However, what Granddaddy Jenkins wants to know is—who paid for the drink?

Citrus Exposition Opens Saturday

WINTER HAVEN—With what they describe as "outstanding and full cooperation from the industry," the officials of the Florida Citrus Exposition, which opens Saturday, said today they will present "the biggest and best citrus show in the history of the state."

"Although we have completely revised our format to present the citrus industry of Florida in all its segments and phases and have adopted some brand new policies, growers, such as those represented by Florida Citrus Mutual, the Florida Citrus Commission, Florida Canners Association and agencies have taken our word that we would present something entirely different from the past and have gone with us all the way," Winston Lawless, citrus grower and shipper, president of the Exposition, said today.

The opening day parade Saturday, starting at 9:30 a.m., will get the Exposition off to a good start, Lawless said, "and from then on—with the exception of Sunday—there will be something doing all the time and we hope to exceed, or the first time the 200,000 mark in this decade."

The opening day will be observed as "All Florida" and "Children's Day." Monday, Feb. 11, is to be "Imperial Polk County Day." Tuesday, "Canners and By-Products Day." Wednesday, marking the close of the annual Florida Citrus Queen contest as "Coronation Day." Thursday will be observed as "Fresh Fruit Day," with a 2 p.m. program in Nona Mayo Auditorium of the Florida citrus building featured by the awarding of prize in the annual fresh fruit competition. Friday is booked as "Agriculture Day" with a noon luncheon featuring Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, Governor LeRoy Collins, Senator Speasard Holland, and honoring Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo for 35 years of service. The closing day, Saturday, will be observed as "4-H and Future Farmers of America Day," featuring the best cattle exhibited by youngsters of the two groups.

Citrus men over the state have been invited to attend the revamped "Fruitmen's Dinner," designed to bring together hundreds of industry people—this to be staged Thursday at 4 p.m. in the National Guard Armory here. "We believe people will find this a refreshing feature and we will have more requests for tickets than we can handle," Lawless said.

Some 16 years ago a 90-pound box of Florida oranges yielded 494 ounces of juice for concentrating and then freezing into cans. Now the yield of a 90-pound box is around 717 ounces.

Mother never bore down on an orange like that, and the investigations of two chemists now indicate that machines can't bear down on them much harder without squeezing so much juice from the peels as to make the over-all orange juice flavor disagreeable.

Lyle James Swift and M. K. Veldhuis of the U. S. Citrus Product Station at Winter Haven, Fla., gave a tasting panel of men and women pure orange peel juice to drink. All agreed that it was bitter.

When peel juice was added to whole orange juice to the amount of three per cent, a significant majority of the tasters detected it.

The scientists made very detailed chemical comparisons among orange peel, juice, commercial orange juice concentrates, and the juice which they themselves ex-

Machines Squeeze Oranges Harder

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Science has found there is a practical limit to how hard a machine can squeeze an orange in order to get out the very last drop of juice for concentration and freezing.

In our nation of orange juice drinkers, it has to be a matter for public concern that increasingly efficient machines have been squeezing oranges harder and harder.

traced from segments of oranges with sufficient but not undue hand pressure. They also compared early season oranges with mid-season and late-season ones.

In solids dissolvable in water, the peel juice was somewhat and irregularly higher, but in total sugars and sucrose there wasn't much to choose from between peel and pulp. In all categories the hand-pressed segment juice and the machine-pressed whole orange juice were comparable.

Interestingly there were marked breakdowns of early, mid, and late season oranges. Sucrose content increased as the season progressed and so late oranges were higher in total sugars. But the juice of early season oranges was higher in vitamin C than late season oranges. The difference was almost right to one, the chemists said in a report to a technical journal of the American Chemical Society.

Only the Mercury Monterey 4-door sedan offers all these features at such a low price!

- Style—The glamorous Monterey 4-door has two distinct advantages for sedan enthusiasts: it has the clean, crisp hardtop look, plus conventional sedan rigidity. Bright metal moldings frame the windows and conceal the thin, strong center posts.
- Size—Lowest, widest car in its field... most spacious interiors in its field... easier rear seat entrance... giant trunk capacity (34 cu. ft.) and widest trunk opening in its field.
- Visibility—Full rear-seat vision... largest back window, up to 50% more glass area.
- Engines—Most powerful engine for the money as standard equipment... highest standard compression ratio for the money... Thermo-Matic four-barrel carburetor as standard equipment... three-way transmission choice.
- Features—Full-Cushion Shock Absorbers... swept-back ball-joint front suspension... reinforced box-section frame... front-hinged hood... triple-braced roof panel... glass fiber roof panel insulation... rear windows go all the way down—not just half way as in some competitive cars.

It was nearly eight-thirty when I reached home. The apartment was empty, but Steve had been there. He had changed into an old pair of more comfortable slacks and gone out again, possibly to look for me. I said the register under a love seat cushion in the living room and started out to look for him.

Migraine Headaches Strike Children, Too

By MIRIAM M. BUNDELMAN, M.D.

MOST children have headaches from time to time. That's not too unusual.

But if your youngster has them regularly, or even frequently, better have him see your physician. It may be migraine.

Surprisingly enough, children can have migraines just as readily as adults. In fact, cases of migraine have been reported in children only 14 years old.

Average Case

A Mayo Clinic study by Drs. Edmund G. Burke and Gustav A. Peters has developed an "average" case of child migraine. Let's see how your youngster compares to this average case.

Generally, attacks occur in 7-year-old boy, although ages, of course, vary and girls can be stricken almost as readily as boys. This young migraine victim is a good student, but he is nervous and somewhat emotional.

Frontal Headache

When he comes home he is rather pale and complains of a frontal headache. Surveys show that many times such headaches are precipitated by emotional or physical exertion, motion, television or bright sunshine.

Anyway, his mother gives him an aspirin and puts him to bed.

YOU'RE TELLING ME!

By WILLIAM RITT

SUBURBS of Los Angeles experienced their first snowfall in eight years. Wonder how many natives mistook it for a new kind of white-hued smog?

During a riot at an Arab soccer game, one player was shot and two houses set fire. Story didn't say who was penalized for unnecessary roughness.

A record million persons visited London's National Art gallery in 1956. We'll bet a lot of 'em mistook it for the other kind of picture show.

Six big shot industrial executives failed miserably when they tried to pass an intelligence test.

pupil at the Crescent School of Dancing. The music for the victim's last lesson, a waltz, was still playing.

The engagement book was missing, but it would only be a question of time before the murderer's identity was discovered. The fact that he had stolen the book proved conclusively that Miss Farrell's killer was her last pupil, the waiter.

I tucked the newspaper under my arm and started slowly for Lexington Avenue and home. I unlocked the door and went into the living room. Folded up on the love seat lay the waiter. He was sound asleep.

I shook him.

"Steve," I said, "Steve, wake up!"

Without opening his eyes he smiled at me. "Hiya, Blondie, where you been? When you weren't home I went to a movie."

"Steve," I said, trying to keep my voice steady, "Steve, you're in trouble. . . . Trouble that you won't be able to handle."

He opened one eye. "Huh?"

"Your dancing teacher. . . . Anita Farrell. . . . the Crescent School, Steve. . . ."

"Oh," he said, smiling sleepily at me, amused by my new color scheme. "You know about me dancing. Well, I'll tell you, I can explain everything. . . ."

"Steve, wake up! There's been a murder! And the police are looking for you!"

"The police. . . . looking for me?"

"It was your teacher who was murdered. The police think you did it. They're looking for you because they think you're the killer."

He stood up. He was wide awake now. "Did you say Anita Farrell was murdered? That I. . . I'm the murderer?"

I handed him the newspaper, waited until he had read the story. Then I told him my story, starting with my trailing him downtown, ending with my reading in the paper that only he could be the waiter. I showed him the slippers I had taken from the dead girl's hand. I listened silently to it all.

"The police," he said, "don't know yet that I'm the waiter."

"No, because I stole the appointment book."

"But they'll soon know. There must be other records at the school."

"Yes," I said. "It's only a question of time. They'll know. . . . and they'll be coming after you. Steve!"

"Yeah?"

"I know you didn't kill her."

"Thanks."

"Deep down in my heart I know you're not a murderer."

"Thanks again."

"But. . . ."

"But what?"

Suddenly it was all too much for me. I collapsed into a blubbering heap. My eyes were streaming tears, my shoulders shaking, my hands trembling as I implored my husband to assure me, though it wasn't at all necessary. . . . but just for the record, to please say out loud for me to hear that he had not killed Anita Farrell.

"Connie," he said and sat down beside me on the love seat. "Connie," he said, "I went through grade school, high school and a certain amount of Sunday school without rubbing out any of my teachers. With an enviable record like that how can there be any doubt that I could do the same with dancing school?"

He dried my tears. He got up and walked around the room, then sat down again, this time on the arm of a love seat. He was thoughtful, wondering, and mostly worried.

"She was alive when I left her," he said. "Somebody got into that studio between the time I left her and the time you went in and found her dead."

"No," I said, "nobody did. I was watching all the time."

"Connie, somebody. . . . somebody. . . . got in there and put a bullet in her back."

"How, Steve? There's only one door, no windows."

"Could anyone possibly have got through that door without your seeing him? Couldn't you possibly be wrong about that?"

I thought hard; I prayed that I could be wrong about it. I said, "I never took my eyes off that door. Nobody opened it between the times you and I did."

"Well," Steve said, "that's that."

"There's an answer to this. We've got to find it."

Steve roamed the room as though he were physically searching for that answer. I stayed where I was. Neither of us was using the right method. The silence of our frustration lengthened into minutes. At last Steve dropped desperately into the love seat opposite mine. He looked at the slippers on the coffee table. He picked it up, studied it.

"Yes," I said, "and what about that?"

"The killer probably put it in her hand after she shot her."

"But why, Steve?"

"I don't know."

"Steve," I said, and what I was thinking sent a chill through me. "Steve, it's like voodoo, isn't it? That needle through her silhouette is like a needle through a doll's heart. . . . a box. Maybe the murderer handed it to her before he killed her, let her get the significance of it. Maybe he wanted her to suffer for a horrible moment before she died."

A policeman was knocking at Steve's door as "The Blonde Died Dancing" continues here tomorrow.

Rollins Animated Magazine To Be Heard On Feb. 24

It talks! People hear it instead of read it!

That's the Rollins College Animated Magazine, which comes alive for the 30th time Sunday afternoon, Feb. 24 on the Rollins campus.

The only living magazine in the world, the Animated Magazine highlights the annual Rollins Founders Week program each February. Thousands come from all over Florida to hear world-famous people discuss timely topics.

This year's magazine will focus on the two hot spots of the world, Hungary and Egypt. Manager Bela Varga, leader of exiled Hungarians of the world will talk about his country. He is the officially elected president of the Hungarian Parliament, and is closely associated with Cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty.

The Egyptian situation and problems will be discussed by Sir Saba Habschy, member of three Egyptian cabinets. He was knighted by the British, and although a friend of Nasser's declined to accept a post in his cabinet.

Others making their appearance will be Dr. You Chan Yang, Korean Ambassador to U.S. Gen. Mark, noted American novelist and for many years one of Hollywood's top-flight writer-producers; Roy Crane, originator of the Buzz Sawyer comic strip; Ollie Edmunds, president of Stetson University, and others.

