One More Time

Voters Asked To Return For Runoff

By Donna Estes Herald Staff Writer

City Clerk Henry Tamm is predicting that more than 2,000 Sanford voters will go to the polls one more time Tuesday to elect a mayor and a District 1 city commissioner.

The candidates for mayor -Bettye Smith and Thomas Speer - and the candidates in the city commission rerun — John Mercer and A.A. "Mac" Me-Clanahan - are doing all they can to encourage a good turnout.

And Supervisor of Elections Sandy Goard has mailed letters to all eligible voters in District 1. advising them of their right to vote in both contests for mayor and city commissioner and citing their Sanford Civic Center polling place. Both Tamm and City Attorney Bill Colbert approved the letter before it was sent.

ordered a new election for the District 1 seat after errors were discovered in voting lists allowing some to vote in the district who do not live there while disallowing others from voting in District 1 who do live there.

Mercer won the first go-round by 12 votes, but McClanahan cited a list of 18 persons who voted in District 1 who do not live in that district. A total of 45 errors in district designations were found by Mrs. Goard with assistance from McClanahan.

The runoff for mayor was necessary because no candidate polled 50 percent plus one of the votes cast.

Mrs. Smith said she is doing "more of everything" she did for the Dec. 4 election when she polled 43.5 percent of the votes Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler cast and has good hopes the people will get out to vote again. 'I was worried because of the holiday season, but many people have assured me they will be voting again," she said.

At the same time she said she has heard complaints about a telephone poll on the mayor's race and assured she is not involved in that poll.

Meanwhile Speer said he is working to get those persons who didn't vote in the Dec. 4 election as well as those who did to go to the polls Tuesday.

"I have telephone banks, mailing lists and we are knocking on doors," he said. "And even though it's the Christmas season, I think the people will take the time to exercise their right to vote. People appear to be taking an interest now that it's down to two choices. And I'm getting more volunteers than ever." Speer said.

You May Be More Tipsy Than You Think

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

It was about 12:30 a.m. on a foggy, December weekend, when a 19-year-old Maitland man who had downed a six pack of beer in four hours went searching for state Road 436.

He was looking in Longwood, so he never found state Road 436. Instead he was netted in a Seminole County, pre-Christmas drunk weep that took him off the road and into jail.

The man caught the eye of Seminole County sheriff's deputy Terry Huffman when his castbound pickup truck made a U-turn, slowed, but didn't stop at a red light and turned north onto county Road 427.

Huffman followed the truck in his unmarked patrol car and about one mile down the highway was forced to stop behind two vehicles parked in the northbound lane of the two lane road.

The driver of the pickup truck had initiated the stop and exited his vehicle to talk with the driver of the car parked behind him. As the man asked the car's driver for directions to state Road 436 he waved to Huffman, indicating his unmarked patrol car should cross the double vellow centerline of the roadway and pass the two vehicles.

Huffman didn't move until the driver of the pickup got back in his truck, made a U-turn and headed back toward state Road 434. Huffman pursued the weaving vehicle, turned on blue light and siren and signaled the man to pull over.

Once outside his truck, where Huffman found three partially full beer cans, the man protested. He was absolutely sure he wasn't drunk.

As Huffman put the suspect through a battery of field sobriety tests the man kept asking for a sobriety test. He had confidence that if tested he could prove he wasn't drunk, even though he was being tested and failed as he made his protest.

The man, although he is a college student and admitted he had learned his ABCs in kindergarten, could not recite alphabet. But to him his actions were logical. He said he had only had six beers and could not understand why he was charged with driving under the influence. A five-year Seminole County resident, the man said, he wouldn't have had any problem if there had been a handy convenience store where he could have stopped for directions to state Road 436.

"Don't treat me like a common criminal.

man in this story also had a BAL of .11. according to the results of his two postarrest breath tests. Under Florida law a driver with a .10 or higher BAL is considered intoxicated.

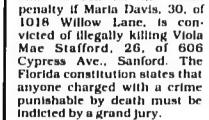

I'm just a regular person." the man said as he entered the Seminole County jall where he retook the field sobriety tests before a video camera and was a bit more shakey on his feet than during the roadside tests. His two breath tests, which sheriff's Sgt. Jerry Riggins administered on an intoxilyzer machine showed he had a BAL of .11, just over the legal limit of . 10 percent.

During this Friday night through Saturday morning DUI crackdown by sheriff's deputies, city lawmen and state troopers 24 drunk driving suspects were nabbed between 8 p.m. and 5:30 a.m.

"We're going to let these people live to see Christmas," Huffman said, although he added, it usually isn't the drunk driver who gets killed in a DUI related accident, it's an innocent party.

Riggins, who administered breath tests to 19 of the suspects arrested in this sweep and who heads Sheriff John Polk's antidrunk driver operation, said the typical Seminole County drunk driver has a BAL of 175, slightly below the national average of .20 percent. Through December 1, 666 suspected drunk drivers were given breath tests in Seminole County this year. About

Santa Comes To Town

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

Santa Claus came to town Saturday for Sanford's annual Jaycees' Christmas Parade and found the mild temperatures a far cry from the North Pole. The parade started off at 10 a.m. with crowds lining 1st Street.

Grand Marshal Lee Moore shared the spotlight with Sania, bands, floats, clowns and more. It was to be one of the longtime Sanford mayor's last public appearances in office.

Enthusiastic crowds lined First Street with children of all ages straining to get a look at the many floats loaded with cherubic moppets waving their chubby hands and decorated along the theme. A Storybook Christmas, as were bands, clowns, dogs, horses and riders, and other entries in the parade.

With 120 entries ranging from the sublime to the ridiculous, including 12 high school and middle school bands from throughout the county, parade chairman Larry Blair said this year's event was even bigger and better than last year.

Among the more unusual entries were a facsimile of Bat Man's original Batmobile and a banner made up of all the flags of the 50 states sewn together and carried by a contingent of Boy and Girl Scouts. The 25 by 35 foot flag, an entry of the Sanford American Legion Post 53, was donated to the State Headquarters of the American Legion

Reagan Sides With Weinberger In Defense Budget Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan is holding off a decision on military spending cuts but Republican leaders are warning him that the Pentagon has to accept its share to reduce the $200 billion deficit.

The controversy over the defense budget between Secretary Caspar Weinberger and administration fiscal advisers broke open this week. Indications are that Reagan is siding with Weinberger, who wants mimimal cuts.

'We're not going to make any cuts in defense spending that are going to drive us backward with regard to what we're trying to do in overcoming the years of neglect in guaranteeing our security," Reagan said in an interview published in the Dec. 6 issue of the magazine Human Events.

Cities Want Help To Fight AIDS

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The nation's 11 cities with the largest numbers of AIDS victims are seeking federal funds to help pay for public education and prevention programs and medical care that are straining local coffers.

City health officials meeting Friday at the U.S. Conference of Mayors headquarters agreed to seek federal funds now unavailable to citics, noting the fatal disease is spreading and no cure is in sight.

Mervyn Silverman, director of public health in San Francisco and leader of the conference, said finding a virus this year was "a glant step forward but we do not have a vaccine and we do not have a cure."

San Francisco has the most AIDS cases, 833 in five years, he said.

Nationwide, 7,000 cases of AIDS - acquired immune deficiency syndrome - have been reported since 1979 and 3,000 people have died, Silverman said. Ten percent of the other 4,000 are hospitalized, he said.

Attending the conference were health officials from 10 other cities - Los Angeles, Phoenix, Chicago, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Boston, Washington, New Orleans, Cincinnati, New York and Philadelphia.

No Change Seen In Cuba Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The White House says the unprecedented accord with Cuban on the repatriation of 2.700 Cuban criminals and mental patients solves only "one isolated problem."

Press Secretary Larry Speakes stressed repeatedly that the agreement "does not signal any change in U.S. policy toward Cuba. That policy reflects our serious concern about Cuba's international behavior. We see no evidence that Cuba is prepared to change that behavior."

South African Official Denounces Reagan's Human Rights Speech

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) - South Africa's foreign minister denounced President Reagan for condemning apartheid and said the white-minority government had no "illusions" the United States could solve its problems.

Roleof "Pik" Botha, echoing a denunciation of U.S. policy by President Pieter Botha, said Friday, "No quiet diplomacy or shouting at us will prevent us from seeking the path of justice ... and civilized values."

Botha's remarks in a television interview followed Reagan's International Human Rights Day message Tuesday calling the apartheid system "repugnant" and saying Washington's "quiet diplomacy" toward South Africa was sometimes "not enough."

The president's speech followed a series of demonstrations in Washington against apartheid and against constructive engagement - the U.S. policy of seeking change in South Africa's racial policies through quiet diplomacy rather than public criticism.

Botha said anti-apartheid protesters in the United States "lie about conditions here. It is nowhere near as bad as they say. Perception is the devil against South Africa, not the truth."

Reagan said Tuesday the United States had a moral responsibility to speak out about apartheid and to express its "grief over the human and spiritual costs" of it.

Kremlin To Shultz: No 'Star Wars'

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) - Secretary of State George Shultz and the Kremlin again are sparring over the American anti-satellite system, more than three weeks before scheduled talks in Geneva on space weapons and nuclear arms.

After briefing NATO allies Friday on the forthcoming talks. Shultz rejected the idea of canceling an anti-satellite test planned early in the year.

Hours later. Moscow suggested Washington take such a move as a precondition to the Jan. 7-8 talks between Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

"It (the U.S. test) will give both sides added incentives to further perfect and augment their strategic arsenals," the Soviet news agency Novosti said.

The agency said if the arms race is kept out of space, the talks could lead to an agreement controlling intermediate range missiles in Europe and strategic weapons.

Besides the anti-satellite test, the Soviets want to block President Reagan's "Star Wars" missile defense system.

Solidarity Is Alive And Well

Walesa Says Outlawed Trade Union Is Stronger Than Ever

By Bogdan Turck

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) - Solidarity founder Lech Walesa says his outlawed labor union is still "alive" and fighting for the human rights of all Poles.

In a statement issued on the third anniversary of the Dec. 13, 1981, martial law decree that crushed Solidarity. Walesa Thursday called for "open action" against authorities to revive independent trade unions in Poland.

Walesa also indirectly criticized some 4.5 million former Solidarity members who joined the Communist Party-run unions when his trade union was banned.

No disturbances were reported Thursday on the third anniversary of the clampdown. which was marked by church services nationwide, including the church of a pro-Solidarity priest murdered by secret police.

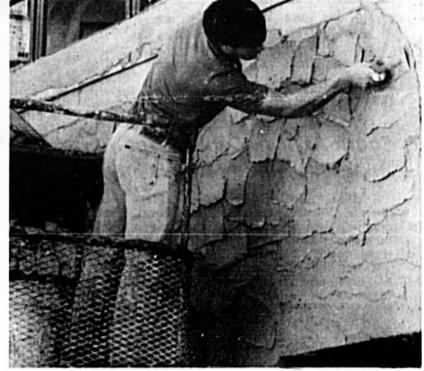

Some 4.000 people gathered at the Warsaw church where the late Rev. Jerzy Popleluszko had delivered his flery antistate sermons. Candles were placed around the church grounds and the gate was festooned with Solidarity banners.

Before releasing his statement, Walesa laid flowers at the Gdansk monument to the more than 50 victims of the bloody Dec. 16. 1970, clashes between workers and police that led to the creation of Solidarity.

"Solidarity is alive," Walesa said in his statement issued from his Baltic port home of Gdansk. "It is a big national movement striving for the respect of human rights and the dignity of every man in Poland.

"What we need now is a new, open action for trade union pluralism on a national scale," he said, without elaborating what action he advocated.

Employment To Remain Stable Through March

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Employment generally will remain stable through the first quarter of 1985, but the service industry will have more jobs available mainly because there are more computers in offices, a private forecast said Friday.

Manpower Inc., a Milwaukee-based temporary help firm, questioned 11,500 private businesses and said it found about 64 percent will keep their employment rolls stable through the first three months of the new year.

About 20 percent plan to increase their workforces - slightly down from 22 percent from the first quarter of 1984 - and 12 percent of the businesses expect to cut staff.

Another 4 percent said they did not know if they would add, keep or cut workers.

Manpower President Mitchell Fromstein said, "A key factor in the hiring forecast is less-thanusual post-holiday staff reduction. ... This indicates a stability in the overall job outlook."

Major job growth, the survey said, is expected in the white-collar areas of services, public administration and finance, insurance and real estate.

"The demand for office workers has been exacerbated by the rapid pace of conversion to automated office systems," Fromstein said.

Government Speeding Up Drug Approval Process

drivers," Riggins said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The government is implementing the "most extensive change" in federal drug laws in more than two decades to speed up the approval of new drugs and to Improve the monitoring of those on the market.

Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret Heckler said the regulations will cut as much as six months, or 20 percent, on average from the two years or more now needed to get Food and Drug Administration approval.

The rules will allow drugs to be approved based on foreign clinical studies - provided they can be substantiated - cut paperwork by up to 70 percent and allow simultaneous reviews by various sections of the FDA.

The regulations also will strengthen adverse reaction reporting requirements by manufacturers and distributors so the FDA can better remove ones that later prove hazardous, said Heckler, whose agency oversees the FDA.

"These regulatory improvements will help get useful drugs to patients faster, while ensuring that safety information gets to FDA in a timely and uscable form," she said.

Dr. Sidney Wolfe, head of the Ralph Naderfounded Health Research Group, said the measures to improve monitoring are long overdue. But he said the regulations to accelerate reviews of new drugs could backfire.

Wolfe noted that a survey of 24 FDA drug reviewers he took in 1982, when the regulations first were proposed, found widespread opposition to increased reliance on foreign studies and reducing the data submitted by drug makers.

"The result, I believe, is that the quality of some reviews will go down," Wolfe said. "And where FDA medical officers end up requesting additional raw data, it also will slow down the drug review process."

The regulations were published in the Federal Register this week. Most provisions become effective in three months, with a transition period of up to one year for certain requirements.

The regulations are partly a response to studies that have found some useful drugs have been available for years in foreign countries while the FDA waded through lengthy application procedures.

They also come in the wake of criticism from Congress that the FDA inadequately monitors the market for adverse reactions. Last spring, the FDA failed to move against an unapproved vitamin solution until the medication was linked to the deaths of 12 premature babies.

Despite increased public awareness, greater law enforcement efforts and stiffer laws and penalities related to drunk driving. Riggins said, "It's the most socially acceptable form of unlawful behavior, but that doesn't make it right. In 60 years we've killed over one million people. Statistics show in the U.S. there is one death every 20 minutes in an alcohol related traffic accident.

"Between 1900 and 1966 there have been 100,640,000 traffic fatalities that are linked to alcohol abuse. That's more than all deaths in military action from 1775 through Vietnam," Riggins said. "Let's face it, we're killing ourselves.

