Pennsylvania Mine Blast Traps 98 Men In Blazing Inferno

Explosion Occurs At Early Morning Hour When 250 Men Are At Work In Diggings

Rescue Workers Penetrate Shaft Early Survivors Give Graphic Accounts Of Experience In Mine

KINLOCH MINE, NEAR PARRANASSUS, Pa., Mar. 21.—Through flame and smoke, rescue crews battled their way forward in a desperate effort to reach approximately 27 miners believed still trapped in the Kinloch Mine of the Valley Coal Company, worked at 7:25 A. M. today by an explosion.

O. F. Taylor, superintendent of the Kinloch Mine, said that of the 250 men he believed to have been in the mine when the blast let go, 221 miners already had made their way through the connecting Valley Camp Mine entry nearby and that others were believed on their way to the surface.

The full force of the explosion struck near the base of the shaft, sending out a column of smoke and flame, and apparently trapping a group roughly estimated at one third of the total number of men who had just entered the mine at the day shift.

Two of the three groups into which the mine was divided made their way back from the scene of the blast in a connecting entry in the valley camp mine and it is believed that most of those are safe. The last third, nearest the shaft, may be trapped by flames and this group is expected to yield the casualties.

Of the 223 who made their way out, the large majority were unhurt. The first two victims of the explosion to be recovered were found near the tipple. They were taken to the New Kensington General Hospital, where a cursory examination showed them to be suffering from burns and shock. They were identified as Charles Hemphill, 28, of Paganusville, Hemphill, a mechanic, and William Taylor, negro, New Kensington, who with five others were on the tipple when the explosion occurred. The seven were thrown off the tipple to the ground.

The survivors told graphic stories of the blast as they rested at the emergency hospital camp. Stanley Palowski, one of a group of 15 men who made a successful two hour fight for safety, said: "We went down the mouth of the mine a mile or so, my arm my buddy. We heard a roar. 'My God! Explosion!' my buddy hollered. There wasn't any gas or fumes, so we turned back. We made our way to the Valley Camp entry and out."

ROYALTY WEDS AMID SCENE OF UNUSUAL POMP

Elaborate Ceremony Marks Marriage Of Norwegian Prince To Princess Of Sweden

Thousands Attend Impressive Rites Royal Visitors And Distinguished Guests Present At Wedding

By Anne Kilduff
International News Service Staff Correspondent

OSLO, Mar. 21.—The most elaborate and picturesque wedding ceremony ever held in the northern capital of Norway, for the marriage of the Norwegian Prince Olaf to Princess Martha of Sweden, was held in the cathedral here today.

Thousands of persons who had made the pilgrimage to Oslo from all parts of the kingdom to witness the ceremony, mingled in the streets outside, where an assembly of guests was held before the cathedral. The bride and groom were met by King Haakon and the Queen and attended by many royal visitors from all parts of Europe, the diplomatic members of Paris, London and many other distinguished guests, to whom were laid 400 guests in all.

Thousands of troops including the whole garrison of Oslo, guarded the route from the palace to the church. A squadron of cavalry in full dress uniform was stationed outside the church. Crown Prince Olaf arrived at the church in an automobile with the Duke of York, son of King George of England. He immediately entered the church and took his place at the left side of the altar.

Princess Martha was accompanied to the church by her father, who escorted her to the altar, followed by the bride's maids. Bishop John Lunde of Oslo, preached a brief sermon then read the Norwegian Episcopal and Lutheran nuptial rites. The couple made their vows, then knelt to receive the bishop's blessing.

Upon leaving the church the Crown Prince and his wife passed under an archway of swords held aloft by young naval and military friends of Olaf. The Crown Prince and his bride drove direct from the church to the royal palace in an open coach, drawn by four horses and followed by two carriages carrying the bride's maids. They passed through lanes of men, women and children, who cheered continuously, waving hats and handkerchiefs. The bride and bridegroom smiled and waved in response.

The church decorations consisted of a canopy over the altar. The church decorations consisted of a canopy over the altar. The church decorations consisted of a canopy over the altar.

