

Trade Agreement To Test Opposing Tariff Principles

Pact Is Small Scale Experiment To Test Various Arguments

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Scrapping these new trade treaties with Canada and the British Empire shown to their economic bones, and you have left a fairly simple agreement that will test out two opposing principles of international trade regulation: tariff vs. quota.

It's only a small-scale experiment, for the great bulk of trade between the two nations will remain in the hands of the tariff. A few outstanding commodities in dollars will provide the basis for the experiment.

Practically all nations today are high tariff nations. Most have gone a lot further, they restrict imports by imposing quotas and prohibit the exchange of goods between foreign sellers and domestic buyers.

Germany is the outstanding exponent of these "rigid" tariffing foreign sellers with high prices, and at the same time protecting important industries with subsidies. Foreign as well, however, must spend in Germany most of the money they collect for the goods they sell here.

Meanwhile, Cordell Hull, U. S. American Secretary of State, has insisted that the whole scheme of things is heading to a common economic way that eventually will demolish world trade barriers.

High Tariff Principles Fined. Mr. Hull agrees that the principle of high tariffs is too well established everywhere, especially in the United States, to be overboard. It would be like pulling the roof off your protection in mid-winter to let in snow and sunlight but he insists a little tariff window should be opened here and there to encourage trade, and, above all, tariff should be equal to all comers.

On that principle, the secretary struck bargains with 18 nations between 1931 and 1937. The idea was, "You lower a few duties, and I'll lower a few," in—most important of all—share the benefits of the reduced tariffs with all nations except Germany, the only U. S. trade partner that refused equal treatment to the United States.

The treaties with Canada and the United Kingdom (the British Isles and colonial possessions) represent his crowning achievement because Great Britain and the United States together do almost half of the world's trade in dollars worth of swapping every year.

Two questions remain: "What have our first 18 treaties done to stimulate trade?" "What will the British agreements do?"

With figures galore to play with, there are almost as many answers as economists, but usually economists have been divided into the pro-Hull school and the anti-Hull school.

Lineup of Beliefs. Here is how the two schools thought line up on the major treaty points:

1. World Peace
Hull School—Orderly trade based on the principle of fair play and equal treatment for all is necessary for world stability. "Live and let live." Any other way leads to misunderstanding, cut-throat competition, dumping, savage economic wars, and ultimately, war. Set your tariff high or low, but leave them there for everybody.

Anti-Hull School—Trade is war and always has been the subject of dispute among nations. Those having advanced standards of living must protect them, and the world's lowest level. For example, both peaceful rivalry and war established the British Empire, the greatest trading nation of all time. Free-trade was an afterthought.

2. Trade Increases
Hull School—During the nearly four years of trade agreement program, the volume of American exports and imports has been on the upgrade. Although this phenomenon is not due alone to the treaties, our exports have shown a consistently greater growth with treaty nations. For example, exports to trade agreement countries in 1937 increased 72 per cent over 1931.

Anti-Hull School—Our imports from foreign countries have increased 90 per cent during the trade program, while exports were increasing only 50 per cent. That's like putting out 10 cents to get a nickel's worth of business, and the new treaties will intensify the evil.

3. Domestic Benefits
Hull School—Trade agreements mean better times for everybody. They bring more workers into the mills, more workers into the mines. These workers will have money to buy farmers' products, and the farmers in turn will have money to buy the products of

OUT OUR WAY BY J. R. WILLIAMS

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY

Canadian and British treaties offer the farmer direct competition on such important items as wheat, corn, apples, pears and other domestic products.

Anti-Hull School—The average price of all American imports during the treaty period, 1931-37, increased 29 per cent. The average price of items on which the United States received duty, as a concession to other nations, dropped 10 per cent. Manufacturers of articles suffering from tariff wars, and so on, daily were unable to maintain their scales. Some carried a question and thereby lost their employment. Those who could not work foreign competition complained that the quantity of all goods coming in under reduced tariff levels of 15 per cent, while the tariff on many goods was only 10 per cent.

