Alleged Manipulation Of City Affairs By Lake Given In Bill

The City of Sanford late today afternoon formally instituted legal proceedings for the recovery of $740,000 in bonds and $500,000 in certificates of indebtedness, to be held illegally by Chase National Bank of New York City as collateral to its indebtedness of Seminole County Bank.

Lake Letters Used By City To Help Prove Case In Action Against Bank

Letters passing between former Mayor Forrest Lake and the Chase National Bank of New York City are expected to furnish one of the most conclusive proofs in substantiation of the City's legal proceedings by which it seeks to gain recovery of $740,000 worth of bonds and $500,000 in certificates of indebtedness, alleged to be held illegally by the New York Institution. The correspondence is made a part of the exhibits filed in connection with the bill, photostatic copies of which were made available to the press. Several of the letters are notices of transmission of the bonds, but one dated Dec. 20, 1926 is regarded of utmost importance because counsel for the City contend it shows definitely that Lake used the bonds to get loans for his bank.

December 20, 1926.
The Chase National Bank,
37 Broadway,
New York City.
Gentlemen:
I hand you herewith:

ford, that the bonds of the City

Agitation To Send Olympic Candidates To Amsterdam In Advance Is Criticised

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service
Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Agitation to send Lloyd Hahn, the American Nurni, Sabin Carr, world's record holder in the pole vault; De Hart Hubbard, greatest jumper of all history, and other stand-out candidates to Amsterdam well in advance of the regular olympic squad was thoroughly discountenanced today by Lawson Robertson, head coach, and several members of the olympic committee. These athletes will undergo official trials for the team just like Joe Windmill and John J. Jones, according to the semi-official case laid down.

It was Hahn's idea and that of his coach, Jack Ryder, that the only way he could hope to take serious issue with Nurni, Peltzer, Lowe and foreign stars in general was to train at Amsterdam much longer than the ten-day period to be allowed the full team. They thought, too, that other prospective stars of the American outfit should be afforded similar consideration. It seems that they were wrong.

They are wrong for more than several reasons, which, if I understand the situation correctly, are these: first, that they should try out for the team. Second, that they must do it. The others might turn out to be important if I only could remember what they were.

It appears, according to the official version, that proponents of the movement to place certain stars on a preferred list have overlooked some factors of moment. Those mentioned to me were: gate receipts, or to be crude, money; that the principle of the "open shop" in athletic trials should and must prevail; that Lloyd Hahn doesn't know what he is talking about.

Amsterdam, it was declared, is three metres below sea level and no one stays there in the summer time, unless his shoes are utterly incompetent or the jail very staunch. Ten days, they intend

Assistant Coach May Be Chosen As Jones' Successor

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 19.—(INS)—If Tad Jones doesn't reconsider his resignation as head football coach at Yale, Marvin Stevens, right-hand man of the reigning champion of the Elis, probably will be his successor; that much and more will the athletic authorities here admit.

Louis Stoddard, chairman of the 1927 football committee, announced in New York that "Stevens would be acceptable, but denied that he already had been accepted. The Athletic Board of Control which met here last night, announced that it had no statement ready for publication.

Stevens, although playing but one year on the Yale team, was one of the brightest stars of the famous 1923 outfit. He transferred from Washburn College, Topeka, where he won ten letters—three in football, three in basketball, two in baseball, and one each in tennis and track. His home is in Osborne, Kan.

will be a great plenty for Hahn. "We have reckoned the ten day period as a maximum for the best interests of the athletes," declared Robertson, who took upon himself the burden of spokesman. "This will be long enough to shake off the effects of the sea trip and not too long to prevent an athlete from retaining his condition in such a sorry, muggy climate. Many of the summer residents get seasick because the place is so humid and damp, and, from our standpoint, the worst thing that could happen to Hahn and other boys would be to stay there too long."

Subscription Bridge Party Held By Jews

The men of the Jewish Community Center entertained most pleasantly Tuesday evening at a subscription bridge party at the Jewish Community House. The spacious room where the card tables had been arranged for play was decorated with American and Jewish flags together with numerous torches, blue and white were the colors featured in the decorations and other details. Scores for the games were kept on star shaped tables done in the Jewish insignia.

The chairman for the evening was Rex Racoosh, who was ably assisted in entertaining the guests by S. Robbins.

After several progressions of bridge had been played, scores were totaled and the first prize, a silver perfume bottle, was awarded Mrs. Molnar. The second prize, a shoulder flower went to Mrs. Noone. The first prize for men, a silk tie was given Lew Kotts. Mr. Robbins who held second highest score won a pearl handled knife.