ST. LOUIS OUTFIT NEEDS TALENT IN PITCHING STAFF

Other Positions May Be Replaced By New Members Of Browns

NEW YORK, Mar. 20.—(INS)—Despite the fact that the St. Louis Browns jumped from the depths of the second division to third place last year, several of the players who participated in the team's sport are not sure of their jobs this season. There is plenty of room for new talent in the pitching staff, and indications are that one new pitcher, at least one new infielder and a rookie catcher will break into the lineup.

General Alvin Crowder and Sammy Gray, both discarded from other American League clubs, bore the brunt of the pitcher's burden last season. All the other twirlers lost more games than they won. While Crowder is young and should continue to strut his stuff for several years, Gray was deemed to have passed his peak when the Athletics let him go and it is doubtful whether his ageing suppone will repeat its performance of 1928. Sammy won twenty games and lost twelve last year while Crowder won twenty-one and lost only five.

Star Flashed
The other members of the 1928 staff—Blasolfer, Coffman, Stewart and Ogden—showed flashes of brilliance but, failed to live up to their advance notices. If they do not come through this season Manager Dan Howley has five promising newcomers to fall back upon.

They are eccentric Rip Collins attempting a comeback in the big show at the age of 32; Claude (Bubber) Johnson, once a good relief twirler with the New York Bruvud, up from Spartansburg in Giants; and three rookies—John the South Atlantic League; Herb Cobb, from Wichita Falls; and Ogear Estrada, Cuban outfielder who was converted into a south-saw pitcher at Shreveport last season. All look like the Coolidge bull market on paper.

Collins has been tried out by three other American League clubs the Yankees, Tigers and Red Sox. He won seventeen and lost nine for Toronto last year, while Johnson won sixteen and lost eleven with Milwaukee.

Frank McGowan, Kansas City graduate, batted .263 in 47 games for the Browns last year. If he can keep up that kind of socking he will have no trouble in displacing Earl McNeely as the running mate of Hanush, an dishwasher in the outfield.

Picked For Third
Dick Farrell, promising catcher from Columbus, is being counted upon to relieve Schang and Manton of some of the catching duties.

Len Dondos, who succeeded Otis Brannon as second base for Tulsa when the latter went to the Browns, is now trying to beat Brannon out of his job with the Browns. Ed Grimes, also from Tulsa, will be given every chance to make good at third base, always a weak spot in the St. Louis infield. Frank O'Rourke will be around if the pace is too fast for Tulsa recruit—Lu Blie and Ralph Kress seem to be fistfutes at the other infield posts.

Yes, the Browns will do well to finish third again this year, Manager Howley realizes, he was fortunate to win so many games with only one really great hitter—Manush—and in it's such good results from his kid-league combination of Kress and Brannon. The Tigers and the Senators are stronger this year, and the Browns also must improve to stay ahead of them.

First Lady Selects New Easter Ensemble

WASHINGTON, Mar. 20.—(INS)—Soft french blue or any equally delicate shade of green will predominate in Mrs. Hoover's Easter ensemble, the inquiring reporter discovered today. A print of drab and a solid color coat will, in all probability, feature the first lady's attire for the spring promenade day of the year. An exact description of Mrs. Hoover's Easter dress could not be obtained because, as it was expected, it all depends on the weather. Blue and green, however, Mrs. Hoover has her eye on, and is said to be especially partial to drab. As for hats Mrs. Hoover will select a black hat with a white ribbon for the small, round, wide-brimmed model, except, in the emergency, that she will wear a picture hat of a similar hue.

STERN ADVISES

ST. LOUIS, Mar. 20.—(INS)—The St. Louis Browns are expected to finish third again this year, Manager Dan Howley realizes, he was fortunate to win so many games with only one really great hitter—Manush—and in it's such good results from his kid-league combination of Kress and Brannon. WIRE OPERATOR MADE WEALTHY BY TIP ON STOCK

Western Union Clerk Makes $50,000 From Small Investment

DENVER, Mar. 19.—(INS)—A tip that a Western Union operator, Aspen, Col., sold when Molly Gibson mine stock began booming from ten cents to six a share, made him $50,000, according to a story related here, recently by Old Hills Hicks, pioneer prospector.

