

Finland Is A Grim Nation Compared To Norway And Denmark

(Editor's Note: Following is the fifth in a series of articles concerning their recent trip to Russia and the Scandinavian countries by R. H. and A. M. Haskell.)

We spent a week in Finland before going to Russia. In a way it was a transition period. Finland could be classified as grim in comparison to Norway and Denmark. It was gray when compared to Russia.

In the case of Finland, we were about a week early for the opening of the tourist season. If we had been a little later there would have been much more to do—like taking steamers or trips through the chain of lakes, which friends tell us is delightful.

Finland has a great shortage of hotels. It is a city of half a million people and has only two hotels which occupy an entire building by themselves.

Finland is a multi-lingual and is, understandably, a shifting scene for wives of Americans stationed in Leningrad and Moscow, many of whom dream of a few days' break to go to Finland, because it is so pleasant compared to Russia.

One of the great institutions of Helsinki is Stockman's department store. It is the largest in northern Europe and sells everything from an automobile to a raincoat.

After several days in Helsinki we went to the railroad station to catch a train for Turku, port city and former capital. I have seen a lot of drunken people at one time and another, but never as many as I saw in the heart of Helsinki that drunk staggering around on the station platform. We talked to friends about the drinking situation in Finland and Russia. They said the public drunkenness we observed was nothing new, that stores written about both countries a century or more ago referred to the same conditions. Some questioned whether there was much more drunkenness in Finland and Russia than there was in other countries and thought that it is just more socially acceptable for drunks to be seen in public, so that the police didn't take action.

Turku is a delightful, rather sleepy city which, except for most ferry lines running from Scandinavia and northern Europe to Finland, would be off the beaten path. The city is bisected by a beautiful river, lined by parks. It had an interesting old castle and, like Turku, which lies north of Helsinki, had sculpture.

I remember a number of years ago reading a serious work on modern painting trends. This book dismissed the Scandinavian countries, Finland and Russia saying there was little of interest in contemporary painting to be seen. This is just not so. There is a lot of new painting in all these countries and the quality is astonishingly high.

In general, the people seemed to be having a much less fun than the Norwegians and the Danes. We were able to have serious discussions with only two Finns. They both felt the country was far too conservative and was lagging behind Norway, Sweden and Denmark when it came to developing new social and industrial concepts.

Fastest Gunmen In Southwest?

Whether the Sanford policemen just don't like cold beans, or they don't know a policeman is "supposed" to shoot his gun, is not known today. But the Altamonte Police Department is upset over a challenge they made to the Sanford Police Department.

It seems the Altamonte policemen want to have a team shooting match under the standard police team shooting rules. But the Sanford policemen, maybe just a little worried about the consolation prize, a meal consisting of beans, have said they will compete only with FBI competition rules.

Altamonte, with their minds on the steaks that would go to the winners, feel that according to the Code of Honor, the first challenge should be met, and then if the Sanford Police Department would like to re-challenge to a different type of meet it would come at a later date.

In a resolution adopted by the Altamonte pistol team, and sent to the Sanford pistol team, they said, "As Southern Gentlemen, we make allowances for and endure by the exercise of great restraint, the remarks in your (Sanford pistol team) of the fifteenth instant, wherein in manifestly yanked language you make certain veiled and false insinuations. On July 19, our pistols shall bespeak our answers. Prepare to defend yourselves."

To the Sanford Police Department, the Altamonte policemen say, "Will it be steak knives or can openers? Choose your weapons!"

MACHINERY is further adding to the plight of the migrant field worker, featured in a TV "white paper" report last night (see page 3A). Jack Simms this morning introduced a new "reaper" for field corn to be used as ensilage. The combine cuts the corn stalk off close to the ground and grinds the corn, stalk and all else into cattle feed. Simms raised this corn on Henry Wright's property on East SR 46 and sold the crop to Joe Baker.

Love Your Enemies

By REV. JULIUS BYERS
First United Methodist Church

In the long ago, Jesus said, to the people about Him "love your enemies." Undoubtedly such a statement shocked them, they couldn't believe their ears. It was a new thought, a new concept that they couldn't accept. Yet, today, we still do not accept this teaching.

We say, "yes, wouldn't it be wonderful if everyone would love his enemies, but that kind of thinking is too idealistic; it's not facting the facts. Of course, in this 20th century we are forced with a grim fact and that is if you don't learn to live together in peace, the alternate is annihilation. And with this new fact we must take seriously Jesus' commandment "love your enemies."

Now the Christian way of loving enemies is to get rid of all the bitterness and enmity that sets man against man, nation against nation, and race against race. From the life of Abraham Lincoln, we get a concrete idea of how this can be done. During the Civil War, when bitterness and animosity was at its height, at a White House reception he made a kind remark about the South. A woman became indignant, shocked that he could speak kindly of his enemies when he should want to destroy them. Lincoln said, "Madam, do not destroy my enemies when I make them my friends."

To be sure, you and I lack the ability today to make our enemies our friends. The only way to make them so is to destroy our enemies by violence. We need to learn that we are not enemies with weapons that we are not accustomed to using, weapons of love and forgiveness.

Bishop Hazen Werner tells the following story of a man who we went to the Pacific during World War II. "Getting on the train at the end of his last leave, there were so many things I should have said and didn't. Now he's going away and I may not see him again. If he's killed, I hope every Jap will die. What am I saying? I can't even think that and he's a Christian. When he left, I got into my car and drove off into the country, and it kept coming back 'if he dies, I hope every Jap will die.' Forgiveness me, Lord, for the thought I thought it. A ministered there a year later, there was a reality. We lost him, but I was ready, I had faced it. We're taking his insurance money and we're putting it into missions for Japan; for what Japs needs, and what we all need, is no more punishment but redemption."

And there you have the answer! It is the same answer Christ gave us long ago when he said, "Father forgive them; they know not what they do." We need to learn that same forgiving spirit that Christ had that could help us get rid of the enmity and bitterness that make enemies and make them our friends.

Governor To Oppose Busing At Manatee

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) Gov. Claude Kirk announced Thursday he will oppose forced or voluntary busing in Manatee County schools and immediately drew charges he was "playing politics."

Kirk made the announcement at a meeting of Florida school board members to discuss the status of federal desegregation suits and ways to block busing of students to achieve racial integration.

Kirk, who is seeking another term in office, said he might ask the U. S. Supreme Court to return, early from its summer recess to rule on the constitutionality of forced busing.

