BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU, AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH.
"HE'LL PRENT 'EM"---SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

From all over the land comes a mighty protest against the high price of foodstuffs.

The national government, state authorities and municipalities are seeking the cause, but without appreciable result.

The government says it is not the fault of the retailer, and unquestionably the government is right. But there the government rests.

And when the federal government, with all the power and resources at its command, cannot solve the problem or check the robbery it is time for the humble citizen to pause and think. The time may even come when it will become necessary for him to act.

And that action should take the course of devising some method whereby the foodstuffs may travel from the producer to the consumer without passing through too many hands. Under the present system many hands handle them and many mouths are fed from the profits before they travel the distance from field to consumer, or even to the retailer.

And the consumer pays the bills. There is no question but that the fault lies with the middlemen, wholesalers, cold storage men and speculators, each one of whom must extract the largest possible margin of profit before he passes it on to the next leech.

And with half a dozen human vultures fastening their talons upon every article of diet, it is not to be wondered at that the public finds itself plucked to the bones.

The retailer and the producer should join hands in a determined effort to eradicate the vultures, and reduce the cost of living to something within the bounds of reason.

The fact that a wave of prosperity seems to be ahead of us is no reason why the consuming public should calmly submit to being gouged in the matter of its foodstuffs.

Can anyone in this community suggest a reasonable solution to this problem?

These are days of more or less worry for the newspaper makers. In the news room there is the gigantic task of handling the war news and whipping it into shape for the readers, the stress is also felt in every other department. In the business office there is also ever-present apprehension in regard to the supply of print paper which is available for use. Of course in cities of this size this feature is not a source of great worry, but with the metropolitan dailies with their numerous editions and vast number of pages it is a different matter. The visible supply of paper now on hand would supply the newspapers just ten days, and if any of the large mills should be destroyed at this time it would mean increased prices and smaller papers. Already some of the metropolitan papers have been compelled to advance prices outside of their own cities and a straight rate of twelve cents a week and seven cents for Sunday papers is among the possibilities of the near future. In fact those prices are already being charged in some instances. In some of the beleaguered cities of the continent, Paris, for example, daily newspapers are confined to one edition every twenty-four hours consisting of a single sheet which carries no advertising whatever.

A terrific effort is being made to awaken America to the fact that the war in Europe has opened the gates to golden opportunities for extending our commerce in many parts of the world. With this purpose in view editorials are being penned, advertisements are being printed and neighbor Jones is talking it to neighbor Brown. While as a nation and as individuals we regret the calamity which has enveloped all Europe there is no reason why we should not avail ourselves of the opportunity to supply the world with goods bearing the label "Made in America."

The situation has been well summed up in a confidence ad by F. K. Anderson of Chicago, and it is reproduced here because it is worth reading. "The present European conflict fairly staggers the imagination. The tremendous armies and navies involved, the great loss of life, the stupendous destruction of property, all are so great as to nearly defy our comprehension. And there is still another side. The little French girl who mourns a lover at the front finds herself jobless through the closing of the glove factory which has given her employment. The German business is troubled because of having Russian Cossacks are making of the wheat and barley intended for Prussian bread. Young Sandy McIntosh can't go to war, because he is crippled, but sits on the doorstep. The mill in which he worked is now closed. The mill hands are giving their attention to the business of war.

"Meanwhile, the world's work must go on. Who will shoulder the burden of commerce while these neighbors make war on each other? Who, indeed, can, unless it be the people of these United States?"

"Will it be worth while? Shall we get adequate compensation if we put aside our doubts and fears and vacillations and buckle down to work? Read what the great Englishman wrote about it a short time ago:

"A great war in Europe will enable the United States to sell its crops, in places which will give a much greater income than if there was no war. Almost every industry will derive more or less advantage. Should the American people take advantage of the golden opportunity afforded them by the outbreak of the war, it will mean not diminished, but increased prosperity for the United States."—Sir George Paish, editor of the London "Statist."

"Well, let's go to work."

The schools are mobilizing. All over the land there is a mustering of the infant population for enlistment in the cause of education. To the primitive district school there is flocking small groups of little men and women to take up the work of preparation for future control of affairs. And the movement is general and concerted throughout the land, district school, high school and college each being the active scene of an enlistment that is repeated year after year and the glorious part of it is that there is never any apparent lack of reservists to fill the ranks when the trained hosts of yesterday have taken their diplomas and marched away to conquer the world, each in his individual way.

The public school system of America is a glorious institution. It offers equal opportunity for the high and the low, the rich and the poor, nor class, nor creed, nor sect is barred from participation which results in individual advantage and redounds to the glory of the nation as a whole. In war shattered Europe with its boast of power and wealth and antiquity, kings are born to rule and the man is born to a life of toil, a unit whose efforts are chiefly directed to satisfying the demands of the tithe-taker. Small wonder then that each passing year witnesses a wonderful immigration to a land where every man's success depends upon his individual efforts and no matter how lowly his station in life his children share equally the opportunity to rule and sit in the high places.

The front yard of a town may be defined as that part of it in which visitors first land, as for instance, the railroad station or the water front. The front yard of every Florida town should be kept in a clean and orderly condition throughout the entire year, but the writer knows a number of cases where this is not done. The river front or lake front towns have a decided advantage over the others in the way of an opportunity to create a very attractive park. Where this opportunity has been made most of the visitor, approaching by boat, is bound to get a decidedly favorable impression of the place that will be lasting.

It is not such a terribly difficult or expensive matter in many cases to construct a concrete seawall along the water front. The price of a block of brick paving will build a pretty good seawall which in many ways is more valuable than the paving. With the ground leveled off back of the wall and a space of varying width set out to shade trees, cabbage palms, planted in grass and provided with seats we have an attractive water front that reflects the enterprise of the citizens of the town. Besides this it is more apt to be kept in a clean and sanitary condition under such circumstances.

With such a water front it is not likely that the authorities of any town would permit old and dilapidated docks and dirty ill smelling fish houses to remain in the fore ground. The water front would not be a repository for all of the garbage that accumulates in the town as is now unfortunately the case in some instances. Such a condition is bound to be more or less unhealthy. It is a feeding place for flies and often a breeding place for mosquitoes, both of which are a serious menace to the health of any community.

All wet and swampy places in any town should be drained. If it is not feasible to reach an outlet with a ditch, the old plan of putting down a cesspool will usually answer the purpose. All scrub palmetto and undergrowth on lots in any town should be rigidly legislated against by town council. They are unhealthy in wet seasons and a fire menace in dry seasons.

These suggestions are especially timely because the season when Florida is host to thousands of critical northerners is almost at hand. Every town should take pride in showing its regular winter visitors what a big improvement it has made during their absence. Special attention might be given to most railway stations to great advantage. Neat, clean station grounds and the vicinity thereabouts speak well for the town. A clean and attractive place is generally healthful, while a healthful place is invariably clean and attractive.

What with one thing and another, the past few weeks have disclosed enough to discredit men who are by circumstance made rulers. We, who live obscurely, within a small compass, watch things through our bifocal lenses and turn away without understanding from the spectacle of the kings of the world intriguing, under handing and passing the hats of nations like a medicine ball from one to another. At such times as men turn, if they can turn hands off, to Dr. Beecher's lectures—not our regular literary diet but a work marked by an occasional worthy thing they will find partial enlightenment. In this for example:

"As men they mean to be veracious and honest and moral; as politicians they are deceitful, cunning and unscrupulous; as men they abhor the slimy demagogue; as politicians they employ him as a scavenger. They abhor virtue and reward intrigue. If this style of character were not wicked it would be supremely ridiculous. But it is both."

"Have you ever heard?" Laura Jean Libbey is asking in the Chicago Tribune. "That railroad men's lives are dull and monotonous and pitted are the handsome, sturdy fellows to whom home is but a name and courtships are but the rest of fancy?" Bunk! As a matter of fact the average railroad man meets as many girls as he does semaphores and goes through life "out of the block" as far as feminine society is concerned. We have known sailors to blush when railroad men have related their conquests.

President Buys Ford

Detroit.—If President Wilson shows as sound judgment in making all his future appointments as he did recently, we see no imminent danger of the ship of state foundering. Miller Bros., our Washington, D. C., representatives, notified us that they delivered a Ford to the White House for the President, to be used at his summer home.

This announcement from our Washington agents coming so closely upon the heels of Mr. Ford's visit to the national capital and conference with the President as to the state of business did not surprise us much.

We thoroughly believed that Mr. Ford would himself make the sale, but in his characteristic kindly way he stepped aside so that Miller Bros. would get the credit of selling a Ford to the first citizen of the land.

The addition of the President to the Ford family is very gratifying to the company.

He is perhaps the most famous Ford owner, though Fords are owned by hundreds of leaders of the world's activities.

For instance, there were nineteen princes and two grand dukes driving Fords of their own in Russia, according to the last report from the Russian representative, Mr. M. S. Friede.

Several members of the English peerage drive Fords, as do also many titled persons in the other countries of Europe.

Even the Tasha Lama of Urga has a Ford town car, which was delivered to him under its own power across the Gobi desert of Mongolia, being the first pleasure car to negotiate the hazardous trip.

And in Washington the President will find himself among a distinguished company of Ford owners. But a few days after reporting the sale of a Ford to the President, Miller Bros. announced they had sold a car to the Hon. Frank B. Brandegee, U. S. Senator from Connecticut.—Ford Times.

New Yacht Launched

The beautiful new yacht of James Laughlin III, which has been in building on the St. Johns at the Sanford-DeLand ferry, was expected to be launched this morning, preparatory to getting everything ready for the cruise to New York, which is now planned for Saturday as the starting day.

The yacht will pass down the St. Johns, and will only take the ocean where there are no inland waterways paralleling the coast. The boat will touch at the principal cities en route. The party will be out purely for pleasure, and judging from the appearance of their craft will have such accommodations as will make the trip a most pleasant one.