Strike Silver
Not long after this investment, a vein of silver ore worth millions was struck in the Molly. It ran 3,000 feet, and there seemed no end of it.

Haggerman and his partner were the first to be tipped concerning the strike, so they began making in Molly stock from every family, press office and mine of Aspen and vicinity, at ten cents a share.

Haggerman wired to Aspen in Colorado. "Do not let Shear and Gillespie escape," which meant that Haggerman wanted all of their stock at ten cents.

The Western Union operator at Aspen was a friend of both Shear and Gillespie, and the operator knew every code west of the Mississippi, so he tipped the two men something had happened.

Is Arrested
"Well," said Old Hills Hicks, as he leaned back in his chair and smoked the ashes from his pipe, "that about settled the matter."

The operator was arrested and brought to Denver, but Shear and Gillespie came along just as fast as charges would be filed against him. His friends would put up and money to get him out of jail. He was finally released because of lack of evidence.

By that time, Molly stock had risen to $18 a share, so Shear and Gillespie began buying gifts up on the friendly operator. The last gift was $50,000, which immediately sent the Western Union operator to South America on a tour. The last that was heard of him he was working as a cowboy on the plains of Wyoming.

Harvard Prospects For Good Track Season Appears Unusually Bright

By Gene Kowske
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Mar. 20.—(INS)—Harvard track followers were counting on twenty sure points in the track meets this spring—ten points in the mile, and ten more in the two mile races.

These predictions were based on the showing made by two Crimson distance men in the indoor meets, Jimmy Reid, and David Cobb.

Reid, Harvard track captain and intercollegiate mile and cross-country champion, showed as was expected. But the feat of Cobb, an unknown sophomore, in winning the mile and 1000-yard runs at the Triangular meet between Cornell, Dartmouth and Harvard, came as a total surprise. Cobb was the only double first place winner in the meet, and was credited for winning the meet for Harvard.

Crimson's fifth successive victory was the best and most impressive. Together with Lewis Parkson, another Crimson miler who did good work in the winter meets, Harvard's chances in the distance races look promising.

Segrave Will Seek To Wrest Speed Mark From Gar Wood's Racing Boat

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Mar. 20.—(INS)—Great Britain's sleek white challenge boat—Miss England—and her doughty pilot, Major H. O. D. Segrave, were ready today for their bid for international speed boat honors. Between them and the veteran champion, Gar Wood, of Detroit, and his world champion boat, Miss America VII.

Both Segrave and Wood have made trial runs over the two mile Flamingo course where the Miami Beach regatta will be run today and tomorrow. Both said their boats were in satisfactory shape.

Segrave expressed himself as quite satisfied with the performance of Miss England in her last trial run.

The international races in the Miami Beach regatta will determine whether Segrave, who holds the world speed record on land of 211 miles an hour, can further add to his laurels. The Miss England and Miss America VII will run two heats of 12 miles each over the two-mile course, Wednesday and Thursday. If each boat wins one heat, the winner will be determined on point score figured on the time made in both heats. If he wins Segrave will have to defeat a boat which holds the world record of 92.8 miles an hour, established at Detroit last fall. Segrave's boat has done better than 45 miles an hour on the straight ways and is said to be able to turn much faster than Wood's boat.

Foch

In the death of Marshal Foch the world loses another of its few really great figures who achieve much but talk little. Occupying a position in the annals of military history equal to that of Caesar or Napoleon, Foch was the most modest of men.

Until in 1918, when the World War had already lasted for nearly four years, the Allied powers began to realize that men, munitions and energy were being wasted through disorganized efforts.

So often it is the case that men who say little are the men who can really do things. The bragard seldom comes up to his boasts.

In all his career he made no claims to glory. His statements were always brief and to the point. None better illustrates the type of man he was, unassuming but determined, modest but invincible.

