Energy Headache Getting Worse

As we survey the most recent energy consumption figures published by the Federal Energy Administration, the thought occurs that the Organization of Oil Exporting Countries did not necessarily do the United States a favor when it lifted the petroleum embargo early in 1974.

In a nutshell, the FEA figures tell us that Americans are using more oil than ever and we also are becoming more dependent upon the Arabs because our own oil production is dropping.

Less than three years ago most citizens of the United States believed that we had a reasonable chance to achieve energy independence by 1980. Obviously, those estimates were overoptimistic but at least they were indicative of the enthusiasm, irritation and determination coursing through the nation.

So far as energy is concerned we are in far worse shape today than we also have lost sight of our goals. The talk is not of energy conservation and development, but of breaking up efficient oil companies, reducing the profits of power companies inhibiting nuclear development and nickel and dime policing of the myriad regulations that developed after the oil embargo of 1973.

And even the FEA itself, which was supposed to be the spearpoint of the nation's march toward independence, tells us about our grim energy mentality. The FEA was supposed to self-destruct at the end of last June, its task accomplished. Instead, it has acquired a paralytic bureaucracy of 3,445 persons which has no clear purposes and no comprehensive energy program as such to administer. The only reason that FEA may survive for another year or two is because Congress imposed price controls on oil through mid-1979 and somebody has to administer them. That's hardly an encouraging policy.

Americans are consuming energy as if there is no tomorrow. There is, whether it's another embargo or just the end of cheap, readily accessible oil. Alaskan oil in 1977 will give us a boost, but only temporarily.

If the Arabs had not relented in 1974, the Alaskan oil would have tided us over until we could develop substitute energy sources. If our present attitudes don't change, and there is no sign that they will, the Alaskan oil will be nothing more than another indulgence in our excesses. And the charge for that eventually will be grand theft, heritage, from progeny.

Shrinking Dollar

One of those government-sponsored studies — this one for the Treasury Department — has concluded that the familiar "silver dollar" is too heavy and cumbersome to suit Americans. This has led the Treasury to consider minting a lighter, smaller coin worth a dollar on the theory it could become as much of a workhorse piece of currency as the popular quarter.

Maybe it would, but something tells us this idea may go the way of Treasury Secretary Neff's proposal to have paper money printed with red ink until the federal government balances its budget.

Mrs. Neff's idea went over like a lead nickel for the obvious reason that no government wants to advertise its own failings. A miniature $1 coin, no matter how handy, would remind us every time we picked it up that the U.S. government has done a dismal job of protecting the value of its own currency against inflation.

BERRY'S WORLD

REPUBLICAN! Former Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., told us it was Reagan's dread of Communism, not the experience of the Apollo Paul on the road to Damascus, was a sudden awakening. One friend, fellow actor-turned-politician George Murphy, can even cite the moment that Reagan saw the light. Not long afterward, the crusading liberal of the 1950s became a militant conservative in the 1960s.

The youthful Reagan, who was later to inveigh against student activists, himself led a student protest at Illinois' Eureka college in his freshman year. With the zeal of Paul, he also began persecuting the corporations that would later embrace him. He became an union activist, quick to take the stump in behalf of the workers.

In Hollywood, he became better known as the ardent, articulate president of the Screen Actors Guild than as a "B" picture actor. Entertainer Sheila MacLean, who worked with Reagan in the Hollywood of the 1940s, described him as the "Warren Beatty of his day." Beatty is devoted to liberal causes.

Assigned to an Army motion picture unit during World War II, Reagan regularly assailed his fellow soldiers with his leftist views. He became associated with several left-leaning groups, including the American Veterans Committee.

In 1950, he supported Helen Gohagan Douglas against Richard Nixon in the classic Senate campaign that Nixon won by smearing her as the "pink lady." But two years later, Ronald Reagan started Hollywood by backing the Dwight Eisenhower-Richard Nixon ticket.

The door swung open and in walked Nixon. "Hello, sir," Ford said, struggling to his feet. "I was just about to call you."

"Sure you were, Jerry," Nixon marveled. "Well, I'm just here to remind you that you still have me to kick around. And by kick around I mean as a vice-presidential running mate. A deal is a deal, you know."

