WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—Hungary's self-exiled former prime minister said today he will stay in the United States to lead a fight to restore the freedom of his homeland which he asserted was lost by "direct intervention of the Soviet Union."

The former prime minister, Ferenc Nagy, told a news conference for the cause of Hungary. He said he has not yet decided whether he deems himself "a trustee" to set up a government in exile.

Pravda Says Consul Of U. S. Had Unusual Interest In Mongolia

MOSCOW, June 17 (AP)—A Pravda dispatch from Shanghai said today travelers from Sinkiang reported that J. Hall Paxton, U. S. consul in Tihwa, visited the frontier between Russia, the Mongolian People's Republic and China in April at the instruction of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and photographed the area.

"They (the travelers) say," the Pravda correspondent wrote, "that Paxton has exhibited a special interest in recent months in the frontier districts. They say that in April he made a trip to these districts along with his driver, at the instruction of the Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army, Gen. Eisenhower. He photographed the frontier districts, was interested in the peculiarities of the local situation and other intelligence of an informative character."

"In newspaper circles in Shanghai, a statement of the (U. S.) State Department representative on a provocative report of the Chinese Central News Agency in connection with the violation of the frontier of the Mongolian People's Republic by an armed Chinese squad causes great interest."

Meanwhile, a Tass dispatch from Kiev today quoted V. V. Khomyak, Soviet chief of the UNRRA supplies department there, as saying much of the aid dispersed by the Ukrainians did not come up to the established standard because of the unfair attitude of some American firms.

St. Louis Strike Starts To Hurt City's Retailers

ST. LOUIS, June 17 (AP)—Downtown retailers today estimated their trade 30 to 40 per cent below normal as the strike of streetcar and bus operators which has paralyzed public transportation entered its fifth day.

While most workers managed to get to their jobs by ride-sharing and hitchhiking, thus holding absenteeism to about normal, spokesmen for many downtown stores described business as poor.

The usual Monday night swarms of shoppers was missing. A large furniture company advertised that its salesmen would call for customers at their homes, bring them to the store and then return the shoppers to their front doors.

Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann scheduled another conference today with representatives of the public service company and the striking operators, members of Local 788 of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees.

The union was due to reply to a company proposal to let the courts determine the validity of an arbitration award rejected by the operators.

Glades Park

Governor Caldwell, who is in Washington conducting final negotiations on the long-sought park, could not say what effect the court action would have on the park proposal.

Watson refused last Saturday to join other cabinet members of the Board of Internal Improvement fund trustees in turning over to the federal agencies 7,680 acres of school lands and mineral rights to the federal government as part of the park area.

The 1947 Legislature appropriated $2,000,000 for purchase of the private lands around an 800,000-acre area already donated to the federal government for the park. Watson contended the appropriation is an illegal and premature gift of State funds to the federal government.

He alleged the U. S. Secretary of the Interior has not determined the official boundaries of the proposed park and that the amount of money necessary to acquire all the needed property has not been fixed.

He also contended development of the park would stop widespread oil explorations in the Everglades area and "the possibility of finding oil, gas and other minerals in Florida will be greatly and permanently hampered and retarded and large revenues possibly lost to the people" of Florida.

E. G. Gano, resident of the Big Tree road, was exonerated by Judge Ware following investigation of the Sunday morning shooting of Wallace Burford, 22, of Lake Mary. Burford was reported by Sheriff Mero to have been shot by a .22 caliber bullet that entered the arm and hip and threatened Gano and attempted to enter his house after WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—Rep. Jensen (R-Iowa) said today a General Accounting Office report may show net losses of $9,000,000,000 by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Jensen told reporters that the Coleman Andrews, director of the GAO corporation audits division, has said the losses were largely on the financing of war plants, strategic war supplies, rubber development and metals reserves, on which Congress expected to lose money.

Miss Jane Cochran Honored With Tea

Miss Jane Cochran, attractive bride-elect, was complimented at a tea given by Mrs. Raymond M. Ball, Mrs. Frank Evans and Mrs. Robert E. True at the home of the latter in Lake Mary on June 17. Placed at points of interest throughout the home were colorful arrangements of Spring flowers.

The dining table was spruced with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink rose buds in a silver bowl. Dainty sandwiches, cookies, punch and nuts carried out the color scheme of pink and white. The hostesses' gift to Miss Cochran was silver in her chosen pattern.

"I was under contract to the same studio as Corry" (that's what she calls her old man), she said, "and we also had the same agent. Too many people said my husband would pull strings to get me into films. Lies, all lies. He would never do it, and I would never permit it. I left the agent and got myself a different agent so such stories would not continue."