At the conclusion of the games, refreshments of maple nut ice cream and mince tarts were served by the hosts assisted by three Boy Scouts, Milton Robbins, Murry Kanner and Daniel Lopate. There were ten tables of players who enjoyed this delightful evening.

Preventing Evil

"What heavy guilt upon him lies! How cursed is his name! The ravens shall pick out his eyes, And eagles eat the same."

Probably no crime in history has proved more offensive to the reading public than the murder of five year old Dorothy Schneider by Adolph Hotelling near Flint, Michigan.

There have been others similar to it in many respects, but there could be none about which the details were more sordid or revolting.

The despatch with which this case was handled has set a record for the courts of other states to shoot at. Exactly six days after the mutilated body of the little girl was found in a lonely wood, Hotelling had been hunted, captured, tried, and sentenced to life imprisonment.

It seems to us that the Michigan method of handling a case of this kind is more practical. The expense of confining a criminal for life may be more than the cost of an electric chair, but the court costs from the state's side have been considerably less in the Hotelling case than they will be in the Hickman case.

For countless centuries capital punishment has been in vogue. Not only has it always been customary to punish murderers by death, but also in times past has this penalty been meted out to those who chanced to steal, who ventured an opinion different perhaps from that held by those in power, or who were intelligent enough to be placed in the class of witches.

Seneca, we believe it was, said, "No man is more severely punished than he who is subject to the whip of his own repentance." Put criminals in jail, where they can do no further harm but can think on their own misdeeds.

Mr. Dann's Successor

The selection of David Scholtz, prominent attorney of Daytona Beach, as president of the State Chamber of Commerce succeeding Herman A. Dann, is a wise choice and The Herald is of the belief that the organization is assured in his election the continuation of a most able leadership.

Mr. Scholtz is peculiarly fitted to fill his new office because of his wide experience as a civic leader in his own city and in this section of the state. He has served as president of the Daytona Beach chamber of commerce and has been an indefatigable worker in dozens of its most important undertakings.

Like Mr. Dann, Mr. Scholtz is a man full of energy and possessed of an inborn love for public service, which has been reflected a thousand times in unselfish and untiring efforts in behalf of his community and state.

ABOLISH THE DEATH PENALTY

BERNER MAC FADDEN

"Even among the strongest advocates of capital punishment there is a general longing for a public executioner."

Thus speaks the Nation editorially in a recent issue. "Yet," it continues, "what right have we to ask another to perform an act which we ourselves would be unwilling to undertake?"

Why, therefore, should not executioners, like juries, be chosen by lot from a panel of citizens?—those not believing in the death penalty, to be exposed. Or, better still, perhaps, let every jury that condemns a fellow-human to die draw lots to decide who shall press the button of the scaffold or the electric chair?"

Such a program, visionary and impracticable as it is, might serve to arouse a lethargic public to action in abolishing the death penalty.

It would soon bring home to men and women the savagery of the whole proceeding if they realized that they might at any time be called upon to execute somebody.

Vegetarians insist that few of us would eat meat if each of us were forced to act as his own butcher.

If we had to stick our own pigs and kill our own cows, and smell their fresh blood and quivering flesh and hear their piteous cries and watch their agonies and death struggles we would eat fruits and vegetables and nuts.

We do not butcher by proxy. We also execute our criminals by proxy, except where a mob re-

NEWTON, Kans., Jan. 18.—A heavyweight battle for the world's oil championship is on between Standard Oil of New York and the Shell Oil Company, largely owned by the British government.

Standard is buying oil from Russia, selling at a profit in India, and other convenient spots. Britain threw out Russia's representatives, cut off commercial relations, and British oil companies stopped buying Russia's oil. That was round one.

INTELLIGENT STANDARD oil of New York said, quoting a well-known play, "If you don't want her, I want her." Standard buys Russia's oil, sells it in India and elsewhere, saving a haul of 5000 miles from our home wells. That is round two.

That our British neighbors call "Yankee treachery." End of round three.

The British Shell Company starts round four with a price cutting war, in the Indian oil market, causing Standard a loss of $1,000,000 annually, according to Standard's own statements. But Shell Oil will have to go better than that, to annoy Standard Oil seriously.

A LOSS OF FOUR or five million dollars is catalogued by Standard Oil as "petty cash" and later in other parts of the world Standard may show the British gentlemen what a real price war means.

