corp.

Pilatus Aircraft Ltd., a manufacturer of military trainers, has offered $45 million to take over one of America's general aviation pioneers.

U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Robert Mark selected Pilatus on Thursday over 21 Inc., an investment group controlled by Nicolas Barre, son of a former French prime minister.

Pilatus "may be more likely to induce others bidders to come forward" as an industry-based buyer with the ability and desire to close, the judge said.

The next bid must improve on Pilatus' offer by $900,000, and each additional increment must be $500,000. For its legwork, Pilatus will be able to collect up to $1 million if someone else ends up buying Piper.

The selection was intended to encourage an auction for one of America's general aviation pioneers but already may have claimed its first victim.

"I think you just ended the auction," 21 attorney James Millstein said after the hearing.

Robert Shapiro, representing an investment group headed by Toronto developer Charles Watson, said his client is "very, very interested" in bidding but will want to see formal bidding procedures before deciding whether to get involved.

Attorneys for Piper and its creditors were asked to submit a plan for bidding guidelines by June 18.

In choosing Pilatus, the judge went against the wishes of Piper but in favor of creditors.

Piper was swayed in part by 21's offer to pay potential environmental expenses, while Pilatus planned to deduct a projected $3 million Superfund cleanup cost for groundwater pollution at the aviation company's Vero Beach factory.

Creditors favored Pilatus for offering them $1 million more than 21's $27 million plan.

Piper filed for Chapter 11 protection in August 1991 with $62 million in assets and liabilities of $47 million, plus the unestimated cost of 20 product-liability lawsuits over crashes.

The company, which says it has earned an operating profit since last August, projects annual production of 250 to 300 planes a year, down from a peak of more than 2,000 a year in the 1970s.

Burglary: Location is everything

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Where a business is located has a lot to do with the possibility of being burglarized. Two Temple University researchers have determined the location of a business is a prime factor in determining how likely it is to be burglarized.

Businesses situated further from arterial roads and busy shopping districts are more frequent burglary victims according to Temple economists Dr. Simon Hakim and Dr. Andrew Buck.

Their research however, dealt with three suburban areas near Philadelphia over a two and a half year period, and did not examine the nation as a whole.

"Generally, thir findings agree with the situation in Sanford and the rest of the state as well," said police Lt. Dennis Whitmire. He added, "But keep in mind, there are exceptions."

He continued, "Highway 17-92 (French Ave.) is our major artery in Sanford, and we have had a number of businesses burglarized several times."

"People who might be burglars can easily see these businesses and know when they are open or closed," he said, "then they become likely candidates for a break-in."

Earlier, the two Temple University researchers had conducted a similar study on homes, and found that burglars showed a clear preference for homes with easy access to major arteries.

"When it comes to businesses, especially retail establishments," Hakim said, "burglars prefer out-of-the-way sites where the visibility factor and the chances of being noticed are less."

Forty-eight percent of all burgled commercial properties with alarms, and 60 percent of all burgled non-alarmed properties are situated more than three blocks from major arterial roads according to the study results.

Retail stores and single office buildings have the highest risk of being burglarized, it reported. Not surprisingly, cash-based businesses and those perceived to have large amounts of cash are more frequent targets.

"A burglar knows exactly where the loot is at a retail outlet," Hakim said. He pointed out that new merchandise fetches a high price by a "fence."

"On the average, the break-ins last less than 10 minutes," Buck said, "giving the thief enough time to grab a few highly valued items and get away before the police arrive, which usually takes 15 to 20 minutes."

"It's the newer stores that are usually more lavishly designed and display the new merchandise that has a high fence value," Hakim said. "That makes them a more attractive target for burglars. In addition, stores in more affluent communities had a greater risk of burglary."

Data used by Hakim and Buck consisted of responses from 126 commercial burglary victims, 189 alarm-equipped establishments and 72 control group businesses which were neither burglarized nor had an alarm.

The Temple professors are currently working on a book, based on their own, and others' research findings, on how to better protect homes and businesses from burglary.

Changes made at Maynard, now named Conner Software

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — In the business world, name changes, acquisitions and take-overs are quite common. With each move however, a company generally expands and improves its position in the market.

Such is the case with Conner Software, at 36 Skyline Drive, in Lake Mary.