"A deal," Ford postured. "I don't want you're talking about!"

"An 'em, Jerry," Nixon said, "I didn't forget you, and I don't expect you to forget me. After all when the Vietnam War was getting to the ridiculous stage, you were always there, sticking up for me—even if it made you look like an ass."

"I was only doing what came naturally," Ford said lamely.

"No sir," Ford said, drawing himself to his full height. "I won't get us involved in a foreign war. I don't care how many calls I get from Lee Harvey Oswald."

"Well, I realize you put your career on the line for me, so I'm here to return the favor," Nixon said. "I'm available if you want me on the ticket."

"Well, goah, I don't know what to say," Ford choked.

"Don't mention it," Nixon said. "Look, I know there will be some controversy because of the Watergate thing. But we can deal with that. The American people are wonderful — promise to balance the budget and they'll forgive you anything."

"But, sir, you must realize I have to consider the problems facing our party," Ford stammered.

"Since 1952, the economy has gone down the tubes. Crime in the streets has increased. Communism is a child leech on the life of our nation. We need a strong leader to unify them. Communists lurk everywhere, Jerry, you merely need to seek them out. The Vietnamese thing ended badly, but there's still Korea and Rhodesia."

Queries For Radio Hanoi

WASHINGTON — The word from Bangkok, Thailand, from those individuals who monitor such things, is that Radio Hanoi has decided to brighten its programming form a bit by introducing its listeners to a write-in contest called "What Do You Know About Vietnam?"

A couple of the questions asked thus far have been: "How many tons of bombs did the U.S. imperialists drop on the Vietnamese people?"

"On what date was Saigon liberated?" Those who answer these questions correctly are promised a "prize" provided their answers are received by March 31, 1977.

Now, I have no idea who is writing Radio Hanoi's copy, but these questions are not, I mean, every man, woman and child in North Vietnam knows the answers to these questions.

So, I'd like to suggest some real tougher, some questions that are not only challenging but are informative as well. For my facts and figures, I am indebted to Hoover Institution Fellow Robert F. Turner, author of "Vietnam: Communism: Its Origins and Development."

Q: How many planes did French colonial authorities pay Soviet Communists agent Ho Chi Minh to betray the said French, Vietnamese patriot, Phan Boi Chau?

A: There is a difference of opinion. Vietnam Scholar Joseph Buttinger says 150,000; another Vietnam scholar, Heng Van Chi, in his book, "From Colonialism to Communism," says 100,000. This payoff was made at a time when five planes bought one buffalo.

Mr. Chau, called "Vietnam's Sun Yat-sen" by the late Bernard Fall, is credited with having influenced nearly every act of anti-French resistance during the war, the government. In June of 1955, he was lured to Shanghai by the anti-French resistance movement. When Mr. Chau agreed to the meeting, "Uncle Ho" informed the French, who arrested him when he got off the train and returned him to Hanoi for trial.

Mr. Chau was sentenced to death but because of the widespread public outcry this sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. He served the rest of his life under house arrest, and was finished as a revolutionary. Ho subsequently got his dough.

Q: When the Communists took over North Vietnam in 1954, how many people fled South to freedom?

A: By July 20, 1955, the International Control Commission reported that 822,778 North Vietnamese had fled to the south, according to official refugee statistics. The total number is probably closer to one million by including those who escaped South independently. In late 1954, Time magazine reported that 1.5 million refugees as saying they had left the North because the Communists "destroyed the customs and friendliness of the past, and have spat upon family ties and religion."

Q: After the Communists took power in North Vietnam in 1954, how many people did they execute as a part of their forced "land reform" program?

A: The most probable figure — drawn from detailed eye-witness testimony and corroborated by official North Vietnamese admissions — is approximately 50,000.

Turner writes: "In addition to those who were executed, one must also consider the indirect casualties: the landowners who committed suicide to avoid execution and torture, and the members of the families of convicted individuals who were forced by an isolation policy to die of starvation. This figure is even more difficult to ascertain, but estimates of 300,000 to 500,000 are common and most authorities place the number at least six figures."

Q: During the 1968 Tet Offensive, how many people were murdered by the Communists when they temporarily captured the South Vietnamese city of Hue?