Don Nichols, 53, a wilderness vagabond for a decade in Montana's mountains, and his son Dan, 20, had eluded numerous posses and search efforts for nearly six months.

But France set out to find them - by himself.

They were wanted for a fatal shooting after the Nichols' bizarre effort last summer to kidnap a "bride" for his son - a woman who could be persuaded to share their wilderness life.

They allegedly kidnaped Kari Swenson, 23, a world-class athlete, while she jogged July 15 near the Blg Sky resort, took her to a forest hideout and tied her up.

He feared bounty hunters would enter the search, he said. France, often alone, began

Super Love Boats: Cruises Not Just For The Rich

By Mark Schwed UPI Entertainment Writer

MIAMI (UPI) - They are called floating cities. super Love Boats, and even palaces at sea.

In the past two years, nearly a dozen luxury cruise liners have sailed out of the world's shipyards, marking a building boom like never before.

Besides being twice the size of the old ships, the new cruise liners are Titanic-like in gross excess.

Take the $160 million Royal Princess, a 45,000-ton, 1,260-passenger vessel christened by Princess Diana in November and currently on its maiden North American cruise.

Every one of the 600 staterooms has an outside window and 152 of the suites have their own private balcony. Rooms come with remote control color television, telephone, refrigerator, and every bath has a tub and shower. There are 10 decks. four pools, two freshwater whirlpools, 10 bars, a daily newspaper, 800 plants, 2 acres of open teak deck, a disco with marble dance floor, an all-British crew, a chef de cuisine and a maitre d' from Italy's Piedmont region. Prices average #300 a day. Glamour was never so affordable.

"We think it is the most luxurious of any cruise ship," said Michael Hannon, the top marketing man for Princess Cruises of Los Angeles.

It wasn't so long ago that cruise ships were nothing but fantasy. Ships were for crossing the sea. There was no other way. Then in 1958 the first trans-Atlantic non-stop 707 spelled the end for trans-Atlantic passenger ships, but the 707 flight gave birth to a new industry - the cruise.

You had to provide a vacation rather than just transportation." explained Diana Orban, spokeswoman for the Cruise Lines International Association. "People wanted to do things, to gather, eat fabulous meals, they wanted to be pampered. That's how the cruise experience evolved."

At first, passengers were segregated according to the thickness of their wallets - first-class, tourist-class, second-class and so on. But these days everybody gets first class-service.

"Cruises are no longer for the rich," she said. 'Currently, about 25 percent of people who take cruises are under 35 and the average income of people who take cruises is dropping."

"It can be as low as $70 a day, and as high as $4,000 a day for the Queen Elizabeth II penthouse suite," said Orban. "It's actually two floors - bigger than my apartment - with an internal stairway, a terrace and huge picture windows. One could live there comfortably.

Since 1982, cruise lines have been churning out ship after ship. Some of the newcomers: the 30,000 ton Tropicale, the 33,400 ton Atlantic, the 37,500-ton Son of America, the 33,930-ton Nieuw Amsterdam, the 33,930-ton Noordam, the 45,000-ton Royal Princess, and The Fair Sky, the largest cruise ship in the world at 46,000 tons.

"It is a tremendous amount of additional tonnage." said Hannan. "They are roughly twice the size of the last big building period of ships, which was in the early 1970s."

Incredibly, there were no new major cruise ships being built as of 1978.

"From the point of nothing on the horizon to now, where there's an awful lot on the horizon and more coming, it's an incredible boom, especially considering that you're talking about ships that cost in the hundreds of millions of dollars."

The reason for the boom is simple: the long-range forecast for cruising is bullish.

In 1970 the industry carried a half million passengers. By 1983, 1.5 million people cruised the seas. Even during the recession the industry experienced a modest growth of 25,000 passengers.

"There are more people taking cruises every year," Hannan said. "There are more people discovering this form of vacation. It's completely hassle-free, the cost is virtually all inclusive, and a cruise holiday represents a degree of attention and personalized service that you would not really find except in a few of the world's most select and prestigious and expensive resorts."

Hispanics Dropping Out Of School In Droves

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Almost half of the nation's Hispanic American students drop out of school, primarily because of economic hardships and the poor quality of schools and support services, a new report charges.

Hispanic students from poor families suffer from cuts in federal education aid, lack of counseling and a lack of educational challenges. the National Commission on Secondary Schooling for Hispanics said in a study

The 45 percent drop-out rate for Mexican-Americans and Puerto Ricans in the continental United States compares to a 17 percent figure among white students. About 40 percent of the Hispanic-Americans who drop out do so before reaching high school.

Education experts on the 16-member commission noted that the National Center for chorus on Christmas tour.

Educational Statistics, which places the Hispanic drop-out rate at 19 percent, does not include students who leave before the 10th grade.

"Most Hispanic kids drop out for economic reasons, to support families or to support themselves," said Stobhan Oppenheimer-Nicolau, president of the Hispanic Policy Development Project, which set up the commission.

Others, she said, "drop out simply because they feel the schools just don't give a damn. It's staggering."

A whopping 76 percent of Hispanics scored below average on a national test of high school sophomores and seniors, the study reported.

Oppenheimer-Nicolau said the trend "forebodes a crisis of major proportions," because Hispanics are expected to be the largest population group in several major U.S. citles by the year 2000.

Nuclear War Or Suicide?

FULLERTON, Calif. (UPI) -Cal State Fullerton students should be allowed to decide whether they want cyanide pills stocked on campus for use in the event of a nuclear war, the campus government said.

The Associated Students board, in an 8-5 vote, agreed Tuesday to place the initiative on the school's ballot next spr-Ing.

Associated Students President John Beisner, who opposed a campus-wide vote, has not deelded whether to veto the decision. If he does, it would take a wo-thirds vote to override him. Beisner said it is a decision Cal arms race.

State's 23,000 students should not even be asked to make. Two years ago, students voted to designate their campus a nuclear-free zone.

The referendum is patterned after a measure overwhelmingly endorsed earlier this year by students at Brown University in Providence, R.I.

Student board member Bob O'Keefe, who suggested the symbolic initiative as a political statement, said he hoped to see Brown on the East Coast and Cal State on the West Coast leading a student movement against the

State May Pay To Remove Ship From Woman's Back Yard

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) - Gov. Bob Graham plans to recommend a state expenditure of $500,000 to $750,000 to remove the 200-foot freighter Mercedes I from the beach backyard of a Palm Beach woman's home.

A Department of Natural Resources report, submitted to Graham this week, said the Venezuelan ship was owned by two Caribbean companies which has had other ships selzed in drug cases. The DNR report also indicated the Mercedes might have been used in smuggling of illegal Haltian refugees.

No drugs were found aboard the Mercedes when it washed ashore at Palm Beach socialite Mollie Wilmot's home Nov. 22. The DNR report said the ship had left Haiti, its last known port, with no reported cargo and that there was "evidence of the vessel having been used to transport human cargo."

Cow Gives Rare Birth To Triplets

OKEECHOBEE (UPI) - A mother Holstein cow and her three offspring are said to be doing well after a rare birth of cattle triplets.

The mother, known as No. 913 in the S.E.Z. dairy herd west of Okeechobee, delivered two black and white Hoistein bulls and one brown and white heifer Wednesday night.

Triplets are born once for every 7,500 single births." said Dr. Martin Drost of the University of Florida Veterinary College. "But even more unusual is the fact that all three are alive and well and that she gave birth without assistance.'

William "Tankey" Certain, dairy supervisor, said Thursday the multiple birth astounded local dairymen. "I've been in this business 26 years and my boss has been at it 50, and we never saw triplets before."

Certain and Drost said females born from multiple births are usually sterile and thus unfit for dairy use. The dairy owners said the calves would be kept for studies.

Unpaid Bill Helps Police Nab Thief

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) - An unpaid $47 hotel bill led police to a man wanted since September in a $1 million jewel heist in Charlotte, N.C.

Police said Michael Robert Braun, 32, of Charlotte, was Identified as the gem thief after the Prince Michael Hotel complained Thursday that he and his girl friend. Bessle Lillian Whitehead, 38, also of Charlotte, had skipped out on the $47 bill.

Most of the jewels were recovered at a luxurious apartment Braun also kept in Mlami Beach, but police spokesman Howard Zelfman said Braun had spent more than $350,000 of the take.

"He signed a search release for his apartment and we recovered $832,000 in gems - emeralds, rubies, opals, fire opals, sapphires, topaz, star rubles and more," Zeifman

Longwood To Review Building Height Cap

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

A public hearing on Hospital Corporation of America's request to exceed Longwoods's 35-foot height limitation for its new South Seminole II Medical Office building is scheduled for Monday's city commission meeting. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in city hall, 175 W.

Warren Ave. As proposed, the medical building will be built on the northwest corner of state Road 434 and West Lake Street near the South Seminole Community Hospital and would be identical to an existing medical office building nearby which is a bit over 56 feet high. The request has been approved by the city's Land Planning Agency.

The LPA discussed the need for possible changes in height limitations at a workshop at its Nov. 28 meeting. Commissioner Ed Myers suggested that the LPA propose some height limitations to the city commission for review and Commissioner Harvey Smerilson suggest different height limitations for different zoning districts.

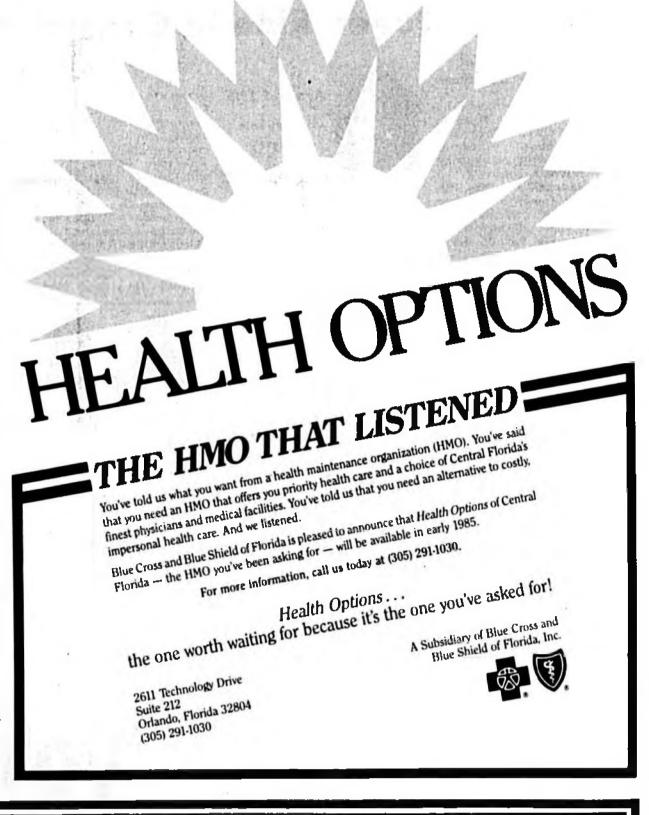

LPA Chairman Emery Meineke suggested increasing the height cap to 40 feet, while other board members, Herbert Haynie and Harry Lindsey, felt the scarcity of land and the improvements made in fireproof materials made taller buildings less objectionable. To do otherwise, they said. "everything worthwhile will be going to Orange County."

Also Monday, the commission is expected to take up where it left off last week with the conditional use request for a Planned Unit Development (West Lake PUD) submitted by Centex Homes of Florida, Inc. Location of the proposed patio homes development is east of West Lake and south of Longwood Hills Road. Developer Andy Hannigan was told that he would have to meet all site review requirements before the commission would consider his PUD request.

A public hearing will be held on a request by Woodrow Prescott to vacate the portion of Myrtle Avenue between Jessup Avenue and Church Street. The request was continued from a previous meeting until Prescott granted easements to Florida Power for a guy wire and 15 feet to the city for drainage. The portion of the street to be vacated was platted but never used and the city did not have need for It.

The commission is also during the period between the expected to take up an ordi- Jan. 2 swearing-in of the new nance that will include its commissioners and the first members in the city's group meeting on Jan. 14 when the insurance plan; appoint a city new mayor and deputy mayor auditor; designate alternate will be appointed and authorized commissioners to sign checks to sign checks.

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) -Because of its size, Florida ranks high in its number of state, local and federal workers, but a percapita comparison shows the state is efficiently run, experts BUV.

Florida has 406,623 local government workers, 98,176 state workers and 84,783 federal workers. The state and local workers add up to about 465 per 10,000 people - the 39th lowest ratio in the nation and the lowest In the Southeast.

"It shows you have a pretty efficient government structure. so you are not burdening the taxpayers with overlapping governments," said Alan Stevens. chief of government employment at the U.S. Census Bureau in Washington.

Although Florida's government may be relatively efficient, its large population - nearly 11 million residents - means the state ranks 10th in the nation in federal employees, eighth in state employees and fifth in local employees.

Hill Fills The Bill

Zonebuster Keys Win Over Lyman

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

Anyone familiar with the career of Seminole's Robert Hill knows he can wcar out the left wing with his deadly jump shot.

Last year, as a sophomore on coach John McNamara's junior varsity, Hill was a double-figure scorer because of his expertise as a zonebuster.

So when senior James Rouse picked up his second foul at the end of the first period against Lyman Friday night, Robert Hill started getting itchy feet. He knew he would be called upon to fill the bill.

He filled it with soft Jump shots. With the Lyman zone sagging on 6-3 Rod Henderson, Hill pumped in three straight jumpers from his favorite spot to break open a tight game and propel the Seminoles to a 65-53 victory over Lyman in Five Star Conference basketball before 405 fans at Seminole's Bill Fleming Gymnasium.

"We're got some streak shooters." said Tribe coach Chris Marlette, "Robert is one of them. He came off the bench and did a great job for us tonight."

The victory was the fourth in five outlings for Sanford. The Tribe takes on Lake Mary Tuesday night at home in what figures to be another classic. Lyman won its opener against Oviedo but has lost its last four. Lyman hosts DeLand Tuesday.

"We played well. The kids played their hearts out," said Lyman coach Tom Lawrence. "Marlette's got a little more quickness and a little more talent. It's tough to beat that quickness.

Although the final margin was 12 points after Ken Gordon slam dunked and hit a free throw with 15 seconds left, Seminole's lead was never that comfortable and the Greyhounds made a run in the fourth quarter.

High Fives

Seminole's DeBose brothers - Bryan, left, and Mike have a good reason for the high fives. See Monday's Evening Herald for the All-County football team, Coach of the Year and Player of the Year as selected by the county coaches and Herald sports writers.

Hail To The Chief Optimist Club, Friends Honor Posey

If you've noticed a few extra pounds around the midsection of Jerry Posey this week, there is nothing wrong with your eyes. The recently retired football coach has lived the "Life of Riley" for the past week and he deserves every pound and more.