After Kirk issued his warning about opposing force or voluntary busing to Manatee County school attorney Kenneth Cleary, Republican gubernatorial candidate Jack Eckerd said he had a "grim suspicion" that Kirk intended to deal with the busing problem "by keeping our schools closed."

"The months of grandstanding and neglect indicate strongly and clearly that the governor is trying to force his cynical deceptions on the people and the children of Florida," Eckerd said.

"If the schools don't open on schedule, it will be because the governor is desperate to be re-elected," Eckerd charged.

Florida's schools are scheduled to open Sept. 8, the same day as the state's first political primary.

Lutheran Confab

SAN FRANCISCO — Dr. Orval C. J. Hoffman, speaker on the Lutheran Hour; Dr. W. Raedke, secretary for evangelism for the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod; and Dr. Victor L. Helmken, vice president of LCMS, will be the main speakers at the 43rd annual convention here of the Lutheran Laymen's League.

The convention, set for July 25-29 in the Hilton Hotel, is expected to be attended by some 2,000 LLL members and their families from various parts of the United States and Canada.

The theme of the convention "One World, One Christ" is especially related to the mass media project of the LLL—the Lutheran Hour, television's "This Is the Life" and the Preaching Through the Press ministry of the printed page. The sessions will be directed toward furthering the cause of Christ's Gospel throughout the world, said Dr. Eugene D. Berntson, executive director of the national EPA Council.

Clustering Brings Remarkable Results

By LOUIS CASSELL
UPI Religion Writer

Clustering, you may have heard, is something groups do. But it also is something churches do. When done properly, it can yield remarkably good results.

Clustering is the term churchmen have coined for arrangements in which several local churches of the same denomination or different denominations enter into a working alliance.

Each congregation continues to maintain its separate identity and conduct its own worship services as it always has done, but the cooperating churches pool their resources to do a better job in some traditional fields of activity, such as youth work, and to embark on new forms of ministry and service to the community which none of them could provide alone.

For example, instead of each congregation having a youth group, the cluster may bring all of its young people into a single strong organization, which can offer a broader and more attractive program of weekly meetings, retreats, camping trips, etc., than any one church could possibly sustain.

Similarly, women's associations of the several congregations may conduct joint programs of study and service. These are traditional church activities, and the effect of clustering on them is simply to improve their quality.

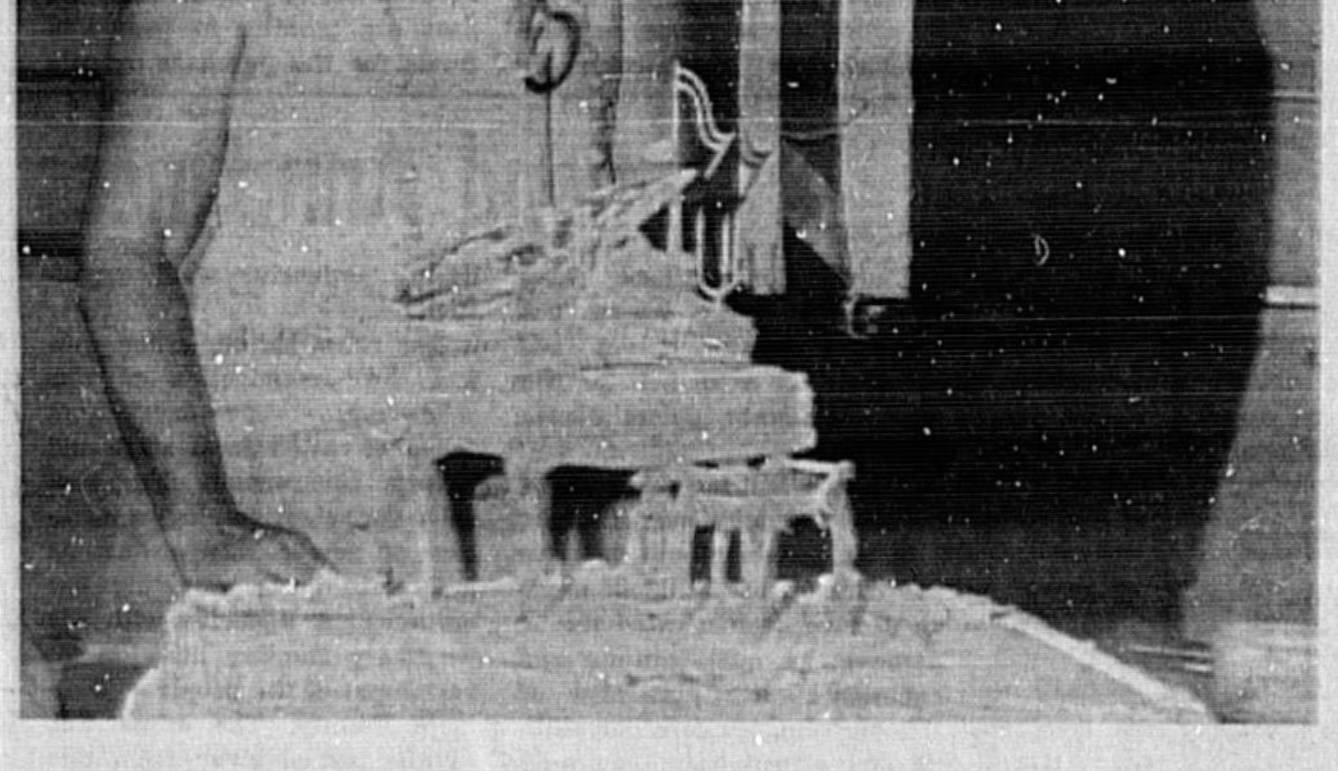

But clustering also makes possible for cooperating churches to venture into new fields and reach people who aren't much interested in traditional church activities.

For example, a cluster may operate a coffee house or drop-in center for college students. It may sponsor a day-care center, a drug counseling center, a draft service for children of working mothers, or remedial reading classes for disadvantaged youngsters who are falling behind in school.

The cost of any of these activities, in money and volunteer manpower, could be more than one congregation could handle but well within the reach of half a dozen churches working together.

Two major Protestant denominations, the United Church of Christ and the United Presbyterian Church, have been actively pushing the cluster concept during the past year, and are encouraged by the practical results.

To give further impetus to the movement, they have jointly issued a 20-page pamphlet entitled "Guidelines for the Development of Local Church Clusters." Copies are being distributed to all clergy men in both denominations. Any other pastor or layman interested in the idea may obtain a copy from the headquarters of either denomination for a quarter.

Claude Kirk, governor of Florida, following Thursday night's NBC-TV expose "Migrant" with Chet Huntley.