A: As a result of ready-prepared "Blood Debt Lists," anywhere from 3,000 to 5,000 so-called "class enemies" and "puppet administrative personnel" were systematically killed. This represents between 10 per cent, 10 per cent of the entire city.

Speaking of the "liberation" of South Vietnam, Radio Hanoi might also want to ask the question: How does it since the Communist takeover 16 months ago?

According to Titiano Terzani, who visited Saigon recently, the answer is: Not well, not well at all, if one is a non-Communist.

Reverse Tax Plan Aired

NEW YORK (AP) — John Perry believes the country will go broke if the government keeps spending the way it has been, and he suggests a reverse tax plan: every registered voter be given, tax-free, $500 to $750 a year.

That recommendation might seem to be contradictory, but Perry insists it isn't, and Perry is a serious, intelligent, conservative gentleman, an innovative engineer, a wealthy manufacturer and former owner of a large newspaper chain.

He has convinced many doubters that his plan would work, and among them are economists, government officials and businessmen. His plan was considered for inclusion in the Republican Party platform.

Perry, who lives in Palm Beach, Fla., is the founder of the National Dividend Foundation, a non-profit organization that seeks to provide free enterprise by giving away some of the billions produced by corporations.

Instead of putting into the Treasury the $50 billion in taxes collected from corporations annually in recent years, his National Dividend Plan would distribute it to every person registered to vote.

In so doing, says Perry, whose foundation operates out of Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., the plan would raise the income of the minimum wage earner by 25 per cent or more, and lift at least one-half the poverty families out of that category.

Reagan Backers Leave Convention With Taste Of Ashes

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The end was a bitter end for Ronald Reagan's most zealous acolytes. "Do any states want to change their votes?" the convention chairman asked after West Virginia's vote put President Ford over the top.

"No way! No way!" chanted angry alternate delegates in the California seats. Others responded with curses. They shook their fists in the air and made thumbs-down gestures and, usually, a few at a time, got up and left.

Nearly all the alternate delegates were gone when the closing gavel fell.

During that critical third night of the convention they had blown their plastic trumpets the loudest and issued the most defiant and stomped and whistled and cheered but in the end it was no more than a raucous rout.

Some said their demonstration, one of the longest in Republican party history, was designed to delay the President's inevitable nomination until after TV prime time in the East.

But in the California alternate section overlooking the floor, and in the adjacent Colorado and Arizona sections it seemed gloom, all right, and if for any secret purpose merely that of prolonging the fight.

A band of the 167 alternate California delegates took the loss resignedly and with good humor.

"Well, dammit, you can't do much better than that," said alternate Bob Lindsey of San Jose. "So let's go out and beat Jimmy Carter."

"Nuts," a voice replied. "We don't want him to win, do we?" Silence.

Indeed, the silence in that noisiest of convention hall sections was almost funeral when the tally began.

They showed their horns and posters under the seats, put their plastic cups, took out their pocket calculators and tally sheets and hoped the figures would add up to a miracle.

"Get on with it," one called out during an overlong state puff by a delegation chairman. As the tally progressed, tension deepened.

The poll of the Virginia delegation gave the Californians time to compare figures, check additions, and as they did, heads nodded dourly, voices spoke softly, like people who gather outside a hospital after some terrible calamity.

"Will you support the ticket?" Will you do it to us," said William Saracino of Los Angeles, getting up to leave. John Felix, also of Los Angeles, rose with him.

"Never," he replied. "Make that two of us," Felix said. "I'll say 85 per cent of the California delegation will refuse to work for Ford," said Saracino. Some might vote for him but they

A "five" storm — the highest rating on the Saffir-Simpson scale — is expected to hit the Gulf Coast and Florida on Tuesday.

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical storm Candice weakened early today as it moved north into colder waters of the Atlantic, but a tropical depression brings heavy rains to South Florida and western Cuba strengthened as it lingered near Key West.

At 6 a.m. EDT, Candice, the third tropical storm of the 1976 Atlantic season, was centered near latitude 27.1 north and longitude 65.5 west or about 250 miles north of Bermuda.

Its highest sustained winds were estimated at 50 to 60 miles an hour, and forecasters said it was weakening as it moved north-northeast through the open Atlantic.

