action, he said, because the matter is pending in Fayette Circuit Court. The suit was filed in federal court last month

Dare To Be Great asked in the federal suit that a three-judge panel be formed to issue a temporary injunction declaring the consumer law void and prohibiting its enforcement against the firm.

Seminole County Voters Tested Today

VOTE-VOTE-VOTE!

We urge every qualified and registered citizen to allow nothing to interfere in his privilege and opportunity to cast a ballot in this primary election. To those who weasel out with "one vote doesn't count" excuse, there is a very recent and a very near example of the fact that one vote does count.

Indeed one vote was enough to settle a cliffhanger election to the Oviedo City Council last week. This is the sort of office that has the closest and most easily identified relation with every

Yet when the balloting was over John Kuhn's hope for the Group IV seat in the race with Herbert McCarley rested on the absentee ballots. Five of these were to be counted. Of them, two were disqualified by improper registration. Three that were counted gave one to Kuhn and two to McCarley and Kuhn's 73 won

Of course this was a small numerical election. True the total was not impressive. Yet the political fact which this did illustrate is large and national in its scope.

Some of the most surprising results came about with a post-election analysis indicating that the change of one vote in every precinct would have changed our nation's history. So EVERY VOTE EVERY TIME does

The primaries in today's event will result in the nomination of Democrat and Republican candidates for Congressional, State Legislative and top county posts.

Curtain Falls on Good Yesterdays

It's the moving season, and moving can be a chore. For me, helping here to close a family home held more than half a century, it is not so much a labor as a painful leavetaking from an era of warm, bright living.

The era slips away as books acquired in the early 1900s are pulled from the shelves, as letters from 1890 are found in dresser drawers, as hundreds of photographs tumble out of envelopes, as I find the ticket stub from my first football game ages ago, and my father's grades on a scholarship test, and my mother's notes about the night we came to this house in October, 1919.

We are tearing all these things from their accustomed places, and packing up, because my mother died a little while ago. She was 89 and had outlived my father by 21 As we thrust the past into paperboard boxes, as we plant shipping labels on sofas and chairs and tables we know as we do our own faces, what are we leaving? First, a huge brick house with a red-tiled roof, a handsome bay window, broad, high-ceilinged rooms, a spa-cious yard more richly green by far than when we came It is truly a family fortress, a great rock unscarred by the battering tides of recent times. It is the visible proof that we had a stable setting in which to grow and get I look at a corner of the oak-paneled dining room and remember that for 52 unbroken years enormous Christmas trees stood there, loaded down with hundreds and hundreds of ornaments. The tree, lasting sometimes for six weeks, was the centerpiece in a long ceremony which was, for us, an annual celebration of life. Relatives, neighbors and friends trooped in to gaze at it.

We in this large family who returned year after year to sustain this ceremony with our fullest energies could be charged, I suppose, with trying to reclaim the past, with taking refuge in the old citadel safe from the chaos of this

True, perhaps, in a measure. But here the past was also the present. We never allowed the skein to be broken. We came not because it was safe but because life here was still warm and good. Looking at the long dining room table, I can call up memories easily, of my father, a hard-charging lawyer, teasing my sisters, of my sensitive mother trying to balance half a dozen diets and keep a show of order amid the banter and laughter. Not just at Christmas but at birthdays and other special times, that table was a festive thing to see-brightened by flowers, well-appointed with distinctive coffee urns and other table pieces, laden with food. What went on here at such times was not lavish. It was just great good fun, which few who came ever forgot. I'm sitting now in my father's upstairs study, where built-in shelves once held hundreds of law books. On the floor, ready to be moved, are many piles of old 78 RPM phonograph records—reminders of the nearly continuous jazz festivals that enlivened the place in earlier times. This house was not just the family rock; it was for long years a gathering place for young and old, attracted by its warmth, its gaiety, its curious, free-style originality. It was a center for songfest and talkfest, a place where living never was dull. This stage, where our lives unfolded in cheerful competition and zestful celebration, will soon be dark. Its era is really over now. The loss is not just ours, but the

One Man's Opinion 'Paper' Wadding Up Its Pollution

Anyone who has spent any time at all in the vicinity of a paper mill does not need the current concern for the ecology to be made forcefully aware of pollution as a

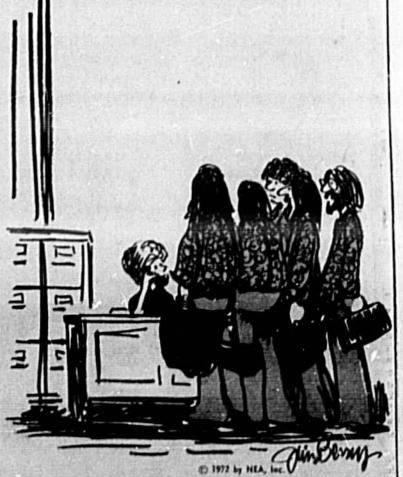

The pulp and paper industry long had a special reputation as a polluter par excellence. The indescribable stench given off in the paper-making process, depending upon variations of local geography and prevailing winds, might also be inescapable at distances up to 30 miles from a plant. Sludge spewed into waterways could equal the total waste product of a major city.