Although she has appeared in no films, Pat receives more fan mail than many stars. Most of the fans urge her to get into pictures, particularly opposite Corry. But there's a small chance of a husband-and-wife co-starring picture.

"I want to be seen as Mrs. Cornell Wilde," she said, speaking professionally, I trust.

"This is detrimental to the experimental side of pictures. Most of us try something new and different," said Nichols, who is currently gambling on the tragic "Mourning Becomes Electra." "Every film maker should be al-

Miss Jean Whigham Honored With Tea By Mrs. J. Dingfelder, Miss Dingfelder

With one of the most beautiful social events of the season Mrs. Julia Dingfelder and her daughter, Margaret, entertained on Tuesday afternoon honoring Miss Jean Whigham, whose marriage will be a part of this month's wedding. Over the door were tiny silver-wedding bells tied with a large white satin bow. Meeting the guests at the door was Mrs. A. W. Lee and Mrs. A. W. Epps showed the guests into the living room.

The receiving line was formed in front of the mantle by Mrs. Dingfelder, Miss Whigham, Mrs. P. F. Whigham, Mrs. T. W. Jones and Miss Dingfelder. Mrs. Dingfelder wore a cotton formal of grey and black; Miss Whigham white satin and sequette. Mrs. Whigham was crowned with a crown; Mrs. Jones in an afternoon gown of rose lace and Miss Dingfelder in gold tulle. White rose bud corsages were also worn.

The living room was decorated with artistic arrangements of white roses and calla lilies. Tall white tapered vases were used in lighting the Dingfelder home. Showing the guests into the dining room were Mrs. H. E. Morris and Miss Elizabeth Whigham.

The table in the dining room was set with a white and gold cloth. A modernistic arrangement of calla lilies in a silver bowl centered the table backed with a stained glass window and flanked candleabra forming a miniature altar.

On the table was a wedding invitation tied with white satin and the silver wedding bells. At both ends of the table were crystal punch bowls which were presided over by Mrs. S. C. Chase and Mrs. W. A. Leffer for the first hour and for the second by Mrs. J. P. Ridge and Miss Joyce Helt. Silver plates held nuts and nuts. Tall silver vases held yucca blossoms backed with pink tulle on the buffet table. Heavy trays on the center held a white candle and calla lilies with their foliage tied with a white bow.

Served with the punch were tiny white heart shaped cakes with J W inscribed in red letters, anachronism, with capers, appetizer sandwiches and some made-minta and nuts.

Mrs. P. H. Topic led the guests to the guest book on the porch which was presided over by Mrs. B. L. Perkins, Jr. and Miss Kathryn Wiggins. The book was placed on a card table with a few arrangements of wild orchids and red and white candles. Magnolia and yucca blossoms were used in an arrangement in a tall white jardiniere on the outside porch.

Mrs. Dingfelder's gift to Miss Whigham was a steak set in the Ghent pattern and Miss Dingfelder gave her a bride's book.

Entertaining hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Hamilton Bishop, Mrs. Helen Schultz, Mrs. John Hughes, Mrs. Gene Harrison, and the Misses Elizabeth Pitts, Jean Harper, Martha Wight, Audrey Bach, Daphne Connelly, Betty Jo Brock and Dorothy Canale.

About 120 guests called during the afternoon.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH, wearing the uniform of Colonel of the Grenadier of Guards, rides side saddle at the official birthday celebration of King George VI in London, making a public appearance on horseback at an official function. The Princess rode the show at the Trooping of the Color ceremony. (International)

It is expected the United States farm and home demonstration groups affiliated with the international outfit will send about 175 delegates to the World Conference on Food and Nutrition, held in London, England, from June 25 to July 10.

The American group, which is called the Countrywomen's Council of the United States, is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Spencer Ewing of Bloomington, Ill. Ninety-five percent of its membership are actual farm women.

All during the war in many nations the groups affiliated with the Associated Countrywomen of the World worked through a subcommittee on a program for reconstruction. This included surveys and stud-

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON—People came from Chicago, Boston and Baltimore recently to help members of the Washington Art Council conduct a symposium on the subject of raising the cultural status of the capital city.

The council is thinking in terms of making Washington an art center. So far, James H. Whyte, Chairman of the council, says consideration of the program is merely of an "investigatory nature."

Inc. Boulton, former President of the University of Chicago's Renaissance Society, in discussing how Chicago achieved its status culturally said:

"We made art fun. We took away the awe of art that some people have. This sort of thing should come here, but it would mean sacrifices for many of you to insure its success."