The Animated Magazine is free to the public, although several hundred seats are being reserved for those who want them. Reserved tickets may be obtained by writing Miss Chloé Lyle, cashier, Rollins College, Winter Park, and enclosing check or money order with a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Fairs and festivals are fun but they sure take a lot out of you. Especially after you have reached the rocking-chair stage. Feeling sorry about some of the mean weather she turned out last year, Mother Nature must have decided to give us a break for the 1967 Florida State Fair and Gasparilla Carnival.

Anyhow, we have had dewaright summer weather with sunshine every day to say nothing of temperatures in the high 80s. It brings out the crowds even if it does wilt down their collars.

Exhibits this year were outstanding and I never saw displays to equal some of those presented. Magnificent showings of fruits and vegetables, slick cattle, informative and educational commercial shows and so on.

Highlight of the Electrical Exposition this year was a Miracle Kitchen sponsored by RCA Whirlpool-Searo Corporation. It is a housewife's push-button dream.

Everything is automatic. The little lady simply sits at a control center and with a wave of her hand or the push of a button prepares complete meals in minutes. She can get supper, wash the dishes or even scrub the floor dressed in her evening gown, for the only work she has to do is decide what she wants done and the Reddy Kilowatts jump all about the place at her command doing all sorts of chores.

To set the table she pushes a button designing which dishes or silver she wants and presto a rack containing just what she asks for comes out of hiding from behind a wall panel and actually rolls over to the table, electrically controlled from the floor. When she has removed the things she wants, it quietly glides back to its nest.

A complete dinner, hot or cold, is at all times sitting on its haunches ready to jump out at her push of a button. Her electronic and cook or prepare itself at the swiftest of speeds. It will provide steaming hot coffee, bacon and eggs, toast and jam, ready to eat in a couple of minutes.

When the meal is over the table is cleared, dishes washed, pots and pans scoured and the kitchen floor scrubbed and polished with a wave of the hand. Just watching this amazing show makes a housewife drool like a starving dog.

As I watched the demonstration I got to wondering what would happen if papa came home late some night and wanted a snack but didn't wish to disturb the little woman. Comfortably oiled he steps into the Miracle Kitchen and starts pushing buttons.

Boy, all xxx would break loose. Pots and pans would start galloping hither and yon, dishes would begin dancing about the room, an 11 pound turkey might pop out of the refrigerator and into the electronic oven, pickles would begin chasing him out of jars, a gadget that looks like a vacuum cleaner would begin chasing him around the room dispensing soap power, hot water or maybe wax, depending on what buttons he pushed. A color television set in the wall would break out in picture song.

When he reached for the coffee he would probably find his cup filled with ice cold Coca Cola, and his ham sandwich stuffed with noodle soup. It could really prove a genuine disaster for anyone to start monkeying with the controls if he didn't have a degree in engineering and was not working from a blueprint.

Nuclear Power Plant Prospects Are Step Nearer

MIAMI. — "Prospects for a nuclear power plant for Florida, using atomic energy for fuel, have moved a step nearer," said Robert H. Pitt, president and general manager of Florida Power & Light Company, in announcing that Dr. Walter H. Zinn, formerly of the Argonne National Laboratory, has become associated with the Florida Nuclear Power Group in the capacity of consultant-advisor.

"Dr. Zinn, as president of the General Nuclear Engineering Corporation, of Dunedin, has been engaged to develop the conceptual design of a power reactor of an advanced type for what is expected to be Florida's first plant to use energy for fuel," Pitt said.

Agreement for the consultant-advisor relationship was signed by Zinn, as president of General Nuclear Engineering, and by William C. MacInnes, president of Tampa Electric Company, as chairman of the Florida Nuclear Power Group. The Florida Nuclear Power Group, in addition to the Tampa company, includes Florida Power Corporation, of St. Petersburg, and Florida Power & Light Company, of Miami.

Dr. Zinn, who has been identified with history-making phases of nuclear development, graduated from Columbia University in 1929. He was associated with Dr. Enrico Fermi who supervised construction of the first nuclear chain reactor at Chicago in 1942.

He became director of the Argonne project in 1946. Under his direction, Argonne developed many reactors, including the first one to power an electric generator.

He was the first president of the American Nuclear Society, served as chairman of the Review Board of the United States Atomic Energy Commission Reactor Handbook and is a member of the National Academy of Sciences.

To set the table she pushes a button designing which dishes or silver she wants and presto a rack containing just what she asks for comes out of hiding from behind a wall panel and actually rolls over to the table, electrically controlled from the floor. When she has removed the things she wants, it quietly glides back to its nest.

A complete dinner, hot or cold, is at all times sitting on its haunches ready to jump out at her push of a button. Her electronic and cook or prepare itself at the swiftest of speeds. It will provide steaming hot coffee, bacon and eggs, toast and jam, ready to eat in a couple of minutes.

When the meal is over the table is cleared, dishes washed, pots and pans scoured and the kitchen floor scrubbed and polished with a wave of the hand. Just watching this amazing show makes a housewife drool like a starving dog.

As I watched the demonstration I got to wondering what would happen if papa came home late some night and wanted a snack but didn't wish to disturb the little woman. Comfortably oiled he steps into the Miracle Kitchen and starts pushing buttons.

Boy, all xxx would break loose. Pots and pans would start galloping hither and yon, dishes would begin dancing about the room, an 11 pound turkey might pop out of the refrigerator and into the electronic oven, pickles would begin chasing him out of jars, a gadget that looks like a vacuum cleaner would begin chasing him around the room dispensing soap power, hot water or maybe wax, depending on what buttons he pushed. A color television set in the wall would break out in picture song.

When he reached for the coffee he would probably find his cup filled with ice cold Coca Cola, and his ham sandwich stuffed with noodle soup. It could really prove a genuine disaster for anyone to start monkeying with the controls if he didn't have a degree in engineering and was not working from a blueprint.

Nuclear Power Plant Prospects Are Step Nearer

MIAMI. — "Prospects for a nuclear power plant for Florida, using atomic energy for fuel, have moved a step nearer," said Robert H. Pitt, president and general manager of Florida Power & Light Company, in announcing that Dr. Walter H. Zinn, formerly of the Argonne National Laboratory, has become associated with the Florida Nuclear Power Group in the capacity of consultant-advisor.

"Dr. Zinn, as president of the General Nuclear Engineering Corporation, of Dunedin, has been engaged to develop the conceptual design of a power reactor of an advanced type for what is expected to be Florida's first plant to use energy for fuel," Pitt said.

Agreement for the consultant-advisor relationship was signed by Zinn, as president of General Nuclear Engineering, and by William C. MacInnes, president of Tampa Electric Company, as chairman of the Florida Nuclear Power Group. The Florida Nuclear Power Group, in addition to the Tampa company, includes Florida Power Corporation, of St. Petersburg, and Florida Power & Light Company, of Miami.

Dr. Zinn, who has been identified with history-making phases of nuclear development, graduated from Columbia University in 1929. He was associated with Dr. Enrico Fermi who supervised construction of the first nuclear chain reactor at Chicago in 1942.

He became director of the Argonne project in 1946. Under his direction, Argonne developed many reactors, including the first one to power an electric generator.

Other making their appearance will be Dr. You Chan Yang, Korean Ambassador to U.S. Gen. Mark, noted American novelist and for many years one of Hollywood's top-flight writer-producers; Roy Crane, originator of the Buzz Sawyer comic strip; Ollie Edmunds, president of Stetson University, and others.

The Animated Magazine is free to the public, although several hundred seats are being reserved for those who want them. Reserved tickets may be obtained by writing Miss Chloé Lyle, cashier, Rollins College, Winter Park, and enclosing check or money order with a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Keeping Community Clean Is Important Duty for Everyone

Keeping our community clean is an important duty—conducive to your health, happiness and comfort.

Cooperative efforts to give communities thorough cleaning at least once a year were taken about 47 years ago. Their purpose was to teach the importance of continuous cleanliness in and about the home.

At first the campaign was devoted to adding homes and yards of rubbish and waste that had accumulated during the winter months. Later the campaigns were spread over a week or longer. Not only is an effort made to collect and cart away the winter's accumulation of waste, but many communities also undertake programs of fire prevention, education and home beautification.

Carports, garages, cellars, attics, backyards, vacant lots, alleys, streets—in fact every spot in the city, whether on public or private property, comes under scrutiny by public officials and citizens' committees.

In recent years the movement has spread so rapidly that today practically every city has a spring campaign, some repeating the effort in the fall, during Fire Prevention Week, as done here in Sanford by the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce. Many others, according to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, make a continuing year-round campaign.

Since we individually in this community stand to benefit greatly from this activity, we all should do our share of the work. Then the rewards and health and comfort will result.

Here in Sanford there are a number of eyesores.

One that is particularly resented by visitors is the fact that there is grass growing from our sidewalks. Several times this has been called to the attention of your newspaper.

Vacant lots which come under the glances of our visitors are strewn with papers and trash, beer cans, bottles, and growing weeds.

In one spot in the downtown section, one area from First St. on through to Seminole Boulevard appears as a terrible billboard of wild grass, rusty railroad tracks, papers, trash and an unclean atmosphere. Frankly, this entire area should be used as a downtown parking lot after being properly paved and beautified.

Vacant property in Sanford could sometimes be worth the price that is being asked if it were kept trim and neat. This problem we know has been attacked by the Board of Sanford City Commission but with no results so far. Property owners, knowing that the law demands that these lots be kept clean, would no doubt either sell them for home building or keep them clean and presentable.

Sanford, in its present bid for growth and expansion, should more than ever before, keep its front yards clean and presentable to those who are looking for a new business location or a new homesite.

Ghost Writer

Some years ago, a famous public man surprised the press with an unexpectedly witty speech. Hitherto, in his many addresses he had usually been innocent of the symptoms of wit and humor. How did it happen that he was suddenly witty? The problem was easily solved: the eminent man had gotten hold of a new ghost writer.

A startling and even shocking proportion of the speeches, articles and books written by living candidates for immortality are actually turned out by ghost writers. In some instances, the great men do not have the time to write their own speeches, or all of them. But whether they do or not, how can we accept their speeches as their own? There are instances of public men who do not see their own speeches until they rise in public to deliver them.

In the case of articles or books, what is the intellectual morality of public men who sign their names to work which they hire someone to write for them? There may be quotations from books they have not read, citations of facts they have not investigated, even thoughts and ideas their ghosts gave them.

Isn't it better to be less grammatical, less perfect, less erudite, and to write your own words and thoughts, than to hire people to give you a more important intellectual facade?

The Board of Sanford City Commissioners also approved a request that a survey of the City be made for a reserve unit. No cost is attached to the survey, according to City Manager Warren E. Knowles.

A site for the location of an archery range is still being sought by city officials. Locations surveyed by the originator of the idea, Jim Scott, and the City Manager were turned down by the Board of Commissioners.

doubtedly be retained and used as a housekeeping unit."

Krider said this morning that "the mere fact that the Navy is investing over two million dollars in improvements and housing at the present base is significant that it will continue to be used."

Secretary of the Navy Thomas, in his letter to Senator Smathers, stated "The Navy has been surveying all suitably located areas in Florida and Georgia with the assistance of a number of civilian firms of architects and engineers."

"These surveys," he said, "are still in the preliminary stage and no recommendations have as yet been received from the local command."