Originally, the Lake Mary facility was Maynard Electronics. It was part of a group owned by Archive Corporation of California.

Archive was acquired by Conner Peripherals of San Jose, and the name of the entire operation was changed to Conner Software. The Maynard facility thus became Conner.

Along with the recent acquisition, Robert Wight has been named vice president and general manager. He has been associated with the company for the past eight years, including Maynard Electronics.

Prior to that time, he served as marketing manager for the Computerland chain in Dayton, Ohio. Wight and his family live in Mt. Dora.

Wight noted that Conner Software is the only company positioned to supply the advanced next-generation of storage management technology. He said that Conner is in a unique position to set the course and maintain the lead in storage management software solutions.

According to Kathleen Botz, strategic marketing manager, "The Conner Software Products Group is dedicated to the development of advanced software technologies for the data storage market. The company recently announced three new retail software products, including the industry's first backup software for Windows NT."

Founded in 1986, Conner sells, designs and builds a comprehensive line of information storage solutions, including disk drives, tape drives, storage management software and storage systems.

At the Lake Mary facility, Conner employs 180 engineers, designers and marketers. It is one of the four largest employers in the Lake Mary area. In 1992, Conner's sales were listed at $2.2 billion.

In return, employees will receive a "Casual Day" button that indicates to customers and colleagues that they are supporting UCP of Central Florida. Participants wearing the button will receive free admission to the Orlando Cuba baseball game June 18, a free beer in a souvenir cup from Hoofers (4-7 p.m.) and COOL 105.9 will visit businesses (selected random drawing) that day and bring special prizes.

Happy Hoofers

Seniors strut their stuff in glittering productions

By ED KORQAN
Herald Correspondent

Senior citizens in Seminole County have formed an elite and prestigious dance group.

Evelyn Chester, volunteer organizer, choreographer and director of the dance group "Happy Hoofers," is very proud of her talented and dedicated ladies and gentlemen who range in age from 55 to 82.

Chester's performing background goes back to age 2 1/2 when she started dancing. Her father was a circus performer, so being center stage was not new to her. Later she studied ballet under George Ballenchine and by age 18, she was well on her way when she began performing in night clubs.

In August of 1990, Chester announced that she would like to direct a small group of senior citizens in a dance exercise format class. The group began at the senior citizen's center in Casselberry. Because of the popularity of the classes, she expanded to another class in Sanford at the Sanford Senior Center.

The actual performing group began almost by accident. Chester explained, "I had so many participating that I took the ones that had had some dancing when they were children and put them into a different group and that group was the group that started to be the performing group."

There was an addition added to the senior citizens building and they needed some entertainment. They asked us to do a few numbers and so we did and the group loved it. The dancers thoroughly enjoyed it and thought they were in show business. It was something they wanted to do ever since they were children and that was what we ended up doing."

Thus, the "Happy Hoofers" dance group was born.

Chester now teaches three classes. A dancer at first joins the beginning level classes in Sanford and Casselberry. When they have progressed to the level of the third class (the performing group) they are invited to join this group.

The assistants' backgrounds include four women who were former dance instructors. One, Elizabeth Taylor, is a former Rockette who danced professionally on the British stage.

Taylor has many high regards for Chester and the dancers on the team. She said, "These ladies have never done anything like this before. All of a sudden you watch and see them sort of blossom forth. They have done great. Some of these ladies who are in their 60s and 70s are really fabulous."

She continued, "Evelyn Chester is probably one of the best choreographers I have ever come across. She is very professional and she knows exactly what she wants in her dances."

Educator turned politician now eyes business world

By ED KORQAN

LAKE MARY — A former Seminole County commissioner embarks on a brand new venture in life after an exciting round of serving the public in the political arena.

Jennifer C. Kelley, a longtime Sanford resident, teacher, community leader and commissioner, who was born in Saginaw, Mich., moved to Florida in 1982 and finally to Seminole County in 1989. She is a graduate of Barry University in Miami and continued her post-graduate studies at University of Central Florida, Stetson University and Rollins College.

She was first employed in the county school system as a middle school teacher in 1965. By then, she had moved to Seminole High School as a music, humanities and English teacher.

Kelley's first loves, in the field of education, were music and humanities. Her exploits and work at Seminole High School would later prove in no uncertain terms her priorities for the arts.

