Domestic violence reports up

TALLAHASSEE - Domestic violence reports and arrests were up last year but related murders dropped 15.2 percent.

Gov. Lawton Chiles said in a news release Monday that the 9.4 percent increase in reports can be attributed largely to greater public awareness of domestic violence.

'An educated public is the best tool we have." Chiles said. "This awareness will bring positive change that will strengthen all our families."

Florida Department of Law Enforcement figures show police received 131,152 reports of domestic violence in 1995, an increase of 11,222 from the prior year.

Last year's arrest total was 56,931, an increase of 12,810, or 28.8 percent, indicating police were getting more aggressive about enforcement although most of the arrests were for minor charges such as simple assault.

Accountant found guilty of tax fraud

MIAMI - An accountant who allegedly filed fraudulent tax returns in order to be reimbursed $3 million was found guilty Monday and could be sent to prison for 289 years, the U.S. Attorney's Office said.

The defendant, Jeffrey Oliver, of Miami, also could be ordered to pay $14 million in fines and penalties, said U.S. Attorney Kendall Coffey.

Oliver filed fraudulent returns for himself and others. according to evidence in the trial.

Others join Fia. in tobacco settlement

JACKSON, Miss. - Mississippi and neighboring Louisiana received $200,000 checks Monday from Liggett Group as part of the first installment of the recent tobacco settlement.

Mississippi is one of five states which will share a minimum of $10 million to be doled out annually over the next nine years. Florida received its first $200,000 payment last week.

"Every penny of this $200,000 will go to the taxpayers of Mississippi. Not one penny will go to attorneys." Mississippi assistant attorney general Trey Bobinger said.

The settlement came just two days after Liggett, the nation's fifth-largest tobacco company, settled a private class-action lawsult in New Orleans.

In that case, Liggett became the first tobacco company to agree to pay any money in 40 years of smoking lawsuits.

Speed limit up to 70 on I-10

TALLAHASSEE - Motorists can now cruise at 70 miles an hour on most stretches of Interstate 10 between Jacksonville and Pensacola and not worry about getting ticketed.

But authorities vowed to pull over folks who go one mile over the new speed limit.

"Motorists need to pay attention. Troopers will be enforcing the posted speed limit," said Col. Ron Grimming, director of the Florida Highway Patrol.

About 300 miles of 1-10 became the state's first highway Monday to see speed limits increased from 65 to 70 miles an hour. The change includes all stretches of the road, except the urban areas near Jacksonville and Pensacola and work zones where the speed limit remains 55 miles an hour.

Parts of the remainder of the state's 1,472 miles of interstates and 371-mile Florida Turnpike will see their speeds changed by Memorial Day.

Transportation officials said roadway safety wouldn't change.

"We would take no action whatsoever that we thought would jeopardize the traveling public and decrease the safety on the interstate system," said Ben Watts, secretary of the Department of Transportation. "You should see very little difference."

Other sections of highways that appear likely candidates for higher speeds since a federal law abolished the national speed limit in December include:

Scientists pass milestone in S. Fla. manatee death epidemic

By LISA HOLEWA Associated Press Writer

ST. PETERSBURG - Scientists racing to find the cause of a mysterious epidemic that killed 120 manatees in the waters off Southwest Florida in the past month have passed a milestone.

Less than four months into the year. 210 of the gentle sca cows have died. The previous record number of manatee deaths was 206 in all of 1990.

Scientists delivered the news Monday as Gov. Lawton Chiles toured a laboratory where marine biologists have been working around-the-clock for weeks to pin down the cause of a pneumonia they believe killed the otherwise-healthy adults.

"The sad thing is that even if we can find out what this is, chances are, we won't be able to solve it," said Dr. Scott Wright, chief scientist for the Department of Environmental Protection. "The reality is, that whatever it is, we may not be able to cure it.

The gentle walrus-like creatures have inhabited Florida's waters for the past 45 million years, but due partly to increased motorboat traffic, their numbers have dwindled. State environmental officials counted 2.639 manatees statewide last February.

The federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta has joined state biologists looking for a cause for the pneumonia, which apparently kills the manatees quickly. The National Marine Fisherics Service is also sending a specialist to test the water and blood samples for unnatural toxins.

Test results on the blood, organs and tissue of the dead manatees are expected back this week, Wright said. Those tests should help identify and isolate any potential viruses. Scientists have prepared brain tissue samples to look for the presence of pesticides or herbicides. "It's terrible to see," Chiles said, as he stood in front of a steel table with the carcasses of two of the whiskered mammals. We're trying every way we can to find out what's happening." Four manatees found dead last weekend pushed the total since March 5 to 120 deaths in Southwest Florida.

The latest deaths, which are isolated to a region stretching from Englewood to Marco Island, concern scientists because there. are so many and they are unexplained.

At first, scientists suspected it might have been the unusually cold weather this winter, which was responsible for many of the manatee deaths in other parts of the state.

But these manatees were large and healthy adults who knew to find warmer water near area power plants, Wright said. Cold weather deaths are more likely found in very small, young manatees.

The action is the result of a unanimous vote April 2 in which the Duval County School Board approved a sex education plan that met approval of both Planned Parenthood and the Christian Coalition.

In development for the past 18 months, the new curriculum will take effect in July, when some elementary and middle schools begin the next academic year.

