Special Prosecutor To Be Sought In DUI Case

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole-Brevard State Attorney's Office will ask the governor to appoint a special prosecutor to handle the case of an assistant state attorney charged Saturday with driving under the influence and leaving the scene of an accident. It was reported today.

Joe Flood, 27, of 1805-B Landing Drive, Sanford, a former DUI prosecutor, was arrested by Sanford police after his car reportedly was involved in a minor accident in the parking lot of the Buccaneer Lounge at the Cavalier Motor Inn, 3200 S. Orlando Drive. The incident happened early Saturday. Flood was stopped at 12:34 a.m. about a mile from the lounge and charged with leaving the scene of an accident and DUI.

Thornton Williams, assistant general counsel for Gov. Bob Graham, said today that if a special prosecutor is requested by the Seminole office it will take up to 5 days for the governor to select a prosecutor and assign him to the case.

Williams said the request for a special prosecutor is usually submitted after the local state attorney's decides that a question of impropriety could arise if he prosecuted the case. While the initial request can be made by telephone, he said the state will want a request in writing.

Williams said the state attorney has to ask the governor to appoint the special prosecutor because each of the 20 state attorneys in Florida can only prosecute cases in their districts. They do not have the authority to prosecute in another district without special appointment. Williams said a judge can also appoint a special prosecutor but he said the courts have not appointed a special prosecutor over a governor's refusal.

The purpose of appointing a special prosecutor is not to assure unbiased prosecution of a defendant who is associated with the office. It is done to avoid prevent the appearance of a conflict in the mind of the public, Williams said.

Williams said the number of conflicts being reported by the 20 state attorney districts are increasing for two reasons. He said more courts are appointing special prosecutors, those not involving the governor's interventions, and because the number of people working in state attorneys offices are increasing.

He said when an office has 175 attorneys and 250 support personnel the chances of someone working in an office being charged with a crime, or being a witness in a case, goes up creating more potential conflicts of interest.

In the last 18 months, the governor has appointed 250 special prosecutors, Williams said.

Pipebomb Victim Needs Artificial Skin Grafts

Boy To Be Sent To Burn Center

ORLANDO (UPI) — Paul Edward Jewell, critically injured in a pipebomb explosion Christmas Day, will require extensive artificial skin grafts to survive and is tentatively scheduled to be transferred to a Shriner's burn treatment center in Cincinnati today. There is a 20 percent chance doctors will be able to save his right leg.

The 11 year-old suffered burns over 60 percent of his body and his leg was badly mangled when the bomb exploded as he filled a borrowed bicycle's tire with air Tuesday at a Shop & Go convenience store in Lockhart.

No arrests have been made. Police were using a laser to search fragments of the bomb for fingerprints. Orange County Sheriff Lawson Lamar said there could be "no possible motive for such a senseless crime."

"It was totally unprovoked," added sheriff's investigator Carl Head.

The Shop & Go chain is offering a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the bomber and Criminaline is offering an additional $1,000. Funds for contributions to help pay for his medical treatment have been set up at Sun Bank and Pan American Bank.

Donations may be sent to "The Paul Jewell Fund" at either of the following addresses: Sun Bank, P.O. Box 3833, Orlando, Fla. 32802-9990, attention D. Carlson; or Pan American Bank, P.O. Box 2953, Orlando, Fla. 32802.

Paul underwent surgery at Orlando Medical Center Wednesday and was listed in critical but stable condition.

"The blood vessels were re-connected, the flow is good and there is a pulse in the leg," hospital spokesman Cynthia Sucher said. "There is a 20 percent chance it will be saved."

Sucher said the most dangerous problem was the burns, which covered Jewell's legs, thighs, chest and arms.

"According to the doctors there is a 50-50 chance he will make it," she said. "The leg is not life-threatening. The burns are."

Hospital officials said Paul would require several skin grafts, but was burned so extensively that his own skin could not be used.

"There's not enough skin to harvest," said hospital spokeswoman Ina Albert. "They're probably going to have to use some sort of synthetic skin."

She said Paul was tentatively scheduled to be transferred this afternoon to the Shriner's Hospital.

Lake Mary Relents On Water Charges

Offers To Pay Sanford For New Hook-Ups

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

The city of Lake Mary, prohibited from granting new water connections to developers, has agreed to forgive and forget past quibbling with the city of Sanford in order to get the water flowing again.

Lake Mary City Manager Kathy Rice said today, at the direction of Mayor Dick Fess, she has made a proposal to Sanford officials agreeing to their demands for impact fees in exchange for more hook-ups to the city's water lines. Any final agreement would have to be approved by the city commission, however.

Under the proposal, Lake Mary would pay Sanford $504 for each of the 200 new customers Sanford would take on, Mrs. Rice said. The money would be kept in an escrow account and given back to Lake Mary if the city's proposed $1.4 million water plant is operational by December 1985.

The Lake Mary City Commission has staunchly opposed the idea of paying impact fees to Sanford, but the back-log of construction projects waiting for water connections forced it to change its mind, Mrs. Rice said.

According to Department of Environmental Regulation rules, a developer cannot get a permit to build until he or she has a source of water to hook up to, Mrs. Rice said. In addition to the DER hurdle, some developers can't get loans because of the water moratorium.

"Some people who have approved site plans can't get money. What bank is going to give them loans if they can't get water?"

If Sanford agrees to the proposal, the added hook-ups will keep Lake Mary from being overloaded by customers standing in line for water when the plant opens, Mrs. Rice said.

With the recent bond approval of the plant by the Farmers Home Administration, Mrs. Rice said Sanford knows Lake Mary is serious about its water problem and will not be a burden on its water lines.

As an added gesture of "good will," Mrs. Rice said Lake Mary has agreed not to pursue its lawsuit against Sanford and eventually drop it Dec. 31, 1985.

Sanford City Manager Warren "Pete" Knowles could not be reached for comment, but Mrs. Rice said he sent her a "nice" letter expressing his willingness to work out the water dispute.

"We really want to work things out with Sanford," Mrs.

Homeless Kids Feted at Special Christmas Party

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Lynn and Joseph Senkovich of Sweetwater Club gave each other an unusual Christmas present this year. Instead of exchanging gifts they put on Christmas party at their home Wednesday for approximately 50 boys and girls from the Great Oaks Village in Orange County.

It was a three-hour party that neither the hosts or their guests will soon forget. The children, who ranged from 6-17 in age, each received three presents from Santa Claus, who arrived in a horse drawn carriage filled with gifts.

The party took place under a big tent in the backyard of the Senkovichs' home at 200 Grandview place and a large sign over the entrance greeted them. The young guests were entertained by a clown doing magic tricks and balloon tricks, a live band, a break dancing contest, and were served a sit-down turkey dinner with all the fixings.

Many of the Senkovichs' neighbors joined in the party, pairing off with the children as foster parents for the day and offering their loving attention. Many of the children have been abused or abandoned by their own parents.

Among the special guests were Renegades quarterback Jerry Golsteyn, Senator Paula Hawkins and children's author, Robert Newton Peck, a neighbor who donated one of his books for a prize.

Local ministers and priests also came and told stories to the children, Senkovich said, and Dr. Michael Butler, area surgeon gave a "Christmas pep talk" to the kids.

"The kids had a great time, and we loved it," said Senkovich, 31, who moved to Seminole County in October from Daytona Beach. "This was a first, but hopefully it will be a continuing thing to be held on Dec. 26 each year."

Senkovich said his own children, ages 5, 3 and 1½ years, are fortunate and have everything. "They had a wonderful time. They enjoyed having the other children there and played with them and called them 'our brothers and sisters.'"

"My wife and I can go to the store any day of the year and buy what we want. This was very special. We could hardly wait for them to come, it was like being a kid again," said Senkovich, a real estate developer, whose firm, Sencorp has business interests nationwide.

The Great Oaks Village is run by Orange County and serves as a temporary shelter for dependent children while their cases are being processed by the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services. There are 100 children housed at the Village, but half of them were visiting elsewhere.

"I've never seen better behaved children," said their host. "they were all ladies and gentlemen."