She related, "I started out in music and I ended teaching humanities. I wrote the curriculum for the very first humanities course that was ever taught in Seminole County. In fact, it was one of the first in the state. There was humanities on a college level, but nothing on a high school level. That was my true love so I stayed with that until 1971."

Many of her years were spent as the director of the high school chorus. She remembers fondly the many great kids whom she taught. She remarked, "In those days I was on the board of directors for the Mutual Concert Association and because of that my students were given the opportunity to be ushers and usherettes at the concerts. That gave them exposure to the professional performers and they loved it. They wore long gowns and gloves. It was a major social event to those students."

She left teaching to work in the private sector, but in 1981 returned again to teach until 1988.

Through her many years of teaching, she had heard from her students of the many crack

The Sanford Lions Club, a proud 68 years young, is one of the oldest organizations in Seminole County and one of the few Lions Clubs with such a dedicated female membership.

Although the club inducted its first woman, Mayor Bettye Smith, a few years back, many clubs still don't have the female clout, according to Andrea Krazelise.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Sean Owen Gould

Nancy Hathaway, Sean Owen Gould exchange vows

APOPKA — Nancy Marie Hathaway and Sean Owen Gould are announcing their marriage today. They were married March 21, at 2 p.m., in a candlelight and double ring ceremony at Townsends Plantation Wedding Chapel, Apopka.

The bride is the daughter of Richard Hathaway of Pennsauken, N.J. (formerly of Sanford) and Sharon Hathaway of Sanford.

The groom is the son of Dennis and Barbara Gould of Sanford.

Given in marriage by her family and escorted by her father, the bride chose for her vows a white, full-length gown trimmed with lace edging, sequins and seed pearls. The gown featured a cathedral-length train. The v-plunge neckline descended to the fitted bodice accented with sequins, seed pearls and lace. The puffed lace sleeves had scalloped edging and there were bows on the shoulders front and back. The back of the gown featured a bow embellished with seed pearls and sequins. Her waist-length illusion veil was held by a headband-crown of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses with baby's breath and greenery.

Dyane Barnes of Osteen, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a tea-length gown of vivid pink with three-quarter length sleeves, sweetheart neckline and a bow on the left side. She carried a nosegay of Candide roses, baby's breath and greenery.

Bridesmaids were Amy Bunch of Deltona and Pam Gast of Lake Mary. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Jason Gould of Sanford and brother of the groom served as best man.

Groomsmen were Stephen Hathaway of Deltona, brother of the bride, Marcus Birkenmeyer, Oviedo, and Eddie Scott of Oviedo.

The groom and groomsmen wore black tuxedos. The groom wore a white vest and white bowtie. The groomsmen wore black cummerbunds and black bowties.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception followed at Townsends Plantation Ballroom.

Sheri Kowalski of Lauderhill assisted with the guest book.

After a wedding trip to Disneyworld Resort, the newlyweds are making their home in Sanford. The bride is employed as marketing clerk and the groom is a roofer.

School's out! Summer fun begins

What a fun day with hamburgers, hot dogs, drinks and all kinds of activities enjoyed by nearly 200 kids who attended the celebration the day before school finished for the summer. The West Sanford Boys and Girls Club celebration was indeed what the youth needed to begin a summer of fun, games and activities at the center.

Pastor Christian Bonham of the Wekiva Assembly of God Church and the Sword and Shield Power Team presented their show on strengths. This group is made up of Christian youth who while during fun, wholesome, active health and strength shows, are bettering their minds.

Sharing in the activities with the power team were Don Miller, director of the Boys and Girls Club, Don Newman, Randy Petry, Ramon Small, Sharon Lawrence, Tawnya Merthie, Gary Matthews of the Goldsboro Support Center.

Kids of the Boys and Girls Club who took a part in the power team activities by breaking blocks and bats were Bobby Bradford, Duran Daniels, Latoya Everett, Sade Comer, Jermaine Mackey, Horace Stokes, Corey Young, Melana Bradford, Oren Williams, Vario Carey, Antoni Floyd, Shaminae Comer and Daniel Johnson.

The club's summer program will begin Monday, June 14, for the 8-year to 15-year olds. The fee for the summer program is $5 a week which includes

Calling all guardian angels: It's convention time, again

By ANNE THOMPSON Associated Press Writer... EAST PALMOUTH, Mass. — To R. Martin-Kuri, guardian angels aren't chubby babies with wings.