But guess which industry is now earning itself a very large "E" for pollution-control efforts? Paper is "years ahead" of other major manufacturing areas in cleaning up after itself, reports the Council on

Most firms in the industry have had marked success in cleaning up plants and reputations in just a few short years through new equipment and production practices, at no little cost to themselves—an estimated $840 million -but without significant dislocation of production or em-

If it continues to score gains at the rate of the past two years, the industry could achieve virtually 100 per cent effective pollution control by 1975, according to the council, a nonprofit organization monitoring the social impact of business and industrial activities. Paper is, of course, still minor league compared with such industries as steel, power production and mining, all massive waste contributors. But its experience is evidence that the pollution problem does yield to effort - and

Given this one industry's image only a few years ago for, in the council's words, ". . . foul-smelling mills belching gases and discharging sludge into streams . . . who would have believed it?

Some "monkey business" went on at the August 25 meeting of The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission in Tallahassee. According to Commission Chairman, C. A. Peacock, the Charles River Breeding Laboratories has been granted approval to convert Loggerhead Key to a breeding station for production of Rhesus monkeys.

The 90 acre Collier County island, owned by the Laboratories, will be monkey proofed to prevent the escape of the animals and steps will be taken to keep people off. The Loggerhead Key project is designed to assure a continuing supply of Rhesus monkeys for scientific research

Also at this meeting, the Commission closed portions of Collier, Dade, and Monroe counties located south of the Tamiami Trail to the taking of wild hogs during the 1972-73 hunting season. The area has been stocked with wild hogs and a closed season will provide an opportunity for the released stock to become established and provide improved hunting during future seasons.

The Commission clarified archery hunting regulations by pointing out that wild turkeys are protected in Northwest Florida until the opening of spring turkey gobbler season on March 24. Wild turkeys will not be considered legal game in northwest Florida during the archery season which opened

September 9. In other actions the Commission adopted seasons a. ' bag limits for ducks and coots, approved special hunting vales applying to Eglin Military Reservation and St. Vincent Island Wildlife Refuge in northeast Florida and special hunting on the Lake Woodruff National Wildlife Refuge in

The Cammission also redefined the boundaries of the Apalachicola Wildlife Management Area to include all of the Apalachicola National Forest in Leon, Liberty, Wakulla, and Franklin counties except for a few isolated parcels. They also redefined in a similar manner the boundaries of the Blackwater Wildlife Management Area in Santa Rosa and Okaloosa counties. The next meeting of the Commission is set for September

PRICED OUT OF BUSINESS

One hunting enthusiast, who asked that his name be withheld, stated, "Hunting and Fishing is an American heritage which is rapidly becoming extinct, but I, for one, will continue to hunt 'till the day I die even if it means breaking the law!" This sentiment was seconded fervently by three other devotees of the sport who were present at the impromptu

When questioned as to the exact nature of their dissatisfaction, the following reasons were voiced, "Fees and permits are constantly being increased to the extent that many hunters are travelling to Georgia to pursue the sport." Our hunting time is being DECREASED while our costs are INCREASING!" "Hunting season has been cut a week short this year." - The Farmton Area will be closed two days each week!" - Many people have invested hundreds of dollars in four wheel drive vehicles and now find out they have to stay on the Circle Road in the Bull Creek Area to make it easier to check cars!"

The concensus of opinion indicated the average hunter spends several hundred dollars per year on his sport including licenses, stamps, special permits, gas, shells, guns, other camping equipment, and groceries. Those buying fourwheel drive hunting vehicles probably lightens their wallet by hundreds of dollars more.

The next question, naturally, was, "What can be done about it?" And again, some answers were fast in coming. "Give Florida hunters a break" - Give them something for their money" - "Stop raising fees and stop shortening the season; that way, maybe we can keep Florida HUNTERS and Florida DOLLARS in our own state!"

Hunters are invited to express their viewpoints on this situation by writing The Sanford Herald Sports Department.

Last week's column made mention of a nice string of 25 speckled perch caught by Walter Price in Lake Monroe. This was correct, but the next line stating the fish were caught while drift fishing with live Missiouri minnows was in error - Price landed his catch trolling with artifical lures as he always does. Sorry about that, Walter.

Paul Johnson at Osteen Bridge Fish Camp relays the word that specks are doing quite well again this week with most of the anglers from his camp using live minnows in Lake Monroe. Bass fishing has slowed down to some extent according to Johnson but a few of the regulars are able to find them. Watt Elsea brought in five one day last week.