Knights of Columbus Meeting

The candidates of the Sanford Council of the Knights of Columbus lodge, being organized in Sanford, held a meeting last Sunday morning and elected the following officers: Theo Schaal, Grand Knight; M. W. Zeigler, Deputy Grand Knight; C. L. Britt, Recording Secretary; C. V. Mahoney, Financial Secy; J. E. Wathen, Treasurer.

The degree team will be here inside of the next 30 days and will initiate the candidates.

The lodge is the only one in this section of the state and on account of the central location of Sanford it was decided to organize the lodge here, although the membership is made up of K. of C.'s from DeLand, Orlando, Eustis and many other towns near here.

YOUR REGISTRATION

Every Voter Should Consult Supervisor DuBose and Get Straight

There has been so much confusion about the subject of registering for the general election in November and the new law regarding the primaries has so mixed the ordinary voter that many at this time do not know whether they are registered or not. Some think they must register again regardless of whether they registered in Orange county and became voters for all time or just registered this year for the spring primaries and it is impossible to get the matter straight with all the voters, therefore our advice to every voter in Seminole county is to see Supervisor DuBose and see that you are on the real registration books regardless of whether you voted in the primary election or not.

There seems to be a great deal of confusion in the minds of the public in regard to the matter of registration, growing largely out of the new primary law and the division of the county. Permit me to say, therefore, that there are now two separate and distinct sets of registration books kept in every county of the state, one the primary registration books which apply to and control the Democratic primary alone, which is held biennially, the last being held in June past and the next will be held in June 1916, before which time every man will have to register again, beginning February 1st, 1916 and continuing for sixty days; the second, the general election books, which control not only the general election but all other elections held in the county from time to time. These books are now open in all the precincts of the county for the purpose of allowing any who have become of age since they were last open and any new persons who may have come into the state and are now eligible to the privilege of registering.

When the county was divided Orange county turned over to Seminole county the precinct books, which embraced the precincts now in this county, hence all who were registered therein need not register again.

Please let me urge, for fear that some may not be entirely clear upon this matter, that you call at my office, No. 112 Park avenue, so that I may see that you are properly registered, and in the precinct in which you live.

H. C. DuBOSE, Supervisor of Registration.

THE SECOND GREAT BATTLE BEING FOUGHT

RESULT WILL DECIDE WHETHER GERMANS HOLD POSITIONS OR RETREAT TOWARD BERLIN

AN AWFUL SLAUGHTER ON BOTH SIDES AND THE WHOLE WORLD LOOKS ON PRAYING FOR PEACE

Washington, 11 a. m.—French military commission arrived on the Lusitania this morning on secret mission to Washington. Personnel and import not divulged.

Geneva, 11 a. m.—All fortresses along the Rhine depleted of garrisons sent to front to re-inforce German lines.

London, 11 a. m.—Battle raging along entire front with increasing intensity. Death of Gen. Bataille announced.

Rome, 11 a. m.—Trent, Austria preparing for long siege by Italian forces. Declaration of war expected on 28th.

Summary of War News Another great battle, even more vital for the countries concerned than those that have preceded it, is in progress on a line extending from the region of Noyon on the River Oise, northwest of Paris, to the river Meuse, north of Verdun. The front is shorter than in the battle of the Marne, but this will result only in a more fiercely contested battle, with masses of troops throwing themselves at each other, and every available piece of artillery concentrated in the determined effort of the armies to break the other's left.

A Sanford Booster

W. T. Fields is in the city today shaking hands with his many Sanford friends. He is now engaged in the real estate business in Augusta, Georgia, his former home, but his heart is still with Sanford and he says that Florida is the best state in the Union and especially at this particular time when the war is holding back the prosperity of Georgia and other cotton states. Mr. Fields is living in Augusta temporarily and we can look for his smiling face in Sanford ere long, as he thinks that this season in Florida will be a record breaker. His office in Augusta is besieged with inquiries about Florida, and the exodus to this state will be the greatest in the history of Florida.

In Honor of Miss Vaughn

A delightful party was given by Miss Abby Doudney in honor of Miss Alva Vaughn of Sanford, at the Camp of the Forty Palms on Lake Harney Thursday evening. The room was beautifully decorated with palm, cedar and ferns. Music and games were enjoyed throughout the evening, and delicious refreshments, consisting of fruit sherbet and cake were served out under the palms.

Those enjoying this delightful party were Misses Barbara McLain, Thusa Tarbell, Ramona McLain, Marie Daniels, Alva Vaughn, Abby Doudney and Mrs. A. Vaughn; Messrs. Thomas McLain, Paul Dooley, Robert Merriweather, Joe Smith, Bert Pattishall, Gilla Sipes and Chas. Merryweather.

SCHOOL BOARD ELECTIONS

The election in Seminole county for members of the local school boards occurred on Tuesday and were comparatively quiet, although more interest was manifested than ever before and this interest made several changes. The results were as follows:

For 3 mill tax 48, for 2 mill tax 37, against tax 2. Oviedo: H. R. Stevens (125), B. F. Whitner (117), S. Runge (99), C. R. Walker (76), L. R. Phillips (38). Total votes cast, 167. For 3 mill tax 48, for 2 mill tax 37, against tax 2. Geneva: W. B. Raulerson, M. E. Dooley, H. A. Nicholson. 3 mills. Total vote, 20.

Landis Will Not Resign

The DeLand News in its issue of Wednesday says: A canard is going the rounds of the state press to the effect—that Hon. Cary D. Landis of DeLand will resign the office of state attorney for the Seventh Judicial Circuit, and that Hon. George DeCottes of Sanford is to be appointed in his stead.

The News heard the rumor last week and interviewed Mr. Landis about the matter. He stated at that time that he had no intention of resigning. Since the story has been running in the state papers, the News reporter again called upon Mr. Landis yesterday, and he reiterated his statement of last week, to the effect that he had no idea whatever of resigning. He further stated that, since the story has been published in the state press, he has received not less than 50 letters from every county in the circuit, protesting against the rumored resignation.

Attorney Murray Sams of DeLand was also mentioned as possible successor; when there is to be any change, Volusia county people ought to get behind Mr. Sams and urge his appointment.

SANFORD WON GAME

Were Too Much For the Team That Came Over From DeLand

The Sanford basket ball team met the DeLand team on the home court last Friday night. The game was hard fought by both teams, time being called several times by different players.

The ball was in DeLand territory most of the time but the efficient work of our guards kept the ball out of the basket.

The features of the game were two long throws for field goals by Routh, Captain of the home team, and Hogden, Capt. of the DeLand team, both were good shots and counted, the other was the whirlwind finish of the game by Gilbert.

The Sanford players were smaller as a whole than the visitors but when our boys got the first basket in fast time it put pepper and stick to it into them and with the aid of the enthusiastic crowd they showed off boys continuously, doing justice to Sanford.

DeLand had a jolly crowd with them and when their boys pulled a good play, the cheers of the Sanford and DeLand crowd were together, and Sanford took appropriate good players by either side.

The managing of the team by Capt. Routh was without fault. The first half he gave his Subs. a try out and found them in good shape and then substituted Gilbert and Herring in their regular places. Gilbert played under difficulties, having a very bad arm. Pearson played a scrappy game at forward, this was his first game with Sanford. Raynor played a full game of life and pluck, he had the misfortune to receive an injury in the second half but after a few minutes was able to finish in the game. Washburn and Routh subs. did justice to the team, Washburn making two field goals and Routh by efficient guarding of his man who was not able to throw a basket.

A good crowd witnessed the game, and all seemed to be well satisfied, and all seemed to be well satisfied. We hope to see them back again, thanking them for their hearty support and the interest they showed. The final score was 13 to 11 in favor of Sanford.

The line up was as follows: Sanford: Herring, R. F. Cruse, Pearson, L. F. Albin, Gilbert, C. Miller, Routh (Capt), L. G. Hogden (capt), Raynor, R. G. Keown.

Subs, Washburn and Routh. Referees, Ned Chittenden; time keeper, Mr. Chittenden.

We play DeLand a game on their floor Sept. 22nd, and would like to have a good Sanford delegation.

New Building Campaign

The Sunday school scholars of the Baptist church have entered into a campaign to raise enough money in the coming week to pay for the Tapestry Brick that have been used in the new church now being constructed. Ten cents from a person pays for a brick complete counting all the workmanship in placing same. When these children approach you with this appeal do not turn them away even if it is to give them only one brick. Every person in the whole community should be proud to place a brick in the new building.

LETTER FROM MR. JENKINS

ON THE REGISTRATION AND PAYMENT OF POLL TAXES

As information to all concerned, the general registration books are now open in the office of Mr. H. C. DuBose, supervisor of registration, in his office opposite the court house, and are also open in the district registration offices throughout the county.

To vote at the general election, which will be held November 3rd, electors must be registered and have their poll taxes paid for 1912 and 1913, unless exempt from poll tax. The tax collector will be in his office from 8:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m. and from 2:00 p. m. to 6:00 p. m. each day except Sunday from Sept. 17th to October 10th for the purpose of receiving poll taxes. In case of a person moving from one district to another he should report the matter to the supervisor of registration and have his name transferred to the district in which he lives, as the law provides that no person shall be allowed to vote in any other election district than the one in which he is registered.

PRO-TEM SENATOR

Quite a Number Want Sen. Bryan's Place If He Gets Appointment

Jacksonville, Sept. 18.—"Fifty-seven different varieties are in the mix-up and the Governor is a 'pickle,'" said a local politician yesterday discussing the probabilities of any particular man receiving the appointment to the Senate chair which Senator Bryan is expected to leave for a federal judicial bench. "Jacksonville has at least ten now who are assuming heroic attitudes; or running up lightning rods. Tampa has five admittedly conscious that they are senatorial timber; Pensacola has nearly as many plumbing and assuming a dignified, quiet and sapient look when 'senate' is spoken before them; Miami has several favorite sons, while the interior of the state fairly teems with 'possibilities.' Gov. Trammell will have the work of his life to select one from among the crowd daily growing larger without hurting the pride of some half the rest."

Then Miss May, the host's daughter, assisted by her brother George and cousin Sammy served cake and lemonade until all were satisfied. All took their leave, voting Mr. Long and family very pleasant entertainers.