Down With Bathing Suits

Recent style hints for Mi-Lady tell of something new in bathing suits. If the broad-mindedness which prevails at Miami Beach and Palm Beach invades the seaside resorts this summer, the advantages of being a policeman or a legislator may embrace considerably more than the wealthy depend.

A healthy looking Indian-like sun burned skin is all the rage now. The girls are wearing it without any additional make-up other than the rouge on their lips.

We have no doubt that when these styles reach the conservative shores of Massachusetts or Long Island, there will be quite an uproar from well meaning individuals, who will see in the low cut backs and the hunched, short evidences of a declining humanity.

Yet, it seems to us that matters of this kind are nothing more than the point of view. We suppose that some of the men of Sanford appearing on the beach for the first time in nothing but a pair of trunks might feel somewhat conspicuous and might feel somewhat embarrassed at the whiteness of their own skin.

Certainly women, if they are going out in the evening in a low back evening dress, look much better if they have worn a low back bathing suit during their morning swim.

If it makes them look better and feel better, to wear little or nothing out in the sun, we suppose it is the thing to do.

ACTION IS THE THING

FLORIDA STATE NEWS

How dumb are the law-abiding people of Florida in the opinion of the east coast gambling gang, the nearsighted sheriffs and Governor Doyle?

Do they think that people of this state, who have been insisting upon enforcement of the laws against race track gambling, will be satisfied with a "flash" raid or two?

But Sheriff E. E. Boyce is not worried. They are not so close on his heels in St. John's county, he writes the governor that his deputies have been at the races and have seen no gambling.

We believe the people of the state of Florida want a showdown on this proposition and we are going to give it to them.

If men are selected as sheriffs and deputies on the east coast because of their poor strength this newspaper will, at its own expense, go to the race tracks where gambling is being done in the open and gather evidence to be submitted to the governor. We will have an authoritative report accurately and under the conditions of the law.

JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II

No man ought to look a gift horse in the mouth.

Governor Carlton last week wrote the sheriff of St. John's county an order to enforce the laws against race track gambling during the race meet at Keeney Park.

The time has come for Florida to retain its self respect by either permitting race track gambling or enforcing the laws against it.

In a recent comment on the well known "Booklet" "Florida" exception was taken to one chart indicating that the number of business failures in Florida last year was small in comparison with the number in New York, California, Massachusetts, Washington and a great many other states.

New York, for example, with a population of 11,253,000 had 2,721 business failures in the first nine months of 1928. This represents 24 failures per 100,000 of population.

California had 31 failures per 100,000 population, Massachusetts 25 and Washington 28. Florida had 27, which was less than California or Washington and only slightly more than New York and Massachusetts.

Because Mr. Rose's booklet was far and away the soundest and most interesting summary of Florida's present position that had come to our notice this year, we believed it worth while to point out what seemed to us an isolated and minor flaw in the case presented.

In the psychology of present-day advertising, it is a very helpful thing occasionally to admit something against interest.

It bolsters the public's faith in the integrity of the general claim made in the interest of the advertiser. The gentleman who composes the cigarette advertisement has learned this.

England Will Have Fast Express Trains

LONDON, Mar. 21.—(INS)—British railroad engineers hope shortly to be running their express trains at 100 miles per hour. Locomotives now being designed are producing engines of far greater speed and power than those hitherto in use.

Already an engine named the Duke of Connaught—owned by the Great Western Railway, has travelled at the rate of 102 miles per hour with the Atlantic mails from Plymouth to London and there are, even now, several engines capable of this speed, if pushed.

Jean Borotra, French Ace Of Courts, Says Americans Will Recapture Davis Cup

Declares France Has Greatest Players Now But Looks For U. S. To Produce New And Invincible Crop Of Stars

By Davis J. Walsh
NEW YORK, Mar. 21.—(INS)—Destiny and American resourcefulness will take the Davis Cup from France as inevitable, as the stars meet ship and the sun follow in orbit.

