

Weekend Football Selections

NEW YORK (AP)—Oh, hush, some of the political forecasters were wrong in the election, too, weren't they?

Last Thursday's list of games had 35 winners and 14 that were incorrect for an average of 71.5. That's about the season's average to 70% with 232 games picked correctly and 99 wrong.

Here are the winners this week:

UCLA over Oregon: The Uclans, now rated the country's best, are stomping all their Pacific Coast rivals. Two of the season's best backs, Prima Villanueva of UCLA, and George Shaw of Oregon, occupy the same field.

Ohio State over Pittsburgh: The situation here is ideal for an upset but one doesn't dare pick against the Buckeyes as long as Hopalong Cassidy still is around.

Oklahoma over Iowa State: The all-winning Sooners have been threatened enough lately to be alert.

Rice over Arkansas: The game in Arkansas but Rice is the pick in the belief that the Razorbacks have run out of mirrors.

Notre Dame over Pennsylvania: This is one Penn that isn't mightier than a sword, especially an Irish sword.

Army over Yale: The possibility that Bob Kysky, Army's fleetest back, will rejoin his Cadet teammates at Yale is a factor in the pick. The Middles gave their all against Notre Dame last weekend.

Minnesota over Oregon State: How did the gophers ever lose that game to Michigan by 34-0?

The others without comment:

FRIDAY NIGHT
Virginia Tech over George Washington, Kansas State over Drake, Marquette over Boston College.

SATURDAY
East: Boston University over Villanova, Brown over Springfield, Colgate over Bucknell, Cornell over Syracuse, Dartmouth over Columbia, Penn State over Holy Cross, Princeton over Harvard, Rutgers over Lafayette, Temple over Brandeis.

Midwest: Miami (Ohio) over Indiana, Nebraska over Kansas, Michigan State over Washington State, Missouri over Colorado, Michigan over Illinois.

South: Clemson over Furman, Georgia Tech over Tennessee, Florida over Georgia, Kentucky over Vanderbilt, Louisiana State over Chattanooga, Maryland over North Carolina, South Carolina over North Carolina, Wake Forest over Richmond, West Virginia over Fordham, William I Mary over Virginia Military, The Citadel over Newberry, Mississippi State over North Texas State, Miami (Fla.) over Auburn, Mississippi over Memphis State.

Southwest: Baylor over Texas, Southern Methodist over Texas A & M, Houston over Tulsa, Hardin Simmons over Texas Western.

Far West: Wyoming over Utah State, California over Washington, Cincinnati over Arizona State, Texas Tech over Arizona, Utah over Colorado A & M, Denver over Brigham Young, Montana over New Mexico.

JUST TAKEN BETS
NEW YORK (AP)—Two billion bets at race tracks soon may be taking tokens instead of money.

An inventor has come up with a new token-operated mechanical device which will enable folks to buy race tickets as fast and as easily as a pack of cigarettes at a vending machine.

The new system would eliminate many ticket sellers.

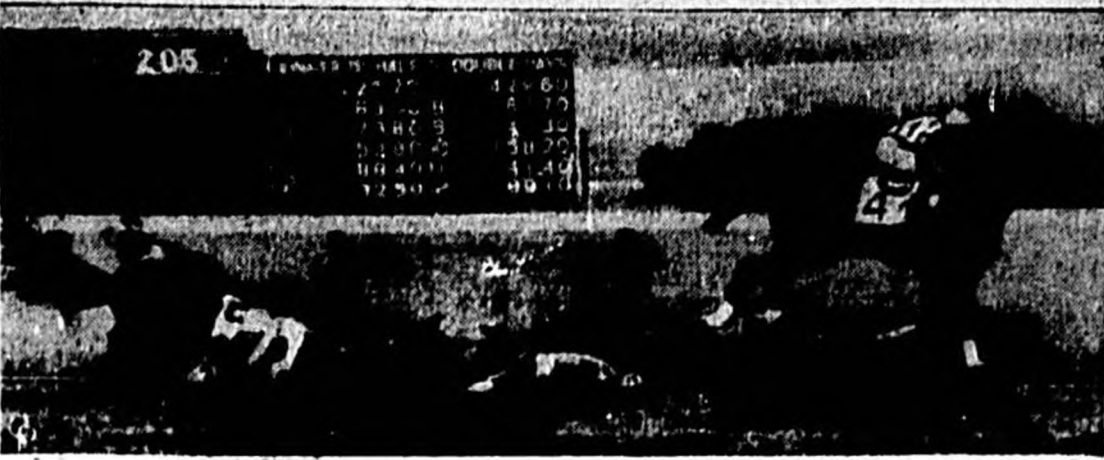

Each bettor could make his own wager by inserting a small plastic token into the device, pushing a numbered button and receiving a ticket.

The machine was invented by engineer Van Dyke Hill of New York City.

OMAN FLANSER BLEACH

TRY IT ON YOUR WHITE WOODWORK!

PRECEDENCE, a 10-year-old thoroughbred, falls near the finish line at Jamaica Racetrack, N.Y., tossing jockey Robert Stovall to the ground, as News (4) rushes past. The horse, winner of more than $100,000 during his career, snapped his right foreleg, crushed bone and had to be destroyed in front of 15,524 horrified racing fans. Stovall only had the wind knocked out of him by the fall. (International)

Homecoming Week For Florida Normal

A record breaking crowd is expected to flow into the Little Links Field in St. Augustine Saturday to see the Florida Normal and Industrial Memorial Lions meet the Albany State Rams for their homecoming game. This game is predicted to be one of the best played in the conference this season. Game time will be at 2 p. m.

The Lions will be seeking their fifth win of the season against no losses and one tie. Their victories have been over Edward Waters College, Savannah State College, Claflin College, Morris College, and the tie with Voorhees College.

The Albany team finished among the top teams last season. They played the wide open brand of football and are noted for their fast-paced type of offense that often leaves their opponents baffled.

Coach Blunt is working with his backfield in order to put into the offense a new series of plays that he hopes will penetrate the Rams' line. Line Coach Lorenzo Thomas worked his line harder than they have worked all season preparing them to the trickiest Albany offense.

With the return of first string Left Halfback Waymon Belmonte, the Lions are expected to have more added strength in their backfield. Clemon Daniels, who has shown tremendous improvement running from the fullback position, is expected to help very much also.

The Homecoming parade will precede the game. It will start from the college at noon.

7 Veterans Return To Stetson Squad

Seven veterans including four lettermen, and ten freshmen returned this week to head coach Morland at Stetson response to his first call for basketball practice.

Six of the first ten men were lost from last year's squad, voted by sports writers as being the top team in the state. Losses included Shanks Hansel, Jim Yonge, Jim Carlin, John Imgrun, Jack Smith and Bill Garrett.

Lettermen from last year returning include Tommie Lee, Dayton Beach, Bobby Crumpton and Dick Silvers of Jacksonville, and Dave Howard, of Cape Girardeau, Mo.

From the junior varsity of last year are Dick Hopkins, of Pierston; Iuz Reynolds, of Miami, and John Smith, of Daytona Beach.

The freshmen, their home towns and high schools are, Harold Buck, Daytona Beach; Bobby Crumpton and Dick Silvers of Jacksonville, and Dave Howard, of Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Injuries Sideline Spartan Starters

TAMPA (AP)—The University of Tampa football team apparently will be without two veteran starters Friday night for what coach Marcelino Garcia calls the Spartans' "toughest home game so far."

Huerta said fullback Fred Chicago will not dress for the game against East Carolina because of a broken rib, and guard Joe Zupinski will be sidelined with a broken jaw. There had been hope that Chicago would have recovered by now and that Zupinski could play with a face protector.

Two valuable reserves also are on the doubtful list, and Ron Oster with a cold and center Joe Orderko with a bad shoulder.

The Spartans wound up their rough work for the East Carolina game yesterday with a 20-minute scrimmage in which defense was stressed.

FURRY FINE GOT AWAY

PITTSBURGH, N.H. (AP)—Here's a "fish" story with a new angle. It's about a big one that got away.

A. P. Fortina was fishing Lake Umbagog with his guide, "Vivian" Judd. They spotted a "big one" swimming across the lake—a 185-pound bear.

Swiftly trying to load the animal, Fortina's boat suddenly capsized. Swimming with renewed fury, the animal made it to shore and ran into the woods, the hook still in his side.

Sports Roundup

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the wonders of the current college football season, which has laid many, is the sudden drop of the Michigan State Spartans from the top spot in the Big Ten conference, the toughest gridiron league of them all, into virtual oblivion.

The year ago at this time Coach Biggie Munn's dazzling array was in the national limelight week after week as it waded through a bruising schedule. In winning the Big Ten title the team from East Lansing suffered only one defeat, a 6-0 squeaker to Purdue, while racking up eight victories. Then, in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day it climaxed a glorious season by outscoring UCLA 25-20.

Seldom, surely, has a team of national standing in any sport fallen so flatly upon its face within so brief a period. As of this week, the 1954 Spartans have won just one game, a 6-0 decision over almost equally battered Wisconsin, while taking pastings from Iowa, Illinois, Notre Dame, Purdue and Minnesota.

All this has caused a certain amount of talk in football circles. How could a team which was picked to finish sixth among the nation's gridiron squads in the preseason Associated Press poll of the experts turn out to be so harmless?

It was known, of course, that Munn had stepped up to the athletic director's job, which he said recognized that his coaching successor, Duffy Daugherty, was a capable man who had been one of Munn's assistants long enough to be thoroughly familiar with the complex Michigan State offensive system. The experts obviously had faith both in Daugherty's ability and in the quality of his material.

In probing the mystery of the Spartans' spell, we have combed the ensuing diagnosis by Harry Stapler of the Detroit News, who is close to the team.

"Stapler," Stapler writes, "State lacked a good sophomore crop to replace 15 lettermen lost. This partially stems from the year State was on athletic probation (1952); recruiters reported many difficulties convincing boys to come to State. Competitors from other schools used the probation angle to sway leads away from enrolling at East Lansing, recruiters said it caught up with MSC this year."

"Additionally, State is minus a large quantity of big men, the kind needed for today's one-plateau football. The small, quick leads that won so many games for State in the two-plateau era are outdated."

"In coaching, State was caught with an inexperienced staff. Six of the seven assistants are newly of fully new coaches to college coaching."

"Measured in terms of the opposition, State has found it a long road from William and Mary to Mississippi. When Biggie Munn won a straight year for MSC over a three-year period, the opposition included only six Big Ten teams and quite a few of the William and Mary class. This season Daugherty already has faced five Big Ten teams in his first six games and has one more to go."

Olson TKOs Panter In Eighth Round

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—"I felt a little dizziness at 164 pounds," World middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson made an eight-round technical knockout over the best of San Laker city in the scheduled 10-round, nationally televised contest at the Richmond Auditorium last night.

Referee Joe Louis, the former heavyweight champion, halted the uneven battle at seconds after the eighth round started when Panter was cut deeply on the side of his right eye. Five stitches were needed to close it, and after a cut on the left eye, Panter was out of the ring. It took two stitches to close this cut.

SOUTH SWITCH HELP T.C.U.

FORT WORTH (AP)—Football coach Abe Martin of the T.C.U. Horned Frogs is mighty glad that a switch in coaches has helped his mind.

Dike, who played his high school football at Oak Park near Chicago, originally was enrolled at Wisconsin. But when his family moved to San Antonio, he became interested in T.C.U.

As a sophomore fullback this season Dike has made the starting team and is going great guns on the gridiron. In four games against Oklahoma, Southern Illinois, Arkansas and Kansas he rolled up 260 yards. He is near the top Southwest Conference list for total offense even though he doesn't pass.

If Dike continues his present ground-gaining pace of 65 yards a game he may hit the 700 mark for the season.

GOLF IS DANGEROUS

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—J.C. Hyatt, leading Asheville amateur, has decided that golf can be a dangerous game.

Standing on the first tee with a group trying to arrange a foursome, Hyatt was hit by a driver being swung by a friend. He was knocked unconscious and lost a tooth. Ten stitches were needed to close his wounds.

Woodruff Looks For SEC Crown In Traditional Gator Bowl Game

GAINESVILLE.—There is a highly unusual aspect to the traditional rivalry between Florida and Georgia which will be continued in Jacksonville's Gator Bowl this Saturday afternoon.

For the first time, both teams are right in the thick of the Southeastern Conference title chase.

In the 21-year history of Florida football, the Gators have never before won four conference championships during a season. They are conceding an excellent chance to win and can do so by downing their two remaining SEC foes, Georgia and Tennessee.

The Georgia Bulldogs, meanwhile, lead the conference with two wins and one tie on the record books, while Florida has four wins and one loss.

Coach Holt Woodruff's Gators, in gaining their best SEC record in history, have done so by combining a good passing and running game with an excellent pass defense.