G. O. P. Delegates Lack Harmony in Washington Meet

By KIRK E. SIMPSON
WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The Republican national committee in its first meeting since the party's victory in 1936, failed to reach any agreement on its platform for 1940, but it did agree on a number of important points.

Evidences of deep disagreement among the national committee members gathered in Washington as to the manner in which to place the party's program for 1940 were clear to all. Though the harmony note was sounded by every speaker, an "if" of some sort was attached to every proposition of a presidential sweep in 1940.

That "if" represents, to political observers, almost as sharp a clash in Republican ranks as among Democratic factions. There were even hints from such newcomers to the national committee as Kenneth Simpson of New York that a virtual purge of conservative Republican leaders would be necessary if the Republican platform of 1938 were to be retained in 1940.

One factor that possibly contributed more than any other to Simpson's failure to obtain a post on the Republican executive committee was the fact that his reelection might have been interpreted as a committee gesture in favor of a Dewey-for-president soon. At this stage, certainly, there are so many other Republicans, young and old, casting covetous eyes toward the 1940 nomination that the harmony motto under which the Republicans assembled would dictate caution.

Jurors Fail To Reach Verdict In Negro Trial

Hastings Case Ruled Mistrial After 26 Witnesses Testify For Two Days

After a veritable parade of witnesses who gave testimony for two days, a jury last night failed to reach a verdict, causing a mistrial in the case of J. C. Hastings, negro chauffeur of Charles Bradshaw of Altamonte Springs, charged with assault with the intent to commit murder.

Assistant State Attorney Lloyd E. Kyle, who is prosecuting the case for the state, called in 11 witnesses, while 12 persons testified on behalf of the defendant who is represented by E. F. Housholder.

The negro is alleged to have fired several shots into a junk joint after going to his home to procure a pistol. One of the bullets was said to have seriously wounded one of the negro occupants of the place.

After hearing the evidence in the case the jurors retired to reach a verdict but after deliberating until 8:00 o'clock last night reported to Judge Millard B. Smith that they were unable to reach a unanimous verdict.

The jurors were Karl Deal, A. R. Hunter, Willie B. Munson, J. O. Lybrand, J. A. Benson, and T. W. Prevatt.

While returning to the court room yesterday afternoon to complete his work in the case Attorney Housholder became unconscious and fell at the foot of the witness stand.

Florida Leads South In Aid For Old Age, Blind

Checks Were Mailed To 32,879 Recipients In November

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 2. — Florida is leading the entire South in the percentage of population more than 65 years of age receiving Old Age Assistance and Aid to the Blind.

Statistics acknowledging this claim were published in the October number of Social Security Bulletin, issued monthly by the Social Security Board, with headquarters at Washington.

Outside the South, Florida ranks near the top, being second in the entire United States in the percentage of population more than 65 years of age receiving Aid to the Blind, with Maine leading. In the Old Age Assistance category it is surpassed only by Oklahoma, Missouri, South Dakota, Arizona, Colorado, Utah and Nevada. Oklahoma's matching funds were halted by the Social Security Board when it charged that ineligible persons were being placed on the assistance payrolls.

For comparison, statistics covering the Seventh Region, of which it is a part, show that in Florida 320 persons per 1,000 population 65 years of age, 137 in Alabama, 213 in Georgia, 184 in Mississippi, 150 in Tennessee and 309 in South Carolina have been granted Old Age Assistance.

In the Aid to the Blind category the showing is even more favorable with Florida leading with 47, followed by Tennessee with 47, South Carolina with 44, Georgia with 37, Alabama with 10 and Mississippi with none.

Florida's Aid to the Blind program was inaugurated in December of last year, while its Old Age Assistance program was picked up by the State Welfare Board when it assumed office on July 1, 1937. At that time the case load was slightly in excess of 10,000. November Old Age Assistance checks were mailed out to 32,879 recipients and Aid to the Blind checks to 2,142 recipients.

Mary Brown Convinces Abductors Parents Can't Pay Ransom

OXON HILL, Md., Dec. 2. — (AP)—William B. Brown, father of 18-year-old Mary Brown who was kidnaped last night after a 30-hour absence, said today she was abducted by men who mistakenly thought he could pay ransom.