Martin-Kuri leads the conference, which runs through Sunday. Participants pay $300 for materials and workshops on connecting with guardian angels.

"It's as if walking on the road the stones will still be there, but now you have a pair of satin slippers," Martin-Kuri said.

Her field, "angelology," is recognized and defined largely by angelologists themselves. Martin-Kuri said she qualifies because of years of researching the color theory, theology, philosophy, painting and music for any and all connections with the angels.

Happiness: A lake, fish, a nibble now and then

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

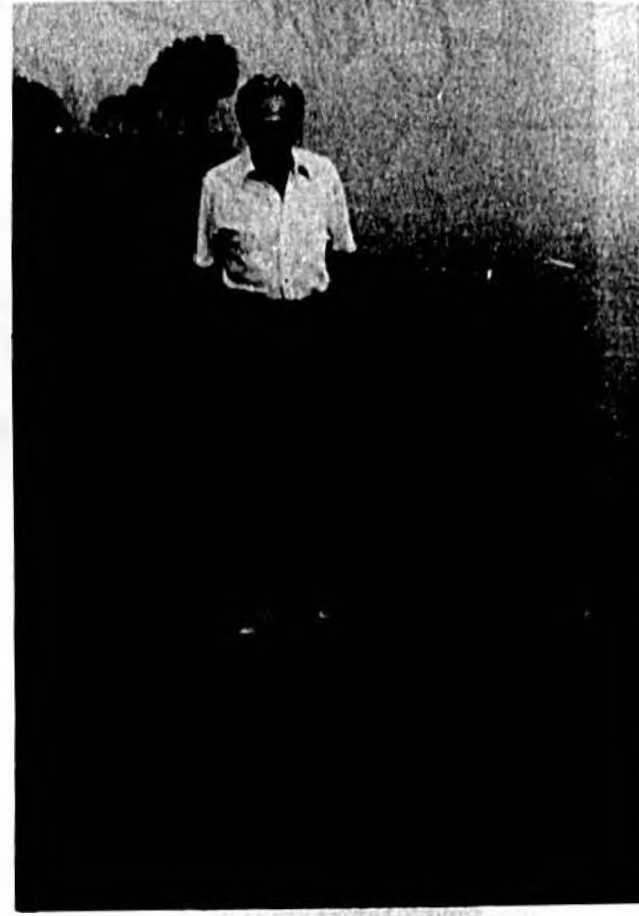

An old alligator, at least as long as a car, drifted past the Lake Monroe boat dock near where the old man had cast his fishing lure into the dark water before steadily reeling it back in.

The early morning fog hung over the calm water as the sun began to rise.

"I think he's one of the big ones out here," commented Mike Dunn, referring to the alligator, as he cast his lure again in pursuit of another bass like the one he caught earlier. It twitched behind him on the grass.

"If I catch one or two more, I'll take them home and dress 'em," the 80-year old fisherman said, "and we eat them. The water has been cleaner but I don't worry about it. I just don't think about the Debbie Bowlin teaches respect for the environment to her fourth grade students.

Teaching respect for earth

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — To Debbie Bowlin, concern for the environment is not just a politically correct trend. It is a lifestyle people should begin by teaching the children.

Bowlin, who teaches fourth grade at Pine Crest Elementary School in Sanford, was recently recognized with a Teacher-critic Award from the Walt Disney World Company for her efforts to make ecological consciousness a part of her students' lives.

She said her efforts started modestly enough, but mushroomed as the whole school became interested in her projects.

"I really had planned for my class to get involved in recycling newspapers and cans," she said. "It really mushroomed. The kids really got into it and the whole school got involved."

Before the end of 1992, the students throughout the school were involved in efforts to recycle items ranging from aluminum foil to expired telephone directories.

And the students went a step further.

"It wasn't just recycling," she said. "We also planted."

Azaleas and other shrubs were placed around the school campus for a variety of reasons. Plants, strategically planted are not only beautiful to look at, but also help clean the air.

"And the kids love getting involved," she said.

Bowlin said she has integrated the environmentally correct teachings into the full curriculum at the school.