Last week, in holding Mississippi State scoreless while they themselves picked up seven points, the Gators also found their best line defense of the year.

Foxhunt Scheduled Despite Drought

DUBLIN, Ga. (AP)—Despite a drought-imposed hunting ban, the world's largest foxhunting show gets underway here Sunday as scheduled.

In Atlanta yesterday, Gov. Herman Talmadge relaxed his week-long National Foxhunters Assn. ban on foxhunting in Georgia, but county officials expect about 2,000 visitors from most of the 48 states and a few foreign countries to attend the trials.

Talmadge said he was permitting the show because "out-of-state people are interested in the foxhunting and are spending thousands of dollars preparing for the world's biggest foxhunt show."

It would be unfair to halt it at this late date.

The governor noted cut smoking and fire-building during the trials and said that 30 forestry, wildlife and public safety officials would patrol the area. He also said the gallery would have to stay out of the woods and use secondary roads to follow the hounds.

Talmadge's ban, imposed because of a critical forest fire danger, includes almost all hunting, fishing, hiking and picnicking.

Golden Gate Voters Pass Bond Issue For New Stadium

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Civic leaders, jubilant over voter approval of a five million dollar bond issue to construct a 50,000-seat stadium, today mapped a campaign to lure a major league baseball team to San Francisco.

County supervisor Francis McCarty, head of the bond issue, said plans to obtain a major league franchise will be drafted at a meeting here tomorrow.

He said one of the first moves will be to send an official city representative to the National League's annual meeting in Houston, Tex., Nov. 19.

McCarty optimistically predicted San Francisco may get a franchise by next year, giving the city the green light to construct the stadium.

Under terms of the bond issue, the new ball park cannot be built until a big league franchise is assured.

Head Hurts Cause Most Grid Deaths

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Head injuries caused 7 of the 12 football deaths occurring so far this year, the chairman of the American Football Coaches Assn.'s Fatality Committee reports.

Spinal injuries, often caused by blows to the head, accounted for three and internal injuries for two. Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, dean of men at Los Angeles State College, said yesterday in his annual mid-season report.

The fatalities included two college players, one athletic club player, two boys playing sandlot or unsupervised football and seven prep school boys. They compare with 11 deaths in 1952.

Panthers Ready For Eustis Game With Hard Practice

By ROSETTA DAVIS
The Panthers are giving their claws an extra sharpening for their third conference tilt against the Eustis Tigers here Friday night. The Crooms griders are taking heavy afternoon practices getting ready to break the Eustis Tigers 4-0 record. This will really be the acid-test game for the Panthers.

Donnell "Gut" Burke is Crooms' leading scorer with 24 points. Burke ran two touchdowns in Friday night's game between Crooms and Dade City to be the leading scorer. Billy Gordon is next, with 12 points, while Red Collins, Gee Knight, Woodrow Detreville and Bill Frederick is tied with one touchdown each.

The band will take the field during halftime. Mr. James is training his music-makers to play "Goodnight Sweetheart" and "Tuxedo Junction." Next Friday night the Panthers will play the Leeburg Trojans at the Leeburg Memorial Stadium at 8:00 o'clock.

Malcolm Wallace, T.C.U. guard, is leading the nation in the Army ROTC and is corps commander for the combined Army and Air Force ROTC units on the campus.

RIGHT IN THE HOLLOW OF YOUR HAND

That's where the well-being of your family rests. You want to give them every comfort and convenience in your power. You want to keep them well-fed, well-clothed, and well-housed.

You want them to enjoy every advantage of modern science—through electricity, telephones, movies, radio, and television. Nothing, you say, is too good for those you love.

Of course, then, you'll want something more. You'll want your family to possess that exhilarating and priceless quality known as spiritual well-being—a conviction that God is the Supreme Being in the world.

With this faith your life will abound with hope and you will experience a sense of true security in these uncertain times. To God your destiny is of utmost importance.

Through prayer and regular worship you will find a haven of protection for all your family—right in the hollow of God's hand. Go to Church Sunday.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

tion of the proposed international agency, the United States is prepared in 1955 to:
1. Establish a reactor training school early in the year and invite 30 to 50 scientists and engineers from overseas to study practical reactor engineering so they may become competent operators of such installations.
2. Offer under the sponsorship of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission courses in industrial medicine, industrial hygiene and radiological physics and the theory and use of radiation instruments.
3. Open the Argonne Cancer Hospital at the University of Chicago, the Brookhaven National Laboratory and the cancer research hospital at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies for one to two-year courses on the use of atomic energy in medicine and biology, for approximately 5 to 10 foreign students per course.
4. Invite 150 "competent and distinguished visitors" in the field of cancer research from overseas to visit American cancer research facilities.
5. Offer special four-week courses in radio-isotope tracer techniques.
The proposed atomic agency, Lodge continued, would be created by negotiations among interested governments. He said it would consult and cooperate with U.N. bodies dealing with related work as well as with atomic energy organizations of U.N. members.
He explained that the United States originally envisioned the international agency would hold its sessions in the United States, but after the Soviet rejection of the United States proposal, the negotiating states concluded that it might be preferable that the agency act as a clearing house for requests made to the agency by the various beneficiaries.
"The donor state would earmark fissionable materials for the agency's operations and would transfer those fissionable materials directly to the projects approved by the agency," he said.
The peaceful atomic pool plan was first proposed by President Eisenhower in an address to the Assembly last Dec. 8. It was applied here in a speech by Secretary of State Dulles in September.
He said that 3rd and 4th and 5th Advances held for release expected about 10:10 A.M.

Museum Displays Take Painsaking Planning And Work

GAINESVILLE—It takes time, work, and a lot of know-how to set up an exhibit—especially in the Florida State Museum at the University of Florida.
And the mammoth task of preparing 50 displays of Florida birds is now underway under the direction of A. G. Wright, Curator of Exhibits. The exhibition, when completed, will be one of the largest of its kind in the United States and is designed to present the birds in their natural environment.
Picturing the birds in their natural habitat is no easy job, for it involves an endless amount of time and study. First of all the museum staff makes a series of field trips to the wildlife areas of the state. Here they take colored photographs of the birds, observe their habits, and make mental notes of their surroundings.
Next, the museum staff arranges with the Wildlife Commission to obtain the desired birds, and then mounts them in their own workshops.
Each display case is then carefully planned. The big problem facing the staff is that of working out a three-dimensional effect. To control this, the wall of the case is curved. Then the artist works out a mural plan, using the color photographs as a guide.
Then comes the tedious job of preparing the props. The staff has found that leaves and trees, used as they are found in nature, are not durable and will not stand up over a long period of time. J. W. Maxfield, who plans and designs the props, has perfected a technique for building artificial trees, leaves, and grass. To make a leaf, he first constructs a mould taken from a real leaf. Then he places in it a piece of tissue paper, wire, green coloring and hot molten wax. The result is a life-like object with texture, color, and shape identical to a real leaf.
Trees and branches are treated with a preservative before use in the display cases. The bark is then stripped off the tree, and mounted on a light frame so that it may be easily moved. Representation of streams and ponds is done with colored plastic or sheet glass.
Mud and soil are made of saw dust, plaster of paris and super mache. Rocks are moulded from the original out of the same materials.
To add a more realistic touch, the birds are surrounded by reptiles and insects found in their natural habitat. Turtles, snakes and fish are reproduced out of plastic and wax, as are the insects.
Just like a recipe, the staff puts them all together and the result is truly a scene from nature's wonderland!

The Useful Artic

In 1847 Sir John Franklin, a British explorer, attempted to find the long-sought for Northwest Passage from the Atlantic to the Pacific by following the channels through the many islands north of Canada. Eventually he was caught in the ice, and rescuing expeditions a few years later found proof of his death.

Now it appears that these bleak islands may be rich in oil. Prof. Andrew H. McNair, who teaches geology at Dartmouth College, with a party from the Canadian Geological Survey, have been investigating the region for a year. They find that Ellesmere Island and its neighbors have basins very like those which have produced oil in Oklahoma, Northwest Texas and various other American and Canadian regions which possess large quantities of oil.

One by one the desolate areas of the world are proving to have riches which will bring the inhabitants from far and near.

Sir John Franklin may have passed by the wealth of the Indies without knowing it.

He that believeth shall not be in haste.— Isaiah 28:16. God and not man rules the universe. We should talk less and listen more. We should ask for wisdom, and then wait for guidance. Often our prayers would injure us greatly if they were answered just as we make them.

Will Future Wife Please Boss?

NEW YORK (U.S.)—Some ambitious young men, anxious to get ahead in life, are afraid today to marry. Why? Because they are afraid the romantic bride of their dreams may become a frowny-haired nightmare who will later hamper the progress of their careers.

In picking executives many corporations weigh not only the kind of work a man does, but the kind of wife he goes home to. Will she be a credit to the firm, or a social liability? Does she have it in her to become what industrial leaders now look for in the mates of their potential executives—the "ideal corporate wife?"

"My girl suits me all right now," said a young bachelor. "But will she be able to grow up with me as I move ahead in the world? Will she, 25 years from now, be the kind of wife my corporation wants me to have?"

"The boss I have now thinks my girl is real cute. But what about when she's middle-aged? Will the boss I have then think she's a handicap to the firm?"

One can easily sympathize with this young man. The mere fact he is worried about the future shows he is serious-minded as well as ambitious. His problem is real. As any married man knows, it is hard enough to tell what a wife will be like 10 minutes from now, let alone 25 years.

What can this young go-getter do?

Well, frankly, let's face it: It is impossible to marry a girl of 20 or 25 years and be certain that at 45 or 50 she will have matured into "the ideal corporate wife."

Corporations change, too, and how can we tell whether in the fast-paced world of a quarter century from now the ideal corporate wife will look and act like Myrna Loy, Shirley Temple, Kate Smith or Marilyn Monroe?

Is there any solution? Yes. One could wait until he had be-morning, the results of many contests were still in doubt. What had happened to the usually foreseeable-with-reservations off-year elections?

The independent American had happened, with his unpredictable vote. One bit of pattern did emerge—a bright stripe which will give America courage in many fields. The American was going to vote as he pleased. He wasn't going to have any one in power—the President, the politicians, his industrial employer or even his wife tell him how to vote. His wife also cast her vote as she saw it herself.

The spirit of independence has not been lost in an industrial age. The pioneering spirit of do-it-yourself is still with us. Dictators? Communists? Industrial exploiters? Rigged elections? Piff! We are Americans. We have free elections. We'll tell the nation and the world what we want. If we don't quite get it this time, we'll try right over again. Nothing dismays us, nothing discourages us.

That's the spirit! While it lasts, America is safe.

No, we have spoken. It's over. Now we accept the verdict of the majority in nation, town and hamlet. We'll support the winners of this election and those holding over from the last one. We've had our say and we will now pull together. And that is as it should be in a democracy.

Explaining Shoplifters

Who are the shoplifters and why do they steal? Dr. Fabian L. Rouke, a professor of psychology at Manhattan College, New York City, has given the results of his study to a Medical Correctional Association convention in Philadelphia.

One definite finding is that there are too many. Seeing attractive goods temptingly laid out, with no one apparently on guard, is too much for a certain type of mind. The experience which most people have had of laying a package down in a public place and finding it gone the next minute, has the same cause.

In the stores all but ten per cent of the thieves arrested by detectives were amateurs. Dr. Rouke says, and only three per cent of these stole for material gain. Most of the criminals were young women between 18 and 25, who stole because of problems of personality adjustment.

The answer therefore seems to be psychological therapy. Of 35 shoplifters treated by Dr. Rouke, not one is known to have tried it again.

BEEES—A bee has a stinger three hundredths of an inch long. The other 24 inches are just your imagination.

AVOCADO—The avocado has been for centuries the great food crop of Central America. It is unusual in having its stored food chiefly in the form of fat, instead of sugar, as in nearly all other fruits.

COFFEE AGAIN—The old-time colanders bench has almost gone the way of the great oak and the nutcracker. Here and there, a sentimental soul has resurrected one for duty as a coffee table, but due mulling in America has been turned over to 1150 factories which now turn out nearly 600 million pairs annually. Averaging about three new pairs of shoes a year per person, we are the best shod nation in the world.

PAINT—Anti-Corrosion chemical has been developed for use on automobile battery terminals and in other situations where metal-to-metal contact breeds corrosion. The chemical is painted on the metal to be protected.

COWS—Roughage is the cheapest source of energy or carbohydrate for livestock. Feed abundant roughage to produce beef or milk economically. Dairy research at the North Carolina Station showed a mixture of 75 per cent cottonseed hulls and 25 per cent molasses was more economical than best pulp.

