Bill Rodgers Is Signed To Pilot Local Delegation

Former Manager Expected To Arrive For Duty Friday; Guy Lacy Resigns

Bill "Raw Meat" Rodgers has been signed by officials of the Sanford Baseball Association to manage the Lookouts in the Florida State League it was announced today after the acceptance of the resignation of Manager Guy Lacy yesterday afternoon.

Rodgers first came to Sanford in 1926. He took a last place baseball club and gave local fans some good exhibitions. In 1927, he was resigned to pilot the Sanford entry and he did so in a fine fashion. He gave local followers a good team of young talent and had it not been for his absence from the club for a month, he might have clinched the League banner.

This season he had planned to retire from baseball but was signed as a scout for Joe Engel of the Chattanooga Lookouts. After things began getting tough in the local camp, President Henry Watson asked Rodgers to return here.

Just before leaving last season to manage the Charlotte team of the Piedmont League and Chattanooga of the Southern Association, Rodgers made a statement that every fan in Sanford should have heard.

"I hate to leave Sanford," he said, "because of two reasons. Mainly, the fans of Sanford have placed their confidence in me to give them a winning team and I have tried to do this for them to the best of my ability."

"Secondly," Raw Meat said, "I had a ball club that would do anything in the world for me and I can say that it was the greatest Class 'D' baseball club I have ever seen or managed."

Manager Rodgers will leave for Sanford from his ranch in Texas Tuesday morning and is slated to arrive here in time for

Rodgers Signed

Bill "Raw Meat" Rodgers, above part of the Sanford entry in the Florida State League during 1926. He has been signed to pilot the Lookouts in the Florida State League following the resignation of Guy Lacy. Rodgers is scheduled to arrive in Sanford Friday.

Fans Tell What They Think Of Lookout Action

Graddick, Trawick, Dodson, Wells and Palmer Voice Ideas

Following the announcement made yesterday by Henry Watson, president of the Sanford Baseball Association, that Bill "Raw Meat" Rodgers was to return to pilot the Lookouts, a number of local fans have voiced their opinion on the subject.

Tom Palmer, local sports editor, said that the signing of Rodgers would mean the Lookouts would have a hustling base coach. Mr. Palmer said that he would like to see Manager Lacy and the present skipper did get to a point where they could make a new and make some real players out of the present crop of them. He felt that Rodgers would put the team on a winning basis and that the other teams in the Florida State League would be glad to see him.

Frank Dodson, manager of the standard Oil Company Station, stated that he has been supporting the Lookouts 100 percent, and he would like to see him as manager. "I will support them all the more," Dodson said.

Tom Trawick, a local sports editor, stated that the signing of Rodgers as manager of the Lookouts is the "finest thing" that could have been done by local officials and he is the "best man" that could have secured for the club.

Cook Allows A's Only Four Hits During Contest

Hurler Takes Batting Honors With Three Hits In Four Trips

The Lookouts' contest of the Deland Reds yesterday afternoon, taking a 5 to 3 decision from the Deland Reds in the second inning. Azaleas in the second inning, Field and Clark, as the game looking streak that forced the Lookouts to drop from third position to the cellar.

Big Chief Cook, right-hander, was on the hill for the Lookouts and turned in one of the best pitching exhibitions seen this season. The big youth forced nine Azaleas to ground out on the strike-out course.

He was backed for only four hits during the eight innings he hurled and he worked only a pair of A's. He was forced to retire from the mound in the ninth inning in favor of Joe Carter, after he suffered a "light" burn in his arm as he singled to center field in the last half of the eighth inning.

The Lookouts' blasted out a pair of runs in the first inning, as Azaleas' pitcher, who was secured from the Orlando Seminars, Berry, allowed four free passes during the encounter and fanned three men.

Helping him, for the contest was sent to Cook. He went to bat four times during his eight innings and batted out a total of three singles. Pete Mihale went to bat twice in four appearances at the platter.