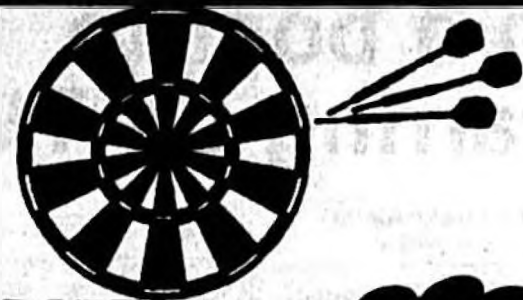

"They study it in math, English, social studies, science...in all their classes," she said.

Bowlin said that caring for the environment has always been important to her and she is glad to be able to help the young people at Pine Crest learn the importance of the work.

"I think this is great," she said.

Bowlin said she will continue her ecological education and hopes that the students' enthusiasm will not diminish over the summer.

From living on a boat to starring on TV

By VICKI DeSOMMER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Jonathan Sepanik swings from the ladder leading to the upper deck of the Utopia and giggles. He doesn't have much to say about his experiences on the set of Baby Races.

Sepanik, 3, was joined by his mother Danielle and his grandmother Bea Morris recently at the filming of the new show being put together at the Disney/MGM studios for this fall.

"It was fun," he said, before scurrying away to find some mischief.

The family lives on board the boat in the Monroe Harbour Marina and is constantly seeking new adventures.

"I just saw an advertisement for auditions," Morris said, "so I told my daughter that it might be something fun for Jonathan to do."

Morris said she hadn't expected to end up on

Phyllis Conklin take a break from delivering Meals on Wheels

Homebound won't go hungry with 20-year volunteer around

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Phyllis Conklin says she'll continue her Meals on Wheels deliveries to the homebound until she becomes a client herself.

For two decades, Conklin has volunteered one morning a week delivering hot meals to shut-ins in the Sanford area. She is believed to be one of the longest continually-serving MOW delivery persons in the Sanford area.

Conklin, 62, said she joined with about five other women from local churches 20 years ago to start the Sanford Meals on Wheels program. Prepared meals were picked up at a local church parking lot and delivered to the homes of individuals.

Over the years, the responsibility for the local MOW program shifted hands and now rests with Better Living for Seniors of Seminole County. In the Sanford area, volunteers pick up prepared meals at Upsala Presbyterian Church or Sanford Senior Center and deliver them to about a half-dozen homes each week.

dirty water. I just eat 'em anyway." If the day's catch is a good one, Dunn shares the fish with his wife, Jeanette.

One or two days a week, Dunn rides his three-wheeled bike from his Elliott Avenue home to Lake Monroe for an early morning fishing session standing on the seawall.

"Sometimes I don't catch anything," the Georgia native commented, "but this is how I get my exercise."

Occasionally, Dunn says a gator will jump going after a meal of schooling gar but generally, they swim by.

"They don't seem to bother people too much," Dunn says, when asked about the people who jet-ski on the lake, "except if someone's been feedin' 'em."

Two or three fish jumping out of the water off the end of the dock didn't capture Dunn's attention.

"Oh, those are mullet," he said matter-of-factly. "They're a good fish, but not here. You want to catch them over on the west coast."

A retired cattle farmer, the self-described "Georgia Cracker" and his wife moved to Sanford 13 years ago. Although he sold his plantation, he still owns some property which his brother oversees. The couple moved to Florida because some of their children live here.

As the early morning sun rose higher in the sky, and the fog began to lift, Dunn tossed his lone catch of the morning back into the lake and walked to his bike to pedal home. In another day or two, he will be back just about daylight to try again.

the show herself, but the show is designed for teams of two adults and a child.

Danielle and her husband are divorced so Bea ended up playing the part of the father.

"I had to be a horse in a suit that was much too big because it was for a man," she said.

Some of the obstacle course events the family competed in included one in which Jonathan had to scoop baked beans with his hands from his mother's hat and run and drop them in his grandmother's hat; riding on his grandmother's back.

Meals

Conklin said she became interested in the program when she was looking for ways to volunteer.

"I just wanted to volunteer through my church to help my community," said Conklin. They said people would be able to stay out of nursing homes with this and I thought that sounded like a good idea."

Conklin said the MOW program offers the home-bound a daily check. If no one responds or there's no note on the door, Conklin said she calls the program office and they attempt to call the individual. If there is still no response, then emergency care is called.

"Several times, we've dressed as a cowboy and gathering up stuffed cows to bring to his mother in the corral.