While state political leaders cried of unfairness, members of Congress from elsewhere expressed concern for the low-paid field and grove workers who harvest Florida's rich citrus and vegetable crops.

Royal Pair Captivating Capital

By MARGUERITE DAVIS
WASHINGTON (UPI)

Princess Charles ran down the 88 steps of the Washington Monument Thursday night with David Eisenhower, and led his charmed American hosts on a tour of the capital.

The 21-year-old heir to the British throne and his sister Princess Anne received a royal White House welcome Thursday after arriving for a three-day visit, then skipped off with young Eisenhower and the Nixon daughters for a round of swimming, skeet shooting and sightseeing.

Mom of the same was on tap for today with a tour of the Capitol and a meeting with congressional leaders: a visit to the Smithsonian Institution; a cruise down the Potomac to Mount Vernon; a party at the British Embassy and a formal supper dance on the White House lawn.

Anne appeared reserved during the Thursday tour, seldom smiling. But Charles captivated his new American friends with a display of poise, sportsmanship and boyish exuberance.

"He's a terrific person," said young Eisenhower, who confessed he had run down the Washington Monument was "heavy going at first."

The others in the party—Anne, Tricia Nixon and Julie Eisenhower—took the elevator down.

"We were chicken," Julie said.

The moonlight tour of Washington's historic sites included the Lincoln Memorial, the Two Jims statue and the Capitol.

It had been a day of one-upmanship for Charles, who also put on a dazzling show of smartness at a play picnic with a double-barreled shotgun at Camp David, the President's Maryland mountain retreat.

Charles' obvious exuberance was in striking contrast to Anne's glum looks and rare smiles.

"She's in a mood," explained one Britisher in her traveling party.

The sightseeing tour followed a four-hour visit to Camp David, where the royal visitors met some 20 friends and relatives of the White House children.

"Everybody was on a first-name basis," said Greg Peterson of Arlington, Va., an intern at the White House. "Everyone got along just great."

"The price is very charming," he added.

Murder Count

LONDON (AP) — The number of murders in England and Wales fell to 125 in 1969—the lowest figure for three years. It compares with 148 in 1968 and 154 in 1967, the British Home Office says.

"No group is more in need of justice," said Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., regarding the migrant work force. He said his hopes are that justice will finally come to our migrant workers.

Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., said significant strides have been made in 10 years in this field, but that it's still far short of being fully a part of the American dream.

As the plight of the laborer was shown nationally, migrant worker Dora Mae Dorn sat on her bed with her family and watched on a TV set as yet un-

"I bought clothes for my children this week," she smiled, "but I had to use my welfare check to do it." Mrs. Dora Dorn is at present since the picking season is over.

Sun faces dominated the hour long show narrated by Huntley and produced by youthful Martin Carr.

"Poor people like us just don't have a chance," said a black woman on the film. "We have to pick fruit and different stuff. We pick what we can get."

Racial overtones emerged throughout the special. A sign on a backwoods business proclaimed: "No Niggers, Puerto Ricans or Mexicans." Celery worker Andrew Davis referred to workers as "darkies" and said "Negro people are fine, but they have children to suffer the fate of the fields and her inter-view came to a painful end with head buried in hands.

Huntley pointed out that 65 per cent of the migrant force is black and 35 per cent of Mexican descent.

"If you want to be down and act like a Negro and be dirty along, she worked once while pregnant, not quitting until two weeks before enduring child birth.

Ernest Jarvis, a black man who said his piece on the film's documentary that he "earned national statistics that claim the average man of the field lives to age 49."

However, migrant wife Mrs. Aubrey Gray said she did not have children to suffer the fate of the fields and her interview came to a painful end with head buried in hands.

Mathew's Gubernatorial Drive Is All-Florida!

As the perplexed gubernatorial hopefuls in the Democratic party go about finding the team with which each wants to win the game at the November elections and end the four years of Republican occupancy of the Mansion, there is one who has especially won our plaudits.

Mr. Glessendanner had to wet his feet in the political waters with results which showed his ability to accept defeat and grow from it. Add to this, his vital statistics which record him as a native Tallahassee with close ties in that northern region.

Thus when it was learned that Mack N. Cleveland, Jr., of Sanford was to be the campaign manager for the Mathews drive we were delighted.

It is also a matter of considerable comfort to realize that this choice by Candidate Mathews is one more witness to the increasing attention which Central Florida is getting from all candidates for all offices on the ballot.

Please Do STOP!

Slagorization of the public mind is a matter which has attained so much respect that it often appears all that is needed to bring about a change in habits or morals or customs is a slogan.

But this is not, in fact, a truism. Many times it becomes a soporific to allow slumber and ease when this is not at all what is required.

Take, for instance, the publicized "Arrive Alive" slogan which has the task of keeping motorists safe while driving along the highways and byways of this lovely Sunshine state.

But another summer week-end is upon us. One more unit of time when the horrid statistics of fatalities will be announced, recording the cost of automobile use or misuse.

We are all for slogans. We are all for the effective moves made by police and state troopers to enforce traffic regulations.

But we are non-plussed every so often when two situations develop which are beyond slogans. They are simple, human and dangerous.

One is the blocking of the drivers' vision at street intersections by an overgrowth of weeds or shrubs which makes the turning of a corner, even at its best, a sort of auto "Russian Roulette."

The other is the refusal of some drivers to STOP when the traffic sign says "STOP." We read many newspapers and it is rare that a few days will pass by without the recording of fatal accidents caused by the driver who "ran the red light" or rolled out from "STOP" into eternity.

How do we get obstructing weeds and shrubs cut down? How do we get drivers to truly obey traffic signs all the time? To these we have no answers. Do you?

Judicial Choices Plague Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If President Nixon picks one particular way to rejoin Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., for fighting two Senate confirmations battles for him, he could precipitate yet another of those battles.

Hruska built considerable credit at the White House by campaigning—even though in losing causes—on behalf of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. and G. Harold Carswell, Nixon's first two choices for a Supreme Court vacancy.

Now Hruska wants to draw on that credit by having the President name Donald R. Ross, an Omaha lawyer, to the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals vacancy created when Nixon's third choice, Judge Harry A. Blackmun, was elevated to the Supreme Court.

Selection of Ross could produce a post-mortem of one of the scandals of the Eisenhower administration. And quiet word is going around Capitol corridors that Senate liberals could be expected to take up arms all over again if Nixon goes along with Hruska and his Nebraska colleague, GOP Sen. Carl T. Curtis.