Thomas also advised Senator Smathers "this project is not planned for inclusion in the Military Construction Program this year."

It is to be noted, said one official, that if a new base were started it would take six years for the construction and with available money for such construction delayed until 1958, it would be seven years before any move would be made.

"I will be happy to advise you of the results of each of the site selections as soon as the completed studies have been received and evaluated," said the Secretary of the Navy.

Secretary of the Navy Thomas forwarded to Senator Smathers the "Requirement for Naval Air Station Sixth District." It is in this paper where the word "not feasible" was used and there it referred to the fact that, relative to the Sanford Naval Air Station situation "... civilian encroachment has continued to the point where expansion is not feasible."

In addition to the foregoing the site itself is too close to the original populated area of Sanford to be compatible with modern jet operations."

No mention was made in the article that the Osceola Base was not feasible or that Seminole County has been eliminated from the proposed areas under consideration.

However, one consideration has not been mentioned in the criteria, a consideration which should be, according to Navy officials, taken into account. The climate is of major importance. During the return of Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas from an important inspection and maneuver in the Atlantic, an attempt was made to land his plane at bases in Georgia and Florida. The Sanford Naval Air Station was the only base not closed in by fog. Training has continued at the local Sanford Naval Air Station around the clock and daily with no shut down because of weather as has been experienced in other areas.

Also to be taken under consideration is the fact that the Navy has settled down in Sanford with its personnel purchasing homes here. Housing is available for Naval personnel.

John Krider said this morning that "The Osceola Area has been surveyed and found feasible for use by the Navy for a base such as the one proposed for the Sixth Naval District."

Ten sites according to the Secretary of the Navy, are under consideration for the proposed Naval Air Station, Sixth Naval District.

They are: Site one; between Bayley and Jessup, Ga. in Appling and Wayne Counties; Site two; same area as site one; Site three; between Bayley and Hachburg, Ga. in Appling and Jeff Davis Counties; Site four; between Live Oak and Mayo, in Suwannee County; Site six; between Lake City and Port White, in Columbia County; Osceola Site, currently outlying field, Osceola, in Seminole County (this site has already been surveyed and found feasible); Mayport Site, currently the Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Mayport, in Duval County; Lake City Site northeast of Lake City, in Columbia County, Dublin Site, Wrightsville-Dublin-Cochran area, Georgia in Johnson, Laurens, and Bleckley Counties, and Tifton Site, Tifton area of Georgia in Tift County.

has assisted the Navy in conducting site studies in Florida and Alabama in accordance with the criteria established by the site selection board convened by the chief of naval air training. The results of these studies were subjected to a preliminary review by the chief of naval air training who has forwarded them, along with his recommendations, via the various technical bureaus for departmental approval.

"The Naval Air Station, sixth district, is a proposed replacement for the Naval Air Station, Sanford, Florida, and is planned for location within convenient operating distance of existing facilities in the Jacksonville airfield complex. The Navy has been surveying all suitably located areas in Florida and Georgia with the assistance of a number of civilian firms of architects and engineers."

"These surveys are still in the preliminary stage and no recommendations have as yet been received from the local command. This project is not planned for inclusion in the military construction program this year. Enclosure contains a statement of requirements, criteria, and sites under consideration for the naval air station, sixth naval district. You will be interested in noting that the outlying field at Osceola is still among the sites under consideration for this base."

"Your continued interest in the Navy's plans in the Sanford area is deeply appreciated, and I will be happy to advise you of the results of each of these site selections as soon as the completed studies have been received and evaluated."

Thomas gave the following as "requirements" for the proposed new station:

"A complete new air station is required within the sixth naval district, capable of supporting high performance jet aircraft now in use and under development."

"The airfields available on the east coast of the United States cannot adequately support the aircraft assigned to commander in chief, L. S. Atlantic fleet. This situation is not due to an increase in aircraft numbers but to an increase in size of the aircraft and the transition from propeller driven aircraft to modern jet aircraft."

"The percentage of jets within the total number of aircraft in the Navy is steadily increasing. The result is that airfields in use during and after World War II now must be expanded or replaced. All airfields on the East Coast that are capable of being expanded are being adapted to the support of modern jet aircraft."

"In order to provide support for naval aviation during the Korean war, it was necessary to utilize the existing shore establishment to the greatest extent possible. The need was immediate and selection of new sites was not feasible due to the time required for complete development. One such field was Naval Air Station, Sanford, Fla. It was built during World War II and used until May of 1946. It was then deactivated and reopened during the Korean War. Since then it has remained in use supporting various elements of Air Force, U. S. Atlantic Fleet. In the meantime civilian encroachment has continued to the point where expansion is not feasible. In addition to the foregoing the site itself is too close to the original populated area of Sanford, Florida to be compatible with modern jet operations."

lodge in which the rewards will be well worth the effort."

The survey was accompanied by a scaled drawing of the proposed warehouse located on Lake Monroe at Sanford which was further illustrated with a scaled model of the Docks and Terminals prepared by John Burton IV, Sanford architect.

To finance the project, in the construction of the first warehouse, providing necessary equipment, and also provide a five-year operating fund, would cost approximately half a million dollars, explained Bostwick.

The 43-page survey, revealed to the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors last night as divided into 11 chapters in which the entire project was described. Covered in the survey were "A review of the population and income growth of the trade centers of peninsular Florida. The position of Seminole County in the growth of Central Florida—1900 through 1955," "Choice of the enterprise or Commercial activity best suited to Seminole County," "Availability of funds to support the Dock and Warehouse project," "Location and adaptability of city-owned site for dock and warehouse facilities," "Description of the Dock and warehouse facilities," "Scope of mercantile warehouse operation, and material and financial obligations and responsibilities," "Estimated cost of Dock and Warehouse project," "Analysis of revenues, operating expenses and debt service," "Evaluation of the work of the Dock and Warehouse facility to the citizens of Sanford and Seminole County."

The survey points out that "in order to secure a fair share of the rapidly growing commercial opportunities of Central Florida, Sanford must render a needed commercial service more effectively than such a service could be rendered by any of the competing cities and towns of the area."

And again, Bostwick said in his report that Seminole County is the only location in mid-Florida which has water transportation, rail transportation, and highway connections to all parts of the area.

Other resources which Bostwick enumerates in his survey are: that Sanford has some 40 to 50 acres of land which have water frontage for commercial establishments, railroad sidings and switching facilities to this property, and highway facilities in good condition at this property; Natural Gas will be available in Sanford; Federal Aid will four-lane U. S. 92 from Daytona Beach to Tampa; the Florida Toll Road from Jacksonville to Miami will pass in the vicinity of Sanford with connections to Sanford and Orlando; highway, well drained land is available in Seminole County and Sanford for housing, and for commercial and manufacturing plant sites.

Following the review of the survey, Mack N. Cleveland, Jr. proposed that a committee be appointed to study the project, confer with the Board of Sanford City Commissioners, and report back to the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Clifford McKibbin, President of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, who presided at the meeting, stated that the committee would be appointed before the end of the week.

Mrs. B. E. Chapman, vice chairman of the recently organized Mental Health Society, sponsored by the Pilot Club, reminded members of the drive which will get underway the latter part of March.

Mrs. W. L. Carter, Milk Fund chairman, reported that 37 quarts of sweet milk and nine quarts of buttermilk, in addition to one case of canned milk had been distributed to indigent families during the past month. Mrs. V. C. Messenger, publicity chairman, reported that she and Mrs. Stevenson had participated in the "Mother's March on Polio" on Jan. 29.

Mrs. M. L. Barnum reported on the recent meeting of civic organizations with a view to the organization of a "United Appeal Fund." Another meeting, she stated, will be held tonight. Announcement was made that Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. George A. Sine and Mrs. Nancy Brock represented the Pilot Club at the dedication of the Henry S. Sanford Memorial Library on Feb. 8.

An invitation was extended the club to attend a luncheon meeting of the Seminole County Federation of Women's Clubs to be held in the Altamonte Springs Woman's Club on Feb. 23.

Social Events

Baptist Circles

Five Circles of the Women's missionary Union of the First Baptist Church met Monday at 10:45 in various rooms of the education building for their separate meetings, then came together for a luncheon at noon. The remaining two circles met in the evening.

At 1 p.m. the program was given by Circle Five, under the leadership of Mrs. J. B. Field, the subject being Y.W.A.'s golden anniversary.

Announcement was made by Mrs. A. J. Peterson of the Week of Prayer for Home Missions which will begin March 4 with a meeting at 2 p.m. Meetings will also be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, at which time the Elsie Knight Circle will present a play.

Plans were made for remembering sick members after which the devotionals were given by Mrs. W. D. Gardner. She read Psalm 127:3-4, and Psalm 137:8. Also Jeremiah 17:7-8.

Y.W.A. dedication rites were said by Mrs. Fields, Mrs. H. J. Finch, and Mrs. Clyde Humphrey, while soft background music was provided by Mrs. Willie Pippin.

"O Zion Haste" was rendered by a trio, composed of Mrs. G. B. Drake, Mrs. Finch, and Mrs. Fields.

"The Album"—living portraits of missionaries—was an interesting sketch portraying the history of Y.W.A. for the past fifty years. Mrs. H. H. Martin acted the part of the mother and Mrs. Finch, the part of the daughter, both of whom were studying the album.

The W.M.U. voted to donate one cement block or more per member to the building of the Elder Springs Baptist Church which will be constructed at an early date.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Willie Williams Sr.

The meeting was opened by the chairman, Mrs. Eunice Dunn. A very interesting devotionals was given by Mrs. A. J. Peterson on "Missions". She said "Our duties are to inform our mind, direct prayer, stewardship and dedicated lives".

Prayer was offered by Mrs. Willie Williams Sr., after which the minutes and treasurer's report for January were read by Mrs. A. W. Woodall, Mrs. W. P. Brooks Jr. gave the report on the Carver School of Missions which just recently celebrated its 50th anniversary. The Community Missions report was given by Mrs. Holmes Osborne.

The stewardship message, which was taken from the book "Stewardship Enriches Life" was given by Mrs. M. H. Wade. Mrs. Willie Williams passed out Mission Study books to be read. The meeting was closed with a prayer by Mrs. W. P. Brooks Jr.

Members present were Mrs. W. P. Brooks Jr., Mrs. Eunice Dunn, Mrs. J. F. Lewis, Mrs. H. L. Osborne, Mrs. A. J. Peterson, Mrs. Isabelle Simon, Mrs. J. A. Strange, Mrs. H. H. Truluck, Mrs. M. H. Also present was a visitor, Mrs. Mary Hintze.

CIRCLE 2
Mrs. Dixon presided over the meeting, at which it was announced that the Community Mission Project for the coming month would be directed visitation.

"Thorns in our Life" was the title of the devotionals given by Mrs. W. L. Vance, after which it was announced that on Feb. 25 at 10 a. m. at the church, a missionary from Orlando will teach the Mission Study Book.

March 4 was announced as the beginning of the Week of Prayer and also the day that Circle Two will present its program.

Mrs. W. L. Vance gave a stewardship message from "Stewardship Enriches Life", after which the meeting was closed. There were 11 present.

CIRCLE 3
The meeting of Circle Three was presided over by Mrs. Clyde Humphrey and Mrs. S. J. Nix led in prayer.

"God's Purpose" was the book used for background in the devotionals given by Mrs. M. N. Cleveland.