Posey retired from the Seminole football coaching position this year after 10 years on the Job. He was a very popular and successful coach. And on Tuesday, the Optimist Club of Sanford and some close friends paid tribute to the 'Chlef.'

On Tuesday, the Optimists feted Posey with plaques and lunch at Western Sizzlin'. The Optimists are one of the county's most active youth-oriented clubs and president Ernle Butler made sure some special guests were on hand.

Most special to Posey I'm sure was his wife. Martha, who joined him at the main table. She's probably the most relieved of the group since being a coach's wife can definitely fray the nerves.

Seminole Principal Wayne Epps put it all in perspective when he said, "I don't know if he mows the yard at home, but he sure keeps our football field looking nice."

Jack Horner, president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, said he had a first-hand look at the coach and considered putting his house up for sale. "When I heard that a football coach was moving across the street. I though, there goes the neighborhood." joshed Horner.

Horner also said he'd like to have rights to all the tollet paper wrapped around Jerry's house on Friday nights. "I never knew if it was because he had such a popular and pretty daughter (Amy) or if people didn't like his stretegy," quipped Horner.

Past "distinguished" Optimist president Dale Coppock, who originated the Optimist Football Players of the Week with Posey, got in his dig. too. "I always found it interesting that all of the superstars that Poscy turned out were the ones I coached in the youth leagues," said Coppock.

But it's easy to be funny when you talk about Jerry Posey. He's so good natured, he's almost impossible to offend. Offending is often a trait of sports writers and I've drawn no comments from the best of friends, but never Jerry Posev.

He is easily the most cooperation and sincere coach I've ever dealt with. After a tough loss or an ill timed second guess, the smile has sometimes been tight - but it's always a smile.

I had to laugh at a story from an Orlando daily which, after one particularly tough loss this year. said "Seminole coach Jerry Posey stormed off the field without a comment."

Ha. Sounds like a guy that had to meet a deadline and needed one more paragraph. There isn't any coach who stays on the field longer than Jerry Posey. How many times have I watched the players and coaches congregate in the end zone. during jubilation or despair but always together. to talk over the game and then say a prayer.

No. "commentless storms" are not part of Jerry Posey. But love, sacrifice, dedication and hard work are.

Listen. Bob Hughes, superintendent of Seminole County schools, said, "The contributions Jerry has made are many. The tremendous sacrifice and dedication that never shows up on the taily sheet. He has been a very important man at Seminole High School."

Epps in a more serious vein said, "Coach Posey and I came to coach together at Seminole from Clermont. Through my entire association with coach Posey. I've never met anyone in my career who I can put my complete trust in like him.

"Jerry's going to continue to be tremendously valuable to us. Football aside, Jerry has had a positive influence on the lives of every kid he meets.

Whitey Eckstein, golf coach and history teacher at Seminole, said, "It's unbelieveable the hours Jerry puts in." said Eckstein, who also pointed out to this scribe that the Seminole football team's grade point average is 2.7 over the past two years and not one player has been an academic casualty. "You won't find a more dedicated and caring individual that Jerry Poscy.

Coppock said. "This is not a farewell luncheon. We expect you to be around a long, long time."

To which Posey happily concurred.

"You've said some nice things, but I'm not the only one. My wife has been sitting here and listening to all of this and she's been just a tremendous help to me.

"This Optimist Club has just been great to the youth of Sanford. I'm not looking forward to leaving coaching. I'm sure when September rolls around. I'll be chomping at the bit.

"But I hope it will pass...at least I think it will pass.

Old habits die hard.

The teams traded baskets in the early going as Lyman's Reggie Douglas carried the hot hand in the first quarter. Henderson broke an 8-8 tie with a short jumper and Rouse followed with a basket before Rod Alexander hit a free throw for a 13-8 lead with two minutes to play.

Douglas and Rouse swapped baskets before Douglas hit two free throws after a Rouse foul to close the margin to 15-12 at the quarter.

Hill picked up where Rouse left off. He tossed in his first shot of the second quarter for a 17-12 lead. Junior Daryl Williams canned a long one for a sevenpoint lead before Ralph Philpott answered with a free throw for the Greyhounds.

No. 13 Jinx Sticks County Grapplers At Lyman

Merthie 'Hangs' Silver Hawks Darryl's Half-Court Shot Lifts Rams, Demoralizes Howell

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

You would have to look pretty hard to find a high school basketball player with better hang time than Lake Mary's Darryl Merthie.

The 6-1 senior used his unique ability to hover above Lake Howell's defense Friday night and lead Lake Mary to a big lead in the first half. And, just when Lake Howell started working its way back within striking distance, Merthie did his best aerial act of the night when he unloaded a half court shot at the buzzer to give Lake Mary a seven-point halftime lead.

That one shot seemed to demoralize the Silver Hawks who never got closer than seven points in the second half. Merthic wound up with a game-high 24 points as the Rams claimed a 68-47 victory over the Hawks in Five Star Conference action at Lake Mary High.

Lake Mary improved to 3-2 overall and 2-0 in the conference with the win. Lake Howell now stands at 5-2 overall and 0-2 in the Five Star.

"That was some shot," Lake Mary coach Willie Richardson said of Merthic's halfcourt bomb. "It was a big play for us too because it took a lot out of Lake Howell."

Behind Merthie for the Rams, Ray Hartsfield tossed in 14 points and Don Grayson provided the strength inside with 10 points and 11 rebounds. Chris Jackson jumped off the bench to contribute nine points including a crowd-pleasing slam dunk.

sharpshooter Efrem Brooks to just 10 points on the night before Brooks fouled out in the fourth quarter. Scott Anderton also scored 10 for the Hawks before fouling out.

The first quarter was a back and forth struggle and Lake Howell took a 16-14 lead at the end of the quarter as it hit 6 of 7 free throws

The Hawks held onto the lead, 20-19, in the early going of the second quarter but Lake Mary came back with 10 straight points to take a 29-20 lead with 2:51 left in the half.

Merthie started off the rally as he popped In a jumper to make it 21-20 and Grayson then hit a pair of free tosses for a 23-20 Lake Mary lead. Merthie then picked Anderton's pocket for a steal and bolted down court for a slam dunk and a 25-20 Lake Mary lead.

Seconds after Merthie's slamma jamma, Jackson got open for his jam and a 47-40 lead. Grayson's jumper completed the surge and gave the Rams a nine-point lead, 29-20.

Anderton came back to hit two straight Jumpers to chop Lake Mary's lead to 29-24 and Brooks made a pair of free throws to make it 29-26 with one minute left in the half.

Lake Howell had a chance to trim the lead to one with 29 seconds left, but John Lowe missed the front end of a one-and-one and Merthie grabbed the rebound. Hartsfield was fouled with 20 seconds left and he made both free throws to give Lake Mary a 31-26 lead.

Lake Howell went to the line again with five seconds left by Keith Wooldridge missed the front end of a one-and-one and Grayson got the rebound and tossed the outlet to Merthie who dribbled just beyond half court and swished in the shot at the buzzer for a 33-26 halftime lead.

Lake Howell stayed within 10 points. 49-39, after the third quarter but Brooks picked up his fourth foul late in the quarter and then fouled out with 6:14 left in the game.

"We got some of the bugs out from our last game," Richardson said. "All we're trying to do is build on every game. We had some strong play from kids off the bench and that will be our strength. We've got eight kids who could be starters and the kids are beginning to understand the role of how they're going to fit in on the team."

Lake Mary will go up against inter-county rival Seminole Tuesday night at Seminole High.

"I don't have to get the kids jacked up for that one," Richardson said. "It's possible that I might have to tone them down some."

Lady Rams Cruise, 83-40

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Lake Mary's strength inside and experience in the backcourt was too much for Lake Howell's young Lady Silver Hawks to handle Friday night as the Lady Rams cruised to a 83-40 victory in Five Star Conference action at Lake Mary High.

Senior forward Alleen Patterson and senior center. Courtney Hall dominated inside for the Lady Rams. Patterson poured in a game-high 23 points and pulled down 14 rebounds while Hall tossed in 16 points and ripped down 15 boards.

"Our big girls inside were just too big and strong for them (Lake Howell)," Lake Mary coach Bill Moore said. "Lake Howell really hustles, but we were just too strong for them inside."

Senior point guard Kim Averill, a four-year starter for the Lady Rams, ate up the Lady Hawks younger guards as she popped in 18 points and dished out a game-high 12 assists.

Jolee Johnson, a junior forward, was impressive in a losing cause for the Lady Hawks as she netted 14 points and grabbed 11 rebounds. Patty Rae added eight points for the Lady Hawks and Tammy Lewis handed out six assists.

Lake Howell's only lead of the game came at 2.0 when Joyce Shaw came up with a steal and raced downcourt for a layup. Lake Howell fied the score at 6-6 on a layup by Johnson but Lake Mary then erupted for 12 straight points and an 18-6 lead with three minutes left in the first quarter. The Lady Rams took a 10-point lead, 26-16, going into the second quarter.

Lake Mary led by as much as 14 early in the second period. Fouled out - none. Technical - none but the Lady Hawks pulled back within eight points, 37-29, on a pair of free throws by Johnson.

Moments later though. Johnson picked up her fourth foul. The Lady Rams then reeled off nine straight points to take a 46-29 lead. Rae's layup made It 46-31 at halftime.

Lake Mary tightened up on defense in the second half and outscored the Lady Hawks, 24-4, in the third quarter to take a commanind 70-35 lead into the fourth. Hall scored eight points in the third quarter while Patterson added seven points and Averill contributed six points and five assists.

Lake Mary cleared its bench for the fourth quarter and leading players off the bench included Tina Wade with seven points and Anquenette Whack with four assists.

Lake Mary now stands at 4-2 overall and 2.0 in the Five Star while Lake Howell fell to 4-4 overall and 1-2 in the conference.

The Lady Rams are in a three-way tie for first place in the conference with Seminole and Lake Brantley. Lake Mary goes up against Seminole Monday night at Seminole High. Lake Howell is back in action Monday at Lake Brantley.

The Los Angeles Rams might spend a lot of time in front of their television sets this weekend.

San Francisco's 19-16 victory over the Rams Friday night prevented Los Angeles from clinching a wild card playoff spot. The Rams, 10-6, now need Washington to top St. Louis Sunday or Miami to beat Dallas Monday night to make the playoffs.

Mayfair Swings Into 3rd Annual Christmas Bash

Well, the plans are all made and the details are beginning to fall in place for the Big 3rd annual Mayfair Country Club Christmas Tournament, party and dance to be held on Sunday, Dec. 16. The results of the day will be forthcoming in next week's column.

On Tuesday, Dec. 11, the members had a good turnout for the weekly dogfight which produced the following winning teams: Low Net (30): Bud Richards and Dick Manning. Second Low Net (31): (tie-won by match of cards) Richard Barnes and Jack Slade. Third Low Net: Glenn Pennywitt and John Wellman.

MWGA held their seniors tournament which was sponsored by Ellis Bank and was won by Thelma Vose with a net 68. It was a great present for Thelma who celebrated her 48th Wedding Anniversary with her husband. On Wednesday morning, Dec. 12, the Moe. The Voses' have been members of Mayfair for many years and are one of the most liked and respected couples in the arca.

The weekly Thursday afternoon scramble on Dec. 12 produced a tie for first place between the following two teams who fired a fine six under par 30 on the back nine holes: Bruce McKenzie, Joe Proudfoot, Wes Werner, Charlie Mili and Gene Jones Sr., Bill Epps, Harold Hall, John Wellman

We would like to welcome two new members that plan to participate in themany activities here at Mayfair Country-Club. They are Mr and Mrs Gary Larson who although they are not new to the area [] believe Gary was born in Lakeland).

Patriots Still Searching For DeLand's Foul Line

DELAND - Lake Brantley's Patriots are still wondering around DeLand looking for the free throw line. In the past two days two teams from the Altamonte Springs-based school have taken a total of 12 free throws in the DeLand gym.

Thursday night, the Lady Patriots went to the line just four times, but that didn't matter much because they played impressively in a 45-43 win over the top-ranked Lady Buildogs.

Friday night DeLand went to the line 24 times compared to just eight for the Patriots in a 56-51 victory for the Bulldogs. Lake Brantley coach Bob Peterson wasn't complaining, he just left it to the imagination.

"They took 24 free throws and we took just eight," Peterson said. "What are you gonna say?"

DeLand clung to a slim lead most of the game as it took a

Seminole JV Drops Lyman For 3rd Win

James Dennard. Craig Dixon and Rod Fossitt took turns shouldering the scoring load as the Seminole junior varsity won its third straight game, 58-38, over Lyman at Seminole's Bill Fleming Gymnasium Friday night.

Coach Tom Smith and his Seminoles return to action Tuesday at home against 2-0 Lake Mary and coach Charles Steele. Tip-off is 6:15 p.m. Coach Norman Ready's 2-3 Greyhounds play DeLand Monday at 8:15 p.m.

"Our guards did a good job of getting our big men the ball." said Smith. "James Dennard started out like a house on fire. When he got in foul trouble. Dixon and Fossitt took over for him.

Dennard, who has 21, 24 and 15 points in three games, opened the first quarter with nine points as the Tribe seized a 14-9 advantage. "I was just breaking across the middle," said the 6.4 sophomore. "Todd Kniebbe gave me some good passes and I hit the jump shots. Craig Dixon gave me some nice passes, too."

When Dennard exited with his second foul. Dixon took over the scoring load by throwing in six points in the second quarter as the Tribe marched into intermission with a 28-20 advantage.

It was Fossitt's turn in the third quarter. The 6.3 stringbean went inside for eight points as Seminole put the game out of reach by outscoring the Greyhounds, 16-8, in the third for a 44-28 bulge going into the last quarter.

Holmes, Zimmerman Burn Forrest

JACKSONVILLE - Paul Holmes and Eric Zimmerman dominated midfield play Friday as host Jacksonville Forrest couldn't penetrate Lake Mary's end of the field. Meanwhile, five different players scored as the Rams coasted to a 5-0 blanking of Forest in the Pride of the South Tournament.

Lake Mary, 5-1, battled Orange Park Saturday at 1:40 p.m. in the semifinals with the winner to play Jacksonville Bishop Kenny. Bishop Kenny upset state powerhouse Clearwater Central Catholic, 1-0, in the first round.

The Rams got on the scoreboard six minutes into the game Friday when Jay Sapp took a crossing pass from Andre Sanders and slipped it past Forrest's goalkceper.

Jerry Meyers booted in a penalty kick to give the Rams a 2-0 lead 13 minutes into the game and the Rams took a 3-0 lead later in the half when Louis Rosen scored on an assist from Holmes.