No land masses were threatened, but small craft in Bermuda were advised to remain in port until winds and seas subsided.

Meanwhile, South Floridians, spared any experience with tropical weather for the past several years, were enduring heavy rains caused by the strengthening tropical depression centered near Key West.

Forecast Chief Clark of the National Hurricane Center said the depression's highest winds were estimated at 30 mph, except for higher gusts in local squalls. He said the depression's intensity increased somewhat overnight, but the system still was not well organized.

"Conditions do not favor rapid strengthening, but winds could increase further today," Clark said. "The primary concern is the continuation of heavy heavy rains over South Florida and western Cuba."

Several inches of rain have fallen on Miami and other South Florida cities since early Wednesday and the rain continued today.

If the depression's winds reach 30 mph. it will be designated tropical storm Dottie.

Forecasters are watching a tropical depression near Bermuda. It later gained strength and became tropical storm Candice and was expected to become a hurricane — although not until land today.

A second depression, this one off Key West, was also being watched for an expected gain in strength.

MIAMI (AP) — Residents of the Northeast shouldn't take the best news for granted just because Belle's wet weather damage than expected, says an expert on the sometimes savage storms.

"People must look at this in the proper perspective. This wasn't a major hurricane," Dr. Neil Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center, said Wednesday. "Next time, it could be a lot worse."

Frank said Belle, which hit Long Island last week after dealing a glancing blow to the Outer Banks of North Carolina, once had the makings of a major hurricane.

"When this storm was off the Carolina, it was a major hurricane, comparable to Donna, which went into Long Island in 1960 and did a lot of damage."

"As Belle started moving north, we thought there was a chance it would be more damaging. A fast-moving storm doesn't have a chance to speak over colder northern waters. But it never accelerated, so when it arrived over Long Island it was just weak."

But by the time it arrived in the Northeast, Belle rated only a "one" on the hurricane center's 1-5 scale.

Carolina, has winds to 130 mph at 10 a.m. Expected damage includes felled trees from trees and plants and some structural damage to buildings.

Forecasters were watching a tropical depression near Bermuda. It later gained strength and became tropical storm Candice and was expected to become a hurricane — although not until land today.

A second depression, this one off Key West, was also being watched for an expected gain in strength.

S. African Riots Continue

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — Rioting, arson and looting continued for the third day today in black townships outside Port Elizabeth. Police gunfire killed at least eight blacks and wounded 23 Wednesday. Angry crowds of blacks burned two schools, a hospital and a shopping center early today. Property damage in the three days of violence was estimated at more than a million dollars. The killing Wednesday increased the death toll in racial violence in South Africa to 226, all but three of them black, since the first upheaval in the Soweto ghetto south of Johannesburg in mid-June.

'Identity Crisis' Cited

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP) — The nonaligned movement is having an identity crisis. Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore put it this way in a statement circulated Wednesday at the nonaligned summit conference: "Who am I uniting with and for what objectives and purposes and against whom?" Lee and other conservative leaders whose countries have been "liberalized" from their European masters are worried about radicals who want liberation from them.

Stunt Man Buries Himself

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Bill White says he has buried himself in a coffin of liquor, taking long walks and eating balanced meals — all in preparation for resuming his old career. White's old job was going around the country being buried for months at a time in a coffin. After an eight-year layoff, he said he got the idea to try his hand again after attending his uncle's funeral this month. "White said he is currently making plans for a 100-day stay, possibly in September, in Denver. He has already begun training. "I quit drinking about a month before. Booze will get you in trouble underground," White, 42, said Wednesday. "I also take long walks and eat body-building foods, mostly steaks." This will be his 50th underground stay and the first since 1926, White said. That year he claimed a world record of 63 days, 22 hours and 31 minutes during a stay in Austin, Tex. That record has since been broken by a Belgian, according to the Guinness Book of Records. But White said that attempt, combined with 47 other ones, jeopardized his health. "I'm back in shape now, but it had taken a lot out of me," he said. "You lose your sense of balance and muscle tone." White of Tallahassee said he started the stunts as a way to make a living after getting out of prison following a five-year sentence for forgery. "I needed something to do," he said. "I thought my prison time would help me handle the isolation periods."