PAOLA POINTS

During the storm that swept and washed us clean week before last, lighting struck the porch of the store, now occupied by Mr. Priel, who was sitting on the porch at the time. The door sill was splintered within eighteen inches of him and he was knocked out of his chair and very decidedly scared, but not seriously harmed. It made things rather interesting in the store building for a few minutes too, though nothing was injured.

Mrs. A. A. Hicks met with a very painful accident last week. She was standing on the porch, when a plank in the floor under her suddenly gave way, and one limb and her back were severely injured, making her almost helpless and causing much suffering. Mrs. Bona was telegraphed for and is here doing all possible for her mother's comfort. Mrs. Hicks has the sincere sympathy of all her friends and neighbors and their earnest hopes that her condition may soon be improved.

Mrs. Chilson and baby are at home again. Miss Addie Gresham, Mrs. Chilson's sister accompanied them, and will remain for a little visit.

We are having much cooler weather now, which is certainly much appreciated. Thermometers were down to 62 deg. one morning and below 70 deg. is the rule for every morning. But we need a little more rain, for the good of vegetation.

Later—We are getting our rain this morning (Wednesday) and it looks as if we might have a plenty.

OLD CUB MACHINE IS BROKEN

Frank Schulte is Only Member of Team That Thrilled Thousands With Wonderful Plays.

(BY FRANK G. MENKE)

The old Cub machine, once the mightiest in baseball, has been broken, never again to be mended. Of the grand old gang that thrilled thousands with their wonderful team work in the old days, while working under the Cub standard, only one still wears the Cub uniform, and he, Frank Schulte, is slipping fast.

Chance, Tinker and Evers, that wonderful double-play combination, is scattered in three different leagues, Chance managing the New York Yankees and Tinker is holding a like job for the Chicago Feds, while Evers is cavorting around the keystone sack for the Boston Nationals.

Miner Brown is managing the St. Louis Feds, Jack Pfeister is farming in Ohio, Overall is on the coast in semi-retirement, and Johnny Kling has quit the game for all time. Jimmy Schoenhard is in the American association. Artie Hofman is with the Feds, and Jimmy Slagle and Steinfeld have passed out of the game forever.

GERMANS RETREAT BEFORE ALLIES

Kaiser's Hordes Hard Pressed In France

ALLIES SEEM VICTORIOUS

Under Steady Rain of Shot and Shell From Guns of British and French the Tide of Battle Has Been Turned.

The sixth week of the war between Germany and France, Great Britain and Belgium has brought a vast transformation. The pursued are now the pursuers. The irresistible sweep of seven German armies through Belgium into France met an invincible force at the River Marne.

The army of General Von Kluck, which so long battled to turn the allies' western flank, was slowly and steadily outflanked. Its retreat before the small but hardy British army turned the tide of battle.

Today, if French official reports are correct, all the German armies except that facing Verdun and a few miles southwest, are retreating. General Von Kluck's army, which a week ago was a few miles southeast of Paris, has retired more than 60 miles to the northeast, while on the extreme right the army of the Bavarian crown prince, which was attacking the French eastern line from Nancy to Epinal, has fallen back to the frontiers of Lorraine, permitting the French to reoccupy Lunerville and several other towns.

General Joffre, French commander-in-chief, pictures the retreat as hurried, if not disorderly, with the Germans abandoning prisoners, wounded and supplies.

Situation Dark for Austrian Army.

News from the Austrian frontier describes even in darker colors the situation of the Austrian army, especially since Germany has notified her ally that she is unable to send more reinforcements into Galicia, owing to graver conditions on the western front.

It even is asserted that the German contingents which reached Gródka to help the Austrians may be recalled to Germany, as Germany wishes to center all her efforts against the allies.

In the battles proceeding in Galicia and Russian Poland success appears to cling to the Russians. They are reported to have won a decisive victory at Krasinik and Tomaszow. The Austrian and German armies are estimated at forty and reinforced by several German divisions of infantry and eleven of cavalry, totalling more than a million men, and reinforced by several German divisions.

AERIAL BATTLE.

Germans Killed in 15-Mile Chase in Air.

The killing of two German aviators after being chased by a French aviator in another machine was reported from Paris. The German aeroplane flew over Troyes, dropping several bombs, one of which fell at the station at 5 o'clock. The Belfort train was arriving. The bomb exploded, but no casualties resulted. A French aviator immediately sent his machine after the Germans, and after chasing them for fifteen miles shot and killed the two German officers who were flying the machine.

Brilliant Charge by Algerians.

A feature of one action was another heroic charge by the Algerian riflemen. At a critical moment it became necessary to carry a certain position and after the artillery had prepared the way 2,000 Algerians, with fixed bayonets, charged the position at a double-quick under a storm of shot and shell.

They never stopped until they reached the trenches, where they wrought fearful carnage. Many pieces of artillery and machine guns were captured.

After the Algerians came the infantry and artillery and the wedge driven into the line forced the Germans to retreat. They were pursued by the Algerians, who inflicted terrible losses.

Retreat of Germans.

Vitry-Le-Francois, the fortified stronghold of the German center, has been evacuated, the Germans have left the neighborhood of Nancy, the French have reoccupied Lunerville and the allies have crossed the Aisne river and the Marne between Epernay and Vitry. The German retreat has become so rapid that it may be described as a flight.

These, together with the withdrawal of the German left wing in the Argonne forest, were the outstanding features of the official announcement of the war office at Bordeaux.

Woman Fought in Trenches.

Among the wounded brought to Naisy-le-Sec, a town in the department of the Seine and near the Ourcq canal, was a young laundress in a soldier's uniform. She had followed a company of Zouaves and had fought alongside of them in the trenches. Her identity was not discovered until she was wounded. Before sending her to the rear the commanding officer complimented her on her bravery.

Kaiser Saw Troops Attack Nancy.

The Geneva correspondent of the London Express hears from a German source that Emperor William watched the attack on Nancy from a hill outside the range of the French artillery. Standing alone with the glasses glued to his eyes, he followed the progress of his first battle for several miles, while his staff, consisting of several high officials, remained distinctly in the background.

WAR BULLETINS.

Troops of the Italian army are being disembarked in Albania, especially at Valona, according to a dispatch from Trieste to the Echo de Paris.

Recent advices from Valona stated that Kiamil Elbassan, at the head of 4,000 men, had threatened to sack the town.

Japanese officers have told a Russian Journalist that the whole of Japan is in favor of an alliance with Russia.

Travelers returning from Constantinople and Sofia report that there is a famine in the Turkish capital.

Vast quantities of spoil have fallen into the hands of the Allies. Enormous numbers of prisoners have been taken.

Two million men were engaged in the battle of the Marne. This is believed to be a record.

The Germans are suffering from lack of provisions and ammunition, but their movements are also hampered by a scarcity of cavalry horses.

One-half million fresh troops at Paris await the word to start for the front, the belief being general that there will be no siege of Paris.

There is a serious food shortage at Hamburg.

Twenty thousand Germans are said to have fallen in the fighting at Nancy and 11,000 more at Lunerville. French officers claim that at least 50,000 Germans must have been killed in the attempts to cut through the Anglo-French lines.

Austrian prisoners now in the hands of the Russians aggregate 200,000. Desperate fighting continues, with the remnant of the Austrian army in danger of capture. News paper correspondents at the front write that Austria is no longer a factor.

Emperor William has conferred 186 Iron crosses for distinguished services in the field. Eighty-six of them went to members of the fifty-third regiment and 110 to the eighty-third regiment garrisoned at Cassel.

The British admiralty announced that the British fleet has occupied Herberghs boche, on Blanche bay, the seat of the government of the German Bismarck archipelago, and the Solomon islands.

A dispatch to the London Observer from Amsterdam states that the German government has published the numbers of prisoners of war taken up to September 11. A total of 219,760 is given.

The Petrograd correspondent of Reuter's Telegram company reports that a Hungarian battalion has crossed the Roumanian frontier and laid down its arms.

The dispatch to the German war loan are the Krupp firm and family, who have taken $7,500,000 of the bonds. Further large subscriptions already have been received by the Reich bank.

A dispatch from Bordeaux to Reuter's says the Temps repeats the report that Germany's stock of gasoline on which the army depends largely for its motor transport of supplies is becoming exhausted.

French Minister of War Millerand has sent a circular to the generals commanding the several districts of France ordering them to institute a vigorous search for all persons who have failed to respond for military service as required.

A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram company from Melningen via Amsterdam states that Emperor William has personally wired the Duke of Saxe-Melningen of the death of Prince Ernest of Saxe-Melningen. He was buried with military honors at Moulberg.

It is stated that the British cruiser Pathfinder, which was destroyed in the North sea September 6, supposedly in contact with a mine, was in reality sunk by a torpedo. This information is related by the official information bureau.

A dispatch to the London Evening News from Petrograd says that Henry K. Sienkiewicz, the Polish writer and author of "Quo Vadis," who recently appealed to the Poles to support Russia in the war, has been taken prisoner by the Austrians and sent to Cracow.

An Ostend dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company says: "Crown Prince Frederick William and Prince Adalbert of Prussia, the emperor's third son, and Prince Carl of Wurtemberg, are reported to have died in a hospital at Brussels."

KAISER'S PROTEST.

Emperor Claims Allies Used Dum-Dum Bullets.

President Wilson received a personal cablegram from Emperor William, of Germany, protesting against the use by the allied army of dum-dum bullets and the participation in the war by civilians of Belgium. The message also expressed the German emperor's deep regret at the destruction of the Belgian city of Louvain.

"My heart bleeds for Louvain" is one of the phrases the emperor is understood to have used. He declared, however, that the population of Belgium had offered such resistance that his generals in many cases had found it necessary to administer severe punishment.

Soldier's Ghastly Souvenir.

There are many wounded soldiers at St. Malo, France, and at Dinard, near that port. The houses have been turned into hospitals. Among the patients are a number of Turcos (Algerians). One of these warriors brought back a German's head in his knapsack, and he was angry when it was taken away from him. He considered it the most precious souvenir in the world and it was necessary to compensate him to keep him quiet.