Sanders made it 4.0 in the second half when he scored on an assists frmo Rick Broennie. Sanders headed the ball over a defender, then went Tony Florentino added the final goal for Lake Mary on an assist by Sapp.

While Lake Mary was busy on the offensive end (25 shots on goal), Forrest could never get past midfield thanks to Holmes and Zimmerman.

"Holmes was the most valuable player in the game," Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle said. "He got almost every loose ball. I didn't even think he could play because he had an injured ankle. But thanks to the trainers (Roger Mosure and Larry Holbrook) he was ready to play.

"Holmes and Zimmerman just dominated midfield," added McCorkle. "Forrest only took two shots on goal."

McCorkle also said Pete Kinsley. Broennele and Tom Misuraca did outstanding jobs on defense. -Chris Fister

Stromberg-Carlson Promotes 3 Directors To Vice President

Stromberg-Carlson has promoted three persons to vice presidential positions. Richard Scott and Jesse Lumpkin were named vice presidents in charge of sales. Van Cullens was appointed vice president of marketing.

Scott will be responsible for the company's sales efforts in the Bell Operating Co., government and International markets. He is formerly Stromberg's vice president of of product management and strategic planning.

Lumpkin, formerly the eastern regional sales director, will be responsible for the company's sales efforts to independent telephone market.

Cullens, previously of GTE, will formulate and direct all the support functions necessary for the company's sales organization.

AFCOM Sets Up New HQ

AFCOM, the Casselberry-based distributor of fasteners and electronic components, has chosen San Jose, Calif., as headquarters for its west coast operations. The company will phase out a stocking warehouse in Canoga Park, Calif.

'San Jose is an ideal location for our west coast operations," said Ronald Roby, executive vice president of AFCOM. "It's at the center of our rapidly growing California high-tech customer base and gives us excellent access to promising markets in the Pacific northwest and Rocky Mountain states."

Cardinal Hires New Sales Rep

Douglas Lumpkin, previously a sales manager for Reynolds Aluminum, has joined Cardinal Securities Corp. as a sales representative. A native of Knoxville, Tenn., Lumpkin will be responsible for private placement offerings of Cardinal's limited partnerships and will serve the Tampa-St. Petersburg area. Cardinal Securities is a subsidiary of Cardinal Industries.

His Boat Just Came In

Greg Weston has been named national director of sales at Cobia Boat Co. The 30-year-old New Zealand native joined the company in 1978 and served as its international sales director. In his new role, Weston will be responsible for sales and service to the 150 Cobia/Robalo dealerships throughout the world.

Court Says Kmart Can Sell Out-Of-State CDs

mart Corp. can keep selling an out-of-state saving institution's money market shares and certifleates of deposit at its Fern Park store. State Comptroller Gerald Lewis lacks the authority to prohibit the practice, an appeal court ruled Tuesday.

Upholding a lower court, the 1st District Court of Appeal unanimously concluded Lewis is preempted by federal banking laws from stopping the sales. Lewis, however, is also attempting to force the retail chain to register and meet disclosure requirements under the state's securities laws. The appeal court did not address his authority.

Lewis accused K mart of violating Florida banking laws in question of jurisdiction over new January in the sale of the money market shares and savings cer- casily answered.

Son Of RFK Runs Thriving Oil Business

By Carol Rosenberg

BOSTON (UPI) - When he's not jetting around the world striking deals with oil ministers, Joseph P. Kennedy II sits at the head of a $400 million energy company, a business that combines his slain father's idealism with 1980s entrepreneurial savvy.

The business is called the Citizens Energy Corp. But it is known to many as "Joc Kennedy's Oil Company," named for Robert F. Kennedy's eldest son, who started the firm six years ago to bring cheap home heating oil to people struggling to keep warm in New England's flerce winter.

Kennedy, 32. has succeeded even though he is neither a smooth-talking politician nor a slick businessman.

"I don't know where the heck I'm going." he said of the company that has expanded sixfold since 1979. "I just take it one step at a time.

Kennedy, wearing his all-purpose blue suit and tie, sat in his office on Atlantic Avenue by Boston's waterfront trying to explain how at age 27 he was able to get a piece of that part of the world controlled by shieks and oil moguls. And why he does it. And why he thought he could do it in the first place. "Basically, what I'm trying to suggest is there is a phenomenal need for ...," he said, jumping up to pace back and forth.

"The fact of the matter is, in peoples' minds, they think the energy crisis is over." he said in a frustrated burst.

He lapsed into what he knows best, rattling off facts, figures, and a short course on Congress' windfall profits tax - his attempt to explain in a flood of words how the rich won out at the expense of the poor. "Listen carefully," he said, his voice rising. "This is how the poor people are screwed in this country."

Ten years ago, he said, 10 percent of a "poor person's" budget was spent on energy. Today it is 23 percent, shooting up to 47 percent in the winter months. His job, he said, is to help people cut those margins.

Kennedy got started in early 1979. He was 26 years old, and had just left a job in Washington with the Community Services Administration, disenchanted with the system.

He was getting married, moving back to Massachusetts and fumbling around for something to do. He consulted Richard Goodwin, a family friend who had been a speech writer for President Kennedy, Joe's uncle. "It was the height of the energy crisis and drove RFK.

"Like his father, he has determination, energy and passion. That's what you need," Goodwin said.

This year, a tanker brought the Citizen Energy Corp.'s sixth shipment of refined oil to Massachusetts' needy people. It will sell at 55 cents a gallon, compared to the going rate of $1.10 to $1.15. That first shipment sold for 47 cents a gallon, 35 cents less than the retail rate in the winter of 1979.

"It is a terrific concept," said State Energy Secretary Sharon Pollard. "He basically goes off to Venezuela and other oilproducing nations and buys it and comes back to Massachusetts and sells it at a much reduced rate than you would be able to buy it on the market."

Put simply, he bought that first shipment of crude off in Venezuela and found a refinery to process it. He sold all of the byproducts - gasoline, kerosene and sludge, everything but the home-heating oil - at a profit and used the profits to finance the heating oil.

FP&L District Manager Returns To Sanford Post

Bruce Berger returned to his job Monday as Sanford district manager for Florida Power & Light Co. after serving a year on a team designing an automated budgeting system for the company.

"It's a different pace here and a different perspective. I get to work closer with the customers. 1 like Sanford and it's good to be back," Berger said.

Even though he worked mainly out of Miami, his home base was still in Sanford so he spent his weekends here with his wife, Gail, and their daughter. The job also entailed a lot of driving to other cities on both the cast and west coasts of the state.

"Our company recognized the need to be more automated in our internal budgeting systems," said Berger, "and wanted to look at such an automated budget system. Each of the five divisions named a person to be on the team and I represented the North East Division, which is everything north of Melbourne."

"I got to learn a lot about computers and get over a lot of fears people have about using them as well as contribute something important to the company. The programming has changed a lot since I graduated from high school and is much more easy to learn now."

"While I was in Miami, I learned some Spanish and I got to practice it some on the exchange student from Spain who is staying with my next door neighbor.'

Al Montgomery, who filled in for Berger in the Sanford office while he was on special assignment, is now back at his old job as manager of FP&L's Flager branch in Daytona. "It is not uncommon for the company to give its employees exposure to other aspects of the business through rotation of assignments," said Berger. "I hope it has made me a better manager and I can take action to help save dollars for the customers and the stockholders."

He said the project was successful and FP&L now has a budgeting system that is automated and will provide savings for the company and do a better job controlling costs.

"I've gained a greater appreciating for Sanford and the people who live here as well as the quality of life, which I'm afraid we take too much for granted.'

- Jane Casselberry

'There are a lot of poor people in our country," he said, making another false start.

Joe was looking for some way to direct his energy," recalled Goodwin, telling how he suggested that the young Kennedy figure out a way to sell off to needy people at cost.

Goodwin, like Kennedy, knew nothing about the oil industry. But he saw in the sandy-haired Joe some of the qualities that "In our area, Scotch Pine is a very popular Christmas tree. But Christmas trees, generally speaking, vary from the model tree to the next generation. The next generation may not be as good looking as the first," Huang said.

Since 1979, when the native of Talwan began teaching at the university, Huang has spliced, diced and bombarded Scotch pine seeds, cuttings and seedlings with variations of light and temperature in his laboratory. In nearby pots are growing small plants born of his mutant

Huang said he is the only scientist in the United States concentrating his research on Scotch pines, but that research is under way in Europe, where Scotch pines also are a favorite Christmas season purchase.

His research could prove a boon to the timber industry, he said

"We've lost millions and millions of dollars because of tree discase," he said. Insects also have proved a costly hazard of the business.

"Many Southern pines are very easily attacked by beetles." he said.

"If we can select individual trees which are resistant to these diseases or insect attacks, that would be of great value."

Church Holds Prayer Vigil For Oil Company

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (UPI) - Hundreds of First Baptist Church members have signed up for a twoweek, round-the-clock prayer vigil on the attempted takeover of Phillips Petroleum Co., the city's largest employer.

"I think one of the major assignments of Christians is to pray, and it became obvious that the people in the town were concerned about the Phillip situation," said Dr. William H. Cook, senior pastor at the church. "And many obviously feel a need to ask themselves, What can I do?"

The vigil began Sunday, five days after T. Boone Pickens Jr. and two other Texas men announced their $60-a-share cash tender offer for 23 million Phillips shares. The Mesa group has since delayed its bid to gain eventual contol of Phillips because of "legal uncertainties."

Cook, in announcing the prayer vigil, asked the 1.200-member congregation to volunteer to pray for one hour at the church. Several hundred members responded and the shifts were quickly filled, he said. Many members of the church are Phillips employees, Cook said. About 8,000 of the city's 38,000 residents work at the firm. which also is the largest private employer in the state. "We're praying for all of the people involved in the situation." Cook said, including the Phillips board of directors and corporate officers.

employees, judges, attorneys

- and Pickens.

"And we're praying for the town." he added.

Photographs of Phillips' corporate officers have been provided "so they can pray for them by name."

Cook said he also has asked his congregation to put the matter before God regardless of their involvement in the vigil.

"I also call the congregation to daily prayer on the matter in their homes," he said, "and I ask the deacons of the church to come forward and pray."

Trainmaster Doctor Works With Little People; Relaxes With Tiny Trains

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

Dr. Norman A. Helfrich Jr., head of pediatrics at Winter Park Hospital, thinks small, but on a grand scale.

That applies both to his work with tots and toddlers and his special treatment of youngsters with cystic fibrosis as well as to his hobby.

For about a decade, 56-year-old Helfrich has been a model trainman and in recent years he switched to the tiniest trains available, Z gauge. Z guage trains are 1/20th the size of the train that may have rumbled around your tree on a childhood Christmas morning.

But despite the teeny size of Helfrich's railroad engines and cars, he and his wife Elizabeth have built a room onto their Sanford home just to house his hobby.

"I probably fell in love with trains because when I was little I traveled across the continent seven or eight times by train because my father was a naval officer," Helfrich said.

As a child Helfrich had an electric train but he didn't hang onto it. He called his Z guage collection, which runs on tiny tracks weaving between minute buildings and past miniature vehicles and ant-like people, on a 9-foot by four-foot table, the culmination of his interest in trains.

"I more or less work on them an hour here, an hour there. I like the building part best," Helfrich said. And among the imported building that make up the German community his German engines chug past is a factory that he made out of tongue depressors. The "Jeno's " logo on that rust-colored building seems misplaced in the Alpine setting, but Helfrich explained it's a duplicate of the former factory in Duluth, Minn., of his brother-in-law, frozen pizza king Jeno Paulucei.

Helfrich has also crafted a mini-copy of his own home as well as Thomas Jefferson's Monticello. "I've always been interested in making things. I enjoy working with that sort of thing. I prefer small things. As a matter of fact I tried to make a table. It was a smaller version of my train table. It was so rickety. You'd touch it and it would weave back and forth. Liz got sick of seeing that monstrosity so we had the carpenters who built the room build another table," he said. He could, he said, make a great table as long as it wasn't more than one-inchtall

"I like building. Once I get the trains moving it isn't a challenge any more," he said, but added that like children who are asked to perform in front of adults, his trains can become tempermental and challenging when guests are around to watch them roll. That's when they are most likely to uncouple or run off the rails.

"This hobby really isn't for little kids." he said. "It's too involved. Kids under eight or 10 can't appreciate it. It's an older child's toy or an adult's hobby. It's a good pastime. It wiles away the time and keeps me out of trouble. This fits in a small space, but I of course have a large layout and it isn't complete. I intend to put in some more.'

Helfrich added that mini-trains can be expensive with some of the engines, which are about two inches long and one inch tall, costing around $200. The price tag on most is about $100, he said. "You don't want to go out and buy one every week. It's a little tiny thing for $110. There are a few that I might buy someday," he said, to build up his current stock of six engines and almost every type and style of car available.

Helfrich, who is of German descent, said he is attracted to German trains, not because of his heritage, but because they are the best available.

Mrs. Helfrich said she looks, but doesn't touch her husband's traigs. But the Helfrichs share an interest in gourmet food.

"We travel a lot," he said. "Mostly in Italy and France and we mainly go to cooking schools. I help my wife in the kitchen. Mostly I clean up or Assisitng his wife Elizabeth (Liz) in the kitchen, Dr. Helfrich said, 'We travel a lot, mostly in Italy and France and we mainly go to cooking schools. I help my wife in the kitchen. Mostly I clean up or chop things up. Liz is very innovative and she does a very good job and is an excellent cook. She has been to gourmet cooking schools and has written a cookbook.'

chop things up. Liz is very innovative and she does a very good job and is an excellent cook. She has been to gourmet cooking schools and has written a cookbook."

When Helfrich isn't in the kitchen or acting as train engineer he's on duty in his Altamonte Springs office, at Winter Park, Florida hospitals or the Orlando Regional Medical Center, Orlando, as director of the Cystic Fibrosis Clinic. That's a post he's held for the last 20 of his 31 years as a physician.

Helfrich became very involved with that hereditary disease that strikes infants and causes difficulty in breathing and digestion when 20 years ago he was treating three CF victims who were children of his fellow doctors.

"I had a certain amount of knowledge about cystic librosis and I have added to that over the years by going to seminars and reading." He runs the Clinic with the help of residents at Orlando Regional and said that over the years there have been advancements in the treatment of the disease.

"With the newer antibiotics and better nutrition we're able to keep the cystic fibrosics. alive a lot longer." Helfrich said. "Probably

Pet Health Animals' Medical Problems Differ From Humans

Today, 1 will touch on a subject that is on my mind because of a newspaper photo 1 saw recently.

The photo was of a small screech owl lying on its back with a dozen acupuncture needles sticking in it. The accompanying article told of the acupuncturist who donated time at a bird sanctuary. It was also noted that after using acupuncture on a raccoon with distemper that the animal began to purr.