Jean Borotra, France's gay ambassador of the courts who for eight years has played his tennis from the Riviera to Rio—in the shadow of New York's skyscrapers and the side of Nanking's rice paddles—the next was something today what he believed to be a melancholy fact. The consolation was made typical of the resignation. It is fate; what would you? He seemed to say.

"Our few can beat your few now," said he, gravely. "That is fortunate. But it isn't permanent. What was meant, he was eager to explain was that it was, in fact, a question of time until the many good ones here, the man power of American tennis, must overcome France's few Lacoste and Cochet." "Of course. Of a certainty, they are great. But they have reacted their best and can get no better. He added that they will play top tennis perhaps for 10 years.

"Does that mean that you expect to keep the Davis Cup for 10 years? It was asked. "Mainly, not. If an absurdity of great absurdity. His hands glittered in pained indignation. "We have no great confidence that we will be able to keep it one more year," he said, and launched into a tirade to Bill Tilden, forthwith. "William, it seems, is one of the gentlemen's many enthusiasms.

"No team with a Bill Tilden ever is beaten in advance, he declared. He seemed shocked when informed that the American public was expecting less and less of Tilden as time went on. "Tilden, he added, would play tennis this year reminiscent of the Tilden of old.

Why? It appeared surprised that anyone should question such a statement. Why not? Was his reply Tilden, he declared, needed only a day's rest between two Davis Cup singles matches to be almost unbeatable. Play him in the doubles and... He paused impressively. "You keep him," he added, simply.

Tilden, in his eyes at least is America's insurance at the moment against elimination before the final round. Subsequently it will be our overwhelming resources of player strength that will achieve, this year, Borotra confessed himself to be fairly staggered by the proficiency of the average player he faced in America.

Any of your men, ranking from number 10 to number 50, may beat any of ours, ranked from number five to number ten," he explained. "This means everything in a competition between two countries. You have so many stars, we so few. When Lacoste and Cochet falter, our best man will be Boussois, because of his youth. The best of the good ones

DEMPESEY-CAREY PROMOTION ROW WAXES WARMER

Chicago Stadium Will Open Next Week To Rival Garden Outfit

By Ed Mercer
International News Service Special Correspondent
NEW YORK, Mar. 21. The battle lines in a new struggle for prestige in boxing promotion are forming rapidly. With the appointment of William F. Carey to lead the Madison Square Garden forces came a loud rumble from the camp of Humbert Fugazy and Edwin Cole to the effect that Jack Dempsey, harboring a grudge against the garden outfit, is so cast his personality, his budding promotion genius and possibly one more loss, fight on the Fugazy-Cole side of the scales and precipitate a bitter fight for local supremacy.

From the west Chicago sounds a note of defiance to New York's smug confidence in its ability to hold the center of the Queensberry sphere. The new Chicago stadium, with a seating capacity of 12,000, is opening next week with one of the greatest shows ever staged indoors. The middleweight champion, Mickey Walker, will be arrayed against Tommy Loughran for the light heavyweight title, and in the semi-final two other Loughran rivals—Lou Lomski and Tuffy Griffiths—will collide.

Chicago is going after the big indoor matches next winter and promises a real competition to the garden. In New York the competition will necessarily be limited for the present to big summer shows as far as the Fugazy-Cole syndicate is concerned, but the new Starlight Park in the Bronx will enter the popular price field soon with a capacity of 12,000. And so it looks as if the leather pushers will be in closer until competition is stifled by the rapidly mounting cost of fancy cauliflowerers. The heavyweights especially, will be in great demand.

The Garden is arming for a prestige established by Tex Rickard's desperate battle to uphold the

MCLARNIN LIVES SIMPLY DESPITE HIS BIG FORTUNE

Is Last Of Oldtimers Who Fought Because Fighting Meant Life

By David J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Mar. 21. Thirty blocks further downtown, the mugs fought at the ticket booth for the privilege of making Jimmy McLarnin a richer man than ever he will need to be. He is well on his way toward the million he couldn't spend with the help of the Marine Corps but you wouldn't think he had a nickel for car fare if you saw Jimmy McLarnin today, as he sat, unaccompanied by the usual throngs of attendants that included threadbare carpet and horsehair furniture, and estimated very earnestly that he wouldn't change places with a prince of the blood.