There also could be political backlash against Hruska himself. Ross, now a Nebraska GOP national committeeman, resigned as U.S. attorney in the middle of the aforementioned scandal, although he was described as a victim of circumstances in the matter.

The 1968 uproar involved the lobbying efforts of one John M. Neff on behalf of Superior Oil Company, which wanted a helpful natural gas bill enacted.

Neff, a Lexington, Neb., lawyer, set Sen. Francis Case, R-S.D., (now deceased) an unsolicited $2.50 campaign contribution, which Case refused. Case then made a speech about the offer and a Senate investigation followed.

The natural gas bill was subsequently enacted, but vetoed by President Dwight D. Eisenhower. During the inquiry, Ross volunteered that Neff had asked him to intercede with Hruska and Curtis for the bill, also.

Alvarez - Law - And - Order Man

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign News Analyst. LUIS Echeverria Alvarez, Mexico's president, is a man who ran "scared" even though he is a law and order man who will be pleasing to the United States because even before election he declared himself in favor of international standards on the Mexican revolution of 1910. It is a catch-all party embracing peasants, labor unions and industrialists, and it has not lost an election since its founding 40 years ago.

By airplane, helicopter, train, bus and motorcycle, Echeverria Alvarez covered more than 100,000 miles during his campaign, visiting all of Mexico's 29 states and two territories. He is a 48-year-old father of eight children whose stamina enabled him to shake thousands of hands, to campaign under the sun in 85-degree heat and to partake with apparent gusto of countless campaign meals of cheese, salted beef with beans and chili and stewed plums.

He saw with horror the economic a-b-a-i problems which beset that half of Mexico's 40 million people untouched by the country's burgeoning prosperity. Before his campaign ended he had accumulated some 50,000 petitions, most of them asking for improved schools, water supplies, hospitals and roads. Aside from these he took his own endless notes.

He made few promises and remains something of an enigma. But there have been hints he will move quickly both to still student unrest, perhaps by bringing young people into PRI ruling circles, and to do something about the mounting dissatisfaction he saw in the country.

He took his election victory modestly. Referring to his term as a "job which will end in 1976," he said: "We will see at the end of six years whether I have won."

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember that bachelor girl gets tired of hearing: "You'll love this guy, Beulah. He's still got all his own teeth."

"Sorry, Miss, no offense intended, but as a matter of policy we never serve escorted ladies at all at the bar."

"How do you mean, just one? This is our rush hour. I'm afraid there will be a half-hour wait for singles."

"This is your own mother talking, Beulah. Frankly, I don't think it is physically safe or emotionally wise for a young lady your age to be living alone."

"Well, I guess you still haven't given up hope, you Beulah? If you had, you'd have probably bought yourself a cat or a parakeet."

"Maybe she's got a secret goal—such as trying to stop the human population explosion all by herself."

"Charlie and I have had an hour terrible fight over how much I spent over my budget, Beulah. Mind if I took over and sleep on your sofa tonight?"

"You'll love this guy, Beulah. I almost married him myself once."

"I'd propose to you myself, Beulah, but you know how narrow-minded my wife is."

"She and the kids left yesterday to spend two weeks with her folks, so I just thought I'd call you up and see if—"

"This column also learned, on returning from vacation (maybe we should take another right now), that we goofed in the guessing on Dan Pelham's successor to the County Commission.

The Republican party following is unhappy about this, too. But then, we just learned that Gov. Claude Kirk's local patronage committee didn't have much to say on Sid Vilhen's appointment to the Commission. We now are told that when the local delegation delivered that horse shit to the Governor at Tallahassee, there was a brief ceremony and then the delegation was excused while Kirk and Vilhen had a private discussion.

By political policies elsewhere, the appointment should have gone to Dot Meadows. Two years ago, Pelham defeated the incumbent, John Fitzpatrick, and Vilhen, in the Democratic primary and then Dot in the general election. Dot had spent her money and time supporting the Republican party and campaigning in her own behalf. Dot was theological contender.

George Harden popped into the picture. He had been a registered Republican for a number of years and spent some of his money supporting the party. He was the most surprised when Vilhen's garnered the nomination. And Vilhen has been a registered Republican for only a few months. He and Kirk have something in common: Both are Democrats-turned-Republican.

Hospital Defensible School Plan Is Urged

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — State Education Commissioner Floyd Christian urged school board attorneys Thursday to prepare desegregation plans which are "educationally sound" and "legally defensible."

The commissioner spoke at a meeting attended by many of the attorneys of Florida's 67 county school boards. It was called by Gov. Claude Kirk to deal with problems facing the schools in the fall.

"I hope everything is done so we don't have disruption in September. We don't need it," Christian said.

The school official stressed that those counties which must submit new pupil assignment plans should prepare programs that are educationally sound. He said this can be done under the so-called "neighborhood concept" of desegregation.

Also, he advised that they make them legally defensible by avoiding "gerrymandering" districts. That can get you in trouble," Christian seemed pleased with the meeting, although he expressed disappointment that it could not have been held in coordination with a meeting of county superintendents going on in Tampa.

"I viewed this first with some suspicion, in view of the political season," said the Democrat.

Richard Cooney, Sarasota County school attorney, said officials there found one solution to the anger of black citizens that can be engendered by the closing of a black school.

He said Sarasota officials are reopening a formerly all-black school this fall as an experimental facility, drawing 1,500 of the 2,500 students from across the county to a district base.

Orange County's school board attorney, James Markie, advised his colleagues to ask courts to respect "natural boundaries" in setting pupil assignment plans.

Orange's new desegregation plan required the closing of a facility which "antagonized black principals," he said, but this did not upset school officials because many operated "little kingdoms" and were "out of the mainstream" of the school system.

Pinellas County School Supt. Thomas Southard, substituting for his board attorney, said a recent desegregation plan prepared by Pinellas by a federal judge amounts to "a lot of non-sense."

The judge used two-year-old, outdated school maps and figures and handed down a plan which was "an impossible situation," Gov. Kirk remarked. "I think it is time to make the courts sit up and do their work."

But, at the same time, Adams said he feels it's better—if the course appears necessary—to be tight with spending now, even on checks to the elderly and poor, rather than writing them checks now that will be faster than those later.

"Frankly, I'd rather hold up than giving a rubber check," said Secretary of State Tom Adams.

Nothing further on the budget picture will be taken this week. Budget officials in the State Department of Administration have been directed to get all the latest figures, including revised estimates, they can to fill in all the gaps.