"It was so funny, I loved it," Sepanik said. The family said they were treated like royalty by the Disney staff.

The Morriszes have lived aboard the Utopia for many years and find that they like to do things just a little differently. Since Jonathan and his mother moved on the boat with them things have been a little cramped, Morris said, but it is enjoyable.

"We love having them here," she said. "It's a lot of fun."

been able to help people who have fallen or had strokes and couldn't respond," said Conklin.

Conklin said she enjoys her community services. She also serves as a director for the Salvation Army in Sanford, the Good Samaritan Home and Martin Luther King choir. She also volunteers as a cashier at the Habitat for Humanity thrift store in Sanford. She is also active in Sanford Women's Club.

Conklin said she enjoys her service, but she'd like to spend a little more time devoted to herself.

"I have two organizations calling me now but I only have so much time," she said.

Anyone interested in volunteering for Meals on Wheels, should call 834-4357.

Writing meaningful songs about issues that touch people's lives is what Mike Mendoza likes to do.

A resident of Sanford for over a decade, Mendoza calls a 31-foot houseboat at the Sanford Marina home. He is refurbishing his boat. The 45-year old singer and songwriter performs in local clubs and restaurants and sometimes on Grand Romance cruises.

Recently, Mendoza appeared in a music video. He played a cowboy in a bar for the video by country singer Lisa Stewart. The video is airing on TNN (The Nashville Network) on cable television. A casting director "discovered" Mendoza at the Lake Monroe Inn one night and asked him to audition. "I guess he thought I looked like a cowboy."

U.S. SAVINGS BONDS THE GREAT AMERICAN INVESTMENT

Dream realized with a little help, hard work

By KELLEY MITCHELL
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Homeownership: The American Dream. It is easily attained by some and remains a vision for others in less fortunate situations.

But for Altermese Harper, a longtime resident of Sanford, the dream of a lifetime has finally come true.

Thanks to GoldenRule Housing & Community Development Corporation, a private, non-profit developer of affordable housing accessible to low-income persons, Harper now owns a home after many years of frustration and rejection.

"I had people literally slam the door in my face for 10 years," Harper said. "Then I met Ameika Geuka (executive director of GoldenRule) and he helped me tremendously."

"He played a big role in pushing the deal through," according to Harper. "Whenever I'd run into a problem he was there to help and support me. And when Fleet Mortgage had problems, he would call me and say you need to do this or you need to do that."

"It was a lot of running back and forth delivering paper work and everything, but I have no problem with what they took me through because now it's mine."

Two months after the application was submitted to the mortgage company the certified nurses' assistant and her two children, Antisha, 16, and Timotheus Byrd, 13, moved into their brand new house on the corner of 5th Street and Poplar Avenue.

"When I moved into my house it boosted my moral and lifted my spirits because I finally got what I'd been praying for," said Harper.

Harper said she is one of many here in the city who fight to overcome poverty and break the cycle of living on the welfare rolls.

"When I was 13 my mom moved us into the projects (Sanford Housing Authority)," said Harper. "That is really no place to raise children. I knew I had to get out and find a place of my own."

"I remember one time when I was living in the projects I got a 25 cent raise," Harper said. "I was excited because I thought I could finally put a little aside every month to get a better place, but with that raise was an $18 increase in my rent. How could I ever get ahead if they take every little bit I make?"

Musician

Continued from Page 10 part." Mendoza said, which included taking a screen test at Universal Studios where the video the shot. "I just had to do what the director told me."

The four-hours it took for Mendoza to shoot his scene in the video may not turn him from songwriting and performing to an acting career, but he admits "I had a ball. That was really fun."

"It is funny, I've been playing music for 40 years, and I get a break making a video," he added.

A Sanford resident by way of San Francisco and Seattle, Mendoza played folk music in the 60s and 70s. He father was a jazz musician. Although he would not say how he came to call the Seminole county seat home, Mendoza did acknowledge it is as close as he could get to Orlando and live on his boat.

Although Mendoza said he likes all types of music and he writes everything from metaphysical blues to commercial songs, he also writes songs about sailing and childrens' songs as well as those about serious topics. He has written songs for the AIDS Foundation, the Save the Manatee Foundation and one for an Arizona based organization, Citizens Against Toxic Sprays.