Steers in South Carolina tests made faster gains with 55 per cent less feed cost with cottonseed meal and hulls than with alfalfa and corn. Carcass quality was equal to that of steers fed alfalfa.

kind of guy. He pleasant but reserved in a gentlemanly way. Don't try to tell the boss his business. Your wife probably does that to him all day long.

If you follow these simple basic rules you are bound to have a rich, full existence. You will be known as "the ideal corporate husband." Your wife will be a wealthy corporation executive—and know in her heart she owes it all to you, the little man without whom she'd have been just another cog in a big machine.

S. One final tip—don't forget early in your marriage to teach your wife to bring her paycheck home in her mouth. It's really for her own good.

Resume Given On Contract Dispute

WASHINGTON (U.S.)—This is a quick rundown on why the Dixon-Yates contract is in such bitter dispute.

The TVA, the Tennessee Valley Authority, which was created early in President Roosevelt's New Deal, among other things pumps power to consumers in a huge Southern area.

Roosevelt called it a "yardstick" to show what electric power costs should be. Private utility companies protested it was unfair to compare their costs with those of a government-backed agency.

The argument over public vs. private power has never died. Should the government get deeper into the power field through a bigger TVA or should TVA be eliminated, or at least limited, in favor of private power companies?

President Eisenhower let his feelings about TVA be known in June 1953, when he publicly cited it as an example of "creeping socialism" although he said he wasn't out in direct opposition.

President Eisenhower let his feelings about TVA be known in June 1953, when he publicly cited it as an example of "creeping socialism" although he said he wasn't out in direct opposition.

The basic charges to the government, figured at $20,740,000 a year, would include all taxes, interest of 3 1/2 per cent on the bonds, and a specified yearly return of 9 per cent on the original Dixon-Yates investment of $15 million.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Budget Bureau, starting last December, carried the ball in finally working out the contract with Dixon-Yates. Gordon H. Clapp, former TVA chairman whom Eisenhower did not reappoint when his term expired last May, said neither Eisenhower nor AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss ever consulted him.

The administration contends the contract is a fair and practical way to get needed power in the TVA area without spending government money for another TVA steam plant. Eisenhower says the public is perfectly and splendidly protected.

The contract's critics have said plenty, none more than Clapp. He says Eisenhower was sold a bill of goods by the Budget Bureau. This contract, he says, would cost the government more than five million dollars a year more than the cost of energy TVA could supply from its proposed Fulton, Tenn., plant.

Clapp said the contract is intended to saddle TVA with higher costs and push its rates up so that TVA will no longer be a "yardstick" to keep private power rates down.

Miss Arlene Jacobson To Wed Charles Tetenbaum Of Orlando

Mr and Mrs. Manuel Jacobson are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Arlene Myra, to Charles H. Tetenbaum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Tetenbaum of 1920 Ivanhoe Road, Orlando.

Miss Jacobson is a native of Sanford and a graduate of Seminole High School with the Class of 1951. Presently she is attending Duke University in Durham, N. C. from which she will graduate with an A. B. in history in June. She is a member of Alpha Epsilon Phi, an official sorority of which she is president.

While in high school Miss Jacobson was an active member of the Theatrical Club, was president of the Latin Club, treasurer of the Central Florida Speech League, president of the Debate Squad and a member of the Salmagundi Staff. She made her debut at the Grand fellows Ball in Orlando in December, 1952.

Mr. Tetenbaum received his education in Orlando schools and the University of Florida where he graduated with a Bachelor of Science in business administration. He is a member of Tau Epsilon Phi social fraternity and Beta Alpha Psi, national honorary accounting society. A second lieutenant in the Air Force reserve, he is awaiting active duty orders. At present he is associated with the Florida Leather Company in Orlando.

The date of the wedding will be announced later.

Statistics Show Women Are Chief Accident Victims

Women may well take special safety measures against two kinds of home accidents — falls and burns, says Myrtle Wilson, Home Demonstration Agent.

Millions of women today are employed outside the home, but relatively few are killed in industrial accidents. However, a fourth of the fatal accidents to women — and women under 65 years of age — occur in or near the home. This high toll of home fatalities is especially surprising today when modern equipment and appliances have done so much to make homes safe.

Literally to save their lives, women apparently need to understand and become interested in ways to prevent falls, burns and fires. Good lighting for all stairs and stairs, nonslip mats and finish for floors, handrails for stairs and stairs and handholds for bathtubs are all important aids against falls. Any sort of clutter on steps or floors, such as children's toys, may be a trip hazard. Cellar stairs often are the site of falls because they are dark or kept in poor repair.

Most women spend enough time cooking to learn simple precautions against burns, such as turning the handles of saucepans toward the back of the stove so the pan won't be knocked off or hot food or water spilled. But many women know too little about home fire prevention, or how to meet a fire emergency if it comes. There are some who, despite so many tragedies that have resulted from the practice, still start fires when the stove or fireplace with bareness of gasoline. It is one of the most dangerous things a home-maker can do.

It's The Little Things That Count When Making Wardrobe Ends Meet

It's the little things that count in stretching a wardrobe, as in other things. Dainty accessories can make one outfit do the work of several, and home seamstresses are learning to turn out lace dickeys, jabots and collars in lay time.

The hand-made look of tiny pin tucks, ruffles and lace insertions can all be done on the sewing machine, by use of the various attachments. Local sewing center experts give some tips on how to make two dickeys and a jabot from standard patterns.

The tuckered dickey requires the use of the tucker, ruffler and buttonholer. To make the tucks, set tuck scale at 1 1/2, space gauge at 2, and stitch regulator at 12. You will need two pieces of organdy, 18 by 18 inches. Leaving a three-inch margin on each piece, tuck across both pieces of fabric.

You will use the ruffler for the pleated neck finish, working on a strip of fabric 1 1/2 inches wide and 72 inches long. Fold the fabric in half lengthwise and press. Adjust the ruffler for pleating by placing the adjusting lever in the slot marked 6, the dial gauge at pleating, and the stitch regulator at 12. Leave 12 inches of fabric at each end of the strip for the tie at the neck, and pleat the rest.

Now cut out dickey using the tuckered material, and construct according to pattern directions. The buttonholer will make the little buttonholes.

For the jabot, cut out first according to pattern. True boning and bias lace to right side of each section along outside edges and on seam allowance line, mitering the corners of the lace. Back the lace with a strip of tarlatan to insure perfect work. Use the zigzag attachment to stitch lace to fabric, setting the adjusting screw at 2 and the dial gauge at 12. After the lace is zigzagged in place, remove the tarlatan by cutting close to the stitched line, and trim the jabot fabric close to the same line. Now complete the jabot according to pattern directions.

Small tucks, lace insertions and tiny ruffles are a feminine combination. To make this outfit, you cut the pattern from fabric which has been tuckered and finished with lace insertions. Strips of tuckered fabric are joined by the tucker. Beginning with two pieces of organdy 18 inches long and 12 inches wide, begin tucks on first piece one inch from edge. With tuck scale set at 1 1/2, space gauge at 1 and stitch regulator at 12 use your tucker to make three pin tucks. Cut off 1/2 inch from last tuckered line made by tucker, and proceed on second group of three tucks. Continue until you have

TEL Class Meets At Benton Home

Routine business was conducted last night as the TEL Class of the First Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. C. E. Benton.

Mrs. E. M. Carroll presided and opening the session with the devotional was Mrs. Martha Marshall, who was also elected second assistant teacher. The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Sally Allen.

Mrs. Benton and her group served delicious refreshments to the following: Mrs. M. Cammies, Mrs. Geacie Bishop, Mrs. Sally Allen, Mrs. F. P. Rines, Mrs. A. K. Rosetter, Mrs. Ellen Laoney, Mrs. Lillian Vickery, Mrs. L. A. Smith, Mrs. M. E. Motts, Mrs. M. S. Nelson, Mrs. Charles McWilliams, Mrs. Martha Marshall, Mrs. E. M. Carroll, and Mrs. Minnie Stewart.

Bottom round is a good cut to choose when you are planning a "boiled beef" supper. Cover the meat with water in a kettle, add some whole peeling spices, a small onion, a rib of celery and a small carrot. Simmer for a couple of hours or until the beef is tender when pierced with a kitchen fork. Serve, sliced very thin, with horseradish sauce made from the beef stock.

Looking Over

All Florida

HE SHOULD KNOW The story in this issue on Florida's "Mothball Fleet" should have a ring of authenticity. It was written by an ex-Navy captain turned newspaperman. Author Norville Sharp is now serving as one of the helmsmen on the news desk of the Palm Beach Post Times.

MARINE LIFE John M. Richey, author of "Sail Sighted" (pages 8 and 9) is about to start a new fracas between the North and South, according to word from Detroit. He says that his neighbors have delicately suggested that he and Mrs. Richey move to Stuart if they are so fond of Southern saltfishing.

HUMOR AKA MAIL TRAIN We have had a number of very flattering comments concerning the abilities and humor of our new author Woodson T. Allen. We wholeheartedly agree that he has a great future in the humor field. Mr. Allen stopped in the All Florida office the other day to register a feeble complaint. His neighbors, he said, have raved about Bee Bolton's cartoons accompanying his articles in All Florida, but have said nothing about the stories. To fill that empty void, we are sending Woodson the flattering letters we have received from other sections of the state. Woodson, incidentally, is a railroad mail clerk working out of Jacksonville. He writes in his spare time.

LOVE'S LABOR Verse and song for many years have eulogized the world's most famous monument to a lost love—the Taj Mahal. In next week's All Florida Magazine will be a story of another monument to a lost love. Although virtually unknown, Florida, too, has a monument to a lost love. Built in remembrance of a young bride-to-be, Florida's "monument" also stands in memoriam to a man whose ingenuity in building rivaled that of the ancients who built Egypt's pyramids.

HOME TEAM "DROWNS" OPPONENTS

SEASONAL — but all wet — is this graceful football scene at Weeki Wachee Springs on Florida's West Coast. The girls, believe it or not, are gagging the goal kicking scene underwater. Patsy Boyett, star of Weeki Wachee's famed water ballet group, is the successful goal hooter, while Dottie Kulick vainly tries for the block. Rushanu Skinner held the ball for the kicker. There's really nothing to it underwater—just ask the girls, they do it practically every day.

NURSES DESERVE CREDIT

While I regret that I can't get over to that East Coast for that fabulous blue fish sport Ed Buckow writes about in All Florida Magazine, I did get a big wallop out of the cartoon at the bottom of the page, depicting the Blues arriving in Sunny Florida waters from "Blizzard Town" in the North. That was funny enough to give even the most confirmed grouch a good laugh. And while I am at it, might as well tell you I thoroughly enjoyed Leo Schumaker's attractive article about the Kissimmee-Okeechobee Boat-a-Cade. That must be an interesting adventure, and I am only sorry that my business is such that I can't get in on it, but that doesn't keep me from wishing I could. My wife, Alice, loved the article about nurses. The pictures were especially good. She was a nurse when I married her, so I know what it means to have a nurse in the home. Continued good luck to you for an excellent magazine.

MORE PRAISE FOR THE NURSES

I could not help but notice, and I am sure that other people interested in the nursing profession also noticed, that your article, "Florence Nightingale Is Calling Florida," was perfectly timed with National Nurse Week, Oct. 11-16. That is what I call enterprising journalism, and you are to be congratulated. Besides being timely, the article was appropriate and was a fine appeal to young women and men who enter a profession that is among the leaders in our country.

OUR COVER

Our cover subjects this week have not yet landed, but they certainly seem to have the situation well under control. The United States Marine Corps recently sent us a picture story on the evolution of the Marine Uniform. Space limitations prevented us from using the entire series, but we think the net result of the uniform evolution, as illustrated on this week's cover, is extremely charming.

The identification sent to us by the Marines described our girl on the left as Cpl. Shirley Roth (we think her stripes indicate she is a sergeant) and Sgt. Margaret Dill (right). Unless the stripes have recently changed, Miss Dill ought to be a T/Sgt. Maybe the meaning of the stripes has changed with the new type uniforms.

Florida Host to . . .

The Nation's Amateur Sportsmen

By BOB BALFE
All Florida Sports Editor

FLORIDA will be host to the national convention of the Amateur Athletic Union at Miami Beach on Nov. 26-28, and the significance is far reaching.

The fact that one of the most powerful of all organizations in sports has picked Florida for the second time in recent years as a convention site is more than approval of the convention facilities. It is recognition that the Sunshine State has grown up in the national sports picture.

Only 10 years ago Florida AAU Association was so inactive that it faced dissolution. Nash Higgins, of Tampa, the president, was in military service, and the activity had dwindled in war time until there were less than the required minimum of eight clubs to remain an individual association.