When his daughter, a business school student, convinced the men she was unable to pay any ransom, he said, they released her. She arrived haggard and in tattered clothes at the Brown home last night, saying the men freed her from an automobile a short distance from the farm house where she lives. Her father and doctor said she was unharmed.

Speaking almost incoherently, she said that she had not been criminally assaulted but that her captors had "knocked me out with their fists" several times. She said she had been kept blindfolded and could not identify the three men "except that one of them had a mustache."

According to the girl, the three men thrust her out of the truck, still blindfolded. She then walked home, she said.

Reaching the front door of her home, she knocked weakly and when the door was opened she fell into the arms of Robert L. Manning, retired Washington detective and an old family friend.

Manning said that the girl was without her coat and that her sweater was badly torn. The rest of her clothing, he said, was in "shreds."

Avoiding Colds

Sudden changes in temperature, and particularly extremes in temperature, make this time of year one of the worst as far as colds are concerned. It isn't cold weather that makes one susceptible to colds, but extremely cold weather after a long period of hot weather, or an extremely cold evening after a hot day.

And yet, Dr. Donald Armstrong of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, says that if you catch cold you have only yourself to blame. He believes that people could avoid colds altogether simply by avoiding unnecessary exposures to cold germs. And he adds that most of the ways by which cold germs are spread are well known.

For the prevention of colds, he makes these suggestions:

- 1. Don't get nearer than necessary to a sneezing or coughing person.
2. Remember that handshaking may be dangerous.
3. Don't handle another person's handkerchiefs, towels, or toilet articles.

- 4. Wash your hands, before you eat.
5. Eat a variety of nourishing food, plenty of milk and milk products, citrus fruits, tomatoes, green and yellow vegetables, and eggs.
6. Get eight hours sleep every night.
7. Take some form of exercise daily.
8. Dress according to the weather, and don't forget your overcoat on stormy days.

But, says Dr. Armstrong, the sign of a cold, Dr. Armstrong says:

- 1. Go to bed, or at least stay indoors.
2. Take a hot bath if needed, but no other medicine is advisable except a doctor's orders.
3. Drink plenty of water, fruit juices, and other liquids.

- 4. Eat a diet of simple, nourishing food.
5. If a person is ill, if the cold does not immediately improve.

The great danger lurking in colds, which can be more serious than the cold itself, is the possibility that they may be followed by pneumonia, tuberculosis, or some other respiratory ailment.

"But," he adds, "very few colds would develop into serious illness if a person were wise enough to take proper care of himself during the first day or two of the sickness. And remember, if the symptoms are very severe, with aching back, head and limbs, the trouble may not be merely a cold but influenza, which is much worse. Then the only safe procedure to follow is to go to bed, stay there, and summon a doctor."

An Inspector Makes News

A few days ago a government official turned in his resignation because he did not believe he was earning his salary as a federal inspector. He said he had been expected to make reports on materials he had not even seen and believed it was a breach of trust to approve work he was in no position whatever to judge. And so like the man who bit the dog, a federal inspector has made news.

"Whoever the facts in this case," says the Miami Daily News, "to accept public money for work not performed, to accept a newly created public position made on the surface for specific purposes but in reality the means to campaign for a political leader at the taxpayers' expense, this has been all too common in our national life, so common, unhappily, that it is no longer startling news. In this very circumstance of general acceptance of such practices as more or less inevitable and of public apathy toward them, as a matter of fact, lies the opportunity on which they thrive."

"We have had a view of this sort of thing on a colossal scale in some of our states these last few years. How many state officials did the governor of Pennsylvania appoint with no other purpose in mind than to pour the state to further his ambitions for the United States senate? How much of the public funds of Ohio was consumed by the present governor by this method in his attempt to perpetuate himself in office? Who doesn't recall the irregularities of this kind that occurred in Massachusetts in recent years? And what has been true in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Massachusetts holds also for other states, if perhaps on a smaller scale. What about Florida?"