Maybe nobody else would, either, if you were due to out $80,000 three ways with Kay Miller and the garden corporation on Friday night. But McLarnin intimates that money doesn't matter six, two and even with contentment and some, he makes you believe him. Just plain folks, this fellow.

He is, in fact, all that is left of the old timers who fought because fighting was his life and he had it in his dingy at the "family" hotel he finds outside his needs and talked of fighting with the enthusiasm of one who discards his life work. An austere spring juttled out from the horizon and studied him in the back.

He ignored it and went on to say that he knew of nothing else that would please him more than fighting, unless it was aviation. No money in that, you counter, and he comes right back with the crack: "What of it? Fight is the thing he wants to do, he tells you, so he fights. If it were flying, he would fly. The radiator suddenly roared and even as it reboiled an organization that was badly shaken by Rickard's sudden passing.

Dempsey is definitely accept or reject the Fugazy-Cole alliance next Friday. You can find plenty of arguments that will jump either way Fugazy and Cole, however, seem to be very hopeful yesterday so much so that they were giving each other credit for acquiring title to the old champion's assets as a promoter. In a vague way it is hinted that Jack's drift toward the camp of Rickard's rival is partly the outcome of Dempsey's dissatisfaction with his record—cash and credit—for his part in building up the battle of the Everglades and partly his disappointment over the failure of the Garden people to retain him at a big salary as an "outside" promoter.

DAUGHERTY IS KEEN IN PRAISE OF LATE CHIEF

Daugherty said that it was he who suggested to Harding that the latter should advocate prohibition and woman suffrage. He revealed this upon declining to give his views on prohibition and dry enforcement.

"I was author of the resolution that prohibited the Republic party prohibition in Ohio," said Daugherty. "Harding was chairman of the convention and I was chairman of the committee on resolutions. I thought that was much of Harding was going to be present and he should stand for the things women suffrage and prohibition I saw they were coming. However, I never conferred with the Anti-Saban League.

The people wanted a man of Daugherty's ability. General Edwards Wood would be selected. Harding did not. I said no. He would not. I told Harding he would be selected.

"I am glad Governor Frank Taylor of Illinois, also prominent in the fight for the presidency, is so busy and mine are on the same path."

"I don't think this political party should do what I could for Harding. I always stood in the background and let others lead. I don't think what happened should be done. If I had results, they would have felt happy and proud to be my followers.

Daugherty declared he never saw a man named at any time of the United States. He said he was a lawyer. He had a good reputation for several years. He said that he was in the country "settling things, settling the harvest field and building the government."

Daugherty said he didn't want to play an important part in a campaign for affairs at this stage. He said that he had people but after a while, he was a "ghost" in the campaign saying "no."

The rumors he made, Daugherty said, eventually did their part in making both him and President Harding. They told friends, including both of them, the attorney general said.

Sheriff Hatter Wars On Gaming In Hillsborough

Tuesday that Hatter would be the warpath over the fact that the town had refused to let the place be run by the lawless and raid crews like wild fire and more quickly closed early in the day. There were reports of friction between Hatter operators and the men handling the machines which are reported to have been widely put to service after long being hidden in barns and cellars.

Nobody seemed to know the exact situation with respect to the town between the law and the machines. Hatter was said to be in the machine, the quarter, and had cut out completely into the other form of gambling that it might have.

The raids were ordered, but quite a number of the residents who worked for years in an effort to reduce gambling contented to have found the solution in a machine invention that had all ears. An actual test made by one of the engineers showed 50 miles on a gallon of gas. Thousands of car owners have already installed this new invention. They not only report amazing gas savings but are also surprised to find quicker pick-up, instant starting, smoother running motors and disappearance of carbon. E. Oliver, 509 1/2 E.