Mrs. Francis Bole spoke on the "Church's Challenge" saying "the church should be a guidepost in the community" and that every Christian should walk with Christ at his side. She also said that each person is responsible for his influence.

Mrs. John Fox reported on Mission Study work. She read a note of thank for a large kettle given to the Indian mission at Danis, and announced that the book "Home Missions: U.S.A. by Counts Redford would be taught Thursday, Feb. 21, at the church, beginning at 10 a.m. She also announced an Arab student in Stetson University will speak

Gayle Osborn Graduates

Saturday, Jan. 26, saw the graduation of Mrs. Milner Osborn, the former Miss Gayle Dinkins, from the University of Florida. After four long years Gayle received her Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration (BBA) at this time. Her major was Real Estate. Attending the graduation ceremonies were her husband, Milner Osborn; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Dinkins; John Dinkins, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Osborn; and Jane Osborn.

While an undergraduate at Uoff Gayle had quite an active social life. She was a member of Alpha Chi Omega social sorority of which she served as treasurer and magazine editor. She was a member of Psi Chi Theta, national business woman's professional society. Also she served as an Orientation group leader. Gayle graduated second in her class from Ketterling High School in St. Augustine with the class of 1953. That fall she entered Uoff and about two years ago her family moved to Sanford, Fla. and she was married last Dec. 22 in the First Baptist Church of Sanford of which both are members and are now making their home in Sanford.

CIRCLE 4
Mrs. Willie Pippin opened the meeting with a soft piano solo "Breathe On Me" as members followed the words in the hymn book.

Mrs. B. C. Moore, chairman, presided and Mrs. O. C. Gibbs gave a beautiful devotionals from Matthew 7:7. Mrs. John D. Abrahams gave the secretary's and treasurer's reports, after which Mrs. Newman took the offering which amounted to $315.

Mrs. C. L. Park, co-chairman, gave her report on contacts, visits and telephone calls. This was followed by a beautiful stewardship talk given by Mrs. Martha Marshall, which was taken from the book "Stewardship Enriches Life".

Mrs. Fred Myers, Missions Study Chairman, gave extracts from the Home Mission book the circle will study this month. Mrs. Cunningham, children's Home Chairman, gave a report on the Children's home in Lakeland.

It was announced that the Circle visited Remembrance List Number One last month, and that Mrs. Moore and her houseguest served as hostesses for the circle at the U.S.O. Friday night.

Mrs. Fred Myers closed the meeting with prayer.

The following members were present: Mrs. B. C. Moore, Mrs. John D. Abrahams, Mrs. J. A. Cunningham, Mrs. Willie B. Pippin, Mrs. Bea Newsome, Mrs. C. L. Park, Mrs. Fred Myers, Mrs. Turner Lodge, Mrs. O. C. Gibbs, Mrs. H. H. Newman, and Mrs. Martha Marshall.

CIRCLE 5
Mrs. S. A. B. Wilkinson, chairman, presided over the meeting of Circle Five. Mrs. W. D. Gardner led in the opening prayer and read the devotionals using the 19th chapter of Luke. She then offered a prayer for missionaries.

Mrs. H. H. Martin gave the mission study and urged the members to attend the teaching of the Mission Study book on Feb. 19 at 1 a. m. It will be taught by Dr. H. H. Martin at the home of Mrs. H. J. Finch. Community Missions were outlined and planned by the Circle's community mission chairman, Mrs. H. J. Finch.

Mrs. G. B. Drake, secretary, read the minutes after which the offering was taken. A closing prayer was offered by Mrs. Martin. Members present were Mrs. S. A. B. Wilkinson, Mrs. H. J. Finch, Mrs. B. F. McWhorter, Mrs. W. D. Gardner, Mrs. H. H. Martin, Mrs. E. C. Harper, Mrs. J. B. Fields, Mrs. Joe H. Wright, Mrs. S. J. Davis and Mrs. G. B. Drake.

Elsie Knight and Francis Horton Circles

The two circles held a joint meeting and covered dish supper in the Educational Building of the church at 8:30 p.m. Monday evening.

In an impressive and effective manner, the book "Home Missions: U. S. A." was taught by Mrs. W. A. Blalock. Later in appreciation of the excellent presentation of this book, Mrs. Blalock was given a potted plant by one circle and hose by the other.

Each group had a brief business meeting in which reports, offering and routine matters were attended to.

The closing prayer was offered by Mrs. Dampier.

Those present were Mrs. Fred B. Fisher, Mrs. Donald Plam, Mrs. Leland Budd, Mrs. Benny Austin, Mrs. Charles L. Arnold, Mrs. Otto Thomas, Mrs. Sheila Cameron, Mrs. Alfred Chiles Jr., Mrs. V. G. Hasty, Mrs. C. A. Anderson Jr., Mrs. F. I. Dampier, Mrs. Estelle Gleson, Mrs. H. A. Moreland, Miss Lorene Franklin and Mrs. Blalock.

Chapel with an all campus dance in the evening.

Founders' Week will come to a close on Sunday morning with services at the College Heights Methodist Church.

The Stetson Scene

The Florida Symphony Orchestra, with Frank Miller conducting, will give a concert in the Stetson University Fine Arts Series, at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday Feb. 20, in Elizabeth Hall Auditorium.

The concert is open to the public at a small admission price. Tickets are on sale at the Stetson School of Music, DeLand High School, and Caskey's Music Shop. The program will open with Rossini's "The Thieving Magpie" and "Elisabeth Symphony in G Major." After an intermission, Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherazade" will be heard.

A concert will be presented in Elizabeth Hall by the Stetson Band on Tuesday night, Feb. 19. Featured on this program will be numbers conducted by all the music education majors that will begin their internship this semester. Included on the program will be "Tiberius Overture," "Commando March," "The Pleasant Years," "Stetson Suite," and "Oberon Overture." If you're looking for an evening of musical enjoyment, come on over for one of the concerts!

The last issue of the "Stetson Reporter" mentioned Jim Hawkins as a "possible moundman" for the season. Let's hope we hear as much in baseball from Jim as we did in football last fall!

Mimosa Circle Elects Two At Meeting

The Mimosa Circle of the Sanford Garden Club was entertained Feb. 8 by Mrs. W. Moyer, hostess. Mrs. W. Willis, co-hostess, and Mrs. C. Chorpelning, assisting.

Mrs. C. Wallis, chairman, presided over the meeting, which was opened with the "Lord's Prayer" repeated in unison.

Activities of the club were discussed, and the minutes of the last meeting and the secretary's report were read and approved.

Mrs. W. Price and Mrs. C. Hittell, nominating committee for chairman and vice chairman, elected Mrs. Ray Peck, chairman, and Mrs. W. Moyer, vice chairman. The appointments, effective for October, were unanimously accepted by those present.

A very interesting report by horticulturist, Mrs. B. Peck, was given. Mrs. Peck was appointed "house and grounds" committee chairman. Mrs. B. McWhorter, alternate.

Mrs. W. Haelett, who was scheduled to be speaker, was ill and unable to attend. Mrs. C. Wallis showed the slides "flowers of other countries". The pictures of beautiful trees, shrubs and flowers were enjoyed while hostesses served delicious refreshments to the twelve members present.

Those present were the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vance, Mr. and Mrs. Williams Hawkins and daughter, Janet, Lenny Himes, Mrs. W. B. Ballard (Lexington, Ky.), Mr. and Mrs. C. Priest, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Evans, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Branstetter (Orlando), Mrs. Jennie Ericson (Orlando) Mr. and Mrs. Lew Brademeyer, Mrs. Mary Pafflin (Deland), W. E. Randall, Mrs. W. E. Jameson and Mrs. Mae Shearer.

Persons

Mrs. Arthur Branan and Miss Naomi Zittreuer have as guests Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Beatty, of Baltimore, Md., and Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson of Chester, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Reimann, of Buffalo, N. Y., will be visiting their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Reimann for several weeks.

25th Anniversary Celebrated Monday By Geneva Garden Club

The Geneva Garden Club held its annual dinner Monday evening at the Geneva Community Hall and at the same time celebrated the 25th anniversary of its founding.

Approximately 100 members, their husbands and friends attended. The dinner served by the committee, headed by Mrs. Cadman Hart, included baked ham, candied sweet potatoes, tossed green salad, coffee and home made pies.

The hall was most attractively decorated by Mrs. W. L. Sieg and her committee with Valentine hearts, red candles and silvered tinsie topped off with the silver numerals "1932-1957" over the mantel.

The head table, presided over by Mrs. J. J. Leffler, President of the Garden Club, also had all past presidents who were able to come. These included Mrs. Charles Cole, Mrs. Donald Norton, Mrs. W. R. McGill, Mrs. C. L. Campbell, Mrs. W. L. Alderman, Mrs. H. H. Selders, Mrs. J. H. Bibrey, Mrs. J. L. Brown, Mrs. Won Perry, Mrs. W. L. Sieg, and Mrs. Henry A. Simpson. Mrs. W. G. Kilbee and Mrs. C. C. LeDeane - Duff, P. O. Box 7210, Clearwater.

A motion was carried that St. Catherine's Chapter recommended buying one piece stainless steel flatware for the parish use. Mrs. Henry McLaughlin Jr. Christian Educational Chairman, reviewed the second chapter of the book "Living the Creed".

Mr. and Mrs. Vance Honored At USWV Auxiliary Meet

The Col. Theodore Roosevelt Auxiliary No. 3 U.S.W.V. met at the home of its secretary, Mrs. Mae Shearer, 113 Elm Ave., with a good attendance of officers and members.

The president, Mrs. Roy Vance, presided over the meeting and appointed standing committee. It was announced that the district council would be held in Jacksonville on March 3.

Because of a social hour planned at the close of the meeting, the business session was very brief.

20 members of Camp 13, U.S. W.V. and the auxiliary were present to greet Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vance, recently married. A gift was presented to them on behalf of the auxiliary.

Mrs. Frank Evans and Mrs. C. P. Hestington had charge of the refreshments and served sherbet, cake and coffee.

Those present were the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vance, Mr. and Mrs. Williams Hawkins and daughter, Janet, Lenny Himes, Mrs. W. B. Ballard (Lexington, Ky.), Mr. and Mrs. C. Priest, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Evans, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Branstetter (Orlando), Mrs. Jennie Ericson (Orlando) Mr. and Mrs. Lew Brademeyer, Mrs. Mary Pafflin (Deland), W. E. Randall, Mrs. W. E. Jameson and Mrs. Mae Shearer.

Mrs. J. D. Wright Is Hostess Monday To Chapter Meet

St. Catherine's chapter of Holy Cross Woman's Auxiliary met on Monday at the home of Mrs. J. Danforth Wright Jr., with Mrs. Harry Lee Jr. co-hostess.

Mrs. Harry Cushing, president, led the devotionals and conducted the business session. Announcement was made of a plasticware party to be given by St. Mary's chapter and also that money for memorials to Bishop Gray Inn and the Bishop Bram Memorial Fund should be sent to Mrs. F. Deane - Duff, P. O. Box 7210, Clearwater.

A motion was carried that St. Catherine's Chapter recommended buying one piece stainless steel flatware for the parish use. Mrs. Henry McLaughlin Jr. Christian Educational Chairman, reviewed the second chapter of the book "Living the Creed".