"But when an official resigns because he believes he is not earning his salary, how far that little candle throws its bright gleam in a dark world! It may be, of course, too good to be true. Suppose the individual, as has been hinted, merely sought a subtle out to put in bad light superiors whom he suspected his performance of his tasks would not much longer satisfy anyway! "Even if that proved the case, however, the act itself may stand as an inspiring example. But we fear it won't be widely followed."

Nation's No. One Economic Problem To Be Discussed

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Florida and the nation's number one economic problem will be the theme of the state-wide business conference of the State Chamber of Commerce at Hollywood Dec. 12, Harold Cole, president, said today.

The theme was selected, Cole explained, after President Roosevelt's recent description of the South as the "nation's economic problem number one" and because of widespread interest in the activities of the National Emergency Council.

"Florida is of course an integral part of the South," Cole declared. "As such, Florida must co-operate with her sister southern states in the correction of those economic and social conditions that make President Roosevelt's description of the South so terribly true."

"Florida's problem, her great resources and her magnificent possibilities must be better understood before we can put them to use in the rebuilding of this state and the South. To accomplish this the theme 'Florida and the nation's number one economic problem' has been selected for our annual state-wide business conference in Hollywood Monday, Dec. 12."

The business conference will be held in connection with the 22nd annual membership meeting of the State Chamber.

General Civil Service Statute May Be Sought

TALLAHASSEE, Dec. 2.—(AP)—A general civil service law designed to protect state, county and city employees from arbitrary dismissal for political reasons is being drafted by a new organization of government workers.

S. L. Walters, who is head of the Agriculture Department's new group, said many of the civil servants had proposed the bill in the 1920's, but it never came of it.

Present employees, he said, would be blanketed into their jobs and would be subject to discharge only for cause and after a hearing, if they wished one.

New employees could be hired only after they had an oral power civil service examination.

The only state employees now protected in this way are some industrial commission workers who must pass the merit test first because of federal regulations.

Walters said the proposed law would be wide in scope, embracing county employees and those in cities that are not now under civil service but wish to join in the movement.

He estimated 18,161 eligible, and said the campaign to gain members of the organization was being pushed. He said cabinet members and department heads generally were favorable and declared the Secretary of State H. A. Gray recommended such a system to the Legislature two years ago.

Under the plan, only employees on monthly salaries would be protected. This would exclude day laborers and department heads whose pay is by the year. It would include none of the officials who get their appointments directly from the governor.

Rollins Symphony Concerts Begin Dec. 13

Again as during the three years under leadership of conductor Alexander Blech, the Symphony Orchestra of Central Florida, affiliated with Rollins College at Winter Park, is about to begin its thirteenth consecutive season.

The first concert will be given in the high school auditorium at Winter Park on Dec. 13, at 8:15 o'clock, and others on Jan. 25 and Mar. 22. The program of the first will include: Walt Fierstein's "Egmont" Overture, Mendelssohn's Italian Symphony and the Introduction to Act III of Wagner's "Lohengrin."

The orchestra is not a profit-making enterprise, but is supported by voluntary contributions. The privileges of membership include not only hearing the concert, but contributing to an educational endeavor, but also the "privilege" on the Monday evening before each concert, in which Mrs. Blanche Blech, wife of the conductor, herself being a pianist, explains and illustrates the program.

Traffic laws were in effect in England as early as 1845, long before the invention of the automobile.

The county attorney had recovered today. He was returning to the court room after the noon recess before which he had just completed an exhortation of over an hour to the jury.

Judge Smith sentenced Harold Bright and Hubert Hosking to one year each for breaking and entering the home of D. E. Mather. The couple pleaded guilty to the indictment of the Grand Jury when they were arraigned last Friday before the circuit judge.

Frank King, negro, indicted for first degree murder was tried on Monday and a jury found him guilty of manslaughter. He was represented by Attorney E. F. Housholder.

Ben Senor, charged with assault with intent to commit murder, withdrew his plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty to charges of aggravated assault. Sentence was withheld pending good behavior.

Tuesday Fred Whiddon was found guilty of robbery and armed as set out in a grand jury indictment. Alleged accomplices in the holdup of the Triangle in the highway south of here, namely Andrew Tucker and Charlie Montes, entered pleas of guilty to the charges when arraigned before Judge Smith.