City Fathers Oppose Springs Zoning

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
 Herald Staff Writer

WINTER SPRINGS—City Council is fighting a proposal by the Planning Commission that a narrow commercially zoned strip along SR-434 be economically downgraded from commercial to residential. The opposition was aired Tuesday night at a joint meeting of council, the commission and City Planner Allen Bush to discuss the proposed Comprehensive Land Use Plan for the city. Mayor Troy Piland was especially adamant. "Downgrade zoning and you can forget about bringing in any other commercially zoned property to the city. I am not willing as an elected official to put our city in a lawsuit," he declared. Piland said that the owners of property in question would most certainly bring suit against the city if their commercial property was devalued. The commission said it felt the strip, which borders residential areas, would not be deep enough to provide adequate off-street parking and ingress and egress commercial use when SR-434 is four-laned. Commission Chairman Walter Parkhurst said, "We have been kicking it around for two months." Piland predicted many city residents facing the highway, who already have little depth to their lots, would be wanting their property rezoned commercial when the road is four-laned. Councilman John Daniels told the Planning Commission, "I will vote against any plan that does not include adequate industrial zoning." Bush and Parkhurst said they were glad to receive the input from the council as it would help them in drawing up a final land use plan that will be accepted.

Louise Baxley Named Teacher Of Year

Louise Baxley was named Teacher of the Year by JEAN PATTERSON, Women's Editor. Louise Baxley of Orlando, a 25-year veteran teacher, was named Vocational Home Economics Teacher of the Year for 1976 at the State Vocational Meeting held at the Sheraton Twin Towers, near Disney World, on Aug. 10. She was presented a plaque to commemorate the occasion. Mrs. Baxley is the author of several curriculum guides in the field of home economics which are used in Florida schools. A new edition of her home economics textbook, "Teen Guide to Homemaking," is now in the works. She retired this year from the Orange County School system where her most recent was a tribute to the Biocultural B was inducted from the Fashion Square Mall, Orlando. "Louise is such a beautiful person, giving so much to her community and the Educational field," commended her daughter, Carol Hooper of Oviedo. Mrs. Baxley and her husband, Fatsos, have another daughter, Jane Dawn of Gulfport, Miss. and six grandchildren.

Bridal Showers Honor Miss Duncan, Bridesmaids

Betty Lou Duncan, bride-elect of William Bordeaux Jr. of Greenville, N.C. has been entertained at a series of pre-nuptial parties.

Mrs. Ben F. Wade was hostess at a miscellaneous shower at her Grove Manor Drive home, on Aug. 11, honoring Miss Duncan. Co-hostesses were Rebecca Cramer and Lou Ann Wade. Guests played bridge games in a yellow and white setting and shared the enthusiasm of the bride-elect as she opened her lovely gifts. Party refreshments were served from a table overlaid with a white linen and lace filigree cloth accented with silver appointments.

Joining the hostesses and honoree were Mrs. W. Hugh (Lanora) Duncan, the honor's grandmother; Deborah Duncan, her sister; Martha Grogan, Ruth Brown, Irma Billinger, Betty Hart, Vida Smith, Linda Depay, Peggy Conrad, Gladys Wray, Jean Wright and Iole Walker.

Mrs. William B. Wray, aunt of the bride-elect, and her daughter, Jean Wright from Syracuse, N.Y., entertained Miss Duncan and her bridesmaids at the traditional bridesmaid's luncheon on Aug. 13 at the Wray home on Valencia Drive.

The bride's table, covered with an arrangement of variegating shades of pink roses. Another dining table set in pink, was arranged on the "living" porch in a setting of white wicker furnishings.

The bride-elect and her attendants honored Deborah Duncan, maid of honor; and bridesmaids Kathy Kimes, Mary Bordeaux and Martha Bordeaux.

Others attending were Mrs. W. Hugh Duncan, Mrs. Jean Wright, Gladys Wray, Jean Wright, Emily Kimes, Peggy W. Kimes and daughters, Lisa and Betsy. Mrs. W. Kimes, Mrs. W. Malcolm Bordeaux, Lee Ann Salpeter of Tallahassee, and Mrs. William Warfield and Miss Debbie Warfield of Johnson City, Tenn.