THE SANFORD HERALD VICTORY TROPHIES to be presented to the champion and runner-up of the first annual Seminole County Invitational Basketball Tournament are inspected by Herald Sports Editor Hugh Anley. The championship trophy (right) will be presented to Deland High School. The runner-up trophy will be presented to Lyman High School at 2 p.m. Friday. Both trophies will be presented in school assemblies.

Pressure Is Building On Carolina Tar Heels

By WILLIAM A. SHIRAZ
United Press Sports Writer
CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — The pressure is building on North Carolina's Tar Heels to keep their basketball winning streak going and Coach Frank McGuire thinks a big reason they haven't snapped is his captain, Lennie Rosenbluth.

"Lennie always plays a good game, no matter how high the pressure," says McGuire. And McGuire also feels that some other of his stars play better under pressure.

McGuire isn't worried about the pressure—not yet—although he insists that his team, No. 1 in the nation for a month now, would be even better if it lost a game.

"We aren't thinking about losing, though. We're thinking about winning."

Lennie Always Sharp
As for Rosenbluth: "I don't think Lennie can have a bad game," says McGuire. "His reflexes are perfect and he's always sharp."

Against Duke last week, when it took a couple of free throws in the last 16 seconds to win by 75-73, Rosenbluth had to cope with a Duke defense that threw three tall Blue Devils around him. But he still scored 35 points, and was the game's leading rebounder.

And speedily guard Tommy Kearns, who has blossomed into the fiery spark of the Tar Heels this season, demonstrated his ability to withstand pressure in that same game.

With the Tar Heels leading by eight points with less than two minutes to play, Kearns had missed five free throws in a row. He was cruising at half speed on the court—and on two occasions Duke guard Ducky Allen slipped in and stole the ball.

Kearns' Big Chance

Allen's feeds to guard Bob Vernon gave Duke two quick baskets in the final minutes and tied the score at 73-73 with 21 seconds to play. And Allen went at Kearns again, and this time fouled the speedy Tar Heel.

Kearns went to the foul line where he had failed five straight in his first shot.

Mostly to quiet his palpitating heart, McGuire called a time out between Kearns' first and second shots.

Kearns tossed in the other, and Duke grabbed possession during the closing seconds.

The Blue Devils actually got two shots away but the Tar Heels—with Rosenbluth in front of the defense—had them off balance and the shots went wild.

All Souls Team Tops Lyman 33-13

All Souls Catholic School continued their winning ways yesterday afternoon, topping Lyman's Junior High cage quintet 33-13. The game was a Seminole County Junior High Basketball League contest played on the Parochial courts.

Fast-firing John Lake waged a personal battle for the Catholic cagers, scoring 13 points—as many tallies as the entire Lyman team.

Nicky Constantine was second man for the winning five, tallying for eight points and turning in outstanding defensive play.

Largely because of David Peralta's excellent defensive game, Lyman's Billy Simpkins could muster only four points for the baby Greyhounds from Longwood.

Lakeview Downs JV Cagers 50-19

The Sanford Seminoles JV, lacking their hot-shot leaders, showed their poorest of the season last night and were downed 50-19 by Lakeview of Winter Garden in an uninteresting preliminary fray in Winter Garden.

The lethargic JVs scored only four field goals during the game. Only two members of the Lakeview JV team failed to score.

Pro Golf Tour Moves Into Texas

TUCSON, Ariz. —The professional golf tour moved into San Antonio, Tex., yesterday with Dow Finsterwald the newest winner of the winter season following his four stroke victory in the Tucson Open playoff.

Finsterwald, a steady young man who was pro golfs second leading money winner last year, beat Don Whitt, Alameda, Calif., 3 Monday with a five-under-par 65 performance in the playoff round here. The Tequesta, Fla., sharpshooter got $2,000, and Whitt $1,500.

Whitt, who couldn't find the fairway on much of the first nine for the trees, shot a one-under-par 69. His chances vanished after the first five holes.

Finsterwald shot six birdies in his winning round. He took a two stroke jump on Whitt on the 10th hole and had birdies on the 10th, 17th and 18th holes, while Whitt holed the 13th, 15th and 18th.

The prize money put Finsterwald in fourth place, behind Doug Lord, Jay Hebert playing for Sanford's Mayfair Inn and Hill Casper Jr., among the top money winners of the 1957 season thus far.

Shuffleboard Team Suffers 1st Defeat

The Sanford Shuffleboard and Tourist Club teams evened out 1-1 for the week, dropping a tight 18 team tournament to Winter Park 23 games to 31; and then bouncing back to take Coronado in a 15 team tournament 23 games to 22 in a thriller of the young new year.

The Winter Park defeat was the first one suffered by the local shuffleboard team since they sponsored the state shuffleboard tournament here, the Cokery City Mixed Doubles Invitational.

Conning The New

By VIRGINIA CONN

Visiting Julie Anderson is her aunt, Mrs. T. E. O'Neill of Tacoma, Washington. Bob Anderson is going to a school in Anniston, Ala. Both Julie and Bob majored in music at Northwestern University. Julie in violin and Bob in cello. Julie has been playing the violin since she was four, and plans to teach in Sanford next year. Meanwhile she and Bob would like to find a few other musicians interested in getting together and chambering it up a little, or what ever one does when he plays classical music. Speaking of that don't forget the last of the Mutual Concert series, this coming Friday, February fifteenth. The time and place will be the same as always—eight o'clock at the Pinecrest School. The Festival Symphonette will be featured this time, and includes members of the New York Philharmonic and the Metropolitan opera orchestras. If you don't have a ticket, call Dottie Roumilit at 1750, and she will get you one. Since the start of this year's concert series, many new people have arrived who are interested in going to these things, and I'm afraid we must apologize for assuming that everyone knows about them.

Jane Miller left this morning for Mississippi, taking her two boys with her. Jane hopes to bring her mother and father back with her when she returns in ten days.

Dornell and Tom Kilcline are visiting in Fort Lauderdale and Key West, but will be back tomorrow.

Dodie and I went over to see Jean Dooley this morning. Judy Smith was there and was delighted to hear that she now assists Betty Place with her Girl Scout troop. Scouting is in the limelight now, since they are having their annual Fund Raising Drive. This is the difficult part of the volunteers service. She does not mind devoting her time, or giving her money, but asking others to give is hard. So if you were not asked Monday night and would like to contribute, call Mary Libbey at 223-W and someone will come by to pick up the money. All the money collected stays here in Seminole County and is used for camping, equipment, training, printing and professional help when necessary. Seminole County needs to raise $2,175. For 313 Girl Scouts and 61 adult members it seems like a very small sum. The Citrus Council looks with pride on Seminole County because of the way scouting has grown here in the last year. We owe it to our children to allow them to be able to join a troop if they wish to do so, but it cannot be done without balancing the budget.

By the way, the pictures Mr. Kirchner took at the dress rehearsal of the High Fever Follies are on display at the Raymond Studio in the Florida State Bank building. Run in and peek the next time you're downtown, if you can find a place to park. This parallel parking has certainly made First Street look like an avenue, but I wonder how many fenders it has made look like an accordion. No wonder so many people are getting sports cars.

Had a letter from Beryl Swinson a few days ago, and she and Wally are building a house in Hawaii. She sounds as happy as can be, and tired to death with herself, because as she says, "After eating all this delicious food, I bought a red sheath dress size ten, and everybody hates me!"

Bachelor Wants New Varieties Of Vegetables

(UP)—NEW YORK Man in our office who is a bachelor and cooks his own food every night when he gets home from work has come up with what seems to be a valid, but rather eerie, "vee."

Valid emolument, that is—not a valid haunch.

He claims he's getting darn well fed up with the stock of vegetables now available to mankind.

"Every day, every day, same dull, crazy old vegetables," he says. "Potatoes, beans, peas, carrots, corn—yaaa! What a mess of sameness! Why can't we get some new ones? Why doesn't somebody do something about it? Where's all our big know-how? Well where?"

"I'll tell you where. It's busy turning out new car models and new refrigerator models and new ice cream flavors every year and never giving a thought to the vegetable crisis. These vegetables we've got probably were all right when they were new. But there's no inspiration now in cooking and eating the same yaaa he sticks out his tongue when he says this word stuff all the time."

Try Cross Breeding. All right, where do you propose to get the new ones?

"Cross breeding, of course," said our man. "Where do you think grapefruit came from?"

Out of the nowhere into the here.

"Don't try to be funny about the vegetable situation. It's plenty serious. If they can cross fruit they can do it with vegetables."

Well, dizzy with our man's brainwave, we took a quick poll to see what ideas people had for new vegetables. Struck pure gold on the first try. This was from a copyreader, a genius named Otto.

"Succotash," he answered without a whit of hesitation. "That's what. And it should be available as succotash-on-the-cob, growing with first of lima bean and then a grain of corn, alternating."

Tater-Mater. Inform that this was novel, but hardly a new taste sensation.

Now Hear This!

by BETTY O'CONNOR and IRENE DULEK

Chiefs Sawyer and Kris, having completed their twenty years in the Navy, have put in for retirement this week. We don't know their future plans but whatever they are, good luck in whatever they endeavor.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Kris and family of Loch Arbor, had as their guests for a few days, Mr. and Mrs. Duval from Cuba. The Duvals made a stop-over visit here enroute to Pensacola where they will be stationed at the Naval Air Base for his next tour of duty.

Sunday evening, Feb. 10, Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes entertained with a card party. Guests for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller. Both Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Miller are officers of the EMWC.

The monthly meeting of the VAH-T Wives Club was held Monday evening at 8 at the U. S. O.

Coffee and cookies were served by the following wives: Mrs. Gloria Valluzzi, Mrs. Doris Miller, Mrs. Pat McClure, Mrs. Laura Leahy, Mrs. Colleen Winslip, Mrs. Imogene Zacharuk, Mrs. Virginia Stadig, Mrs. Mary Cook, Mrs. Eleanor Germain, Mrs. Flo Pemberton, Mrs. Betty Miller, Mrs. Sara Suggs, Mrs. Rue King, Ms. Joan Lawrence, Mrs. Marie Murphy, Mrs. Mary Boggs, Mrs. Edna Fogg, and Mrs. Millie Myers.

Also a member who was not present was Mrs. Shirley Johnson.

The Annual Fish Fry of the Castle Memorial Sunday School Class of the First Methodist Church was held Saturday evening at the Farmers Auction.

Among those attending the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Hilton McDaniel, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Place, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ogles, and Mrs. Charles Clemmer.

Mr. James McClellan was happily surprised recently with a week-end visit by her brother, Reverend T. A. Woolbright from South Carolina. Rev. Woolbright also visited with friends in Leesburg.

Did you know that an LST (Landing Ship Tank) actually served as an aircraft carrier during the latter part of WW II? The USS LST 325, fitted with a plywood flight deck, carried 10 Piper Cubs, and pilots, and operated off the French Coast in 1945?

Did you know that one (1) link of the Anchor Chain of the USS Forrestal (CVA-59) weighs 360 lbs. which is believed to be the heaviest ever forged?

Everglades Earns Well-Deserved Title 'Winter Salad Bowl'

The fresh, tasty, crisp vegetables you will enjoy at dinner tonight come from nowhere else but South Florida's farmlands, the "Winter Salad Bowl" of the nation.