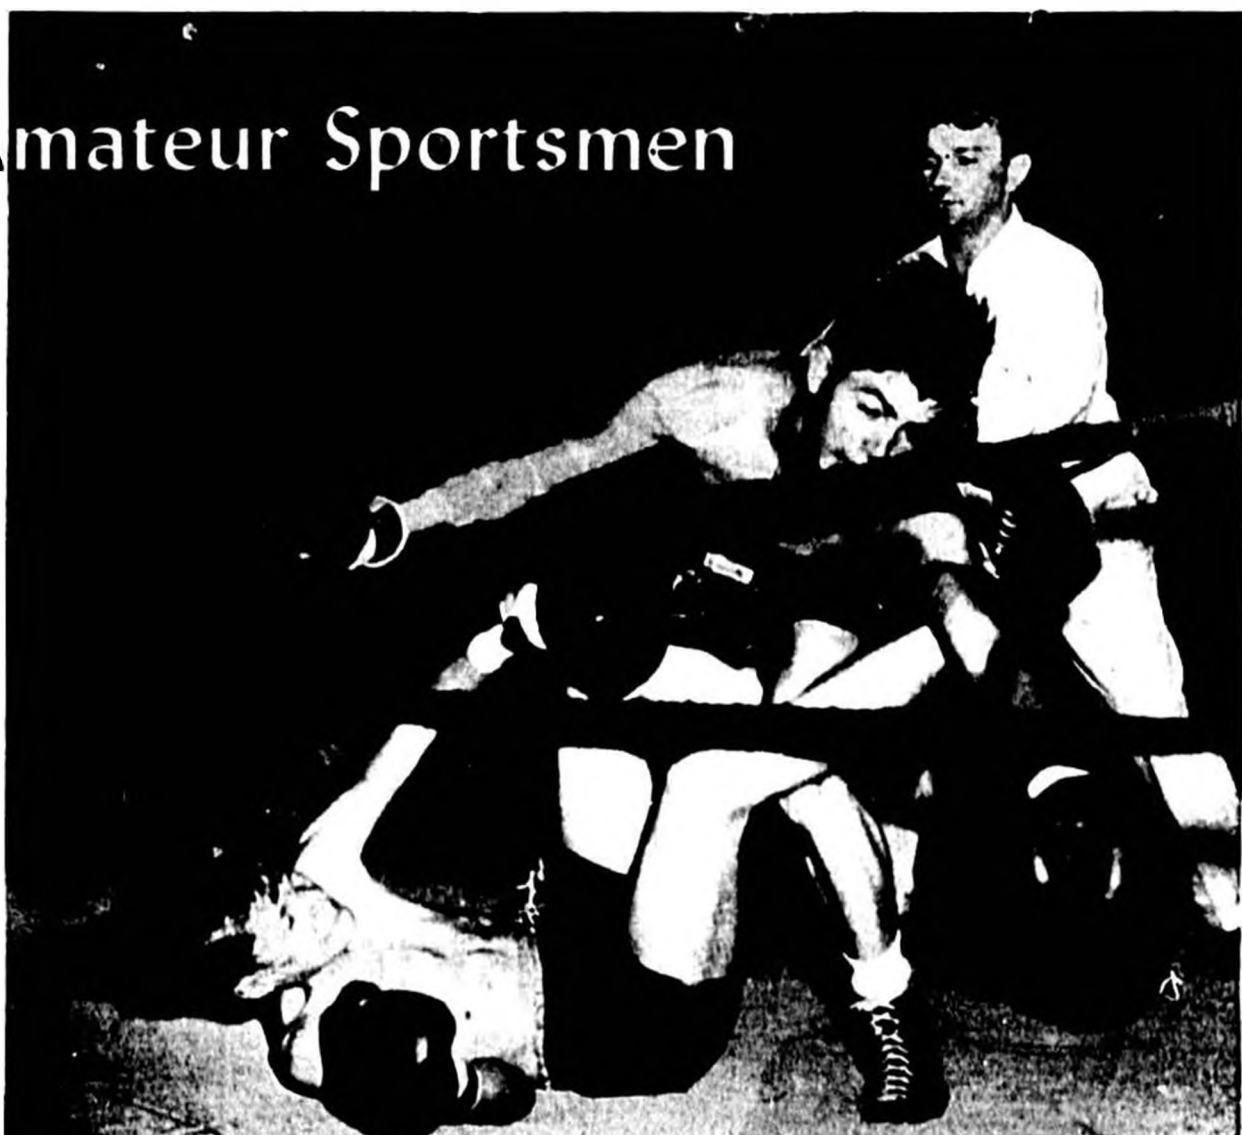

A few willing workers survived that crisis, and when the group held its 1954 annual meeting last month, retiring president Ben York of West Palm Beach reported 73 affiliated clubs. In addition to multiplying in size more than nine times, the AAU in Florida is now cutting quite a caper in national affairs, and has reached the start of international recognition.

Swimming, which somehow seems synonymous with Florida, continues as the No. 1 activity from the standpoint of public interest and volume participation.

Gymnastics, under the direction of the able Dr. Hartley Price and his fabulous teams at Florida State University, have brought the most widespread recognition.

But those are only two of about 20 activities regulated in varying degrees by the AAU in Florida. Track and field has produced such greats as Poppa Hall, the high jumper from Tallahassee. A former Miamian, Stan Stanczyk, became an Olympic star in weight-lifting.

To start producing national champions, the Florida AAU had to develop a stepped-up program of competition at home, with the bigger tournaments allocated to different areas. Last year's boxing championships were held in Jacksonville, the volleyball and weight-lifting meets in St. Petersburg, track and field at Gainesville, men's basketball in Orlando and women's basketball in Jacksonville. For the first time a State Championship Junior AAU track meet was held, Miami being the host. Swimming meets are held throughout the state and Daytona Beach has on a number of occasions staged the women's national indoor championships.

AMATEUR BOXERS like the boys above have been exploited in many parts of the country, but not in Florida where they are under the watchful eye of the AAU. Such performers as the Florida State University gymnast (below) have brought the Florida AAU recognition.

The latest addition to official activities is skin diving, or spearfishing. Another recent addition was synchronized swimming. There is a movement now to popularize water ball.

It's not all rosy for the AAU officials. The problems of membership, registrations, records, eligibility and finance keep the officers, district commissioners and committee chairmen busy. The new president, John Cause of Lake Worth, faces a factional dispute in swimming circles.

But these are just growing pains, for the Florida AAU is reaching maturity, promising to have more and more impact in national sports circles.

BEN YORK, Florida AAU president, presents national swimming trophy to Jack Linkham who coached Walter Reed Club swimmers from Washington, D. C. to the national women's team championship at the AAU sponsored meet in Daytona Beach.

A HOUSE DIVIDED

By JOHN R. HABERMAN

THE American Revolution came to St. Augustine for the first time in August 1775, in the form of an American privateer sloop from Charlyton, commanded by Captain Clement Lempiere. Lempiere seized the merchant vessel Betsy off the bar of St. Augustine and made off with her cargo of gunpowder, which had been destined for the British garrison of that port.

This daring exploit incensed the fiery tempered British Governor of East Florida, Patrick Tonyn. He promptly convened his Council, which was in effect the government of the province, and which Tonyn dominated.

"We'll track the rebels down!" the Governor said. "I want a reward placed on that captain's head."

So the Council obligingly issued a proclamation offering 200 pounds reward for the capture of the rebel captain, Clement Lempiere, or any of his crew. And Governor Tonyn commissioned two privateers of his own to go after Lempiere—the Governor Tonyn Sloop of War and the provincial sloop Britannia.

But the British privateersmen had their hands full trying to catch the bold Lempiere. Charleston, his headquarters, had become such a hotbed of defiant American patriots that they dared not go near it.

Meanwhile Governor Tonyn's chief concern was to safeguard East Florida from the infectious spirit of liberty which had spread, in his opinion, like a plague through the colonies to the north.

"This spirit of licentious liberty is downright poison," Tonyn said. "It must not be allowed to gain a foothold in Florida."

Patrick Tonyn was a martinet of the first order. He had spent his life as a military man, and though he now held a civil position as governor, he followed the same arrogant course to be pursued by Generals Gage, Howe, Burgoyne, Clinton, Cornwallis, and Company. They became geniuses at making themselves odious to the freedom-loving Americans.

However, the spirit of freedom early manifested itself in East Florida, in the desire of the settlers to have a properly elected legislative assembly in place of the Council dominated by Tonyn. The leaders of this movement were Chief Justice William Drayton and Dr. Andrew Turnbull, founder of New Smyrna.

Governor Tonyn and his yes men were bitterly opposed to a legislative assembly. Tonyn hated assemblies. For if there were a legislature to deal with, he would not be able to have his accustomed absolute sway in the government.

Tonyn therefore saw in Drayton's and Turnbull's demand for an assembly a chance to charge them with aiding and abetting the American cause. But he was not able to make the charge stick, nor for a long time at least. Both men were popular in East Florida, more popular in fact than the Governor.

In his position as chief justice, Drayton was able to constantly defy the Governor's high-handed methods. And Turnbull was secretary of the Council. Though he was soon suspended from that office by Tonyn, he continued to exercise much influence in opposition to the Governor.

Governor Tonyn astigated the party led by Drayton and Turnbull as an "inflamed faction." He strove to collect every possible shred of evidence against them in store for the day when he would be able to rid the province of them forever. And the two well-meaning leaders eventually did play into Tonyn's hand when they counselled capitulation in case of an American invasion of East Florida.

"Our garrison is weak," said Drayton. "We are in no condition to resist a strong American force. Capitulation will spare St. Augustine the horrors of war."

In the beginning there was indeed much wisdom in Drayton's advice. The British garrison at St. Augustine had, early in 1775, been reduced to a force of not more than 98 enlisted men, plus officers, when General Gage ordered two large detachments sent to Virginia.

An invasion from Georgia would at that time have been disastrous. But Governor Tonyn was in no mood to surrender to what he considered a miserable and licentious rebels. He held his time until December, 1775, when reinforcements arrived from Pensacola. Then in the following April three companies of the 60th Regiment arrived under the command of Colonel Augustus Prevost, who became the senior military officer in East Florida.

Prevost was another of those narrow and drumhead professional British officers who would brook no interference with his power of command. Consequently he and Tonyn ran head-on into collision.

The chief cause of argument was the East Florida Rangers, which Tonyn organized as a militia outfit to defend the colony. Tonyn put one Thomas Brown in command of the Rangers and gave him the rank of Colonel.

Now the military commander, Prevost, shortly promoted to brigadier general, was glad to see militia organized as auxiliaries to his regular troops. But when Governor Tonyn assumed complete command of the Rangers, he told him:

"You may be the Governor, but I command all military forces in this province. When the Rangers operate on their own you may command them."

Thus a bitter triangle developed in East Florida, the Governor against the military and likewise against those who wanted democratic representation in government. It was truly a house divided against itself.

FLORIDA'S MOTHBALL FLEET

COMMANDER OF the Florida Group mothball fleet is Capt. W. P. Brown, USN. It is his job to de-mothball 100 ships in a matter of days if the U.S. is called to action.

AN AERIAL view of the Florida Group Atlantic Reserve Fleet at Green Cove Springs where more than 100 ships in mothballs are being preserved against the day of need. This is the largest of eight Reserve Fleet groups on the Atlantic Coast.

By NORVELLE W. SHARPE

Navy mothball yards and Florida's moths have something in common.

Each mothball is a tight fit in a cage of humidity and insects.

And that is the fate Florida probably will meet if a national emergency should erupt. The mothball yards have been closed and are now open only to receive a trickle of maintenance and repair.

A special maintenance look-up in the large Navy yards at Green Cove Springs, on the St. Johns River, and at the same time in the Army's shipyard at Camp Obies-Brookwood in Palm Beach.

The Green Cove Springs yard, which handles and maintains all the Florida Group of 36 Atlantic Reserve Fleet ships, is the largest of the eight Reserve Fleet groups based along the Atlantic Coast.

You'd probably call this a preservation yard. The Green Cove harbor park is a concrete wall and a concrete dam at the river's mouth. The supply base, Gulf Stream.

Well, each area of comparison has its specific problems of preservation of material but both are in broad common denominator. The Navy must maintain Green Cove Springs ships in a state of ready readiness.

The maintenance program must be made to work. The river is full of insects, and the weather is complete with moisture and heat up seasonal conditions.

Navy preservation is a trade-off. The maintenance of the ships is a trade-off between the value of the ships and the cost of maintenance.

Time was when many of the ships were beautiful fighting ships, were carefully wrapped and tied up without even reasonable storage protection or solid or allowed to rot away in river grass.

During World War II, this yard was flooded into the realization that we must keep on for the life of every naval vessel and create that could possibly be saved, preserved, modernized and kept ready.

At Green Cove Springs, one of the "zipper" fleet is at its best. All inner and outer ship hulls, inside equipment, and machinery are preserved to permit accurate control of internal humidity below the 40 per cent limit at which steel will rust.