The lawsuit was filed in April 1992 in response to the board's adoption of Teen Aid curriculum for seventh graders and its lack of a comprehensive healthand-family life curriculum as mandated by state law.

Guns: Child killed every 92 minutes

By LAURA MYERS Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - It's not quite a doomsday clock, but the message is , one of doom for America's children: Every 92 minutes a child dies as the result of gunfire, most often murdered, a new report says.

Gunfire is the second-leading cause of death among children aged 10 to 19, and firearm deaths are rising faster among youths than adults, the Children's Defense Fund said Monday. The leading cause of death among young people remained accidents.

Eckstein said he had told a number of Mayfair Meadows residents to appear at the regular commission meeting, and planned to bring the subject up for further discussion, even though it was not on the meeting's agenda. Only a few of the residents attended the regular meeting. Near the conclusion of the meeting however. Eckstein suggested Simmons reiterate the situation.

Simmons again went through the high water levels reported at the country club monitoring station. He explained the problem caused by the ground soaking from past rainfall, and the various levels of retention ponds in the area which are under study by the St. Johns River Water Management District (SJRWMD).

Simmons said he was waiting for further information from the SJRWMD to determine if flow levels and retention ponds may be changed to help move the

The defense fund complained that government does too little to keep guns away from schools.

Congress passed a law under President Bush making it illegal to have a gun within 1,000 feet of a school, but the Supreme Court stuck it down last year. The high court said the activity being regulated was outside federal jurisdiction because it had nothing to do with interstate commerce.

'This Supreme Court decision could condemn more of our children to going to schools where there are guns," President Clinton said and promised to encourage states to ban guns from school zones.

Work together on water woes

Residential sections of Lake Mary may have appeard to be the only areas affected by high water problems. That city commission has been hearing citizen complaints and seeking to resolve some of the problems for many months.

Lake Mary isn't alone however. Pinellas, Pasco and Hernando counties also have their share of problems. For many years, Hernando and Pasco have supplied drinking water to Pinellas under a multi-county agreement. Now, because of high water problems, there appears to be more water than the three counties can handle and flooding problems have been brought to light.

Now, according to discussion at last night's Sanford City Commission meeting, Sanford has its own high water problems. Residents of Mayfair Meadows, near the Mayfair Country Club, have reported higher-than-normal water, and have voiced their complaints to several commissioners.

It's not difficult to see why we are experiencing high water problems, especially when Sanford City Manager Bill Simmons has reported a total of 92.7 inches of rain fell at check points near the golf course in 1994, compared to the average rainfall of approximately 51 inches for that area.

While 1995 was only slightly above normal, he said that the first months of 1996 are already well above normal, and we still haven't reached what we call the rainy season as yet.

One point brought out by Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith and Commissioner Whitey Eckstein last night however, is encouraging. Both reported receiving many phone calls about the problem, but they said while people were upset lover the high water problems, they were nonetheless civil and courteous in their calls.

There should be little doubt that when this year's rainy season really gets moving, we are going to see problem after problem coming to

Wage hike won't help working poor

"We can increase the carned-income tax credit by a couple billion dollars a year and, far more efficiently than raising the minimum wage, lift the working poor out of poverty."

JOSEPH PERKINS

So said Bill Clinton as he campaigned for the White House four years ago. One year later. President Clinton reiterated that raising the minimum wage was "the wrong way to raise the incomes of low-wage earners."

Now we're in an election year and Clinton has reversed himself. He now favors a higher minimum wage, he proclaimed in a recent radio address. And he slammed the Republican Congress for its refusal to support a 20-percent increase in the minimum wage (from $4,25 to $5,15 an hour) over the next two years.

Of course, if Clinton were really so concerned about Joe and Jane Lunchpail, as he professes, he could have proposed an increase in the minimum wage during his first two years in the Oval Office.

But he had a Democratic Congress then, so he didn't feel he could get as much political mileage out of raising the minimum wage. Now, however, Republicans control Capital Hill, So Clinton is trotting out the minimum-wage issue to promote class warfare.

There is another unspoken motive behind Clinton's flip-flop on the minimum wage. It's a sop to Big Labor, one of the president's favorite special interests. The union bosses don't care much about the working poor (few of whom are union members). They just see the higher minimum wage as a way to ratchet up union wages. They figure that if the government mandates a 20percent minimun-wage increase, this will have a ripple effect throughout the labor market. Employers will be under pressure to raise salaries and wages for all their workers.

This may appear, on the face of it, to be a good thing for American workers. But we need look no further back than 1990 and 1991, when the minimum wage increased 25 percent over two years (from $3.35 an hour to the present $4.25) to see the deleterious economic consequences of a government-precipitated wage shock.

In their 1992 book. Out of Work

SAHER.

Unemployment and Government in 20th Century America," Ohio University economists Richard Vedder and Lowell Gallaway note that, "The legally mandated wage explosion among unskilled workers helped create the 1990 recession, contributing to the stagnation in the economy" in 1991 and 1992.

Consider that 80 percent of those working for minimum wages are members of nonpoor households. And 20 percent of those are in households boasting yearly incomes of more than $50,000. Only 5 percent of minimum-wage earners are among the most needful category of working poor -- single parents with children.

Although Clinton and the Democrats have not acknowledged it. Congress has already taken measures to help this needful 5 percent. Indeed, as of last year, the earned-income tax credit (which amounts to a cash rebate to low-income families) was sufficient to push the income of full-time minimum-wage workers above the poverty line.