When Everybody Eats Florida Citrus Fruits the Demand will Exceed the Supply

Citrus fruits are becoming necessities instead of luxuries. The people of the United States are learning their many merits and uses. Where formerly they were regarded solely as breakfast fruits, now they are eaten at other meals and used freely in cookery and confections. All this means a great deal for Florida, which grows the finest citrus fruits of the world. The production of her superior oranges and grapefruit can hardly keep pace with the inevitable increase in demand due to the above causes.

Buckeye Nurseries Catalog—A Citrus Handbook

All the problems that arise in the culture of oranges and grapefruit are fully covered in this book. It tells how to select a location for the grove and describes the operations necessary to bring trees into profitable bearing. Everything is based on practical experience—there are no theories in the advice given. No matter what citrus fruits you are growing or intend to plant, this book will be of service to you. It has been written to help alike the man with the grove and the man who expects to have one. Every person interested in the citrus industry of Florida is welcome to a copy of this book, printed at great expense. Write today for one—edition is limited.

THE SANFORD HERALD

Published Every Tuesday and Friday Morning By THE HERALD PRINTING COMPANY R. J. HOLLY, Editor W. M. HAYNES, Business Manager

The Sanford Herald should go to thousands of people in the north on Saturday October 17th.

Saturday October 17 is Florida Newspaper Day. See that you send a few copies to your friends in the north.

Next Friday night, the Commercial Club will meet again for the purpose of hearing the reports of various committees and transacting other business of importance.

Ad in the Orlando Sentinel announces that a new laundry is ready to do the damp washing.

We congratulate Tampa in winning the custom house fight just when it seemed a losing proposition.

The death of George H. Fernald has cast a shadow over the people of this section of Florida.

Hugh Sparkman of the Orlando Sentinel says that Albert Gilchrist would like to get married but cannot find the girl.

There are rumors that Senator C. A. Carson of Kissimmee would listen to the siren song of politics again and take the ad interim appointment of U. S. Senator.

ONE ON THE EDITOR An editor who started about thirty years ago with only fifty cents, is now worth $10,000.

MUST GET MARRIED Years ago we told Albert W. Gilchrist that if he expected a continuation of favors from the people of Florida in the matter of electing him to office he would have to marry him a wife.

A GOOD SUGGESTION Let's not admit that California editors are more liberal, enterprising, pushing than the Florida press.

This is certainly a good suggestion and should be taken up by all the newspapers of Florida and boosted consistently.

Remember the date, Saturday October 17th, which gives about thirty days to prepare special matter if possible and get the readers familiar with the idea.

HOPE FOR BALD HEADS Under the above headline the Grand Rapids News announces that a distinguished Hungarian surgeon has discovered a method of sewing hairs upon bald heads.

The hope is entertained that the discovery may be developed so as to cheapen it and thus bring it within the reach of people of moderate means.

FLORIDA'S FISH LAWS

A movement is on foot by Orange county citizens to secure the passage of a law preventing the catching of fish in fresh water lakes of Orange county.

In the past, laws have been passed for only prescribed sections. All game laws should cover the entire state.

Our fishing laws are mostly local—no man and few lawyers, in one county knows the laws of another county.

In this connection a suggestion has been made to the News that would make Florida the sportsman's paradise of the world.

much more to the comparatively few men who are now making a living taking fish by nets, to act as guides. The suggestion is worthy of consideration.—DeLand News.

OPENING UP FLORIDA

It has been pointed out, and correctly so, that there is a debt that we owe to humanity, and that whether the European war should last three months or three years, there will be great demand for American products on the continent.

The Tribune Year Book

Capt. J. A. Leslie, the veteran special writer and compiler of special editions was in the city for several days of this week in the interest of the Tampa Tribune Year Book.

The Year Book is issued every winter and this year will go to 40,000 northern people who are interested in Florida.

Candidates Are Out

"The candidates ye have always with you" may not be scripture, but it is a truth nevertheless.

The following are named: For Governor, Hon. W. V. Knott, now the state comptroller; Hon. F. M. Hudson, the attorney of the state railroad commission.

For Comptroller there is a long string of names. Hon. E. P. Thigpen, one of the bank examiners; Hon. Ernest Amos, now state auditor; Hon. Worth W. Trammell, superintendent of the hospital for the insane.

It seems to be generally understood that Hon. W. N. Sheats will be a candidate to succeed himself as state superintendent of public instruction.

Money For Old Age It has been stated that Ninety-Seven Per Cent of men work for their actual living after they are 60 years of age. Why is this? They have failed to save systematically and have not a surplus for old age. Now is the time to begin saving in earnest. Your account is invited. Four Per Cent. the state. He was also one of the five county superintendents selected by Gov. Gilchrist for service on the sub text book commission.

For the other offices in the cabinet there seems to be no one as yet announced. But it's a long time off yet.—Florida Exponent.

Lake Will be Speaker

If the next Governor of Florida should happen to be handed some good federal position like the one they say is going to be handed Senator N. P. Bryan in the fall the state would have for its chief executive Charles E. Davis, Senator from the Tenth district.

Senator Davis is admitted even by the opposition to have ridden all other riders for the senate presidency derby off the track and they say it is all over but the shouting.

How he did it they cannot figure out, but although hoists of other senators though they had a chance to say the least and many of them were confident the presidency would be obsequiously handed them in return for the concession of acceptance.

The disappointed, however, are after his scalp yet and at least five knives have been whetted. The fight will come on when the senate convenes and Senator Davis will have the time of his life getting to the president's chair, to hear the others tell it.

Now, over in the house all is serenity. Forrest Lake has been practically certified without even having to go into a primary, just as he did in his county to get the seat in the house.

Dutton Recommends Kor-Ker The following letter is self explanatory and as will be seen is a very strong recommendation of Kor-Ker, the new puncture cure:

September 17, 1914
M. G. C. Chamberlain, State Agent,
Kor-Ker Puncture Cure, Sanford, Florida.

Dear Sir: For the benefit of the automobile users of the state of Florida and our locality in particular, wish to say publicly that the tires on our five automobiles and one motorcycle are treated with Kor-Ker Puncture Cure.

After witnessing your demonstrations, we had the tires of one of our machines treated with Kor-Ker, and later the motorcycle and one of our trucks. After tests of every description, and especially after having pulled nails of various sizes from our tires, and furthermore, after having put a tube full of holes, without vulcanizing, into a new casing, we decided that we could not afford to be without Kor-Ker in all our automobiles, at the low cost at which you supply it.

If any of your prospective customers are skeptical, as we were at first, send them to us.

Yours truly,

The Northern Iron The above will be the subject of the sermon to be delivered by Rev. George Hyman, pastor of the Baptist church, at the Baptist church on next Sunday night. The audiences continue very large at the church and it is predicted that the greatest season of the church activities has now begun. Mr. Hyman is sparing no pains to see to all the details of comfort, entertainment and instruction of the audiences. The spirituality of the church is one of the praiseworthy things of the congregation. If you have not attended any of these services, come once and you will always want to come.

Artificial Pepper. The common nettle is now being used in the preparation of artificial pepper. In its preparation the nettles are harvested just before flowering, and dried. After drying they are ground, and then boiled for a couple of hours with 20 per cent of their weight of alcohol, three per cent of vinegar, ten per cent of water, five per cent of oil and two per cent of salt. When the greater part of the liquor has evaporated, the remaining mass is dried and pulverized.

With Himself in Mind. When you hear a man telling what is the opinion of "thinking people everywhere" he has direct reference to himself.

NOTICE As I have charge of the business of the Title Bond & Guarantee Co., East Sanford Land League, and W. A. Whitcomb, I can be found in the Tax Assessor's Office in the court house.

Tribute to Geo. H. Fernald The telegram "George H. Fernald is dead" came to Sanford yesterday morning and brought a hush upon all as they heard the sad news.

A large number mourn, and will continue to mourn as individuals the loss of a dear and beloved friend and companion. To us the loss is personal and private and too deep to have place in the newspapers but the death of George Fernald is a public loss and amounts to a calamity. Therefore the tribute I am permitted to pay through the Sanford Herald is to his memory as man and citizen.

Coming to Sanford from Boston about 1882, in his young manhood, with the stamp of nobility in his face and on his person, he quickly won a leading place in the town which he has held to this sad hour.

His influence nor been more respected than he in Sanford, notwithstanding he was only a private citizen, with the exception of a brief time as county commissioner for Orange county. During all these years, without pay, in honors or money, he has been a public servant, and his labors have been many and arduous, costing much in time and money. Always modest, patient with the faults and shortcomings of others he was deservedly popular with all classes. As citizens we can all emulate his example with profit to the town and especially to the young would I hold him up as an example in civic life.

Sanford will miss him at all public functions, whether of gladness or sorrow, for his ready sympathy was equally felt and easily and gracefully shown, no matter what the occasion.

What more shall I add of personal worth, but to sum up in one word GEORGE FERNALD WAS A GENTLEMAN.

Faithfully,
J. N. WHITNER.

Death of George H. Fernald Sanford mourns the loss of one of her best citizens today. The sad news of the death of George H. Fernald, while expected for some time came as a shock to the community yesterday when flashed from the wire to the bulletin board of the Herald office.

Mr. Fernald had been in ill health for the past year and just recently left here for Clifton Springs in the hope that his life could be prolonged at that famous sanitarium. No arrangements have been made for the funeral, but it is understood that the interment will be made at Boston and will probably occur on Sunday.

George H. Fernald came to Sanford about the year 1882 and literally grew up with the town, being and commercial life of the community.