Budget Study Turns To '69-70

By JIM PUKES, Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A key to whether the State Cabinet must impose some form of restrictions on government spending appears to hinge largely on how the checkbook looks for fiscal 1969-70.

Cabinet officials and budget experts agreed Thursday they need to know the total paid out so far for the recently ended fiscal year, and how many bills are outstanding.

The 1969-70 fiscal year ended June 30.

Once these figures are in, they'll get a better idea of what amount is left over and can be carried into the present fiscal year to help handle a budget Gov. Claude Kirk says is $3.9 million in the red.

More data is expected to be available by next Tuesday, at which time Cabinet officials—after a special meeting called by Kirk—agreed to review the situation and decide whether to adopt his recommendations, about 2 per cent in spending.

Other questions to be decided from the additional data will be whether the state could run into the danger later of writing checks that will bounce, and whether a holdback would have an unhealthy effect on state government.

"This holdback" traumatized everything in government," said Secretary of State Tom Adams.

Nothing further on the budget picture will be taken this week. Budget officials in the State Department of Administration have been directed to get all the latest figures, including revised estimates, they can to fill in all the gaps.

Active Duty

Calls Courier

Who will be at the reigns of the Oviedo High football team this September when they open up against the Fighting Seminoles of Sanford. One thing is certain, it won't be head football coach Jim Courier, who took the job replacing Herman Lofton.

The Herald learned from confidential sources and confirmed today the fact that Courier has been called into active duty by the National Guard. He is slated to leave sometime in August for six months of active duty.

Oviedo High principal Clyde Holder told The Herald that the football coach had not been selected, but that it would likely be one of the three assistants. Assistants include athletic director Ralph Stumpf, Tony Wise and Claude Dozier.

Stumpf would be a likely choice for the job as he was head football coach at Seminole High before moving to the coaching position in Oviedo.

Stumpf has many years of coaching experience and is a qualified and dedicated leader. Holder said he expected to make the coaching decision by August 1.

The team will begin their football practice in mid-August, preparing for their opener which will come some two or three weeks after the school year begins.

SANFORD NATIONAL LEAGUE

Sanford Nationals catcher Ron Mason prepares to catch a ball coming to the plate a little late as David Wiggins of the American League comes across with the first run of the ball game.

Doug Dickey To Speak At Lyman

Doug Dickey, new head football coach at the University of Florida, will make his first speaking appearance in Central Florida today at the Lyman Hotel in Lyman, Fla. Dickey is slated to speak at a July 13 luncheon at the Lyman Hotel.

The purpose of the luncheon will be to raise money for the new Lyman stadium. The school needs $200,000 to build a concession stand and restrooms. The luncheon will be by invitation only, but according to Jim Wrowsky of the Lyman Hotel, it is open to anyone. If you are not mailed an invitation within the next week, just call the school and one will be mailed. The first fee to accept the invitation will be the only one asked to attend. The luncheon will be free of charge, but according to Wrowsky, anyone attending will be expected to purchase an honor fund of at least one square yard of the stadium. People will be asked to contribute to the stadium in this manner, rather than paying to attend the luncheon.

An extra added feature, Red Mitchell will be the Master of Ceremonies. Both Mitchell and Dickey are offering their

Namath Will Be Late

Hollywood Joe Namath will be late reporting to the New York Jets' pre-season training camp, but he's okay. He's got permission from Web Eckman, head coach and general manager of the Jets.

It could be a moot point, however. The Jets are scheduled to open camp for veterans on Sunday. But the prolonged dispute between National Football League and players is likely to delay it.

The stalemate between the owners and the negotiators of the NFL Players Association continues today, with no talks scheduled. The owners have barred veterans from the training camp today, with no talks scheduled. The owners have barred veterans from the training camp today, with no talks scheduled.

Maitland Takes Colt League Area One Title

By CLAY HARTSOE

Halter struck out and Maitland led at the end of the first, 2-0. North Orlando tied the score in the third. Jeff Scott reached first on an error. He was then driven in on Andy Roberts' single. Charles Wadsworth then singled in Roberts and the score was tied at 2-2.

Both teams went scoreless till Maitland came to bat in the fifth.

Pete Malesista singled and then reached second as Jimmy Madden reached first on an error. Both runners advanced as North Orlando committed another error and Billy Thielke reached first base. Alan Pritchard singled and drove in Malesista. Rusty Reed then stroked a single and drove in Thielke. This ended the scoring for the night and Maitland left the field with a 3-2 lead. Maitland and Northside will meet Monday night at 8 p.m. at Cooper Field. They will meet in a best two out of three series.

And then there were 35. That's the way it looks in the District 4 Little League tournament going into tonight's best district final pitting the Sanford Nationals against the Ormond Beach Americans.

Claude Bezwiechin did a tremendous job for the Sanford National Leaguers last night as they put together some big innings and captured the Longboat Key Golf Course. It does have fairway and rough, and it is kept in immaculate condition but it has equal acres of aqua that have a habit of acting as a magnet for your ball on each and every hole.

Longboat Key

When my family looks for a vacation spot we look for a pool for the boys, lots of sun for the wife and if possible a fishing area and a golf course with the latter taking priority for the old man. Longboat Key just off Sarasota offers all this and more, and for this reason it has become our favorite vacation spot for years.

BOSTON (AP) — "I throw the name of Alvin Dark out of the Cleveland Indians into the hopper of managers who refuse to report to American League President Joe Cronin and who threaten to fire umpires as competent."

Dark followed former manager Dick Williams and Eddie Stanky on the stand Thursday to dispute Cronin's evaluation of umpires Al Salerno and Bill Valantine, fired in 1968 for alleged incompetence.

"They had the courage to do what they thought was right," Dark said at a National Labor Relations Board hearing Tuesday.

"Both were very good umpires," Flaherty said. "They were more than held their own on the ballfield."

Salerno and Valantine contend they were fired for their efforts to organize American League umpires for negotiating purposes. The hearing was scheduled to resume today.

With a crowd of 48,868, largest ever to see a baseball game in Pittsburgh, watching the Pirates jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first inning on Richie Hebner's single and Al Oliver's double.

Then after Perez hit his Forbes Field out in the fifth to give the Reds the lead, Willie Stargell slammed his 11th homer into the upper deck but it cleared the 410 mark in center field, the deepest point of the new park, and put the Reds ahead 2-1.

Perez also figured in the winning run for the Reds, the runaway leaders in the National League West, when he singled and scored on Lee May's single in the ninth.

Despite the loss, the Pirates kept their 13-game lead in the NL East when the runner-up New York Mets were edged 3-1 by Los Angeles.