Perversely, by raising the minimum wage 20 percent over two years (which works out to nearly four times the rate of inflation). Clinton and the Democrats will actually hurt the working poor. That's because many employers will be unable to absorb these additional labor costs and will be forced to shrink their payrolls.

JACK ANDERSON Radiation poisoning

WASHINGTON – Even as the FHI captured the alleged Unabomber last week, ending a 17-year reign of terror, a new mystery was already engaging federal law enforcement.

The FBI and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission are investigating whether people were deliberately poisoned by radiation in medical laboratories across the country. No arrests have been made in any of the cases, which has raised concern in some corners about copy-cat crimes. The heightened awareness has lent new urgency to safeguarding radioactive material for medical.

"I thought the first case was weird." one source at the Nuclear Regulatory Commission told us. "I thought the second one was ominous. And after this other one. I think the world ought to know. about it and look very carefully at it. The FBI is already hunting for a mad scientist who deliberately poisoned a researcher at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology last August. A similar case arose last June at the National Cancer Institute in the forefront.

People are going to voice their complaints to everyone. Developers will be blamed for building on lots too low for high water levels. Cities and counties will be blamed for authorizing development in these areas.

The St. Johns River Water Management District will be blamed, as it already has on some occasions, for allowing certain developments to be created, as well as failing to predict proper high water levels, and failing to offer financial support when problems can be resolved by spending money.

This isn't going to be an easy problem to solve. Before we have fewer yards, roadways and neighborhoods flooded, we can expect more to be flooded.

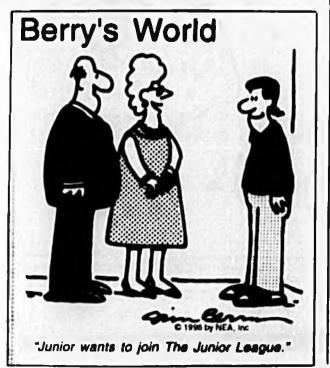

There is only so much water the earth under our feet can hold. Once it becomes soaked, it cannot absorb more. This is where we are at now.

Only an extremely dry season is going to give us any help. Then, the help will only last until we have another unusually rainy year.

How to solve it, we can't answer. We don't expect our various governments or groups will find a complete answer either.

All we can hope for is that people continue to realize that this problem won't be resolved overnight. Citizens are suffering from high water, but even so, we hope they can be understanding.

Fighting between one another won't work. The only way any improvements can be made is to work together, citizens with governments, and governments with other governments.

MUNIUN NUMUNAURE

Dole to use foreign policy

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., is planning to launch his foreign policy campaign against President Clinton in late April with a speech charging that the administration's Asia policy - like Clinton himself -- is "vacillating," "indecisive," "platitudinous" and "undependable."

Barring any disasters that can be pinned on Clinton. Dole advisers admit that the GOP presidential candidate will not emphasize substantive policy differences with Clinton in foreign affairs -- the truth is, there aren't that many -- but rather will attack his management style and use foreign policy as a metaphor for Clinton's character.

Adjectives being tossed around among Dole advisers to tack onto Clinton via foreign policy include "passive," "reactive," "ad hoc," "un-strategie" and "inconsistent."

Meantime, Dole's advisers hope to paint an image of their man as "strong," "resolute," "consistent," "coherent," "credible" and "a steady hand on the tiller," says Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz, who could end up as Dole's secretary of State.

Conventional wisdom has it that, if elected, Dole would tap Gen. Colin Powell for the State Department, but some Dole advisers speculate that if Powell turns Dole down for vice president and Dole wins the presidency anyway, he'll turn to someone with whom he feels comfortable for State. McCain, contrary to rumor, does not want to be secretary of Defense.

On the Democratic side of the campaign, the White House paints Clinton as the "peacemaker" who has improved the terms of international economics, fostered democracy and diminished the threat of nuclear weapons in the world.

The Clinton campaign is gearing up to persuade the public that, despite a wobbly start. Clinton has established a strong record of leadership in troubled arenas like Bosnia, the Middle East, Russia, Haiti and the U.S.-Japan trade relationship.

A byproduct of the tragic death of Commerce Secretary Ron Brown in Croatia is that it calls attention to his tireless efforts to promote American business around the world.

When mourning for Brown ends, Democrata surely will use his memory to rebuke Republicans for trying to close down the Commerce Department -- part of a new tendency in the GOP, Democrats say, to pull back from U.S. world leadership. White House aides have little negative to say

White House aides have little negative to say about Dole on the foreign policy front except that he has joined other Republicans in trying to cut back the government's foreign affairs budget and, as a senator, lacks Clinton's hands-on record. "Age is not experience," one aide jibed. The truth of the matter is that there aren't vast differences between Clinton and Dole on foreign policy. Both are internationalists at a time when isolationism is gaining ground. Both are free traders. Both respect the need to pursue hard-headed U.S. national interests while still expressing idealistic American values.

Neither has invented a new U.S. grand strategy for the post-Cold War era or even a regional "doctrine." Both are inclined to grapple with issues on a case-by-case basis. Still, a presidential campaign is under way and the two candidates need to fight, so Dole will open the attack with a speech charging that Clinton has no overriding Asia strategy and that his inconsistency has angered and confused major powers like Japan and China.