A lady angler, Nell Bridges, who qualified as "Hard Luck Fisherman of the week" recently when the bottom of her fish basket tore out causing her to lose her entire days catch, sent word that she had replaced the old basket and filled it again. AT LAST - something good has been said about the LOVE BUGS. Bob King of Marina Isle Fish Camp noted that since the arrival of the most recent batch of the pesky insects, fly rod fishermen have enjoyed extremely good fishing. King says that perhaps the bugs falling on the water encourage bream to strike on the surface and the long stick men with their popping bugs come into their own. Some fly rod catches mentioned include a string of 70 and another of 40 on successive days by three visitors from North Carolina. Don Bangs of Sanford also connected with so many he lost count but retained 35 of the larger ones.

Not all of the Wekiva River bass are running small: Ottis Faulk, owner of Camp Seminole had two beauties brought in to his place by Tommy Spark of Sanford. They weighed five and eight pounds, respectively . . . A Titusville angler, Arthur Marshall, fishing out of the same camp landed a three pounder. "The usual catfish and redbreast bream are being caught along with the bass," Faulk said.

Night fishing paid off for Bob Miller over Labor Day weekend according to noties gathered by Don Smith at the Seminole Sporting Goods Store. Miller used the old faithful "J'tterbug" and "Devilhorse" lures to land an eight pounder, a pair of five pounders, and several more bass in two-three pound class as well as some smaller ones from Lake Jackson Maxie Richardson drifted Lake Monroe with live minnows the first part of last week, 22 speckeld perch was his score. Don Smith took time out from his tackle store duties long enough to try the bass first hand. Accompanied by Dick Mower, the two landed a total of nine. Don admitted, however, that he did not quite get his half of the catch as he was fishing with one of the best bass men around. Joe Lazare, Plaza Sports Shop, also took a fling at the bass recently and brought back a limit with a sever pounder topping the string. Lazare mentioned that Garvin Harden caught limits on four consecutive days last week. The Sports Shop now has a complete assortment of the new "Fuji Speed Stick" rods in stock including bait casting, spinning, and surf casting models. LETS GO FISHING!

As it stands now, Brent Carli will get the starting nod at quarterback Friday night. He'll probably be joined in the backfield by Walter Collier at fullback, Tommy Thompson at tailback and Benny Montgomery at wingback.

Among the second string backs are seniors Mark Carli and Benny Jiminez. Carli is at tailback and Jiminez will be running several positions, including fullback and wingback. Will McCoy is the second team quarterback.

But Rogers emphasized that both the first and second team backs will be seeing about the

Tarpon Rodeo

Daytona-New Smyrna area. The Halifax Sports Fishing Club's Annual Tarpon Rodeo started Saturday and will run through Oct. 16. Quite a few of the silver kings are showing up around the inlet sea buoy and several have already been entered in the rodeo.

David Leete and son Bobby landed one of 41 pounds the first day of the contest along with four kingfish up to 27 pounds. Steve Kenzie outlasted a 75 pounder Saturday and 12-yearold Jay Lamee landed one of 60 pounds. These were all caught from private boats. Jim McDaniel missed out on tarpon but got himself a pair of kings, 21 and 25 pounds.

Trolling boats are hitting kings, two to 18 per trip, some bonita and amberjacks. Capt. Tod Grubbson the "Finest Kind" boated a small sailfish, 12 kings, and 2 jacks on a Wednesday charter trip.

Tarpon fishing is always best near the shrimp boats working outside Ponce DeLeon Inlet because of the many fish thrown over board when the nets are pulled. Charter boat skippers issued a warning to operators of small boats to be sure to keep their distance from the shrimpers as the cables and nets are extremely dangerous. Carl Williams has been trying the salt water recently and inlet at New Smyrna. Sea bass are in the surf between New Smyrna and the old coast guard

This Sunday, Sept. 17, auditions will be held for the 1972-73 season at 1 p. m., at School of Dance Arts, 2560 S. Elm Ave., Sanford which is the home studio of B.G.S.S.

Regardless of dance school affiliation, all area dancers are welcome to audition. Requirements are that each dancer be at least 12 years of age with two or more years of qualified ballet training.

Doctors should tell the truth about death

By Abigail Van Buren

te 1972 by Chicago Tribene H. Y. Hews Synd., loc.) DEAR ABBY: Do you believe that when a doctor knows there is no hope for a patient's recovery, he should tell the patient the truth?

My wife and I disagree on this. The patient happens to be her father. She insists that "ignorance is bliss," and her father should not have been told. [His doctor told him.] I say it's a person's right to know so that he can put his affairs in order.