All-time topped St. Louis' 73, Houston picked the Chicago Cubs 2-1 and Philadelphia outlasted San Diego 10-7 in other NL action. San Francisco and Montreal were not scheduled to play.

St. Pete Trounces DeLand

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Petersburg Cardinals showed their Western Division leading form Thursday night as they handily trounced DeLand 6-3 in Florida State League action.

Tiger outfielder George Runk slugged a two-run single in the following inning to walk away with their 30th win against 22 losses.

In other FL action, West Palm Beach beat Fort Lauderdale 5-1, Tampa edged Winter Haven 7-4, Lakeland overtook Orlando 6-4, and Miami squeaked by Daytona Beach 3-1. Pompano Beach at Cocoa was postponed because of rain.

West Palm's Bob Babcock sent all the way to the Expos, slugging six hits and driving in six runs with two men on base to spark the Tarpon win. Tiger outfielder George Runk slugged a two-run single in the seventh inning to drive his team to victory.

And a sacrifice fly by Javier Andino snapped the tie in the bottom of the eighth and capped the game for the Marlins.

U.S. Financing Viets In Cambodian Raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee has endorsed U.S. financing of South Vietnamese raids into Cambodia, while forbidding the use of Pentagon funds to bolster the Phnom Penh government.

The in-between policy was announced Wednesday by the Senate as part of a $19.2 billion military authorization bill, but it may be a month before the Senate passes the bill.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The falter in thinking that the adequacy of a national money supply can be judged by its growth alone has become apparent, Wright Advisors Reports says. The only meaningful measure is in relation to the economy, since a deficiency of working capital is as disastrous for an economy as it is for a corporation. Only a much faster than normal increase in the money supply can now heat the Gross National Product rate, the firm says.

bers, roast beef with shredded horseradish, roast pork garnished with onions and red cabbage is a work of art, but not too pretty to eat.