The speech is being drafted with input from a committee headed by McCain that includes former State Department official (and Dole Senate aide) Richard Armitage. Senate aide Steve Berry. House Appropriations Committee staff director Jim Dyer. former Pentagon policy chief Paul Wolfowitz, and former State Department Undersecretary Robert Zoellick.

According to McCain, China understands strength and consistency, but Clinton has demonstrated the opposite by changing his mind on whether to allow Taiwan's president into the United States and by saying he favors stable relations with China while allowing various officials to offend China with threats of sanctions over trade and human rights infractions.

When asked how Dole would act differently toward a country that uses slave labor, forces women to have abortions, cheats on trade agreements, and sells nuclear materials to rogue nations. McCain said that Dole would not ignore such problems, but would base his policy on a "clear and unambiguous strategy."

Clinton aldes counter that any president will find it difficult to deal with China, and they point out that it's congressional Republicans (though not Dole) who are pushing independence for Taiwan, which China regards as a cause for war. A new mystery was already engaging federal law enforcement.

those cases, it's uncertain whether the latest incident involves negligence or something more netarious.

The NRC recently dispatched a special inspection team to Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to look into an "internal contamination event" involving a nuclear medicine technology student. While on a two-week rotation at Mallinekrodt Medical, a nuclear pharmacy, she was attempting to leave an area where radioactive materials are handled when she set off a radiation monitor.

How she received a dose of radio isotopes equivalent to the amount a patient would receive undergoing a medical test remains a mystery. Although no adverse health consequences are expected, the nature of this case strikes some officials as a reminder of the growing vulnerability of health care workers and the public.

An NRC spokesman denies that any foul play was involved, and doesn't believe that it parallels the previous cases. But he refused to rule out the possibility. "I don't think its a very useful question to ask." said this spokesman. "We have no reason to believe there's foul play involved. ... It appears to be an accidental oral intake." He added that the NRC has taken steps -- to the chagrin of labs -- of tightening security and control of lab material.

Other NRC sources aren't as sanguine. "The significance of this is buried." said one official. "This is the third time it happened, whether it's deliberate or an accident, and something weird is going on." Ten deliberate acts of radiation poisoning have been reported to the NRC since 1978, according to the journal The Scientist.

By far the most celebrated case has been the chilling incident at the National Cancer Institute, where a water cooler and a researcher's Chinese food were contaminated with radioactive phosphorous-32. Maryann Wenli Ma, a scientist who was 17 weeks pregnant, was the most badiy contaminated of the 27 people affected in what her lawyers say is "the largest reported dose of internal radiation contamination since Karen Silkwood."

Although the National Institutes of Health, of which the NCI is a part, has tightened its internal controls, there is only so much that even the best labs can do to safeguard lethal material.

Dole will attack his management style and use foreign policy as a metaphor for Clinton's character.

The tip reportedly came in just before 8 p.m. Friday, even before the little girl was reported missing to police. They first thought the person told them, "I left Jessica off at the chibliouse." Antoszewski said it was later shown that the wording was slightly garbled, that the caller actually said "I teft dessica off at the pump house."

Antoszewski said it is actually a pumping station, located in a narrow one lane driveway off

Montgomery Road. "The road is so narrow you probably couldn't turn around to drive out very easily," he added, "so we also need to hear from anyone who may have seen a vehicle pullingout of the area at approximately 7:30 to 7:40 Friday evening.

After the police dispatch went out regarding Jessica's diappearance and the phone call, many officers responded.

Although many did not know the family, more than 50 neighbors joined officers and a police dog to search for Jessica. A Seminole County deputy. who had joined in the search. reported finding the body of the 9-year old girl at the public pump station 51.

Officers said the girl's body was found completely dressed and preliminary investigations showed no obvious trauma to the body.

An autopsy was performed Saturday, but results were inconclusive. Antoszewski said he didn't know as of this morning if all of the tests had been completed or not. Police say they have no major suspects at this time, and no leads. Jessica's mother, Peggy Knott, said she realized Jessica was missing when she called her for dinner at about 7 p.m. and the girl didn't come home. Her father, Kevin Knott, 44, arrived home from doing errands at about 7:30 p.m., she said, and began searching for Jessica with their 10-year-old son, Kevin.

Yesterday, following lengthy conversations, police said they have no reason to believe the parents were involved in the disappearance.

According to a bulletin released yesterday by Altamonte Springs police, investigators are seeking any person who may have been in the SR-436 and Douglas Avenue area between 7:30 p.m. and 8:10 p.m. Friday night. They are urged to phone the Altamonte Tip Line at 830-3824.

Leaked and leaked again

WASHINGTON — A week ago. America never heard of Theodore Kaczynski. Now the country knows all about him: his rickety bicycle, the contents of his cabin, his telltale typewriter, his travels to California, his body odor.

Officially, none of this came to you from your government. Some of it came from acquaintances and yearbooks and the local librarian and professors who knew Kaczynski. But much came from the government unofficially — from "federal law-enforcement officials" and officials "who spoke on condition of anonymity."

People in the government have leaked and leaked again.

"And I think it's criminal," says David Goldberger, an Ohio State University law professor and former legal director of the American Civil Liberties Union in Illinois. "This is a recurring catastrophe in our legal system."

As a spokeswoman for the press, Jane Kirtley, executive director of the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, said she cannot fault journalists for getting information wherever it can be found. But as a lawyer, she said, "I deplore law enforcement complaining about the press printing unsubstantiated rumors on the one hand while handing them out on the other."