Each ship hull was first cleaned thoroughly, then painted with standard red lead and haze grey surface paint. Decks too were cleaned and covered with petrol-rum base paint of Kormal. Gun mounts and topside equipment were covered with strong draped fabric covered plastic, and the topside equipment was placed inside each room for absolute protection. Windows were protected by weather belts.

All ship openings were sealed with hot pitch or epoxy resin on the inside. All air intake and exhaust openings were sealed with epoxy resin and a rubber gasket.

Ship hulls and topside equipment were cleaned and painted. All ship openings were sealed with hot pitch or epoxy resin on the inside. All air intake and exhaust openings were sealed with epoxy resin and a rubber gasket.

These D.H. machines operate approximately 50 per cent of the time. Each has two desiccant drying "beds" which alternate in absorbing moisture. When one "bed" becomes saturated the second cycles it, and the wet "bed" is removed and dried at under 500 degree F heat.

Regular inspection is held at each of the 100 ships by means of a "zipper" fleet. Capt. W. P. Brown, USN, is the commanding officer.

The Naval preservation program is carefully scheduled and monitored. The yard is ready to turn at a moment's notice. And his huge preservation program costs the taxpayer only approximately one per cent per year of the original multi-million dollar original price of each ship.

compared with replacement at today's soaring shipbuilding costs.

The "zipper" fleet is Uncle Sam's cheapest and most efficient insurance.

Moving from the time Edna Beach Manor, the $8,000,000 mansion is no prudent investment either. It contains an ultimate in elegance, tapestry, period furniture, richly upholstered draperies, stained glass windows, fine rare paintings. It is a masterpiece. Dan and Beatrix's investment in the mansion was a good deal of money, but even the largest part of palm fronds were soon back to Ocean Boulevard.

Managing this place with scientific diligence costs a staggering sum.

A minimum of three months is necessary to get the big house.

SAIL SIGHTED!

WITH HER entire 96 pounds covered with goosepimples, Mrs. Grace Raymond hooks into a 26-pound barracuda off Stuart. The buoy at right marks where an oil tanker was sunk by German submarines in World War II

A Florida Charter Skipper Finds 'em Where They Ain't

GLEE IS registered by the author of "Sail Sighted" as he talks over his sailfish catch with Cap Toley at the wheel.

PAGE 8—AN Florida Magazine

NO CAMERA can catch the eye-filling beauty of a sailfish, but here you can get a close view of the spotted, purple hued dorsal fin of this eight foot pride of the Gulf Stream.

SAIL Sighted!

That call has thrilled literally hundreds of thousands of deep sea fishermen—amateur and expert alike—and the big beautiful gamester that inspires it has brought millions of extra dollars to Florida and enhanced the state's reputation as a deep sea fishing "heaven."

But to a fresh water fisherman from "yankeeland," it is hardly believable that the Gulf Stream could offer any sport comparable to hooking and boating a big "Musky," Pike or Bass on light tackle.

Until a few weeks ago, I was a front rank member of that legion of "yankee" fishermen who, through lack of knowledge sneer at the enthusiasm of deep-sea anglers over the sailfishing off Florida's coast.

Just to add an extra curl to my upper lip and prove for once and all that the "musky" is a better fighter any day of the week than a sailfish I decided to launch a scientific expedition to Florida.

Our preliminary investigation for the expedition revealed that the Gulf Stream off Stuart, Fla., is recognized as one of the finest sailfishing grounds in the world.

With Mr. and Mrs. Leo Raymond, our Detroit neighbors, my wife and I took off for Stuart to prove that sailfishing is an over-rated sport. The Stuart Chamber of Commerce took up our challenge without hesitation, made arrangements for a charter boat owned and captained by Captain Toley Engbretson.

We were armed with reams of scientific facts. Ichthyologists, biologists and various other scientific persons had informed me that virtually nothing is known about the breeding and migratory habits of the sailfish, otherwise known as Istiophorus Volador. The only additional information we needed to prove our point was to catch a sailfish and prove that a 20-pound fresh water "musky" suffering from the virus could pull a sailfish backwards all over the ocean.

Our sneers were unturtled even further when Cap Toley informed us that we had chosen the worst month in the year for sailfishing. Just a premature alibi, we thought.

Our skipper, whom we discovered is the second oldest charter boat captain, in point of service, on Florida's East Coast, told us we would troll for awhile over a sunken wreck a few miles offshore "just to get the lines wet with a few barracuda." He added that they weren't biting well, either, at this season.

All four of us were seated in our swivel chairs, poles set in the slots and the two stern lines drooping down from clothes pins up on the outriggers. Cap Toley explained the reason for the outriggers was to give the sailfish time to strike his prey and then circle and swallow it as the extra line paid out. It looked to us like a lot of fancy rigging just to catch a sailfish.

A half hour trolling around the wreck convinced us that ocean fishing was strictly a figment of some writer's imagination. Not a strike.

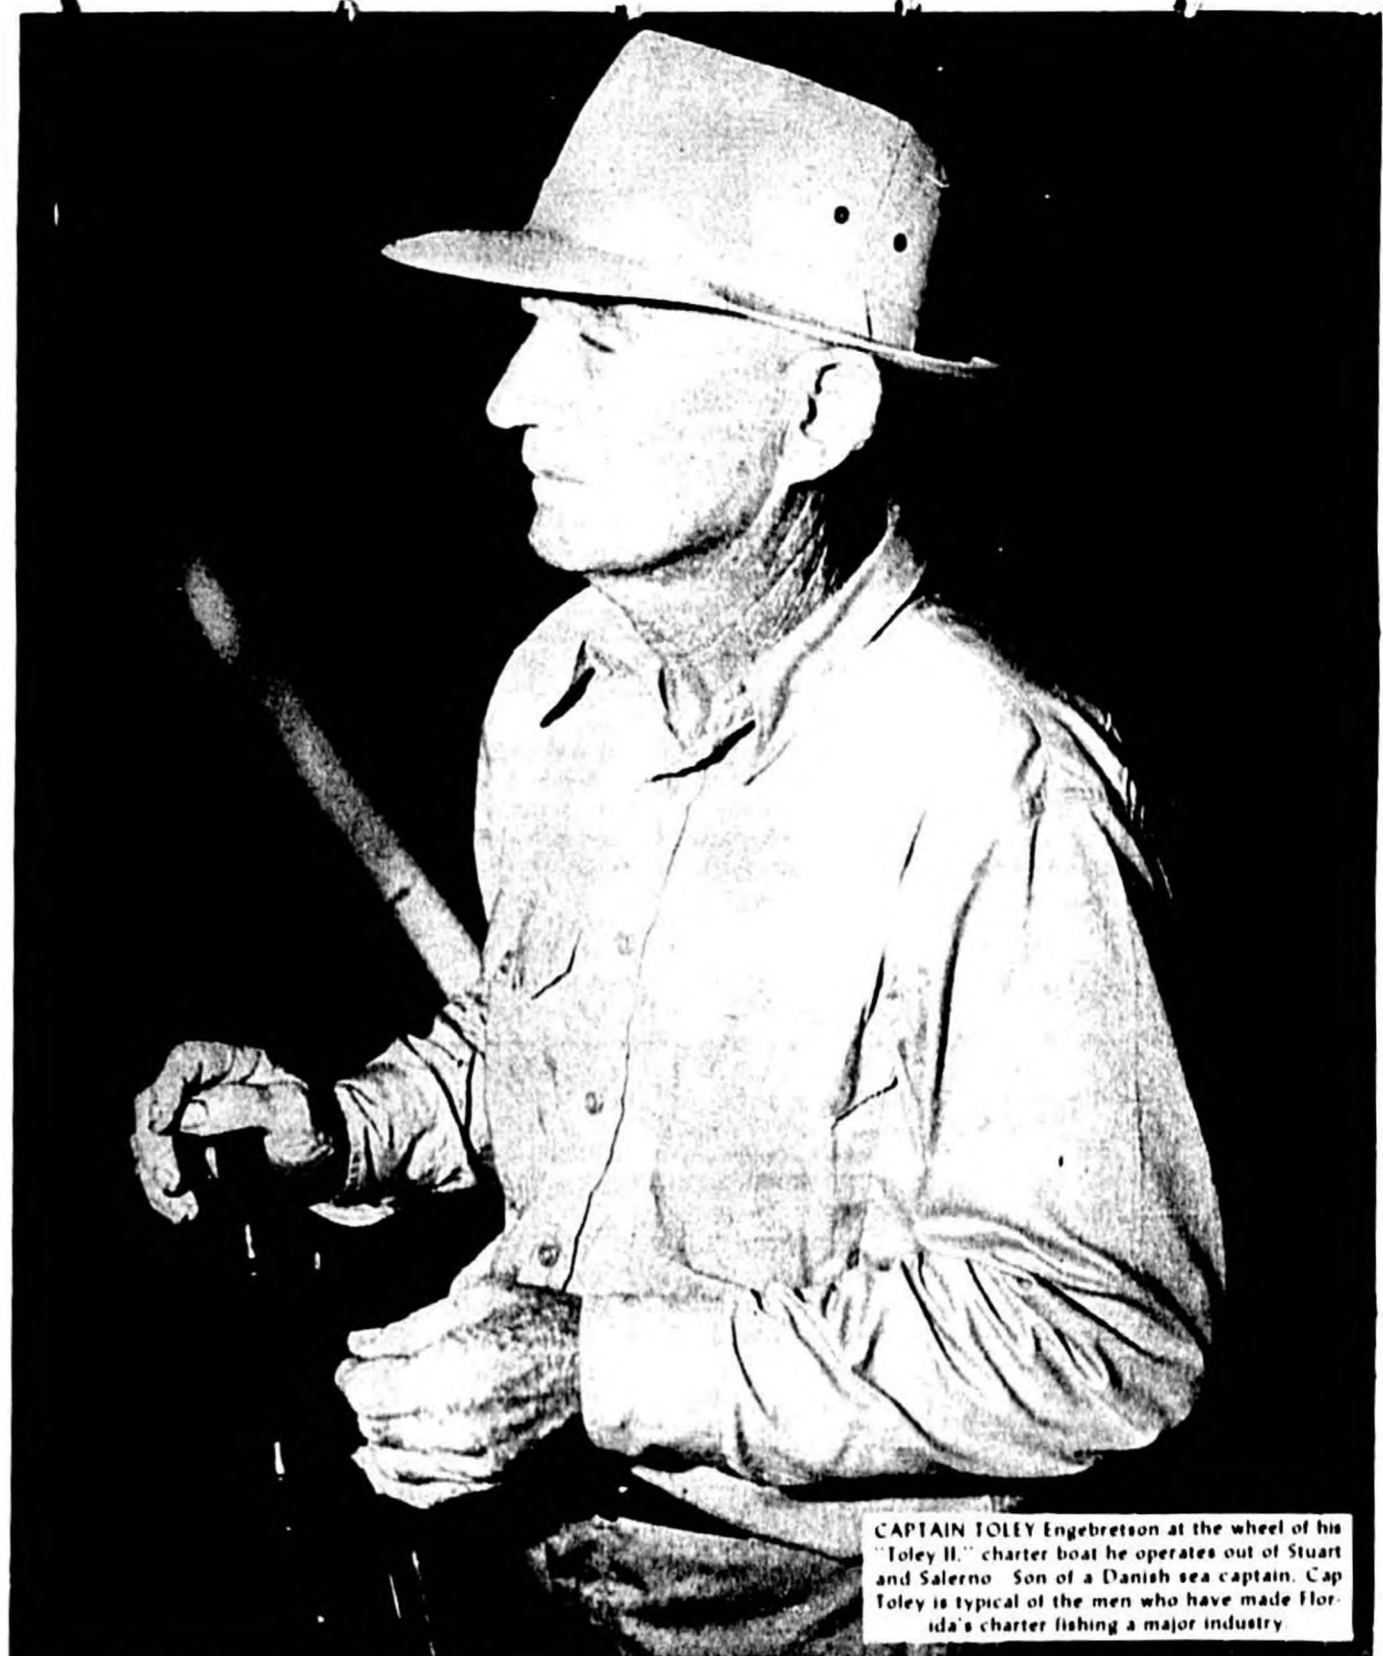

Then, Grace Raymond involuntarily left her seat, let out a scream and started yelling for help.

A "figment" had attached itself to her line in no uncertain manner. Cap Toley yawned and said "it looks like a small barracuda." Ten minutes later Grace was begging someone to detach her from whatever monster had hold of her line, but our skipper said that no one in Florida ever asks, or gets help bringing in small stuff like this, or the big ones either. Big ones! The weary angler gave every indication of having her line snagged on a 10-ton animated rock that didn't want to come up.