He established his present business as Tuxbury & Fernald and incorporated same as the George H. Fernald Hardware Co. in 1903. He was member of the city council in 1886, county commissioner for six years, was Vice President of the First National Bank, President of the Sanford Telephone Co., and secretary of the Sanford Light & Fuel Co. He was president of the board of trade and Commercial Club. Foremost in public spirit, active in his own business and in all that pertained to the good of the town, gifted with fine executive ability, energetic, wide awake, conscientious and sunny dispositioned. George Fernald won a large part in the hearts of the people and his going has cast a gloom over the city and county. In the band he always took an active part and was a consistent member from the inception of this organization until the time of his departure. In fact there was no organization for the public good in which Mr. Fernald did not take an active part and he was always ready and willing to shoulder a little more of the responsibilities than any other member, shoulder them cheerfully and carry them to completion.

Cheerful, always optimistic, big hearted, a good business man, a born leader, a perfect gentleman at all times. George Fernald stood prominent among men.

He was probably the oldest business man in the city in point of service and was known from one end of the state to the other, being a large contractor in plumbing and sewer work in the early days in Florida and the Fernald Co. today stands as a monument to the executive ability of George Fernald.

His death causes an aching void in the hearts of old and young alike for his kindly heart had a place for the children always and his memory will be kept green for many years in the city where his living presence meant so much.

His life was a living example to the young and his works will be known even after death.

It was the writer's good fortune to have known him long and well, and we only knew him to esteem him more highly as the years passed by. Today we miss his kindly smile and friendly greeting; we long in vain to hear the ring of his jovial laughter and to feel again his genial presence. When the news of his death was flashed yesterday in fancy we could see him not in death's cold shroud of sorrow and despair, but smiling upon us from the sunset haze that marks God's farewell to the day smiling with all the well remembered grace of his manhood, love and devotion.

Then labor well, that in death you go Not bent with doubt, and burdened with fears, And dead, dry husks of the wasted years.

But laden with golden wheat. The sympathy of thousands of friends is extended to the bereaved wife who has so devotedly stood beside his bed of pain while suffering physical pain herself. She is indeed bereft in the loss of one of Nature's noblemen.

Laura Jean Libbey's Talks on Heart Topics

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate
WHY HIS LOVE FAILED HER.

"Come let us walk together,
While the sunset fades and dies,
And, darling, look into my heart
And not into my eyes.
Let us sit and talk together
In the old familiar place,
But look down into my heart, dear,
Not up into my face."

Because there seems to be a mutual attraction for each other when a young man and a girl meet, that does not always signify that they are to be heart mates. She may find him pleasing and he find her charming for a good six months. At the end of that time, each may discover that both are growing weary of each other's society. Looking the matter fairly in the face, he realizes that she is not just the kind of a girl who suits his different moods. She does not appeal to him sufficiently for him to give up his single blessedness to go through life with her. Looking around at wedded couples, he has observed that where the husband was somewhat of a crank the wife was docile as a lamb. Where the wife was high-strung, of domineering disposition, the husband was a good-natured, easy-going fellow who would give her her own way, right or wrong, to keep peace in the family. But when two natures clashed and neither would give way, they could not be rightly mated, as far as he could see. When a man concludes to devote his life to just one woman, the appreciation between them must be mutual or there could be no love. If, while he is calling, ostensibly for courting, he finds a trait developed in her which he does not like, his mind is sure to dwell upon it until his ardor cools. For instance, if he has braved the cold and storm of an unusually bitter night to spend a couple of hours or so in her society, it doesn't add to his good humor to have her suggest that they should call upon some friend a few blocks away.

There is no way of getting there save on foot. She sulks when he attempts to argue her out of her notion and that makes the evening pass uncomfortably, therefore unpleasantly, for him. She shows so little regard for his comfort, even for his health, that it cannot be wondered his love should begin to fall signally after a few such contretemps. The girl was sure that he was in love with her at first. No doubt he was. Love is a bloom which must be coaxed along, nurtured, until it is strong enough of its own accord to take firm root. Many a girl has wondered why her lover's love has failed her. If she looks carefully at her own treatment of him, she may often find the cause.

True lovers expect to give and take. Neither must have his or her own way constantly. The girl who wants to go here and there to almost impossible places makes it irksome, and, dancing attendance to some of her notions is an annoyance instead of a delight. Love never fails except for an excellent reason back of it.

HALF-HEARTED WOOLING.

When love once pleads admission to our hearts,
In spite of all the virtues we can boast
The woman that deliberates is lost.

It's one thing to fall in love with a girl and to bend every effort to secure an introduction and quite another to have one's best friend say, "The nicest little girl you ever saw is visiting our house. I want you to meet her!" The young man knows beforehand that he must appear pleased with the girl, whether he fancies her or not. Arrangements are made for him to dine at the house. He is seated next to the girl at table. The same thing happens at the theater and sleighing, until quite before he realizes it his friends begin to look upon him as the young lady's beau.

It is then that he finds himself in a rather embarrassing position. He cannot well decline his friend's invitations if he is his business associate. The affair becomes more complicated when he observes that he has made a deep impression upon the young girl.

He knows she must be of the opinion that he has fallen deeply in love with her, judging from his being so constantly by her side.

When his friends begin to joke him about the matter, he is in a quandary as to what to do or say. When his own folks rejoice over the state of affairs, he accepts the situation. He calls regularly upon her and endeavors to learn to care for the girl. He had always had his notion of just what kind of a girl he would propose to—first a cabaret dancer, then a pretty little queen of the movies—a lively stage beauty or jolly girl of the golf links.

The girl he found himself paying attention to had none of these characteristics. She was quiet and demure. In an enthusiastic moment he proposed to her. Her folks gave her permission to accept him. An uneventful courtship followed. When a young man has no inclination to make love to his fiancée even the most unsophisticated of maidens will realize that this is a half-hearted wooing. It lacked the ardor, the eager intensity, of love which she had thought about in her day dreams. Like him, she accepted the situation, supposing him to be an undemonstrative lover. By the time they have gone round together six months or more each seems to find the tie a bit irksome. It is not until the girl summons up courage to ask to be released that this man who has been a half-hearted wooer suddenly awakens to the knowledge that she is dearer to him than he knew and begs for another chance to make good. No man should enter into a love affair, unless his whole heart is in it. Half-hearted wooers are not wanted.

WINNING HIM BACK.

The girl who tells her lover "all is over between us," often regrets the words quite as soon as they have passed her lips. Her pride will not let her acknowledge it. She watches him vanish down the street, with her eyes suffused with tears, and the thought in her heart is, "How am I to win him back?" She knows that he is proud, too. Even though he loves her dearly, she concludes he will suffer in silence rather than let her know she is making him feel miserable. Her folks tell her she must not take the initiative toward a reconciliation. That would mean lowering her dignity.

Like Elaine, in the famous poem, she whispers to herself, "Must I die for want of one bold word?" She remembers that his birthday is at hand. Why not send him a card with a pretty verse. Of course, he would guess from whose hand it came. It might melt his pride and any angry feelings that he had, and he would write to her, or, better still, come and thank her in person.

The thoughts of real lovers usually run in the same groove. He sees a bunch of violets. He knows how she loves them. He purchases these, together with a bunch of forget-me-nots, attaches his card, wondering if they will melt her pride and she will write just one word to thank him for them. He calls her up on the phone and asks if the card was not from her. She tries to answer evasively. Then she remembers to thank him for the violets.

Somehow, before that conversation ends, he has succeeded to be taken back into her esteem again. The messenger who took her card and the messenger who brought her flowers crossed each other on their separate missions. She cannot be quite sure that she won him back by letting him think she was thinking of him or whether he was returning to her of his own volition.

When a man really loves a girl, even if they do have a little love spat now and then, there is no trouble in winning him back. He has no eyes for anyone else. He cannot be kept away. By all these tokens she can tell that love for her is still warm in his heart. When a man is constantly casting about for excuses to break off, it is useless for a woman to try to win him back.

His interest and affection for her had dwindled out. The more some men consider themselves wanted by some particular girl the more apt they are to evade her. This is their nature. The love a woman must strive to win back is not worth having.

When Art Failed.

Once upon a time a maiden with a lofty dome set her heart on a career and took a finishing course at an exclusive think factory, learning a lot about art. After which her father staked her to the price of a studio, and she started in to put Rembrandt on the shelf and to make Michael Angelo look like a second-rater. The result was many pictures in which the casual observer could easily distinguish the roses in the foreground from the cows in the background, and she felt that success was assured. But time developed that spreading paint and selling pictures are distinct and different propositions, and father had to put up for the rent and other incidentals from time to time. Then she came down off her high perch to wed an embryo merchant prince who had a good job in the gent's furnishing department. This was a great blow to art, but a big help to father. Moral: It is difficult for Art to triumph over Nature.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

School Dress Adorned With Smocking

NOW that mothers are looking about for something novel, or at least for some new touches in school dresses for little girls, the return to fashion of smocking will be welcome.

A little dress is pictured here well designed for little girls from eight to thirteen years old. It is fuller in the skirt and sleeves than the majority of dresses designed for such youthful misses.

neck and another across the breast. Midway between these two bands a single row of smocking forms the material into two puffs. These puffs are further decorated with small French knots.

The body of the dress is adjusted to the figure also by parallel tucks on each side of the panels. They extend from the shoulder to the normal waist line. The bottom of the skirt is finished with a group of narrow tucks, six in number, above the hem.

The shoulders are long, drooping over the top of the sleeves. The sleeves are somewhat longer than three-quarter length, with their ample fullness confined at the bottom by a band of smocking and a plain cuff of the same fabric as the dress.

SEASONABLE SUITS.

Combinations of Colors and Materials Are Modish.

FASHION SUIT.

Combinations are popular this season, even in tub frocks. Not only may two or more colors be united in one costume, but two or more different materials may be used. The frock illustrated here has a separate skirt and coat effect that makes it very acceptable for street wear.

for appearance. Gloves, pocketbook and petticoat are all important features of the costume. Convenient gloves for summer are washable ones of the slip-on variety. These may be easily cleaned in lukewarm water and soap.

Petticoats are smart, but cut so that they do not catch the ankles in walking. A satisfactory one for wear with the summer suit is of white satin scalloped around the bottom. This may be laundered and will wear better than one of silk.

FASHIONABLE LINENS.

New and Handsome Sets For the Bed Handsomely Embroidered.