She said journalists have a duty to scrutinize information from sources who will not allow themselves to be identified and to make it clear that the suspect has been found guilty of nothing.

Cabin yields more clues

HELENA. Mont. — As the investigation into the Unabomber's attacks stretched across the country, the tiny wilderness cabin of suspect Theodore Kaczynski yielded more clues.

A second live bomb that had the same design as one used in a fatal Unabomber attack was found in the isolated cabin near Lincoln, The New York Times reported today.

But two federal sources told The Associated Press that only one live bomb, along with a partially assembled one agents had described in an arrest warrant, had been found as of Monday night.

The names of some of the Unabomber's victims also were discovered in documents in the cabin, The Washington Post reported today. Quoting unidentified senior law enforcement sources, the l'ost said the names were not in list form but found in written material that was not described.

Time-honored tradition

FORT MYER, Va. — The rite begins in darkness. In a red-brick stable, majestic white and black steeds are washed, groomed and trimmed with newly shined brass and buffed hand-tooled leather.

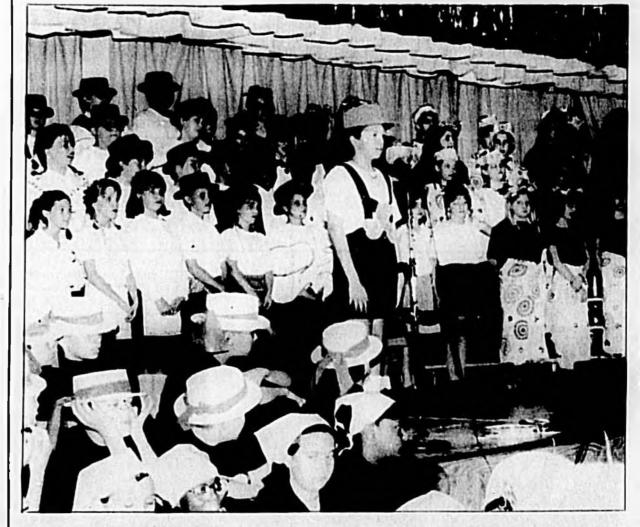

As the sun rises, white-gloved soldiers stand at attention, and a casket holding the remains of one of America's leaders, heroes or veterans is placed atop a horse-led black caisson. The clip-clop, clip-clop taps out a time-honored march, little changed since men first fell in battle.

"The only thing that changes is the faces." said Pete Cote, blacksmith for 26 years in the Caisson Platoon, the Army's only home company that "escorts fallen comrades" at Arlington National Cemetery.

The ritual will be repeated Wednesday when Commerce Secretary Ron Brown, an Army veteran, is buried at Arlington. Brown was killed in a plane crash last Wednesday while on a trade mission to the former Yugoslavia. Thirty-four others also died, all but two of them Americans.

Report: O.J. Simpson was deceptive

LOS ANGELES — Two days after his ex-wife and her friend were slashed to death, O.J. Simpson took a surprise liedetector test while on medication and scored badly on it, KCBS-TV reported.

We are the world

The young people at Lake Mary Elementary School recently celebrated the differences in the world that draw people together. Dressed in the native costumes of a variety of countries, the kids sang songs, did dances and told stories from other countries as a part of their multicultural celebration.

the turn of the century, Old Faithful was highly dependable in hourly eruptions, to the minute. In the past 25 years, huge geyser has been timed at anyto 77 minutes.

The report did not cover what questions Simpson was asked, but said he scored lower than a minus 6, which is considered deceptive.

The station reported that Simpson and longtime friend Robert Kardashian drove to polygraph examiner Edward I. Gelb's office on June 14, 1994, at the urging of defense lawyer Robert Shapiro.

Simpson believed he was going for medical tests and was angered when Shapiro arrived and told him about the test, KCBS said.

Simpson agreed to take the test, however, and when he scored badly he offered to take another, KCBS said. He was advised not to, partly because he was on medication, the TV station reported.

A jury acquitted Simpson of murder last October.

Shapiro did not immediately return a call to his office for comment. Gelb refused to confirm or deny giving the test.

Attorney Robert Baker, who is representing Simpson in a wrongful-death lawsuit filed by the families of Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman, declined to discuss the test. But he said Simpson hasn't wavered in denying that he killed his ex-wife and Goldman.

"He has been totally consistent from June 13, 1994, when he gave a statement to police and (over) nine days of testimony and deposition," Baker said.

Daniel Petrocelli, a lawyer for the Goldman family, said the results of the lie-detector test don't really matter to the lawsuit.

"They (the jurors) will hear for the first time Mr. Simpson's testimony in this case," Petrocelli said. "They will be the ultimate judges of whether Mr. Simpson told the truth and whether he killed Ron and Nicole."

Military planes on standy

MONROVIA, Liberia — U.S. military planes were on standby across the border today, waiting to hear if they were needed to evacuate some 470 Americans from the fighting that has enguised this West African capital.

Since Saturday. Monrovia has seen the flercest fighting between government troops and warring rebel factions in three years.

The shelling and gunfire has left bodies strewn in the streets and forced more than 15,000 civilians to seek refuge between the high walls of the U.S. Embassy compound.

"We hear rocket-propelled-grenade fire, mortar fire, heavy-arms fire," embassy spokesman Dudley Sims said Monday, before fighting subsided for the night.