The Azaleas scored from the bottom chapter when they secured a pair of runs on two errors by second baseman, W. J. Sanford was unable to get to Berry until the fifth frame, when they pushed across their first run. In the sixth however, they knuckled the score when they tallied twice. They repeated the feat in the seventh frame.

In the ninth, the Azaleas tallied their final run on a hit and error. Sanford fans yesterday saw Bill Lacy back in local circles

America 500,000,000 Years Ago Is Shown

CHAPTER I

"I got gyarden on de hair, all you missis! Gyarden on de hair—I got gyarden on de hair..."

The black girl, balancing a basket of white camellias on her head, threaded her way through the hilarious throng, swinging her malarious, withered legs in the air, and to the height, and tomorrow the fabulous Proteus Ball would be the festivities in a blaze of glory.

The business streets were filled with a picturesque hodgepodge of horsemanship, well-groomed horses, holding back their spirited mounts in the slow moving traffic, exchanging halloas and greetings with flags and bunting, and the gayest elegants and ladies in the city, wearing gowns of 1850 and among the humbler holiday-makers.

"The 'quality folks' of New Orleans had been asked to an 'evening reception' at the stately mansion of General Bogardus, at which his unpredictable ward, Miss Maudie, was to announce her engagement to Preston Dillard, the banking firm of Dillard and...

agies! Futility, I always say, as my mother said before me, is the politeness of queens!"

"Politess, darlin', has never been one of Julie's virtues!"

"I surely sympathize with Pres Dillard! Such a gentleman! Oh, how I love you! Tell me, dear boy! I am this exciting! I think your brother is the luckiest man in the whole world, really! Tell me, Ted, wasn't Mr. Cantrell just crushed at losing her?" Ted's boyish grin changed to a scowl.

"'I'd take more than any girl to crush Buck! Look at him over there now, makin' 'em rear! Does he look crushed!"

Julie, at the moment, was dismounting in front of the house. Twenty, slim and imperious, wearing the graceful riding habit of the period, she ran lightly up the steps and entered the great hall.

"Praise be, Miss Julie!" Uncle Cato cried. "Miss Belle been high onto a fit!" The matron maid pushed forward. "I done laid out yo' party dress, Miss Julie!"

"Thanks, no, Zetta! Got to go in to my guests!" "Not in dem haws e'ers, Miss Julie!" gasped Uncle Cato.

Julie tossed her crop to him, flicked the train of her habit over...

She loves him as the signet stone

...made their way to the far-hay, where General Bogardus had them in his most courtly...

...Fishes on a group of some dancing horses and...

...Buck refused to let himself down into the argument, De...

...her arm and entered the drawing room. "Good afternoon, everybody! Terribly sorry to be late! I had trouble with the colt. You...

...all know when a colt gets high-headed, it's teach him his manners right now, or ruin him!"

Uncle Cato was passing obsequiously with a tinkling tray laden with toddies for the gentlemen and small glasses of sherry for the ladies and Aunt Belle noticed with dismay that Julie chose the former.

Buck Cantrell raised his glass and said, smiling with crystal eyes, "To the very best health of the future Mrs. Pres Dillard!"

"Aren't you going to wish me happiness, too, Buck?" said Julie softly, her words lost in the din of voices. "What's the use?" he answered with a disconcerting grin.

"You won't get it, marrying a trader, gals' up North!" "Pres is not a trader, Buck Cantrell, and I'll thank you to remember that!"

But she was surprised by Pres's continued silence.

From the way she was on the way to the back in the family parlor, Aunt Belle by her side, protesting feebly. Julie sent Ted, the black boy, with a message for her father, telling him to come to her at once.

"Miss Julie, I done bid' him," said Ted miserably, wringing his woody head. "But he say he ain't comin'—not for no party!"

Julie snarped that her tiny pet, nestled from the carriage and was half-way up the back steps when Aunt Belle realized it.

Chemical Process Used To Make New Fuel For Motors

NEW YORK—Several factories are going up in Europe to make synthetic the newest of the substitutes for gasoline as a motor fuel. The substitutes are being used increasingly in countries that lack the tenuous petroleum supplies of the United States.