New Year Closings

State and Federal government offices and city halls in Altamonte Springs, Casselberry, Lake Mary, Longwood, Oviedo, and Winter Springs will be closed Tuesday for the New Year's Day holiday, while Sanford city offices and Seminole County and school board offices will be closed both Monday and Tuesday.

Banks and Post Offices will be closed on Tuesday, Seminole County students will be enjoying the last day of their winter holiday before returning to school on Wednesday.

There will be no refuse collection in Sanford Monday or Tuesday and the regular schedule will be resumed on Thursday and Friday.

Less To Be Withheld From Paychecks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Taxpayers will have a little more left over after Uncle Sam subtracts his taxes from 1985 paychecks, thanks to the unprecedented inflation adjustments that start Jan. 1, officials say.

The changes are brought about by tax indexing, the last of the benefits bestowed by the 1981 tax law revisions.

Unlike the three-stage 25 percent tax cut, however, the indexing will continue to eliminate tax payments on the inflation portion of pay raises year after year, or at least until Congress changes its mind.

If they look closely, taxpayers will be able to see the effect in their paychecks starting Jan. 1. The changes will be small but can add up. Each year the effect will accumulate as tax brackets remain frozen at 1984 levels.

But the change will not affect taxes paid this coming April 15 on 1984 income, using the 94 million forms the IRS is mailing in the next three weeks.

To begin with, each withholding exemption claimed on W-4 forms filed with employers is worth a little more in 1985. On a weekly basis each additional exemption protects another $20 in the paycheck from withholding, 77 cents more than this year.

The major change is that each category the employer uses to trigger a higher rate of withholding is widened. The first bracket, determining how much is exempt from any tax, moves up $2 to $48. All the other income brackets get a little bigger so taxpayers will be less likely to be bumped into a more expensive category.

Overall the system is excluding 4.077 percent from incomes, the amount attributed to inflation that is therefore not to be taxed.

Some people, the IRS cannot say how many, will not get a withholding break because of another change in the system being made this year. The employer tables for withholding are being made more accurate to better duplicate actual tax rates.

People may find what was taken out over a year's time is closer to what is actually owed April 15. For some that will mean more withholding, not less.

The Treasury Department hopes this will fix a persistent problem that surprised the Reagan administration during the three years of tax cuts that began in 1982.

Blue Collar Jobs To Dwindle

Moon Base, Robots Top Futurists Predictions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The world will be more crowded than ever by the middle of the next century, but Americans may be working on the moon, and robots will fast become a dominant part of the population, the World Future Society says.

"Despite global troubles since World War II, events have turned out to be much more favorable than (George) Orwell anticipated" in his novel "1984," Society President Edward Cornish said in summing up the past year and predicting what the future may hold.

In its annual forecasts for the years ahead, the scientists, scholars and others among the 30,000 members of the non-partisan society also forecast that blue-collar workers will make up only 10 percent of the American work force by the turn of the century.

"Moderate estimates indicate that there will be 35,000 installed robots in America by 1990," the society said. "The robot population is growing at the rate of 30 percent a year, compared to about 2 percent for the human population."

"Probably the most surprising factor on the scene is the computer," Cornish said. "People still feel suspicious of computers, yet they have perhaps done more than anything to undermine a potential dictator in the United States. The number of personal computers is skyrocketing and 'hackers' can now gain access to many once secret files.

"The result is that it will be far more difficult for any dictator to control all the communications channels," Cornish said.

Among the other 10 "most thought-provoking" forecasts made by the society are:

—By the 1990s, animal and plant species may be disappearing at the rate of 10,000 per year, largely due to the destruction of tropical forests. Every hour one species will become extinct.

—Population will continue to grow at enormous rates in the Third World and by 2020 there will

Explosions Block Mine; Thousands Mourn 27 Dead

CASTLE DALE, Utah (UPI) — Thousands of mourners are gathered in the mining towns of Utah's coal region to pay respects to 27 neighbors killed in a mine fire that still rages inside East Mountain.

While 2,000 mourners heard prayers at a mass memorial service Wednesday, a series of methane gas explosions again rocked the Wilberg Mine and covered its entrance with hundreds of tons of rock, sealing what many fear will become a permanent grave for the miners.

Meanwhile, to add to the tragedy, it was confirmed by company and union officials that about 800 miners now face layoffs. That is more than half the mining jobs in the area, which relies on the coal industry for its economic survival.

The jobs affected will be at the fire-ravaged Wilberg Mine, the adjacent Deer Creek and another mine closed by a non-fatal fire earlier, said Henrie.

United Mine Workers officials were preparing to help furloughed workers in the event of lengthy layoffs.

Street Death Of A War Hero

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An urn bearing the ashes of a World War II hero will be placed among America's honored dead at Arlington National Cemetery Friday. He died a homeless street person in a park across from the White House.

Jesse Carpenter froze to death in Lafayette Square Dec. 5, 40 years after he received the Bronze Star for helping to carry wounded comrades to safety under enemy fire in Nazi-occupied France.

U.S. Park Police officers found his body crumpled at the feet of his wheelchair-bound companion, John Lamm, a homeless man who Carpenter used to push through the streets of Washington.

The Community for Creative Non-Violence, an advocate group for the homeless, said Carpenter left his family 22 years ago after experiencing trouble adjusting to civilian life. He became an alcoholic and had been living in the streets since 1962. He was 61 when he died.

Friday's services will include a military honor guard, a gun salute, flag-folding ceremony and taps.

Retailers Get Post-Christmas Gift

Nation's Shoppers Are Buying, Not Returning

By United Press International

A blizzard of post-Christmas sales drew hordes of shoppers to stores nationwide, and for those who received the wrong size or wanted to grab bargains, the price was often right.

Across the country, shoppers appeared lured to stores more for bargains than for the traditional rite of returning unwanted gifts, puzzling many store managers.

In Beverly Hills, Calif., even the rich took advantage of day-after Christmas sales, drawn by drastic price reductions at chic Rodeo Drive shops and free parking for the Rolls Royce.

But the financially fortunate were not the only ones bargain-hunting during Wednesday's post-holiday frenzy. Lines formed outside shopping malls and many stores opened hours earlier to get a jump on the sale-crazy crowds.

In New York, Jeff Sherman, manager of Bloomingdale's, said business was "very active," but the return of unwanted presents was "not as frenetic as it has been in years past — I can't tell you why," he said.

In the city's Abercrombie and Fitch store, sales clerk Caroline Darst said it was busy, "but it's not a mob with people screaming at us to return things."

The shopping crush at Macy's in Herald Square was moderate, a spokeswoman said. "Maybe people just gave the right things for a change," she said.

"Returns and credits are surprisingly low," said Elliot Stone, president of Jordan Marsh Co. "I don't understand why. It seems less than normal."

Steven Friedman, manager of Filene's, noted a similar trend.

"People came in without packages which is a great sign for us," he said. "It means they're coming in to buy."

Mark Schreiber, executive vice president of John Wanamaker, a major Philadelphia department store, reported that "returns don't seem to be as heavy as in the past."

But Maine residents seemed much less pleased with their gifts.

At the Kmart in Scarborough, 100 people waited 15 minutes before the doors opened at 8 a.m. — and 98 of them were returning Christmas gifts, said assistant manager Bud Angwin.

The most widely used excuse is, "My husband bought it and it's not what I want," said Angwin.

At L.L. Bean in Freeport, Maine, the store that prides itself on being open 365 days a year, 24 hours a day, got returns Christmas Day — just hours after the gifts were opened.

'But Officer, You Can't Give Me A Ticket, I Couldn't See The Sign'

That might be a reasonable excuse if you were pulled over for speeding on Lake Howell Road near Casselberry. The 35 mph speed limit sign is blocked to oncoming traffic by overhanging foliage. At left is what it looks like as you approach the sign (hopefully at 35 mph or less). Below right is the actual sign, but you can't see it until you're practically on top of it. As the policeman is standing there writing you a ticket, try using that argument. Let us know if it works.

Officer Accidentally Shoots Himself, Bleeds To Death

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — A Miami Beach police officer, getting dressed for work, accidentally shot himself in the groin with his service revolver and died a short time later of severe blood loss, investigators said.

Officer John Koppin, 22, was brought to Jackson Memorial Hospital Wednesday, his uniform half on. A hospital spokesman said he died of a gunshot wound at about 5 p.m.