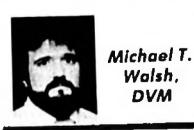

This article by itself would not have caused me to bring this up. but it brought back to mind an earlier report which told of a woman in California whose dog was "cured" by her chiropractor.

Both of these incidents deserve. some notice for another reason. Animal stories always attract a lot of attention but it bothers me when they are reported without giving the full story. In the case of the owl he probably didn't have to endure anything more than a little discomfort. In the case of the dog, the article was sensationalistic and misleading

And the animal was in potential danger. If these people had been reporting on a "miracle cure" in a human they would have sought other medical "experts" to get a more rounded view instead of simply taking this story at face value from the owner.

Let's look at the second story from a medical view and discuss the pros and cons of back treatment in dogs. We won't go into the controversy of what chiropractors are capable of interms of human medicine. The main problem in trying to apply human chiropractic principles to other animals is a lack of understanding of the differences in back injuries that occur in our animals into a number of different types depending on what system you learn. They may be musculo-skeletal in origin. which means that the supportive structures of the back are at fault. The other major category involves damage or impairment of the nervous supply to the tower half of the body. In some individuals there is a combination of the two categories.

In dogs the most common back injury is a result of intervertebral disc disease. Between each vertebrate there is a disc which acts as a shock absorber during movement. As the dog ages the outer capsule of the disc degenerates and may become brittle. Now that it is weak the central portion of the You can divide back injuries in disc can be forced through the brittle outer layer. This usually occurs after some physical exertion such as jumping on and off the couch or bed.

Certain breeds are more prone to this problem, especially the smaller dogs with short legs and long backs. Some, such as the dachshund, have a strong genetic involvement so that the usually involves steroids. A disc breaks down prematurely. A big difference between humans and dogs is the result of disc ruptura (herniation). In people, a ruptured disc usually results in extreme pain and discomfort. In the dog, a rupture of an intervertebral disc is not only painful but it may actually affect the function of the rear half of his body. This difference is because in the dog the disc actually damages the spinal chord above it. In people the disc is more prone to be displaced to the side so that it misses the spinal chord itself but interferes with other nerves coming off the chord.

Before we can judge whether chiropractors should be used for K-9 back problems you must know what the normal outcome of the back problem is. After rupture, the disc material gains access to the spinal canal. The signs seen depend on the damage done. It may vary from abdominal pain to complete loss of function in the rear legs. Initial therapy is geared toward relieving inflammation and small percentage require surgery to remove the disc material from around the chord. This is especially true if the dog losses the sensation of pain in its legs.

Many cases of disc disease can be treated conservatively. This requires anti-inflammatory drugs, complete rest and, most of all, time. Time for the inflammation to subside, and the disc material to be resorbed. Not days, but weeks. Ideally, the dog should be rested for up to six weeks. One study found that 80% got better whether surgery or medical treatment were used. This shows us that Mother Nature is our strongest ally. With time, most of these dogs will improve if the owner is diligent and patient. So where does the chiropractor come in? Most likely the dog suffered fromt the problem we described above. The veterinarian who handled the case probably did not take the time to explain the cause of the disease.

I'll admit this is a common problem but it is also common to have some owners not take the trouble to pay attention or follow your advice. We will discuss improving communication with your yet in a later column. So the chiropractor intervened in a problem in an unfamiliar species which would most likely have improved anyway. He receives the credit for Mother Nature's work and a great deal of people are mislead into thinking this is an appropriate solution for back problems in their pets.

When faced with a problem in your pet, if you do not receive satisfaction from your vet concerning a serious illness, then it is wise to get a second opinion from another veterinarian. If your problem lies in a specialty field such as dermatology (skin problems), neurology (nervous disorders, back problems), or others such as orthopedics (bone problems), you can ask your vet to refer you to the University of Florida's College of Veterinary Medicine in Gainesville.

For the answers to your pet care questions, write to Dr. Walsh, C/O, The Evening Herald, P.O. Box 1657, Sanford FL 32771.

Cabbage Patch Party, Cleveland Tea Add To Spirit Of Holidays

More than 500 friends of "Bill" and Walter Gielow and Bonnie and Henry Schumacher braved the cold during the light of the silvery moon on Dec. 8 to attend the cabbage patch party the two couples host every two years.

It's true. The party scene is among acres of cabbages at the Schumacher farms on Michigan Avenue, cast of South Sanford Avenue.

Flatbeds were brimming with food and beverages and several took turns stirring the large black wrought iron cauldron of steaming chill with a boat oar to take the chill off the late autumn evening.

Jovial guests huddled around huge bonfires and danced the polka to the lively music of Gus (The Burgermeister) and his German Band. Hay rides added to the fun and festivity of the frolicking biennial event.

Frinds ("who wouldn't miss the party for the world") of the hosts came from far and near to attend the fete. Among the out-of-town guests who formerly lived in Sanford were Ann and Guy Allen of North Dakota, and Jean and Gerald Warnke of Denver. Others came from Philadelphia, Texas and all-Florida

Customer: Beauty Shop 'Was So Filthy...'

DEAR ABBY: I'm new in town. I went to the neighborhood beauty parlor near my house because it was handy. It looked pretty nice from the outside, but when I got inside I noticed the floor needed a good scrubbing. Before my beauty operator put me in her chair, she went to the hamper and picked

In And Around Lake Mary Homemakers Give $$ To Local Charities

At the annual Christmas luncheon of the Lake Mary Extension Homemakers Club, checks were presented to community organizations for their work. Receiving checks were the Christian Sharing Center, Seminole County Humane Society, the Lake Mary Police Department for use on their christmas projects for toys and food and the Lake Mary Civic Improvement Association for their continued work to better the city of Lake Mary.

After the luncheon members visited the Sanford Nursing and Convalescent Home where they shared cookles and punch and presented gifts to the residents. They also sang and danced to entertain and bring joy and happiness to all.

The Lake Mary Dolphins 4-H Club held their election of officers at the last meeting. The officers for the 1984-85 year are: president-Cynthia Arnhott; vice president- Phudung Van: secretary/treasurer- Deedra Gurr: county delegate- Jennifer Gurr; and alternate delegate-Daryl Waldrop.

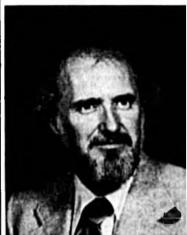

The beauty and tradition of Christmas can best be seen through the eyes of children. This was true last Thursday as the children from the Happy Elves Day Care Center presented a Christmas program for their families. It was a lovely evening.

Seminole County 4-H members held a Christmas workshop Saturday, Dec. 8. In addition to making their own ornaments the children also made Christmas cards for meals on wheels. After the workshop the children began preliminary work on their float for the Sanford Christmas Parade.

Fast Of Freedom Rally To Support Soviet Jews

The Community Relations Committee of the Jewish Federation of Greater Orlando will sponsor a Fast of Freedom rally Monday at 12:30 p.m. on the grounds of the Jewish Community Center at 851 N. Maitland Ave., Maitland. The call to fast is in response to a national movement in solidarity with Soviet Jews. Forty-two Soviet Jews began a hunger strike on the evening of Oct. 20 to protest recent arrests of at least six Hebrew teachers and other activists. Jewish communities have joined in support throughout the country on various dates to make this a rotating hunger strick to last as long as the Soviet hunger strike continues.

The rally at the community center will focus on the plight of the two million Jews trapped inside the Soviet Union denied th right to leave and is open to the entire community.

Community Singles Organize

The Community Singles, a newly formed fellowship group for single (never married), divorced, and widowed adults, ages 19 and older will begin meeting every Sunday at the Community United Methodist Church, Casselberry, after the 7 p.m. service for refreshments and fellowship starting this Sunday. This week they will meet in the church library for refreshments following the Sunday School Christmas pageant. On subsequent Sundays, the group will meet in the fellowship hall and then go to a local restaurant for refreshments and fellowship. Special events and a new Singles Sunday School class are also planned. Darlene Rodgers is Singles coordinator. The Senior Singles group will continue as it has been under the leadership of Sandra and Mike Wheless.

Santa Claus And Jesus Compatible?

Santa Claus or Jesus? was the title of an article in one Sunday-school teachers' newsletter.

The dilemma is faced every year. Many churches and parents feel they must choose for their children between Santa and Jesus. The writer of the "Santa Claus or Jesus?" article would have Sunday-school teachers

"put Santa in his proper place -- with Humpty Dumpty, Snow White and other storybook characters."

The objection is that "Santa Claus is presented as an omniscient counterpart to God. He sees you when you're sleeping, he knows when you're awake, he knows when you've been bad or good. Worse still, Santa promises to give if you've been good. Jesus came because you have not been good."

The Sunday-school publication recommends the practice followed by "thoughtful Christian parents who tell their children frankly, from their earliest years, that Santa is a 'make-believe' person.'

and friend."

At the same time, however, they should read what the famed psychologist Dr. Bruno Bettelheim says about Santa Claus. He urges parents not to tell their small children "the truth" about Santa Claus, but to encourage them to believe in the fantasy.

"Talk about the spirit of giving does nothing for a child," says Bettleheim. "But if he has the experience of belleving in Santa Claus, then he will come to understand what Christmas is about on its most basic level."

I have always felt that 8-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon must have been dissatisfied with the answer she got from the editor of the New York Sun when she asked her famous question: "Is there a Santa Claus?"

Little Virginia wanted to know if the man in the whiskers and red sult was honest-to-goodness real. The editor skirted the ticklish, but very crucial, question by talking about the spirit of Santa Claus: "He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist....

Fortunately he began his reply by saying. 'Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus," and we can hope she never bothered to read past that.

If she did, she would only have been more bewildered than ever by the editor who, with his mind on his adult readers, said things like, "Only faith, fancy, poetry, love and romance can picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond the veil covering the unseen world."

a Christmas musical, Heaven Rejoices, at 7 p.m. Sunday. The church is located at 126 Lakeview Ave., Lake Mary. The musical by Ken Parker is under the direction of Tony L. Gibson Jr., music director. James A. Thomas will direct and Sally Bowden is the organist. The series is open to the public.

Singles Alive To Meet

The Singles Alive Fellowship Group at First Assembly of God, 304 W. 27th St., Sanford, meets every Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the church.

Children To Sing

The Children's Choir of First Assembly of God. Sanford, will present The Greatest Christmas Card in the Whole Wide World at 7 p.m. this Sunday.

I hope parents don't pay any attention to that.

Christmas for children doesn't have to be a matter of "Santa or Jesus" - one or the other. They can have both. Furthermore, it's probably good that they have both.

As this article for Sunday-school teachers says, parents can emphasize that "the baby Jesus is our best Christmas present. He grew up and died on a cross to take away our sins. He is alive today and is our helper

According to Bettelheim: "Without concrete beginnings, abstract ideas (such as the spirit of giving) may remain empty shells. Believing in Santa is not only a pleasure in itself, it is an important step in developing adult concepts."

If we really want our children to develop a healthy understanding and mastery of reality, says the psychologist, "we must make it possible for them to enjoy childhood fantasics."

If she had waited 30 years and wanted a direct answer to her question. Virginia could have written to Judge John Hatcher. presiding judge of the West Virginia Supreme Court in 1926, when he handed down his judicial opinion on Santa Claus.

The learned jurist concluded that there was indeed a Santa Claus, "a jolly old man who labors diligently at his home near the North Pole... who, on the night before Christmas, piles his sleigh high with gifts."

Bishop Backs Sanctuary Workers

By Mack Slak

SAN BENITO, Texas (UPI) - A Catholic Bishop says the government is singling out for prosecution two Sanctuary Movement members accused of illegally bringing Salvadoran refugees to the United States.

Jack Elder, 41, a Vietnam veteran who directs a shelter for Central Americans, and Stacey Lynn Merkt, 30, a religious layworker, were indicted for the second time last week on charges they helped transport two Salvadorans from the banks of the Rio Grande to a bus station in the Texas border city of McAllen.

They are to be arraigned today in U.S. District Court.

The Sanctuary Movement contends that

U.S. policy barring entry to refugees from war-torn Central America is unchristian.

Merkt spent the weekend in Jail at Brownsville in lieu of a $25,000 cash bond. Elder remained free on personal recognizance.

Merkt was sentenced to two years probation June 27 for trying to sneak three Salvadorans around Border Patrol checkpoints. Because of the new indictment, her probation could be revoked, and she could be sent to jail.

Bishop John Joseph Fitzpatrick, who founded the Casa Oscar Romero shelter and named it for the assassinated archbishop of El Salvador, made a surprise visit to a Sunday afternoon rally of Sanctuary Movement supporters.

Attend . . .

The crowd of about 75 people said they represented more than 1,000 church congregations in nine states which support the movement's goal of offering refuge to fleeing Salvadorans, Guatemalans and Hondurans.

Fitzpatrick said the charges against Elder and Merkt, "seem to be an effort to embarrass the activists. I think they (immigration officials) are trying to scare off people being activists ... but they're causing them to be more active."

The bishop said the indictment "looked like a conspiracy on the part of the government to get our people, to nail these people. They never read the New Testament. Christ taught justice and love."

New Technique Aids Lawmen In Nabbing Drunk Drivers

Deputy Downs Five Ounces Of Vodka In Hour, Then Fails Test Miserably

(Editor's note: staff writer Susan Loden was present from beginning to end as a sheriff's deputy drank himself to inebriation under the supervision of other deputies to test a new technique aimed at detecting drunk drivers. She takes the reader step by step in the process until the deputy fails his test.)

By Busan Loden Herald Staff Writer

They say your eyes will give you away if you tell a lie. Now with a new drunk driving test, Seminole County lawmen can check your eyes and see just how drunk you are.

At the Seminole County Sheriff's Department Sgt. Jerry Riggins demonstrated the effectiveness of that test, the nystagmus (prounced nis-tagmuss) gaze test (NGT.) by having sheriff's deputy Sam Gibson become intoxicated and take that drunk driver.

The three tests, which also include a walk and turn exercise and a one-leg stand test (where the primary points of evaluation are a subject's ability to perform simple physical functions while trying to follow the tester's verbal instructions given as the tests progress) have been standardized by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to give lawmen across the country an effective and unified way to evaluate drunk drivers, Riggins said.

To train Seminole County sheriff's deputies to administer the tests and know what to look for when evaluating results, Riggins, 34, has been holding training sessions where a volunteer duputy such as Gibson becomes intoxicated and then performs the tests as the other officers ate and a ore on a standardized scale the months; is the most accurate of the three tests in pinpointing alcohol impairment: is a test few people are aware of.

The results of these three tests, along with the testimony of the arresting officer and possible support in court of a video tape of the suspect taking the tests, can override or make the results of a breath analysis for alcohol in the blood unnecessary to convict a drunk driver. Riggins sald.