Miss Boulton didn't elaborate on the sacrifices entailed, but James S. Flaut, director of the Boston Institute of Modern Art, said he'd like to feel that Washington might lead the nation in cultural as well as "formal government."

Ray H. Everett, director of the District of Columbia Social Hygiene Society, who has handled more than 16,000 marriage clients, believes the "worst is over in the nation's seven-year divorce epidemic."

However, he says what we really must worry about is the long range increase in divorce, which he says "goes on despite the end of war-born marriage difficulties."

Everett pointed out that as long ago as 1932, sociologists and statisticians warned that by 1947, America's increasing divorces will soar to one for every two marriages.

He lists five great causes of divorce as follows:

1. Financial insecurity.
2. Sexual maladjustments.
3. Recreational differences.
4. Health hazards.
5. Religious differences.

"But underlying all," he says, "the greatest enemy to marriage is emotional immaturity."

The War Assets Administration has sold $16,000,000,000 in surplus property—from false teeth to factories.

These items went at bargain prices—one-third the cost which the government paid for the things, bought to wage war from grits to grazing land.

Farm Women Of 20 Nations To Meet

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—In September farm women representing 20 nations will meet in Amsterdam, Holland, to discuss problems that touch the lives of rural people the world over.

Food, health, housing, education and just the plain personal adjustment of family life to a post-war world are on the agenda.

The women are members of the Associated Countrywomen of the World, organized in Vienna, Austria, in 1930 and now boasting a membership of more than 8,000,000.

The last meeting of the group, which normally meets every three years, was in London in 1939. It met in Washington in 1936.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 18, 1947—Patricia Knight, if you please, and not Mrs. Cornell Wilde. This adlet does not mean a marital blow-up; it's merely a wife's effort to carve a career for herself.

Affand, Pat would seem a natural for pictures. The Boston, Mass., gal is a beautiful blonde, brown-eyed with a tooth-paste smile. Unlike most Hollywood lovelies, she has had experience on the stage.

Yet, after several years here, she is just now appearing in her first movie. It's "Roses Are Red" and she makes no bones about the fact that it is a lie. "That is the way to learn—step by step," she declared. "The reason for her slow progress thus far is her husband."

"I was under contract to the same studio as Corry" (that's what she calls her old man), she said, "and we also had the same agent. Too many people said my husband would pull strings to get me into films. Lies, all lies. He would never do it, and I would never permit it. ### India's Potentates loved, at the cross-roads of their existence. They are on their way out, but the manner of their exit will be determined as India progresses in self-government. Many of the minor rulers of tiny states can be disposed of summarily, but there are powerful sovereigns of great states who can't be dismissed so lightly.

The so-called native states ruled by the princes comprise two-fifths of the territory of India and have a population of some 90,000,000, over one-fifth of the country's population. The rest of the country is made up of the provinces of British India.

These two great areas present entirely different problems. In British India we have the Hindu-Muslim feud which has resulted in that part of the country being partitioned into two independent states — Hindustan (Hindu) and Pakistan (Moslem). But complicated as is the position in British India, it is ten-fold more so in the native states.

The British government has said that it will give every encouragement to the hundreds of princes to affiliate either with Hindustan or Pakistan. England aims at achieving as united an India as possible, but will not deny the native states the right to establish independent states if they so desire.

However, the All-India Congress Party, which is dominant in Hindustan, has announced that it is against any native state declaring its independence of the two new dominions of Pakistan and Hindustan. On the other hand, Mahomed Ali Jinnah, president of the Muslim League and prospective head of the state of Pakistan, says the princely states will be free to adopt any course they like.

There we have the makings of more strife, and it may be bloody. The great native states of the viceroy and Hyderabad already have signified their intention of declaring their independence, and they have standing armies with which to back up their intentions. At least 49 states maintain troops under treaty agreement with Britain, and other states have feudal forces.

Several important native states have indicated their intention of joining Hindustan, and the likelihood is that many others will affiliate themselves with either Hindu or Moslem. But it will be surprising if some of the major states don't follow Hyderabad and Travancore in a stance for absolute independence.

How far any native state, no matter how powerful, will get in an effort to establish sovereignty is problematical. It will have opposition from Hindustan and perhaps from its own people. Take Hyderabad for example. This is the premier Indian state and its ruler, the Nizam, is reputed to be the richest man in the world. His jewels alone are estimated to be worth $1,500,000,000. He has 15,000,000 subjects and his resources are huge.

But the Nizam is a Moslem, and three quarters of his people are Hindus. The All-India Congress Party is powerful in Hyderabad and has signified its intention of resisting any attempt by the Nizam to establish an independent state. The Congress Party wants to affiliate with Hindustan.