EL IMPARTIAL AND other newspapers in Spain are displeased with President Coolidge's warm reception in Cuba, natural because this country, too, Cuba from Spain and gave the beautiful island to the Cuban people. El Imparcial says the country has reserved rights in Cuba. It has reserved only one, the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence. We not only made Cuba independent, but guarantee that she shall remain so.

ONE HUNDRED AND four delegates, representing 21 nations of North and South America including the United States, are gathered in a great conference hall in Havana. These 21 nations are the greatest power for peace in the world, also the greatest power for war, they stick together.

CANADA, WITHOUT relinquishment of loyalty to the British Empire, should be a leader in that conference. Canada's interests are in the American continent, their independence and their future.

ANTHONY ROUSCH MILLS is dead, aged 77, at Sandusky, Wyo., and is probably in heaven now talking with Lahire, that famous French bear fighter of centuries ago.

Thirty-eight years ago, Mills, turning a sharp corner in the Black Hills came face to face with a silver tipped grizzly that knocked his gun out of his hand, bit off his nose, seized him by the calf of the leg and dragged him along the trail. Rousch pulled his knife, stopped the bear's flight by holding on to a tree, cutting its jugular vein, killing the bear.

It was a good bear fight.

OLD LAHIRE'S fight is made memorable by this first prayer that Lahire had ever uttered: "Lord, I do not ask you to help Lahire, I only ask you not to help this bear." The prayer was answered and Lahire won.

ON THE TEXAS map at a central spot about equally distant from Denver, El Paso, Dallas and Kansas City, you find thriving Amarillo. Ten years ago that city's population was 15,494. Now it is 55,778 and growing rapidly, surrounded by an empire of its own, no competitive city within 200 miles. The Amarillo Empire, about as big as Ohio, with 35,000,000 acres of level, fertile land, had 150,000 people six years ago and now has more than 500,000.

CHEAP NATURAL gas, heaven knows how many barrels of oil, wheat, cotton, everything tends to make Amarillo prosperous.

But the important thing is that Amarillo celebrates its prosperity by spending $900,000 more on its public schools and intends to keep on spending, so that "school accommodations may always be ahead of the demand."

That means more to the future than all the oil, gas, wheat and cotton. Big New York and Chicago please notice.

MORE MARRIAGES—MORE DIVORCES

POLK COUNTY RECORD

Florida was given a little welcome publicity a week ago when statistics were published showing that this state showed the greatest percentage of increase in divorces. But the reason followed shortly afterward when it was stated that Florida also, in 1925, showed the greatest increase in marriages according to population.

It seems inevitable that a certain proportion of marriages shall be unsuccessful. The fact has been bemoaned for generation and many sermons have been preached about it but without checking the number of couples who "split the blanket" as the old timer from the backwoods says:

In fact the number of divorces in proportion to the marriages shows a small gain from year to year. Many ascribe this to the fact that marriage vows are taken less seriously now. It is more the south, however, that the old idea, "for better or for worse" is passing to an idea that all marriages should be "for better."

We do not mean that the modern husband or modern wife will not struggle just as hard against difficulties and try to make a success of the marriage venture as husbands or wives of the past. We believe they do. But each party wants more independence now and if they see that their struggles are unavailing or unappreciated by the other party to the point where the injured is more ready to rise up and call a halt. And the fact that a majority of the protestant churches now recognize the right of the injured party, and sometimes either party to a divorce, to marry again, demonstrates that those who divorce have the moral sanction of a good part of the religious as well as the worldly people.

We do not think the world is going to the bow-wows when a wife who has been imposed on by a drunken or cruel husband, decides to fend off for herself, making her own living and perhaps a living for her children. And it is her own business if she later seeks happiness in another marriage. A husband so imposed upon is likewise justified.

This may not be in line with the Biblical interpretation of the marriage vows as some construct them. But it is justice and leads we believe, to the greatest moral HUMAN BEINGS as a whole, like individuals, do only one thing really well. The work of the human mind is to invent and improve material, making new discoveries in science, applying them to man's material welfare. Today scientific workers are like builders installing plumbing, heating and other conveniences in a big building; later families move in and live comfortably.

Some boys will meet with misfortune and quit; others will continue to fight. A sportsman obeys the rules; he doesn't take advantage of the weak; he doesn't hit when one is down. Sportsmanship is that quality of spirit which makes you manly and keeps you within the rules of the game. And the quality that I would place next to sportsmanship is loyalty—to principles, to God, to friends and to your country. It is only bullies who swear and they are always cowardly." The words are from the lips of Gene Tunney, world's champion boxing titleholder. Head Master Hackett characterized the talk as the best speech for boys he had ever heard.