But suspected drunk drivers, unless they refuse, are given a breath test to establish the specific level of alcohol in their blood. In fact, since Oct. 23 they've been given two breath tests. Riggins said Florida Health and Rehabilitative Services ordered the backup test and established that for the results of a person's breath test to be valid, the results of the two tests must be within .02 percent of each other. The NGT is based on the discovery that in an intoxicated person the eyes involuntarily jerk or litter when the suspect gazes to the side. This is an involuntary action which cannot be controlled or even felt by the subject. The more severely the eye jerks and the sooner the jittering starts after the suspect begins to follow with his eyes an object, such as a pencil the tester slowly and steadily passes in front of his line of sight, the more highly intoxicated that person is, Riggins

The intoxicated person cannot follow a moving object steadily with his eyes. The NGT is considered highly effective, Riggins said. And although some persons do have a small amount of natural jerking of the eyes, the degree of the movement in an intoxicated person is so great, it is highly unlikely a tester would be unable to determine if he (the tester) was looking at natural movement as opposed to alcohol-induced mov test along with two other tests. The three tests make up a battery of standardized, national testing procedures intended to single out the intoxicated volunteer's performance. The NGT, developed in California, has been used by Seminole County deputies for about two ement.

Comparable Worth: Going From Bad To Worth

Last summer, an administrative economist had the temerity to describe the notion of comparable worth as "crazy." The White House immediately disavowed his statement.

Now comes the administration's chairman of the Civil Rights Commission, describing the idea as "loony."

Such flippant dismissals of an important women's issue are a cause of serious concern in the Reagan administration, which still worries about the fact that it has a smaller majority of approval from women than from men.

Accordingly, a special series of sensitivity seminars is being conducted. Its goal is to foster a respectful, and noncommittal, attitude toward the comparable worth concept, in hopes that the whole notion will go away on Its own.

The seminars are being conducted by the behavioral modification firm of A. Atan Smedley and Associates. In view of the importance of the project, Mr. Smedley himself is leading the introductory sessions

"Our purpose, ladies and gentlemen, is to train you to treat comparable worth arguments with benign neglect." Smedley told a small group of officials who has been ordered to attend the first session.

"As you know," he continued, "women are discriminated against in the marketplace, and thus receive unconscionably low wages."

'Says who?'' snapped Marvin Finster, a Department of Commerce official who had arrived first in order to get the seat nearest the door.

"Now, now, Mr. Finster," Smedlev replied reassuringly. "We all know the evidence showing discrimination isn't very conclusive, but everyone who knows anything agrees discrimination is pervasive. When the fact of discrimination is brought up, you should simply nod sadly and sympathetically.

"Shall we all nod together?" The group nodded, with somewhat more sarcasm than sadness.

"Very good. Now, we all know that

DOONESBURY

Dollars (Non)Cents Timothy Tregarthen

equal pay for equal work has been insufficient. Sexist male capitalist bosses have merely shunted women into strictly female occupations, where they ..."

"Now just one stereotyping minute, young man!" It was Mabel Hendricks, from the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

"It takes two to shunt," she said, "A lot of men have tried to shunt me into a lot of places. But if you think anyone can shunt Mabel Hendricks anywhere, you're crazier than a loon in ...

"Now, now, Ms. Hendricks," Smedley interjected hastily. "When someone says women become secretaries or teachers or nurses because sexist male capitalists have forced them to, we are to nod sadly and sympathetically. Class?'

The class nodded, but with much exchange of glances and giggles and winks.

"Very good. Now to overcome this shunting, we must have comparable worth. This requires that each occupation be graded, to determine its real worth...

"And how do you propose to do that?" snapped Arthur Short, of the Office of Management and Budget.

Easy, Mr. Short. Personnel consultants do it. In the state of Washington. each job was graded for knowledge and skills, mental demands, accountability, and working conditions."

Short snorted. Smedley pressed on.

'Based on these criteria, the jobs of truck driver and laundry worker get the same number of points. So do the jobs of electrician and secretary. It follows that laundry workers should get the same salaries as truck drivers, and secretaries should get the same salaries as electricians

"On the day that happens, good buddy, this old mama's gonna park her rig and start washin' socks."

Ms. Hendrick's remark was followed by much tossing of socks.

"Class! Class!" Smedley sputtered. "We must all nod quietly. We haven't even gotten to the idea that salaries should have nothing to do with jobs at all, but should be based purely on a consultant's estimate of individual capabilities.

"This is going from bad to worth," Finster should, sailing a list of comparable job ratings toward the front of the room.

Smedley ducked and ran, as the room filled with flying comparable worth documents, which had been folded into objects comparable to cruise missiles. With any luck, administration officials will be forever insensitive to the idiotic notion of comparable worth.

Inmate Sings Brother's Song

By United Press International

Quirks

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (UPI) - A South Dakota Penitentiary inmate is singing his late brother's song in an effort to call attention to the problem of drunken driving.

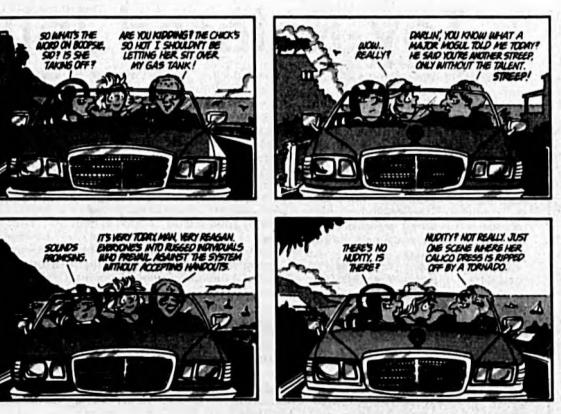

Stanley Brooks, 34, said Monday he recorded a song originally written and re-corded by his brother, Ron. a highway patrol trooper who was killed 10 years ago stopping a jailbreak of federal prisoners at Clarendon, Ark.

The song tells the story of two children who visit Santa Claus at a department store and ask why IO-year sentence for. their parents, who were killed in an accident with a drunken driver, cannot be with them for Christmas. "If it saves just one life, it season.

is worth it," Brooks said. Hopefully, when Christmas Day rolls around the best present under the Chriatmas tree will be a mother and father sitting there who otherwise wouldn't be there from a drunk driving accident." He said he wanted to draw attention to the lasue during the holiday season. All money raised from the recording will be used for South Dekota's safe driving programs.

Another Great Opportunity For Sanford Voters

These are exciting political times in Sanford city government. And the beauty of it is that its citizens have a great opportunity to be right there Tuesday, in on the action.

Tuesday is when Sanford voters get another opportunity to participate in the selection of a mayor in the run-off race between Bettye Smith and Tom Speer, two highly-qualified, energetic and, apparently, determined candidates who seem to have the best interests of the city at heart.

In that race, voters citywide may cast a ballot in their respective precinct, while in a replay of the District 1 Commission race between John Mercer and A. A. McClanahan, - also two well-qualified candidates - only voters in District 1 may cast a ballot for city commissioner and vote for mayor as well.

The District 1 commission race re-run was made necessary when it was discovered that several persons cast ballots in that district who don't live there; while others who do live there were sent to incorrect districts.

This time, to avoid that problem, County Supervisor of Elections Sandra Goard mailed a letter to all eligible voters who reside in District 1, notifying them of the election, of their eligibility and noting the location of their polling place: The Sanford Civic Center.

The mayoral run-off, of course, comes about with neither Smith nor Speer getting 50 percent of the votes plus one cast in the Dec. 4 municipal election in a three-person race for mayor.

It's usually tough enough to get large numbers of registered voters to the polls during a general election, let alone a municipal election that follows on its heels. Now Sanford voters are being asked to make another trip to the polls Tuesday to state their preference for a mayor and a district commissioner. But, as we said, these are exciting political times. And they're externely crucial in terms of the direction Sanford will take over the coming years. More than one important decision affecting the quality of life for Sanford residents will have to be made by Sanford city government in the coming years. We need to view having to go to the polls again Tuesday to play a role in selecting those who will be making the decisions as an opportunity, not a nuisance.

DICK WEST Another Christmas Cheer: Bah, Humbug

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Well, well, what have we here? Why, bless 'em all, if it isn't a talking Christmas card.

The American Greetings Corp., the wonderful folks who brought you the first generation of talking cards last spring, has come forth with new models. Besides being small enough to fit into regular envelopes, they are reputed to have improved sound systems, courtesy of silicon microchips made in Taiwan.

Yes, friends, for just $7.50, plus postage, you can "share a little Christmas cheer" with the loved one of your choice.

And how does a Christmas cheer go? According to the long-playing card I have at hand, it goes: "Rah! Rah! Rah! - Sis! Boom! Bah! - Heeceere's Christmas!'

Cards with printed zingers have been with us for years. Within my limited frame of reference, however, cards with audible punch lines represent yet another forward step in the onward and upward march of communication. which already includes singles bars, computers, telephone answering machines and autos with voices that remind you to buckle your seat belt.

If $7.50 strikes you as rather a high price to pay for a little cheer, remember that talking cards come complete with power cells, so the batteries aren't extra. All your loved ones need do is open the card.

If you spring for two cards, loved ones presumably can hear the cheer in stereo.

What is more, a card plays for about 12 hours. This means that if you sign it with a pencil, the loved one of your choice can erase your signature, put the card away until next December and then mail it to the loved one of his or her choice.

Some of the cards do more than talk. They also make buzzing noises and other sound effects, play melodies and flash lights in patterns.

If, for example, the loved one of your choice isn't the type to appreciate a little cheer at Christmas, you can send a card that states: "I wanted to get you something special" and asks the printed question. "How does a brand new sports car sound?"

Then, when opened, it makes a vrooming noisc

That gag, believe me, is a lot cheaper than a new car would be. At these prices, you were expecting a Ferrari?

Moreover, Christmas doesn't necessarily have to be the only garrulous holiday. Talking birthday cards also are available and talking valentines will be on the market by next February

A typical birthday greeting says. "I'd like to come over and sing 'Happy Birthday' to you, but I've got a frog in my throat." And on the inside, it adds, "And all he knows is 'Home Sweet Home.'

This card will do more than merely give your loved one a few chuckles, however. Below the inner caption is a drawing of a frog. Plus, your loved one can actually hear the strains of "Home Sweet Home."

One minor quibble. Although the frog is depicted as a one-man band, the tune sounds more like it is being played on a $10 violin.

Maybe that's how one-man frog bands sound in Talwan. But if I'm going to shell out $7.50 for a birthday card. I want my loved ones to hear cymbals, washboards, horns and all.

JULIAN BOND Looking Ahead To '86

Is it too soon to begin thinking about the 1986 House and Senate elections? Not if you think what happened at the polls last month was a disaster for American economic and social justice.

In addition to the landslide reelection of Ronald Reagan, survey results revealed deep' class and racial splits in the electorate. The data show that only a few white Americans believe discrimination exists or that government should be active in defeating it.

In 34 races for the U.S. Senate, and in every contest for the House. the '86 midterm election will be another test of our national commitment to fair play.

Reagan's re-election is already taken as a mandate by those who think the federal government has done too much to guarantee equal opportunity. But the Democrats' successes in the Senate this year. and their few losses in the House, are viewed by others as the citizenry's warning to the president that he has gone as far as he should in cutting the social safety net and reversing 20 years of vigorous civil rights enforcement. In any event, the new Senate is slightly more progressive on civil rights and war-and-peace issues than the last one, and neither house of Congress was or will be as regressive as the president and his Intimates on the question of equal opportunity.

SCIENCE WORLD Skin Care Products' Dangers

By United Press International More than a quarter of all allergic skin reactions in a large nationwide study were caused by lotions, creams and skin care products and almost one-fifth resulted from hair preparations.

Dr. Robert Adams, professor of dermatology at Stanford University, reported the results of the study of 281,000 patients over a six-year period to the annual meeting of the American Academy of Dermatology.

A total of 713 cosmetic-related reactions were noted in the study group, of which 79 percent were women.

Adams said nail preparations ac-counted for nearly 8 percent of the reactions and fragrance products caused 7 percent. Hair colors caused 6.7 percent of the reactions, personal cleanliness products 6.4 percent and eye makeup 3.6 percent.

Decorum, Please

We aren't too sure of the underlying causes for the recent disruptions at Longwood City Commission meetings, but whatever those causes, we can't agree they justify such behavior.

Apparently Mayor J. Russell Grant, who was defeated in his re-election bid Dec. 4, was the prime target of disparaging remarks by members of the audience attending the city commission's Wednesday meeting.

The vitriol seemed to get out of hand after one citizen, who was at the microphone addressing the commission to complain about a drainage problem, barked at Grant: "That's why you're not here any longer, you don't know when to shut up." After that outburst, the citizen said he would ignore Grant the rest of the evening and address only the other commissioners.

Throughout the remainder of the meeting, other members of the audience constantly interrupted proceedings to hurl unflattering remarks at Grant, deriding him and laughing at him as he attempted to continue presiding.

And whenever someone yelled something derogatory about Grant, some people in the audience applauded and laughed.

That kind of disrespect and disdain for elected public officials by adults at an open meeting is simply distasteful.

"Just because I was defeated doesn't mean I'm not still the mayor and a commissioner until the end of the year. The city can't come to a grinding halt. I intend to carry out my duties until the end of the year and then turn them over to my successor," Grant explained.

And that's how it should be, without the interruptions.

BERRY'S WORLD

The Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, the watchdog and lobbying agency made up of over 100 churches and civil rights and labor organizations, rated the 97th Congress better than "fair" on civil rights.

But only four of the 34 Senate scats up for grabs in 1986 are presently held by members who received a 75 percent or higher rating from the conference (based on 12 votes ranging from the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday to job training. Medicare and school desegregation).

Only 12 of the 34 are Democrats, so there will be little chance to test the popular wisdom, distilled from the 1984 presidential campaign, that the Democrats' close ties to minority and equal rights strongly contributed to the Reagan sweep.

But the outcome of those 12 races and contests for the 22 scats held by Republicans will determine whether Reagan's party will continue to control the Senate and, at the same time, whether the radical right will continue to place the brakes on social welfare and equal rights legislation as effectively in the future as they have in the past.

and 10. We'll call them Tad and Jon. In the beginning, they lived with a mother and father, let's say Julie and Mac. But when the boys were very young, there was a bitter divorce. Their mother took them to another city and didn't want any contact with the father.

Life wasn't easy as she moved from job to job, the children from school to school. In time, Julie met a man we'll call Sam, and they fell in love. Sam adored her sons and vowed he'd be a good father to them. So they married and for two years, there were good times. Julie fired ceramics in the home studio Sam built for her. The boys and their stepfather played ball and made slingshots together.

Then one day, Julie learned she had cancer. She was told that with treatment, she could live 10 years at least. But something went terribly wrong - and three days after one of those treatments, she died.