So there are plenty of prospects of further civil strife before the princely problem is settled. While the extent of that can't be foreseen, one thing is clear: the whole set-up is such that the Indian potentates are headed for eventual extinction.

Greeks Plan

to the Greek government on May 26, that the $300,000,000 American program had been authorized by Congress, a note from the Greek government on June 15 expressing thanks for the benevolent interest of a great and friendly nation in the welfare of Greece, and a note of June 18 from the United States accepting the Greek assurances.

The latter note stated that Ambassador Lincoln McVeigh has been authorized to negotiate a formal assistance agreement with the Greek government.

That agreement is supposed to be signed in Athens today or tomorrow. (Of the $400,000,000 Greek-Turkish aid program, $300,000,000 is to be spent for relief and military aid to Greece.)

The United States note today declared "this government notes with satisfaction the assurances of the Greek government that American aid will be effectively utilized in accordance with the purposes for which it is being extended."

President Truman has defined those purposes as being first to promote Greek reconstruction and second to prevent the spread of Communism and totalitarian government into that country.

The Greeks said they recognized that the "extensive aid of the United States will not alone be sufficient to meet the large costs of restoring public order and reconstructing reproductive facilities over a period of years."

The Greek government accepted responsibility for the task before it and declared:

"This responsibility entails the composing of internal differences, the collection of more revenues, the rebuilding of foreign trade, the conservation of foreign exchange, the reconstruction of public works, the improvement of government administration, assistance and guidance to agriculture and industry, establishment of protective labor measures, encouragement of democratic organizations among economic and social groups, measures to control inflation and ensure equitable distribution of supplies and services, and the restraint of excesses and extravagances on the part of any segments of the population."

The stink pot terrapin of North America is so called because of its offensive, protective odor which it secretes.

Father Kills Two

Deas had killed his children for fear they would be taken from him and put in a home. The detective sergeant said Russell blamed the Wolfe's for his "troubles."

"those people were always bothering me," Deas quoted Russell as saying. "They weren't going to put my children in a home."

Deas, in reconstructing the affair, said Russell apparently killed his children, and then, "berserk," rushed into Wolfe's office and shot the couple.

At city-owned Jackson Memorial Hospital, physicians said both Wolfe and his wife, Ethel, might die from their wounds. Wolfe was shot twice, one bullet entering his throat and the other his left hand. Mrs. Wolfe also was wounded twice, in the left shoulder and in the left side.

The shootings occurred at 8:40 A. M., Deas said, in the thickly populated northwest section of Allapattah where stores were being opened and children were thronging into Andrew Jackson summer school across the street.

Charges were not immediately preferred against Russell, a slight, wiry man. Deas said he was informed that Russell was separated from his wife.

The slang phrase, "third degree," is believed to have been suggested by the third masonic degree, that of master mason, which is conferred with considerable ceremony.

That is the highest country in the world, consisting of tablelands averaging 16,000 feet above the sea and valleys between 12,000 and 17,500 feet above the sea.

Socialist Leader Hits Wallace On Communist Policy Truman Calls On Public To Reduce Highway Fatalities

NEW YORK, June 18, (AP)—Socialist Leader Norman Thomas asked Henry A. Wallace today in an open letter: "Do you reject the theory that Communist totalitarianism, using the Red army and its other army, the International Communist Movement, is relentlessly, patiently and boldly seeking world power?"

Writing as chairman of the Post War World Council, Thomas continued in a letter he made public: "If you reject this theory, on what grounds do you explain the Russian tactics in Korea, Manchuria, the Balkans, Hungary, Austria and Germany—or the Communist party policies throughout the world?"

Thomas, commenting on the former Vice-President's speech in Washington Monday night, told him: "With a great many of your specific proposals and with your estimate of the value of a third party (but not if it is government controlled) I am in agreement. Emphatically, I agree that peace must be sought boldly on better lines than the Truman administration is now following."

"But I have grave doubts about your own program for peace," Thomas declared, adding that Wallace might "possibly" remove some of the doubts by answering his questions. The New Republic magazine, which Wallace edits, said the letter had been received but Wallace had not seen it.

WASHINGTON, June 18, (AP)—President Truman today applauded a "sharp and gratifying decline" in the nation's traffic casualties, but called on highway users and officials to reduce still further the "appalling" annual toll.

"We have won a major victory in the campaign against carelessness," said Mr. Truman in an address prepared for the opening session of his Second Highway Safety Conference.