Isn't it the practice of most doctors to tell their patients the truth? And don't you think most patients would rather know? And finally, Abby, how do you feel about this?

DEAR J AND A: Most doctors believe in telling their patients the truth, but some will not if the family asks him not to, or if the doctor feels the patient can't handle it. [Most patients "know" without being told, but pretend not Since nobody gets out of this world alive, death should be looked upon realistically, and without fear. There is no "bliss" in ignorance which creates false hope, and the inconvenience and confusion of unfinished business.

DEAR ABBY: At a recent family wedding, my brother in law [who was under the influence of alcohol at the time], confided that he had passed on a letter addressed to his sister [my wife] in care of his office! He said it was from an old boy friend of hers.

My wife is, and has been for many years a "swinger," while I've gradually approached impotency, I regret to admit. Now for the problem: I have reason to believe that the letter set up a specific time and place for an upcoming meeting between the two of them.

Casually, I told my wife that if that were true, it was 100 per cent O. K. with me, except that I did not want to ever know about it. Have I unconsciously "regressed" to the younger generation's standards? Or am I being maturely realistic?

DEAR CONSENTING: No decent man would give his wife permission to carry on with someone else. And a mature man would certainly not say, "Go ahead, but I don't want to know about it." [P. S. and tell your brother in law with the big mouth that he not only drinks too much, he talks too much!]

from a broken bottle.-MRS. D. B. DEAR POLLY-My five-year-old was really a dawdler. She could find all sorts of things to do when she was supposed to be dressing for school or eating. No amount o nagging made her hurry and she seemed to get slower and slower. She would be tripping on untied shoe laces, have a hair brush in her hand, a jacket over her arm and forgetting her school bag on the hall table as she hurried to catch the school bus. One day, in desperation, set the portable timer and old her it would ring when time came for her to leave for school. This was placed in her room where she could see the pointer moving toward zero. Before I knew it, she came to the breakfast table, dressed and carrying the timer. She ate, brushed her teeth and was neatly ready to catch the bus before the

PROPERTY owners on Old

have this old wooden bridge replaced. The road is their only access to their homes. County and State say it is not their responsibility although the county presently is cleaning ditches along the right-of-way. Property owners say cleaning the

ditches now will cause

flooding of their lands during the rainy season but officials claim the surplus water will run off into swampland.

Officials are studying the question further but say they are up against a stonewall.

Bodies Washed Away. From Burial Ground

Associated Press Writer

FORTY FORT, Pa. (AP) - Still missing: 1,200 bodies, more or less, from floodwrecked Forty Fort Cemetery. "It's a tragedy," said Harry B. Schooley Jr., cemetery

But for still shocked residents who live near the Susquehanna River-many miles from the 195-year-old burial ground in northeastern Pennsylvania-it's a horror to find parts of bodies 12 weeks after the flooding caused by tropical storm Agnes.

The bodies were gouged out of their graves when the river swelled to record heights and tore through a 33-foot dike on "The river came roaring over the steel piling, like ocean waves, and began to lift the grass and dirt, and knocked down the tombstones like matchsticks," recalled cemetery caretaker John Novak.

"It was frightful. I saw vaults and caskets popping out of the ground. Bodies turnbled out of broken boxes. Some looked like they were standing or walking on the water."

Schooley, a bank trust officer in nearby Wilkes-Barre, said "2,000 bodies at least, and maybe 2,500, were washed away and we have recovered only 1,005," Mayor Ernst Bascomb said cleanup crews, hired by the Army Engineers, found bodies, caskets and gravestones everywhere, and used trucks, helicopters, cranes and even graves, destroying some dating back to the early 1880s, and others buried in old family plots only a few years ago. Meantime, Novak is busy restoring, righting and resinking tombstones that were knocked over.

"We have to get it back into shape," he said. "It will be a

'Greenbelt' Community Will Cost $100 Million

Preliminary master plans for a 1.450-acre residential community. "Greenbelt," will be presented this evening to the Seminole County Zoning and Planning Commission. Public hearing will be held Oct. 11.

Wilco Construction Company Orlando, said the developed worth of Greenbelt will be $100 million. It will be located south of Lake Mary Boulevard and east of Interstate 4.

The property, according to William T. Baker Jr., executive vice president of Wilco, is being acquired for approximately $5 million.

Part of the property, according to a company spokesman, lays within the boundaries of the proposed incorporation of the City of Lake Mary.

Company officials plan to meet in the near future with Lake Mary charter proponents, according to the spokesman. He said the land use plan has not been developed to the point that incorporation should be considered. However, he added, "we have not closed the door to incorporation as a part of the City of Lake Mary." He said that "this will have to be worked out."

Greenbelt will have its own water supply and sewage treatment plants. The proposed City of Lake Mary eventually would have its own water supply and sewage treatment plants.