Several quarts of perspiration later, she brought a 15-pound barracuda alongside where Cap Toley neatly gaffed it and threw it into the fish box before we could even look at it.

Our skeptical grins had, by this time, faded somewhat, but we still favored the "musky"—that is, all except Mrs. Raymond. She had suddenly become a deep sea fisherman.

The grins gained ground again, though, when we failed to get another strike for nearly a half hour. This ocean fishing certainly wasn't what it was cracked up to be.

CAPTAIN TOLEY Engbretson at the wheel of his "Toley II," charter boat he operates out of Stuart and Salerno. Son of a Danish sea captain, Cap Toley is typical of the men who have made Florida's charter fishing a major industry.

One more tour over the wreck and the scientific expedition was ruined.

On this last pass all four lines started to screech. We hooked four fish at once. Turmoil ensued all over the boat. While Cap Toley turned the boat in corkscrew twists to keep our lines untangled, three of us managed to bring in our fish.

Again, Grace was hollering for help. Practically exhausted from her first bout with the "little one," this time she must have had its grandfather hooked. Thirty-five minutes later, with her last ounce of blood showing and her tongue hanging over the side, she hauled a 26-pound barracuda under Cap Toley's gaff. The smallest of the four boated was over 16 pounds. Muskelunge? We ought to use them for bait out here.

With our muscles still quivering, Cap Toley said we would now move out into the "Stream" and go for something worthwhile. Our reaction by this time was there couldn't BE anything more worthwhile in the way of sports fishing than just catching barracuda. Oh, ignorant yankee fresh water fishermen! Already turning traitor to our "musky" friends in the northern lakes, we started for the Gulf Stream, thoroughly convinced that we already were big game fishermen.

A solid hour of futile trolling in the most beautiful stream in the world convinced us that those barracuda back by the wreck were the real game fish of the ocean.

In the midst of begging the captain to return to the wreck, my wife's world, as she knew it, came to an end. Her tool gave a jerk, the reel set up a howl that could be heard a block away and most of her line started for the bottom.

Even Cap Toley got a little excited and smiled.

Far out to the stern something that looked to us like the stern end of the Queen Mary broke water. Cap Toley said it was a Dolphin—a big one. I had always thought a Dolphin was something connected with royalty in England, or some where. I found out that Dolphin is a fish with all the tenacity of a bulldog and the fighting instincts and strength of a mad rhinoceros. In half an hour, Mrs. Richey had boated her bull Dolphin, all 31 pounds of him.

THE ASHLEY GANG

By P. O. GORDER
PART II

JOHN ASHLEY, Florida's most notorious outlaw up to the time of his sensational death in 1924, had apparently set out to establish some kind of all-time record in crime, and during the first ten years of that bloody career, he appeared to be well on his way.

Following his escape from prison at Raiford where he was serving 17 years for leading his bandit gang in a bold robbery of the bank at Stuart, Ashley, together with a Tom Maddox, another bank robber, rejoined other members of his gang. These included two brothers, Ed and Frank Ashley, and a "Kid" Lowe, who had come to Florida to escape the "heat" of the law in Chicago.

Rum running was then one of the major activities of the Ashley gang, and proved to be the undoing of John for a short time. One day in June, 1921, the law caught up with him at Wauchula as he was delivering a load of contraband liquor, and he was promptly returned to Raiford.

The rest of the gang carried on the "business," but late in 1921 disaster struck the Ashley family. At that time Ed and Frank Ashley's rum-running business had grown to substantial proportions, and on the night of Oct. 19, 1921, they slipped out of Stuart, bound for Bimini, where they took a big cargo of liquor. Greed and fate played a major role in this venture. Friends warned the Ashleys they were overloading their boat, and that it would be dangerous to attempt the sea voyage to Florida.

But the Ashley boys scoffed at this, and on the night of Oct. 21, 1921, they set out to sea. The brothers were never seen or heard of again. It was believed that their heavily loaded boat had capsized in rough seas and both Ashleys were drowned.

With Ed and Frank Ashley gone, and Bob, another brother, killed in Miami some years before, and John the ringleader, in prison, the bandit leadership fell to one Clarence Middleton, also known as J. C. Middleton, who, like "Kid" Lowe, had fled Chicago. But his command appeared to have been divided at times with another gang member, Roy Matthews, who had lived at Wauchula. Besides rum-running, the gang also engaged in hijacking cars and boats loaded with liquor, and it was widely reported during those hectic days that other rum-runners feared the Ashley gang more than they did the United States revenue cutters plying the coastal waters, because the Ashleys had no scruples about resorting to piracy whenever it served their purpose.

Linked directly to piracy on the high seas, under the command of John Ashley, was Hanford Mobley, a youthful nephew of the arch bandit. Mobley was wanted by both the British and United States governments. Mobley was charged with having led a band of Ashley desperados on raids of liquor establishments at Bimini, robbing them at gun point and escaping with more than $6,000. Fleeing West End in a stolen boat, the gangsters intercepted a British motor schooner, the William H. Albury, between Nassau and Gun Key, and when its commander, a Captain Edgecombe, refused a demand to "heave to," he was shot and killed in true pirate fashion. However, nothing more came of the incident.

Meanwhile John Ashley mysteriously disappeared from Raiford prison and returned to Gomez to resume command of his gang. But perhaps there was another reason, too, for his break. Maybe John had heard the call of his mate for during his years in crime, John Ashley had also developed a little romance. His sweetheart was a Laura Upthegrove, who publicly styled herself as "the Queen of the Everglades," and John Ashley was her "King of the Everglades." It is doubtful that there ever was another "royal" couple like them.

Laura was estranged from her husband, E. A. Tillman, who lived at Indiantown with their two children, while she lived with her mother, a Mrs. Tracy, near Salerno. Laura's half brother, Joe Tracy, was a member of the Ashley gang, but only in a minor way as he never was directly identified with any of the mob's major operations.

In her own opinion and in the eyes of her "King," Laura may have been a "Queen," but certainly no candidate for a beauty contest. Massive in build, with shaggy black hair, rough complexion, beady black eyes and gnarled hands, Laura was what might be described as "a character." But she was certainly one to be reckoned with, for always strapped to her right hip was a large caliber pistol, and she knew how to use it. Her influence with the gang was amazing. She served as "lookout" for her "King" and his gang, and often warned them of impending danger from the law.

Ashley had not been out of prison long before he went into action. On May 12, 1922, Florida's East Coast was electrified to learn that the Ashley gang had held up and robbed the Bank of Stuart again, the second time in about seven years, and escaped with $8,000. The sensational robbery was staged at noon when Mobley, disguised as a woman, entered the bank, followed by Middleton and Matthews. It was all over in a matter of minutes. But freedom was short.

HEYWOOD REGISTER, Okeechobee member of the Ashley gang, accused of participating in the Pompano bank robbery. He was killed by law officers.

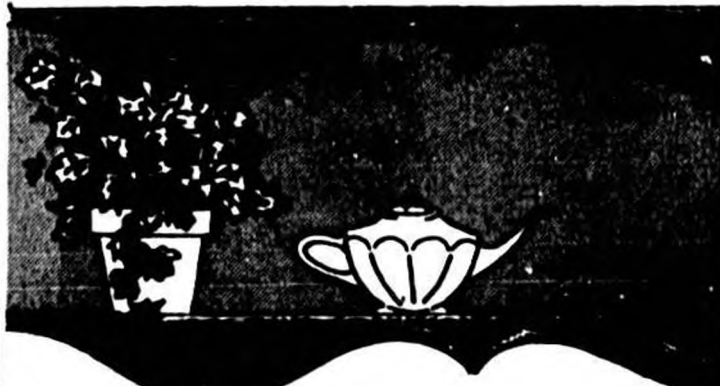

JOHN MIDDLETON, who "took over" as leader of the gang when John Ashley was in prison. Middleton was killed in an ambush by sheriff's deputies. He was 19 years old.

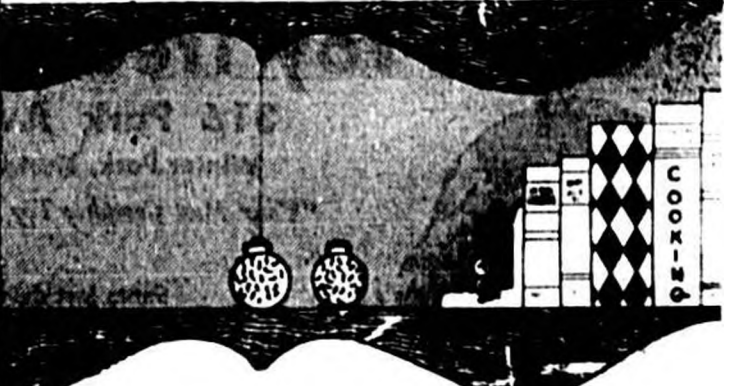

TOM MADDOX, who joined the Ashley gang after he and John Ashley escaped prison camp. Maddox disappeared, after the rest of the gang was wiped out, never to be heard of again.

ROY LYNN, escaped convict, who was slain in the Ashley gang's final gun battle with the law. Lynn also participated in the gunfight in which Ashley's father was killed.

THE season is here for turning deliciously plump ocean fresh oysters into tempting dishes that will make the most fastidious person smile with pleasure with each mouthful. Our favorite way of preparing this shellfish is into a buttery golden suppertime scallop.

The secret of perfect scalloped oysters is to be extravagant with oysters—at least six to a serving—to be fussy about crackers that are used, (the plain hard unsalted ones make the best scallop), and to be lavish with butter richness.

There are several kinds of unsalted crackers from which to choose to make a good scallop. Crush them coarsely between waxed paper, or in a bag or old-fashioned wooden mortar.

Measure the flavorful oyster liquid as you drain it and add only enough milk to make one cupful—the more oyster liquor you have, the richer the flavor of the finished dish.

Layer crumbs, oysters, and seasoned butter, or margarine, in baking dish ahead of time, if you wish, chill until ready for the oven. To keep crumbs from soaking, pour mixture of milk and oyster liquor over just before baking, which will take 30 minutes in a moderate oven to obtain that golden brown richness.

When serving this suppertime favorite you will sniff a deepsea aroma as you break the crisp golden topping. Spoon up big helpings, and serve with crunchy cole slaw and your own favorite relish or chili sauce.

Another appetizing way to serve the oyster is in a cocktail. Preferred by many as their entrée on any menu, this is best when served icy cold in small cocktail glasses and kept that way surrounded by cracked ice.

Others prefer Dutch Oysters which is simply rolling the oysters in yolk of egg, and dipping them in bread crumbs, salting and peppering them and frying in butter. Be sure to serve with melted butter on the side.

CITRUS RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Key Lime Pie

Here's that recipe for Key Lime Pie requested by many of our readers:

1 egg
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon gelatin
1 cup Key lime juice
1/2 pint of lime green lime
1/2 teaspoon salt

Beat egg yolks. Add 1/2 cup sugar, lime juice, and salt. Cook in double boiler until mixture coats a spoon. Soak gelatin in 1/2 cup cold water. Add softened gelatin to hot custard mixture and then add grated lime rind. Mix thoroughly. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in egg whites which have been beaten stiff and into which the remaining 1/2 cup of sugar has been folded. Pour into crumbly or flaked pie crust. Garnish top with additional crumbs. Wrap pie tight and all in foil and freeze quickly. This is a dish that makes for wonderful eating. Try it soon and you will serve it often.

PUDDIN' PROOF

A perfect pie begins with a perfect crust—light, flaky, golden brown, almost shattery to the touch yet firm enough to hold its filling for neat cutting. Every good cook has her own tried and true method but all will agree that their success as a pie maker begins with standard measuring tools and measurements. Sift flour before measuring, level off dry ingredients with a spatula, check liquid amount by looking at cup at eye level.

You'll speed the job of cutting in shortening with little effort by using two knives, a pastry blender, or the special metal fork. The Never-Fail Pastry method we suggest you try, if you are the timid pastry cook, uses the handy rubber-scraper tool.

Some cooks think a pastry cloth and covered rolling pin is the only way to roll out their crust. This washable cloth is marked with bright red circles for eight- and nine-inch pies. Covered pin works well on a wood board too.

Try to relax when mixing your pie crust. It's trying too hard with a heavy hand that spoils many a good pie. If you are longing to try pie-making, start with the following method for the perfect crust.

Never-Fail Pastry

- (Double amounts for a two-crust pie.)
- 3/4 cup vegetable shortening
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 cup sifted flour
 - 2 tablespoons cold water

Measure shortening into a medium size bowl, add salt and half the flour, cream with a rubber scraper until mixture is smooth.

Stir in water and remaining flour, continue to cream until dough clings together and leaves sides of bowl.

Press into a smooth flat ball, roll out to 1/2 inch thickness on lightly floured pastry cloth or board.