Noting that at least 4,500 lives were saved last year as measured against "the black record" of prewar 1941, when 40,000 fatalities occurred, Mr. Truman declared the safety campaign is "well started, but it is by no means done."

"Last year 35,500 men, women and children died as a result of highway accidents, and well over 1,000,000 were injured," he said. "That is a tribute to inefficiency; this nation cannot afford to pay." Mr. Truman urged improvements in the state licensing of drivers. He recalled his assurance at the first conference last year that the federal government has no desire to "encroach on state jurisdiction in this field," but he said Congress will "not sit idly by in the face of a grievous national accident toll."

In too many sections, Mr. Truman declared, "the licensing laws are nothing more than revenue measures and their administration a travesty on public safety."

Uniform census systems will eliminate the "dangerously unlit and the dangerously irresponsible" from our streets and highways, he said, are a basic weapon in the war on accidents.

The federal-state development of traffic arteries under the Highway Act of 1944 will make a permanent contribution to accident prevention, Mr. Truman predicted, along with the driver-training programs initiated at last year's safety meeting.

FRANCE, Britain Agree

gely a planning board and that the new commission would be an operational and functional organization.

Russia already is a member of the U.N. Economic Commission for Europe, but the new body was considered important enough to warrant a separate status. France asked Russia last week if she would exchange views on Marshall's proposals for the overall reconstruction and recovery of Europe, but Moscow has not replied.

Bidault will go soon to London to exchange ratification accords on the French-British alliance, the cabinet decided. Bidault and Bevin conferred before the French cabinet met. The National Assembly's foreign affairs committee, headed by Communist Leader Marcel Cachin, demanded from Bidault's report on his current diplomatic negotiations. The committee also directed that a report be prepared on the foreign ministry's budget credits.

The presence of a leading Communist at the head of the assembly's foreign affairs committee had necessitated some caution by Bidault for domestic reasons, in his talks with Bevin. It was for this reason that France suggested an exchange of views with Russia before entering full scale negotiations on the Marshall plan.

U.S. Paper Executives Confer With Atlee

LONDON, June 18, (AP)—The 21 American newspaper executives making a world tour talked informally today with Prime Minister Atlee after flying in from Shannon with one of their Constellation plane's four engines dead. A crew member said the engine got "a little rough" and was shut off as a precaution.

Immigration and customs officials at the London airport checked off the editors and publishers swiftly. From the Prime Minister's residence, they were to go to a party given in their honor by U. S. Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas. Lord Beaverbrook, publisher of the Daily Express and Evening Standard, will give them a dinner tonight.

Professor Reports On Rocket Ships

CHICAGO, June 18, (AP)—A Purdue University professor said today that an-carrying rocket ships capable of shooting out beyond the pull of gravity can be developed as soon as problems of cooling and controls are solved and without awaiting the advent of atomic power.

Dr. J. M. Zucrow, professor of jet propulsion and gas turbines at Purdue said a multi-step rocket, constructed so that each step or section drops away as soon as its propellant is exhausted, could be developed with available materials and fuels to attain the required speed.

FSU Application Is Sent To Washington

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 18 (AP)—Charles L. Ledford, district construction office manager of the Jacksonville office of Housing Expediter, said he had forwarded to Washington the application of Florida State University to construct a music hall for $1,500,000.

Ledford said his office was not empowered to approve such an application but could reject any application exceeding the million dollar mark.

State officials authorized the construction in 1941 but work on it was deferred because of the war. Plans call for revolutionary design and perfect soundproofing throughout.

Dulles Hits Red Policy As Leading To Possible War

EVANSTON, Ill., June 18, (AP)—John Foster Dulles, State Department adviser, said today that the Russian policy of setting up "police states" may lead to widespread violence and even war.

Dulles, in an address prepared for the 89th annual commencement at Northwestern University, said "there is no reason to believe that the effort of Soviet leaders to impose widely their system of government will stop of its own accord."

"If it stops, it will be not because something stops it," Dulles declared, adding, "that something will be either violent resistance, or a moral resistance so solid that to oppose it would be futile. Clearly, Americans must see to it that there is a peaceful stoppage."

Dulles said the United States was "in an awkward position to organize" such a movement, "because, at the moment, our motives are suspect. That suspicion is found even among such historic and understanding friends as the British and French."

The first phase of the United States' quest for peace must be to restore the nation's moral influence, Dulles said. "The United States," he added, must make it clear, beyond a doubt, "that it has no thought of using economic or military might to impose on others its particular way of life."

The State Department adviser, who accompanied Secretary of State Marshall to the recent ministers' conference in Moscow, received the honorary doctor of laws degree.