The new fuel comes first from water gas. If this gas is allowed to flow over hot alkalal and iron, at nearly 900 degrees Fahrenheit and under great pressure, it forms an oily liquid. The pressure is 200 atmospheres or more than 2,000 pounds to the square inch.

The oil is called synthol. When this oil boiled under the right pressures some of its molecules "crack." They break down into the hydrocarbons which form explosive motor fuels.

These new gases are called synthene. When the process was discovered about 15 years ago, synthene contained too much oxygen. This is now cleaned out of the gas by adding hydrogen from catalysis.

Europeans hope that the new fuel will not cost so much as gasoline made from cheap grades of coal which have been in the market for years. In England the government promotes manufacture of this coal-gasoline as an economic and defense measure.

On census report, or tax return, she may be listed only "housewife," while her husband bears the more definite title of "lawyer," or "doctor," or "storekeeper."

But housewife hardly does this wife and mother justice. She is the modern Jill-of-all-trades. Her job includes being dietician, interior decorator, costume designer, gardener, chauffeur—not to mention educator and health authority.

How does she get away with it? She is informed! Just as her husband depends upon business news in this paper, she finds in the advertisements the latest facts and price quotations on all the materials needed for her various jobs.

Food for the family? Butcher and grocer answer on these pages... Curtains, spring dresses for mother and daughter, big covers? Department store and specialty shop get ready. She has preferences about fresh milk, cream, ice cream and even motor oil—all determined by the persistent, intelligent reading of advertisements.

That's why, when she is listed officially "housewife," she can get the job done. She has the time and the know-how to get the most out of her time. The advertisements help her too.

Right-Of-Way Swap Is Given City Approval

Smoke Ordinance Is Discussed At Meeting Of Commission; Passage Deferred

The City Commission passed a resolution cancelling special assessments on certain property in the Country Club Road, Highway 100 and Geneva Avenue "at large" area as a result of the right-of-way swap which the City and the County Commission approved.

The action taken by the Commission at their regular meeting in the City Hall last night followed a recent request of the County Commissioners who attempted to get rights-of-way from property owners in these districts so that a WPA project for improvement of the streets could be submitted.

Property owners, however, refused to execute the necessary deeds unless the City cancelled outstanding special assessments against the property which is now outside the City Limits. The proposed project for improvement of the streets along with a drainage ditch in the section will be submitted jointly by the City and County Commission.

Considering mainly routine affairs, the City Commission today heard the reading of a newly drafted ordinance prohibiting any firm or company from operating a boiler or steam engine from which smoke is issued in such a manner as to be considered a nuisance. Delivering a tribute to mothers, James G. Sharon spoke at the Elks Mothers' Day services at 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Victoria Theatre in New Smyrna.

In concluding his address Mr. Sharon said: "When we come to make a proper survey of our mother's position in our human scheme of Christian society, we find it rising like a huge mountain above the undulating plains of humanity and we must raise our eyes high towards Heaven to catch its summit.

"Our mothers," Mr. Sharon declared, possess every virtue of the other members of the human race without their vice of selfishness and greed. She defends into the jaws of death that a new life might be born. She is a martyr without a cross; she is a nurse without her reward; she is a slave without her hope of liberty; she is an angel without her halo of glory.

"She is as gentle as a dove in her motherhood; she is as patient as a saint in her trials; she is as loving as a savior in her afflictions; and as brave as a lion in her courage."

"When her child is in danger she gladly leaves her breast to the hands of the doctor; or she endures the pain of surgery, with the same calmness that she will bear the pain of childbirth; she will sacrifice her life for the sake of her child."

"She is the one who makes the home a home; she is the one who makes the heart a heart; she is the one who makes the world a world."

Reverberation from wars in China, Spain, and Ethiopia dinned in the ears of the League of Nations Council members, along with British and French declarations in support of their "realistic" diplomacy.

Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese delegate, asked the council to apply provisions of the covenant to give China aid against Japan.