During the Festival of Florida Products, February 14-23, grocers from one end of the state to the other will be featuring fresh, canned and frozen Florida grown vegetables for the Florida table.

From January to January, throughout the entire length and breadth of the state from Pensacola to Key West, calcium-rich vegetables of some type are "in season" and not only in season but in sunshine.

The wide variety of vegetables produced in Florida give zest and appetite appeal to our meals. For instance, provided by vegetables range from the crisp crunch of lettuce and raw carrots to the soft mealiness of mashed potatoes.

Vegetables lend themselves to a variety of methods of preparation. They can be baked, oiled, fried with or without batter, made into salads, soups and combination dishes with other foods such as milk, eggs or meat.

A shopping trip into one of Florida's modern markets allows the housewife of choice of fresh, canned or frozen vegetables. From cole slaw already chopped, bagged and ready for the table except for the topper, oil or mayonnaise, to a great variety of vegetables quick-frozen field fresh and ready to pop into your own freezer at home, and cook.

The bulk of this comes from the Lake Okeechobee region, the state's big winter crop area. Soap beans, sweet corn, celery, cabbage and lettuce are among the many crops grown in the area. Certain crops in this rich muck-land area are harvested several times a year giving the Everglades the well-earned title of the "Winter Salad Bowl."

Jam, Jelly Products Of State Well-Known

A substantial contribution towards filling the sweet tooth of Florida and the nation is made by the jam and jelly producers of the state. One of the 7300 industries featured in the Festival of Florida Products, Feb. 14-23, the thriving jam and jelly business literally started in the home—the kitchen.

For years Florida orchards and tropical fruits have supplied delicious sweet eaters with a wide variety of unique delicacies made largely in homes or small plants. Even today there are estimated to be over 2,000 small producers. There are 67 larger manufacturers employing from 10 to 100 people each. These bigger operators produced 13,900,000 twelve-ounce tumbler of jam and jelly during the 1954-55 season.

Taking advantage of the eye appeal of their product, Florida's producers use glass almost entirely for packaging. In the grocers the array of jars, jellies, butters, preserves, chutneys, marmalades, and relishes display a wide range of shades and colors. There are 70 varieties of sweets made from Florida fruits that are now available throughout the state and nation.

The citrus flavors, include such standards as orange and grapefruit and such exotics as calamondin and citrandarin, top the sales. Guava, longtime favorite with Floridians on their breakfast toast, is second in importance. Mango chutney considered a perfect complement for curry dishes, is catching on fast as are many other lesser known preserves.

The future of the Florida industry looks bright. Because of the state's climate, the tropical jam and jelly producers are virtually alone in the field. New products are finding a ready market and stimulating innovation among the manufacturers. An Orlando firm has replaced the fig in the fig newton with an orange jam. Another imaginative, Floridian reasoned that if people liked apple butter they would like orange

State Industrial Growth Story Will Be Illustrated

Florida's amazing growth story in the industrial field will be illustrated in the Festival of Florida Products held Feb. 14-23, 1955.

One of the most impressive facets of that many-sided story is the burgeoning chemical industry. Ranked 26th nationally in 1953, Florida has climbed rapidly to 7th place and shows every promise of continuing the trend. This trend is equally based on the natural advantages of the state, with particular emphasis on labor and living conditions, and the supply of raw materials just now coming into their own.

The Florida plant tree, once responsible for a large naval stores industry, is taking on new status with the refining of chemical byproducts. The waste materials from paper manufacturing plants are now yielding tall oil, tall oil rosin and fatty acids which go into the production of varnish, soap, linoleum, rubber, lubricants and the ink printed on this page. The neglected stumps are now subjected to a refining process which yields chemicals used in everything from explosives to medicines, soaps to paints.

The world's only complete nylon manufacturing facility recently located in Florida, another new addition produces anhydrous ammonia, ammonium nitrate and nitric acid-chemicals that ultimately show up in fertilizer and explosives. A plant in the planning stage would produce polyvinyl chloride for use in a wide variety of household plastic materials.

The general opinion among men in the industry is that Florida has not even begun to realize the potential demonstrated by current chemical activity.

Commercial Fishing Industry Growing

As smart housewives and restaurateurs throughout the country have increasingly recognized seafood dishes as delicious, nutritious, and economical, the demand has brought about tremendous growth in Florida's commercial fishing industry.

From an annual harvest valued at 5 million dollars in 1940, the 1955 harvest reached a value of 25 and a half million dollars. Modern processing, marketing and packing has kept Florida seafood in line with today's food trends and won a feature place for the industry in the Festival of Florida Products, Feb. 14-23. In coastal communities from Fernandina around the state to Pensacola, commercial fishing is a basic industry. Annual shrimp landings bring Florida's fishermen 15 and a half million dollars a year, about three fifths the total value of all saltwater fish and shellfish. Mullet, once the state's first food fish is a poor second with a 1955 value of 2.3 million. Current research programs for packaging frozen mullet in such forms as ready-to-try fish sticks indicates that the Mullet fishery may gain sharply in value in the future.

By far the most valuable non-food fish taken in Florida waters is the menhaden or pogie as it is known in some localities. During 1954, 20 million pounds of menhaden were taken by boat shipping out of Florida ports. Oils squeezed from the bodies and fertilizer from the crushed bodies brought the menhaden industry a 1955 income of 380 thousand dollars.

Choice food fishes among the primary fisheries of the state are red snapper, grouper, spotted trout, Spanish and king mackerel, bluefish, pompano and drum. Spiny lobster or Florida crayfish, considered by many a fine delicacy, brought in more money in proportion to the number of pounds caught than any other shellfish—over half a million dollars for 2.3 million pounds. By comparison, the blue crab which Florida fishermen catch in greater numbers than any shellfish besides shrimp brought in only slightly more and over 12 million pounds of both hard and soft shells were included in the catch.

Grocers To Feature Florida's Sugar

Once referred to as "India Salt" by 500 B. C. Greek and Roman writers, the sweet white sugar crystals you put in your coffee this morning were probably produced in Florida.

In observance of the Festival of Florida Products, Feb. 14-23, grocers from Key West to Pensacola will feature Florida produced sugar.

At present three companies are engaged in the production of commercial sugar in the state: the United States Sugar Corporation at Clewiston, with a capacity of 6,500 tons of sugarcane every 24 hours; the Fellsmere Sugar Producers Association at Fellsmere, with 1,200 tons of cane daily; and the Okeelanta Sugar Refinery at South Bay, with a capacity of 2,000 tons of cane most the entire country.

Sugarcane cultivation is one of Florida's oldest agricultural enterprises. Only recently has the commercial production of sugar in the state developed to such an extent that Florida is one of the most important cane-producing areas of the nation.

Almost all the sugar produced is so adaptable to cane growth in the region of the Everglades. The rich soil of the Everglades is so adaptable to cane growth that sugarcane often grows 20 feet high and produces from 40 to 80 tons of cane an acre. With between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 acres of Everglades land suitable for the production of sugarcane, enough sugar could be produced in Florida to supply almost the entire country.

Garment Industry Will Be Featured At State Festival

By producing clothes designed for Florida and Florida living, the garment industry of the state is making a strong bid for the home market. The youngest of the 11 regional fashion markets in the country, the Florida garment industry has become fifth in national importance and won a featured place in the Festival of Florida Products, Feb. 14-23.

To translate the needs of living in Florida into suitable garments, the fashion designers use fabrics that are light and can take Florida sunshine and frequent washings without losing their bright colors or shrinking. The colors themselves are inspired by the tropical scenery of Florida and the Caribbean. Clothes are also designed for active living as Floridians and winter visitors spend more time participating in outdoor sports and activities than do people living in other areas. According to Miss Grace McElligott, promotional director of the Miami-Florida Fashion Council, start Florida women buy Florida-made clothes because they are styled expressly for them. The Florida look in clothes means wearing apparel built for action but having a chic appearance. "Casual elegance" is Miss McElligott's phrase for it.

Beef Industry Comes Long Way

The Florida beef industry has come a long way from the days when cattle roamed in the scrub lands of Florida. Today there are breed and stock for herds that are doing the running—on carpets of rich green grass.

The Festival of Florida Products, Feb. 14-23, exhibits the beef cattle industry and its long uphill fight to produce the type of meat worthy of Floridians and the nation.

The upsurge in the cattle industry is due to the fact that more people are eating "Florida bred and fed beef." The beef industry has grown in phenomenal leaps and bounds the past 30 years, having about doubled its numbers from 600,000 head in 1925 to 1,200,000 head in 1954.

Many factors have influenced this tremendous growth aside from the fact that more Floridians eat more Florida beef. They are the eradication of the Texas fever tick, the formation of cattle associations and the state law requiring fencing of livestock, plus the natural adaptations of the land and climate for beef production.

With an under-production basis consumption, more meat is eaten in the state than Florida cattle can produce, the market demands in Florida are probably the highest of any section in the United States.

Florida has the lands for improved pastures. There are more than 25,000,000 acres of land in the state of which 9,000,000 are adapted to the production of crops suitable for feeding livestock. There are another 17,000,000 acres adapted to improved pastures or about 25,000,000 acres could be given over to livestock production.

So the next time you visit the butcher counter at the grocer's, remember these healthy cuts of meat are Florida grown and produced for Floridians.

Fashion Industry Booming In State

Milady's yen for the Florida look in clothes is booming Florida into a leading fashion center.

The Florida fashion industry is turning out wearing apparel with a casual yet glamorous style that reflects the lines and colors of Florida and the Caribbean. The industry will be featured during the Festival of Florida Products, Feb. 14-23.

The youngest of 11 regional fashion markets in the nation, Florida has climbed over tough competition to a place of fifth in importance. It is now the third largest industry in south Florida with an annual retail value of $31,000,000 and a yearly payroll of $17,000,000.

Typical of the fast growth is the only shoe manufacturer in the Miami area. Started only 10 years ago, the company now employs 110 workers and has at present a volume of $450,000 a year.

Although the Miami area leads in garment production with about 200 plants, the industry is statewide. Tampa, Jacksonville, Starke, Gainesville, Ocala, Deland, Sanford, and Palm Beach all have manufacturers in the needle trade. Estimates from industry spokesmen place Florida garment producers at 300, employing 6,000 to 10,000 workers.

Sportswear, a natural beginning for the industry in Florida only two decades ago, is still a major item. The past 12 years have brought growth and diversification to the industry. Shoes, handbags, underwear, "after five" dresses, maternity clothes, children's wear, formal evening clothes and sweaters have been added to the staples of bathing suits, shorts, blouses, sun dresses, beach coats, and other sportswear articles.

State Forestlands Are Important

Napkins to newspapers, rayon to plywood, and wall paneling to house siding, these products, all important to Florida's economy, but less spectacular than tourists or other industries, all come from the millions of pine trees in our verdant forest lands.

The observance of Festival of Florida Products, February 14-23, will bring all of these into the limelight of the state's parade of native products. The pine tree eventually touches every Floridian, and every tourist and visitor in the state. As Florida's population grows, with over 3,000,000 people living in the state today, the demand for wood products grows too, and the versatile pine tree is now number one on the woodland hit parade.

Beautiful modern furniture, homes and veneer are but a few of the by-products of the pine tree, a major economic factor in the state's economy.

Aside from the every day use of the wood, lumber, pulpwood, cross ties, poles, piling and fuel wood are but a few more of its products.