Rams get 'Jasoned'

Lyman trio of Jason's key to win

By GARY COATOAM Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - Jason Shipley. Jason Gronert and Jason Dickey were each 2-for-3 at the plate Monday to lead Lyman past Lake Mary 8-4 in Seminole Athletic Conference and Class 6A. District 4 action at Lyman high school.

"We had some timely hits, and that was the difference in the game." said Lyman coach Bob McCollough. "Danny Bogeajis has been off for two weeks, but he had good velocity on his pitches. Overall, this was a well played game.'

Bogcails, who missed two weeks with a strained back, scattered six hits over seven innings while striking out five and walking four to improve to 5-2 on the season.

Carey Hobbs drew a lead off walk for the Rams to start the first inning, took second on a sacrifice bunt by Jimmy Smith, and took third as Nick Sosa reached first base on an error. Luis Rivera singled to right field one out later to acore Hobbs and Sosa to give the Rams a 2-0 lead.

Clyde Chancy reached first base on an error to start the bottom of the first for Lyman, but was forced out at second on a fielder's choice by Kevin Naas. Shipley followed with a single to move Naas to second, and the runners moved to second and thid on an error.

Naas pulled Lyman within 2-1 when he scored on a balk that moved Shipley to third. Gronert followed with a walk, and took third when Dickey doubled to plate Shipley and knot the tally 2-2. Gronert and Dickey gave the Greyhounds a 4-2 lead as they scored on an error that allowed Freddie Young to reach first.

Lake Mary inched within 4.3 in the top of the third inning. Shawn St. Dennis reached second base on an error with two-outs, and scored when Rivera followed by reaching first base on the second consecutive Lyman error of the inning. Rivera advanced to second on a steal, but Bogcajis ended the threat by striking out the next batter he faced.

Joe Sustaita had a lead-off single for Lyman in the fourth inning. advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt by Randy Jonda, and scored on an RBI single by Chaney. Chancy stole second base, and reached third on a ground out by Naas for the second out. Shipley then singled to score Chancy. Gronert doubled to plate Shipley, and Dickey singled to drive in Gronert to give Lyman an 8-3 cushion.

Nick Sosa drew a one-out walk in the Lake Mary fifth inning, took second on a wild pitch, was awarded third on a balk, and scored on an infield hit by Rivera. Rivera took second on a passed ball, but Bogcajis ended yet another Rams threat with a strikeout. Lake Mary had runners at second and third with two outs in the sixth inning. but Bogeajis ended the threat with a strikeout for the third time in four innings.

"We just didn't make plays or get the hits when we needed to." said Lake Mary coach Allan Tuttle. "Nick Alexander didn't have his best stuff on the mound for us, and Lyman is a good team."

Alexander, gave up 10 hits over six innings for Lake Mary while allowing two walks and recording four strikeouts. Rivera was 2-for-3 for the Rams with three RBI, and a sacrifice bunt. Sosa, Young and Buky each collected a hit for Lake Mary, while Robert Vessey had a hit scored and two RBI to help lead the Greyhounds to an 8-4 victory in SAC baseball action Monday night.

but Dickey also went 2-for-3, including a double, a run and two sacrifice bunts and Smith added a sacrifice bunt.

Youth work keeps her always sharing

by Buban Wenner Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Her profession of a strong faith in the Lord has been the motivating force behind the volunteer efforts of Shari Brown. Her many endeavors with the youth in the church she attends keeps this single woman continually sharing with others.

She beamed as she announced her upcoming marriage in August to her flance, Brian Moye. Numerous details have still needed attention but Brown has not let her activity with volunteering suffer.

When asked why she volunteers, Brown com-mented,"Because God tells me to. In working with the youth events occur that confirm it. It feels right to do this. It's just another way to evangelize."

With over a year now invested in the lives of the young people Brown has discovered that between two to 10 hours a week are spent sharing with them. From chaperoning at plays, becoming a driver for events or the others miscellaneous duties. Brown "keeps moving for the kids and the Lord."

Brown spoke excitedly about an upcoming event in which the youth will participate. "April 21 the group will be involved in IMPROV," she said. "It's a kind of competition in groups. Each chooses a number. The kids have to come up with skits after a random drawing of numbers. They perform the skit based on the subject they are given. The people can tell them to stop. rewind, fast forward or slow play. It's a lot of fun."

Numerous days have been spent working diligently on car washes. "We try to do the car washes to raise money for donations to speakers that we want to come to the church. We also use it for charitles and mission trips,"

Many look forward to GYC, Great Youth Celebration, according to Brown. The event takes place once a year and resembles a large youth rally.

pany." Brown has been a resident of Sanford for 17 years. She has been employed at Performance Mazda for one year as the head service and parts cashier.

Selecting ground covers

By definition, a ground cover is any low-growing plant that can be used to cover an area in the landscape. Even though turfgrass is also a ground cover, the term usually refers to plants, other than turfgrass, that can be used to cover specific areas where turfgrass is not wanted or will not grow well. Why ground covers? Because turfgrasses do not grow well in shaded areas or where the soil is too wet or too dry, other plants need to replace the turfgrass in those areas to avoid the proliferation of weeds. Ground covers also reduce the high maintenance costs of turfgrasses, which require relat tively high levels of fertilizer, mowing, and supplemental li-rigation. Most ground covers require little or no application of pesticides, but turfgrasses can be severely affected by pests and diseases that require the use of pesticides to control them. Many mund cover plants ad the landscape with their flowers or colored structures; certainly, a more pleasant view than the green color of turfgrass. Wedelia and daylily are very good choices because of their beautiful flowers. Carolina yellow Jessamine, liriope and mondo grass add variation to the shades of green to your landscape, and the dwarf confederate lasmine grow well in full sun or shade, most plants require full sun or partial shade for good growth and development. English ivy, pothos, liriope and mondo grass grow well in some shade, but juniper, lantana, beach morning glory and society garlic need full sun for normal growth.