Political Loudmouth Loses Friends

DEAR ABBY: I'm probably not a very intelligent, informed and well-read man. The problem is that whenever we are out socially, he gets on politics and always manages to get into a shouting match with somebody. We are practically without friends at this point because most of the people we know don't share our political views. I have asked my husband to "please stay off politics when we're socializing," but it's in his ear and out the other. He has very strong feelings about the way our country is being run, and he's very outspoken. How can I get him to keep his mouth shut when he knows he's confronting someone who is just as loyal to his political party as he is?

LEVITTOWN, PA.

DEAR LEV: You probably can't. A lively political debate can be stimulating, informative and fun, but when it becomes a shouting match, it's a waste of energy for the combatants and an embarrassment for the witnesses.

DEAR ABBY: My son-in-law thinks it's great fun to trip his little 3-year-old son when the child walks past him. Then he laughs loudly when the boy falls flat on his face. Meanwhile, the child ends up crying, hurt as from humiliation and the feeling of betrayal. When they were visiting us last Christmas, my husband

New Book Tells How Anyone Can Make A Crepe

Many Americans think it's a crepe concocted served in a flanging dish at elegant gourmet restaurants. It is, but it's also an economical main course, a palate-pleasing lunch or supper, and a way to fit dozens of delicious eye-opening dinners.

Mabel Hoffmann popularizes the crepe

There's no special kind of skillet required. Once you learn how to make them, you'll find them so versatile and delicious they are, you'll probably want a special pan just for crepes. The traditional type or one of the new upside-down griddles. "People think they are fancy and difficult to make just because the word crepes is French. Basically they are simple foods developed by nearly every nationality," she adds. "How about the Mexican enchilada, the Jewish Blintz, the Hungarian palacsinta, Chinese egg roll, Scandinavian plattar, or Italian cannelloni — those are all crepes."

Do's, Don't Guide Seniors

DO eat a variety of foods every day from grains, fruits, vegetables, low-fat dairy, and milk products. It's the key to a healthy diet. Use fresh, frozen, dried, canned, and packaged foods and your own well-packaged leftovers. DON'T follow fads or give up whole groups of foods without your doctor's advice. Nutrition is more than fresh, more than protein, more than just after a meal — it's good for you and your digestion. DON'T pass up milk. You need calcium and your bones can put it to good use. DO entertain and have a bit over your own meals and snacks. Food should be a delight for you and your guests. Occasional co-op meals with neighbors make life and food even livelier.

Lake Mary Couple Makes Trek To Reunion

By DORIS DIETRICH
Herald Correspondent
Lillian Corden, whose business has been beauty for more than 30 years, and her husband, Clifford, hit the highways for a month-long trek which carried them to Northern Michigan.

The young senior citizens (he's 78 and she's 71) drove their own car, and according to them, they had the time of their lives.

Highlighting the trip for Lillian was attending her 22nd high school class reunion at Elkhart, Ind. It was here that she reunited with her "date" who took her to the Junior-Senior Prom in 1954, and who later became a football superstar at Notre Dame in the '20's. Out of the class of 134, 90 attended the event.

During their vacation, the couple visited with her cousin and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hilligan of Hillside, Mich. They also visited with his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Corden at Elkhart. After all these years, Lillian

Bell Employees Organize New Pioneers Club

To be a member of the Telephone Pioneers Club, you have to be a telephone employe at least 19 years. Now that's a long time. So a club for more recent employes has been formed — Future Pioneers — and is catching on well across the country. It was decided July 1 to organize a Sanford chapter of Future Pioneers, and the club will hold its first program Sept. 2 — a film presentation, "They Said It Couldn't Be Done," at Lakeview Nursing Center. Members of the community service organization checking out Lakeview's facilities with activities director June Miller (second right) include (from left) Pat Maxwell, Sandy Trospen, Nelson Thornton, director; Russ Kifer, Pioneers past president, and Jean Meyer, co-director.

Lake Mary Couple Makes Trek To Reunion

has finally closed the doors of her beauty shop in her Lake Mary home. She has "bent" thousands of strands of unruly hair into beautiful curls for women in the area. She said, "Just last week, I got out the scissors and shaped a former customer's hair after it had been 'botched' by her new operator."

Until just recently, Lillian's customers just would not let her retire. Now the former beauty shop has been converted into a family room.