Koppin lived alone in his Palm Island home in the Hibiscus area of Miami Beach. He had recently been assigned to the beach patrol, and was due to report for work in his all-terrain vehicle at 3 p.m.

Before losing consciousness, Koppin managed to telephone the 911 emergency number to report he had been shot. Investigators said. A fire-rescue ambulance rushed him to the hospital.

1,500 Stung By Man-Of-War

By United Press International

Winter currents brought an invasion of pale blue Portuguese man-of-war to Florida's south Atlantic Coast, making life miserable for about 1,500 holiday beachgoers who were stung by the poisonous jellylike creatures.

No serious injuries were reported, but lifeguards on Fort Lauderdale and Hollywood beaches advised several victims Wednesday to watch their wounds closely because they appeared to suffer minor allergic reactions.

The creatures arrive during the winter and spring by riding ocean currents.

Government Borrowing

Gathering Momentum

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government went $28.5 billion deeper in debt in November, making the deficit in the first two months of the 1985 fiscal year 23 percent worse than last year, the Treasury Department reported.

Most striking in the latest monthly budget report was a 23.6 percent acceleration in the cost of paying interest on the national debt between October and November of 1983 and 1984.

The interest cost — debt generated by debt — is already the third largest single government expense after social programs and defense.

The government's fiscal year ends Sept. 30, by which time the 1984 deficit totaled $175.3 billion.

The monthly deficit figures showed October and November's total red ink at $57.25 billion, well ahead of the $46.6 billion during the same two months of the 1984 fiscal year.

Trends early in the fiscal year may change later, yet the administration expects the 1985 deficit to be worse than in 1984 and perhaps the worst ever.

According to figures widely leaked during budget preview sessions, the administration expects the 1985 deficit to exceed $200 billion for the first time.

The record annual deficit was 1983's $195.4 billion. After Zooming yearly, U.S. deficits could lead to sweeping cuts in federal spending. The White House hopes for a deficit of $100 billion by 1988.

1984's borrowing and now two months of fiscal 1985 the national debt is $1.645 trillion.

Newcomer Suffers Heart Attack At Restaurant

A 64-year-old man who recently moved to Sanford from Ohio died of a heart attack while eating at a Sanford restaurant Wednesday.

Clifford Atkins was pronounced dead on arrival at Central Florida Regional Hospital after efforts to revive him failed.

According to a fire department report, Atkins was eating at Poppa Jay's restaurant, 2501 S. French Ave., Sanford, at about 7:30 a.m. when he fell to the floor and began vomiting profusely.

When rescue workers arrived, they found Atkins had stopped breathing and tried to administer oxygen. Then his pulse failed and they began cardiopulmonary resuscitation and transported him to the hospital. He died en route, according to Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G.V. Garay.

Atkins, of 91 Park Avenue Trailer Court, recently moved to Sanford from Finolay, Ohio.

$10,000 Reward Offered In Clinic Bombings

PENSACOLA (UPI) — Federal investigators are offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to a conviction in the Christmas firebombing of three Pensacola abortion clinics.

The reward was announced Wednesday by a team of investigators from the Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. More than a dozen members of ATF's special response team arrived in Pensacola Wednesday to investigate the bombings that destroyed one medical clinic and seriously damaged the other two.

ATF chemists began sifting through the rubble, trying to determine what sort of explosives were used in the homemade bombs that ripped through the clinics shortly after 3:30 a.m. Christmas Day, said ATF assistant special agent Mike Huckaby.

The triple attack was the 29th involving arson or bombs at an abortion clinic since 1982, ATF investigators said. Of the 29, only eight have been solved and five people are currently serving jail terms on those convictions.

Trial Opens For Murder Of Pro-Solidarity Priest

TORUN, Poland (UPI) — The trial of four secret policemen charged in the murder of an outspoken pro-Solidarity priest opened today amid tight security, with the courthouse ringed by riot police carrying clubs and water cannon.

Police sealed off the 3-story red and yellow brick courthouse with metal barriers for the trial of four men charged in the October murder of 37-year-old Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko.

The four face sentences ranging from eight years imprisonment to death if they are convicted.

Popieluszko's Oct. 19 abduction and murder shocked a nation already hardened by military rule, mass arrests and police harassment. Half a million Poles attended his funeral at Warsaw's St. Stanislaw Kostka church.

Relations between the church and state plunged to a new low, shattering attempts by Polish leader Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski to pursue a dialogue with Roman Catholic Primate Cardinal Jozef Glemp.

The murder also exposed divisions within the ruling party and set off speculation that a hard-line faction backed by Moscow had ordered the killing to discredit Jaruzelski, whom they considered too soft on Solidarity.

Oil Tanker Heads For Repairs

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The 65th ship attacked in the Persian Gulf this year, a Spanish supertanker believed to have been fired on by Iranian warplanes, headed toward Bahrain for repairs today.

The 239,959-ton Aragon was hit by two projectiles in the central Gulf Wednesday as it steamed toward Saudi Arabia for a load of crude oil, a spokesman for the ship's owners said in Madrid. No casualties were reported.

The Aragon was the second ship hit in the Persian Gulf in two days and the 65th confirmed attack on neutral shipping since Iran and Iraq started their "tanker war" last February, an offshoot of their 4-year-old border conflict.

Although there was no claim of responsibility, shipping sources in the Gulf were quoted as saying the tanker probably was attacked by Iranian warplanes.

But in Spain, Spanish Marine radio Onda Pesquera said it had received a report from a Greek captain in the vicinity of the Aragon that three Iraqi warplanes attacked the tanker. The report was not immediately confirmed.

Iranians Blame 2 Bombings On U.S. Terrorists

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iran has accused American "terrorist agents" of detonating two bombs in less than 12 hours in downtown Tehran in attacks that killed at least six people and wounded another 50.

In Washington, White House officials had no comment on the Iranian charges Wednesday.

The first bomb, 20 pounds of explosives in a car parked outside a small hotel near crowded Shoush Square in Tehran, killed six people and wounded 50 others when it blew up Tuesday night. Two of the six victims died of their wounds Wednesday. Among the dead were a mother and her young child.

Less than 12 hours later, on Wednesday morning, a second bomb blew up between two cars in an alley on Tehran's Mowlavi Avenue, not far from the site of the previous blast, Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency said.

"The explosion caused slight damage and a passerby was injured by flying glass," IRNA said in a report monitored in Beirut.

Through IRNA, Iran blamed "terrorist agents of the United States" for setting the first charge "in revenge against the Islamic Republic for its support of international terrorism."

No arrests were reported in the two bombings and there were no immediate claims of responsibility.

"The United States had warned earlier it would take revenge against the Islamic Republic for its support of 'international terrorism' following the hijacking of a Kuwaiti airliner to Tehran Dec. 4," IRNA said.

The Reagan administration has repeatedly accused Iran of backing "international terrorism," but has not directly charged Iran with aiding the four Arabic-speaking hijackers.

The hijackers killed two Americans and tortured other hostages during a six-day ordeal at Tehran's Mehrabad airport. Iranian security men freed the remaining hostages Dec. 9 and U.S. officials criticized Iran for not acting earlier. Iran has said it will put the hijackers on trial.

In New York, one of two American survivors of the hijacking, John Costa, New York, filed a federal lawsuit against Kuwait Airways and the Iranian government Wednesday seeking $110 million because of the ordeal.

In Paris, a spokesman for the dissident People's Mujaheddin movement said the group was not involved in the Tehran bombings and "strongly and unequivocally condemns such crimes regardless of who might have committed them."

Since the last wave of bombings in Iran in the spring of 1982, the Mojahidden has been ruthlessly repressed by the fundamentalist Islamic regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

tal in Cincinnati, a burn treatment center.
Paul's mother, Sinda Alsept, said in a television interview Wednesday her son said he wanted to come back to the store for a soda.

The homemade pipebomb had been concealed in a machine that dispenses compressed air for 25 cents. The bomb was rigged to explode when the air hose was lifted from the rack.

Paul, celebrating his 11th birthday Christmas Day, was filling his friend's bicycle tire with air when the bomb exploded, showering him with nails and catching his clothing on fire. A neighbor used a blanket to extinguish the flames.