A sister phoned Mac to tell him about his former wife's death and the whereabouts of the children. Mac, who lived 100 miles away, called the stepfather to say he'd pick up his sons at the end of the week. The boys were devastated. After all, they hardly knew their father. Sam was also shaken. "One week we were a family." he recalled, "and the next, I was going to lose them all.'

Determined to keep the boys, he hired an attorney who told him not to be too hopeful, that courts often side with the natural parent.

Mac also was determined to get back the sons he felt his wife had deprived him of. A psychologist who met with the boys over several months sensed their apprehension about another ther and stepf ather to the children's needs above their own and suggested they think about sharing the boys. "Let's all forget about winning," said one.

And so, just before the case was to go to trial, the fathers agreed to joint custody - surely, one of the rare, If not the only joint custody arrangement in the country between two fathers.

In the three hours it took to work out the final arrangements, the boys waited in a room nearby. Then the men came in together. Mac, their natural father said, "We both really wanted you, but we couldn't both have you... we've decided to share you.'

Tad and Jon continue to live with their stepfather, but spend a weekend a month, alternate holtdays and half the summer with their natural father.

Five months into the plan, both men are striving to give the boys the best of themselves. This summer, Sam managed a Little League team on which Jon was star catcher and the younger Tad was bat boy. When the boys stay with Mac, they work on building go-carts together, and go camping and fishing in the mountains.

Mac admits that at first "we were strangers to each other." The boys were quiet and withdrawn. But now, each time they get together, the "break-in-time" is less. They have visited aunts, uncles and grandparents. Says Mac. "I want them to know they have a family who cares for them.'

Tad and Jon lost the person who had been the most important in their lives - their mother. But in this season of Christmas love, they now know they have gained, not one, but two fathers.

Advances in life expectancy and disease control are allowing patients and physicians to shift their focus from treating disease to maintaining health, a health expert says.

'Throughout history, the main focus of physicians in serving their patients has been to restore health damaged by some pathologic condition," Dr. Lester Breslow, professor of public health at the University of California, Los Angeles, writes in the December issue of the California Medical Association's Western Journal of Medicine.

"Recently, however, progress in overcoming and even preventing disease for the first time in the history of humanity has created a situation in which most persons can seek health and not just seek to overcome disease."

In an accompanying editorial, the journal's editor, Dr. Malcolm Watts, says people are investing time and money in "wellness" and fitness activities "on a scale none of us can remember ever having seen before."

Smoking cocaine, otherwise known as freebasing, is becoming more popular. But a new study shows the practice can cause lasting lung damage.

Northwestern University School of Medicine researchers and a doctor at the Veterans Administration Lakeside Medical Center in Chicago studied 19 people who had smoked cocaine for periods ranging from three months to five years.

Twelve had symptoms such as shortness of breath or coughing. Testing showed 10 had suffered some damage that reduced their lungs' ability to absorb oxygen and other gases.

Toy-Related Injuries Decline

seen the stories about toys that can kill or maim your children and grandchildren, so before you decide to pull the covers over your head. I'd like to give you a bit of countervalling good news.

Internal data I've seen, compiled by analysts at the Consumer Product Safety Commission, show that the number of toy-related injuries has been declining steadily each year since the government began leaning on toy makers.

Not only that, but the majority of toy-related injuries had little or nothing to do with the way the toys were designed or made. That old reliable "human error" was the culprit.

Here's the story:

A briefing package by the safety commission's staff analysts last month said that "data available to CPSC on toy-related injuries for calendar year 1983 show a con-

WASHINGTON - You've already tinued decline in the number of estimated injuries over the past several years." There were 5,000 fewer toy-related injuries reported last year than the 123,000 chalked up in 1982.

But the eye-opener is this: As Pogo put it, we have met the enemy and they are us. "Most accidents with toys seen in 1983," the agency staff reports, "occurred when a child or adult fell on, tripped over or was hit by a toy.'

Obviously, there's little a manufacturer or doting relative can do to eliminate the klutz factor among toy recipients and those near to them short of making and choosing nothing but pillows for the little stickies.

Even the second-place category involves at least the possibility that the users, not the toys, were primarily responsible for the accident.

"Falls from riding toys mme the second most frequently reported toy-related injury." the staff re-ported. It adds a warning that grandparents and similar boosters of precoclous tots might well heed: "Because of the occurrence of more serious injuries in the 1-to-3 year old group, it may be appropriate to consider the age at which children are capable of handling some riding toys.'

The staff report did caution, however, that "while the decline in the number of injuries reported for the year may indicate that toys, as a class, may be safer, it cannot be assumed that all toys are safer or completely free from hazard."

Agency data showed that toy-related deaths - 16 last year and 10 so far this year - "are related more closely to the child's ability to della with the nature of the toy than to problems with the toy." The report explained: "This is best illustrated i ill the deaths involved children who choked on balloons, rode tricycles into pools or were struck by a motor vehicle while riding a tricycle."

Toy makers have also shown less reluctance than they once did to correct design or manufacturing problems:

- Danara International Ltd., voluntarily recalled thousands of "Walt Disney Character Squeek-a-Toys" and offered full refunds. Stahlwood Manufacturing did the same with its "Thumper" line of animal heads on handles.

- Fisher-Price voluntarily recalled 278,000 "Splash and Stack Bluebirds" as a possible choking hazard, and then redesigned the loy.

- Blue Box Toys voluntarily recalled 50,000 "Combat Copters" that had caused 18 cases of facial lacerations in the first year of sales. The company is offering full refunds.

The Butcher, The Baker... And The Parasite

Editor's Note: William R. Allen is professor of economics at U.C.L.A. and president of the International Institute for Economic Research.

By William R. Allen

My, these are hard days of great concern on the college campus!

One understands the frustrated discontent of would-be revolutionary students over the tepid quality of today's protests. "I'm tired of going to demonstrations where the major goal is to get a large number of people and then not do anything with them." whimpers one young scholar who longs for action and martyrdom. "We go out there knowing no one will get arrested. knowing we'll all just return home safe and sound. It might as well not have happened."

Senior scholars, too, are concerned abut the values and vitality of the braves of the tribe. A professor of education detects fascistic subversion in the findings of a poll that over two-thirds of today's freshmen want to be "ver well off financially" and that fewer than half put great weight on developing a "meaningful philosophy of life.*

We are told that instead of idealistic students shaping society--as in the 1960s-materialistic society is now shaping students. One bit of evidence: sociology enrollments are down, and economics enrollments are up! Alas, the end of the children's crusade!

A survey by professors of psychology and history of high school valedictory addresses reveals limited criticism of society, little social consciousness, and few solutions to world problems. At the same time, these leading high school graduates are friendly, praise achievement, call for individual responsibility. and seek best use of personal resources. They even say that one reason for their going to college is "to learn more about things.

I have learned not to expect profundity in all matters from 18-year-olds. It is asking a bit much for people of such years, training, and experience to provide wise counsel and erudite guidance on the great social, economic, and geopolitical issues of the day. But they are more sensible than some professors of education, psychology, and history. It is quite enough that students be civil. ambitious, accuntable, and reliant on their own resources.

Nor need such people be bloodless wimps. Although the 1960s babies of Berkeley and kids of Columbia would never comprehend, gentility and gencrosity are consistent with interest in one's own productivity and well-being.

Cultivated sophistication is compatible between self-interest and community with adding value in the marketplace. One can study mathematics and chemistry and law and economics, and still be concerned about the human condition. Ignorance and incompetence are not prerequisites of sensitivity.

The hope of tomorrow does not rest with insufferable infants who will do nothing but invade the administration building and pronounce "nonnegotiable" demands. And it certainly does not rest with still more infantile faculty and administrators. If we are to be strong and to use our strength well. it will be largely because of those who quietly live laborious lives in the library and the laboratory-and then use their accumulated knowledge and acquired skills to be valuable to the rewarding community.

For cloistered collectivists who dream of expunging self-interest, there is something inherently ignoble in the pursuit of financial well-being. Legions of students have been weaned on the belief that self-interest is an immoral motive that can never produce splendid results--unless self-interest is pursued through the agency of government. The young barbarians entering the university gates have been implored to shum the wicked ways of private enterprise. But there is no necessary conflict interest. With appropriate social institutions, self-interest can be made to produce results that benefit the community. Indeed, other motives surely will fall far short. Adam Smith, professor of moral philosophy and father of modern economics, stated this axiom in 1776: "It is not from the benevolence of the butcher, the brewer, or the baker, that we expect our dinner, but from their regard to their own inter-

We survive best in a hard world of competition by efficient coordination of individual efforts. And coordination will be best accomplished, not by hooligans of government wielding the whip, but by mutual gains of market interchange. We bribe one another to do what each wants the other to do. I may be as self-centered as you, but I will make you better off if you make me better off.

The way to self-fulfillment and knowledgeable zest for life is rarely solitary. For nearly all of us, it requires much interaction, and thus interdependence, with others. But such melding and meshing is more opportunity than cost. The incentives of personal gain and the tactics of individual betterment can make us a community. There is no other way.

Help Foil Those Holiday Blues

Q. I won't be able to spend this holiday with my elderly mother. and I'm worried about her. Last time I saw mother she seemed a little depressed. How can I help her to have a happy holiday, even though I'm on the other side of the country?

A. This time of year we hear a lot about the "holiday blues." The holidays are traditionally spent with loved ones and family members. But as we all know, these days families are often all over the country and work schedules prevent us from being with our familics

This situation can be very difficult. Adult children worry that their parents will be lonely or depressed over the holiday if they are alone.

Recently Dr. Robert Hart, assistant professor of psychiatry at the Medical College of Virginia, spoke on depression in the elderly and ways to overcome the problem. "Depressed older people will announce that they are depressed, or feel sad, blue and hopeless. But more often, they describe their feelings as worry, fearfulness, irritability or anxiety," he said.

Depression in the elderly is often related to many significant life losses. These losses may include death of a spouse, friends and relatives; loss of physical skills and ability to participate in activities and hobbies; and loss of financial resources.

During the holidays, it can be even more difficult for the elderly to deal with these losses. Hart suggests that "offering support and non-judgmental reassurance, especially by listening well and conveying genuine empathy with the feelings disclosed, is very helpful."

Q. I'll be flying to California to spend the holidays with my children. This is my first major trip without my husband and I'm getting nervous about traveling alone. I know that you often travel alone. How do you make it more bearable?

Is This What They Call Justice?

stepped forward Wednesday, December 5, to help ease the punishment for Larry Alan "Sam" Cook, Evening Herald sports editor, who faced charges of DUI as well as leaving the scene of an accident with injuries. Sam Cook's DUI charge was dropped even though the blood samplc showed a 0.15 blood alcohol level. Why go to the expense or have guidelines to determine legal intoxication if the charges are just dropped after the proof is obtained?

Leaving the scene of an accident with injuries. Just another pat on the back for good ole Sam! What is this showing the youth of today? Why can one person receive a nothing sentence while others receive much stiffer sentences for lesser offenses? Are sentences based on the crime committed or who committed it? Pray For Right Things In Christmas Day

In a few days hundreds of millions of people will celebrate the birth of a baby born some 2,000 years ago. Billions of dollars will be spent by people the world over for gifts for relatives and friends to show their rememberene and love for this Baby.

Yes, this Baby Jesus was born. The Son Of God, and will be remembered, loved, and worshipped forever. The sad part of it all is the number of people on earth that believe and worship a living God are in the minority. I am a critic of things that I think are wrong for my country, but I can't remember ever critizing an individual that I thought was a true Christian. If I ever have I hope God will forgive me.

If every leader of every nation on earth was a true Christian, there would never be a nuclear war, the strong nations would help the weak. and no one on earth would go hungry. You can take Prayer out of our schools, but you can't take drugs out. Something is going wrong with our Christian nation when an Atheist has more power than the President of the U.S. Are we praying for the right things on Christmas Day?

Most of us Americans have become nothing more than a bunch of selfish snobs that spend a few hundred each Christmas on gifts for our middle class friends, that don't really need them. How many of us fill our trunks full of gifts and give them away to the real needy?

When you and I go to Church on Christmas Day, lets pray for the boy and girl that stay home because they think their clothes are not good enough to wear to church, and if they did some good Christian would probably make fun of them. If you get close enough to God on Christmas Day, you can take your Choir down to their neighborhood and sing to them. Grover Ashcraft

Plerson, FL

A. I travel alone and enjoy it. 1 frequently meet interesting people and I've gotten so I can take pretty good care of myself.

Unattached men and women don't have to find traveling alone a frightening experience. The trick is to approach it in the right frame of mind. Don't view your trip as a potential nightmare, with baggage disappearing and airline con-nections being missed. Try to think of it as an adventure.

Single travelers often experience anxlety about details connected with the trip. Will my flight be canceled? Will the airline "bump" me? Will the hotel where I'm staying have lost my reservation?

Most of these problems can be avoided or handled expediently if you:

- Check into the airport early, at least 45 minutes before your flight.

- Report any lost luggage before you leave the airport, and don't panic. Most luggage shows up within 24 hours, and many airlines provide overnight packages, with toothbrushes, toothpaste, shampoo, to tide you over.

- When you make hotel reservations, ask for written confirmation and carry it with you when you check in.

What Newspapers Across The Nation Are Saying

Goldwater Shoots From Hip On Military Budget

By United Press International Minneapolis Star and Tribune

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., often shoots from the hip, but sometimes his shots are right on target. Last week Goldwater peppered the Pentagon budget. It's too big, said the man who will soon chair the Senate Armed Services Committee. Spending for defense doesn't need to be increased, he said; it ought to be frozen right where it is. And for starters, the senator added, President Reagan should give up his fight for the MX missile.

We hope Goldwater keeps on shooting. One reason he should is that bringing down federal deficits requires austerity in military spending as well as in civilian programs. Putting the Pentagon off-bounds for cuts in the growth of spending intensifies resistance to Reagan's difficult nondefense budget proposals. Many of these proposals are excellent approaches to deficit reduction. But their chances of acceptance are slim unless voters and Congress can see that the military must make sacrifices too.

Manchester, N.H., Union Leader

Are the real Christians' among the Catholic Bishops who recently issued a paper condemning the United States for not caring enough for the nation's poor and needy?

Talk about involving religion and politics! Their statement was a poorly disguised attack on the Reagan administration.

Talk about saying who must care for our fellow man! The paper passes on that job to the government - and not to the various churches for which the bishops are presumed to speak. Let us not forget, however, that government funds should be properly called taxpayer funds and that the bishops pay no taxes.

While the national bishops were issuing papers. Catholics here in New Hampshire were doing something else. They were answering the call. They were donating more than $100,000 to aid the starving people in Ethiopia.

This money comes out of their pockets voluntarily, not to pay a tax bill on demand. ... Now, tell us, where are the real Christians.