Sheets are almost universally hem stitched in a wide hem just to show when turned down. Yet there are many objections to this method of adornment. The threads are very apt to break. Then the hem will have to be taken off or sewed in an ungainly seam, so it will be found wiser to buy those with a perfectly plain hem or, if hemmed at home, to finish with the overhanded hem that is usually found on napkins.

The pretty "twin beds," standing side by side, with snowy counterpanes, slips and sheets turned down, are most attractive and look neater than any sort of lace or net covers possibly can. Merchants cater now to the newest in every way, and counterpanes are so worn that the corners fit around the posts without having to be pulled into awkward folds.

System in the Cupboard.

How many minutes are lost sometimes by looking for a can or bottle which has been pushed behind something else on the shelves? Here is a simple idea which can readily be adopted: Have made a set of little steps of various widths, having the top step the narrowest. Make them as far apart as the rest of your canisters, cereal and spice jars. Then place the smallest cans on the top shelf, the larger cans on the lower shelf, and so on. In this way you will have only one object occupying the width of a shelf, and will never have to look behind one thing to find another.

NOGI'S PRECEPTS FOR BOYS

Code of Famous Japanese General Worth Observing by Youngsters of Any Country.

The late General Count Nogi, who committed suicide at the moment when the gun was fired which announced the start of the funeral procession of the late Japanese emperor, issued a note of disciplinary instructions for the pupils of the grammar grade of the Peers' school, which has just been reprinted. The gist of the instructions is as follows:

- First—Keep your mouth closed. He who has always his mouth open shows that his mind is blank.
Second—Mind what you are looking at. One whose eye is always wandering knows that his mind is also wandering.
Third—When paying your respects look at the person whom you are saluting.
Fourth—Do not forget your coat-of-arms.

Due respect to your ancestors is important.

- Fifth—A boy should not act boylike. Avoid becoming effeminate.
Sixth—Never indulge in luxury. There is nothing that makes a fool of a man like luxury.
Seventh—Ride in a ricksha as little as possible. Even if a ricksha is lent for you, try to walk home.
Eighth—How many of you wash your faces with cold water in the winter? You should not use warm water.
Ninth—When it is cold, think it is hot; and when it is hot, think it is cold.

Tenth—It is a shame to wear torn clothes without mending them. But to wear the torn part patched is nothing to be ashamed of.

Eleventh—Know what is shame; he who does not know what is shame is inferior to dumb animals.

Twelfth—While in good health train yourself so as to endure physical labor. When you are ill, however, obey your physician's instructions.

Thirteenth—Make your clothes and shoes bigger. Never mind the style or shape.

Fourteenth—Become a man useful to your country. Whoever cannot be so is better dead.

Horsepower of Water.

Still the water gives no power, no energy. Falling water has only as much power as is represented by its weight. A gallon of falling water will develop as much power as a falling block of iron weighing 62.5 pounds. Of course, the greater the fall the greater the power developed. Water falling one foot will develop a pressure of 43 pounds per square inch of pipe. The same amount of water falling 100 feet will develop a pressure of 4331 pounds per square inch of pipe. Falling 1,000 feet, it would produce a pressure of 43309 pounds per square inch of pipe.

To compute the power of falling water it is necessary to multiply the volume of flowing water in cubic feet per minute by its weight, 62.5 pounds, and this product by the vertical height of the fall in feet, and divide by 33,000, the number of foot-pounds representing one horsepower for one minute.

Can't Abide Him, But—

At home in England," said a visitor, "where the census shows that women are more than a million in the majority, a girl from the rank and file who receives and accepts a tolerable offer of marriage is thought by her relatives to have scored. I remember a story a friend told me of an old servant of hers in the country, who described the advantages of her daughter's recent marriage. The husband was a fairly prosperous man in the building trade; they had a comfortable home and garden, having no rent to pay, a maid to do her housework, a drive on Sundays when the horse was not needed for business purposes, and, above all, the certainty of provision for the future. "It's unlucky," she concluded, "that Mary can't abide the man; but, as I says to her, ma'am, there would always be some drawback, whatever man you married."

Traffic in Park Goldfish.

Molesting the goldfish in the lakes in Central park is no trifling offense, as eight youngsters, taken to the juvenile court, have learned. In each case a fine of $1 was imposed. The lads were from the East side. Park employes learned recently of a traffic in park goldfish. It was found that one boy had captured and sold $1.35 worth in the park. The lad had placed them in bottles as he got them and then sold them at bargain prices to park visitors. Police Commissioner Woods was informed, and detailed some extra men around the Harlem lake.

The "coops" captured nine of the young anglers. All had lines with bent pins attached to the end, with a piece of cotton for bait. The goldfish, in greater numbers this year than ever known before, rose to the cotton bait and were soon in captivity.—New York Tribune.

The Question.

Postmaster General Burleson said at a banquet in Washington: "One of our post office stripes concerns a post office census taken a number of years ago: "A question in this census was: 'What are your marital relations?' "The answers to this question were startling. One post master answered: 'Fair to middling.' Another answered: 'Fine.' A third, poor fellow, made the tragic answer: 'The worst.'"

Brilliant Reception

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Stevens was the scene of a brilliant reception Tuesday evening, tendered Dr. and Mrs. Brownlee by the members of the Presbyterian church.

The beautiful home, with its artistic decorations was an exquisite setting for the daintily gowned women, the youthful forms and happy faces of the young people, and the flower of manhood gathered beneath its hospitable roof, to offer congratulations and good wishes to the popular young clergyman, and his charming bride.

Entering the reception hall from the porch, its beauty and charm was pleasing and attractive. The balustrade leading to the upper landing was entwined with the pretty vine of the star jessamine; the chandeliers too were festooned with the same vine and graceful ferns were used in effective decoration throughout the lower floor. Vases of red roses in the parlor, and pink roses in the library added their beauty and fragrance to the charm of the pretty rooms. In the dining room a color scheme of pink and green was carried out in great masses of pink vine or Love's wreath and this too drooped from the chandelier in graceful sprays. A large bowl of the dainty flower centered the table.

Guests were received in the reception hall by Mrs. R. L. Peck and Mrs. O. L. Taylor and presented to Rev. and Mrs. Brownlee, receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Stevens in the parlor.

Mrs. Brownlee was daintily gowned in white crepe de chine and carried an arm bouquet of white china asters and asparagus fern.

Mrs. Stevens wore a becoming gown of blue crepe voile, fashioned with pleated Russian tunic and bodice over a blouse of white shadow lace and effectively trimmed in black velvet.

The bride's register, in which was inscribed the names of the guests was a pretty conception of the book-makers' art, a souvenir of a charming occasion that will be among the cherished relics of the happy couple.

Assisting in serving were the Misses Annie Lee Caldwell and Essie Purdon.

The delightful occasion will be among the most pleasant memories of guests and hosts alike.

Luncheon for Brides-Elect

A lovely pink and white luncheon was given by Miss Saidee Williams Thursday afternoon from one to three, in honor of three of the popular young brides-elect, Misses Mabel Hand, Genie Wicker and Linda Leffler.

A charming simplicity prevailed in the decorations of pink and white confined to the dining room. Vases of Love's Wreath and bowls of calladiums and ferns were placed about the room. The table was a beautiful conception of artistic taste. From the ceiling above the center of the table, reaching to the four corners, pink ribbons were tied with graceful bows of pink tulle and caught at the corners with the same effect. From the center hung a large white bell from which was suspended by pink ribbons a silver cupid. Upon a handsome centerpiece of drawn work over pink silk was placed a basket of pink double hibiscus and asparagus fern.

The place cards were pretty hand painted brides containing the guests name, tied to a long pink ribbon, at the other end of which was the favor, a lovely little cupid, concealed beneath the basket of flowers. For the brides-elect the favors were dainty doll brides.

Snowy linen, sparkling cut glass, gleaming silver and dainty china made a beautiful setting for the dainty luncheon consisting of:

- Clear Tomato Soup
- Bread and Butter Sandwiches
- Lobster Salad in Heart-shape moulds
- Saltines
- Fried Chicken
- Guava Jelly
- Creamed Potatoes
- Green Peas
- Olives
- Celery
- Strawberry Ice Cream
- with Whipped Cream
- Cakes
- Iced Tea
- Pink Heart Mints

In the cutting of the bride's cake Miss Mabel Hand cut the thimble, Miss Genie Wicker the ring and Miss Charlotte Hand the dime.

Those invited to meet the honorees were Mrs. Larramore, Misses Charlotte Hand, Elizabeth McLaughlin, Martha Fox, Peachen Leffler, Ruby Betts, Belle Smith and Ruth Mettinger.

Birthday Breakfast

Miss Lucca Chappell was the gracious young hostess at a delightful little birthday breakfast Wednesday morning at her home on Celery avenue. The table was lovely with its snowy linen and blue and white china. The pretty little place cards enclosing the young hostess' card with the two dates of her birth and birthday she was celebrating. The back leaf of the booklet contained a stamp picture of Miss Chappell, making a precious souvenir of the occasion. After breakfast, the girls enjoyed a happy joy ride in the machine. Miss Chappell's guests were the Misses Nellie Elder, Margaret Wight, Margaret Davis and Mary Chappell.

In Grandmother's Kitchen

A pretty affair that was given yesterday in honor of Miss Ruth Stewart was the kitchen shower at the home of Miss Jimmie Laing.

The decorations were lovely and Miss Laing, a gracious hostess, the whole affair being a charming success. In the hall green vines and the red coral flower were effective and beautiful, beneath its softened rays of the electric light shaded with red. The balustrade was entwined with the jessamine vine and potted plants completed the entrance from Fairyland into the green bower that led to the dining room. The back porch was enclosed with palmettoes and transformed into a cool, green retreat, where the refreshing fruit punch was served. Here the punch table was placed with its dainty cover of embroidery and gleaming punch bowl encircled with coral flower.

In the dining room banks of ferns and potted plants made an effective decoration in the center of which was the faintly appointed table.