"At the time of the explosion he was right over the air compressor," said Orange County homicide investigator Lou Ronco.

Ronco said the bomb was filled with metal scraps, old nails and a black explosive powder.
"From what we're able to tell right now it was a very basic device," he said. "It would not be very hard to construct."

Investigators said the store had not received any threats before the explosion, and there are no suspects. They were still checking reports of cars seen in the area Christmas Day. The store remained open during the holiday.

Rice said, adding that animosity between the cities has calmed since July.

At that time, Lake Mary took Sanford to court because the city threatened to turn off its water supply. Lake Mary, which has been buying water from Sanford since 1976, sued the city to keep the water flowing until it could build its own water plant.

Circuit Court Judge Dominick Salfi ruled in a temporary injunction Sanford must keep selling water to Lake Mary but forbade the city from adding to its 1,243 customers. The suit has not been settled and a court date has not been set.

NATIONAL REPORT: The thickest fog in recent years was blamed for a Texas plane crash that killed four people, while snow and rain in the Great Lakes and California triggered accidents that left three dead and piled up as many as 50 cars. Freezing drizzle and snow that closed highways and an airport in the Midwest Wednesday continued today from the Dakotas to Pennsylvania. Rain and snow fell in California and fog reduced visibility to near zero in the Southwest. Drifting snow in California today closed a 40-mile section of Interstate 5, the state's major north-south route, for the second time in as many weeks. Slick roads were blamed for car crashes Wednesday that killed an 11-year-old girl in Michigan and two people in California, including a 2-year-old girl. Three adults and a child were killed in a plane crash at the San Antonio International Airport. The Federal Aviation Administration said the plane took off in fog and crashed before leaving airport property. All aboard died. Up to 7 inches of snow fell in Michigan, where two major pileups occurred on Interstate 94. A 30-car accident east of Jackson County resulted in several injuries. A 50-car pileup east of Ann Arbor closed the highway for 2½ hours. Interstates also were closed by snow and freezing rain in Iowa and Nebraska. Eight inches of snow fell Wednesday in Milwaukee, closing Mitchell Field, the city's major airport, for several hours. Hour-long delays were reported at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport.

China And Changing Times

News of Communist China's alleged economic about-face should be taken with a grain of salt.

The front-page commentary in the Communist Party newspaper suggesting that Marxist teachings are out of date may be heartening to the West but it is hardly a paean to capitalism or free enterprise.

Skepticism is warranted. For one thing, the commentary dealt solely with alternative approaches and tactics, not with political goals or ideology. For another, China is in desperate need of foreign investment if it is to modernize its economy and it needs foreign markets to absorb its labor-intensive production. The party chiefs may be using the Dale Carnegie method of winning friends and influencing capitalists.

Much has been made of China's new encouragement of entrepreneurship. Western news sources, for instance, reported a recent conference in Peking which brought together several hundred self-made "millionaires." Those eligible to attend had to earn annually the equivalent of $5,000, an amount symbolizing wealth only in the poorest of countries.

Chinese-style entrepreneurship is fine but a few small manufacturers, independent farmers and enterprising pushcart peddlers do not exactly constitute economic revolution in a land of more than 1 billion people.

China needs to sell the idea that capitalism can flourish in a communist society for a number of reasons. It must calm the fears of Hong Kong, which reverts to Chinese sovereignty in 1997, and is not at all placated by the Sino-British agreement earlier this year guaranteeing that the capitalist lifestyle will prevail for another 50 years.

China wants to inherit the Hong Kong of today a dozen years from now, not a city from which all capital and enterprise have emigrated.

Also, it has used the accord with Britain as the launching pad for a new reunification offer to Taiwan. The Hong Kong precedent, China said, demonstrates that Taiwan would remain an autonomous capitalist entity under the administration of Peking. The offer of protective reunification was flatly rejected by Taiwan as a communist propaganda trick.

China's bid for Western investment and trade, however, has not gone unanswered. Trade with the United States, which amounted to $96 million in 1972, may hit $6 billion for 1984. Last year Japan exported $4.9 billion worth of goods to China and imported $4.8 billion worth. Western investments in natural resource development, particularly in coal and oil, rise steadily each year.

Certainly reasonable discourse and mutually beneficial trade can be encouraged. But the West would be foolish to believe that China is about to dump orthodox Marxism and embrace private ownership and capitalism. It is a totally centralized, monolithic government and society that has murdered millions in its ruthless drive to get and hold power.

Behind the rosy possibilities remains the blood of red communism.

NIE Chief Rapped For Misconduct

WASHINGTON — A five-month investigation into charges of waste, abuse and cover-up at the National Institute of Education has led to the admonishment of NIE Director Manuel Justiz for misconduct by Education Secretary Terrel Bell.

The Office of Inspector General's investigation — quietly begun at Bell's request as a result of disclosures first reported in this column — found that Justiz illegally used NIE telephones and travel funds for personal purposes.

According to the IG's internal report, obtained under the Freedom of Information Act, Justiz used government-earned airline bonus vouchers to take a free vacation trip to London with his family.

The investigation also determined that Justiz made dozens of personal long-distance telephone calls from his agency phone, as well as at least 25 government-paid trips to Albuquerque, N.M., where he was a teacher at the University of New Mexico before taking over NIE in January 1983.

A computer printout of all calls from NIE between June 1983 to this January showed that 108 telephone calls were made to New Mexico, 36 of them to the University of Mexico.

When questioned about his travel by investigators in June, Justiz said he had accumulated enough "bonus miles" before he assumed his government position to pay for the London trip under the TWA "frequent travelers" program.

Then, in August, Justiz told investigators that a review of his TWA flight records showed that 11,829 of the 60,000 accrued miles used to pay for the London tickets "were earned while on official government travel," according to the IG report.

Further investigation by the IG's agents, however, found that Justiz had actually "earned a total of 35,610 TWA bonus miles on 21 official trips, paid for by the Department of Education" — which he used to obtain his free London-vacation airfares.

Federal regulations require that all bonus trips earned during official travel must be applied to future agency travel costs and cannot be used for personal travel.

However, the IG's report said it could find no evidence to support other allegations made by NIE employees.

Some disgruntled NIE employees are accusing the IG of "whitewashing" the entire affair, complaining that "only selected individuals were asked to submit sworn affidavits" and that some key witnesses were never called.

Other witnesses refused to sign affidavits because the IG would not guarantee them anonymity, these NIE dissidents say. "This is why only three of the 13 individuals interviewed were able to provide any information whatsoever," one agency official told me.

"Some of the individuals interviewed were the same ones who are guilty of the fraud, waste and abuse," this official said. "How could an investigator expect these individuals to admit to their guilt?"

But the investigation into the Department of Education's scandal-plagued research agency is continuing. The General Accounting Office, Congress' auditing arm, is investigating NIE, as is the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee.

Factory Revival Needed

In all the talk about economic measures to be adopted in 1985, there is virtually no mention of the importance of reviving American manufacturing. It has undergone a severe deterioration in recent years, largely because of the flood of foreign imports that have caused the shutdown of many factories.

Today's celebrity economists seem to be focusing on growth in high technology and service industries. Important as these are, the nation can't prosper over the long run without a rejuvenation of basic industries. They don't have the spin-off effect of manufacturing. High tech isn't an employer of a large work force.

Concern about this situation is mounting in the manufacturing community in the United States. This concern, however, has yet to be translated into public policy. Nineteen eighty-five is the year to begin this translation.

It's interesting that concern about the decline of manufacturing also is surfacing in Great Britain, which has been buffeted by economic and social change.

British manufacturers voiced their concern at a recent meeting of the Confederation of British Industry. Their comments have relevance to the industrial situation on this side of the Atlantic.

In general, the British manufacturers said that the country's manufacturing base must be rebuilt. Roland Long, chairman of International Harvester in Britain, said that there could be no delay, that Britain's manufacturing industries have been "decimated since 1979."

Mr. Long said that the decline in manufacturing and the tragic rise in unemployment have been inextricably linked, together constituting the price to be paid for the British government's outstanding success in the reduction and control of inflation.