"People's Ownership of Power Companies, the Best Ownership" "Public ownership will not do, but ownership of the utilities by the people as individuals is quite another matter. The public's investment in public utility securities is much greater than is generally supposed. We must get away from the idea that public utility ownership is a big man's game." The Indianapolis Union

NO longer is the control of our public service enterprises an issue between public and private ownership. A more correct term would be "public versus political ownership." As a result of opening the doors of these companies to the participation of employees, customers, and the investing public generally as shareholders, public service organizations today in an increasing degree, are becoming great community enterprises.

Capital and management thus devote their best talents to the interests of the public. This is public ownership at its best. The electric power industry has been a leader in creating investment channels whereby the small investor may enjoy all the benefits heretofore reserved for the capitalist. In no other industry is there such widespread diffusion of ownership.

Home Economics Class Presents Exhibition

The Home Economics Class of the Sanford High School under the direction of its teachers, Mrs. A. H. Stone, and Miss Mary Hinton, presented an exhibition of the year's work on Wednesday afternoon. The class in sewing which recently entered the Butterick's national contest held its showing of frocks made by Butterick patterns. The winners of the three prizes, will have their frocks sent to the national contest for further judging.

Acting as judges on Wednesday were Mrs. Roy Symes, Mrs. Claude Herndon and Miss Mary Clinton. It was very hard to decide which was the best work, as so many won honorable mention, but the judges decided according to neatness as well as style and finally awarded the first prize, to Miss Eleanor Cameron, a freshman; the second prize was won by Miss Florence Terry, a member of the Junior Class, while Miss Hazel Varn won third prize.

Miss Varn is president of the Freshman Class, Miss Cameron's frock was of Nile green crepe de chine, beautifully made and had trimmings of rose velvet. She won the prize offered by the Yowell Co., being the cost of the dress plus five dollars in trade. Miss Terry's dress was fashioned of Nile green crepe de chine, with French touches of black velvet. She won the prize of the cost of the dress plus three dollars in trade given by the Yowell Co.

A dainty linen frock and neatly made dress made by Miss Varn which won third prize, which was the cost of the dress and two dollars in trade at the Yowell Co. Numerous other attractive dresses were displayed which showed originality and splendid workmanship. In connection with the exhibition were many lovely placards showing the costume designing which is done by the class together with specimens of fine darning on linens and silks. After the showing the guests were asked into the dining room where tasty refreshments of date squares and hot tea were served by a number of the High School students.

Miss Tressie McKae Honors Mrs. Maffett

Among the many social courtesies with which Mrs. George Maffett, a recent bride, has been honored with, one exceptional beauty and pleasure was the bridge party given Wednesday evening by Miss Tressie McKae at her home on Palmetti Avenue. An abundance of sweet pens, pancies and calculators combined with greenery were used in decorating for this affair.

Talies done in miniature brides and grooms were used in keeping scores for the interesting games of bridge and upon the completion of the fifth progression, scores were collected and the first prize, a silver vase, salt and pepper shakers went to Mrs. Robert Wright, Mr. Wright who scored the most points among the men was given a framed motto. Miss Adele Rines who held lowest score and was consoled with a hand embroidered guest towel. The men's low score prize, a match holder in the form of an elephant went to George Allen. Mrs. Maffett was presented a lovely bride's book.

Old New Englander Wonder
What Has Become of Famous Winter Weather That Was Once Food For Poets
Boston, Jan. 20.—(INS)
New England folks are figuring that there is something wrong with the weather of the section. In the good old days, the summers used to be hot, very hot, too, and the winters were wont to be very cold, with much snow piled high in the streets of Yankeland. In recent years though, the seasons have shown a tendency to swing around bit by bit as if they were seeking to exchange places with the other.

What Records Show
If such conditions continue, New England folks will be spending their summers in Virginia or the Carolinas and their winter in the far north State of Maine or Nova Scotia or Newfoundland. They will have to do so to feel at home. Here are the maximum and minimum temperatures at the Boston bureau for the past six months, three warm and three cold months, with temperatures for the same months in 1926:
Month Year Max Min
Dec. 1927 76 4
1926 51 4
Nov. 1927 77 26
1926 71 20
Oct. 1927 89 37
1926 84 36
Sept. 1927 80 47
1926 86 47
Aug. 1927 85 54
1926 94 47
July 1927 91 51
1926 103 57