Fit rolled-out dough lightly into pie plate, then pat it down all around with a small ball of dough to press out any air bubbles that may form in baking and push shell out of shape. Trim pastry that overhangs the pie plate about 1/2 inch from rim. Turn back this overhang even with edge of pie plate. Flute stand-up pastry collar all the way around shell. Prick shell all over with a fork to let air escape. It is now ready to fill and bake or bake to a golden shell in very hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 12 minutes.

Favorite Scalloped Oysters

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> 24 fresh or 2 pkgs. (12 oz. each) thawed quick frozen oysters Milk 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce 1/4 teaspoon salt 1/8 teaspoon pepper 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine 1 1/2 cups coarse cracker crumbs (about 18 common 1/2 pint or 30 soda type crackers) 1 tablespoon butter or margarine (topping)
--	--

Butter one quart baking dish. Drain liquor from oysters, measure liquor, add milk if needed, to make one cup. Save. Pick over oysters to remove any bits of shell. Stir Worcestershire Sauce, salt, and pepper into melted butter or margarine in small saucepan. Arrange alternate layers of cracker crumbs, oysters, and seasoned melted butter or margarine in prepared baking dish, ending with crumbs, dot with butter or margarine (for topping). You may fix the scalloped dish up to this point and store in the refrigerator. Take out about 30 minutes before baking time, as the dish should warm to room temperature.

Pour over oyster-liquor and milk mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes, or until golden brown.

Oyster Cocktail (Individual)

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> 6 oysters 1/2 tablespoon Mazola 1/2 tablespoon lemon juice 1 teaspoon chili sauce 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> 1/2 teaspoon horseradish 1/4 teaspoon celery salt 2 or 3 drops Worcestershire sauce
--	---

Beat together the ingredients for the cocktail sauce, pour this over the oysters and serve in small cocktail glasses set in cracked ice. Garnish with cress or parsley and cut lemon.

Cut out and save the recipes above for your All Florida Cookbook. When you've saved a book size batch there'll be an attractive cover available.

SANTA CLAUS, REINDEER & SLEIGH

By DONALD R. BRANN

BE prepared for crowds of happy people, because this colorful paint-it-yourself Christmas decoration will make your home look like Santa's own parking lot. Dancer, Prancer and the other reindeer bring smiles to everyone.

The sleigh, Santa and reindeer are all easy to make and just as easy to decorate. It's all done by tracing the full-size patterns on stock panel board. By following the simplified step-by-step directions and full-size cutting and painting abilities.

Three complete, full-size patterns are available. There's one for the reindeer, another for the full-bodied sleigh, a third for Santa. Each contains a list of materials needed and specifies when and where each is used. Any number of reindeer can be made from one pattern. The legs, bolted to the body, can be raised or lowered to indicate motion.

By tracing the actual pattern on the material the pattern recommends, then cutting out the parts with a 50-cent coping or jig saw, anyone should be able to produce a first-rate job on the first try. To insure quality reproductions, all decorating outlines are traced onto the cut parts. Each color is then painted in, in the exact position and sequence directions suggest.

Not a detail has been left out, from the curly cues on the side of the sleigh to the smile on Santa's face. If you don't mind crowds, throw a spotlight on it at night and folks will come out of the "woods" to see your handiwork.

Get started today. Send coin or money order for the following patterns: The 40-inch Santa Claus is made from Pattern No. 431, 35 cents; Santa's Sleigh is a 50-cent pattern, No. 434, the Rollicking Reindeer is Pattern No. 433 and is 35 cents. A life-size nativity scene, complete with a 12-foot creche can be constructed by following Pattern No. 410, $3.00.

Address all requests to Pattern Dept., All Florida Magazine, P. O. Box 215, Pleasantville, N. Y. (Allow two weeks for delivery.)

Mobley and Middleton were captured the following day in Plant City, and much of the money recovered. Matthews was nabbed a few days later in Griffin, Ga.

"Bob" Baker had now become sheriff of Palm Beach County, succeeding his father in 1920. Baker and two deputies brought the three bank bandits to the Palm Beach County jail, where they were held until Oct. 25, 1922, when they were removed to Fort Lauderdale while the Palm Beach County jail was being renovated. But even the Fort Lauderdale jail could not hold Matthews and Mobley. On Dec. 14, 1922, they escaped by tying blankets and sheets together to make a rope, by which they slid to the ground and fled into the 'Glades. Oddly, Middleton did not try to escape.

Matthews was never heard of again, and the theory was advanced that he was killed in a gang fight in the 'Glades hideout. Mobley was believed to have gone to the Pacific Coast. Middleton was returned to West Palm Beach for trial, was convicted, and on March 10, 1923, he was sentenced to 10 years in prison for his part in the Stuart robbery.

Nearly a year later violence broke out in full bloom. Sheriff Baker had planned to raid a moonshine whiskey still near Gomez, which he felt certain was being operated by the Ashley gang. That was in February, 1924.

A squad of deputies, led by Deputy Sheriff Fred Baker, brother of the sheriff, invaded the outlaws' domain. Tragedy struck when John Ashley's dog detected the officers. In the blazing gun battle Officer Baker and Joe Ashley, John's father, were killed. "Queen" Laura suffered buckshot wounds, and some years later reportedly committed suicide after an argument with her mother.

John Ashley escaped in the gun battle, and a statewide search was started for him and three suspected accomplices, a Roy Lynn, who had fled a Marianna prison camp with Middleton, and Mobley, who apparently had returned from the West. But the trail grew cold.

Suddenly things became hot. On Sept. 12, 1924, four unmasked bandits, led by John Ashley, swooped down on the bank at Pompano, 35 miles south of the Palm Beaches, and escaped with $9,000 in cash and government bonds. Others in the holdup were believed to be Heywood Register, Okeechobee youth, Lynn, Middleton and Mobley. The Pompano "job" was the last major crime of the Ashley gang. Nearly two months later Sheriff Baker learned that high water in the 'Glades made life miserable for the outlaws, and that they planned to "hole up" in Jacksonville.

Then came the fateful Nov. 1, 1924, the day the gang had set to move to Jacksonville. Sheriff Baker and Sheriff J. R. Merritt of Fort Pierce teamed up in a fantastic strategy move in one last desperate attempt to capture the gang. Knowing the Ashleys would have to cross the Sebastian River bridge enroute to Jacksonville, officers placed a heavy chain across the span and from it suspended a red light. Under cover of darkness the officers concealed themselves on both sides of the bridge approach. They did not have long to wait. The strategy had been perfectly timed. Soon a car came along and halted at the red light. It was the Ashley car.

The stillness of the night exploded with a roar of guns, but it was soon over. Discovering they had been trapped, the gang put up a furious fight, and in the raging gun battle the long criminal career of John Ashley came to an end. Killed with him were Lynn, Middleton and Mobley. There was only one member left of the old gang, Heywood Register, who was in prison for murder, but who escaped in 1928. Like his gang chief, John Ashley, Register died in a fierce gun battle at Boynton Beach on Jan. 29, 1929, with Sheriff Baker and deputies. Joe Tracy, also serving life for an Orlando murder, was paroled in 1947, and at last available reports was living a quiet and law-abiding life in North Florida. It was not quite clear what happened to Maddox, "Kid" Lowe, "Arizona Kid," Ike Mitchell and Clyde Caldwell, earlier members of the infamous outfit.

And so ends the story of Florida's master criminal, whose fateful number was 13, for it was in his 13th year as a killer, bandit, robber, outlaw and pirate leader, that his luck exploded in a hail of bullets, and he died in a pool of his own blood.

Unfaced with the threat of rusting hulls, the superintendent and five or six helpers have ventilated the manor regularly (weather permitting) three times a week during the summer by opening combinations of windows for free flow of fresh air through camphor-naphthalene scented rooms.

Season's end found each piece of furniture cleaned, dusted with naphthalene flakes, wrapped in newspaper, then a layer of new camphor paper, another wrapping of newspaper, finally slip covered and sprinkled with camphor flakes. About $400 worth of camphor and flakes is required each year but when the house reopens in October these aromatics disappear quickly.

In August the superintendent is joined by the estate general manager from New York who arrives in company with an interior decorator to oversee the housekeeping advent. Their greatest problem, curiously, consists of paper wrappings.

Draperies and hangings are brought out of careful stowage.

Carpets and rugs are unrolled. Beautiful floors are waxed to high gloss before coverings are laid and flattened with weights.

China, previously cleaned and wrapped, is unwrapped by the butler and his staff.

The exterior of the house, having been waterproofed every third year, practically precludes seepage from hurricane rains, but the superintendent and his men tour every room of the place to make certain there's no damage.

Telephone service will have been fully restored. The private branch exchange (PBX) checked and placed in operation connecting all guest and master bedrooms, living rooms, hall and service facilities in the main house, cottages, garage and ground locations.

The owner arrives on schedule, usually accompanied by a number of guests. The enormous mechanical kitchen is provisioned and spotless.

Two laundry plants, one for the owner and guests and the other for the household staff, are geared and going.

The house, like the "mothball fleet" is back in business — at enormous cost but worth every penny as insurance.

FLORIDA FACTS

FIGS grow most any place in this Sunshine State. An immense tree grows in Walton County, and some of the biggest trees were grown in Caxnut Grove—now part of Miami. They were planted over 40 years ago by the late John C. Gifford.

Figs are known as the "Poor Man's Food" in the eastern countries. They are said to have been first grown on the Mediterranean islands. The Romans claimed they were the gift of the God Bacchus and considered sacred. However, they were, without doubt, first cultivated in Arabia and Egypt. Some one will want to add his bit to the story and say that they were mentioned in the Bible both as food and medicine.

At one time figs were looked upon as a possible big fruit crop for Florida. Back in 1915-18, Okaloosa County, the newest and smallest county, shipped 2,625 crates, considered a big event, and it seemed that these small sweets were making big headway. The growing of figs still is a substantial industry, a large percentage being canned. Duval leads in production with Pasco, Hillsboro, Calhoun and Alachua counties doing a nice business.

Were it not for the fact that figs are bothered by the nematodes, the tiny wire worm that infests our soils, they would make a strong competition to citrus growing.

There are 1,200 varieties to choose from, but none yet has stood up well under the nematode.

SAIL SIGHTED!

Your children, I remember, were alarmed before Cap Toley and admitted that you fresh water fish ever we would describe to you classed with this sea roped.

To some extent, Cap Toley's pessimistic view of the prospects of the season for fishing was borne out. We apparently had caught like the Mohicans, the last of the Dolphins.

One more tour of the "stream" and we would go in, Cap Toley said. It was that last "tour" that finally brought us to our knees for keeps about Florida's salt water water fishing.

Yours truly had yet to get his first fish. I lost my bait, and being exhausted from my wife's valiant efforts to boat her fish, I nodded in my chair.

Then I hooked a sail. That statement requires modification. The sail hooked me. I know, had I been awake when he struck I would have immediately jerked on my pole just like at home—and I would have lost him. But I was asleep and Mr. Sail had time to hit the bait, knock the line off the outrigger and circle around to eat his prey at leisure while it was floating motionlessly just under the surface. By the time the slack line was taken up and I was aroused the sail had swallowed hook, line and sinker.

The balance of this story is written with one hand, the other my left is in a sling, worn out, bone weary and partially paralyzed.

My sail was an eight footer, that is, eight feet of the most powerful sinews ever endowed man, beast or fish. This sail, I know, could have given any wrestler in the world the first hand and I remember the hands down.

I am returning to Mr. Toley's original idea to start a fishing campaign to provide a means for muskellunge. There is many things need something to do.

After the sail had been repaired, I went out and I baited the sail. Cap Toley picked up the little white pennant that marks the successful capture of a sail. Cap Toley explained that for no other deep sea game, this is this pennant raised. The sail takes special notice—and the sail also is never referred to by those "in the know" as a fish. He is a sail and nothing else.

The balance of the afternoon fishing was anticlimactic. Two more sail strikes served only to prove that it takes an expert to combine with the help of a skipper who knows his business, to stay these way sea tovers. This next statement on my part is to the benefit of my companions, Mr. Raymond and my wife, both of whom had sail strikes and muffed them. I guess I can teach them, in time, how to capture a sail—even though they are true water fishermen.

How to Give Quick Relief to Scratching Dogs

The best dog in the world isn't too happy when he must continually scratch his tub and bite himself seeking relief from an intense itching sensation that has centers in the nerve endings of his tortured skin. So many dogs develop allergies that induce the intense itch. Keep them in this terrible torment. A dog can't help himself.