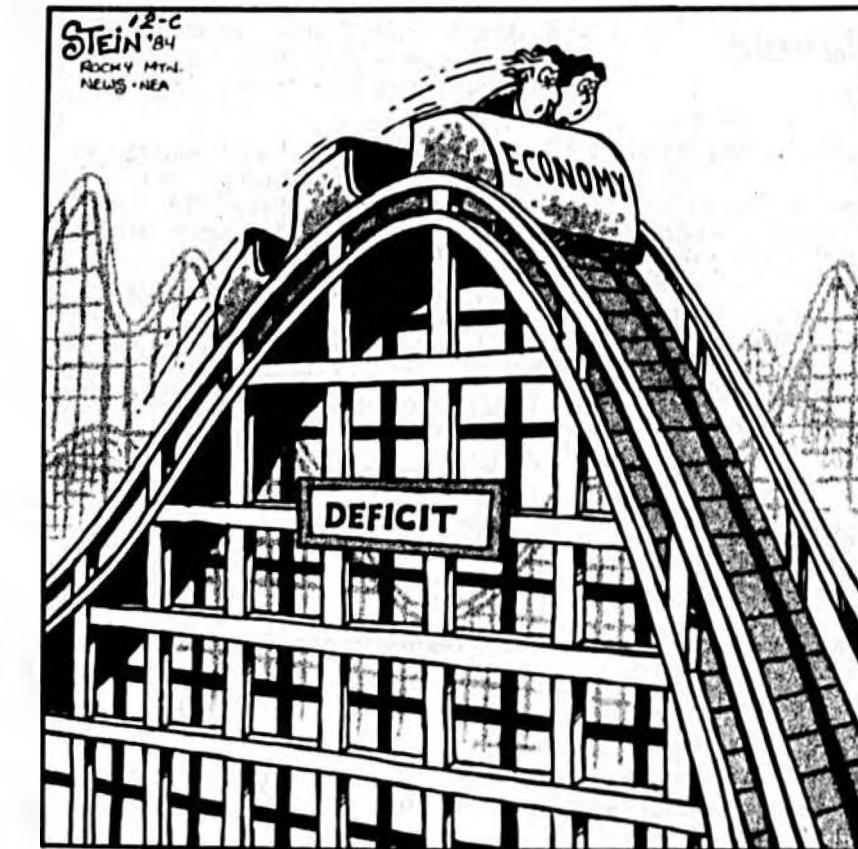

Kenneth Durham, chairman of Unilever, said that success in manufacturing has been and remains the key to international economic success.

Hostility To Iran Sidesteps Imports

CONFIDENTIAL FILE — The Reagan administration's suspicion that Iran was collaborating with the skyjackers at Tehran airport earlier this month reflected the White House's continued public antagonism to the regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. But oddly enough, this hostility has yet to extend to a crackdown on U.S. imports of Iranian goods. Last year, for example, the United States bought about $1 billion worth of Iranian oil. U.S. importers also buy substantial amounts of pistachios from Iran, and there's an extensive underground trade in Persian rugs. Congressional critics want economic sanctions against Tehran tightened.

A recent high-level U.S. delegation sent to Moscow for nuclear non-proliferation discussions received strangely inconsistent treatment from their Soviet hosts. The VIPs from the State, Defense and other departments got a bone-chilling reception: 30 degrees below zero. Then they found that not enough rooms had been re-

Lasting Christianity

NEW YORK (NEA) — On my visit to Israel last summer — my first trip to the Holy Land — I remember being amused to learn that the shepherds who still tend their flocks on the hills near Bethlehem now have SONY WALKMENS plugged into their ears so they can listen to the latest pop tunes all night. It makes one wonder whether they could hear the angel of the Lord today, even if he stood right in front of them and yelled.

It is easy to play that sort of game with Christianity, or for that matter with any other religion. And of course they all possess internalized elements of yet older faiths, still recognizable as such. I doubt, for example, that many people would take issue with the proposition that the date on which we celebrate Christ's birth falls more than just coincidentally right after the winter solstice, when the sun begins its annual northward swing. Mankind was celebrating that development long before Christ was born.

Indeed, at first glance it may seem that Christianity these days has been pretty well explained away, or even laughed away. Certainly a lot of Christian clergymen, especially in the mainline denominations, show signs of a panicky eagerness to make their faith "relevant" to the concerns of modern man by transmuting it into something else and something less: usually one form or another of political liberalism. The paradox is that, if and when they achieve their goal, they will find liberalism's campfires deserted.

Just at the moment, Islam is the faith that is producing large quantities of martyrs — or at any rate people who sincerely consider themselves martyrs. It is said that the brave and lucky young man who drove his bomb-laden truck past the sentries and the barriers and right into the U.S. Marine barracks in Beirut was seen to have a smile on his lips. He knew he was going to die, but he was dying in a cause he deeply believed in — delivering a devastating blow at the nation he undoubtedly regarded as the focus of evil in the modern world.

But surely, if any religion has been tested in the crucible of time and passed the test, it is Christianity; and slowly the conviction grows that this is because it contributes a unique insight to our understanding of the world and ourselves. It neither commands us to acquiesce passively in our own personal extinction (nirvana), nor urges us on to worldly triumphs under the green silk banners of Allah. Quietly, firmly, insistently, Christianity speaks to the rebellious Adam in each of us, calling us back to the obedience to God that can alone bring us peace.

Return Death Penalty

It is just possible that the rapemurderer of Caroline Isenberg in New York will return the body politic to its senses. Mayor Ed Koch has called for the return of the death penalty, and the letters-to-the-editor columns are full of the same demand. Governor Mario Cuomo, who has always opposed the death penalty, has been hurt politically.

It is possible that the prospect of prompt execution would have saved the life of Caroline Isenberg by deterring her killer.

The killer accosted the young girl in the lobby of her apartment house, forced her to the roof, attempted to rob and rape her, and when she resisted, stabbed her to death. A lot of discussion has ensued about whether or not she should have fought back, and whether she would now be alive if she had simply submitted. Who knows?

But pending the return of real law enforcement, there are ways that a potential victim like Caroline Isenberg can fight back effectively, and almost certainly win and live.

A Caroline Isenberg, facing a killer, has a certain area of tactical surprise available to her. The larger male assumes that he will prevail by physical force. This is true even when the prospective victim is a male of the middle class. The class-war aggressor assumes that he is "tougher."

A key piece of equipment is a Bic ball-point pen. The object is to shove the pen into the eyeball, drive it through the egg-shell arrangement behind his eye, and into his inner brain. That is when he dies before he hits the floor. Every woman in the urban areas should equip herself with a ball-point pen. You can also jam a first finger into the inner brain.

Of course, the problem of delivery is crucial, and you get only one shot.

The tactical necessity is to get as close to the assailant as possible, chest-to-chest. You should also put one arm across your throat, protectively. It is difficult to wield a knife when you are at a very close range. The woman has a few seconds in which she can fool the attacker into believing that she is going to submit. She puts her arms around his neck.

Then Mr. Ballpoint pen goes into action. Then he is dead.

sometimes ask about Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., the outspoken super-conservative: "Is he really so crass that he ignores the blood on the hands of right-wing murderers in Central America?"

The answer is of course not. But he does give the impression that he is willing to forgive an awful lot if he believes someone is solidly anti-communist.

I once grilled the senator about the widespread allegations of "death squad" atrocities by the Salvadoran rightists he supports. It soon became evident that Helms follows the rule that "the enemy of my enemy is my friend." The misgivings he may have about his right-wing friends in Central America are balanced by his concern that they might be replaced by communist regimes.

In a private letter to President Reagan early this year, Helms inveighed against the kind of violence that has plagued the region "wherever it happens and regardless of who is responsible for it." He wrote: "Mr. President, we must provide Americans with an answer. We must level with them. They deserve to know the truth about the 'death squads' — whether 'right wing' or 'left wing'... We must let the chips fall where they may."

But he then cited a source who claimed to have seen Marxist guerrillas break into a government warehouse and steal military equipment and uniforms, which they then used in terrorist activities. — Was the standing ovation Bishop Desmond Tutu received from the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Africa an unprecedented mark of respect?

Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Mich., the subcommittee chairman, was heard to say it was. But as an aide acknowledged, "Unless Wolpe is 200 years old, there's no way of confirming that." In fact, one veteran congressional staffer recalled that other House committees gave standing ovations to Coretta Scott King and to entertainer Stevie Wonder. But it may have been a first for the Foreign Affairs members.

including a camera and tools was stolen from the car of Steven Edward Gegner, 23, of 400 Willowbrook Lane, Longwood, while the vehicle was parked at his home Monday.

A $500, three-wheel Honda was stolen from the home of Paula Michelle Dunn, 14, of 808 Snow Queen Drive, Chuluota, Monday, a sheriff's report said.

Anthony Golmont, 41, of 101 Peacock Drive, Altamonte Springs, reported to deputies $1,200 cash and a pair of $90 sunglasses were stolen from a briefcase in his unlocked car while the vehicle was parked at his home between 1 and 2:40 a.m. Thursday.

Six Sentenced For Drunk Driving In Seminole

The following persons have either pleaded or been found guilty of driving under the influence, or having an unlawful blood alcohol level.

As first-time offenders, most have had their driver's license suspended for 6 months, ordered to pay a $250 fine, pay court costs of $27.50 and complete 50 hours of community service. When a guilty or no contest plea is entered or if the defendant is found guilty of an alcohol-related charge, other charges are usually either not prosecuted or dismissed. Most of the first-time offenders are allowed to apply for business-only driving permits. In cases where the sentence differs, the actual sentence is reported:

—Rodolfo Gonzales Jr., 34, of New Braunfels, Texas, arrested 1:55 a.m. Dec. 8 by the Florida Highway Patrol on state Road 15 in Casselberry. He was stopped after a man was seen driving across the centerline of state Road 434 six times within three miles. Gonzales was fined $500 for his second DUI conviction. A charge of failure to drive in a single lane was dismissed.

—Francis Eugene Linden Jr., 24, of 2580 Ridgewood Ave., Sanford, arrested by an FHP trooper on U.S. Highway 17-92 one mile south of Sanford at 1:15 a.m. Dec. 8 after the trooper stopped a car for having a headlight out.

The trooper also saw the vehicle cross lanes and the driver swaying in the vehicle as he drove. A charge of not having the correct license plate on the vehicle was dismissed.

—Ronnie Brian Rodgers, 18, of 205 Palm Place, Sanford, arrested at 11:35 p.m. Dec. 7 on county Road 427 after a trooper watched a car cross the centerline to the road's shoulder and back several times. A charge of failure to drive in a single lane was dismissed.

—Mary Kristina Smead, 35, of 629 Friar Road, Winter Park, arrested by Oviedo police on East Broadway in Oviedo after she was unable to get her vehicle in gear and move it off the roadway. A charge of parking on the roadway was dismissed.

—John William Stansel Jr., 23, of DeLand, arrested by an FHP trooper at 2:25 a.m. Dec. 7 after his car passed several vehicles on the right on Highway 17-92, Casselberry. A charge of driving on the wrong side of the road was dismissed.

—Troy Dee Holliday, 22, of 1709 Kelly Park Drive, Apopka, arrested Dec. 13 by a trooper in Altamonte Springs. A charge of unlawful speed was dismissed.

To Be Perfectly Frank, Lady Hawk Is Quite A Tournament

To be perfectly frank, the 8th Annual Lady Hawk Invitational is quite a basketball tournament. It always has been and probably always will be. This is primarily due to a couple of people named Frank — Elder and Joyce.

But we better give credit where credit is due. That's Cindy, daughter of the Franks. If it weren't for Cindy, who was a fine basketball player at Lake Howell High School in 1977, this tournament probably wouldn't be in existence tonight.

The Franks' involvement, helped by an able assist from then-Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano — with the Lady Hawk, however, goes way beyond that of dutiful parents to an athletic daughter.

Years after Cindy hung up her prep sneakers, the Franks continued to labor at the classiest tournament this side of Ocala. It has come full cycle since Cindy has returned to the tournament as a coach this year for Lake Mary.

The Franks tried to remove themselves last year, but you know where you found them on the last Thursday, Friday and Saturday of December — at the Lake Howell gym.

"Oh, they'll be there again this year," said Lake Howell Booster President Don Jonas. "The Franks got all the trophies for me this year and continue to lend a hand."

Jonas knows. He's been trying to replace those four big shoes — and he swears (literally). It's tough. The former Canadian Football League MVP, though, said his committee is doing its darndest to keep the class coming.

"There are two things the Franks developed as part of the Lady Hawk," said Jonas. "One, try and get as many good local teams as possible. Two, try and get as many ranked teams as possible to keep the prestige."

This year, maybe more than ever, the Lady Hawk has followed the Franks' criteria to the letter. "We hit two situations," confirmed Jonas. "We've got the teams with ranking and great local flavor."

Take a whiff of the aroma. There will not be another Florida Sports Writers Prep Basketball Poll until Jan. 7 due to the holidays, but if one would have come out this week, there was an excellent possibility FOUR tournament teams would have been ranked in the top 10.

● Seminole, which is 8-1 and has a six-game winning streak, has a legitimate shot at No. 1 after being No. 4 last week. Seminole has beaten Orlando Evans twice, Edgewater once and Lake Brantley once. No one in the state has played a tougher schedule.

● Evans, which is 8-2 with those two being to Seminole, was ranked No. 5 last week and has to stay right behind the Lady Seminoles in the poll.

The Lady Trojans of Dorothy Starbird have beaten everyone else.

● Edgewater, which is 9-2 and always good, was ranked No. 8 last week and not about to go down. The Lady Eagles of Denise McCarty gave Seminole its toughest test of the year, losing an overtime decision in the Hoop-De-Doo Tournament at Central Florida.

● Lake Brantley, which is 7-1 and has won seven in a row, had a very good chance to crack the top 10 for the first time in the school's history. Coach Renny Betris has put together a solid program. The Lady Patriots only loss is to Seminole in the first game of the year at the Hoop-De-Do.

Seminole has to be the favorite, of course, but the Lady Seminoles have the toughest road to the final. They have to beat Lake Brantley tonight, probably Edgewater Friday and probably Evans Saturday.

"Yes, they do have it rough," said Jonas. "But they're at their peak. (coach Ron) Merthle really has them playing ball right now."

And the easiest road? "That would have to be Evans," said Jonas. "They're in the easiest bracket."

Seminole plays Lake Brantley tonight at 6. The Edgewater-Lake Howell game follows at 8. Lyman and Evans tip-off the tournament today at 2. Winter Park and Lake Mary follow at 4.

In addition to being the highest ranked team, Seminole has two other incentives to win it. The Tribe has never won, although it has finished second the past two years and was third in both '80 and '81. Also, the Metro Conference — Edgewater and Evans — has dominated the tournament since Lake Howell won the initial title in 1977.

Edgewater won in '78, '79 and '80. Evans took '81 and '82. Edgewater won it again in '83. "It's about time we won," said Merthle, who has his quickest stem ever. "It's time to take this trophy back to Sanford."

Under the watchful eye of Elder and Joyce Frank, of course. "Oh, we might stop by for a couple games," laughed Elder Wednesday.

Griffing Comes Of Age, Rams Topple Patriots

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

ORLANDO — Defense may not start with the keeper — but it always ends there.

So when Lake Mary soccer coach Larry McCorkle was plotting his revenge against Lake Brantley, he knew he needed to make several defensive changes and get a great game from goalie Greg Griffing.

"We made two mistakes last week and we were down, 2-0," said McCorkle about an eventual 3-0 setback to the powerful Patriots. "We had to play more of a defensive game this time and get a good game from Griffing."

The veteran coach received both. Several defensive changes paid off and Griffing turned in a near-perfect performance in the net as Lake Mary avenged its setback to the Patriots with a 2-1 overtime victory in the first round of the Pizza Hut Tournament at Bishop Moore High School Wednesday. The loss was Lake Brantley's first in eight games.

Lake Mary, 8-2, takes on defending 3A champion Tarpon Springs today at 4. Lake Howell, a 1-0 winner over Edgewater on Jeff Schicker's goal, takes on Miami Killian at 2 p.m. and Lyman, which upended Seabreeze, 3-0, battles the host Hornets at 6 p.m.