The planting of pine forests is a going concern too. Planting, cultivating and fire protection costs $343.75 per twenty-five acres. This amount invested in pine acreage will return $2,100.00 in fifteen years as against $536.67 at 3 per cent in savings in the same length of time.

Forest income in Florida for the past ten-year period was a whopping two and one-half billion dollars.

The planting of seedling pines continues to expand with 129,000,000 trees planted in the 1955-56 season. In fifteen years, according to an authoritative estimate, the annual wood products value will increase to 57+ million dollars.

1 1/2 Billion Eggs Are Produced By Florida Hens During 1954-55

Florida chickens must get a little bird. Maybe it is the climate or the famous sunshine, anyway, these chickens produced the astronomical figure of 131,000,000 dozen eggs during the 1954-55 period.

Somewhat these hens figured on upping their egg production just in time to celebrate the Festival of Florida Products, Feb. 14-23. Over 7,500 Florida made grown and extracted products will be highlighted during the Festival and 40 per cent of the 1954-55 total egg production figure was produced in this state.

Laid and to end, all of these Florida produced eggs, a billion and a half of them would circle the equator twice.

In 1919 Florida poultry flocks produced 6,500,000 dozen eggs, this increased to more than 14,500,000 dozen in 1929. In 1943 Florida poultrymen produced approximately 18,000,000 dozen eggs, and in 1951—produced 29,750,000 dozen. 1954 production was up to 40,000,000 dozen eggs, valued at $19,750,000.

Sweet Corn Is One Of Top Products

Florida sweet corn, through fast transportation and packaging, has grown to an over $12,000,000 business during the past ten years.

The table garden crop delicacy, pointed out as one of the state's top products during the 1957 Festival of Florida Products, Feb. 14-23, packaged and cooled in the fields, has now made sweet corn Florida's fifth ranking fresh vegetable crop.

The state's 1947 crop was worth only slightly over a million dollars. A total production of 5,929,000 crates during 1955 was reported.

Eleven counties in Florida have acreages of sweet corn of 100 acres or more. Palm Beach has 22,000 acres of the state's approximately 35,000 acres. Orange has 8,400 acres and Dade and Collier have more than a thousand each.

Today's Homes Are Often All Outdoors

Once upon a time the mark of fine living was a house "as big as all day outdoors." Today's house for fine Florida living is one that is all outdoors.

A big house takes big money, but houses with the Florida trend can be built in any price range. The main element is opening up the walls to let the outdoors come inside.

This is by no means a new idea. In fact, the first Floridians were using it when Europeans were still trying to see how much like a cave they could make their massive stone buildings. Seminole chickee's a floor with roof and supports, do exactly what Florida architecture is aiming for—keep off the rain and let in the breezes and the sun.

Florida architecture occupies a unique place in the art of building. To fill the need of these designs, Floridians in the construction field manufacture almost every item needed for this style house. This fact will be celebrated Feb. 14-23 when Florida industry exhibits to residents and winter visitors through the Festival of Florida Products.

For potential Florida home builders, the Festival will be a parade of products and ideas expressly for the type of homes best for the Florida climate and Florida way of life. In addition to construction materials made in the state, Florida industry turns out furniture, fabrics, and equipment to complement the Florida inspired dwelling.

Electronic Plants Settle In Florida

The natural advantages of Florida have created a home for one of the world's newest industries.

The manufacturers of electronics equipment, somewhat shrouded by a veil of national security, are quietly settling in Florida and unobtrusively turning out a mass of complicated equipment designed to simplify modern living.

Without infringing on security regulations, the Festival of Florida Products, Feb. 14-23, will demonstrate to Floridians and prospective Floridians the size and importance of this new industrial field.

Florida has been chosen by the electronics industry largely because of the ease of living and working conditions which attract a large number of scarce, technical workers and results in a greater output at lower cost. Added to this, the products are so small and light, in most cases, that shipping and distance from markets are only minor considerations. Finally, because of security, electronics plants should be as decentralized as possible. Florida is a natural in all requirements.

As of May 1956, there were 48 electronics plants in widely scattered areas of the state. Primarily, these plants produce electromechanical devices for purposes of guidance, detection, analysis and control. These products go into military aircraft and weapons but many of them are used by the public in the form of business machines, television sets, radios, X-ray apparatus, telephone equipment and a host of other modern machines.

The electronics industry fits perfectly into the so-called "clean industry" class which is so well suited to Florida.

Frozen Desserts Popular In State

Just about everybody in Florida is eating Florida produced ice creams, sherbets and leas. Frozen dessert manufacturers in Florida dished up about 18,000,000 of the frozen concoctions during 1955.

This volume of desserts made and consumed in Florida by residents and visitors is expected to increase during the Festival of Florida Products, Feb. 14-23, was 6 per cent above 1954.

Almost 400 plants, 70 of them wholesale, produce frozen desserts. Production in Florida during the first three months of 1956 ran 9 per cent above last year. Volume last year was made up of 12,820,000 gallons of related desserts.

Strangely enough, March was the peak 1955 production month. The normal pattern sets July and August at the top.

Over 7,500 State Products Serve Florida Housewife

Tier upon tier of canned goods will be displayed on grocer's shelves. During the Festival of Florida Products, February 14-23, emphasizing the more than 7,500 Florida made, grown and extracted products serving the Florida housewife.

Labels of every color and size, describing the high quality of the contents in the can, will stand uniformly on supermarket shelves from one end of the state to the other, inviting housewives to use Florida products during the Festival and year round.

Grown and canned in Florida, from golden citrus to red, ripe tomatoes, the growing list of canned products include: beans, collards, corn, peas, beets and potatoes. These and many table-ready canned products will be highlighted for the homemaker's market basket. Delicious seasonally fresh caught and canned in the state such as shrimp, oysters, crabmeat, and clam broth; nut butters and nut meats; and a score of tropical preserves and fruits fill out the list of products grown in Florida's warm sunshine for Florida tables. Even the Florida rattlesnake finds a market as a food, after being skinned, dressed, cooked and canned.

The Florida canning industry, with its tremendous pack and large payroll, contributes importantly to the state's economy, aid in distribution of low cost wholesome food, and eliminates waste resulting from surplus production. Each year some new kinds of canned foods are added to the list so the housewife has a wide assortment of fruits, vegetables, fish, meats, soups, baby foods, and specialties to make it easy for her to provide the family with a pleasing variety of carefully prepared foods. More than 400 different canned foods and combinations are packed.

When you reach for a canned product—be sure it has a Florida label.

Florida's housewives, during the Festival of Florida Products, February 14-23, will find row upon row of homegrown Florida foods

World's Largest Fruit Canning Industry In State

One of the state's greatest industries in the long parade of the Festival of Florida Products, February 14-23, is citrus canning.

Citrus rates number one on the list of Florida canned products. The state's 47 firms poured out to the markets of the world 72,733,884 gallons of frozen orange and grapefruit juice from 84,187,620 boxes of citrus in 1955-56, or about 62 per cent of the 124,000,000-box crop of oranges, tangerines and grapefruit.

Major item in the diversified list of citrus products which give Florida the largest fruit canning industry in the world is frozen orange juice concentrate, the 10-year-old "Cintarella" product. The 1955-56 season's record pack of more than 70 million gallons is over 5,000,000 gallons above the previous record set two years ago. A record also was set last season for frozen grapefruit concentrate, with more than 2,500,000 gallons, up a million gallons over the previous season.

Surprise
NEW BEDFORD, Mass.—(UPI)—Willard Bennett figures that whoever stole his wallet must have had a very active conscience. The wallet with its $160 cash contents intact, was returned by mail, postage paid.

The average yield of wool from an Angora rabbit is about 12 or more ounces a year.

on their grocer's shelves, but the most delicious sweet ever to come out of the state is honey.

Those busy little bees boosted Florida's run to third in the nation with the honey crop production ranging from 14,800,000 to 18,000,000 pounds annually. The output represents about one-tenth of the total crop of the United States.

Over 300,000 colonies of bees located from one end of the state to the other produce the honey found useful in commercial baking of bread, cake and cookies, and candy making. The power of honey to absorb and retain moisture and its food value makes for greater industrial use of the honey grade not adapted to home use.

The production of honey in Florida, over $3,300,000 annually, comes under three main brands: citrus, tupelo and mixed flowers. Creamed honey, honey whip and honey spread are trade-names for granulated honey that has a smooth crystalline texture. Chunk honey pack where comb honey is cut and placed in a glass or tin container and the balance of the space is filled with liquid honey.

For the homemaker, here are six rules to follow in the care of Florida honey:

Do not keep in refrigerator. Granulated honey is not spoiled honey, nature does that to preserve it.

Before serving thick extracted honey, set container in warm water for a few minutes for easy pouring.

Honey is imperishable and can be purchased in large quantities and stores.

The Board of Forestry will use the 1957 Legislature for two additional nurseries, one in South Florida and in North Florida.

The South Florida strain of slash pine doesn't do too well in the North Florida area so a separate South Florida nursery is asked to supply the southern part of the State. Production from that nursery annually.

Private industry, in addition to the state's 500,000 planted acres, plants 100,000 acres annually for their own use and for distribution among private landowners.

Florida's pulp and paper mills account for over two thirds of Florida's annual forest products return of $350,000,000. The eleven pulp mills in the state purchased 60 per cent of their wood from private holdings, encouraging forest protection, tree planting and better cutting practices.

"Better buy FLORIDA!"

JOIN IN THE "FESTIVAL OF FLORIDA PRODUCTS"

FEBRUARY 14-23

Florida is leaping forward as a producing state!

Today some 7,500 different products are made here in the Sunshine State...and to better acquaint you with them, manufacturers and merchants from Pensacola to Key West are observing the second annual "Festival of Florida Products" from February 14 to 23.

During this period, Florida-made products will be on display everywhere...special bargains will be offered...you'll have a wonderful new opportunity to discover and profit from the many items made in Florida.

Look for these products...buy them for yourself, for relatives and friends...send Florida-made gifts back North...you'll find it more than worthwhile!

Road Board Members Gather Today As 3-Day Confab Gets Underway

The State Road Board began its meeting in Sanford this morning at the Mayfair Inn with a conference which began shortly after 11 o'clock.

The State Road Board is meeting at the invitation of the Seminole County Board of Commissioners on the Board of Sanford City Commissioners.

Members of the board began arriving early this morning, as well as members of the State Road Board staff.

Road Board members here for the first session of the board were: Ralph Davis, Executive Director; Al C. Church, State Highway Engineer; Charles Boyd Jr., Attorney to the Board; Resident Attorney Ross Starlin; and L. A. Faleigh, Secretary to the Board.

Also on hand this morning for the first session of the board were: Ralph Davis, Executive Director; Al C. Church, State Highway Engineer; Charles Boyd Jr., Attorney to the Board; Resident Attorney Ross Starlin; and L. A. Faleigh, Secretary to the Board.

Members of the local delegation were at the Mayfair Inn to greet the Road Board members as they arrived, as were the members of the city and county boards of commissioners.

Senator Douglas Stensom and Representative Mack N. Cleveland Jr., along with Seminole County Board of Commissioners Chairman Fred Dwyer and commissioners Lawrence Swafford, Homer Little, B. C. Dodd and John Krider, Mayor David Gatchel welcomed the Road Board members, as did Commissioner F. D. Scott, and A. L. Wilson.