Above the table from the ceiling green and pink crepe paper was carried to the four corners and finished with big bows of pink tulle. From the chandelier was suspended a spectacled, heart covered cupid in a swing, looking very wise and knowing at the pictured faces of a bride and groom just above him. The centerpiece was a large heart of pink oleanders and asparagus fern, from which strings of pink hearts extended to the corners. The favors were small pink hearts tied with green bows.

In the hall the guests were welcomed by Misses Clara Millen, Martha Fox and Julia Laing.

Receiving with Miss Laing were the Misses Ruth, Edith and Minnie Stewart.

Two contests, "In Grandmother's Kitchen" and the "Romance of a Cake" were greatly enjoyed. In the former Mrs. M. M. Stewart won the prize and in the latter Mrs. E. E. Cox. The guest prize, presented to Miss Stewart was a cute little live kitten. Much laughter and merriment was created when Miss Julia Laing, impersonating a dear old grandmother, charming in a pink crepe gown and green cap and apron brought in a heavy millinery packing box, covered with hearts. At the request of Miss Jimmie Laing, who suggested "Hats" Miss Stewart was invited to display the hats and drew forth many packages containing a complete outfit for the kitchen.

Chicken salad, olives, cheese sandwiches, heart shaped cakes iced in pink and green and fruit punch were the delicious refreshments served.

Besides the honoree, Miss Stewart, other guests were Mesdames M. M. Stewart, E. E. Cox, C. M. Williams, Geo. Hyman, A. C. Williams, Loreta Brotherson, R. B. Jarvis, M. M. Mitchell, W. C. Bray, J. B. Lawson, C. W. Laing, J. B. Colder, N. H. Garner, H. H. Peabody, M. L. Underwood, M. Auction Bridge

Mrs. G. F. Smith was the charming hostess of the first large bridge party of the season Thursday afternoon at her beautiful home on Magnolia avenue, complimentary to her guest, Mrs. M. H. Mabry of Tallahassee.

The beauty of the attractive home was enhanced by the charming simlicity of the decorations. In the big colonial fire place a bank of ferns was very effective, while above, graduating from the top to the lower shelf were sprays of the lovely purple Boughan Villia. Vases of the purple flower were placed about the handsome rooms; completing an artistic arrangement that was charming. In the dining room the same effective decoration was used. Assisting Mrs. Smith in serving the delicious ice cream and cake were Misses Mell Whitner and Elizabeth McLaughlin.

Mrs. C. O. McLaughlin made top score and won a pair of fine silk hose. Mrs. Henry Wight won the consolation prize a lovely boudoir cap and Mrs. Mabry was presented with the guest prize of silk stockings.

Mrs. Smith's guests besides the honoree were Mesdames: W. Dickinson, A. W. Fitts, Henry Wight, C. O. McLaughlin, C. M. Vorce, Deane Turner, S. Puleston, Fannie Munson, D. L. Thrasher, R. A. Among the many pre-nuptial affairs of the early autumn will be the miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. R. J. Holly at her home on Sanford Heights next Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Mabel Hand, whose marriage to Mr. Archibald Betts has been announced.

Sanford will have a chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy, the same to be formed at any early date. The Daughters in all the cities of the south take an active part in social affairs and the formation of a Sanford chapter to which all daughters of southern soldiers are eligible will add much to the society of this city.

THE LAKE BULKHEAD IS PROGRESSING

RAPIDLY PLACING CONCRETE POSTS IN POSITION

One of the greatest undertakings in the history of Sanford has started on the lake front. This is the bulkhead of Lake Monroe on the Sanford side and will extend from the front of the old fibre factory east of the alley below Palmetto avenue to a distance of about two thousand feet.

The bulkhead will follow the demarcation of the water line in width and will reclaim much land on the lake front that will be very valuable from a commercial standpoint aside from the beautification of the water front.

The first dredging was slow and difficult on account of the hard pan encountered necessitating the manufacture of a special apparatus for drilling into the hard pan and bringing it up through the suction dredge. New machinery has been added to the dredge boat and in a few days the pipes will be throwing a stream of lake sand over the bulkhead and the company expects to have the work completed in less than a year from date.

Haste is not one of the requisites of the work but thoroughness and when it is finished it will be a work of art and satisfaction not only to the contractors but to the citizens of Sanford.

Fred Ogrum, the well known contractor and concrete expert of Jacksonville is in charge of the work and together with F. W. Mahony and C. R. Walker of this city form the Seminole Construction Co., all of them imbued with the idea of giving the best work that can be obtained.

A visit to the lake front near the A. C. L. dock just now is most interesting. The new land recently made by the dredge has been turned into a construction dump and here can be seen the concrete pilings in all the forms of construction. The immense slabs are made from cement and granite heavily reinforced with steel rods and wire binders and this part of the work is being done systematically and well.

The pilings are 8 1/2 feet and are allowed to season before being put in place. All the modern appliances for the mixing of the concrete are used and machinery takes the place of hand labor in all the phases. After the slabs are made and seasoned they are loaded on trucks and hauled down to the end of the bulkhead where they are placed into position by hydraulic suction. The slabs are made to dovetail into position and will form a solid wall that will not only withstand the assaults of wind and water but will form a most handsome appearance from the lake side.

The tops at present show the steel rods but these will be hidden by a beautiful stone coping that will cap the entire bulkhead.

As soon as the wall is formed the dredge will be started with the new equipment and the filling will be made in record time. The work is progressing in fine shape and is something that can be pointed to with pride by our citizens this winter even though it is only in course of construction for it demonstrates that Sanford is alive to the many opportunities offered and our city will eventually be the most beautiful spot in the state, provided by nature with the most advantageous position on the great artery of trade and travel. The hand of man is only supplementing that work and making it more beautiful and sanitary.

The new sewers have all been extended and the manholes capped and all is in readiness to make Sanford's lake front the beauty spot that it should be.

Take a look at it and congratulate yourself that you are living in one of the finest cities in the entire southland.

No Raise in Price

Appropos of the increase in cost of many articles, especially those of foreign origin, we have received direct information from Sir Joseph Beecham (the proprietor of Beecham's Pills) that he has not increased his price to the trade and will not do so, and that there is no reason why any increase should be demanded by anyone.

Funeral of Captain Dunn

There was a large assemblage of friends Saturday afternoon at the home of Dr. G. H. Edwards at 409 South Orange avenue, attending the funeral of Captain E. W. D. Dunn, who died on Wednesday night. The services were conducted by the Rev. Arthur Beck, pastor of the Episcopal church of Sanford. Many beautiful floral tributes were offered as tokens of the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

The burial took place in the Orlando cemetery. —Reporter-Star.

THE WAR TAX IS $100,000,000

FREIGHT SHIPMENTS AND BEER TO BEAR THE BURDEN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—An effort is being made by Congress to levy a war tax of $100,000,000 to make up the deficit in imports due to the European war. It is proposed that the freight shipments bear $65,000,000 and beer $35,000,000. The transportation companies are used merely as a collection agency of the fund and are to be compensated for their services. Beer is to bear an additional tax of fifty cents per barrel and the manufacturers of domestic wines also come in for a share of the tax burden.

As an additional relief for war conditions, Senate leaders announce that the Rivers and Harbors appropriation bill will probably be reduced $25,000,000.

Wet and Dry in Virginia

Richmond, Va., Sept. 22.—Virginia voters will ballot today on the question of state-wide prohibition under an act of the last legislature directing the Governor to call a special election for Sept. 22 upon petition of approximately 18,000 qualified voters.

Ninety of the one hundred Virginia counties already have voted on saloons or for total prohibition and even if the state-wide prohibition is defeated, nine-tenths of the state will remain "dry." A prohibition victory would close all saloons in the remaining counties and in the principal cities.

Under terms of the legislative referendum if a majority vote be cast for prohibition in the special election the Governor will be required to issue a proclamation declaring it unlawful to manufacture liquors, except for medicinal, scientific, sacramental or mechanical purposes on and after November 10, 1916.

Florida Farm Statistics

(From last Federal Census Reports) There are 50,916 farms in Florida. The approximate land area of this state is 35,111,000 acres. 5,253,000 acres are in farms and 1,805,000 acres of the land in farms are improved. The average size of a Florida farm is 105 acres.

The farms of this state represent a capital investment of $143,183,000. The farmers of this state own $4,446,000 worth of implements and other farm machinery. The value of the domestic animals, poultry and bees on the farms of this state is $20,591,000. The average value of a Florida farm is $2,863.

The Sarasota Times states that the farmers of the Sarasota-Venice district received $84,000 for their product this season. A total of 178 cars were utilized in moving the spring tomato crop, representing 56,555 crates. This crop was grown on 336 acres, the average yield being 178 crates to the acre.

GOV. BUYS A BALE

Tallahassee, Fla., Sept. 22.—Gov. Park Trammell today in his effort to aid all possible in the "Buy a Bale of Cotton" movement, purchased a bale of cotton from W. H. Sellers of Arran, Florida, a farmer who was unable to hold his cotton, paying him ten cents a pound therefor. A few days ago the Governor issued an appeal to the people of the state urging the purchase of a bale of cotton or more at ten cents a pound by every citizen able to buy. The Governor is very anxious to have active interest manifested in this movement and believes in this way our cotton growers and the people of the cotton section of the state can be greatly assisted.

DEATH STRUGGLE FOUGHT IN GREAT BATTLE OF EUROPE

NO ADVANTAGE IS BEING GAINED TODAY IN THE BATTLE OF GIANTS

A STROKE OF FORTUNE MAY DECIDE IN FAVOR OF EITHER ARMY AND END THE WAR

London, Tuesday, 11 a. m. Reported von Kluck retired into Belgium and heavily reinforced.

Paris, Tuesday, 11 a. m.—Rheims cathedral can be restored, as it is not entirely ruined. French cleric of college in Dunkirk, falsely accused of being a spy, was court-martialed and shot at Valenciennes. Both armies are less violent in attack while allies are acquiring fresh troops.

London, England, Sept. 22.—While the fortunes of battle fluctuate along the center of the extended front in France, desperate efforts are being made to execute turning movements on both flanks.