McCorkle said he placed a high premium on a good first half Wednesday and his Rams responded. An aggressive defense kept tabs on the high-powered Patriot offense and a goal by junior Darrand Richards gave Lake Mary a 1-0 halftime lead.

"All we needed was to get through that first half," said McCorkle. "That was important. We needed that confidence builder after the last time we played them."

Richards' score came after Andre Sanders had missed a free kick and the ball had bounced off the Patriots' wall. Richards controlled the ball, dribbled to the left of the wall and shot back to the right for the 1-0 lead.

The slim margin held up until the irrepressible Mo Moghaddam broke loose with 15 minutes to play. "We can't seem to stop him," McCorkle said about Lake

Keeper Greg Griffing turned in a career-best Wednesday, holding Lake Brantley to one goal as the Lake Mary Rams nipped the Patriots, 2-1, in the first round of the Pizza Hut Tournament at Bishop Moore.

Brantley's senior scoring whiz. "We had three guys on him and he still went 50 yards and scored. He must have passed five people. It was a really great shot. There was nothing that Griffing could do."

But there was five minutes later. With Lake Brantley attempting to end the game in regulation, Cory Sheffield boomed a shot to the top of the left corner. Griffing, using his rangy 6-5 frame, leaped up and tapped it away despite banging his head into the post.

"That was a very crucial play," said McCorkle about the best of Griffing's 12 saves. "That saved the game. Griffing may have come of age today as a keeper."

Lake Mary needed just four kicks in the shootout. Steve Earl scored first for Brantley but Jerry Meyers came back with one for the Rams. Sheffield then booted one in for the Pats and Rick Broennele did the same for a 2-2 standoff.

Lake Brantley's Chris McManus then missed high with Brantley's third attempt and Lake Mary's Tom Misuraca kicked the Rams into a 3-2 lead. Griffing then saved Ricky Williams' attempt and Sanders put the game out of reach with a goal.

"All our kicks were right on the dime," said McCorkle. "They couldn't have been any better."

Baumhower Plans To Fry Seattle's 'Ground Chuck'

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami Dolphin nose tackle Bob Baumhower, who injured his left knee in the final pre-season game and has spent the entire year trying to mend, says the joint is the healthiest it's been all year.

"It's been an off-and-on thing. Sometimes it feels good, sometimes it doesn't feel so good," the five-time Pro Bowl selection said Wednesday. "This is the best it's felt all year, though. It feels real good."

Baumhower's knee couldn't have gotten healthier at a better time with a playoff game against the Seattle Seahawks' "Ground Chuck" style of attack coming up Saturday.

Seattle was forced to become a passing team when star running back Curt Warner was lost to an injury early in the year, but reverted to their usual conservative ground game in Sunday's 13-7 wild-card victory over the Los Angeles Raiders.

Baumhower expects more of the same from Coach Chuck Knox and his Seahawks in the Orange Bowl this weekend.

"I expect them to try and establish the running game," said Baumhower, who is a Pro Bowl alternate this year. "Against the Raiders, they didn't need to pass. They ran the ball and did a good job on them."

"This year, we've had problems with the run off an on,

Giant Plan: Watch For Everything

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The New York Giants' game plan against the San Francisco 49ers for Saturday's NFC playoff contest should be simple — watch for everything.

The Niners, for their part, aren't helping Giants coach Bill Parcells refine his strategy. The verbiage coming from San Francisco's training camp in nearby Redwood City is as hazy as the fog that blankets the Golden Gate city from time to time.

"Against us," said assistant coach Paul Hackett of the 15-1 Niners, "you have to play the pass and the way we can run is to show we can throw the ball."

San Francisco wide receiver Freddie Solomon missed the previous meeting between the two clubs this season. In which the 49ers dumped the Giants 31-10 at East Rutherford, N.J.

This time around, injured Giants left cornerback Mark Haynes will be replaced by Kenny Daniel, a former member of the Oakland Invaders of the U.S. Football League.

"Without Haynes in there," Hackett said, "New York may not be able to bump and run. When you've got a Mark Haynes, who is a Pro Bowler,

NFC Playoffs

you know you can do that. But now you have Daniel in there.

"They could bump and run without Freddie in there the first time. But now we have Solomon back and he's a guy who can really get up and go against the bump and run."

In fact, the San Francisco receiver scored three touchdowns on passes this season after cornerbacks missed their bumps on him.

However, the pass isn't the Giants' lone worry. Wendell Tyler rushed for 101 yards against the Giants in the earlier contest.

"We're going in with a complete offense on New York," said San Francisco coach Bill Walsh. "We're not going to try to establish anything on them. There won't be any time spent trying things out."

At the Giants' training camp in Fresno, Calif., Parcells said he hoped his team could control the ball with running back Rob Carpenter providing much of the yardage.

Crime Pays — $33.20 For Zodiac

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Those cherry-flavored cigars Lee Emerson was smoking had a little better taste after the 11th race at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club Wednesday night. The first-year Zodiac Kennel owner must have felt like Red Auerbach with a 30-point lead and two minutes to play.

Emerson had reason to relish the flavor as he and trainer Bob Fraher watched their 15-1 shot, Crime Pays, charge from way back to overtake Wright Comrade and Blue Yodel to win the 50th Annual Inaugural before a record 6,834 fans. The handle of $60,981 also broke the record.

"That's a heck of a way to start," beamed SOK Chairman of the Board Jerry Collins. "They say crime doesn't pay. Well, it sure paid tonight."

Florida's "Grandfather of Greyhound Racing" was right. Crime Pays paid $33.20 to win, $20 to play and $6.60 to show. The 4-7 quinnella was worth $74.60 and the 4-7 perfecta paid $241.60. The 4-7-1 trifecta hit $992.80.

"It was very exciting," said Emerson about his first big win. "The trainer (Fraher) is the man. Bob did a good job with him."

Collins said he had known Emerson for several years and wasn't surprised at the first-night success. "All he needed was an opportunity," said Collins. "I told him last year, 'If you come up with some greyhounds, I'll give you that chance.'"

Wright Comrade and Blue Yodel, the two favorites, broke quickly with Grande Pistola a length behind heading into the one-eighth pole. Grande Pistola, however, was bumped and knocked down.

Wright Comrade and Blue Yodel then tried to make it a two-greyhound race the rest of the way until Crime Pays made its move down the stretch.

Crime Pays caught Wright Comrade at the wire and out-nodded him in the photo finish.

Crime Pays covered the 5-16th distance in 33.05 seconds.

"That was quite a comeback," said track publicist Phil "Boomer" Denis. "It's a super way to start the season. That greyhound came out of nowhere."

Garden Of The Month

The home and grounds of Mr. and Mrs. John Brumley, 2000 Palmetto Ave., Sanford, have been selected for the Garden of the Month Award by Rose Circle of the Garden Club of Sanford Inc. A circle spokesman said the home was selected because the grounds are "beautifully kept" by Mr. and Mrs. Brumley. Tropical plants in the side yard add color to the garden.

Girardeau-Norris Vows Spoken In Garden Rites

Sandra Jean Girardeau and William Austin Norris Jr., both of Orlando, were married Nov. 11, at 2 p.m., in the rose garden of Harry P. Leu Garden, Orlando. The Rev. Leo King, retired pastor of the First United Methodist Church, Sanford, performed the traditional double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Osman, Lynbrook, N.Y. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Norris Sr., Sanford.

The bride chose for her vows a white organza gown fashioned along the antebellum silhouette with a sonia cummerbund. A double ruffle, edged in lace, formed the off-the-shoulder neckline with tiers of ruffles featured on the gently flared skirt. Her headpiece was a white picture hat adorned with Venise lace and she carried a cascade bouquet of sonia roses and stephanotis.

Jeanne Corvetti attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a soft peach colored peau de sole gown. Her headpiece was a comb arranged with a silk rose and baby's breath and she carried a hand bouquet of sonia roses and mixed fall flowers.

Frank Maragrella served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Tommie Corvetti and Morrison Wilkin.

Amber Leigh Arline and Gina Nicole Arline, nieces of the bridegroom, were the flower girls. They wore peach colored gowns, antebellum styled, silk flower wreath headpieces and carried natural baskets of fall flowers. The ring bearer was Franco Maragrella, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maragrella.