What do the active Correns do in their retirement? Lillian laughed with, "We do exactly what we want to do. We are busy now remodeling, and even feeding and watching the birds from the new family room is a real joy."

James Wade, mother of the bride-elect; Mrs. Jay T. Cosmato, mother of the future bridegroom; and Mrs. Ben Wade of Sanford, and Mrs. Vina Holloway of Apopka, grandmothers of the honor guest. Also Glenda Alderman, Debbie Brunley.

Bridal Shower Honors Lou Ann Wade

Mrs. Clarence Cranmer and daughters, Rebecca and Tracy, were hostesses at their Salsuma Drive home to a miscellaneous shower on Aug. 7 honoring Lou Ann Wade.

Miss Wade will become the bride of Richard J. Cosmato on Aug. 28 at First Baptist Church.

Highlight of the event was the honoree opening her many gifts. A color scheme of yellow and green was carried out in the decor and refreshments.

Others attending were Mrs. Mrs. Clarence Cranmer and daughters, Rebecca and Tracy, were hostesses at their Salsuma Drive home to a miscellaneous shower on Aug. 7 honoring Lou Ann Wade.

Folk Festival Sets Concerts, Workshops

Workshops and song swap sessions will feature some of the Florida Folk Festival favorite performers during the 20th annual renewal of the family-oriented event at the Stephen Foster Center here Labor Day weekend.

Barbara Muller of Lake Mary, Gamble Robertson of St. Augustine and Robert Dixon of Miami, are just a few of the featured entertainers who will join artists from several other states in the special workshop activities.

All eight Florida Folk Festival programs are scheduled on the Foster amphitheater stage, while the six workshop events will be held nearby, along the Suwannee River.

Participating in song swap sessions will be Gamble Rogers, nationally-known guitarist, singer and fiddle-tender; Dan Tillinghast, guitarist-singer, a former Floridian now living in Georgia; Graham

Bucs:

TAMPA (AP) — Larry Ball doesn't think he's second best. But he's listed on the depth charts as the No. 2 left linebacker for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, behind three-year veteran Calvin Peterson.

"The season's not here yet and I don't believe it," said Ball, 27, a native of Rushville, Ill.

This is the fifth National Football League season for the 6-foot-6 defensive player. He spent three years with the Miami Dolphins and was acquired by Detroit in 1973. The expansion Bucs got him from the Lions this year in the veteran Calvin Peterson.

"They'll have to call me aside and tell me I'm No. 2 before I believe it," he said. "The Bucs have been starting different people all the time. And as far as I'm concerned the lineup isn't set yet."

Although Ball played for Miami, including the 1972-73 NFL championship games, he doesn't think that will give him an advantage when the 1-2 Bucs take on the 3-0 Dolphins Saturday in a preseason game at Tampa Stadium.

"There are different players there and some coaching changes," said Ball. "They've got to make some changes."

"They don't go for frills," he said. "They come at you and execute. They concentrate on making fewer mistakes than the other team."

The Dolphins' Bob Griese is a smart quarterback in Ball's opinion. "He has the physical ability to throw and he uses his head."

Besides Lawrence, the Bucs have three other quarterbacks, veteran Steve Spurrier, rookie Parrnell Dickinson and Gary Valbuena, who was recently acquired from the Miami Dolphins.

Bucs Get Lawrence, Lose Foote

TAMPA (AP) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers have acquired quarterback Larry Lawrence from the Oakland Raiders of the National Football League and have waived free agent Jim Foote.

A two-year NFL veteran, Lawrence also spent two seasons with the Canadian Football League. He played for Calgary in 1970 and Edmonton the following year. He did not play football in 1972-73.

Foote, from Delaware State, had been in the Bucs' training camp, but has not played in the team's preseason action.

Ball thinks Tampa's win last

Tampa linebacker Larry Ball can't believe he is No. 2 on the depth chart and he gets a chance to prove it Saturday night in Tampa when the Dolphins come to town.

Dolphins:

MIAMI (AP) — The new responsibility of being the Miami Dolphins' No. 1 free safety doesn't frighten Barry Hill one bit. He's already got visions of being All-Pro.