The first session of the board got underway this afternoon at 2 o'clock with delegations from the League of Municipalities. The latter group will ask the State Road Board to approve an additional cent added to gasoline tax, it was reported.

Road Board member William H. Dial met briefly before the conference this morning with a delegation from the Seminole County Board of Commissioners. Local delegations from the Board of Seminole County Commissioners and the Long Range Highway Planning Committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce will honor the visiting Road Board executives.

The meeting will continue in Sanford through Saturday.

Tonight, beginning at 6:30 a cocktail party will precede a banquet in honor of the visiting State Road Board members and their wives. It is expected that about 75 will be entertained at the Mayfair Inn dinner. EMIL NAJJAR (left), Israeli delegate to the United Nations in New York, confers with French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau before launching a defense of French policy in Algeria. A verbal free-for-all was staged in the U.N. Political Committee when Arab representatives sought to interrupt Najjar during the 80-nation body's prolonged debate on the Algerian question. The clash came when Najjar insisted on defending his country against the Arab attacks.

Funeral Services Tomorrow Morning For Miss L. Peters

Miss Leda T. Peters, 67, died at her home in Tallahassee Tuesday evening following a short illness.

Born May 13, 1889, in Geneva, she had lived in Tallahassee for 12 years where she was employed by the Motor Vehicle Department. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. W. V. Wagoner, Geneva; three nieces, Mrs. Fred Bauder, Orlando; Mrs. James Jones, Columbia, La.; and Mrs. William Wilkerson, Biloxi, Miss.; and one grandnephew, Thomas Bauer of Orlando.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 at the First Baptist Church. Burial will be in Geneva cemetery. Pallbearers are Orie Mathews, Homer Ballard, J. T. McLean, Lester Brown, W. L. Seig and E. T. Summersell.

Firemen Welcome 2 New Members

Members of the Lake Mary Fire Department held its regular monthly meeting at the Lake Mary School house, Tuesday night. President Ed Zimmerman, lauded Harvey Pugh, Chief Engineer, for his work on the Lake Mary Fire Department truck and other fire fighting equipment. The president stated to attending members that the Lake Mary Fire Department had become in fact a reality and should be capable of answering calls with equipment within the next 30 day period.

R. E. Tolin, and W. L. Mitchell were welcomed by the Fire Department as new members. Both Mitchell and Tolin are Naval Officers who have recently reported to the Sanford Station for duty.

Symphonette To Feature Soloists

Robert Rudie, violin virtuoso, with the Festival Symphonette has a "most impressive" record which features him as one of the "outstanding" violinists in America. He is also a conductor of note and a musical commentator who has won a host of friends for good music.

Rudie is the proud possessor of two very rare violins: a Stradivarius, dated 1724; and a Guarneri, dated 1717. In all probability one of these prize instruments will be in his hands when he appears here tomorrow night, at the Pinerest School auditorium.

Brunette Named '57 Citrus Queen

WINTER HAVEN (UP) — Beautiful brunet Frances Layton regally displayed her "best Valentine's eye" today—the crown and title of the 1957 Florida Citrus Queen.

The shapely model from Callahan won the title Wednesday night before a nationwide television audience watching Gary Moore's "I've Got a Secret" program originating from the Florida Citrus Exposition.

The 17-year-old beauty, who models at Cypress Gardens, beat out four other finalists for the honor.

With her trip, the queen received a 10-day trip to Europe, a complete wardrobe including jewelry and a one-year contract with the Florida Citrus Commission to promote citrus sales throughout the world.

Miss Layton, who succeeds Dorothy Steiner, is 5 feet 3 inches tall, and measures a svelte 85-23-35. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Layton of Callahan.

Plans For United Drive Start

The first hurdle toward establishing a United Fund drive in Sanford and Seminole County was overcome last night at a meeting of the seven agencies which had agreed to participate in the "one-effort" campaign for funds and representatives of Sanford's civic organizations.

More than 30 people attended last night's organizational meeting which was set up by the after the performance for an hour and a half to exhibit his rare violins and to answer the most technical questions which concerned acoustics and construction.

While Rudie's popularity has been greatly enhanced by his brilliant personality, his stature as an artist rests firmly on his musical achievements. A versatile musician, he has enjoyed a varied career. He is the veteran of several New York recitals. He has appeared as a soloist with a score of major orchestras under leading conductors. He has appeared in recital from coast to coast, and on international radio broadcasts as well as television shows. He was twice—in 1951 and 1953—invited to appear with the elite of the world's musicians at the celebrated Casals Festival at Prades, France. He spent last summer as a performer, conductor and narrator at the music festival at Aspen, Colo.

The Festival Symphonette is conducted by Robert Rudie and features Elizabeth Winslow, soprano, Cynthia Otis, harpist, and Howard Shaw, harpist.

Tonight's concert is the last in this season's series presented by the Seminole Mutual Concert Association.

County To Be Included In Development Plans

Seminole County will be included in future plans for the industrial development of smaller counties, according to a release from the office of Gov. LeRoy Collins today.

The industrial development of smaller counties is one of the primary objectives of the Florida Development Commission, Gov. Collins said today.

In a letter to third-district Congressman Bob Sikes, of Crestview, who recently advocated such a program, the Governor said: "This is a matter which has been close to my heart, and I am determined that no area of Florida shall be by-passed in the economic growth of our state."

"Development of just a program as you described is one of the primary objectives I outlined for the Florida Development Commission at its inception. That agency has made some fine progress, and your support is genuinely appreciated."

R. B. Fuller Jr., executive director of the commission, also wrote Sikes:

"The Development Commission believes that a program to help the underdeveloped counties is most vital to the State of Florida, and we certainly welcome your interest in the subject. We concur with you that every effort should be made to provide such assistance." Fuller wrote, "and the Florida Development Commission is planning to expand its present program during the 1957-58 biennium to provide the aid these counties need."

At the present time, the Development Commission's activities are limited in this field due to the lack of funds. But the commission has in its 1957-58 budget a request for sufficient funds to do an all-out job. Of course, the commission's efforts are contingent on the support of the 1957 Legislature in approving the funds requested for the program. (A minimum of $75,000 has been recommended by the Budget Commission.)

"The program the Development Commission is now operating for 1957-58, are identical in many ways to the program you proposed in your letter to Governor Collins."

"There is no question as to the financial assistance needed by the underdeveloped counties and communities in providing buildings to house industry. It is hoped that the 1957 Legislature will open the door to such assistance with the passage of a bill to create a Florida Development Credit Corporation. Such a corporation would provide the opportunity for regular financial institutions in Florida to pool their resources to assist established industry in the state to expand and help new industry to locate in Florida."

SEN. WILLIAM LANGER (R-N.D.), 70, is reported in "critical condition" at the Bethesda Naval Hospital, Maryland. The North Dakota Senator's office said that he was suffering from pleurisy and pneumonia. He has received blood transfusions and is under an oxygen tent. (International)

Mrs. S. D. Highleyman died this morning at her home on 555 Valencia Drive.

Funeral arrangements are in complete.

Next Year's Plans To Be Discussed At Guild Meet

An open meeting of the Sanford Theatre Guild will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the office of the City Manager in the Sanford City Hall.

The open meeting is designed to sustain interest in the production of selected plays, musicals, or radio programs with an enlarged membership to provide calls of any size or type.

An official of the organization stated yesterday that "plans for next year will be thoroughly discussed," and that "new suggestions and ideas are certainly welcome."

"We know how many talented people we have here in this area following the successful staging of 'High Fever Follies' the guild official said.

At the present time, the Sanford Theatre Guild, under the presidency of Don Fletcher, has approximately 25 members.

"It is hoped," the officers say, "that many of those who took part in the recent musical will join with us for an expanded program of entertainment produced from local talent."

Ability To Strike Growing

WASHINGTON (AP)—A top Air Force general asserted today that Russia's ability to strike the United States with air-atomic weapons is increasing "steadily and rapidly."

Gen. Thomas D. White, vice chief of staff, also bared Air Force plans for dispersing combat units widely in the United States to reduce their vulnerability to sudden attack.

White was the leadoff speaker at a jet-age conference sponsored by the Air Force Assn. One thousand government, industry, military and education leaders were invited.

The general thus made it clear that the problem of noise from military jet aircraft, one of the prime topics of the jet-age conference, will be a continuing one. He acknowledged that aircraft noise is "the greatest single point of friction" between the Air Force and communities near its bases.

The conference also heard of steps being taken to hold down the noise level of big commercial jet transports going into service in another two years and heard Civil Aeronautics Board plans for easing the air traffic control program.

White said that moving airports from population centers has proved of little value because an airbase is a big business which quickly spawns new communities.

Air defense bases and fields used by reservists must in any case be nearer towns and important target areas, he said.

The general, warning of Russia's growing atomic power, said this nation's retaliatory forces would be only the "crews, bombs and bombers that would escape" the first enemy attack.

He said the Strategic Air Command's bombers must be dispersed over more bases as a means of strengthening their deterrent power without increasing their numbers.

The noise problems will be reduced, White said, as missiles more and more replace airplanes because they will stand "silently in place and ready to go at their sites."

Supper Tonight

Reservations to the Chicken Pileau Supper which the Altamonte Chapel Sunday School is having tonight are still being taken. The supper will be served in the educational building from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m. Tickets are for both adults and children are now being sold. Everyone is invited.

A. B. Peterson Jr. was named secretary of the Steering Committee.

Plans have been set to hold the organizational meeting on Wednesday night, Feb. 21, to set up a permanent committee and to name officers of the organization.

Weather

Mostly sunny today, partly cloudy tonight and Friday; low tonight 36 to 44.

SENATOR Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), testifying before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees in Washington, says President Eisenhower's Middle East proposal "breaks down the system of checks and balances" provided by the Constitution. The Senator has proposed several amendments to the President's doctrine. (International)

Education Board Reviews School Audit Reports

The Seminole County Board of Education this morning turned down a request for the purchase of property on Mellonville and Celery Aves.

In other action by the Board at its meeting this morning at the Educational Building approved a resolution requesting the Seminole County Board of Commissioners to request that signal lights be installed at the A.C.L. crossing south of Lyman School.

Crocker Academy was authorized to rent five acres of land east to the school for farming purposes by the Vocational Agriculture Department.

The Board of Education reviewed audit reports from various Seminole County Schools and found the financial statements to be in good condition.

Final action of the Board was to purchase a projector for the Goldsboro Elementary School.

Roxton Pleads Guilty To Charge

ORLANDO (AP)—The former vice president of a Sanford bank has pleaded guilty to charges of embezzling more than $100,000 over a four-year period.

Jack R. Roxton admitted in federal court here Wednesday that he stole $100,584 from the bank between Feb. 14, 1952 and Oct. 6, 1956. He also admitted making false entries in the bank books.

Judge William J. Barker delayed sentencing until he can study the background of the case. Roxton disappeared from the bank last Oct. 8, shortly after auditors began a routine check of the books. He surrendered a month later.

SETTING UP THE "INFORMATION FILE" is an important task prior to the switch from manual to dial telephone service. Every telephone number now listed in the Sanford Exchange of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. will be changed. At the new dial exchange building, setting up the Information Files are (left to right) Mrs. Marguerite Estridge, Mrs. Sylvia Moss, and Mrs. Alva Cunnaway. (Staff Photo)