Brattleboro (Vt.) Reformer

President Reagan's proposal to freeze all federal spending except Social Security and defense is a little bit like a dieter saying that he is going to lose weight by cutting back on all his meals except lunch and dinner, at which he is going to take extra courses. This approach doesn't leave a lot for breakfast and it doesn't bring about much weight loss.

Defense and Social Security make up about two-thirds of the nation's current federal budget of $968 billion, which also includes $110 billion of interest payments that cannot be frozen or cut.

As politically difficult as it is for congressmen to say one program or another is so marginal or so bloated that it deserves more trimming than others, this is what the lawmakers are elected for. They should begin this process by rejecting out of hand the president's notion that the military has an automatic claim on an increase of 7 percent. above and beyond the increase in inflation. What's needed in the drafting of the next budget is not a short-cut gimmick like a freeze that's really not a freeze but, rather, the intelligent setting of priorities.

The Boston Globe

The problem with the MX is that it was designed with the accuracy, power and speed suitable for first-strikes against the Soviet Union - or for the tit-for-tat nuclear artillery duels known as nuclear "war-fighting." But it was not designed to be a deterrent which prevents war because it has the capability of a second-strike counterpunch against an aggressor. ...

If, as (Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.) now recommends, the MX is buried, that will be an important victory for arms-control proponents. But the satisfaction should be muted.

For several years so much energy has been focused on the MX that certain other ill-designed weapons - such as the sea-launched cruise missile, which is also destablizing but for different reasons - have largely escaped scrutiny.

True, the American strategic debate is getting more intelligent. The ASAT and Star Wars programs are getting the critical attention they deserve. The formulation of fair, negotiating proposals is high on the administration's agenda. All this is vital progress.

Because American farmers now owe more money than Brazil and Mexico put together. solving the farm problem, which last year chewed up about $20 billion in fedral expenditures, is not going to be easy. ...

If there is no perfect answer to the agricultural problems of the nation, and that search has been going on for years, the immediate problem is to provide a soft-landing for the farm belt. If very high land prices are at the root of the present problems, because they provided the collateral for farmers to get so deeply in debt, dealing with this dilemma is most difficult. The best thing that could happen to all exports, including the farmers, is to see the dollar drop in value. If interest rates continue to drop, this could occur to some degree. But as the Congress meets to consider a farm policy for the next four years, there will be little good news, and few magic solutions. Because most nations have national policies to help their farmers, there is no such thing as a free market. If there were, solutions would come easier. As it is, farm subsidies will have to continue.

A New York federal appeals court ruling this week finally lays down the principle that potential jurors may not be excluded solely on the basis of race. This ruling represents the triumph of simple common sense.

In the opinion written by Judge Amalya L. Kearse, the principle has now been established that attorneys may not use a peremptory challenge for the sole purpose of excluding racial groups from jury service. (A peremptory challenge is a disqualification of a potential juror without offering any reason.)

This opinion ... recognizes that the state does not have an obligation to use a quota system in the selection of jurors or attempt to find a jury that proportionately represents the whole population. ..

This decision ... will help clear the air in future cases and make attorneys far more sensitive to the need to make sure that peremptory challenges are not seen as racially motivated.

Persons with brain damage may display a degree of nystagmus, but in such a case only one eye in the sober subject manifests the nystagmus symptoms. Riggins said. Medications used to control seizures, or barbiturates and other depressants may also cause nystagmus, but the test is about 97 percent accurate in singling out drunks, he said.

To prepare for his 1:20 p.m. demonstration, Gibson, who weighs 140 pounds and is 5 feet, 9 inches, had a light lunch of a sandwich at 10:30 a.m. Riggins said what a person cats before drinking will affect how quickly alcohol is absorbed into the system. A' person who has eaten a heavy meal, especially one loaded with starches, takes much longer to absorb the alcohol into his system, but evenutally the effect of the drug will be the same as it would be if he had not eaten. He will end up just as drunk, but it will take him longer to get that way.

Before he began his one-hour drinking session where he would down about five ounces of vodka mixed with orange juice. Gibson took a breath test showing a blood alcohol level (BAL) of .00. A person with a BAL of .10 is considered intoxicated. Riggins said.

Gibson, who might drink a six-pack of beer a week was described by Riggins as a light drinker. Riggins said Gibson's metabolic rate and his drinking history would help determine how impaired he would become as he became intoxicated. A heavy drinker who has, over the years, built up a tolerance to alcohol may continue to appear to function normally after his BAL has far exceeded the legal limit. Riggins said

This was 23-year-old Gibson's second session as a drinking guinea pig for the sheriff's department. He said his experience in drinking and taking the tests previously gave him insight into just how drunk a person is when he has a BAL of . 10 or more.

"I'm glad I did it. I've been drunk before and I've learned you don't pretend when you're taking a roadside test. I know I intoxication," Riggins said. "He's not falling couldn't, and I was aware I didn't follow directions at all, and yet I wasn't so drunk that I didn't know what was going on.

"Most people who are drunk don't comprehend directions. It might be a good idea for deputies to drink and take the tests. because it gave me insight. The last few tests I've given for DUI I've paid a lot more attention to what the suspects were doing and how they were following my instructions," Gibson said.

As Gibson worked his way through his assigned drinking, Riggins noted that he became more verbal, but his conversation was repetitive and his speech was slurred.

"He's getting frisky," Riggins said, as he explained that alcohol is a depressant which at first acts a stimulant, "It gives you a lift, but then makes you drowsy. At first It depresses your inhibitions."

Drinking coffee or taking a shower will not sober up an intoxicated person, Riggins said. "All you end up with is a wide awake drunk.

At 2:20 p.m. Gibson ended his drinking session. By 3:09 p.m., his first intoxilyzer breath test, taken after he finished three physical tests, showed his blood alcohol level was .11. And 20 minutes later it was still at that level. Riggins said it would be at least three hours before Gibson's BAL would be down to .05, the level where he could safely drive and it would take about five hours for his system to be rid of the five ounces of alcohol he consumed. Riggins was committed to see Gibson safely home following the test.

"I'm drunk. I wouldn't drive now," Gibson said. "It would scare me to death. I would not want to be anywhere else but home right now. If I was in a bar I would probably call someone to come pick me up. I think the way I feel now, blowing a .11, if somone blew a .20 they are really loaded.

"There's no way in hell I could drive ... no way. I don't like to admit it, but I'm drunk." "He's at the most dangerous level of down, slobbering drunk. He's the guy who's dangerous because only his judgment is affected. He's still got his physical coordination to a certain extent, but a little bit is missing where he will say, 'Ah ha, I can pass that guy. I can make it.' and he whips out and says. 'Oh no, I can't make it,' and bam! Or he drives 15 miles an hour and says. 'I'm going to make sure 1 get home safe.

When Gibson took the eye test, he scored six, the maximum score indicating intoxication. He could not control the actions of his eyes, but he did reasonably well on the walk and turn and the one-leg stand tests. He added three points out of a possible additional 14 to his score.

A score of four on the NGT indicates a BAL of .10 or more and a score of two each on either of the other two tests indicate the same level of intoxication. Riggins said.

Glbson conceded that he did better on those coordination tests than the typical subject because he is so familiar with the requirements.

"Someone off the street is really going to have to listen to comprehend the instructions. If you're drunk you can't listen to exactly what he (the (ester) says. You're going to be doing all kinds of stuff, so I do have an advantage," Gibson said.

But even with his advantage he had difficulty following instructions, couldn't maintain his balance when attempting to walk a straight line, and held up his arms for balance despite being ordered to keep them at his side during the tests.

Riggins also said that the test was easier for Gibson - even though he failed because, "He's not in Jail. He doesn't have the stress associated with arrest."

All in all, what Gibson's test results indicate is that most drivers who are drunk. really have no idea how impaired they really are. And, apparently, because of the new testing techniques available, it will get tougher and tougher for drunk drivers to fool the experts.

After drinking five ounces of alcohol in one hour Glbson can walk the line, but he can't follow instructions not to hold out his arms for balance.

No other jewciry firm in the world descrves such a beautiful tribute as this authorized publication because no other. jewelry firm in the world besides Cartler has served so many royal houses. aristocrats, and world famous tycoons.

Cartier, which was founded in Paris in 1847, seems to have had luck with every potential client except King Zog of Albania, whose appetite for jewels exceeded his financial credits.

The fantastic jewels created for or sold to kings, queens, maharajas, millionaires, courtesans, movie stars and the ordinary rich are strewn through the pages of this book like some mythic treasure. Eighty items are photographed in full color plus several hundred more in black and white. including original drawings made by Cartier's designers.

With stores in Paris, London and New York and annual exhibitions in prerevolutionary St. Petersburg, Cartier was able to tap the wealth of the world for patronage. It cashed in on changes of fashion that moved from the massive leweled effects of the Victorian age to the more tasteful Art Nouveau and Art Deco and finally to pared-down modern.

Cartier's production of Egyptianinfluenced designs preceded the discovery of King Tutankhamen's tomb in 1922. The firm was more than ready for the craze that developed for anything in the Egyptian style.

Of more enduring interest were Cartier's "mystery" clocks, sumptuous creations of precious and semi-precious stones whose hands seem to drift across the gemstone or crystal faces without mechanical aid, the mechanisms being cleverly concealed.

This book is an exciting footnote to 'European and American social history for those who find fascination in diamond stomachers and tiaras, bejeweled cigarette holders, gem-laden Easter eggs, and gold yo-yos whose enjoyment was best described by Thorstein Veblen as "conspicuous consumption." A bibliography and a chronology of Cartier's history and major commissions are included.

Sarah Phillips, by Andrea Lee. (Random House, 117 pp., $12.95). In her first book, "Russian Journal," Andrea Lee painted a vivid picture of Soviet society by stringing together individual portraits of the people she met while living there.

In her first novel, "Sarah Phillips," Lee uses the same understated technique to tell the tale of a young black girl growing up "overprotected or horribly spoiled" during the '60s.

But the book is not just the story of the daughter of a civil rights minister. It is the story of growing up and coming to terms with one's background and family. Each chapter focuses on one individual real-life Lee, who like her protagonist was born in Philadelphia and attended Harvard.

The book begins with Sarah in Paris, fleeing her hometown, cutting off communication with friends and family with the hope of discovering a new self. But the experience only reinforces those well-established roots.

Her best moments describe - in almost clinical detail - the problems of a defiant young black girl, sent to break the racial barrier in an all-white school.

Sarah recognizes that despite the fact that she "wanted to fit in, really fit in." her classmates would never invite her to their Friday night dancing classes.

Two chapters later, in a hilarious juxtaposition, she meets the Thunderbirds, a street gang that turns her summer camp upside down for two days in an almost failed experiment of understanding and friendship.

Throughout the book. Lee is the detached observer of a character one suspects is very close to her own heart. The result is a sensitive description of the pains, conflicts and joys growing up.

Just Mahalia, Baby, by Laurraine Goreau. (Pelican, 612 pp., $13.95).

Entertainer and singer of spiritual ballads: this is the Mahalia Jackson most know; few realize that gospel singing was merely one aspect of a career that spanned many generations of social and political change.

As a close friend, Goreau gained a rare insight into her subject's personality. Apart from a great wealth of factual information, she also conveys the understanding of true friendship, employing actual conversation to allow the reader to know Mahalia as she did.

The biography, which was published originally in hardcover in 1975, is meticulous in its attention to detail and is well-referenced. It is a valuable addition to the music world, as well as a volume of historical importance.

Goreau's work has captured the essence of Jackson's music on the developing South and its black culture. This is the greatest strength of "Just Mahalia, Baby," and we see it evolve through Goreau's approach to her subject as a woman prominent in all aspects of life. This prominence transcended social and cultural barriers, and provides a rare look at the world of jazz from inside out.

"Just Mahalia, Baby" can be recommended to both the jazz enthusiast and the general reader. It is easily appreciated whether in its entirely or by chapter. To learn something about Mahalia Jackson's life is to learn something about America. and Goreau communicates this thoroughly and effectively.

In his cover letter, Boorstin said, "Ours is a Culture of the Book. Our democracy is built on books and reading.

"This tradition is now threatened by the twin menaces of illiteracy and aliteracy," he said.

"What we do about books and reading in the next decades will crucially affect our citizens' opportunities for enlightment and self-improvement, their ability to share in the wisdom and delights of civilization, and their capacity for intelligent self-government.

"There could be no more appropriate effort to fulfill the hopes of our nation's founders. nor any more appropriate celebration of the bicenetennial of our Constitution than to aim to abolish illiteracy in the United States by 1989," Boorstin said.

The report stated, "New technologies are new allies in our efforts to inform and educate Americans.

exaggerate or misconceive the promise of new technologies which carries the assumption that the Culture of Books is a thing of the past."

The report suggested such technological aids to encourage reading as television screenplays or series turned into paperbacks; books on cassettes and microfilm and books on computers themselves.

Interest in reading, according to the report, has stayed relatively stable despite "exploding" technologies.

"Today, about half of all adult Americans read books and their number is not declining," the report said. "Of these, more than a third are heavy readers of books and the proportion is increasing. The staying power of the traditional book is astonishing."

The report said the advanced technologies of the recent past -photography, phonographs, movies, radio and television --have "added new and complementary dimensions to our experience."

"Today, we are failing to do all we should to qualify young Americans to read and so draw on the main storehouse of our civilization," the report_said.

Getting to Know the General, by Graham Greene (Simon and Schuster, 249 pp., $14.95).

Greene got to know Panama's Gen. Omar Torrijos Herrera in 1976. Their friendship bloomed, as did Greene's love for Panama, in the next five years until Torrijos' death. This book details Greene's first visit to Panama and his relationship with Torrijos.

Rome. Mirror of the Centuries, photos by Paolo Marton, text by Dominique Fernandez (The Vendome Press, $50).

This photographic essay of Rome shows the city in many aspects. Marton's photographs, although chronologically grouped, bring home the juxtaposition in Rome of old and new - the Colosseum, the Forum, and the cars. Scenes of the streets, the churches and the hills make this a good portrait of the stately city.

Every Four Years (Smithsonian Books, 228 pp., $21.95).

This nation's presidents are the subject of this book, which looks at the changing role of the office since George Washington. The presidents are grouped according to perceptions of them as patricians, as less than perfect and the latest image conscious presidents. This revised edition contains much fascinating information and an essay on the future of the presidency.

The Family First Aid & Medical Guide, by Dr. James Bevan (Simon & Schuster, 192 pp., illus., $7.95).

This is a handy quick reference guide that provides first-aid advice, medical information and a medical encyclopedia. It's all alphabetically arranged and includes charts indicating what to do when certain symptoms appear, and an indicator next to symptoms requiring a call to the doctor or hospitalization.