The Anglo-French left wing is exerting every ounce of strength to turn the flank of the German general, von Kluck, who is reported as having received heavy reinforcements, while the German left according to a cautiously worded statement in Berlin, is making equally strenuous efforts to outflank the French right resting on Verdun.

Under ordinary weather conditions the Anglo-French task would be the easier for the reason that Verdun, heavily fortified, must fall before the French right can be seriously threatened; but on the German right the heavy rains have made such a morass of the valley of the Meuse that the allies are hardly likely to move along what would be their natural course until the German front north of Soissons has been driven back. The high ground between Noyon and Cauchy has been heavily fortified by General von Kluck and it dominates the whole valley of the Oise.

That the Germans choose their present defensive position deliberately is indicated by the fact that their heavy artillery rests on cement foundations, which must have taken some time to construct.

Some reports received in London declared that the reason for the desperate German counter attacks on Rheims is found in a movement of the allies which has virtually isolated Rheims from Laon, a town thirty miles to the northwest. If this is true, all of General von Kluck's marvelous strategy in protecting his sorely pressed left flank will have proved futile.

Berlin, Sept. 22 (via London).—Commenting on a report that Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States had said his nation was looking for peace upon condition that the entity of German territory would be preserved, the North German Gazette, the official organ declared in its issue of September 20 that the government has not even considered the matter.

"The assertions are intended," the paper says, "to foster the impression that we have tired of the war, in spite of our victories in the east and in the west. Peace overtures may not be looked for until the war, forced ruthlessly on our people, is brought to an honorable conclusion." The official statement given out last night made mention of the bombardment of Rheims. It said Rheims was in the battle lines of the French and that the Germans were obliged to bombard it. The necessity for this action was regretted, but the fire of the French, it was stated came from that direction. Orders to save the cathedral had been given.

The statement also made this reference to the progress on other points of the line.

The attacks on the French are progressing at several points in the Central Vosges. At Donon, near Sonones, 27 miles southeast of Lunéville and near Saales, in the German Vosges, their offensive has been repulsed.

"There is no news from the eastern Russian front camp."

War News Summary

There is no victory as yet for either side in the battle of the Aisne, which has now raged in France for ten days. Both sides claim successes and favorable positions.

The ten days of desperate battle, fierce artillery fire day and night, infantry charges in which the fighting has been hand-to-hand, and cavalry onslaughts when opportunity offered, have shown one result: the soldiers of the three nations are becoming exhausted. The human machine is weakening under the frightful demands made upon it. Lulls in the battle are ascribed simply to utter fatigue.

Another factor which has shown a notable effect on the conduct of the operations has been the weather. An incessant cold rain has flooded the valley of the Aisne. The river has overflowed its banks, roads and fields are heavy and trenches filled with water. The men are drenched and the day and night are dark. English soldiers coming to Paris from the front are disgusted with mud. Worn out men are succumbing to the hardships of fighting and living in the open air under such weather conditions. Transportation of all kinds, for both sides, is rendered much more difficult. It is even said the Germans can no longer move their heavy artillery with effective promptness on account of heavy roads. The men are camping in water and the French say the Germans are suffering from lack of food.

While neither side claims a decisive outcome, there appears to be good reason to believe that the battle is drawing to some definite development. Military opinion both in London and Paris leans to the conviction that the present lines, battered for ten days, soon will have to show noticeable change. The fight is fiercest on the allies' left, where desperate efforts are being made to turn the flank of the German army under General von Kluck. Von Kluck has been reinforced but in spite of this the French in late official reports claim an advantage, though it is admitted to be slight. The Germans appear to be making desperate and consistent efforts to turn the right wing of the allies, resting on Verdun. The help of this fortified position is of advantage to the French.

On the center the fortunes of war fluctuate. The positions now held by the Germans were well selected and well fortified. Some of their heavy artillery is described as resting upon cement foundations. A news dispatch received in London from France says an aeroplane reconnaissance has given rise to the conviction that a large portion of the German forces is retiring in the direction of fortified positions on the German border.

The destruction by German shell fire of the famous cathedral of Rheims has been made a matter of protest on the part of the French government. Berlin, in an official statement, asserts that the fire of the French came from the direction of the cathedral and the necessity of bombarding it is regretted.

Warning

On account of there being a number of fire escapes erected throughout the state that do not meet the requirements of the state law, I beg to ask that each and every one having to have such work done, being governed by the state law, Chapter 6475 No. 55, Sec. 14, Acts of Legislature, 1913, submit their plans to me for approval, before the work is done, and when such fire escapes have been erected, that they have them inspected and approved by state hotel commissioner, before paying for same.

WATER RUNS UP STREAM

PHENOMENON HAS BEEN NOTED BY GOOD MANY FLORIDIANS

Early in June this year I wrote an open letter to the Jacksonville Board of Trade calling attention to the fact that at low water in the St. Johns river the current was up stream from the mouth of the Wekiva river, at times as far Lake Harney. Therefore navigation was in no way dependent on the little stream south of Lake Harney. This condition has often prevailed during the spring months but I have never observed it at this season until the present summer. Owing to the shortage of rainfall this summer the current has been up stream as far as Lake Harney as late as the middle of this month, September. The object of this well authenticated fact but to call attention to the salt and perhaps other minerals noticeable in the water of the St. Johns at this stage.

We have the phenomenon of salt water crabs in and above Lake Monroe, and some thoughtless people attribute this to the cutting of canals above here and letting the salt water in from Indian river. No canals as yet have been cut into the St. Johns from Indian river and if they ever are, the water would have to run up hill 15 to 20 feet to get into the St. Johns. While to get at Sanford the Atlantic Ocean would only have to rise a few feet above high tide to come up the river, as it goes daily to St. George. The salt and other minerals, if any in the water of the river are from Salt Lake and certain salt springs and ponds that are on the east side of the river near Titusville.

Respectfully, J. N. WHITNER.

Social Centers

The crying need of rural Florida is social centers where our young people can be entertained, amused and instructed under the direction of cultured, clean and competent leadership, where aesthetic surroundings stir the love for the beautiful, wherewith changes the atmosphere with inspiration and power, and innocent amusements instruct and brighten their lives.

To hold out young people on the farm we must make farm life more attractive, as well as the business of farming more remunerative. The school house should be the social unit, properly equipped for nourishing and building character, so that the lives of our people can properly function around it and become supplied with the necessary elements of human thought and activity.

Mrs. Edith Ellison Adams has been granted a decree of absolute divorce from Mr. Frank Adams of Maitland, Orange county, Fla. She will hereafter take her maiden name of Ellison in conjunction with that of her children and be known as Mrs. Ellison-Adams.

A SQUARE DEAL

The National Farmers' Union is demanding a square deal from Congress and State Legislatures on the marketing of farm products.

The Federal and State Governments have been spending millions of dollars annually in urging the farmer to increase production, but little attention has been given to the marketing side of the question.

It is a well known paradox that the larger the crop the less the value and a stimulant to production without corresponding aid in marketing, loses much of its worth to agriculture. The nation is fast awakening to the fact that marketing, and not production is the problem of the farmer.

FLORIDA IS FORGING TO THE FRONT

MANY PEOPLE ARE COMING TO STATE INVESTIGATING

In making a tour of Florida, evidences of improvements in railroads, by being seen on every main improvement in rail and hard roads, activities in city building, citrus fruit and vegetable culture as well as agricultural pursuits.

From one end of the state to the other there is an awakening spirit as to the improvement of the soil, better cultivation, wider diversification of crops and the general advancement of farms. No one familiar with Florida ten years ago can travel through it now without being impressed with the striking change that is taking place in the diversification of farming and the improvement of farm homes.

Men everywhere throughout the state are viewing with a broad vision limitless opportunities for development. They are actively at work doing things in accordance with the wealth and opportunities which the resources of the state justify.

There is no longer to be found any where in the state doubt as to its future, or any wavering in thought as to the fact that it is the most inviting field for man of brains, energy and capital in the world. Business men realize that there may be from time to time temporary halts in the march of progress, and they further realize that the prosperity of this state has been great and continuous for the past ten years.

One of the most interesting features is the number of men from other sections of the country spying out land, investigating its opportunities for investment, and investigating well as investigating. One can scarcely pick up a state paper without noting the arrivals here and there of capitalists, or men representing capital, from other sections, and land buyers are coming in from everywhere.—Tampa Weekly Tribune.

Millinery Opening

The signs of fall and winter are usually presaged by the millinery openings and the ladies of Sanford look forward to these displays of the late styles in headgear. The men look forward to them also in an entirely different manner, but nevertheless the first signs of fall will be displayed at the millinery parlors of Mrs. J. H. Bruton on Thursday and Friday of this week when the big stock lately purchased for the patrons will be displayed in all their loveliness.

Mrs. Bruton assures us that the stock this year is far and away the best, most beautiful and stylish that has ever been brought to this city and anticipating the war Mrs. Bruton has reduced the prices to the point where the hats are bound to sell. The styles are not freaks this season but are in the main most serviceable and chic and the ladies of Sanford and Seminole county will be treated to a great surprise this year when they note the beautiful hats at such reasonable prices. Miss King will be there also to show the hats and to lend her aid in arranging them just to suit the different ideas of the customers.

Sanford Lost to Orlando

Sanford boys met defeat on the Orlando floor by the tight score of 29 to 26. The game was a hard fought battle from beginning to end. Although the Sanford team was beaten we have not lost courage. We will play a return game with Orlando Friday, Oct. 2nd, on our floor, and we expect to do them up brown. Orlando has a much heavier team than we have, if not heavier than DeLand. We play DeLand Friday and not Tuesday, as was scheduled. Line up was as follows: Sanford Orlando Herring R. F. Martin Washburn L. F. Chapman Gilbert C. Moore Raynor R. G. Rodenbayer Routh L. G. Hyer Sulis, Pearson, W. Routh, Sanford. Sub, Salisbury, Orlando.

Hawkins Connelly left on Sunday night for Washington, D. C., where he will spend the next few months visiting relatives.