The reception was held at Matland Civic Center. Janice Haskett kept the bride's book and Dawn Trosset cut and served the cake. Others assisting at the reception were Mrs. Chester L. Frank and Mrs. J.M. Isom, aunts of the bridegroom.

Following a wedding trip to the Epcot area, the newlyweds are making their home in Orlando.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Norris Jr.

The bridegroom is employed by Olive Garden and the bride is employed by Leisurecise Centers, both in Orlando. Out-of-town wedding guests came from New York and several Florida cities.

Natural Parents Pose No Threat To Adoptive Mom

DEAR ABBY: I read with sadness the letter from "Devastated," who advocates hiding from adopted children the fact that they were adopted to prevent them from searching for their birth parents.

How sad that "Devastated" is so insecure as a parent. The fact that an adopted child may want to know a birth parent does not necessarily mean that the adoptive parent will be abandoned or replaced.

As the mother of an adopted daughter, I have often wished that her birth mother could see what a beautiful and happy child she is. If my daughter ever wants to find her birth mother, I will gladly help her. I love her enough to hold her with open arms.

WILLING TO SHARE IN PHOENIX

DEAR WILLING: Your daughter is indeed lucky to have been placed in your arms. Not all adoptees are so fortunate. Nor are all adoptive parents as generous and secure as you. Read on.

DEAR ABBY: There is no good reason why adopted children should seek out their biological parents. A complete medical history is given to adoptive parents. They are also told something about the birth parents, although identities are never revealed.

Why is it necessary to pursue a relationship that, for the child, never existed? Does satisfying the curiosity of the adopted child justify the hurt to adoptive parents? They are the parents who raised those children. They paid for braces, participation in sports, for party dresses and college educations. They are the parents who waited for their kids to get home safely from parties, and helped junior to buy his first car. They're the ones who will foot the bill for a big wedding if that's what Susie wants.

Suddenly today there's a curiosity among adopted kids demanding to know who the "birth parents" are, so the kids start searching. What a great thank-you to the parents who raised them!

To adopted kids I would say: "Be grateful. Show your mom and dad how much you love them, and forget the two strangers you've never even met!"

ANONYMOUS PARENT

DEAR ABBY: My husband is an upwardly mobile executive. We recently moved to a new area and have been invited to the country club for lunch several times. We enjoyed these visits enormously and would like very much to join the club.

Now the problem: My husband and I are both born-again Moravian Baptists and take our religion very seriously. However, the inference has been made that unless we are Episcopalian, our chances for being accepted into the country club are nonexistent. We were told that in this area Baptists are considered worse than "low church."

Could you please explain this concept of "low church" to me, Abby? Moravian Baptist churches are just as tall as any others I have seen.

CURIOUS IN DAYTON

DEAR CURIOUS: I'm also curious. Ask the person who made the remark about "low church" to explain it to you. Then explain it to me. I've never heard the expression.

Regent Mrs. E.P. Kelly opened the meeting with Christmas greetings to members and guests. Regent Kelly then gave some highlights of the recent Regional meeting of DAR in Orlando honoring state regent Mrs. R.C. Foster. Regent Kelly urged members to complete the forms concerning Family Tree Genetics project and return to Vanderbilt University.

It was announced that Mrs. T.K. Wiley will activate the chapter veterans' chairmanship. She distributed instructions for knitted items for veteran hospitals.

Delegates to State Conference elected were: Mrs. Mills Boyd, Mrs. Zoe Stanley and Mrs. T.K. Wiley. Alternates are Mrs. H. Wright and Mrs. Clark Davis. Delegates will join Regent Kelly March 7-9 in Jacksonville for the State Conference.

Program chairman Mrs. Mills Boyd introduced Mrs. C.P. Brooks of Rockledge. She served as regent of Phillip Perry Chapter, Cocoa, for three terms and is presently DAR Correspondent Docent Chairman.

Her talk and slide presentation was entirely about toys, dolls, games, cast iron mechanical banks and more advanced action toys from the 17th century to the present day. These articles can be found in the DAR Museum in Washington D.C. which is open to the public.

Weight Loss Aids Can Create Health Problems

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I need some kind of diet pill to help me lose weight. I do not want to take a pill that would be harmful to my health. I am enclosing an ad for a new super weight-loss pill. What do you think of this pill?

One way to avoid becoming overweight is to avoid calorie-rich foods. A pound of salad without high-calorie salad dressing will give you fewer calories than you will get from a pound of fat meat or any other food rich in either fat or concentrated sweets.

DEAR READER — In my opinion, it is a mistake to buy any pill or preparation that promises to help you lose weight unless it is something that is prescribed by your own doctor. I do not believe that any of these pills or preparations that you can use as a "do-it-yourself weight-loss program" are safe. This is especially true of those that promise that you will lose a lot of weight quickly.

Since you seem to be a likely prospect for dieting the wrong

Losing lots of weight can often cause a significant health problem and needs careful medical supervision.

One group of diet pills suppresses appetite. These pills almost always contain a nerve stimulant, and too much of these stimulants, taken by a susceptible person, can cause trouble. Trouble has even included major changes in behavior, to the point of disrobing in public at an airport. I can't recommend any of these pills.

Another group of pills — starch blockers, which were on the market for a time — prevented normal digestion. Starch blockers result in undigested food, which is then available for fermentation in the colon, causing gas and unpleasant digestive disturbances.

Bulk-forming pills are now on the market. Bulk is useful in decreasing one's appetite. If you feel full and don't consume too many calories, you will lose weight. There is no magic here. Decreasing calorie intake to induce elimination of body fat is a rather standard concept. However, you don't have to buy pills for that. Good leafy vegetables, such as lettuce, cabbage or spinach, will do the same thing, as will many raw vegetables. A good aid to the dieter who wants to limit calorie intake is eating raw carrot sticks.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
When you have to guess the location of a queen to make your contract, you can guess correctly 50% of the time just by flipping a coin. If you aspire to being called a bridge player, you'll try to improve those odds by figuring out which opponent has more length in the queen's suit. That opponent will be more likely to hold the missing queen.

trumped the third heart. West followed with the three, nine and jack.
If West had originally held the heart queen or 10, the heart suit would have been a more attractive opening lead. So it seemed probable that West had begun with three hearts to the jack. With only two spades and four clubs, that left four diamonds with West. Accordingly declarer played West for the queen of diamonds and brought in his thin game contract.

The defense began with three rounds of clubs, declarer taking a diamond discard on the club jack. A spade to the queen was taken by West's ace and his spade return was won by South.

It's true that West could have been concealing the possession of another small heart, in which case declarer would be back to a 50-50 guess in the diamond suit.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
DECEMBER 28, 1984
Do not be dubious about taking on additional responsibilities at work or in your career this coming year. Big things are in the offering if you're not afraid to go after them.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The formula for success today requires equal parts of imagination and elbow grease. Set the plan in your head and let your muscles do the rest. The Matchmaker wheel reveals your compatibility to all signs, as well as showing you what signs you are best suited to romantically. To get yours mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something you're presently involved in may appear at first to offer only sparse returns. However, once into it, you'll find it's bigger than you think.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There are two powerful factors going for you today; one is your luck, the other is your practicality. Utilized collectively, they'll spell success.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) You can regain control today of a matter previously wrested from your grip. You'll now find ways to turn a negative situation into a positive one.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) People tend to be supportive today of causes or projects you're interested in. The biggest push will come from an old ally.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The old adage, "The harder you work, the luckier you get" will be true of you today. Doors of opportunity will swing open if you put your shoulder to the wheel.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) You can double your effectiveness today if you work in tandem with another whose aims and interests parallel yours. Each will inspire the other onward.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Even though early indicators may signal you're luckier for others than for yourself, in the final analysis the reverse will be true.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Under your skilled management a venture thus far unfruitful for an associate could turn out to be fortunate for you. Assume control.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Use your imagination in financial affairs today because new ways can now be found to increase your income and holdings. Think money.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Once you set your mind to something today, you'll be capable of outstanding accomplishments. The secret to success is to truly believe in yourself.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Hold positive thoughts today because a matter you've been fearful about is going to turn out to be nothing but a paper dragon.