Soil moisture: Lappa, Carolina yellow jessamine and selaginella can grow in soils IVALV inipe viable seeds because their seedlings will become weeds for the ground cover. Such is the case of trees like golden-rain. cherry laurel and camphor tree. Remember that ground covers themselves can become weeds in your yard by invading areas where they were not intended to grow. Once the ground cover is well established, weed competition is minimal.

Planting ground covers: Loosen the soil and remove foreign objects from the area, to be planted by the ground cover. A simple pH test should be performed to establish the acidity or alkalinity of the soil and to correct it, if necessary, according to the plants to be used as ground covers. It is a sound practice to add organic matter to the soil to improve its characteristics. A layer of about 2-3 inches of organic matter incorporated to a depth of 6-10 inches should be down weeds and avoid soil erosion, space plants in such a way as to cover the area as soon as possible. The planting distance will depend on the species of plant used. Individual planting holes should be two to three times the diameter of the root ball and as deep as the root ball. Newly set plants should be protected from drying conditions until their root system becomes established. After 4-6 weeks, fertilize the plants with a complete fertilizer such as 6-6-6 or 12-4-8 at a rate of 1 pound of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet. Use a slow release formulation if possible for a better utilization of your fertilizer. Three to four applications per year are recommended.

The Kiwanis Club of Sanford holds its noon luncheon meetings every Wednesday at the Sanford Civic Center, North Sanford Avenue at the lakefront. Visiting Kiwanians are welcome. For information call Walt Smith, 323-5088.

Dancing for seniors

The Over 50 Dance Club dance is held every Wednesday, from 2:30 - 4:30 p.m. at the Sanford Civic Center. Live music by the Deltonians 11-piece band. Donation $2.00.

Club takes the lead

L.E.A.D.$ to Success, a club formed to share business connections, will meet 7:30 a.m. Wednesday at Pebble Creek Apartments clubhouse, 780 Creekwater Terrace, Lake Mary. One of the focal points of the meeting is to exchange business cards. Only one member of a particular type of business or profession is allowed to join.

For more information, contact Linda Short at 327-2160.

Another escape the group has planned is for Georgia to the Olympic games. "WE will have a coffee and donut shop and refreshments there," she said. "There will be groups from other churches that will participate too.'

Regarding mission trips, Brown added,"The group has traveled to several states and the Dominican Republic to evangelize and help rebuild churches."

A "lock-out" was also named as an upcoming activity that is still in the discussion stages. "At a lock-out we stay out and go out and evangelize to others in the specially when flowering. Ground covers selection: Selecting plants to be used as ground covers will depend on the conditions that exist in your yard. Light intensity. soil moisture conditions, and hardiness zone, are some of the most important conditions that need to be considered when selecting ground covers.

marigold and lantana grow. best in dry, sandy soils, requiring only occasional supplemental watering for good growth. Placing ground covers in the wrong environment, will result in failure to establish the plants and generally plants will develop disease or insect problems.

Hardiness sones: A common mistake is to try tropical plants that will continue to live during mild winters but with a hard freeze they will be killed or severely damaged. Other plants like winter creeper require chilling temperatures and therefore do not do well in southern areas of Florida.

Kittens and cars spell DEAR ABBY: I hope my letter will spare someone the sorrow of losing a little kitten. During the night, my cat's three kittens climbed atop the tires of my car. As I approached the car, I noticed a pair of tiny paws on my left rear tire and moved the kitten to safety. Upon checking the other wheel wells, I found the two other kittens, each one on top of a tire. Unfortunately, while I was moving the others to safety, the first kitten returned, unseen by me, and resumed its perch. He's at the vet now, in very guarded condition, and may not make it.

I have seen numerous other kittens on top of tires since. It appears to be a common practice with kittens. They should be taught that cars are things to fear and avoid, no matter how inviting they may be. So, as cruel as it may seem, if the weather is warm, I hose down the wheel wells whenever I see a kitten there. If it's cold, I just fetch them out and keep my fingers crossed. I've heard of grown cats climbing into motor compartments in the wintertime, but I've never heard or read about kittens resting on tires. I'd bet more kittens are killed this way than cats seeking warmth from a motor. Please say a word or two about it; it may spare a lot of grief.

THE HON. H. HAYWOOD TURNER III, COLUMBUS, GA. DEAR JUDGE TURNER: a for the warning

DEAR ABBY: I am disappointed with your response to a letter signed

"Old-Fashioned Grandma."

I've been reading your column for years and usually your responses are pretty open-minded, but the fact that you agreed that adult nudity in the presence of young children was cause for concern shocked me.

A father showering with his 3-year-old daughter (as I do with my son) is completely natural and teaches children that the human body is nothing to hide. Keeping "boy stuff" and "girl stuff" separate at such a young age only instills sexual stereotypes and causes sexual hang-ups in adult life. There is nothing sexual or wrong in showering with a young child.