His most recent recording is "High Times" named after a sailboat he took a cruise on and "Cloud Painting" for kids. Mendoza, who plays a acoustical guitar, harmonica and piano, owns "Rainbow Garden" publishing company and a record company by the same name. When he records, Mendoza rents studio time. Thus far, his record company has not recorded any other artists.

A bachelor, Mendoza said he has dated the same girl for nine years. Does he consider Sanford home? He responds, "sure do."

"In the projects you couldn't have a washing machine, a dryer, an air conditioner or a ceiling fan because the electricity was included in the rent," she said. "I wanted to be cool in the summer and warm in the winter just like other people who own their own homes."

GoldenRule has experienced a large increase in the number of low-income clients seeking decent, safe and sanitary living accommodations they can afford to rent and own, according to Gouka. The surge began in April when the organization held its "Sign-Up for Housing Assistance Day" and has continued steadily since.

By all accounts the Westside Improvement Neighborhood Strategy (WINS) Demonstration Project is a proven success.

For the in-kind contribution valued at $24,800, the city leveraged $212,200 in private-sector financing, and facilitated placement of properties valued at $237,000 on the tax rolls.

They have recently submitted a proposal to expand the project so that 25 additional families can realize the "American Dream."

"I walk through my door and say thank you Jesus," said Harper. "The only thing I ask for now is that he gives me the strength to keep working to pay for my house."

These elements, in addition to the Florida weather and friends in the area, are what convinced Michael Shelton to settle here.

"I've been around the world and traveled extensively to experience many cultures to help my kids understand themselves, but I never imagined I'd settle in Mayberry," said Shelton with a smile on his face and a twinkle in his eyes. "But I mean that in a very positive way. The people are so friendly and the location with the lakefront and the historical areas are just lovely.

"The city gives visitors an open arm welcome," according to Shelton. "Sanford has tremendous possibilities and offers a rich cultural experience."

A retired educator of 20 years from Philadelphia, Shelton's heart is the arts.

The accomplished artist has exhibited his works in such places as the Philadelphia Museum of Art, Temple University and the University of Pennsylvania Museum. In 1969 he was one of the featured artists in the first national exhibit of works by African-Americans entitled "Black Artist in America," among many others.

As coordinator of the Worthy Opportunities for Residents Through Holistic Approaches program for the Sanford Housing Authority, he became involved in the complex through an elderly friend in need of housing.

"A former aid of mine was in need of housing and I was fortunate to meet someone in the housing authority," said Shelton. "We moved her into Redding Gardens and that's when I saw a need to volunteer my art to the senior citizens."

Shelton established contacts with the Orlando Museum of Art and was given $4,000 worth of display cases to exhibit his, and other artists works, in the authority's community room. This was the beginning of the Heritage Art Show, which has traveled to Apopka and is scheduled to open at the Winter Park Civic Center in October.

"This opened an avenue to give residents an opportunity to see museum quality art," said Shelton. "To bring the museum to the people.

"Everything we had was authentic and original for all the people to enjoy," according to Shelton. "Over 1,000 people came from all over Central Florida to the show. School groups came and the children played musical instruments from Mali, wittnessed wood carving and dances. They felt a connection with the mother land through these objects."

With a background in education, Shelton has taken on a number of projects that will also include younger residents of the low-income housing development.

"We are going to do murals at Higgins Terrace and Castle Brewer Court, here behind the housing authority office," according to Shelton. "I am also working on a mural for Elder Hudson's church (Shower Down of Blessings at 3rd and Elm streets) which will be my interpretation of The Last Supper.

"I'm always looking for talent," said Shelton. "It makes me very happy to discover talent and watch them go on."

Shelton has been named to the board of directors of First Street

Gallery in downtown Sanford. He will serve on the education and exhibition committees and has already come up with an idea to connect Sanford with the rest of the nation. He would like to see the gallery sponsor a national drawing competition in August to draw attention to Sanford.

"We can attract national and international talent," said Shelton. "We (the gallery) see Sanford as a real comer in the art world."

Shelton's other interests include writing music and poetry. He also serves on the board of directors of the Seminole Housing Advocacy Coalition, is curator for the Gerogetown exhibit at the Seminole County School Museum and is working with the Ministerial Alliance on a proposal to the city in the revitalization of 15th Street and restoration of the old Star Theater.