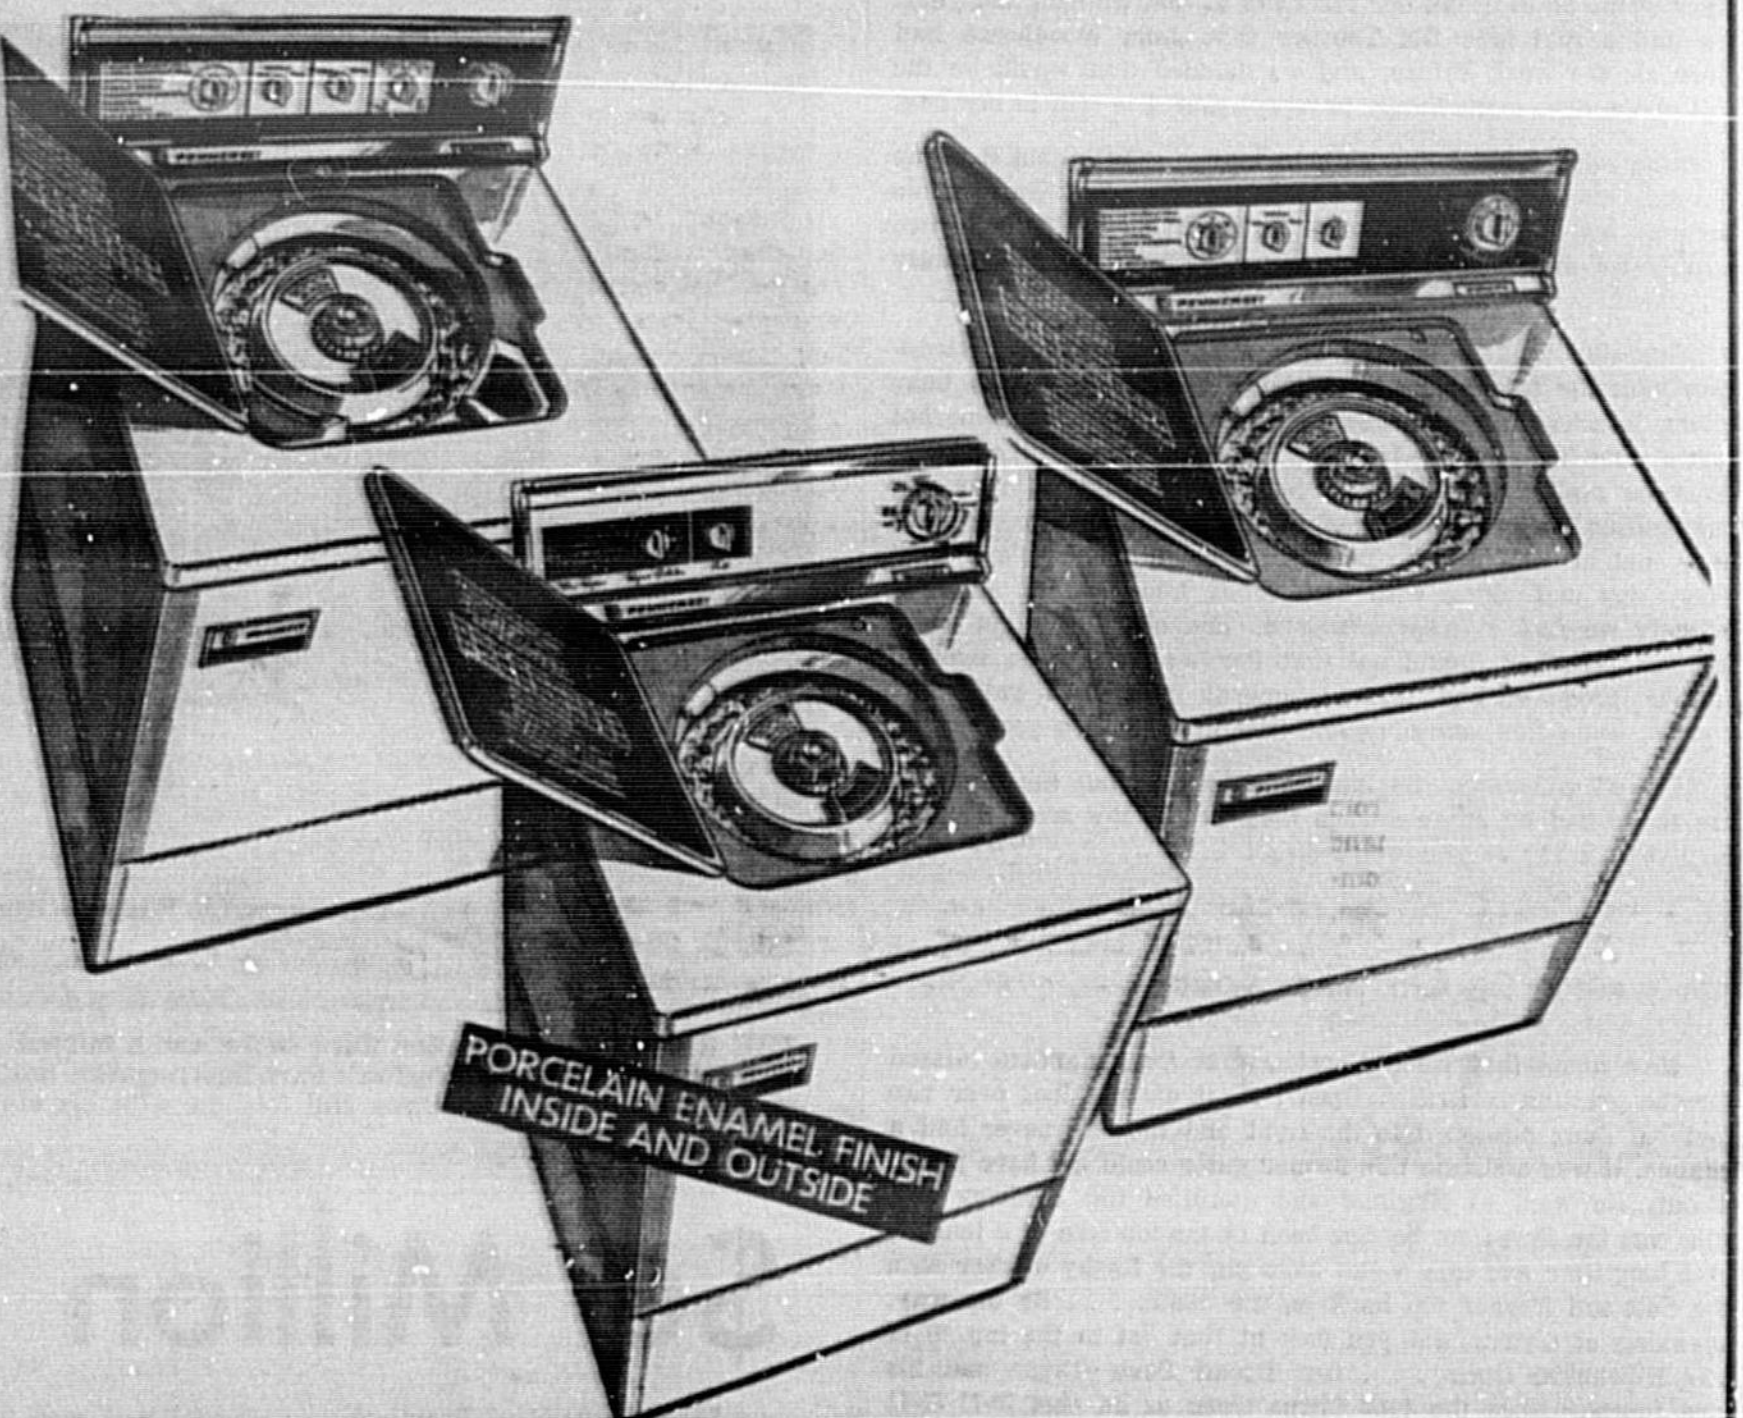

The fish, salmon, halibut, trout, and all kinds of shellfish was in the sea yesterday. If you do not like fish, the lamb, beef, pork and veal is delicious. Each course is served with boiled potatoes, except desert. With that you have whipped cream. Even an accomplished trencherman is deflated by the copious servings. Each town has its public parks as colorful and well stocked as the private gardens. The statures are of high artistic quality. A figure of a kneeling mother with an arm around a small child, a sleek stork with a polished brass nose-shield and even, in Aarhus, a life-sized group of a sow with her piglets are to be seen. As though the playgrounds for the children. Denmark is still known as one of the great shopping centers of the world with its modern furniture, fabrics, furs, sweaters and jewelry.

By DORIS WILLIAMS
Society Editor

Cool, colorful, chic and elegant parties were on parade Tuesday, July 14, as more than 100 truly beautiful people bowed out to the tune of engraved invitations to attend a perfectly elegant coffee given in honor of Miss Merritt Philips, Aug. 1 bride-elect of Charles Lane.

The spacious Lech Arbor home of Elizabeth and Frank Mebane was the luxurious setting for the lovely affair during the appointed hours of 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Hostesses with Elizabeth were her daughter, Miss Shelley Ann Mebane, and her mother, Mrs. Frederick A. Dyson.

As the guests entered the distinctive foyer, they were greeted by Nancy Trevilliger and Pat Peterson, who presented them to the formal receiving line which included the hostesses, Merritt and her attractive mother, Jane.

An heirloom silver punch bowl graced one end of the table with silver appointments... The dining room table, which was overlaid with an exquisite cutwork cloth, was centered with a handsome, hostel silver urn, arranged with daisies and gilly flowers. Decorating the buffet centerpieces were white candles, decorated in pink, in hurricane lamps with silver bases.

attractively arranged with a pot pourri of eye-appealing and delectable party fare. Adding further color to the picturesque table was a silver tray centered with a half watermelon piled high with an assortment of fresh fruits. Prussian purple bougainvillea blossoms wreathed the artistic fruit creation.

Fouring the mocha cream whip were Connie Williams and Betty Bush assisted by Evelyn Bales, Bobby Truluck, Ginger Herndon and Ruth Stokes of Orlando.

A continuous chorus of the highest complimentary comments were recorded as the victorious guests departed the coffee scene. Elegant is the only word!

The table was overlaid with a white cloth. All silver appointments were used with the exception of two identical crystal punch bowls. A pair of tall silver candle sticks flanked the remembrance cake. Served as accompaniments to the cake were nuts, mints and coffee. Also a special trifle and pound cake was especially prepared for the couple by Mrs. Effie Oldham.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I would like to pass along a little word to the young mother who was so upset over having to tell her mother they were expecting their third child in 5 years.

When I told my little 96-year-old mother that my daughter was expecting her fourth child, she looked at me and smiled, and said, "It's always nice to put an extra chair up to the table than to take one away."

I am married to a lawyer, and a doctor friend of ours says, "I've seen a lot of young mothers who are not so sure of their own minds. I'd like to see you and your husband."

DEAR ABBY: All four of your corners are snowing again. I refer to your backward attitude with regard to "swinging" can tell you that there are personality clashes between "hip" people the same as between "the squares."