But you can. When your clean, flea-free dog becomes a chronic scratcher, suspect an allergy and do as thousands of dog owners are doing: use him as directed. WASHINGTON - Businessmen of Fulton, Ky., and East Fulton Tenn., are meeting in a restaurant every Monday night for these days for breakfast and prayers. Eleven men attended the first session on May 21. Two months later, regular attendance numbered about 60, says Washington Report, the weekly newspaper published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which dug into the story. The two Fulton have a combined population of about 6,000. The devotionals, including breakfast, last for 30 minutes, opening with prayers led by a minister, recitation of the minutes, and a prayer. The minister speaks briefly, and the evening concludes with another prayer in which all participate. The people, said Washington Report, in its account of the devotionals, "that may seem like a flimsy bulwark against the troubles of the week, but it is the deep undercurrent of faith that makes the devotionals meaningful."

Fulton business men say these meetings give the greater confidence in itself and more faith in God. "You feel refreshed, energized and spiritually fit to tackle your problems," the services are developing a spirit of cooperation among us," Louise L. Hughes, managing director of the Fulton Chamber of Commerce, said the businessmen recognize that by improving themselves as individuals, they will strengthen their community. Inspired by the Fulton devotionals, similar services have been started in La Center, Ky., and Cairo, Ill., and other cities have inquired of Fulton for procedural data. The Fulton Daily Leader observed editorially that "what a vast change would be wrought if every community in the world were to follow Fulton's example with a weekly devotional period for its businessmen."

Corpse's Head Bruised; Neck Is Dislocated

Police are investigating the death of a Negro who was found yesterday floating in Lake Monroe just off Scott Ave.

The body was that of Cecil Hayward, about 52, who lived in an apartment at the rear of 615 Cypress Ave.

It was seen floating in Lake Monroe toward the shore yesterday by Barry Backe, son of Dr. and Mrs. O. T. Backe, who has a residence on the lakefront. The young boy told his mother of the find, who in turn called the police.

The examining physician also said he found no gun shot wound or other signs of foul play. He indicated it was possible the man may have injured himself by bumping his head and that the small cuts may have been caused by a fall.

The neck was broken, he said, between the sixth and seventh vertebrae.

Slits were made from posterior of the body, and the doctor estimated the body had been in the water at least three days and possibly longer. There was also an abrasion on the man's neck.

John A. Stone, Negro, 615 Cypress Ave., who was Hayward's landlord, said the dead man had been missing since last Tuesday and that he had reported his absence to police on Friday. The matter was reported to the sheriff's office.

"I can't imagine why he was there," he remarked yesterday, saying Hayward wasn't in the habit of going fishing and that he had no fishing equipment.

Stone said that Hayward drank occasionally. Police have established that Hayward was intoxicated last Tuesday night and that he fell at the Cypress Ave. address.

The landlord estimated that Hayward was a quiet man, about 5'10" tall and about 150 lbs. He had a mustache and light-colored hair. He had been in town about five years, Stone told, and had no family except an aunt in Jacksonville he hadn't seen for 20 years.

Hugh Deenan, in charge of the police, said he had a check made on the man's identity and that an investigation should be conducted in the matter.

Hayward worked for the City Ice and Fuel Co., according to a police report. Stone said he had been out of work and was drawing unemployment compensation.

He hadn't received his last compensation check, according to the landlord, and had asked Stone for a loan.

Hayward's room the landlord said, was in order and had been searched by police.

Among those investigating the matter were Chief Wally Phillips, Ben Butler, Arnold Williams and R. T. Buckles, and Constable J. Q. Galloway.

Education Week Today Features Discussion Of Teacher Shortage

There exists in Florida a real shortage in the teaching profession, School Superintendent R. L. Myers today told a panel at a meeting of the American Education Week. Myers today told a panel at a meeting of the American Education Week. Myers today told a panel at a meeting of the American Education Week.

This shortage is brought about by (1) the rapid growth of population, (2) the continual improvement of Florida's public school program, and (3) the small number of people training to become teachers," he added.

American Education Week, Nov. 11-15, is now celebrating its 27th annual observance. It was established in 1924 by joint action by the National Education Assn. and the American Legion.

Recognizing this fact, the State Department of Education has announced a state-wide celebration of teacher recruitment. Richard Johnson, Under Secretary, a series of bulletins have been published. One of these specifically addressed the high school student, to become interested in the teaching profession. Future teacher jobs will be advertised in a county-by-county basis in the coming weeks.

Each of the three high schools in the County are working with their respective school boards to carry out the program. Interested students will be "assessed" and trained in line with the program.

In training future teachers, it is estimated that there will be a shortage of 2,000 teachers in the State by 1955. To meet this need, the State Department of Education is sponsoring a program of teacher recruitment. This program will be carried out by the State Department of Education, a county-by-county well under way.

Motorist Is Arrested After Automobile Hits Boy On Bicycle Here

Lad Suffers Abrasion, Bruises

Driver Charged With No Brakes

Police arrested a Negro woman driver this morning after the car she was driving struck a small boy riding a bicycle on E. 20th St., just east of Park Ave.

Hurt was Johnny Ray, 8, son of Mrs. Jean Ray, 2430 Myrtle Ave. He was brought by a physician at 1921 Park Ave. to a hospital where he had abrasions on his face and head and bruises on his back and feet. The boy acted bravely during treatment by the doctor and seemed unconcerned about missing school. His mother, Mrs. Jean Ray, had to be taken to the hospital.

Driver of the car was Christine Stapler, 608 W. 20th St., who was charged with careless and negligent driving, to wit, hitting a child and with having no brakes, according to police.

The boy was riding his bicycle about two feet from the curb on the south side of the street when hit by the car, the police said.

According to a witness, Tom Boyce, 2108 Amelia Ave., who had stopped his car on the east side of the intersection and was waiting for the injured boy was riding ahead of his brother, Jimmie, 11.

Johnny said that his brother was going to accompany him to Southside Primary School, and he bicycled to the Grammar School, where he is a student.

Mrs. Ray, who was called to the scene by Jimmie, was quite upset by the accident.

According to police, the two boys had been going north on Park Ave. and had turned east onto E. 20th St. The woman motorist had crossed Park Ave. on 20th St. before the accident.

According to Police Chief Roy Williams, the boys apparently were obeying the law. "The children were in the right, it looked to me," he said.

The chief pointed out, "Care and caution should be used in driving, especially during school hours."

"My all means," he emphasized, "a person should have his car in good repair and under control." He pointed out that the brakes, especially, should be working properly.

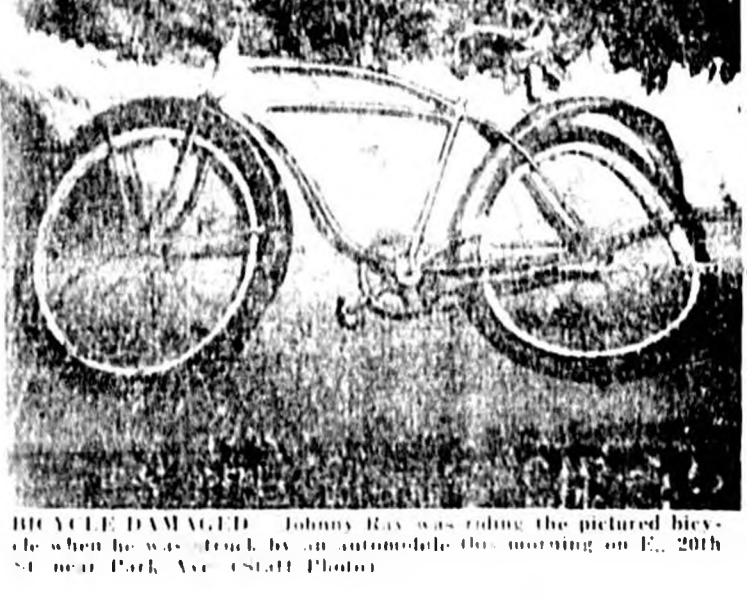

"A slower speed than normal should be maintained when driving in the area of a school," he cautioned, and brought out that children are unpredictable in their actions.

"Parents, too, should instruct their children on bicycle safety," he said. The chief brought out that children on bicycles are affected by the same regulations which apply to automobile drivers.

He issued a warning to children against making "cut-ins, abrupt turns" while riding a bicycle and to ride on the right side of the street.

"A traffic light indicates a dangerous intersection," the chief pointed out, "that is why it is there. A person has a lot of responsibility when crossing such an intersection, especially such a heavily-traveled street like Park Ave."

The chief and Pitan Arnold Williams investigated the accident.

Beans, Alcohol Cause Trouble For Two Motorists In Sanford

Beans and alcohol contributed to traffic problems today and yesterday in the City.

According to City police, Mrs. Louise Breckenridge, 608 W. 20th St., was driving the automobile from W. 20th St. north onto French Ave. when a pair of beans began slipping on the floor.

Mrs. Breckenridge reached over to stop the beans and the car went over the curb on the east side of the street and a pile of pipe and other material fell onto the road.

Police officers were called to the scene and the car was towed to the police station.

Another motorist, who was driving on E. 20th St., was also involved in a traffic accident today. The driver, who was driving on E. 20th St., was also involved in a traffic accident today.

Protest Made To Reds For Attack On Airplane

TOKYO (AP) - U.S. warplanes charged today that two Russian jet fighters passed without warning on a U.S. plane on a photo mission over northern Japan yesterday and shot it down in flames.

Ten of the big four-engine RB29's if crewmen parachuted to safety moments before their plane crashed in northern Hokkaido, a few miles from the Russian-held Kurile Islands. The 11th crewman drowned in the sea after bailing out.

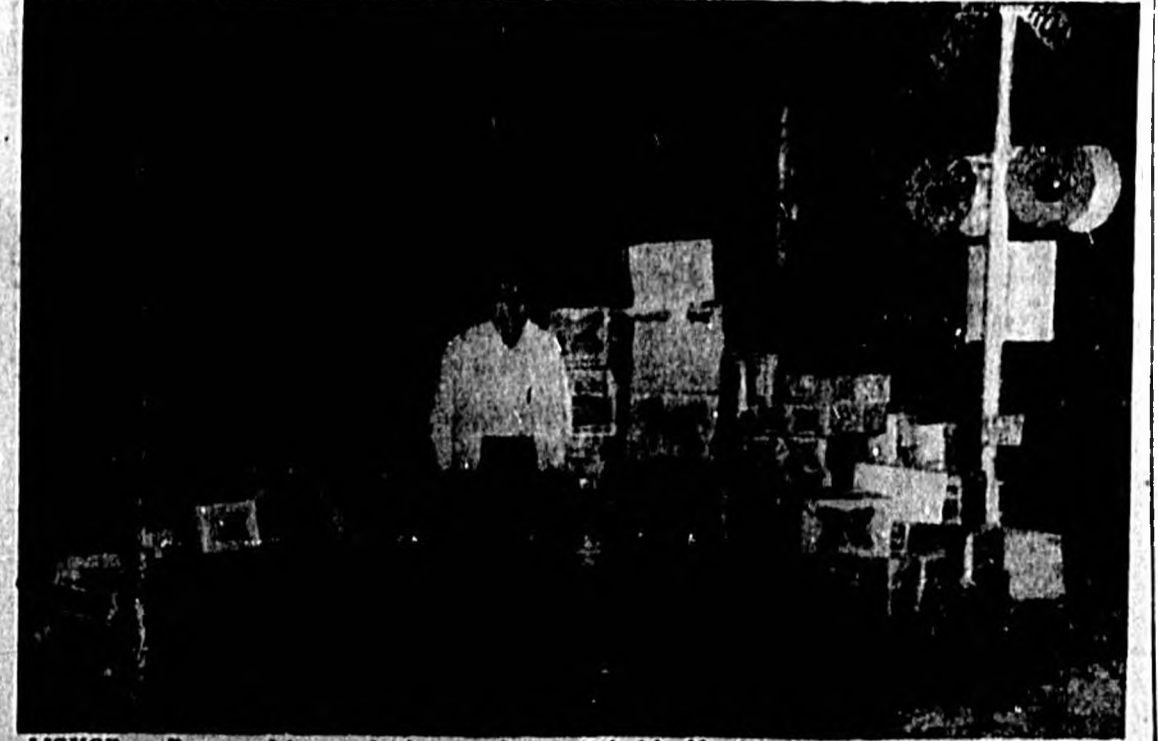

In Washington, the State Department said it was protesting the incident to Moscow.

In Tokyo, Gen. John E. Hull, U.S. Far East commander, said the direction of the crippled plane's fall "completely negates" any possible Soviet claim that the plane was over Russian territory. He accused the Russians of a "piratical" attack.

Capt. Anthony F. Feith, the RB29 captain, said his plane was "never closer than 15 miles" to Russian territory.

Feith, 35, of Chester, Pa., said: "I was approximately nine miles off Hokkaido and was never closer than 15 miles to the area. The Russians consider their own."

"When fired upon we were even