"I'm the man," he says now that the Dolphins have suspended veteran free safety Jake Scott without pay for his refusal to play in a National Football League exhibition game.

Hill, 23, a second-year pro from Iowa State, said, "I think I'm just as good as he is. And with a little bit more playing time, I'll be better than Jake."

Hill may well have the opportunity to prove himself. Dolphins Coach Don Shula suspended Scott Monday, the latest incident in their deteriorating relationship. Citing a shoulder injury, Scott had refused to play against Philadelphia Saturday.

Scott's doctor said he was able to play and medication would alleviate any pain. Scott said he shouldn't have to play an exhibition game with a pain-killer.

"I'd like to make All-Pro or something. With Jake gone, there will be more pressure on me, but now I know more about the game."

"Jake and I have basically the same style, you know. We watch the quarterback and try to get a jump on the ball. Last year I wouldn't make as many

Bears Waive Ted Powell

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — The Chicago Bears have cut their training roster to 58 players by asking waivers on tight end Ted Powell.

Powell, a 220-pounder from Ohio State, joined the Bears Aug. 1 as a free agent from the New York Giants. He played for Birmingham in the World Football League in 1974 and 1975.

Bowling Green Names Coach

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Nora Liu, Lehman (N.Y.) College basketball coach, has accepted a similar position at Bowling Green State University.

The Mid-American Conference school also announced three other women's coaching appointments. Sue Gavron in field hockey, Joan Weston in tennis and Sally Hattig in golf.

Chiefs Add Defender

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Free agent Melvin Wilson, a defensive back from California State-Northridge, was signed Wednesday by the Kansas City Chiefs to help fill their injury-riddled defensive backfield.

The Chiefs said they placed two rookie defensive backs — Rudy Viney and Steve Bograkos — on the injured-reserve list to make room for Wilson. Viney and Bograkos underwent surgery and are out for the season after injuries suffered in Sunday's National Football League preseason game in San Francisco.

Wilson was a fifth-round draft choice of the New York Giants this year and was acquired on waivers by the Chiefs.

Transsexual Refuses Sex Test, 'Chances At Forest Hill-Zero'

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Renee Richards, who was Dr. Richard Raskind before undergoing a sex change operation, doesn't think she has a chance of playing tennis at Forest Hills.

She's refused to take the chromosome test that the United States Open championships have ordered this year for all the women entries. Although the 11-year-old ophthalmologist says there will be an appeal, she termed her chances of success "zero."

As Richard Raskind, she played a youngster, practiced medicine and faced outstanding tennis in the East. Last year the sex change operation was performed.

Now Dr. Richards wears tennis dresses and when she held a news conference Wednesday, she also wore a pink sweater.

A left-hander standing six feet tall, she showed power in her serves and forhand smashes while on the court. Although many believe that she would be a strong factor at Forest Hills, she said the younger women must be favored.

The transsexual Dr. Richards will play in the Tennis Week Open this weekend at South Orange, N.J., but she says the only reason she has come into the spotlight is that someone revealed her identity.

"I moved 3,000 miles and went into practice here," she said. "I played in tournaments in Orange County, Calif., without incident. When I played in La Jolla a television newsman revealed my identity."

"If that hadn't happened, I don't think I would have even tried to play at Forest Hills."

She said, "Although I never intended for my life to become public knowledge and, in fact, I went to tremendous lengths to keep it private, my playing in the tournament in La Jolla exposed my privacy and opened up a very important social issue."

She added that she welcomed the opportunity of becoming an example "and invested myself in the task of doing something about it."

However, she would not discuss her former wife and child. She did say that she could not have continued her life as a male and for 12 years before the operation in 1975 she had been preparing for it.

Dr. Richards said her medical license to practice ophthalmology — the function and diseases of the eye — still carries the dual names of Renee Richards and Richard Raskind. She hopes to have the latter removed shortly.

She wears her hair in a page boy cut, talks with a husky tone and appears distinctly feminine.

She says that although she doesn't expect to be permitted into the Forest Hills tournament, she will continue trying and perhaps go to the courts to seek a legal entry into major women's events.

"Anatomically, functionally, socially, emotionally and legally, I am female," she declared in a news release she read to reporters. "I play competitive tennis in women's events because I am a female."