As for bathroom privacy, my children know that a closed door means 'Mommy wants privacy" (or whoever is in there), but they often walk in when I leave the door open.

You should have told "Old-Fashioned" that "Jimmy" showering with Mommy (or "Jenny" with Daddy) is totally natural. Today's parents are trying to raise their children without the hang-ups that they have had to overcome from their "old-fashioned"

upbringing. DISAPPOINTED IN TORONTO, CANADA

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: The letters I received from reshow your attitude to be far more popular than mine — expe-cially with the parents who are currently raising children. Ton whacks with a wet disper ar then mi

DEAR ABBY: When I bought a new exercise bike recently, a friend asked me if she could have my eld one. I gave it to her thinking she would use it.

After a short while, I found out that she had sold it. Am I wrong in thinking she should have asked me if I wanted it back? Or at least offered to split the money she get from selling it? I'm really having a big argument about this with my husband. NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: When you gave your friend the bills, it was fave to do whatever do chose to do with it. The meany she received from the sale of the bike was also here to do whatev-or she chose to do with it. Your bushand is right.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 57-year-old white male, I was recently diagnosed as a diabetic because my sugar count was 215. I was put on a 1,000-calorie and my count is staying at around 115. I did not exhibit any symptoms of diabetes: this was found during a routine examination. If I maintain my diet and keep my sugar level in the 110 range. will the condition get worse? What are my chances of becoming insulindependent?

DEAR READER: Diabetes is not like pregnancy, which you either have or you don't. Many people have "prediabetes" or a diabetic tendency, meaning that they can become fullfledged diabetics if they don't take care of themselves by losing excess weight and restricting dietary sugar.

As long as such people follow their doctor's advice, the diabetes will not become a problem; that is, the blood sugar won't climb into the abnormal range. As a general rule, the fasting blood sugar should not exceed about 120 milligrams per deciliter.

The story you describe is fairly standard. You have an elevated blood sugar that fell to normal once you shaped up. As long as you continue to follow your doctor's instructions, you should have no trouble and your diabetic tendency may not progress. I do not believe that you will ever require insulin, although you may, as you get older, become a candidate for antidiabetes pill therapy, oral medication that stimulates the pancreas to produce more insulin.

You are fortunate that your physician was able to diagnose your prediabetic state before you developed serious consequences, such as acidosis or vascular problems, sometimes leading to heart attack. If you stay on the straight and narrow, your health should remain good.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Are there any risks in taking laxatives on a daily basis?

DEAR READER: Indeed, there are. Many loxatives actually change howel function, necessitating increased dosages. Therefore, while laxatives are not technically addicting, the body may come to rely on them. Also, chronic laxative use may lead to vitamin deficiencies and mal nutrition.

It makes more sense to identify the cause of the constipation (and treat it) than to use laxatives frequently. For example, bowel tumors, liver disease, thyroid disorders, physical inactivity, insufficient fluid intake, and certain drugs (such as narcotics) commonly cause constipation and should be properly addressed by the appropriate medical professional.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Quite some time ago you stated that the long-term use of Xanax may cause memory problems and cognitive disorders in some diet, lost 20 pounds in seven weeks, patients. I need more information on the negative effects of long-term use of this drug.

DEAR READER: Basically, that's it.

Xanax, a prescription anti-anxiety medication, is safe and useful for shortterm or intermittent therapy. However, long-term use can lead to dependence and a plethora of complications, including fatigue, memory impairment, depression, confusion, cognitive disorders, and behavioral abnormalities (such as hostility and rage).

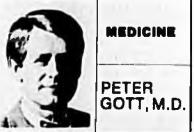

Also, patients who regularly take

Xanax can experience convulsions if they suddenly stop the medicine; consequently, such patients must slowly taper the dose over several weeks. Xanax, like many other mood-altering drugs, should be parsimoniously prescribed under strict medical supervision. © 1906 NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN

Telling you what he thinks

By Phillip Alder

Do you like authors who tell you what they think you should be doing, often with no discussion of the pros and cons of their proposals? If so, you might like Matthew Granovetter's latest book, "Bridge Additions 96" (Granovetter Books; 800-525-4718; $15.95 p.p.).

This 144-page book is almed at seri-ous partnerships. It contains many good ideas, and a few with which I don't agree at all!

This deal highlights a useful declarer-play principle. West leads his fourth-highest heart against your contract of three no-trump, East playing the queen. What is your plan of campaign?

HOROSCOPE

Several unusual opportunities to improve your financial position might pop up from time to time in the year ahead. Bringing outsiders into the picture could decrease their effects.

Pyrific victories. Examine your objectives carefully because you will not want to pay too large a price to get what you think you want. Aries, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Make sure to state your zodiac sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Consider progressive methods and techniques seriously today rather than adhering to

After winning the first trick with the heart king, you will have to broach the diamonds. However, if you lose a diamond trick, there is a danger of a lethal spade switch by the defenders.

One line is to play a club to dummy's queen, followed by the diamond jack. Even if that finesse loses to West's queen, he might not be able to attack spades with effect.

In the book, Granovetter says that the best line technically is to cash the diamond ace before playing a diamond to dummy's 10. Here, though, if West discards a heart on the second diamond. East will switch to spades for sure. True, West might throw a club as he has the spade ace as an entry. But East might find the spade switch anyway

Granovetter recommends playing a diamond to dummy's 10 immediately, without cashing the ace first. He points out that it will be harder for East to find the spade switch as he