DEAR ABBY: I would like to see you and your husband. I'd like to see you and your husband. I'd like to see you and your husband.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE... CASE NO. 57: Dr. Chilton Robinson was a Quaker Missionary to India for 7 years, when I met at a special Indianapolis luncheon sponsored by John Lynn and the Eli Lilly Foundation.

"I was preaching to an outdoor crowd a grown man, completely broke and with tears streaming down his face, came up to me."

"I said he and his companions would like to become Christians, but told me they just couldn't."

"I understood, Dr. Crane, for they would then have been denied access to the drinking water in the village!"

For after 7 long years in this remote village, Dr. Robinson realized he had made very little change in the vast country of India.

Physician Jailed On Dope Charges

By TOM ALEXANDER

CASSELBERRY — A doctor, licensed to practice in Virginia and Georgia and presently residing at 328 Lake Avenue, Maitland, was arrested by the Casselberry Police Department on a narcotics charge.

Taken into custody was Dr. Ralph G. Lee Jr., 31, who was charged by Casselberry authorities with obtaining or attempting to obtain a narcotic drug by forging a prescription of a written order.

Dr. Lee was arrested while attempting to purchase narcotics at Eckerd Drugs at Seminole Plaza by Police Chief Donald Brunley, assisted by Patrolmen Roy Kofsey, Tim McEvers and Ronald Tamburo.

According to authorities, Lee was using the alias of Dr. Ken Cavanaugh on the forged prescriptions along with a false patient's name and narcotics registry number.

Alert pharmacy employees caught the error following a purchase by Lee earlier last week and when he returned to the drug facility, Casselberry police were notified.

Lee is being held in the Seminole County jail under $3,000 bond. Two holding charges by the Maitland police department have been placed on him with an additional total of $5,000 bail.

The arrest took place early Friday evening.

Police Academy Coming To City?

By FRED VAN PELT

Sanford is under consideration as the site for Florida's $1 million "little FBI" academy for police officer training, it was learned this morning.

William Reed, director of the State Law Enforcement Department, revealed that Sanford is one of nine cities under consideration in a report to United Press International.

Sheriff John Polk said that "serious" consideration is being given to Sanford since a $1.2 million regional crime laboratory already has been approved for building 146 at Sanford Airport and "building 210 (the new Navy enlisted men's barracks) is ideal for such an academy."

Polk said he has discussed the idea to David Kelley, Sanford Industrial Commission, and together they presented the thought to Reed. Reed has responded that Sanford "is very much in the running" for the new academy.

It is anticipated a group of Sanford civic leaders will journey to Tallahassee to plead Sanford's cause.

Meanwhile, Polk said he has been advised he will receive the first federal allocation of the $1.2 million for the crime lab within 30 days. It will serve Seminole and six surrounding counties. It's program will be staggered as it grows: First year, narcotics; second year, physical analysis; third, ballistics, and fifth, handwriting. There will be 50 policemen-students year round, with a faculty of 20 to 25.

Reed said Tallahassee, Gainesville, Sanford, Ocala, Panama City, Palm Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Lakeland and Tampa are the possibilities and that his recommendation for the academy site to the governor and cabinet would be ready "within a month."

The method of financing the academy, which involved tacking a $1 surcharge on traffic and criminal fines, set back the completion date when it was attacked as unconstitutional in the courts. The supreme court finally upheld the extra $1 levy per fine that has already brought in $500,000 plus another half million dollars that was diverted to match federal State Streets Act funds.

Three Weekend Deaths Are Probed By Sheriff

Pat S. Williams, a 51-year-old Orlando man, found dead in a Sanford motel room Sunday of apparent natural causes, is receiving the attention of Seminole County sheriff's office.

Detective L. J. Kris said an autopsy had been ordered into the man's death by the state attorney's office after it was discovered Williams had rented a room at McAllister's Motel on Southwest Road.

Kris reported authorities were called to the motel after Williams' body was discovered. Another unusual weekend death occurred at Chulohota, when a 21-year-old woman died after changing the wrong hose on a kidney machine.

Terry Lee Kennedy, 330 Third Street, reportedly suffering from a kidney disease, had the machine attached to her and somehow clamped the wrong hose causing air to be pumped into her veins.

She died immediately after the mishap, according to a report filed by Detective Kris.

An Orlando doctor who had been treating the victim recommended an autopsy so the girl's kidney could be obtained for scientific study.

Ira Brown, 49-year-old migrant, living at a Midway boarding house, was found dead in bed Sunday by rooming house persons and authorities were called. County reports list the man's death as due to natural causes.

Federal Plan Rejected Mix Review Set Tuesday

By BILL SCOTT

A special Tuesday 8:30 a.m. School Board meeting has been scheduled to review possible alternatives to a U.S. Education Department desegregation plan, which the board turned down at its Friday special meeting.

It is probable that a neighborhood school plan, such as that approved for Orange County by a federal judge, will be offered by Seminole County Board on July 24 at Jacksonville. When Douglas Sienström, school attorney, appears before Judge William A. McRae with the county's plan in accordance with the judge's court order issued a week ago.

Board tossed out the federal plan advanced by three educational specialists on grounds the proposal would require the closing or pairing of two schools.

These included suggested closures of Jackson Heights and pair it with Lawton Elementary and close Rosenwald or zone majority white students into the Midway school with 300 blacks.

Landfill Question Headed For Courts?

By MARION BETHA

Although opponents to use of Ocoela Airfield as the county's central sanitary landfill have until July 28 to study the situation, the statement by Leon Handley, of the Orlando law firm of Gurney, Gurney and Handley, that the opposition could gain time by "the unpleasant method of going to court," apparently has gains in fact.

According to Mrs. Margaret Cammack, who is waging a battle to preserve the site for "its highest and best use as a future location for an industrial complex and airport," Handley is preparing a taxpayers' suit against the county to terminate action in this matter. Mrs. Cammack has stated that approximately $5,000 is needed to wage the suit, and contributions are being solicited from the public. "It is in the interest of every citizen," she said, "to become involved since the landfill is not good use of public-owned property." Anyone interested in contributing may send a check (no cash) to the United

It is recommended, Mrs. Cammack cites, that landfill areas be located away from view from the highways, and the planned U. S. Highway 17 designated as a scenic highway will lie along the state-owned Maytown-Holopaw railroad right-of-way with a two mile frontage on the landfill. Also the landfill adjoins the alignment for the long hoped for Sanford-Titusville Canal, for which there have been feasibility study appropriations.