"15th Street was once one of the main attractions in Central Florida," Shelton said. "Forget Disney and the attractions now, they weren't even here. The Star Theater featured musical greats such as James Brown, B. B. King and Ray Charles. I have a dream of seeing the restoration and rededication of 15th Street and Star Theater."

proposed airline service, which filed for bankruptcy, forcing the two to seek another opportunity to establish regular flight service from Sanford.

Recently, they formed Jet Lift, and now have an agreement with Branson Airlines, also operating as Eclipse Airlines, headquartered in Branson, Missouri.

"Branson Missouri is the new national center of country and western music," Lee said. "They are even topping Nashville, and Branson expects over 5 million visitors this year alone."

"What we are doing in Sanford isn't directly connected to the Missouri operation," he continued. "We are running city shuttle services to Fort Lauderdale and Miami. We have two flights to each city on a daily basis, operating seven days a week."

The aircraft being used are Dash-7 50-passenger, 4 engine jet-prop aircraft.

"We have stewardesses and snack service on board these flights," he said. "And they are running on a regular schedule, with the first flight leaving Sanford at 7 a.m., and the last return flight at 8 p.m."

"We are working very hard in cooperation with the Airport Authority," Lee said. "We hope to really help them in the development and continuing progress of the total airport operation."

The next project to be undertaken by Lee and Brain is through National Air Charters. With the first flights presently scheduled to begin on Aug. 2, these will provide regularly scheduled round trip flights from Sanford to Atlanta and Philadelphia. "These will be to and from each place," Lee said. "They will be individual round trips operating five days a week from Sanford."

The National Air Charters will be using Boeing 727-200 planes, capable of carrying 167 passengers.

"There will be six scheduled departures daily to begin with," Lee said, "and we plan to grow in the future." All flights are sold through travel agencies.

"Another thing we plan to look into," he said, "is obtaining an expert ground handling operation at the Sanford airport. We are looking into Universal Ground Handling out of Miami, and if we can get them to set up an operation here we will not only have superior maintenance for our aircraft, but all other large craft which may eventually be using Sanford."

For both Jet Lift International and National Air Charters, the plans would be headquartered in Sanford.

Brain and Lee have big hopes for the Central Florida Regional Airport. "We like it here," Lee said. "This is an outstanding airport with a great potential for expansion and development, and we want to be a part of it."

Brain commented, "We are launching into another relatively large project right now, but we aren't ready to reveal anything about it at this time." He added, "But it will again be of benefit to the Sanford airport and we are looking forward to it."

Downey's first introduction to Sanford came in 1942 when he transported a plane and landed at the Sanford Air Station during World War II.

"Little did I think then that some day I'd be not only living here but loving it," he said.

"I do this because all of my life, I've tried to keep active to avoid being bored," Downey said. "Too many people just sit around, when they would feel so much better if they could get out and do something, especially if they can be helping someone else while they are working."

Downey says about 60 percent of the people who come to him to help seek employment are women. "Many of them are grandmothers," he quipped, "who say they would do most anything to avoid having to be a baby-sitter for the grand-kids."

"Actually," he said, "women are excellent workers because most of those 55 and older prove to be more dependable and loyal."

One of the women he recently helped, has just moved from 20 hours to 30 hours per week in her new job with the county. "She is 76," he said, "but her employers know they couldn't find a more dedicated worker."

"As for the men," he continued, "many of them who want my help are over-qualified. Some say they are willing to step down to a lower position just to be working, but when it comes to a decision over a job, many back off saying they don't want to go to that level."

"Some are willing to do almost anything," Downey said. "These are the people who can be located and helped."

Although he considers himself as home-based in Sanford, Downey spends time at the Lake Mary Job Services, Casselberry Job Services, Lake Mary Senior Center, and Sanford's Private Industry Council office at the Reflections Center on Lake Mary Blvd.

Don't try to contact Downey in the immediate future. "I'm taking some time off beginning this weekend," he said. "Even us so-called retirees need some time to retire for a few months. But then, this fall, I'll be back on the job again, and I'm looking forward to continuing my work in helping seniors find jobs, and local employers find the best quality workers possible."

Memorial Park is the destination of many downtown parades, including Veteran's and Memorial Day as well as Fourth of July. An oversized flag ripples in the wind overlooking the lake.
